16,177. Have you any doubt that you did?—I have no doubt that I did perhaps call at half a dozen.

16,178. May you have called at a dozen?—No, I should think not; certainly not.

16,179. Will you undertake to swear you did not?—I did not call at a dozen, or if I did I did not drink at them.

16,180. Will you swear that you did not call even at 11?—I will swear that.

16,181. Will you swear that you did not call at 10?—I will swear that.

16,182. Did you call at nine?—Supposing I say I called at eight houses, and you hunted up, or the commissaries of this court should find that I went into nine houses. I cannot answer to one.

16,183. According to the best of your belief were you at nine public houses?—No, I was not.

16,184. Do you believe you were at eight?—I believe I went to several, but as to the number I cannot say. I was not there with any corrupt practice.

16,185. You seem to be terribly afraid of corrupt practices?—I am not afraid of them.

16,186. I am only asking you what you were doing on the day of the election?—Driving round the town.

16,187. For what purpose?—Looking after things in the same way as other individuals.

16,188. Looking after voters?—No, I was not.

16,189. Did you apply to any men to give their votes on that day?—No.

16,190. Did you not ask any persons to give their votes on that day?—No.

16,191. Did you not speak to any persons requesting them to go up and vote on that day?—I spoke, I should think, to hundreds of people. I spoke in the market place when they would not listen to Tillett.

16,192. You know very well that I am not speaking of the public market. I am asking you whether you spoke to individuals, and asked them to go up and vote for Stracey that day?—No.

16,193. Not to a single individual?—Not one.

16,194. Do you know a man of the name of Walks?—No, I don't.

16,195. Do you know a person of the name of Thomas Shorten?—No, I do not.

16,196. Do you recollect being on the Walk that day?—I might have been. I think it is very probable I might.

16,197. Do you recollect making a bet on the Walk?—No.

16,198. Will you undertake to swear that you did not make a bet on the Walk?—Yes, I will.

16,199. Did you not bet a pound to a shilling with a man there that he dare not vote for Stracey?—I will swear I never did anything of the sort.

16,200. Did you not make a bet with a man about voting for Stracey?—No.

16,201. Did you make any bet?—No. There was plenty of chaff and talk, but beyond that——

16,202. Do you know a person of the name of Sexton?—Yes, Robert Watling Sexton, I remember.

16,203. Do you know James Sexton?—No.

16,203*a*. Did you make a bet of 5*s.* with that person?—I said at the first not a single penny piece passed my hands.

16,204. Did you make a bet with someone?—No, certainly not.

16,205. Did you give Sexton 5*s.*?—Not a penny piece; nor anyone else. I spent my own money, perhaps indiscreetly.

16,206. Do you know a public house called the "Tuns"?—Yes.

16,207. Were you in at the "Tuns" upon that day?—No.

16,208. Did you give any man at or near the "Tuns" 5*s.*, or any sum of money that day?—No, I can assure you, not a penny piece.

16,209. Were you at the "Ship," in Cowgate Street, that day?—No.

16,210. Will you undertake to say that you did not go into the "Ship"?—I will swear I did not.

16,211. Will you undertake to say you did not go into or were not in the "Ship" on that day at 3 o'clock?—I will swear I did not.

16,212. Nor at any time that day?—Nor at any time that day.

16,213. Nor near it?—Nor any house near it.

16,214. I will not say any house near it?—Well, any passage.

16,215. Were you near that house about 3 o'clock on that day?—No; I might drive through the street.

16,216. Did you pay for any drink for any man near that house?—No.

16,217. Did you not drink some ale at that house on that afternoon?—No.

16,218. Do you know a person of the name of Stamp?—No, I do not.

16,219. Did you hear any man on that day making bets of 5 to 1 about Stracey's election?—No, I did not. I beg your pardon, I think it is quite possible I might hear that. There was lots of talk.

16,220. Where did you happen to hear of bets being made of 5 to 1 on Stracey's election?—I don't know. There was plenty of that talk all over the town.

16,221. Do you recollect where you heard it?—No, I don't.

16,222. Did you hear bets of 5 to 1 made to men that they would not vote for Stracey?—No, certainly not. Most emphatically I say that.

16,223. Nobody did so in your presence?—Not in any shape or form.

16,224. Do you recollect ordering two gallons of beer for some men on that day?—No.

16,225. Did you arrange with a man of the name of Stamp that he was to have a pound a day for his services?—I do not know anyone by the name of Stamp.

16,226. Did you arrange with no man that he was to have a pound a day for his services that day?—Not anyone.

16,227. Do you know James Goldsmith, of Crook's Place?—I do.

16,228. Did you give him anything to vote?—No. He is one of the men that worked for the Board of Health, and they all of them, I believe, voted in the same way that I voted.

16,229. Did you give him the promise of any money?—I neither gave nor did I promise him anything, nor any man.

16,230. Now let me go back to these persons who were about your son's office. You directed or at least told the man that he might get another man to come to your office; and he got another man?—Yes.

16,231. Did you see them at your son's office?—I did.

16,322. On what day?—I think it was a day or two before the election.

16,233. Were they there on the polling day?—No, I think not. I think it was all settled before that time.

16,234. Will you undertake to say they were not there on the polling day?—I think not.

16,235. Carry your memory back and answer this. Will you undertake to say they were not there on the polling day?—I cannot recollect. It might have been, but I think not. I think it was a day or two previous to this election.

16,236. You do not recollect that they were there on the day of the election?—That I do not.

16,237. Your son, you say, was residing in your house. Do you know of his having paid any money to any man upon the day of the election?—No, I do not.

16,238. Or for services upon the election day?—No, certainly not.

16,239. Do you know of his having arranged to do so?—No, he is absent from here, though he is not absent because he might not be called upon this inquiry. He has not paid a penny piece.

16,240. Do you know of your son having paid any money for any services upon that election day?—No, certainly not.

16,241. Have you yourself paid any man or men for services upon that election day?—No. I am upon my oath, and I have not.

16,242. Upon the polling day?—No, I have not.

16,243. Do you not know that a number of men were at your son's office dressed up on the morning of the polling day?—Certainly not.

16,244. Have you not heard it before?—I have heard it. I have seen what Mr. Morgan, the great centre of the organisation, said yesterday.

16,245. Have you not heard that some men were collected at your son's office?—They were not collected there.

16,246. At Houghton's?—No, they were in the street at a house a little higher up. There were Radicals dressed with blue and white, and the others were dressed with orange and purple; but they had nothing whatever to do with me or my son at the office.

16,247. Do you not know that there were a number of men collected at Houghton's?—No; I do not know that.

16,248. Have you not heard it?—No, I have not.

16,249. Have you not paid Houghton for any beer?—Not a penny piece.

16,250. Has Houghton made any claim upon you for beer?—Will you allow me to correct my answer? I did pay some men who went round with the band.

16,251. I am speaking upon the election day?—No, not a penny piece.

16,252. Have you not paid Houghton for any beer supplied to any person upon the election day?—I have neither paid nor promised payment.

16,253. Has Houghton made any claim upon you?—No.

16,254. Have you offered him any money?—No, I have not offered him money or anything whatever.

16,255. Did he make any claim upon your son?—No.

16,256. Have you not heard from your son that he ordered some beer?—No, not a penny piece. He ordered no beer.

16,257. You say you were driving about the whole of the election day?—Yes.

16,258. From what place to what place did you drive?—I went from one part of the city to another. I went to the extremes, from one extreme end of the city to the other.

16,259. Over and over again?—No; perhaps I might have done that.

16,260. What were you driving about all the time for?—I took an interest to see how the election was going on.

16,261. Was it merely by driving about from place to place to see how the election was going on that you exerted yourself?—It was; I had no money.

16,262. I am not speaking about that.—I want to correct as I go along; it might appear if I did not give an answer that I was going about, and was bribing.

16,263. Everybody has had full opportunity of explaining, and you shall have the same. Do you mean to represent that you were driving about simply for the purpose of ascertaining how the election was going on?—It was.

16,264. And for no other purpose?—No other purpose whatever.

16,265. Not for getting up voters?—No.

FOURTEENTH DAY.

S. Clarke.

16,266. Not for canvassing voters?—No, nor yet spending any money.

16,267. I will come to spending money presently. —You may go on as you like. I tell you I had nothing to do with anything connected with corruption or bribery.

16,268. I want to know whether you were going about collecting voters?—No.

16,269. Or calling upon voters?—No.

16,270. Or trying to get voters to come up?—No.

16,271. You represent, as I understand, that you were simply driving about to see how the election was going on?—Yes; that is a faithful interpretation of what I want to say.

16,272. Do you mean to say you have paid no person whatever for parading the streets on the election day?—No.

16,273. Did you engage, employ, or pay any man whatever for parading the streets on the election day? —No, I think not. I am not exactly sure of that, whether I had the band out that day. If I had, I should admit it, but I believe I had not on the election day.

16,274. I am speaking of the polling day.—Yes, I mean the election day. I think not. If I had I would say so at once, but I do not think I had.

16,275. You except the band?—I say I do not remember whether I had the band out on the election day or no, but I think not.

16,276. With the exception of the band?—I had no one else.

16,277. With the exception of the band, will you undertake to say you did not engage, employ, or pay any men for parading the streets on the election day? —I will swear that I did not. I paid a man to ride about with me, a man who was rather, you might say, rough and uncouth, but at any rate he was just such a servant as I wanted that particular day, and I paid him 2*s.* or 3*s.* to ride round with me.

16,278. Who is he?—His name is Brooks; I believe he is a professional pugilist.

16,279. What made you employ him on the election day?—I knew there was what they call the organisation, and I had seen quite sufficient to make me think it was hardly safe for anyone to travel through the streets unless they had some little protection along with them, that is, if they had a mind to see how the election was going on.

16,280. Did you drive about all over the city with this professional pugilist all day?—Not all day.

16,281. What part of the day did you employ him? —When I had perhaps to drive through where a number of men were assembled opposite to any particular place, for instance, we will take the Norfolk News office, Mr. Tillett's paper; going through there you got hissed on each side. There were a lot of men assembled there, and if you had not got some little protection with you you might get turned out of your cart.

16,282. Did you drive about with this professional pugilist for the purpose of your protection?—Yes, I did, and I think Mr. Schneider did the same when he came here.

16,283. Did you employ any other professional pugilist?—I believe I did not on that day.

16,284. On what day did you?—That I cannot say. Perhaps it might be a week or 10 days.

16,285. Did you go about canvassing?—No.

16,286. You never canvassed?—No, I never canvassed beyond this, if mine was canvassing: I went and spoke at several places in several parts of the city, but I did not canvass a single individual. I did the same as Mr. Tillett.

16,287. For what purpose did you employ this other professional pugilist?—That was when we went round the town with the band, and so on.

16,288. Did you not employ him for anything but parading with the band?—No, no violence.

16,289. How many professional pugilists did you employ for that purpose?—I only know two.

16,290. Not having spoken to or canvassed any man for his vote on the day of the election, I will ask you the general question, did you at any time pay any man any money to vote at the last election?—No.

16,291. Did you promise any man anything to vote at the last election?—No.

16,292. Neither money nor anything else?—No.

16,293. Employment or anything else?—No, certainly not.

16,294. Have you paid anything for anybody?—No.

16,295. Did you make any bet with anybody respecting the last election?—No.

16,296. Have you paid the rates of anybody to induce them to vote at the last election?—No.

16,297. Have you paid the rates of anybody?—No.

16,298. Do you know of any money having been paid, or of anything having been given to anybody to vote at the last election?—I do not. Mine was independent action. I had nothing whatever to do with anybody else.

16,299. You do not know of anybody having done it?—I do not.

16,300. You have heard of it, I suppose?—Oh yes, there has been plenty of rumour about.

16,301. On the day of the election did you hear of it?—No, I did not.

16,302. Upon the day after the election?—No.

16,303. Do you know of anybody having promised to give anything?—No, I do not.

16,304. Or having made any bet upon the last election?—Not in any shape or form, either directly or indirectly, neither by payment of money, or promise, or anything whatever. I am here upon my oath, and I hope I know what an oath is.

16,305. Do you know of anybody having provided, or paid for, or given any beer on the day of the last election for the purpose of giving it to voters?—No, I do not. I would give you any information you ask me for, but I cannot state that which is untrue.

16,306. Do you know of anybody having done so to any voter's wife?—No, I do not.

16,307. Did you take an active part in the election of 1865?—No, this is the first election that I ever took part in.

16,308. Were you a voter at that time?—No, I was not.

16,309. (Mr. Mansfield.) About these 50 men that you paid at the rate of 2*s.* apiece, was it done independently by you or in concert with any other person? —I am here upon my oath, and I swear it was paid out of my own pocket, without any concert and without the knowledge of any individual whatever.

16,310. You have never been repaid?—No.

16,311. Do you look to anyone for repayment?—No, I do not.

16,312. Have you ever asked anyone for repayment?—No, I have not.

16,313. You say you picked these 50 men up yourself?—Yes.

16,314. And you only know the names of seven of them?—Yes.

16,315. Did you not know them then?—No.

16,316. There were 43 men of whom you were perfectly ignorant?—Yes.

16,317. Therefore you did not know whether those 43 men were voters or not?—No, I should think not. I do not think there was a single voter.

16,318. But you did not know the names; therefore how could you tell out of 13,000 electors whether they were voters or not?—I should think not.

16,319. Do you not know that if you were paying men of whom you knew nothing, and who might therefore be voters, you, as a friend of Sir Henry Stracey, were really vitiating his election?—I should think the class of men that took that 2*s.* never could be voters.

16,320. You did not make it your business to ascertain about these men?—I did not make any bargain; they came up promiscuously; and I believe there was not a single one a voter.

16,321. When you were driving round the town on the day of the polling, did you go into any committee room?—No.

16,322. Did you have no conversation with any persons who were working the election?—No, I did not go to any committee room or use any influence.

16,323. Is your mode of independent action to go and make a speech at the corner of a street assisted by a pugilist?—You may put that construction if you like upon it.

16,324. Did you drink at any public houses?—No.

16,325. Did you pay for anybody's drink?—No, I went and made a speech amongst as respectable men as Mr. Tillett made his speech amongst.

ROBERT PURLAND WISEMAN sworn and examined. R. P. Wiseman.

16,326. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you engaged at the last election?—Yes.

16,327. Was that the first time you have been engaged?—No, the second.

16,328. In what way were you engaged?—As manager of the eighth ward.

16,329. Who appointed you manager?—I was appointed at the "Swan" hotel by Mr. Fisher, the grocer, in an open room. They nominated me. I am a representative of the first ward, but I live in the eighth ward, and he done it of his own accord. He wished me to be the manager of the eighth ward.

16,330–1. Were you appointed at a meeting of the Conservative party?—Yes, exactly.

16,332. Was that at the central committee room?—Yes.

16,333. Do you recollect who were present at that meeting?—200 people, I should think, altogether. Do you mean who was the chairman?

16,334. Who were the principal persons, the managers of the party?—Mr. Patteson was the chairman.

16,335. Do you recollect any of the Bignolds being there?—Not one.

16,336. You managed on the nomination and election day everything in the eighth ward?—Yes.

16,337. Can you tell me who formed the committee in the eighth ward?—Mr. Abel, a rent collector, living in St. Martin's; Gent, a plumber and glazier; Dowson, a plumber and glazier; Lake, and Booth, and Hardiment; that is all.

16,338. What public house did Booth keep?—He keeps the "Shakespeare," opposite St. George's Church.

16,339. Did you manage the filling up of the cards on the election day?—Yes.

16,340. Before the election day did they canvass?—Yes.

16,341. Did you receive as manager of the eighth ward the returns of the canvassers?—Yes, three hours, from 10 to 1.

16,342. You attended three hours in the day?—They were canvassing the first day three hours, from 10 to 1.

16,343. How many days did they canvass?—Only the next day.

16,344. Were those days the Friday and Saturday?—Yes.

16,345. Who canvassed in the eighth ward?—There was Mr. Dowson; Mr. Hardiment was there, and Mr. Edward Stracey.

16,346. Did he canvass with Mr. Hardiment?—Yes.

16,347. Did they make returns to you of the result of their canvass?—Yes.

16,348. Did you enter them upon copies of the register?—No, there were three or four little memorandum books.

16,349. Look at these (handing a number of memorandum books)?—These are all too good writing for them. There were only two or three; Hardiment had one and Dowson another.

16,350. What became of the books that they had?—I handed over everything to Mr. Chittock.

16,351. Including the canvass books?—You scarcely could call them canvass books.

16,352. Did you tick off upon any copy of the register the result of their canvass?—No.

16,353. You left that for Mr. Chittock?—Yes, exactly.

16,354. There were three books sent back to Mr. Chittock?—I should think they were Hardiment's, Dowson's, and Abel's. Hardiment had his the next day, and went upon his own account canvassing.

16,355. Did Thirkettle canvass also?—I think so. He was clerk in the committee room at that time.

16,356. With whom did he go?—He was appointed as clerk, and sent down by Mr. Chittock as clerk, and we fell out almost every evening with Hardiment. He done everything contrary to my wishes, and all of us, in fact, and so we said, "Why do you not go "about your business, and attend to what you "promised to do?" And he said, "I will, if any-"one will go with me." And Thirkettle, my clerk, said, "I will go with him, to see if he will do any-"thing;" and he went the second day till 12 or 1 o'clock with Hardiment.

16,357. How many days did they canvass?—Two pieces of days.

16,358. Friday and Saturday?—Yes, that is it.

16,359. Was anything done on Monday?—No.

16,360. Tuesday was the election day; did Hardiment come to the room that day?—Yes.

16,361. What time in the morning?—I should think a quarter before 8; from half-past 7 to a quarter to 8.

16,362. Were you in the committee room the whole of that day?—Yes.

16,363. When did Hardiment go out?—I do not think he stopped half an hour.

16,364. Who were there in the early part of the morning besides Hardiment? Mr. Lake?—Yes; he was one.

16,365. Was Mr. Dowson there?—Yes.

16,366. Was anybody else there?—Booth.

16,367. Did Sir Henry Stracey come to the committee room at all that day?—No.

16,368. Did Mr. Edward Stracey come?—I did not see him once.

16,369. Reflect, you have been examined before, you know?—Yes. You ask me whether Edward Stracey came to my committee room; I believe not.

16,370. Did Hardiment return after he went out in the first instance?—Yes.

16,371. What time did he return?—I should think it must be about half-past 10.

16,372. What did he say then?—He said there was a horse and dog cart outside, and he was going to take it to see what he could do. I think it was

FOURTEENTH DAY.

R. P. Wiseman.

3 Sept. 1869.

Edward Stracey's dog cart, his servant was with him, and Hardiment went away with this same dog cart and horse.

16,373. Did Hardiment say what he was going to do when he went away?—No.

16,374. When did he return again?—I would not be positive, but I think it was a quarter to 9 at night.

16,375. Did you not see him at all at your place that day?—Certainly not.

16,376. So that what he did you know nothing about?—Certainly not, not an atom.

16,377. You recollect, do you not, a communication being made to you from Doctor Allen?—He came personally.

16,378. Did he tell you anything about money?—Yes.

16,379. What?—No, he did not; he said, "Call "at my house, and go upstairs, and you will find "something on the table for you."

16,380. Is that all the communication he made to you?—That is everything, he was off before I was; he left my committee room before I did.

16,381. Did he not say to you what you were to do with it, or anything of that sort?—Not a word.

16,382. Had you received any communication before that about what was to be done with money, or anything of the kind?—I never supposed there would be a farthing; we were going on well up to a quarter past 3, without spending one farthing or a glass of beer.

16,383. Are you not aware of any suggestion having been made before that time for paying money?—Certainly not.

16,384. Are you sure of that?—I am positive, on my oath, none in my ward, and I never stirred to hear about others. Calvert Street was a very quiet street.

16,385. Did you go to Dr. Allen's?—Yes.

16,386. What did you find on the table?—A bag with half sovereigns.

16,387. How many did it contain?—200 half sovereigns.

16,388. I suppose you understood what the object of that was?—Yes, of course, that is easy done.

16,389. What did you do when you received it?—I got back as quick as I could.

16,390. Had you learnt at that time that you had not been going on very well, that the majority was against you?—Till he came, I had not heard a syllable, nothing at all.

16,391–2. When you got the bag with the 200 half sovereigns in it what did you do?—I began distributing of it.

16,393. To whom did you distribute them?—My son 25*l.*, Richard Green 20*l.* 10*s.*

16,394. Where does Richard Green live?—He did live at St. Miles' at that time. I sent for him to come and speak to me three or four days ago, and they told me he was a plasterer at a new bank in Bristol.

16,395. Did you pay that money to Green in the presence of anybody?—I gave it to him in three different instalments.

16,396. How came you to do that; did he go and distribute one, and then come in and ask for another?—Yes.

16,397. Did he tell you what he had done with the two first instalments?—Afterwards he did.

16,398. You first gave him one instalment; how much was that?—That was 8*l.* 10*s.*

16,399. Did he come in and say he had exhausted it?—Yes.

16,400. Did he tell you what he had done with it?—On one side of St. Miles' Street, all those that were usually bribed; he named one or two of them, but I have forgotten them.

16,401. Should you be able to remember the names if they were read to you?—Yes, I think I should one or two.

16,402. If you went to the spot could you not furnish me with the names?—I do not know more about the place scarcely than you do, though I live in St. Martin's.

16,403. He mentioned to you the names of persons who lived there to whom he had given money?—Not till afterwards, when he was waiting to be heard before Baron Martin. He says, "There is one," pointing to him, but whether he was called or not I cannot recollect.

16,404. What was his name?—I do not know; Tom somebody, but I cannot recollect it.

16,405. He told you at that time he had spent it upon one side of this place?—Yes.

16,406. That was 8*l.* 10*s.*?—Yes.

16,407. What did you give him when he said that?—Then I gave him 7*l.*

16,408. What did he tell you he had done with that?—He had expended that and more, and wanted me to make it up 5*l.* more.

16,409. Where did he say he had expended it?—All in that parish.

16,410. Whereabouts?—St. Michael's Coslany; that only extends from St. George's parish to St. Martin's Church.

16,411. Did he tell you the names of the persons to whom he distributed it?—No.

16,412. It is a very small parish is it?—Yes.

16,413. (Mr. Biron.) He asked you for 5*l.*, which you gave him?—Yes.

16,414. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Then did he go away?—Yes.

16,415. To whom else did you give any money?—I gave 2*l.* 10*s.* or 3*l.* 10*s.* to Daniel Keddington. He lives in Gildengate Street.

16,416. What time in the day did you give it to him?—It was all the same half hour.

16,417. What time did you get to Doctor Allen's?—At 3 o'clock.

16,418. To whom else did you give any money?—Mackley, not Thomas, but Richard.

16,419. What did you give him?—I should think it was 3*l.* 10*s.* certain, but I believe it was more; and then I gave Edward Dowson, who has been before you, 3*l.* 10*s.*

16,420. Were these sums given for the purpose of paying voters to induce them to vote?—Yes, certainly, there is no doubt about that.

16,421. Did you give anything to Lake, the baker?—Well, I firmly believe I did, but I cannot swear to it.

16,422. What do you believe you gave him?—I believe it was 3*l.* or 3*l.* 10*s.*

16,423. Did you give anything to Mr. Gedge?—No, certainly not. I forgot to tell you he came backwards and forwards to my committee room casually several times, but never dreamt of a farthing, none of us.

16,424. Is that the manner in which you disposed of a portion of the 100*l.*?—Yes.

16,425. Did you pay any more of it away to any voters?—No.

16,426. You retained that in your hands?—Yes; there was not time, or else it would have been all gone.

16,427. Did you do this in the committee room?—Yes.

16,428. Do you recollect in the course of that day, either before or about that time, any conversation taking place with regard to the payment of money to voters?—Previous to 3 o'clock?

16,429. Previous to receiving the money?—Not an idea at all, not a single one; quite the contrary.

16,430. After that, was there not an idea of paying voters, and was it not spoken of in your committee room?—From what time?

16,431. Between 3 and the closing of the poll.—We did it.

16,432. I mean independently of this money?—Let me understand you—

16,433. Was there not any talk with anybody else?—By me to anybody else?

16,434. In your hearing was not there a conversation with anybody else?—No, there was no one there to talk with anybody of any particular importance, except what I have named to you.

16,435. Do you not recollect a person coming in and saying there was a voter who wanted 5s., and his speaking to certain persons, and their saying, "Let him have it"?—I only recollect one man coming in and speaking openly the whole time, and that was a little chap, groom to Mr. Snowden, next door to Dowson's.

16,436. What did he come in and say?—He came in and asked for Dowson; he was gone out, and he went out and found him, I believe.

16,437. What did he say?—He asked for Mr. Dowson; he did not come in. I do not recollect anybody else coming in, except bullies and blackguards, and we had hard work to keep them out.

16,438. What did this man say?—He only asked for Mr. Dowson.

16,439. Was not anything said to him about 5s., or anything of that sort?—No, I did not talk to him at all.

16,440. Was anything said in your hearing about it?—No, not a word, we had plenty to do us five or six.

16,441. Do you not know of any money being provided for the payment of anything of this sort except that 100*l.*?—I did not believe there would be ever a farthing up to that time; we went to work with that determination and thought and knowledge that there would not be a penny. Certainly not, and I wish he had kept away, we were going on very well; Allen I mean.

16,442. (Mr. Mansfield.) There was a little money going about in small sums in different parts of the town?—I never left my place.

16,443. Did you hear where that came from?—Being what they term "manager" I never saw anything of it. I was shut up there, and filled up every ticket with the assistance of a gentleman they sent down.

16,444. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) They took care you should not know anything?—I could not. I would tell you anything I knew, I have no one to fear, and I would tell anybody else in the city, it is no trouble to me.

16,445. Did you see Clarke, the inspector, that day?—No, not at all, not once.

16,446. He did not come into your committee room?—No, we were a deserted lot; our eighth ward was deserted barring Allen, and I wish he had kept away. I never saw Clarke or anybody else.

16,447. (Mr. Mansfield.) Clarke had been a working man on your side?—So I heard; he was very officious.

16,448. Do you not know anything of his proceedings?—During the election day?

16,449. Before the election.—He was rather patriotic I thought. I do not go out in the dark, and when the wind blows in the east I am obliged to keep at home.

16,450. Have you not heard what part Clarke took before the election?—No, I was in a different part of the city.

16,451. As a party man you might ask something about it?—I am not a party man.

16,452. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you ever hear from Hardiment that he got any money for the purpose of paying voters?—I have not spoken to him since.

16,453. I am speaking about that time?—I quarrelled with him every day. I do not speak to him and he does not speak to me now, he quarrelled the morning he went away. He came there and interfered with everything and knowed nothing.

16,454. You never had any conversation with him about voters?—Since, do you mean?

16,455. At that time.—No, not a word at all, nor yet since nor yet before; no conversation either pro or con, neither one way or the other.

16,456. Can you give the names of any persons to whom this money was given by the persons to whom you gave it?—The four or five I have told you of?

16,457. Yes.—Not one.

16,458. Did you ever return or make any inquiry as to how it had been disbursed?—No, not in one instance.

16,459. No account was ever given to you directly or indirectly?—Not at all, it is not usual.

16,460. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did the men tell you the number of voters that they had got up?—No.

16,461. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You left it entirely to them?—Yes; it is an unusual sort of system this.

16,462. Had you been engaged upon prior elections?—No, I engaged myself in one.

16,463. Which was that?—Waters'.

16,464. Do you know of money being spent at that election?—Yes.

16,465. Was it spent very largely?—No.

16,466. Did you receive any money to pay away then?—Yes.

16,467. What money did you receive?—50*l.*

14,468. Did you pay it away?—Yes.

16,469. Every bit of it?—Oh yes, and a good deal more of my own.

16,470. In paying voters?—Yes.

16,471. How much more?—I should think it was 47*l.*

16,472. More than the 50*l.*?—Yes.

16,473. That was 97*l.*?—Yes; do you wish to know why it is I think I had to spend that?

16,474. Why did you spend it?—I will tell you, there was the same then as this time, always people looking out for number one. There was 200*l.* debited to the eighth ward, and at all events Wiseman only saw 100*l.* of it.

16,475. (Mr. Mansfield.) 200*l.* was said to be laid out?—Yes.

16,476. And you only saw 97*l.* of it?—100*l.*; 50*l.* was taken by me, and 50*l.* by the other gentleman with me.

16,477. Who was that?—Mr. Lake.

16,478. Who gave that money?—I do not know; it was brought down to the committee room.

16,479. Who brought it down?—I did not see it come. I did not know it was there till Lake called me.

16,480. Lake showed it to you?—Yes; that was at Waters' election.

16,481. Were you ever concerned in any other election?—No.

16,482. (Mr. Biron.) I do not understand this business. You say 50*l.* was brought down?—No, 100*l.*; 50*l.* to Lake and 50*l.* to me.

16,483. Did you and Mr. Lake lay out more than the 100*l.*?—I laid out only 50*l.* of it, but I anticipated receiving some of the other.

16,484. Was your 50*l.* and Lake's 50*l.* laid out in the ward?—Yes.

16,485. Was any money besides that laid out in the ward?—Yes, some of my own.

16,486. How much of your own?—47*l.*, anticipating having some of the other 100*l.*, but it never arrived, or if it did I never see it.

16,487. They said 200*l.* had been sent in to your ward?—So I heard.

16,488. In fact, according to your knowledge only 100*l.* arrived?—That is the truth.

16,489. Was that 147*l.* disbursed in the payment of voters in the ward?—Yes.

16,490. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you get your 47*l.* back again?—No.

16,491. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Have you never had it back again to this hour?—No.

16,492. Did you ask anybody?—I never knew who

FOURTEENTH DAY.

R. P. Wiseman.

to ask. Waters' had left. I took an interest in him, I nominated him.

16,493. Troubled waters, I fear?—Yes, it was indeed. I never knew who to ask. I got into a muddle in the matter one way or the other.

16,494. You were 47*l.* out of pocket by that election?—Yes, that is it.

16,495. Do you know of any other sums besides those three of 50*l.*, 50*l.*, and 47*l.*, being laid out in your ward at that election?—There was no more certainly.

16,496. Do you know who provided that 100*l.*?—No.

16,497. It was merely sent down to your ward, and where it came from you do not know?—No.

16,498. (Mr. Biron.) As I make it out these men Keddington, Dowson, and Lake were men you would trust to buy up voters?—Yes, exactly.

16,499. How was it you did not give them larger sums, because you only seem to have given 14*l.* amongst them?—They told me that they had got them near to the poll, and I said "Come back again "as quick as you like."

16,500. Take Keddington first; did he say he had got seven voters?—I did not see him the second time.

16,501. Did he say to whom he was going to pay the money?—No.

16,502. (Mr. Mansfield.) How much ahead?—10*s.*

16,503. (Mr. Biron.) How came you to give him 3*l.* 10*s.*?—There were seven voters.

16,504. He said he had got seven voters?—Yes.

16,505. Was that the case with Mackley?—I do not wish to make any further remarks. I live in rather a hot parish. He is what you will call him, the same as his brother.

16,506. I cannot take that, you must give me some answer; what made you give him 3*l.* 10*s.*?—I thought it was as much as he could be trusted with at a time, the poll was close by.

16,507. Then Dowson, 3*l.* 10*s.*?—That is all he asked me for.

16,508. Did he ask you for 3*l.* 10*s.*, saying he had got seven voters?—Yes, he came direct with those words.

16,509. And Lake, how was it you only gave him 3*l.* 10*s.*, because he is a different stamp of man?—He did not trouble about going after voters much; you might ask him what he done with it.

16,510. Why did you give him only 3*l.* 10*s.*?—He might ask for it. I would not be on oath that I did give him 3*l.* 10*s.*, or that it was not more.

16,511. You said your memory was not clear about it?—It was at that time.

16,512. But it is not now?—No.

16,513. The result is that you have got over 40*l.* left, so that will pretty nearly pay back the 46*l.* 10*s.* which you were out of pocket for Waters' election?—I do not know about that.

16,514. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you go and speak to these men or did they come to you?—No, they came to me.

16,515. Somebody must have communicated to them that you had money?—No, they were at my committee room; it was their ward.

16,516. Did you tell them that you had got money then?—They knew that I left for five minutes to go and get it.

16,517. How would they know?—They would pretty nearly guess. Mackley is a rare electioneerer.

16,518. They would guess you had gone for money?—Yes; no doubt about that.

16,519. (Mr. Mansfield.) At that time of the day?—Yes.

16,520. It was an understanding on their part arising from the circumstance of your having gone out and come back again?—Yes, no doubt about it; they would telegraph it.

16,521. They were watching you?—I do not know about that; they would soon learn it.

16,522. A man looks different when he has 100*l.* in his pocket?—I cannot say about that. I hope I have satisfied you that I have told you everything I know.

16,523. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you know of any sums of money being paid to any other voters?—No, I cannot say I do. I do not think that there is any other.

16,524. Do you recollect any?—No, not one.

16,525. Did you pay anything yourself?—No, not a farthing, not a 6*d.*

16,526. Did you pay anything afterwards?—No, never.

16,527. Have you never paid anything since?—No, no bribery. I never bribed one.

16,528. (Mr. Mansfield.) Were you asked for any more money afterwards?—Yes; at 10 minutes to 4, when I knew they could not get to the poll, a dozen came to me.

16,529. After the election was over did anybody apply to you for money?—Yes.

16,530. Many of them?—Three or four.

16,531. Did they say anything had been promised to them by any of your people?—No; they would not say that to me.

16,532. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did they say they had paid any voter, and ask you for money?—No; one wanted me to pay a beer score, 2*l.*, and I said I would not pay a farthing.

16,533. Who was that?—Benfather. He called upon me six or seven times and worried me about it, and I told him I would break his neck if he did not get out.

R. Mackley.

RICHARD MACKLEY sworn and examined.

16,534. (Mr. Mansfield.) You are a publican, I believe?—Yes.

16,535. And you keep the "Woolpack"?—I do.

16,536. Were you in your house on the day of the election?—Yes, I was.

16,537. Do you recollect a great many people being there on that day?—There were.

16,538. Could you say how many?—No.

16,539. Were there 30?—There might be 100 for what I know.

16,540. At one time how many were there?—I should say 20.

16,541. They were coming in and out?—Yes; there was great anxiety, and they were going backwards and forwards to know the state of the poll.

16,542. There was a good deal of beer consumed?—No.

16,543. Not more than usual?—Very little more than I regular do.

16,544. Who paid for it?—They did themselves; they called for their half-pints and pints and quarts, and that like.

16,545. Did no one else pay for it except the consumers?—No.

16,546. Was Hardiment there in the course of the day?—I did not see him and did not speak to him on the day.

16,547. Are you certain he was not there?—I am not sure of that.

16,548. You would have heard if he had been there?—I think he was there.

16,549. Do you know what he was doing there?—I heard he was paying people for voting; but that I do not know. I was told so by parties that came down.

16,550. That was up on the landing?—Yes.

16,551. You saw a good many going up there?—They were going backwards and forwards.

16,552. And then they went off to the poll?—They go where they pleased. I did not go after them.

16,553. You knew where they were going?—No doubt about that.

16,554. Did you pay any man yourself on this day?—No.

16,555. Not voters?—No.

16,556. Had you no money given to you to pay?—No, not to pay.

16,557. Not to pay voters?—No.

16,558. You received no money on the day of the poll to pay voters with?—Yes.

16,559. From whom did you receive it?—Mr. Wiseman.

16,560. Did you pay it to voters?—No.

16,561. What did you do with it?—I put it in my own pocket for labour.

16,562. You voted yourself for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes, I voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

16,563. How much did Wiseman give you?—5l.

16,564. You did not scatter any of that amongst the other voters, you kept it all for number one voter?—No, not for that.

16,565. What did you keep it for?—For labour previous to the election, and for services during the day, to get voters if I possibly could to persuade them to vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

16,566. Did you get any voters to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—I asked them to do so, and if they thought fit to do so they done it, and if not I did not trouble about it.

16,567. How much of this 5l. did you put to the beer account that you furnished upon Sir Henry Stracey's account?—Not a half-pint did I give away.

16,568. You did not perform any services for this 5l.?—Merely loss of time previous to the election.

16,569. You did not get the 5l. till the day of polling?—I got it in the morning of the day of the polling.

16,570. What time in the morning?—It might be 10 o'clock in the morning. I should think I voted at about 11 myself, at all events.

16,571. From which of the Mr. Wisemans did you get it?—Mr. Wiseman, senior.

16,572. Do you mean to say that you got it at 10 o'clock in the morning?—Yes.

16,573. If Mr. Wiseman swears he did not give it to you till 3 o'clock in the day that is untrue?—Most decidedly I say he did not.

16,574. You say he did not give you that money except at 10 o'clock in the morning?—Most decidedly I do say so. I was at my bar all the time after I had done voting, and never left my place to go out after anything.

16,575. Did you put any of the account for beer into this 5l., or was it only for canvassing?—I did not give any beer.

16,576. It was for your duty in canvassing?—Yes, previous to the election, and I did what I could on the election day, and asked people to vote.

16,577. You did nothing except ask people to vote?—Nothing more and nothing less.

16,578. Did you promise any of them any money?—Not one a penny piece.

16,579. And never gave a penny piece?—I never gave a shilling.

16,580. You kept the whole of it for yourself?—Yes, I kept it myself for my services.

16,581. You have never been asked for it since?—No; I should think not. I should think my services were worth 5l.

16,582. You seem to set a high value on doing nothing; did you ever report to Mr. Wiseman that you had spent this sum of 5l. which he entrusted to you for purchasing votes with in purchasing yourself?—I tell you this, that he knew the nature of the thing, going after voters. He said it always cost him a pound to go up St. Martin's and back again.

16,583. You knew what that meant?—Yes, and he said, "There is 5l., and you do all you can," and I took that 5l., thinking it was for my vote.

16,584. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You took that for your vote?—Yes, and to assist the party.

16,585. (Mr. Mansfield.) Will you swear it was as much as 5l.?—It was that, and nothing more.

16,586. In what coin did he give it to you?—In half sovereigns.

16,587. Do you recollect Freestone being in your house?—Freestone was against the door, but whether he came in or not I do not know. I do tell you this, that I am very awkwardly situated at the present time.

16,588. Never mind that. Did Freestone come in?—He was at the door, but whether he came in or not I do not know.

16,589. You were behind the bar?—Yes. I may tell you this, I have an engine to draw my beer with, but upon the polling day that engine was out of order, and I had to go to the back room to draw the beer, and it might be that parties came backwards and forwards there when I could not possibly say they were going backwards and forwards.

16,590. Did you speak to Freestone?—No.

16,591. Do you not know that there was a rush of voters up to the landing?—I believe not.

16,592. Did you not hear somebody say, "Here he "is," or "There he is"?—I heard a party say he was coming down the street.

16,593. Did you not hear somebody say "Come "upstairs"?—I said, "Do not crowd me up about "this bar. Go away. Where are we to sit?"

16,594. Did you not hear someone say "Come up-"stairs"?—Certainly; I said so.

16,595. Not you. Did you not hear some one say so?—I heard the word mentioned.

16,596. Did you see anybody in your house with money in a bag?—Whether it was in a bag or not I am sure I cannot say. I know a man called me from the bar up at the corner of the name of Harper; he called me on one side, and if he had not called me on one side possibly I should not have seen him. He called me on one side and asked me a question, which is to say "Mackley, what are the men doing here?" I said, "These men are what I call cottage voters; "they are all poor and needy and want a day's pay, "and I have no money." He said, "What is it they "want?" I said, "I am sure I do not know. I "think they want something about 7*s.* 6*d.* or 10*s.*" He says, "Can I see them?" I said, "It is no use "seeing them. I tell you now they are all agreed "with me that they will vote for Sir Henry "Stracey."

16,597. All of them agreed with you?—Most of them. Take the majority of them.

16,598. Mention who they were?—Well, I will say, not having taken account of people's names, but taking the people who were in the bar at the time, I would say Mr. Bradbury, he sat there; and there was Cook, he sat there at the time; and George Staff.

16,599. Who is Mr. Bradbury?—He is a traveller.

16,600. A stout big-headed man?—Not a big-headed man; a stout man. I could mention many more if I had time to recollect them. Mr. Madge was there.

16,601. How many of these men were there that agreed with you that they wanted 7*s.* 6*d.* for their vote?—It was the cry of the majority in the place that they would want 7*s.* 6*d.* I said, "My boys, I do "not care whether you get 10*s.* I have not got a "penny piece."

16,602. That was not true, you had received 5l. at 10 o'clock in the morning?—I took that for myself; that was not for them. It would be a fine thing for me to walk about a week previous to the election and ask the people to vote for Sir Henry Stracey and spend my own money and get 5l., and give it away to them on the day. I should not think about that. I should not do that.

16,603. What was your further conversation with Harper about this bag of money?—When Harper came he said, "Mackley, what are the men doing?" I said, "They are cottage voters and they want 7*s.* 6*d.*, "and some want half a sovereign;" but I said, "It is

FOURTEENTH DAY.

R. Mackley.

" no use your going to them unless you have got the " money." He said, " Mackley, will you give me a " quarter of an hour ?" I said, " I am not going " out ; I will give you a quarter of an hour." He came back under the quarter of an hour and said, " Mackley, where are the men now ?" And he comes like this and says, " Mackley, it is all right now ; I have " got the money. You go backwards and call the " men back." I said, " Harper, I am only surprised, " you being a man with all these parties standing " looking at you." He says, " That is all right ; you " belong to our organisation ; let us go backwards ;" and I said, " You may go backwards if you please ; I " will not be seen with you if you cannot do business " different to this. I will not mix up with you." He says, " You belong to the organisation ;" and I said, " I know that ; it is half-past 3 or a quarter before " 4, and I will have nothing to do with it. I will " keep to my bar." And he says, " You are deceiving " your party, and you have lost the election." And he bid me good day, and I done the same.

16,604. You did not see the money then, after all ?—He said, " It is all right, I have got the money," and I heard something jingle. I did not see the money.

16,605. You did not believe he had the money ?—I believe he had, or else he would not tell me it is all right. He said, " Come along with me, " Mackley."

16,606. That is the time Hardiment was upstairs doing the business ?—I did not see the man. I am told he was upstairs. There are four ways of getting to my room upstairs.

16,607. Did you see Hardiment that day in the house ?—I never saw Hardiment in my house on that day, and never spoke to him or never drawed him one glass of refreshment.

16,608. If 20 people have sworn that Hardiment was there they have all spoken what was not true ?—I believe the man was in the house, but I never spoke to the man, and never saw him. I believe the man gave money to parties in my room at the time I was drawing beer in the back cellar.

16,609. Do you mean to say that a man occupies one of your rooms and sees persons one after the other without your knowing anything about it ?—I tell you that my engine was out of order, and I had to go down into the cellar to draw the beer, and did not see the man. What difference can it make to me to say the man was not there if I saw him ? It makes no difference to me whatever. If I had seen the man I would honestly say the man was there, and if I knew the man paid money away I would have said so in one minute.

16,610. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Harper never said to you, " Mackley, you have sold us " ?—Harper said to me that I had sold him. I had sold the party. Because why ? I belong to the organisation.

16,611. Did Harper say to you, " Mackley, you have " sold us " ?—He told me so.

16,612. Or, " You are selling us " ?—He said, " We " have lost the election, and all through you."

16,613. Did he not say, " Hardiment is upstairs " with the men," and did you not say to him, " Why, " you could have had them " ?—No, I did not.

16,614. Do you swear that ?—I swear I did not say no such words.

16,615. Nothing of that sort ?—I did not say it to the man.

16,616. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you not say just now that you said to Harper, " I will give you a quarter of " an hour " ?—He asked me for a quarter of an hour.

16,617. You replied that you would give him a quarter of an hour ?—Yes, I said I should not be out. I should be at the bar. I said, " I will give you as " long as you please."

16,618. You said, " I will give you a quarter of an " hour ;" did you not mean to say if he came back in a quarter of an hour you could deal with him for so many votes ?—No.

16,619. What else could you mean ?—He asked me for a quarter of an hour till he came back.

16,620. And you said you would give him a quarter of an hour ?—I said I would give him as long as he pleased ; I was not going out ; I should keep to my bar.

16,621. And that was, of course, because you had the intention of dealing with the men's votes ?—No, nothing of the sort.

16,622. Why did you say, " I will give you a " quarter of an hour " ?—The man asked me for it. I said, " I will give it to you, and give you an hour " if you like."

16,623. Because you were bargaining about these votes ?—You do not understand my meaning. If the man had asked me for a quarter of an hour or half an hour I should have said, " You can have as long " as you please ; I am not going out."

16,624. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What did you mean by saying to him " I will give you a quarter of an " hour " ?—He asked me for it.

16,625. When he asked you for the quarter of an hour, and you said, " I will give it to you," what did you mean by that ?—I will keep at home until you come back again. I will be in the way.

16,626. Were you going out ?—Very likely I should go out ; the polling place was only 200 yards from my place, and I should very likely go and see the state of the poll.

16,627. Were you going out ?—No further than the poll and back again to see how it stood.

16,628. Were you going out ?—I was going out there, and no other place.

16,629. Did you go out ?—I did not go out.

16,630. Why did you say to Harper, " I will give " you a qaarter of an hour " if you were not going out ?—Because he asked me for it.

16,631. Why did you not say, " What do you mean " by asking me for a quarter of an hour " ?—Very likely I was going out.

16,632. Why did you say you would give him a quarter of an hour ?—Because he wanted to have some communication with me along of these voters.

16,633. You understood that Harper wanted you to have a communication with him ? — With the money affairs ?

16,634. With the voters ? — Yes, most decidedly.

16,635. You said you would give him a quarter of an hour ?— Yes, and I stopped at home that time.

16,636. In order that you might communicate with him with the voters ?—Yes.

16,637. When he came back, and you had given him the quarter of an hour, why did you not then, having said you would give him that time, communicate with the voters ? — There were too many there. If I am going to do business I do not like 20 to look at me.

16,638. He came back in a quarter of an hour ?—So he did, and under.

16,639. Why did you not do that which you had promised you would do, communicate with the voters on his behalf ?—I said I would not interfere with it. I said, " Go and do it yourself."

16,640. Why did you not communicate with the voters, because that was the meaning of what you said to Harper ?— He asked me would I wait a quarter of an hour till he came back ; he knew that I belonged to the organisation.

16,641. Why, having told that man in effect that you would communicate with him with these voters if he came back in a quarter of an hour, did you not communicate with them ?—I had no thought about having any communication along with him in reference to the voters.

16,642. You swore just now you had?—Along with Harper?

16,643. Yes, you swore just now that that was what you understood when he asked you for a quarter of an hour; when you said you would give it to him you said you understood that that was for the purpose of communicating with him with the voters?—He asked for a quarter of an hour to speak to his committee. Did I know the purpose he went after?

16,644. You swore just now you knew what he meant?—He told me when he came back he had got the money.

16,645. You swore just now that you knew what he meant when he asked for a quarter of an hour?—Possibly I might think he went after the money, but when he came back and showed me the money I refused to have anything to do with it.

16,646. (Mr. Mansfield.) Had you a great objection to bribery in your house?—A great objection to bribery.

16,647. In your house?—How could I help it? When I am in the bar I don't know what is going on upstairs or in the back room.

16,648. I think you have stated before that you objected to bribery?—No, I think not.

16,649. Will you swear that you did not?—No, I should think not. What can a publican object to where two men are drinking together, and one is whispering the other? It may be going on, but I don't know anything about that.

16,650. Have you not sworn that you would not let men go upstairs, because you thought there might be bribery, to which you objected?—Most decidedly. Mr. Harper wanted to go backward, and I said, "No, "Mr. Harper, go you the other way, and do the best "you can; I will not go with you."

16,651. Then you did not object to bribery in the house?—How could I prevent it?

16,652. You did not object to it.—Object to it. Of course, if they were going to do it they would not come and ask me.

16,653. You knew it was going on from the language of the voters?—Would they ask me whether it should be done or not?

16,654. Did you or did you not object to its going on in your house?—Mr. Harper came there.

16,655. Did you or did you not object to bribery in your house?—No, I say, of course not. I could not object to it on either side, but I wanted them to do it by themselves. I did not want to be seen in it.

16,656. Did you not say before Mr. Baron Martin, "I thought I might get myself into a muddle"?—Most decidedly, and I say so now, and so I would not go along with Mr. Harper; that is the cause of it.

16,657. You said you would not let him go upstairs because of bribery?—Most decidedly; that is perfectly right.

16,658. And yet you did not mind Mr. Hardiment being upstairs?—I did not know that he was there, neither did I see him. Mr. Hardiment is a man I have known for many years, but I should say he has not spent 2*s.* in my house for the last four years; he is no customer of mine.

16,659. If you objected to getting yourself into a muddle, as you call it, why did you mention to Harper that these men wanted a day's pay?—Of course, I was more a friend of Sir Henry Stracey than of Mr. Tillett; Tillett I did not like.

16,660. That is not an answer to my question?—I am more a friend to Sir Henry Stracey than to Tillett; I don't like Tillett; I don't like no lawyers, they always make me pay.

16,661. (Mr. Biron.) You like five pound notes?—A five pound note is very handy to me, I assure you, not that I got no five pound note, for I spent that previously to the election.

16,662. (Mr. Mansfield.) But though you objected to bribery, you mentioned this sum of 7*s.* 6*d.* as the price of the men that were in the house?—That is what the men told me.

16,663. That is what you told Harper?—Most decidedly; the voters asked me whether I could get them 7*s.* 6*d.*

16,664. At the same time you said you did not want any bribery in your house?—Did not want it? I could not do without it. If they commit themselves what am I to do? A public house is a public place.

16,665. Do you recollect Mr. Gilmore being there?—Most decidedly I do.

16,666. What did you say to Gilmore?—I said nothing to Gilmore. Gilmore said it to me.

16,667. What did Gilmore say to you?—He said, "Mackley, you know something has been going on in "this place with Hardiment, he has been paying "money away." I said, "If he has I am sure I don't "know." He said, "You might put all this on one "side, and I will send a man to you, and that man will "give you 40*l.* if you will tell him the whole truth "about what was going on in your place." I said, "What, to go and make up a lot of lies, Gilmore? "No, I won't do so." "Well," he said, "you don't "want to go and make any noise about it." That is what Gilmore said to me. Hardiment never spent a penny in my house, and never gave me a penny in his life.

16,668. Will you swear he has paid you nothing since?—No, on my oath.

16,669. Has nobody paid you anything since?—Not one farthing, I assure you.

16,670. You have received nothing but that 5*l.* from Wiseman?—It was 5*l.* in gold, in half-sovereigns.

16,671. Had any of these processions with bands of music been to your house during the election, before the polling day?—No; on one occasion I had some flags that belong to my refreshment booth. I send them over there when I go to Yarmouth, and on one occasion there was some flags lent out.

16,672. Who paid for those flags?—I lent the flags.

16,673. To whom?—I lent the flags to the parties walking in procession.

16,674. Who was the person you lent them to?—I suppose Mr. Clarke, but I never got a farthing for them. They asked me where they could borrow some flags, and they started from Union Place, I think, but I lent some flags, and they brought them back again; I never got a penny for them.

16,675. Did the procession come and drink at your place?—No, they got nothing from my place; there was no starting from my place.

16,676. Was there no committee room at your place?—There was.

16,677. Who paid you for that?—Well, I suppose Mr. Harper was the man who paid me for the room that he had at my place when the organisation was kept at my house for about three months.

16,678. But at the time of the election?—There was no one hired my room on the election day.

16,679. But before the election?—Not any person.

16,680. Do you mean to say that the week before the election nobody took a room at your house?—No, not any person on either side.

16,681. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Hardiment came to your house on the morning of that day, did he not?—They say so, but I don't know that.

16,682. Did you not see him?—I did not see him, to the best of my knowledge, but I believe he was there from what I have heard since; but I did not see him, nor did I draw him a glass of refreshment.

16,683. There were a number of voters in your house, were there not, who wanted to be paid for their votes?—Oh yes, of course there was.

16,684. A very considerable number?—No, I don't know the number, there might be 20. I did not see how many there were there, I don't know, and I never asked how many there were.

FOURTEENTH DAY.

R. Mackley.

16,685. You had a conversation, you say, with Harper about these men?—Most decidedly; the man called my attention from the bar, otherwise I might have missed Mr. Harper. That might be the bar, and I might be in this corner (describing), and he said, "Mackley, what are they doing here?" and I said, "Only the old tale over again."

16,686. What did you say?—"They are what are "called cottage voters, and they want to be paid 7*s.* 6*d.* "or 10*s.* for their votes, if not, they are going to "vote for Sir Henry Stracey, because I have been "asking the men, and there is no mistake about it."

16,687. When you told him that, did he say to you, "Give me a quarter of an hour"?—Most decidedly he did.

16,688. That is what he said?—That is what he said to me. He said he would go and see his committee.

16,689. And that you understood to mean to try and get the money?—Well, I don't know what he meant by that; he said, "Give me a quarter of an "hour;" I thought he meant to get the money, of course.

16,690. You understood it was that you might not go out, but that you might remain at home?—Most decidedly I thought something of that sort.

16,691. Then you said that you would give him a quarter of an hour?—Most decidedly; he might have taken a week for what I troubled about it.

16,692. Then he went away?—He went away.

16,693. Then he came back in the quarter of an hour?—Under the quarter of an hour.

16,694. Did you not know that in the interval while he was gone Hardiment had gone upstairs?—I did not know. Hardiment might be there, and I believe he was there, because I heard parties saying that he was in the room; but I was busy in the bar, and did not want to look after other people.

16,695. Had you not heard in the meantime that Hardiment had gone upstairs?—I had so, but I did not see the man.

16,696. Now you say that Harper came back?—Of course he did.

16,697. When he came back he told you that you were selling him, did he not?—No, he did not say I was selling him; he asked me to go backward along with him, and to call the men back, and he would settle with them, as he had got the money.

16,698. Then when he proposed that, what did you say?—I said, "Harper, you are a bad general, here "is all these people standing about here; if it is a "case of bribery we are liable to get ourselves into "a muddle; why did'nt you do this hours before, and "do it individually?"

16,699. You objected to getting yourself into a muddle then, instead of its being done hours before?—If he had done it hours before individually by himself, all would have been right, but not with me.

16,700. If that was your reason, why had you not told him that before you said that you would give him the quarter of an hour?—I had not seen the man until about half-past 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

16,701. But you had said, you know, only a quarter of an hour before, that you would give him a quarter of an hour, and you understood that that was for the purpose of your remaining at home and arranging with the men with him?—If you were to put a question to me, and tell me you will give me a quarter of an hour to consider it, do you know what I am going to say to you in that quarter of an hour? I was wondering what that man was about when he left.

16,702. Then do I understand you to say that you had no idea what he meant?—I had no idea; I could judge, but I could not tell what that man's thoughts were, could I?

16,703. Had you no conjecture about his thoughts?—I thought he went after money, most decidedly, and when he came back again he told me he had got the money.

16,704. You thought he was going after money when you said you would give him a quarter of an hour?—Most decidedly.

16,705. Then if you thought that ought to have been done three or four hours before, and you thought that only a quarter of an hour afterwards, why did you not tell him that a quarter of an hour before?—Why didn't he do it himself, without asking me about it?

16,706. Why did you not say to him a quarter of an hour before, "Oh, this ought to have been done "three or four hours before, and it is no use your "doing it now"?—I would not be seen in it when it was nearly 4 o'clock, with everybody gaping at you. I said, "Go and do your business yourself, I "won't be seen in it." He is a bad general in electioneering matters, that is all I can say about him.

16,707. You did think that he meant to go and get the money?—Most decidedly I thought that.

16,708. And he came back with the money?—I think he did; he did not show it to me, mind.

16,709. But you were sure he did?—Most decidedly I thought he had got it, in fact, he told me so.

16,710. Why did not you then say, "Oh, very well, "you have performed your promise, I will perform "mine; here are the men"?—Oh, if that was left to me, I should say, "I am more a friend of Sir "Henry Stracey, and I could not go back along with "you."

16,711. Why did you speak to him or why did not you say, "I will have nothing to do with it, I "will wash my hands of such a transaction, I am "for purity"?—Because I like to see what a man really is made of. I liked to see whether he had got the money or not.

16,712. Then you wanted to see whether he would get the money?—Yes.

16,713. That was it, was it?—Yes, I liked to see whether he had got the money or not; then it was left to me to know what I was going to do.

16,714. You thought, perhaps, he could not get the money?—I thought possibly he could not get the money, and when he got the money, I would not have anything at all to do with it.

16,715. When he had got the money you dropped him into the hole?—Yes, I would not have anything at all to do with it. I would not have the money. I believe I could have had the money.

16,716. Although you had encouraged the man to go and get it?—Yes; he went after the money.

16,717. Was not the reason that in the meantime Hardiment had come in, had gone upstairs, and was then paying the men?—That, I tell you, I don't know.

16,718. What did you believe?—I believe the man was there, but I did not see him, that is what I believe. The man must have passed my bar at the time I had to go into the cellar; my beer engine was out of order, and I had to go down to the cellar, and the time I was down in the cellar there might be 20 people pass while I was drawing two or three pints of ale.

16,719. Then you laid a nice little trap for Harper to see whether he could get the money?—Yes, we will say so, it was a trap for him.

16,720. That was what you did it for?—It was a trap whereby I did not get hold of the money, at all events.

16,721. Did you want to get hold of the money yourself?—I should have liked to have had some money; if I had got hold of the money I would not have paid no voters, I would have kept it.

16,722. You had no objection whatever to getting the money yourself, but you had a great objection to the voters getting it?—I like it myself, sir.

16,723. And so you had pocketted Mr. Wiseman's money upon the Conservative side, and then you thought you would have a little taste of the money on the Liberal side?—Yes; but I had spent all that labouring on Mr. Wiseman's side; on the other side it would have come easy, but I could not get it.

16,724. That is what you thought you would do, see whether you liked the flavour of that as well as the Conservative money?—I could have had it if I had allowed him to go into the other room, but I was too honest.

(Mr. Biron.) Oh don't use that term about yourself.

16,725. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What are your principles, Liberal or Conservative?—Just as it suits my mind.

16,726. Your pocket you mean?—I never had much in my pocket. Sometimes I vote for one and sometimes for the other.

16,727. That is a very good way of putting money into your pocket.—Sometimes I vote for Stracey, sometimes for Sir Samuel Bignold, and sometimes for Peto and Warner, according as I like the men; but Tillett I don't like.

16,728. You vote for whichever pays the best?—If I like the man.

16,729. Whichever you can get most from in general, is it not?—Yes, but I don't like to speak about it after I get it.

16,730. Do you know a man of the name of Gazeley who lives in Tinkler's Lane?—If he is a bird breeder I know him, because I am in that calling, but there are so many Gazeleys. If it is the bird fancier in Jenkin's Lane I know him well.

16,731. Did you give him any money?—I did not. I told you I put the money in my pocket.

(Mr. Biron.) It is perfectly clear you gave no one any money; nothing can be more obvious than that.

16,732. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Now I will give you a chance of showing that once in your life you did a generous thing; did you give Gazeley some money?—I did not.

16,733. Are you sure of that?—I have given him scores of pounds for birds. I gave him 1*l.* last night for a bird.

16,734. But did you give him or anybody any money to vote at the last election?—No.

16,735. Not one?—Not one; I had no money to give.

16,736. You had 5*l.*—Why, a paltry 5*l.* note. Is that sufficient for a man to go out bribing? Would anyone think a man would go out and bribe with a paltry 5*l.* note? You could not go out bribing with a 5*l.* note, that is quite evident.

SAMUEL FREEMAN sworn and examined.

S. Freeman.

16,737. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A carpenter.

16,738. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Stracey.

16,739. At what hour of the day?—About a quarter to 4.

16,740. Did you get any money from anybody on that day?—Yes.

16,741. From whom?—I took a sovereign of Mr. Allen.

16,742. Is that all you got?—That is all.

16,743. Then you went and voted?—Then I went and voted.

16,744. Did you halve it with anybody, or keep it for yourself?—Oh no, I kept it all myself; it was given to me on purpose.

16,745. He gave it you for that purpose?—For that purpose. He gave me a sovereign, and I took it.

16,746. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter before the last election?—Oh yes, I have voted 37 years altogether.

16,747. Were you paid for your vote in 1865?—I did not vote then.

16,748. Did you at the election before that?—No.

16,749. Did you get any money for that?—I did not vote, nor for the two elections previous to that.

WILLIAM CLARE THORPE sworn and examined.

W. C. Thorpe.

16,751. Did you vote at the last election?—No, I did not vote.

16,752. Did you intend to vote for Tillett and Russell?—I did not intend to vote at all at the last election.

16,753. Why not?—I saw so much that disgusted me on that day that I thought to myself I would not vote.

16,754. Did you go into Clarke's beerhouse that day?—Yes.

16,755. What time in the day?—I went first about 20 minutes past 7 in the morning.

16,756. Did you see a person of the name of Charles Morse there?—Yes.

16,757. Francis Cutlock?—Yes.

16,758. Did you also see Robert Brandish, who is dead?—No.

16,759. Was Richard Moss there?—Yes.

16,760. Did you stay there until dinner time?—I stayed there until breakfast time first, and then I went home to breakfast.

16,761. Then did you go back again?—About a quarter to 10.

16,762. Were these men you have named there when you first went?—Not all of them.

16,763. When you went again at 10 how long did you stay?—I stopped there until just after 1.

16,764. Were there a great number of voters in and out of the house during the time that you were there?—There were several voters.

16,765. Do you recollect going out at any time to see the state of the poll?—That was at breakfast time, 9 o'clock.

16,766. Do you know a person of the name of Thomas Worledge?—Yes.

16,767. Did you see him come to the house?—Yes.

16,768. Did you hear him make any inquiry of the landlord?—Well, I saw him come and speak to the landlord.

16,769. Did you hear anything said about voters?—Yes, he pointed out the voters to Mr. Worledge.

16,770. How many did he point out?—There might be four or five or six, something like that.

16,771. Were other persons there besides the voters?—Yes; there were about four or five non-electors there besides.

16,772. Then did Worledge speak in the presence of them all in the room?—Yes.

16,773. And did he give anything to the landlord or the men?—He gave it to the non-electors.

16,774. What did he give?—Nine 6*d.* tickets.

16,775. Were those tickets for beer?—All for beer.

16,776. Was the beer had in and drunk amongst you all?—Yes.

16,777. Did other electors come in and partake of the beer?—Yes, they all drunk; there were several came in and out.

16,778. Worledge left, did he?—Yes.

16,779. Did he say anything further to them about voting, or did he leave them there?—He left them there.

16,780. Do you know Hardiment?—Yes.

16,781. Did he come into the house?—Yes.

16,782. What time in the day did he come in?—About 20 minutes or half-past 10.

16,783. Was anybody with him?—Wiseman came in just afterwards and spoke to him.

16,784. Which Wiseman?—Wiseman, junior.

FOURTEENTH DAY.

W. C. Thorpe.

16,785. Did Hardiment do anything in the house?—Yes.

16,786. What did he do?—Brought in a gallon of beer.

16,787. For whom was that brought?—Anybody that liked to drink it.

16,788. Were there voters then in the room?—Yes.

16,789. It was given amongst them?—It was given amongst them.

16,790. Was Hardiment speaking to them at all about their votes?—He spoke to two or three of them.

16,791. About voting?—Yes.

16,792. Do you recollect whether you saw Freestone there?—Yes.

16,793. Did he come in?—Yes.

16,794. Did he go out before you, or did you go out first?—Mr. Freestone went out before I did.

16,795. Hardiment and Freestone went out?—Both together.

16,796. Now did the men remain drinking after they had gone?—Yes.

16,797. How many voters were there there then?—There might be about five or six voters besides the non-electors.

16,798. You went out, you say, to your dinner?—Yes.

16,799. What time did you return?—It might be about a quarter past 2.

16,800. Do you recollect seeing Benfather of the "Royal Oak" there?—Yes.

16,801. When did you see him?—It might be about half-past 2.

16,802. Or later?—It might be a little later; it was before 3 I know.

16,803. How did he come in?—He came in and drank some beer along with us all, and then he wanted to know who were the voters.

16,804. Was this all in the same room?—This was in what you call the tap room, just as you get inside.

16,805–6. Is there any little room out of the tap room?—Yes.

16,807. Did the men who were voters declare themselves to be voters?—Yes; there was five or six of them.

16,808. When they declared themselves to be voters, did Benfather do anything?—Yes.

16,809. What did he do?—He said, "Come along, "come this way, through the passage."

16,810. Where did he go?—Into the bake office himself, alone.

16,811. Did he say anything to them in your presence about money?—He spoke to me about money.

16,812. What did he say to you?—He said, "Is 5s. "any use to you?" and I said, "No."

16,813. Did you see the men go in after him?—Yes, one by one.

16,814. Did you see them come out?—Yes.

16,815. Did you hear what they said?—I heard some of them say 5s. was no use to them.

16,816. But did they go into the bake office after they had said that?—No; they came out; and two of them went to vote.

16,817. Did they say whether they had had anything or not?—They did not say they had had anything; whether Benfather gave them anything I cannot say, but I know two of them went and voted directly.

16,818. Can you tell me the names of those two men?—I don't know the names of them, but I think Charles Moss was one.

16,819. Did you go into the bake office?—As I got my head just inside the door he said, "Is 5s. any use "to you?" I said, "No, nor yet double, nor yet "treble."

16,820. At that time was anybody else in the room?—No.

16,821. Were you following in another man who had gone out?—Yes; after the fifth had been in; I was the sixth who went in.

16,822. You were the last?—I was the last.

16,823. Then the other men had passed back?—They had passed back, and had gone into the other room.

16,824. Could you see from where you were everything that was passing in the bake office?—No; because he took them in one by one and shut the door, so that I could not see or hear anything.

16,825. But you heard them as they came out say 5s. is no use to me?—Yes, some of them.

16,826. Do you recollect any of those who said that?—There is one I recollect, and that is Ross.

16,827. Where does Ross live?—Bath House Yard, St. Martin's.

16,828. You spoke about Morse going up to vote?—Yes.

16,289. Did you hear what Morse said?—No.

16,830. Did he go up to vote?—He got into the cab.

16,831. Was there a cab at the door then?—Yes.

16,832. Who was in the cab?—I don't know who there was in the cab; I cannot say.

16,833. Was there somebody in the cab?—There was somebody in the cab, but I cannot say who it was.

16,834. Did Benfather come in the cab?—Benfather came from his own public house up the street.

16,835. Did you see Morse, after that, return?—No.

16,836. Did you see him next day?—Well, sir, I generally go away the next day morning, and I do not often see them the next day; it might be three or four days before I saw them.

16,837. Did you not see Morse the next day?—No.

16,838. Did you go into Benfather's the next day?—No.

16,839. Can you tell me how many altogether of the six went away to vote, taking Morse as one?—There might be three or four in the cab.

16,840. Now are you quite sure that these men went into the bake office to Benfather?—Quite sure.

16,841. Do you know a man of the name of William Fisher?—Yes.

16,842. Do you know Brandish's shop?—Yes.

16,843. Had you seen Brandish that day?—Yes.

16,844. Had you heard Brandish say anything about voting?—Yes; he spoke to me about voting, because he lived two doors off me, and he spoke to me on the election day.

16,845. Did he say anything to you about voting?—He said he had voted when I saw him.

16,846. Did he not say anything to you about money?—He said he took nothing at all.

16,847. Had not Brandish said anything to you about money in the early part of the day?—No.

16,848. Did you see Hardiment at all again on that day?—I saw him several times that day.

18,849. Did he come into Clarke's beerhouse several times then?—Yes.

16,850. How many times?—Three or four times in the morning.

16,851. Did you see him give money to anybody in the house?—No, he gave all beer.

16,852. How many times did he give beer?—Three times, to my knowledge.

16,853. Were there other voters there at the time when he gave beer besides those you have named?—Yes.

16,854. How many?—At one time I suppose there were 12 voters there.

16,855. Did you see Hardiment pay for the beer, or was credit given for it?—He did not pay anything for it; he said, "Bring them in a gallon of beer." And he left directly afterwards.

16,856. Do you recollect whether Benfather went into a cab with the men who went to vote?—No, I did not see him get in.

16,857. Did you get any money whatever to vote, or to abstain from voting at this election?—Not a farthing.

16,858. Did anybody else offer you any money?—No.

JAMES LOMBE sworn and examined.

J. Lombe.

16,859. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A master shoemaker.

16,860. Who did you vote for at this last election?—Mr. Stracey.

16,861. At what time in the day?—About 3 o'clock.

16,862. Why did you vote so late?—Why, I did not think it was right of me to go out when I knew Mr. Tillett was so much ahead; that is the reason I did not go.

16,863. Had you been asked to vote by anyone?—Oh yes; Mr. Keddington came up and asked me whether I would go and vote, and I told him, "What is the use of my going to vote, and losing my "time when Mr. Tillett is so much ahead."

16,864. Who did you go and vote with?—Along with James Nobbs.

16,865. Then I think you went to a public house along with him, did you not?—No.

16,866. You went to Dowson's place, did you not?—No, I never went to Dowson's house at all; I never went to no public house with him not until two hours after.

16,867. Then you had some beer together, did you not?—What we paid for, I and Mr. Nobbs.

16,868. But there was some beer?—No, nothing of the kind.

16,869. Did you not see a sum of money put down for some beer?—Certainly not. I never saw any money put down at all.

16,870. Do you recollect how much the reckoning was for the beer you had together with Nobbs and others?—Only what we spent ourselves.

16,871. How much was it?—We paid pint and pint.

16,872. Who paid for it?—I and Nobbs; we did not go into no company.

16,873. Was there no one else there besides you and Nobbs?—Oh yes, we might happen to know another friend or two.

16,874. And they were drinking too, I suppose?—If they were drinking with us they paid their share.

16,875. Are you certain that nobody paid anything for you?—I am positive of it.

16,876. Where else did you go that day?—Then we went to Mr. King's, and had a couple of pints.

16,877. Where is that?—Up in the top of the market, Henry King's; we had two pints there, a pint each.

16,878. Did you go anywhere else after that?—Then, I believe, we went down into Bridge Street.

16,879. And had some more beer there?—Yes, what we paid for; we had a couple of pints; nobody treated us.

16,880. Did nobody treat you all the day?—I never went out of my house. I had not a drop of beer until I went to vote.

16,881. Have you been paid anything since for your vote?—Not a farthing.

16,882. Have you been offered anything?—Not a farthing.

16,883. Have you promised to give money to anybody else for voting?—No, sir. I never asked my own son to give a vote; my son voted for Mr. Tillett; he is outside; and I never asked him to go and vote for any one.

16,884. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you know the "Golden Dog" public house?—I do.

16,885. Do you also know Booth's public house?—I do.

16,886. Now, did not Keddington treat you with beer at those two public houses?—Certainly not.

16,887–8. At neither of them?—At neither of them.

16,889. Did Nobbs give any money for beer at either of those public houses to treat you?—No, not a farthing. I did not go out of my house until about 3 o'clock.

16,890. Did Keddington offer you any money?—Not a farthing; he came up about half-past 11, I think, but I cannot speak to the time, you will excuse me about that, and asked me if I would go and vote. I said, "What is the use of my going to vote? Mr. "Stracey is behind a long way, and I am not going "to lose my time about it; if Mr. Stracey gets "ahead Mr. Nobbs will come to me, and if he is only "two ahead I will go and vote directly;" and Mr. Keddington went away, and never offered me anything to drink or any money, or anything of the kind. I never offered him anything nor he to me.

16,891. When you found Sir Henry Stracey was ahead you went to assist him, although then it might be of no use to him?—Was not I of use? I went and helped him; I put on my things and went directly.

16,892. It is a very singular way of helping a man, but I suppose you think it is pleasant to vote on the winning side?—Well, sir, I went and voted for Mr. Stracey.

DANIEL KEDDINGTON sworn and examined.

D. Keddington.

16,893. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shoe manufacturer.

16,894. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Stracey.

16,895. At what hour in the day?—About five minutes past 8 in the morning.

16,896. Were you at No. 8 committee room during the day?—Yes, a lot of times.

16,897. Were you there about 3, or shortly after?—I was there about 3.

16,898. Did you see the elder Wiseman leave the committee room for some 10 minutes?—I believe I did.

16,899. Were you there when he returned?—Yes.

16,900. When he got back did he say anything to you or in your hearing?—He asked me had I got any voters hanging back for money.

16,901. What did you say?—I told him yes.

16,902. Did you tell him how many?—No, I could not tell him that.

16,903. Did you say how much you wanted for them?—No.

16,904. Did you say anything to him except "Yes"?—I said, yes, I had got voters, and they wanted money.

16,905. What did he do then?—He said, "How "many have you got?" I said, "Here is four in the "committee room now;" he said, "What do they "want?" I said, "I don't know what the four

FOURTEENTH DAY.

D. Keddington.

3 Sept. 1869.

"want; one wants 7*s.* 6*d.* to pay his expenses for "the day for coming out of the country."

16,906. And what did the others want?—I had not asked them then.

16,907. Did you subsequently ask them?—Yes.

16,908. What did they want?—5*s.* each.

16,909. Did you get any more besides those four?—After I went and voted.

16,910. We have got now four; one at 7*s.* 6*d.* and three at 5*s.* Did you get any more afterwards?—Yes.

16,911. Now, did Wiseman give you the money?—Yes.

16,912. How much did he give you?—A single sovereign and six half-sovereigns.

16,913. 4*l.* altogether?—Yes.

16,914. Was that at one time?—No.

16,915. In how many instalments?—The sovereign first; then I went and voted the man, and he had 7*s.* 6*d.* I did not vote the other three, because I had not sufficient money to pay them. Then I went to Mr. Wiseman, and after waiting two or three minutes he gave me six half-sovereigns.

16,916. Then you had 3*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.* left. How did you spend that?—After voters.

16,917. How many?—I could not tell you exactly, for I was getting rather forward in drink during the day. I went and voted these men, and then went to the "Skinners' Arms," in St. Martin's.

16,918. Who keeps that?—I cannot tell you that, for it was such a late hour in the day that I was pushing about.

16,919. How many did you get there?—Three there.

16,920. What did they cost?—I am not exactly certain, but one man I gave 12*s.* 6*d.* to, another 5*s.*, and I am not certain as to the exact amount of the other, whether I gave him 7*s.* 6*d.* or 5*s.*, or whether I gave him half a sovereign.

16,921. Take it as half a sovereign, that would leave 2*l.* 5*s.* Did you get any more for that?—Yes.

16,922. Where did you pick them up?—I met a man by the name of Fisher.

16,923. Is that William Fisher?—I don't know, but his name is Fisher, and he lives in St. Martin's; he is a stout man.

16,924. A man about 30 or 35?—I should think he would be a man of about 30 years of age.

16,925. Cannot you give me his Christian name?—No; I am not certain of his name being Fisher, but I think it is.

16,926. Would you know him if you saw him?—I should know him if I saw him.

16,927. What did you give him?—I did not give him anything.

16,928. Then how did you get him to vote?—He did not vote; he had another stout man with him then; it wanted about three minutes to 4, I think, when he asked me.

16,929. Did you give the stout man anything for voting?—No, I was doubtful about those two men, and I told them if they went up with me and voted I would give them half a sovereign after they had voted.

16,930. Did they go to the poll?—They went to the poll, and I had three other men besides them that I met prior to that as was coming forward, so I left them, and they were behind me.

16,931. You got four out of the committee room?—Yes.

16,932. Three out of the "Skinners' Arms"?—Yes.

16,933. Were there three more that you got?—Yes.

16,934. Where did you pick them up?—Against St. Martin's Church.

16,935. Then you got 10 altogether?—I believe there was about 10 or 12.

16,936. Besides those at St. Martin's Church, did you get any others?—No.

16,937. Can you give me their names?—No.

16,938. And the four in the committee room, cannot you manage that?—The only one that I can give you was Burrell. The others' names I do not know. I took them out of the committee room; they were waiting there.

16,939. Where does Burrell live?—In the eighth ward; he is a tall, dark man. I don't know him personally. I only know him from his coming to the committee room, saying he had come out of the country and wanted money to pay his expenses.

16,940. Now did you spend the whole of that money?—Yes; I found myself the next morning minus. I had spent money out of my own pocket besides that.

16,941. Did you pay any other men except those you have told us?—No.

16,942. Cannot you give us any of the names except Burrell's?—Yes, there was another man at the "Skinners' Arms;" his name was Moss.

16,943. Where does he live?—He lives in St. Augustine's. I believe he had voted before I gave him the 5*s.*

16,944. He did you?—He done me, sir.

16,945. But you tell me you would know the man that you call Fisher again if you were to see him?—I should know the Fisher that I told I would give him 10*s.* for the two men if they voted.

J. Nunn.

JOHN NUNN sworn and examined.

16,946. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

16,947. For whom did you vote?—Tillett and Russell.

16,948. At what time of the day?—About half-past 8 in the morning.

16,949. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

16,950. Were you promised anything for your vote?—No.

16,951. Were you offered anything for your vote?—No.

16,952. Did you see any persons paid anything for their votes?—No.

16,953. Have you ever been paid anything?—Never in my life.

16,954. Or promised anything?—Never in my life.

16,955. Do you know a man of the name of Money?—Yes.

16,956. Did he tell you anything which he had seen at Mackley's public house, the "Woolpack"?—Yes.

16,957. What did he tell you about it?—That I cannot tell, it was, as near as I can guess, about a fortnight before the petition inquiry took place.

16,958. In consequence of what he told you, did you take him up to Harper's?—I did.

16,959. Did you see Harper?—I did.

16,960. Did he tell you that there was bribery going on at Mackley's?—Yes.

16,961. And that Hardiment was the person who did it?—Yes.

16,962. Did he tell you were it took place?—Yes, on the landing on the top of the staircase.

16,963. Do you know of anybody having been bribed at this election besides what Money told you?—No, I cannot say that I know of anybody.

16,964. When you heard of it you at once took him up to Harper's, did you?—Yes.

16,965. Had you heard anything from Harper about bribery at Mackley's?—I don't know that I have heard it from Harper. I heard many persons talking about it in my shop, who I did not know.

16,966. How came you to take him up to Harper's?—I knew Mr. Harper was getting what evidence he could respecting it.

16,967. It was just before the election petition, and you knew he was collecting evidence?—Yes.

JAMES ECCLESTON sworn and examined.

FOURTEENTH DAY.
J. Eccleston.

16,968. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a publican?—Yes.

16,969. You keep the "Ribs of Beef"?—Yes.

16,970. Do you recollect people being at your place on the day of the election?—I was not at home.

16,971. What time did you come home?—I was not at home for a week after, and I was away a week before. I was over a fortnight that time away from home, the week before and the week after before I came home; I might say more than a week.

16,972. (Mr. Biron.) You know nothing about it?—I was not at home and know nothing about it.

16,973. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You did not vote at this election?—No sir.

FRANCIS CUTLOCK sworn and examined.

F. Cutlock.

16,974. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A bricklayer.

16,975. Did you vote at the last election?—I did not vote at all.

16,976. Did you get anything for abstaining from voting?—No.

16,977. Are you quite sure you did not vote?—Yes.

16,978. Were you canvassed for your vote?—Yes.

16,979. By whom?—By Mr. Tidd and several others, I cannot say who exactly; on both sides I was canvassed.

16,980. Did you promise either side?—I did not promise anyone.

16,981. How was it you did not vote?—Well, I did not think of voting at all.

16,982. Were you hanging out for money?—No.

16,983. You would have voted, I suppose, if anyone had given you half a sovereign for it?—I should at the latter part of the day; the fore part of the time I did not think of voting at all, for I was in the habit of working for different people and I thought it was best for me not, but after I had had a little beer I would have taken it.

16,984. Nobody came and offered you anything, so you did not vote?—Not first of all.

16,985. As I understand, you were all for purity until you got some beer on board, and then you were all for money?—Yes.

16,986. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you at Clarke's beerhouse?—I was.

16,987. Did anybody offer you any money there?—Yes.

16,988. Who was that?—Benfather.

16,989. Did you go into the bake office?—No.

16,990. Where did he offer you the money?—In the tap room.

16,991. What did he offer you?—5*s*.

16,992. To vote?—Yes.

16,993. And you refused it?—I did not vote.

16,994. But did you refuse it?—I was too late, sir.

16,995. You got the money, but were too late?—No, I did not get the money.

16,996. Because you were too late?—I suppose that was the reason.

16,997. You would have had it if you had been in time?—I think so.

16,998. He promised it you, did he, if you were in time?—If I was in time.

16,999. Did he tell you to go and vote, and if you voted to come for it to him?—No.

17,000. What did he say?—It was all done in a few minutes. I was to have 5*s*., but I was too late, and therefore I did not get any money at all.

17,001. (Mr. Biron.) Did Benfather offer anybody else money in your presence?—No, I cannot say that he did.

Adjourned to to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

FIFTEENTH DAY.

Saturday, 4th September 1869.

CHARLES EDWARD RIX sworn and examined.

FIFTEENTH DAY.
C. E. Rix.
4 Sept. 1869.

17,002. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A grocer.

17,003. In which ward are you?—The second ward.

17,004. Did you take an active part in this last election?—Rather.

17,005. Did you canvass voters?—I did.

17,006. On the day of the polling?—Yes.

17,007. Did you take up many?—I did not take up any to the poll; I simply canvassed.

17,008. Did you hand them over to other people to be taken up?—No, I simply left them. I canvassed them and got their replies whether they would consent to vote for my party, and then I left them. Some promised and some did not promise.

17,009. Did you canvass at any public house?—No; I did not canvass at any of the public houses.

17,010. Did you go into any of the public houses on the day of the poll?—I went into one public house.

17,011. What is the name of it?—The "Cirque Unique," St. Gregory's parish, in St. Benedict Street.

17,012. Was that full of voters?—There were some voters there.

17,013. Had you any communication with them?—Yes.

17,014. What took place?—The landlord of the house stood at the door, and as myself and two other gentlemen had been canvassing he solicited us to go in, saying that there were several voters there, and they wanted to speak to us. My friend, Mr. Kett, said, "It's no use going in. We have got nothing, and "they are hanging back for something, and we shall "not go in." "Oh, do go in," the reply was, "for "Sam Daynes is going to take them away if you "don't;" upon which we went in, and when we got in we found, perhaps, seven or eight in a little back room, and the landlord said to us, "Now, there are "three and twenty that you can have if you like." Mr. Kett said, "What use is it our coming in? Its of no "use, for we have nothing to give, nor do we intend "to give anything." He said to the men, "Of course "you know the position that we are placed in if we "do give anything; therefore we should not think of "doing anything of the sort." One of them, in reply, said, "We will take the responsibility of that;" and Mr. Kett said, "So you may, for I shall not give any-"thing;" upon which we walked out. We left the house then.

17,015. Did you go back to the house?—We did not.

17,016. Did Mr. Kett?—Mr. Kett did not go back.

FIFTEENTH DAY.

C. E. Rix.

4 Sept. 1869.

I think I may say he did not go back. He will tell you, because he took a more active part in it than I did.

17,017. Did you pay for any beer that day for voters?—Not a farthing.

17,018. Did you give a single sixpence to anybody to induce them to vote?—Not a single farthing.

17,019. You voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—I did.

17,020. Did you promise anybody anything that day?—I did not.

17,021. Did you afterwards pay anything for votes?—Nothing.

17,022. Did you ever ask Mr. Hulme for any money for the purposes of the election?—No, I did not, but there was a third one with us, Mr. Cott, the pawnbroker. Mr. Kett left us when we left the "Cirque Unique," and we went to the second ward committee room to speak to Mr. Hulme about these men who were there. We thought that perhaps he, being an old electioneerer, might induce them to come better than we could. So we called him and told him the circumstance that there were those men waiting at that time. I must tell you it was a quarter past 3 o'clock, and I suppose he took up the idea that we intended to give them some money, from the reply he made, which was, "It's no use coming to me, I have "not a farthing of money; you had better go to the "central committee room." "We don't mean that," we said, "we want you to induce them to vote."

17,023. That was a quarter past 3?—As near as I can tell.

17,024. His reply led you to believe that there was money going at the central committee room?—Oh dear no. He said, "You had better go to the "central committee room." That did not imply whether there was money or not, nor did we ask with the idea of having money. We thought he would either go himself or send someone to induce these voters to go to the poll. We were sure they were venal voters by the way they acted.

17,025. Have you the names of any of these 23 men?—I cannot remember. I should not know a person, only the landlord, Charles Andrews.

17,026. Charles Andrews was the man who offered to deal with the 23 men?—Yes.

17,027. He would bargain with them?—He was spokesman.

17,028. Did he tell you at all how much a head they wanted?—No; but I should think they would have been satisfied with a very little. They said, "We will be satisfied with anything; it is late, and "we are afraid of getting nothing." I should fancy a shilling each would have bought them.

17,029. Was any beer going amongst them?—I saw them drinking; whether they were paying for it themselves I cannot say. They were all drinking in the back room.

17,030. Do you know whether the beer was paid for by any of your party?—No, I should think not. They were buying that beer themselves, undoubtedly. They were waiting there to catch some one, I make no doubt

17,031. This was between 3 and 4?—I should think it was about a quarter past 3.

17,032. You went straight from there to the committee room?—I went straight from there to the committee room with Mr. Cott. Mr. Kett and myself and Mr. Cott were all actively employed in canvassing three days or two days preceding the election day, and on the election day till that time.

17,033. Had any promise during that time been made of wages, or of work, or of paying rates, or anything of that sort?—No, nothing. That was the continual complaint; they would not vote unless their rates were paid. We found that was the obstacle. We went into the Lower Westwick districts, the Hampshire Hog Lane, St. Swithin's Lane, and the low localities where people would be likely to ask for something.

17,034. Did Mr. Hulme say anything more about money except that he had none?—Nothing more.

17,035. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What time was this?—About a quarter past 3. Mr. Kett fancies it was a little later, but that is my belief.

17,036. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did Mr. Hulme suggest any individual to whom you should go?—Yes.

17,037. Who was that?—He told us we had better go and speak to Mr. Dawson, but we did not go.

17,038. You knew pretty well what that meant?—We had an idea, of course.

17,039. That money would be forthcoming if you went to Mr. Dawson?—I said, "We do not mean "that at all."

17,040. You understood that Mr. Hulme meant that?—Yes.

17,041. Do you know any of the Houghtons?—Yes; I know them by sight, but I don't know them to speak to.

17,042. Have you had any conversation with them before or during this election?—We had; they conducted us. I don't know which of the Houghtons it was, but one of them conducted us to these different voters; we did not know them. Mr. Kett, who is a very indefatigable man in the cause, came out of his ward to assist us. We were rather backward; we did not know the voters, and I being a new canvasser did not know how to proceed; so he offered us his assistance to go and show us where the voters were.

17,043. Do you know which of the Houghtons that was?—Mr. Kett could tell you. I don't know which it was. I only know it was one of the Houghtons, the short man.

17,044. Did he tell you anything about the voters that were to be bought?—No; he simply showed us where the voters were, and stood outside and let us go in in every case.

17,045. Did you see the Houghtons on the day of the polling?—Yes; that was the day of the polling.

17,046. At what hour?—It was in the forenoon.

17,047. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you know William Allen, of Upper Westwick Street?—No.

17,048. You took him to vote at about half-past 3, did you not?—Oh no, I did not.

17,049. Did you not take a man out of Westwick Street to vote?—No; I did not take anyone to vote.

17,050. Did you go to William Allen, of Upper Westwick Street, at about half-past 3?—I think his name is William Allen. He did live in Upper Westwick Street then. He does not live there now. I think I went and canvassed him. Oh, yes, I went several times during the day—I remember now—because he was undecided, and his wife was very anxious that he should vote, and she said to him, "You must go and vote."

17,051. Did he ask you for anything?—No, he did not ask me, nor had I an idea that he was waiting for money.

17,052. What was your idea as to the object of his waiting?—I could not tell; he was undecided. He said, "I don't think I shall vote at all." I knew quite well that he was not against us nor for us, but I was anxious to get him to vote to swell our numbers up.

17,053. Did not you know that he would not vote unless he was paid?—Certainly not. He did not say so to me or in my hearing.

17,054. Did a person of the name of Hudbud go with you to Allen's?—I saw Hudbud about there. I don't know that he did not go once. I am not prepared to swear that he did.

17,055. Did not he tell you that Allen said he would not vote unless he got money?—No.

17,056. Allen did come up to vote?—I was not aware till this moment that he did vote at all.

17,057. Are you sure that nothing was given to him?—Yes.

17,058. We are in a position in which we suspect everybody.—Unfortunately you are. I do not know of any cases of actual bribery, but I certainly have seen something that would bespeak that there was bribery.

17,059. Hudbud was a check clerk?—Yes.

17,060. Was he not sent for on purpose to go and fetch Allen?—That I am not aware of. I was in and out of the committee room the whole day. I scarcely spoke to Hudbud the whole of the day.

17,061. (Mr. Mansfield.) Is this the first election in which you have taken an active part?—I never took such an active part as in this election. I have voted before.

17,062. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You say you saw things which led you to suspect something?—Yes.

17,063. What was it?—I have a very good idea that I know one man who was bribed.

17,064. Who was that?—A man by the name of John Wickham.

17,065. Where does he live?—I think it is Upper Westwick Street. He keeps a furniture shop. I will tell you my reason for believing that. He was walking at about half-past three arm-in-arm with Mr. A. M. F. Morgan. I beckoned him. I said, "Come along with me, don't go with him; you'll "vote for the wrong man if you go with him." Upon which he made a struggle, and he said, "I "shall go along with Mr. Rix." I said, "Don't "you go with him," and there was a struggle. At last he got away from Mr. Morgan, and came with me as far as my shop. I found what he was up to. Mr. Kett can bear testimony to this fact; he was with me at the time. He said, "You don't sup- "pose I'm going to vote without anything. I must "have something to vote." I said, "You have mistaken "your man if you come to me for a bribe. I thought "you were going to vote like a man." However, after a little conversation of that sort he left us, and I found afterwards that he voted for the opposite party.

17,066. Did you see anything else which led you to suppose that there was bribery going on?—Nothing particular—nothing.

17,067. You say you saw Hulme a little after 3?—It was certainly after 3.

17,068. Was it as late as half-past 3?—I could not swear. I should rather think it was not half-past 3; but it was very near that time, between a quarter past and half-past three. I am certain it was past 3.

17,069. You say there was a reference by him to Dawson?—Yes.

17,070. Why did you not go to Dawson?—I knew what Hulme meant, and therefore I did not wish to go. I did not wish to daub my hands in anything that is wrong, and I am sure my friend Mr. Kett is quite against anything of the sort.

17,071–2. You know nothing, as I understand you, of any money having been paid to anybody to vote?—Certainly not.

17,073. Or of anything having been promised to anybody?—No, certainly not.

17,074. You know nothing that was done with reference to these men whom you say you found at the public house?—I know nothing that was done. I afterwards saw some of them after 4 o'clock, and I said, "Don't you repent you did not vote?" Some said, "Oh, but we did vote." I said, "Who did you "vote for?" and some said, "For Stracey." I said "I'm glad you showed yourselves like men, and went "and voted."

17,075. Did they say whether they had received anything?—Oh, no; they led me to believe that they had not received anything.

GEORGE GOODMAN sworn and examined.

G. Goodman.

17,076. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

17,077. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

17,078. At what hour in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

17,079. What did you get for voting?—A sovereign.

17,080. Who gave it you?—A man of the name of Hardiment.

17,081. Where did he give it you?—On the landing.

17,082. On the landing at Mackley's?—Yes.

17,083. Did you see any other men there?—Yes, I saw John Harper there.

17,084. Did you see Hardiment give any other men anything?—No, I came down directly to the bar.

17,085. Were any other men in the room or on the landing?—I think there were one or two men on the landing.

17,086. Can you give me their names?—No; several were there, Hudson and Bradbury.

17,087. Did you see him give Bradbury anything?—No, I came down into the bar directly.

17,088. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) How many were present?—Three or four men when I came down.

17,089. Had many more gone up and come down before you went up?—There might be 20 altogether upstairs.

17,090. (Mr. Biron.) What were you volunteering about Harper.—Mr. Harper came in and asked Mr. Mackley what all these men were standing about there for. He said, "They are voters who want to "be paid a day's work for their labour and loss of "time." He says, "Will you give me a quarter of "an hour?" He says, "What have I to do with "giving you a quarter of an hour?" He went away, and he was back under the time, and he came back like this here (illustrating). He said, "Now, "Mr. Mackley, you belong to us. Where are these "men. You see I have got the money now."

17,091. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Where were you at that time?—In the bar.

17,092. Had you been paid then?—Yes.

17,093. I thought you said just now that you went away directly to vote?—No, I had voted then.

17,094. You had voted?—Yes, and went back to the house again.

17,095. (Mr. Biron.) Had you been paid before he came in and asked for the quarter of an hour?—Yes.

17,096. How long before that?—I should say 10 minutes.

17,097. Had you voted before he came in?—Yes, before Mr. Harper came in; he came into the bar.

17,098. Before Harper came in at all?—Yes.

17,099. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What was it he said?—He said, "Now, Mr. Mackley, it's all right. I "have got the money now; where's the men?" He says, "Can I go through?" Mackley says, "I think "not." "Well," says he, "you've got Hardiment "there, then?" Says he, "I don't know; there's a "man there, I believe, but I have not seen him."

17,100. Was that all that passed?—Yes; at least Mr. Harper said, "Mackley, you have got Hardiment "there, and we have lost the election."

17,101. (Mr. Biron.) "And you are selling us;" was not that his phrase?—No, I never heard that word.

17,102. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did he say nothing about selling?—No, I did not hear that word. "You "have got Hardiment there, and we have lost the "election."

17,103. That is all that passed?—That is all that passed.

17,104. Mr. Harper then went out?—Mr. Harper then went out, got into his gig, and rode away.

17,105. (Mr. Biron.) Have you talked over with Bradbury what Harper said?—Bradbury was there and heard it.

17,106. Have you talked it over with Bradbury since?—No.

17,107. With Mackley?—Yes, this morning.

FIFTEENTH DAY.

G. Goodman.

4 Sept. 1869.

17,108. Have you not had any conversation with Bradbury about it?—No.

17,109. Not since it occurred ?—No.

17,110. Not at all ?—No, I never gave it a thought.

17,111. How came you to talk it over with Mackley this morning ?—From hearing of it yesterday.

17,112. Did you go to Mackley ?—No, I was in court here yesterday.

17,113. Where did you talk about it ?—At his own house we had some conversation upon it.

17,114. At his own house this morning ?—No, last evening.

17,115. Did you go to his house ?—Yes.

17,116. Who commenced the conversation ?—I work for these men. I do all the work for the family.

17,117. What are you ?—I am a bootmaker.

17,118. Did you recollect anything about this until you read Mackley's evidence yesterday ?—Of course I did.

17,119. Had you ever spoken to anybody about it ?—I had spoken to a man of the name of Gilmore.

17,120. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you supœnaed to attend before Mr. Baron Martin ?—Yes.

17,121. By whom ?—By Tillett's party, I suppose.

17,122. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did Mackley tell you that he had forgotten to mention that Harper said he had had money ?—No.

17,123. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did anybody send for you to Mackley's this morning ?—No.

17,124. Last night ?—No.

17,125. How came you to see Mackley ?—It is a house that I use in an evening to get my glass after I have done my work.

W. Fisher.

WILLIAM FISHER recalled and further examined.

17,126. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) We are quite satisfied that you used the expression that there was a "trick" you kept back. Now I ask you what trick that was ?—I promised Mr. Wilde on the Sunday morning that I would vote for Mr. Stracey, and I did so.

17,127. What is the trick ?—During the afternoon of the election I saw a man, and he promised to give me 5*s.*, and he never gave it me.

17,128. Who was the man ?—I don't know his name. I might know it if I were to hear it. He is a light thin-faced man.

17,129. Where was it that he promised it you ?—In St. George's, close to the polling place.

17,130. Was it Keddington ?—I believe that is the name. I ain't certain. That is a great deal like the name if that's not it.

17,131. What time in the day was that ?—It might be half-past 3.

17,132. Did you ever apply to him for the money ?—No; I saw him during the afternoon before that, and he was talking something about money; and I said I might as well have a little money as well as anyone else.

17,133. Had you heard that other people were having the money, then ?—I did not hear, though the money was talked about.

17,134. Where did you hear the money talked about ?—I heard it talked about in the street.

17,135. Can you tell me anyone who talked about it ?—No, I cannot say that I can. I heard it in a crowd. A crowd of people were talking about money going.

17,136. What time was it when you heard them talking ?—About 3 o'clock.

17,137. Whereabouts in the street was it that you heard anything about money going ?—I came into the market when I come down from St. Martin's, and I heard it spoken about in St. Martin's, I am certain about that.

17,138. Did you ever look after the man to get your 5*s.* ?—Yes, I looked after the man after I had been and voted, but he went away.

17,139. Have you ever got your 5*s.* ?—No, not one farthing.

17,140. Do you know of anybody else having been promised 5*s.* ?—No.

17,141. Are you sure of that ?—No, not any one else. There was no one went and voted along with me. I went straight and voted. There was a man of the name of Plummer, but he never went and voted.

17,142. Was he asking for money ?—No, he was not asking for money.

17,143. Was he one of those who wanted money, and did not ask for it, but stood about and said, "We "shall not vote until we get money" ?—I believe if this man had been offered money he might have took it, though he is not a very poor man.

17,144. Where does he live ?—In St. Martin's. He never voted at all, this man didn't.

17,145. You believe Keddington was the man who promised you ?—Yes.

17,146. Have you any doubt about it ?—I don't think I have any doubt about it. I never saw the man for years before this last election.

E. Colman.

ENOCH COLMAN sworn and examined.

17,147. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a voter ?—Yes.

17,148. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

17,149. At what time in the day ?—About 20 minutes to 4.

17,150. Where had you been the whole of the day ?—I did not go out, not till about half-past 12.

17,151. Where were you after half-past 12 ?—I went into Mr. Clarke's, the beerhouse in Jenkin's Lane.

17,152. Did you see a man of the name of Platfoot there ?—Yes.

17,153. Did you ask Platfoot if he had had anything ?—No.

17,154. Did you speak to Platfoot ?—I never spoke to him.

17,155. Did he speak to you ?—No.

17,156. What were you paid for your vote ?—I was paid 5*s.* for my vote.

17,157. Who paid you that ?—Mr. Benfather.

17,158. Was that in Clarke's beerhouse ?—I was taken from that house.

17,159. But where did he pay you ?—I was paid that in the street.

17,160. Did you see Benfather in Clarke's beerhouse ?—That is where he took me from.

17,161. You accompanied him, and he paid you 5*s.* in the street ?—Yes.

17,162. To vote ?—Yes.

17,163. And you went and voted ?—I went and voted.

17,164. At what time in the day was that ?—About 20 minutes to 4, as near as I can guess.

17,165. You were never a voter before, I suppose ?—No.

17,166. What did he say to you in Clarke's beerhouse ?—He asked me what I was there for, and I said I was going to vote, and he asked me what I was stopping for. I said I wanted to be paid for my day. He gave it me.

17,167. That was said in the beerhouse, and he paid you on the road ?—Yes.

17,168. Did you see him talking to other men there ?—No.

17,169. Was that when he was coming out ?—I don't know whether he was coming out then. He came out as soon as he spoke to me. I did not see him come in.

17,170. Did you see him go into the bake office?—No, I did not.

17,171. Were you in the tap-room, or where were you?—In the front; in the bar.

17,172. Did he come by the bar, or was he in the bar when he spoke to you?—He was in the bar at the time he spoke to me.

17,173. Did he come away with you then?—Yes.

17,174. Did you see whether he went back to Clarke's afterwards?—That I don't know.

17,175. Did you go back to Clarke's at all afterwards?—I was in the house again about 6 o'clock in the evening.

17,176. But you were not at the time the poll closed?—No. I was not back no more till the time the poll had closed.

17,177. Is this the first time you have spoken about getting the 5*s.*?—I believe it is. I don't remember saying so before.

17,178. (Mr. Mansfield.) Has anybody spoken to you about it till you came here?—No.

17,179. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you see Benfather speaking to other people there whose names you know?—I was the only man, but Mr. Thorpe was seated there.

17,180. William Clare Thorpe?—Yes. That is the only one I could tell you the name of.

CHARLES MORSE sworn and examined.

C. Morse.

17,181. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—I did.

17,182. At what time in the day?—About 3 o'clock.

17,183. You had been in Clarke's beerhouse, had you not?—I had.

17,184. What other people were there?—There was several people there when I was there.

17,185. Did you see Hardiment come there?—Not at the time I was there I did not.

17,186. Did you speak to Benfather that day?—Yes.

17,187. What did he give you for your vote?—Not anything.

17,188. Did he promise you anything?—Not anything.

17,189. Did he give you any beer?—No.

17,190. Was there any beer given that day at Clarke's beerhouse?—I cannot say that.

17,191. You saw a good many people there?—I did.

17,192. Voters?—Voters and other people besides.

17,193. You were all drinking together?—We were all drinking together.

17,194. You mean to say that you did not see Hardiment there on that day?—I did not see Mr. Hardiment there.

17,195. Did you see Benfather?—I did.

17,196. Did you see him pay any voters?—I never see him pay them.

17,197. Do you know whether he paid any voters?—No.

17,198. He did not pay you?—No.

17,199. Did he promise you anything?—No.

17,200. Has he paid you anything since?—No.

17,201. Have you never asked for anything?—I never asked for anything in my life.

17,202. You never asked for anything for your vote?—No.

17,203. (Mr. Biron.) Did you get a day's pay?—Not anything.

17,204. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you see young Wiseman there?—I saw him there in the morning.

17,205. What did you see him doing?—Nothing, but he asked people if they were going to vote.

17,206. Did you see him take any to vote?—No. I did not see him take any.

17,207. Were you in any other public house besides Clarke's beerhouse that day?—I did not go into any public house, not till after the election was over.

17,208. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) At what time in the morning did you go into Clarke's beerhouse?—I went in about 11.

17,209. Do you recollect Worledge coming there?—I saw Mr. Worledge there.

17,210. Did not you see him give tickets for beer?—Yes, I did.

17,211. And you drank the beer?—I don't know whether I drank the beer. I might drink some of it.

17,212. Did you not drink some of that beer?—I believe I did. I paid for some as well.

17,213. But you did not pay for that?—I did not pay for that Mr. Worledge give.

17,214. That was given to some non-voters in order that they might give it you?—It was given to the non-voters. It was not given to me.

17,215. It was given to them in order that you might drink some of it?—Well, I believe—

17,216. There were nine tickets given to three non-voters?—I cannot say how many non-voters there was there.

17,217. Were not the nine tickets given to three non-voters, and did not you all have the beer?—I believe beer was poured out.

17,218. Did not you understand that those tickets were given for your benefit as well as the benefit of the non-voters?—That I never heard in my life.

17,219. Was not that what you understood?—No, I did not.

17,220. Really, do you mean to stand here and give such an answer as that?—Well, sir, I never heard it.

17,221. Did not you perfectly understand that that beer was given for the purpose of treating you?—No. I can't say that I did.

17,222. Did not you understand it?—I drank some of it.

17,223. You saw Benfather there?—Yes.

17,224. What time in the afternoon did he come?—I should think it would be about half-past 2 or a quarter to 3. I should say between 2 and 3.

17,225. He talked to men about voting?—He asked me to vote.

17,226. Had you promised to vote?—I had.

17,227. Whom had you promised?—I had promised to vote for Mr. Stracey.

17,228. But to whom did you make that promise?—I made my promise to Mr. Benfather.

17,229. When did you make your promise to Benfather?—Before the election.

17,230. Had Benfather told you that you might have something for your vote?—No, he did not.

17,231. Where was it that you gave your promise to Benfather?—I promised him all along in his own house that I should vote for Mr. Stracey.

17,232. How came you not to have voted until 3 o'clock in the day?—Because I was at work off and on the whole day till I went and voted.

17,233. You told me you went to Clarke's beerhouse early in the morning?—Yes, I went in and got a glass of ale.

17,234. But you were there at 10 o'clock in the morning, and there you stopped drinking this beer which was given for the tickets?—I was not in Mr. Clarke's at 10 o'clock.

17,235. You told me you were there in the morning?—In the forenoon I called and had a glass of beer.

17,236. You were in when Worledge came. You remained drinking this beer, but yet you had not time to vote. Why did you not vote before?—I was at work.

17,237. No, you were in Clarke's beerhouse a portion of the time. Why could you not find time to vote if you had time to go to Clarke's beerhouse?—I was there only twice during the day. I run in about 11 o'clock. About half a pint of beer I drunk out of Hardiment's beer, Mr. Worledge's, or whatsoever you like.

FIFTEENTH DAY.

C. Morse.

4 Sept. 1869.

17,238. Why could you not go to vote?—I went over to my work. I was not in there above a quarter of an hour or 20 minutes.

17,239. There is plenty of time for you to vote in 20 minutes. Now then, did you not want money for your vote, for your day's pay, or wages?—Nothing.

17,240. Did you ask nobody for money?—No, not anyone.

17,241. Did nobody suggest money to you?—No.

17,242. You were there all the afternoon, were not you?—No. I was not.

17,243. What time did you go there that afternoon?—A little after a quarter past 2, after I got my dinner.

17,244. Did you remain there until you went to vote?—Yes, 3 o'clock.

17,245. Why did you remain there an hour, instead of going to vote, having promised your vote?—I did not think about voting.

17,246. Although you had promised your vote?—Yes. I didn't think anything about it.

17,247. Although you had promised your vote?—No. I thought my work was better than the vote.

17,248. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Stand down there and let them take you into custody. It is a gross contempt of court that you should exhibit yourself in that form.

T. Robins.

THOMAS ROBINS sworn and examined.

17,249. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A bricklayer.

17,250. Did Mr. Parker ask you for your vote?—Yes.

17,251. At what time in the day?—Between 2 and 3 o'clock.

17,252. What did he give you?—Mr. Parker did not give me anything.

17,253. Who did?—What I received was from Mr. Mitchell, the baker.

17,254. How much did you receive from him?—Half a crown.

17,255. What time in the day was that?—That was after I had voted.

17,256. You went up with Mr. Parker and voted, and then you went to Mr. Mitchell and got the half-crown?—No, I did not go up with Mr. Parker.

17,257. Who went with you?—Mr. Mitchell went with me to the poll.

17,258. Did you see anybody else get anything?—I never saw anybody get anything.

17,259. There was 5*s.* between you and somebody else; who got the other half-crown?—I suppose Mr. Mitchell.

17,260. Is he a journeyman baker?—Yes.

17,261. Do you know who gave Mitchell the money?—Mr. Freestone took us up.

17,262. Freestone gave it to Mitchell, and Mitchell gave you half of it?—Yes.

17,263. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you know Freestone?—Yes.

17,264. You went up in a cart, did you not?—Yes, in a cart to the poll.

17,265. Did you not see anybody else get any money?—No, I did not.

J. Newman.

JOHN NEWMAN sworn and examined.

17,266. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

17,267. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Russell and Tillett.

17,268. At what time in the day?—About 11 o'clock.

17,270. Or were you promised anything for your vote?—No.

17,271. Do you know of anybody having got anything for his vote?—No.

17,272. Or a promise of anything?—No.

17,273. Were you ever a voter before?—Yes, for many years.

17,274. Had you ever received any money for your vote before?—No.

17,275. Or had you ever been promised anything?—No.

17,276. Were you at the "Cherry Tree" on the day of the election?—I keep the "Cherry Tree."

17,277. Had you voters at your house that day?—There were a few people in my house that day.

17,278. Did Hardiment come to your house?—The day before the election, Hardiment, Wiseman, and Freestone, and the opposite party met at the same time.

17,279. They came to your house, did they?—Yes, canvassing.

17,280. Were there a number of voters in your house at that time?—No; there were one or two people there.

17,281. Did you hear them canvass those people?—Yes, they canvassed me.

17,282. Did Hardiment, or Freestone, or any one offer you any money on that occasion?—No. I told them I should not vote for that party, and I told the others straight forward that I should vote for Tillett and Russell.

17,283. Do you know of any men having offered money in your house?—No.

17,284. Did you see Hardiment in your house on the day of the election?—No, he did not come on the day of the election.

17,285. You know of no one being offered any money?—No.

J. Andrews.

JAMES ANDREWS sworn and examined.

17,286. (Mr. Mansfield.) You are a publican?—I was. I am not now.

17,287. At the time of the election you kept the "Two-necked Swan"?—Yes.

17,288. For whom did you vote?—For Stracey.

17,289. At what time in the day?—At half-past 8 in the morning.

17,290. Who asked you to vote?—I was not canvassed by anyone.

17,291. Did you promise your vote?—No.

17,292. Was your house used for a committee room?—No.

17,293. Not at any time before the election?—No, not at any time.

17,294. Were you employed about this election by Mr. Chittock?—No.

17,295. Or by Mr. Dawson?—No.

17,296. Were you not employed at all?—No.

17,297. Did you take any part in canvassing?—No, I did not canvass anybody.

17,298. Did you ask anybody for his vote?—On the day of the election I asked several.

17,299. And did you get them to vote?—Yes.

17,300. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

17,301. Did you offer them anything?—No, not anything.

17,302. Do you know of their having been offered anything?—No, I never heard of it.

17,303. Had any of the people who were canvassing been at your house about election matters before the election?—No.

17,304. Did any of them come to your house on the day of the polling?—I was at home very little during the election day. I might be at home between 12 and 1 for a short time.

17,305. Not after that?—Not till after the election was over.

17,306. You took some part in the election yourself, and were rather active?—Yes.

17,307. Did you not engage some people for Sir Henry Stracey?—No, a brother of mine did that.

17,308. Did they come to your house?—Yes, a lot of them did.

17,309. Do you know what they were engaged for?—To attend the meetings and to protect the people on the election day.

17,310. Do you know how many there were?—My brother had as many as 125 at one time.

17,311. Do you know who paid them?—Yes, they were paid at the central committee room.

17,312. Who paid them?—Mr. Dawson.

17,313. Do you know on what day those men were engaged; was it before the election, or on the day of the polling?—They were engaged several days before the election to attend the different meetings.

17,314. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) And they were engaged on the election day too?—Some of them were; anybody that came and wanted a job were set on; they were set on indiscriminately.

17,315. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you know the names of any of those men?—Yes, some few of them.

17,316. Can you dictate to anybody the names, so that they may be taken down?—Yes, I think I could remember a few of them.

17,317. Where does your brother live?—He lives with me in Bethel Street.

17,318. Where is he now?—He is at work now.

17,319. Is he in Norwich?—Yes.

17,320. Do you know any of the men who were hired by Inspector Clarke?—I do not. I believe that what he did he did upon his own responsibility.

17,321. Do you know anything about them?—No, I do not.

17,322. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you know under whose instructions your brother acted in engaging the men?—Mr. Dawson's.

17,323. Were you present when he gave him directions?—On some occasions I was.

17,324. He came to your place?—No, it was at the central committee room that the order was given.

17,325. How many men were you to have on the election day?—I am sure I could not remember the number, but I should think about 50.

17,326. Were there men with hats?—No, nothing of that sort.

17,327. (Mr Mansfield.) Were they voters?—No, or they said they were not voters; there was nobody engaged that was believed to be a voter.

17,328. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Those were the directions, were they?—Yes, not to give anybody a job that was a voter.

17,329. What was the bargain made with them a head?—They were to have 2*s.* and a pot of beer; they were engaged a day, and were paid at night, and if they were wanted another day they were set on.

17,330. (Mr. Biron.) Did you supply the beer?—Yes.

17,331. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) How many days were those men engaged?—I could not remember what quantity of meetings there were previous to the election, but I should say they might be engaged some five or six times previous to the election; sometimes there were not more than 20 or 25 engaged, and sometimes there were more.

17,332. There were never less than 20 or 25?—Yes, I think that once there were 12 engaged.

17,333. On what day were the 125 engaged?—That was for a meeting at St. Andrew's Hall.

17,334. Were they all paid 2*s.* a day and a pot of beer?—Yes.

17,335. And on the nomination day how many were engaged?—Not any. I believe there was an agreement made between the heads of the parties that there was not to be any, but I believe that Mr. Tillett's party broke from it and engaged them.

17,336. How many were engaged on the election day?—About 50 I should say.

17,337. They were all paid 2*s.* and a pot of beer?—Yes.

17,338. I suppose the beer was given at your house?—Some of it was.

17,339. Had they tickets for it?—Yes.

17,340. What houses were the tickets given for?—The "Two-necked Swan."

17,341. Were they all given for your house?—For all the men my brother set on; the beer tickets was spent at my house.

17,342. Were tickets also given for other houses?—I believe so, but that my brother had nothing to do with.

17,343. Do you know at what other houses beer was given to other men?—No, I do not.

17,344. (Mr. Biron.) What other men had the hiring of roughs besides your brother?—I do not know of any one.

17,345. There were some men you knew, Inspector Clarke's men, but from the central committee what other men were employed besides your brother?—I do not know of any.

17,346. You rather led us to infer that there were others by saying that all the men your brother employed brought their beer tickets to your house?—Yes, but I am not aware that there were any men employed by anybody else.

17,347. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you see anybody paid anything for their votes on the election day?—No, not one.

17,348. Or do you know of their having been promised anything?—No.

17,349. Neither on one side or the other?—On neither side.

EDWARD TRAXTON sworn and examined.

E. Traxton.

17,350. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A tailor.

17,351. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

17,352. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Stracey.

17,353. At what time in the day?—I think after 8, between 8 and 9 at any rate.

17,354. Later in the day did you get any money from anybody?—Yes.

17,355. From whom?—From Mr. Howse Allen.

17,356. How much did you get from him?—One pound.

17,357. What did you do with it?—A voter, a son of mine, came from Yarmouth, and I paid his expenses over from Yarmouth and everything necessary for him, and the remainder was spent in making a jollification on account of Sir Henry Stracey's return.

17,358. Who had the jollification?—I and my son and anybody else I could see.

17,359. Where was it?—At different places. I was at the "Compasses," for one place, and Sparkes', for another, and several places.

17,360. Did you see anybody else get anything for his vote?—No, I did not.

17,361. Did you receive anything for your vote?—I never did in my life.

17,362. Except that 1*l.*—That was not for myself.

17,363. It was for your son?—It was not all for my son, because I paid his railway fare and his expenses out of it.

17,364. Did you give anything to any voter?—No, I had none to give.

FIFTEENTH DAY.

E. Traxton.

4 Sept. 1869.

17,365. Or did you promise anything?—No, I could not promise anything if I had not anything to give.

17,366. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What is the return fare second-class from Yarmouth to Norwich?—Half a crown is what I gave him.

17,367. That would leave 17*s.* 6*d.* as the balance?—No; I gave him a little money to spend. I was not going to let my son, a young man, go about Norwich without money in his pocket.

17,368. How much did you give him?—1*s.* 6*d.* I thought that was quite sufficient, for he had his board and lodging while he was with me. I gave him his dinner, his supper, and his tea.

17,369. Had you any conversation with Mitchell in the "Horse Shoes"?—No, not in the "Horse Shoes."

17,370. What was the conversation that you had with him?—I think it was somewhere about half-past 3 that I went home and got my dinner, and I thought that we had lost the concern, and I was delighted when I came out and saw him, and he said, "Traxton, "there is money going on." I knew nothing of it, and had never thought of it, but I thought that if so, I might as well have the young man's expenses.

17,371. Directly you heard of it you were down upon them?—Exactly.

J. W. Taylor.

JAMES WILLIAM TAYLOR sworn and examined.

17,372. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) In which ward do you reside?—The first ward.

17,373. Were you in and out of the committee room of the seventh ward on the day of the election?—No.

17,374. Were you not in the committee room of the seventh ward on the day of the election at all?—Not that I remember; I went past it just as the poll closed. I do not remember going into the room.

17,375. Were you not in the committee room with Sir Henry Stracey on the day of the election?—Certainly not. I was not in any room with Sir Henry Stracey during the day.

17,376. You voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—I did.

17,377. What time in the day?—Early in the morning, before 9 o'clock, or about that time.

17,378. Have you a gig?—Yes.

17,379. Did you drive out in a gig that day?—I did.

17,380. Did you go to the house of a person of the name of Allen?—Yes.

17,381. Did you go to Allen's house in your gig?—I did.

17,382. Was anybody with you?—Yes.

17,383. Who?—A man by the name of Huggins.

17,384. Did you ask Allen to vote?—I did not.

17,385. Did you speak to him about his vote?—I did not.

17,386. Did Huggins?—He went and spoke to some one in another room, but I never saw Allen till the inquiry, when he was pointed out to me. Had I seen him on the day of the election I should have been sure to have known him again.

17,387. What time was it when you went down to Allen's?—In the afternoon, about half-past 2 or 3 o'clock, as far as I can remember.

17,388. Do you swear that you never saw Allen?—I did not on the day of the election.

17,389. And you had no conversation with him?—I could not, as I did not see the man.

17,390. Did Huggins go into Allen's house?—He did.

17,391. Did you go into Allen's house?—I did; in one room; the tap-room I should call it.

17,392. Allen was at home, was he not?—I should say he was.

17,393. You had gone to the house, I suppose, to see him, had you not?—No; I went to drive Huggins, nothing else. Huggins asked me if I would drive him to Allen's, of the "Evening Gun," and I said, "Yes; "jump in."

17,394. He went to see Allen?—No doubt of it. I should say so decidedly.

17,395. Did you see where Huggins went?—It appeared to me that he went into a room at the back of the shop. They keep a little shop as well as a public house.

17,396. How long did he remain away from you?—I should say seven or eight minutes. I do not know that it was so long.

17,397. Did he then come back?—He came back.

17,398. Did he tell you that he had offered Allen half-a-sovereign for his vote?—He told me the moment he came out, "I will not wait any longer; it is no "use; he wants a sovereign and I will not give it."

17,399. Did he say to you that he had gone up as high as half-a-sovereign, and that the man had refused it?—I do not know that he said that. I know he told me that the man wanted a sovereign.

17,400. When you went to Allen's house did you go from the committee room?—No.

17,401. Where did you go from then?—From Tombland.

17,402. Is that Huggins' place?—He resides in Bishop Street.

17,403. Is that close by?—Yes.

17,404. Then it was near Huggins' house that you took him from?—It was further from Huggins' house. I passed Huggins' house. I drove him past his own house to the "Evening Gun."

17,405. Do you know where Huggins was coming from when you picked him up?—I do not.

17,406. Was he walking in the street when you met him?—Yes.

17,407. Do you know a person of the name of William Bloom, of Pig Lane?—Yes, I saw him after the election; after he had voted, I should say.

17,408. You saw him on the election day?—I did.

17,409. Did you not see him near a public house called the "Cock and Pie"?—I think it was there. I think it was on the Quay side that I saw him, in the afternoon.

17,410. That was before the close of the poll, was it not?—Well, I believe it was. I should say it was between 3 and 4.

17,411. I will call your attention to a thing that will put it beyond doubt. You took him up to vote, did you not?—No.

17,412. Did he not go with you from the "Cock and Pie" towards the poll?—No; he had voted hours before.

17,413. Did he not go with you along the street?—I should say not.

17,414. Will you swear he did not?—I will swear that I never saw him till the afternoon.

17,415. Did you walk with him along the street near the "Cock and Pie"?—No.

17,416. You spoke to him?—I did not know the man. If I ever spoke to him it was unbeknown to me.

17,417. How came you to know anything about Bloom?—At the time of the inquiry I heard of him. I never heard of Bloom till that time. I never spoke to the man.

17,418. You have spoken to him since, have you not?—No, I have not.

17,419. Have you sent to him?—I have not.

17,420. Have you had any communication with him?—In no way whatever.

17,421. Do you say that you did not speak to Bloom at all on the day of the election?—Only at the "Cock and Pie;" but I did not know his name.

17,422. Now you know his name, I ask did you not speak to him?—Very likely I did.

17,423. Have you any doubt about it?—I have a doubt, for I have a doubt who was there.

17,424. You know you did speak to a man, and now you know that that man was Bloom?—Yes.

17,425. Bloom received 10*s.* for his vote, did he not?—Not from me.

17,426. Did you ever promise him anything?—Never; the man never asked me for anything in his life.

17,427. He may not have asked you for anything, but what did you say when you spoke to him?—I do not know that I said more to him than anybody else. I never asked him to vote. I do not know that I breathed anything more to him than anyone else.

17,428. But you may have offered money to many people you know?—I did not offer it to anybody.

17,429. Did you not speak to him about voting?—He had voted long before.

17,430. What did you say to him when you did speak to him?—I never offered the man money in my life. I never breathed anything about money to him in any shape or form.

17,431. What did you say to him when you did speak to him?—I believe I asked him if he had voted, and he said "Yes."

17,432. Was that all?—It was all.

17,433. You swear that, do you?—I have sworn it, and I will swear it again if you wish me to do so.

17,434. Do you know Henry Townsend, of Pig Lane?—I do.

17,435. Did you offer him any money?—Certainly not; not a shilling, not a penny.

17,436. Did you see two other men on the Quay side that afternoon?—I never spoke to anyone to the best of my knowledge, more than I had a glass of ale and went on.

17,437. Did you not take up two men from the Quay side to vote that afternoon?—I took one up.

17,438. Who was he?—I do not know; but he did not go to vote. I took up a man in the gig when I went from the Quay side.

17,439. What did you take him up for if he was not going to vote?—He told me he knew where there was a voter if I would drive for him, and if I would not he said he would not be in time.

17,440. What was the name of the voter to whom the man asked you to drive?—I never asked him, for when we got there the man was gone out and we could not find him.

17,441. Were you asking that man to go and vote?—Certainly not; I believe the man had voted, if he was a voter.

17,442. How was it that he came to ask you to drive him up in your gig?—Simply that he would tell me where there was a voter.

17,443. Were you asking him after voters?—No, he voluntarily told me this.

17,444. Do you mean to represent that the man called to you in the street and said, "I know where a "voter is, will you give me a ride and I will fetch "him?"—He did not call me in the street, because my gig was standing there, and I said, "Jump in."

17,445. He came up to you and told you this, did he?—Yes.

17,446. How came a man whom you did not know before to come up to you and ask you to take him in your gig to get a voter, about whom you knew nothing?—There are so many know me and I don't know them, and they would naturally ask me.

17,447. Then you were taking a very active part in the election?—I was. I would have carried any voter, whether I knew him or not, to vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

17,448. Do you know a man of the name of Cotton, in Goodman's Yard?—Yes.

17,449. Had he told you that he would not vote unless he got some money?—He had; he wanted some money for his day's work.

17,450. You took him up to the poll, did you not?—No, decidedly not; I never saw him after, I should think, 9 or 10 o'clock in the morning. I never took him to the poll.

17,451. He asked you for a day's work?—This was before the election.

17,452. Did you see him on the day of the election?—I did, I just met with him; I have just told you so.

17,453. Did you say anything to him about his day's work?—No, I asked him to vote; he wanted something for it, and I said I had nothing to give.

17,454. You wished him to vote, and you knew that he wanted a day's work, therefore you knew that there was only one way of getting him to vote?—I had nothing more to do with him; I never gave him a farthing, and don't know that the man had any.

17,455. He said some days before that he wanted a day's work, and yet you went and saw him on the day of the election; do I understand that?—Yes, on the morning of the election.

17,456. When the man had told you that he wanted a day's work, if you were not prepared to pay it, how came you to go to the man on the morning of the election?—I did not go to him, I saw him against the polling booth with many others; I never went to him.

17,457–8. Now will you undertake to say that you did not give or promise him anything whatever for the day's work, or anything of the kind?—I did not.

17,459. No money of any sort?—No money of any sort, neither then, or after, or before.

17,460. Do you know a man of the name of Walter Berwick?—No.

17,461. Do you know a man of the name of Flowers?—I know Flowers.

17,462. Did you not take a man from the "Cock and Pie" to vote?—I did not, to the best of my knowledge. I don't think I did.

17,463. Did not Flowers go with you to a man at the "Cock and Pie," and ask him to vote?—I never saw Flowers all day.

17,464. Will you swear that?—I will swear it; I never saw Flowers all day.

17,465. Have you a son?—I have.

17,466. Is he a voter?—He is a voter.

17,467. Was he active on the day of the election?—I believe he was, he done a little, no doubt; he was active, he is a warm supporter of the party, but I cannot say what my son did. I know nothing about my son, I know what I did.

17,468. Now do you know of a breakfast provided on the day of the election at the "Cock and Pie"?—Certainly not, nor yet anywhere else.

17,469. Do you know Pearson, of World's End Lane?—I do.

17,470. Did you give or promise to give him anything?—I did not give him anything.

17,471. Have you paid anything to any man to vote at the last election?—I have not.

17,472. Have you promised any man anything to vote at the last election?—I have not given a voter anything since.

17,473. Have you promised a voter anything for voting or to vote at the last election?—There is one circumstance that I will give you by-and-bye.

17,474. Now will you tell me that circumstance?—Yes, if you ask me for it. I had some money of Dr. Allen, and I passed that over to a man of the name of Carman, who unfortunately is dead, and not able to speak for himself, which is rather unfortunate for me; it was 4*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*

17,475. There is great mortality attaching to those people who have received money?—Very likely there is, but I would have saved his life if I could.

17,476. Did you pass that money over to the man for the purpose of paying for votes?—I passed it over to him. I never asked him what he was going to do with it; I told him he might go as far as 5*l.*

17,477. What did you mean by telling him that?—For the purpose of bringing up voters; there is no doubt about that.

17,478. Where did that man live?—In the parish of St. James.

17,479. When did he die?—He has been dead about three months, I think; over two months.

17,480. Was anybody present when you gave that

FIFTEENTH DAY.

J. W. Taylor.

4 Sept. 1869.

money to that man?—There was not; it was in my own counting-house, and there was no one present.

17,481-4. Where did you get it?—I took it of him on Tombland; he was out of his house.

17,485. What time in the day?—Oh, this was three or four days after the election.

17,486. Then it was to pay voters who had been bribed?—I passed it over to this party, and I have no doubt that is what it was for.

17,487. Had you employed that man to get up voters?—I had not.

17,488. Then why were you selected to pay that over to the man?—I was selected by Dr. Allen.

17,489. But Dr. Allen was about the city, and could have paid the men himself?—Oh, but he did not.

17,490. If you had not employed the man to get up voters, how was it that Dr. Allen gave his money to you?—Well, he might as well have given it to the other party; but Dr. Allen did not know who had got the claim on it.

17,491. At what time in the day did you authorise that man to do it?—I think it was 1 or 2 o'clock, from 12 to 2, I should think, but I was very busy on the day of the election and cannot say.

17,492. Did you see what he did?—No, I was in quite another part.

17,493. Did he report to you what he did?—He told me what he had spent.

17,494. What had he spent?—4l. 2s. 6d.

17,495. How many voters had he bought?—That I do not know, I never asked him.

17,496. Did he not tell you how many he had got for the money?—No, I never asked him; he would have given me a list, but I said I did not want that.

17,497. You thought it more convenient to be without the list?—Well, I never hold them and I never did; I don't think it is well to hold them.

17,498. Then it was in consequence of what Dr. Allen said to you that you gave that direction?—Yes.

17,499. Did you give that direction to anybody else?—I did not.

17,500. What did Dr. Allen say to you?—He said that he would go as far as 5l., but I believe this was before 12 o'clock when I saw Dr. Allen, or it might be between 12 and 1, but I never saw the man only once all the day, not to speak to him.

17,501. In which ward did this man live?—The first ward.

17,502. Do you know where he operated?—No, I do not; I never saw him after that time, therefore I cannot tell you.

17,503. Do you know of anyone besides that man having been employed in any way to pay voters for their votes?—No.

17,504. Do you know of any other money having been provided for the purpose of paying voters either before, on, or after the election day?—Not one shilling.

17,505. Did you ever promise anything to anybody except that 5l., for the purpose of getting up voters?—No.

17,506. Had you no knowledge of anything of the kind beyond that?—I had not.

17,507. How much exactly was it that you received from Dr. Allen?—4l. 2s. 6d.

17,508. Was the man who died a voter?—Yes.

R. Eccleston.

REBECCA ECCLESTON sworn and examined.

17,509. (Mr. Mansfield.) I think that your husband keeps the "Ribs of Beef"?—Yes.

17,510. Was he away on the day of the election?—Yes.

17,511. The whole day?—Yes; he was away more than a week before and more than a week after; he was at work for the Borough Cement Works.

17,512. Then you were looking after the house on the day of the polling?—Yes.

17,513. Can you tell me the people that were there on that day?—No, that I could not.

17,514. You had a good many people in the house all day?—There were several people there.

17,515. And a good deal of beer going?—I don't know whether it was a good deal, there was some got, of course.

17,516. You served a great deal, did you not?—Not a very great deal.

17,517. Do you recollect Jonathan Flowers coming in?—Yes.

17,518. He ordered beer, did he not?—Well, sir, he ordered some, but he did not order so very much.

17,519. How much?—I should think about three or four shillings worth; there was a little bill standing to Mr. Flowers, and he owed me enough to make it up to about 10*s.*, so I think he had about three or four shillings worth that day.

17,520. That would be two or three gallons of ale, would it?—Yes.

17,521. I suppose all the people shared it amongst them?—Of course they did, what was there. There was some people paid for beer, of course, as well as Mr. Flowers.

17,522. Do you recollect Dr. Allen coming to your place?—Yes, quite well.

17,523. I think he and Flowers went into a room together, did they not?—No sir, that they did not, and they did not meet there together.

17,524. Do you mean to say they were not in the house at the same time?—No, not both of them at once; I do not remember that they were. I never saw Mr. Allen only once.

17,525. Are you certain that they were not there together?—I don't think they were.

17,526. Is there not a kitchen in your place?—Yes.

17,527. Did not Dr. Allen go in there?—No, never in his life.

17,528. Did Jonathan Flowers go in there?—Not that day, I don't remember him at all.

17,529. Do you recollect, after Dr. Allen and Flowers had been at your place, people going off to vote?—I cannot say where they went.

17,530. They went outside?—Of course one or another did.

17,531. After they had spoken to Flowers and to Allen?—Yes, but I cannot say where they went; there was no one to attend to the house, and our cellar is quite out of the way; I have to go backwards and forwards, and cannot tell what is done.

17,532. Don't you know that after Allen and Flowers had been in your house the voters went away?—Several of them went away, but my house was not clear all the day.

17,533. But you know that several went away after they had spoken to these gentlemen?—I could not say; there was some went out, of course, but I don't know whether they went away with them.

17,534. Was Bond in the house?—Yes.

17,535. Was he standing treat to the men?—No sir, Mr. Bond paid for some beer, and he bought half-a-quartern of rum for his own self, and paid for it his own self, that he did.

17,536. He is dead since, is he not?—Yes, he is dead, but he did do that, sir.

17,537. Was Robert Adams there?—I don't know.

17,538. Don't you know him?—No, not that I know of. I might know him by sight, but I don't know him by name.

17,539. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were some people treated with beer in your house?—Yes, there was.

17,540. Did anybody else besides Flowers spend any money there that day in treating the people?—Not that I remember, except that Mr. Allen called for one quart of ale, but he did not treat the people with it, he drank it himself; that is all the money I saw of Mr. Allen's in my life. He called for a quart of ale and took a mug and drank it his own self, and returned the mug to me; that is all I ever saw of Mr. Allen, and that is all the money I ever saw of Mr. Allen's in my life; he never treated the people, Mr. Allen did not.

17,541. He never gave you money to treat them?—No, and he never treated the people in my house neither.

17,542. Nobody else paid any money?—Well, yes sir, I took some off of old Mr. Bond, but he only treated himself, the same as other people.

17,543. Did anybody else pay for anything for other people to drink?—No, and there was not much paid at all, they paid for their own drink.

AMBROSE ANDREWS sworn and examined.

A. Andrews.

17,544. (Mr. Biron.) Were you employed to get some roughs together for the meetings?—I was.

17,545. To attend Stracey's meeting?—I was.

17,546. How long before the election did you hire the first lot?—About three weeks, I should reckon.

17,547. Who gave you instructions to hire them?—Mr. Dawson.

17,548. What did he tell you to do?—I was to keep order at the meetings, sir, that was all.

17,549. But he told you to get some men, did he not?—I had the order for the men.

17,550. What order was that?—I had an order for 100 men in St. Andrew's Hall, and I had over 100.

17,551. The first time?—Yes; that was in St. Andrew's Hall, I think.

17,552. 125 was it not?—Yes.

17,553. Did he tell you you might pay them 2*s.* and a pot of beer for the day's work?—Yes.

17,554. And the beer to be supplied by your brother?—Yes.

17,555. When was the next lot hired?—That was on Orford Hill.

17,556. How many did you have then?—I had 20 then.

17,557. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) At the same pay throughout?—Yes.

17,558. (Mr. Biron.) How often did you hire them?—That I cannot tell.

17,559. When was the third time?—That was on the election day.

17,560. How many did you have then?—Half a hundred then.

17,561. Did you not have them on any other occasion?—I am sure I don't know now.

17,562. You had them oftener than three times I think?—I think we might, but I don't know now.

17,563. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Your brother has said that you had them four or five times?—I cannot say whether I had or not.

17,564. (Mr. Biron.) Who gave you the money to pay them?—Dawson.

17,565. At the central committee room?—Yes.

17,566. Do you know of anybody else who was employed by Dawson to get men?—No.

17,567. Have you the names of the men?—No, I don't know the names of them.

17,568. Do you know who they were?—No, I don't know.

17,569. How many were voters?—Not any.

17,570. How do you know that?—I asked them that.

17,571. You only know from what they told you?—That is all.

17,572. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Can you give me their names?—No, I don't know any of their names.

17,573. (Mr. Mansfield.) None of them?—I might know three.

17,574. (Mr. Biron.) Three out of 125; I should think you might know more than that?—It is a long while ago, and I am sure I did not know the whole of their names.

17,575. What did you get?—Half-a-sovereign.

17,576. Half-a-sovereign for each time?—Each time I had the order that is what I got.

17,577. Are you a voter?—No.

17,578. What did your brother get?—That I don't know.

17,579. Did not you pay him anything?—No, I did not.

17,580. Did not Dawson pay him anything, except for supplying the beer?—That is all.

17,581. Did Dawson pay you, and did you pay the men?—I did.

HENRY TOWNSHEND sworn and examined.

H. Townshend.

17,582. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a voter?—I voted on the last election.

17,583. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

17,584. What time in the day?—Somewhere about 3 o'clock.

17,585. You got some money?—I had some money.

17,586. What money did you get?—I had 3*l.* given to me by Mr. Furse.

17,587. What time in the day did he give you that?—Just after 3 o'clock.

17,588. Was that to get up voters?—Yes.

17,589. You had not voted yourself at that time?—Not just at that time.

17,590. But you voted directly afterwards?—I did.

17,591. Have you a list of the men you got up?—Yes; Bygrave, Berwick, Thompson, Smith, Freeman, Lambert, and Barker.

17,592. Have you put opposite to their names their addresses?—No.

17,593. Then perhaps you will do so presently, and hand the list in?—Yes.

17,594. What did you pay these men?—Bygrave I gave 10*s.* to, Berwick I gave 10*s.* to, Lambert I gave 10*s.*, to Freeman, 10*s.*, Smith, 10*s.*, Thompson, 7*s.* 6*d.*, and Barker, 3*s.*

17,595. Did you receive any other money that day?—Yes.

17,596. What other money?—I received 7*s.* 6*d.* from Mr. Mitchell.

17,597. What Mr. Mitchell is that?—The baker, in Palace Street.

17,598. How came you to get that 7*s.* 6*d.* from him?—That was very near 4 o'clock; that was for the man Thompson, he voted in the seventh ward. I had no money of my own then, and I went to Mr. Mitchell and asked him about this man, it was against the "Waggon and Horses," and Mr. Mitchell gave me three half-crowns to pay him.

17,599. You told Mitchell what you wanted it for?—Yes.

17,600–1. And he gave it to you?—Yes, we were all working together.

17,602. In what public house was that?—Not in a public house at all, in the street.

17,603. Do you mean Thompson, of Church Lane?—No.

17,604. Where does he live?—He lives at the "Black Boy," in Pockthorpe, I believe.

17,605. Did you pay anybody else money for voting?—I believe there is one man, whose name I cannot recollect, which would make the money come perfectly right which I received; he belonged to the seventh ward, and he went along with a man of the name of Lambert, but it was done in such a hurry that I forget his name.

17,606. Do you know whereabouts Lambert resides?

FIFTEENTH DAY.

H. Townshend.

4 Sept. 1869.

—He is a hawker, but he resides somewhere in St. James'.

17,607. I ask you whether you paid anyone any more money, either before, at the time of, or after the election?—No.

17,608. Did you promise anybody else any money?—No.

17,609. Either before, on, or after the day of the election?—No.

17,610. Do you know of anybody else being paid or promised anything?—I don't know of anyone else, but I know there was one of the young Tilletts round the Quay side very active the night before the election.

17,611. Did you hear him say or do anything?—No sir, but he canvassed a man that lives next door but one to me, but the man was not at home, and he very much pressed the woman.

17,612. Will you give me his name, please?—Clarke.

17,613. On the Quay side?—In Pig Lane, close by the Quay side.

17,614. Now tell us what you have heard about him.—I heard that he canvassed him the night before the election; the man was not at home, and he very much pressed the woman to make her husband vote for his father, Mr. Tillett. He took a fancy to a little dog the man keeps, and wanted to know whether the man would sell the dog, provided he was at home; but the wife said "No, I don't know that he would," and he said he would call again. Whether he called again I have not heard, but he said, "I should like to "have the dog, and I hope he will vote for my father "to-morrow."

17,615. Has he had the dog yet?—No.

17,616. Which young Mr. Tillett was that?—I don't know his Christian name, but I think they call him "Very well" Tillett.

17,617. Did anyone that you know pay for any beer for men who were voters on the day of the election?—I paid for a little myself.

17,618. What did you pay?—I cannot say exactly to a shilling or two, but it was very near a sovereign altogether.

17,619. Where did you pay that?—In different houses.

17,620. Will you give me the names of the houses?—I paid a goodish bit at the "Horse Shoes."

17,621. Where else?—I paid some down at the "Cupid and Bow," and at a house down in Bishop Street.

17,622. Who keeps that house?—That I cannot say.

17,623. Was that for voters who were at the houses?—We were then trying to get voters up.

17,624. And did you succeed, by those means, in getting some voters up?—We took a great number up that day.

17,625. Can you tell me their names?—I cannot; they were perfect strangers to me; they said they were voters.

17,626. Did you find that you could, by giving them a little beer, persuade them to vote?—Oh yes, very easily.

17,627. How many do you think there were in the whole?—I took up a great number that day; I cannot say exactly how many, but I took up a great number.

17,628. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who has repaid you that 1*l.* spent in beer?—That was lent to me by Mr. Warner, at the "Horse Shoes," and he got 4*l.* for it.

17,629. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Who gave him 4*l.* for it?—Dr. Allen; he went and charged Dr. Allen 4*l.* for 1*l.*

17,630. What time in the day did you get that?—In the forenoon.

17,631. About what time?—About 11 o'clock, as near as I can say; I was very anxious, doing all I could, and I cannot say exactly the time.

17,632. (Mr. Biron.) You are quite a disinterested politician; you did not keep any of the money for yourself?—I did not, sir, I can give a very good account of what I did.

17,633. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you pay for any more beer afterwards?—No.

17,634. Do you know of anyone else having paid for beer?—Not to the best of my knowledge, only as I have read by report.

17,635. You can tell the houses at which you gave the money for beer?—Yes.

17,636. Three of them?—Yes.

17,637. Any more?—No, I think not. I might get some. I believe I went to the "Trumpet," but I did not spend anything there.

E. Burrows.

EDWARD BURROWS sworn and examined.

17,638. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

17,639. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

17,640. At what hour of the day?—About a quarter to two.

17,641. Who had asked you to vote?—No one at all.

17,642. Have you received anything for your vote?—Nothing at all.

17,643. Were you promised anything?—Nothing at all.

17,644. Have you had anything since?—Nothing at all.

17,645. Has any money passed through your hands for anyone else?—Not a farthing.

17,646. Did anybody treat you with beer?—Not a farthing. I have never had a drop of drink or anything of the sort from anybody.

17,647. Was this the first time you voted?—No.

17,648. Which side have you voted before?—I voted for Mr. Waters before.

17,649. And before that?—I never voted before that.

17,650. Did you never receive anything on former elections?—Not a farthing.

17,651. Or any promise of anything?—Not a farthing. I never received anything, and never was asked before.

W. Barber.

WILLIAM BARBER sworn and examined.

17,652. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—An egg and butter merchant.

17,653. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Stracey.

17,654. What time in the day?—It was about half-past two.

17,655. Why did you not vote sooner than that?—Because I was very busy at work. I had a contract for washing the barrack stores and all the bedding; and I had some sent down to me that I was obliged to wash in the forenoon, and get in again as soon as I could.

17,656. Did you get anything for voting?—Not a halfpenny.

17,657. Were you promised anything?—Not a farthing. I never was promised by any man. Mr. Stracey and Mr. Hardiment canvassed me three or four days before the election. I promised my vote then, and I voted conscientiously.

17,658. Did you give or promise anyone anything for having voted?—I never asked a man to vote neither way.

17,659. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What are you rated at?—I have two hires; one a large loft, where I do my business, and a dwelling-house. My house is about 5*l.* a year, and the loft is 4*l.*

JONATHAN CATCHPOLE sworn and examined.

17,660. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

17,661. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

17,662. What time in the day?—About 2.

17,663. Where were you all the morning?—At work.

17,664. Where?—At my house, in St. Martin's.

17,665. For whom did you vote?—Mr. Stracey.

17,666. Did anyone fetch you to vote?—No.

17,667. Had you been canvassed before?—Yes, by both parties.

17,668. Had you promised your vote?—No, not to anyone.

17,669. What made you make up your mind at 2 o'clock in the day to vote for Stracey?—I had made up my mind the first thing in the morning, only I could not go and vote before.

17,670. Who had been to you in the morning?—No one.

17,671. Had you no promise of money?—No, not any.

17,672. Or promise of work?—No, not any.

17,673. Had you any promise of your rates being paid?—Not any. I paid them myself.

17,674. Have you never received any money?—Not a farthing.

17,675. Or been promised any money?—Not a farthing.

17,676. Did anyone come to you that day about your vote?—Not anyone.

17,677. Did you go up of your own accord?—Yes.

17,678. Were you at any public houses that day?—Not until after I had voted.

17,679. What public houses did you go to then?—I went into several public houses in the market place. I don't think I went into a public house until I got into the market place. I think the "Oxford" was the first public house I went into.

17,680. Did you see anybody at the "Horse Shoes" who gave you anything?—No; I did not go that way; I was not that way that day.

17,681. Do you mean to say you did not see anyone who promised you anything?—No; I never was at that public house.

17,682. But did you not see anyone that day who promised or gave you anything?—Nothing. I never saw anyone that day before I voted.

17,683. Or any other day?—No, nor yet any other day.

17,684. (Mr. Biron.) Or after you voted?—No, nor yet after I voted.

17,685. Did anybody give you anything after you had voted?—No.

17,686. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Was anything put down for you?—No.

17,687. Did you take up any money?—No.

17,688. Are you sure that no money got into your pocket that day?—I am sure of it.

17,689. Or the next day?—I am sure of it. I don't think I went out the next day at all.

17,690. Do not misunderstand me. Was there no money of any sort or kind given or promised to you?—No.

17,691. Or beer, or anything of that kind?—No, I never received anything of the kind.

CLEMENT DAYNES sworn and examined.

C. Daynes.

17,692. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

17,693. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

17,694. At what time in the day?—Just after I got my dinner. I made sure of my dinner first.

17,695. Would that be 2 o'clock or after?—Between 2 and 3 we will say. I cannot tell exactly the time.

17,696. Who asked you to vote?—Not anyone.

17,697. Were you not canvassed at all?—Yes; I was before the election; not on the election day.

17,698. By whom?—By Tillett's party. I cannot tell you the gentleman's name that came.

17,699. Did you promise to vote for him?—No, I did not; and when young Stracey came I said, "If I "vote at all I shall vote that side." That is my principle.

17,700. Did you get anything for your vote?—No, and no promise. I never saw anything of it; never went into the market, or into a public house, or had anything at all to do with it.

17,701. You have had nothing since?—I have had nothing since, nor yet any promise.

17,702. Did you ever vote before?—No, I never voted before; but I had a principle before, and always should vote as a Conservative.

JAMES DICKERSON sworn and examined.

J. Dickerson.

17,703. (Mr. Biron.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Stracey.

17,704. What time in the day?—About half-past 3.

17,705. Did you get anything for it?—No.

17,706. How came you to be so late about it?—I was busy. I had a job to get down to the station by half-past 3, and I was busy all the day.

17,707. What are you?—A cabinet-maker by trade.

17,708. Were you hard at work the whole morning?—Hard at work the whole morning, and did not go out of the yard.

17,709. Did you see anybody that day about voting?—No.

17,710. Who did you go to the poll with?—Not with anyone.

17,711. Had you been canvassed before?—No.

17,712. Had you been asked for your vote before?—No.

17,713. Or promised it?—No.

17,714. You had made up your mind to vote for Stracey?—Yes.

17,715. All along?—Yes.

ISAAC DUNN sworn and examined.

I. Dunn.

17,716. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

17,717. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Stracey.

17,718. At what time in the day?—About 3 o'clock.

17,719. Did you vote for Stracey before?—No.

17,720. Are you registered twice?—I believe I am.

17,721. Did you vote at two places then?—No.

17,722. Be careful. Did you not vote twice that day?—No.

17,723. Did you send anybody else to vote for you?—No.

17,724. Your name is Isaac Dunn, of Calvert Street?—Yes, No. 15, Calvert Street.

17,725. Did you not vote twice?—No, I did not.

17,726. Do you know of anybody having voted for you?—No.

17,727-8. Have you heard of it?—No.

FIFTEENTH DAY.

I. Dunn.

4 Sept. 1869.

17,729. How came you to vote so late? — My business kept me at home.

17,730. Everybody has got business at home?—I could not get away.

17,731. It is a most extraordinary thing on this election day that so many persons should have been kept at home by business. What business was it that was of so much importance?—I am a shoe manufacturer. I had some orders in, and I was compelled to look after them.

17,732. How many men do you employ?—I have about 12.

17,733. Now did you receive anything for voting?—No, certainly not.

17,734. Were you promised anything?—No.

17,735. Have you promised anybody else anything for voting?—No.

17,736. Do you know of anybody else having promised anything?—No.

17,737. Or been paid anything for voting?—No.

17,738. Someone voted in your name, if you did not vote twice yourself.—I did not vote twice, that is evident.

17,739. Somehow or other you got personated.—I don't know how it was.

17,740. (Mr. Biron.) Very likely you know nothing about it.

J. Nockolds.

JOHN NOCKOLDS sworn and examined.

17,741. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who did you vote for at this last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

17,742. At what time?—About half-past 8 in the morning.

17,743. You had been very active on that side, had you not?—No, not very.

17,744. Had you been canvassing?—No.

17,745. Had not you been canvassing voters for Sir Henry Stracey?—No.

17,746. Not the day before?—No.

17,747. Not on any day with reference to this election?—No.

17,748. Did you ask any voter to go up to the poll?—Not that I am aware of.

17,749. Do you know Hardiment?—Yes.

17,750. Were you about with him before this election?—No.

17,751. On the day of the election did you see Hardiment?—I never saw him.

17,752. Did you hear anything said about money on this election?—No, not until after it was over.

17,753. Not by anyone?—Not anything.

17,754. What were you doing on the day of the polling? — I was at home part of the day, and out part of the day. I was at home the biggest part of the day.

17,755. But were you not about in the city at all?—Very little.

17,756. Were you taking any part in the election on the polling day?—No part at all.

17,757. Have you promised any money to any person for voting at this election?—No.

17,758. Have you given anything to anyone?—No, not a farthing.

17,759. Do you know anyone who has promised or given money or beer, or paid rates for anyone for voting at this election?—I don't know of any. I heard there was on the Liberal side, but not on the Tory.

17,760. What did you hear about the Liberal side?—I only heard that there was beer being given away, and money being promised.

17,761. Can you mention the name of any person who offered either beer or money?—No, I could not.

17,762. What are you by trade?—A shoe manufacturer.

17,763. What are you rated at?—About 16*l.*, I think.

17,764. Do you know Charles William Thompson?—Not that I am aware of.

17,765. Of George Yard, Barrack Street?—No, I don't think I do.

17,766. Were you in Peacock Street on the day of the election?—I believe I was.

17,767. Were you in any house in Peacock Street?—Not at all.

17,768. Did you speak to any voters in Peacock Street?—I believe I asked two or three at the poll why didn't they go and vote; as there was no money they might as well go and vote for nothing.

17,769. Did they vote?—I do not know.

17,770. Did you offer them any money?—No.

17,771. Did you tell them where they could get money?—No.

17,772. Was anything said about where they could get money?—One man, I cannot remember his name, said that he had been offered money on the other side, and could I tell him whether he could get any on the Tory side. I said I did not know of any.

17,773. Did you hear nothing of any money being spent on your side during the poll?—I did not.

17,774. Did you not hear that Hardiment was about on that day?—I did not hear it until afterwards. I did not see him that day.

17,775. But during the day did you not hear that he was about?—I never heard a word until after the day was over.

17,776. Did you hear of Robert Wiseman, junior, being about with any money? — Not until afterwards.

17,777. When did you hear of that?—The next day something was said about bribery on the Conservative side, and I said I thought not.

17,778. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Then you did take a very active part in the election?—No, not a very active part.

17,779. An active part then?—Well, I would have asked anybody that I thought would have voted by speaking to him.

17,780. You know Thompson, of Church Yard, Barrack Street?—I do not know that I do.

17,781. Do you know him, or do you not?—I don't know what he is.

17,782. William Thompson, of Church Yard, Barrack Street? Now be careful.—Sir, I cannot say that I know him.

17,783. Did you not offer a man 5*s.*, and did he not say he would not take that, and then did you not say that you would give him 6*s.* and a gallon of beer?—No, sir, no. I now refresh my memory that there was a man said to me, "I have been offered 5*s.*; will "you give me 6*s.*?" I said, "I can give you "nothing; why don't you go and vote."

17,784. This man that I speak of is a shoemaker?—Yes.

17,785. Now, did not you offer that man 5*s.*? Did he not say that he would not take it; and did not you offer him 6*s.* and a gallon of beer?—No, sir. I will tell you the words which passed between me and that man you are now speaking of. He said, "I will "not vote unless I have some." I said, "Why don't "you go and vote?" He said, "You can get me "something on the Conservative side." I said, "I "know of nothing; if there was anything I would "try and get it for you;" if I could hear that there was anything being paid I would try and get him paid, but I had no influence at all.

17,786. If you could have got anything you would have given it to him?—I promised him so.

17,787. And you would have kept your promise?—I should not have paid it out of my own pocket.

17,788. If you could have got it out of any other pocket than your own you would have got it?—If it had been a usual thing.

17,789. Whether it had been a usual or an unusual thing, if you could have got him the money you would have done so ?—I might have done so.

17,790. But would you not ?—I think I might have asked for him.

17,791. Do you mean to say you told the man that, and did not intend it ?—I intended only to ask for him, but I heard of nothing.

17,792. Yes, but when you told the man that if there was anything going you would get it for him, did you intend to do so ?—I intended to ask.

17,793. Did you ask ?—I did not.

17,794. Why not ?—I heard no more about it, and I did not think he took my word.

17,795. Did you not make some inquiry whether money was going ?—Never ; I never saw the man any more from that moment.

17,796. Having given him that promise, do you mean to say that you took no more trouble about it ?—No, I don't know whether he voted.

17,797. But did you take no further trouble to see whether you could get the money for him ?—Not one morsel.

17,798. If you thought this election was carried upon perfectly pure principles, how came you to give that answer ?—He told me he knew there was lots of bribery. I said, "If there is anything to be had, "and you vote for the party, I will hear if you can "have something."

17,799. You knew that there was something given ?—I did not know only what I am told.

17,800. The man did vote for your party, don't you know that ?—I don't know.

17,801. Why did you not look into it and see whether he did ? You had promised him this, he would act upon the faith of your promise, and do you mean to say you never took the trouble to ascertain whether you could get anything for him ?—I walked away from him, and did not know whether he voted or no.

17,802. Although you had made that promise ?—I only promised I would ask about it.

17,803. You said that you told him that if there was anything to be got he should have it if he would vote for Stracey ?—Yes.

17,804. Did you take the trouble to ascertain whether anything was to be got ?—I did not, and I never saw him no more from that day to this.

17,805. Then do you mean to say you don't know now that Thompson voted for Stracey ?—I do not.

17,806-7. Well, all I can say is, that you promised that man that if anything was going he should have it ; you induced that man to vote, and you were just as much guilty of bribery as if you paid the man the money.—I am sorry you think so, but I did not know he voted.

17,808. That is my view of the matter—I never saw a farthing.

17,809. When a man makes a promise, it is a thing to be observed, and people trust to promises, particularly men of this kind.—One of our greatest politicians who has passed from this world said, "promise "anything."

17,810. You as much induced that man to vote by the promise of money as any man could induce another.—I would not have spoken to him if he had not come and spoke to me.

17,811-3. You ought to have told us candidly about that man when his name was put to you.—I did not know his name until you mentioned his being a shoemaker.

17,814. (Mr. Mansfield.) You said you had heard nothing about money, although you had had this conversation about money.—Nothing.

17,815. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Where were you at the time of the petition ?—I went away for two days.

17,816. Why ?—I had no reason to go away, only business called me away.

17,817. Where did it call you to ?—I went to London.

17,818. Where did you go in London ?—I went to two or three places in London.

17,819. Whereabouts were you staying ?—I stayed in Stoke Newington two days.

17,820. Had you ever been in Stoke Newington before ?—Oh yes.

17,821. Were you not away from Norwich more than two days ?—I was not.

17,822. Did you not know that they were hunting high and low for you to serve you with a summons ?—No, I did not, until after I came home.

17,823. Then you did learn it after you came home ?—Yes.

17,824. The petition lasted three or four days ?—I came home on the Saturday, and did not know it till then.

17,825. Did you immediately go up and announce yourself when you heard they had been trying to summon you ?—I went out directly to know if I had been called for, and they said no.

17,826. What were the two days you were away ?—I think it was Thursday and Friday.

17,827. You were here on Saturday ?—Yes.

GEORGE GRAVER sworn and examined.

G. Graver.

17,828. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ? — Master cooper and shopkeeper.

17,829. For whom did you vote at the last election ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

17,830. What time in the day ?—Past 2.

17,831. Why did you not vote before ?—Because I was busy at my work.

17,832. Did you see Wiseman that day ?—No.

17,833. Did you get a promise of anything ?—No.

17,834. You were not promised anything for voting ?—No, not a farthing, not a fraction.

17,835. Were you paid anything ?—No.

17,836. Not afterwards ? — No, not a single fraction.

17,837. Did Wiseman pay you anything after voting ?—Mr. Wiseman never spoke to me in his life about anything to do with electioneering.

17,838. Who took you up to the poll ?—Nobody ; the poll is close to my house.

17,839. Did not Dawson ?—No.

17,840. You know Dawson ?—Quite well ; I live against him.

17,841. Did he not take you to the poll ?—No.

17,842. Do you live in Bridge Street ?—Yes.

17,843. Had you been canvassed ?—Yes.

17,844. When ?—I am sure I cannot say exactly ; some few days before the election.

17,845. By whom ?—Sir Henry Stracey's son, and Dawson, and several more. I cannot say who they were.

17,846. Did you promise your vote then ?—I did not faithfully promise it. I said probably I might vote for them.

17,847. Why did you not promise ?—I said perhaps I should not vote at all ; but I did vote for Sir Henry Stracey, because I was always a Tory at heart, though that was my maiden vote.

FIFTEENTH DAY.

W. Hollis.

4 Sept. 1869.

WILLIAM HOLLIS sworn and examined.

17,848. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

17,849. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

17,849*a*. For Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

17,850. What time in the day did you vote?—About half-past 3.

17,851. Are you the landlord of the "Cock and Pie"?—Yes.

17,852. What did you receive for voting?—Not anything.

17,853. Nor the promise of anything?—No, not anything.

17,854. Were there a number of voters at your house on the day of the election?—There were five or six came down during the day.

17,855. Do you know a man of the name of William Bloom?—Yes.

17,856. Was he at your house?—Yes.

17,857. Did you see Mr. Taylor speak to Bloom?—No.

17,858. Did you hear Bloom say what he had received for voting?—No.

17,859. Have you heard what he got since for voting?—No.

17,860. Was Henry Townsend, of Pig Lane, at your place?—I do not remember seeing him that day at all.

17,861. You had a breakfast at your house in the morning?—The morning after the election.

17,862. How many people went to the breakfast?—Five or six of them.

17,863. Who gave the breakfast?—I do not know, I am sure.

17,864. Who paid for it?—I do not know.

17,865. Did they pay for it beforehand?—Mr. Townsend went for the beefsteaks.

17,866. Had they beer and beefsteaks for breakfast, then?—Yes, they had some beer.

17,867. With the beefsteaks?—Yes.

17,868–9. Who paid for the beer?—Mr. Townsend.

17,870. Did they say they got it for voting?—No.

17,871. Had they been drinking at your house that day?—The day before. I do not remember seeing Mr. Townsend before.

17,872. On the day of the election was there a quantity of beer drunk in your house?—Yes, there is always every day.

17,873. What score had you, and who paid it?—Mr. Flowers, he set up a little bit of a reckoning.

17,874. What reckoning did he set up?—Between 2*s*. and 3*s*.

17,875. That was money given to the voters?—No.

17,876. Money given to the men in the house?—He was there having a pint or two of beer, and he had no more money in his pocket, and he asked me if I would trust him.

17,877. He spent what money he had in his pocket, and ran up that score?—Yes.

17,878. I suppose he did not drink all that beer himself?—No, he asked people to drink that was there.

17,879. Do you know Walter Berwick?—Yes.

17,880. Was he at your house upon that day?—During the day he was.

17,881. Flowers took him up to vote, did he not?—I do not know.

17,882. You heard him talking to Berwick about voting, did you not?—I never heard him mention a word to him.

17,883. There seems to be a wonderful affliction of deafness amongst landlords.—I am not always in one room along with the people.

17,884. Was Thomas Paston there?—I do not remember seeing him that day.

17,885. Did you see him the day before?—I might see him the day before, but I do not remember it. I do not see him sometimes for a week together.

17,886. Was James Barber, of Quay side, there?—No.

17,887. Was he present at that breakfast?—No.

17,888. Do you undertake to say that both Paston and Barber were not present at the breakfast?—I do not remember seeing either of them.

17,889. Do you know William Leader, of Quay side?—Yes.

17,890. Was he there?—I never see him.

17,891. Not at the breakfast?—No.

17,892. Can you tell me who there were in the house when Flowers treated them with beer?—There was Edward Bell and William Thornton. I do not remember any more of them being in there.

17,893. Did you promise anybody any money for voting that day?—No.

17,894. Or beer?—No beer at all, nor yet any money.

17,895. Did anybody authorise you to give any beer to voters?—No.

17,896. Or to anybody that day?—Not to anyone.

17,897. Do you know of any money having been paid to anybody for voting that day?—No.

17,898. Did you not hear them talking about having had money?—No, I did not hear anything about any money that day.

17,899. Do you know of anybody having been promised anything?—No.

J. Flowers.

JONATHAN FLOWERS sworn and examined.

17,900. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at this election?—Sir Henry Stacey.

17,901. At what time in the day?—As soon as ever the poll opened.

17,902. I think you were very active during the day of the election?—Yes.

17,903. Taking up voters?—I did not take many voters up.

17,904. Do you recollect being at the "Ribs of Beef" that day?—Yes.

17,905. You paid for some beer there, did you not?—Yes, I did.

17,906. How much?—I cannot tell you how much, not exactly.

17,907. Six or seven shillings, was it not?—No, I think not.

17,908. You treated other people?—No, I do not think so. We were drinking together; they asked me to drink and I asked them to drink. I do not remember ordering beer particularly to treat people; I stood a pint and they stood a pint.

17,909. You had several shillings' worth?—Yes.

17,910. Do you remember treating a man a pint?—I treated a pint and he treated a pint, if you call that treating.

17,911. Do you remember going to William Hollis' house?—I think all the money I had was about sixpence, and I asked him to trust me with a pint or two.

17,912. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) I see great reluctance on your part to tell us the truth. Hollis told us you spent all the money you had in your pocket, and you then ran up a score.

17,913. (Mr. Mansfield.) Mrs. Eccleston said the same thing. When you were at the "Ribs of Beef" did you see Doctor Allen?—Yes.

17,914. What did he tell you?—I told him there was a man going to vote, and he came against the door and said, "Will you vote for Sir Henry Stracey?" He ordered some beer and drank out of a quart pot.

17,915. Were there any other voters there that he spoke to?—Yes.

17,916. How many voters did you ask to go and vote?—There were three I asked to go and vote.

17,917. Did you get them to vote?—I never took one; I went with Mr. Bond.

17,918. Do you know that they went with him to vote?—I went up part of the way with them.

17,919. With several others?—No, there was no one there except him and me.

17,920. Was there no one else going up from that house to the poll?—No, not that I could see.

17,921. You were at the "Marquis of Granby" during that day?—Yes, I went there.

17,922. What did you do there?—There was a lot of folks there, and I asked them if they would vote for Stracey, and they said they had voted for Tillett and Russell, and I asked them if they were going to stand anything to drink, and they said they wanted to know if I would treat them, and I said I didn't mind.

17,923. You treated them all round?—I know the beer came in, and I paid for it.

17,924. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Who were those you so treated?—I did not know a man that was there, but since I have been talking about this a man of the name of Barber says it was quite correct and I did treat them.

17,925. Do you know a man of the name of Walter Berwick, living at Quay side?—Yes, I know him.

17,926. Do you recollect getting him to vote?—No.

17,927. Was he there?—No.

17,928. (Mr. Mansfield.) You saw him at the "Cock and Pie"?—Yes.

17,929. You got him to go and vote?—No, he never voted with me.

17,930. Are you certain he never went and voted?—He never went along with me.

17,931. You gave him some drink?—He had some beer.

17,932. That was at the "Cock and Pie"?—I believe so; I saw him two or three times.

17,933. Were you treating others at the "Cock and Pie"?—There were several people there; some were going to vote for Tillett.

17,934. Did you not find some of Stracey's men there?—Yes.

17,935. You gave them beer?—Yes, they had some beer. I do not call that a treat. I often go into a public house and they ask me to have a pint.

17,936. Do you know anything of this breakfast at William Hollis'?—No.

17,937. Was there any breakfast at the "Cock and Pie"?—I do not know.

17,938. You went to all these public houses and you stood beer all round?—I went to two or three public houses and stood some beer.

17,939. For these voters?—I asked them to drink, and they asked me to drink, and I drank along with them.

17,940. Did you give any money to them?—No.

17,941. Did you promise any money?—No.

17,942. Have you paid any since?—I paid for the beer I set up that day.

17,943. Did you pay any money for votes?—No.

17,944. Did you promise anything?—No.

17,945. Did anything pass through your hands for anybody?—No.

17,946. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes.

17,947. Have you paid any rates for anybody?—No.

17,948. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You were very active for Sir Henry Stracey?—I was running about that day.

17,949. You were going about for the purpose of getting up voters?—Yes.

17,950. You found the men wanted something to drink?—I should say they did.

17,951. How many men were there at the first public house at which you gave some drink?—That was the "Ribs of Beef," a very small place. I do not think there were above six men there.

17,952. Can you give me the names of any?—I know a man of the name of Bond and Chilvers.

17,953. Where does Chilvers live?—He lives down the Quay side.

17,954. What did you spend there?—I cannot say how much.

17,955. Three or four shillings?—No, I never went with more than 3*s.* 6*d.* when I started.

17,956. What was the next house?—The next was the "Cock and Pie."

17,957. How much did you spend there altogether?—I do not know whether it was a pint or two pints; there were several people there.

17,958. At the "Cock and Pie" you ran up a score?—I had no money.

17,959. What did you spend, including that which you afterwards paid?—I think I paid the man 2*s.* 6*d.* or 3*s.*, I cannot swear which.

17,960. How many people did you treat there?—I do not know how many people there were; there were five or six, or six or seven.

17,961. Can you give me the name of any of them?—There was the landlord, and, I think, Berwick was there, and there was Mr. Philip Hill.

17,962. Do you know the Blews?—No.

17,963. Do you know William Blew?—Yes, I know him, but I think he was not there.

17,964. Will you swear it?—I do not remember seeing him.

17,965. Was Henry Townsend there?—I do not remember seeing him till the afternoon. I think he was on the Quay, but not in the house.

17,966. When you saw him in the afternoon, did you give him some beer?—No.

17,967. Do you know Thomas Paston?—Yes.

17,968. Was he there?—No; he was in the "Ribs of Beef," but not at the "Cock and Pie."

17,969. Was James Barber there?—No; I never saw him.

17,970. Was William Leader?—I do not know him.

17,971. Who were there that you recollect?—Not anyone else that I recollect; there were some people, but I do not know who they were.

17,972. What other house did you go to?—I went to Mr. Mackley's, in Pockthorpe.

17,973. Did you treat anybody there?—Yes.

17,974. What did you spend there?—I think it was a gallon or half a gallon. They said, "Are you going to treat?" and I said, "Have what you like."

17,975. To whom did you give it?—I do not know; they were all strangers. I did not know a man in the house; not until I was told afterwards.

17,976. After that where did you go to?—I was going off, and there were three men who wanted to go and vote for Stracey, and I said, "Jump on the "gig and you can go down;" we were about to start when the horse would not pull and tipped us all out. There were several young women got round me and said they did not often see me, and asked me to stand treat, and I said I had no money, but I went and borrowed 5*s.* and treated them. I had a little drop of gin, some of them had rum and some brandy, and it cost me 3*s.* 3*d.* or 3*s.* 6*d.*, I cannot say which.

17,977. Can you give me the names of any of the men there?—There was not a man there, they were all women.

FIFTEENTH DAY.

J. Flowers.

4 Sept. 1869.

17,978. (Mr. Mansfield.) Has anybody paid you since for all this beer?—No.

17,979. Have you asked anybody for it?—No.

17,980. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you go about with anybody that day?—No.

D. Golder.

DANIEL GOLDER sworn and examined.

17,981. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A journeyman baker.

17,982. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Stracey.

17,983. At what time in the day?—As near as I can tell between a quarter past and half-past 3.

17,984. What did you get for voting?—Nothing at all.

17,985. How came you to be so late?—Because it did not suit me to go before, on account of leaving my work.

17,986. Did you see Mitchell that day?—No.

17,987. Or Freestone?—I did not see anybody. I went from my work to the polling place and back again to my work.

17,988. You did not get any money for voting?—No.

17,989. Or promise of any money?—No.

17,990. Or for having voted?—No.

17,991. Did you give anybody money for voting?—No.

17,992. Or for having voted?—No.

R. Howard.

ROBERT HOWARD sworn and examined.

17,993. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

17,994. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

17,995. For whom?—Stracey and Russell.

17,996. At what time in the day?—As near as I can say half-past 3.

17,997. Where had you been all day?—At work.

17,998. Did you get anything for voting?—Yes.

17,999. What did you get?—1*l.*

18,001. Where?—At Mackley's.

18,002. Who else had 1*l.* there that you recollect?—I went up along with a young man of the name of Staff. I and he went together.

18,003. Did he get 1*l.* as well?—Yes.

18,004. Did you see anybody else get 1*l.*?—Not that I knew; there were two or three on the stairs, but I did not know them.

18,005. (Mr. Biron.) Do you not know who they were?—No, I do not, they were strangers to me.

18,006. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you tell Hardiment that you should vote for Stracey and Russell?—He never told me who to vote for; he says, "You "know what to do."

18,007. You knew he was a Stracey man, and as long as you voted for Stracey you thought it was all right?—Yes, I thought so, of course.

C. Hunt.

CHARLES HUNT sworn and examined.

18,008. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you vote?—I had not any vote.

18,009. Where were you during the day?—Walking about.

18,010. Did you get any beer?—Oh yes, lots.

18,011. Where?—At different places.

18,012. Which you did not pay for?—Oh yes, that I did.

18,013. Every drop?—No, not every drop; I paid for it when it came to my turn.

18,014. Were you hired by anybody for this election?—No.

18,015. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Where do you live?—In St. Mary's. I lived in St. Martin's when the election was.

18,016. What place in St. Martin's?—What they call Selfe's Yard.

18,017. How long had you lived there?—About $2\frac{1}{2}$ years.

18,018. Did you not know that you had a vote?—I never had; I never paid no rates, so I could have no vote.

18,019. Did you know that anybody went and voted for you?—No.

18,020. Did you ever get anything for voting?—No.

18,021. Somebody went and voted for you.—I did not vote, I can assure you.

18,022. (Mr. Biron.) Somebody else got half a sovereign for it.—I did not, indeed.

18,023. Somebody else did.—I did not; I should have been glad to have received it; I wanted it bad enough.

18,024. Somebody went and got your birthright.—I never voted. I never had a vote.

J. Lombe.

JOHN LOMBE sworn and examined.

18,025. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Russell and Tillett.

18,026. At what time in the day?—Between 10 and 11.

18,027. Are you sure it was before 2 o'clock?—Yes.

18,028. You are returned as voting after 2; did you get anything for your vote?—No.

18,029. Or the promise of anything?—No.

18,030. Did you hear of anybody else promising anybody?—No.

18,031. Or paying anybody?—No.

18,032. You know nothing about it?—No.

H. Lane.

HUMPHREY LANE sworn and examined.

18,033. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you keep the "Queen Anne," in Church Street?—No, the "Arabian Horse."

18,034. Do you know Mr. Gedge?—No, not to the best of my knowledge, I do not.

18,035. Are you a voter?—Yes.

18,037. For whom did you vote?—I voted for Mr. Stracey.

18,038. At what time in the day?—I suppose it was about half-past 2, as near as I can guess.

18,039. How came you to be so late in the day?—I am sure I do not know. I did not feel anyways in a hurry.

18,040. You did not think it was of any consequence?—I should think it was not.

18,041. Did anyone come and canvass you?—I had not anyone come to me at all. I do not think they knew I had a vote, because I was not asked.

18,042. Were there a number of persons in your house that day?—No.

18,043. Was there nobody in your house?—There might be three or four to come in as they passed, but not anyone to come in and talk about the election affair.

18,044. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

18,045. Money or anything else?—No, nor yet anything else.

18,046. Or were promised anything?—Nor yet promised anything.

18,047. Have you got anything since?—No, in fact, I was never talked to about the election affair.

18,048. Who were the persons who came into your house?—I cannot say; there were very few people; I do not know that there were half a dozen persons came in that day.

18,049. Do you know a person of the name of James Finch?—No, not that I know of.

18,050. Did not a man collect a lot of voters at your house?—No.

18,051. Were there some men treating some voters in your house that day?—No, I do not suppose I drew a gallon the whole day.

CHARLES LARKMAN sworn and examined. C. Larkman.

18,052. What are you by trade?—A shoe manufacturer.

18,053. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Stracey.

18,054. At what time in the day?—I should say about 3; I cannot say for about a few minutes.

18,055. What made you so late?—If I were to tell you the reason it would take a long while. I first of all went to the "Little Buck," St. Martin's, early in the morning between 8 and 9, where there were four or five, or it might be more, and we all agreed to vote together, and at about 12 o'clock we were going—

18,056. Who were the people you were going to vote with?—Mr. Moore, Mr. Middleton, Mr. Barnes, and Mr. Crane. We all agreed to vote together, and about 12 o'clock we were going to vote, and they said "Go and ask Mr. Smith if he is going," and I says "I will have my dinner first before I go," and so it was, I had my dinner first.

18,057. Did you get any voters to go to the poll?—No, of course not.

18,058. Did you ask anyone to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—No, not one.

18,059. Did you make any promise to anyone?—No.

18,060. Did you offer any money?—Not any.

18,061. Have you paid any money?—No, not any.

18,062. Have you received any money?—No.

18,063. Since the election?—No; I received nothing, was offered nothing, and asked for nothing.

18,064. Were you at any of these public houses on the polling day?—Yes, at the "Buck" in St. Martin's till a quarter before 12.

18,065. Were you at any other public houses?—Yes, I was; I called at Mr. Carver's, the "Fencers' Arms," and got a glass.

18,066. Anywhere else?—No, not till after I voted.

18,067. Did you give any beer to any voters?—No.

18,068. Did anybody give you any beer?—No, I had not more than a glass, and what I had I paid for.

HORATIO LEMON sworn and examined. H. Lemon.

18,069. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shopkeeper.

18,070. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

18,071. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

18,073. How came you to vote so late?—I was forced to be at home that day, having a great many people in for oysters and one thing and another. I could not get out before.

18,074. You did not get anything for voting?—No.

18,075. Nor the promise of anything?—No.

18,076. Did you give anything to other people?—No.

18,077. Or promise them anything?—No.

18,078. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You were a voter at the last election?—Yes.

18,079. And you were near the "Woolpack" on the day of the election, were you not?—Yes.

18,080. You saw Freestone, the baker?—Yes.

18,081. He gave you 5*s.*?—Yes.

18,082. And you divided it with another man?—Yes.

18,083. To go up and vote?—Yes.

18,084. Had you anything more for voting?—Nothing else.

18,085. (Mr. Biron.) You paid a second man?—I only paid one man.

18,086. Is that all?—Yes. I had 5*s.* given to me, and I gave him half of it.

18,087. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you give any man 7*s.* 6*d.* that day?—No, I never see no other man along with me.

18,088. (Mr. Mansfield.) Was not some money afterwards passed through your hands for another voter?—No; only 5*s.* was given to me, and I gave the man half of it.

18,089. I mean afterwards did not some money pass through your hands for another voter?—No.

18,090. I do not mean a sum of money paid to you, but given to you for somebody else?—No; I had only 5*s.* given to me, and the other man with me had half of it; that is all the money I had.

18,091. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you at the "Cherry Tree"?—No, I only went along with Mr. Freestone down to the poll.

WILLIAM MORTIMER sworn and examined. W. Mortimer.

18,092. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

18,093. For whom did you vote?—Tillett.

18,094. At what time in the day?—A little before 4.

18,095. Did you give a plumper for Tillett?—Yes.

18,096. What made you go so late?—Because I was after my business.

18,097. Had anybody asked you to vote?—There were two or three round me just before I came home.

18,098. With whom do you work?—I do carting for anyone. I am a general carter for anyone.

18,099. Had you been asked for your vote before?—There was some people came round a time or two, but I was not in the way at the time.

18,100. Was anything promised you?—No.

18,101. Was anything offered you?—No.

18,102. Has anything been paid to you since?—No.

18,103. Has nothing been promised to you?—No.

18,104. Did anybody give you any beer on the polling day?—No; I was not about anywhere till I went to vote.

18,105. You were not about the city till quite late, is that so?—Yes.

CHARLES MORSE recalled and further examined. C. Morse.

18,106. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Just reflect; you were in Clarke's beerhouse and you saw Benfather?—Yes, I did.

18,107. Did not Benfather ask you to vote?—Yes.

18,108. Did you not tell him that you wanted a day's pay or a day's wages?—No, I never told him so;

FIFTEENTH DAY.
C. Morse.
4 Sept. 1869.

he asked me to vote, and he offered me 5*s.* for my vote.

18,109. You took the 5*s.* and went along with him to vote?—Yes.

18,110. Why did you not tell us that before. Have you seen Benfather since this inquiry?—I have seen him several times; I saw him yesterday.

18,111. Did he tell you to come and say that he never offered you anything?—No, he never said nothing to me.

18,112. What did he say to you?—He told me I could do which way I thought proper.

18,113. What did he come to you about?—I see him in the street, he never came to my house.

18,114. Did he not say anything to you about your coming here?—He asked me whether I had got an order to come, and I said "Yes," I had.

18,115. Then what did he say to you?—He said I could do which way I thought proper.

18,116. Did he not say to you, "You must not say "that I offered you 5*s.*"?—No, he did not.

18,117. Do consider.—I have no considering.

18,118. Did he not say you must not say you had that offer of 5*s.*?—If he did I did not understand what he said.

18,119. Did he say "You must not say anything "about that 5*s.* Do not tell them what you know"?—He might say such a thing.

18,120. He did say so?—But I paid no regard to that.

18,121-2. Did he say so?—Well, I believe he did.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) This court will now stand adjourned till Monday the 27th instant, in order that in the interval effectual means may be taken to abridge the inquiry in such a manner as shall not be inconsistent with its perfect efficiency; and every effort will be made to save the city all expense consistent with the attainment of that object.

SIXTEENTH DAY.

Monday, 27th September 1869.

SIXTEENTH DAY.
J. T. Furse.
27 Sept. 1869.

James Thomas Furse sworn and examined.

18,123. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter in this city at the last election?—Yes, I was.

18,124. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

18,125. Did you take an active interest in the promotion of the election of Sir Henry Stracey?—Not till the latter part of the day.

18,126. At the latter part of the day did you receive any money from any person?—I did.

18,127. From whom did you receive any money, and how much?—I received 10*l.* from Dr. Allen.

18,128. Was that for the purpose of paying voters to vote?—I suppose that was what he gave it to me for.

18,129. Did you proceed to carry out what you supposed to be the object?—Yes, I did.

18,130. To whom did you pay it?—I gave 3*l.* to a man named Townsend.

18,131. Where does he live?—He lives in Pig Lane.

18,132. Was that for the purpose of distributing amongst voters?—It was.

18,133. What did you do with the rest?—I gave 2*l.* 10*s.* to a man named Bacon.

18,134. Where does he live?—He lives in King Street.

18,135. Was that for the same purpose?—Yes.

18,136. What did you do with the further sum?—I gave 2*l.* to a man named Huggins.

18,137. What did you do with the remaining 2*l.* 10*s.*?—I gave 1*l.* to a man named Mitchell, a baker.

18,138. Did you pay anybody else any money?—I gave half a sovereign to a man of the name of Potter to vote.

18,139. Where does he live?—In New Catton. I gave half a sovereign to a man named Pearson, and 8*s.* to a man, I think his name was Cotton, he came from Yarmouth to vote, and that was for his expenses and day's work; and I gave half a crown to a man of the name of Taylor, that was for a voter, and I believe he gave it to a voter.

18,140. Do you know the name of the voter?—No, I do not; he could tell you that.

18,141. Did you pay any more money to any other person?—No.

18,142. That exhausted all the money you received from Dr. Allen?—Yes.

18,143. Did you receive any money from anybody else?—No, not any.

18,144. Did you lend a sum of money which you received from Mr. Howse Allen?—Yes.

18,145. What was that?—Half a crown.

18,146. To whom did you lend it?—To a man of the name of Bond. I believe he is since dead.

18,147. Was he a voter?—Yes.

18,148. He had a hesitation about taking it as a gift, and you made it a loan?—He asked me to lend it to him.

18,149. Did he afterwards vote?—I believe he voted before he received it; but of that I am not certain.

18,150. Did you receive any further sum of money?—No, not any.

18,151. Do you know of anybody else having been paid money for like purposes?—I do not.

18,152. Did anybody go with you who promised any voters any money?—No, I did not take a voter up the whole day.

18,153. Do you know of any other voters being paid or promised payment?—I do not, only what I have read in the papers.

18,154. Was a person of the name of Colby present when you gave Bond that money?—He was not.

18,155. Do you know a person of the name of Charles Blyth?—I do.

18,156. Did you give him or promise him any money?—I did not speak to him on the day.

18,157. But you may have spoken to him before?—No, I did not, anything about the election.

18,158. Did you canvass him?—No, I did not.

18,159. He lives next door to your shop, does he not?—Next door to the workshop.

18,160. Are you sure you had no conversation with him upon the subject?—I had not.

18,161. You gave him nothing for his vote, and promised him nothing?—No.

18,162. Did you pay for any beer for voters?—I might, perhaps, in the course of the day; not for voters, I think.

18,163. Did you pay for any beer at any public houses?—I went in for a glass of ale at the "Waggon and Horses," and a man asked me for a shilling, but he was not a voter; he told me he was not.

18,164. Is that the only sum you paid?—That is all that I remember.

18,165. (Mr. Mansfield.) Have you settled any claims since?—None whatever.

18,166. How was it you came to select Townsend, Bacon, and Huggins to distribute these bribes?—They were close at hand when I received the money.

18,167. Did you tell them who to go to?—I did not, because I did not know who were the voters, and I did not take an active part in the election at all till the latter part of the day, when I received the money.

18,168. How came you to pick out those three men and trust them with the money?—I saw them running about in the course of the day.

18,169. Did you know them before?—Yes, quite well.

18,170. Have you had anything to do before with elections?—No, I have not.

18,171. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Have you ever had money at any previous election to distribute?—No.

GEORGE PEARCE sworn and examined. G. Pearce.

18,172. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

18,173. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Stracey.

18,174. At what time of the day?—At half-past 1.

18,175. Who asked you to vote?—No one.

18,176. Where were you at half-past 1?—In St. Mary's.

18,177. I think you were employed at the election by the Stracey party, were you not?—I was once.

18,178. How many days?—Only one day.

18,179. How much did you get for that?—Two shillings.

18,180. Who paid you that?—Mr. Ambrose Andrews' brother.

18,181. That is the brother of the publican?—Yes.

18,182. Did you get the 2*s.* the day before or the day after the election?—I think it was 2*s.* before the election.

18,183. What was this 2*s.* given to you for?—I was on a job along with other men.

18,184. Were you at any meeting?—That was a meeting that we went to.

18,185. At St. Andrew's Hall?—Yes.

18,186. And you held your hand up like the rest?—Yes, I was like the rest of the people, and held up my hand when I was required.

18,187. Have you ever voted at any election before this?—No.

18,188. Is that all the money you had?—Yes.

18,189. Has nothing been promised you?—No.

18,190. Nothing has been given to you since?—No, nothing.

18,191. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You held up your hand for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

CHARLES NOBBS sworn and examined. C. Nobbs.

18,192. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—Shopkeeper.

18,194. For whom?—For Mr. Henry Stracey.

18,195. At what time of the day?—Between 3 and 4.

18,196. Did you get anything by voting?—Yes.

18,197. How much?—15*s.*

18,198. From whom?—Mr. Hardiment.

18,199. Where did he give you the 15*s.*?—At Mr. Cartwright's, in Rosemary Lane.

18,200. Did you see him pay any other men there?—No.

18,201. How many men were there when you were paid?—Only Mr. Hardiment and me.

18,202. In what room was it he paid you?—On the right-hand side, opposite the bar.

18,203. Were there not a number of other men waiting to be paid?—I see a number of people standing about there.

18,204. Do you mean to say you were let in by yourself, paid, and let out again?—Yes.

18,205. Did you see any other men go in after you came out?—No, I went out and voted directly.

18,206. How came you to go to Cartwright's?—I was told they were giving some money there.

18,207. Who told you?—Some people standing about there said there was money given, and I went in.

18,208. Who were you about with on that day?—I was not about at all till about 3 o'clock; I was looking after my shop.

18,209. Surely you can give me the names of some of those who were at Cartwright's?—I cannot give the name of one.

18,210. Were they all strangers to you?—Yes, they were all strangers to me, perfect strangers.

18,211. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Was it the common talk outside?—Yes.

18,212. How many men were there talking about it outside?—There might be 10.

18,213. Did you see them going in and coming out?—No, I did not see anyone go in; there were several inside when I went in, but what they were inside for I do not know.

GARDINER WARMAN sworn and examined. G. Warman.

18,214. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

18,215. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

18,216. At what time of the day?—Between 3 and 4, or it might be a quarter past 3.

18,217. What did you receive for your vote?—Nothing.

18,218. Where were you during the day?—At work.

18,219. Where?—At home, making a pair of boots for a young woman.

18,220. That was not very urgent business?—They must be done by dinner time; the young woman wanted them to go to Yarmouth in between 1 and 2, and I never finished them till 1 o'clock.

18,221. Had you been canvassed?—Yes.

18,222. Who canvassed you?—Mr. Baldwin, the baker, and several more.

18,223. Did he promise you anything?—No, nothing.

18,224. Did you promise him your vote?—No.

18,225. Why not?—He belonged to the Liberal side.

18,226. Were you not canvassed for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

18,227. By whom?—By young Stracey and Mr. Dowson, I believe.

SIXTEENTH DAY.

G. Warman.

27 Sept. 1869.

18,228. Were you at the "Woolpack" on that day?—No.

18,229. Did nobody give you any beer for voting?—No, not a glass of anything.

18,230. Had you promised your vote to young Mr. Stracey?—Yes.

18,231. When was it he canvassed you?—The Friday before the election.

18,232. Do you know Hardiment?—No.

H. Durrant.

HENRY DURRANT sworn and examined.

18,233. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you?—A grocer.

18,234. Are you a voter?—No, I am not a voter.

18,235. You were taking an active part in this election?—No.

18,236. Did you take no part at all?—No, none at all.

18,237. Do you know a man of the name of Robert Bunn?—Yes.

18,238. Do you recollect talking to him on the day of the poll?—I remember seeing him at my shop.

18,239. Do you recollect his saying something to you about getting voters to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—No.

18,240. Did you receive any money from him?—Yes.

18,241. What for?—He gave it to me, of course, for the purpose of getting voters, but there was no talk about it. I knew what he meant.

18,242. What did you do with it?—I did not receive it till 20 minutes to 4, and did nothing whatever with it.

18,243. What have you done with it?—I have it now.

18,244. Have you brought it with you in your pocket?—No, I have got it at home.

18,245. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) The same money?—No, I do not say it is the same money; but I have 16*l.* at home, and whoever can claim it can have it.

18,246. (Mr. Mansfield.) In what money did you receive it?—In half sovereigns.

18,247. And in what money is it now?—I cannot say, it may be notes or sovereigns.

18,248. Do you mean to say that you did not spend any of this money?—Not a penny.

18,249. When Mr. Bunn handed it over to you, did you not make any observation?—I do not remember making any at all.

18,250. You took this 16*l.*, knowing Mr. Bunn wanted you to employ it in bribery, having a determination all the time not to do it?—I beg your pardon, I had not an opportunity, or I should have done so.

18,251. You knew some people who wanted a little money?—I did.

18,252. You hinted it to Bunn?—I think before that there was some little remark made about it, that I could use it if I had it, but that was not on the day of the election at all.

18,253. What day was that?—I really cannot say; prior to the election.

18,254. Was it one day or two days?—It might be two or three days.

18,255. Did you mention how you might spend money, supposing you got it?—I intended, of course, in buying voters.

18,256. In what quarter?—Anywhere where I could find them.

18,257. That was the conversation you had with Bunn two or three days before the election?—Yes.

18,258. In consequence of that Bunn comes to you at 20 minutes to 4 with 16*l.*?—Yes.

18,259. Did you lay out any money at all yourself at this election?—No, not a penny.

18,260. Or spend any money in beer?—No. I had nothing whatever to do with the election, and did not expect to have anything to do with it till I saw Bunn.

18,261. I thought there was this conversation?—I did not know anything was coming till nearly 4 o'clock.

18,262. You did not suppose any was coming?—I did not suppose there was any till that time.

18,263. Have you ever offered to return this money?—I do not know to whom to offer it.

18,264. (Mr. Biron.) You know whom it came from?—I knew it came from Bunn, and I thought it might be as well in my possession as his.

18,265. Has anybody asked you for that money?—Nobody.

18,266. Have you told anybody that you had it?—Oh, yes, lots of people.

18,267. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You say you had a conversation two days before with Bunn about your being able to lay out money at the election?—Yes.

18,268. You knew where you could lay it out?—I always know that there are opportunities for that at an election.

18,269. But you must have had some special knowledge as to where you could lay it out to have had that conversation?—No, I did not.

18,270. Do you mean to say that you, who took no part and no interest in the election, said to Mr. Bunn, "If I had a sum of money I think I could lay "it out at the election"?—That is all.

18,271. How came you to have such a conversation?—I do not know. The election was being talked about, and I supposed there would be, as there always had been, plenty of people waiting for money.

18,272. You knew where you could lay it out?—No; I imagined there would be the same opportunities as there had been on other occasions.

18,273. When Mr. Bunn came did you tell him it was too late to lay it out?—No.

18,274. You knew as much then as you did immediately afterwards?—No, I did not.

18,275. Did you do a single thing for the purpose of laying it out?—Yes, I did. I walked up as far as the polling place.

18,276. And you walked back again?—Yes. I saw so many loose and half-drunken people about, noisy and troublesome, that I thought it was not safe to do it.

18,277. You did not inquire of them whether they were going to vote, or anything of that sort, although you had got the money in your pocket?—No, I did not.

18,278. You took no step to distribute it?—No.

18,279. You put it in your own pocket, and have kept it there ever since?—It is in my house now.

18,280. You have perhaps other money in lieu of it?—I have 16*l.* that anybody owning can have.

G. Bygrave.

GRANVILLE BYGRAVE sworn and examined.

18,281. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

18,282. On the day of the election were you with a person of the name of Gilbert?—Yes.

18,283. Do you know a garden in Regent Street?—Yes, quite well.

18,284. Do you know Mr. Fisher, the grocer, in St. Stephen's?—Yes.

18,285. Did you see Mr. Fisher in the garden?—I heard Mr. Gilbert call to Mr. Fisher.

18,286. Did Fisher say anything to you and Gilbert?—No, Gilbert said it to Fisher.

18,287. What did he say?—He asked about money.

18,288. What did he say?—He called to him, and asked if there was anything to be got.

18,289. What did Fisher say?—He said he could not give anything. He said, "Come down to the "'Trumpet' at half-past 2," or "Go down;" it was one of the two.

18,290. Did he say whether anything would be at the "Trumpet"?—He did not say whether there would be anything. He said, "Come down."

18,291. Did you and Gilbert go to the "Trumpet"?—Me, Gilbert, and Walker.

18,292. Was Walker with you at the time?—Walker was in his shop at work, I believe, during the time.

18,293. It was near his shop?—Very close to his workshop.

18,294. Did you see Fisher down at the "Trumpet"?—I saw him come in about 1 into the "Trumpet." I will not be positive about it.

18,295. Did you speak to him in the "Trumpet" at all yourself?—No.

18,296. Did Gilbert speak to him, do you recollect?—No, I do not recollect his speaking to him in the "Trumpet."

18,297. Did you see Fisher again that afternoon?—Gilbert and me went up into the committee room during the afternoon, it might be three-quarters of an hour after, and Gilbert asked him again, and he said he dare not promise him anything then, and promised him 5*s.* in a fortnight.

18,298. Did he say where he was to come for it?—He said if he came to his shop he would give him 5*s.* in a fortnight.

18,299. Did he promise you the same thing?—I suppose he meant both of us. I never asked for anything.

18,300. Did Gilbert speak for himself and you?—I suppose he did.

18,301. You understood you were to be included in the 5*s.*?—I suppose he meant so, seeing I was with him. I suppose he thought I wanted the same sort of physic.

18,302. Did he say you were to do anything for it?—If we voted we were to have it. I do not know any other conditions.

18,303. For whom were you to vote?—He did not say who; but as he was a Conservative I suppose we was to vote on that cause. He would not give 5*s.* for me to vote for Mr. Tillett.

18,304. Did you see Mr. Hardy with Mr. Fisher that day?—I saw Mr. Hardy with Mr. Fisher when Mr. Gilbert called to them; they were canvassing together in Regent Street.

18,305. Did Fisher come from Hardy to you?—They both came together. Fisher and Hardy were together, and they came and spoke together; they were close to one another. Mr. Hardy might be a yard away from Mr. Fisher, but they were in company together; the one was not outside the garden and the other in; they were both in the garden.

18,306. You say you were at the "Trumpet"?—In the afternoon.

18,307. Was that after you had seen Fisher the second time?—I was in the "Trumpet" twice in the afternoon, once about half-past 2 or a little after 2, and just after the poll closed, about two minutes after 4.

18,308. What time was it you had seen Fisher at the committee room?—I should say it was half-past 2; between half-past 2 and 3. I cannot be positive to a few minutes.

18,309. Before you went to the "Trumpet" at a little after 4 did you see Hunt and a person of the name of Smith, a painter, together in the street?—No, I went into the "Trumpet" about half-past 2 and I saw Hunt and Smith, the fowl dealer, in the market room.

18,310. Did you hear Hunt say anything?—Yes. Am I allowed to make a statement?

18,311. State what passed.—I went into the "Trumpet" about half-past 2 with my friend and had a glass of ale. There were a great many people in the room, and they said, "Go into that room "through there." I had never been in the room, to the best of my knowledge, before in my life, and I understood it was the market room. When I got there they said, "Come in, shut the door; are you all "voters?" Someone answered, "Yes." I suppose he spoke for the whole of us. One man said Mr. Walker had voted, but howsomever the subject was dropped, and they said, "How many of you is "there?" and they were counted, and they counted 16. Hunt says he has got 5*l.*, and he will give 5*s.* each, and at that they grumbled, and then Smith, the fowl dealer, made a reply, as I understood, that he would be 1*l.* out of his own pocket and make it up 7*s.* 6*d.* a man, and some were agreeable to take it and some were not, and at that time I left them. I never saw anyone take any money or never took any myself, and I went out. We all went out, me, Walker, and Gilbert.

18,312. You were not willing to take the 7*s.* 6*d.*?—No, it was rather too cheap.

18,313. Do you know a painter whom you had seen in the "Trumpet"?—I saw a man, but I do not know his name.

18,31. Was he with Hunt?—No; the last man I saw I did not know his name. He was with young Mr. Smith, and old Smith, the fowl dealer, and Fuller, the landlord.

18,315. Where were they?—Fuller was against the poll, and young Smith was conducting the man up St. Stephen's.

18,316. Was that towards the "Trumpet"?—It was to the poll nearest to the "Trumpet."

18,317. Did you afterwards see that man at the "Trumpet" when you went back?—I went into the "Trumpet" after that with Gilbert. We did not go into the bar, but in the little side place. He peeped in at the door somewhere there, and they slammed it in his face, and afterwards Smith came out and he said, "Here is three more of them." He said it to Fuller, and Fuller said, "It is over time "now," as if he was loth to part with the coin, and Smith made a reply, and says to me, "Go you and "get nothing, you have done yourself," and I said, "Never mind, I have not allowed you to do me," and I left the house.

18,318. Did you see anything that passed inside that room?—No, nothing, because I had no chance to see anything, the door was shut.

18,319. Did you see the same man that you had seen with young Smith come out of the room?—No, I do not know who was in the room.

18,320. You received nothing for your vote?—I did not vote at all.

JAMES TILLETT sworn and examined.

J. Tillett.

18,321. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A smith.

18,322. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

18,323. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

18,324. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

18,325. Did you get anything for voting?—Yes.

18,326. How much?—10*s.*

18,327. From whom?—From Hardiment.

18,328. Where did he pay you?—In Rosemary Lane. I do not know the sign of the public house.

18,329. Was it Cartwright's?—Yes.

18,330. Did you see any one else paid?—No, there was only I and Hardiment in the room.

18,331. Who was outside?—I do not know.

18,332. How came you to go there?—I see a lot of people standing there, and I went in and I see them give the money away.

18,3 Can you give me the names of any that were standing about?—No, I cannot.

SIXTEENTH DAY.

J. Tillett.

27 Sept. 1869.

18,334. Were they all strangers to you?—Yes, all perfect strangers.

18,335. How came you to know there was money going there?—Because I went into the house.

18,336. Who told you about the money?—I see a lot of them go in one by one.

18,337. Did the landlord say anything to you about it?—I did not see any landlord.

18,338. Or landlady?—No.

18,339. Nobody?—No.

18,340. You go into Cartwright's public house, walk straight into a room, and get 10*s.*?—I see a lot go into the room one by one, and I go in and I see Hardiment there, and he gave me 10*s.*, and I went and voted directly.

18,341. Did nobody ask you whether you were a voter?—No, they never asked me such a question.

18,342. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) How came you to go into a room where he was?—I was coming past, and I saw a lot go in.

18,343. How many did you see go in?—Five or six, one by one.

18,344. At what time was this?—Between 3 and 4.

18,345. Do you mean to say you do not know the name of anybody else that was there that afternoon?—I cannot tell you the names.

F. Scotter.

FREDERICK SCOTTER sworn and examined.

18,346. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

18,347. At what time of the day did you vote?—I think it was somewhere about 4.

18,348. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

18,349. You keep a public house?—Yes.

18,350. Were there many voters there on the day of the poll?—Not any that I know of.

18,351. What is the sign of your public house?—The "Old Angel."

18,352. Was yours a party house?—No, certainly not.

18,353. Was there much beer consumed that day?—No, not more than usual, not so much I think it is very likely, because I was not up till near dinner time.

18,354. Who paid for the beer that was served?—Them that drank it.

18,355. You are quite certain of that?—Yes.

18,356. Did you hear of any money being paid for votes at this last election?—No.

18,357. You had no knowledge of it?—No, not any.

18,358. Did you receive any money?—No, not any.

18,359. Were you promised any?—Not one farthing.

18,360. Has any money been paid through your hands to any voters?—No, not one farthing.

18,361. Have you made any claim since the election for beer or anything else?—No, no claim whatever upon no person.

18,362. Have you had anything to do with any former elections here?—No, I never had anything to do with former elections.

18,363. Have you voted at former elections?—No.

W. Hewett.

WILLIAM HEWETT sworn and examined.

18,364. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shoemaker.

18,365. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

18,366. For whom?—For Tillett.

18,367. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

18,368. How came you to vote so late?—Because it suited my purpose best; I had no other time. I could not lose my time to go out.

18,369. Were you at work until then?—Yes.

18,370. Did you get anything for voting?—No, nothing.

18,371. Or the promise of anything?—No, nothing.

18,372. Or any beer?—No, nothing, not any.

18,373. Are you a member of the organisation?—No.

18,374. Had you been canvassed before?—No.

H. Durrant.

HENRY DURRANT recalled and further examined.

18,375. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Have you got that 16*l.*?—I have.

18,376. What do you mean to do with that money?—Keep it until somebody claims it who has a right to have it.

18,377. You know to whom it belongs?—No, I do not. I know from whom I got it, but where he got it from I do not know.

18,378. Do you mean to say you have not heard the proceedings before this court?—I only know it from what Bunn has stated.

18,379. And also from the evidence of Mr. Allen?—Yes.

18,380. Therefore you know where it came from?—I know Mr. Bunn had some money from Mr. Allen.

18,381. And you know it is Mr. Webster's money?—I do not know that.

18,382. Have you not read the evidence?—Yes.

18,383. Did you not know that Mr. Webster drew some money and handed it to Mr. Allen, and Mr. Allen handed it to Mr. Bunn?—Yes.

18,384. Were you concerned in former elections at this place?—Yes.

18,385. What money have you dispersed in bribery at former elections?—I cannot say the amount; I have never kept any memoranda of it.

18,386. How much did you disburse at the election of 1865?—Is that Waters' election?

18,387. Yes.—It would be 50*l.* or 60*l.* or something like that.

18,388. Is your memory defective?—I have no memoranda to go by at all.

18,389. Surely you can tell us with something like accuracy?—I cannot tell you nearer than 60*l.*

18,390. How many voters did you buy with that?—I cannot tell you.

18,391. Nor the names of any voters you bought?—No, I do not remember their names now; I kept no list.

18,392. About what did you pay for a vote?—About 2*l.* or 3*l.* I think it was at Waters' election.

18,393. That was about the standard price, was it?—Yes, I think that was about the price.

18,394. You bought about 20?—Yes, about that.

18,395. Who they were you cannot say?—No, I connot tell you at all.

18,396. Now, as to the election of 1860?—I really cannot recollect who the candidates were then.

18,397. Warner and Russell and Forlonge and Lewis; what money did you receive at that time?—Not a penny.

18,398. In the election of 1857, Bury and Schneider's; did you receive anything then?—I did, I know it is the election when the Liberals were put out.

18,399. Did you receive the money on the Conservative side?—What I received was on the Conservative side, certainly.

18,400. From whom did you receive it?—I think it was Mr. William Kitton.

18,401. About what was the amount?—Not so much as in Waters' election. I cannot tell you the amount.

18,402–3. Can you give us any idea to whom you paid that money?—No, it is so long ago I cannot recollect.

18,404. What about was the price of a vote?—It was smaller than 2*l.*

18,405. About 1*l.* or 30*s.*?—Yes, something like that.

18,406. Did you receive anything at the election of Lord Bury in that year, when there was only one vacancy?—No, I think not.

18,407. From whom did you get the 60*l.* at Mr. Waters' election?—Through the same gentleman, Mr. William Kitton.

18,408. (Mr. Biron.) Did you spend the whole of the 60*l.*?—Yes, I did.

18,409. The whole of it?—Except 3*l.* which they gave me.

18,410. Were you a voter then?—Yes.

18,411. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who was the person who said he gave you the odd 3*l.*?—Mr. William Kitton.

18,412. Are you a member of the Eldon Club?—No.

18,413. Did you receive anything from Mr. Kitton this time?—No, only from Bunn; the gentleman from whom I received the money on the other occasions is dead.

18,414. Did he die before the last election?—Yes.

JAMES CLAXTON sworn and examined.

J. Claxton.

18,415. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A weaver.

18,416. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

18,417. For whom?—Mr. Henry Stracey.

18,418. At what time in the day?—Twenty minutes before 4 or a quarter before 4, I cannot say which.

18,419. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

18,421. How came you to vote?—That was the first time I had a vote, and I thought I would vote.

18,422. Had you been canvassed?—They did canvass me, but I was out at the time. I never saw any one. I went and voted, and no one ever asked me.

18,423. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you in any public house that day?—No.

18,424. Nobody had promised you anything?—No.

18,425. You never received anything at all before or since?—No.

EDWARD NOBBS sworn and examined.

E. Nobbs.

18,426. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

18,427. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

18,428. What is your business?—A shopkeeper.

18,429. Were you employed with reference to the last election?—Yes.

18,430. On the part of Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

18,431. Were you paid?—Yes.

18,432. Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

18,433. For what work were you paid?—I was engaged for eight days. I had eight days' employment at the eighth ward committee room.

18,434. What were you doing?—I had to take charge of the committee room from morning till night. I had charge of the door to see who came in and went out, and to light the fire and sweep up.

18,435. You were employed during the whole of the election?—Yes.

18,436. Did they not tell you you ought not to vote?—No.

18,437. Who told you to vote?—Not anyone.

18,438. Did you receive anything beyond your pay for your services?—No, certainly not.

18,439. Do you know of any money being found for persons to pay to voters?—No, I do not know further than what I have heard and seen in the papers.

18,440. Did you carry any money to anybody?—No.

18,441. Did you hear talk of money being found in the committee room?—Yes, I heard it talked of.

18,442. Who talked about it?—It was the general conversation with the gentlemen in the committee room.

18,443. Who were talking about it?—Mr. Lake was there, and Mr. Wiseman was there.

18,444. What did Mr. Lake say?—He said that the thing was pretty well all right now, he believed. I cannot exactly say what words he made use of, but he made use of the words to the effect to make me know that money was stirring about.

18,445. Who else made an observation of that kind besides Mr. Lake?—Concerning the election do you mean?

18,446. About money being about.—I cannot remember exactly the particular persons. Mr. Lake and various other gentlemen were there, and, of course, I was there; and, of course, from what I see with my own eyes I knew money was stirring.

18,447. Did you see any money?—No, I did not see any money.

18,448. You heard Lake and Wiseman talking about it?—No, I did not hear Lake and Wiseman talking about it, but I saw Wiseman leave the committee room in a very particular hurry, and after Wiseman had gone away we expected he had gone after this.

18,449. What time of the day was this?—I think it was some time after 2.

18,450. Had Dr. Allen been in and spoken to Wiseman?—Yes, he had been previous to that.

18,451. Was Mr. Gedge in the room?—I will not say whether Mr. Gedge was there then, but Mr. Gedge had been there nearly all the day.

18,452. Did you hear him talking concerning this money?—No, I did not hear him talking concerning that money, and, in fact, I do not think he was there when Mr. Allen came, though he had been there the greater part of the day.

18,453. Did you hear money being talked about when Mr. Gedge returned?—No, certainly not.

18,454. When he was in the room was it being talked about?—No, not that I am aware of. Allow me to tell you it was not general conversation with the gentlemen that they expected to have any money, because I really do not think they expected they were going to have it till the last minute, because they said they were doing uncommonly well, and had polled more votes in the eighth ward on the Conservative side than they had ever known before, therefore I do not think they expected any money.

18,455. You do not recollect Mr. Gedge being there after Dr. Allen came?—I would more likely

SIXTEENTH DAY.

E. Nobbs.

27 Sept. 1869.

say he was, although I could not be on oath to say he was.

18,456. Was he there during any part of the day when money was being talked about?—Of course, he must have been, because he was there the biggest part of the day.

18,457. They were talking about money?—No, they were not talking about the money not till Mr. Allen came, and then I surmised that Mr. Allen brought the order for the money, as there was not any conversation about money previous to that.

W. Betts.

WILLIAM BETTS sworn and examined.

18,458. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

18,459. At what time in the day?—About 25 minutes to 4.

18,460. What made you poll so late?—I had not an opportunity before. I was at my employment.

18,461. I think you had been to the "Woolpack" that day?—After I had voted.

18,462. Do you not recollect some money being paid you there?—No, I never saw any.

18,463. Did you not receive money?—No, I did not.

18,464. Have you received any since?—No.

18,465. Has any been promised you?—No.

18,466. Can you give me the names of any of the people that were there?—No, I was not in the house five minutes.

18,467. Were you in the shed at the back of the house?—No.

18,468. Was there not a brother of yours there?—I have a brother of the name of Robert Betts.

18,469. He was there, was he not?—I never saw him.

18,470. Was Clarke there?—I never saw him.

18,471. Had you any conversation with Mackley on that day?—No, not a word.

18,472. Did you see Mackley there that day?—No; his wife drawed me a pint of beer when I went in.

18,473. What did she say to you?—She never said anything about it, but thanked me for my twopence.

18,474. Did you thank her for a sovereign?—I never got one or see one.

18,475. Did your wife get any money?—No.

18,476. Have your rates been paid for you?—I have paid them myself, nobody ever paid no rates for me.

18,477. Who asked you to vote at this election?—Nobody; I voted upon my own accord.

18,478. Is this the first time you ever voted?—Yes.

18,479. Were you not canvassed by anybody?—Yes, when I was not at home; the candidates came when I was out at my employment.

18,480. Did no one ask you to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—No, it is my principle.

18,481. Did you wager anything about his election?—No.

18,482. You did not make any bet about his election?—No; I was at my employment.

18,483. You went away at dinner time?—I was at work at 7 o'clock in the morning, and did not come off till 3 in the afternoon, and then I had half a mind to come home, and I stopped and got my dinner before I voted.

18,484. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you know a man of the name of Boulter?—Yes, he worked with me.

18,485. Was he not at the "Woolpack" that day?—I never saw him.

18,486. Have you not heard that he was?—No.

18,487. Do you know a man of the name of Clarke?—Yes, he worked with me too.

18,488. Do you not know that Boulter and Clarke received 1*l.* and 15*s.* for their votes?—No, I do not.

18,489. You saw Hardiment there, did you not?—No, I never saw Mr. Hardiment that day at all.

18,490. Did Mackley give you anything that day?—No.

18,491. Did he not take you into a shed at the back?—No.

18,492. Did you go into a shed with him?—No.

18,493. Were you not in a shed at the back of his premises that day?—No, I was not.

18,494. Did not Mackley give you some money that day?—No.

18,495. Nor promise you any?—No, nor promise me anything.

18,496. Have you not heard Boulter and Clarke say they have received money from Mackley that day?—No, I did not.

18,497. Had you no conversation with them about their receiving money?—No.

R. Betts.

ROBERT BETTS sworn and examined.

18,498. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

18,499. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

18,500. At what time in the day?—About half-past three. I could not vote before on account of having a lot of work to do, or else I should have voted in the morning.

18,501. Did you get anything for voting?—No, nothing; I was at work the whole day.

18,502. Were you at the "Woolpack" on the election day?—Not that day. I was at the "Woolpack" about 7 o'clock in the evening, but I was not there at all during the day.

18,503. Were you not there with your brother, James Betts?—I have a brother James, the oldest brother, but he was not there the whole day, I know.

18,504. Do you know Boulter?—I know him, but I never see him that day.

18,505. Did you notice him at the "Woolpack"?—I did not see him the whole day. I was at work the whole day.

18,506. Did you not receive 1*l.* from Mackley?—I never received 1*l.*, nor see Mr. Mackley not till after 6 o'clock in the evening.

18,507. After 6 o'clock in the evening did you receive it?—I never received a farthing from Mr. Mackley in my life.

18,508. Were you in a shed at the back of his house?—I was not at the back or front that day.

18,509. You said you were after 6?—I was after 6, but voting was all over then, and I never received anything from Mr. Mackley.

18,510. Did you receive any money from anybody?—I never received a farthing.

18,511. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you promised anything?—No. I never see anyone that day. I was at work the whole day, and never went off my ground till about half-past 3, and then I went to vote; and after I went to vote my brother William called me into the "Rosemary" tavern, and said, "Robert, have a glass of ale;" and I said, "I feel "rather dry;" and I said, "I will be a pint along "with you after my work is done; I must do it." And after 6 I went to Mackley's, and was there, I suppose, till about 10. I never see a soul that day.

18,512. Do you know William Clarke?—Yes, I know him quite well. I work with him.

18,513. Was he at Mackley's?—I do not know. I was not there myself.

18,514. Who went to the poll with you?—Not anyone. I went alone, and came back the same. I did not want anyone to go with me, for I knew the way.

18,515. Have you had a talk with your brother James about this?—I do not suppose I have been in my brother James' company these three years.

18,516. Have you not heard your brother James say that Boulter, you, and William Betts received 1*l.*?—He could not say such a thing, because I never received any.

18,517. Have you not heard your brother say such a thing?—No, I never heard any such thing.

18,518. That you received it at the shed at the back of Mackley's house?—I was not in the shed or at Mackley's house till after the polling was over, a quarter after 6.

18,519. Your brother James Betts lives in Tinkler's Lane?—No, in St. Martin's, next door to Mr. Baldwin, the baker.

18,520. What is your brother?—A weaver.

18,521. Is he a voter?—No, he had no vote on account of being away, and had not been here time enough to pay the rates; he had been in the country.

18,522. Is he in Norwich now?—Yes.

18,523. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

18,524. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

18,525. For whom?—Tillett and Russell.

18,526. At what time did you vote?—About a quarter to 9 in the morning.

18,527. Do you know of anybody having received money at the last election for voting?—Myself I am not a personal witness to anything of the sort, but there are two or three points about which I have had pretty clear information; one thing is respecting a Thomas Mackley that keeps a public house in St. Gregory's.

18,528. I will not trouble you about that at present. Do you know anything respecting any other person?—There is a young man of the name of Joseph Scarles that voted at the last election illegally, and he said in the presence of me and others, using very rough language, that he had no vote, and never would vote without money being paid; he voted for Mr. Stracey, and came up in a gross state of intoxication led by a dark gentleman, and he has since stated to an acquaintance of mine that he took half-a-sovereign.

18,529. Who was the person to whom he made that statement?—Mr. Godfrey Simmons.

18,530. Who is he?—He lives in Tinkler's Lane, and is a shoemaker.

18,531. Where does Joseph Scarles live?—He lives in Tinkler's Lane, and is a shoemaker, but he had no vote.

18,532. He was not upon the register?—No. I saw him vote.

18,533. In whose name did he vote?—I do not know, but I saw him vote about 20 minutes past 3 in the afternoon, and he voted for Stracey.

18,534. In whose name?—I could not find out. I have been informed since that it was a wrong voting paper sent to him, and he voted for somebody else.

18,535. At what polling place did he vote?—At the voting place in St. Giles' Street; he voted just before Mr. Uran, who voted for Tillett and Russell.

ROBERT WEBSTER sworn and examined. R. Webster.

18,537. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

18,538. At what time in the day?—Between 2 and 3 o'clock.

18,539. What made you vote so late?—I was at work in the country, and did not come home till dinner hour.

18,540. Who asked you to vote?—Mr. Hardiment.

18,541. Did he give you anything for your vote?—5*s.*

18,542. Where did he give you the 5*s.*?—At Mr. Cartwright's, the "Rosemary" tavern, in St. Mary's, in the eighth ward.

18,543. Were there other people there?—Yes, there were many persons passing out and repassing.

18,544. Did you see anybody else get any money?—I did not see anyone take anything.

18,545. What made you go there?—I went in there to get a glass of ale before I voted, and I stayed there a few minutes.

18,546. And you heard there was money going?—They said they were giving 5*s.*

18,547. Who told you?—I heard many of them saying they were giving 5*s.*

18,548. It was common talk amongst a good many of them?—Yes.

18,549. And you went up to poll?—Yes.

18,550. Who went with you?—A man of the name of Freestone, who was in the room at the time.

18,551. Was Freestone there when you got the money?—Yes.

18,552. And saw it paid?—Yes.

18,553. And he took you up to the poll?—Yes, he went up to the poll with me to vote.

18,554. Had anything been said about getting money before this?—No, I had not heard anything. When I got my breakfast I went up to Catton, and did not come home till dinner time, and after I got my dinner I went to the polling place and voted.

18,555. Was this the first time you had ever voted?—Yes.

EDWARD SUMMERS sworn and examined. E. Summers.

18,556. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A labourer.

18,557. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

18,558. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

18,559. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

18,560. What did you get for voting?—1*l.*

18,561. Who gave it to you?—Mr. Hardiment.

18,562. Where?—At Mr. Mackley's, on the landing.

18,563. Who was with you?—There were several people there; a man of the name of Howard, of St. Martin's, a horse dealer, and a man of the name of Staff, who is dead since.

18,564. Where did he live?—He lived in St. Martin's.

18,565. What was he?—A match manufacturer, I think.

18,566. Anyone else?—There were several there, but those were the only names I knew when I was there.

SIXTEENTH DAY.

E. Summers.

27 Sept. 1869.

18,567. Did they get anything?—I did not see what they got, but I made sure they got the same as I did. I did not see them take any money.

18,568. Did you see Mackley himself there?—I see him in the bar when I went in to get a glass of ale, going through.

18,569. You did not see him upstairs?—No, not while I was there.

18,570. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) How many of you were there together?—I should think there might b a dozen at the time I was there.

18,571. Had you seen some coming down and some going up?—Yes.

18,572. (Mr. Biron.) At what time was it you got this money?—I should think about 3 or a little after, but it was nearer 4 when I voted.

18,573. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you know of any other men having received money besides those?—No.

T. Warnes.

THOMAS WARNES sworn and examined.

18,574. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you live at the "Ship," Cowgate Street, St. Paul's?—Yes.

18,575. Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

18,576. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

18,577. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4, I think, or something like that, but I cannot tell to a minute or two.

18,578. You know Dr. Allen, do you not?—I know him to see to.

18,579. Did you receive some money from him on that day?—No.

18,580. Did you receive any money for paying voters that day?—No.

18,581. Or at any time?—No.

18,582. Did you give any money to voters that day?—No.

18,583. Did you promise them any money?—No.

18,584. Did you receive any money yourself for voting?—No, I never received a farthing. All the money I took was for my beer.

18,585. Were there voters in your house that day?—Yes, several.

18,586. Who came in and ordered the beer?—I cannot say who they were.

18,587. Was there not an order given for beer supplied for the people there?—I heard my wife say that somebody gave her an order for half-a-crown's worth of beer, and she took the money for it.

18,588. Do you know who that person was?—No, I do not; stop, excuse me, my son paid my wife for the beer.

18,589. Do you know from whom he got the money?—No, I do not.

18,590. In what position of life is your son?—He keeps a public house; he is a shoemaker by trade.

18,591. Do you know a person of the name of Stamp?—Yes, I know a man of the name of Stamp that lives in my street.

18,592. Was he in your house that day?—He was not.

18,593. Will you swear he was not?—Yes, I will swear so. I came here to speak the truth, and I speak the truth.

18,594. Do you recollect Dr. Allen coming into your house that afternoon?—No, I do not.

18,595. Was Inspector Clarke there?—No. Inspector Clarke was never in my house in his life, not since I have kept it; he has been up my yard, but not in my house.

18,596. Did he come up your yard that afternoon?—No, I never see him. I never see him that day at all.

18,597. Did you hear some betting going on that day?—There was none.

18,598. Were they not betting 5 to 1 that the men dare not vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—If there was such a thing, I never heard it.

18,599. Where did the men sit while they were drinking their beer?—In the tap-room.

18,600. Did you go in and out of the tap-room?—Yes.

18,601. Did you not hear them talking about making bets of 5 to 1 that the men dare not vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Believe me, I was backwards and forwards, and I never heard it. If I heard it, I might as well say yes as no.

18,602. Do you recollect Dr. Allen ordering some beer at your house?—No, never.

18,603. Did he not call for some beer?—No; I never saw Mr. Allen at all that election day.

18,604. You will not undertake to say he was not there?—No, he was not there, I can assure you, nor yet Mr. Clarke was not there. I never saw either. All I see of Mr. Allen is by his going backwards and forwards riding. I never spoke to the man in my life that I know of.

18,605. Your son was very active that day, was he not?—Yes, I believe he was.

18,606. Do you know a man of the name of Myers?—No.

18,607. Had your son a cart?—Yes.

18,608. Was he taking up men in the cart to the poll?—I do not know. He was rather busy in the election, and he came to me. I should not have voted at all if he had not come to me and axed me to oblige him.

18,609. Do you know the two Staffs?—Yes, I know them.

18,610. Were they in your house?—Yes, backwards and forwards the whole day.

18,611. Do you not know that they got beer which was paid for by other people?—I do not know anything about that.

18,612. Did they pay you for any beer?—What beer I drawed I took for.

18,613. Were not the Staffs drinking in your house the whole day, and do you mean to say they paid you a single farthing for beer?—They might pay my wife.

18,614. They might, but will you undertake to say that they paid a single farthing for beer?—I do not recollect drawing anything for them, but my wife might.

18,615. Is your son a voter?—Yes, to be sure.

18,616. Your son keeps a public house; what is the name of it?—The "Elm" tavern.

18,617. Where is it?—In the boundaries of Catton.

18,618. Do you recollect some people calling at your house in order to get up voters, and your wife saying to them that beer alone would not do it, and they must have some money?—No, I do not recollect it.

18,619. Will you undertake to say your wife did not say that to them in your presence?—Not in my presence. I heard her say she took half a crown for beer.

18,620. Did you not hear her say that beer alone would not do it, and they must have some money?—No, I never heard the words, and never see the colour of no money.

18,621. Has not your wife told you that she said so?—No.

18,622. Did you not know that the voters in your house wanted money?—Yes, they did want some, but they did not get none.

18,623. Did they not get it?—I never see a farthing.

18,624. Do you not know that they got it?—No, I do not.

18,625. Did you not hear them say that they got it?—No, certainly not.

18,626. Do you not know anybody who came there for the purpose of giving it to them?—I do not know who came.

18,627. Do you not know that some persons came to your house for the purpose of giving voters money?—I do not know what they came for.

18,628. Were there some persons there who came to get some voters?—Yes.

18,629. Who were they?—My son was one, and another man named Worledge, and the other men I do not know.

18,630. Have you never seen them before or since?—No.

18,631. Was Cubitt one?—I do not know him.

18,632. Did you hear his name?—I heard his name, but I did not know him if I see him.

18,633. Did you not hear that they were giving money to the voters to go to the poll?—I do not know that they were giving money to the voters to go to the poll.

18,634. Do you know Mr. Woodrow?—I heard his name. I do not know him.

18,635. Did you not hear that Mr. Woodrow, Cubitt, and your son were there for the purpose of getting up the voters and paying them money?—I know nothing about paying the money.

18,636. Did you not hear they were paying money?—No, I never heard they were paying money.

18,637. You knew the voters that were in your house?—There were several.

18,638. Just give me the names?—There were the two Starkes.

18,639. Was Stamp there?—I never see him there that day at all.

18,640. Was William Platten there?—I do not know him by name.

18,641. Was Charles Foster there?—No.

18,642. Give me the names of those you know?—There were two Starkes and a young man by the name of Wright.

18,643. Where does he live?—In Ship Yard. There was a man of the name of William Bensley and another man by the name of Bolingbroke. I cannot recollect any more.

18,644. I shall be obliged to refresh your memory, you can recollect a great deal more; there were 30 men in your house?—No, nor yet above half.

18,645. There were 15 then?—There might be 15, but they were not all voters.

18,646. I do not care whether they were all voters; who were the men in your house?—I cannot tell, they were coming backwards and forwards; they were strangers.

18,647. Who were those who were coming backwards and forwards whom you did know and were not strangers?—I have told you the persons that were voters.

18,648. Tell me those who were not voters?—I cannot tell you who they were, they were quite strangers.

18,649. Cannot you tell me the name of one?—No, I cannot.

18,650. Do you mean to say there were not several other people there who used your house?—Yes.

18,651. Tell me their names?—How can I tell you their names when I do not know them; they were strangers coming backwards and forwards at election times, busy times, and I cannot tell you who they were.

18,652. Do you know a man of the name of Spaules?—Yes, certainly I do.

18,653. Was he there?—He is a neighbour of mine, he might be there.

18,654. Was he not there?—I cannot tell you whether he was there exactly.

18,655. Do you not recollect that he was there?—He might be there.

18,656. Did you see your son with money?—No, I never see him with none; he paid my wife half-a-crown for beer that was ordered, but I never see it. I heard my wife say she took the half-crown.

18,657. Spaules was not a voter?—No, I do not think he was.

18,658. Did your wife give him some money that day?—I cannot say, I am sure, I should say it is very likely she did not.

18,659. After that answer I will send you down to try and recollect yourself?—My wife never gave him no money, I know.

GEORGE SENTON sworn and examined. G. Senton.

18,660. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a voter?—Not now; I was at the time of the election.

18,661. For whom did you vote?—Stracey.

18,662. At what time of the day did you vote?—It was some time in the afternoon, between 3 and 4, I think it was.

18,663. Did anybody give you anything for your vote?—Not anything.

18,664. Did anybody make any offer for your vote?—No.

18,665. Have you had anything since?—No.

18,666. Have you had anything promised you?—No. I know no more than this board about the election.

18,667. Is this the first time you have voted?—Yes, for a general election.

EDMUND WARMAN sworn and examined. E. Warman.

18,668. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a superannuated police officer of the county of Norfolk, and one of the night watch at the Castle.

18,669. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

18,670. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

18,671. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

18,672. Are you married?—Yes.

18,673. Did your wife ever tell you that she got something for your voting?—I know she did not.

18,674. How do you know that?—Because I am certain she would have told me if she had.

18,675. You mean that she did not tell you?—I was never canvassed by no one, no one came to canvass me from either party.

18,676. Did you hear of anything being left at your house?—No.

18,677. Did you hear of half a sovereign being left?—No, there was not and none offered.

18,678. Did you hear that some men had been to get you up to vote?—I was upstairs, and heard the conversation. I was ill at the time, and my wife said I was not going till I had taken some refreshment; and they said "what refreshment will he "take;" and my wife said, "not anything at your "expense."

18,679. Did they offer to give her some money for you to vote?—No.

18,680. Or leave any?—No.

18,681. Was that all that took place?—Yes.

18,682. Why did you not vote earlier in the day?—Because I had been unwell.

18,683. Had you been canvassed before?—No.

18,684. Do you know a man of the name of John White?—I have known him since the election. I did not go out for 24 days after the election, and I never left my house, I think, for 13 days before.

18,685. Were you not taken to vote in a cab?—In a fly.

18,686. Who took you?—I do not know who the man was; he was a perfect stranger to me, and I never spoke to him or he to me.

18,687. How did he know you were going to vote?—A man came down to the house, and asked if my name was Warman, and I said, "Yes;" and he said, "There is a chaise waiting at the door that will take "you to the poll and back again."

18,688. Did he ask you for whom you were going to vote?—He knew perfectly well I was a Conservative, and always voted Conservative.

18,689. Had you promised your vote?—No. I had not been solicited by either party, neither Whigs nor Conservatives.

SIXTEENTH DAY.

27 Sept. 1869.

Joseph Marshall sworn and examined.

J. Marshall.

18,690. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What are you by trade?—An upholsterer and paperhanger.

18,691. Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

18,692. At what time did you vote?—At about half-past 2, as nigh as I can judge.

18,693. Where were you during the election?—I was at my work in the forenoon.

18,694. But towards the afternoon in what public house were you?—In none at all.

18,695. Were you canvassed for your vote?—No, I was not, nor yet asked by anyone to vote.

18,696. Do you mean to say that you went up of your own accord?—Yes, I went up fearlessly and freely on my own account, and I was not asked for my vote by anyone.

18,697. Were you not promised anything for your vote?—No, not in any shape whatever.

18,698. Was anything given to you for your vote?—Nothing at all; I never had anything.

18,699. Had you been a voter before?—Yes.

18,700. Had you received anything before for your vote?—No, never in my life.

18,701. Had you always voted for the Conservatives?—No.

18,702. Then why did you vote for them this time?—My own inclination led me to do so.

18,703. But what had changed your inclination?—I cannot tell what had changed my inclination. I had no promise of anything.

18,704. What made you change your mind and vote for the Conservatives, you having always voted for the Liberals before?—I cannot give you any reason for it.

18,705. Can you give no reason at all?—No, I had no reason for changing my opinion.

18,706. Then why did you vote at all?—The only reason I can give you is that my inclination led me to do so.

18,707. (Mr. Biron.) The Conservatives had changed; they had passed the Reform Bill; was it because you thought that they had come over to your way of thinking?—I cannot give you any reason. I have spoken the truth. I never asked anything, and I was never promised anything, and I never drank a glass of beer at anybody's expense.

James Aldham sworn and examined.

J. Aldham.

18,708. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

18,709. At what hour in the day did you vote?—At 20 minutes after 9.

18,710. Who canvassed you for your vote?—I was never canvassed at all. I had two cards sent to me, one from each party.

18,711. Did you receive anything for your vote?—No.

18,712. Were you promised anything?—No.

18,713. Did you ever receive anything for your vote at any former election?—No.

18,714. Or were you ever promised anything?—No.

18,715. What are you by trade?—I am messenger to the Board of Guardians.

18,716. Did you always vote on the Conservative side?—Yes, always, for 40 years.

Abraham Fitzgerald sworn and examined.

A. Fitzgerald.

18,717. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A malster.

18,718. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

18,719. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

18,720. At what time in the day?—About 11 o'clock. I cannot say exactly; but somewhere about that time.

18,721. Did you see Hardiment that day?—I saw him afterwards. I was at work up to the time I voted.

18,722. After 11 did you see him?—I see him in the street.

18,723. Did you go about with him?—No.

18,724. Did he give you anything?—No.

18,725. Did you see him give anything to anybody else?—No.

18,726. Did he say anything to you about bribing people?—No, I only knew the man by sight; I never spoke to him previously.

18,727. How came you to speak to him that day?—I did not speak to him; I only saw him in the street.

18,728. You only saw him passing by?—That is all.

18,729. Did you see anybody get any money that day for voting?—No.

18,730. Do you know of anybody having had any money for voting?—No, I cannot say. I was hard at work till I went and voted; and after I voted I was about the streets, and in and out, looking after my work.

James Michael Platfoot sworn and examined.

J. M. Platfoot.

18,731. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What are you?—A boot and shoe manufacturer.

18,732. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Tillett and Russell.

18,733. Do you know Thomas Worledge?—Yes.

18,734. Did you go to Clarke's beerhouse on the day of the election?—Yes.

18,735. Did you see there a man of the name of Enoch Colman?—No.

18,736. Do you know Enoch Colman?—Yes.

18,737. Did you see him that day?—Yes.

18,738. Did he ask you any questions?—No. Andrew Colman; that is the brother of Enoch Colman.

18,739. Did he ask you if you had any money?—Yes.

18,740. On your side?—Yes.

18,741. What did you say?—I told him no, nor yet none of our party, because I thought they were all too true for that.

18,742. Did he then say anything to you?—Yes.

18,743. What did he say?—He said he would not vote unless he got paid for his day's work.

18,744. Did he say there were any others of the same opinion as himself?—Yes, he said there was about 40.

18,745. What did he want?—A day's pay, about half-a-crown he thought. I said "It is no use." He said "Go with me and you can see them all," and I went with Mr. Colman into Clarke's beerhouse. There was not 40, but there was a great many. The room was quite full. It was a bake office, the back room. They got me into the centre of the room. They said I was a good hearted fellow, and that sort of thing, "Would I give them anything as a day's "work?" I said "No, I had nothing." They said "Nonsense, there is money." I said "Not by the "Liberal party. It was the Conservative party." They said "No matter what side, money we want and "money we'll have."

18,746. What time in the day was this?—About half-past 3.

18,747. Did you see young Wiseman there?—Yes, they kept me in the room. They locked me in this room, and said I should not go unless I gave them some money or stood something to drink. I said

"You might lock me up, but I won't give you any "money or anything to drink." Mr Clarke gave the "down" to say somebody was coming. It was young Wiseman, and I did not leave the house, but I stood against the door. Mr. Wiseman passed me and went inside in the midst of those men that had not voted.

18,748. Did you see Benfather there?—No.

18,749. Who were the men who were there at that time, do you know their names?—I know several of their names; one man's name was Cutlock that I had asked to vote for Tillett, and he said he would not unless he got paid, and a man of the name of Sexton.

18,750. What is his Christian name?—Benjamin. He voted for Stracey about half-past 3, or somewhere about that time.

18,751. Who else?—Enoch Colman. He voted for Stracey.

18,752. Did he tell you what he had got?—No, nor yet any of them.

18,753. Do you know Isaac Fountain? Was he there?—I don't know him. He might be there, but I don't know him.

18,754. Do you know a man of the name of Warren?—No.

18,755. Did not you see Benfather there at all?—Not in the house. He was outside the door. He came up to Clarke's beerhouse, I think, in a cab with Sexton in it. He was not taken from Clarke's beerhouse; Sexton was not.

18,756. What time in the day was it when he came up?—About half-past 3.

18,757. Did you see him do anything?—Not anything.

18,758. Did you see him go into the house?—He did not come into the house when I was there.

18,759. Did you see him speaking to the men who were outside?—No, I cannot say. My eye was on young Wiseman. That is the man I was looking after.

18,760. Was Benfather there when young Wiseman was there?—Mr. Wiseman was inside the house, Benfather was outside.

18,761. Did you see young Wiseman do anything?—No, I did not see him do anything, but he was talking and whispering over the table, and he had not been in two minutes before the fly was filled right full with voters, and they voted for Stracey, because I went and saw.

18,762. Who was with young Wiseman?—I cannot say.

18,763. Do you know a person of the name of White, a pedestrian?—Yes.

18,764. Was he there?—No, he was working very hard like myself.

18,765. Did you see young Wiseman give money to anybody?—Not in Clarke's beerhouse or anywhere else, but those men said they would not vote unless they got paid, and he said something to the men, and they all left the beerhouse. Wiseman came outside, and he said "There is Ross and one or two others," the names I never catched, and from Clarke's beerhouse they went to the "Royal Oak" where Benfather lived.

18,766. Is that Richard Ross?—Yes.

18,767. You did not see any money paid there?—No, I thought he gave them money, and I said to Wiseman again the "Royal Oak" "You are going to "work rather curious." "What do you mean?" he said. I said "Giving money. I know you have "given money because those men you have just sent "to the poll said they would not vote unless they got "paid for their day's work," and he said "Don't make "a noise. Do you want half a sovereign?" and I said "No."

18,768. I suppose he did not give you half a sovereign?—No.

18,769. At what place did you see him talking to the voters?—Well, my thoughts was after this other man; I left him going into the "Royal Oak."

18,770. There you left him?—Yes, and I saw these other men polled. I saw them give their vote in at the polling booth.

18,771. Do you know of any other money having been given away at this election?—Well, I was in a carriage on the railway about three weeks ago, and got into company with a young man of the name of Brady, a glass maker in Magdalen Street. He said he was offered money. I said "Who by?" and he said "By Mr. Chaplin, of Bridge Street," the shoe manufacturer.

18,772. Did you see him with Worledge?—Yes, several times during the day, and I had been told lots of times they were getting votes for beer and so on. I said "No matter what they do. I am not supposed "to do anything of the sort." I also heard that Mr. Sparkes, of Cat and Fiddle Yard, received money for his vote. Sparkes, the glass maker, he received it of Mr. Chaplin, I understood.

18,773. From whom did he receive it?—Mr. Brady will be able to tell you all about that.

MARIA WARNES sworn and examined.

M. Warnes.

18,774. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You are landlady of the "Ship," in Cowgate Street?—Yes, I am.

18,775. Do you recollect the day of the election?—Yes, I do.

18,776. Your son was very active in that election, was he not?—I don't know, I am sure, what my son done on the election day.

18,777. But your son was at your house on that day?—Yes, he came in a cart; but I don't know whether he got out of the cart or not. I don't think he did.

18,778. Were there not a number of men who were voters in your house drinking on that day?—Well, I had some people in my house drinking on that day.

18,779. Were there not a number of voters?—They might be voters.

18,780. Tell me their names, whether they were voters or not?—That I cannot do.

18,781. You know some of them?—Yes, I know the names of my neighbours what lives about me.

18,782. Give me the names of your neighbours?—William Bensley, of St. Edmund's, is one.

18,783. Who else?—A man by the name of William Bailey, next door in my yard. He said if he was wanted he would come.

18,784. Who else?—If I was at home I might recollect; but I don't know out of so many.

18,785. Do you mean to say you could recollect them better at home than here?—I think I could.

18,786. Why?—Because I was brought from my house at a minute or two's notice, and I am an old woman, and am rather confused.

18,787. Now calm yourself?—I am here to speak the truth.

18,788. Of course.—I had several of my neighbours there, but I did not go with them to vote.

18,789. Who else was there?—There was John Bridge. He was in that day, and I had several in on the election day.

18,790. Go on.—I am sure I cannot tell you exactly. I had several in, but who they were I could not say. I might have enough to do to recollect everybody that came in my house that day.

18,791. Do you recollect William Platten?—No, I don't know him.

18,792. Do you recollect Thomas Stamp?—No, I don't know him.

18,793. You recollect the two Staffs?—Yes, I can recollect Mr. Staff and his son.

18,794. They were there?—They might come in.

18,795. Were they in there or not?—I am sure I

SIXTEENTH DAY.

M. Warnes.

27 Sept. 1869.

don't know. I don't know whether they were in mine or not. They do come in sometimes.

18,796. Were they in there on that day?—Well, I believe they was.

18,797. Was there a person of the name of Cubitt there that day?—I don't know Mr. Cubitt.

18,798. Was William Wright there?—Yes, he was; he came into my house that day. They are neighbours living round.

18,799. Bolingbroke, was he there?—Yes.

18,800. What is his Christian name?—William, I believe.

18,801. Where does he live?—I believe he lives in St. Edmund's.

18,802. Do you recollect your son coming there?—Yes, I recollect my son coming to the door.

18,803. Who came with him?—I cannot tell you.

18,804. Did you see anybody with him?—Yes, there was one or two men with him; but I am sure I don't know who they was.

18,805. Were not Cubitt and Worledge with him?—I don't know Cubitt.

18,806. Do you know Worledge?—No, I don't know Worledge. If I was now to meet him I should not know him.

18,807. Did anybody that came with your son pay for beer?—No.

18,808. Did they send up for beer?—My son gave me half-a-crown, as he has many a time given me a shilling, for the good of the house.

18,809. Was that money distributed amongst the people there?—Certainly not.

18,810. What was it given for?—Because I am his mother, and he has often given me a shilling, my son has.

18,811. He gave you a shilling as a present?—He has many a time.

18,812. He gave you a shilling as a present that day?—No; he gave me half-a-crown.

18,813. As a present?—Yes.

18,814. For no other purpose?—No; what should he give his mother half-a-crown for?

18,815. Did you give him ale for it?—No; he has given me sixpence many a time.

18,816. How soon after he came in did he give you the half-crown?—When he was going away.

18,817. Did you after that draw some beer?—I don't know. If anybody came in for a pint of beer, of course I drawed it.

18,818. Did you not draw some beer, and give it to the people who were in your tap-room?—Certainly not; if I had beer drawed in my house, I had the money paid for it. Who poured it out I don't know.

18,819. Were you not paid by your son for the men who were in the tap-room?—No; they paid for it themselves. My son did not pay for nobody.

18,820. Do you know Charles Foster?—No, I don't know him.

18,821. Do you know a man of the name of Mears?—No, I don't.

18,822. Do you recollect Dr. Allen coming to your house that afternoon?—Certainly not. He has never been in my house. Once I sent for him on account of my little child being ill, but he did not come; he sent his man. I should not know Dr. Allen only by his coming past in a gig.

18,823. If your husband said you drew beer that is wrong?—I did draw some beer that day.

18,824. If your husband said you drew beer for the half-crown which your son gave you it is wrong?—I don't know. I drawed some beer that day, and my son gave me half-a-crown more than once. My husband was not there, I don't think.

18,825. I don't care whether your husband was there or not; but did you not draw beer for that half-crown which was given to you by your son?—My son told me, "If you draw a glass of beer at election "time mind you take the money for it."

18,826. And yet he gave you half-a-crown?—He has given me more than one half-crown, my son has. He has given me half-a-crown many a time.

18,827. Did he not give you that half-crown, and tell you to draw beer for it? And did you not tell your husband so?—No, I did not. I could not tell him so.

18,828. Then if he has said you told him so he told a falsehood, did he?—I am not come here to tell a falsehood.

18,829. But if he said so he has told a falsehood?—I don't think my husband did say so. You have summoned me to tell the truth, and I won't tell an untruth for anyone. People had something in my house, and they paid for it.

18,830. Listen to my question. If your husband said you told him that you drew the beer for the half-crown he has told a falsehood, has he?—I don't think my husband said so. I don't think my husband has come here to say a falsehood.

18,831. Do you mean to say it is a falsehood?—I don't believe my husband said so.

18,832. But if he said that you told him that you drew the beer for that it is a falsehood?—If he did say so; but has my husband said so?

18,833. If your husband said that you drew beer for that half-crown he has told a falsehood, has he?—Well, sir, I drawed some beer that day.

18,834. And did you not draw it for the half-crown?—I drawed some beer, and he gave me half-a-crown.

18,835. Did you not draw the beer after you had the half-crown?—Certainly not after the half-crown was given me, because my son went off directly after he gave me the half-crown.

18,836. Did you draw it at the same time?—No, I stood on the threshold. My son said "Mother, "come here," and he gave me half-a-crown.

18,837. Did you not draw beer for that half-crown that was given you by your son?—I drawed some beer.

18,838. And for that half-crown?—No, I don't know that it was for the half-crown, because my son had given me half-a-crown when it was not for beer. He was in on the Saturday, and gave me a shilling, and did not have beer.

18,839. Was there not some beer drunk by the men for which they did not pay?—What! draw a pint of beer without the money.

18,840. Listen to the question. Do you mean to say that there was no beer drawn in your house, and drunk by people who did not pay for it?—Yes; I drawed some, and I often do that, and I did not get paid for it.

18,841. Has anybody paid you since for it?—Certainly not; not a farthing. If they say so bring them to my face.

18,842. Do you know a man of the name of Spaull?—I know a neighbour across the way of the name of Spaull, in Priory Yard.

18,843. Did you give him some money that day?—What should I give him money for?

18,844. Did you give it him?—No, I never gave him a penny in all my life.

18,845. You will swear you did not give Spaull some money on that day?—No, I did not. I don't know whether I saw him or not. I might see him.

18,846. Did you not give Spaull money that day?—I don't know what I should give him money for that day.

18,847. Did you?—I have given him money when he was ill. I may have given him a penny or a pint, but not at election time.

18,848. Not that day?—No, nor yet the next day.

18,849. Did you not give Spaull some money, and when he turned out not to be a voter did he not refuse to give it you back, and did he not work it out afterwards?—You have asked me questions I cannot resolve. I never gave Spaull a penny nor a farthing.

18,850. Did he work out any money with you?—Never in his life.

18,851. Did you find out that he was not a voter?—I don't know whether he is a voter or not.

18,852. Do you believe he was a voter?—I don't trouble my head about it. I know nothing about it; whether he is a voter or not.

18,853. Did he refuse to return you money?—No. Bring him here, now I am before you. I have given him a penny when he was ill.

18,854. Will you undertake to say you never gave any money to Spaull, which he refused to return?—I don't know that I saw him that day.

18,855. Do you swear that you did not give him on that day money which he refused to return, when it was found out that he was not a voter, and which he ultimately worked out?—I tell you what you had better do. You have summoned me; you had better summon him, and ask him that.

18,856. Did Spaull do any work for you that day?—No, nor yet no other day.

18,857. Never since the election?—No, nor yet before.

18,858. Has he never done any work at all for you?—No.

18,859. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you only get one half-crown from your son?—That is all, and when any man come in that day, the same as they might this morning, to get a pint or a pot of beer, they got it. If I trusted them and they did not pay me, it was my loss.

18,860. Did you receive a further sum afterwards from him?—Certainly not. I don't think I see my son again that day.

18,861. The next day did he pay you some more?—No. I don't think I saw him the next day.

18,862. Do you mean to say you have received no further money from your son?—No, certainly not, of course. I never see any money offered nor beer given, I assure you. I am come here to speak the truth, I am the mother of a lot of children, and I would not stand here to tell an untruth.

18,863. What is Spaull's Christian name?—Robert.

THOMAS BOULTER sworn and examined.

T. Boulter.

18,864. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

18,865. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Stracey.

18,866. At what time in the day?—About 3 o'clock, or something like that. I cannot tell you exactly.

18,867. With whom did you go to the poll?—No one. I went alone.

18,868. Who asked you to go and vote?—No one asked me to go. I went myself.

18,869. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing at all.

18,870. Did you get any beer?—No, not a drop.

18,871. Did you not get a sovereign?—No; nor yet a farthing.

18,872. Have you ever told anybody that you got a sovereign?—No, not for my vote.

18,873. What did you get a sovereign for?—I never got one.

18,874. Did you get any money at all that day?—Not a halfpenny.

18,875. Were you promised any?—Not by nobody.

18,876. Were you at the "Woolpack" that day?—Not at all.

18,877. Were you near the "Woolpack"?—No nigher than what I work that I know of.

18,878. Were you at the "Woolpack" in the evening?—Not in the evening.

18,879. Is this the first time you ever voted?—The first time I ever voted in my life. I never had a vote before.

18,880. What made you vote if nobody asked you?—I voted on principle.

18,881. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did Mackley give you any money?—I never see him.

18,882. Not on that day?—No; I never was in Mackley's only once in my life, and that was when I had a sore leg. A man gave me half a pint of porter to go in on a Sunday.

18,883. Were you asked for your vote before the election?—The gentlemen left two cards at my house; both parties.

18,884. Did you see neither of them?—No; neither of them I did not.

18,885. Do you know James Betts?—He works along with me, a man of the name of Betts do.

18,886. Have you heard him say that you were paid a sovereign for your vote?—Not at all. I never heard him say so.

18,887. And that Clarke got 15*s.* for his vote? Do you know Clarke?—I know two or three men named Clarke that work on the Walk where I do.

18,888. Have you not heard James Betts say he got 15*s.* for his vote?—No, I heard him say he got 15*s.* for being subpœnaed. He ain't a voter.

18,889. Were you summoned at the election trial before the judge?—Yes.

18,890. Were you paid for your attendance then?—Yes.

18,891. What were you paid?—I was paid 5*s.* a day after it was over.

18,892. For four days?—No, three.

JOHN BARBER sworn and examined.

J. Barber.

18,893. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—Clicker.

18,894. Whom did you vote for at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

18,895. At what time in the day?—2 o'clock.

18,896. Was anything given to you for your vote?—No.

18,897. Was any promise made to you?—No.

18,898. Have you received anything since?—No.

18,899. Was any money given through or by you to any other voter?—No.

18,900. Have you lost any employment since in consequence of your vote?—No.

18,901. Who is your master?—Mr. John Hotblack.

18,902. Was he your master before this election?—Yes.

18,903. Is he your master still?—Yes.

18,904. You have had no advantage or detriment from the way in which you voted?—Not any.

18,905. Is this the first time you have voted?—Yes.

18,906. Do you know of anyone who has received or been promised money?—Not anyone.

THOMAS HARRISON sworn and examined.

T. Harrison.

18,907. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A dealer.

18,908. Did you vote at the last election?—No.

18,909. Did you see either of the Mackleys on the day of the polling?—No. About two days after I saw him.

SIXTEENTH DAY.

T. Harrison.

27 Sept. 1869.

18,910. Which of them ?—Thomas Mackley.

18,911. Did he show you any money ?—No.

18,912. Did he say anything about money ?—Yes.

18,913. What did he say ?—I inquired of him how he had got on on the election day, and he said he was a Liberal in politics, but he had made a good thing out of the election. He had cleared 10*l.* by it, and he was going down to the committee of the North Norfolk election to see if he could get on there.

18,914. Did he tell you how he got the 10*l.* ?—No.

18,915. Did he tell you what money he had got it in ?—No.

18,916. Did he say he got a good handful of half-sovereigns out of it that came to 10*l.* ?—No, but I heard that he had some on the night of the election.

18,917. From whom did you hear that ?—Mr. Macdonald told me he was in the "Plough" public house, St. Benedict's, on the night of the election between 8 and 9 o'clock, and he showed him nearly a handful of half-sovereigns, a great many half-sovereigns, and says, "This is what I got for my "day's work for the Tories ; though I work for them "I am a Liberal."

18,918. Where does Macdonald live ?—He is a traveller. He was lodging at the "Plough." I believe he was engaged at the election as a messenger for Mr. Coaks. He told me on the day after the election. I met him at the bottom of Post Office Street.

18,919. And you yourself had a talk with Mackley a day or two afterwards ?—The day after.

18,920. Did you hear anything more about Mackley and his money ?—No.

18,921. Either from him or anybody else ?—Either from him or anybody else.

18,922. Do you know about any other person having received money ?—Well, I don't know. One of the Houghtons, I don't know which it was, told me the day before the election if I wanted any money he could provide me with some.

18,923. Could you tell me which of the Houghtons that was ?—I don't know them by their Christian names. It is the one that is in business for himself, not the one that works for Mr. Gedge. I think it is John, but I am not sure.

18,924. One is John, and the other is William. Does not that bring it to your mind ?—It is the one engaged in business for himself. He told me the night before the election that if I wanted any money he could provide me with some. He supposed I had a vote.

18,925. Did you hear of anything else ?—No.

18,926. Did Houghton tell you where he could get the money from ?—No. He said there would be some.

18,927. Do you know where this Houghton lives ?—Yes, the Ten Bell Lane.

J. S. Skipper.

JAMES STARK SKIPPER sworn and examined.

18,928. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You are a solicitor in practice in this city, I believe ?—I am.

18,929. You were the representative of Sir Henry Stracey upon the inquiry before the judge ?—I was.

18,930. Who was the person whom you employed in getting up the case for Sir Henry Stracey ?—There were a great many, some in every ward. Mr. Dawson had a leading part.

18,931. Was Mr. Dawson your leading man ?—I could hardly say he was the leading man. He had, perhaps, the most to do, but they all worked as well as they could. Dawson was with me the whole time.

18,932. Had Dawson possession of the canvass books ?—No. In fact, I could swear the canvass books never came to my office at all. We did not want them. They were perfectly useless to me for that purpose.

18,933. Do not you know that the canvass books were brought to your office ?—No. I say to my certain knowledge, so far as you can possibly say of things you don't see, I could swear they were not. We had no use for them. They were perfectly useless to me for the object of the petition, and I understand there is no receipt of mine for them.

18,934. Have you inquired since ?—Yes. They have searched and cannot find any receipt.

18,935. You are not aware that they were in your office ?—I am positive they were not.

18,936. They were never altered in any way while they were in your possession ?—No, certainly not. They were found in a bundle of letters. All the papers from me were found in one bundle. That, I think, is evidence in itself that we did not return them.

18,937. I feel I am not at liberty to ask you as to any communication between your clients and yourself ?—I believe that has been established as a rule ; but, really, there was so little that if there is anything you would wish to ask I should be very glad to answer it. I hardly saw Sir Henry Stracey the whole time.

18,938. Do you know of any money having been paid since the election on behalf of Sir Henry Stracey. I am speaking with regard to matters connected with the election itself ?—Not a penny, to my knowledge.

18,939. Are you aware of any money having been paid on his account beyond those which are included in the return of expenses ?—Not a penny.

18,940. Has any claim been made upon you as his representative for any money disbursed on his account ?—Not a penny. I had nothing to do with the election.

18,941. It is possible that when you were considered the representative of Sir Henry Stracey some claims might have been made ?—There were none. I paid nothing on account of the election.

18,942. Has any application been made to you ?—No application has been made to me, not for a penny.

18,943. Have persons come to you and said they paid money on account of the election, and asked for it to be returned ?—Not a single individual.

18,944. Have no persons said that they were volunteers, and that it was a matter of honour that Sir Henry Stracey should return money which they spent ?—Not one.

18,945. Nor any applications for scores run up at public houses, or anything of the kind ?—Nothing of the kind, not a single penny in amount, or any application whatever.

18,946. I suppose you, with a view to the scrutiny which was threatened, investigated the matter fully as far as the other side was concerned ?—Oh yes, we went into a very elaborate investigation, but it did not result in much. In fact, we could not make any substantial case out. Am I allowed to express an opinion ?

18,947. Yes.—My conviction is this, that on the part of the Liberals there was no plant of money. I say that, from the elaborate investigation we went into, or we must have discovered it. On the part of the Conservative side I don't believe there has been any plant beyond what has been developed before you at this Commission. That is my conviction.

18.948. Were you not aware that persons were paid small sums of money for the purpose of influencing voters ?—No doubt on both sides half-crowns were paid, but I said "no plant of money." I have no doubt there were small sums on both sides. It is hardly possible to avoid that in any election ; but there was no "plant."

18,949. No considerable sum ?—No, we must have discovered it if there had been, from the elaborate machinery we had out in the city.

18,950. You had a number of persons investigating it?—Yes, and going about to suspected people in the evenings at public houses, and in every way we could to bring it out.

18,951. They were in the nature of detectives?—Yes; you may say in that kind of service.

18,952. Have you been connected with elections in the city before?—Oh, yes, I was legal agent the last time at Waters' election; not for Waters, but at the election.

18,953. There was a considerable sum of money spent at that election?—I have heard in court that there was. I have some doubt as to a "considerable" sum, unless we agreed about the figures. There may have been about 300*l.* or 400*l.* I don't think Mr. Waters had the means to spend very much. I was not his agent on the day of the election. I threw the case up the night before; but the bribery was in the early part of the day. It is reported that it was so; and at that time there would not be so much spent. Goldsmid being so much ahead there was no object in Waters spending much money.

18,954. You say you ceased to act the night before the election for Mr. Waters?—Yes.

18,955. Did you continue to act for Mr. Goldsmid?—Yes, I was his agent.

18,956. Was money found by Mr. Goldsmid?—Not a penny. I will venture to say there was not one shilling of illegal expenditure on the part of Mr. Goldsmid at that election; and Waters had no object in spending it, at least, so far as I know. We kept Goldsmid ahead.

18,957. You do not know of any money that was found on Goldsmid's part?—No, except for the legitimate purposes.

18,958. Did you know that money was being found by Waters?—I did not. I never heard of the transaction till Dr. Allen related it here the other day in the witness box. That was the first time I heard of it, although I was the agent.

18,959. Were you in communication with Mr. Arthur Bignold with reference to Waters' election?—Merely for the payment of the bills. Those Mr. Arthur Bignold paid. I contributed a certain sum of money on Mr. Goldsmid's part, and Mr. Arthur Bignold paid everything. That was the agreement.

18,960. Mr. Arthur Bignold did find a very considerable sum of money for that purpose?—So it is stated. That I cannot say.

18,961. Did you see the bills that were paid?—No, I had no concern with them in detail. I simply had to contribute a certain sum of money on Mr. Goldsmid's part, and we did not care whether the bills were one sum or another. We had nothing to do with them in detail.

18,962. Did you not know that claims were made upon Mr. Arthur Bignold for a number of expenses which were expenses to which you, as representing Mr. Goldsmid, would not contribute?—No, we had no details whatever. The agreement was to pay a certain lump sum, and leave all the rest for Mr. Waters' friends to settle.

18,963. What was the lump sum to which you agreed?—650*l.*, and the expenses were, I think, about 2,000*l.*; that is, the published expenses were about 2,000*l.*

18,964. Then you had nothing to do with the providing of money on the part of Waters?—Not the slightest.

18,965. But Mr. Arthur Bignold had?—Yes, he paid the whole.

18,966. Had he been instrumental in bringing Mr. Waters down here?—That I cannot say. Sir Samuel Bignold introduced me to Mr. Waters. He came down with them from one of the clubs in London. I forget how he was got at.

18,967. Was he not brought down from one of the clubs by Mr. Arthur Bignold?—That I cannot say. I did not take it up quite so early upon the ladder as that.

18,968. I understand you that the 650*l.* which was contributed on the part of Mr. Goldsmid was simply for legal expenses?—Simply for legal expenses. That was Mr. Goldsmid's agreement.

18,969. I am speaking now of legitimate expenses.—Yes. I should not have consented to any other. I never offered or paid a bribe in my life, and never intend to do, and I should not have consented to anything illegal.

18,970. Did you take anything like an active part in the late election?—No, I did not, for I was away. I merely spoke at the meetings, but I was away till close up to the election. I was out of the groove rather.

18,971. Mr. Arthur Bignold was taking an active part in it?—Yes, I should say so. I saw him about a good deal.

18,972. Do you know whether he brought down upon the previous occasion some money from London?—I don't know. I always thought Waters brought his own money.

18,973. Do you know whether he brought down any for this election?—No, I do not.

18,974. You did not inquire about that?—No; I heard the rumour about his having done so. I did not believe it.

18,975. Did you hear that he went up to London, and made an application for money; that it was not given to him, and that it was afterwards remitted here?—No, I did not. I have heard what has been said in this court about it. That is all I ever heard about it.

18,976. I suppose from what you knew of the previous election you would not be surprised to find that Mr. Arthur Bignold was the man who managed the last election to a very considerable extent?—Not at all. He is an ardent partisan, you know. Allow me just to say that I am not accusing Mr. Arthur Bignold of any improper payments at the last election.

18,977. Just so. We do not assume that you are accusing him of any improper practice, but he was a person who was extremely active in the election, and taking not only a leading part in that election, but he had taken a leading part in the prior election, which was not a pure one?—Yes.

18,978. (Mr. Mansfield.) He managed the financial part?—He managed the financial part afterwards. I do not know what he did before.

18,979. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) There were some men sent away upon the election inquiry?—Yes.

18,980. There were the two Houghtons?—I don't know who they were. I have not the slightest doubt there were men sent away, but as solicitor for the member I do not know who they were.

18,981. (Mr. Biron.) Who knows?—Your Secretary knows as well as anybody.

18,982. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Was that department left in Dawson's hands?—Dawson partly, and a man named Hunter, whom I had from London, had something to do with it, but I did not inquire into that. You might call that secret service.

18,983. But I suppose that you found the money for the purposes of this secret service?—Yes, undoubtedly.

18,984. It came out of your pocket?—Yes; the general rule I gave was to frustrate the petition in any legal way, and to take care that they did not send away any man who was subpœnaed. I considered that we might send those away who were not subpœnaed.

18,985. Those were your instructions?—Yes, to do nothing illegal, but to take every legal means to frustrate the petition.

18,986. Hunter lived in Green Street, Grosvenor Square, did he not?—I do not know that street, but he was not a man in Grosvenor Square life. I do not know where he lives.

18,987. How came you to employ Hunter?—By

SIXTEENTH DAY.

J. S. Skipper.

the recommendation of Mr. Arthur Bignold. He introduced him to me. We wanted a man for careful service. He came down to detect anything he could. I have no doubt he had something to do with some of the men who went away, not the slightest doubt; but I did not inform myself about those points.

18,988. Did Mr. Arthur Bignold come to you and make the suggestion as to Hunter, or did you go to Mr. Arthur Bignold and apply to him?—Mr. Bignold sent him down with a letter of introduction to me.

18,989. But as far as Mr. Arthur Bignold was concerned it was a voluntary act on his part?—Yes; he recommended him as a shrewd person for the purpose.

18,990. Had you consulted Mr. Arthur Bignold?—No.

18,991. It was a mere spontaneous act on his part?—Yes, sending him down was.

18,992. Afterwards, did you or Mr. Arthur Bignold pay him?—I paid him.

18,993. Do not you know that Hunter was down also at the time of the election?—No; I never saw him or heard of him.

18,994. Have you not heard since that he was down here at the time of the election?—No; he came down to me as a perfect stranger, with a letter of introduction. I merely express an opinion. I did not see him, and I do not think he was down.

18,995. Have you not heard that he was?—No; I understood when he came with the letter of introduction that it was his first appearance in Norwich. I understood he was a detective in London; and we wanted to detect Liberal bribery, and therefore we employed him. He was not employed merely for secret service, but he went to public houses, associated with the people, and heard what he could hear, and I am sorry to say it was not very much; at least, when I say I am sorry, I mean that it shows how pure we were.

18,996. You were glad to hear of such a thing as purity in Norwich?—I think Norwich is maligned. I think the last election was as pure as any in a constituency of the same kind in England, and I venture to say, that it was as peaceful a one.

18,997. (Mr. Biron.) Do you know where Hunter is now?—Not in the least. I took him, employed him, and paid him, and I don't think I shall ever want him again.

18,998. Could you not get at him?—Only through Mr. Bignold. He gave me no address.

18,999. When you were making inquiries after the petition was threatened, of course you had to protect your own side as well as attack the other?—Yes.

19,000. Did you make any inquiries as to where Hardiment's money came from?—No, certainly not.

19,001. You knew he had been spending money?—I heard of it. There was nothing volunteered. It was up-hill work entirely. We had to find everything out. No one volunteered anything on either side. We heard that Hardiment had spent money. Of course it was a great difficulty in my case.

19,002. Did you send Dawson to Hardiment?—No; I never sent him. I do not know whether he went or not.

19,003. You suggested that he had better see Hardiment to know what was the meaning of all this?—No. I had never spoken to Hardiment. Sir Henry Stracey, I was perfectly satisfied, had nothing to do with it. I did not care about the amount of bribery if I could have seated the candidate.

19,004. Hardiment was proved to be an agent in about three hours?—We did not consider him an agent, and of course we complained very much of the ruling which made him an agent.

19,005. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) The doctrine of agency was not very strictly established at that time?—I have not the slightest doubt that if the petition were tried now Hardiment would not be considered an agent.

19,006. (Mr. Biron.) It is perfectly clear now. Any man who canvasses is an agent for all purposes?—Three or four deep.

19,007. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you know where Mr. Arthur Bignold is now?—No; I have had no communication with him since the petition. Am I allowed to say anything?

19,008. Certainly.—I wish to say that I have had some experience of elections here, and I do not hesitate to say that a more peaceable election than the last in Norwich could not be fought anywhere in a constituency of the same extent. I circulated both amongst opponents and friends, gathered in large knots, without any protection, and on all sides I met with the utmost civility. I did not see a single blow struck the whole day, nor did I see a single drunken man in the circle in which I moved. I don't mean to say there was not a man drunk that day, but I will swear that I did not see a single intoxicated man, nor a single outrage that day.

19,009. You did not go about like Inspector Clarke with a professed pugilist to protect you?—No; but I passed through the crowd he spoke of. I stood there and conversed and argued with the parties, and met with no molestation whatever.

H. Waterson.

HENRY WATERSON sworn and examined.

19,010. (Mr. Mansfield.) You are a voter, I believe?—Yes.

19,011. How long have you been a voter?—I voted at the election previous to the last one.

19,012. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

19,013. At what time in the day did you vote?—At about half-past 3.

19,014. What made you vote so late?—Because I was at my work. I had some work to do.

19,015. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing at all.

19,016. Had you ever voted before without getting something?—Yes.

19,017. When was that?—I never had anything for no vote.

19,018. For whom did you vote at the previous election?—For Mr. Waters.

19,019. What did you get then?—Nothing at all.

19,020. Who asked you to vote this time?—Nobody. There was nobody came to me. I voted as I took my work home at half-past 3 that afternoon.

19,021. Where were you all the day of the election?—I was at work till half-past 3, and then I took my work home, and voted as I went with my work, and came back again home.

19,022. Did you see Mr. Wiseman on that day?—No, I did not.

19,023. Did you see anybody that day?—Not at all, only the people I saw at the poll when I went and voted, because I was not out.

19,024. Who did you see when you went to the poll?—I do not know their names. I saw the people who sat at the window.

19,025. Just recollect?—I cannot recollect any further, because I do not know. I never saw anybody but those I saw at the poll.

19,026. Did you never speak to anybody about your vote?—No; and nobody spoke to me.

19,027. You never got a glass of beer?—No, not a drop.

19,028. Do you mean to say that nothing was promised to you?—Not anything at all.

19,029. Have you had nothing since?—No.

19,030. Which public houses were you in during the day of the poll?—I did not go into any at all that day.

19,031. Did you go without beer the whole of the day?—No, I did not go without beer, because I had some at home.

19,032. Did you send out for it?—Yes, at Mr. Burrell's, very nigh opposite to where I lived at that time.

19,033. What did you do after you had voted?—I went to my shop and went to work.

19,034. Did you not speak to anybody that night?—No, not about the election affair.

19,035. Did anybody offer you any money?—No.

19,036. If anybody had offered you a sovereign what would you have done?—I never was offered anything.

19,037. Not either at a parliamentary or a municipal election?—No; I never voted at a municipal election.

THOMAS WILSON sworn and examined.

T. Wilson.

19,038. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A carpenter.

19,039. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

19,041. At what time?—Between 2 and 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

19,042. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

19,043. How came you to vote so late?—I did not go home to my dinner till past 2.

19,044. What were you about?—I was at work at the Norwich station.

19,045. At what time in the morning did you go to work?—At 6 o'clock.

10,046. And did you stay there till dinner time?—Yes.

19,047. Did you see Hardiment that day?—Yes.

19,048. Where did you see him?—Against St. Mary's Church wall.

19,049. Did you say anything to him?—No.

19,050. Nor he to you?—No.

19,051. Did he offer you anything to vote for Stracey?—No.

19,052. Did he ask you to vote?—No.

19,053. At what time in the day did you see him?—Just before 3 o'clock.

19,054. You say that you got nothing for your vote?—I never got a farthing.

19,055. Or any promise of anything?—No.

19,056. Nor yet after you had voted?—No.

19,057. Who was Hardiment with when you saw him?—He was all alone. He stood right opposite the Church wall, against the house.

19,058. Were you in any beerhouse on the day of the election?—Yes.

19,059. In which?—In three or four.

19,060. Were you in Cartwright's?—Yes.

19,061. At what time were you there?—Just after I had voted, and I saw Mr. Horsman take a man out to vote; he went and fetched the man out, and I had got a quart in a pot, and I asked him to drink.

19,062. Were they with Springfield?—Yes.

19,063. Can you not give me the name of the voter he was taking up?—No. I saw him come out of the house and I had got a pot, and I said, "Come and "drink along with me;" and the man that was behind him drank.

19,064. How long were you at Cartwright's beerhouse?—About five or ten minutes.

19,065. Did you see Hardiment there?—No, I did not; I was in the back room.

JOSHUA WOMERSLEY sworn and examined.

J. Womersley.

19,066. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a paper maker?—Yes.

19,067. Are you a voter?—Yes.

19,068. Did you take an active part at the last election?—I did.

19,069. On behalf of Russell and Tillett?—Yes.

19,070. Did you vote for them?—I did.

19,071. During the whole of the day were you about getting up voters for them?—I was.

19,072. In the course of your progress did you hear reports of bribery taking place?—I heard that there was bribery taking place at the "Woolpack."

19,073. Where did you hear that?—Mr. Harper told me of it.

19,074. At what time in the day did he first tell you of it?—I should think it was about 3 o'clock. I cannot say exactly to half an hour.

19,075. Was that the first that you heard about bribery taking place?—Yes; that was the first I heard about it.

19,076. Did you yourself go to the "Woolpack"?—No, I did not.

19,077. Did you go anywhere yourself?—I was backwards and forwards to the "Marquis of Granby."

19,078. Did you find that bribery was taking place there?—I did not see any.

19,079. Did you suspect it?—That was what the men wanted; the men wanted money.

19,080. Were there voters congregated there?—The first time I went there there were not many; there were two or three hanging about.

19,081. What time in the day was it when you first went to the "Marquis of Granby"?—About 2 o'clock, I should think.

19,082. Did the men there ask you for money?—They did not ask me for money; they asked friends that were with me for money.

19,083. Who were they?—Mr. Joseph Smith was there, and Mr. Kitton, who is since dead.

19,084. They applied to them for money?—Yes.

19,085. And what answer did they get?—They said they should not give a farthing, that they had not got any money, and that they did not intend to give any.

19,086. Did you leave the "Marquis of Granby" and go back?—I left and went to other places, and in about an hour I went back again alone.

19,087. What time would that be?—I should think about 3 o'clock, or it might be a few minutes before 3.

19,088. When you returned, did you find a number of voters congregated there?—The house was full.

19,089. Did they say anything to you?—No, not a word; they went then through the bar into the back room along with Mr. Mackley.

19,090. Mr. Mackley is the landlord?—Yes.

19,091. Did anything take place between you and Mackley?—Nothing at all; only I asked him why the men would not go and vote, and he said they would not go without they were paid 10*s.* or 1*l.* apiece.

19,092. Did you say anything about the payment of money to him?—I told him I should not pay them a farthing.

19,093. Did you say anything about requiring time to consult anybody?—No; I tried to keep them in tow as long as I could. I told Mr. Mackley to get them to wait till I came back; it was all an electioneering dodge. I knew that they would not vote without money, and I had no money to give them, and did not intend to give them any.

19,094. Where did you go after you had told them to wait?—I went from place to place. I cannot say exactly where I went. I went with Mr. Smith down Magdalen Street, and then from place to place.

19,095. Did you go and see Mr. Coaks?—I believe I did. I do not know exactly whether it was between the time of my going back or not, but Mr. Smith and I went to the committee room. We went up

SIXTEENTH DAY.

J. Womersley.

27 Sept. 1869.

there on purpose to inquire about the state of the poll and to ascertain the reason why the mistake had been made in the morning; that was the sole reason of our going.

19,096. You had asked these men to wait till you came back, and then you went up to the committee room; did you not tell the people at the committee room what you had found at the "Marquis of Granby"?—I do not think I did.

19,097. Will you undertake to say that you did not?—I am sure I cannot say. If I did I am sure it was not with any motive at all, because I knew that there was no money to spend, and that no money was intended to be spent in any shape or form.

19,098. Did you suggest in any way that money should be provided?—No, not the slightest. I never gave the least idea that a farthing should be spent.

19,099. Did you not speak to Mr. Coaks, and ascertain whether he was desirous to do anything?—I am positive that I did not. I would tell you in a minute if I thought there had been any idea of the sort, but there was not an idea of any money at all being spent that day.

19,100. Having told the men to wait until you came back, and having seen Mr. Coaks, did you go back to the "Marquis of Granby" again?—I did not. I was driving up Magdalen Street and saw Mackley, and he stopped me and said, "You did not come back "again." I said, "No." He said, "I did not expect "you would." Those are the words that passed.

19,101. Did anything pass between you as to anything that was taking place?—Not then. I went the next day to inquire.

19,102. Did you not go back to the "Marquis of Granby" at all?—Not after that I did not.

19,103. Mackley, the landlord, had been in your interest up to that time, had he not?—I believe so. I never was in the house before that day.

19,104. But you knew that he was a Liberal?—Yes, I knew that he was a Liberal, and that he had been employed before. I did not know it personally, but I had heard that he had been employed.

19,105. Have you paid any beer score since that?—No, not a farthing either before or since in any shape or form, either directly or indirectly. I have heard something of it, but I never paid anything, and I do not believe that anybody else has. I have heard it stated in court, but I do not believe that there has been a farthing paid for beer or for anything else.

19,106. Was there no score run up at Mackley's on that day?—I believe that if there was he did it himself of his own accord.

19,107. Do you not know that beer was supplied to the men?—They were drinking beer when I was there, and Mackley said to me when I was there, "We must do something for the men, or if I do not "they will break every window in the house." I said, "You must do what you please. I have not "got any money to spend, and I do not mean to spend "any."

19,108. You were keeping the men in tow, you know; just consider, did you not order some beer?—No, I gave no order for any beer; he did it on his own account if he did anything of the sort. I daresay he, being an electioneering man, expected to get something out of somebody.

19,109. Have you heard of his having applied for payment to anybody?—No; and I think I should have heard of it if he had.

19,110. Did you go at all to the "Trumpet"?—No, I did not.

19,111. You confined your visits entirely to the "Marquis of Granby"?—To the "Marquis of Granby" and Magdalen Street and that part.

19,112. Was Mr. Kitton with you?—He was part of the time.

19,113. Did you go when you were in Magdalen Street, and did anybody go with you into a yard that is called Morgan's yard?—Yes, I did.

19,114. Did you ask any persons there for their votes?—Yes, I did, either I, or Mr. Kitton, or Mr. Smith; there was a man there bothering us a good deal.

19,115. Was that man's name Moore?—I believe it was.

19,116. Did he not require to be paid?—He wanted a day's pay for his vote.

19,117. Did you say to him, "Go and vote"?—I told him to go and vote over and over again, and begged him to go and vote, but he would not without he got a day's pay; and we told him we had not got any money, and we could not give him any.

19,118. Did you not promise to give him anything?—No.

19,119. Was there a gentleman there who gave you his card?—No, I never saw a card; if he had presented a card to me I should have known it.

19,120. Do you recollect a Sunday night after the election Moore coming up to your house?—He did. I think it was Moore; it was dark; I would not swear even that it was Moore. I only saw him in the passage.

19,121. Did he tell you that he had come for payment of what you had promised him?—No.

19,122. Did he not ask you for payment?—No, never in his life.

19,123. Then what did he come for?—He said that they had been plaguing him about his vote, and said that he had received money for his vote. He was a very timid sort of man, and seemed very much frightened about it, and I said, "You have nothing "to do but go and speak the truth;" it was just before the petition.

19,124. Are you sure that a gentleman did not come up and say, "That is bribery," and present you with a card, and tell you that he had heard about it?—I am positive he never did; if he did I should have known it. But you must bear in mind that there was a great row at that time, and he might possibly have done so; but I never saw the card, and I think if he had presented the card to me I should not have made a mistake and forgotten about it.

19,125. It is a very difficult thing to conceive that one gentleman should have come up to another, present him his card, and say that he was charging him with bribery, and that that gentleman should not remember it?—I don't think I should forget it.

19,126. It is not a matter which an ordinary person would forget?—Oh, no, I could not forget a thing of that sort, certainly not.

19,127. You are the manager of Mr. Colman's works, are you not?—Part of the works, the pepper and starch.

19,128. He has a very large number of men in his employment, has he not?—Oh, yes; I should think perhaps 800 to 1,000 men.

19,129. Did you canvass those men?—Not one of them.

19,130. Do you mean that you did not ask a single one?—I don't believe I asked one single man for his vote; we make it a point not to do so.

19,131. How many out of the thousand are voters?—That I do not know; I never went through it, and I cannot tell.

19,132. You can surely give me some idea of the proportion?—I should think there are 400 or 500 voters.

19,133. Not more?—I should think it was not more; it may be.

19,134. Do you know of any influence having been used to induce those men to vote?—Never.

19,135. Directly or indirectly?—Neither one way or the other. I don't believe there is another firm in the city where there is so little influence exercised.

19,136. Did some of your men vote for Stracey?—Oh, yes, several.

19,137. How many out of the 500 voters?—I don't know, I am sure; I don't think there was many.

19,138. Did you do anything, directly or indirectly, to influence these men?—No.

19,139. Did not their fellow workmen do something to influence them?—I don't know that they did; we never ask our men to do anything of the kind.

19,140. Have you not heard that they did?—No.

19,141. Nothing in the nature of refusing to work with the men, or anything of that kind?—Not a bit.

19,142. You are sure of that?—I am positive of it.

19,143. Can you give me no idea how many of your men voted for Stracey?—I am sure I cannot; but it can be ascertained, I daresay. I have never looked into it.

19,144. Have any of the men who voted for Stracey been discharged, to your knowledge, since the election?—Oh, dear no; not one certainly on that account. Of course we have discharged many since; we are always discharging men, and setting new men on too.

19,145. But for no reason connected with the election?—Not at all.

19,146. Have you paid the rates for any people?—We always pay the rates and take it off the wages. I think that is the rule, but I will not speak positively about it because I have nothing to do with it, but it is my impression that some of the rates are always paid.

19,147. Who can give me the information respecting the payment of the rates?—One of the clerks, Mr. Caswell, I think. Mr. Henry Colman perhaps can give you that information.

19,148. If he can give us that information we need not trouble you about it; but you know the fact that the rates are paid?—I believe some of them are paid; that is my impression, but I will not swear to it.

19,149. Why do you pay the men's rates?—I do not believe we pay anybody's rates except in those houses which belong to Mr. Colman.

19,150. Has he a number of houses of his own?—A great many, several hundred, I should think.

19,151. Then is it part of the terms of their occupation that the landlord pays the rates?—I believe he does; I think so.

19,152. And it is deducted from the wages?—They pay so much a week for the rent, and that is deducted by Mr. Colman.

19,153. How is it deducted, weekly or monthly, or upon the occasion of the rates being paid?—I believe it is in consideration of the rent—I think so, but I do not know.

19,154. The rent is increased, and the landlord pays the rates?—I don't know, I am sure; if I knew anything at all about it I should be very happy to give you any information.

19,155. Mr. Colman, I suppose, will be able to give us the information more correctly?—I should think he would, there is no doubt about it.

19,156. Now do you know of any money having been paid to any person to vote for Russell and Tillett, or Tillett?—I don't know that there was a farthing; if there had been any I think I should have known it as soon as anybody.

19,157. Do you know of any promise having been made to any person?—I do not think there was a promise made.

19,158. Do you know of any beer or anything of that kind having been given on the day of the election?—No.

19,159. Have you paid for anything of that sort yourself?—I have not paid a farthing, either directly or indirectly, in any shape or form.

19,160. Has any claim been made for it?—Nothing at all.

19,161. For anything in the nature of that supply?—Not at all, and if there had I should not have paid it.

19,162. Do you know of any employment having been promised to any man to induce him to vote?—Oh, no.

19,163. Or any threat of discharge being used?—Not at all; I hope there was not, and I should be very sorry if I heard there was anything of the sort.

19,164. Now, you say you saw Mr. Coaks in the afternoon; did you communicate to him what you found going on at the "Marquis of Granby"?—I don't think I said a word about it, not to him.

19,165. Will you undertake to say you did not tell him what was going on at the "Marquis of Granby"?—I would not swear I did not, but if it was mentioned it was only in a casual way; it was not mentioned with any intention of asking for any money or anything of the kind, I can assure you; about that I am quite satisfied in my mind; but it might have been mentioned.

19,166. Do you not recollect that it was mentioned?—It might have been mentioned, but I will not swear that it was mentioned.

19,167. You went directly from the "Marquis of Granby," did you not?—No, I did not, because the affair of Morgan's Yard transpired between.

19,168. When you told the man, as a sort of electioneering dodge, that you would come back in a quarter of an hour, you would mention that to Mr. Coaks, would you not?—I do not think I should; I do not know what object I should have in view in mentioning that to him. If there was an object, very likely I should mention it.

19,169. It seems to me very strange that you should have adopted that sort of dodge to prevent the people from voting?—I think that is a very usual thing when there are lots of doubtful voters wanting money; if you do not intend to pay them any money you will try and keep them in tow until the voting has passed over.

19,170. I should have thought the better way would have been to try and persuade them to vote?—We tried everything we could, and when we failed the only thing we could do was to try and keep them in tow.

19,171. Did not you think that Mr. Coaks might possibly provide some funds?—I daresay if we had wanted funds he could have bought the election. I don't think he would with Mr. Tillett, but for Sir William Russell or any other Whig candidate I don't believe Mr. Coaks would have lost the election for the sake of 100*l.*, or even 200*l.*

19,172. You found that Mr. Coaks was not disposed to do anything of the sort?—I knew that he would not; his man was ahead, and he did not care a snap of the finger for Mr. Tillett.

19,173. Did he give you the reason that his man was safe?—No, I don't think that was mentioned.

19,174. Do you mean to say that when you looked at him and made mention that the men were there for the purpose of being bribed, he did not in reply say that his man was safe?—I do not remember it. If he had said so, very likely I should have said something to him that he would not have liked; if he had got so little interest in it for Mr. Tillett, I am sure I should have offended him, but that did not take place, I am positive about that.

19,175. When you had promised the men to come back in a quarter of an hour, I should think you were disappointed at not getting a more favourable answer from Mr. Coaks?—Not at all. I was very angry with Mr. Coaks, because there was a mistake in the poll somehow or other, and I was very much inclined at the time to attribute that to Mr. Coaks, and I was very angry with him.

19,176. Do I understand you to say that you are aware of no sort of improper inducement having been offered to any man whatever to vote for your side?—Not the slightest.

19,177. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did not Mr. Coaks suggest anything that could be done with these 40 men that were at Mackley's?—I never went to Mr. Coaks to ask him a question about them.

19,178. You, of course, mentioned the fact that they were there?—I did not mention it to him. I might have mentioned it in the room, but what Mr. Smith and I went to him about was the mistake; both Mr. Smith and myself were very angry that this mistake should have taken place.

19,179. But the mistake about the poll had occurred much earlier?—I had not been in the committee room before that time, and that is the reason I mentioned it then.

19,180. But at this time of the day the poll was getting in a dangerous state; did you not tell Mr. Coaks that these 40 men might vote for the other side?—I did not enter into conversation with Mr. Coaks at all about it; I did mention the affair in the room, but not to Mr. Coaks. Mr. Coaks was busy after I had done with him about that mistake, and I and Mr. Youngs spoke about the "Marquis of Granby."

19,181. At the time of the poll you were exclusively representing Mr. Tillett?—I represented both. I believed that Mr. Tillett was the best man of the three, yet at the same time I thought it was bad policy either for the Liberal party or the Radical party to cause a division, and I fought against it from the very first, but I believed Mr. Tillett was the best man of the three, and for that reason I assisted all I could for Mr. Tillett.

19,182. Previously you had been entirely for Sir William Russell?—I did what I could for Sir William Russell.

19,183. Was no suggestion made to you in the committee room that you should go and watch what was going on?—Oh, dear no, that is an understood thing.

19,184. That you were to go back and watch?—To go and do all we could; we fancied there was something stirring after a certain time.

19,185. But to watch these 40 men?—We put watch on in all directions.

19,186. Did you go down and watch at all?—I watched all I could, but I could not be there all the time.

19,187. Who was watching for you at the "Marquis of Granby"?—I am sure I cannot say now; there were three or four there, but I cannot tell the names.

19,188. Was Mr. Wilde in the committee room while you were there?—Yes, he was.

19,189. Had you any conversation with him?—Not a word. I did not like Mr. Wilde.

19,190. There was no suggestion made as to any course to be taken with regard to these 40 men?—Not a bit of it; I would not speak to him about the election.

19,191. It was a perfectly harmonious coalition?—Yes.

19,192. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You had promised to come back in a quarter of an hour?—Yes.

19,193. You found there was a large number of men there who were open to bribery?—I should think there was 50 of them there.

19,194. And you had heard the reports that there was bribery going on on the Conservative side?—Yes, I had.

19,195. How was it, that knowing the necessity for watching these men, you did not yourself go back and look after them?—It would not have done to do so.

19,196. You told me just now that the proper course was to watch?—Of course it was, and we had men at hand.

19,197. Who had you down there?—Men from the seventh ward committee room.

19,198. Can you mention them?—I do not know the names, I am sure.

19,199. Had you arranged with anybody?—Not at all, only when I saw what was going on there I went down to the seventh ward committee room and told them that a number of rather suspicious voters were there, and to send someone down to watch, and they sent five or six people down.

19,200. Who were sent down?—I am sure I cannot say.

19,201. Have you heard?—No, and I never inquired; but I daresay you can ascertain that. I should think Mr. Sadd, the solicitor, would know who was sent down there, but of that I cannot be sure. If I knew the names I would tell them in a minute; I have no interest in keeping them back.

19,202. Although you knew this was the turning point in the election, you never took the trouble to ascertain who was sent down there for the purpose of watching?—I did not. I mentioned the affair to persons who I knew would take the men in hand.

19,203. You recollect the nomination?—I do.

19,204. Were you present when the arrangement was made about securing the show of hands?—I was not.

19,205. You heard of it?—Oh, yes.

19,206. And did you make arrangements to send down a certain number of your men?—I went down and told the men to go, and they were very glad to have the opportunity.

19,207. Then you did make arrangements for a large number of Colman's men to attend there?—I did.

19,208. How many did you send?—I am sure I cannot tell you; I should think 400 or 500.

19,209. Were they paid that day their entire day's wages?—No, they did their work; it is the nature of our work that if they do not do their work in the morning they have to stop at night and finish it.

19,210. Then did you employ these men to go down?—I gave them an opportunity to go, and they very were glad to have it; it was quite a jollification for them.

19,211. Did you give them either beer or money, or anything else?—No, not at all.

19,212. Then they got nothing?—Nothing, and were glad to have the opportunity to go.

19,213. They got nothing for going, but simply had to make up their time?—Yes; that is the nature of our work, it is a process.

19,214. That is what you call giving a holiday, is it?—We did not compel anyone to go. There was an opportunity for them to go if they liked, and those who did not like to go could stop; there was no compulsion; we should not think of such a thing.

19,215. You did not suggest to them that you would be pleased if they would go?—Very likely I did, and if I asked that question that is an understood thing.

19,216. Did they make up their time?—They must finish the work; it is a process, and must be finished in the day, it must not go till the next day; if it does the material is damaged, and they know that as well as I do.

19,217. They all made up for the time which they had lost that day?—Oh, yes.

19,218. They got no supper or anything of the sort?—If they had you would have heard of it, sir, and would not want to ask me that question.

19,219. It is a very strange mode of giving a holiday; I should think you would be very sorry to have a holiday upon the same terms?—It was no holiday at all, but it was a jollification for them.

19,220. Do you know a man of the name of Woveridge?—No, I do not.

19,221. He lives in Sussex Street.—I don't know where he lives; I know nothing about him.

19,222. Had you any communication with a man in Sussex Street?—I do not remember that I had.

J. Scarles.

JOSEPH SCARLES sworn and examined.

19,223. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a voter?—Well, sir, a paper came to me, but I have not paid no rates.

19,224. Are you a voter?—I did vote.

19,225. Are you a voter or are you not?—No, sir, I don't know whether my landlord paid the rates.

19,226. Then you know you were not a voter at the last election?—Well, sir, I did not know that the landlord had not paid them.

19,227. You got hold of a card?—That was brought to my house.

19,228. You got hold of a card with the name of Scarlett upon it?—Yes.

19,229. Who gave you that card?—I don't know; I was not at home when that was brought.

19,230. Then you went and voted with that card?—Yes.

19,231. What did you get for voting?—Not a farthing.

19,232. Don't tell me that. You go and vote in another man's name and make yourself liable to very severe penalties, and yet you say you got nothing for it?—I went to the committee room and took the card, and told them my proper name, and they told me to go and vote with the card which was sent to me.

19,233. Which committee room was that?—At the "Tuns" inn.

19,234. Who was present, and who told you to go and vote?—I don't know; there was a lot of them in the room.

19,235. But who told you to go and vote?—They did in the committee room.

19,236. Which of them?—I cannot say.

19,237. Do you mean to tell me you did not get anything for it?—Not a farthing.

19,238. Were you promised anything?—No, and I never asked for anything.

19,239. Did you not know you were doing wrong in voting in another man's name?—Yes, I know now I was quite wrong, sir.

19,240. Did they not ask you at the poll what your name was?—No, not that I am aware of.

19,241. Do you know Mr. Stanley?—Yes.

19,242. Was he the man that you showed the card to?—I went up and showed Mr. Stanley my card.

19,243. And he told you to go and vote?—No, sir, he did not.

19,244. You told them that the card was wrongly made out for you?—I told them that was not my proper name, and they told me to go and vote with the card if that was directed to me; but I can neither read nor write.

19,245. Was it Stanley who told you that?—No.

19,246. Who was it?—He said that I had done wrong by going to vote in that name; but this was at the "Tuns" inn where I went and showed my card, and they told me there was a mistake made on the register, and told me to go and vote, as that was directed to me; that is how it was.

19,247. Do you not know any of the persons that were there when you were told to go and vote?—Well, I could not say.

19,248. Was Stanley present?—No, I went to Mr. Stanley's office, and that is where I saw Mr. Stanley when I told him about my card.

19,249. What did he say then?—He said I had done very wrong by so doing.

19,250. That was after the election?—Yes.

19,251. But before you voted did anybody tell you you were going to do very wrong in voting that way?—No.

19,252. Did anybody give you any beer?—No, what beer I had I paid for out of my own pocket.

19,253. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You received a card with "John Scarlett" upon it?—Well, I did not know the name, but I asked the name on it.

19,254. And they told you it was "John Scarlett," did they not?—Yes.

19,255. That was not your name?—No.

19,256. You knew that?—Yes.

19,257. Your name is Joseph Scarles?—Yes.

19,258. So that both names were wrong?—Yes.

19,259. Knowing that, did you go to the committee room?—Yes.

19,260. Did you speak to the managing man?—No, Mr. Oury took me up there.

19,261. Who is he?—A relieving officer.

19,262. Where does he live?—I don't know; I saw him nearly against the committee room.

19,263. Did they not read out the card, "John "Scarlett, Wellington Square"?—I never heard them.

19,264. Did you not hear Wellington Square mentioned?—I told them where I did live, and the card came where I live now, I moved back again; I lived out at the gates when the card came.

19,265. You told them where you did actually live?—Yes.

19,266. You did not say that you lived in Wellington Square, did you?—No, I lived out at the gates then in Tinkler's Lane when the card came.

19,267. Then when you told them that you were not John Scarlett, of Wellington Square, but Joseph Scarles, of Tinkler's Lane, did they tell you then that you were to go and vote?—No, they did not tell me that.

19,268. Then how came you to go up and vote?—Because I saw Mr. Oury, and spoke to him about it.

19,269. Mr. Oury was in doubt whether you ought to go and vote?—Mr. Oury asked me how I came by the card, and I told him it was brought to my house.

19,270. You went to the committee room, and they told you there to go and vote, did they not?—Yes.

19,271. Although you told them that your name was Joseph Scarles, of Tinkler's Lane?—Yes.

19,272. Who was the man that told you to go and vote?—Mr. Oury.

19,273. Did you hear them tell him at the committee room that you were to go and vote?—No.

19,274. Then having taken you up there for advice, how came he to tell you to go and vote?—He told me to go and vote; he said, "Are you a voter?" I said, "No, this is my wrong name;" he said, "Come "to the committee room," and I went to the committee room, and he told me to make haste to go and vote, for they would rectify that in the poll book; they said it was only a mistake made.

19,275. Who told you that it was only a mistake?—Mr. Oury.

19,276. Did they tell him at the committee room that it was only a mistake?—I never heard them.

19,277. Did Mr. Oury make inquiries about it?—No.

19,278. What did he go there for but to make inquiry?—To see whether my name was on there.

19,279. Were you not told that your name was not on, but that the only name was John Scarlett, of Wellington Square?—No, they said that my name was on the register, but of course I told them I had not paid no rates, and I told them my proper name, and then they told me to go and vote.

19,280. I want to know who was the man who gave Mr. Oury the advice to tell you to go and vote?—I cannot tell, I assure you.

19,281. Did you not see Mr. Oury speak to Mr. Stanley?—No.

19,282. To whom did he speak?—I don't know who it was he spoke to.

19,283. Was the gentleman sitting at the table?—Yes.

19,284. Managing the books?—I don't know; they all sat round.

19,285. Has Mr. Stanley spoken to you at all about this?—I never saw Mr. Stanley up there.

19,286. Has Mr. Stanley spoken to you since the election about this?—Yes, Mr. Oury told me to go up to Mr. Stanley and tell him about the affair.

19,287. When did Mr. Oury send you to Mr. Stanley to speak about this?—When I got my subpœna.

19,288. Before the judge?—Yes.

19,289. And did you go up and see Mr. Stanley?—Yes, I went and spoke to Mr. Stanley, and told him that Mr. Oury persuaded me to vote in that name.

19,290. What did Mr. Stanley tell you?—He said I had done quite wrong, and Mr. Oury ought not to have directed me wrong, for he knew different to that; he said Mr. Oury did not ought to lead me into it, and

SIXTEENTH DAY.

J. Scarles.

27 Sept. 1869.

he ought to have known different; that is the words he told me.

19,291. Now you know you were going up to vote in this way; did not Mr. Oury give you some money?—No, I never received one farthing.

19,292. Nor the promise of any?—No.

19,293. Nor anything to drink?—No, and I never asked him for anything.

19,294. Did he come and ask you to go up for Stracey?—He asked me who I was going to vote for, I told him I did not know, and he said "Make haste "and give Mr. Stracey a plumper;" that is what he said.

19,295. Did he not promise you something for that?—No, sir, that is the truth.

19,296. (Mr. Biron.) Did Mr. Chaplin give you anything?—No, I never saw him, I assure you.

19,297. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You did very wrong, and the person who advised you did still worse?—I am very sorry, sir.

19,298. It is a very disgraceful proceeding to everyone who was party to it. Mr. Oury is a relieving officer?—Yes.

19,299. Has he given you any relief since?—Yes, I was on the books about a fortnight or three weeks after. I had no work.

19,300. And then you were relieved by Mr. Oury?—Yes, he is my relieving officer.

19,301. Had you been on the books before?—No not that year.

19,302. But you had been on the books before?—Yes.

19,303. You are not a strong man?—No, I have been ill for the last ten weeks.

19,304. You have been ailing from time to time?—Yes.

19,305. (Mr. Mansfield.) When you were on the books before was Mr. Oury your relieving officer?—Yes, he has been a relieving officer for several years.

G. Gibson.

GEORGE GIBSON sworn and examined.

19,306. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A labourer.

19,307. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

19,308. For whom did you vote?—Stracey.

19,309. At what time?—As nigh as I can guess, about 10 minutes after 1.

19,310. Did you get anything for voting?—No, I returned back to my work.

19,311. Or the promise of anything?—No, nor yet the promise of anything.

19,312. Were you paid anything after you had voted?—I was asked to vote again about half-past 3.

19,313. By whom?—Mr. Murrell.

19,314. Owen Murrell?—Yes; he came in and asked me was I going to vote, and he said "If you will go "and vote I will give you 5*s.*;" he did not know that I had voted, and I went in and got half a pint of beer, and when he asked me if I had voted I said "yes;" a few days after he sent me 5*s.*, and when I saw him a few days after that he said "You old beggar, you "have done me." That is all I can say about it, and that is how I came by the 5*s.*

J. Raggio.

JOHN RAGGIO sworn and examined.

19,315. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

19,316. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

19,317. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Tillett.

19,318. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

19,319. Were you promised anything?—I have not had the value of a glass of beer.

19,320. Were you promised?—No, and I never asked.

19,321. You had neither money nor beer?—No.

19,322. Nor the promise of money or beer?—No.

19,323. How came you to vote so late in the day?—Because I had my business to attend to.

F. Warmiger.

FRANCIS WARMIGER sworn and examined.

19,324. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A weaver.

19,325. For whom did you vote at this last election?—Russell and Tillett.

19,326. I think during the day of the poll you were at the "Woolpack," were you not?—No.

19,327. What public house were you at?—I was at the "Marquis of Granby," in Pockthorpe.

19,328. Who did you see there?—I saw several people that live in the parish.

19,329. Did you see any bribery going on?—No.

19,330. Did you hear anything about it?—No.

19,331. Did you hear nothing about money going there?—No, I did not hear anything at all about money.

19,332. Were you at any other public house?—No, I was at work until dinner time, and I went in there for a glass of ale, that is all.

19,333. Did you get any money for your vote?—No.

19,334. Were you promised anything?—No.

19,335. Did you know any of the people who were at the "Marquis of Granby"?—Yes, I knew several.

19,336. Who were they?—There was a man by the name of Lord, a man by the name of Moy, and Mr. Barber.

19,337. Did you not hear of anything going on there?—No.

19,338. What other names do you recollect?—Mr. Womersley was there.

19,339. What time of the day was this?—Between 1 and 2.

19,340. Did you go there later in the day?—I stopped there until about 3.

19,341. Was there much beer going on?—I did not see much; there was a lot of people there. I got a glass of ale and paid for it.

19,342. Nobody offered to pay for your beer?—No, no one offered to give me any.

19,343. Did you go anywhere else after leaving the "Marquis of Granby"?—I went to the "Dog," on St. Paul's Plain, before I went to vote.

19,344. What was going on there?—I did not hear anything about the election at all there; that is right against the polling place.

19,345. You have not received anything?—Not a farthing, and never asked for anything nor yet was promised anything, and no one didn't offer me anything.

19,346. Was this the first time you had voted?—Yes.

19,347. Amongst these men at the "Marquis of Granby," do you recollect James Amis being there?—No.

19,348. Do you know him?—No.

19,349. And a man called David Amis?—No, I do not know him.

19,350. Was Robert Bussey there?—I don't know him.

19,351. Do you know a man of the name of Dick?—No.

19,352. Blyth?—No, I don't know him.

19,353. Was William Butcher there?—Yes.

19,354. Was James Dye there?—No, I don't know a James Dye; there was a man of the name of Dye, but his name is not James.

19,355. Did you see Charles Balls there?—No, but there was a back room full of people, and I did not go into that room.

19,356. What room were you in then?—I stood against the bar.

19,357. Did you see Robert Holmes there?—No.

19,358. Robert Lawes?—Yes, I did see Robert Lawes.

19,359. Was William Boys there?—I don't know him.

19,360. William Newton?—I saw him there.

19,361. Henry Sharpe?—I did not see him.

19,362. Did you see Isaiah Waller?—No.

19,363. Or James Tomlinson?—I saw him.

William Seabrook sworn and examined. W. Seabrook.

19,364. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A drover.

19,365. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

19,366. For whom?—Mr. Stracey.

19,367. What time in the day?—3 o'clock, or a few minutes after.

19,368. Did you get anything for voting?—Well, I got a trifle for doing my work and for voting.

19,369. How much was it?—5*s*.

19,370. Who gave it to you?—Mr. Murrell.

19,371. You mean Owen Murrell, the flyman and livery stable keeper?—Yes.

Isaiah Waller sworn and examined. I. Waller.

19,372. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

19,373. For whom did you vote?—Stracey.

19,374. What time in the day?—A little after 3.

19,375. Were you at the "Marquis of Granby" on that day?—No.

19,376.—Do you keep a public house yourself?—Yes.

19,377. Were there a number of persons at your public house that day?—There was no persons there at all.

19,378. Was it shut up then?—No.

19,379. Then do you mean to say there was nobody in your public house that day drinking?—I was not at home.

19,380. Where were you?—In the city.

19,381. Whereabouts?—In different parts.

19,382. And amongst the rest, at the "Marquis of Granby"?—No.

19,383. What were you doing in different parts of the city?—Looking about, the same as other people.

19,384. To see what you could get?—No.

19,385. Did you get anything?—Nothing at all.

19,386. Did you not pick up anything for your vote?—Nothing at all.

19,387. What public houses did you go to?—Well, I was at a public house certainly, in Magdalen Street, after I voted, and had one glass of ale, and that is all I had all day.

19,388. Were you loitering about then?—No.

19,389. What were you doing?—Just merely walking about and seeing what was going on.

19,390. When you went into that public house in Magdalen Street did Worledge happen to be there?—I don't know that I saw Worledge that day.

19,391. Will you swear you did not see him at that public house?—Yes.

19,392. Did he give you any money that day?—I never spoke to Worledge that day.

19,393. Did he send you any money?—No, I never was offered any money, neither did I take any, nor did I offer.

19,394. Were you promised any money?—No.

19,395. Had you been canvassed?—Yes.

19,396. By whom?—Mr. Stracey, Mr. Patteson, and the man who keeps the "Silver Cross," and Mr. Balls, the lime burner.

19,397. Did you promise your vote?—Yes.

19,398. To whom?—To Mr. Stracey. I told him his father was a Tory and I was a Tory to the backbone, and he should have my vote.

19,399. Being a Tory to the backbone, why was it that you delayed voting until so late in the day?—There is no particular time to vote.

19,400. But if you are a Tory to the backbone, one would have expected you would have voted earlier?—There is no particular time; you can go when you like.

19,401. Did you see Mr. Balls or Mr. Fletcher on the election day?—No.

Henry Nursey sworn and examined. H. Nursey.

19,402. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

19,403. For whom did you vote at this last election?—Russell and Tillett.

19,404. What time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

19,405. What made you so late?—Because I was on night work, and went to bed in the morning and slept until noon time.

19,406. I believe you were at the "Marquis of Granby" on the day of the election?—I was in the afternoon.

19,407. What did you see going on there?—I saw several people.

19,408. Did you hear of money going there?—No.

19,409. Did you see anyone you knew there?—Yes.

19,410. Who?—I saw a young man by the name of Douglas, Moy, and Newton, and several that I did not know.

19,411. Did they offer you any beer?—I had some beer, but I paid for it.

19,412. Was anything offered to you for your vote?—No.

19,413. Did you get anything afterwards?—No.

19,414. Have you had anything since?—No, certainly not.

19,415. Are those all the names you recollect?—Yes, they are as near as I can recollect.

William Douglas sworn and examined. W. Douglas.

19,416. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A gardener.

19,417. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

19,418. For whom?—Russell and Tillett.

19,419. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

19,420. What time in the day did you vote?—As near as I can guess from 2 to half-past 2.

19,421. Were you at the "Marquis of Granby" on the day of the election?—I was there a few minutes.

19,422. Did you see any money given to the men there for voting?—No, not any.

19,423. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you offered any money?—No.

19,424. Did you hear of any money going there?—Not any.

SIXTEENTH DAY.

S. Ellis.

27 Sept. 1869.

SAMUEL ELLIS sworn and examined.

19,425. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you recollect the day of the election?—Yes, I do.

19,426. Were you in Cartwright's or Clarke's beerhouse that day?—I believe I was the first of the morning.

19,427. In which of them?—Clarke's.

19,428. Were there men there who wanted to be paid for their votes?—That I cannot say.

19,429. Did you hear them talking about it?—Not at that time in the morning that I was in.

19,430. How long did you remain there?—Perhaps half an hour.

19,431. Did you go in again afterwards?—Not that day.

19,432. For whom did you vote?—I voted about a quarter past 3 for Tillett.

19,433. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

19,434. Were you promised anything for you vote?—Not a halfpenny.

19,435. Did you get any beer given you that day?—I had some, I believe, but I had not none given me.

19,436. Did you hear anything in Clarke's or Cartwright's beerhouse about money being paid for votes?—No.

C. Hall.

CHARLES HALL sworn and examined.

19,437. Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

19,438. For whom did you vote?—Stracey.

19,439. What time in the day?—Between 10 and 11.

19,440. Who canvassed you?—Young Mr. Stracey and Mr. Patteson.

19,441. When?—A day or two before the election.

19,442. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing.

19,443. Was anything promised you?—Nothing whatever.

19,444. Have you had anything since?—Nothing.

19,445. Were you at any public house that day?—No.

19,446. Are you quite certain of that?—I never went into a public house at all until I got into the market, and then I went and got a glass of ale at my own expense.

19,447. Did you get any beer given you?—Not a drop.

19,448. Is this the first time you have voted?—No; I have voted for this 40 years.

19,449. Have you always voted a Tory?—For this last 40 years I have.

R. Lawes.

ROBERT LAWES sworn and examined.

19,450. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A fishmonger.

19,451. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

19,452. At what time?—About 5 minutes to 4.

19,453. For whom?—Stracey.

19,454. What did you get for it?—Nothing.

19,455. How was that?—I don't know. I tried, and could not get anything.

19,456. Did you get a promise of anything?—No.

19,457. You tried your hardest, and could not get anything?—I could not get anything at all. I tried to get paid for my day's work.

W. Turner.

WILLIAM TURNER sworn and examined.

19,458. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

19,459. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

19,460. For whom?—Stracey.

19,461. What time in the day?—About the middle part of the day, I think it was, but I could not tell exactly the hour.

19,462. Did you go on the morning of that day to the "White Rose"?—Whereabouts is the "White Rose" situated, sir?

19,463. Do you know a public house at the back of the Inns?—Yes, I do.

19,464. Is that called the "White Rose"?—There is one there at the back of the Inns.

19,465. Did you go into that public-house that day?—In the afternoon I did, not in the forenoon.

19,466. Do you know Mr. Rosier, a carpenter?—I do, right well.

19,467. Mr. Frost, I believe, is the landlord of this house?—Of a public house at the back of the Inns, I believe he is.

19,468. Did you see Mr. Frost?—I saw him about 4 in the afternoon.

19,469. Did you ask him if there was anything to be had?—No.

19,470. Will you undertake to swear that you did not ask him that?—No, I never asked him.

19,471. At any time that day did you ask Mr. Frost whether there was anything to be had?—I don't remember that I asked him anything of the kind.

19,472. You don't remember?—No.

19,473. Do you recollect his referring you to Mr. Rosier, the carpenter?—We both belong to one corps, and oftentimes we chat together.

19,474. That is no answer to my question. Do you recollect his referring you to Mr. Rosier, the carpenter, and sending you down to him?—Not on that errand.

19,475. Did he send you down there at all?—No, not to Mr. Rosier, because I and Mr. Rosier went into his house that afternoon together.

19,476. Then you went there with him?—I went there with Rosier.

19,477. Did you go down with him in consequence of your having asked him if there was anything to be had?—No.

19,478. Why did you go down?—I went with Mr. Rosier after I had voted. We went and had a glass of something to drink together. That was in the afternoon, about half-past 2.

19,479. Now did you not go to Mr. Rosier, and did not Mr. Rosier tell you to go home until he sent for you?—Mr. Rosier I saw in the morning. I was home at work, and he said, "I shall see you again at "dinner time," and I did so.

19,480. Did he not tell you to go home until he sent for you?—No, not until he sent for me.

19,481. He told you to go home?—He told me to go home.

19,482. Why did he tell you to go home?—I don't know. I was out in the morning, and I said I had work to do, and he said, "Well, go home and do it."

19,483. But why should Mr. Rosier tell you to go home unless you were making some inquiry whether there was anything to be had?—I did not make any inquiry whether there was anything to be had.

19,484. But why did Mr. Rosier tell you to go home?—For no reason. I was asking him about my corps and about my business, and saying that there was nothing stirring and nothing doing.

19,485. You told me just now that Mr. Rosier had told you to go home. Did you talk to him about voting?—No, because he knew I am a Conservative, and always was, and I had told him who I should vote for.

19,486. Now do you mean to say that Mr. Rosier did not send for you afterwards to go and vote?—No, he never sent for me at all to go and vote.

19,487. Did he not send for you?—No, he did not send for me to go and vote.

19,488. How came it, that having been told to go home, you went and voted without further communicating with Mr. Rosier?—When I ran out again, I met Mr. Rosier accidentally in the market place; we had made no appointment to meet each other, but I met him in the market place, and I went and voted.

19,489. Did not Mr. Rosier promise you something for your vote?—No, he did not.

19,490. Did he give you anything for your vote?—He gave me nothing for my vote. I have stood for 30 years on the register, and have always been a Conservative; you can always rely upon me.

19,491. Why did you not go and vote long before if you were to get nothing for your vote, and were not standing out for money?—I was not standing out at all.

19,492. Then why did you not vote long before, as you are such a staunch Conservative?—I did not choose to go and vote till then, and I did not.

19,493. Tell me how it was that you did not go and vote in the first instance, if you were not standing out for some money?—I was not standing out; but it is usual for me to vote about that time in the day. I am not a very fast man either way.

19,494. It is the usual time for people who want money to vote?—Such is not the case with me. I never wanted money, nor yet was offered any.

19,495. Did you vote at the preceding election of 1865, Waters' election?—I did not vote at Waters' election; it was the only election I never missed.

19,496. Why did you not vote at that election?—I can give you no reason.

19,497. What did you get at previous elections?—Nothing at all.

19,498. Will you swear you got nothing?—Nothing.

19,499. Have you a pony cart?—I have.

19,500. Was that engaged all day in taking up voters?—No.

19,501. Was it engaged at all in taking up voters?—No, not on that day, for I had my business at home to attend to, and that occupied me in the forenoon.

19,502. Was there any voter taken up in your pony cart?—No, not one.

19,503. Were you paid anything for the use of your pony and cart?—No, I never brought it out that day on any occasion.

19,504. Did you make any bets about the election?—Not any.

19,505. Did you hear of any bets being made?—I never saw any bets made.

19,506. Did you not hear Abel make a bet of a sovereign to a shilling that persons dare not vote for Stracey?—I have heard talk about it, but I never saw it.

19,507. Where did you hear it talked about?—I heard it talked about in the "Compasses" that such a thing was about, but I never saw it.

19,508. Did you know with whom the bets were made?—No, I never saw anything of the kind done; it was only talked about.

19,509. Who was talking about it?—Well, it was the old midwife that keeps the "Compasses," Pearce.

James Cotton sworn and examined. J. Cotton.

19,510. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who did you vote for at this last election?—Mr. Stracey.

19,511. When?—After dinner.

19,512. Who canvassed you?—Mr. Taylor, but I was not at home.

19,513. Mr. Taylor took you up to vote, did he?—No.

19,514. Who did you go up with?—I went up with myself, leastways there was another one or two of us.

19,515. What did they give you for your vote this time?—Nothing.

19,516. What did they promise you?—Nothing.

19,517. Have you had anything since?—No.

19,518. Have you ever had anything at elections before?—No, I never had a vote before.

19,519. Did you try and get some money this time?—No, I never asked for any; but there was some there who asked for a day's pay, and Mr. Taylor said he could not get it.

19,520. Well, you asked for a day's pay?—It was asked by one or two of them that were there.

19,521. You would have been glad enough to get it if you could?—Yes, if I could have got a day's pay I would have been glad of it, that's the truth.

19,522. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you not say you would not vote unless you got a day's pay?—Yes, I did say so.

19,523. Did you not get it?—No.

19,524. Nor anything?—No.

James Smee sworn and examined. J. Smee.

19,525. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am watchman in the Gas Works. At 11 o'clock I got up, went and gave my vote, and was home again before 12 o'clock.

19,526. Did you get anything for it?—No.

19,527. For whom did you vote?—Stracey.

Frederick Ward sworn and examined. F. Ward.

19,528. (Mr Dowdeswell.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

19,529. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

19,530. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

19,531. What time in the day did you vote?—A quarter to 2.

19,532. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

19,533. Were you promised anything?—No.

19,534. Neither beer, money, nor anything else?—No.

19,535. Did you ask for anything?—No.

19,536. Did you not ask for a day's pay?—No.

19,537. Had you been canvassed beforehand?—There was three gentlemen came to my house at the dinner hour about a week before the election day and asked me which way I was going to vote, and I would not tell them.

19,538. On which side did they canvass you?—They were for the Liberal party.

19,539. Did the Conservatives canvass you at all?—No.

19,540. Have you ever had a vote before?—No.

19,541. Why did not you vote earlier?—I voted in the dinner hour; my dinner hour is from 1 to 2.

James Scarles sworn and examined. J. Scarles.

19,542. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote this election?—Mr. Stracey.

19,543. At what hour in the day?—About a quarter-past 2, I believe; between 2 and 3.

19,544. What made you so late?—Because I was at work until 2 o'clock.

19,545. Had you promised your vote?—No.

19,546. Had you been asked for your vote?—Yes.

SIXTEENTH DAY.

J. Scarles.

27 Sept. 1869.

19,547. By whom?—Mr. Tillett's son and another gentleman; I do not know his name.

19,548. Were you asked by anyone on the other side?—No.

19,549. Where were you on the day of the polling?—At work at the paper mills.

19,550. Were you at "The Marquis of Granby" during the day?—No.

19,551. Have you received anything since for your vote?—No.

19,552. Did you ask for a day's pay from anyone?—No.

19,553. Was anything promised you by anybody?—No, not anything.

J. Self.

JOSEPH SELF sworn and examined.

19,554. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a coachbuilder by trade.

19,555. Do you keep a public house?—Yes.

19,556. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

19,557. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

19,558. At what time in the day?—Ten minutes before 4.

19,559. What did you get for voting?—Nothing at all.

19,560. But you had promised Tillett, had you not?—No.

19,561. Had you been canvassed for Tillett?—No.

19,562. Had you been canvassed by anybody?—Not to the best of my knowledge.

19,563. Had not you been asked for your vote?—Yes.

19,564. By whom?—I cannot tell you the gentleman's name.

19,565. Were you asked to vote for Tillett?—Well, several of them came to my house and asked for my vote, but I never promised anyone.

19,566. How was it you put it off till 10 minutes to 4?—Because I am working for the Gas Works Company and I could not come away before, because what is called our draws come at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and I could not get away till a quarter to 4 because of that.

19,567. Did you get anything after you had voted?—No; neither before or after.

19,568. Nor a promise of anything?—No.

T. Pastons.

THOMAS PASTONS sworn and examined.

19,569. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

19,570. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

19,571. At what time in the day?—Half-past 2.

19,572. Do you know a man of the name of Townshend?—Yes.

19,573. What did he give you for your vote?—He gave me 6*s*.

19,574. Did he give it to you just before you voted?—Yes, before I voted.

I. Churchyard.

ISAAC CHURCHYARD sworn and examined.

19,575. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

19,576. For whom did you vote at this last election?—Russell and Tillett.

19,577. At what time in the day?—Just after 11, I think.

19,578. Had you promised your vote?—Yes.

19,579. To whom?—Russell and Tillett.

19,580. Who was the person who canvassed you to whom you gave a promise?—I promised it to Arthur Tillett.

19,581. In whose employment are you?—I am a shopkeeper.

19,582. Have you received anything for your vote?—No.

19,583. Or been promised anything?—No.

19,584. And have had nothing since?—No.

19,585. Do you know anything about bribery?—No.

19,586. Have you ever voted before?—No.

19,587. Have you paid any money to other people for their votes?—No.

19,588. No money passed through your hands for that purpose?—No.

19,589. Do you know a man of the name of Walter Lincoln?—Yes.

19,590. What was he doing at this election?—He promised his vote to Russell and Tillett, and he said if we wanted him we were to go for him, and I went for him about 3 o'clock, I think; and he said, if I would take him back he would vote for us, because he was busy and did not wish to lose his time, and he went and voted and went back directly, I think.

19,591. What did you give him?—Nothing; I had nothing to give.

19,592. Did you make any promise?—No.

19,593. Did you take anything to him from someone else?—No.

19,594. Have you any reason to believe that he did get something?—I believe he did not.

19,595. Were you paid for taking the trouble of canvassing?—I was.

19,596. How many days were you employed?—Several evenings in canvassing.

19,597. How much a night did they give you?—They paid me all at one time.

19,598. How much was it?—They paid me 50*s*.

19,599. How many nights were you engaged?—Friday night, Saturday night, and Monday night, and all the election day.

19,600. Who was it who told you to go and vote?—Mr. Stevens said I could vote, and that was the gentleman that employed me.

19,601. Did he tell you to go and vote?—No; I asked him whether I could vote, and he said "Yes, "you can vote."

19,602. This was early in the day, was it?—I voted just after 11 o'clock.

W. Seabrook.

WILLIAM SEABROOK recalled and further examined.

19,603. (Mr. Biron.) You remember about Owen Murrell giving you the 5*s*.?—Yes.

19,604. You saw him afterwards when he said, "Well, you have done me, old man"?—Yes.

19,605. Did not Murrell say to you, "If Stockings, "the chemist, comes and asks you what you got for "your vote, you are to say you got 10*s*."?—Yes, I recollect some of those words, but I cannot recollect all the particulars of them.

19,606. Was that which I now ask you said or not?—I should be very sorry to swear to it. There was some words of that sort said, but what they were I cannot say.

19,607. With that meaning at all events?—Yes, something of that sort, but what the particular words were I cannot say.

19,608. Did Stockings come to you afterwards?—No; I don't know Mr. Stockings.

19,609. Do you know Waterson?—No.

19,610. A tailor.—No, I don't know none of them.

SIXTEENTH DAY.

W. Lincoln.

27 Sept. 1869.

WALTER LINCOLN sworn and examined.

19,611. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote?—Yes.

19,612. When?—At a quarter-past 3 in the afternoon.

19,613. For whom?—Russell and Tillett.

19,614. Did you get anything for voting?—No; not a farthing.

19,615. You were brought up to the poll, I believe, and taken back to your work?—Yes.

19,616. By Churchyard?—Yes.

J. Amis.

JAMES AMIS sworn and examined.

19,617. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

19,618. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

19,619. Who gave you 10*s.* for your vote?—Not anybody. That is what I should have liked to have had.

19,620. Did nobody give you any money for your vote?—No.

19,621. Have not you said over and over again that they gave you 10*s.* for your vote?—Not me.

19,622. Where were you upon the election day?—At work till past 3 o'clock at the Gas Works at Norwich.

19,623. Cannot you get away from the Gas Factory to vote?—Yes, I can, and did so.

19,624. Why did you not get away before that time in the afternoon?—Because the sooner I leave off the sooner my money does not go. I don't get no pay if I leave off.

19,625. Did you finish your day before you went to vote?—No. I had to do the 3 o'clock draw, and then I went and voted.

19,626. You had a draw before that, had you not?—Yes.

19,627. Why did you not go after that draw?—Because the more I work the more pay I get, and when I leave off I get nothing.

19,628. But you might just as well leave off in the earlier part of the day as the latter part?—Yes, but I should not, perhaps, have gone to work again.

19,629. Did you go to work again?—No, not after that draw.

19,630. Then they have been telling stories about your having got 10*s.* for your vote?—I wish I had got it.

19,631. Did you ask anybody?—I got no chance of asking anybody.

19,632. Did the superintendent drive you up to the poll?—No, sir.

Adjourned to to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

Tuesday, 28th September 1869.

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

W. Wright.

28 Sept. 1869.

WARNER WRIGHT sworn and examined.

19,633. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a voter in this city?—No.

19,634. Did you manage one of the wards for the Liberal party at this last election?—I helped to manage one.

19,635. Which?—The first.

19,636. Who were under you conducting the proceedings in that ward?—We had not anyone particular in our ward room till the election day, except, I think, there was one man of the name of Chapman.

19,637. Who was the principal man who was acting for the Liberals in that ward?—Mr. Bryant Allen did all the canvassing.

19,638. Did you canvass at all?—No, I only stopped at the room and checked the register, and marked up the result of the canvass.

19,639. Then I suppose you know nothing about the proceedings of the canvass, except what appears by the return?—Nothing whatever.

19,640. Do you recollect any reports coming to that ward that bribery was going on?—No, I did not hear a single report of that nature.

19,641. Do you recollect Mr. Harper coming?—I don't know. There were a lot of people coming. I don't know the names of them all.

19,642. Do you recollect Mr. Harper coming with a report that bribery was going on?—I don't know who Mr. Harper is. I could not say whether he came or not.

19,643. Do you know of any money being provided during any part of that day in the committee room?—There was none provided there to my knowledge.

19,644. Do you recollect any application being made in the committee room for money that day between 2 and 3?—No, I was not in the committee room then, I was in the market place then.

19,645. What were you doing there?—I went to see the progress of the election.

19,646. Had your labours in the committee room terminated at that time?—I did not go into the committee room any more after that.

19,647. What time did you leave the committee room?—I should think it was between 2 and 3.

19,648. Who took your place in the committee room?—There were a lot of people there. Mr. Bryant Allen is an old hand at this, and I am quite a young one; so I was merely secondary.

19,649. Was he the person who was managing the proceedings in that ward?—Well, I cannot say that on the election day he was directing the proceedings there, because he was out and in the whole time.

19,650. If he was not, who was?—We left that principally to the head agents, I might say.

19,651. Who was the head agent?—There were three: Mr. O. D. Ray, Mr. Samuel Daynes, and Mr. George Stevens, and they kept coming round, driving, I think, a pony gig to the different wards to see how the things were going on, and leaving instructions behind them to those persons they saw there. I went every now and then through the polling places to see that our clerks were attending properly to their business.

19,652. Then I understand you to say that you had no portion of the management of the affairs, you merely acted in the situation almost of clerk in superintending?—I just attended to watching the ward on behalf of Sir William Russell.

19,653. By whom were you paid?—I was paid

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

W. Wright.

28 Sept. 1869.

through Mr. Coaks eventually. You see I was not paid at all. I was articled to Mr. Coaks then, and so he made me a charge. I was not anything but a clerk.

19,654. I asked you whether you had heard of bribery going on in any way ?—I thought you meant on our side.

19,655. No, on either side ?—Well, there were certain surmises. Of course all the people who were on the blue side accused all the people who were on the other side of bribery, but then they had no ground that I know of for making that accusation.

19,656. I want to know if anybody came to the room while you were there and reported that bribery was going on on the part of the Conservatives ?—Every other man in the town was accusing every other neighbour of bribery, but I don't believe if he was asked to substantiate his statement that he would have been able to do so.

19,657. Do you recollect anybody specially coming in and making that report, and giving any foundation for his statement, not a mere rumour, but a circumstantial statement ?—There was a man with a sore hand, I don't know what his name was, often in and out of the room. I believe he said (but I should not like to swear to it as a positive fact) that he had been offered money by the Conservatives for his vote, and immediately upon that being done he went and voted, or he had already voted, and so could not take it, but I cannot say whether it is so.

19,658. Do not you know his name ?—No. He was a man often in and out. I think he was a blacksmith or something of that sort.

19,659. You can give me nothing beyond mere rumours ?—I can say nothing beyond mere rumours, idle rumours. That is all I heard.

19,660. (Mr. Mansfield.) Was there no information that came to your committee room which led you to act by sending people to ascertain whether there was bribery on the Conservative side ?—There was not any positive information you could take hold of.

19,661. But any information on which you proceeded to act, and set people to watch particular places ?—No, I did not do that.

19,662. There was nothing done in that committee room with reference to watching bribery on the other side ?—There was nothing done that I know of in that ward to send people out to watch whether the Conservatives were bribing on the day of the election.

C. W. Bacon.

CHARLES WILLIAM BACON sworn and examined.

19,663. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade ?—A boot and shoe manufacturer.

19,664. You voted for Sir Henry Stracey at this election, did you not ?—I did.

19,665. You received some money from Furse ?—I did.

19,666. How much ?—2*l.* 10*s.*

19,667. Will you tell me what you did with that 2*l.* 10*s.* ?—I gave Mr. Belson 10*s.* to vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

19,668. And did he vote for Sir Henry Stracey ?—I must tell you this person declined to vote because I did not give him a sovereign.

19,669. Where does he live ?—Rose Lane at that time, but I believe he is since dead.

19,670. What is the next payment ?—Robert Rayner, 10*s.*

19,671. Where does he live ?—King Street.

19,672. Did he vote ?—He did.

19,673. For Sir Henry Stracey ?—Yes.

19,674. Who was the third ?—Thomas Staff, 4*s.*

19,675. Did he vote ?—Yes.

10,676. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Where does he live ?—I could not tell you unless I had my rate book; but somewhere in the parish.

19,677. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who is the next ?—Brigham.

19,678. How much did he get ?—10*s.*

19,679. Did he vote for Sir Henry Stracey ?—I was busy engaged with Barnes and Read. He told me he had, and I paid him.

19,680. Where does he live ?—Orchard Street.

19,681. Any more ?—To Barnes and Read I gave 7*s.* James Barnes and Robert Read.

19,682. Is that all ?—That is all.

19,683. Does that make up the 2*l.* 10*s.* ?—No. I gave Barnes and Read one quart of ale. I had then a balance of 8*s.* 6*d.*, which I offered to Mr. Furse, who gave me the 2*l.* 10*s.*, and he declined to take it.

19,684. What time in the day was it when you received this money ?—Between 20 minutes and a quarter before 4.—I had no time to get rid of more, so I spent the whole of it.

19,685. You managed well to get rid of it so quickly, considering the time that other people took to get rid of their money.—I did not want any of it myself.

19,686. Is this the first election you have been engaged in ?—I have worked very hard at former elections, but never received money, either directly or indirectly, on former occasions.

19,687. Have you never distributed money ?—Never.

19,688. Is this the first time money has passed through your hands to induce people to vote ?—Yes, positively the first time.

19,689. Do you know of anybody else receiving money at this election besides those you have named ?—No, I do not; and I do not know where this 10*l.* came from till I heard Mr. Allen state in the witness box that he gave Mr. Furse a cheque for it. I canvassed my ward very strongly on behalf of Sir Henry Stracey for seven or eight days previously, and on no occasion did I receive anything for my services, nor did I request it.

19,690. How did you canvass this ward ?—We generally take the streets or lanes as they come, work them through, and if the people are not at home we are not in the least daunted, but call again.

19,691. Is this the ward in which you are overseer ?—I was in 1868.

19,692. You are no longer ?—My time expired last Easter.

19,693. Who appointed you overseer ?—The mayor.

19,694. I suppose the mayor was a Conservative at that time ?—No, he was a Liberal mayor last year. They had a different arrangement this time. Each parish had to send in six names, and to save trouble they picked the first name in the list in each parish, and unfortunately I was one of them.

19,695. From your knowledge acquired as overseer, of course you had advantages over others in canvassing ?—I knew where the persons lived, therefore I conducted the others round. It was only a pleasure to me to do so.

19,696. Can you tell me anything else about money that passed at this election ?—No; I did not know the source from which the 200*l.* came till I heard it in this court.

19,697. Do you know of any other persons who were engaged in putting money about ?—Only Mr. Townshend, 3*l.* from the same source as I.

19,698. You know of nobody else in your ward ?—I don't think there is anyone else in my ward. I was going to say I believe I was the only person who bribed in the whole parish.

19,699. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you hear anybody else in your parish say that they had received or wanted money ?—No, I did not. I even asked some of those persons to take it that did not ask for it, for I wanted to get rid of it. I had only 15 or 16 minutes to work.

19,700. Were all these people whom you have mentioned in your own parish ?—Everyone. I really believe it might have been done entirely without. I don't think it was wanted at all. I think Sir Henry Stracey would have got in without it.

19,701. Not in your parish?—Yes. We always give an overwhelming majority there, in the first ward particularly.

19,702. Have you heard of anybody else in your parish being bribed?—No; I have heard their names spoken of, and I know they have got subpœnas, but I cannot tell what for, unless it is from the other side.

19,703. Have you heard of anybody else receiving bribes?—Not to my recollection.

19,704. Do you know of any fund provided by anybody for such purposes as these?—No, I have never heard of any at all.

19,705. Did you hear of any guarantee which was given for payment to any persons?—No, I have heard nothing; only what I have read.

WILLIAM COULSON sworn and examined. W. Coulson.

19,706. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A servant.

19,707. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

19,708. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

19,709. At what time in the day?—At a quarter before 2, as near as I can tell.

19,710. Did you get anything for voting?—Nothing at all.

19,711. Why did you not vote earlier in the day?—Because I knew the time was from 8 to 4, and I had not sufficient time before.

19,712. You were busy in the early part of the day?—Yes.

19,713. Were you canvassed for your vote before?—Yes.

19,714. Did you promise to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes, Mr. Selfe put my name down, but I was not at home. I was out along with the master, and I told Mr. Selfe I would either vote for Sir Henry Stracey or would not vote at all.

19,715. Who is Mr. Selfe?—He is a butcher at Tombland.

JOHN DALLAR sworn and examined. J. Dallar.

19,716. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

19,717. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

19,718. Were you a voter before the last election?—No.

19,719. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

19,720. At what time in the day?—When I went to dinner.

19,721. Between 1 and 2, or after 2?—Ten minutes to 2, as near as I can tell.

19,722. Do you know a person of the name of John Ballard Pitt?—Yes, I know Mr. Pitt, the surgeon.

19,723. Did you see him on the day of the election?—Yes.

19,724. Did he come to you?—Yes.

19,725. Did he give you some money?—No.

19,726. Did he promise you some money?—No.

19,727. Was Parker, the grocer, with him?—Yes, I think he was.

19,728. Did Parker give you any money?—No.

19,729. Did Parker promise you some money?—No, not a farthing.

19,730. Where did they come to you?—To my house.

19,731. What did they come to you about?—They came and asked me to vote.

19,732. Why had you not voted before that time?—Because I could not get there.

19,733. The polling place is close to you?—Yes, but I was not at home.

19,734. Where were you?—At work up at the Victoria Station.

19,735. What were you doing there?—I am one of the carmen in the town.

19,736. Did you not receive anything for your vote?—Not a farthing.

19,737. Had you any beer?—No.

19,738. Nor the promise of anything?—No.

19,739. Had you been canvassed before?—Yes.

19,740. By whom?—Parker and Smith.

19,741. Had you promised your vote?—Yes, I promised Mr. Parker and Smith.

JAMES HENRY SIMPSON sworn and examined. J. H. Simpson.

19,742. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

19,743. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

19,744. At what hour of the day?—A few minutes before 4.

19,745. What made you vote so late?—I was on business.

19,746. What business was that?—I had some goods to sell.

19,747. What did you get for your vote?—I never got nothing. I lost money by it. I was in good sale, and forced to run away.

19,748. (Mr. Biron.) Somebody made that up to you?—Oh, no, they did not.

19,749. (Mr. Mansfield.) How much did they offer you?—I never had nothing for my vote.

19,750. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What money did you get?—I told you I never got none at all.

19,751. (Mr. Mansfield.) How much did you ask for?—Nothing. I should have took some if I could have got it.

19,752. Who asked you to vote?—Nobody. I voted on my own principle.

19,753. Did you ever vote before?—Yes.

19,754. What were your principles then?—Mr. Waters'.

19,755. What did you get then?—Nothing at all.

19,756. How much did you ask for?—I never got anything.

19,757. Did you vote then at one minute before 4?—I don't know what time I voted then.

19,758. Were you promised anything this time?—No.

19,759. Did you get any beer?—No.

19,760. Were you at the "Horse Shoes," in Palace Street?—I did not go to the "Horse Shoes."

19,761. Where were you the whole of the day?—Walking about with some fish. I wanted to sell it.

19,762. Did you go into any public house?—I went into Mr. Warnes' public house, in St. James'.

19,763. Whom did you see there?—I see Mr. Warnes.

19,764. Did you see William Taylor?—No; there were several people there. I did not take much notice of them. I see Mr. Warnes.

19,765. How much did he give you. He never gave me nothing.

19,766. Did you see Worledge there?—No.

19,767. Did you see Mitchell there?—No.

19,768. Or Cubitt?—No.

19,769. Did you have any beer there?—Yes, I paid for half a pint of beer.

19,770. Whom else did you see besides Warnes?—There were several chaps there besides him.

19,771. Who were there?—I don't know hardly who was there, people what used the house. I saw Mr. Staff was there.

19,772. What made you go to that public house?—I lived close by.

SEVENTEENTH DAY

J. H. Simpson.

28 Sept. 1869.

19,773. You knew there was money and beer going there?—No. I use the man's house, and I generally call there for half a pint.

19,774. What time in the day was it when you were at this house?—About dinner time.

19,775. How long did you stop there?—About half an hour, I suppose.

19,776. Did you talk to anybody?—I talked to people that were inside.

19,777. What were the names of the people there?—There was a man of the name of Staff there.

19,778. Who else?—Two or three more people were in there; I don't know who. People were going backwards and forwards during the day. I could not mention all the men's names.

19,779. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Unless you tell us the truth we shall keep you here all day, perhaps a little longer?—I have told you the truth, what I know.

19,780. You have not told us the truth, you know that as well as possible.—I have told you all I know; I cannot go on no further.

19,781. We want to know what you got, or what you were promised upon that day, so now tell us.—I have told you.

19,782. (Mr. Mansfield.) Was anything said to you in that public house about what you were to get for your vote, or about the vote you were going to give?—No.

19,783. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What did you get, or what was promised you that day?—I got nothing. I voted for free good-will.

19,784. I am not speaking about your vote. What did you get, or what were you promised that day?—Not anything.

19,785. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you hear anyone else being offered money?—No, there was not anyone that I know of. I went and got a glass of beer, and hawked my goods that I had to sell. I walked about with my fish.

19,786. Did you see other people treated with beer?—No, it was just the same as at other times.

19,787. Do not you know that beer was given to voters?—No, I did not stop long enough.

19,788. (Mr. Biron.) Do you mean to say you paid for the beer you got?—Yes, a glass of ale. I am no sponge nor yet no drunkard. I pay for all the beer I drink, every drop of it. Sometimes I don't get a glass of beer for a week, and sometimes not for a month.

19,789. You tried to get something for your vote?—No, I did not. I had no one offered me anything whatsoever. I never see anybody there.

19,790. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Why, if you were disposed to vote, did you not vote, instead of going to Warnes'?—I were not going to vote in the seventh ward, that was in the seventh ward. I vote in the first ward.

19,791. Why did not you go and vote instead of wasting half-an-hour in the public house?—I thought any time in the day would do for that.

19,792. Were you not waiting to get money?—No.

19,793. Why did you not vote till 5 minutes to 4?—Because I was on business.

19,794. Had you been canvassed before?—Yes.

19,795. Who canvassed you?—I cannot call the man's name to mind.

19,796. Had you promised your vote?—Yes.

19,797. When?—A man come to my house.

19,798. Having promised your vote before the election, why did you put off giving your vote till 5 minutes to 4, when the poll was just closing?—I see lots of people voting. We could not all vote at one time.

19,799. Why put it off till 5 minutes to 4?—That was the time appointed.

19,800. You were hawking your fish about all over the city?—Yes.

19,801. Why could you not then go up and vote?—I did go up several times, but I could not get there.

19,802. Were you not waiting for money?—I had no money offered to me.

19,803. It may not have been offered to you, but were you not waiting for it?—No, I did not get any money, and I did not want any money more than I work for.

19,804. What were you waiting for?—I am an independent man, and have no master to please.

19,805. If money had been offered to you, you would have taken it?—I don't know; perhaps I should. I am a poor man; money is tempting to a poor man.

19,806. Do you know a person of the name of Taylor?—There are several Taylors about.

19,807. Did you see a person of the name of Taylor at Warnes' house; William Taylor, of Cowgate Street?—Not that I know on.

19,808. Did you not see him in Warnes' house?—I don't think I did. He is a man that does not use no public house.

19,809. Do not you recollect money being offered for his vote?—No.

19,810. Have not you said that you saw money offered him for his vote?—No.

19,811. Do you know Mitchell?—No, I don't know that I know a man of the name of Mitchell.

19,812. Do you know a person of the name of Mitchell, or do you know a person who was there with Warnes and Taylor?—No.

19,813. Do not you recollect a man offering Taylor 2*s.* 6*d.* for his vote?—No.

19,814. Did not Taylor refuse it, and did not you advise Taylor to take it?—No.

19,815. You mean to swear that?—Yes.

19,816. Did not he offer you money?—No.

19,817. Did he promise you money?—No.

19,818. Has he ever given you any money?—No.

19,819. Has anybody in Warnes' house offered you money?—No.

19,820. Or given you money?—No.

19,821. Or beer?—No, not but what I paid for.

S. Freeman.

SAMUEL FREEMAN sworn and examined.

19,822. (Mr. Biron.) Are you a publican?—A carpenter and publican.

19,823. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

19,824. For whom?—Mr. Stracey.

19,825. At what time in the day?—A quarter to 4.

19,826. Did you get anything for voting?—I got 1*l.* of Mr. Allen.

19,827. What to do?—Why to vote, I suppose.

19,828. Were there any men at your place at that time?—Not one. I was not at home myself. I was at work myself. There was not a voter in my house at all.

19,829. Do you know of any other person that got money for voting?—It was not my business to know that.

19,830. Do you know it?—No. I don't know any person that got money.

G. Aldham.

GEORGE ALDHAM sworn and examined.

19,831. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

19,832. Had you ever had a vote before?—Yes.

19,833. At what time in the day did you vote?—Half-past 8.

19,834. Had you been canvassed?—Yes.

19,835. By whom?—By Sir William Russell, Tillett, and Sir Henry Stracey.

19,836. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

19,837. Had you promised your vote?—Yes.
19,838. To whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.
19,839. Had he canvassed you personally?—Yes; he canvassed me at my workshop.
19,840. When did he canvass you?—About three or four days before the election.
19,841. Did you get anything for your vote?—Not a farthing.
19,842. Or the promise of anything?—No.

G. Aldham.

WILLIAM MADDS sworn and examined. W. Madds.

19,843. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a voter?—Yes.
19,844. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Stracey and Russell.
19,845. At what time in the day?—About 2 o'clock.
19,846. Had you promised your vote?—No.
19,847. Who asked you to vote?—Not anyone.
19,848. Did you receive anything for your vote?—No.
19,849. Had you ever voted before?—No.
19,850. Were you promised anything?—No.
19,851. Have you had anything paid to you since?—No.

BENJAMIN QUANTRILL sworn and examined. B. Quantrill.

19,852. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shoemaker.
19,853. Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.
19,854. At what time of the day?—Somewhere between 3 and 4.
19,855. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.
19,856. Had you promised your vote?—No; I did not promise it to anyone. I was not at home when some of them came. I was at my business.
19,857. How came you to vote so late?—I had to look after my business. That is my living.
19,858. Did you get anything for your day's time?—Not a farthing.
19,859. Or the promise of anything?—Not anything.

WILLIAM PEARSON sworn and examined. W. Pearson.

19,860. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.
19,861. Had you voted before?—Yes.
19,862. At how many elections?—I cannot say.
19,863–4. Well, we will begin with Schneider's election. Do you remember that?—Yes.
19,865. Did you receive any money upon that occasion?—No.
19,866. Do you recollect Bignold and Lushington's election?—Yes.
19,867. Did you receive anything then?—No.
19,868. Do you recollect Lewis and Forlonge's election?—Yes.
19,869. What did you receive then?—Nothing.
19,870. Did you receive anything at Goldsmid and Waters' election.—No.
19,871. At the last election, what time did you vote?—About a quarter to 4 or 20 minutes to 4; I don't know which it was.
19,872. Where were you during the day?—Walking about.
19,873. What public houses were you in?—I went into lots of them, of course, that day.
19,874. Almost every public house in the city?—No, I cannot say that.
19,875. Were you at Mackley's?—I cannot answer that.
19,876. Were you at Sparkes', in Queen Street?—Not that I am aware of.
19,877. Do you mean to say that you cannot recollect whether you were in Sparkes', in Queen Street, on that day?—If I was, it was after 4 o'clock.
19,878. Why do you remember being in Sparkes' after 4 o'clock?—Because after the election was over I went and got a glass of ale.

SIMON BURROWS sworn and examined. S. Burrows.

19,879. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at this election?—Sir Henry Stracey.
19,880. What time in the day?—At a quarter to 12.
19,881. Had you promised your vote?—Not to anybody particular. I told Mr. Tillett I should vote for Sir Henry Stracey.
19,882. Did you get anything for you vote?—No.
19,883. Did you ask for anything?—No.
19,884. Was anything promised to you?—No.
19,885. Have you got anything since?—No.
19,886. Is this the first time you have voted?—No.
19,887. For whom did you vote before?—I gave my maiden vote for Samuel Bignold when he put up for Norwich.
19,888. Have you always voted for the Conservatives?—Always.

NATHANIEL ROE sworn and examined. N. Roe.

19,889. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A carter.
19,890. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.
19,891. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.
19,892. At what time in the day?—12 o'clock.
19,893. Did you get anything for voting?—No, not even a glass of beer.
19,894. Were you at the "Cock and Pie" public house?—No, I was not; for I don't use it.
19,895. At what public house were you?—I do my duty getting up in the morning, and when I have done my day's labour I go to the "White Lion," St. Martin's-at-Palace, and there, if I get a pint of beer, I pay for it at my own expense.
19,896. I am talking about the election day; answer the question, and don't make speeches about your habits. Do you know a man of the name of Traxton, of the Close?—Yes.
19,897. Did you see him on the day of the election?—I did not.
19,898. The day before?—No.
19,899. Or the day after?—No.
19,900. Did you ever speak to him about your vote?—No.
19,901. Who brought you up to the poll?—No one.
19,902. Do you know Jonathan Flowers?—Yes.
19,903. Did not he bring you up to the poll?—No.
19,904. Did not he give you anything for voting?—No.
19,905. I will just ask you once more.—I tell you firmly, properly, and truly I never see neither of them. I come as an independent voter, and if you look at your list I voted as a freeholder, and got in-sulted when I was voting. If it had not been for Hall, the butcher, at the top of Rose Lane, I should not have voted at all.

19,906. How came he to persuade you to vote?—When I came up there I got abused by the clerk that keeps the books—I suppose you call them books—I am not a scholar. When I got up there he says, "Are you an occupier? What are you?" I says, "An independent freeholder."

19,907. Never mind that story. What did Hall do to persuade you?—I have not had a glass of beer of no one.

19,908. You told me you would not have voted but for Mr. Hall. What did he do to induce you to vote?—When I was going away he got hold of me, and he said, "Don't go away, but vote." I said "For you "as a neighbour, I will vote;" and I never received a glass of ale from anyone, I will take my oath about it.

19,909. I am not asking you about ale but about money?—I am now 46 years old, and I never received a penny in my life.

19,910. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Have you voted at former elections?—I voted twice in general elections.

19,911. Did you ever receive anything for your vote?—Never.

19,912. Have you always voted for the Conservatives?—I have. I wish every man would vote the same as I did, for the principle, as an independent freeholder.

G. Cannell.

GEORGE CANNELL sworn and examined.

19,913. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

19,914. Had you ever been a voter before?—Yes.

19,915. At how many elections?—I cannot tell you how many—several.

19,916. Have you been for many years a resident in this city, and a voter?—All my lifetime.

19,917. When did you vote at the last election?—After dinner. I had to go to the doctor's before I could vote, and it was about 3 o'clock, I think.

19,918. Were you canvassed by Mr. Parker?—When he called in at mine a day before the election.

19,919. Did he not call on you on the election day?—I don't think he did.

19,920. Did he not come to your house two or three times that day?—No, he went to Mr. Gurling's.

19,921. Did Dr. Pitt come to your house?—Yes, and Mr. Thompson.

19,922. What time did he first come to your shop?—It might be—because I am hardly able to get there very early—betwixt 11 and 12.

19,923. Did he ask you to come and vote?—Yes.

19,924. Had you promised your vote before?—No.

19,925. You had been canvassed before?—Yes, I had been canvassed.

19,926. Why had you not promised your vote?—I never do promise; I never promise my vote, because I cannot tell how I may vote.

19,927. On former occasions have you received anything for your vote?—No.

19,928. On which side have you voted on former elections?—Sometimes I voted for Peto and Douro, and another time for Warner.

19,929. You are of no particular principles?—No; I vote for the gentlemen who, I believe, are qualified to protect England's glory.

19,930. And to sustain it by proper payments?—I know nothing about payments.

19,931. Have you never received anything for voting?—Not unless it has been for poll books, and that I consider every man has a right to. That is years back.

19,932. Did not Mr. Pitt or anybody else give you some money for voting at this election?—No.

19,933. Or promise you any money?—No.

19,934. Or custom?—No.

19,935. Or give you a promise of any kind?—None at all.

19,936. And bought nothing of you?—No.

F. Smith.

FRANCIS SMITH sworn and examined.

19,937. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

19,938. At what time in the day?—Between 2 and 3.

19,939. Who asked you for your vote?—Mr. Taylor.

19,940. When?—About four days before the election.

19,941. Did he offer you anything?—He did not.

19,942. Have you received anything for your vote?—Nothing at all.

19,943. Did you get any beer that day?—No, only at my own expense.

19,944. Had you any at public houses where beer was going?—I had one half pint along with one of my partners before I started.

19,945. Is that all?—That is all. I was at work till 2 o'clock.

19,946. Have you ever voted before?—No.

19,947. Has anything been promised you?—Nothing.

C. Weavers.

CHARLES WEAVERS sworn and examined.

19,948. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A fishmonger.

19,949. Did you vote for Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

19,950. At what time?—A few minutes before 4.

19,951. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

19,952. Why did not you vote earlier than that?—Because we were busy at our shop, and I had not time to leave before.

19,953. Are you a shopkeeper then?—Yes.

19,954. Were you canvassed for your vote by anybody?—No.

19,955. Did your master vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

T. Lefevre.

THOMAS LEFEVRE sworn and examined.

19,956. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

19,957. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

19,958. What time in the day?—About 3 o'clock.

19,959. Where were you up to 3 o'clock on that day?—I was at work till 1 o'clock.

19,960. Where were you after 1?—I went home and had a wash and got my dinner, and then went to the poll house.

19,961. You would not be two hours at your dinner?—There is washing and dressing.

19,962. But that would not take you an hour?—No, it would not.

19,963. Between 1 and 3 o'clock did you go to any public house?—Yes, I went and got a glass of ale.

19,964. Where?—Cooper's, "Hop Pole," the house I generally use, being near my work.

19,965. Did anybody ask you to vote?—Not on the election day.

19,966. Did anyone ask you before?—Yes, I was canvassed.

19,967. Who canvassed you?—Mr. Morgan, the brewer.

19,968. Did you promise your vote?—Yes.

19,969. For Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

19,970. Did you get anything for voting?— No.

19,971. Or the promise of anything?—No.

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

28 Sept. 1869.

THOMAS WILLIAM SABBERTON sworn and examined.

T. W. Sabberton.

19,972. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

19,973. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

19,974. What time of the day?—Just before 4.

19,975. What made you vote so late?—Because I was after my business at Thorpe in the daytime.

19,976. What are you by trade?—An engineer.

19,977. Did anybody offer you anything for your vote?—No.

19,978. Did you give any money to anybody else?—No.

19,979. Did any money pass through your hands?—No.

19,980. Has anything been promised you since?—No.

JOHN ALLEN sworn and examined.

J. Allen.

19,981. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a dyer by trade.

19,982. Did you vote at the last election?—No.

19,983. Have you got a vote?—Yes.

19,984. Why did you not vote?—I kept at home, and did not trouble nothing at all about it.

19,985. I suppose you wanted something to vote?—Yes; I said I would not vote without I was paid for it.

19,986. Did you see Dr. Allen that day?—Yes; he came in the morning between 9 and 10.

19,987. Did not he come after that?—He came and asked me if I would go and vote. I said "No; I had "not made up my mind to vote."

19,988. What did he say?—He said "Why not "come?" I said, "I shall not come yet." He went out and hailed a coachman with a carriage and pair of grey horses, and he asked me if I would come. I said "No." He said "What are you staying back "for?" I said "Nothing particular." "I suppose "you want sugar," he said. My wife said, "That is "what we do want;" and then he drove off, and I never saw no more of him.

19,989. Did nobody come?—Taylor came in the afternoon.

19,990. What did he say about money? Your wife does the talking for you?—No. She was out when they came.

19,991. Did not she say anything?—I believe she was in the shop along with Mr. Taylor, but I don't think he ever spoke.

19,992. What did he offer your wife?—He offered her nothing.

19,993. What was her price for you that day?—I said I should not vote without I had a sovereign.

19,994. When Huggins came did not he offer you anything?—He offered me half a sovereign, and I told him I would not vote without I had a sovereign. He told me to wait for an hour.

19,995. Then it got on to 4 o'clock?—Then it got on to 4 o'clock; and I never went.

CHARLES OURY sworn and examined.

C. Oury.

19,996. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a relieving officer in the city?—Yes.

19,997. Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

19,998. Did you take an active part in taking up voters to the poll?—Only a few.

19,999. Do you know a person of the name of Scarles?—Yes.

20,000. Did you see him upon the day of the election?—I met him by accident.

20,001. Had he a card, or did he tell you he had received a card, which he showed you?—He took a card from his pocket and showed it me, and said he was going to vote.

20,002. Where did you meet him?—I met him at a house opposite the "Tuns," called the "Gates," I think.

20,003. Did you ask him whether he was going to vote?—I asked him whether he was going to vote.

20,004. Did you read the card?—I did.

20,005. Did you find that it had the name of John Scarlett, Wellington Square, upon it?—I did not see any address that I remember, but I saw the name of Scarlett.

20,006. You knew Scarles well before that?—I had not seen him for a long time before that.

20,007. You had given him parish relief, had you not?—Yes, some 12 months previous.

20,008. And you knew his name was Joseph Scarles?—No, that I did not.

20,009. Did you ask him what his name was?—I pointed out the name of Scarlett. I inferred that his name was John, because I had John on my books, and I imagined he was the same. I said, "There is the "name of Scarlett, two small t's. There must be "some mistake. Are you sure it was meant for you?" He said, "I am sure it was, because it was left at my "house in Wellington Lane." I said, "Be sure who "you are going to vote for before you vote." He pointed to an orange ribbon in his coat, and he said, "For Stracey." I said, "Then plump for Stracey; "but if there is a mistake go into the committee "room and get it rectified."

20,010. Did you go into the committee room with him?—I did.

20,011. Did you inquire whether the name of Scarles was upon the register at all?—I did not make any inquiry, for I met some friends there, and I handed him over to the clerk.

20,012. Did you not go in with him for the purpose of seeing whether it was right?—No. I simply went there to hand him over to the clerk.

20,013. Did you afterwards go with him to the poll?—I saw him afterwards, and he told me it was all right; and I went with him towards the poll.

20,014. Do you mean to say you yourself did not speak to anybody respecting that card in that committee room?—I may have made the observation, "There is some alteration required in this matter."

20,015. Did you not speak to some person in that room respecting that card?—I don't know, I don't remember speaking to anyone.

20,016. Will you undertake to swear that you did not speak to anyone in the committee room respecting that card?—I think I may.

20,017. You knew the man's name was not Scarlett?—I knew it was not.

20,018. You knew he did not live in Wellington Square?—That I did not know, because he did live in Wellington Square when he was relieved previously. I believe he told me afterwards that he had removed to Heigham.

20,019. Did he not tell you he was living in Tinkler's Lane?—I believe he did.

20,020. To whom did you say that Scarles spoke in that room?—I don't know to whom he spoke.

20,021. Did you see a person at the table there?—There were so many persons in the room. I did not see anybody particular.

20,022. Did you see any person sitting at the table?—I think there was one or two, or two or three.

20,023. Did you not speak to a person at the table and show him the card?—No.

20,024. You told him where the committee room was when you were immediately opposite?—Yes. The man was the worse for liquor, and I conducted him there.

20,025. Then the man being drunk, according to you, and you going in with him for the purpose of putting right any mistake, do you mean to say you left the man entirely to himself, and did not afford him any assistance in unravelling the mistake ?—I handed him over to several persons.

20,026. Who was present ?—There were several. I said "This man wants the ticket rectified." There were two or three people there. I was talking to them.

20,027. I want to know who was the person to whom you handed that man over ?—I don't know any man in particular.

20,028. You would not go into a committee room for the purpose of getting a card rectified and hand him to no one in particular. You would go to the person officiating at the table. Who was he ?—I don't know. I saw Mr. Buttifant at the table, but I don't know that I spoke to him at all.

20,029. Was he the head manager ?—I won't be sure ; I will not swear that. There were a great many persons whom I did not know.

20,030. Did you see Mr. Stanley there ?—No.

20,031. Did you get information as to whether it was an error or not ?—No, I got no information.

20,032. Did you leave it entirely to the drunken man ?—He was not entirely drunken.

20,033. He was so drunk that you went there to take care of him ?—He was tipsy—the worse for drink—a little on.

20,034. You left the drunken man entirely in the hands of the person to whom you "handed him over," as you call it ?—No. When he came down I was below in the street; and when he came out again I showed him the way to the poll.

20,035. He was so drunk that it was necessary to see him to the poll ?—I don't know that he was.

20,036. You were in the room when the man spoke to the person at the table ?—I might have been, but I did not take any notice.

20,037. Were you ?—I will not swear positively that I was, because I came down the stairs almost immediately after that.

20,038. Did you come down the stairs before the man came down ?—Yes.

20,039. Will you undertake to swear that ?—Yes.

20,040. You waited for him ?—Not particularly waited for him ; I was below, speaking to some friends, and I took him to the poll.

20,041. Why did you not go away if you were taking no farther interest in the matter ?—Because there were several friends there to whom I was talking.

20,042. Were you not told that Scarlett was the right name upon the register, and did you, notwithstanding that, tell that man to go, and did you not take him to the poll ?—I did not hear anything of the kind.

20,043. You saw that it was Scarlett upon the card ?—I did, when he showed it me at first, and I said it was an error not intended for him.

20,044. And you saw the card after he came down ?—No, I did not notice it afterwards.

20,045. You went with him to the poll ?—I went to the outside of the place.

20,046. You took care not to go in ?—I had a very severe illness, and I could not stand any crowd at all ; and I always kept aloof.

20,047. Did not you go up to the polling booth with him ? — There was no polling booth. It was a window in a street, and there was a crowd round it.

20,048. Did you not go to the window with him ?—No. I stayed on the outside.

20,049. Did you look to the card to see whether it was corrected ?—I did not.

20,050. Although you went into the room for the purpose of getting it corrected, you did not look at it to see whether it was corrected ?—I did not look afterwards.

20,051. You knew there was a person of the name of Scarlett ?—I did not. On my oath, as I am standing before you, I had no more idea that that man was personating another than if I was to die the next moment.

20,052. He had received parish relief ?—Not for a twelve month before. The last relief was in the previous December.

20,053. You knew as well as possible that he would have been disqualified under those circumstances ?—I never gave that a thought. I thought he was on the register by having a card sent to him. I thought he was on the register quite correct, by his showing me the card he had sent to him.

20,054. You gave him relief a few weeks after ?—He had relief about six weeks after as a casual, for want of employment ; for a couple of weeks.

20,055. He had received relief upon several occasions before that ?—Upon two or three occasions previous to that again, but not for 12 months previously.

20,056. Yet that man having been frequently upon your books, as he had been, as a pauper, you took no further trouble to ascertain whether he was the right man ?—I did not. I simply met the man by accident, I should not have gone after him. He spoke to me first. He first accosted me. He had got a piece of ribbon in his coat, and I said "What, are you going "to vote ?" "Yes," he said. "For whom ?" I said. "For Stracey. Look at my colours ;" and he showed me his card. I said "There is a wrong name, are "you sure it is meant for you ?" "Positive," he said, "because it was sent to my house."

20,057. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do not you know that Scarles could neither read nor write ?—I do not.

20,058. You read the card to him ?—I read the card, but I did not know whether he could read or write, and do not know now. I should be sorry to swear that.

20,059. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you not say to him "Make haste and give Mr. Stracey a plumper" ?—That is very likely, because it was so late in the day.

20,060. Did you pay money to any men that day ?—Not a farthing.

20,061. Do you know a person of the name of Lovett ?—I know Lovett, the carpenter, if that is the man.

20,062. Did you take up Lovett to the poll ?—No.

20,063. Did you go to Lovett to get him to vote ?—No.

20,064. Did you see Lovett that day ?—I might have seen Lovett, the carpenter, but I don't know where. I might have passed him ; I cannot say.

20,065. Did not you ask him to go up and vote ?—He is a man who would have acted quite independent of me.

20,066. Do you know Metcalfe ?—I know Metcalfe, the rate collector.

20,067. Do you know a man of the name of Metcalfe ?—I know two or three men of that name.

20,068. Did you take either of them up to the poll that day ?—Not that I am aware of.

20,069. Did you see anybody of the name of Metcalfe about his vote ?—Not anybody.

20,070. Did you give any money to anyone of that name for voting ?—Not the fraction of a farthing. I had nothing to give, if I felt inclined.

20,071. Did you promise them anything ?—I did not. I told this man Scarles and one or two other men standing by that there would not be a farthing spent at the election, and I did not believe that there would.

20,072. Why did you say that to Scarles ? Had he asked you for money ?—No ; there were one or two parties standing by, and seemed to be hanging about as if they wanted money. I said "It's no use, there "won't be any money for anybody."

20,073. Why did you say that to Scarles ?—I did not say it to Scarles personally.

20,074. You said it to the others ?—I said it generally.

20,075. Because they spoke to you about money ?—They did not speak to me about money.

20,076. Did they not speak about money to elicit that observation from you ?—There was one man who appeared to be following me for about a quarter of an hour, and he appeared to be wanting something. Who he was I don't know. I thought he wanted to be paid something.

20,077. What gave you the idea unless he said something to you ?—I thought by his appearance that he did.

20,078. Can you give no other reason than that ?—No ; by his manner.

20,079. It would be far better for a public officer like yourself not to interfere in these matters.—I took only a slight interest. I registered my vote. That is about all.

20,080. It would have been better if you had not occupied yourself as you did. You ought to have been very cautious when you knew the man was a pauper, and that there was a mistake about his name. When you took him to the committee room you ought to have seen that it was altered.—I assure you I acted most innocently in the matter.

JOHN MACKLEY sworn and examined. J. Mackley.

20,081. (Mr. Mansfield.) You keep the "Marquis of Granby," Pockthorpe ?—Yes.

20,082. Do you recollect on the day of the election there being a number of people in your place ?—Yes.

20,083. At what time of the day was that ?—I think between 10 and 11 o'clock.

20,084. Did they remain there the whole of the day ?—They merely stopped there till drawing on towards 4 o'clock ; the greatest part of them were drinking, no doubt.

20,085. Who paid for the ale ?—I suppose they paid for it themselves.

20,086. You suppose that, but don't you know that money was found to pay for that ale ?—I am sure I cannot give but very little answers as regards what business was transacted in the house on that day, because that business is left to my wife and children ; and my employment is on the land, and as I have a contract in the barracks I have business to attend to there.

20,087. Have not you been told by your wife where the money came from ?—Well, I have heard where the money came from as far as that goes.

20,088. Who paid your wife for the ale ?—Well, I cannot say who paid for it. I believe I heard her say Mr. Allen changed half a sovereign, but whether he gave her any order for beer I am not able to say.

20,089. Do you know how much beer was paid for by Dr. Allen ?—I don't know. I heard her say he changed half a sovereign there. Whether it was for drink himself or whether he felt disposed to treat other people or not I am not able to say. I don't suppose I was in the house an hour the whole of the day.

20,090. Were not you in the house between 3 and 4 ?—I might have been ; I cannot say whether I was or not.

20,091. You saw Womersley there ?—Yes, he was there, I should say, about 12 o'clock, or perhaps a little sooner than later.

20,092. He had some talk with you, had he not ?—Yes ; in the back room.

20,093. What was the talk about ?—I do not know whether I came from the town after voting, or whether I came out of the barracks from my work, but when I came to my house I saw a quantity of people there, and I wanted to know what that meant, and a man named Thompson said Mr. Womersley had authorised them to go and get up all the voters they could in Pockthorpe and St. James'. I said, how could I leave my employment in the barracks to go after such nonsense as that, well he said he thought there was some money afloat. I said, "Nonsense, there is no intention of giving any money by Messrs. Tillett and Russell." I spoke just in that way ; and then he says to me, "Keep these men in tow."

20,094. What did you say to him ?—Mr. Womersley said, "Mackley, keep these men in tow." I said, "What is the use of doing that, there is no intention of giving them any money, and this class of people will not vote without money;" and then, of course, he left. I thought to ascertain whether there was money or not. I knew that there would be a refusal. I knew that there was no intention of any money being given. I said, "I cannot attend to these men ; they will take and break all my windows." I left the house, and said I was going to a certain place to ask whether they were going to be paid for their day's work or not ; but instead of going there I did not go. I went to the "Prince of Wales," in St. James', and got a pint of porter, and came back and told them that they had better disperse, and if they could go and make better terms anywhere else, they had better do so.

20,095. Did you see Mr. Womersley again ?—Yes, in Magdalen Street. I said, "You did not come back." "No," he said, "I did not." "Well," I said, "I did not expect you would." That is all that passed, that is all I said, it was a mere nonsensical electioneering dodge. There was no money given and no beer. They said they could go down the street and get money, and I said, "Never mind, I have got none to give, and if you can get it, you had better go."

20,096. Did Mr. Womersley pay for any beer ?—He did not, neither did he give any order, or, if he did, he gave it to my mistress.

20,097. Did your mistress tell you that he did ?—No, she did not.

20,098. All the beer that was had was paid for by Dr. Allen, was it not ?—I do not know that he paid for any beer ; he changed half a sovereign, but whether he was drinking gin, rum, or brandy, or whether he treated anybody, I am not able to say.

20,099. Was Frederick George Hall, a butcher, in your house that day ?—Yes, he was ; he frequently called in there.

20,100. He ordered a goodish quantity of beer, did he not ?—I do not know that he treated anybody. He is a man who had property in that parish, and if he fell in with any of his tenants he possibly might treat some of them to a glass.

20,101. Do you not know that he ordered a good deal of beer ?—No ; I do not know anything of the sort, if I did, I would say so ; but it is of no use my asserting a thing that I could not carry out.

20,102. Did you see Dr. Allen there yourself ?—Yes.

20,103. He had a carriage with him, had he not ?—Yes ; and I found him very busy trying to get people to go and vote, and I found that they wanted money of him, the same as they did of Mr. Womersley and other gentlemen that were in there, and he helped them in at one side of the carriage, and they jumped out on the other, and that denoted to me that they did not get the money. That is all I can say about it.

20,104. You furnished a list, did you not, of the people who were in your house ?—No, I did not ; possibly it may have been my mistress, it was not me.

20,105. Do you not know of any money having passed for election purposes in your house that day ?—I do not think there was any, and I do not think you will be able to prove that there was, either on the one side or the other. I was looking out for that myself. You do not want me to tell you a lie.

20,106. How much did you get for your vote ?—I never took a farthing in my life. I always voted on one side for 20 years.

20,107. Which side was that ?—For the blue party. I never took a farthing in my life ; and I never took a bill in to any person for drink ; that I will be on my oath of.

20,108. It was some days after the election that you were talking to Engall, was it not ?—I do not know the man, upon my word.

20,109. I mean a man named Engall, who sells

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

J. Mackley.

28 Sept. 1869.

rabbits?—Oh, yes, I beg your pardon, I do know him very well.

20,110. You had some talk with him, had you not?—If I had it has really slipped my memory. I might have had some chat with him.

20,111. Had you some talk with him about Mr. Womersley?—Not to the best of my knowledge. Publicans are in the habit of drinking and falling in with other people at public houses, and perhaps they chaff one another, and say things there is no truth in. I know there is a lot said in the city about me and two barrels of beer that are said to have been given away, but there is no truth in that.

20,112. Did you not tell Engall that Mr. Womersley had paid for a score of beer?—No, I did not, upon my oath.

20,113. If you did tell him so it has passed from your memory?—I did not tell him so.

20,114. Are you quite certain of that?—I am quite certain I did not, because the man never gave me any order for any beer, neither do I believe that he ordered any.

20,115. Has Mr. Womersley ever paid you for any beer?—No; not a farthing.

20,116. Nor your wife?—No; I do not believe he did. The next day morning he came to my house; he came into the bar and I was not there, and then he came up to the barracks. I was busy loading some straw, and he said, "Mackley, we have "lost this election." He said "You must have known "all about this bribery that was going on yesterday, and "about parties going up drunk." I said I knew nothing about it, I was so engaged in the barracks, and I had great difficulty in getting anyone to work for me, and I took very little interest in the election. The man came to me the next day morning, and we had a glass of porter together, nothing further than that, and I told him I could not give him any information; but I said, "There has been a man in here this morning "chaffing, and saying that he can prove where there "was 50*l.* distributed;" and I gave him the man's name,—a man of the name of Hastings,—and I said, "Go to him." He was digging in the garden; and what statement he made to him I do not know. Very possibly what he said was only for talk's sake in drinking a glass of beer. I think you will find with all the evidence that may come in front of you, there was nothing took place, that is, not in my house.

20,117. All you believe is, that there were these 30 or 40 men waiting in your house to sell their votes to anybody who would buy them?—Yes.

20,118. On either side?—Yes; I believe there were upwards of 100 out and in; but I am fully persuaded that they all got deceived.

20,119. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You know the names of a good number of the men who were there; do you know James Amis?—No, I do not think I do. He might live in the parish and might not.

20,120. Did you see him in your house that afternoon?—I do not know the name.

20,121. Do you know David Amis, of Whitehorse Yard?—A fish dealer?

20,122. I do not know what his business is, but do you know a man who lives in Whitehorse Yard of that name?—No, I do not.

20,123. Robert Bussey, of Granby Yard?—Yes, I know him perfectly well.

20,124. Was he there?—Yes, he was there.

20,125. Do you know a man named Beck, who lives in the same place?—Yes, they were both looking out for money that they did not get.

20,126. James Norman Blyth, do you known him?—Yes.

20,127. Was he in the same predicament?—Yes.

20,128. William Butcher, was he there?—Yes.

20,129. Dye?—Yes; they might be inside the house or loitering about, but I caught sight of them.

20,130. James Dye, did you see him?—I do not know that he was inside the house, but I believe I saw him in the road.

20,131. By your house?—Yes.

20,132. Do you know John Fuller, of Barrack Lane, was he there?—Yes.

20,133. Charles Hall and Charles Hall, the younger?—I recollect seeing the younger one. I do not know that I saw the older gentleman, but he might have been there.

20,134. Robert Holmes, of the New Brewery?—I cannot say whether he was there. I know him very well.

20,135. Robert Lawes?—Yes, I believe he was there, a shopkeeper.

20,136. And a man named Moore, from the "Bird in Hand"?—He might have been there, I have no recollection of seeing him.

20,137. William Moy?—Yes, he was there.

20,138. Henry Nursey?—Yes.

20,139. Thomas Nelson?—That I cannot say, he might have been there.

20,140. William Newton?—Yes, he was there.

20,141. Christopher Pleasance?—Yes.

20,142. And a man named Quinton?—Yes.

20,143. Reynolds?—Yes.

20,144. And another man named Scott, from Barrack Street?—Yes.

20,145. Was Henry Sharpe, of Barrack Street, there?—No, I do not recollect seeing Sharpe there.

20,146. Do you know Thirkettle, of Granville Road?—Yes, he was there.

20,147. James Thompson?—Yes; that was the man that left my employment to go and gather up these 40 or 50 men; he was the man that gathered up the men by order of Mr. Womersley as he said, but it was only a nonsensical electioneering dodge; it was only an electioneering affair.

20,148. Elijah Waller?—Yes.

20,149. Francis Warminger?—Yes.

20,150. Were all those people waiting about to get paid for their votes?—They were.

20,151. Did you see anybody else come down there for the purpose of treating with them in any way?—There was no one treated them.

20,152. But did you see anyone talking to them about their votes?—There were people talking to them there, I know that. Of course they were kicking up a terrible noise about being detained, and about having been gathered up there by Thompson by the order of Mr. Womersley, and I do not know whether I did not give them a gallon of beer myself, they being customers.

20,153. Who paid for that gallon of beer?—I gave it to them myself; some of them were customers. It is a usual thing to do so in a time like that at election times; when people are staggering for a drop of something to drink we sometimes let them have it. I think there was one man that I gave a glass of rum to who said he had a pain in the face.

20,154. Have you seen some of these men since and asked them whether they got anything for their votes after all?—No, I did not ask them.

20,155. Did they tell you that they had?—No.

20,156. Have none of these persons told you that they got something for their votes?—They told me that they could have had money, but whether they got it or not I do not know; when they were under my roof they told me they could get this and that, and I said to them, "Then you had better go and "get it."

20,157. Where did they say they could get it?—I do not know where, but they said down the street.

20,158. Did they not mention any place or any person's name?—If they did, I have no recollection of it.

20,159. Do you not recollect the name of any place that they mentioned as a place where they could get money for their votes?—I believe that a man named Nockles was mentioned, but whether there was any truth in it I do not know. With regard to a time like that it is no use paying regard to what they talk about. Of course they may go and say they can get a sovereign anywhere when there is no truth at all in it.

20,160. A considerable number of these men afterwards voted, and therefore it is important for us to ascertain what they said with reference to what they could get. You say they mentioned a man named Nockles?—I heard the name of Nockles mentioned.

20,161. Where does Nockles live?—I think on Tombland.

20,162. What is he?—A shoemaker.

20,163. Was anybody else mentioned as likely to give them money?—I do not think there was.

20,164. At what time in the day was Dr. Allen there?—I do not know whether he came down a second time or not, but I think it was latish in the afternoon; it might have been half-past 2 or 3 o'clock.

20,165. Did you see him talking to the men?—He was talking to a good many people there.

20,166. Was that in or outside your house?—In the house, standing at the bar.

20,167. Did you hear him say anything about money?—I paid no regard to the gentleman's conversation.

20,168. Was anyone with him?—Yes, I think there was a man of the name of Flowers with him.

20,169. Was he talking to the men there?—Yes, he was talking to them also.

20,170. How long did Dr. Allen stay there?—I should say that he might have been there perhaps half an hour, or perhaps more.

20,171. Did you see him go away with any of the men?—No, I do not think he succeeded; some of the men jumped in, and I suppose they could not get anything from him, and they jumped out on the other side by what I could see of it.

20,172. But did some of them stay in and go away with him?—I think they went a few yards, and then jumped out again.

20,173. Whether they obtained money or not, you do not know?—No, I do not know. I know that some jumped in on one side and went out on the other.

20,174. Did you see Mr. Woodrow there at all?—If he was there I did not see him.

20,175. Did you see Mr. Daynes down there?—I saw him along with Mr. Stevens.

20,176. What time was he there?—I really cannot say; about 2 or half-past 2.

20,177. Was it before or after you saw Mr. Womersley that Mr. Daynes came?—Mr. Womersley was there previous to Daynes and Stevens coming, and we chatted about the men being there, and there was merely a little laughing about it. I asked them how the election was going on, and they said they thought it was all right.

20,178. How long did Daynes and Stevens stay there?—I do not think they stayed above 10 minutes or a quarter of an hour. They asked me what the men wanted, and I said that they looked out to be paid for their votes, and I said they would be disappointed; that was the chat that took place.

20,179. How many times did you see Mr. Daynes down there that afternoon?—I believe he was down there twice, but I did not see him only once to the best of my knowledge; if I did it has slipped from my memory.

20,180. Did you see him talking to the men?—No, I did not; what discourse there was was between him and me.

20,181. Do you know a man of the name of Brownfield?—Yes, he was there, but I never saw him. I was told by my mistress that he had been there, but I had not the pleasure to see him. Mrs. Mackley told me that he had been down into my cow-shed and horse place looking for me, thinking that I was about the premises, but I was not there.

20,182. You saw no money given to these people at all?—No, I did not.

20,183. What did they want for their votes, did they specify any sum?—They were talking, about 40 of them, who would go and vote; some said they wanted a pound and some said 10*s.*, but I did not pay much regard to that. I knew that there was no money to give them.

20,184. That is what they asked at first, but ultimately what were they willing to take?—I think at the latter part of the day they would have been glad to have got hold of 5*s.* perhaps, but how they got on I do not know. I know they left my house, but whether they succeeded in getting anything elsewhere I do not know.

WILLIAM BUTCHER sworn and examined.

W. Butcher.

20,185. (Mr. Biron.) Had you a vote at the last election?—Yes.

20,186. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

20,187. At what time in the day did you vote?—At about five minutes to 4.

20,188. You were at the "Marquis of Granby," were you not?—Yes.

20,189. What did you get for voting?—Nothing.

20,190. How was that?—I work at the Gas Works, I am a stoker, and when I was coming past they called me in.

20,191. Who called you in?—Mr. Barber.

20,192. And when you went in what passed?—He said I could have 1*l.* for my vote.

20,193. What did you say to that?—I said I would. I said I would go in, but I had not long to wait. I stopped as long as I could, and then I had to go to my work.

20,194. You did not get your 1*l.*?—No.

20,195. How was that?—Because they did not give it to me, or else I should have taken it.

20,196. Who promised it to you?—Mr. Barber told me I should get it; that was all.

20,197. Who is Barber?—A shoemaker.

20,198. What time in the day was this?—I was then going back to my 1 o'clock drawing.

20,199. Where does Barber live?—Just past the barrack gates.

20,200. You were to have the 1*l.* to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

20,201. You voted at last just before 4 o'clock; did you not go back to look after your money?—No.

20,202. Why did you not?—I had not time.

20,203. Did you see Barber afterwards?—No, not till night.

20,204. Did you get paid then?—No.

20,205. Have you not been paid since?—No.

20,206. You never got your 1*l.* after all?—No. I wish I had.

WILLIAM MOY sworn and examined.

W. Moy.

20,207. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You live in Pockthorpe, do you not?—Yes.

20,208. Were you at the "Marquis of Granby" on the day of the election?—Yes.

20,209. At what time did you go there?—About half-past 1, I think.

20,210. How long did you remain there?—About an hour or an hour and a half.

20,211. That would carry you up to 3 o'clock?—About 3 o'clock.

20,212. Were there a number of men there?—A good many.

20,213. Voters?—Yes; there were a goodish many men there.

20,214. How many would you say there were?—There might be 30 or 40 at one time.

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

W. Moy.

28 Sept. 1869.

20,215. Did they want to be paid for their votes?—Yes.

20,216. And I suppose you did not differ from them?—No. I wanted to be paid just the same as they did.

20,217. Do you recollect any gentlemen coming there in the course of the day?—Yes.

20,218. Who were they?—I saw Mr. Womersley, Mr. Bradfield, Mr. Smith, and Mr. Camplin, and I think one or two others, but I am not sure as to their names.

20,219. Did they speak to the men who were waiting there?—Yes.

20,220. And did the men tell them what they wanted?—Yes.

20,221. Do you recollect being in the back yard?—Yes.

20,222. Was that where they spoke to the men?—They spoke to us both in the back yard and in the front too.

20,223. How much money were they asking for their day's work?—2*l.*

20,224. Did they continue to ask for 2*l.* the whole time?—Yes.

20,225. What did these gentlemen say when they asked for 2*l.*?—They said "If you will stop 20 "minutes we will see what we can do for you." We stopped 20 minutes or half an hour, and Mr. Mackley came and said "There is not anything to be given away, "you may go away and do the best you can, and look "about."

20,226. Did you go and do the best you could elsewhere?—I went and looked about after it, but did not get anything.

20,227. Where did you go?—On to Tombland.

20,228. Did you go to any person on Tombland?—No; I went into the "Horse Shoes" and saw several more there. I might see 30 or 40.

20,229. Did you hear that anything was going there?—No. I never saw any money at all.

20,230. And you got no money?—I never got a farthing.

20,231. Was anything said about a Mr. Barber?—Yes.

20,232. What was said about Mr. Barber?—He said "If you will stop about 20 minutes you will "have 1*l.*"

20,233. Who is Mr. Barber?—He is a man like ourselves; he has to work hard for his living. He said that was what he was told, and in half an hour he said "You had better go; you see they will not "give anything."

20,234. Did you vote?—Yes, I did.

20,236. At what time?—About 10 minutes before 4.

20,237. How came you to vote?—Because I was with the blue party the whole afternoon; and then I went and voted and never got anything.

20,238. You went and voted then out of revenge?—Yes.

20,239. When you were at the "Horse Shoes" did they give you some beer?—Yes.

20,240. You did not pay for that?—No. I never saw it paid for at all.

20,241. Then there was beer given away at Mackley's?—Yes.

20,242. Who paid for that?—I never saw anyone pay for it.

20,243. Had you some of that beer?—Yes.

20,244–5. Was that Liberal beer?—Yes.

20,246. Are you sure you got no money for your vote?—I never got a farthing.

20,247. Did anybody promise you anything?—No, only Mr. Womersley and them; they promised us if we would stop 20 minutes we should have 1*l.*; that was all.

20,248. Do you know Mr. Jarvis?—Yes.

20,249. Did he promise you anything?—No.

20,250. Did he come to you just before the judge came down here upon the trial of the election petition?—Yes.

20,251. What did he say to you?—He said "What "do you know about this election?" I told him that Mr. Womersley had come down and said that if we would stop 20 minutes we might have 1*l.*, and he took it down. It was not Mr. Womersley alone, but several gentlemen said if you will stop 20 minutes we will see what we can do for you.

20,252. Did you see Mr. Webb about it too?—Yes; I did not like to tell him at the first going off, but I had known Mr. Webb a long time, living against him, and he said it is of no consequence, it will not bring you no harm; you may as well tell what you know.

20,253. Did you tell Mr. Webb what you knew?—Yes.

20,254. Did Mr. Webb give you any money for that?—Not one farthing.

20,255. Did you afterwards go to Yarmouth?—Yes.

20,256. Who paid you?—Him that came along with Mr. Webb. I forget his name now.

20,257. Mr. Jarvis?—Yes.

20,258. Did he send you to Yarmouth?—Yes.

20,259. And he afterwards fetched you back from Yarmouth, and you were examined?—Yes.

20,260. Who kept you at Yarmouth?—We stopped at the "Cambridge" dining rooms.

20,261. Who do you mean by "we"?—There were four of us.

20,262. Who were they?—Mr. Newton, young Dent, and Thomas Addis.

20,263. Why were you staying there?—They told us to go there. They sent us there.

20,264. Did they keep you there and pay for you?—Yes.

20,265. What did you get for that?—5*s.* a day.

20,266. And your railway fare?—Yes; we had not anything to pay at all.

20,267. And were you kept also?—Yes.

R. Bygrave.

ROBERT BYGRAVE sworn and examined.

20,268. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

20,269. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

20,270. And what did you get for it?—10*s.*

20,271. Who paid you?—Henry Townshend.

20,272. Did he speak to you just before the close of the poll?—No, I voted about 3 o'clock.

20,273. Where did you see him?—In Palace Street.

20,274. Was that near a public house?—Very near the "Horse Shoes."

20,275. Do you know of anyone else receiving money?—No.

20,276. Had you been at the "Horse Shoes" that morning?—No.

20,277. Not at any time in the day?—No.

20,278. What public houses had you been in?—I was in one at the corner of Pig Lane.

20,279. What is the name of it?—I do not know the name of it, I am sure; it is a beerhouse, Holmes', I think. That was after the election.

20,280. Had you been anywhere in the morning?—No. I did not leave the shop till half-past 2.

D. Amiss.

DAVID AMISS sworn and examined.

20,281. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shoemaker.

20,282. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

20,283. For whom did you vote?—For Stracey.

20,284. At what time in the day did you vote?—About 10 minutes to 4.

20,285. Were you one of the "Marquis of Granby" men?—Yes.

20,286. Did you get any money for voting?—No.

20,287. Were you offered anything?—No.

20,288. You were waiting to see what you could get?—Yes, I was waiting for something, but could not get anything.

20,289. Did you go afterwards to the "Horse Shoes" before you voted?—Yes.

20,290. And there you had some beer, had you not?—I had a little beer there.

20,291. There was beer going there?—I dare say there was two half gallons of beer.

20,292. Who were at the "Horse Shoes"?—I never saw anybody at the "Horse Shoes" except Mr. Butcher and Mr. Moy.

20,293. How came you to vote for Stracey at last?—I made up my mind to vote for Stracey when I could not get any money. I would have voted for Tillett if I could have got any.

20,294. You did not get any money at all?—No.

20,295. And so you followed your own inclination?—Yes.

20,296. Did you see anybody pay for the beer that was had at the "Horse Shoes"?—No.

James Armiger sworn and examined.

J. Armiger.

20,297. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes; I voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

20,298. At what time in the day did you vote?—About 9 o'clock.

20,299. Did anybody give you any money or the promise of any money for your vote?—Nothing at all.

20,300. Had you been a voter before the last election?—No.

William Nelson sworn and examined.

W. Nelson.

20,301. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

20,302. At what time in the day did you vote?—A little before 3.

20,303. Why did you not vote sooner?—Because I could not get away from my business.

20,304. What is your business?—A hairdresser.

20,305. Who asked you to vote?—No one.

20,306. Had you promised your vote?—Yes; that is, I had promised only this far, that I knew who I was going to vote for.

20,307. Had you promised anybody that you would vote?—No.

20,308. Had you ever voted before?—No.

20,309. Did you get anything for your vote?—Yes.

20,310. How much?—5s.

20,311. Who paid you the 5s.?—Mr. Selfe.

20,312. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Where does he live?—On Tombland.

20,313. (Mr. Mansfield.) What time in the day did he pay you that?—A little before 3, as near as I can guess.

20,314. Was anybody else receiving money at that time?—No.

20,315. Was any beer going there?—No.

20,316. Where did you fall in with Mr. Selfe?—In Bishopgate Street, St. Helen's.

20,317. And I suppose you had a bargaining as to how much it should be?—He gave me 5s., that is all.

20,318. Had you known him before?—Yes, I knew him.

20,319. How did you know that he had got any money to give for votes?—I do not know.

20,320. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did he ask you to go and vote?—Yes; he asked me whether I had voted yet.

20,321. (Mr. Mansfield.) And what further did he say?—I said, no, I had not.

20,322. And then he offered you 5s.?—No; when I was going up to the poll I had the 5s. given to me.

20,323. Did he see you vote?—Yes.

20,324. Do you know of any other voter having received 5s.?—No, no one.

20,325. Were you at any public house where any bargaining for votes was going on?—No.

John Sharp sworn and examined.

J. Sharp.

20,326. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A traveller; a hawker I call myself.

20,327. Did you vote at the last election?—No, I did not. I was at work for Mr. Bagshawe. I had 2,000 lean geese to take care of in a field, and I could not leave them, and in the afternoon young Mr. Bagshawe came up to me——

20,328. We do not want a long history. You did not vote?—No, I was with my geese all the day.

Jonas Dye sworn and examined.

J. Dye.

20,329. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

20,330. For whom did you vote?—I voted for Stracey.

20,331. At what time in the day did you vote?—It happened I could not vote before half-past 12. I tried twice in the morning to get up to vote with a load of reed, but I could not.

20,332. Were you not down at the "Marquis of Granby" that morning?—I came past there to come home. I live by the "Marquis of Granby."

20,333. Were you not standing about or in the "Marquis of Granby" that morning?—No. If you think fit I will tell you how it took place.

20,334. Very well.—When I went to vote it was about half-past 12, and when I came home it was just before 1; and in coming down I met a man, who says "How now, Dye?" I said I had voted; and when I got up to the "Marquis of Granby" a man says, "Have you voted?" I says, "I think I know "better than that." He says, "If you like to go in "you can have a crown;" and I said, "I do not "know, I do not think I shall bother after it."

20,335. Who was the man that said you might go in and have a crown?—A man of the name of Robert Laws.

20,336. Whereabouts was it?—Close on the pavement in front of the "Marquis of Granby" public house. I neither went in nor took nothing of nobody the whole day, and I did not intend it. I am no electioncerer.

20,337. Who is Robert Laws?—A shopkeeper, and lives nearly opposite the brewery, in Pockthorpe.

20,338. You did not go in and see whether you could get the crown?—No, I did not. I had voted. I did not wish for anything of the kind.

20,339. Did you receive anything for your vote?—Not a fraction; nothing of neither side; not a drop of beer or anything the whole day. I went and tried twice to vote with my load of reed.

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

28 Sept. 1869.

Daniel Lowe sworn and examined.

D. Lowe.

20,340. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at this election ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

20,341. At what time in the day ?—At 9, or just after.

20,342. Did you promise your vote ?—I did not promise anyone.

20,343. Had you been asked for your vote ?—I was canvassed.

20,344. By whom ? — Mr. Woodrow and Mr. Townshend.

20,345. Did they promise you anything ?—No ; I did not ask for anything, and did not expect anything.

20,346. Did not Townshend give you something ?—No.

20,347. Have you had nothing since ?—No.

20,348. Have you never been promised anything for your vote ?—No.

20,349. Is this the first time you voted ?—Yes.

John George Phillips sworn and examined.

J. G. Phillips.

20,350. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A shoemaker.

20,351. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

20,352. For whom ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

20,353. At what time in the day ?—About a quarter past 3.

20,354. Did you get anything for voting ?—No.

20,355. Not a day's work ?—Nothing. I promised my vote a week before the election.

20,356. To whom ?—To Mr. Bishop and Mr. Flowers ; they canvassed me.

20,357. Were you canvassed by Tillett's people ?—Yes, the night before the election.

20,358. Did you promise them ?—No, I told them distinctly "No" when they came in. I said I was going to vote for Mr. Stracey, "please God spare "me."

20,359. Do you know Mr. Lane, of Elm Hill ?—Yes.

20,360. Did you see him ?—I saw him walking, because I live close right against him.

20,361. Did you promise him your vote for Tillett ?—No.

20,362. Did he ask you to vote for Tillett ?—No, he never asked me about whom I was going to vote for.

Robert Moore sworn and examined.

R. Moore.

20,363. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

20,364. For whom did you vote ?—Mr. Stracey.

20,365. At what time of the day ? — About 10 minutes to 4.

20,366. Where were you during the day ?—I was in different parts of the city, round by the market.

20,367. Do you know Cartwright's beerhouse ?—No.

20,368. You belonged, did you not, to the organisation ?—Well, I did at the first outset.

20,369. What did you receive for your vote ?—Nothing at all.

20,370. Having belonged to the organisation, and voting at that time of day, do you mean to tell me you did not get anything for your vote ?—Not a farthing.

20,371. Why did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey, having belonged to the organisation ?—I thought Sir Henry Stracey was the more civil man.

20,372. What made him appear more so to your mind, when you belonged to the organisation ?—I went to several of Sir Henry Stracey's meetings, and I liked the appearance of their meetings very much.

20,373. Were you near Cartwright's beerhouse on that day ?—No, I do not know such a beerhouse.

20,374. Do you know Hardiment ?—No.

20,375. How came you not to vote till so late in the day ?—I had some work I was obliged to finish, and I could not get away before.

20,376. What was the work ?—I am a hot presser by trade, and I had some work I was obliged to finish.

20,377. For whom were you working ?—For Mr. Gedge.

20,378. Did Mr. Gedge ask you to vote for Sir Henry Stracey ?—No, Mr. Gedge did not know I was a freeman.

20,379. Did Mr. Gedge speak to you about voting ?—No, not a word.

20,380. Did you not tell the people that you had got no vote ?—No, I had no vote, not as a ratepayer.

20,381. You were one of the committee of the organisation ?—Yes.

20,382. You were one of the members of the committee up to the very day of the election, were you not ?—No, certainly not.

20,383. When did you cease to be a member of the organisation ?—I should think a month before the election.

20,384. Why did you cease a month before the election to be a member of the organisation ?—I did not choose to go on with it. I see that I was wrong, and I did not choose to go any further.

20,385. Sir Henry Stracey had made no speeches a month before ?—No, I know he had not.

20,386. (Mr. Biron.) When did you go into Mr. Gedge's employ ?—I worked for him several years off and on.

20,387. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) When did you go into his employment last before the election ?—It was in the winter time, but I cannot say what month, I am sure.

20,388. How long before the election did you go the last time ?—I think two or three months.

20,389. Are you certain you did not receive anything for voting ?—I am quite certain.

20,390. Or the promise of anything ?—No, I had no promise or anything of the sort.

20,391. Have you received nothing either before or since ?—No.

George Samuel Artis sworn and examined.

G. S. Artis.

20,392. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you ?—A shoemaker.

20,393. Are you a voter ?—Yes.

20,394. Is this the first time you have voted ?—Yes.

20,395. For whom did you vote ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

20,396. At what hour in the day ?— 20 minutes past 9 in the morning.

20,397. Had you promised your vote to anyone ?—No.

20,398. Had you been asked for your vote ?—Two gentlemen, Mr. Joseph Howse Allen, one of the town councillors, and Mr. John Bishop, came to my house ; those are the two that canvassed me for my vote.

20,399. Did you promise them that you would vote for Sir Henry Stracey ?—Yes.

20,400. Have you received any money for it ?—No.

20,401. Did they offer you any money ?—No.

20,402. Did they promise you any money ?—No.

20,403. Were you employed during this election in any capacity ?—No, not as anything at all.

20,414. At what time?—Half-past 9.
20,415. Had you been canvassed?—By Mr. Stracey's party, not by the other.
20,416. Had you promised your vote?—I promised it to Mr. Stracey.
20,417. Mr. Stracey himself?—He came down to where I was working.
20,418. Did you receive anything for your vote?—No.
20,419. Had you no money or anything?—No.
20,420. Or the promise of anything?—No.

THOMAS BETTS sworn and examined. T. Betts.

20,421. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a voter?—Yes.
20,422. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.
20,423. At what hour in the day?—About half-past 2, I think.
20,424. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing.
20,425. Has anything been promised you?—No.
20,426. Did you ask for anything?—No, I am too respectable to ask for anything.
20,427. Is this the first time you have voted?—No.
20,428. Have you always voted Conservative?—Yes.
20,429. At how many elections have you voted?—I think it is either two or three.
20,430. You keep a public house?—Yes.
20,431. Were there any voters there during the day-time that you know of?—There were several in, but I did not pay any regard to them.
20,432. Was there anybody giving them beer?—I never see half a pint of beer give to anybody, not for voting.
20,433. Did anybody pay you for beer supplied to voters at your house?—No, not a penny.

HENRY WEEKS sworn and examined. H. Weeks.

20,434. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A painter.
20,435. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes, I did.

20,446. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.
20,447. At what time in the day?—About half-past 2, or something like that, I should think.
20,448. Do you recollect before you voted, Mr. Henry Morgan and Mr. Holbeck being in your shop?—Mr. John Morgan, I believe it was.
20,449. Do you know Mr. Buttifant?—Yes, I know him by sight.
20,450. Did you vote twice at the election?—No.
20,451. Did you only vote once?—Only once.
20,452. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.
20,453. Do you recollect Mr. Buttifant saying to you, "Gray, how came you to vote twice at the elec-" tion?"—I do not recollect Mr. Buttifant speaking to me at all.
20,454. Will you swear he did not ask you that question?—I will not particularly swear to it. There were several spoke to me about it, but I do not know who they were.
20,455. Do you not recollect Mr. Buttifant putting that question to you, and did you not say to him that you thought a poor man ought to receive something for his vote?—No.
20,456. Did you not say that?—I do not think I did.
20,457. Will you undertake to say you did not?—I will not swear. I say a good many things in my shop I do not mean.
20,458. Did you think a poor man ought to receive something for his vote?—No.
20,459. If you did not think so, how could you have thought that you said it to Mr. Buttifant?—I say a lot of things in joke and chaff in my shop. I do not give anybody my private opinion there.
20,460. Did you say the same thing to Cyrus Mills?—Not that I know of. I run over a lot of stuff there.
20,461. Did Mr. Morgan give you anything for your vote?—Not anything.
20,462. Did he promise you custom?—No.
20,463. Or employment?—No.
20,464. Have you had no promise of anything?—Not of anything, and never asked it.
20,465. You never received anything?—No, I never received anything.

20,469. Did you get anything for doing it?—No.
20,470. Or the promise of anything?—No.
20,471. Why did you not vote sooner?—I did not give it a thought. I did not think of voting then, but I was going past the polling place and I stopped.
20,472. Did anybody canvass you?—I had a circular left, that is all.
20,473. That is all you know about it?—Yes.

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

28 Sept. 1869.

G. Townshend.

GEORGE TOWNSHEND sworn and examined.

20,474. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

20,475. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

20,476. At what time of the day?—About 9 o'clock in the morning, as near as I can guess.

20,477. Who canvassed you?—I was met by one of the young Straceys in the street, but no one came to my house.

20,478. You promised him your vote?—Yes.

20,479. Did he offer you any money?—No.

20,480. Did he promise you any money?—No.

20,532. At what time in the day?—About 12 o'clock.

20,533. Had anybody canvassed you?—No.

20,534. You had not been asked for your vote at all?—Yes; they had been down previous to that to ask me if I was going to vote.

20,535. Who asked you to vote?—I do not know who it was that brought the paper; two or three gentlemen.

20,536. Did you promise to vote?—No. They never promised me anything.

20,537. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

20,538. No beer?—No, not a glass.

20,539. Or anything since?—No.

20,540. Were you employed by anybody at this election?—No, not at all.

C. Blyth.

CHARLES BLYTH sworn and examined.

20,541. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A weaver.

20,542. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

20,543. For whom?—Stracey.

20,544. At what time of the day?—I think it was about a quarter to 11 or 11, or something like that.

20,545. Did you get anything for voting?—Not anything.

20,546. Or the promise of anything?—No.

20,547. Did you see Furse that day?—I saw Furse, but I did not speak to him.

20,548. He did not offer you anything?—No.

20,549. Or give you anything?—No.

20,550. Or give you anything afterwards?—No.

20,551. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did he ask you to go and vote?—No.

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

28 Sept. 1869.

JOSHUA BANHAM sworn and examined. J. Banham.

20,552. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

20,555. Had you been asked for your vote before?—No.

20,556. Did anybody come to you to go up and vote that day?—Yes.

20,557. Who was it that came to you?—I cannot say, I did not see them.

20,558. Did he give you anything to go up and vote?—No.

20,559. Did he offer you anything?—Nothing.

20,560. Had you ever voted before at an election?—No.

20,561. Did anybody promise you anything for your vote?—No.

20,562. Have you never received anything since?—Not a farthing.

JEREMIAH JAMES COLMAN sworn and examined. J. J. Colman.

20,563. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) I believe you have very large works in this city?—Yes, we have.

20,564. You employ a very large number of men upon those works?—We employ about 1,100 hands including boys, and just a few women; about 1,100 hands in all.

20,565. A good number of them are, I suppose, voters in this city?—Yes, a good many of them are.

20,566. Were you present at a meeting on the Saturday between the Liberals and the Conservatives?—No, I was not.

20,567. Were you informed that there had been any meeting at which any arrangement was made with reference to the show of hands?—I never heard of any meeting between the Liberals and Conservatives on that subject; I never heard of it at that time, at all events.

20,568. Do you recollect on the Saturday or the Monday before the nomination Mr. Womersley speaking to you with respect to the show of hands?—No, I have no recollection of his speaking to me on the subject.

20,569. Did Mr. Womersley act, in giving the men permission to go to the nomination, without your sanction or knowledge?—With reference to his own department he did entirely; without my knowledge, I mean.

20,570. When you say with reference to his own department, was it with reference to the other departments that you had any knowledge of the matter?—Yes, in reference to some of them I had.

20,571. What knowledge had you in reference to the attendance of some of your men?—I will explain it if you will allow me. On the Saturday evening I understood, so far as my understanding of it was, that no arrangement had been made as to obtaining the show of hands. I told one of our foremen late on the Saturday evening that I believed that that was the arrangement, but if any of the men wished to go to the nomination they had permission to go.

20,572. You merely gave permission?—Yes, certainly, nothing else.

20,573. Were you aware that any arrangement had been made with the Conservatives that there should be no effort made to secure the show of hands?—Not the slightest.

20,574. Do you know that a great number of your men attended the show of hands?—Yes, I do.

20,575. You were a strong supporter of Mr. Tillett, I believe?—Yes.

20,576. And took an active interest in the promotion of his candidature?—Yes.

20,577. Did you in any way canvass your workmen?—Not in the slightest; not our own workmen. I canvassed a few of the parishes and districts where a few of them happened to reside, but so far as regards canvassing them as workmen on the premises I did not speak to any of them on the subject.

20,578. Did you abstain from doing so altogether?—Yes, I abstained from doing so altogether.

20,579. Did a large number of your men vote for Mr. Tillett?—Yes; I have no doubt of it.

20,580. Did any of them vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—I have no doubt some of them did.

20,581. Have you never taken the trouble to ascertain who voted one way or who voted the other?—No, I have carefully abstained from looking at the poll book at all to see which way they voted; I have exercised no influence whatever over them, and I stated a few days before the election at a meeting that they were at perfect liberty to vote which way they liked.

20,582. Do I understand from you that you abstained entirely from influencing them directly or indirectly in reference to this election?—Yes, most entirely.

20,583. Mr. Womersley is your manager?—Yes, of two of our departments.

20,584. Did you speak to him on the subject of the election and with reference to your men?—We were often conversing about the election.

20,585. Did you give him any instruction in reference to it?—No, not at all.

20,586. I must ask you this question; have you paid any man whatever any sum of money for voting at this election?—No, not the slightest.

20,587. Or for abstaining from voting?—No, nor abstaining from voting.

20,588. Have you promised anybody anything?—No, not a farthing; nothing of any sort or kind.

20,589. With reference to your men; are some of them occupiers of cottages belonging to you?—Some of them are.

20,590. Do you pay the rates of those men?—Of our own cottages, whether they are occupied by our own men or not; a few of them may not be occupied by our own men, but in most cases they are.

20,591. Are they tenants of the cottages, or do they occupy them as your servants?—They are tenants of the cottages.

20,592. You pay the rates for them?—Allow me to explain it as you ask the question. When the new system came into operation abolishing the compounding, which affected very severely Norwich, I found it was done in some other towns, it being mentioned in the papers that some of the large cottage proprietors (Miss Burdett Coutts' name being mentioned amongst them) had arranged to pay the rates of the men for the time being, and we adopted the same plan, and accepted the rate ticket as a part of the rent.

23,593. Has any rate been paid for any person whatever by you or with your knowledge for the purpose of influencing his vote?—No, certainly not.

20,594. Neither directly nor indirectly?—Neither direclty or indirectly.

20,595. It was paid without reference to the question of voting at all?—Yes, entirely; I considered we could better bear the pressure of it than they could for the time, and therefore we paid the rates for the time being.

20,596. Do you know of any money having been provided for the payment of persons voting at the last election?—No, not at all.

20,597. Have you contributed anything yourself in any way, directly or indirectly?—I have only contributed towards the fund for the payment of Mr. Tillett's election expenses.

20,598. That is the general fund that has been mentioned here?—Yes, that general fund, and nothing else.

20,599. You were also a supporter of Sir William Russell?—Yes.

20,600. But more especially of Mr. Tillett?—I was more identified with that section of the party, but I was a supporter of Sir William Russell also.

20,601. Did you see a letter with reference to money being supplied at this election?—I know there was a letter, and I saw a letter to the best of my belief in Sir William Russell's hand, but I cannot say I read the letter.

20,602. When did you see it?—I think it was about two days before the election.

20,603. By whom did that letter purport to be written?—I did not hear who it was.

20,604. Did you hear the name of the writer?—No, I did not; at least, if I did hear it, it has entirely escaped my memory; but I do not think I did hear the name of the writer.

20,605. Did you see it the same day as Sir William Russell received it?—I think so, if my memory serves me right. I think I called on the Sunday morning.

20,606. That was on the Sunday before the election?—Yes.

20,607. Can you tell me what the contents of the letter were?—So far as my recollection goes it was that some friend had written to him and said that money was to be sent, and had been sent down.

20,608. Where from?—From London, for the purpose of securing the election.

20,609. On which side?—On the Conservative side.

20,610. Do you recollect what the date of the letter was?—No, I do not think I read the letter. Sir William Russell told me he had a letter, and I believe I saw it in his hand.

20,611. You took the contents from his statement?—Yes, from his statement.

20,612. Did he read the letter to you, or did he hand the letter to you and did you read it?—I think he told me the contents of it.

20,613. Did the letter say where the money was coming from in London?—I am not sure whether it alluded to the Carlton Club or any other club. I will not be certain about that, but my impression was that it was from some fund in London that had sent it down.

20,614. I am speaking with reference to the place from which the supply was to come?—My impression would be that it was in some way connected with the Carlton Club.

20,615. Was anybody's name mentioned in connexion with it?—I do not remember anybody's name being mentioned.

20,616. Was it mentioned whether the person who was the writer was a member of the Carlton Club or connected with it in any way?—No, I do not remember its being mentioned.

20,617. Was anybody's name mentioned in connection with the matter as having made the arrangement for its coming down?—No; it was this, that some friend had stated that he had heard that such was the fact.

20,618. Through what medium or at whose instigation it was coming down it was not stated in the letter so far as you recollect?—Not so far as I know at all.

20,619. Was anybody else there at the time this was communicated to you?—No, I should think not. I should think it was just a call on Sir William Russell, and I think there was no one else there, though I would not be certain about it.

20,620. Somebody might have been present when the letter was read or the contents stated to you?—Somebody might have been there, but I have no recollection that anybody was there at the time I called upon Sir William Russell.

20,621. Have you ever seen the letter since?—No, never.

20,622. Do you know of any funds having been provided in any way to influence the election?—No, not at all.

20,623. As far as you were concerned were you determined it should be a perfectly pure election?—Yes, just entirely so.

20,624. Was anything given to your men to your knowledge who attended the nomination?—No.

D. Cubitt.

DAVID CUBITT sworn and examined.

20,625. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A shoe manufacturer.

20,626. I believe you took a very active part in this last election?—Well, rather.

20,627. For the Stracey party?—Yes.

20,628. Were you on any of the committees?—No, I would not be on any committee whatever.

20,629. You were acquainted with Worledge, were you not?—Yes, to a certain extent.

20,630. Were you ever in partnership with him?—No; I sold my business to Mr. Worledge.

20,631. How long ago was that?—That was about the 15th or 16th of last March, after the election.

20,632. But before the election you were intimate with Worledge?—Oh, yes.

20,633. You were taking people up to the poll, I believe, on the day of the election?—As many as I could get.

20,634. Can you tell me who they were?—I cannot tell you every one. I took several certainly.

20,635. Do you know a man of the name of Jeary?—Yes.

20,636. Did you see him on the day of the poll?—Yes.

20,637. When you met Jeary you had some conversation with him about the election?—Yes.

20,638. What took place between you?—He asked how we were getting on, to begin with.

20,639. What did he say?—He asked me how we were getting on, and I said "All right, we want "a little more money," that is all.

20,640. What did he say upon that?—He told me that I could use him for two sovereigns.

20,641. Did he find the two sovereigns?—I used him for two sovereigns, but I never found them.

20,642. You did not get the money?—No.

20,643. You spent your own?—Yes, I spent my own two sovereigns for him; he authorised me to use him for two sovereigns, but he never gave them to me.

20,644. Was that the first occasion that you mentioned money during that day?—I had certainly spent a bit out of my own pocket during the morning, but that is the first time that I came to any monetary matters.

20,645. What time in the day was it when you saw Jeary?—I should think as near as possible it would be half-past 1 or 2.

20,646. Before that had you spent some money out of your own pocket?—Yes.

20,647. To whom were you looking for repayment?—I did it for the good of the cause entirely on my own account.

20,648. What was the amount of money you advanced out of your own pocket?—As near as I can tell I suppose I spent 2*l.* or 3*l.* out of my own money.

20,649. Before you saw Mr. Jeary?—Yes, of course.

20,650. How did you spend it?—I spent all mine in beer or porter or liquor. I did not bribe anybody with money straight down.

20,651. At what houses did you spend it?—I went to several different houses.

20,652. Let us have them in order.—I did not go into any particular houses. I went anywhere where I could find a voter.

20,653. Did you go to the "King's Head"?—Yes.

20,654. How much did you spend there?—7*s.* or 8*s.*, I suppose.

20,655. That was for the use of voters?—Yes.

20,656. Do you know how many people there were at the "King's Head"?—I went in at different times. I did not spend that all at one time. I went in at different times during the day, and whatever they had against me I paid the next morning.

20,657. Can you tell us how much you spent either that day or the next day at the "King's Head"?—8*s.* or 10*s.*; they gave me a receipted bill for what I paid, but I did not think it necessary to file it at all, and therefore I destroyed it.

20,658. Having spent 8*s.* or 10*s.* at the "King's Head," can you tell me how many voters you took up from that house?—If I tell you how many voters I took up from that house I think that is none. I do not think I took up one from there.

20,659. If you did not take up any voters from the house why did you spend the money?—I thought there was a possibility of doing it.

20,660. Do you mean to say that the 8*s.* or 10*s.* produced no result?—I think that was spent for nothing.

20,661. (Mr. Biron.) A bad investment?—Yes. I do not remember taking a voter away at all from the "King's Head."

20,662. (Mr. Mansfield.) You also went to a house called the "Red Lion"?—Yes, I went there several times.

20,663. And spent money there in the same manner?—Yes, I did spend a shilling or two, or a few shillings.

20,664. Both that day and the next?—No, I spent it on the election day. I did not go to the "Red Lion" the day after that I remember.

20,665. Do you recollect the amount you spent there?—I should think 5*s.* or 6*s.*

20,666. How many voters did you take up from there?—I should think four or five.

20,667. In a cab?—Yes, a cab and conveyances together. I cannot say I took them all in a cab.

20,668. Those were the persons who had been drinking the beer?—Yes. I gave it indiscriminately, anyone could drink it. I did not care who drank, anyone could have what I stood.

20,669. You gave it for the purpose of conciliating these voters?—I did not think any of them would be fools enough to sell themselves for a glass of beer.

20,670. (Mr. Biron.) Was this pure generosity?—It was out of my own pocket till 2 o'clock.

20,671. (Mr. Mansfield.) You are a strong Conservative?—I am to a certain extent.

20,672. You went to the "Two Brewers"?—Yes, I went in there.

20,673. And you spent money there?—Yes.

20,674. Can you recollect how many men you took from that house?—I think I took three.

20,675. What was the amount you spent there?—4*s.* or 5*s.*

20,676. And you got by that only three or four voters?—It was like that. I did not think they wanted any money.

20,677. They accepted your beer?—Yes, of course they did, and very glad to take it.

20,678. That outlay of 4*s.* or 5*s.* worth of beer enabled you to get up three voters from the "Two Brewers"?—Yes.

20,679. Do you know the names of any of these men?—George Fairman was one, so they tell me; but I cannot tell you the names. I did not care about their names so long as they went to the poll.

20,680. Who else did you take up?—I really cannot say; I should know them I dare say if I saw them. I took all I could get.

20,681. Did you go to a house called the "Swan"?—Yes.

20,682. Did you spend money in the same way there?—I did not spend more than a shilling.

20,683. Are you certain of that?—No, I would not be bound to say for a sixpence.

20,684. That was for treating voters?—I gave half a gallon of beer for the good of those that were in the house.

20,685. You would not have done that unless they had been voters?—No, certainly not.

20,686. Did you get voters?—I took the landlord to begin with.

20,687. Anyone else?—There was one other man in the room, and he promised me he would go and vote for Stracey.

20,688. Who was he?—Quantrill.

20,689. Anyone else?—No, I do not remember any other voters. I believe the others were non-voters.

20,690. What was the landlord's name?—Graver. I took Graver in the conveyance I had, and he polled for Stracey; and Quantrill came up a few minutes afterwards and polled the same way.

20,691. What is the Christian name of Quantrill?—I cannot say.

20,692. Afterwards you went to the "Golden Dog"?—I do not think I went to the "Golden Dog" until after the election was over.

20,693. Had you not been spending money there?—If I spent anything there it was after the election was over. I cannot say what I did spend. I might spend something at the "Golden Dog."

20,694. Did you go to the "Spotted Dog"?—No, I did not go to any dogs at all that I remember.

20,695. At what other public houses did you spend money?—Several.

20,696. Just name which they were?—I think they are too numerous to mention.

20,697. Can you tell me the whole amount of money you spent at these different houses?—I suppose during the day I spent 10*l.* or 12*l.*

20,698. Entirely on beer?—Yes, entirely on beer. I did not drink it all myself though.

20,699. Did you go to the "Ship"?—Yes, I went there three times.

20,700. Did you get up men each time?—On the first occasion I went to the "Ship" I do not think I took anyone, the second time we took nine, and the third time I think we took about three.

20,701. Did you take them up in carriages?—The nine I took up on the second time I put on the potato merchant's cart.

20,702. Do you know a man of the name of Brooks?—I was in his house once during the day, and I changed a sovereign there; that is the corner of Bethel Street I suppose you mean.

20,703. Did he give you a sovereign?—No, he did not give me a sovereign, he is too good a judge. At the time a friend of mine went into the "Swan," I went into Brooks', and there were a few people there shouting as they always are, and I stood a drop of liquor for them just to wet their throats for them.

20,704. You took voters up from Brooks'?—No, I did not, not one.

20,705. Do you know who did take them up from there?—That I do not know; I only belonged to the seventh ward; I know nothing about the fourth ward.

20,706. Do you know a man of the name of Reuben Cann, in St. James'?—It is like this: I polled all I could get, and I really do not know all the names; I was not impertinent enough to ask all their names.

20,707. Did you go to Reuben Cann's?—If you had told me he was a publican I should have remembered it.

20,708. Did you spend money there?—3*s.* or 4*s.*

20,709. Did you take up voters from there?—I think about two.

20,710. Have you any notion of the number of voters you took up in the course of the day?—I should not wish to say too many. I should think I took about 30.

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

D. Cubitt.

20,711. Would you swear you did not take as many as 40?—No, I would not swear I did not take 40; but I think it was about 30.

20,712. Will you swear you did not take more than 40?—That I would not say.

20,713. Might there have been as many as 50?—There might have been.

20,714. Are you certain there were not more than 50?—I am sure there were not more than 50, and I am almost certain there were not 50.

20,715. These were all men you took up from different houses where you had been spending money on beer, is that so?—Yes, of course.

20,716. Were there any other public houses you went to besides those?—Several.

20,717. Where you spent money?—Wherever I went if there were any voters I gave them what they liked to drink.

20,718. Did you go to William Warnes' public house?—Yes.

20,719. Did you spend money there?—I did not spend my own money there.

20,720. Who gave you the money?—I cannot tell you his name; I do not know him. I should know him if I were to see him.

20,721. After you had seen Jeary what became of you?—It was before I saw Jeary.

20,722. After you got the promise of 2*l.* from Jeary where did you go?—The first place I went into after I got the promise of 2*l.* from Jeary was the "Two Brewers," in Magdalen Street.

20,723. You ordered beer there?—Yes, of course I did, and paid for it.

20,724. Do you know Warnes that keeps the "Elm" tavern?—Yes.

20,725. Were you there in the course of the day?—I saw Warnes about half-past 1.

20,726. Were you at his house?—No; he stopped me in Magdalen Street, and he said there was money afloat, and we might as well have some as the rest.

20,727. Did you go with Warnes to the central committee room?—Yes; I did not go in. Warnes went inside, and while he was inside I went into Brooks' and stood the beer that I have told you of.

20,728. You went to the central committee room, having heard there was money about?—Yes.

20,729. What did you get when you got there?—I got nothing if you come to that. Warnes went in, and I jumped out of the trap we were in and went into Brooks', where there were a few of these fellows, and they asked me and I treated them. During this time Warnes came out with a gentleman, and he told me it was all right, and we returned to the seventh ward together, me, Warnes, and another gent.

20,730. When you met Warnes who did he tell you he was going to see?—He said he was going to see Chittock.

20,731. Did he go to see him?—Yes.

20,732. That was at the central committee room?—Yes, at the "Swan."

20,733. Warnes came back?—Yes; he said it was all right, and we jumped into a cab and went off together.

20,734. Who came out with Warnes?—It was a gentleman with sandy whiskers.

20,735. What was his name?—I could not swear to his name.

20,736. Was it not Mr. Woodrow?—I have seen Warnes since, and he has told me it was Mr. Woodrow.

20,737. Do not you know that it was Mr. Woodrow?—I do not know Mr. Woodrow by name. I should know him by sight again if I saw him in a moment. Warnes told me it was Mr. Woodrow.

20,738. When did he tell you?—I went and spoke to Mr. Warnes about this affair, and he told me it was Mr. Woodrow that came from the "Swan" with us. If it was Mr. Woodrow, and if I were to see him, I could pick him out of a thousand.

20,739. When Warnes came back with this gentleman you all went away together?—There was me, Warnes, and Woodrow, if it was Woodrow, went away together.

20,740. Where did you go to?—We went first to the "Elm" tavern, Warnes' own house.

20,741. What did you do there?—In the first place Warnes wanted to know how much we were going to stand for the people he had got there.

20,742. For beer?—Yes.

20,743. How much did you stand?—Warnes asked for half a sovereign, and I said to Woodrow, "Do not "be too fast, give half-a-crown to begin with, and "see what he can do with that." Woodrow gave me half-a-crown, and I gave this half-a-crown to Warnes to get some beer, and me and Woodrow, if it was Woodrow, sat in the cab together and waited there a few minutes, but we could not see any likelihood of a voter coming out, so I went in to see if there was anyone, and found the house quite desolate and empty, and I think Warnes stuck to the half-a-crown himself.

20,744. You did not get a voter out of the house?—Not a soul; there was not anyone there.

20,745. Where did you go to next?—I think we drove down Magdalen Street next.

20,746. Did Warnes go with you?—No, we gave him the double; we did not want him any more.

20,747. You were alone with Woodrow then?—Yes. I cannot tell where we went to then, but a short time after that we went to Warnes' mother, at the "Ship," in St. James', and when we got there Warnes made his appearance again; he was there.

20,748. You spent some money there?—I think I spent about 3*s.* 6*d.* there.

20,749. Who gave you the money?—We went to the "Ship" twice. Once I spent out of my own pocket, and once Woodrow gave the money to me.

20,750. How much altogether do you say it was?—During the election afternoon I should think I spent 12*s.* at the "Ship."

20,751. How much did you get from Woodrow altogether?—I think Woodrow gave me 3*s.* 6*d.* altogether.

20,752. Are you certain he did not give you more?—I am certain he did not give me more, he was too close a gentleman.

20,753. Were there any voters at Warnes' place?—I think I took up about nine for my 3*s.* 6*d.* to begin with.

20,754. Did you give nothing else besides beer?—I gave 3*s.* 6*d.* to a man named Walter Worledge, and he paid the money to Mrs. Warnes. I told Walter Worledge to give these men beer to drink, and whatever money he wanted to come to me for it, and he told me he had expended a sum of 3*s.* 6*d.*, and I gave it to him.

20,755. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Where did you give that?—At the "Ship."

20,756. Worledge was in there?—This is Walter Worledge; not Thomas Worledge, that, I think, you are thinking of.

20,757. This money was paid to Mrs. Warnes?—Worledge will tell you who he paid it to. I paid it to Worledge.

20,758. At what time in the day?—Between 2 and 3, I suppose.

20,759. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you know the names of any of the men you took up from that house?—I cannot tell you; we took nine from the "Ship," and I put them on Maris' potato cart. We packed them on there, and of course I rode as I chose myself. I spent 3*s.* 6*d.* for those nine.

20,760. Did you go anywhere else after that?—Yes, to plenty of places.

20,761. Was Woodrow with you?—Yes, of course.

20,762. Where did you go to in company with Woodrow?—I think we went to St. Edmund's after that.

20,763. What place did you go to there ?—I think we picked up a couple there.

20,764. In the street or in a beerhouse ?—I really cannot refresh my memory to everything.

20,765. If you picked them up in the street, how did you do it ?—By shouting to them, "Come on, my "boys, come on the winning side, that is the game."

20,766. Mr. Woodrow was all this time with you ?—Yes, he sat pretty well back in the cab.

20,767. Did not Mr. Woodrow hand you over some money to give to these two men ?—Of course he did.

20,768. To these two men ?—I cannot say anything about these two men. When I wanted my pocket replenished I applied to Mr. Woodrow.

20,769. In fact, he was your banker ?—Yes, of course he was my banker, and I was his lap dog to a certain extent, and I had another lap dog on to me.

20,770. Can you tell me how many voters you paid money to ?—I did not pay any voters money.

20,771. I mean Woodrow's money ?—No; all I done was too cautious. I parted with no coin, I gave all mine in drink.

20,772. Do you mean to say you did not part with any coin to a voter that day ?—No, not a farthing; no ready coin, but they could swim in beer if they liked. I did not give them anything.

20,773. You did not part with any coin ?—Not one penny.

20,774. Not the whole day ?—No.

20,775. Did not Woodrow part with some ?—What Woodrow did you had better ask him.

20,776. Did you not see him give coin ?—No, most decidedly not; he was too cautious.

20,777. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did not some of the men say that Woodrow had given them some money ?—That I do not know.

20,778. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you recollect some of these voters getting into your cab and suddenly leaving it ?—No, most decidedly not. If they once got in they did not leave it till they polled.

20,779. If Mr. Woodrow says the voters got into the cab and suddenly got out, what is the meaning of that ?—I do not know what Mr. Woodrow has said. All I tell you is, if once we got a voter in we did not lose him, not till he had polled.

20,780. Whilst you were with Woodrow were there any occasions when he left the cab for a minute or two and came back again ?—The last time I thought of Woodrow was that I did not think he was hardly good enough to keep along with us, and I left him at the committee room and drove off without him.

20,781. What do you mean by not good enough ?—He was rather too mean, I reckoned myself; he did not like to spend more than a shilling or two.

20,782. Why do you think he was mean ?—Because he ought to have expended, and if he had we could have got more.

20,783. Do you mean to say that if Woodrow had expended more money you could have got more voters ?—Yes. You do not want to give money in Norwich on election days; if you are a good general you can get them for beer.

20,784. If Woodrow had expended more money in beer you could have got more voters ?—Yes, I daresay we could. He was rather too close.

20,785. How long altogether was Woodrow in your company ?—I suppose about an hour and a half.

20,786. Can you say at all how much money he handed to you in that time ?—I should think about 12*s.* or 14*s.*

20,787. Not more than that ?—Not more.

20,788. Do you know of his spending any money except through you ?—I do not know what he spent when he was away from me. I know what he spent when he was with me.

20,789. Did he spend any money in beer whilst he was with you, or did it all go through your hands ?—I do not know what he spent when he was away.

20,790. I mean while he was with you ?—I think I have given you rather too much; he did not spend more than 12*s.*

20,791. He did not spend any on his own account ?—No, he would not spend any on his own account; he made us secondary agents.

20,792. After you parted with Woodrow at the committee room what became of you ?—The last thing I see of Woodrow I left him at the committee room.

20,793. What became of you then ?—I went to work again as hard as I could.

20,794. Had you any money left ?—I did not have a sight left.

20,795. Did you get any given to you ?—Yes, I had two sovereigns given to me after that.

20,796. You met a person, who was that ?—Yes, I met a person who asked if I was Mr. Cubitt, and of course I said "Yes," and he said "How are you "getting on," and I said "We could get on all right "enough if we had got money enough;" and he says "Here is a couple of sovereigns, do the best you "can with it."

20,797. Who was that person ?—I do not know.

20,798. Have you ever seen him since ?—I have only seen him once since, and that was on Orford Hill.

20,799. Do you know where he lives ?—No, he is a gentleman I know of. I know him to see to, but not by name, it is just the same as with Woodrow; I should not have known his name if Warnes had not told me.

20,800. Was he a young or an old man ?—A man of about 40 or 45 years of age.

20,801. You have never seen him but once since ?—No, never; that was on Orford Hill, and then I never spoke to him.

20,802. Having got the two sovereigns, you proceeded to spend it in the same way ?—Yes.

20,803. In getting up more men ?—Yes.

20,804. Was that all the money you got that day ?—Yes, that was all the money I had given to me.

20,805. Had you any scores to settle the day after ?—Yes.

20,806. What do you say is the whole amount you have disbursed ?—12*l.* or 14*l.*

20,807. Altogether ?—Yes.

20,808. Has any person repaid you since ?—No, that is what I should like to see.

20,809. Have you ever asked for it from anybody ?—Yes.

20,810. Who have you asked ?—Jeary.

20,811. Anybody else ?—No. He was the only one who guaranteed money to me, and he was not man enough to pay it.

20,812. (Mr. Biron.) He guaranteed only 2*l.* ?—No, but I never got that 2*l.*, and that would be a little mite towards the lot.

20,813. (Mr. Mansfield.) You spent a bit of your own money ?—Yes, I spent a bit of my own money; I do not disown it.

20,814. You have never recovered any of it since ?—No. I have been several times for it to Jeary, and I do not reckon him a man at all.

20,815. All the money you got was 2*l.* ?—There was 2*l.* given to me, and 2*l.* promised by Jeary, and the rest I spent out of my own pocket.

20,816. And the money you received from Woodrow ?—I was only a secondary agent to spend his money.

20,817. Did you see Freestone, the baker, on the day of the election ?—Yes, once.

20,818. Where ?—At the corner of Sussex Street.

20,819. Did you talk to him ?—He called me out of the bar where I was standing, and he spoke to me.

20,820. What was he doing, taking up a voter ?—No, he was with Hardiment.

20,821. Did you speak to Hardiment ?—No, I spoke to Freestone.

20,822. What did he say to you ?—He asked me what I was working on, and I said the seventh ward, and he said "How are you getting on ?" and I said "We are getting on all right enough;" and he said

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

D. Cubitt.

28 Sept. 1869.

"Did you see Tillett passing just now with 600 "majority?" and I said "I saw Tillett with a lie," and he says "Do you think so?" and I said "Yes, I "believe we are ahead now." He said "If you want "to see me come to Sillis' at 12 o'clock."

20,823. What do you think he meant?—He meant like this, that we should all put our shoulder to the wheel, and see if we could not shunt Tillett.

20,824. Did you not think money was going?—I did not think Freestone would give any money on his own account; I think he is too good a general.

20,825. Did you not think that he meant if you went to him at 12 o'clock there would be money going forward?—If I did that I did not go.

20,826. Did you not understand it?—No; what I supposed you see is different to what is really the fact.

20,827. In electioneering matters people do not say it in so many words?—You mean they talk transfiguratively.

20,828. You understood that Freestone meant you were to come to him if you thought a little money was of use?—No doubt if I wanted a little money I should have made a friend of him, but I did not want it, thank God. I reckon myself as good a man as Freestone.

20,829. For the purpose of the election, did you not understand Freestone to intimate that you could get money from him?—I did not take it in that way. I should take it in this way, if I went to Sillis' at 12 o'clock he might put me on a cab, but as to getting money, that is a different thing. He told me if I had a mind to work the eighth ward, I was to come to Sillis'.

20,830. You understood there would be money forthcoming for the election; I do not mean from his pocket, but you understood he would tell you where money was to be had?—He never told me anything approaching to it, he told me to see him at Sillis' at 12 o'clock.

20,831. That is what Freestone meant?—He might mean so.

20,832. You know he meant it?—I did not go.

20,833. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Can you give us the names of any of the voters who you took up from these places?—I do not know them. I polled several. I cannot remember all of them; of course I did not ask them their names.

20,834. Have you got any memoranda which will enable you to give me their names?—I do not think I have in my pocket.

20,835. Have you got a list at home?—No, I think not. I did take certain memoranda of different people. As to anyone, you ask me if I took him up to the poll, I will own to it in a moment; the first man I polled in the morning was a man named Head.

20,836. Did you poll him from some of the houses at which you had supplied beer?—He was a bed at the time.

20,837. Did you tell him he should have some beer?—I told him he could have a pint at my brother's in my name.

20,838. Then Henry Riches, do you know him?—Yes, he worked for me at the time.

20,839. Did you give him beer?—No, I gave him sixpence worth of brandy and water.

20,840. Did you give Worledge any beer?—No, he did not want it,

20,841. The other Worledge?—No, I did not give him a drop. I polled Worledge's brother.

20,842. John Frost, was he one?—Yes.

20,843. Did you give him some beer?—I daresay he had his share along with the rest. I went to his house and the man was at work, and he would not leave off till he had done his work, and I polled him after that.

20,844. Did you tell him to get some beer?—I told him to go to my brother's, where I daresay he could have a drop.

20,845. Your brother keeps a public house?—Yes.

20,846. What is the sign of your brother's house?—The "Jolly Brewers."

20,847. Graver you have mentioned?—Yes.

20,848. And Scott?—Yes; I polled Graver and Scott.

20,849. Taylor?—Yes.

20,850. Burrell?—Yes.

20,851. Can you give me the names of any other men?—No, I do not think I can.

20,852. If you were to sit down quietly do you think you could give us a list?—I have already considered all I can. I really did not ask people their names. If you were to set me down for six months I could not give you another name; if you were to show me the names I might recognise them as polling them, but I did not ask the men their names.

20,853. Were any men with you that day?—Yes, I worked with several. I worked with anyone who was good for the cause.

20,854. Who worked with you?—Warnes, he worked with me an hour or so.

20,855. Who else?—Maris, he worked with me.

20,856. He was with you a great portion of the day?—Yes, he tried his best the same as I did.

20,857. You were working together?—Yes.

20,858. Who instigated you to do this?—I should think my own reason instigated me to do it.

20,859. Did any person speak to you about doing this?—Oh, no; what I did was entirely on my own account.

20,860. Without any consultation?—Yes, without any intimation. I was solicited to become a member of the seventh ward association, but I would not have anything to do with it.

20,861. You did it on your own account?—Yes. I got rather warm, and went in the best I could.

20,862. Nobody suggested it to you?—No, no one.

20,863. You did it of your own head entirely?—Yes, I did entirely. On the Saturday evening me and Worledge agreed to do what we could together, and Worledge took the eighth ward and I took the seventh.

20,864. Did he spend some money?—I know nothing about what he has done.

20,865. I want to know whether you saw him?—No, I never saw him spend no money.

20,866. You spent the 2*l.* you got from the gentleman?—Yes, and a great deal more.

20,867. Where did you spend the two sovereigns you got?—First of all I should think I spent 10*s.* or 12*s.* altogether in the "Ship," and then at Marshall's 7*s.* 9*d.*, and the "Golden Dog," 5*s.* or 6*s.*, at every house where I went to; there was no stint, I gave them what they liked. At the "Black Boy" I paid 4*s.* 6*d.* the next morning, besides the reckoning of the day.

20,868. You told them to give the men what they wanted?—Yes.

20,869. You told the men they might have what they wanted if they would vote?—Yes, of course.

20,870. They knew you well enough and gave you credit?—Yes, of course; I think everybody would give me credit. I always pay when I can.

20,871. You say that Woodrow came from the committee room; had you a cab at that time?—No, I rode up in Maris' trap, and after that Woodrow took a cab which George Webster drove, and Warnes and Woodrow had an interview. Warnes called me out of Brooks' bar to say that he was ready to go. I did not go into the "Swan" at all.

20,872. When you came out you found Warnes with Woodrow?—Yes.

20,873. What was spent at the "Swan"?—I should think nothing.

20,874. You went to the "Swan" committee room?—Yes, it was the central committee room of the Conservative party.

20,875. Woodrow went with Warnes to the committee room?—No, I went with Warnes to the committee room, and he saw Woodrow there.

20,876. Warnes came and fetched you, and you found Woodrow with him?—Warnes saw him in Magdalen Street, to give you the whole idea of the question, about which you seem to have got into a fog. Warnes came to me, and he says "I think there is "some money going." I says "I have spent enough "out of my own pocket, if there is any going I "should like to have a bit of it;" and he says "You "need to have a purse as long as a stocking to stand "against it. Will you go to the 'Swan'?" and I said "Yes." Warnes went in and I stepped out, and after that Warnes introduced me to Woodrow.

20,877. You did not go into the committee room at all?—I went to Brooks'.

20,878. Woodrow took a cab?—We went in Maris' cart, and Woodrow took a cab and kindly invited us in with him.

20,879. What was the first house you went to?—The "Elm" tavern.

20,880. What was spent there?—Woodrow gave me half-a-crown and I paid it to Warnes; there was no one there and I think he kept it on his own account; after that we went to St. James'.

20,881. Do you recollect half-a-crown being given to Warnes at the "Ship"?—There was never half-a-crown given to Warnes at all; the lowest sum paid to Warnes was 3*s.* 6*d.* and that I paid myself through Worledge.

20,882. Do you recollect half-a-crown being given to Mrs. Warnes?—No, never, the lowest sum I spent on Worledge was 3*s.* 6*d.*

20,883. There was no half-crown given to Mrs. Warnes?—No.

20,884. The money that was spent at the "Ship" was your money?—Yes, and Woodrow's together.

20,885. Did you see any half-crown given to Mrs. Warnes on the doorstep of the house?—There was never half-a-crown given to Mrs. Warnes at all on the doorstep not that I saw; if anybody else liked to give her one I did not.

20,886. Did you see Mrs. Warnes standing on the doorstep of the "Ship"?—No; I saw her behind the bar once or twice. I went there three times in the afternoon.

20,887. I am speaking of when you were with Woodrow?—When I was with Woodrow I did not get out of the cab at all; we made Walter Worledge secondary agent.

20,888. Did Woodrow get out of the cab at all?—No, he never got out of the cab, not the whole time.

20,889. Did you see him give any half-crown to Warnes?—No, whatever he gave, he gave to me, and I had to give it to other people.

20,890. Did you see Woodrow give half-a-crown to the landlady of the "Elm" tavern, because she said she had a lot of people at her house who had gone to vote for Stracey?—Woodrow first of all gave me two shillings or half-a-crown for the "Elm" tavern, and after that he gave me 3*s.* 6*d.* for the "Ship," but Woodrow paid nothing himself, only through me.

20,891. It is untrue that he gave half-a-crown to Warnes to give to the landlady, because she said she had had a lot of people at her house who had gone to vote for Stracey?—I do not know what Mr. Woodrow has said, but he never saw Mrs. Warnes at all.

20,892. That is untrue?—I cannot be answerable for what he has said.

20,893. I want to know whether it is true?—It is not; he never saw Mrs. Warnes at all.

20,894. Is the "Elm" tavern in St James'?—No, in the parish of St. Clement's.

20,895. Did you go to any public house in St. James'?—I went to nearly everyone in St James'. Warnes lives at the "Elm" tavern, St. Clement's without.

20,896. This is what Mr. Woodrow said, and I want to know whether it is true: "Did you give more "than this 2*s.* 6*d.*?—Well, I spent 2*s.* 6*d.* in a public "house in St. James', I do not know the name of the "public house, but I have said it is near the Church, "I do not know the name of the landlady. Did "you see the landlord?—No, I saw the landlady. "Was she a stout person?—Yes, I believe she was. "What did you give to her?—I gave Warnes "2*s.* 6*d.* to give to her, because she said she had "had a lot of people at her house who had gone to "vote for Stracey."—As to Mr. Woodrow saying that he saw the landlady or anything of the sort it is a palpable lie, because the landlord went with him from the "Swan" to his own house

20,897. Did you see him give money to any of the men that got into the cab?—He gave no money except to me; what money he says he gave to me I gave to other people afterwards.

20,898. I suppose he may have given other money?—I do not know what he may have done before that, but the hour and a half he was with me what money he had got to give he gave to me.

20,899. What time did you leave Woodrow?—I should think about 3 o'clock; I cannot say to five minutes.

20,900. How long were you with him?—I should think about an hour and a half or an hour; it might be an hour and a half.

20,901. You found he was not quite liberal enough, and you thought you had better do it on your own account?—Yes, and so we cut him.

20,902. Do you know of any other money being spent by anybody?—No.

20,903. Or found by anybody?—No, I did all I could myself.

20,904. Have you applied to anybody for repayment?—Yes, I applied to Jeary seven or eight times, but I have never got the 2*l.* he promised me; he promised me two sovereigns and my brother also, and I do not think either of us have got a penny.

20,905. What did he promise your brother two sovereigns for?—He told him to give two sovereigns' of drink, and he gave the drink away, but never got the money.

20,906. Did you hear that yourself?—Yes.

20,907. Have you applied to anybody else besides Jeary?—No, no one; it is no use, you cannot get anything now.

20,908. Have you heard of any fund being applied to the payment of that sort of thing?—No.

20,909. You have not spoken to Mr. Stockings about this?—It is not likely I should speak to him.

20,910. (Mr. Biron.) What is the whole sum of money you expended out of your own pocket?—As near as I can tell I daresay it may be 5*l.* or 6*l.*

20,911. Besides what you got from Woodrow?—Yes, and the two sovereigns I got in the back lane. I suppose I spent 10*l.* or 11*l.* or 12*l.* altogether, but I did not keep any creditor or debtor account.

Charles Miller sworn and examined.

C. Miller.

20,912. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A publican.

20,913. Did you vote at the last election?—I had no vote.

20,914. Did you take an active part in the election?—I was employed in the fourth ward committee room.

20,915. In what capacity?—I suppose they would call it clerk.

20,916. Checking the poll books and so on?—No, I did that for the first day, and the day after I was sent out.

20,917. Canvassing?—Yes.

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

C. Miller.

28 Sept. 1869.

20,918. Did any money pass through your hands?—No, none at all.

20,919. You were employed in the Liberal committee room?—Yes.

20,920. Did you go about the city during the days previous to the election?—Yes.

20,921. And during the election day at all?—Yes.

20,922. Did any bribery come before your notice?—I never noticed any.

20,923. You did not see any?—No.

20,924. Or any treating?—No.

20,925. Did you see any men got up for beer?—No.

20,926. Nothing of the sort?—No.

20,927. Did you give any money?—No.

20,928. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you know of any money being provided or handed over to anybody in connexion with the election?—No, I do not.

J. W. Taylor, jun.

JAMES WILLIAM TAYLOR, junior, sworn and examined.

20,929. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

20,930. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

20,931. Did you have any money from Mr. Furse?—I had.

20,932. What money had you?—Half-a-crown.

20,933. For what was that?—To give to a voter.

20,934. Who was that?—His name was Barnacle.

20,935. Did you give it to him?—Yes.

20,936. Was that for his vote?—Yes.

20,937. Did he go up and vote?—Yes, he did.

20,938. Did you receive any other money for the purpose of paying voters?—Yes, I had 5*s.* from Mr. Hall, a butcher in King Street.

20,939. For what purpose did you have that 5*s.*?—To give to a voter.

20,940. Who was that?—A man of the name of Simpson, living in Calvert Street, St. James'.

20,941. Was that to vote?—Yes.

20,942. For Stracey?—Yes.

20,943. Where did the other man live?—In World's End Lane, St. Martin's-at-Palace.

20,944. Did you receive any other money?—No.

20,945. Not a farthing?—No.

20,946. Did you pay any yourself?—No, not a farthing.

20,947. Do you know of any other money being paid?—No, I do not know of any other money being paid.

20,948. Or provided?—No.

20,949. Were there a good number of men who wanted to be paid their day's wages?—Yes, there were some.

20,950. A good many?—Two or three asked for a day's pay, and I said I could not do that.

20,951. How came you to make application for these two sums?—I did not make application for them. When I saw Mr. Furse I told him the man would vote if he had half-a-crown, and he gave me half-a-crown.

20,952. I need hardly ask whether you received any money for your vote?—No, not a farthing.

20,953. Or whether you were promised anything?—No, I was never promised anything, and I should be very sorry to take it.

J. Tomlinson.

JAMES TOMLINSON sworn and examined.

20,954. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a voter?—I had a vote.

20,955. Did you vote?—I never voted at all.

20,956. Where were you during the day of the poll?—At the "Marquis of Granby," in Pockthorpe.

20,957. Did you get any beer there?—Yes, I did.

20,958. Without paying for it?—Yes.

20,959. Who did you see there?—I saw Mr. Womersley there; I saw Mr. Smith, the chemist; Dr. Bloomfield, and I saw Mr. Allen there besides, during the time.

20,960. Is there anybody else that you recollect?—Yes, there was lots of people there, but I cannot tell you exactly who they were, I did not take such observation of them.

20,961. Was Dr. Allen drinking beer?—Well, I did not see him drink anything.

20,962. Are those all the people you recollect?—Well, I saw lots of voters there that I meant to get up. Mr. Smith and Mr. Womersley asked me to go and get them together until they wanted to see them, and I went and got as many as 50.

20,963. You are in the employment of Mackley, are you not?—Mr. Mackley employed me to carry some straw for him on that day out of the barracks, and when I came with the load of straw out of the barracks into his yard, these three gentlemen popped on to me and asked me where the men was that Mr. Mackley had got here. I said he had got none. They said, "Where are the voters?" I said, "There is "no voters there, but if you want voters you can "soon have them, there is plenty about the street." They said, "I wish you would go and get them," and I went and got as many as 40 or 50 in about five or ten minutes.

20,964. They all wanted to have money for their votes?—The money was promised.

20,965. Who promised it?—Mr. Womersley did.

20,966. Did you hear him promise it?—Yes, I did.

20,967. What did he say?—He said they should have a pound apiece.

20,968. And you remained to take care of these 40 men, did you?—No, I never took care of them. I went and told them there was some gentlemen wanting to see them.

20,969. That is all you know about it?—That is all I know about it.

20,970. Did they offer you any money for your trouble?—No, sir; I was to have been paid for my day's work, but I never got paid.

20,971. Did not Mr. Womersley offer you a sovereign for taking care of these men?—No, sir. I am come here to speak the truth.

20,972. Did you get a sovereign from Mr. Womersley?—No, I never got a farthing.

20,973. You only got some beer?—I only got some beer, but who paid for it I do not know; there was two or three gallons of beer, but who paid for it I really do not know.

20,974. Can you tell me what words Mr. Womersley used?—Yes. Mr. Womersley said he should like to see these men, for he particularly wanted to speak to them.

20,975. Who did he say that to?—He said so to me.

20,976. When he did see them what did he say?—I cannot tell exactly what he said to them, for when I came back of course lots of men were there before I came, because I went further up the street, and as soon as I went into one public house and told some of them that there was some gentlemen wanting to see them and of course I came out; but when I came back they said to me, "We are to have "2*l.* apiece if we stop here 20 minutes; we have "given them half an hour."

20,977. They never got that 2*l.*, did they?—I don't know whether they got it; I never got none.

20,978. Was it promised to you?—I stood along with the rest. I reckoned that if they got it I should too, but whether they got any I am not able to say; I did not get none.

20,979. What were you to get it for?—If I had got it I should have got it to go and vote.

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

J. Tomlinson.

28 Sept. 1869.

20,980. How much would you have voted for?—I was going to vote freely if these had not come and made a fool of me. If they had not made a fool of me I should have voted for the very party that made a fool of me.

20,981. The reason you did not vote was because you were disappointed in not getting this money?—No; I did not vote because of that, but because they came and tempted me to do it. If gentlemen come and offer a poor man money it is very tempting, and if gentlemen like that was to go and let poor men alone they would not be tempted to do these things.

20,982. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You understood that the men wanted money, and you told Mr. Womersley that?—I did not know whether the voters wanted money or no not until I sent after them. They asked me to go and get these men together, and tell them they were wanted at Mr. Mackley's, and I done so.

20,983. Had Mr. Womersley been talking to Mr. Mackley before that?—No. Mr Mackley was not at home when Mr. Womersley and the gentlemen came down, he was out, but he came home during the time they were there.

20,984. Did he say to you, "Are there not a "quantity of voters here"?—Mr. Smith, the chemist, and Mr. Womersley asked me where the voters were that Mr. Mackley had got shut up there, and I said there was none.

20,985. You said there were none shut up, but you could get them in?—I said there was a lot in the parish, and if they wanted to see them they could see them. They said, "I wish you could go and get "them," and I went and told them they were wanted.

20,986. I suppose you told them there was something for them?—They never told me that there was anything for them. I am come here to speak the truth, and I shall speak the truth.

20,987. But you told the men?—I said I did not know. I said, "There is some gentlemen want to see "you at Mr. Mackley's."

DOWNING THIRKETTLE sworn and examined.

D. Thirkettle.

20,988. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A blacksmith by trade.

20,989. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

20,990. For whom did you vote?—Mr. Stracey.

20,921. At what time in the day?—Between 1 and 2.

20,992. Were you at the "Marquis of Granby" that day?—In the afternoon I was. I habit myself to go in there about 4 o'clock.

20,993. After you had voted you went there?—Yes.

20,994. Did you hear anything said about money?—No; there was only two or three people in the house when I went in.

20,995. What was said about money?—I never heard money mentioned.

20,996. Did you get any money for your vote?—No.

20,997. Or the promise of any?—Nor yet the promise of any.

20,998. Have you voted before?—Never.

20,999. Had you been canvassed?—No, not until this last election.

21,000. But you had been asked for your vote before you voted?—Yes, Mr. Stracey asked me.

21,001. Did you say you would vote for him?—Yes.

ROBERT BUSSEY sworn and examined.

R. Bussey.

21,002. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

21,003. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

20,004. For whom did you vote?—Mr. Stracey.

21,005. At what time in the day?—About 20 minutes after 3, as nigh as I can tell.

21,006. You were down at the "Marquis of Granby" on the day of the election, were you not?—Yes.

21,007. You were with the other men, and wanted something for your day's wages?—Yes.

21,008. And did you come up to the persons who wanted to see you there?—I was in and out of the house, I live right close again the house. I was promised money. I was promised that I should get a pound if I stopped there.

21,909. Who promised you that?—It was a man by the name of Barber; he said, "Do not leave here, we shall get a pound."

21,010. How long were you to stay?—Well, I was out and in there, as nigh as I can tell, till about 2 o'clock.

21,011. You did not get your pound?—No, I did not get one farthing. We stopped there until that time the party did, and then they said, "Well, we "might as well be a-going, we shall get nothing here "nor yet anywhere else."

21,012. Then where did you go to?—We then went right away to the "Horse Shoes," on Tombland.

21,013. At the "Horse Shoes" did you get some beer?—I got a pint and paid for it.

21,014. Did not you get any without paying for it?—No.

21,015. Did you get any money?—No, not one farthing.

21,016. Were you inquiring where money was going?—No; I was in the parlour, but I did not see any money stirring.

21,017. Did you vote afterwards?—Yes. After that we saw Mr. Stracey in a carriage, and he showed us where to put the votes in, in Magdalen Street, I think.

21,018. You say you saw Mr. Stracey in a carriage?—Yes.

21,019. Where?—Going up Magdalen Street way.

21,020. What did he say to you?—He said, "Come "along with me, my boys," and he showed us where to put them in, and then he drove away.

21,021. Was it the young or the old gentleman?—Mr. Gilbert Stracey. I don't know them, but they tell me his name is Gilbert.

21,022. Did he point out to you where you were to vote?—Yes, he pointed out to us where we were to vote.

21,023. Did he promise you anything for your vote?—No, he said that should be all right, that is all I heard.

21,024. Did you say that you wanted something for your vote?—I don't know that I did; some of them did say they should like to have something, and all I heard him say was "You shall be all "right."

21,025. Who were with you when that was said?—Well, Thompson, I think, was one.

21,026. Where does he live?—He lives in Pockthorpe, where I do.

21,027. Who else?—Well, I don't think there was anyone else that I know, and he lives close against me; that is how I came to know him.

21,028. How far was the polling booth from the "Horse Shoes"?—Well, I might say a quarter of a mile, or perhaps a little more.

21,029. You heard a man say to Mr. Gilbert Stracey that you wanted money for your votes, and he said, "Go on there, and it will be all right"?—Yes.

21,030. The men that were at the "Marquis of Granby" were all originally Tillettites and Russellites, were they not?—Well, I did not know only two or three of them that were there.

21,031. Were you then going to vote for Russell and Tillett?—No, I voted for Mr. Stracey.

21,032. But when you were at the "Marquis of Granby" for whom were you going to vote?—Well,

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

R. Bussey.

28 Sept. 1869.

I should have voted where I got the money, if I could have got any.

21,033. You wanted a day's pay?—Well, sir, I should have liked to have had something more than that.

21,034. Did you apply to Mr. Stracey afterwards?—No.

21,035. You have never asked him for anything since?—No.

21,036. How came you not to do that?—I do not know sir, I could not hear that anybody did ask him. I heard there was nothing.

21,037. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you inquire whether there was anything?—No. I only heard the others say that there was nothing, and that we should not have anything.

21,038. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Would you have voted then unless you had been told it would be all right?—No, I don't know that I should.

J. Betts.

JAMES BETTS sworn and examined.

21,039. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A coach-builder.

21,040. Did you vote at the last election?—No.

21,041. Have you not a vote?—No.

21,042. You have a couple of uncles, have you not?—Yes.

21,043. Is one Robert, and the other William?—Yes, they are both uncles of mine.

21,044. Did you go to the "Woolpack" on the day of the election?—Yes.

21,045. Was your uncle Robert with you?—I went to the "Woolpack" twice on the day of the election.

21,046. Did you see either of your uncles there?—Yes, at 6 o'clock in the evening, but not until then; it was somewhere about 6, as nigh as I can tell.

21,047. Which of them did you see?—William; I don't remember seeing Robert.

21,048. Did William say anything to you about receiving money for his vote?—No, I never heard him.

21,049. Did he not say anything about receiving a sovereign for his vote?—No, never.

21,050. Did you ever tell anybody that he had told you he had received a sovereign for his vote?—No, never, because I do not know it.

21,051. Now, did Robert ever tell you that he had received money for his vote?—No.

21,052. Are you sure of that?—I am quite sure.

21,053. Do you know a man of the name of William Clarke?—Yes, he works with me.

21,054. Did he tell you that he had received money for his vote?—No.

21,055. Did he tell you that he had received 15*s.*?—No, he never said a word to me about any such a thing as that.

C. Turner.

CHARLES TURNER sworn and examined.

21,056. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

21,057. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,058. At what time in the day?—Between 11 and 12.

21,059. Did you not vote after 2?—Not likely.

21,060. Did not you vote between 3 and 4?—No. If you have got anything wrong you have not got it against me.

21,061. Are you sober?—Yes.

21,062. Did you not vote between 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon?—No, sir, that's straight.

21,063. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—Only by the soliciting cards.

21,064. That is to say, they left a card at your house?—From both sides; of course you know how they do on elections.

21,065. Then you had not promised your vote?—To neither party.

21,066. Did any person come to fetch you up to the poll?—No.

21,067. Did you go up to the poll of your own accord?—Yes.

21,068. Did anybody promise you anything for your vote?—No, not likely.

21,069. Did anybody give you anything for your vote?—No.

21,070. Did you have any beer?—Only what I paid for.

21,071. Were you at any public houses that day?—Several, but at my own expense.

21,072. Do you know Cubitt?—No, I do not know the name.

21,073. What was the first public house you went to in the morning?—I don't know exactly where I first went to; I went and had a glass of ale when I got up in the morning.

21,074. What was the first public house you went in?—Well, on Scole's Green.

21,075. What is the name of it?—The "Anchor" is the sign of the house.

21,076. Where did you go after that?—I went into the market, I believe.

21,077. Where after that?—I don't exactly know where I went to.

21,078. How many public houses were you in that day?—I cannot tell you that; that is a curious question.

21,079. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You are not in a fit state to be examined now, it is quite clear. You will come up to-morrow morning.

C Townshend.

CHARLES TOWNSHEND sworn and examined.

21,080. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who did you vote for at this election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,081. At what time in the day?—A quarter past 8.

21,082. Had you promised your vote to anyone?—No.

21,083. You took some part in the election, I believe?—I don't know what part I took, I am sure; I did not start far from my place.

21,084. Did you not take up a voter called William Royal to the poll?—No.

21,085. How many voters did you take up?—I took one up to the Ber Street ward, I think that is the fifth ward; that was an old gentleman named Albert, I think.

21,086. What did you give him?—Nothing.

21,087. Was he the only one you took up?—That was the only one I took up. He was a very old gentleman, I believe he is a brother of Mr. Albert, in the Cathedral Close; he never asked me for anything, but wished me to go up with him.

21,088. What are you by trade?—A broker.

21,089. How came you to take up this old gentleman?—Because he asked me. I went into Mr. Elmes' to have a glass of ale during the forenoon, and he said, says he, "If you will go up with me I "will vote," and that is all the words I had with the old gentleman.

21,090. Did you get anything for your vote yourself?—No.

21,091. Have you voted before?—Yes.

21,092. Which side have you voted before?—The Tory.

21,093. Always?—Yes.

21,094. Has nothing been promised you this time?—No.

21,095. Have you promised anyone else?—No.

CHARLES DAWS sworn and examined.

C. Daws.

21,096. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—An engine-driver.

21,097. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

21,098. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,099. At what time in the day did you vote?—I voted in my dinner hour, between 1 and 2.

21,100. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—Yes.

21,101. By whom?—Mr. Flowers and Mr. Bishop.

21,102. For whom did they ask you to vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,103. Did you promise your vote to them?—No; I did not promise anyone, to tell you the truth.

21,104. Did you not promise Tillett?—No, I was not canvassed by Tillett's party.

21,105. Do you know Smithson?—Yes.

21,106. Had he canvassed you for Tillett?—No.

21,107. Did you tell him you were going to vote for Tillett?—Well, I told him as this: this was weeks before the election, and I could not pass that man's house but what he was always debating with me about Mr. Tillett, and I believe I did tell him that I might vote for Mr. Tillett.

21,108. How came you to change your mind after all?—Well, I don't know.

21,109. If they canvassed you for Stracey and you were going to vote for him, why did you not promise?—I did not promise anyone, but I went in my dinner hour and voted.

21,110. You told Smithson that you would vote for Tillett?—Well, I believe I did; I would not say for certain I told him I should vote for Tillett, but I told him simply to get rid of him, for it was a regular nuisance to me to go home either to breakfast or dinner, because I had to pass his door every time.

21,111. You tell me you got nothing for voting?—Not a farthing, and I was not offered anything.

21,112. Nor promised anything?—No, nor yet a glass of anything to drink.

21,113. Do you know anybody who got money?—No, sir, I was not mixed up with the election business at all, I merely walked from my employment and voted in my dinner hour, and went back to my employment again.

WILLIAM WOODCRAFT sworn and examined.

W. Woodcraft.

21,114. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

21,115. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,116. I believe you took a very active part on his behalf in the election?—None whatever.

21,117. No active part?—None whatever.

21,118. Did you take up any voters to the poll?—None whatever.

21,119. Do you mean to say that you took no part whatever in the election of Sir Henry Stracey beyond voting for him?—I took no active part in it whatever.

21,120. Did you take no active part in the election beyond voting for Sir Henry Stracey?—I don't recollect taking any part but going along with three or four others to Sir Samuel Bignold's on behalf of the licensed victuallers; that is all I did.

21,121. Did you go to Sir Samuel's, in order to induce him to stand?—No, sir, I went there with the licensed victuallers on behalf of them to support Sir Henry Stracey, that is all.

21,122. Is that all the part you took?—That is all I took.

21,123. Did you not try to get voters?—Certainly not.

21,124. Having been one of the deputation, surely you would take an active part in promoting the election of the man whom you had induced to stand?—I did not.

21,125. Why not?—I did not want.

21,126. But you were one of the deputation?—I acknowledge that.

21,127. Then do you mean to say that, being one of a deputation who went to induce a gentleman to stand for the city,—?—No, sir, I was one of those that went after the meeting at the "Hop Pole" to Sir Samuel Bignold's, to induce the licensed victuallers to support Sir Henry Stracey.

21,128. Then you went to induce the licensed victuallers to support him?—No. I went to Sir Samuel Bignold's to ask the licensed victuallers to support him.

21,129. Having done that, did you take no further active part whatever?—No further part whatever.

21,130. Did you canvass anybody?—Not at all.

21,131. Did you speak to anybody before the election in order to induce him to vote?—I did not.

21,132. Or give anything to anybody to induce him to vote?—No.

21,133. Nor promise anybody?—No.

21,134. Did you receive anything for your own vote?—No.

21,135. Or any promise?—I did not.

HENRY JARVIS sworn and examined.

H. Jarvis.

21,136. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A coal merchant.

21,137. I think you took a considerable part in the late election?—Yes.

21,138. In which ward was that?—The seventh ward.

21,139. Were you a canvasser?—I did canvass part of one day.

21,140. Were you a paid canvasser?—No.

21,141. I think afterwards you took a very active part at the time of the trial of the petition before Mr. Baron Martin?—I was asked by Mr. Skipper to make all the inquiries I could respecting it.

21,142. And I think you also undertook to remove certain gentlemen to Yarmouth?—I did not undertake to do it, but I will tell you the particulars about it; it was just this, there were certain persons that had given evidence respecting what had been practised in the seventh ward as regards bribery; some two or three days after they had told me that, they also said that several persons in the neighbourhood had annoyed them very much, and threatened them for giving evidence to me. I then mentioned that—

21,143. Do you not know that these men were sent away to Yarmouth?—I was going to tell you that. I then mentioned it to Mr. Skipper's chief clerk, and he suggested that they should be sent to Yarmouth or some other place out of the way of the annoyance of these men.

21,144. It was not with reference to the annoyance, but with reference to being summoned as witnesses, was it not?—Certainly not.

21,145. It was not to keep them out of the way?—Certainly not; it had nothing to do with it.

21,146. Did you bring them back?—Oh, yes, they appeared at the proper time before Baron Martin.

21,147. Do you know a person of the name of Henry Downes Taylor?—I do.

21,148. You were associated with him in the seventh ward during the time of the election, were you not?

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

H. Jarvis.

28 Sept. 1869.

—Very little indeed; I saw him during the election day.

21,149. How many voters did you get up yourself on the day of the poll?—Not one.

21,150. Did you look after other people who were getting them up?—I was the manager of the seventh ward.

21,151. But you were about all the day, were you not?—No, certainly not, my business was in the committee room.

21,152. In the course of the day did some people come to you and say they wanted money?—Oh, yes, I had several persons come and ask for money during the day.

21,153. Can you tell us who they were?—They were strangers to me; I do not know who they were.

21,154. Were they persons who asked for money in order to get the election in your favour?—No. I never had anyone ask me for money for that purpose.

21,155. Was anything said about that in your committee room?—I never heard a word about anything of the sort.

21,156. Not during the whole day?—Not during the whole day.

21,157. Did you hear anything about that 200*l.*?—Not a word.

21,158. How soon did you hear of that?—Not until some days after the election.

21,159. Did you spend any money yourself?—No, not one halfpenny.

21,160. Did you lend any money for anyone else to spend?—Not a halfpenny.

21,161. Did you advance nothing?—Certainly not.

21,162. Did you contribute anything to the expenses of this election?—Nothing of the kind.

21,163. Did you, directly or indirectly, take any part in the bribing of any voter?—Nothing of the sort.

21,164. Or in the making of any promise to any voter?—Nothing of the kind.

21,165. Were you at the "Anchor" on the election day?—No, certainly not. I went very few steps out of the committee room the whole of the day.

21,166. Do you know Mr. Hunter?—I saw Mr. Hunter during the inquiry before Baron Martin.

21,167. Was that the first time you saw him?—The first time I ever saw him; he was a perfect stranger to me.

21,168. Had you heard of his being in the town before?—I never heard of it.

21,169. You have heard since that he was in the town and acting the part of a detective here?—Oh, yes, just prior to the inquiry.

21,170. When did you first learn that?—Not until just before the inquiry before Baron Martin.

21,171. When did you hear that he was first in the town?—I think it was perhaps a week or so before Baron Martin came down here.

21,172. But when did you hear of his having been in the town before that?—I never heard of it before.

21,173. But what was the date of his being here that was mentioned to you?—I cannot exactly tell you the day that he was here, I only know it was a short time before Baron Martin came here.

21,174. Have you heard of his being here before the election?—I never heard of his being here before.

21,175. Have you heard of his being here very soon after the election?—No, not until the inquiry.

21,176. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Was young Mr. Stracey in and out of your committee room on the day of the election?—I don't think he was, I cannot say positively, but I do not think so. Sir Henry Stracey was, but I don't think young Mr. Stracey was. I did not see him during the election.

21,177. Do you know him?—Oh, yes, I know them all.

21,178. Do you recollect seeing him at all upon the day of the election?—Which Stracey do you mean?

21,179. Mr. Edward Stracey.—No. I saw Sir Henry, but not any of the sons.

21,180. Were you at all about the ward that day?—No, I just called upon one person; that is all I called upon during the day.

21,181. Your duties were almost entirely confined to the committee room?—They were.

J. Hewing.

JOSEPH HEWING sworn and examined.

21,182. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A publican.

21,183. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

21,184. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,185. At what time in the day?—I should say a little after 3.

21,186. Why did not you vote earlier than that?—I was busy at home at work.

21,187. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

21,188. Or the promise of anything?—Not at all, not a halfpenny, in no way.

21,189. Were you paid anything after you had voted?—No.

21,190. What were you doing all day?—I was cleaning out my pumps all day; it took me one day to do that.

21,191. Why did you pick out the day of the polling for that job?—I cannot say exactly; one of them was out of sorts, so I could not work it.

21,192. Did you not get 7*s.* 6*d.*?—No, not a farthing. I never had a farthing in my life for my vote.

21,193. Do you know a man of the name of Clarke, of Beccles?—No, I do not.

21,194. He did not give you anything then?—No, I never had a farthing given me in my life for my vote.

21,195. Who were you with on the polling day?—I was at home all day, and never went out until I went to vote.

21,196. Were you at work at the pump all day long?—I was at home at work all day. I never went out of doors until I went to vote, and then I went in my shirt sleeves.

G. Thompson.

GAMALIEL THOMPSON sworn and examined.

21,197. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

21,198. For whom did you vote?—Stracey.

21,199. At what time in the day?—Just before 1 o'clock.

21,200. Was it not after 2?—I think not.

21,201. Consider. Was it not nearer 4 than 1?—Well, I hardly know what was the time. I don't think it would be so late as that.

21,202. Where had you been that morning?—About the city.

21,203. Whereabouts?—Different places.

21,204. Why did you not vote before?—I am sure I don't know.

21,204. Had you been to any public houses?—Yes, one or two.

21,206. What public houses?—I went into the "Tuns" for one place.

21,207. What other public house?—I went into the "Grapes."

21,208. What were the others?—I don't recollect that I went into any more then.

21,209. Did you see anyone that morning who asked you to go up and poll?—No.

21,210. Did anybody give you anything that morning?—No, I had not half a pint of beer given me.

21,211. Did nobody offer you any money to vote?—No.

21,212. Did you not want some money to vote?—No.

21,213. Were you not promised some money to vote?—No, not by anybody.

21,214. Did you go up of your own accord?—I did.

21,215. Had anybody asked you for your vote before?—No, I never saw anyone. I had a card sent me, but no one came to my house to ask me.

GEORGE GARDINER sworn and examined. G. Gardiner.

21,216. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who did you vote for at this last election?—Stracey.

21,217. At what time of the day?—About three minutes past 8 in the morning.

21,218. You were employed as a clerk on that side, were you not?—No, nothing of the kind.

21,219. Were you not employed at all with reference to the election?—Nothing at all whatever.

21,220. Who asked you for your vote?—Mr. John Brandon Morgan canvassed me, and when he came he saw the bills up in my window prior to the election, upon which he was quite satisfied, and he said, "Though I am come to solicit you, I am convinced "that you are on my behalf;" and I said, "Yes, sir, "I am; there is no occasion for anyone to come to "solicit me."

21,221. Have you paid anyone anything for voting?—No, not a farthing.

21,222. Or promised anyone anything?—No, not a farthing.

21,223. Has any gift been made to you?—No, not a farthing, or any promise whatever.

21,224. Have you voted before this time?—Yes, I have voted at two elections.

21,225. On which side did you vote?—I voted on the Liberal side at two elections.

21,226. Now you have changed?—That is, of course, an opinion of my own. I have thought fit to change. We do not always have one opinion.

JAMES ELWIN, junior, sworn and examined. J. Elwin, jun.

21,227. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A baker.

21,228. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,229. At what time in the day?—About a quarter to 3.

21,230. Why did not you vote earlier?—I could not leave my business in the forenoon.

21,231. Did you get anything for voting?—Not I.

21,232. Or the promise of anything?—Not a farthing.

21,233. Did you give anyone else anything?—Not anything.

21,234. Did you take any part in the election beyond voting?—No, I had no time.

HORATIO BENJAMIN MITCHELL sworn and examined. H. B. Mitchell.

21,235. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

21,236. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,237. Do you know a person of the name of Furse?—Yes.

21,238. What money did you get from him?—Nothing.

21,239. (Mr. Biron.) Do you live in Palace Street?—Yes.

21,240. Now, did not Furse give you a pound?—No; you have made a mistake in the name; it is another Mitchell, I think, you mean.

21,241. He said it was Mitchell, of Palace Street?—Yes, but there are two Mitchells of Palace Street.

21,242. What is the name of the other Mitchell?—Frederick Gavin Mitchell.

21,243. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you know a person of the name of Warner?—Yes.

21,244. Who keeps the "Horse Shoes," in Palace Street?—Yes.

21,245. Were you in his house on the day of the election?—I think not, but I should not like to swear it.

21,246. Don't you recollect a person of the name of William Taylor being there?—No.

21,247. Do you remember any voter being there with whom Warner was talking?—No, I think not. I might almost swear I was not in the house during the day at all.

21,248. Were you not present when Warner was talking to a person of the name of Taylor on the day of the election?—I don't know; I do not know what Taylor is at all.

21,249. Were you not?—No, certainly not.

21,250. Did you not hear Warner offer a man, on the day of the election, 2*s.*?—No.

21,251. Do you frequent Warner's house?—Very rarely; he is a customer of ours, that is all.

21,252. At that time were you not in the habit of going in occasionally?—No, it is a house I very rarely use, unless on business.

21,253. Did not the man refuse the offer of 2*s.*, and did you not then yourself offer him 2*s.* 6*d.* to go and vote for Stracey?—No, certainly not.

21,254. Did you offer any money to anybody that day?—No.

21,255. Or promise any money?—No.

21,256. Did you yourself receive any money for voting?—No.

21,257. Were you offered any?—No.

21,258. Or promised any?—No.

21,259. You are quite sure about Taylor?—Quite sure. I should not like to swear I was not at Mr. Warner's house, but I never heard any conversation of that sort.

21,260. You are quite sure you did not offer a man at Warner's 2*s.* 6*d.*?—Quite sure of that.

21,261. That you did not offer a man of the name of Taylor on that day 2*s.* 6*d.*?—No, certainly not.

21,262. You offered no one any money?—No one whatever.

GEORGE BLOOM sworn and examined. G. Bloom.

21,263. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

21,264. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,265. What time in the day?—11 o'clock.

21,266. Had you promised your vote?—No.

21,267. Had you been asked for your vote?—No.

21,268. Had you told anyone you were going to vote?—No, I volunteered to go myself.

21,269. Did no one come and fetch you?—Henry Townsend came down, or else I should not have gone.

21,270. Did he give you anything?—No.

21,271. Or promise you anything?—No.

21,272. Have you had anything since?—No, not anything.

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

28 Sept. 1869.

FREDERICK WILLIAM BLOMFIELD sworn and examined.

F. W. Blomfield.

21,273. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A butcher.

21,274. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

21,275. For whom did you vote?—Stracey.

21,276. At what time?—About 8.

21,277. Did you take any active part in the election?—I asked one or two to go and vote, and they went.

21,278. What time of the day did you get them?—About 10 or 11 o'clock.

21,279. Did you give them anything for voting?—No.

21,280. Or promise them anything?—No, they merely went up by asking.

21,281. Did they not ask you for anything?—No.

21,282. That is all you did?—That is all.

21,283. You were not employed in any of the committee rooms?—No.

21,284. Did you get anything for voting?—Oh, no, I never had anything.

J. Barker.

JAMES BARKER sworn and examined.

21,285. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

21,286. For whom did you vote?—Mr. Stracey.

21,287. At what time in the day?—Between 2 and 3 o'clock, as soon as I had got my dinner.

21,288. Do you know a person of the name of Townshend?—Yes.

21,289. Did he give you some money to vote?—No.

21,290. (Mr. Biron.) Did he not give you any money?—I did receive some, but he did not give it me.

21,291. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Who gave it to you?—A man by the name of Parsons that works along with me; he gave him 6*s.*, according as he told me, and he gave me 3*s.* out of it.

21,292. That was for your day's work, for your vote?—He asked me only to walk across the way; from the "Horse Shoes" to the polling place is the furthest I went.

J. Blyth.

JOSHUA BLYTH sworn and examined.

21,293. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who did you vote for?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,294. At what time in the day?—About half-past 3.

21,295. What made you vote so late?—I was busy.

21,296. What are you by trade?—A master baker.

21,297. Have you voted at other elections?—Yes.

21,298. Which side have you voted?—Well, I voted for Peto and Warner.

21,299. And for anyone else?—I voted once since then, but I am sure I forget now how it was. I take not much interest in the matter.

21,300. Did you give anybody any money to vote this time?—No, neither did I take any.

21,301. Have you ever received any?—No.

21,302. Were you at the "Red Lion" on the day of the election?—No, that I was not.

21,303. Do you know of any money passing on this day?—I never saw any; it is a matter that I do not have any interest in, so I do not run into it.

21,304. You have not promised anybody money for voting?—No, not any, I assure you.

J. Barnes.

JAMES BARNES sworn and examined.

21,305. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

21,306. For whom?—Mr. Stracey.

21,307. What time in the day?—About 12 minutes to 4.

21,308. What did you get for voting?—Not anything for voting.

21,309. After you had voted?—3*s.* 6*d.*

21,310. Who gave it to you?—Bacon.

21,311. Is that Bacon, the shoemaker, of King Street?—Yes.

21,312. Do you work for Bacon?—No.

21,313. Was anybody with him when he gave you the 3*s.* 6*d.*?—Yes.

21,314. Who?—Reeves.

21,315. Who is Reeves?—Robert Reeves.

21,316. What is he?—A fitter.

21,317. Where does he live?—Orchard Street.

21,318. Did he get any money too?—3*s.* 6*d.*

21,319. Did he vote with you?—He voted just before I did.

21,320. Did you see anybody else get any money?—No.

21,321. Where had you been all day?—I was at work.

21,322. You did not see any more money going?—No.

21,323. Or know of any?—No, I do not know of any more.

J. Firman.

JOHN FIRMAN sworn and examined.

21,324. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

21,325. For whom did you vote?—I voted for Mr. Stracey.

21,326. What time in the day?—I should think about 20 minutes to 2, as near as I can guess.

21,327. It was later than that, was it not?—No.

21,328. Are you sure of that?—Well, it was in my dinner hour, before I went to work.

21,329. Where had you been all the morning?—Away at work.

21,330. What work?—I am a smith up at Mr. Holmes'.

21,331. Are you a smith as well as a publican?—Yes.

21,332. Had you not plenty of time to vote before that?—No. I thought that would be quite sufficient time to vote in the dinner hour. I did not want to lose any time to go after it.

21,333. Who came to you to ask you to vote?—No one.

21,334. Did anybody give you any money that day?—No, I had not any, because I had not anybody ask me.

21,335. Of the promise of any money?—No.

21,336. Were a good number of voters at your house that day?—No, not one.

21,337. Do you know of anything of any bribery going on?—No, not the least.

J. Elwin.

JAMES ELWIN sworn and examined.

21,338. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Stracey.

21,339. At what time in the day?—Between 11 and 12.

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

J. Elwin.

28 Sept. 1869.

21,340. Had you promised your vote to anyone?—I had promised my vote the day before.

21,341. To whom had you made that promise?—I made that to Mr. Stracey.

21,342. Did he canvass you?—He was along with a gentleman, and that was Mr. Morgan.

21,343. Did he come to you and ask you to vote?—He did so; I was at home, and I promised him faithfully that I would vote for him.

21,344. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

21,345. Did you get any beer?—Not a drop.

21,346. Was anything promised to you?—No.

21,347. Is this the first time you ever voted?—No, not the first.

21,348. Have you always voted Tory before?—I have voted two or three times before.

21,349. Have you always voted for the same party before?—Always, never any other.

21,350. Have you ever had any money for voting?—Never a farthing.

JONATHAN BUTTIFANT sworn and examined.

J. Buttifant.

21,351. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A chairmaker by trade.

21,352. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

21,353. For whom?—Mr. Stracey.

21,354. At what time in the day?—Well, I cannot say, it was after dinner.

21,355. Did you get anything for doing it?—Certainly not.

21,356. No money?—No.

21,357. Or beer?—No, I never saw anything.

21,358. Had you promised to vote?—I promised to vote for Mr. Stracey on the canvass, and I never saw the other party at all.

WILLIAM PEARSON recalled and further examined.

W. Pearson.

21,359. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Where do you live?—St. Martin's-at-Palace.

21,360. Do you know a person of the name of Taylor?—Yes.

21,361. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

21,362. For whom did you vote?—Mr. Stracey.

21,363. What time in the day did you vote?—About a quarter or 20 minutes to 4.

21,364. What money did you receive for your vote?—None at all.

21,365. Did you receive any money that day?—No.

21,366. Were you promised any money?—Yes, I was promised 10*s.* for my vote.

21,367. Who promised you 10*s.*?—Mr. Furse.

21,368. Was that to vote for Stracey?—Well, he said he would get me 10*s.* if I voted for Mr. Stracey, and after I voted he did not give it me.

21,369. Did you go to him for it?—No, I did not go to him for it; he said he would give it to me after I voted, but I saw him after I had voted and he did not give it me.

21,370. But did you ask him for it?—I asked him whether he was going to give me the 10*s.*, and he said "Go on, you have voted." That is all he said to me.

21,371. And you have never got it yet?—No.

Adjourned to to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

Wednesday, 29th September 1869.

JOHN FULLER sworn and examined.

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

J. Fuller.

29 Sept. 1869.

21,372. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

21,373. On the election day were you at the "Marquis of Granby"?—Yes.

21,374. At what time in the day were you there?—About half-past 1.

21,375. Were you one of a large number of men who had been called there by a person sent from the "Marquis of Granby"?—Yes.

21,376. Whom did you see at the "Marquis of Granby"?—Mr. Barber, Mr. Lawes, Mr. Nursey, Mr. Womersley, and several more of them.

21,377. Was anything said in your hearing by any of them as to the men having money?—Mr. Barber told me that if I went in there he would give me a pound, but I was to stop a little while. Mr. Mackley was gone down to the committee room, in Magdalen Street, to see what he could get.

21,678. Then did you wait?—I went and got my dinner, and when I had got my dinner I went in again.

21,379. At what time did you go back there?—I went back there about 20 minutes to 2, as nigh as I could tell.

21,380. Did you find the men there whom you had seen before?—Yes.

21,381. How many were there altogether?—There might be between 30 and 40 inside and out of the house.

21,382. Did you wait there?—Yes.

21,383. How long did you wait?—I waited there till 2 o'clock, or it might be three or four minutes past 2; I could not say for a minute or two.

21,384. Then did you find there was no money forthcoming?—Yes, there was no money.

21,385. Did you have any beer there?—No, I did not drink any beer. I had a bottle of ginger beer, and I paid for that myself.

21,386. Did you see the other men drinking beer?—Yes.

21,387. Did you see them pay for it?—No, I did not.

21,388. Were they drinking beer in the bar and in the tap-room?—Some in the bar and some in the tap-room.

21,389. You saw none paid for?—I did not see any paid for.

21,390. Were did you go to after you left?—I went on Bishop Bridge. I did not go in the "Marquis of Granby" nor any other house that day.

21,391. Not that afternoon?—No, I did not.

21,392. Can you give us the names of the 30 or 40 men that were there when you were there?—I can give you the names of several of them.

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

J. Fuller.

29 Sept. 1869.

21,393. Just mention them?—Mr. Lawes is one, Mr. Nursey, Mr. Douglas, Mr. Barber, Mr. Womersley.

21,394. I am speaking of the 30 or 40 men that you spoke of?—Mr. Newton, Mr. Moy, Mr. Edwards; well, I cannot recollect more, not just now, sir.

21,395. Did you afterwards vote?—No, I did not.

21,396. Did you go in search of something?—No, not after then.

21,397. I suppose that you and the other men were willing to take something for your votes?—Well, I was as well as the others, by Mr. Barber saying so.

21,398. What was being asked?—I don't know what was asked. Mr. Barber see me on the path, and he asked me whether I had voted, and I told him, "No, I had not;" and he asked whether I had promised anyone, and I said, "No, I had not, and I "did not know that I should vote." He said, "If "you go to the 'Marquis of Granby,' I will get you "a pound."

21,399. Did you hear him say that to anybody else?—Mr. Butcher was with me when he said so.

21,400. Was it the talk amongst the people there that they were to get a pound?—Yes; and some wanted two pounds.

E. Culyer.

ERASMUS CULYER sworn and examined.

21,401. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,402. At what time in the day?—About a quarter past 9.

21,403. Had you promised your vote?—I never promised to anyone. I was not solicited by anyone.

21,404. What public houses were you at during the day?—Not any. I went from my house and voted, and went back to my house again, and never went out again.

21,405. What are you by trade?—A slater.

21,406. Did you receive any money for your vote?—I should think not, sir.

21,407. When you voted the second time?—I did not vote a second time.

21,408. Had you two qualifications?—I have two qualifications.

21,409. Are you quite certain that you did not vote twice?—Quite certain. If you will allow me, I can explain, perhaps. I have a nephew of the same name residing in the sixth ward, who is a freeman.

21,410. Did he vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

21,411. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) In which ward are you registered?—I am registered in the first ward now. I was formerly in the sixth ward, and I believe my name remains in the register there, for some reason or other.

21,412. (Mr. Mansfield.) Your nephew is called Erasmus Culyer?—Yes.

21,413. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Is he a householder?—Yes.

21,414. (Mr. Mansfield.) You have received no promise for your vote?—I was never solicited for my vote. Everybody knows my political opinions, therefore they never asked me, neither side.

21,415. You always voted Tory?—I always voted for the Conservatives all my life.

21,416. You have voted at other elections?—Every election for the last 20 years, with the exception of the one when Mr. Waters was here, and then I was in Wales.

T. Self.

THOMAS SELF sworn and examined.

21,417. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A butcher.

21,418. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

21,419. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,420. At what time in the day?—As near as I can guess it was somewhere about 9.

21,421. After you had voted, what did you do?—Part of the day I attended to my business, and part of the time I was looking after anybody I could get up to vote.

21,422. Looking out for voters?—Yes.

21,423. You succeeded in getting some?—I did.

21,424. Did you take three men in a cab a little after 2?—No.

21,425. Did you get any men?—Yes.

21,426. How did you take them to the poll?—One rode in Mr. Taylor, the builder's, pony cart. That was down Bridge Street.

21,427. What did you give him for voting?—5s.

21,428. Do you remember the man's name?—Nelson.

21,429. Do you know where he lives?—In Bishopgate Street.

21,430. What is he?—A barber.

21,431. Do you happen to know his Christian name?—I think it is William, I won't be sure.

21,432. To whom else did you give anything for voting that day?—Not anybody.

21,433. Do you know a man named Leander Brown?—I know a man named Brown.

21,434. Did not you take him up to the poll?—I did not.

21,435. Did you give any beer to any man to get him up?—I did not.

21,436. Did you bring up Richard Thirkettle?—No.

21,437. Or Charles Sidney?—No.

21,438. Or Edward Stone?—No. I took a man in the afternoon in the second ward; what his name is I cannot tell you. I can only tell you he worked for Mr. Garrod, the baker.

21,439. Did not you give him something, or treat him afterwards?—No.

21,440. Did you treat any of the other men afterwards?—No.

21,441. Did you see Brown about that day?—I did see him that day.

21,442. Did you see him give anybody anything?—I did not.

21,443. Or a man of the name of Juler?—I know him, but I don't recollect seeing him on the election day.

21,444. Have you seen him since to speak to about electioneering?—No, not about electioneering.

21,445. Has he never told you what he did on that day?—No.

21,446. Has Brown told you whether he got up voters?—No, I know he got up voters, because I see him that day; but I have not had any conversation with him about it.

21,447. Except this that you have told me, getting one man up by paying 5s., do you know anything about bribery that day?—Only by report, what I have seen in the papers.

21,448. How came you to give that man 5s.?—Excitement, I suppose, being anxious that Stracey should win.

21,449. What time in the day was it?—In the afternoon.

21,450. Might you have got a lot more for 5s. apiece?—I might have got them, but he said if he voted for Stracey there would be three, or four, or five others who would vote for Stracey; therefore, I gave him 5s. to vote for Stracey.

21,451. Did he get some more to vote?—He got some more, I believe.

21,452. Was not the understanding with him that he was to divide the 5*s.* with others?—No, there was no such understanding at all.

21,453. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you see him get up any more?—I did not see him. I went into the second ward with a party. Whether he did or did not, I cannot say.

21,454. You gave it him on the faith that he would do that?—Yes.

21,455. (Mr. Mansfield.) Has anybody repaid you that 5*s.*?—No.

21,456. Have you ever asked for it?—I have never asked for it.

21,457. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Have you ever heard that there have been sums guaranteed for the purpose of paying men who were zealous like yourself?—No. I never heard anything of it, and I have never asked for it.

WILLIAM FREDERICK HOWARD sworn and examined. W. F. Howard.

21,458. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

21,459. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,460. At what time of the day?—About 2 o'clock.

21,461. How came you to vote so late?—I did not get my work done before.

21,462. Did anybody give or promise you anything for your vote?—Yes.

21,463. Who was it?—Mr. Howse Allen.

21,464. What did he promise you?—20*s.*

21,465. Did he give it you?—Yes.

21,466. When?—About five days after the election.

21,467. Did he promise it you on the day of the election?—Yes.

21,468. (Mr. Biron.) You lived in Princes Street at the time of the election?—Yes.

21,469. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you know of anyone else receiving money?—No.

21,470. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you know of anyone else paying money?—No.

21,471. Did you apply to Mr. Allen for this money?—I saw him on Tombland and he asked me how the election was going. He said, "Give us a lift." I said I did not care about voting.

21,472. Had you known him before?—No; I had seen him at times.

21,473. He was personally a stranger to you?—Nearly so.

THOMAS GARROD sworn and examined. T. Garrod.

21,474. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a baker?—No. I am a labourer, and work at Mr. Wilson's, of Queen Street.

21,475. For whom did you vote?—Stracey.

21,476. At what time in the day?—In the dinner hour; between 1 and 2.

21,477. Had you promised your vote?—No.

21,478. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

21,479. Did you get any beer?—No.

21,480. Have you had anything since?—No. I have had some beer since at my own expense.

21,481. But none at the expense of the member?—No, neither before nor after.

21,482. Is this the first time that you have voted?—Yes.

21,483. Did anybody come to solicit your vote?—I never had anybody come to solicit me, so I did not promise anyone.

21,484. Was anything promised you?—No.

21,485. Did you ask for anything?—I had no opportunity. They did not come after me, nor I after them.

21,486. You would have taken it, I suppose, if they had offered you anything?—I don't know.

21,487. Would you have taken a pound?—I don't know that I should have taken anything. I exercised my own judgment which way I voted, and I had not either a promise nor yet an opportunity of having anything.

JOHN FOX sworn and examined. J. Fox.

21,488. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A boot and shoe maker.

21,489. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

21,490. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,491. What time in the day?—About a quarter before 2.

21,492. Did you get anything for voting?—Not anything.

21,493. Or the promise of anything?—Not the promise of anything. I should not think of such a thing.

21,494. Had you voted before?—No.

WILLIAM BLOOM sworn and examined. W. Bloom.

21,495. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

21,496. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Stracey.

21,497. At what time in the day?—Betwixt 12 and 1, as near as I can guess. That is about the time.

21,498. What money did you receive for your vote?—I received 10*s.*

21,499. Who paid you that?—Mr. Boulton. 5*s.* to me, and 5*s.* to Mr. George Freeman.

21,500. Where does he live?—He is dead now.

21,501. Where did you receive it?—I received it at Mr. Townshend's, on Tombland.

21,502. Where does Boulton live?—In Magdalen Street, opposite the "Black Horse."

21,503. Did Freeman vote?—He voted the same time that I did.

21,504. Do you know Taylor, the carpenter?—Quite well.

21,505. Did he take you to Boulton?—No, I did not see him.

21,506. Did he go with you to Boulton, or was he with you at the time that Boulton gave you the money?—No; certainly not.

21,507. Did he speak to you before you had the money?—I did not see Mr. Taylor till 3 or 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and that was after I voted.

21,508. And after you received the money?—After I received the money.

21,509. Do you know of anybody else having received money?—I do not.

ROBERT ADAMS sworn and examined. R. Adams.

(The Witness.) I am very deaf. I never had nothing, and never asked for nothing. I had only my day's work paid for. That is all I had.

21,510. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who paid you for your day's work?—I went down to Mr. Tillett's office.

21,511. Who paid you there?—I don't know the

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

R. Adams.

29 Sept. 1869.

gentleman. He was an oldish gentleman. I had nothing, and I never axed for nothing.

21,512. Did Mr. Abel Tillett pay you?—I don't know what the gentleman's name was.

21,513. Did you have some beer on the day of the election?—Yes.

21,514. For whom did you vote?—Mr. Stracey.

21,515. Did anybody pay you any money on the day of the election?—Yes, I took 5*s*.

21,516. From whom?—Down at Mr. Tillett's office. It was an oldish gentleman.

21,517. How soon after the election was it when you got the money?—I think it was the third day.

21,518. Are you sure that was the election day?—Yes, I was paid for three days.

21,519. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you get any money for your vote?—Not a halfpenny, nor I never asked for it.

(Mr. Biron.) It is quite clear that you got paid for your attendance on the election inquiry.

T. Park.

THOMAS PARK sworn and examined.

21,520. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A boot closer.

21,521. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

21,522. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,523. At what time of the day?—About 9 o'clock in the morning, as near as I can guess.

21,524. Did you get anything for voting?—Not anything.

21,525. Were you promised anything?—Not anything.

21,526. But were not you a member of the Liberal organisation?—My name was down. I was one of the committee.

21,527. You were a great supporter of Tillett's, were you not?—I was a supporter of Mr. Tillett or anyone if they acted according to my views.

21,528. But you were going about canvassing for Tillett, were you not?—No.

21,529. Did you promise to vote for him?—No.

21,530. You knew Mr. Tillett was the candidate of the organisation?—I knew he was the man coming forward.

21,531. How came you to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Because I liked Mr. Stracey's way in which he explained his views. I said I would vote for Mr. Tillett or Mr. anyone else if their views were like mine. He pledged himself to do away with the cause of the poor people's taxes; that is what I wanted. I always was a Tory in my heart, and I voted for Stracey on account of the way he explained himself at the meetings. That is why I voted for Stracey.

21,532. What did you get for belonging to the organisation?—I got nothing at all. I got part of a tea.

21,533. You got a pound of tea?—No, I had a chance of that. I had to wait upon those who had the tea.

21,534. Who gave the tea?—I don't know. Mr. Tillett was the cause of it.

21,535. Do you mean the public tea that we have heard of?—The public tea of the organisation at St. Andrew's Hall. That is all I got.

21,536. (Mr. Mansfield.) You got beer on committee days at the organisation?—No, there was no beer given on committee days or other days.

21,537. (Mr. Biron.) Had not you promised your vote for Tillett?—No.

21,538. Or said you would vote for him?—No. I said I would vote for Mr. Tillett or anyone else that came forward if their views met mine, and I think my name was put on the committee, but I did not know it till after it was put on; it was put on and was crossed off again afterwards.

W. Boreham.

WILLIAM BOREHAM sworn and examined.

21,539. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

21,540. What time did you vote?—1 o'clock.

21,541. Did you receive anything for your vote?—No.

21,542. Neither money nor beer?—No.

21,543. Were you promised anything?—No.

21,544. For whom did you vote?—Mr. Stracey.

J. Palmer.

JAMES PALMER sworn and examined.

21,545. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,546. What time in the day?—Half-past 3.

21,547. What made you so late?—I went up just at 8 o'clock in the morning, and I could not stop then; I had not time, and so I went away then, and had not a chance till half-past 3 in the afternoon.

21,548. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing at all.

21,549. Any beer?—Not a drop, only what I paid for.

21,550. Had you promised your vote to anyone?—No.

21,551. Had you been asked for your vote?—No.

21,552. Did you get any promise?—No.

21,553. Where were you the whole of the day?—I was carting about the city.

21,554. Where did you get any beer?—Several places, because I run a cart to several public houses.

21,555. Tell me what public houses they were?—I had a glass of ale at my own expense at the "Waggon and Horses;" then I had a glass of beer at the "Coachmakers Arms" in St. Stephen's, I had to go there for some things. That is all I had except at the place where I am working.

21,556. Did you see David Cubitt?—No.

21,557. Or Warnes?—I don't know him.

21,558. Have you ever voted before?—No.

M. Durrant.

MICHAEL DURRANT sworn and examined.

21,559. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I keep a shop in King Street.

21,560. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

21,561. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,562. At what time in the day?—As nigh as I can tell near 1 o'clock. I cannot tell to half an hour.

21,563. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

21,564. Or the promise of anything?—Nothing.

21,565. Or any beer?—Nothing; not a glass of ale.

21,566. Do you know Larkman?—Yes.

21,567. Were you at his public house during the day?—He don't keep a public house.

21,568. Where does the Larkman you know live?—He is a corn merchant, and he lives opposite me.

GEORGE JOHNSON sworn and examined.

21,569. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election ?—Yes.

21,570. For whom did you vote ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,571. At what time in the day did you vote ?—Between 1 and 2.

21,572. Did you receive anything for your vote ?—No.

21,573. Were you promised anything ?—No.

21,574. Was any beer given to you for your vote ?—No.

21,575. Were you promised any beer ?—No.

21,576. Have you been a voter before ?—No.

JOHN WHITE sworn and examined.

21,577. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you know Wiseman ?—Yes, I know Toddy Wiseman.

21,578. Young Wiseman ?—Yes.

21,579. You got some money from him on the day of the election ?—Yes.

21,580. How much ?—5l.

21,581. What did you do with it ?—I gave a sovereign to a man of the name of Benfather, and that was all I used.

21,582. Which Benfather was it ? — Tom Benfather ; he kept the "Royal Oak ;" and I think he got some voters with it. There were about seven or eight, I think. He took them down to the polling booth, and the people that was working for Tillett got round the polling booth and would not let them vote ; so none of them voted.

21,583. What were their names ?—I don't know their names. I should know the people if I saw them.

21,584. What did you do with the rest of the money ? — I gave him eight half-sovereigns back again ; and a man of the name of Sallows, and Benfather ; Wiseman gave me a sovereign to give them half a sovereign each. This Sallows is not a voter, but a man who knew where voters was, and got them.

21,585. What voters were those ?—What I tell you we took down in the cab.

21,586. How many do you say there were ? — Seven or eight of them, as many as the cab would hold, sitting on each other's knees inside.

21,587. Cannot you give me names of any of them ?—I could not.

21,588. What did you do after that ?—Wiseman give me a sovereign for my trouble.

21,589. Did you vote ?—I voted first thing in the morning, and did not know I was going to assist at all. I did not want to be paid, being a Conservative myself. I voted during the first hour.

21,590. For the trouble of getting up these men you got a sovereign ?—He did not say what it was for. He said, "There's a sovereign for you."

21,591. Did you get up any more voters that day ?—No.

21,592. (Mr. Biron.) I understood you to say you gave back the rest of the money to young Wiseman ?—I gave it back, and did not deduct nothing. I returned him eight half-sovereigns ; and after the election was all over, and that he gave me those two half-sovereigns to give to those two other people, Sallows and Benfather, and then he gave me one sovereign for myself, that is two half-sovereigns he gave me.

21,593. Who is Sallows ?—He is not a voter. He lives in St. Martin's.

21,594. (Mr. Mansfield.) Is that all you had to do with the election ?—That is all.

21,595. What time in the day was it that you went to Wiseman ?—I had been taking up voters for the greater part of the day, but the transaction about the money would be about half-past 3.

21,596. Where from ?—From different parts in St. Martin's.

21,597. From public houses ?—Yes.

21,598. Which ?—From the "Cow ;" some from Benfather's own house before that ; but I never saw any money passing at all. The people went of their own free will.

21,599. Was beer going at Benfather's ? — Only what they paid for themselves. I had some ale, but I had to pay for it.

21,600. Were not men drinking there ? — Yes ; but at whose expense I don't know, their own, I suppose.

21,601. Were there not a great many men at Benfather's ?—Not more than there would be on an occasion like that.

21,602. How many voters did you take up the whole day ?—30 or 40.

21,603. All of them from public houses ?—No ; some from private houses ; some we met in the steeet and took.

21,604. Did you get anything else for your day's work besides what you have told us ?—Oh no, nothing more.

21,605. Who engaged you to carry up voters ?—Nobody at all. It was just to assist on the part of Sir Henry.

21,606. You have only mentioned two public houses from which you took voters. Can you mention any more ? — There was only Benfather's and the "Cow." I cannot mention more.

21,607. Did you take any from the "Buck" ?—Yes, I did take some from there.

21,608. Any from the "Elm" ?—No ; I was only in the eighth ward in St. Martin's parish.

21,609. At any time during the day did you go to the committee room ?—Yes, I was there once.

21,610. Whom did you see there ?—I see'd young Wiseman and his father.

21,611. What time in the day was that ?—I think between 3 and 4.

21,612. Was that when you got the money ?—No, I did not get the money there at all.

21,613. Where did you get the money ?—I got the money when I was in St. Martin's.

21,614. At what hour did you get that money ?—Something like 20 minutes to 4 ; after half-past 3.

21,615. What induced you to go to St. Martin's ?—I went to get more votes.

21,616. Why did you go to the committee room ?—Just to see the state of the poll, how they were getting on.

21,617. Did you ask for money there ?—No, I never asked for none.

21,618. Was any talked about ?—No, nothing was mentioned.

21,619. Who else was there besides young Wiseman ?—There was his father and a few more of the committee people.

21,620. Who were they ?—I could not tell you exactly who. We were rather hot in the cause, and we kept passing and repassing people, but never noticed who they were.

21,621. What other people were there, committee men and managers ?—I think Mr. Gedge was there.

21,622. Have you ever been engaged in elections before ?—No.

21,623. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you promise nobody else any money or pay any more money ?—I never paid a voter anything.

21,624. Or promised him anything ? — I never promised him ; I had nothing to promise.

21,625. Do you know Keddington ? — I know

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

J. White.

29 Sept. 1869.

Keddington, who keeps a public house in the market. He is a butcher.

21,626. (Mr. Mansfield.) Is that the only Keddington you know?—Is he a shoemaker? I know one used to come to my house. He rode on the cab with us that day; he is a man that takes snuff a great deal; he rode along in the cab with us that day on several occasions; not all the day.

21,627. Did he get up voters?—I don't know whether he was engaged or took it on his own part; I never axed him.

21,628. He had some money too?—That I could not tell.

21,629. Do you recollect seeing Keddington when a 5*l.* note was being changed?—No, I never see'd nothing of that.

21,630. Did you see Keddington with any money?—I never see'd him with money. In fact, he had no money; he had to go home to get some money once for his refreshments; he had no money in his pocket; he axed the cabman to go home to his house. I remember that now you speak of the man.

21,631. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you see Keddington after you had got the money?—No, I think not. I don't think I did.

21,632. (Mr. Mansfield.) Till that time you had been together?—No. Sometimes when we came with a cab load he would ride down with us. Then he would leave us, and we would see him an hour or a couple of hours after.

21,633. Have you received any money since beyond what you have mentioned?—No, nothing.

H. Dye.

HENRY DYE sworn and examined.

21,634. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A smith by trade, and a boilermaker.

21,661. Was anything promised you?—No.

21,662. Have you received anything since?—No.

21,663. Have you ever voted before?—No.

21,664. Did you see any money passing that day for the purchase of votes?—No, I did not.

21,665. What public houses were you at during the day?—I first went to the "Anchor" and had a glass of ale there, and a glass of ale afterwards.

21,666. Which other public houses?—I don't know; several round the market.

21,667. Did you see David Cubitt that day?—I don't know him.

21,668. Did you see young Warnes?—I don't know the gentleman.

21,669. Did you go to the "Elm" public house?—I don't know where it is.

21,670. Or the "Ship"?—No. I was not near there.

21,671. Were you at the "Horse Shoes"?—No.

W. Munday.

WILLIAM MUNDAY sworn and examined.

21,672. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A gardener.

21,673. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

21,674. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,675. What time in the day?—About 10 as near as I can recollect.

21,676. Had you promised your vote?—No.

21,677. Do you always vote that way?—Yes.

21,678. Did you get anything for voting?—Not the slightest.

21,679. Or the promise of anything?—Not the promise of anything.

21,680. Did you give anybody anything to vote?—No.

21,681. Did you take any part in the election beyond voting?—Not the slightest.

21,682. Do you know anything about bribery or other corruption?—Not more than the biggest stranger in the world.

R. Stafford.

ROBERT STAFFORD sworn and examined.

21,683. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

21,684. What time in the day?—About half-past 3.

21,685. For whom did you vote ?—Mr. Stracey.

21,686. Where were you all that day ?—At work. At Mr. Butcher's, the coal merchant, at Thorpe station.

21,687. Why did you not vote before that time ?—I could not leave off. I worked up to 2. Then I come home and cleaned myself, and then I went up and voted directly. It was about half-past 3 when I got there.

21,688. Did anybody come and ask you for your vote ?—No.

21,689. Had you been canvassed before ?—No That is the first time I ever voted.

21,690. Did anybody give you any money or beer ?—No, never. Nobody offered me anything, and I never saw anything, neither money nor beer.

21,691. Did anybody promise you anything ?—Nobody promised me anything.

21,692. Were you in any public houses that afternoon ?—No.

JOHN SCARLES sworn and examined. J. Scarles.

21,693. (Mr. Mansfield.) At what time did you vote ?—About 10.

21,694. For whom did you vote ?—Mr. Stracey.

21,695. Had you been canvassed for your vote ?—No, I had a kind of letter left at my house.

21,696. Had you promised your vote ?—No.

21,697. Did you get anything for voting ?—No.

21,698. Did you get any beer ?—No.

21,699. What did you do after you had voted ?—Went home.

21,700. Were you at any public houses in the course of the day ?—Yes, several.

21,701. Which ?—I was at the "Swan," in King Street, and I was at the "Foundry Arms," I think they call it, King Street.

21,702. Did you get any beer given you ?—No.

21,703. None at all ?—No.

21,704. Have you received any money since for your vote ?—No.

ROBERT RAYNOR sworn and examined. R. Raynor.

21,705. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A shoemaker.

21,732. Had you promised your vote ?—No.

21,733. Were you canvassed for Sir Henry ?—I was not canvassed, though the gentlemen came through my establishment.

21,734. Had you canvassed voters yourself ?—I had.

21,735. Many of them ?—Several of them I canvassed.

21,736. Did you take any of them up to the poll ?—I took three up on the day of the election.

21,737. What time of the day ?—Two in the morning and one in the afternoon.

21,738. At what time in the afternoon ?—Between 3 and 4.

21,739. What did you give him ?—Nothing.

21,740. How did you induce him to go ?—I merely asked him, that is all.

21,741. What is his name ?—I cannot tell you his name. He was pointed out to me in the street as not having recorded his vote, and I went and asked him to vote.

21,742. You asked a man whom you never saw before to go and vote, and he went ?—Yes.

21,743. Did you say nothing about beer ?—No.

21,744. How long did it take you to convince him ?—Not two minutes, hardly one.

21,745. What did you say ?—I said "I understand "you have not voted." He said "No, I am a poor "man, and want to be paid for my day's work." I said "There is nothing to be had on either side, and "if you don't go and vote now you will not have an "opportunity at all." He said "I'll go," and he went.

21,746. Somebody must have told you who he was ?—Yes.

21,747. Who told you who he was ?—Mr. Bacon, the overseer of the parish, told me his name, but I cannot remember it. He lives in a yard in King Street.

21,748. This is the man that Mr. Bacon gave to you to take up to the poll ?—I was with Mr. Bacon.

21,749. Mr. Bacon was the man who was bribing ?—He did not bribe him.

21,750. You did not see him perhaps ?—I did not see him certainly, I met the man in the street.

21,751. You meet a man in the street accidentally. You are with Mr. Bacon, who is giving money, and Mr. Bacon asks you to take this man to the poll ?—By the bye, it was not Mr. Bacon. It was Mr. J. B. Morgan.

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

W. Watts.

29 Sept. 1869.

21,752. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you believe that you could convince a voter and get him to vote by merely walking up to him and saying "Come and "vote" ?—That is all I said to him. He did not get anything from me or from Mr. Morgan.

21,753. You cannot tell that. We shall see Mr. Morgan ?—I am quite aware he got nothing.

21,754. (Mr Mansfield.) Have you given any money with reference to this election ?—No.

21,755. Or promised any ?—No.

21,756. Nor any beer ?—Nor yet beer, nor seen any given.

21,757. Were you in any committee rooms on the day of the poll ?—I went up to the one in Queen Street once or twice.

21,758. What persons did you see there ?—I cannot tell you the names. I was not acquainted with the names. I was quite young in electioneering exploits.

21,759. (Mr. Biron.) You were most successful for a first attempt ?—I wish they was all as successful as I was. That is all I can say.

21,760. (Mr. Mansfield.) You did not know any of the gentlemen who were in the committee room ?—I might know some. I cannot call to mind who now. I was not aware of anything of this sort coming, or I should have taken a note of it.

21,761. You must recollect who were there ?—I believe I saw Mr. Warner, who keeps the "Horse Shoes." He was there up in the room. I saw Mr. Morgan up in the room. I cannot call all the names to my mind now.

21,762. Did Mr. Morgan go away from the committee room with you ?—No.

21,763. How was it you fell in with him ?—I saw him several times during the day. I live in the same parish.

21,764. You were in constant communication with him during the day ?—No, I was not.

21,765. Who else was there besides those persons whom you have named ?—I saw Mr. Breeze there in the committee room.

21,766. Who else ?—There were different clerks there that had to do the work. I cannot tell you the names from Adam.

21,767. Was anything said about money there ?—Not a word.

21,768. Was anything said about giving away beer ?—Not a word.

21,769. Mr. Warner keeps the "Horse Shoes," in Tombland, does he not ?—Yes, he do.

21,770. You do not know who instructed him to give away beer ?—I cannot say anything about that.

21,771. You know that he did ?—I don't know that he did. I did not go into his house. I only go from what I heard yesterday.

21,772. You are very young in electioneering ?—I am.

21,773. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) I should advise you to keep your present state of innocence as long as you can in Norwich ?—I shall keep it honestly as long as I can, I promise you.

21,774. (Mr. Mansfield.) Were you paid anything yourself for your canvass ?—Not a farthing. I did not wish it.

21,775. All you did was that you, without receiving any money got men, who also received no money to vote for Sir Henry Stracey. That was your day's work ?—I never received a farthing, never asked for a farthing, nor promised a farthing in money or beer. If I were to say I had I should tell you an untruth, and I certainly shall not tell an untruth.

W. Berwick.

WALTER BERWICK sworn and examined.

21,776. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A porter.

21,777. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

21,778. For whom did you vote ?—Mr. Stracey.

21,779. At what time of the day ?—From 3 to 4.

21,780. What did you get ?—10*s.*

21,781. From whom ?—Mr. Henry Townshend.

21,782. Where did he give it you ?—In the "Horse Shoes."

21,783. Did you see him give any other men money there ?—No.

21,784. Who were there besides yourself ?—Well, the house was full.

21,785. When he was giving this money ?—It was in a little room by himself.

21,786. How came you to go into the little room to him ?—He asked me in.

21,787. Did you see him ask any other men into that room ?—No.

21,788. Are you sure ?—Yes; me and Bygrave went in together.

21,789. Was that Daniel Bygrave ?—No, Robert.

21,790. Did he give you each 10*s.* ?—I don't know what he got. It was put into my hands.

21,791. Did not you see any other men go in there to him ?—No.

21,792. Cannot you recollect the name of any other man except Bygrave who was there ?—No, not any.

21,793. Did you see any other man get money ?—No.

21,794. Or have you heard of any other man ?—No.

21,795. Did any of your mates tell you about their getting money ?—No.

21,796. You know nothing about it, except that you got 10*s.* for yourself ?—No.

E. Holmes.

EDMUND HOLMES sworn and examined.

21,797. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a voter ?—A publican.

21,798. I suppose a publican votes like other people, does he not ?—Yes.

21,799. Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election ?—Yes.

21,800. What is the sign of the house which you keep ?—I kept the "Castle" tavern when I voted.

21,801. Whereabouts in the city is that ?—Right against the barracks.

21,802. On the day of the election, were there a number of voters at your house ?—No.

21,803. None at all ?—Not one.

21,804. Now do be careful when you say not one ?—Not one.

21,805. Was there nobody in your house that day ?—No.

21,806. Was it closed ?—No.

21,807. Do you mean to say that not a single voter came into your house that day ?—I don't recollect one.

21,808. Had you any customers that day ?—They were in and out for beer.

21,809. Did you draw any beer that day ?—Well, sir, we should draw some.

21,810. Did not you draw beer for voters who were your customers that day ?—No, I don't recollect that I did.

21,811. Did your wife ?—That I cannot say.

21,812. Do you attend to your business at all ?—Well, my missus do in general.

21,813. Was not the business of your house going on in the ordinary course on the day of the election, or did you stop business ?—No, not when I come away.

21,814. Then, I suppose, voters do frequent your house upon ordinary days ?—I don't recollect any that day coming.

21,815. Did you run up any score of beer that day for voters?—No.

21,816. Have you applied to anybody to pay you for beer supplied to voters on that day?—No.

21,817. Are you sure of that?—Yes.

21,818. Does anybody owe you anything for beer supplied to voters that day?—No, not anyone.

21,819. Did you receive anything for your vote?—No.

21,820. Were you promised anything?—No, not anything.

WILLIAM LEEDER sworn and examined. W. Leeder.

21,821. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,822. What time in the day?—Between 2 and 3.

21,823. Who asked you to vote?—Mr. Townshend and Mr. Flowers.

21,824. How much did he give you?—Not anything.

21,825. How much did he promise you?—Not anything.

21,826. Did he give you some beer?—Not any.

21,827. Did you get nothing for voting?—Not anything.

21,828. Not a day's work?—No.

21,829. Where were you when you promised Mr. Townshend?—I was in my own house.

21,830. What were you doing on the day of the poll?—I was at work till dinner.

21,831. Then after that you went to the "Cock and Pie"?—After I voted I went and got a pint of beer.

21,832. At the "Cock and Pie"?—Yes.

21,833. Who gave you the beer?—No one; I paid for my own beer.

21,834. Did not you get treated a day or two after the election?—No.

21,835. Are you quite certain of that?—Quite certain of that. I took only half an hour.

21,836. Why did you go to the "Cock and Pie" afterwards?—I did not stop there more than half an hour. I see four people there. That is all was there when I was there, I assure you. There were not above one there when I come away.

21,837. It is after the election I am speaking of. Did not you go to the "Cock and Pie," and have some beer given to you?—No.

21,838. A day or two afterwards; you can recollect that?—Yes, I can recollect that.

21,839. Are you quite certain that you did not get beer there?—Yes, I got a pint of beer; that is all I had.

21,840. Have you been treated at all at the "Cock and Pie" since the election?—No, not at all. I did not go only that once in there.

FREDERICK GEORGE HALL sworn and examined. F. G. Hall.

21,841. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A butcher.

21,842. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

21,843. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,844. At what time in the day?—Somewhere about 9 o'clock in the morning.

21,845. Did you get anything for your vote?—Certainly not.

21,846. Or the promise of anything?—Of course not.

21,847. After you voted you went about to get up voters for Sir Henry Stracey?—My inclination led me to do so.

21,848. Did you go into any public houses to try and get up the men?—I went in and had a glass of ale down in Mr. Mackley's, in Pockthorpe.

21,849. There were a lot of voters there?—There were some people in the place. I frequently go in there.

21,850. Besides paying for your own beer, you paid for beer for them?—I had a glass of ale, and one of them asked me to stand two pennyworth of rum. I only spent $3\frac{1}{2}d.$, that is all.

21,851. Did you not give any beer besides?—No. I am on my oath. I did not.

21,852. It was a very homœopathic dose of bribery, only 2*d.*?—I believe this man had voted for Mr. Tillett. I don't know his name.

21,853. It was only 2*d.* thrown away after all?—I don't mind that.

JAMES ROSE sworn and examined. J. Rose.

21,854. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

21,855. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,856. At what time in the day?—As near as I can tell, somewhere about 2 o'clock.

21,857. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—No.

21,858. Did anybody come and ask you to vote?—No, I was ill in bed at the time. I dressed myself and came and voted. I came in a cab.

21,859. Did anybody give or promise you anything for voting?—Nothing at all.

JOSEPH SMITH sworn and examined. J. Smith.

21,860. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Mr. Stracey.

21,861. What time of the day?—Between 12 and 1.

21,862. Had you promised to vote?—I promised the candidates when they come round.

21,863. Are you certain you did not vote later?—Yes.

21,864. Where were you at 1 o'clock?—I was at home at my dinner.

21,865. Did you go and vote after dinner?—I voted before dinner.

21,866. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

21,867. Was anything promised you?—No.

21,868. Did you get any beer?—Only what I paid for, after dinner.

21,869. Did you go to any public houses?—No.

21,870. Have you had anything since?—No.

21,871. No money?—No.

21,872. Is this the first time you ever voted?—Yes.

21,873. With whom did you go to the poll?—I went with myself.

21,874. Were you not asked by anybody to go up to the poll on that day?—No.

GEORGE ELWIN sworn and examined. G. Elwin.

21,875. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A servant.

21,876. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

21,877. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,878. What time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

G. Elwin.

29 Sept. 1869.

21,879. Did you get anything for voting ?—No, nothing.

21,880. Why did you not vote earlier ?—Because my occupation did not give me an opportunity.

21,881. What were you doing all day ?—I was in my employment.

21,882. You could not get away ?—No.

21,883. Were you at home all day at work ?—Yes.

21,884. Did you get the promise of anything ?—No.

F. G. Mitchell.

FREDERIC GAVELL MITCHELL sworn and examined.

21,885. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election ?—Yes.

21,886. For whom did you vote ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,887. Were you active on his behalf on the day of the election ?—Not particularly so. I merely walked about my own parish where I live.

21,888. Do you know a person of the name of Furse ?—Quite well.

21,889. Did he on the day of the election give you a pound ?—He did.

21,890. Was that for your vote ?—No.

21,891. For what was it then ?—To give away as I thought proper.

21,892. Did you think proper to give it away ?—I gave three half-crowns of it to a man of the name of Townshend, and a shilling I also gave him for himself.

21,893. Where does he live ?—In a place called Pig Lane, close by mine.

21,894. Is he a voter ?—I believe so.

21,895. And you gave it him for the purpose of voting ?—No, I did not give it to him to vote. He asked me to give it to him to give to a man that would vote for Sir Henry Stracey. That man I did not see.

21,896. Did he mention the name of the man to whom he was to give it ?—He did, but I am sure I cannot tell you the name.

21,897. That is 7*s.* 6*d.* you have accounted for ?—I gave him a shilling at the same time to drink my health with.

21,898. That is 8*s.* 6*d.* What did you do with the rest ?—The rest I spent when the election was over amongst my friends, asking certain persons to have a glass or two, and I had a glass or two myself.

21,899. What time in the day did you vote ?—I think about 9, within a few minutes. I should have voted earlier if I could, but I could not get up.

21,900. Having received this money for the purpose of getting voters, how came you to spend it on yourself ?—It was 20 minutes past 3 when that sovereign was given to me. I had not time.

21,901. Did you go and ask Mr. Furse before you went and spent it upon yourself and your friends whether you should do that ?—No, I did not.

21,902. Having received it for this purpose from Mr. Furse, did you spend it for your own pleasure without consulting him at all ?—Oh, yes, certainly.

21,903. Is that the custom in Norwich ?—I don't think I saw him after he gave me the money, not till 7 or 8 in the evening.

21,904. When you had got the balance in hand one would have thought you would have gone and said to Furse, "I could not spend the whole of it. Here is "the balance" ?—I beg pardon. I thought I might find somebody else to give it to before the books closed.

21,905. But one would suppose that you would have taken the balance back ?—I did not give it a thought.

21,906. You did not think it worth a thought ?—I was delighted that my candidate had got in, and I treated A, B, and C with a glass that night.

21,907. Who were A, B, and C I should like to know ?—I don't know. There were several. I can hardly tell you particularly who they were.

21,908. Did you treat the whole alphabet or only A, B, and C ?—I treated several persons.

E. Terrington.

EDWARD TERRINGTON sworn and examined.

21,909. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

21,910. At what time in the day ?—About half-past 3, as near as I can say.

21,911. What made you vote so late ?—I was at Attleborough all the fore part of the day.

21,912. What did you get for voting ?—Nothing.

21,913. Did you get any beer ?—No.

21,914. Were you promised anything ?—No.

21,915. Have you been paid anything since ?—Nothing.

21,916. Who asked you for your vote ?—No one. I voted quite independent.

21,917. Is this the first time you have voted ?—Yes.

21,918. Have you received anything since ?—Not anything.

21,919. Or been treated since ?—No.

21,920. Were you not treated on the day of the poll ?—No.

J. Giles.

JOHN GILES sworn and examined.

21,921. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A guard.

21,922. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

21,923. For whom did you vote ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

21,924. At what time in the day did you vote ?—Between 2 and 3 o'clock.

21,925. Did you get anything for voting ?—No.

21,926. Or the promise of anything ?—No.

21,927. Did you give anybody else money for voting ?—No.

21,928. Or any beer ?—No.

W. Newton.

WILLIAM NEWTON sworn and examined.

21,929. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

21,930. For whom did you vote ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

21,931. At what time did you vote ?—I voted, as nigh as I could guess, about a quarter before 4 or 10 minutes before 4.

21,932. You were sent away during the election inquiry, were you not ?—Yes, I went to Yarmouth.

21,933. You were paid for going there ?—Yes.

21,934. What money had you received that induced them to send you away to Yarmouth ?—I asked 2*l.* a week, and got 50*s.*

21,935. My question is what money had you received at the election that induced them to send you away to Yarmouth ?—I was not promised anything. I tried to get some, but I could not get any.

21,936. To whom did you apply ?—I was at my house, the "Dun Cow," in Pockthorpe, and I saw two or three gentlemen come down that way, and I saw several gentlemen go into the "Marquis of Granby," Mr. Mackley's, and I went in along with two or three more, and when I went in there were several people there, and I saw Mr. Womersley and Mr. Smith.

21,937. What were you willing to take ?—I wanted

2*l.*, and they said if you will wait perhaps you will get 1*l.*

21,938. Who promised to give you the 2*l.*?—They did not promise it to me; they asked me what I wanted.

21,939. Who asked you what you wanted?—Mr. Womersley and Mr. Smith, and I said I wanted 2*l.*, and they said they could not think about giving of it.

21,940. Did they say what they would give?—They did not say anything about what they would give us; they said if we waited a little while they would see what they could do, and we waited, and I might have waited in the house perhaps half an hour.

21,941, After that how came you to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—I was about the whole day, and I found I could not get anything, and therefore I went and voted for Stracey, which, if I could have got it, I should have voted the other way; but as I was about all day and nothing was given by the Whig party, I went and voted which way I thought proper.

21,942. Are you sure that you got nothing for your vote?—I can assure you that I never got a farthing. I am on my oath, and I say I never got a farthing.

21,943. But you were promised 1*l.*?—No, they said that perhaps if I waited I might get 1*l.*

21,944. But were you promised anything on behalf of Sir Henry Stracey?—No, I never saw Sir Henry Stracey after that.

21,945. You were sent to Yarmouth to get you out of the way and to prevent your being interfered with?—Yes, I went to Yarmouth. I was there about three weeks.

21,946. Who were with you?—There was Moy, Dent, and Addis; there were four of us.

21,947. Who managed your going away?—Mr. Dawson, and a gentleman who lives just in King Street here; Mr. Jarvis.

21,948. Why did they send you away?—I do not know, they came down to my house and asked me whether I would like to go away.

21,949. Did Dawson ask you whether you had got any money at the election?—No, he never asked me anything about that; he never asked me whether I got any money.

21,950. But it seems to be a most extraordinary thing that Dawson should come to you and ask you to go away to Yarmouth, and that you should say nothing to him?—Mr. Jarvis came to my house and spoke to me about it.

21,951. Did you tell Jarvis what had been told you at Mackley's?—I told Mr. Jarvis what had taken place at Mackley's, the same as I have told you.

21,952. And then Mr. Dawson came to you?—No, I saw Mr. Dawson the day I went to Yarmouth; the same forenoon I saw him at the office.

21,953. Who took you to the office?—Mr. Dawson went with me to the office in London Street.

21,954. How came you to see Mr. Dawson?—I came from my house to Mr. Jarvis'.

21,955. And Mr. Jarvis took you to Mr. Dawson?—The whole four of us came up there, and then I went with Mr. Jarvis to Mr. Dawson's office.

21,956. Were they afraid of your being got hold of by the Liberal party?—I am sure I do not know; they asked me if I should like to go away, and I said "My business is rather slow, but if you "are willing to give me sufficient money to keep me "going I am willing to go; but I cannot go away for "the money other people are going away for, I am "situated differently," and so they gave me more, and I went away.

21,957. Did you ever tell Mr. Dawson or Mr. Jarvis that you had had some money to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—No; I am on my oath, and I say I never got a farthing from either party.

21,958. But did you ever tell them that you had had money?—No, I did not.

21,959. (Mr. Biron.) Did they ask you what you knew?—I told Mr. Jarvis about what happened on the election day at Mackley's, the same as I have now stated to you.

21,960. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you take up any voters on the day of the polling?—No, I never took up any voters. I was at my own house about half-past 2 it might be, and I had to send my man up to market with the pony and cart, and I said "Stop a "minute, you can go along with me." I was going on to Tombland, and me and several who were sitting in my house went out together.

21,961. Did you go to the "Horse Shoes"?—Yes.

21,962. And did you get some beer?—Yes, I got some beer and I paid for it, but in regard to taking any voters up I never did no such thing; they voted which way they liked, and I did the same. Some of the parties who were along with me voted for Mr. Tillett, and some voted for Sir Henry Stracey. Of course I am only a poor man, and I have got no money to give away.

21,963. Did any money pass through your hands?—No; I never received a farthing. I tried to get some, but could not get any; if I could have got it I would have taken it, but I could not get anything; that is the truth, and nothing but the truth.

21,964. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you?—A licensed victualler.

21,965. Did you take any part in this election?—No.

21,966. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

21,967. At what time in the day?—Soon after 8 in the morning.

21,968. Were you canvassed by anyone?—No.

21,969. Did you receive anything for your vote?—No.

21,970. Did you promise or give anything to any voters?—No.

21,971. Did you treat any voters?—No.

21,972. Not at your own house?—No, at least I went out about 2 o'clock to the "Queen," in Tombland, and I saw two or three people who use my house, and I treated them to a glass or so as I often do.

21,973. Were they voters?—I do not know; yes, I think some of them were voters.

21,974. Do you know who they were?—One man is named Marsham, a fly driver; he comes into my house, and sometimes if I see him in another house I ask him to have a glass of ale.

21,975. Did he vote for Stracey?—I do not know.

21,976. Did you treat anyone else?—I do not know that I did.

21,977. Have you paid any money since to any person?—No.

21,978. Was this the first time you voted?—Yes.

21,979. Do you know of any money having passed?—No, not any.

JOHN SOWTER sworn and examined.

J. Sowter.

21,980. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shoemaker.

21,981. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

21,982. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

21,983. What time in the day?—At a quarter to 9.

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

J. Sowter.

21,984. Did you get anything for voting ?—No.

21,985. Or the promise of anything ?—No, I got neither.

21,986. Or did you give any money to anybody to get people to vote ?—No, I had no money to give.

29 Sept. 1869.

DANIEL HARMER THOMPSON sworn and examined.

D. H. Thompson.

21,987. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

21,988. For whom did you vote ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

21,989. At what time in the day ?—Somewhere about 11 o'clock, as near as I could guess; I cannot say to a quarter of an hour.

21,990. Had you been canvassed ?—Yes.

21,991. Who had canvassed you ?—I think Mr. Morgan was one, and several more gentlemen, but he was the only gentleman I knew.

21,992. When did they canvass you ?—The day before the election; I think so.

21,993. Were you promised anything for your vote ?—No.

21,994. Have you ever received anything for voting ?—No.

21,995. Did you promise your vote when you were asked for it ?—No.

21,996. Why did you not ?—I did not make up my mind who I should vote for.

21,997. What made you make up your mind that morning which way you should vote ?—I had a mind to vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

21,998. But what made you make up your mind that morning to vote for him ?—I do not know.

21,999. Did anybody come to you that morning ?—No.

22,000. What are you ?—I am a fishmonger, a fish hawker, a shopkeeper.

22,001. Did anybody give you an order that morning ?—No.

22,002. Or buy a large quantity of fish of you, or anything of that kind ?—I had none that morning.

22,003. You did not make a good bargain for fish that morning ?—No.

22,004. (Mr. Mansfield.) Was there no money that day given to you for your vote ?—No; I had no chance of getting any, or perhaps I should have taken it.

22,005. How much would you have taken ?—I do not know; I was not offered anything, or I should have taken it.

22,006. Was any beer given to you ?—No, I did not even get a glass of ale.

J. Morris.

JOHN MORRIS sworn and examined.

22,007. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A tailor by trade.

22,008. Did you vote at the last election ?—I did.

22,009. For whom ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

22,010. At what time in the day did you vote ?—Between 8 and 10 minutes past.

22,011. Did you get anything for voting ?—No.

22,012. Or the promise of anything ?—No.

22,013. What did you do after you had voted ?—From there I went to the "Keys," and from there I went to my place of business, where I remained during the day. I know nothing more of the election.

R. Green.

ROBERT GREEN sworn and examined.

22,014. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade ?—A photographer.

22,015. For whom did you vote at the last election ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

22,016. At what time in the day ?—About half-past 9.

22,017. Had you promised your vote ?—No.

22,018. Did you go up to vote with anybody ?—Yes.

22,019. Who did you go with ?—Mr. Bianchia.

22,020. Is he a photographer too ?—No, he is not; he is an artist in the figure way.

22,021. Did you get anything for your vote ?—No.

22,022. Were you promised anything ?—No.

22,023. Were you treated that day ?—No.

22,024. Do you know Mr. Bacon ?—I know several Bacons.

22,025. Do you know a man named Henry Bacon ?—I know two Henry Bacons.

22,026. Did you see one that day ?—I saw one; the one in King Street.

22,027. He gave you some money, did he not ?—I did not see it.

22,028. Are you certain he gave you no money ?—No, I did not see it, and of course if I had taken any money I should have seen it.

22,029. Do you know a man named Barnes ?—Yes; I know two or three of that name.

22,030. Did you not divide some money with a man named Barnes ?—Divide any money! I never had any.

22,031. You are a son-in-law of one James Barnes, are you not ?—No, I am not.

22,032. Where do you live ?—In St. George's, Bridge Street.

22,033. Where were you living at the time of the election ?—In St. George's, Bridge Street.

22,034. Do you know of any corrupt practices at the last election ?—No.

22,035. You know of no money passing at all ?—No.

R. Pye.

ROBERT PYE sworn and examined.

22,036. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A tailor.

22,037. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

22,038. For whom did you vote ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

22,039. At what time in the day ?—A little before 3.

22,040. Did you get anything for voting ?—No.

23,041. Or the promise of anything ?—No.

22,042. What did you do after you had voted ?—I took a walk about the city.

22,043. Did you see any people get money that day ?—No.

22,044. Were you in any of the public houses ?—No; I did not go into only one, and that was just after the election was over.

22,045. Have you heard of any of your mates having got money ?—No.

22,046. You know nothing about it ?—No.

22,047. Do you live in St. Michael's ?—Yes.

22,048. Did you vote more than once ?—No.

O. Springfield.

OSBORN SPRINGFIELD sworn and examined.

22,049. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You were a voter at the last election I believe ?—I did not get here till between half-past 1 and 2 in the day. I voted in London, and came down to vote here.

22,050. You voted at the last election ?—Yes, I voted at the last election for Russell and Tillett.

22,051. Did you exert yourself in getting up voters in the afternoon of that day ?—I called upon some

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

O. Springfield.

29 Sept. 1869.

two or three voters. I went down after I had voted with Sir William Russell and Mr. Tillett to the eighth ward, and was asked to call upon one or two people, and those one or two people I did call upon, and I believe induced them to vote.

22,052. Did you go into a yard near Cartwright's beerhouse ?—I do not know where Cartwright's beerhouse is.

22,053. In Rosemary Lane ?—I think it very likely I did.

22,054. Did you bring up a voter there ?—I think it very probable.

22,055. Do you not recollect it ?—Yes, I have a recollection of bringing up one, if not two, voters in that neighbourhood about 3 or 4 in the afternoon, or it might have been between 2 and 3 in the afternoon.

22,056. When you went to those persons did you inquire why they had not voted before ?—Yes.

22,057. Did they tell you that they wanted money ?—Not at all. I was not at all likely to be sent to persons of that sort ; my own personal influence probably would be looked upon as nearly sufficient to ask anybody who had not voted to vote, especially if his politics were known to be those which I myself had advocated.

22,058. You think you have a considerable personal influence ?—My father had considerable personal influence, and I am supposed to have some influence here, although I do not live very much here now.

22,059. I wanted to know whether it was personal or other influence ?—No other influence.

22,060. You are certain of that ?—I am quite sure of that.

22,061. Did you spend any money that day ?—No, certainly not.

22,062. Either in treating or in any other way ?—In no way whatever.

22,063. You are quite certain about that ?—Yes, I am quite certain.

SAMUEL JAMES PLUMSTEAD sworn and examined. S.J.Plumstead.

22,064. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

22,065. At what time in the day ?—I think about 3.

22,066. What made you vote so late ?—Because I was at work in the morning.

22,067. Had you promised your vote ?—No.

22,068. Had you been asked to vote ?—There had been visitors, but I was not at home.

22,069. Had you told anybody how you were going to vote ?—No. I had a job in the morning which I was obliged to do, which lasted me till 1, and then I had dinner and a lay down, and then it was near two, and then I said I should not vote at all as the Whigs were so far ahead ; but when I went up to town and saw the Tories were ahead I went and got a ticket and voted.

22,070. Was anything promised you ?—No.

22,071. Have you had anything since ?—No.

22,072. Is this the first time you voted ?—No, I have been 23 years in business.

22,073. Have you always voted Tory ?—Yes, I have always been a Tory. I suppose you are allowed to vote up to 4 o'clock ?

22,074. Yes, quite so.—That was what I thought, you can vote at any time. I was busy in the morning, and in the afternoon I took my leisure. I should not have voted at all if I had not seen the Tories were ahead.

22,075. You know that those people who are looking after money reserve themselves ?—I did not intermix with any public houses at all, I merely walked about the market.

ROBERT REED sworn and examined. R. Reed.

22,076. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A fitter.

22,077. You live in Orchard Street ?—Yes.

22,078. You voted for Sir Henry Stracey ?—Yes.

22,079. And a man named Bacon gave you 3*s.* 6*d.* for doing it ?—He gave me 3*s.* 6*d.* after I had voted.

22,080. He asked you to vote, and gave you the money after you had voted ?—Yes.

22,081. (Mr. Mansfield.) Had you made any bargain before ?—No.

THOMAS MITHAM sworn and examined. T. Mitham.

22,082. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

22,083. For whom ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

22,084. At what time in the day ?—Quarter past 8 o'clock in the morning, or about that time.

22,085. Had you promised your vote at that time ?—Yes.

22,086-7. To whom ?—I promised it to Mr. John Morgan ; when he called round I promised to vote for Stracey.

22,088. Were you paid anything ?—No.

22,089. Or promised anything ?—No, I was not promised anything, neither did I wish for anything.

22,090. You received nothing ?—No, I received nothing, not a fraction.

GEORGE SEXTON sworn and examined. G. Sexton.

22,091. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election ?—Stracey.

22,092. At what time of the day ?—About 20 minutes to 4.

22,093. What did you get for it ?—10*s.*

22,094. Who gave you that ?—Mr. Green, the plasterer.

22,095. Do you know of anybody else getting money ?—Only as they told me, Mr. Balls.

22,096. He got some money ?—So he told me.

22,097. Where does he live ?—In St. Miles'.

22,098. What is his Christian name ?—I do not know his Christian name.

22,099. Do you know of anybody else getting money ?—No.

22,100. (Mr. Biron.) By their telling you ?—Mr. Hutchins.

22,101. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did he say from whom he got it ?—Hardiment.

22,102-3. Where does he live ?—I think he lives in St. Mary's.

22,104. (Mr. Biron.) Has anybody else told you he got money ?—I do not remember anybody else.

22,105. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) I suppose it was a matter you talked about amongst yourselves ?—Nobody else told me.

22,106. Did you hear of places where money was to be got ?—Not on the election day, I did not.

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

G. Sexton.

29 Sept. 1869.

22,107. After the election day?—I heard about the "Woolpack."

22,108. Did you hear of anybody being paid after the election day at the "Woolpack"?—Only Hutchins.

22,109. Do you know of anyone else?—No.

22,110. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes.

22,111. Did Green pay Balls?—Yes.

22,112. How much?—10*s.*

22,113. Did you see Green pay anybody else?—No, I never see him pay Balls; only Balls told me.

22,114. Cannot you tell me any more voters who got money that day or the day after?—No, I do not know of any.

22,115. Was any money promised early in the day?—I do not know of any.

22,116. At what public houses were you during the day?—Not any.

22,117. You cannot tell us any more?—No.

S. Robins.

SAMUEL ROBINS sworn and examined.

22,118. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Stracey.

22,119. At what time in the day?—About 20 minutes past 3 o'clock.

22,120. What did you get?—A sovereign. Mr. Hardiment gave it to me. I went with Hutchins to the "Woolpack." I went down St. Mary's at half-past 2, and Hutchins said, "Come along with me," and I went along with him, and we went to Mackley's, at the "Woolpack," and got three pennyworth of peppermint. Hutchins went into the back yard. I said, "Where is Hutchins gone?" I went after him, and we sat there 20 minutes, and in came Mr. Hardiment; he looked in, and as soon as he looked in he went out again, and some man went out of the place with him, and this man who went out with him says (I forget his name), "You are to have 1*l.* "apiece." When we came out on the landing, Hutchins went out first, and Hardiment stood on the landing with his purse in his hand, and says, "You "are going to vote for Stracey," and gave me a sovereign, and off I went. I know Mr. Hardiment well.

22,121. Did you see anybody else you knew there receiving money?—No. I heard Hardiment say one thing. There was three men from the third ward, and he said, "It is not likely we are going to "give you money when you can go and get it in the "third ward," and I hardly know where the third ward is, though I have lived here 30 or 40 years.

22,122. Did he say where the money was?—No; he said they could get it in their own ward, and he was not going to pay them.

22,123. Did he say where they could get it in their own ward?—No, he did not say what place.

22,124. Or who would give it to them?—No, he says, "You can get it in your own ward," that is to say the same money that he was giving they could get it there. I summed it up so.

22,125. What is Hutchins' Christian name?—Thomas Hutchins; that is the only man I went with.

22,126. Did you see Hutchins afterwards?—Yes, and went to the poll with him.

22,127. Do you know whether he got a sovereign from Hardiment?—He got a sovereign, because I see him give it to his wife, so I know that he got one. He gave it to his wife himself as we went through St. Mary's Churchyard; he gave it to his own wife. He went down, I suppose, about fifth man out of the room; there was a lot of people there I did not know, for I never frequent Mackley's.

22,128. You say the man put his head in at the door?—Yes; I sat opposite the door, and as soon as he see me he went out; in fact, I was surprised to see the man.

22,129. Was he a short, thick, bull-necked man?—A great tall man with black whiskers.

22,130. Hardiment?—Yes.

22,131. I am not talking about him, but the other man.—That was a little low man that went out with him and made the bargain.

22,132. Do you know Freestone, the baker?—Yes.

22,133. Was that the man who went out of the house with him?—No, I never see Freestone there. I saw him with Hardiment's cart driving about, and Mr. Hardiment had Stracey's dog cart himself.

22,134. Do you know Bradbury?—Yes, I know him well, and have known him ever since I was a boy.

22,135. Did you see him there?—I see him in the house.

22,136. Where was he?—When I went into the house the girl drawed me my peppermint, and he was standing between the bar and the door.

22,137. Did Bradbury show you where to go?—No; Bradbury never spoke to me or I to him. I saw that man Owen standing at the bar as if he were protecting the bar. The door opened like this against the parlour.

22,138. What was Owen doing?—I do not know.

22,139. Did he say anything to you?—No, he never spoke to me or I to him.

22,140. Who else did you see there?—When I came out of the house I saw a young man by the name of Nockold's, a shoemaker, with Hardiment's cart in the yard, and he says, "Are you going to "ride?" and I says, "No, I am going to walk; "thank God, I have not got the rheumatics so bad "that I cannot walk." I go over St. Mary's Plain close by where Mr. Springfield lives, and Hutchins was a little way off, and he gave his wife a sovereign. I said to Hutchins, "I shall vote against this here;" and he says, "No, go to Lake, the baker's." That was about on to St. George's Plain; and just as Hutchins was going to vote he met Mr. George Gedge, the dyer, and he says, "I am going to plump for Stracey;" and he says, "What, ain't your party behaved well "to you?" and he says, "No," and that was all that passed. He went up and voted, and as soon as Hutchins voted I voted.

22,141. Did you see anybody else you knew down at the "Woolpack"?—No, they were all perfect strangers to me. I see some women drinking in the parlour, but no men, nor yet any drunken men. And I never see Mackley; I saw his wife and one of his boys. A man in the yard says of Hutchins, "That "old snob is gone upstairs;" and I went round the corner, and went upstairs after him. I should have voted for Stracey if I had not even got a glass of water.

J. Clarke.

JOHN CLARKE sworn and examined.

22,142. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

22,143. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

22,144. At what hour of the day?—Between 2 and 3 o'clock.

22,145. Did anybody ask you to vote?—No one asked me particularly. I promised when they first came round that I would vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

22,146. Did you get anything for it?—No.

22,147. A day's wages?—No.

22,148. Did you get some beer?—No, what beer I had I paid for.

22,149. Have you had anything paid you since?—No.

22,150. Did you see any money going about?—No, I never took none, and never seen none given.

22,151. Did you ever vote before?—No.

22,152. Were you at any public houses that day?—I was at the "Cock and Pie." I went and voted free and independent of anything. I never asked for any money, nor yet took none.

22,153. Do you know a man of the name of Flowers?—Yes.

22,154. Did you see him that day?—Yes.

22,155. When?—In the forenoon; but I had no conversation with him.

22,156. Did you drink with him?—Yes, I had a pint of beer, and I paid for it myself.

22,157. Was that in the "Cock and Pie"?—No, at the "Ribs of Beef." That was at half-past 8 or a quarter to 9 o'clock, and then from there I went to my own place, and was at work the whole forenoon.

22,158. What are you by trade?—Sailmaker. I am in business for myself.

22,159. Did you get any beer in the afternoon?—Not previous to voting, only what I paid for myself.

22,160. Where did you pay for beer?—At Mr. Hall's, and so I did at the "Cock and Pie."

22,161. Anywhere else?—I may have had a pint of beer somewhere else.

22,162. At the "Horse Shoes"?—I was not in there at all.

22,163. Were you at the "Elm"?—No.

22,164. The "Buck"?—No.

22,165. The "Ship"?—No, I was not down in that quarter at all.

WILLIAM SMITH sworn and examined.

W. Smith.

22,166. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

22,167. For whom?—For Mr. Stracey.

22,168. What time in the day?—About half-past 3 I should say.

22,169. What did you get for it?—Nothing at all.

22,170. How was that?—I was not able to vote before; I was not in the way.

22,171. What were you doing?—I was busy.

22,172. What business had you?—I had a pair of shoes to do, and had to carry them after I had done them.

22,173. Did you not look out for some money?—No, not any, nor yet a glass of beer.

22,174. Did you not try to get any?—No.

22,175. You voted without?—Yes.

22,176. Had you promised your vote?—I had said I would not deceive them.

22,177. You had promised your vote for Stracey?—Yes.

JOHN MICKLEBURGH sworn and examined.

J. Mickleburgh.

22,178. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

22,179. For whom?—For Stracey.

22,180. What time in the day?—About 20 minutes before 2.

22,181. Surely it was later than that?—No, 20 minutes before 2, punctual.

22,182. I think you have made a mistake.—I have not made any mistake about that.

22,183. How came you to vote so late?—I voted at my dinner hour.

22,184. What are you?—An operative tobacconist.

22,185. What is an operative tobacconist?—I make tobacco. I spin tobacco commonly called pig tail, if you know what that is. I am a tobacco spinner, some of them call me.

22,186. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

22,187. Were you promised anything?—No; I did not expect to have anything.

22,188. Was anything given to you of any sort or kind?—No, not the slightest, and I would not have anything.

22,189. Had you a vote before?—No.

CHARLES CLARKE sworn and examined.

C. Clarke.

22,190. (Mr. Mansfield.) What time did you vote?—Between 10 and 11.

22,191. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

22,192. You were tolerably busy during the day?—No, I was not busy.

22,193. You picked up some voters, did you not?—Not that I am aware of.

22,194. None?—None.

22,195. Are you certain you took up no one?—Certain.

22,196. Who did you go to the poll with?—No one.

22,197. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing.

22,198. Did you try to get something?—No.

22,199. Was anything offered to you?—No.

22,200. Where did you go and look out for money?—I did not want any; I did not look for any.

22,201. Have you always voted Conservative?—No. I have been a voter for 20 years, and always voted Liberal.

22,202. What made you change your views?—Because I thought they were a set of humbugs this time.

22,203. Was that the only reason that induced you to alter your mind?—That is all.

22,204. Did you not get any consideration?—No.

22,205. To whom did you promise your vote?—No one.

22,206. Were you asked by the Stracey party?—No.

22,207. Did you get any beer that day from the Stracey party?—No, I had plenty of my own.

22,208. Did you give any beer of your own?—No.

22,209. Did you canvass anybody for Sir Henry Stracey?—No.

22,210. Did you tell anybody how you were going to vote?—No.

22,211. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you know a man of the name of Thomas Selfe?—No.

22,212. Are you Charles Clark, a brewer?—Yes.

22,213. In whose employment are you?—In my own.

22,214. You are a brewer on your own account?—Yes.

22,215. Do you not know a man of the name of Selfe, who lives in Madder Market?—No, I do not.

22,216. Do you recollect having a conversation with a man on the day of the election about the tip?—No, no one.

22,217. Did you have any conversation with a man respecting the odds upon Stracey?—No, I was not interested in it, and, therefore, I paid no regard to it.

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

C. Clarke.

29 Sept. 1869.

22,218. Did you give anybody tickets?—No; I gave my own men an allowance, but nothing else.

22,219. What allowance did you give your own men?—All the beer they liked to come and ask for, in reason.

22,220. They voted for Stracey?—I had no voters at work for me.

22,221. Why did you allow all your own men as much beer as they liked?—They always have it.

22,222. Every day?—Yes.

22,223. As much beer as they choose to drink?—Perhaps they have five or six pints in the day.

22,224. This day you allowed your own men whatever they liked?—They always have it; when they want, they ask for it.

22,225. Do you represent that your own men are allowed every day of their lives any quantity of beer they may choose to drink?—Any quantity, in reason, they like to go and ask for.

22,226. I am afraid you will have a large number of persons offering to enter your employment after hearing that. Do you recollect telling a man that you knew a house at which there were a number of persons bribed?—No; I have not mentioned the subject to anyone.

22,227. Did you know a house at which some bribery was going on?—No.

22,228. Did you give any man tickets to go to your place and get beer?—No; there were some labouring men had some beer given them that morning, some men that had been at work for me, some coalheavers, and so on.

22,229. Who were they?—I am sure I cannot tell you.

22,230. Who gave them the beer?—The regular man at the stores.

22,231. They were not men that worked for you?—They worked for me sometimes. A brewer is not particular for a drop or two of beer.

22,232. Were they people who voted for Stracey?—Not that I am aware of.

22,233. Did you not authorise your men to give some beer to the voters for Stracey?—No.

22,234. Or tickets for beer?—No.

22,235. Or orders for beer?—No.

22,236. Did you not give beer to any voters for Stracey that day?—No. Several people had beer during the day; it is so every day, but not particularly on that occasion. I was out that morning by 10 o'clock driving about.

22,237. In your trade?—Merely looking about canvassing for orders.

22,238. That is in your trade?—Yes.

22,239. You were not canvassing voters?—No.

C. Upton.

CHARLES UPTON sworn and examined.

22,240. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

22,241. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

22,242. At what time of the day?—After dinner; I should say near 3 o'clock.

22,243. Did you get anything for voting?—Not anything.

22,244. Why did you not vote sooner?—Business would not allow me to vote sooner.

22,245. What were you at all day?—I am a gardener.

22,246. You were at work all the morning?—Yes.

22,247. Had you promised to vote for Stracey?—No.

22,248. You went of your own accord?—Yes.

22,249. Without promising anybody?—Yes, without promising anyone.

22,250. Did you get anything afterwards for having voted?—No.

22,251. Or the promise of anything?—No, not a farthing.

22,252. Or beer?—No, not anything.

P. Rose.

PHILIP ROSE sworn and examined.

22,253. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

22,254. And you took an active part in the promotion of his election, did you not?—No, very little indeed.

22,255. Do you know Hardiment?—Yes.

22,256. Do you know Wiseman?—Yes.

22,257. You were with Hardiment that day, were you not?—No.

22,258. Were you not at all in his company that day?—No.

22,259. Did you canvass at all with Hardiment before the election?—No.

22,260. Were you in company with Hardiment when he was canvassing?—No, I never took any interest in it at all. I went and voted, I think, at 10 o'clock, a little before or a little later, and went home again.

22,261. Were you with Wiseman that day?—No.

22,262. Did you see Wiseman that day?—Yes.

22,263. Did you go with Wiseman for the purpose of getting up any voters?—No, I never took any interest in it at all.

22,264. Did you canvass or try to get up any voters at all that day?—No.

22,265. What were you doing that day?—I was very busy in my own business, and came up to Norwich and voted, and went home again and attended to my own business.

22,266. (Mr. Mansfield.) Where do you live?—At Hellesdon, about three-quarters of a mile from Norwich.

22,267. What is your business there?—A baker and miller.

22,268. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

22,269. Were you promised anything?—No.

22,270. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you give anybody anything for a vote?—No.

22,271. Or did you promise anything?—Not this time. I have done it before.

22,272. At which election?—At Waters'.

22,273. How much did you put about then?—Several pounds; but I will never do it again.

22,274. You trusted to someone else, who threw you over?—I cannot say. I spent a lot of money, and I do not mean to do it any more.

22,275. How much did you spend?—I am not able to say. I never kept any account. It was several pounds out of my pocket.

22,276. Was it as much as 10*l.*?—It might be so.

22,277. It might be more?—Yes, it might be more.

22,278. Between 10*l.* and 20*l.*?—I will not name any sum because I might make a mistake.

22,279. That was spent to secure the return of Mr. Waters?—Yes. Norwich people like to be treated.

22,280. Since that you decline to do it?—I shall never do so any more.

22,281. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What did you pay per vote at Waters' election?—Only drink and treating; that is all.

22,282. How many men did you treat at Waters' election?—I could not tell you. I treated them before and after. I cannot tell you how many.

22,283. How many did you get to vote?—I cannot say.

22,284. 100 or 200?—Not so many as that.

22,285. In the eighth ward?—Yes.

22,286. About how many did you get up?—Perhaps a score.

22,287. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who did you apply to for the money?—Nobody.

22,288. Have you never asked to be repaid?—No.

22,289. You found you did not get it?—I lost it, and do not intend to do it any more.

22,290. Did you not expect to be repaid?—Yes.

22,291. Who did you expect to repay you?—Mr. Waters.

22,292. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Nobody else?—No.

22,293. Mr. Arthur Bignold had the giving of the money at that time?—I believe he had to do with it, but I had nothing to do with Mr. Bignold.

22,294. Did you apply to him for money?—No.

22,295. Had you done it at any other election?—No, and I never will again.

22,296. Had you not done the same thing in 1860?—No, no further than a little drink, that is all; nothing more than that.

22,297. What had you done with drink in 1860?—Nothing of no account at all.

22,298. Did you take up a dozen upon that occasion?—No, I do not think I did that day.

22,299. Ten?—I did very little indeed.

22,300. However, you did something?—Yes, a glass or two.

22,301. Was that on the Conservative side?—Yes.

22,302. Did you find there was drinking going on on the other side at those elections?—Yes.

22,303. (Mr. Mansfield.) Very freely?—As free on the other side, in my opinion.

22,304. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Six of one and half a dozen of the other?—That is about it, I believe, in Norwich.

22,305. (Mr. Mansfield.) Independent electors were equally generous on both sides?—I think some of them got paid.

22,306. Did you get paid?—No, I never got a farthing out of an election in my life, and never intend to take any more interest in it.

22,307. You are sure you did not do anything in the way of drink at the last election?—I was very quiet.

HENRY NOBBS sworn and examined. H. Nobbs.

22,308. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A publican.

22,309. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

22,310. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

22,311. What time in the day did you vote?—I think it was about half-past 2, or something like that, but I cannot say exactly.

22,312. What did you get for voting?—I got 10*s.*

22,313. Who paid you?—I do not know the man's name who gave it to me.

22,314. Where was it he gave it to you?—In St. Mary's Plain.

22,315. Do you not know the man?—No.

22,316. Was it Gedge?—No. I know Mr. Gedge very well.

22,317. You saw him the day of the election, did you not?—Yes.

22,318. Do you know Mr. Robert Green?—Yes.

22,319. Were they at your house on the day of the election?—No.

22,320. Were there a lot of voters at your house?—No, there were not.

22,321. Were there not men at your house waiting for money to be bribed?—No.

22,322. Were not some men bribed at your house?—No.

22,323. Did you not get 1*l.* apiece for some men?—No.

22,324–5. How came you to get this 10*s.* for yourself?—I was going to vote, and this man asked me if I would vote, and he said he would let me have 10*s.*, and I took it.

22,326. Was it a gentleman?—A respectably dressed man.

22,327. How was he dressed?—He had a light-coloured coat on.

22,328. What sort of a hat?—A round sort of a hat, similar to mine, as far as I remember it.

22,329. Do you know young Wiseman?—Yes, I know young Wiseman.

22,330. Was it he?—No.

22,331. Do you know young Mr. Stracey?—I have seen him, because I promised him my vote three days before the election came on.

22,332. Which one was it you promised?—A tall young man. I do not know his Christian name.

22,333. Was he with Hardiment when you promised him?—No, he was along with Mr. Wiseman.

22,334. Was that the man who gave you the money?—No.

22,335. Are you sure?—Yes, I am positive sure, because I know Mr. Wiseman well.

22,336. Was it young Mr. Stracey who gave it to you?—No, it was not.

22,337. Was it a young man?—It was a man who looked between 22 and 23 years old.

22,338. Did you not agree with a lot of men to give them 1*l.* apiece, and they were to return you 5*s.* each?—No.

22,339. Or with any man?—No.

22,340. Did you do nothing in reference to bribery with other men?—No, I did not.

22,341. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Have you ever seen the person who gave you the money since?—No, I have never seen him before or since to the best of my knowledge.

22,342. Do you know the Mr. Bignolds?—No, I do not. I know the old gentlemen, but I do not know the younger ones.

22,343. Do you know the younger Mr. Straceys?—No.

22,344. Should you know the man again who gave you the 10*s.*?—Yes, I think so.

WILLIAM WALLER sworn and examined. W. Waller.

22,345. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

22,346. For whom?—Mr. Tillett.

22,347. Did you get anything for your vote?—Not a halfpenny.

22,348. Did anybody promise you anything for your vote?—Not anything.

22,349. Did you know of anybody getting anything for his vote?—No, I had no connexion with anybody who had to do with it.

22,350. You got neither beer nor money?—No, not a halfpenny or the worth of it.

THOMAS READ sworn and examined. T. Read.

22,351. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at this election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

22,352. At what time in the day?—Between 2 and 3.

22,353. Why did you not vote sooner?—I do not know.

22,354. You were at Cartwright's beerhouse that day, I think?—No. I voted between 2 and 3.

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

T. Read.

29 Sept. 1869.

22,355. Where were you?—I was walking about the market.

22,356. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing at all, not a halfpenny.

22,357. No beer?—No, not a drop.

22,358. You tried to get some?—I never tasted a drop not the whole blessed day, nor yet took a halfpenny. I never see none.

22,359. Where did you go to ask for money?—I never see none going on.

22,360. You went to look for it?—I never heard about any money going on.

22,361. Where did you go to look for it?—I did not know any was going on, or else I should have been like enough to have taken it.

22,262. What would you have taken?—Anything I could have got hold on.

22,363. Would a glass of beer have done it?—No, I should want a little more than that.

22,364. At five minutes to 4 would a glass of beer have done it?—No, nor yet at two minutes to 4.

22,365. Would 5*s.* have done it?—I might have taken that.

22,366. You had no chance of getting any?—No, I had not a chance to take a halfpenny.

22,367. You did not get a drop of beer?—No, not even a drop of beer.

ANN MACKLEY sworn and examined.

A. Mackley.

22,368. (Mr. Biron.) Were you attending to your husband's business on the day of the polling?—Yes.

22,369. Were there a number of voters collected there?—Yes, there were.

22,370. Waiting for money?—I expect that is what they were waiting for.

22,371. Did any gentleman come into your house that day?—Yes, there were several gentlemen came in, although I did not know them.

22,372. Did any of them pay for beer for the men?—No, not any.

22,373. The men were drinking beer I suppose?—Not all of them; them that chose to take half a pint and pay for it I got it for them, but there was a great many there that did not get any beer.

22,374. Did you not serve any beer to men except to those that paid for it themselves?—No, not to one.

22,375. Do you know a man of the name of Cubitt?—No, I do not.

22,376. Or young Warnes?—No, I might know them if I were to see them, though perhaps I might not know them by name.

22,377. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Your husband said that you knew more about his affairs in the beer shop than he did, and he also gave an account of what he did with reference to giving beer away himself?—What he gave away I do not know anything about; he might, I cannot say, but I never see him give any away.

22,378 Were you in the house when the men were threatening in the afternoon to break the windows?—Yes.

22,379. Do you not remember your husband giving them some beer then?—I do not remember him giving it; he might have done so, though I did not see it.

22,380. Did not Womersley order some beer on the day of the election?—No, I had not an order from anyone.

22,381. Did he not pay you some time after for beer you had drawn on the day of the election?—No, I am quite sure he did not, neither him nor any other gentleman.

22,382. Was no money left at your house for beer served on that day?—No.

22,383. You are certain of that?—I am quite sure of it.

22,384. Do you remember a fly stopping outside your door and somebody getting down and leaving money with you at the bar to pay for beer?—No.

22,385. Have you never asked to be paid for beer that was drawn on the day of the election since the election?—No.

22,386. Has nothing whatever been paid to you for beer?—No, not anything, and I never brought in any unpaid.

22,387. Do you recollect the men wanting some money for their votes?—Yes, I think they all wanted money for their votes.

22,388. Did you hear anybody promise them money?—No, I did not.

22,389. Did you hear Barber talking to them?—No.

22,390. Did you hear Womersley speaking to them?—No, I did not. I do not know that I know Mr. Womersley.

Adjourned to to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

NINETEENTH DAY.

Thursday, 30th September 1869.

JAMES FINCH sworn and examined.

NINETEENTH DAY.

J. Finch.

30 Sept. 1869.

22,391. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What are you?—A master chimney sweeper.

22,392. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

22,393. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

22,394. Have you been a voter at previous elections?—No.

22,395. At what time did you vote?—About half-past 3, as near as I can tell.

22,396. Who took you up to the poll?—Mr. George Gedge.

22,397. He came to your house, did not he, just before you voted?—Several times during the day.

22,398. He tried to get you to vote two or three times before he ultimately got you?—He did not see me not till half-past 3 during the day.

22,399. Had you promised your vote?—No, not to anyone.

22,400. You are not one of those who promise?—No.

22,401. You are afraid of breaking it?—I never received a farthing.

22,402. He came after you several times during the day?—During the day I believe he did. My wife told me.

22,403. Why did you not vote before half-past 3 in the day?—Well, I thought that I would not vote at all, as I never had done so at an election.

22,404. You would not vote at all till you got some money?—I never asked for money, nor yet had money offered me.

22,405. You thought there might be money going in the afternoon of that day?—I did not want any money, nor did not ask for any, nor have not in my life.

22,406. You did get some money?—No, not a farthing. I know myself better than to take money for that.

22,407. Do you mean to say that Mr. Gedge did not hand you some money to vote?—No. I never took a farthing; never asked for a farthing, never had a farthing offered me, nor yet seen no one that had.

22,408. Gedge looked after you several times; why did not you vote?—I had not made up my mind enough to vote at all.

22,409. What altered your mind at half-past 3 on the day of the election?—He pressed me rather hard; he asked me to oblige him.

22,410. What sort of pressure was it that he used; it was not persuasion?—He said, "I hope you will come and vote."

22,411. What did he offer you?—Not a farthing.

22,412. Did not he promise you something?—No, he never did in his life. I will take my oath on it before God and man.

22,413. You were very reluctant to vote, were not you?—I did not think of voting at all.

22,414. But after you had seen Mr. Gedge, and you had been so reluctant to vote, did you take up nine voters to the poll?—No.

22,415. Do you mean to say you did not take up any?—Yes. There were three other men went with me.

22,416. It is an extraordinary thing that a man who never thought of voting at all until half-past 3 o'clock, when he says he is pressed to vote, not only votes himself, but takes up others; how many did you take up?—Three went up with me, but I never asked any of them.

22,417. The men were Manners and Rowe, were not they?—Yes.

22,418. Did not you go and get those men to come and vote?—No, I did not. They said they were going to vote, and I said I was going to vote about half-past 3, when I made up my mind, when Mr. Gedge asked me.

22,419. When did you say you were going to vote at half-past 3?—At half-past 3 I said I was going to vote.

22,420. How came Manners and Rowe to go with you at half-past 3 to vote?—We all lived nearly next door to each other.

22,421. How came they not to have voted?—I cannot say the reason that they did not vote till half-post 3. I cannot give you any account about that.

22,422. Have you not been boasting that nobody can get anything out of you, and saying that if everybody was like you nothing should come out of this inquiry?—I don't recollect such words.

22,423. Did not you say so?—I don't recollect.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) You had better go down and try whether you cannot recollect.

HENRY JOHN WARNER sworn and examined.

H. J. Warner.

22,424. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you?—A publican.

22,425. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

22,426. Did you take an active part in this election?—No, not an active part.

22,427. Did you take any part in it besides voting?—Yes.

22,428. You keep the "Horse Shoes"?—Yes.

22,429. Do you recollect on the day of the election seeing a man of the name of William Taylor?—I don't know him.

22,430. Do you know a man of the name of Horatio Benjamin Mitchell?—Yes, I know Mr. Mitchell.

22,431. Do you recollect his being in your house that day?—He came into my house that day.

22,432. Do you recollect seeing him offer money?—I did not.

22,433. Are you certain he did not offer money to William Taylor?—I did not see him.

22,434. Did you offer him money?—No.

22,435. Did you offer money to anyone?—No.

22,436. Did you give any beer to anyone?—No, not even a smell of it on the day of the election. I was asked for it, and I refused it in my own house.

22,437. Do you mean to say that there was not a great deal of beer given to voters in your house?—There was a great deal of drinking in my house that day.

22,438. Paid for by other people?—It was all paid for but what Townshend had.

22,439. Was not the large quantity of beer that was drunk in your house paid for by persons for the benefit of voters?—I cannot say who paid for it.

22,440. Were you in the house the whole day?—In and out.

22,441. Looking after the business?—Yes.

22,442–3. Did you or did you not offer 2*s.* to William Taylor to vote for Stracey?—I did not. I never

NINETEENTH DAY.

H. J. Warner.

30 Sept. 1869.

offered anything to anybody to vote, I will take my oath.

22,444. What other person besides Townshend paid you for beer on that day?—I cannot say. There were so many people. Townshend did not pay me for beer that day.

22,445. What people did pay for beer; for gallons that were served?—I cannot say who they were.

22,446. You had better say you will not at once?—I would say if I knew; I would, upon my oath.

22,447. Tell us who came to your house and ordered beer?—Townshend ordered beer at my house which was not paid for, and that is the only ale to the best of my knowledge but what was paid for on the election day.

22,448. Several persons have sworn that they were treated to beer very plentifully in your house during the polling. I want you to tell me what you know about that?—I cannot tell you who had the ale now.

22,449. Who paid you money?—There was everything paid in the house with the exception of Townshend's.

22,450. Do you mean to say this money was only paid for by the glass as it was consumed?—It was taken in in pints and quarts.

22,451. And large jugs; half-gallons?—The large jugs were quarts.

22,452. You cannot recollect who the persons were who paid you for the half-gallons?—I cannot. A great many people were in my house that day.

22,453. Surely you can recollect some of them?—I cannot.

22,454. Have you been paid anything since the day of the poll for beer consumed in your house on that day?—Yes.

22,455. How much?—Between twenty and thirty shillings.

22,456. By whom?—By Dr. Allen, for beer that Henry Townshend ordered in Dr. Allen's name.

22,457. Is that the only payment that has been made to you?—The only payment made to me for ale.

22,458. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Then how came you not to tell us that Townshend did order that 30*s.* worth of ale when you were asked that very question? You know it came in gallons and half-gallons?—Not in gallons.

22,459. Half-gallons?—Half-gallons.

22,460. (Mr. Mansfield.) You knew that beer was ordered for the purpose of treating voters?—I did not, or for anybody. I did not know about voters one from another. A publican do not know who's who sometimes. A great many people use his house.

22,461. You were once butler in Sir Henry Stracey's family?—I was.

22,462. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You must not suppose that you are doing Sir Henry Stracey any service by this. On the contrary, the conclusion which is to be drawn is that you think Sir Henry Stracey knew something about it?—I don't think he did.

22,463. The conclusion I should draw is that you are concealing it out of regard for Sir Henry Stracey for the fear of his being implicated in it. You had far better make a clear statement about it. You quite understand what Mr. Mansfield meant by asking you about the 30*s.* worth of ale ordered in your house and afterwards paid for, and yet when you were asked you would not say?—It was nobody but Townshend.

22,464. (Mr. Mansfield.) Is that all the money you have received since?—No.

22,465. Have you received any other sums besides what you received from Dr. Allen?—No others.

22,466. Have you received any money for what you paid for voters on that day?—I never paid any money to voters, only 1*l.* which Townshend asked me to lend him, which I did lend him.

22,467. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You knew that was lent for the purpose of being given to voters?—No.

22,468. What did you think you lent it to him for?—I don't know.

22,469. The man who ordered ale in your house to the amount of 30*s.* for the voters actually asked you to lend him money, and do you mean to say that you did not know that money was for the purpose of influencing voters?—I did not.

22,470. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you not see Townshend talking to voters in your house?—I saw him in and out a great many times in my house.

22,471. You knew he was actively employed in getting up voters to the poll?—I knew he was very active for the Conservatives.

22,472. He asked you to advance him 20*s.*?—He asked me to lend it him.

22,473. At what time was this?—About 10 o'clock in as near as I can tell.

22,474. Did you see him offer any money to voters in or near your house?—No.

22,475. Did not you see him take up voters from your house?—I see people go up with Townshend from my house.

22,476. To the poll?—To the poll.

22,477. Can you give us the names of any of those men?—The only man that went from my house or from my stable is a man of the name of George Bloom. That is the only man I remember.

22,478. Do you know William Taylor?—I do not; only I know Mr. Taylor of St. Martin's-at-Palace, if he is the gentleman you are alluding to. I know of no other gentleman of that name.

22,479. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you know William Taylor, of Cowgate Street?—I don't.

22,480. Did not you see a man of the name of Taylor at your house?—Not to the best of my knowledge. I don't know him.

22,481. You might have heard him called Taylor?—No, I did not.

22,482. (Mr. Mansfield.) Have you received any other monies since, besides that 20*s.*, with reference to the election?—Yes.

22,483. How much?—2*l.* 10*s.* I received of Dr. Allen for Townshend, which was ordered to be paid.

22,484. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) That (pointing to a man in court) is William Taylor. Did not you see him there?—Not to the best of my knowledge. I don't know the man. He is a stranger to me.

22,485. Did not you see him at your house that day?—Not to the best of my knowledge.

22,486. You can tell me whether you saw him there?—That man is a perfect stranger to me. I never see him in my house to the best of my knowledge.

22,487. (Mr. Mansfield.) You got 2*l.* 10*s.* on account of Townshend?—From Dr. Allen.

22,488. How was this 2*l.* 10*s.* spent; did you lend it him, or what?—I was ordered to pay that 2*l.* 10*s.*

22,489. By Dr. Allen?—Yes.

22,490. When?—On the 8th of December.

22,491. To whom?—To Townshend.

22,492. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For what?—For services done. He was not paid, and he said he was hard up, and that was what the money was for. I was ordered to pay him that money, 2*l.* 10*s.*, which I can give you a receipt for (handing a paper to the Commissioners).

22,493. What other sums have been paid to you with reference to the election, besides this 2*l.* 10*s.*, and the beer score?—There was a private account between me and Dr. Allen, which he paid me at the same time.

22,494. What was the private account for?—Hire of pony gigs twice, which I let out, which was 13*s.*

22,495. Was anything else included besides the hire of pony gigs?—Waiting twice at two dinner parties at Dr. Allen's 10*s.*

22,496. That has nothing to do with this inquiry. With reference to the election, have you received any other sums from any other person?—I have not, only from Dr. Allen.

22,497. Had you any order for beer from either of the young Mr. Straceys?—I had not.

22,498. Were they in your house that day, either of them?—I never see them in my house the whole day.

22,499. Where did you see them on the day of the election?—I see Mr. Dudley Stracey up in St. James'. That is where I saw him on the day of the election.

22,500. Did you see Mr. Edward that day?—I did not.

22,501. When had you last seen Mr. Edward Stracey before the day of the poll?—That I cannot say.

22,502. Had you seen him within one, two, or three days?—No.

22,503. Within a week before the election?—I don't believe I did.

22,504. Will you swear that you did not?—I believe I may say I am certain that I did not see him within a week before the election.

22,505. Ten days before the election did he come and canvass you?—I was not canvassed at all.

22,506. Did he speak to you with reference to the election on any occasion whatsoever?—No.

22,507. Had you no conversation with either of them about the election?—The last time I see Mr. Edward Stracey was in the eighth ward. I met him in the street.

22,508. What passed then about the election?—He only asked me how I did, and I walked along with him and several more up the street.

22,509. What did he say?—He did not make any remarks to me no further——

22,510. Did not he ask for your services in promoting the election?—He did not. There would not be any occasion for him to do that. He knew I would.

22,511. Did he ask you to secure any voters you could?—He did not.

22,512. Did he ask you to assist him in any way?—He did not.

22,513. Did you offer to assist him?—No.

22,514. Do you mean to say you said nothing to him at all?—No more than beyond Mr. Stracey asked me how I did. That is all that passed.

22,515. Were any people with him?—There was a great many people round him.

22,516. Who were with him then?—They were all strangers to me. I believe one of them was the overseer of the parish. He had a list of the voters in his hand.

22,517. Was Hardiment there?—I did not see him.

22,518. Do you know Hardiment?—I do, but I did not know him till after the election.

22,519. Do you know of any persons who have received money at this election?—I do not.

22,520. Did you promise any money to any voter?—I did not.

22,521. You said that Dr. Allen paid you the pound which you advanced to Townshend?—Yes.

22,522. You received it from Dr. Allen's hand?—Yes, I received the money from Dr. Allen.

22,523. At what time did you begin to draw beer upon the credit of Townshend that morning?—I opened at 4 o'clock that morning. That is the legal time for public-houses in Norwich.

22,524. What time did Townshend come to you?—On the morning of the election?

22,525. Yes. What time did he first come in the morning?—He was there the night before.

22,526. Then had he given you the order for beer to be supplied to men the night before?—The morning of the election he ordered some.

22,527. That made me ask you what time in the morning did you first see Townshend?—I was with him all night. I was out with him in the night walking about.

22,528. Where were you out all night with him?—Walking round the first ward, Pig Lane——

22,529. Getting up voters?—No, I beg your pardon.

22,530. What were you doing walking about with Townshend (who was getting up voters) all night?—I never heard him try to get up voters that night.

22,531. What were you doing?—We did not intend to go to bed the night before the election.

22,532. Why were you going to walk about all night if not to get up voters?—I never heard Townshend ask anybody to vote.

22,533. What were you walking about all night for, and what made you resolve not to go to bed that night unless it was with a view to promote your old master's election?—There was no reason.

22,534. A man does not walk about a city all night without an object?—He asked me to go about with him, and I did.

22,535. Were you not going from house to house?—We were going round the city by the first ward, as I tell you, Pig Lane——

22,536. To the different houses in the ward?—No.

22,537. Where did you go, round and round the ward?—I only went into one house.

22,538. You told me you were walking about the city all night?—Yes; and I went to one house.

22,539. Did you spend the night at that one house?—No.

22,540. What house was it that you went to?—The "Cupid and Bow."

22,541. What time did you go there?—I should think it was between 12 and 1.

22,542. When did you see Townshend first that evening?—He came to my house the first thing in the evening; it might be 8 or 9.

22,543. Did he remain in your house until you went to the "Cupid and Bow"?—No.

22,544. Did he go out and come in again?—We went to the corn hall.

22,545. What did you go there for?—To hear Sir Henry Stracey speak.

22,546. After you came back from there, how long did he remain in your house?—Till 1 o'clock, or between 12 and 1; just the time of closing.

22,547. Then you went to the "Cupid and Bow"?—We dropped in at the "Cupid and Bow."

22,548. What did you go there for?—All I had there was a glass of ale, which I paid for.

22,549. But what did you go for?—I went with Townshend.

22,550. What was Townshend's business at the "Cupid and Bow"?—I cannot say; he did not tell me.

22,551. What was he doing during the whole time he was at the "Cupid and Bow"?—I never see him doing anything, only having some ale and drinking it; that is all.

22,552. Although you are a publican and keep ale of your own you go to the "Cupid and Bow" to have ale there, do you?—I had a glass.

22,553. For no object?—For no object but that.

22,554. You went there with no object whatever?—I never went to get up voters. I never canvassed anybody.

22,555. I don't suppose you canvassed anybody; but were not you looking after voters?—I was not.

22,556. Whom did you see at the "Cupid and Bow"?—The landlord. I believe that is the only man I saw there that I know.

22,557. How many people were there in the "Cupid and Bow" between 12 and 1, and what were you doing?—I told you, sir, all I had was something to drink in the house.

22,558. Do you mean to say that you have ever done such a thing before, as go and sit in a public-house the whole night long?—Not the whole night I have not.

22,559. Up to what time did you remain at the "Cupid and Bow"?—I cannot say what time we left.

22,560. Were you drunk?—I hope not.

NINETEENTH DAY.

H. J. Warner.

30 Sept. 1869.

22,561. Very well, then, you can tell me how long you remained at the "Cupid and Bow" that night?—I might be there a little over an hour.

22,562. That would bring you to half-past 1, perhaps. Where did you go after leaving the "Cupid and Bow"?—Walked about the streets the whole night.

22,563. Why were you on the 18th of November walking about the city all night?—I went with Townshend; he asked me to go.

22,564. A man does not walk about the city from between 1 and 2 in the morning for a long time without an object?—I cannot say what Townshend was walking about for.

22,565. Townshend was doing something?—I did not see him.

22,566. Do you walk about the city with a man merely because he asks you?—I never see Townshend do anything about voters.

22,567. How long did you continue walking about the city?—Until 4.

22,568. What houses did you go to while you were walking about the city?—The "Cupid and Bow."

22,569. But you had left the "Cupid and Bow"?—There was no others open.

22,570. Now, then, where did you walk about the city?—I only walked with Townshend. I cannot tell you what Townshend was doing of.

22,571. You must have seen what he was doing; there were gas lamps?—I did not see him do anything.

22,572. I shall be obliged, if you do not tell the truth, to send you to gaol?—I have told you the truth, so help me God.

22,573. What were you doing from half-past 1 in the morning till 4?—Walking about till I went home to my own house.

22,574. Did you ever walk about with a man from half-past 1 to 4 o'clock in the morning before in your life?—I never was in Norwich before till this election.

22,575. Did you ever walk about any city in the course of your life from half-past 1 to 4?—I have done that before, a great many times.

22,576. What other city in the world have you ever walked about like that?—I have walked about a city that time.

22,577. From half-past 1 to 4?—Yes.

22,578. For what object?—Only for the sake of walking; that is all I have done it for.

22,579. (Mr. Biron.) A constitutional?—Yes.

22,580. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) A little constitutional, from half-past 1 in the morning till 4. Do you really mean to stand there and tell us that?—It is not a falsehood; I don't know what Townshend was doing.

22,581. It is utterly impossible that any human being should believe it. What was Townshend doing?—I cannot say.

22,582. You were with him?—I was with him, but I don't know.

22,583. Did you call at any houses?—Only the "Cupid and Bow."

22,584. I am speaking of after you left the "Cupid and Bow," between half-past 1 and 4. Did you call at any house?—No.

22,585. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did Townshend go to any house?—Not that I am aware of.

22,586. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) During the time you were with him, from half-past 1 to 4, did not Townshend call at any house?—I did not see him.

22,587. But you were in his company. You did not leave him, did you?—I did some of the time.

22,588. Where did you meet him again?—I met him on Elm Hill.

22,589. What became of you in the interval after you left Townshend? Why did you not go home?—I did not wish to go home at all till it was time to open in the morning.

22,590. Were you so tipsy that you could not find your way home?—I should not like to be tipsy like that.

22,591. Were you?—I was not tipsy.

22,592. I suppose you could find your way home?—Yes.

22,593. Why could not you go to your home before 4 o'clock in the morning?—I did not wish to go home before 4.

22,594. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You must have had some reason for not wishing to go home in the month of November between half-past 1 and 4. You had better go down and consider this.

W. Taylor.

WILLIAM TAYLOR sworn and examined.

22,595. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shopkeeper.

22,596. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

22,597. For whom?—Mr. Russell.

22,598. Were you at the "Horse Shoes" public-house on the day of the election?—Yes.

22,599. Do you know the landlord of it?—I have seen him.

22,600. Should you know him again?—Oh yes.

22,601. You were called in just now when he was in the box?—Yes.

22,602. Did you see him at that public-house on the day of the election?—Yes.

22,603. Did he offer you anything to vote?—No.

22,604. Did anybody else offer you money at the "Horse Shoes"?—I was in at the "Horse Shoes" between 3 and 4. A man of the name of Mitchell came in and asked us whether half-a-crown was any use to us. We said, "No;" and by that means took ourselves off.

22,605. Is that the baker in Palace Street?—Yes, the old gentleman.

22,606. Was anybody else there when this offer was made by Mitchell?—A man of the name of Simpson was one, but the others I don't know.

22,607. Where does Simpson live?—In St. James'.

22,608. Do you know his Christian name?—James.

22,609. Had you voted at this time?—No.

22,610. Was the landlord, Warner, present when Mitchell made this offer of money?—I did not see him.

22,611. Cannot you give me the name of anybody else besides Simpson who was there?—No, I cannot say that I can.

22,612. How many were there?—I daresay there was 20. I should think there was 20.

22,613. Twenty voters waiting I suppose?—Yes

22,614. Was beer going there?—Well, there was a little beer, but very little indeed.

22,615. What you got, I suppose you did not pay for?—I got one glass of ale; that's all.

J. Finch.

JAMES FINCH recalled.

22,616. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) I am told that you are ill and your doctor is out of town. I should be very sorry indeed if anything we did might in any way, directly or indirectly, affect your health; and therefore at the present moment I think the better course for us is to say that you may go for to day. You will attend here again to-morrow at 10 o'clock, and let me advise you very seriously to consider in the interval what you are going to say, and be prepared to speak that which upon your oath you have bound yourself to speak, which is the truth.

WILLIAM TAYLOR's examination resumed.

22,617. (Mr. Biron.) You said Simpson was there. Did Simpson take the half-crown?—No; he and I came out again, and several others besides.

22,618. (Mr. Mansfield.) Was any beer offered you at the "Horse Shoes"?—One glass.

22,619. Which you did not pay for?—No.

22,620. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Who gave it you?—One of the men. I don't recollect who.

22,621. There were voters there?—Yes, lots.

22,622. What time did you go there in the morning?—I did not go at all in the morning.

22,623. What time did you go to the "Horse Shoes" first?—Between 3 and 4 in the afternoon.

22,624. The house was full then?—Yes.

JAMES BOAST sworn and examined.

J. Boast.

22,625. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A weaver.

22,626. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

22,627. For whom did you vote?—Russell and Tillett.

22,628. Were you at Warner's public-house on that day?—No.

22,629. At the "Horse Shoes"?—No.

22,630. What public-houses were you at during the day?—Well, I was at none in the ward. I went up the town and got a glass perhaps at a public-house after I had voted. I voted by a very few minutes after 8. I was there before the poll was open.

22,631. Did you live at that time at Purling's Yard, St. Paul's?—Yes.

22,632. Did you see Taylor, the last witness, on the election day?—No.

22,633. Or after the election day?—I saw him two or three days after. He lives near me.

22,634. Did he tell you anything that had happened on the election day?—Yes; he got talking about the election and said, "No doubt it was got by bribery." I said, "I don't know, I suppose it was." He says, "I know it was; I would have got some "money myself if I could, but I went to Mackley's. "There was nothing going on there, and so I went "to the 'Horse Shoes,' on Tombland;" and he said, "Warner, the landlord," or he said, "the landlord" (I don't know that he said his name) "said he would "give me 2*s*. I said I would not take that." He said, "Mitchell, the baker, that lived opposite, said he "would go sixpence further, but that's all he would "go." He said there was a man of the name of James Simpson went with him from Mackley's to the "Horse Shoes," and Simpson said, "We may as well take the half-crown, or we shall get nothing," but Taylor said with an oath, "I shan't take that; so" says he, "I got tired and went and voted plump for Russell." That's all I know about Mr. Taylor.

22,635. Did he tell you whether Simpson took the money or not?—No.

22,636. Did he tell you whether Simpson really did take it?—He said Simpson said, "You had better take it," or "we had better take, it or we shall get nothing," but I don't remember; I think he did not say that Simpson took it. It appears to me as if he left Simpson there and went to vote. That was my impression.

22,637. That was your impression from the way he told the story?—Yes.

GEORGE GILMORE sworn and examined.

G Gilmore.

22,638. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

22,639. For whom did you vote?—Tillett and Russell.

22,640. At what time of the day?—A quarter past 8.

22,641. Do you know anything about bribery at the last election?—None whatever.

22,642. Have you been talking to some people about what occurred upon the day of the election?—Oh yes, lots of people during the day.

22,643. Was anything offered to you that day?—Not a farthing.

22,644. Do you know of any money having been offered to anybody for his vote?—Not a farthing.

22,645. I do not suppose that anything was offered by you, but do you know of anything having been offered?—Not by anybody on either side.

22,646. (Mr. Biron.) Have you heard of it since?—Yes.

22,667. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Where?—I have heard of it at different public-houses. I asked Mackley about it.

22,648. Which Mackley is that?—Richard Mackley.

22,649. At the "Woolpack"?—Yes.

22,650. What did he say?—I met him a day or two after the election, and I said, "Richard, there was a good deal of money spent at your house." "Yes," he said, "a bit. I will tell you all about it if you give me 40*l*." I said, "I have no call to give you 40*l*., nor I don't know where to get it from."

22,651. I suppose you did not give him 40*l*.?—No, I had not got a farthing to give him.

22,652. Did you report what you had heard from Mackley to anybody at that time?—Yes.

22,653. To whom did you report it?—Mr. Abel Tillett.

22,654. Did he say anything further to you as to what had taken place at his house?—No, I could not get anything out of him, though I tried. He was on his guard with me. He knew what I was going to do.

22,655. Did you on the day of the election, or at any other time, watch Hardiment's house?—Yes.

22,656. When was that?—The 28th of December.

22,657. Before the election inquiry?—No, at the time of the election inquiry was on. We went to serve a subpœna on him; that is what it was.

22,658. Did you see anybody go to Hardiment's house?—Yes, I saw several gentlemen during the day, though I did not know the names. There was a man talking to me, I don't know who he was; it was a gentleman with green spectacles, and he was with Lawyer Chittock or Skipper; I don't know which.

22,659. Do you know Mr. Chittock?—Not personally. I don't think it was Mr. Chittock.

22,660. Should you know the person again?—I should know him again if I were to see him.

22,661. (Mr. Biron.) Do you know Mr. Skipper?—This man was a man with green spectacles on, a thinnish man, and a very large man with him at the time. Mr. Clarke, at the beerhouse of St. Martin's, was in Hardiment's at the same time. He was on the top of the hill; I saw him go down.

22,662. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You both saw him?—Yes; I don't know who this person was.

22,663. Did they go to Hardiment's house?—Yes, these two gentlemen did.

22,664. Into it?—Yes. You can see right into the house from the top of the hill.

22,665. How long did they remain there?—I should think three hours pretty well.

22,666. How did they go away?—In a fly, one of them did, and I did not stop to see the other.

22,667. Which went away in a fly?—The big man. I think his name is Brown. He told me his name was Brown.

22,668. Had you ever seen him before?—Yes; I saw him before I went to serve the subpœna. I believe Hardiment was in. He said, "My name is not Hardiment; my name is Brown."

NINETEENTH DAY.

G. Gilmore.

30 Sept. 1869.

22,669. Was he in Hardiment's house when you went to serve the subpœna?—Yes.

22,670. Have you ever seen a person who is called sometimes Hunter?—If I have I did not know him.

22,671. A man from London, who came down and was engaged here during the election inquiry?—If I have seen him I don't know him.

22,672. Have you seen the big man lately?—I saw him the other Sunday along with Mr. Hardiment, going up Suffolk Street.

22,673. When?—A Sunday or two ago. It might be four or five Sundays ago. I think he is some relative of Mr. Hardiment's; I rather think so; I aren't sure.

22,674. (Mr. Biron.) Is he a Norwich man?—That I cannot tell you.

22,675. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) The man who was pointed out to you as Mr. Chittock or Mr. Skipper was the small man?—Yes, he was the small man. I should know the gentleman again in a minute if I was to see him.

22,676. (Mr. Biron.) Is that all you have heard?—That is all I have heard at present.

22,677. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You know nothing more of bribery at the last election?—No.

22,678. Do you know of any bribery on the part of Tillett and Russell?—Not a farthing; not even so much as a glass of beer.

W. Branch.

WILLIAM BRANCH sworn and examined.

22,679. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at this election?—Mr. Stracey.

22,680. What time in the day?—About eight minutes past 8; 10 minutes at the latest.

22,681. Have you voted before?—Yes.

22,682. Have you always voted Tory?—No.

22,683. How did you vote the time before?—I voted for blue the last time.

22,684. What made you change?—I don't know what made me change, but I had a mind for a change. I never did vote that way before in my lifetime.

22,685. Did you promise anyone?—No, I did not.

22,686. Had not you been asked to promise?—No.

22,687. Who took you to the poll?—Nobody; I went myself.

22,688. When did you change your mind?—Why, I changed my mind all at once.

22,689. (Mr. Biron.) Just at 8 o'clock in the morning?—No. This last time my intention was to vote for Stracey.

22,690. (Mr. Mansfield.) What made you change your mind?—I always did vote that way since I took up my freedom when I was 21 years old.

22,691. But you said that you voted blue the last time, and I want to know what made you change your mind?—That was the only time I ever did vote blue.

22,692. Were you promised anything?—No.

22,693. Were your rates paid for you?—Never.

22,694. Have you ever had a day's wages for voting?—No.

22,695. Have you had nothing since?—No.

22,696. Not even a glass of ale?—Not even a glass of beer, only what I paid for myself.

M. E. Barker.

MATTHEW EDWARD BARKER sworn and examined.

22,697. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A woolsorter.

22,698. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

22,699. For whom?—Tillett and Russell.

22,700. What time in the day?—Two o'clock.

22,701. Had you voted at previous elections?—Yes.

22,702. For the Liberals?—Yes.

22,703. Did you get anything this time for voting?—No; I was not canvassed.

22,704. Or did you hear of anything being given?—No; I never take any interest at all.

22,705. You don't know of any bribery on either side?—No; I never take no interest in it at all.

22,706. You merely voted?—Yes, just as I come from business.

A. C. Nottley.

ALFRED CASE NOTTLEY recalled and further examined.

22,707. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote?—I did not vote at all.

22,708. How came it that you did not vote?—No particular reason why I did not vote any further than not feel inclined to vote.

22,709. Nobody offered you enough?—No. It was not money, as I told you.

22,710. You were offered some money that afternoon?—I was told I could have 5*s.* if I liked to vote.

22,711. Who told you that?—A man of the name of Gent.

22,712. Where does Gent live?—Muspole Street.

22,713 What is he by trade?—A plumber and glazier.

22,714. Where did he tell you that?—He came on to Mr. Lacey's works.

22,715. That is where you were working?—Yes.

22,716. Were any others there?—One carpenter and a blacksmith, I think.

22,717. What are their names?—Johnson and Read.

22,718. Where does Johnson live?—Calvert Street.

22,719. Where does the other man live?—Somewhere near Lakenham new Church.

22,720. Did not he say to them, "Now, my men, you can have 5*s.* apiece if you come and vote"?—No.

22,721. Were the other men within hearing when he offered you the 5*s.*?—No. The smith was in the workshop.

22,722. Did he tell you where you could get the 5*s.*?—No. He said, "Have you voted?" I said, "No." He said, "If you vote you can have 5*s.*" I said, "I don't want it;" and I said I did not intend to vote.

22,723. What time of the day was this?—As near as I can tell you, it was about half-past 3.

22,724. That was to vote for Stracey, I suppose?—Of course it was.

S. Springall.

CUBITT SAUL SPRINGALL sworn and examined.

22,725. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

22,726. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

22,727. At what time in the day?—Some time between 3 and 4 in the afternoon.

22,728. How came you to vote so late?—Why, I made up my mind not to vote at all.

22,729. And what made you change your mind?—Why, I am Conservative in principle. My master is a Liberal, so I thought I would remain neutral; so I changed my mind when it became late.

22,730. What made you change your mind?—I am Conservative. I thought I would not offend my master; but then afterwards I voted. I am Conservative; that is my principle.

22,731. But having determined not to offend your master, how came you to vote ?—I considered it. I thought he would not be offended.

22,732. Did you speak to him about it ?—No, I did not speak to him, nor he to me. I only weighed it in my mind. I thought first I would remain neutral, but I changed my mind.

22,733. Did anyone ask you to vote ?—Only one man.

22,734. Who is that ?—An elderly sort of man ; Springfield, I think, is his name. He came and asked me to vote for the Liberals. I said, " No, certainly not." I had made up my mind not to vote at all then. That is the only person that asked me for my vote.

22,735. Did you go and vote for Stracey without anybody asking you to vote ?—Not a single individual ever asked me. No one of the party asked me.

22,736. Did you get anything for voting ?—Not a farthing from no one.

22,737. Were you promised anything ?—No. I voted independent, and gave an honest vote. I have been a freeman 40 years, and never took a farthing of no one.

Daniel Harmer Thompson sworn and examined.

D. H. Thompson.

22,738. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

22,739. For whom ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

22,740. At what time of the day did you vote ?—11 o'clock.

22,741. Had you promised your vote ?—No.

22,742. Who took you up to the poll ?—No one. I walked up myself.

22,743. What did you get for your vote ?—Nothing.

22,744. Did you get nothing afterwards ?—No.

22,745. Did you get any beer ?—No.

22,746. Have you had anything since ?—No. At least I have had some beer since.

22,747. I mean given you by the Stracey party ?—No.

22,748. What are you ?—A labourer.

22,749. In whose employment are you ?—Messrs. Hill and Underwood's.

22,750. No one asked you for your vote ?—No one at all.

22,751. Were you at any beerhouses during that day ?—No.

22,752. (Mr. Biron.) Before you voted ?—No. I was at none of the beerhouses ; I was at my work.

22,753. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did your father get any money ?—That I can't say.

22,754. Did you get any of it ?—No.

22,755. Did your father give you any money ?—No.

22,756. Did you speak to your father that day ?—About 10 o'clock in the morning.

22,757. And did not he ask you to come to the poll ?—Yes. I said I should not be long before I went.

22,758. Did not he tell you that he had something to give you ?—No.

22,759. Did he say he had got something himself to get you to vote ?—No.

22,760. Are you quite certain about that ?—Yes.

22,761. Are you quite certain your father got nothing ?—I am not certain about that.

22,762. Do you think he did ?—I don't know.

22,763. Do you think, if he had offered you any money, you would have taken it ?—No ; it was the first vote I had, and I was anxious to vote for Mr. Stracey. That was my principles.

22,764. Do you live with your father ?—No.

22,765. Where do you live ?—I live in the Rose Lane now. When I voted I lived in the Raven Yard.

22,766. Does your father live in King Street ?—Yes.

22,767. What is his Christian name ?—Daniel.

22,768. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Is he a fishmonger ?—Yes.

22,769. (Mr. Biron.) Did not he tell you that he managed to sell all his fish at a pretty good price that afternoon ?—No. I don't think he had any that day.

22,770. He told us he was hawking them about ?—If he did I did not know anything about it.

Samuel Bryant sworn and examined.

S. Bryant.

22,771. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—An iron-founder.

22,772. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

22,773. For whom ?—For Stracey.

22,774. At what time of the day ?—During the hour of dinner.

22,775. Are you a master yourself, or are you in anybody's employment ?—In Mr. Barnes' employment.

22,776. Did you get anything for voting ?—Not anything.

22,777. Or the promise of anything ?—Not anything. I never see anybody.

22,778. Did you take any active part in the election ?—Not at all. I was at work the whole time, barring the dinner time.

Bryant Allen sworn and examined.

B. Allen.

22,779. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a manager of one of the wards on the Liberal side at the last election ?—Yes.

22,780. Which ward ?—The first.

22,781. Did you conduct any part of the canvass ?—Yes.

22,782. And did you act upon the day of the election ?—Yes.

22,783. Were you a paid agent ?—I was not then ; I have since had an acknowledgment.

22,784. Were you not engaged to be remunerated for your services ?—No promise was made to that effect.

22,785. But you were engaged generally ?—I was requested by Mr. Stevens, the Saturday week prior to the election, to take charge of the first ward.

22,786. I suppose you are in a position of life in which you are paid for your services, whatever they are, generally speaking ?—Not always.

22,787. Generally ?—Generally.

22,788. Then you would understand, if nothing was said, that you would be paid for your services ?—I anticipated an acknowledgment for my loss of time.

22,789. Of course. Now, during the progress of your canvass was anything brought to your notice which induced you to suppose that there was anything like improper practice going on ?—Not directly. I anticipated by the replies I received——

22,790. I am not asking about that yet. Did you find anything during your canvass that induced you to suppose that any bribery was going on, up to the day of the election ?—None whatever.

22,791. On neither side ?—On neither side.

22,792. On the day of the election did anything occur which induced you to suppose that undue influence was being used ?—Not till the afterpart of the day; till the majority turned on the contrary side.

22,793. Was there anything in your own ward which particularly attracted your attention ?—No.

22,794. Did you find that the men in your own

NINETEENTH DAY.

B. Allen.

30 Sept. 1869.

ward voted much according to the canvass?—No, they did not.

22,795. Did you find that they deviated from the result of the canvass?—If I may be permitted to explain, the canvass books presented to me from an agent of the organisation were marked "Members of the organisation certain for the Liberal interest;" and when I called upon those persons I found they were as doubtful as any persons on whom I called.

22,796. That was in the course of your canvass?—Yes.

22,797. Then you found that so far as the prior canvass had been made, that canvass was not reliable?—It was not. It was not true at all as it was marked.

22,798. Did you complete the canvass of your ward, or was it left in an imperfect condition on the day of the election?—It was impossible to complete it, because I was almost alone. I could seldom get anyone to accompany me. It is rather an extensive ward. There are many voters in it.

22,799. When the day of the election came you had made a considerable progress in your canvass, if I understand you?—Yes.

22,800. When you came to see the results of the polling did you find that they differed from what your own canvass, not the organisation canvass, led you to expect?—Very slightly, scarcely at all.

22,801. The polling, as far as your own ward was concerned, went on pretty straight?—So far as the promises were concerned all was right.

22,802. Did you find in the course of your canvass that there was a considerable number of doubtful men in your ward?—Yes.

22,803. Men who would be open to improper influences?—I think so.

22,804. Did you find that a considerable portion of those people who were liable to that sort of influence in your ward voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—Several of them did in the latter part of the day.

22,805. Had you any report brought to you in the course of the day of anything being done in your ward with reference to bribery?—No.

22,806. Are you aware of any attempt having been made improperly to influence voters on the part of Messrs. Russell and Tillett?—No, I am not.

22,807. Are you aware of anything having been done on the part of the Conservatives to influence voters?—Not improperly; nothing beyond persuasion.

22,808. You are not aware of any improper influence having been exercised?—No, I am not.

22,809. Beyond the fact of certain persons of a doubtful character voting late in the day for Sir Henry Stracey, you have no reason to suspect undue influence?—No, I have none.

22,810. Yours is the best ward in the city, is it not?—No, it is not, unless it is so from its being a Conservative ward. It is the largest ward, but it has very much increased within the last few years. I have lived in it for the last 35 years; there are more voters in other wards.

22,811. But I thought it comprised houses of a better class?—We have the Cathedral and a lot of those people in the ward; that may add to its respectability, and probably does.

22,812. Do you know anything of any fund having been provided for the payment of election expenses?—No; there was not even a glass of beer or a bit of bread and cheese provided for the people in the committee room. If they wanted any I requested they would go away and get it; there was nothing provided for them, and not a shilling was spent.

R. Howes.

ROBERT HOWES sworn and examined.

22,813. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—I am a publican and furniture broker.

22,814. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

22,815. At what time?—Between 3 and 4.

22,816. How came you to vote so late?—Because I was after my business.

22,817. Were you at the "Marquis of Granby"?—I went down there after dinner, but I was sent for before.

22,818. Who sent for you?—A man named Barber came for me.

22,819. What did he come to you for?—I did not take the trouble to go down then.

22,820. But when you did go down did you see Barber?—That was after dinner; Mr. Womersley and they were gone then.

22,821. Did you see Barber then?—No; I think he was not there then.

22,822. Who did you see?—A lot of people were in the public-house, and Fisher, the grocer, was standing against the door, and he asked Mackley if he should go to head-quarters and see if there was anything to be done. After that Flowers came down, and then I went to Tombland, against the "Horse Shoes." I went by myself; there was a lot of them had left Mackley's and went to the "Horse Shoes."

22,823. Did you take any of them to the "Horse Shoes?"—I went with several of them. I went along with Mr. Dudley Stracey.

22,824. Did you get any drink at the "Horse Shoes?"—I was a pint there, but I got it at no one's expense.

22,825. You took up several voters with Mr. Dudley Stracey?—A lot of them went up.

22,826. Mr. Dudley Stracey was at the "Horse Shoes?"—He came up in his trap.

22,827. Did he get out of it?—No, he came up against the door.

22,828. Did you see the landlord of the "Horse Shoes?"—He was there.

22,829. When you went to the "Horse Shoes," were there a good many men there?—Yes.

22,830. Was the place full?—Yes.

22,831. They were all voters?—Chiefly.

22,832. And they were all drinking, were they not?—They had one or two half-gallons, and I was a pint there along with two other men.

22,833. Do you remember the names of the men you went up with?—I went up with none; Nursey got into Mr. Dudley Stracey's trap and rode up; he said he would not vote without a day's pay, but he could not get anything of Mr. Stracey.

22,834. How long did you stop at the "Horse Shoes"?—I should think I was there a quarter of an hour or 20 minutes, inside and out.

22,835. What did you get for your services that day?—Not a halfpenny.

22,836. Was anything paid to you afterwards?—No.

22,837. Was any beer paid for at your house?—No.

22,838. Were there any voters at your house?—Only Mr. Bussey; he asked me to show him Sir Henry Stracey's card because he was no scholar, and I did so; that is all.

22,839. Was anything said to you about money at the "Horse Shoes"?—No.

22,840. Or at any other place?—No.

22,841. Except at Mackley's?—Except at Mackley's; I did not take the trouble to go; I should not have voted for Tillett on no consideration.

22,842. You were sent for?—Yes; they were drumming up the whole street; Mackley was going up one side, and Thompson, I think, the other.

22,843. You went with them to the "Horse Shoes"?—I cut across the street and asked them whether they were offered anything; they said they were offered 5*s.*, or that they might have had 5*s.*, but that they wanted 1*l.* I believe that is what they wanted; lots of them came back again. Mackley brought Womersley and a man of another name, and they followed them back to the committee rooms to see what was to be done.

22,844. What induced you to go to the "Horse Shoes?"—There were lots of them that I knew. I came round to Tombland and saw a lot of them there that I knew, and I joined with them.

22,845. Can you give us their names?—There was Moy, and Newton, and Lawes, and a man named William Thompson, and this Nursey, and lots of others that I do not know the names of; there were lots of them. I should think there might be forty or fifty.

22,846. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You had heard at Mackley's that money was likely to be provided, had you not?—Yes.

22,847. And you waited some time at Mackley's?—No; I merely stood outside the door.

22,848. You heard that money was likely to come?—Yes; Mr. Nursey said that Barber had said there would be 1*l.*

22,849. And you found afterwards that money did not come?—Yes.

22,850. Did you go straight from Mackley's to the "Horse Shoes?"—I went round by Magdalen Street.

22,851. Did you not hear that something was going on at the "Horse Shoes," and was it not that induced you to go there?—No, it was not. I went there to meet my brother who was going to vote for Sir Henry Stracey as well as me. I had agreed to see him on Tombland, but when I saw him he had voted.

22,852. There were a number of men at Mackley's who came to the "Horse Shoes?"—Yes, lots of them, Newton brought a whole cart full.

22,853. You went in and there was drink going there?—There was about two half-gallons; that was all I saw.

22,854. And that was drunk while you were in the house?—Yes.

22,855. Did you see a man named Townshend there?—Yes.

22,856. Did he offer you any money?—No, he took out Parsons and Barber.

22,857. Did you hear him speak to them?—He came and whispered to them and they followed him out.

22,858. He did not whisper to you?—No.

22,859. You got nothing for your vote?—No, not a farthing.

22,860. You got nothing but a glass of beer?—No, and that was at my own expense. I had only one glass out of a quart and that I paid a pint of.

CHARLES BINDLEY sworn and examined.

C. Bindley.

22,861. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A gasfitter.

22,862. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

22,863. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

22,864. At what time in the day?—About 2 o'clock.

22,865. It was later, than that was it not?—No.

22,866. What did you get for voting?—Nothing at all.

22,867. Did you not get a promise of anything?—No.

22,868. Did you get a day's pay?—No, I did not get a farthing.

22,869. Where were you on the morning of the election day?—I was at work.

22,870. Were you at work till you voted?—I was at work till 1 o'clock. I got my dinner then and voted at 2 o'clock, and went back to my work again at five minutes past 2.

22,871. And did you continue at work until after the poll had closed?—Yes, till 6 o'clock at night.

THOMAS BARBER sworn and examined.

T. Barber.

22,872. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

22,873. For whom did you vote?—For Tillett and Russell.

22,874. Were you down at Mackley's?—Yes.

22,875. At the "Marquis of Granby," on the day of the election?—Yes.

22,876. Do you recollect Mr. Womersley and some other gentlemen coming there?—Yes.

22,877. Was some suggestion made as to sending for a number of voters?—Yes, that was suggested.

22,878. And were they collected by a man in Mackley's employment?—They were collected by me and Mr. Tomlinson; I and Mr. Tomlinson were the first that Mr. Womersley, Mr. Smith, Mr. Daynes, and Mr. Stevens spoke to.

22,879. How came you to collect those men?—By the request of Mr. Daynes and Mr. Womersley; they came down and asked what voters we had there. I said "We had no voters there at present, but that they could soon be got." I supposed 100, and he said, "Look them up and see why they have not voted."

22,880. Were those men who wanted to be paid for their votes?—They wanted some money.

22,881. Did you go and get them together?—Yes.

22,882. How many did you get together?—I should think from 30 to 40 at one time; that was about 1 o'clock or a little after.

22,883. When those men were collected together, what was said to them or to you?—Nothing was said at all, what conversation there was I believe was private along with Mackley, and Mackley gave them to understand that they were a class of voters who would not vote without being paid.

22,884. That was known before they were sent for?—Yes.

22,885. What was said to the men or what was said at all by anybody with reference to their remaining there?—I believe that Mackley said this, "I cannot keep this lot of men here without some beer," and there was several that called for pints of beer and pots of beer and paid for it.

22,886. Who did that?—There were several people who paid for beer, several of the men who were there.

22,887. Who were there?—I think Mr. Haydon was one, he got a pot of beer and paid for it.

22,888. Do you know who paid for beer for the men?—Nobody paid for more than they had privately.

22,889. But Mackley you know, had said, "I cannot keep these men without some beer"—Yes, and I believe that Mackley gave a gallon of beer out of his own pocket.

22,890. To whom did he address that observation?—I think he made it in the presence of Mr. Daynes and Mr. Smith.

22,891. What did they say?—They said they could not say anything to it. They said they could give no orders, and I believe they did not give any orders.

22,892. Was anything said about money?—No more than that Mackley said these men would not vote without money.

22,893. Did you not tell the men that they were to wait there?—Yes.

22,894. And that there would be some money coming?—No, certainly not. If you will let me tell my own tale I will do so.

22,895. Tell your own tale if you please.—When the men were at Mackley's they one among the other began to agree not to vote for a less sum than 2*l.* each; then one would say "I should not care if I got 1*l.*;" and others would say the same, and they would say that they would not vote for less than 1*l.*; and then they turned to me and asked me whether I thought there would be 1*l.* coming. I said, "You had better wait and see, I cannot tell you," and then Mr. Butcher said "If there will not be more than 1*l.* "I will not stop longer for I could have had 30*s.* in "the morning for my vote."

NINETEENTH DAY.

T. Barber.

30 Sept. 1869.

22,896. Had not the men been requested to wait for half an hour to see if money could be procured ?—Yes ; that was only an electioneering dodge to keep them from the other parties ; that was about the cut of it. I did not tell the men that there would be any money.

22,897. Do you mean to say that you were telling the men that which would be a falsehood ?—I did not tell them a falsehood.

22,898. Did you think that there might be money coming ?—No, I did not think that there would be money coming, and I did not tell them to wait for any money ; they made up their minds to have 1*l.*, nothing more and nothing less ; that was their own imagination, not mine.

22,899. You say it was "a dodge ;" did you know that keeping them there was a dodge ?—No, not at the time I did not.

22,900. When you were sent out to collect those men, you knowing that they wanted money, did you not believe that the intention was to give them money ?—No, I did not.

22,901. Why not ?—Because I took Mr. Daynes and Mr. Womersley to mean this. "Get them "together, and we will try to hear the reason why "they do not go and vote."

22,902. But they were persons who you knew wanted money ?—Yes.

22,903. And you had told them that ?—No, I did not hear Mr. Daynes or Mr. Womersley say that there would be money.

22,904. When you collected those men together, both Mr. Daynes and Mr. Womersley knew that those men wanted money ?—Of course they did.

22,905. If so, how could they say to you, "Collect "those men together, and we will know the reason "why they do not vote" ?—That is what they said, but I did not know what they intended to do.

22,906. Did you not get those men together in the belief that there would be some money coming ?—That was the impression of the party, no doubt.

22,907. And that was the impression upon your mind, was it not ?—No.

22,908. Then why did you not tell the men that there would be no money coming ?—I did not tell them that there would be no money coming.

22,909. Why ?—I did not know whether there would be any money coming or not.

22,910. Did you not lead the men to suppose that they were coming there for the purpose of receiving money ?—No ; I went with a different view, to get together as many as I could, which I had been requested to do. I did not know what Mr. Womersley was going to do with them. I did not say that there would be any money.

22,911. What did you say to the men ?—I asked them to be so good as to go to Mr. Mackley's for Mr. Womersley, and Mr. Daynes wanted to see them, and they came upon that request.

22,912. And you knew at that time that they wanted money ?—I had an idea that they wanted money.

22,913. They were all wanting money ?—Yes ; but they did not get any to my knowledge.

22,914. At that time did you not fetch all these men together believing that there would be some money coming ?—Yes, that was my impression, of course.

22,915. And did not Womersley and Daynes go away leaving you under the impression that if you waited for half an hour there would be some money coming ?—I believe I might say that I believe they did.

22,916. You did not get any money ?—No.

22,917. How long did you wait there ?—I was backwards and forwards the whole of the day, from 8 o'clock in the morning until the poll closed.

22,918. I suppose the men got very angry ?—Yes, they went away in a tiff. Mr. Hall, the butcher, came and had something to drink.

22,919. Did you see them down there afterwards ?—No, I never saw Womersley there afterwards.

22,920. At what time did Mr. Hall, the butcher, come ?—About half-past 2 o'clock, as near as could be ; and Mr. Tomlinson went into the back yard with him and gave him the "down," and they went out in the yard together, and I followed them, for I suspected what Mr. Hall was after. Tomlinson turned round and looked very hard, and I said, "If you think to "sell yourself I do not want you to sell me." Hall said, "I have got no money, that is not my game ;" but directly afterwards Tomlinson went away with a determination not to vote unless he got a sovereign from one party or the other, and I believe he did not vote because he did not get the sovereign.

22,921. The men got very angry, did they not ?—Yes, and they would not stop.

22,922. You heard something about their waiting for half an hour ?—Yes.

22,923. Did you hear Mr. Womersley or Mr. Daynes say anything about their waiting for half an hour ?—I think it was Mr. Daynes ; I am not positive, but Mr. Daynes was interested in the affair, and I believe he was the man who said, "Let them wait for half an hour."

22,924. (Mr. Biron.) You said just now that it was only an "election dodge." Have you seen Mr. Womersley lately ?—No, I have not seen Mr. Womersley for a long time. I have not seen him I think once since the election.

22,925. But you have read his evidence ?—No, I have not seen Mr. Womersley's evidence at all.

22,926. You have heard, have you not, that Mr. Wolmersley told us that this was only an election dodge ?—No.

22,927. Where did you get that expression from ?—From Mackley ? I read Mackley's evidence on Monday, that is all. I have not seen Mackley since.

W. Dennington.

WILLIAM DENNINGTON sworn and examined.

22,928. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a voter ?—Yes.

22,929. How long have you been a voter ?—Not before the last election.

22,930. That was the first time that you had been on the register ?—Yes.

22,931. For whom did you vote this time ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

22,932. At what time in the day ?—About 20 minutes to 9 in the mraning.

22,933. Had you been a municipal voter before ?—No, I had never voted at all before.

22,934. Where were you on the morning of the election day before you voted ?—I was at home till I went to vote.

22,935. Which ward are you in ?—The seventh.

22,936. Had you promised your vote to anyone ?—No ; and I did not see anyone prior to my voting.

22,937. Who do you work for ?—For my father.

22,938. Did you receive anything for your vote ?—No.

22,939. Were you promised anything ?—No.

22,940. Have you had anything since ?—No ; and I did not require anything.

G. Howard.

GEORGE HOWARD sworn and examined.

22,941. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

22,942. For whom ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

22,943. At what time ?—About 10 o'clock.

22,944. Did you get anything for voting ?—No.

22,945. Or the promise of anything ?—No.

22,946. Had you been asked for your vote ?—No.

22,947. Had you not been canvassed at all ?—No, I was not canvassed at all.

22,948. You went and voted of your own accord ?—Yes.

HENRY COOKE sworn and examined.

22,949. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

22,950. For whom did you vote?—For Tillett and Russell.

22,951. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

22,952. Were you promised anything?—No.

22,953. Were you offered anything?—No.

22,954. How came you to vote so late in the day?—I did not vote late in the day. I voted in the morning at 10 o'clock.

22,955. No, you did not.—Yes, I polled when St. George's clock struck 10.

22,956. Is there another man of your name in the seventh ward?—There is another Henry Cooke, but he lives in Chapel Street, St. Benedict's Road; he is a cousin of mine.

22,957. For whom did he vote?—I cannot say whether he voted at all or not.

22,958. He is a voter, is he?—Yes, he has a vote.

R. Goodrum.

ROBERT GOODRUM sworn and examined.

22,959. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A publican and hay dealer.

22,960. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

22,961. What public-house do you keep?—The "Unicorn," on St. Mary's Plain.

22,962. Were there any voters in your house on the day of the polling?—Not a soul, I had not one at all.

22,963. Had you nothing more than your usual business there?—Nothing more.

22,964. Did you furnish no beer for voters?—No, not a drop, in fact I never did any trade at all that day hardly.

22,965. Who took you up to the poll?—Not anyone.

22,966. Did anyone go with you?—Not anyone.

22,967. At what time in the day did you poll?—About 3 o'clock.

22,968. Did you see Mr. Gedge that day?—No.

22,969. Did you take any part in the election?—No, not any.

22,970. Did you canvass anyone?—No.

22,971. Who canvassed you?—No one.

22,972. Had you voted before?—I had never voted before in my life.

22,973. Was any promise made to you by any one?—No.

22,974. Or did you make any promise yourself to anybody else?—No, and I never saw the colour of no money.

22,275. You never asked for any?—No, I never asked for any, and I had none offered to me.

22,976. You would not have taken it perhaps if you had had the chance?—No, I would not.

W. Johnson.

WILLIAM JOHNSON sworn and examined.

22,977. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A hairdresser.

22,978. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

22,979. For whom?—For Russell and Tillett.

22,980. At what time did you vote?—Between 9 and 10 o'clock.

22,981. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

22,982. Or the promise of anything?—No.

22,983. Did you get anything after you had voted?—No, nothing at all.

J. Sadd.

JAMES SADD sworn and examined.

22,984. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What are you?—A greengrocer.

22,985. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

22,986. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

22,987. What time in the day did you vote?—Between 3 and 4 o'clock, I believe it was. I voted for Russell and Stracey.

22,988. How came you to vote so late?—I do not know I am sure, I was rather busy.

22,989. Did anybody come and ask you to vote?—No.

22,990. Did nobody canvass you?—There was two canvassed me, but I was not at home at the time.

22,991. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

22,992. Or were you promised anything?—No.

C. Middleton.

CHARLES MIDDLETON sworn and examined.

22,993. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Stracey and Russell.

22,994. At what time in the day did you vote?—Between 10 and 12 o'clock.

22,995. Who asked you to vote?—Both parties solicited me, one party came two or three days before the election.

22,996. Did you promise your vote?—No, I did not.

22,997. What made you divide your vote in that way?—The reason was they wanted two members, and I was opposed to Mr. Tillett. I told Mr. Tillett's party that I was not in favour of Mr. Tillett when they came.

22,998. Had you ever voted before?—No, never before.

22,999. Did you receive anything for your vote?—No.

23,000. And was nothing promised to you?—No, nothing, and I should not have taken it if it had been promised. I am quite opposed to that.

J. Burrell.

JOSEPH BURRELL sworn and examined.

23,001. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A freeman.

23,002. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,003. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

23,004. At what time in the day?—About half-past 1 o'clock.

23,005. Were you canvassed before the day of the election?—No.

23,006. Surely you must have been canvassed; who asked you for your vote?—No one; not either party asked me for my vote.

23,007. Did you ever say to anybody that you would not vote without being paid for it?—No, I never mentioned such a thing nor thought of such a thing.

23,008. Had you voted before?—Yes.

23,009. On which side?—On the Conservative side.

23,010. Always?—I think I voted twice on the Whig side.

23,011. And how often have you voted on the Tory side?—Six or seven or seven or eight times.

23,012. Did you vote for Waters?—Yes.

23,013. And what did you get for your vote then?—Nothing at all, and I did not wish for it.

23,014. Did you not get anything for your vote?—No, I never got anything for my vote in my life.

23,015. What makes you vote sometimes one way and sometimes another?—I voted this time because

NINETEENTH DAY.

30 Sept. 1869.

I did not like Mr. Tillett, and I would not vote for him.

23,016. And so you voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

23,017. Why did you not give one vote to Russell?—I did not think it was worth while splitting my vote in that manner.

J. Burrell.

J. Bailey, junr.

JOHN BAILEY, junior, sworn and examined.

23,018. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) At what time did you vote at the last election?—About half-past 2.

23,019. For whom?—For Stracey and Russell.

23,020. Did anybody come to you and ask you for your vote?—There were canvassers who called upon me, but I promised nobody.

23,021. Did anybody on that day come and fetch you up?—No.

23,022. Did you go up of your own accord?—I went up voluntarily and voted on my own accord free and honestly.

23,023. Had you ever voted before?—Yes, several times.

23,024. On which side?—In the Whig interest, but this time I changed my vote.

23,025. Why did you change?—That was my own private opinion so far.

23,026. Did you receive anything to come to that opinion?—I received nothing.

23,027. Nor the promise of anything?—No.

23,028. Are you sure of that?—Yes, quite sure.

R. J. Trivett.

ROBERT JAMES TRIVETT sworn and examined.

23,029. (Mr. Mansfield.) When did you vote?—About 10 o'clock.

23,030. For whom did you vote?—For Stracey and Russell.

23,031. Had you promised your vote before?—Well, I had the day before.

23,032. To whom had you promised it?—I think it was to Mr. Wiseman.

23,033. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

23,034. Were you promised anything?—No.

23,035. Have you had anything since?—No.

23,036. Had you voted before?—No.

23,037. Had you given or promised money to anybody else?—No.

23,038. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did Mr. Wiseman tell you that money would be moving in the after part of the day?—No, he made no allusion to it whatever.

G. Manners.

GEORGE MANNERS sworn and examined.

23,039. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A dealer.

23,040. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,041. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

23,042. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

23,043. What did you get for voting?—Nothing.

23,044. Where were you before you voted?—I was after my business.

23,045. Were you at the "Queen Anne" public-house?—I was there during the day.

23,046. Did you see Finch there?—Yes.

23,047. Now I ask you again what you got for voting?—Nothing.

23,048. What did Finch promise you?—He never promised me anything.

23,049. Who did he promise anything to?—That I cannot say.

23,050. How many of you were there?—Me and my landlord, Mr. Vines and Rowe.

23,051. Did not Finch give 10*s.* among you to spend in beer if you would go and vote?—No.

23,052. Did he not ask you to vote for Stracey?—No, Mr. Finch did not. I voted of my own free good will.

23,053. Did he not say anything to you and the other men there about voting?—He might talk about it.

23,054. Did he not say that he would stand 10*s.* for beer for the lot if you would vote for Stracey?—I did not hear him say that. I had one small glass of beer along with my landlord before I voted.

23,055. After Finch had spoken about voting, did not the beer go for nothing?—No, I had not the pleasure of having any of it if there was any.

23,056. Had Finch spoken to your landlord—who is he?—Mr. Vines.

23,057. Did not the landlord say that Mr. Gedge had promised 10*s.* for drink, if you would go and vote?—Not that I am aware of.

23,058. Did not anybody mention Mr. Gedge's name?—Yes.

23,059. Who?—When I went home I went to my landlord to know if he had voted; he came in to dinner, and while I was there Mr. Gedge came in to Vines' by mistake, and as he was going out he said to Mr. Vines, "You have not voted yet?" "No," said Mr. Vines, "but I will go as soon as I have had my dinner;" and then Mr. Vines said to me, "Are you going to vote?" and I said, "I may as well." And he said, "Very well, I will go when you go."

23,060. What did Mr. Gedge say about beer?—I never heard him say anything about beer.

23,061. He took you up to poll, did he not?—No, if he did I never saw him go there.

23,062. Did you not go up to the poll with Gedge, and did he not stand by while you voted?—I do not know.

23,063. Did he not take you up to the poll?—Mr. Gedge never spoke during the day, it was Mr. Finch, he was the principal; Mr. Gedge never troubled after me, he never spoke to me a word.

23,064. You saw Mr. Gedge talking to your landlord?—He came into the house while I was there.

23,065. And after this you and your landlord went to the "Queen Anne" public-house?—Yes.

23,066. And there your landlord stood some beer?—A pot of ale.

23,067. And after that you went and voted?—Yes.

23,068. You cannot say whether Mr. Gedge went with you, or not?—No.

23,069. Had you arranged with your landlord to go and vote?—No.

23,070. How came you to wait so late in the day before you voted?—I was busy during the fore part of the day, after my business.

23,071. You said that Mr. Gedge did not promise you any beer?—He did not promise us any.

23,072. What did he promise to you or to anyone in your hearing?—Nothing; I can take my oath of it; he made a mistake and meant to go into Finch's house, and then he said, "This is Vines." "Yes," says Vines; and then as he was going out he says, "You "have not voted Mr. Vines." Mr. Vines said, "No, "when I have got my dinner I will go and vote;" and then after that Mr. Vines says to me, "Are you "going to vote?" and I said, "I may as well;" and I went with him and voted.

23,073. You went to the public-house first?—Yes.

23,074. You have given us some of the names of persons who were at the public-house; can you give us any other names?—No; those were all I was connected with.

23,075. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you get any beer after you had voted?—No; if Mr. Finch got anything he kept it himself. I did not get anything.

JOHN DENNINGTON sworn and examined.

23,076. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,077. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

23,078. At what time in the day?—As near as I can guess about half-past 1, or it might be 2 o'clock, I cannot say to a minute or two.

23,079. Did you see Mr. Gedge that day?—I saw him

23,080. Did he come to you?—No.

23,081. Did you speak to him that day?—Yes, I spoke to him, I was busy at work.

23,082. Mr. Gedge spoke to you then, I suppose?—He came and spoke to me.

23,083. What did he say?—He asked me whether I was going to vote. I told him not yet, that I could not lose my time; that it would not answer my purpose to lose my time.

23,084. When you said that what did Mr. Gedge say?—He said, "Come when you have time." That is all he said to me.

23,085. Did he not say that he would make it worth your while?—No, I never had the worth of a glass of pump water from the gentleman, that is the truth, that is. You ask me for the truth, and I give it to you.

23,086. What time was it when you saw Mr. Gedge?—I think it was about 1 o'clock, I cannot say to a minute or two; he came down to where I was at work. I get my living by working on the river, and I cannot always leave my work when I like.

23,087. But you saw Mr. Gedge at 1 o'clock and you voted, according to your account, at half-past 1?—At half-past 1 or 2.

23,088. That was half an hour after you had told him that you could not waste your time?—It might be three quarters of an hour afterwards.

23,089. How came you to find time at last?—Because we cleared the wherry to go away to Yarmouth, or I should not have went then.

23,090. You must have known that would be the case when you saw Mr. Gedge?—No, I voted which way I liked.

23,091. What made you have time to go and vote at half-past 1, having thought at 1 o'clock that you would not have time?—To tell you the truth it was because I had done my job, that was the reason.

23,092. You were pretty near the end of your job at 1 o'clock, were you not?—No; I had not finished it then, there was plenty of time to go and vote before 4 o'clock.

23,093. Did you see Wiseman that day?—No, I did not. I will speak the truth; you ask me for the truth, do you not? I never saw him at all. All I saw was Mr. Gedge come down to where I was at work.

23,094. Do you say you got nothing for your vote?—No; I did not get so much as the worth of a glass of pump water. You ask me for the truth, and I tell you the truth.

23,095. Did you get the worth of a glass of beer?—No, not except what I bought and paid for myself; that is the truth, and nothing but the truth, and I cannot tell you anything else.

A. Brown.

ABRAHAM BROWN sworn and examined.

23,096. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you live at Beccles?—Yes.

23,097. Are you acquainted with a man named Garnham?—Yes.

23,098. Had you a conversation with him about the late election?—Yes, I happened to meet him two or three days after the election, on the pavement here on the walk.

23,099. What conversation had you with him?—He asked me how I was, and I asked him how he was; and then I said, "You have turned my friend, Mr. "Tillett out," and he said, "Yes, I worked hard the "whole week, or six nights, and we had a hard battle "to get him out."

23,100. Did he go into any details?—No, that was all that passed about it.

23,101. Had you afterwards any further talk with him?—No, that was all.

23,102. Did he tell you that he had been working himself for that time?—Yes, six nights, or days, or a week, or something like that.

23,103. Did he tell you whether he had been working in the committee room, or where?—No, I did not go into that question, because I knew he would not tell me, I being a Liberal.

23,104. Did you make out what his operations were?—I see he said he did not work more than two nights.

23,105. But you can swear he said he was at work for six nights?—Yes, I spoke of it at Beccles, and I suppose Mr. Smith told it to you. I do not know how on earth you heard of it otherwise I am sure, but that is not my business.

23,106. Have you heard anything more about the election?—I was on the same day in a public-house and had a glass of ale. I sat there for a quarter of an hour or 10 minutes, and there were three men there; one of them said he got 7*s.* 6*d.*; another said he got 5*s.*; and another said that he got 5*s.* They were all strangers to me.

23,107. Did they say who they got the money from?—No, and if they had I should not have known the name, for I am a stranger here.

23,108. Do you know the public-house?—Yes, I went and shewed it to Smith this morning, but I cannot tell you the name any more than the dead.

23,109. You cannot give us any further information?—No, not a word.

J. Flaxman.

JOHN FLAXMAN sworn and examined.

23,110. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shopkeeper.

23,111. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,112. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

23,113. At what time in the day did you vote?—Just before 9 o'clock.

23,114. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

23,115. Nor the promise of anything?—No.

23,116. You went from your own house to the poll?—Yes, I might say that I went straight from my own house to the poll.

C. C. Bell.

CHARLES CARPENTER BELL sworn and examined.

23,117. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,118. Had you been a voter before?—Yes.

23,119. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

23,120. What time in the day did you vote?—Eleven o'clock in the forenoon.

23,121. You had received something for your vote before the election, had you not?—No, not a farthing, nor a drop of beer.

23,122. Nor at the preceding election in 1865?—No, I never took a farthing in my life.

23,123. Did you receive anything at the last election?—No.

23,124. Were you promised anything?—No.

23,125. Which way have you voted before?—A Tory.

23,126. Always?—Yes.

NINETEENTH DAY.

W. Bell.

30 Sept. 1869.

WILLIAM BELL sworn and examined.

23,127. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Mr. Henry Stracey.

23,128. At what time in the day?—Eleven, I should think.

23,129. Did anyone ask you to vote?—No.

23,130. Have you ever voted before?—Yes, years ago.

23,131. Have you always voted Tory?—Yes.

23,132. How many times?—I should think about 13 or 14 years.

23,133. Have you had any money this time for your vote?—No.

23,134. Have you had any before?—No.

23,135. Have you had any beer?—No.

23,136. Was anything promised to you?—No, none at all; I am not in the habit of drinking beer myself.

23,137. Have you ever been treated at any election?—No, certainly not, only what I paid for myself; if I get a glass of beer I pay for it.

23,138. What are you by trade?—I work at the iron foundry, Barnard's and Bishop's.

R. Dawson.

ROBERT DAWSON sworn and examined.

23,139. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shoemaker.

23,140. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,141. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

23,142. At what time in the day?—About half-past two.

23,143. Why did you not vote earlier?—I was called away after business; I had a job to carry home. I am a master myself in shoemaking. I was not at home till half-past 1, and after I got my dinner I went out and voted.

23,144. Did you get anything for voting?—No, and was not promised anything.

23,145. Were you canvassed before?—I was not canvassed by anyone only Mr. Henry Stracey. Mr. Stracey came into my place the day before the election, but did not ask who I was going to vote for.

23,146. Did you tell him for whom you were going to vote?—No, I did not tell him, and he did not ask me.

23,147. You were not canvassed at all?—No.

S. Gay.

SAMUEL GAY sworn and examined.

23,148. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,149. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

23,150. At what time in the day?—A little after three.

23,151. All the morning long you had blue colours up at your house had you not?—No, I had not a blue colour in my house at all.

23,152. Are you a married man?—Yes.

23,153. The Liberals came to your house several times in the course of the morning to take you up to vote?—No, I think not; not once.

23,154. Did no one come to you to take you up to vote?—I think not one.

23,155. Did not several people come to your house in the course of the morning to ask you to vote?—No, I think not once.

23,156. Will you swear that they did not?—I think I can.

23,157. Will you?—I will.

23,158. Nobody came to your house to ask to you to vote?—Not one. I had the Tory bills at my door and Mr. Tillett's party came round, and I told them candidly for whom I should vote. I had the bills plastered on my door for either party when they came round.

23,159. How came you to vote so late?—Because it was the most convenient time I had.

23,160. What are you?—I am a shopkeeper.

23,161. How far was the polling place from your house?—Perhaps not more than 300 or 400 yards.

23,162. You had plenty of time to go and vote?—Well, perhaps I might.

23,163. What is the nature of the business?—My business is a toy and a sweet shop.

23,164. I am sure business is not so very brisk in Norwich that you had not time to go and vote before 3 o'clock in the day, why did you not?—I thought I was as much at liberty to vote five minutes before 4 as to go and vote five minutes before 9.

23,165. Do you recollect some people coming and speaking to your wife just before you went to vote?—No, I should think not.

23,166. Will you undertake to say they did not?—They did not.

23,167. Did she not receive a present that day?—If she did it is more than I know of.

23,168. Have you not heard her say she did, and that she would be very foolish to refuse one if it was offered?—No; I think if my wife had received a present, I should quite understand it.

23,169. Did you not understand it?—No, I did not.

23,170. Did she not tell you that she had received a present?—No, I should think she did not, and I know she did not.

22,171. Did you not ask her if she had received a present?—No, because I know she did not.

23,172. However, did she not tell you you had better go and vote?—No, she did not.

23,173. Did she not?—I am my own master, I think; I am not influenced by my wife.

23,174. Just before you went to vote, did not your wife speak to you about voting?—My wife said, "Vote for the Tories" from the first commencement of the canvassing of the thing.

23,175. She is a good Tory, is she not?—She is a good Tory.

23,175. And you required persuasion to do it?—Well, no, only she said, "Vote for the Tories." My wife certainly said so.

23,176. You required a little bringing up to the mark?—No, not at all.

23,177. Your wife, who is a thorough good Tory, was telling you to go and vote for the Tories; why did you not go and vote before 3 o'clock in the day?—Because I did not always do what my wife wished me to do.

23,178. You did it upon this occasion?—I voted pure, and I defy you or anyone in Norwich to refute it, or to bring forward anyone to say I did not.

23,180. Did your wife tell you to go to the "Woolpack"?—No, nor anyone else, and you cannot prove that I did go.

23,181. Did you go to the "Woolpack"?—I went after the election was over, and it can be proved by the landlord; no man saw me in the "Woolpack" till after the election.

23,182. What did you go for?—I went for a glass of ale, because I was so delighted at Mr. Stracey's return.

23,183. You were so delighted to see his return, and yet you never voted till 3 in the afternoon?—I would have spent 5*s*. I was so delighted with the affair; not that I got anything.

23,184. You were so delighted with the affair in the early part of the day that you did not go to vote till past 3 o'clock?—I was busy in my shop; I cannot run away at any time.

23,185. Your wife takes care of the shop when you go out, does she not?—There is only two of us, and I cannot run away at any time.

23,186. She is a good and active body, is she not?—Yes, my wife is a very good partner; she is as good a shopman as I am.

23,187. I mean at all elections, municipal as well?—No; this is the only general election at which I have had a vote.

23,188. You voted for the municipal elections?—Yes.

23,189. And she always stands the right colour at the borough elections?—No, not always; do not think I am going to be influenced by a woman.

23,190. (Mr. Biron.) You had better not let her hear you say that.—Well, she is a spirited one, I can assure you.

23,191. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) She will read what you say.—I wish she was here instead of me.

23,192. You were so delighted with the result of the election; did she not say, "Come, Sam, go and "vote for the Tories, they made me a very pretty "present"?—No, that is not really my principle. Thank God, I am so situated that I can do without their presents; that is no principle really, no, no.

23,193. You may do things for love, and you may do things for money. Was this all for love?—Oh yes, all for love.

23,194. Do you mean to say that your wife did not get anything?—No, nor I neither. You may talk for a month. I am as right as I can be, and you cannot bring anybody forward to prove that I took a glass of ale of anyone.

23,195. You may go home to your wife.—Thank you, sir.

George Nobbs sworn and examined.

G. Nobbs.

23,196. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

23,197. At what time in the day?—Half-past 2.

23,198. Where were you working that day?—Calvert Street.

23,199. Do you recollect seeing Wiseman that day?—No.

23,200. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing at all.

23,201. Did you not get half a sovereign?—No.

23,202. What made you vote?—I promised to vote.

23,203. To whom did you promise your vote?—To Mr. Stracey.

23,204. When did you promise it;—The Thursday before the election.

23,205. Was anything given to you then?—No.

23,206. Was anything given to you afterwards?—No.

23,207. Who canvassed you?—Mr. Edward Stracey, I was told afterwards.

23,208. Was it a young gentleman?—A young gentleman.

23,209. Was anybody with him?—Wiseman, senior, was with him, and three or four more, but who they were I cannot say.

23,210. You promised your vote, then?—Yes, I promised him I should vote for his father. That was the Thursday before the election.

23,211. Why did you not vote earlier in the day?—I made up my mind I should not vote till after dinner. I told different parties I should not vote till after I got my dinner.

23,212. (Mr. Biron.) Why did you make up your mind you would not vote till after dinner?—It was a mind I had of my own. I do not know that I had any particular reason, put I had the mind that I would not vote till after dinner.

23,213. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who was with you when you were working in Calvert Street?—Another voter of the name of Anderson, belonging to the seventh ward. He voted for Stracey.

23,214. What did he get for his vote?—I am not aware that he got anything. There was five or six of them at work along with me.

23,215. Did you hear of their getting anything?—No, certainly not.

23,216. None of them?—No.

23,217. Did you see Hardiment?—I did not know Hardiment then. I have known him since.

23,218. How much was it young Wiseman gave you?—Nothing at all; I never see him so he could not give me anything.

23,219. Do you mean to say you never saw him?—I did not.

23,220. Have you never seen him since?—Yes, I have seen him since.

23,221. What has he given you since?—Nothing at all. We were not good friends enough for him to give me anything.

23,222. Were you at Clarke's beerhouse that day?—No.

23,223. What beerhouse were you at?—No beerhouse till after I had voted, not till after 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

23,224. Which beerhouse were you in then?—I was at Dowson's after 5 o'clock.

23,225. Who did you talk to on the day of the election?—I do not know.

23,226. Were there not some women talking with you in Calvert Street?—I never see any women to talk with.

23,227. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes.

23,228. Were you alone at your work?—No, there were five or six of them along with me. I never left the job from breakfast time till dinner time, and then went home to dinner, and then went back again directly, because when a man has five or six working under him it is his duty to see the work properly done, and if I had left no doubt the work would have been neglected. I have not the slightest doubt of that.

23,229. Have you ever voted before?—No.

23,230. With whom did you go to the poll?—Mr. James Dunn.

23,231. Did you go with anyone else?—And Anderson that worked for me, he is a voter in the seventh ward.

23,232. Did anybody speak to Dunn?—Not that I am aware of. I never see anyone.

23,233. Was he working with you?—No, he was a machinist.

23,234. You and he walked up together?—Yes, and the man that was at work with me, Anderson—we all three went up together. We first went to the eighth ward, and then went to the seventh ward for my man to vote.

23,235. You did not speak to anyone else?—No.

23,236. You did not go to any beer or public-house?—No.

23,237. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes, I am quite certain, because I had no beer all day, so I am quite certain where I went to and where I was.

23,238. Did you get some beer after the polling was over?—I got some beer after five o'clock.

23,239. Who paid for it?—I bought it myself.

Charles Barber sworn and examined.

C. Barber.

23,240. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,241. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

23,242. At what time of the day?—When I got my dinner.

23,243. Directly afterwards?—Yes.

23,944. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

23,245. Or the promise of anything?—No.

23,246. Had you promised to vote for him?—No.

23,247. Had you been canvassed?—Yes. I might tell you a little incident perhaps. There was a man came to me the night before the election, and as I keep a little shop, of course I did not know but what the

NINETEENTH DAY.

C. Barber.

30 Sept. 1869.

man was coming in to buy something. He asked if I was at home. My wife said yes. I came into the shop and he says, "How are you going to vote?" He appeared to be a working man. "Well," I says, "I "do not think that is anything to the purpose to tell "you how I am going to vote," and I says, "if you "come from Tillett you may tell him I am not going "to vote for him," and that is all the canvassing I received.

23,248. You did not promise your vote?—No, to no one.

23,249. You did not get anything for your vote?—No, I never did.

23,250. Or the promise of anything?—No.

C. Barnes.

CHARLES BARNES sworn and examined.

23,251. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

23,252. Do you keep the "Duke's Head"?—Yes.

23,253. Did you vote?—Not at all.

23,254. Why did you not vote?—I had no particular reason for not voting.

23,255. No particular reason?—No, no reason at all.

23,256. Were there a number of voters in your house that day?—I am sure I cannot say. I was not at home during the day.

23,257. Where were you?—About the city, enjoying myself.

23,258. What were you doing?—Enjoying myself.

23,259. Drinking?—Sometimes drinking, sometimes smoking and walking about.

23,260. And neglecting your business?—No. I do not consider I was neglecting my business, because we had nothing particular doing at my house during the day.

23,261. Was the business you had that day your general business?—Well, we do not consider to do much business of election days.

23,262. Is it not the busiest day for public-houses that you have?—Not for all public-houses.

23,263. What time did you leave your house?—About 10 o'clock in the morning, I think.

23,264. When did you return to it?—I returned two or three times in the day.

23,265. Did you not see when you returned to it a number of voters in your house?—No.

23,266. Do you know a person of the name of Dowson?—Where does he live? I do not know what Dowson you mean.

23,267. Do you know any person of the name of Dowson?—I know Dowson, a plumber and glazier, if that is the man you mean.

23,268. Did you see him at your house that day?—Not that I am aware of.

23,269. Did you see young Wiseman there?—Not that I am aware of.

23,270. Not that you are aware of?—No; I should not like to swear I did see him.

23,271. Would you like to swear you did not?—No, I do not know that I should.

23,272. Did you see old Wiseman there?—No; I am certain I did not see him there during the day.

23,273. Was not young Wiseman there picking up the voters in your house?—I am sure I cannot say, I was at home so little that I do not know. I went in once or twice to see if there was any business to do for which my services were required, and I found so little doing that I did not trouble myself to go there much during the day, therefore I was so much about the city. If my house had been full of business and I had been wanted at home, I should have stopped at home, but I found so little doing I did not stop at home.

23,274. You were about as indifferent to your business as you were to you party?—Yes.

23,275. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you hear that Wiseman had been at your house during that day?—No.

23,276. Are you certain he was not?—I never made any inquiries as to who had been at my house during the day; there are lots of people going in and out of my house during the day, and I do not ask who has been when I go home.

23,277. Did you take any part in the election at all?—No.

23,278. Did you canvass any voters?—No, certainly not.

23,279. Not before the election?—No.

23,280. During the day?—No.

23,281. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Is there more business doing to-day than other days?—We do not expect to do much on an election day.

23,282. That is the very day when the publicans are the busiest?—There was not much doing at my house.

D. Curl.

DANIEL CURL sworn and examined.

23,283. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Stracey and Russell.

23,284. At what time of the day?—About half-past 1 as near as I can tell you.

23,285. Who asked you to vote?—No one. I went away from my work and came past and voted.

23,286. What made you split you vote in that way, Whig and Tory?—Because I think every man ought to have a voice as well as another. I like to see every man have a dumpling as well as myself.

23,287. Have you ever had a vote before?—No.

23,288. Did you have anything paid you for your vote?—No.

23,289. Did you get your day's wages?—No.

23,290. Was anything promised you?—Nothing at all.

23,291. Did you have any beer given you?—No.

J. Billyard.

JOSEPH BILLYARD sworn and examined.

23,292. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

23,293. At what time in the day?—Between three and four.

23,294. What did you get for your vote?—1*l.*

23,295. Who gave it to you?—Mr. Hardiment.

23,296. Where?—At Mackley's, the "Woolpack."

23,297. Did you see anybody else get money there?—No.

23,298. What other people were at the "Woolpack" when you were there?—I am sure I cannot tell you, if I knew I would tell you; I did not take any notice of anyone that was there but myself.

23,299. Have you ever been in the "Woolpack" before?—Yes, I have been there many times.

23,300. How many people were there when you went into the house?—I am sure I cannot say; there were several people about the house in different places.

23,301. Did you not know one of them by sight?—No, I cannot say I noticed anyone that I knew.

23,302. How many were there present when you got the 1*l.*?—There was no one present but Mr. Hardiment and myself.

23,303. Was it on the landing that you got it?—Yes, when I took the 1*l.*

23,304. Was anyone else coming up?—No, I did not see anyone.

23,305. Who did you go to the poll with?—No one went but myself.

23,306. Did no one walk with you?—Nobody walked with me, and nobody asked who I was going to vote for.

23,307. Was there nobody with Hardiment on the landing ?—There was some one, Hardiment, I know him quite well, I live in the same parish.

23,308. Did you see no one else there ?—Yes, I see some one else, but who they were I cannot say.

23,309. Cannot you tell me the name of one of them ?—No, I did not know them ; I do not know that I had ever seen them before.

23,310. These were all people who lived in St. Martin's at Oak ?—I know Hardiment lives there.

23,311. And these other men all lived about there ?—I know no one else there.

23,312. You live there yourself ?—Yes, Bath-house Yard.

23,313. And all these people were your neighbours ?—I never saw one of my neighbours there.

23,314. You knew they were ?—I never see one there, not that I am aware of. I went into the house and came out alone, and went and voted.

WILLIAM YAXLEY sworn and examined.

W. Yaxley.

23,315. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

23,316. For whom did you vote ?—Stracey.

23,317. At what time in the day ?—About half-past 3, I believe.

23,318. What did you get for your vote ?—10*s.*

23,319. Where was that paid to you ?—At Cartwright's, I believe, in St. Martin's.

23,320. Who gave it to you ?—I do not know the gentleman.

23,321. What sort of a man ?—A fairish man.

23,322. With a beard, or without ?—I believe he had some whiskers.

23,323. Were there any other men there when you got your money ?—I did not see any or know anybody that was there.

23,324. Where did you get it ?—Inside the house.

23,325. Were you let into the room by yourself ?—Yes.

23,326. Yourself and this man who gave you the money ?—Yes.

23,327. Were any of your mates there ?—I do not work with anybody.

23,328. Did you go there with anybody ?—No, only myself.

23,329. Cannot you give me the names of anybody who was there ?—I never noticed anybody.

23,330. What brought you there ?—Because I was going to vote.

23,331. How came you to go to Cartwright's ?—I went to two or three public-houses that day.

23,332. To see whether you could pick up anything ?—No.

HENRY JOHN MASON sworn and examined.

H. J. Mason.

23,333. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you an auctioneer ?—I am.

23,334. You were a supporter of Sir Henry Stracey at the last election, were you not ?—I was.

23,335. And took rather an active part ?—I did not.

23,336. Did you take any part in the election ?—About three or four in the afternoon I went to see how they were getting on. I was out of town till I voted. I came home and got my dinner, and then I did not go out till after three in the afternoon. I did not take much active part in it.

23,337. Do you know a man of the name of Griffiths, a plane maker ?—Yes, I do.

23,338. What did you give him ?—Nothing for his vote.

23,339. No, of course nothing for his vote, but what did you give him ?—He had a shilling for drink after the election, at half-past four in the afternoon.

23,340. You had asked him, had you not, to vote ?—No, I had not.

23,341. You had spoken to him about voting ?—I can tell you the whole of that circumstance. This man went and voted. I believe some one had said they would give him something if he voted, and when he came back they gave him a penny.

23,342. Who promised him something ?—I do not know.

23,343. Did he not tell you who promised him ?—No ; some one gave him a penny on the stairs, and I happened to be in the room at the time.

23,344. On what stairs ?—On the stairs of the public-house.

23,345. What public-house ? — The "Three Pigeons."

23,346. How came you to be there ?—I go there every day.

23,347. Mr. Hulme was there, was he not, at that time ?—I do not think he was ; he was there in the course of the day.

23,348. That was the committee room ?—Yes, they called it the committee room.

23,349. Somebody at the committee room had promised the man something for his vote ?—I believe a shilling.

23,350. And you found they had only given him a penny ?—Yes, he said so himself, and threatened to break everything in the room if he had not a shilling, and to keep him quiet I gave him a shilling.

23,351. For the credit of the party ?—I had nothing to do with the party.

23,352. You voted for Sir Henry Stracey ?—Yes, and so I always do.

23,353. What did you do it for, if it was not for the credit of the party ; it was not for the love of a man you had never seen before ?—I have treated him scores of times. He will tell you so when he comes.

23,354. Have you given him money before ?—Yes, I have given him a pint of beer when he has asked for it.

23,355. Are you in the habit of giving everybody beer who asks for it ?—I have given two this morning.

23,356. Are you in the habit of sowing broadcast pints of beer ?—You may put any construction you like upon it. I do what I please.

23,357. Do you know anybody else who had a shilling or a pint of beer or anything of that sort at the "Pigeons" on that day ?—No.

23,358. Did you give any more shillings away on that day ?—No.

23,359. To nobody else ?—Not that I am aware of.

23,360. Come.—Yes, I did. I gave my porter, who carried a carpet home, a pint for doing it.

23,361. You know that is not what I mean. How came it to your mind that upon that particular day you gave your porter a shilling for carrying a carpet ?—Not a shilling ; I gave him threepence.

23,362. How came it to your mind that you did it upon that particular day ?—I often did it.

23,363. Did he vote for Stracey ?—No, he had no vote at all.

23,364. How came it to your mind that on this particular day you paid your porter threepence ?—I do not know. I did do it, I know, on that day. I told him to go back and keep shop until I came home again.

23,365. Did you not give something else to somebody ?—Not that I am aware of.

23,366. Did you ?—I think I may swear that I did not.

23,367. Did you not give some other voters money ?—No, I did not.

NINETEENTH DAY.

H. J. Mason.

30 Sept. 1869.

23,368. Nor anything to drink?—Nor anything to drink.

23,369. Nor promise them anything?—No, nor promise them anything.

23,370. Have you contributed anything towards the expenses of the election?—No, I have not.

23,371. Do you not know that there has been a guarantee for the expenses of the election?—Not that I know of.

23,372. Have they not asked you to contribute to it?—No.

23,373. Are you sure about that?—Yes, I am perfectly certain.

23,374. Did you take up any voters to the poll?—I took up one poor man of the name of Jaley who was very unwell.

23,375. Did you take him up in your chaise?—No, I got a fly for him and took him up in that.

23,376. What did you give him?—Nothing.

23,377. Or promise him anything?—No, I promised him nothing, he was a strong Conservative and belonged to the Eldon Club, he is dead now.

23,378. Have you had anything to do with former elections?—No, not that I am aware of.

23,379. Have you taken any part in canvassing?—No, I do not think I have voted for 16 years till this last election, so that I have not taken much interest in it.

23,380. Have you spent any money on former occasions?—No, never.

23,381. Have you contributed any?—No, never; I have no money to contribute, I want it all myself.

W. Chamberlain.

WILLIAM CHAMBERLAIN sworn and examined.

23,382. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote? Sir Henry Stracey.

23,383. At what time in the day?—At about 10 or 11 minutes past 10.

23,384. Had you voted before at other elections?—No.

23,385. Who asked you to vote this time?—Nobody.

23,386. Did you promise your vote?—No, I never promised a vote.

23,387. Did you get anything?—Not a farthing, nor a fraction, nor a thank.

23,388. Did you get any beer?—No, not a fraction.

23,389. Have you had anything since?—No.

23,390. Were you promised anything?—No, not a fraction; not even a thank.

H. Barnes.

HENRY BARNES sworn and examined.

23,391. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,392. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

23,393. What time in the day?—Just before three, a quarter to three, or twenty minutes to three.

23,394. Why did you not vote before?—My occupation would not allow me.

23,395. Were you busy the whole day?—Yes.

23,396. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

23,397. Or the promise of anything?—No.

23,398. Have you voted before?—I voted the election previous to that.

23,399. Did you vote for the Conservatives then?—Yes.

W. Lovick.

WILLIAM LOVICK sworn and examined.

23,400. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,401. At what time in the day?—I do not know whether it was just before three or just after; it is somewhere about that time.

23,402. What is your business?—A broker, a shopkeeper.

23,403. Did you get anything for your vote?—No, I did not.

23,404. Neither money nor drink?—No, not anything.

23,405. Nor the promise of it?—Not anything at all, nor yet anything offered to me.

23,406. Are you a married man?—Yes.

23,407. Did your wife receive some money?—No.

23,408. Do you know a person of the name of Jeremiah Campling?—Yes.

23,409. Have you not stated to him that your wife received money?—No; they accused me with it when I was in there joking, and I said, "If my wife took anything it is unbeknown to me," that is the statement I made.

23,410. Were they talking to you about your wife having received money?—Yes; they said, perhaps if I did not, my wife did; and I said, "If my wife did, it is quite unbeknown to me."

23,411. Did you inquire of your wife?—Yes, I did.

23,412. Did you find that she had received some money?—No, she did not; nothing of the sort.

23,413. Have you not heard from anybody that she received some money?—No, I have not.

23,414. She requested you to vote, did she not?—Yes, she did. She rather inclined me to vote.

23,415. She pressed you to go up and vote for Stracey?—Yes; she said, "I would rather you would vote for Mr. Stracey," and so did the mother. I had partly made up my mind not to vote at all.

23,416. She induced you to vote?—Well, she said, "If you vote for anyone, vote for Mr. Henry Stracey."

23,417. She did urge you to vote, did she not?—Well, so far as that goes, so far as what I now say, she did.

23,418. Did she not say she would like you to vote for Stracey?—Well, she did say so.

23,419. And you rather than disoblige her voted for Stracey?—Yes, I did so.

23,420. It is quite natural. That is the truth.

23,421. Have you not heard that she did get a little present?—No.

23,422. Have you any children?—Oh yes.

20,423. Did you find that the children had received a shilling or two that day?—No, nothing of the kind. I had no children at home.

23,424. Did you not hear that those who were out had received a little present?—No; they did not know anything about it.

H. Cattermoul.

HENRY CATTERMOUL sworn and examined.

23,425. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who did you vote for at this election?—Mr. Henry Stracey.

23,426. At what time did you vote?—At 8 in the morning.

23,427. Were you employed to canvass for Sir Henry Stracey?—I did a little canvassing during the day.

23,428. Were you paid for that?—No.

23,429. Have you been since?—No.

23,430. You got up a good many voters to the poll, did you not in the course of the day?—I might do two or three, perhaps; I believe I did.

23,431. At what time did you get them up?—I could not say the time, about 2 o'clock I think it was.

23,432. How many more did you get up after that?—None that I am aware of.

23,433. None at all?—Not that I can remember.

23,434. You recollect two or three, you may have got up others?—I think it was about two when I went up to the poll. I think two went up at the same time.

23,435. You were about the whole time?—I was in the market place in the morning.

23,436. Looking after election matters?—No, merely looking to see how it was going on.

23,437. You told me you were actively canvassing?—No, I said that I did a little canvassing.

23,438. Who engaged you to canvass?—I was not engaged by anybody. I saw a friend or two going out, and I went along with them.

23,439. Did you belong to any committee?—No.

23,440. Did you act with anybody else?—In what respect?

23,441. As a canvasser?—Yes.

23,442. Who was it?—I think Mr. Williams was one and Green of London Street, the fishing tackle warehouse, and Mr. Sarsby was the other.

23,443. When did you begin canvassing with those men?—I think I canvassed part of two days prior to the election.

23,444. Who asked you to do this?—I cannot say who asked me.

23,445. Someone asked you?—I think Mr. Green passed my door and I went with him. I was not asked particularly by anyone.

23,446. Did you canvass right round the houses of your ward?—No, certainly only a street or two.

23,447. Do you know a man of the name of James Lane, of Bridge Street?—No.

23,448. Are you quite sure you do not know him?—I do not know him. I might know him if he were here perhaps.

23,449. Did you take him up to vote?—No.

23,450. Do you know the name of the men you did take up to vote?—I walked up to the polling place with a man of the name of Lamb and Mr. Blyth, I think it was; those are the two.

23,451. You had asked them to go up?—Yes.

23,452. Were those the only two?—Yes.

23,453. What did you give them?—Nothing at all. I had nothing to give.

23,454. Did you offer to give them anything?—No.

23,455. Did you give them any beer?—No.

23,456. Did you take them to any public-house?—No, they took me.

23,457. They took you?—Yes, I believe so; I believe we had a glass afterwards.

23,458. Who paid for it?—I think Mr. Blyth did. He asked me to go and have a glass with him; he said, "Now we will go and have a glass." I think those were his words. It is not an unusual thing for me to have a glass of beer at any time.

23,459. Have you had any money since the election for what you did then?—No, I have not seen the colour of any.

23,460. Has your wife had any?—No.

23,461. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes.

23,462. No money has been paid to you for the services you did?—No.

23,463. Have you applied for any?—No, I did not want any, I am glad to say; what I did, I did of my own free will.

23,464. What money did you spend?—Not any. I only spent a little for a glass of beer for myself.

23,465. Did you give any money for the purpose of getting voters?—No.

23,466. Not any over the city?—No, not anywhere.

ROBERT BALDWIN sworn and examined. R. Baldwin.

23,467. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—An ironplate worker.

23,468. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,469. For whom?—For Stracey.

23,470. At what time in the day?—Between one and two, as near as I can remember.

23,471. At your dinner hour?—Yes.

23,472. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

23,473. Or the promise of anything?—Nor the the promise of anything.

23,474. Had you promised anyone to vote for Stracey?—No.

23,475. Had you been canvassed?—No, by neither party.

23,476. Had you ever voted before?—No, I never voted before.

GEORGE HOWMAN sworn and examined. G. Howman.

23,477. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,478. For whom?—Mr. Henry Stracey.

23,479. At what time in the day?—Half-past nine in the morning.

23,480. Were you promised anything for your vote?—No.

23,481. Did you get anything?—No.

23,482. Neither money nor beer?—No.

GEORGE BILLINGS sworn and examined. G. Billings.

23,483. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at this election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

23,484. At what time in the day?—About a quarter or twenty minutes past nine in the morning.

23,485. Had you promised your vote?—I did promise Mr. Gedge.

23,486. Did he give you anything for it?—No.

23,487. Did he promise you anything?—No.

23,488. Have you had anything since?—No.

23,489. Is this the first time you have voted?—Yes.

23,490. Did you get any beer?—No, not anything.

BENJAMIN BECKHAM sworn and examined. B. Beckham.

23,491. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes, for Sir Henry Stracey.

23,492. At what time in the day?—About ten o'clock in the morning.

23,493. Did you go to vote from your own house?—Yes.

23,494. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

23,495. Nor the promise of anything?—No; not a glass of ale or anything.

ABRAHAM STANGROOM sworn and examined. A Stangroom.

23,496. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,497. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

23,498. At what time in the day?—Between three and four.

23,499. What did you get for voting?—Nothing.

23,500. How came you to vote so late?—I will tell you. I was at work at Coburg Street, and I had a job to finish; the roof was uncovered, and I stopped and finished the roof before I came on, and went without my dinner. I do not know that I should have voted at all if it had not been for my missus; when I came home to get my dinner missus says "Ain't you going to vote?" and I says, "I do not know;" she says, "Go and vote one way or the other," and I says, "If I vote I shall vote for Stracey."

23,501. Was that how it came round?—Yes.

23,502. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

23,503. Did your wife get anything?—No.

23,504. Are you sure of that?—Yes, I am sure of it, and I wanted it as much as anybody in this city, there is no mistake about it.

23,505. Have you been a voter before?—No, not for the general election, but for town councillor I have.

23,506. I believe you wanted something then, and you got it?—No.

23,507. Did you try to get something?—No, I never see a farthing yet.

23,508. Have you ever asked for anything?—No, never.

23,509. Not at the municipal elections?—No, nothing; you can take my word.

V. W. Tuffield.

VALENTINE WILLIAM TUFFIELD sworn and examined.

23,510. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

23,511. At what time in the day?—Between 2 and 3.

23,512. What made you so late?—My business laid in the other part of the city.

23,513. What is your business?—A fishmonger.

23,514. You were about the whole day?—I start out in the morning about seven, and stay out till perhaps about half-past two or three, especially on Tuesdays and Fridays.

23515. Who asked you to vote?—No one.

23,516. Did you promise anyone?—No.

23,517. Have you voted before?—Yes.

23,518. Which side have you voted?—Always Conservative.

23,519. How many times have you voted?—Three or four.

23,520. Have you ever had any money?—No.

23,521. Did you get nothing this time?—No.

23,522. No beer?—No, only what I paid for myself.

23,523. Did you not go into any of these houses where beer was in such plenty?—No.

23,524. Where did you get your beer that you paid for yourself?—Morgan's cellar house; I paid for some there, and Rose Lane that is on my round.

23,525. Have you had anything paid you since?—No.

R. Eglington.

ROBERT EGLINGTON sworn and examined.

23,526. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A carpenter.

23,527. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,528. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stacey.

23,529. At what time in the day?—About 11 o'clock, I believe.

23,530. Did you get anything for voting?—No, not anything.

23,531. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—No.

23,532. Nobody had asked you?—No.

23,533. Had you ever voted before?—Yes.

23,534. For the Conservatives?—I never voted at a general election before.

23,535. You got nothing for your vote this time?—No, not anything.

29,536. Or the promise of anything?—No, not anything.

N. Dye.

NOAH DYE sworn and examined.

23,537. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

23,538. At what time of the day?—I should think about half-past two.

23,539. Do you know a man of the name of Wiseman?—Yes.

23,540. What did he give you to vote?—Nothing at all. I do not know that I see him that day at all; I do not think I did.

23,541. Who gave you anything to vote?—Nobody at all.

23,542. Do you mean to say you were not paid for voting?—Not at all, not even a glass of ale.

23,543. You did not get your day's wages?—No.

23,544. You did not get anything from anybody?—No, not a glass of ale, though I keep a public-house myself.

23,545. Were you not promised something?—No, nothing at all.

23,546. Did you see Wiseman the day before?—No.

23,547. On the day of the election were there a considerable number of voters in your house?—I do not know. I was at work all the forenoon.

23,548. Where were you at work?—At Richards and Watt's, Duke's Palace.

23,549. How far is that from your house?—I should think about 200 or 300 yards; that is all.

23,550. You would go home to breakfast and dinner?—Yes, I do.

23,551. You go home from time to time?—Yes.

23,552. Were there not some voters in your house that day?—I do not know; I did not ask any questions. I do not know whether they were voters or not. They did not ask me questions, and I did not ask them.

23,553–4. Were there not several in your house drinking beer?—There were, no doubt, but I do not know whether they were voters.

23,555. Did not other people pay for the beer which those men drank?—No, they paid for their own beer.

23,556. What is the name of your house?—The "Garibaldi," in Duke Street.

23,557. Did you run up any score that day?—No, not that I know of.

23,558. Not that you know of?—I do not pretend to know about the business at all. I leave that to my missus. I go to my own work.

23,559. Have you not heard from your missus that she did run up a reckoning that day?—No, I do not think she did.

23,560. Have you received any money since that day for beer supplied that day?—No, not a farthing.

23,561. Do you not know that your missus has?—No, I am sure she has not.

23,562. Who is your brewer?—Steward and Patteson.

23,563. What has been knocked off your beer bill?—Nothing at all.

23,564. Do you mean to say you have paid your bill as sent in in full?—Yes.

23,565. Every farthing of it?—Yes.

23,566. Has no allowance been made you?—No.

23,567. Have you had no beer supplied to you gratis?—No.

G. Warnes.

GEORGE WARNES sworn and examined.

23,568. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A carpenter.

23,569. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,570. For whom did you vote? — Sir Henry Stracey.

23,571. At what time in the day?—At half-past 1.

23,572. Your dinner hour?—Yes.

23,573. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

23,574. Or the promise of anything?—No.

23,575. Did you give anybody else anything for voting?—No.

23,576. No drink, or money, or anything else?—No, not the slightest.

23,577. Do you know of any drink or money having been given by anybody else?—I have not heard of any.

JOSEPH TALLOWIN sworn and examined. J. Tallowin.

23,578. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,579. Had you a vote before?—Yes, I had a vote before.

23,580. Have you been paid for voting at former elections?—I have been paid my expenses sometimes.

23,581. At Waters' election what expenses were you paid?—I cannot tell, I never keep anything of that kind in memory. I am out of the city now.

23,582. How much were you paid at the preceding election to that?—I cannot say; I was never paid anything only just my expenses.

23,583. For what were your expenses incurred?—I never made any charge.

23,584. A couple of pounds?—It ought to be; it is very far from home.

23,585. Were your expenses about a couple of pounds?—I do not recollect getting 2*l.* at a time. It might be, but I do not know.

23,586. How many times have you received your expenses?—A good many.

23,587. You never voted without your expenses?—Oh yes, plenty of times.

23,588. In what were your expenses incurred?—I voted at the last election without any expenses.

23,589. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you try to get your expenses this time?—I never tried, and never asked for any, and never saw a penny, nor yet a glass of beer nowhere.

23,590. Did not anybody ask you for your vote?—No, I did not want any asking, because I always intended voting for Sir Henry Stracey.

23,591. Do you mean to say you never received anything that day?—I never see a glass of beer.

23,592. But did you not see money?—I did not see a farthing turned about anywhere, not a single halfpenny.

23,593. If you had I suppose you would have looked after it?—I might have done it, perhaps.

23,594. However you did not see it, and therefore you did not get it?—No, I did not get it, and never asked for any.

23,595. Did anybody offer it to you this time?—No, not a halfpenny.

23,596. Did they promise you anything?—Not a halfpenny, and I never requested it.

ROBERT JOHN MOLES sworn and examined. R. J. Moles.

23,597 (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you?—A hairdresser.

23,598. For whom did you vote? — Sir Henry Stracey.

23,599. At what time?—About two o'clock.

23,600. Had you promised your vote?—Yes, I had done so.

23,601. To whom had you promised it?—To Williams the grocer, I think it was, Mr. Green the tobacconist, and another grocer whose name I do not know.

23,602. Two or three days before?—No, the same morning.

23,603. Did they offer you anything?—No.

23,604. Did they give you anything?—No, they asked me who I was going to vote for, and I told them I was going to vote for Sir Henry Stracey, and I went and voted.

23,605. Did they ask you to give any money to anybody else?—No.

23,606. Or make any promise to anybody else?—No.

JOHN ROBERT GRIFFITHS sworn and examined. J. R. Griffiths.

23,607. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A plane maker.

23,608. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,609. For whom?—Russell and Tillett.

23,610. You saw Lane that day, the landlord of the "Pigeons"?—I might see him that day, but I cannot be sure.

23,611. You did see him, did you not?—I believe I did.

23,612. He gave you 10*s.*?—No.

23,613. Did you not get 10*s.* from anybody that day?—No.

23,614. Did not anybody give you 10*s.* to vote for Stracey?—No.

23,615. Any money?—No.

23,616. Or to vote for Russell and Tillett?—No.

23,617. You did not get any money for voting?—No.

23,618. Or the promise of anything?—No.

23,619. Did you not show anybody half-a-sovereign the day of the election?—No.

23,620, Do you know any other man of the name of Griffiths?—Yes.

WILLIAM HICK sworn and examined. W. Hick.

23,621. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,622. For whom did you vote?—Russell and Tillett.

23,623. Did anybody offer you any money?—No.

23,624. Or promise you any money?—No.

23,625. Or anything else?—No, nothing else whatever.

ROBERT BALLS sworn and examined. R. Balls.

23,626. (Mr. Mansfield.) You voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

23,627. At what time in the day?—Half-past three.

23,628. What did you get?—Half-a-sovereign.

23,629. From whom?—Richard Green.

23,630. Is that the plasterer?—Yes.

23,631. Was anybody else there at the time you got the money?—A man named Sexton. I was not paid for two or three days afterwards.

23,632. Where were you paid?—Against my own door.

23,633. By whom?—Richard Green.

23,634. Where does Sexton live?—In St. Miles', the same parish.

23,635. Is that George Sexton?—Yes.

23,636. Do you not know any of your neighbours who were as well off as yourself?—No, only Sexton.

23,637. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes.

NINETEENTH DAY.

30 Sept. 1869.

JEREMIAH JERMY sworn and examined.

J. Jermy.

23,638. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a shoemaker and shopkeeper.

23,639. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,640. For whom?—Tillett and Russell.

23,641. At what time in the day?—About half-past nine in the moring.

23,642. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

23,643. Or the promise of anything?—No.

23,644. Were you about the city on the day of the election?—I did go about a time or two.

23,645. Did you see anything of bribery?—No.

23,646. Do you know of any bribery that has taken place?—I do not know anything of the kind.

23,647. Have you ever voted before on former elections?—Yes.

23,648. Did you vote Liberal then?—Yes.

23,649. Did you have money before for voting?—No.

23,650. Never?—No.

23,651. Are you quite sure about that?—Yes.

23,652. You seem in a little doubt about it. Come now, have you had money before?—At a general election?

23,653–4. At a former election had you not money?—I do not recollect having had any money at all.

23,655. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) The price then was 2*l.* or 3*l.* a vote was it not?—I do not remember it.

23,656. (Mr. Biron.) You would remember getting money for your vote?—No, I do not.

23,657. Yes, you do. What did you get at Waters' election?—I think I got 5*s.*, I think that was what it was.

23,658. What did you get this time?—Nothing at all.

23,659. When Lewis and Forlonge were candidates what did you get?—Not anything.

23,660. You are in a little doubt about that?—No, I am not.

23,661. At Bury and Schneider's election what did you get?—Not anything at all.

23,662. What were you about that you did not get money then?—I did not ask for anything of the kind, there was none offered to me.

23,663. At Bignold's election, what did you get?—Nothing at all.

23,664. Do you know Charles Dover?—Yes.

23,665. Is he a relation of yours?—Yes.

23,666. Did he give you anything or get anything for you?—No, I never asked for anything and had nothing promised me, and was not solicited by any one. I went in the morning and voted.

H. Griffiths.

HENRY GRIFFITHS sworn and examined.

23,667. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You voted at the last election, did you not?—Yes.

23,668. For Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

23,669. Did you get 10*s.*?—No.

23,670. What did you get?—Nothing.

23,671. Did you not get something at the "Pigeons"?—No, I did not.

23,672. Where did you get it?—Nowhere.

23,673. Did you not say in the presence of Warner that you had taken money for your vote?—No.

23,674. Where do you live?—In Portugal Street, Thorpe's Yard.

23,675. Did you not say to Richard Warner that you had taken money for your vote?—No.

23,676. Do you know Henry Duffield?—I know Duffield the tailor.

23,677. Of Potter-gate Street?—Yes, I know him perfectly well, I do.

23,678. Did you not say to him that you had got money?—No.

23,679. At what time did you vote?—Between three and four in the afternoon.

23,680. Where were you all day?—I was at work in the fore part of the morning till about half-past ten.

23,681. Where were you after that?—I went up in the market place, and saw a great quantity of people there,

23,682. Why did you not go and vote?—That I cannot answer for.

23,683. Were you looking out for what you could get?—I do not know that I was.

23,684. Do you not know that you were?—No, I do not know that I was.

23,685. What were you looking out for?—I was looking at the quantity of people that was about, and seeing what was going on.

23,686. Were you not looking to see whether money was going?—No, I cannot say that I was.

23,687. Will you undertake to say you were not?—I would rather undertake to say that I was not than that I was.

23,688. Would you have taken money if it had been offered to you?—If it had been offered probably I might, if it had satisfied me.

23,689. (Mr. Biron.) What was your price that day?—As much as I could get.

23,690. What was the lowest?—Well, I would have taken all I could get; I do not know about the lowest.

23,691. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Was not 10*s.* your price?—I do not know anything at all about that.

23,692. Did you not ask for 10*s.*?—No, never in my life, and not a man can say I did.

23,693. Did they offer you 5*s.*?—I was not offered 5*s.*, and I was not offered 2*s.*, 3*s.*, or 4*s.*, nor was I offered 8*s.*, 10*s.*, 18*s.*, 20*s.*, or 30*s.*

23,694. Were you offered anything?—No.

23,695. Do you mean to say you went and voted without getting any money?—I will tell you the truth; they say truth goes the furthest.

23,696. Let us have the truth if you can give it to us?—I will tell it to you, and if I tell you wrong you can contradict me: a little after three I went down to the "Pigeons" in Charing Cross. I stayed there and got a glass of ale, till five minutes to 4, and I thought there was no time for me to go and vote, and I see Mr. Henry Mason, the auctioneer, and he said to me, "Who are you going to vote for?" and I said, "You know who I am going to vote for without ask-"ing. I am going to vote for Sir Henry Stracey, and "give him a plumper." He says, "Well, do, and we will drink together," and I went and voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

23,697. And you did drink together?—Not till after I had voted.

23,698. He took very good care you should not drink before you had voted?—That I cannot answer for.

23,699. (Mr. Biron.) What did you get afterwards?—Nothing at all.

23,700. I mean to drink?—I had a glass of brandy and water; nothing more, I will take my oath of.

J. Bradbury.

JOHN BRADBURY sworn and examined.

23,701. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at this election?—Sir John Stracey.

23,702. At what time of the day?—Beween three and four.

23,703. What made you vote so late?—Because I was in the country till 2 o'clock. Then I got dinner, and then I went and voted.

23,704. What were you about in the country?—I am assistant bailiff.

23,705. Have you ever voted before?—Yes.

23,706. Always Conservative?—Yes.

23,707. Have you ever had anything in your life for voting?—No, never.

23,708. Not even expenses?—No.

23,709. Nor beer?—No.

FRANCIS ANDERSON sworn and examined. F. Anderson.

23,710. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A draper's assistant.

23,711. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,712. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

23,713. At what time in the day?—About two.

23,714. Did you get anything for voting?—No, and did not want it. I voted honestly.

23,715. Did you get the promise of anything?—No, nor a promise.

23,716. Had you promised to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Mr. Dudley Stracey canvassed me the night before, but I did not promise I should vote for him.

23,717. Why did you not promise him if you were going to vote for him?—I had no particular reason.

23,718. Did you think you would get something out of him?—No, certainly not.

23,719. I do not quite understand why you did not promise him?—I did not promise.

23,720. Where were you that day?—I was at business all day.

23,721. Both before you voted and afterwards?—Yes; I can get plenty of witnesses to prove that. I am a draper's assistant at an establishment in the market. I went and voted, and came back again in three minutes.

SAMUEL HOWARD sworn and examined. S. Howard.

23,722. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,723. For Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

23,724. At what time in the afternoon?—About a quarter before four.

23,725. Where were you all the day?—I was at the "Norfolk Hotel," ostler there, and could not get away before, we were very busy that day.

23,726. Did anybody offer you anything for your vote?—No.

23,727. Did anybody promise you anything?—No.

23,728. Or give you anything?—No.

23,729. Were you treated in any way?—No.

23,730. By nobody?—No.

23,731. Had you promised your vote before?—No.

23,732. Had any person asked you for it?—No.

23,733. You went up of your own accord and voted?—Yes, of my own accord.

23,734. Was this the first time you had a vote?—Yes.

THOMAS DOBSON sworn and examined. T. Dobson.

23,735. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you at the last election?—Stracey.

23,736. At what time in the day?—I think it was between half-past two and three.

23,737. What made you go so late?—I had to go to the shop and leave things right before I could get out to vote.

23,738. What is your trade?—A brass moulder.

23,739. Had you promised your vote to anyone?—Yes.

23,740. Who was it?—A party that came canvassing for it.

23,741. Who was it?—I think it was a Mr. Lane at the "Pigeons."

23,742. How long before the election?—The same morning, I think.

23,743. Did you go to the "Pigeons"?—Yes.

23,744. And had a drink?—I saw a party going to vote and he said, "Come and have half a pint," I said I would, and that I was just going to have a drop.

23,745. Who paid for it?—The other party paid for that, and I paid for another afterwards.

23,746. Who was that?—Goodwin, I think, an iron moulder.

23,747. Did you go and vote together?—No, I went by myself. I was not in the place five minutes.

23,748. Did you see Mr. Hulme at the "Pigeons"?—No.

23,749. I mean Mr. Hulme the chemist?—I do not know him.

23,750. Who did you see there?—A number of them at the bar drinking.

23,751. Were they getting their beer paid for?—I do not know; I had none as a gift.

23,752. Did you get anything for your vote?—No, not a farthing, not even a thank'ee.

23,753. Did you have anything promised you?—No.

23,754. Have you received anything since?—No.

23,755. Have you ever voted before?—No.

WILLIAM DAYNES sworn and examined. W. Daynes.

23,756. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shoemaker.

23,757. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,758. For whom?—For. Mr. Stracey.

23,759. At what time of the day?—A quarter before two.

23,760. Did you get anything for voting?—Not anything.

23,761. You answer in rather a hesitating way; come, what did you get?—I never got anthing or asked for anything,

23,762. Nor the promise of anything?—Nor the promise of anything.

23,763. Were you paid anything after you voted?—No.

23,764. Was anything given to you after you voted?—No.

23,765. Or before?—No.

23,766. Did you not get your day's pay?—No.

23,767. Or you expenses?—Nothing at all.

23,768. No money and no drink?—No money and no drink of any kind.

RICHARD HENRY HUBY sworn and examined. R. H. Huby.

23,769. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,770. For Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

23,771. At what time in the day?—I should say it was about one o'clock.

23,772. Later than that, was it not?—It might be a little later, but as far as my recollection goes it was about one o'clock.

23,773. What are you?—A cabinet maker.

23,774. Who canvassed you for your vote?—John Hart Bowgen called; that was two or three days before the election and a gentleman of the name of Williams, and I think the other gentleman was Lemon, I think them three canvassed me for my vote.

23,775. For whom did they ask you to vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

23,776. Did you promise your vote?—Certainly not.

NINETEENTH DAY.

R. H. Huby.

30 Sept. 1869.

23,777. Did you not intend to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—I told them I should consider the matter.

23,778. I suppose you meant by considering the matter that you would wait to see what could be got?—No, that was the farthest from my thoughts. I have voted several times, and I never received a farthing.

23,779. If you were not going to consider the matter for that purpose, what were you going to consider?—The best man.

23,780. That was what you were going to consider?—Yes, certainly.

23,781. Had you not heard that Sir Henry Stracey was a candidate long before that?—Yes.

23,782. You had had plenty of time to consider for whom you would vote?—I did not think much of it myself, because I have something else to think of.

23,783. What induced you at that time of the day to go and vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—It was my work that caused me to drive it off so late.

23,784. Did it come into your head to vote for Sir Henry Stracey before that day?—When I came down to get my meal at one o'clock I went and voted.

23,785. What induced you to go and vote then?—I always did vote on the Conservative side.

22,786. Having always voted on the Conservative side, and Sir Henry Stracey being the only Conservative candidate, what made you say you would consider it two or three days before the election?—I cannot exactly answer that question; there are many things that we have to consider.

23,787. Do you mean to say you did not get the promise of anything for your vote?—Certainly not; I never asked for anything.

23,788. Were you not offered, and did you not get something for your vote?—Certainly not, I did not get the value of a glass of beer, and did not ask for anything, neither situation nor anything of the sort.

23,780. Have you ever had the promise of anything?—No, certainly not.

23,790. Did anybody come to your shop and buy something, or say they would buy it, if you would vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—No, certainly not; no one visited me after the canvass; no one ever asked me for my vote not after them three came and canvassed me.

J. Hammond.

JOHN HAMMOND sworn and examined.

23,791. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who did you vote for at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

23,792. What time?—A little after three; I was busy at work.

23,793. Had you promised your vote?—No, no one ever asked me.

23,794. What did you get for your vote?—Well, I always voted that way, for the Conservative party, for the last 25 years.

23,795. Have you ever had your expenses paid?—No.

23,796. Not once?—I only voted the other way once, at a municipal election.

23,797. Nor yet a day's work?—Nor yet a day's work.

23,798. By whom were you canvassed this time?—Well, I was canvassed by young Harry Bullard and Courtland, that is all I was canvassed by; the Conservative party never canvassed me at all.

23,799. And you never got anything?—Nothing at all.

23,800. Not even a glass of beer?—Not even a glass of beer.

23,801. Have you had anything since?—Nothing since.

R. Daynes.

RICHARD DAYNES sworn and examined.

23,802. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shoemaker.

23,803. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

23,804. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

23,805. At what time of the day?—Twenty-five minutes to four.

23,806. What did you get?—5s.

23,807. Who gave it you?—Mr. Andrews.

23,808. Who is he?—A publican.

23,809. Ambrose Andrews?—Charles Andrews, I think.

23,810. What house does he keep?—I do not know, it is a public-house.

23,811. Where did he give you this money?—I did not receive it until after the election was over.

23,812. Where was he when he promised to give it to you?—In his house.

23,813. Were there any other men there?—There were several other men there.

23,814. Did he promise any of the men?—That I do not know, I cannot say to that.

23,815. Who were the men that were there?—Well, Boast I think was one name.

23,816. Where does he live?—Lower Dock Yard.

23,817. Who was the next?—Clarke.

23,818. Anybody else?—I cannot call to mind the names, because it is a house I never was in before that afternoon.

23,819. How many of them were there altogether?—I cannot say.

23,820. Do you know whether they had voted or not then?—I don't know, because after I got the promise I left the house and went to my own home to consider whether I should vote or not for the money.

23,821. You turned it over in your mind?—Yes.

23,822. Had you said anything to Andrews about voting?—No.

23,823. He asked you to vote, I suppose?—I was called to go, he asked whether I was a voter by one man a neighbour.

23,824. Who was that?—Gough.

23,825. Did he tell you that you had better go to this man Andrews?—He came for me.

23,826. Where does Gough live?—I cannot say now; he has just removed.

23,827. Where did he live then?—At the bottom of the yard where I live, opposite St. Lawrence's Church.

23,828. Gough told you that you could get something if you went to Andrews', was not that it?—He came and asked me whether I would vote, and he said if I had not voted, I could be repaid for my vote.

23,829. At Andrews'?—Yes.

23,830. Then you went there?—Yes.

23,831. When you were talking to Andrews were any others there?—Yes, several others.

23,832. Who could hear what Andrews said to you?—He said it to one and all.

23,833–5. How many more went to vote besides you?—I don't know, because when I turned out of his house I went to my own home, so I did not go and record my vote at the same time that they did.

23,836. When you had the conversation with Andrews what time of the day was it?—Half-past three.

23,837. Do you know whether Gough went to any other people?—No, I cannot say that.

23,838. Did anyone else offer you money that day?—No.

23,839. Do you know Rix, the grocer in St. Gregory's?—No, I cannot recall him; I have seen him, I dare say, passing the shop.

23,840. Did not any other gentlemen call upon you that day before Gough came?—No.

NINETEENTH DAY.

30 Sept. 1869.

JAMES GUYTON sworn and examined. J. Guyton.

23,841. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You voted at the last election, did you not?—Yes.

23,842. For Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

23,843. Do you know Mackley?—Yes, quite well.

23,844. He was liberal enough, I believe, to give you half a sovereign for your vote?—Yes, I received that from him.

23,845. Do you know whether Mackley gave any one else any money?—I never saw anyone else there, neither did I take the money in his house.

23,846. (Mr. Biron.) Did he stay in the public-house opposite, or did he go up to the poll with you?—I did not see him with me at the poll, though I took the money of him.

23,847. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Have you heard of any other men to whom Mackley gave any money?—No, that I have not; I seem to be the only individual that is mentioned.

23,848. (Mr. Mansfield.) You don't know of Mackley parting with any other money but that half sovereign?—I never heard such a thing.

23,849. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You did not see his pocket picked, I suppose?—No.

23,850. He went into the other public-house and remained there while you went and voted?—I went in there with him previous to the voting.

23,851. He did not complain to you then that he had had his pocket picked and had lost 14*l.* 10*s.*?—Not then, your honour, nor any other time.

23,852. (Mr. Mansfield.) Had you ever heard of it before it was mentioned here?—I never heard it until I read in the paper about his losing it.

GEORGE KING sworn and examined. G. King.

23,853. (Mr Biron.) What are you?—A cooper.

23,854. For whom did you vote at this last election?—Stracey.

23,855. At what time in the day?—About 10 minutes past 3.

23,856. What did you get for it?—Not anything.

23,857. Where had you been all the day?—At home the chief part of the day.

23,858. Why did you not vote earlier?—Well, I don't know I am sure; I did not think about voting at all.

23,859. Then how came you to vote at 10 minutes past 3?—I don't know how I came to do it.

23,860. Who brought you up?—Not anyone; I went myself.

23,861. Who asked you to go?—Not anyone; I was not asked to go.

23,862. What did you get after you had voted?—Not anything.

23,863. Not a day's work?—No, nor yet half a day's.

23,864. No money and no beer?—Not a drop, nor yet no money.

23,865. Are you married?—Yes.

23,866. Did your wife get anything?—No.

23,867. Did she persuade you to go and vote?—No.

23,868. How came you to make up your mind all of a sudden at past 3 o'clock?—I am sure I don't know how it was; I did do so.

23,869. And did not get anything for it?—No, not a farthing.

JAMES BRETT sworn and examined. J. Brett.

23,870. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

23,871. Do you recollect voting?—Yes.

23,872. You are sure you recollect it?—Yes.

23,873. What public-houses did you go to?—I went from my own house to vote.

23,874. What public-houses had you been to before you went to your own house?—I had been into the "White Horse," and had a glass of ale; that is right opposite my house.

23,875. How many public-houses had you been to?—None before I went there.

23,876. What time did you vote?—Between 12 and 1 o'clock.

23,877. It was later, was it not?—No.

23,878. You voted at a quarter-past three?—I did not, sir, and I can prove it; I voted between 12 and 1; I know what time I voted.

23,879. Before you went up and voted did you talk to the policeman at the polling booth?—I believe I spoke to one, because he shoved me off the path.

23,880. Did he not say you were so drunk that you were not fit to vote?—No, he did not.

23,881. What did he say to you?—He only shoved me off the path. He said he did not know that I had a vote; and I went and voted. That was about 20 minutes after 12, or half-past 12, when I voted.

23,882. You were canvassed, were you not, to vote for Russell and Tillett?—Yes.

23,883. And you promised to vote for them?—I did not.

23,884. Do you mean to say you did not promise to vote for Russell and Tillett?—I did not promise anyone.

23,885. Did you say that you would not vote for them?—I did not; I said I would not promise anyone.

23,886. Had you made up your mind to vote for Stracey?—I had made up my mind to vote for Stracey.

23,887. Then when the people came and canvassed you to vote for Russell and Tillett, why did you not tell them that you would not vote for them?—I do not know.

23,888. You wanted money, I suppose?—No, I don't know that I wanted that; I went and voted as soon as my shop got clear.

23,889. You wanted your expenses?—No, I never asked no one for it.

23,890. I daresay you did not ask.—No, and no one offered to give them to me.

23,891. Did you get any money?—No.

23,892. Did no one offer you any?—No.

23,893. Do you know Williams, the grocer?—No, I cannot say that I do.

23,894. Did anyone ask you to vote for Stracey?—Yes, I believe there was three men came.

23,895. What time in the day?—That was before the election.

23,896. What day?—I believe it was about three or four days.

23,897. Did you promise your vote to them?—No, I did not.

23,898. Being canvassed by the Radicals you refused to give them your vote, and you say you had made up your mind to vote for the Conservatives, and when they asked you you would not promise to vote for them, how was that?—I said I would not promise anyone.

23,899. Now, what would you have taken if you could have got it?—I never asked no one for anything.

23,900. But what would you have taken?—I never thought about taking anything.

23,901. 5*s.* or 10*s.*?—I never thought about anything of the sort.

23,902. Never mind about thinking. What would you have taken?—I don't know.

23,903. Would you have taken half a sovereign?—I never thought about taking any money; I did not know that there was any money, I never heard anyone say that there was any.

NINETEENTH DAY.

J. Brett.

30 Sept. 1869.

23,904. If 10*s.* had been offered to you on this day, would you have taken it ?—No.

23,905. Would you have taken, 1*l.* ?—I don't know that I should.

23,906. A couple of pounds, then ?—No, I don't know that I want money, I can earn enough money for my living, I don't know that I want anyone to give me money the time I am at work. I never asked no one for any money, and no one never offered me any.

L. Jeffries.

LEMMON JEFFRIES sworn and examined.

23,907. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who did you vote for ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

23,908. What time in the day ?—About half-past 2 in the afternoon.

23,909. Had you promised your vote ?—No.

23,910. Did anyone give you anything for your vote ?—No.

23,911. Were you promised anything ?—No.

23,912. Have you had anything since ?—No.

23,913. Do you know of any money or promise of money being given to other people to induce them to vote ?—No.

23,914. Have you voted before ?—Yes, a great many times.

23,915. On which side ?—Always on the Conservative side.

23,916. Have you had anything for it ?—No.

23,917. Not even a day's work ?—Not a penny.

T. Cott.

THOMAS COTT sworn and examined.

23,918. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A silversmith and pawnbroker.

23,919. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

23,920. For Stracey ?—For Stracey.

23,921. At what time in the day ?—A quarter past eight in the morning.

23,922. You did not get anything for your vote, I suppose ?—No.

23,923. I believe you are an active partizan ?—I don't believe so.

23,924. Did you not take an active part in the election ?—I am not an active partizan. I did canvass this last time, but that was the first time in my life.

23,925. And in your canvass did you find men unwilling to promise you ?—I did.

23,926. Hanging back ?—Hanging back.

23,927. Did you give any of them anything ?—No.

23,928. Or promise anything ?—Nor promise anything.

23,929 Who did you go about with ?—Mr. Rix, and Mr. William Kett.

23,930. And Mr. Budgen ?—I do not know him personally. I might go with him, but I do not know him.

23,931. When you found these men unwilling to promise and vote, what did you do ?—I did nothing, of course not.

23,932. Did you come across any of those men on the day of the election ?—Well, I don't recollect.

23,933. What did you do on the day of the election ?—I walked about a good deal.

23,934. Trying to get men up to vote ?—I did not get one up to vote. I never took one up to the poll.

23,935. Did you try ?—I went and asked two or three.

23,936. And they would not go without money ?—They never said anything to me about money, they said they had not made up their minds.

23,937. You knew what that meant well enough ?—Of course I did, but I was not aware of any money floating at all. I was not aware of any being given.

23,938. You did not give any out of your own pocket ?—Not a farthing.

23,939. Had you ever given any money on former occasions ?—Never. Not one single halfpenny in my life. I never canvassed before, and never interested myself about getting up voters before in my life, and I always voted early in the morning.

H. Rix.

HENRY RIX sworn and examined.

23,940. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election ?—Yes.

23,941. What time in the day ?—About three.

23,942. You were at the "Pigeons," were you not ?—I was not. I never go into the house. I have not been into the house for years.

23,943. Were you employed as a canvasser ?—I was not.

23,944. Did you get anything for your vote ?—Not a farthing.

23,945. How came you to vote so late ?—It was the hour that suited me the best. I was at work in the day, in fact I was after my orders.

23,946. What are you by trade ?—A master cabinet maker.

23,947. But how came you to be so late in voting ?—I was after my orders. I was travelling the chief part of the day taking orders.

23,948. Does that take so long ?—I was taking out the work as well as taking orders, buying the wood, and so on.

23,949. Did you get anything for your vote ?—I did not get anything.

23,950. Were you offered anything ?—I was not offered anything, neither was I asked to vote by either party.

23,951. You voted of your own accord ?—Entirely of my own accord.

23,952. Had you ever voted before ?—I had not.

23,953. Were you promised anything ?—I was not promised, neither was I asked to vote. I was not canvassed.

E. Fitt.

EDWARD FITT sworn and examined.

23,954. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who did you vote for ?—Stracey.

23,955. What time in the day ?—About a quarter past two.

23,956. What did you get for voting ?—Nothing.

23,957. Was anything promised you ?—No.

23,958. Did they give you any beer ?—No.

23,959. Who canvassed you ?—No one.

23,960. Had you promised your vote ?—No.

23,961. Have you had anything since ?—No.

23,962. Is this the first time you have voted ?—Yes.

23,963. What public-houses were you at that day ?—Not any.

23,964. What were you doing all day ?—At work.

23,965. Where ?—The fish market.

23,966. Were you about the town, or do you keep a stall ?—I was working in the fish market.

C. Andrews.

CHARLES ANDREWS sworn and examined.

23,967. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A publican.

23,968. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

23,969. For whom ?—Stracey.

23,970. At what time in the day did you vote ?—

Between three and four, I cannot say to a few minutes.

23,971. What did you get for voting?—Well, I received 5*l.*

23,972. Who did you get that from?—Mr. Hart Bowgen.

23,973. Was that for yourself and to get up other men?—It was to get up other men.

23,974. How many did you get?—Eight.

23,975. Just give me their names? We know Daynes was one.—Daynes' name is on the list, and I have put down the money that I gave each of them; but I am a very bad scholar, and I don't know whether you can make out my writing.

23,976. Just read it out?—Fenn is one.

23,977. Who is he?—He is a man who keeps a public-house by the sign of the "Goat," or at least he kept it then. He don't keep it now.

23,978. What did you give him?—5*s.*

23,979. Who is the next man?—Mr. Brakenbury, of St. Benedict's, a butcher.

23,980. What did you give him?—5*s.*; then Daynes, the young man who has just been in, 5*s.*, and Powley 5*s.*

23,981. Where does he live?—He lives in Fisher's Lane.

23,982. Do you know his Christian name?—I do not.

23,983. Go on to the next?—Francis Witherick.

23,984. Where does he live?—In Pipemakers' Yard, St. Benedict's. I gave him 10*s.* Then Robert Boast of St. Benedict's.

23,985. What did you give him?—10*s.*

23,986. Where does he live?—The next yard in St. Benedict's, and Thomas Gough, tailor, in St. Benedict's.

23,987. What did you give him?—5*s.*

23,988. That is 2*l.* 10*s.*?—Yes.

23,989. You kept the rest, did you?—I spent 10*s.* for drink.

23,990. And that left 2*l.* for yourself?—Yes.

23,991. Was that drink for yourself or for voters?—For the men in the house after the election was over.

23,992. Did these men come back?—Not all of them, some of them did.

23,993. Did any other men who had voted come back?—I cannot say, there was a great many people in the house after the election.

23,994. You did not operate upon any but those?—No.

23,995. That is the full list?—That is the full list of what I did with my money.

23,996. What time did you yet this money?—I should think it was 10 minutes or a quarter past three; it was after three I know.

JOSIAH WILLIAMS sworn and examined.

23,997. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—I did.

23,998. At what time in the day?—Before I had my breakfast. Past nine.

23,999. You had been active as a canvasser, had you not?—I had done all I could, according to the best of my ability.

24,000. Were you a paid canvasser?—I was not.

24,001. You have been engaged on former elections, have you not?—I have never been publicly engaged.

24,002. You have taken an active part?—I have.

24,003. You took an active part in Waters' election?—Yes.

24,004. And in the election before that?—Yes.

24,005. And you had always money given you to spend?—Not a farthing.

24,006. Surely they trusted you with some money, did they not?—Surely they did not.

24,007. Did you canvass then?—Yes.

24,008. There was a great deal of money afloat upon the occasion of those two prior elections, the one of 1865, and the other of 1860?—There was money.

24,009. A good deal? You were a canvasser, you know.—I was a canvasser, but I had no handling of any money.

24,010. Do you mean to say that, taking an active interest in the elections, you cannot tell me that there was a great deal of money afloat?—I believe there was, but not handling any I cannot tell you to what amount.

24,011. You not only worked in the parliamentary elections, but you have also taken an active part in the municipal elections?—Yes.

24012. Did you spend any money then?—No.

24,013. What ward is yours?—The second.

24,014. Was there a contest in your ward?—At the last municipal election I think not.

24,015. Was there a contest the time before?—I think there was the time before, but we have not had many contests in the second ward, the second ward is a ward which is not usually contested at municipal elections.

24,016. What ward was it in which you took an interest at the municipal elections?—If there is nothing to do in my own, I perhaps go into some others and do the best I can.

24,017. But at the last election did you not take a very active interest in one, or more than one of the wards?—I am about the city doing the best I can for the Conservative party.

24,018. You spent a good deal of money, did you not, at the last municipal election?—No, I did not.

24,019. You know there was a considerable amount of money spent?—No, I really do not know that there was.

24,020. Do you mean to say that you took so little interest, or that you know so little about the proceedings at the last municipal election, that you do not know that there was a considerable sum of money spent?—I cannot say that there was a considerable sum.

24,021. Was money spent at all?—I believe there was.

24,022. In which ward?—In all the wards, I should say, more or less.

24,023. There were not contests in all the wards?—I only allude to those that had contests.

24,024. In what wards were there contests?—I cannot remember now. I had no idea I should be called upon to answer such questions after such a lapse of time.

24,025. It was only last November, just before the election, and a man does not obliterate all these things from his memory unless he muddles himself with beer which I do not suppose you do?—I don't think a man tries to remember them much.

24,026. Do you try to forget what you spend at the municipal elections, is it convenient to do so?—I would tell you if I knew what money was spent, but I don't know.

24,027. Was there a very strong contest in the seventh and eighth wards?—I don't think I went into the seventh and eighth wards the last municipal election; I went into the fourth ward.

24,028. There was a contest in the seventh and eighth?—I think there was, but I don't think I went down there.

24,029. In the fourth ward was money spent?—I believe there was.

24,030. Did you hear of money being paid to people upon the terms that they should vote at the parliamentary election?—I never heard such a thing mooted until you now ask me the question.

24,031-2. Now, did you spend some money at the last election?—No.

24,033. Did you take up voters on the day of the poll?—Yes.

NINETEENTH DAY.

J. Williams.

30 Sept. 1869.

24,034. Did you order beer for any men?—No.

24,035. At any public-house?—No.

24,036. Did you promise any money to anybody?—Not any.

24,037. Nor beer?—Nor beer.

24,038. Are you sure about that?—I am quite sure.

24,039. How many did you take up?—I cannot tell you how many I actually took up. I was all day soliciting. I did not take up all that I solicited. I went to see if some of them had not voted, but I did not go with all of them that I went after.

24,040. Did anybody go with you?—Oh, yes, two or three. I believe you now mean the voters?

24,041. Yes?—Yes, I believe I did go up with two or three.

24,042. But did anybody go with you to get the voters up?—Yes.

24,043. Who went with you?—Oh, several people in the course of the day.

24,044. You being a canvasser, I suppose, confined yourself on that occasion to one ward?—Yes, pretty nearly.

24045. Which ward?—The second ward.

24,046. Who went with you to get up voters in the second ward?—I will tell you if I can remember. I have no wish to conceal it, but I should not like to tell you wrong.

24,047. Did Andrews go with you?—No, I was not in Andrews' company. I don't know that I saw him on the day of the election; in fact I had no particular companion at all. I saw from the lists the men who had not voted, and I went after them; I took no one in particular.

24,048. Do you know Hart?—Yes, I was in Hart's company some little time of the day.

24,049. Did he go with you to the voters?—Yes, I think he did; I know I was with him.

24,050. Did you hear him promise money to them?—No, I did not hear him.

24,051. Don't you know he did?—No, I don't know he did.

24,052. Did he not tell you he did?—No, he did not tell me so.

24,053. You know nothing, then, of any payments going on?—I do not, I assure you.

24,054. Nor beer being given?—Nor beer, not for venal purposes.

24,055. Do you know of any money having been paid since the election?—No, I do not.

24,056. By Hart?—No.

24,057. Do you know of any score for beer being paid at any public-house?—No, I don't know that he set up any score.

24,058. Have you not heard that there was a score in your ward?—No, I have not heard so.

24,059. Did you receive anything for voting?—I did not.

24,060. Or the promise of anything?—Nor the promise of anything. I did not wish for anything.

24,061. Were you paid for your canvass?—I was not paid.

24,062. You were a mere volunteer?—I was a mere volunteer; I never had anything for it, and never thought about it.

24,063. (Mr. Mansfield.) There was no present made to you afterwards by anyone for your services?—No, I never had a penny in my life.

W. Hewett.

WILLIAM HEWETT sworn and examined.

24,064. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who did you vote for?—Stracey.

24,065. At what time?—About half-past eight.

24,066. Had you promised your vote?—No.

24,067. In what ward did you vote?—The one close by St. John's Church. I do not know the name of the ward.

24,068. Were you at the "Horse Shoes" that morning?—No.

24,069. Were you at any public-house that morning?—Yes, at my own house.

24,070. Where is that?—The "Builders' Arms," Pottergate Street.

24,071. Had you any voters there that morning?—Not that I know of.

24,072. Had you any during the day?—No.

24,073. Was any score for beer settled afterwards?—No.

24,074. Did you serve any beer to voters that was paid for by any other than themselves?—No.

24,075. Was there much business in your house that day?—No, that there was not; very little indeed.

24,076. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

24,077. Were you promised anything?—No.

24,078. Have you had anything since?—No.

24,079. Did you give any money or beer to voters to go and vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—No.

24,080. You are quite certain of that?—Yes, certain.

W. Simpson.

WILLIAM SIMPSON sworn and examined.

24,081. (Mr. Biron) What are you?—A master turner.

24,082. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

24,083. For whom?—Stracey.

24,084. What time in the day?—Between three and four.

24,085. What did you get for voting?—Not anything.

24,086. Why did you not vote sooner?—Because I did not think about voting at all. I had not made up my mind before.

24,087. What made you come to the conclusion that you would vote at half-past three?—I don't know; I thought as I had a vote I would vote at last.

24,088. Who was it asked you about it?—No one.

24,089. Where had you been all the day?—I had been at work all the morning until about half-past 12.

24,090. And after half-past 12?—I went into the "Three Pigeons" and had a glass of ale.

24,091. Who did you see at the "Pigeons"?—Several people.

24,092. Just tell me one?—Well, there was Mr. Fletcher, and Mr. Baldwin was there, but I did not notice particularly.

24,093. Did you not get 12*s.* 6*d.* there?—Not a farthing.

24,094. Did not you among the other men there get some money to vote?—Not a farthing.

24,095. Was anything given to your wife?—No.

24,096. Not on the day of the election?—No.

24,097. Nor since, for your voting?—No.

24,098. Did you see Hulme, the chemist, that day?—Yes. I think I saw him about 5 or 6 o'clock.

24,099. Did you not see him before you had voted?—No.

24,100. Did not Hulme send down to you?—No.

24,101. Did you go upstairs to the committee room?—No.

24,102. Were you not alone with Hulme that day before you voted in a room at the "Pigeons"?—No.

24,103. That you swear?—That I swear.

24,104. Were you not in a room with Hulme alone that day?—No.

24,105. Or in a room with him at all?—No.

24,106. Do you mean to swear that you had neither money nor beer for voting upon this occasion?—I did not.

24,107. You had voted for the Liberals on a former occasion, had you not?—No.

JOB GIBBS SHRIMPLING sworn and examined.

24,108. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shoemaker.

24,109. You voted at the last election for Stracey?—Yes.

24,110. What time in the day?—About a quarter or half-past 3.

24,111. What did you get for voting?—One sovereign.

24,112. Who gave it to you?—Mr. Hardiment.

24,113. Where was that?—At Mr. Mackley's house.

24,114. At the "Woolpack"?—Yes.

24,115. What time in the day?—About a quarter or 20 minutes past three.

24,216. Was that on the landing?—Yes.

24,117. Did you see anybody else paid there?—Yes, one more besides myself.

24,118. Who was that?—I do not know.

24,119. You are sure about that?—Yes, quite certain, sure; the man was a stranger to me.

24,120. You cannot tell me the name of the man?—I cannot.

HENRY JOHN WARNER recalled and further examined.

H. J. Warner.

24,121. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Now answer me without any reserve. You say you started from your house with Townshend that evening?—Yes.

24,122. What time did you leave your house?—I should think between eight or nine, as near as I can tell you.

24,123. Where did you go first?—To the Corn Hall.

24,124. How long did you remain at that place?—I might be there perhaps 20 minutes or half an hour.

24,125. What did you do there?—Nothing, except have two glasses of ale.

24,126. Do you mean to say you were only drinking?—Only drinking at this house.

24,127. Were there voters there?—I believe there was, because there was a great many came out of the hall and went in there.

24,128. That is in No. 1 ward, is it not?—No, it is not in the first ward.

24,129. Was Townshend talking to the voters there?—Townshend was talking to people.

24,130. And were you talking to them?—I was laughing with them, but I don't think I could tell you the name of one.

24,131. I don't want you to give me the name, but were you talking to the voters?—I was talking to some men.

24,132. And trying to persuade them to vote for Sir Henry?—I don't think I did.

24,133. There is no harm in that.—No.

24,134. Were you trying to persuade them to vote for Sir Henry?—I was talking about the election.

24,135. I suppose you were anxious that Sir Henry should get in?—I was.

24,136. If you were anxious you would naturally try and persuade them to vote, would you not?—Yes.

24,137. Where did you go to from there?—I came back to my own house, I believe.

24,138. How long did you remain?—Until about 12 o'clock.

24,139. Were there voters in your own house that evening?—There were some.

24,140. Was Townshend with you then?—Yes, Townshend was in my house.

24,141. Did you go amongst the voters in your own house?—I went into my room; they sat in a kitchen where I passed through. I was obliged to go into the room.

24,142. Did you talk to the voters that night and try to get them to vote for Sir Henry?—I did talk to them, and I might make the remark, "Will you vote for Sir Henry?"

24,143. You knew that Townshend was actively engaged in getting up voters, did you not?—Yes.

24,144. And I suppose, having been actively engaged throughout the day in doing it, he was actively engaged then?—Yes.

24,145. You say you remained in your own house until between 12 and 1?—Yes.

24,146. Then your own house closed?—Yes.

24,147. Where did you go from your own house?—I and Townshend walked about the first ward.

24,148. What for?—To see who was about; that is all.

24,149. But this was between 12 and 1 at night?—Yes.

24,150. You were walking about the ward after 12 at night?—Yes.

24,151. What were you doing?—Seeing who was about on the opposite side of the question, seeing if there was anybody looking after voters.

24,152. Were you not looking after voters?—No, no further than I and Townshend were walking about.

24,153. Were you not looking after voters in your own ward?—Yes, if we had seen them we should have spoken to them.

24,154. Then you were looking after voters?—Yes.

24,155. What houses did you go to?—To the "Cupid and Bow."

24,156. Independently of the "Cupid and Bow," did you not go to the houses of some of the voters?—No, we did not.

24,157. What time did you get to the "Cupid and Bow"?—It was between 12 and 1; we were very near down there when we started.

24,158. How long did you remain in the "Cupid and Bow"?—I should think an hour, as near as I can tell.

24,159. Is that a night house?—It is a late house.

24,160. Were there voters in there?—There were some met us at the door as we came out.

24,161. You met a number of voters at the door, coming out?—I think there was only two.

24,162. Who were they?—I believe Bloomfield was one and Bloom, I believe his name is, was another; I believe those were the two men outside.

24,163. Did you talk with them?—Yes, they are neighbours of mine.

24,164. And you talked with them?—Yes.

24,165. How long did you stand talking to those two?—We might stand outside the "Cupid and Bow," and round the neighbourhood, I should think an hour.

24,166. Simply standing there talking to these two men?—Yes; there was Mr. Margetson came up at the time.

24,167. It is a very singular thing at this time of the morning, nearly half-past one, that you should be there talking to two men for an hour. Were you trying to persuade them to vote?—No, I was not trying.

24,168. What were you talking about in the open street all that time?—We were looking after the opposite party.

24,169. Who of the opposite party did you see?—Not any at all, I don't think.

24,170. Then, seeing none of the opposite party at half-past one in the morning, what induced you to remain there for an hour?—We were talking.

24,171. You did not expect they were going to commit burglary, did you?—No; we were talking and smoking.

24,172. Now, did you not go into the houses of voters?—No, I did not.

24,173. Did Townshend?—I don't mind Townshend going to the houses of voters.

NINETEENTH DAY.

H. J. Warner.

30 Sept. 1869.

24,174. Did you make an arrangement with Bloomfield and the other man to go to your house early in the morning?—That was made an arrangement.

24,175. Did you not make an arrangement with a number of other voters to come to your house the first thing in the morning?—I did not myself.

24,176. But did Townshend?—Yes, Townshend did.

24,177. Did he not tell them that there would be refreshments provided for them before they went to the poll?—He said there should be a breakfast.

24,178. Then is that what you were doing all the time until you opened your own house in the morning?—Yes.

24,179. Trying to get people to come up and be prepared to go to the poll?—Yes; the men that we met out, and some that we saw before.

24,180. To get them to come early to your house to breakfast?—Some was at my house before we started.

24,181. (Mr. Biron.) Those you kept there, I suppose?—No we did not, they met in the morning.

24,182. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Tell me how many men came to your house in the morning, what time in the morning, and how you managed to breakfast and send them off to the poll?—There was George Bloom, Samuel Townshend, Henry Townshend, Frederick Bloomfield, Margetson, and Thomas Selfe (reading from a paper).

24,183. And you had got that piece of paper in your pocket when we were examining you originally?—Yes.

24,184. Are those all the men that came to your house?—Those are all I can recollect.

24,185. There were others, were there not, whose names you do not recollect?—I don't think there was any more.

24,186. (Mr. Biron.) Where does Margetson live?—He is a stonemason; he has a place at Bishopbridge, and on Bank Plain.

24,187. Thomas Selfe is a butcher, is he not?—Yes.

24,188. Where does Frederick Bloomfield live?—He lives in Palace Street; he is a butcher.

24,189. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) These were men with whom you were well acquainted?—Yes.

24,190. And they were very active partizans of Sir Henry Stracey?—The chief of them were supporters of Sir Henry Stracey.

24,191. Were there also a number of other men at your breakfast?—No, only those that I gave you a list of.

24,192. Were there not other men there?—I don't think there was any more, only what I have put on that paper that I can recollect.

24,193. What time did you open your house?—Four o'clock.

24,194. What time did you give your breakfast?—About half-past five to six.

24,195. When did your house begin to fill?—It began to fill soon after 9 o'clock.

24,196. Before nine?—Very little before 9 o'clock.

24,197. But were there a number of persons brought there by these men before 9 o'clock?—I cannot say that there was.

21,198. Were there not a number of men brought there ready to go up to the poll immediately it opened?—I don't recollect.

24,199. Now reflect. Were there not a number of men brought to your house to be ready to go up to the poll when it opened at 8 o'clock?—I cannot say that.

24,200. You cannot forget it?—I cannot recollect that now; I myself was up at the poll at half-past seven, to be there when it was opened.

24,201. Were there not a number of men that came there for the purpose of being ready to go to the poll? The polling booth was not far off your house?—No it was on Tombland.

24,202. Were not Townshend and these other persons, or some of them, giving the men beer and refreshment in your house?—Yes.

24,203. Until they went up to the poll?—I cannot say whether it was before or after they voted.

24,204. They were giving them refreshment?—Yes; I was up at the poll an hour before I polled.

24,205. Did that continue from time to time during the whole of the day?—There was people in and out of my house the whole of the day; sometimes I was out myself, and sometimes I was at home.

24,206. Were not the men who were brought there having beer and refreshment given them during the whole day?—Yes, there was a great deal of beer drunk in the day.

24,207. Were not between 50 and 60 men brought to your house during that day?—There was more than 100 men backwards and forwards at my house that day, indoors and out.

24,208. Were those four men you have mentioned, whose names are on that paper, the people who were talking to the voters, and giving or ordering them refreshment?—That I cannot say. What they had was all paid for.

24,209. But did they or some persons who supplied them with money pay for it?—Of course there was lots of drinking going on.

24,210. Was it not paid for either by these men or by Dr. Allen or some other person?—I did not see Dr. Allen in my house that day.

24,211. You did run up a score with Townshend?—Yes.

24,212. Was that for beer given to the men who went up to the poll?—At various times.

24,213. You have given us the amount of that?—Yes, about 30*s.* as near as I can tell; I never put it in a book.

24,214. Was there any other score at the end of the day which stood against any other man?—No, I had no beer scores only which I mentioned.

24,215. Was there a quantity of drink or refreshment which had not been paid for at all, and for which you had no positive debt, if I may so term it?—No, all that was sold that day was paid for with the exception of what I named.

24,216. Which of the Mr. Straceys came to your house that day?—I never saw one come into my house that day, I was told that Mr. Stracey went past my house.

24,217. Did Mr. Edward Stracey come to your house that day?—I did not see him there.

24,218. Mr. Dudley Stracey came, we are told?—Not indoors.

24,219. He pulled up outside?—Yes.

24,220. Did you see him take away men?—No, I did not.

24,221. But you know that he did?—I do not know that he did.

24,222. You have heard that he did?—I have heard that he did, but Mr. Stracey was not in my house that day.

24,223. Was there any other active supporter of Sir Henry Stracey who came and paid for things at your house that day?—Yes, there was a Mr. Townshend, a broker, had several glasses of ale; he and his friends drank with each other, but I did not see him treating anybody personally.

24,224. Who manages the bar in your house?—I do it myself; but I have no bar, only a little room with a shelf to it; mine is only a country house.

24,225. What was the entire amount which you took that day?—I don't think I had a better week that week than I had before; I don't think I took much more money than I did before.

24,226. I should like to know how much beer and how much spirits were consumed in your house that day?—I don't suppose I consumed more on that day than I do on a Saturday.

24,227. I don't care about other days.—I cannot tell you exactly what was consumed.

24,228. You opened your house at 4 o'clock in the morning?—Yes, but there was not much doing.

24,229. Was there a good deal of eating?—There was some eating.

24,230. Did you take as much as 20*l.* that day?—I wish I had.

24,231. Did you?—No, nor yet 3*l.* that day. I don't believe I took more than 3*l.* that day, if I took so much.

24,232. I mean in addition to what you were paid afterwards?—Without what I was paid afterwards.

24,233. Do you mean to say that only 1*l.* 10*s.* was paid to you that day?—Yes, I might take 3*l.*

24,234. Do you mean to say that was in addition to the score that was afterwards paid you?—Without that money.

24,235. Did you see any money handed over by Townshend or any of those other people to the voters there?—I did not.

24,236. You heard it talked of, I suppose?—Not until after the election.

24,237. When did you first hear of it after the election?—The next day I heard that there was bribery going on.

24,238. At your house?—No, I do not know that.

24,239. But did you not hear that it had been going on at your house?—No.

24,240. Not at your house?—No, I did not. All I heard was about the "Woolpack" and the "Trumpet," but I never heard anything about my house.

24,241. I wish you had been candid in the first instance; it would have saved you a great deal of unpleasantness and me a great deal of trouble.

24,242. (Mr. Mansfield.) Were any of these people in your house throughout the night?—No, not throughout the night; they were there very early in the morning and very late at night.

Adjourned to to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

TWENTIETH DAY.

Friday, 1st October 1869.

James Finch recalled and further examined.

24,243. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You went to the poll?—Yes.

24,244. With Manners?—And Vines as well.

24,245. Where did you pick up Vines?—He lived next door to me.

24,246. Is that Vines the man who is called the Conservative working man?—Yes; Manners' landlord is Mr. Vines.

24,247. Did he come to get you to go up and vote?—No, he never asked me.

24,248. Did Vines promise you anything?—No.

24,249. Or give you anything?—Not a farthing; I never heard of anything of the like, and yet weren't promised anything.

24,250. How came you to say that if people were like you nobody would get anything out of the witnesses?—Well, if I said that I must have been elevated at the time, for I don't recollect upon my oath ever saying the words.

24,251. Had not something occurred which induced you to make such an observation as that?—I do not remember saying the words.

24,252. What was it that could have induced you to make such an observation?—I do not remember saying the words.

24,253. I do not ask you whether you remember saying the words, but you cannot say there was not something passing in your mind that made you make that observation?—I cannot say why I said it. I might possibly say the words when I was a little elevated.

24,254. What could have induced you to say that you would commit gross perjury?—I don't remember saying the words.

24,255. But what passed which could have induced you to make that observation?—Well, if I said so, I did so, but I say, as I said before, I must have been elevated at the time when I did say so. That is all the reference I can give you with respect to saying the words.

24,256. Are you in the habit of getting elevated?—Most chimney sweeps get a drop of something sometimes.

24,257. Did not Mr. Gedge say something which induced you to go and vote?—Yes, Mr. Gedge came and asked me to go and vote.

24,258. Did not he do something more than merely ask you?—Yes.

24,259. What did he do?—He said, "You work for "me, and I oblige you in giving you my work. Now "do come and oblige me and go and vote."

24,260. Did he say he would give you work in future?—No. That weren't mentioned on neither side. He neither said he would give me work in the future, neither he would not give me work.

24,261. Have you been in the habit of working for him?—Yes, a number of years, and I have earned a deal of money from him too.

24,262. Did he say he would not give you any work if you did not vote for Sir Henry?—No.

24,263. Did he or Vines say anything to you about beer?—Yes; there was a pot of beer each one bought previous to our going to vote, and that is all we bought.

24,264. Who paid for it?—I paid for one pot of beer, and Mr. Vines paid for one pot at the sign of the "Queen Anne."

24,265. That was for you to vote?—I had one glass, and the remainder I gave to the neighbours that were standing about.

24,266. Were they voters?—They were in my yard, adjoining my premises.

24,267. Did you see Vines pay for any more beer?—No, not a drop more.

24,268. Was anything said about 10 shillings' worth of beer?—Not a word. I never heard the word mentioned. I will take my oath before God and man.

David Brooks sworn and examined.

D. Brooks.

24,269. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

24,270. What time in the day?—It might be about a quarter to 4, I think.

24,271. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing.

24,272. Who asked you to vote?—No one.

24,273. What made you so late?—I did not

TWENTIETH DAY.

D. Brooks.

1 Oct. 1869.

make my mind up to vote at all, not just at that time.

24,274. Had you ever been asked to vote?—No.

24,275. Not by anybody?—No.

24,276. You never asked anybody to give you something?—No.

24,277. Do you work for Hart?—Yes.

24,278. What did he give you?—Nothing.

24,279. Did not he ask you to vote?—No, certainly not.

24,280. Did he stand you any beer?—No, not a glass of beer.

24,281. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Where were you all the morning?—I was busy about. Sometimes I was looking after my business. I was not at work for Mr. Hart at that time. I was at work for myself.

24,282. (Mr. Mansfield.) What were you?—A master sweep. I had two men at work for me then.

24,283. You got nothing for your vote?—Nothing.

24,284. Have you had anything since?—No, nothing since.

24,285. Is this the first time you have voted?—No.

24,286. How have you voted before?—I voted for Waters before.

24,287. What did you get then?—Nothing.

24,288. Did you vote before that?—Yes.

24,289. For whom did you vote then?—That is too far back; I cannot recollect.

24,290. What colour did you vote for?—Tory, I believe. I cannot tell you exactly now.

24,291. Who took you up to the poll this time?—No one. I went up myself.

24,292. Did not you get anything for your day's work?—No, not a farthing, nor yet a glass of beer.

24,293. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You know that Waters spent a large sum in bribery, don't you?—I don't know.

24,294. Were not you paid for your vote on that occasion?—I was not paid a farthing.

24,295. Two pounds was given for a vote by Mr. Waters, do not you know that?—Not to me.

24,296. Did you vote late in the day for Mr. Waters?—Yes, late in the day. I in general do.

24,297. Why do you generally vote late?—My business calls me to all parts of the city.

24,298. A chimney sweep has plenty of time to go and vote?—Sometimes they have.

24,299. Were you not looking out for what you could get?—No, certainly not. I never got anything in my life.

24,300. What induced you to vote for Waters, and not for the other Conservative?—Because I thought he was a good man.

24,301. Did not you think the other Conservative a good man?—Which other one?

24,302. Mr. Goldsmid, who stood with him?—I did not vote for Mr. Goldsmid.

24,303. Why?—They both stood in the same interest. I thought it would do more good voting for one.

24,304. How could you do more good to your party by voting for one only?—It was my own idea. It was no one else's idea.

J. Lamb.

JAMES LAMB sworn and examined.

24,305. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A butcher.

24,306. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Stracey.

24,307. What time in the day?—Betwixt 2 and 3 o'clock.

24,308. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

24,309. Who brought you up to the poll?—Mr. Cattermole, and Mr. Salisbury, I think his name was. He keeps a public-house.

24,310. Where did you meet them?—I never met them. They came to my house.

24,311. What did they promise you if you would go and vote?—Nothing. They asked me if I would go and vote, and I said, "No." They said, "Come on."

24,312. They had been two or three times before that day, had they not?—No.

24,313. Had anybody asked you to go up?—Yes; a man for the blue party came twice that morning.

24,314. Did not anyone from the Tories come?—No, not a soul.

24,315. Why did you not vote without having people come for you?—I did not intend to go at all. I have my shop to attend to, but my missus said, "Go on," just in that manner.

24,316. Did not you get anything afterwards?—Not a farthing.

24,317. Were these customers of yours?—Yes. They sometimes send down for a piece of meat, and the like.

24,318. They were men you wanted to oblige?—Yes. That is the way I should have voted; if I intended to vote I should have voted for Mr. Stracey.

24,319. It is natural enough. I only want to know the truth of it. You would not have voted, if these men had not asked you, for Stracey?—Yes, I should have voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

W. Wilson.

WILLIAM WILSON sworn and examined.

24,320. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

24,321. For Tillett and Russell?—Yes.

24,322. What time in the morning?—About 10 minutes or a quarter before 9.

24,323. Did you not afterwards vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Certainly not. I went to my employment after then, and did not go out no more all day, only my dinner time, not till after it was over.

24,324. Were you not on the register at two places?—No.

24,325. (Mr. Biron.) Are you a freeman?—No, an occupier.

24,326. Are you simply an occupier?—That is all.

24,327. You are sure you did not vote twice?—Quite positive of that. I know it is wrong in the poll book. I am aware it is so there, but that is incorrect.

24,328. Did you receive anything for your vote?—No.

24,329. Or the promise of anything?—No.

J. Lane.

JAMES LANE sworn and examined.

24,330. (Mr. Mansfield.) You are a publican?—Yes.

24,331. You keep the "Pigeons" public-house?—Yes.

24,332. You took an active part in the business of the election?—Yes, I took a small active part.

24,333. Your house was full of Stracey voters the whole day?—It was full of other voters as well as Stracey.

24,334. But principally Stracey voters?—Some of Stracey's.

24,335. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) They were almost all Stracey voters?—No, several were.

24,336. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you know Hulme, the chemist?—Yes.

24,337. Was he in the house that day?—Yes, in the committee room.

24,338. Was he there the whole day, in and out?—Yes, to the best of my knowledge.

24,339. Did he order any beer?—Not any beer. He ordered only what people had that had to do with him; a pint or so, and he paid me for it then and there.

24,340. Was any score run up for beer that day?—Not any score.

24,341. Was any settled for afterwards?—Nothing but merely a pint or two that his messengers had, and people that were working in the committee room.

24,342. When?—Something about a week or so afterwards. It was somewhere about 10*s*.

24,343. That was paid to you by Mr. Hulme?—That was paid to me by Mr. Hulme; about 10*s*. I was not to give beer to nobody, only people he had running about, messengers.

24,344. Do you recollect Griffiths being there that day?—I think I saw him there that day.

24,345. What did you offer him for his vote?—I never offered him anything.

24,346. Did not you hear anybody offer him anything?—Nothing.

24,347. Did not you hear any money offered?—Not any at all. It was my belief there was not a halfpenny given till after the election was over.

24,348. You knew Mr. Hulme was bribing?—I heard of it afterwards. I did not hear of it then.

24,349. When did you first hear that Mr. Hulme had been bribing?—I did not hear of it till the first of your sitting. I did not hear anything of it, not that he had any money, not till afterwards.

24,350. He was in and out of your house the whole of that day?—He was in about 7 in the morning, and I did not know that he left there myself.

24,351. Are you certain that you did not see Mr. Hulme doing business with any voters in your house?—I did not see a symptom of it.

24,352. Did you see a man named Mitchell there?—I am sure I cannot say. I may know the man, but I cannot say. There is a good many people called Mitchell.

24,353. Was Mr. Dombrain in your house that day?—No, not to the best of my belief. I never saw him.

24,354. Are you certain he was not in your house that day?—Not to the best of my belief.

24,355. You knew he was taking an active part in the election?—I do not know the man personally.

24,356. Not Mr. Dombrain, the clergyman?—I don't know him, not if I was to meet him in the street.

24,357. Was there any clergyman in your house that day?—Not to the best of my knowledge.

24,358. Are you certain there was not?—Not certain, because many people went upstairs that I did not see.

24,359. You were in the house the whole of the day?—No, not the whole day.

24,360. Nearly the whole day?—Yes, I did not go out till half-past 2.

24,361. How soon did you come back?—I came back about 4, not till after 4.

24,362. What voters did you take up to the poll?—I did not take any in particular.

24,363. Did you walk up to the poll with any voter?—I don't recollect walking up to the poll with them. When they were walking up to the poll I walked past, that's all.

24,364. Did you see any voter to the poll?—Not more than walking up to the poll, and they went and voted. I went with a brother of mine.

24,365. These were some of the voters in your house?—No, I did not go with one out of my house, to the best of my knowledge.

24,366. Which room was the committee sitting in in your house?—Right fronting the Broad Street, in St. Andrew's, directly opposite the polling place. My house was not further from the polling place than across there (illustrating).

24,367. Were there any other persons besides members of the committee going up to that room?—Men who had business with Mr. Hulme.

24,368. Men who had votes to sell?—They went up and down. I did not know who they was.

24,369. Men who you knew had votes to sell?—I was not aware that there was a shilling got.

24,370. Do not you know that there were many men in your house waiting for what they could get?—They did not tell me.

24,371. You knew from the style of the men?—They did not tell me. There were some to whom money would be very useful if they got it, there is no doubt about that. I attended to my own business. Many people I knew I asked, "Are you going to vote for Stracey?" If they said, "Yes," I said, "Go as early as you can." I voted myself before 9.

24,372. Did not you know that persons were loitering about your house, waiting for money?—I had business to attend to. I don't know what they were waiting for.

24,373. You knew very well what they wanted?—I might think wrong if I thought.

24,374. What did you think?—I did not think about it. That did not concern me. I had no money to give them, and no authority to give them anything. I never had money given to me for that purpose.

24,375. You knew Mr. Hulme was there?—If anybody wanted to see Mr. Hulme I introduced them to him. If persons wanted him they went and spoke to him.

24,376. Was Dr. Allen in your house in the course of the day?—I believe he came in, but I did not see him.

24,377. Who did see him?—I suppose Mr. Hulme did. I did not see Dr. Allen. I have a side door for people to go up into the room without my seeing them.

24,378. What were you doing till half-past 4?—I had a brother of mine who had a vote, and I went to ask him.

24,379. Did you offer him anything?—No, I had no money.

24,380. Did you offer him anything from anyone else?—Not a halfpenny. I did not see a halfpenny given.

24,381. Where did you go before 4 o'clock?—To this brother of mine, that is all. If I met anyone in the street, I asked them if they were going to vote for Sir Henry Stracey; if they said "Yes," I said, "Go as early as you can."

24,382. Did you offer them anything?—Not a halfpenny.

24,383. Did you see Robert Boast in your house?—Yes.

24,384. William Simpson?—Yes.

24,385. John Crotch?—Yes.

24,386. Francis Witherick?—Yes.

24,387. Did not you know that these men were looking after money?—I have no doubt they would have taken money if it was offered. I had no money to give them. I had only money of my own.

24,388. Did not you see Hulme with some money?—No.

24,389. Are you quite certain of that?—Quite certain; I was not at home.

24,390. Have you never said that you got up voters by giving them two or three shillings apiece?—I never said so at all.

24,391. You had a good deal of talk with Hulme that day?—Well, no; I should think I had as little talk with Hulme, the chemist, that day as anyone that had spoken to me at all.

24,392. Do not you recollect telling him of some men who were willing to vote?—No.

24,393. Are you quite certain about that?—No, I don't recollect that.

24,394. You told me just now that you introduced men to Hulme?—Everyone I thought was on my side, and would vote for Sir Henry Stracey, I said to him, "Have you made up your mind whom you are going to vote for?"

24,395. You told me just now you introduced voters to Hulme?—I never introduced anyone.

24,396. You said just now that you did?—If they asked for him.

24,397. Did anyone ask you for him?—Yes, people

TWENTIETH DAY.

J. Lane.

1 Oct. 1869.

asked me if Mr. Hulme was there, and I said "Yes," and introduced them.

24,398. Who were they?—I cannot tell you.

24,399. Do not you know what they wanted with Mr. Hulme?—No.

24,400. At what time of the day was this?—Different times of the day.

24,401. Can you tell me what times?—No, I could not tell you any stated time. People came and said, "Is Mr. Hulme here?" Then I introduced them upstairs. It was not a private room. That was a room open for anyone that had an interest in the election.

24,402. Have you spent any money of your own?—Not a halfpenny.

24,403. Have you ever said you spent money of your own?—No, I had no money to spend.

24,404. You had your own money?—I have to work very hard, and I have a wife and family to keep. I have no money to give away.

24,405. Have you been paid since for your services?—Nothing but for the cleaning up of the committee room.

24,406. How much was that?—I think I got about 2*l.* for the days they were in the committee room, for the cleaning up.

24,407. How many days were they there?—Two or three. They hired a committee room before they came to mine, but it was a small room.

24,408. What size was it?—It was a schoolroom. They did not hire many committee rooms at first. It was not big enough, and Mr. Hulme asked me to have my room.

24,409. Had anybody been to you the day before the election?—Not to the best of my knowledge.

24,410. The committee was sitting there?—Yes.

24,411. Was Hulme there the day before?—Yes.

24,412. Were a good many people going in and out?—A great many people were going out and in.

24,413. A good deal of beer was being served?—To the best of my belief in regard to beer being served there was not a pot of beer given away in any way in the shape of bribery.

24,414. Was Mr. Stanley at that committee room?—No, I don't know that he was.

24,415. Did you see Mr. Edward Stracey on the day of the election?—Yes.

24,416. Did he come to your house?—Yes, he and Mr. Patteson.

24,417. How long did they remain?—I should think not two minutes.

24,418. Did they go into the committee room?—Yes, and the words that caused me to go out was that there was a chance then if they worked. I said to my missus, "I don't know whether my brother will go and vote;" and I went and asked him. I did it with a good feeling, and I had not a halfpenny to give.

24,419. What time was this?—Between half-past 2 and 3.

24,420. Did you see Mr. Arthur Bignold that day?—No.

24,421. Did you see him the day before?—No.

24,422. Did you see him with reference to this election?—No.

24,423. Not on any occasion?—Not on any occasion. I may have met him, but not on any occasion to speak to.

24,424. Nor after the election?—Neither after the election nor before the election.

24,425. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) There were a lot of men standing about wanting money for their day's work, or something of that kind?—A quantity. I never heard but little about that. I said to all the people that asked me about it, "My good fellow, "there is no money to be had. Go and vote as early "as you can."

24,426. Did they ask you whether there was money going about, or say that they wanted money for their votes?—I think if I recollect right I told the people to the best of my belief that there was not a halfpenny to be had.

24,427. How came you, if you did not suppose that they wanted money, to say that?—There is no doubt there was a lot of people in my house who would have been very glad to have taken money.

24,428. There was a considerable number of people in your house who you believed would not only take but wanted money?—I believe they not only would take money, but they wanted money.

24,429. How many do you think there were in your house in the course of the day?—I could not give you an idea.

24,430. There were so many?—The people came out and in. The polling place was so close to my house.

24,431. I suppose you know the class of people very well who wanted money and would take it?—There is no doubt a class of people that come to my house would have taken money if it was offered to them. There is no doubt about it.

24,432. And a large number?—I don't say a very large number, but there is no doubt they would.

24,433. You found they were hanging about when you spoke to them?—There is no doubt they would have took money if they had any offered to them. I don't doubt it.

24,434. When you tried to get them to vote and found them reluctant, the only cause of reluctance you could assign was that they wanted money?—That was the only thing.

24,435. And there were a considerable number?—No doubt there were several, because I was so close to the polling place.

24,436. Not only several, but a large number?—10 or 12 people.

24,437. Ten or 12 at a time?—No, I don't know above 10 or 12 had any idea of stopping for money.

24,438. Who were those 10 or 12?—I could not tell you the names.

24,439. You were asked about three men. They were people of that class, were they not?—There is no doubt those people you named would have taken money if they had the chance.

24,440. Did you speak to those men and ask them to go and vote?—I don't know that I did speak to those men you spoke of. I spoke to those who I thought had a feeling like myself for the cause we voted for. I had a warm feeling in regard of Sir Henry Stracey.

24,441. No doubt you acted upon that warm feeling and tried to get them to vote?—I did the best to my belief in every way.

24,442. You thought there was no money to be had?—I did really. I thought there was not a halfpenny.

24,443. Had you taken a part in Waters' election?—No, I did not take no particular warm part. I voted on Waters' election.

24,444. There was a good deal of money going then we hear?—I did not get a halfpenny.

24,445. I suppose you know very well that money was being spent then?—I heard of it.

24,446. Did you vote for Goldsmid?—No, I voted for Waters.

24,447. Why did not you vote for Goldsmid as well?—I cannot tell you why I did not vote for Goldsmid. I voted a plumper for Waters.

24,448. Was Waters' committee room at your house?—No.

24,449. Why did not you vote for Goldsmid as well as for Waters?—I cannot tell you why. I had no particular reason.

24,450. He was a Conservative as well as Waters?—Yes.

24,451. That is the reason why you supported Sir Henry Stracey?—I supported Waters in a smaller way than Sir Henry Stracey. I have known Sir Henry Stracey for many years.

24,452. Why did not you support Goldsmid?—I could not tell you why I did not now.

24,453. You support a man who spends money, but you do not support a man who wishes to win an election fairly. Have you not said since the election that you gave money of your own to 30 or 40 voters, and that there was no harm in it?—No, I don't recollect, because I had no money of my own to give away.

24,454. You do not recollect, but have you said that?—I don't recollect saying such words, not at all. I have no money of my own.

24,455. If it never was the case, how can you say that you do not recollect?—In our houses there is a kind of chaff sometimes that you are liable to. They say, "There's so many voters might be got." I have had both parties in my house, and I might say something like that as a kind of chaff. I might have said, laughing, "I got so many voters," but it was all a matter of chaff, nothing more. One chaff one, and one chaff another.

24,456. You might have said that in chaff?—I might have said I took up so many voters, but never said I gave money, because I never had money.

24,457. I put it to you whether you did not say you had given money to 30 or 40 voters out of your own money?—No, I never said those words, because I never had the money.

24,458. I suppose you, like other people in Norwich, know that if you spend money for certain purposes you are very likely to get it repaid to you?—No, I could not see a halfpenny in the world that I was going to give. Nobody promised me money, nor I never went to ask for it.

24,459. Do not you know that it is a very common thing to pay men who have done those things on their own responsibility?—I don't know.

24,460. Have you heard of it?—I have heard of people getting money, of course.

24,461. Have you not heard that people who have done those things of their own accord have been repaid handsomely?—I never worked under those principles myself, but I have heard of it.

24,462. Of whom have you heard that?—I have heard it of people. I cannot tell you particular names now. I have heard, "So-and-so would not spend money unless he got it." I don't know the names. You asked me if I heard it. I don't know no other way.

JOHN UTTING sworn and examined.

J. Utting.

24,463. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I keep a shoe shop.

24,464. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

24,465. For whom did you vote?—For Stracey.

24,466. At what time of the day?—3 o'clock.

24,467. With whom did you go up to the poll?—No one.

24,468. Did you go up with Cattermole?—No.

24,469. You went by yourself?—Yes.

24,470. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

24,471. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—Yes, they called, but I did not promise.

24,472. Who called?—Mr. Cattermole and Salisbury.

24,473. They are Tories, are not they?—Yes.

24,474. Why did not you promise them if you were going to vote for Stracey?—I did not promise anyone.

24,475. Were not you waiting to get something?—No.

24,476. Why did you not vote earlier?—I could not go up before.

24,477. If you were going to vote for Stracey, why did not you say, "I am going to vote for Stracey; you may depend on me?"—I did not promise to anyone.

24,478. Why should not you promise unless you had some notion of hanging back?—I never do. I please myself who I vote for.

24,479. The vote would not be a secret?—Certainly not.

24,480. Then why did you not say which way you were going to vote? Were not you waiting?—No.

24,481. Did Lamb go up with you?—No.

24,482. Do you know Lamb?—Yes. He lives next door to me.

24,483. Did not you see him that afternoon?—No, I did not come home till half-past 2, and then I voted.

24,484. Did you see him vote?—No.

24,485. Were you at home all the morning?—No; out till half-past 2.

24,486. Where were you?—I was after my business.

24,487. Whereabouts?—Several places.

24,488. Tell me one place?—Mr. Furse, in Bridge Street.

24,489. That did not take you from 8 to 3?—I was obliged to go out, and I could not vote before.

24,490. You were going about, and you passed the polling place, I suppose, to go to those places?—No, I was not that way at all.

24,491. What were you doing?—I was after my business.

24,492. You had to go to different places you told me, and according to your account it took you seven hours to do it?—Well, I gave a straightforward vote. I took no bribes and no treat. The poll was open, and I could vote or not.

WILLIAM BRETT sworn and examined.

W. Brett.

24,493. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

24,494. For whom?—Mr. Stracey.

24,495. What time of the day?—Half-past 3.

24,496. What is your trade?—A master cabinet maker.

24,497. Where were you that morning?—On business.

24,498. Where were you engaged on business?—At home.

24,499. What business have you as a cabinet maker which kept you at work?—I have three men at work for me.

24,500. Yes, but they could work while you were away?—But I had no occasion to be away.

24,501. You had to vote?—I voted when my business was done.

24,502. It would not take you more than five minutes to vote?—I had not time to leave.

24,503. It would not take you more than five minutes to go to the polling place?—Very likely not, but I could not vote before.

24,504. Who came and asked you to go up?—No one. I went of my own free will.

24,505. Had you been canvassed?—Yes.

24,506. By whom?—Mr. Williams I think his name is.

24,507. Had you promised your vote?—Yes, I promised it a week before.

24,508. For Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

24,509. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

SAMUEL SYDER sworn and examined.

S. Syder.

24,510. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

24,511. What time of the day?—About half-past 3.

24,512. What made you vote so late?—Well, I had nothing to stop me voting any other time, but I did not vote till then.

24,513. Who asked you to vote?—Nobody.

TWENTIETH DAY.

S. Syder.

1 Oct. 1869.

24,514. Where were you all day?—I did not put the card in my pocket till afternoon, the card for voting.

24,515. Where were you all the day?—I was not at home all day, and I was not out all day. After dinner I did not come out till past 3.

24,516. You were about the market?—I went as far as the market.

24,517. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing at all.

24,518. Did not you ask for anything?—Nothing.

24,519. Have you had anything since?—Nothing since.

24,520. What public-houses were you at during the day?—None at all.

24,521. What were you doing the whole of the day?—I was in no public-house the whole day, not any one.

24,522. Where were you during the day?—I was out some part of the day.

24,523. Where?—I was up there towards the market, but not along with none of the parties.

24,524. With whom did you go to the poll?—Mr. James Perowne.

24,525. Who is he?—A man that lives down West Wymer Street.

24,526. Did he vote for Stracey too?—Yes.

24,527. Did he give you anything?—He gave me nothing.

24,528. Did you ask for anything?—No.

24,529. Have you heard of any money going?—No.

24,530. Were you asking to find out whether money was going?—No, I never asked that.

24,531. Have you ever voted before?—No, never voted before.

24,532. Who asked you to vote this time?—I was not asked to vote for Mr. Stracey.

24,533. Were you asked to vote at all?—I was asked previous to the election whether I would vote if Mr. Harvey came forward. I said I would not promise which way I would vote, and that is all I was talking about.

24,534. Did not you promise to vote for Stracey?—No.

24,535. You knew Mr. Hardiment?—No. I do not suppose I should know the man if you showed him me.

24,536. Which is your ward?—The third ward.

24,537. Do you know Mr. Hulme the chemist?—Yes, I knows him.

24,538. Did you get anything from him?—I never saw him that day, nor yet any other day, not since he pulled a tooth from me, and that is several years ago.

R. Green.

RICHARD GREEN sworn and examined.

24,539. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A draper I was, a carpenter now.

24,540. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

24,541. What time in the day?—Eight o'clock in the morning.

24,542. Did you get anything for voting?—Not a farthing.

24,543. Or the promise of anything?—No, nor yet the promise of anything.

24,544. Did you give any money to anybody else to vote?—Not a farthing.

W. T. Wilson.

WILLIAM THOMAS WILSON sworn and examined.

24,545. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

24,546. What time in the afternoon?—About 11 in the forenoon.

24,547. Where did you vote?—The eighth ward, St. Mary's.

24,548. Who came to fetch you?—Not anyone.

24,549. Had you been canvassed before?—Yes.

24,550. Who canvassed you?—Mr. Wiseman.

24,551. Did he promise you anything for your vote?—No. I told him he did not need to come to me at all.

24,552. That you would vote of your own accord?—Yes.

24,553. Had you ever had a vote before?—Yes.

24,554. At the election before?—Yes.

24,555. Did you vote Conservative then?—Same as I did this time.

24,556-7. Those are your principles, are they?—Yes.

24,558. You are sure you got nothing for your vote?—Not anything, not a farthing.

24,559. Were you not promised something?—No.

T. Wilkinson.

THOMAS WILKINSON sworn and examined.

24,560. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

24,561. What time in the day?—Betwixt 2 and 3.

24,562. What made you vote so late?—I had not an opportunity to go before.

24,563. What are you by trade?—A shopkeeper.

24,564. On your own account?—Yes.

24,565. Who helps you in the shop?—Only my wife.

24,566. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

24,567. Were you promised anything?—No.

24,568. Did you give or promise anything to anybody else?—No.

24,569. Did you get any beer?—No, only what I paid for.

24,570. Did you give any beer to any voter?—No, I did not.

24,571. Who took you to the poll?—A man of the name of Burridge, a baker.

24,572. Have you voted before?—No.

W. Bunn.

WILLIAM BUNN sworn and examined.

24,573. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—An iron moulder.

24,574. In whose employment are you?—Riches and Watts.

24,575. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

24,576. For whom?—Mr. Stracey.

24,577. What time in the day?—Betwixt half-past 3 and 4.

24,578. What did you get for voting?—Not anything.

24,579. Why did you not vote sooner?—I did not leave off not till 1 o'clock, and I came away with the impression of not voting at all.

24,580. How came you to vote at last?—During the forenoon a lad was sent in to know the state of the poll, and came in with such flying colours about the other side. So that touched me up. I went up and cleaned myself and changed my clothes, and passed through. When I got out, well, sir, I heard different. Mr. Stracey was about 50 behind.

24,581. You wanted to be on the winning side?—No. I was with Mr. Stracey from the time he first issued.

24,582. Sir Henry Stracey was picking up in the afternoon?—That is the reason I voted.

24,583. You would not vote for the losing side. You wanted to be with the winning side?—I voted for Mr. Stracey because that was my principles.

24,584. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You did not want to vote unless you would be of use, I suppose?—That was my colour and my party.

WILLIAM MANN sworn and examined. W. Mann.

24,585. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—I did.

24,586. What time of the day?—Between 3 and 4.

24,587. Where had you been all the morning?—Very ill with the rheumatics. I could not get out of bed. It was past 2 o'clock when I got up.

24,588. You had promised to vote for Tillett?—I did not make any promise.

24,589. Do you know Mr. Ramm the chemist?—I know Mr. Ramm the chemist.

24,590. Did not he come before the election and canvass you for Mr. Tillett?—He did.

24,591. And did not you say to him that you would vote for Tillett?—I did not.

24,592. Did you say you would not vote for him?—I did not say I would vote for him or anyone else.

24,593. Why did you not tell him that you would not vote for him if you were inclined not to do it?—I did not feel inclined to tell him that.

24,594. What did you mean?—I gave him this answer, "I don't think I shall vote for Mr. Tillett or Mr. Stracey."

24,595. You had made up your mind?—No, not in any way.

24,596. Did you wait for your mind to be made up?—Of course I did.

24,597. Who gave you anything to make up your mind?—I had no one particular to canvass me, only Mr. Ramm, and I did not ask him any particular questions, and I never saw Mr. Stracey, and no one of their party.

24,598. Who was it fetched you up?—Not anyone.

24,599. Did not you go up in a gig?—No, certainly not. I walked up, I and my wife.

24,600. Mr. Ramm came up to you several times that day to get you to vote?—He came several times. He said, "Will you go and vote?" I said, "No, I shall not, Mr. Ramm."

24,601. What made you afterwards go when you told Mr. Ramm you would not?—My brother-in-law comes and asks me if I would go and vote for Sir Henry Stracey, and he had been a very good friend to me. I had been ill nine months. He said, "Will you oblige me?" and I said I would.

24,602. Did he give you anything to vote?—No, not the slightest.

24,603. What is the name of your brother-in-law?—Robert Cook. He is dead since then.

24,604. He had been a good friend to you?—He had during my illness, and he asked me to oblige him.

CHARLES DANIELS sworn and examined. C. Daniels.

24,605. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Mr. Stracey.

24,606. At what time in the day?—About half-past 2, as near as I can tell.

24,607. Who asked you to vote?—No one.

24,608. Did you promise your vote?—No. No one ever came and asked me.

24,609. Have you ever voted before?—No.

24,610. Have you had anything for your vote?—No.

24,611. Were you treated that day?—No.

24,612. Where were you the whole day?—At work.

24,613. What is your trade?—A gasfitter.

24,614. But you could have been out sooner than that to vote?—I was kept in the shop all day. I could not get out till I went to dinner.

24,615. Were you at any public-houses that day?—No.

24,616. Are you quite sure of that?—Quite sure.

24,617. Have you had anything paid since?—No.

24,618. Did you give anyone else anything for voting?—No.

EDWARD JOHN AMES sworn and examined. E. J. Ames.

24,619. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A cordwainer.

24,621. For whom?—I voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

24,622. What time in the day?—As near as I can recollect the time, between 2 and 3. I had work to do in the morning. I was obliged to get it done by 2 o'clock to go away by the train. I went home and got my dinner, and then I went and voted.

24,623. Did you ever vote before?—Yes.

24,624. For which side?—Well, sir, I voted for the Conservative party several years.

24,625. Did you get anything for voting this time?—No.

24,626. Or the promise of anything?—No, not a penny.

MATHIAS FULCHER sworn and examined. M. Fulcher.

24,627. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

24,628. What time in the day?—About a quarter past 3.

24,629. What did you get for voting?—Nothing at all, nor yet never asked for anything, and never had anything offered to me. I never got the worth of a pin.

24,630. Did you get any beer?—No, not a drop. I never had the worth of anything.

24,631. Do you know a man of the name of Cunnington?—I do.

24,632. Did he offer you anything?—No.

24,633. Or promise you anything?—No.

24,634. Have you been a voter before?—Never.

24,635. How came you to vote so late in the day?—Because I could not leave my work before. I worked for Mr. Geldart of Thorpe.

24,636. Which way did your employer vote?—I cannot say.

24,637. Who asked you for your vote?—Two of each party; but not that day, for I never see anybody that day.

24,638. Did you promise your vote?—Never.

24,639. Why did you not promise?—Because I was asked by the Whig party at the first, and I am a Tory; and I told them that I would not give it to Mr. Tillett on that account.

24,640. When you were canvassed by the Tories why did not you promise them your vote?—I promised them I would not vote against them, if I did not vote for them.

24,641. Why did not you promise to vote for them, being a Tory?—Because it did not suit my fancy. I did not know I should vote at all.

24,642. Were you looking out for what you could get?—No. I never thought about anything.

24,643. Then why did not you promise your vote?—Because I did not think I should vote at all; but when I came home to dinner it was late, and I thought then, "I will vote after all." There was no one never asked me, and I had nobody at home.

24,644. Why did you think that you would keep from voting upon this occasion, you being a Tory?—Oh, I don't know. There's many people that did not vote at all. There was no interest particular in voting. I did not trouble about voting.

TWENTIETH DAY.

1 Oct. 1869.

JAMES FORDER sworn and examined.

J. Forder.

24,645. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

24,646. What time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

24,647. What made you vote so late?—Because I was at work.

24,648. What is your trade?—A blacksmith.

24,649. For whom do you work?—Mr. Farmer, of All Saints Green.

24,650. Had you been out that morning before you voted?—No.

24,651. Were not you out for dinner?—Yes.

24,652. Were you out for breakfast?—No.

24,653. Had you promised your vote to anyone?—No, I always did vote that side.

24,654. How many times have you voted?—Once before this.

24,655. For whom did you vote then?—Waters.

24,656. Did you get anything for your vote then?—No.

24,657. Or any promise?—None.

24,658. Any beer?—No.

T. Finch.

TIMOTHY FINCH sworn and examined.

24,659. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A labouring man.

24,660. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

24,661. At what time in the day?—Betwixt 2 and 3.

24,663. No money?—No.

24,664. No drink?—No drink.

24,665. Or anything after you had voted?—No. I voted of my own accord and free good will, and nobody with me.

R. Sherringham.

ROBERT SHERRINGHAM sworn and examined.

24,666. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

24,667. What time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

24,668. How came you to be so late?—I did not leave off work till 1 o'clock. Then I came home to dinner, and I did not go out of the house till 2.

24,669. Where did you go after dinner?—I went to the market and had a glass of ale.

24,670. Where?—A public-house in the corner of the market.

24,671. From that public-house did you go to any other?—No, I then went and voted.

24,672. Were you there the whole of the time till you went to vote?—No, standing about the market.

24,673. Looking for what you could get?—No.

24,674. Why did not you go and vote?—I did not want to make a muddle. I knew there was time enough.

24,675. If you were a voter and wished to vote, you knew it was of importance to your candidate that he should have your vote?—I thought if I voted before the poll closed it would do.

24,676. Although you knew your candidate was behind up to that time?—I did not know anything about that. I did not study that particular.

24,677. Did not you get anything for your vote?—Nothing, not a glass of ale.

24,678. Were you not promised anything?—No, nothing by nobody.

24,679. Although you were standing about in the market?—Certainly.

24,680. Did you hear men say there was something going?—No, I did not hear anything of the kind.

J. Eaglen.

JOSEPH EAGLEN sworn and examined.

24,681. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote this time?—Stracey.

24,682. You had promised to vote for the other side, had not you?—Well, as far as promising went, there was a man by the name of Ramm asked me if I would promise for Mr. Tillett. I said I had no objection, as far as that went; but I changed my mind.

24,683. You had placards about Tillett in your window?—That was only the children playing.

24,684. You had promised to vote for Tillett?—It was only a piece of a placard.

24,685. What time in the day did you change your mind?—About 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

24,686. Some of Stracey's people came to you then?—Well, I don't know that there was anyone come.

24,687. Who came to you on the day of the poll?—There was a man of the name of Ramm I see. That was in the forenoon time, before dinner.

24,688. On the day of the poll, on behalf of Sir Henry Stracey, some people came to your place; who were they?—I suppose they belonged to Sir Henry Stracey; some man, he appeared to be a German, or something of that sort; I could not understand what he said.

24,689. Was Hulme the chemist one?—No, I don't know.

24,690. Who was it?—I don't know; he appeared to be a foreigner, or something of that sort.

24,691. Tell me who they were?—I don't know the man at all myself.

24,692–3. After that you went and voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—After that I went and voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

24,694. Was it Heinrich who came?—I don't know any more than Adam. I never saw the man before.

24,695. Do you keep a public-house?—No.

24,696. A beerhouse?—No, I am a labouring man myself.

24,697. What did they give you for your vote?—Nothing at all.

24,698. What did they promise you?—Nothing.

24,699. What have you had since?—Not anything.

24,700. What was it that made you change your mind at 3 o'clock, having promised to vote for Tillett?—I will tell you. The reason I changed my mind was this. My neighbour came to me. I see him and I said, "Have you voted yet?" "No, I aint," he said.

24,701. Who is your neighbour?—A man by the name of Edwards, and he said, "No, I aint, have you?" I said, "No, I don't know much use of voting, "as far as that go." I said, "Are you going to vote?" "Yes," he said. Then he said, "We'll go together." I said, "All right." As we were going along I said, "Who are you going to vote for?" "Well," he said, "I shall vote a plumper for Stracey." "Will you?" I said. "Yes," he said. I said, "I thought of voting for Tillett." He said, "I am going to vote for Stracey, never mind Tillett," he said. You know what election times are, so I said, "I shall vote for Stracey too," and we did. I gave a plumper.

24,702. What did you get for voting?—Not a farthing any way.

24,703. Who was the man that took you to the poll?—No one ever took me there.

24,704. With whom did you go to the poll?—Along with Edwards, my neighbour.

24,705. No one else?—No one else was along with me and him.

24,706. Did you walk up or go in a cart?—Walked up.

24,707. Do you mean to tell me that you changed your mind simply because of what this neighbour of yours said to you?—That's it exactly.

24,708. Did not you try to get something for voting?—No.

24,709. Did you see anybody else but your neighbour?—No, I wern't connected with any parties or anything.

24,710. But who came and spoke to you about election matters that day besides your neighbour?—Nobody said anything to me.

24,711. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) The foreigner did?—Yes, he come, but I don't know nothing about the man.

24,712. (Mr. Mansfield.) What did he tell you about Stracey?—He said, "How are you," shook hands, and made himself very free. He said, "Are you not going to vote?" I said, "I don't know; there is time enough." He said, "Go and do it at once." I said, "All right, I am going by-and-bye," and the man went away.

24,713. What did he give you?—Nothing at all. Nobody gave me a farthing.

24,714. Why did you change your mind, having promised to vote on the other side?—I told you, on account of my neighbour going up with me. He was hot for Mr. Stracey, and I did not trouble which way I voted, although I said to Mr. Ramm, "I have no objection to oblige you." After going with my neighbour, I said to him, "I shall vote the same way you do." They were rallying round the poll then.

24,715. After you had seen the foreigner you changed your mind?—That was after I see the foreigner that I changed my mind, because I did not see my neighbour not till afterwards.

24,716. Did you get any beer that day?—Yes, I got some beer, but I had to pay for what I had.

24,717. Did nobody give you any beer?—No one was free enough to treat me to anything.

24,718. Did not the foreigner give you anything?—No.

24,719. Nor yet your neighbour?—No.

24,720. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you not go and have a pot with your friend afterwards?—Yes. We had several pots afterwards. We went and messed about in places same as we do at elections.

24,721. He stood something?—No.

24,722. (Mr. Biron.) Did you stand a pint and he a pint, or did he pay for it all?—No, we paid our own share, so far as I know. There was nobody give us anything. What we had we had to pay for.

William Tuck Goreham sworn and examined.

W. T. Goreham.

24,723. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A labourer.

24,724. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Stracey.

24,725. What time in the day?—Between 1 and

24,726. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

24,727. Are you sure about that?—Quite certain. I never lost five minutes the whole day.

24,728. What were you doing in the morning?—Whitewashing the house.

24,729. Did anyone take you to the poll?—No.

24,730. Had you promised to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

24,731. Had you ever voted before?—No.

24,732. This was the first time?—Yes.

24,733. Did you get anything after you voted?—No.

24,734. Did anybody promise you anything?—No.

24,735. Did anybody canvass you?—I did not see them at all.

24,736. You went up of your own accord and voted?—I don't know how it was at all. I was a Tory.

24,737. You are a Tory?—Yes.

Thomas Ward sworn and examined.

T. Ward.

24,738. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

24,739. What time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

24,740. Did you get anything for your vote?—Not anything.

24,741. Were you promised anything?—Nothing.

24,742. How came you to vote so late?—My business called me to other parts.

24,743. What was your business?—I am a bootmaker, a master bootmaker.

24,744. But you know the polling place was close by?—Yes.

24,745. You passed the polling place in the morning and at dinner time?—No, I was not out in the morning at all. I could not canvass.

24,746. Why did not you vote earlier?—I could not vote before. I did not go out till after dinner.

24,747. But you could go to the poll, you know. That was only about 200 yards off?—I could not spare the time.

24,748. Had you any custom promised you?—No, not any.

24,749. Did anybody canvass you?—No.

Arthur James Berry sworn and examined.

A. J. Berry.

24,750. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A solicitor's clerk.

24,751. In whose office?—Messrs. Miller and Son's, of this city.

24,752. Were you manager for Sir William Russell, of one of the wards, at this last election?—Yes.

24,753. Of which ward?—The eighth ward.

24,754. Are you a voter?—I am.

24,755. Did you vote?—I did.

24,756. Have you taken any part in the canvassing?—Not any, except sending the books out.

24,757. Did you make no personal canvass?—I did on the day of the election.

24,758. Did you get up any voters?—Not any. I was not successful.

24,759. What did you do?—I was about the ward after 11 o'clock. Up to that time I was at the committee room seeing things were right.

24,760. Had you canvassed previous to the election?—Not at all.

24,761. Who had canvassed in that ward?—Several parties. Mr. Baldwin the baker was one, and Mr. Osborn, and several others.

24,762. You took no part but keeping the books in the committee room in that ward?—Not before the election.

24,763. Where do you live?—Pottergate Street, the third ward.

24,764. Do you know of any money passing at this election?—Yes, to a small extent.

24,765. What do you know of?—About 11 o'clock on the morning of the election a card was brought up into the eighth ward committee room, and Mr. Gilbert who was keeping the poll with me said, "That man is "bribed. He never votes at any election without "being bribed." I think his name was Blanchflower. He said that we should see two or three more, and on the next card there were two names on. I went up to the central committee room and saw Mr. Coaks.

24,766. At what time of the day was it that you went there?—About half-past 11; when I saw Mr. Coaks he said, "Keep your eyes open." I went back to the committee room about 1 o'clock, and one of our messengers came up and said he had heard there were 40 men cooped in a place called the "Buck," in St. Martin's. I then went again to Mr. Coaks, and he said, "Take a man with you, and plant him there to see what is going on." Mr. Tilson, the auctioneer, of Bungay, went with me to Mr. Coaks, and Mr. Coaks said, "Tilson, do you go with my clerk, take a man with you, and see what is going on." We went from there to the "Buck;" we went into the "Buck," and called for a glass of ale; the landlady was rather communicative; she asked us if we came from Stracey's, and we did not make any answer. She said, "How is the election going on?" We said, "All right, it is not lost yet." She said, "We have done all we can; "Mr. Hardiment has been here to-day and taken "several men to the poll."

24,767. What time was this?—Two o'clock. While we were there Tilson said, "Here comes Hardiment, he knows me, we had better go," and he walked across into Sussex Street; I waited, and Mr. Hardiment came in.

24,768. Alone?—Alone; I should say he drove up, and he went into the back room. There was a boarded partition between him and me, and he went in there. I followed him and saw two labouring men go there. I went back to the bar and drank something, and then Mr. Hardiment came from the back room and said, "Give these fellows half a gallon, they will not go without."

24,769. Did you find out these men's names?—I did not, I could not; I will tell you directly what happened; I went to the bar and saw Wiseman coming up the street; Wiseman knows me perfectly well, in fact he was a personal friend of mine at one time.

24,770. Which Wiseman?—Young Wiseman, and being very hot I thought I might get something I had not bargained for. I went across to Sussex Street and joined Tilson there, and a few minutes after we saw Hardiment take one of these men in his cart down St. Martin's Street, and Wiseman took the other. From there we went up Sussex Street, and heard some singing in the "Spread Eagle," in the middle of the street. We went into the room, where there were some 30 or 40 men singing, dancing, and drinking; some people had white colours, and some orange and purple; we got in; they said, "Hurrah, Stracey for ever, drink his health," and we drank Stracey's health. While we were there the landlord came in and touched me on the arm, and called me into a room across the passage; he said, "What are you come for, have you got some money"? I said, "No, I have not;" he said, "If you had, I know 30 or 40 men that I could get;" I said, "What are they likely to go for?" And he said, "A shilling apiece;" but directly he had gone back I went and called Tilson to be a witness, because I did not want to hear it all myself. Tilson went with me and heard the conversation. While the man was telling me the names—one of them was Paul—he gave me two or three, and I put them down on the back of a letter, but unfortunately it is lost.

24,771. Do you recollect any of them?—Paul was one. While he was telling me his wife came and touched him, and he held his tongue, and said if I came in an hour he could get these men.

24,772. At a shilling apiece?—At a shilling apiece, so he said; I did not pay any attention to that, and these 40 men I thought might be three or four.

24,773. You did not offer to do any business with him?—Not at all; I said possibly I might come in the hour; I wanted to get out of the house.

24,774. Did you go anywhere else?—To the "Prince Alfred," but saw nothing there. About 10 minutes to 4 in my ward we went to the polling booth and saw Hardiment come up with his cart and four or five voters, and Wiseman in a cab with three or four more.

24,775. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you know who the voters were that came up?—No; I am a stranger in the ward, it is not my ward.

24,776. I did not know whether you might have inquired who they were?—No, because Mr. Gilbert knows all the men.

24,777. Where was this?—I think this was in No. 3 compartment, but I know it is next St. Martin's Chapel.

24,778. How long before the close of the poll?—About five minutes; but they were prevented from voting there, and they went on to St. George's Plain, as I am informed by Mr. Bacon, another of my messengers, and they were stopped from voting there, so that they did not vote at all.

24,779. (Mr. Mansfield.) Is that all you know?—That is all I know.

24,780. Of bribery or treating on the day of the election?—That is all; it is not much.

24,781. Was there any money going on your side?—No, not that I am aware of.

24,782. Have you ever heard of any?—Not of any.

24,783. Have you ever heard of any money going amongst Mr. Tillett's partizans?—No, not at all.

24,784. Have you ever heard of any money being offered on either side?—No, I have not.

24,785. Nor of treating on that side?—Nor of treating.

24,786. Was there any treating for Sir William Russell that you know of?—Not any.

24,787. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Have you heard of any?—No, I have not heard of any; I went into the "White Horse," in St. Martin's Lane; I had forgotten that. There were two voters there, one of them a man of the name of Wilsey; we tried to persuade him to vote. The other was a man of the name of Hewitt, who keeps a public-house; they said they would not vote; they were not waiting for money, and did not wish to vote. I went three or four times, and Tilson went with me, and when I came back the last time Tilson was with me, and Mr. Osborne Springfield was in our committee room. I said one of these men worked for him, and would he go and try to get them to vote; he went with me to the "White Horse," but we were unsuccessful. I saw Wilsey five minutes past 4, and asked him if he had voted; he said, "What is that to you?" and I left him. He was waiting opposite the polling booth.

24,788. Where does he live?—He resided in the eighth ward; his name is Wilsey, I believe; but Mr. Gilbert will be able to tell you all the names, he knows every person in the ward, and has done for many years; he was my co-manager, as it were.

24,789. (Mr. Mansfield.) That was all you heard about the town that day?—Yes.

24,790. Did Mr. Springfield offer any beer to these men to get them up?—Not at all.

24,791. (Mr. Biron.) Did you give the name of the gentleman at the committee room who called your attention to these suspicious voters?—Mr. Gilbert, junior.

24,792. (Mr. Mansfield.) There is nothing more that you can tell us?—No, nothing more.

24,793. I think you told us you were a paid canvasser?—I was paid for my services, and I got six guineas for being manager.

24,794. When were you paid?—Some time after that.

24,795. After the trial of the petition?—Some long time after that. Mr. Coaks paid me, I was in his office at that time.

S. W. Corsbie.

SAMUEL WEBSTER CORSBIE sworn and examined.

24,796. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A solicitor's managing clerk.

24,797. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

24,798. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

24,799. At what time in the day?—At about five minutes after 8 in the morning.

24,800. Were you employed at all in the election?—Not in the election at all. I was upon the petition.

24,801. You were not manager or clerk in any of the wards?—No, not at all; I took an active part in the election as a staunch Conservative.

24,802. Did you give anybody anything for his vote?—I did not.

24,803. Or did you promise anybody anything?—No, I did not. I canvassed, I am happy to say, if not the most, certainly one of the most, respectable districts in the city of Norwich, and I have my canvass books here.

24,804. Was yours a successful canvass?—Yes, it was very successful. (The canvass books referred to are handed by the witness to the Commissioners.)

24,805. Did you find any men who were unwilling to say in what way they would vote?—I believe that with the exception of one man they voted as they had promised in my district; one gentleman promised to vote for Sir William Russell alone, and voted for Russell and Tillett.

24,806. Do you know a man named Metcalfe?—Yes.

24,807. A rent collector?—Yes, and a very respectable man he is.

24,808. He was a warm supporter of Sir Henry Stracey, was he not?—He is a staunch Conservative, and a most respectable man.

24,809. Had you a conversation with him on the Sunday before the election?—Certainly not; not on the Sunday, certainly.

24,810. Or the day before the election?—No, not that I am aware of. I do not remember having any special conversation with him; I saw him several times as one of our ward men, but I had no special conversation with him. Are you speaking of William Metcalfe?

24,811. I am speaking of a person named Metcalfe, who is a rate collector in your district—Yes, he lives in Bedford Street.

24,812. Did you give him any money?—No, certainly not.

24,813. I do not mean to bribe him, but did you give him any?—No, not a penny; I gave him nothing on any occasion. I did not give him a halfpenny or any coin of any description for any purpose whatever.

24,814. Did you give him any parcel?—No, not any. I should be the last man that the party would ask to take charge of such a thing. I have always advocated the contrary, and would not consent to give a halfpenny or a glass of ale.

24,815. You gave nothing to any person?—No, nothing of any kind.

24,816. Had you any conversation with Mr. Metcalfe about the voters for whom he collected debts?—None whatever.

24,817. Had you no conversation with him with a view to find out what men would find money convenient?—Not the least, not a word of the kind.

24,818. But he is a sort of man who would know that, is he not?—I should say not. I should not think he would touch such a thing.

24,819. I do not mean bribing, but he would be likely to know, would he not, what men were hard up?—No; he is not a very extensive collector; he collects 300*l.* or 400*l.* a year for me or for my firm.

24,820. You gave him no money and no parcel?—No, nothing of the kind, and there was no conversation about any such thing.

WILLIAM BEYZANCE sworn and examined.

W. Beyzance.

24,821. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

24,822. At what time in the day?—I cannot tell exactly; I should think about 3, a little over or under. I am not sure as to the exact time.

24,823. How came you to vote at so late an hour?—I was very busy at my work.

24,824. What is your business?—I am a shoeing smith and farrier.

24,825. Did you get anything for your vote?—Not the least; I was not even asked for it.

24,826. Were you promised anything for your vote?—No.

24,827. Neither custom nor money?—Not the slightest in any shape whatever.

24,828. Were you canvassed for your vote before?—No.

24,829. You were not asked for it?—No, not by anyone.

24,830. Had you been a voter before?—No, that was my first vote.

24,831. You are a Conservative, are you?—Yes.

24,832. You had no inducement given to you to vote?—No, not the slightest.

ROBERT GOFFIN sworn and examined.

R. Goffin.

24,833. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

24,834. At what time in the day?—At half-past 3.

24,835. What made you vote so late?—I had work to do, and could not finish it before that time.

24,836. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing at all.

24,837. Who asked you to vote?—I do not know that anybody asked me to vote. I had some cards sent me by both parties.

24,838. Had you promised your vote to anyone?—No.

24,839. Had you ever voted before?—No.

24,840. With whom did you go to the poll?—I went all alone.

24,841. Did you get any beer that day?—No; I do not drink beer.

24,842. Was nothing paid to you that day?—No.

24,843. And was nothing promised you that day?—No.

24,844. You are quite certain that you had nothing for your vote?—Not a halfpenny, nor yet a promise of anything.

ROBERT WILLIAM COOPER sworn and examined.

R. W. Cooper.

24,845. (Mr. Biron.) Did you manage one of the wards for Sir William Russell at the last election?—Yes.

24,846. Which ward was that?—The second ward.

24,847. Are you a voter?—I am a voter now; I was not then. I have claimed since.

24,848. In the course of the day did anything occur in your ward to arouse your suspicions that bribery was going on?—There is one thing I may mention. Just at the latter part of the day I heard Mr. Copland come up and say that there was a man below waiting to be bribed, who said that if they did not make up their minds to give him something directly he should go to the other side. That was the only thing that led me to believe that there was any bribery at all.

24,849. Did you know who he was?—No.

24,850. As the names of the voters who had polled came in, did you observe at all that any suspicious names had not voted?—I observed that several who we had marked as having promised for us had voted for Sir Henry Stracey. A great many who had promised, according to the canvass books that had been given in, to vote for Russell and Tillett had voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

24,851. Do you mean according to your canvass books, or according to the canvass books of the organisation?—The books of the organisation.

TWENTIETH DAY.

R. W. Cooper.

1 Oct. 1869.

24,852. Do you know of any money having been given for the purpose of bribery or treating, or do you know of any improper practices on the part of Sir William Russell?—No, none whatever.

24,853. Or on the part of Mr. Tillett?—None whatever.

24,854. Have you since heard of anything having been done in the way of bribery by the Stracey party?—No, I have not heard anything particular mentioned. I have heard, of course, that there was supposed to have been bribery.

24,855. But you have heard nothing beyond vague rumours?—No, or I should be most happy to tell you.

S. N. Berry.

SAMUEL NEAVE BERRY sworn and examined.

24,856. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a manager in the third ward?—Yes.

24,857. For Sir William Russell?—Yes.

24,858. Did you vote at the election?—No.

24,859. Do you know of any money having been given or promised on the part of Sir William Russell at the last election?—None whatever.

24,860. Or do you know of any money having been provided?—None at all; I never heard of anything of the sort.

24,861. Or on behalf of Mr. Tillett?—No, not on his part either.

24,862. Were you conducting the business of the election at your committee room on that day?—Yes.

24,863. Were you there all day?—Yes. I was about the ward, of course, some part of the day.

24,864. You pursued the ordinary conduct of a person managing in the ward?—Yes, I had the entire management, as Mr. Tillett's manager could not be there.

24,865. Did anything occur in the course of the day to make you suspect that bribery was going on?—Yes.

24,866. What was that?—About half-past 2, or a little earlier, I knew that there were a great many people in that ward who were looked on as suspicious parties, and I took a note of the names of those parties.

24,867. Have you got that list here?—No. Sir William Russell had got in, and I did not pay any further attention to the matter. Had he lost his election I should have looked into the cases, but as he got in I paid no further attention to the matter.

24,868. How many men should you say there were?—I should think I had the names of 30 or 40 people who had not promised. I asked different people if they knew anything about them, and I was told that they were men who were sure not to vote unless they had money. About half-past 2 o'clock I saw that some of those people had been up, and I had said I thought that bribery was going on, as I had reason to believe that they were people who would not vote without money. I then watched four or five cards, and seeing the same thing I sent a message up to the central committee room to say that it appeared that money was being spent, and desiring to know, in fact, whether anything was to be done.

24,869. Was that in any particular part of the ward?—Yes, in Wellington Lane and in Tinkler's Lane. I have been looking to see if I could find the paper containing the names of these parties, but I could not find it.

24,870. Did you find that those doubtful parties were still voting up to the time of the closing of the poll?—Yes, and there was another thing that I thought was very suspicious: we polled comparatively a small number after 2 o'clock, whereas the Conservatives were bringing their men up in waggonettes and cabs during that time. There was Mr. John Abel and Mr. Hibbett, a stonemason; they were very active.

24,871. That is, they were active in bringing up voters?—Yes; he did it in rather a quiet manner, not so openly as the others. I watched him about once or twice, but I could not get hold of anything.

24,872. Did you see anything done by Abel that attracted your attention?—Nothing except bringing up these men. I was told near the "Grapes" that there are plenty of men here, and if you have the money you can have 20 or 30 at half-a-crown apiece.

24,873. Who made that statement?—One of my messengers.

24,874. Was that past 3 in the day?—About 3 o'clock. Mr. Bunn, who keeps the "St. Giles' Gate" stores, immediately opposite the "Grapes," I should think was a very active man; and one thing I thought very suspicious was this: the night before the election as it was getting dark his shutters were partly closed; they slide up so that one shutter covers half of the window; the shutter that covers the lower part of the window was shut up as soon as the gas was lighted; the house was full of people, and they were very noisy. I sent somebody in there to watch, but when he went in they were very quiet; the shutters were up the whole of the evening. Charles Victor Bunn is the man's name.

24,875. Do you know of your own knowledge of any act of bribery?—No.

24,876. Did you hear any man say that he had received a bribe?—No, no one.

24,877. Neither before the election nor since?—No.

24,878. Your instructions were that there should be no bribery?—My instructions were not to expend a penny, and I expressly gave Clarke, the landlord of ths "Grapes," orders not to let anybody have even a glass of beer without paying for it, and I do not think that our bill for the whole week we were there amounted to more than 3*l.* for refreshments for myself and other clerks who were employed.

J. Thaxter.

JOHN THAXTER sworn and examined.

24,879. (Mr. Biron.) Are you a blacksmith?—Yes.

24,880. And do you live at St. Benedict's?—Yes.

24,881. Is that in the third ward?—Yes.

24,882. For whom did you vote at the last election?—I voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

24,883. At what time in the day?—I should say about half-past 2, or something like that.

24,884. Had you been canvassed before for your vote?—I had had the canvassers about both for Mr. Tillett and for Sir Henry Stracey too.

24,885. What did you say when you were canvassed?—I never said anything at all about it.

24,886. Did you say that you had not made up your mind?—I had not made up my mind at all about it. I had been laid up with the rheumatics, and I had only just begun to get about, and I had just got into my shop when they came down on the morning I voted and asked me two or three times if I would vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

24,887. Can you give me the names of the persons who asked you to vote?—Young Mr. Buttifant and Mr. Colston, and I told them I could not walk; I could only just hobble, and they said that if I would go and vote for Sir Henry Stracey they would carry me there and bring me back, and so I took and went, and I never had anything or saw anything.

24,888. Did either of them give your wife anything before they started with you?—No.

24,889. Are you sure of that?—I am certain of it; there was nothing to be seen, neither money nor yet beer; I would take my oath of that at any time.

24,890. Was there a man named Willis?—No, he never came into my yard and never came near me at all.

24,891. Had you ever voted before at any other election?—No, that was my first vote.

JOHN CLARKE sworn and examined. J. Clarke.

24,892. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You voted for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election, did you not?—Yes, I did.

24,893. You are coachman to Dr. Johnson?—Yes.

24,894. You know Dr. Masters, do you not?—Yes, I know him quite well.

24,895. You breakfasted on the morning of the election at Dr. Masters', did you not?—Yes, and I have had breakfast there since.

24,896. Were there about 30 or 40 persons besides yourself breakfasting there?—I cannot say.

24,897. How many will you say there were there?—There were about five in when I was there.

24,898. There was a large breakfast laid out, was there not?—I saw a piece of beef and some bread on the table.

24,899. There was breakfast there for all who liked to come, was there not?—There was no particular display; there was a hearty welcome.

24,900. There was plenty there, and a hearty welcome for all who liked to come?—I do not know about that.

24,901. As long as they voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—I believe that three men breakfasted there who did not vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

24,902. But all the rest did?—Yes, for what I know.

24,903. Were you invited to the breakfast?—No; I knew nothing of it till I went on to the Plain, though I am with Mr. Johnson.

24,904. You were on the Plain?—Yes, with many others.

24,905. And you were met on the Plain and told to go to breakfast at Dr. Masters'?—No, not exactly that. I went there for my card, and I was asked in and asked to sit down.

24,906. How came you to go in unless you were told?—I frequently do go in; my master and Dr. Masters are partners, and I frequently go in there.

24,907. But there were other people going in as well as you?—Yes.

24,908. Who was guiding them in?—There was no particular guide that I saw.

24,909. Who told those people to go in?—I do not know.

24,910. Do you not know?—No; and I could not tell who was sitting at the table when I went in. I know there were five.

24,911. Was Dr. Masters there helping the people to breakfast?—I believe he did help one or two of them.

24,912. And when he cut a piece of beef did he say "There is a plumper for Stracey"?—I do not believe that I heard those words.

CHARLES STEBBINGS sworn and examined. C. Stebbings.

24,913. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A dyer.

24,914. At what time did you vote?—About 3 o'clock, or a few minutes after.

24,915. Will you swear that it was not three minutes to 4?—Yes. I did not vote so late as that.

24,916. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

24,917. Who asked you for your vote?—Mr. Stracey.

24,918. When?—A quarter of an hour before I did vote.

24,919. Where did he ask you?—Near St. Giles' Gate, at the sign of the "Gates."

24,920. What did he give you for your vote?—Nothing at all.

24,921. What did you get for it?—Nothing at all.

24,922. You only got a glass of beer?—I never got a drop of beer.

24,923. Did you ask for anything?—No.

24,924. Did you ever vote before?—No, not for a general election; for a town council election I did.

24,925. Which way did you vote?—Always Tory.

24,926. Was anybody with Mr. Stracey when he asked you to vote?—I did not observe anybody.

24,927. There were a good many people standing about there, were there not?—Yes.

24,928. And a good many of them wanted something for their votes?—That I do not know. I did not ask for anything.

24,929. But you wanted something?—Well, I should have been glad of it if there had been anything, but I never asked for anything.

24,930. How much would you have liked?—I should have liked to have anything he thought fit to give, or anybody else. I did not ask for anything.

24,931. You would have been glad, would you not, to have taken 5*s.*?—Yes.

24,932. And you would have taken it if it had been offered to you?—Yes, if it had been offered to me.

24,933. You had not even a promise from Mr. Hulme?—No, not the least promise.

JAMES RACKHAM sworn and examined. J. Rackham.

24,934. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A publican.

24,935. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

24,936. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4; a little after 3.

24,937. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing.

24,938. Nothing at all?—No.

24,939. Why did you not vote earlier in the day?—Because my business kept me at home.

24,940. You were attending to your business?—Yes.

24,941. Were there men at your house who were voters?—No.

24,942. Were there not people at your house?—Only country people; mine is a country house.

24,943. Whereabouts is it?—In St. Benedict's; the "Bee Hive."

24,944. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—No.

24,945. Had you promised your vote to anybody?—No.

24,946. And you got nothing for voting?—No.

24,947. Nor the promise of anything?—No.

24,948. Did you get anything after you had voted?—No.

GEORGE TATTAM sworn and examined. G. Tattam.

24,949. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

24,950. At what time did you vote?—At half-past 3.

24,951. How came you to vote so late?—I was in the country, and did not get home till 3 o'clock.

24,952. What are you?—A waiter, and go about extra waiting.

24,953. Did you get anything for your vote?—No; I never saw anyone.

24,954. Or were you promised anything?—No, nothing.

24,955. Were you promised employment, or anything of that kind?—No, nothing.

24,956. Had you ever had a vote before?—No.

TWENTIETH DAY.

1 Oct. 1869.

E. W. Daynes.

Edward William Daynes sworn and examined.

24,957. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

24,958. At what time in the day?—At 2 o'clock; my dinner hour.

24,959. Had you promised your vote?—Yes.

24,960. To whom had you promised it?—Three came to me and canvassed me.

24,961. What did they give you?—Nothing.

24,962. What did they promise you?—Nothing.

24,963. What have you had since?—Nothing. They canvassed me three or four days before the election took place.

24,964. Did you try to get any money?—No.

24,965. Did you hear that any money was going?—No, not on either side.

24,966. Have you had anything since?—No.

24,967. Did you get any beer on the day of the polling?—No.

24,968. Where were you the whole day?—At home.

24,969. Were you not out at all?—No.

24,970. Not till you went to the poll?—Not till I went to the poll, and then I went home and kept home till eventide.

24,971. Did anybody go up to the poll with you?—No.

24,972. Did nobody come and fetch you?—No.

F. Cossey.

Frederick Cossey sworn and examined.

24,973. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A baker.

24,974. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

24,975. What time in the day?—About 2 o'clock.

24,976. What did you get for voting?—Not anything.

24,977. Nor the promise of anything?—I never was promised anything; in fact I never was asked by anyone, and I saw no one.

24,978. You went and voted of your own accord?—Yes.

F. Witherick.

Francis Witherick sworn and examined.

24,979. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

24,980. For Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

24,981. You were at the "Pigeons" on the day of the election?—No, I was not at the "Pigeons."

24,982. Where were you then?—At Mr. Andrews' some part of the day.

24,983. At what time in the day did you vote?—Between 3 and 4 o'clock. I cannot say exactly the time, but it was about that time.

24,984. What did you get for voting?—10*s*.

24,985. Who paid you that?—Mr. Andrews.

24,986. Which Mr. Andrews is that?—Mr. Charles Andrews.

24,987. Where does he live?—At the "Cirque Unique."

24,988. Did anybody else get any money besides yourself?—A man named Boast I think got it; we were together; that is two.

24,989. You both stood in together, and both got the same sum?—We were both out together and both in together, and got that sum.

24,990. Who sent you there?—No one; it is a house I use.

24,991. No one told you that there was something going there?—No, I never heard a word of it till I got in there.

24,992. (Mr. Biron.) Which Boast was it?—Robert Boast.

S. Baker.

Samuel Baker sworn and examined.

24,993. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

24,994. At what hour in the day?—About 3 o'clock.

24,995. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing.

24,996. Who asked you to vote?—No one.

24,997. Had you promised to vote before?—No.

24,998. Had you ever voted before?—Yes, I have voted ever since 1831.

24,999. Have you always voted Tory?—Yes.

25,000. Have you ever had anything for your vote?—No, never in my life.

25,501. Did you get any beer?—No.

25,002. Were you promised anything?—No, and nobody ever asked me for my vote.

W. Clarke.

William Clarke sworn and examined.

25,003. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shopkeeper.

25,004. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

25,005. At what time in the day?—About a quarter before 4.

25,006. What did you get for voting?—Nothing.

25,007. Were you not a member of the Liberal organisation?—I do not know what you mean.

25,008. The Liberal organisation for the return of Mr. Tillett?—I had a paper sent to me; perhaps that was what it meant.

25,009. Your name was put down?—Yes, there was a card I had sent. I suppose that was what it meant.

25,010. How came you to vote for Sir Henry Stracey, having signed that paper?—I did not know anything about the paper that was sent to me. A man in the yard asked me to put my name down. I did not know what it was.

25,011. Do you mean to say that you did not know what the paper meant?—No, that I did not.

25,012. Was it not stated on the paper you received that it was an organisation to secure the return of Mr. Tillett?—I did not know what was on it; the fact is I cannot read.

25,013. But the man who gave it to you told you what it was, did he not?—No, he did not; he asked me if I would put my name down, and I said "Yes."

25,014. But when he asked you to put down your name he asked you to put it down as a member of the organisation for returning a Liberal candidate; do you mean to say you did not know what it meant?—No, I did not.

25,015. Do you mean to say that you put your name to the paper merely because a man asked you to do so, not knowing at all what the paper meant?—No, I did not know what he meant.

25,016. Why did you not vote till a quarter to 4?—My business would not allow me to do so.

25,017. What business?—I am a shopkeeper, and I could not leave.

25,018. Do you mean to tell me that you are a shopkeeper and cannot read?—I cannot read.

25,019. Nor write?—Nor write.

25,020. How do you keep your books?—I have a little boy that can read and write.

25,021. Your son?—Yes.

25,022. Was there anything given you for voting at a quarter to 4?—No.

25,023. Nor the promise of anything? — No, nothing.

25,024. Who brought you up to vote?—No one; I went up myself.

25,025. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—Yes.

25,026. By whom?—Mr. Abel and Mr. Lane.

25,027. Did you promise them to vote?—I did not promise anyone; they asked me if I would vote for Sir Henry Stracey, and I said I thought I should vote for him when I had done my work.

25,028. Was that on the day of the polling?—I think it was, or the day before.

25,029. Were you not hanging back for what you could get?—No, I was not.

25,030. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Had you ever had a vote before?—No.

ROBERT BOAST sworn and examined. R. Boast.

25,031. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You voted for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes, I voted for him.

25,032. Did you get half a sovereign from Andrews to vote?—Yes.

25,033. Did anybody else get it besides you?—No, I never saw anyone else.

25,034. Did you see him talking to other people about voting?—Not particularly, no more than talking to his customers, that is all.

25,035. Did you see any men there besides Witherick?—I saw Witherick.

25,036. Besides Witherick?—I cannot remember that I did.

25,037. Surely there were some other people there?—There were other customers in his shop, but I did not know the men; I knew Mr. Witherick; I was with him the whole day.

25,038. Did you not know anybody else that was in there?—No, I cannot say I did.

25,039. Try and remember whether there were no other people there?—There were other people there, but I did not know them; Mr. Witherick I knew quite well as a neighbour.

25,040. How came you to go there?—I merely go there of an evening after I have done my day's work. I go in for a glass of ale.

25,041. How came Andrews to give you this money? Did you ask for it?—He had it to give away, so I thought I might as well have it as anyone else.

25,042. Did he say that he had got it to give away?—Yes.

25,043. How much did he say he had got to give away?—He did not tell me how much he had got to give away; he gave me half a sovereign, that is all I know.

25,044. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did he ask you to go and pick up anyone?—No.

25,045. Or look after anyone else?—No.

JOHN GREAVES sworn and examined. J. Greaves.

25,046. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

25,047. At what time in the day?—About 20 minutes before 4, as near as I can come at it.

25,048. How much did you get for your vote?—Nothing; I lost my day's work through it.

25,049. Did you not get paid for your day's work?—No.

25,050. Did you ask for it?—No.

25,051. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes.

25,052. Did you not want it?—I wanted more than my day's work.

25,053. Did you look out for it?—Yes.

25,054. Where did you go to look out for it?—I went walking about.

25,055. Were you promised anything?—No.

25,056. Had you any hint that you might get something anywhere?—No.

25,057. Where were you walking about in the hopes of getting something?—All about the city—every street.

25,058. Could you not hear of any money going?—No.

25,059. That is what you were looking after?—Yes.

25,060. How much would have satisfied you?—About 5*l.*

25,061. Have you ever voted before?—No.

25,062. And you expected to get 5*l.* this time?—Yes.

25,063. You really got nothing at all?—No, I got nothing; it cost me money out of my own pocket.

25,064. Why did you vote if you got nothing?—I was always that way inclined.

25,065. You would have been too glad to take money from that or the other side, of course?—I did not ought to walk about for nothing.

25,066. Were you willing to take money from either side?—Yes, from either side I would have taken money.

25,067. And you would have voted for the side that paid you?—Yes.

25,068. Did you get any beer that day?—No beer at all; all the beer I had I paid for myself.

25,069. Had you promised your vote?—No.

25,070. Had you been canvassed?—Yes.

25,071. When you were canvassed did anyone tell you there might be something going if you looked about well?—No, I was never promised at all.

25,072. Did you not hear of something?—No.

25,073. (Mr. Biron.) It was a bad speculation?—I was money out of pocket by it.

25,074. (Mr. Mansfield.) Have you ever heard of 5*l.* going for a vote in this city?—Yes, 50*l.*

25,075. Which raised your hopes?—In Stormont and Scarlett's election I recollect that.

25,076. Did you hear the price at Waters' election?—No.

25,077. Was there as much as 5*l.* going then?—I do not know; I never had anything.

25,078. You failed to get anything?—Yes.

25,079. You find it is not worth 5*l.*?—I got nothing.

25,080. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) When you got the franchise you thought you were in for a considerable sum of money?—I was out of pocket this time. I lost my day's work, and never got anything for it. I think everyone ought to be paid for his day's work; both parties.

25,081. (Mr. Biron.) Five pounds apiece?—Yes.

25,082. A very comfortable sort of election for the candidate; 5*l.* you put as your day's work?—No, 4*s.* 2*d.* is my day's work.

25,083. You think every voter ought to be paid 5*l.*?—No, some would get more.

25,084. Some would get more, but a man like yourself ought to get 5*l.*; is that your idea?—I think everyone ought to be paid for his day's work.

25,085. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Is your measure of yourself that you are worth 5*l.*?—I did not ought to lose my day's work.

DANIEL KEEGAN sworn and examined. D. Keegan.

25,086. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

25,087. For whom?—Sir Thomas Stracey.

25,088. At what time in the day?—A quarter to 2 I voted.

25,089. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

TWENTIETH DAY.

D. Keegan.

1 Oct. 1869.

25,090. Were you a member of the organisation?—No, I was not.

25,091. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—No.

25,092. Had you promised to vote for Stracey?—No, I had not; never.

25,093. You went up and voted of your own accord?—Yes.

25,094. This was the first time, I suppose, you voted?—Yes.

25,095. Did you get anything, or the promise of anything, for it?—No, nothing.

25,096. Did you vote during your dinner hour, or what?—About a quarter to 2, after I left my work.

25,097. What are you?—I am a labourer.

25,098. Had you been in any of the public-houses that day?—I had been in a house upon the top of the Walk about 9 o'clock.

25,099. Was there any talk of money there?—No.

25,100. Or beer going?—No, nothing of the sort.

W. Baldry.

WILLIAM BALDRY sworn and examined.

25,101. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a publican?—Yes.

25,102. What is the sign of your public-house?—"The Prince of Wales' Feathers."

25,103. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

25,104. At what time?—Between 3 and 4.

25,105. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

25,106-7. Why did you vote so late?—Because I had not the opportunity of coming before.

25,108. Were you so very busy that you could not vote before?—I had a good many in from the country, and I wanted to attend to my business. I came as soon as I could come.

25,109. You had a good many customers in your house that day?—I had a good many country people up.

25,110. Were there voters in your house that day?—No.

25,111. Not a single voter?—There might be so.

25,112. Were there not a number of men there who wanted a day's pay?—No, and I never heard of one.

25,113. Did you hear them talking about a day's pay?—No.

25,114. Or money?—No.

25,115. Nothing of the sort?—Nothing of the sort.

25,116. Did you see any money given to any men that day?—No, not a halfpenny.

25,117. Was any beer paid for?—Not a glass, only what the men paid for.

25,118. Did you yourself get anything for your vote?—No.

25,119. Were you promised anything?—Not anything.

25,120. Where did you deal for your beer?—Steward and Patteson.

25,121. Did they canvass you for your vote?—No.

25,122. Is yours a free public-house?—No, a tied house.

J. Rout.

JOHN ROUT sworn and examined.

25,123. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

25,124. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

25,125. What did you get for your vote?—A sovereign.

25,126. Who gave it to you?—Mr. Hardiment.

25,127. Where?—In a back yard at Mr. Mackley's. I went round, and he gave it to me private; he gave to me deliberately a sovereign.

25,128. And you went and voted?—Yes.

25,129. What are you by trade?—A shopkeeper.

25,130. What sort of a shop is it?—A business.

25,131. What sort of a shop?—Commercial.

25,132. (Mr. Biron.) Do you know other gentlemen who had the advantage of getting a sovereign from Hardiment?—No.

25,133. (Mr. Mansfield.) Some of your mates got a sovereign too?—No, I took mine and took my hook.

25,134. Have you not heard of other men getting sovereigns?—No.

25,135. None of your friends?—Yes, Mr. Hodgson; I heard he got a sovereign. I never see him take it. I took mine private.

25,136. Was there anybody else that got his sovereign?—Not to the best of my knowledge.

25,137. Have they not been talking about it since?—Well, I have heard people say, but I do not believe in anything.

25,138. (Mr. Biron.) You held your tongue until to-day?—I was always speechless.

25,139. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you believe that nobody tells the truth in Norwich?—Well, I can hardly believe myself.

S. Cooper.

SAMUEL COOPER sworn and examined.

25,140. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

25,141. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey,

25,142. At what time in the day?—About 3 o'clock, as near as I can guess.

25,143. What did you get for voting?—Nothing. I never got anything given me.

25,144. Have you voted before?—Yes, lots of times; 26 years.

25,145. And never got a farthing?—Never a farthing, or a drop of beer.

25,146. Nor the promise of anything?—No.

25,147. Why did you not vote earlier?—I was after my business.

25,148. What is your business?—I was building up a chickens' place, and did not think it proper to go; they always knew I vote that way, and did not trouble me; and the other people did not trouble me because they know it is no use.

25,149. You are a strong politician?—Yes, I am a strong Tory, and I will not vote any other way as long as I have any breath in my body.

H. Cullum.

HENRY CULLUM sworn and examined.

25,150. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes, and Mr. Russell.

25,151. What time in the day?—As near as I can tell about 3 o'clock.

25,152. Did you see either of the Mr. Straceys upon the day of the election?—No, nor ever had one of his papers sent to my house.

25,153. Did you get anything for your vote?—Nobody came to ask me to vote.

25,154. Did you get anything?—No, not so much as a glass of beer. I was not well that day. I went out twice to go for to vote and turned back and went indoors. I voted right against my house. Nobody asked me so much as to vote.

25,155. Did anybody promise you anything that day?—No, nor did they come to ask me to vote.

25,156. You did not get a bottle of anything?—No.

25,157. Nothing at all?—No, I never got anything. Three days before Tillett's folks came and asked me if I would vote for them, and I told them no; they might make themselves easy I should not vote for Mr. Tillett. Mr. Stracey's people never came nigh me.

25,158. None of the young Mr. Straceys came to ask you to vote?—They never came nigh my door.

25,159. You did not speak to them that day?—I do not know that I ever spoke to them in my life, and I should not know them if I were to see them.

25,160. Have you had a vote before?—Never.

25,161. Who induced you to vote?—No one ever asked me.

25,162. You went up and voted of your own accord?—I went of myself. I had been twice before with the intention to vote, but I had not been well, and I went back and sat by my fire.

JAMES DEBBAGE sworn and examined. J. Debbage.

25,163. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Tillett and Russell.

25,164. At what time in the day?—Nine o'clock in the morning.

26,165. Had you promised your vote?—No.

25,166. Were you a member of the organisation?—No.

25,167. Were you about the town much that day?—I was about the town a great deal.

25,168. Were you down at the "Pigeons"?—I was in at the "Pigeons" two or three times.

25,169. Did you get any beer?—I got what I paid for.

25,170. Did you see anyone get beer without paying for it?—No.

25,171. What was going on at the "Pigeons"?—I never see anything going on.

25,172. There were a great number of people there?—Yes.

25,173. That was a Stracey house?—Yes.

25,174. Did you see any money going?—I never saw any going.

25,175. Did you hear anything about it?—No.

25,176. Did you hear of men getting treated?—No.

25,177. Did you not see a great number of men calling for beer, and not paying for it?—No, I never saw anything of the sort.

25,178. Did you not hear of men going upstairs and getting a little money paid them for their votes?—No.

25,179. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes.

25,180. Have you never heard of it since?—No.

25,181. How long were you at the "Pigeons"?—I was in half an hour at one time.

25,182. What time in the day was that?—11 o'clock.

25,183. There was a good deal of drinking going on?—Yes.

25,184. Did you see anybody pay for their drink?—I never saw no one pay for any drink except what they ordered themselves.

25,185. Did you not see jugs of beer coming into the room?—No.

25,186. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes.

25,187. Did you not get a drop of the Stracey beer?—No.

25,188. Not after you had voted for Tillett?—No.

25,189. Did you try to get some?—No.

MILES DEBBAGE sworn and examined. M. Debbage.

25,190. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

25,191. For whom?—For Mr. Tillett.

25,192. At what time in the day?—Somewhere about 12 o'clock.

25,193. Did you get anything for voting for him?—No; nor yet was I asked to vote for anyone, nor yet canvassed by anyone.

25,194. Were you at the "Pigeons"?—No.

JOSEPH MIDDLETON sworn and examined. J. Middleton.

25,195. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A weaver.

25,196. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

25,197. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

25,198. At what time in the day?—A little after 3.

25,199. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

25,200. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes, I am quite certain of it.

25,201. Why did you not vote sooner?—I was busy in the forenoon, along with my son.

25,202. Did you get the promise of anything for voting?—No. I never had anything mentioned to me; nothing of the kind.

25,203. No beer and no money?—No.

JAMES COLDHAM sworn and examined. J. Coldham.

25,204. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

25,205. At what time in the day?—A quarter to 4.

25,206. What made you vote so late?—I was very busy all that day.

25,207. Had you been asked to vote?—No, neither Tory nor Whig never asked me to vote at all.

25,208. Who took you up to the poll?—I went up in my own cab.

25,209. Did you take up anybody with you?—Not all day; not one person, and was not asked.

25,210. Have you voted before?—Yes. I have always had a vote.

25,211. Have you always voted Tory?—Yes.

25,212. You keep a public-house, do you not?—Yes.

25,213. Had you many people there during the day?—I had not a soul hardly all the day, and was not asked for my vote at all.

25,214. Was no money taken?—No, I never see no money from either party.

25,215. You would make it appear to be rather a bad trade to keep a public-house?—I do not know anything about that. I never see nothing at all.

25,216. Did you pay anything to anybody to vote?—No.

25,217. Was any score run up at your place for beer supplied that day?—No, nothing at all.

25,218. Have you had anything since paid to you?—No, nothing at all.

25,219. Had you anything paid to you before?—No, I have never been paid anything in my life, and I would not take it.

WILLIAM HARRIS sworn and examined. W. Harris.

25,220. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A coal porter.

25,221. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

25,222. For whom did you vote?—I voted for Mr. Tillett.

25,223. At what time in the day?—I should say it was 3 o'clock.

25,224. Why did you not vote earlier?—I did not leave my employment till 2. I walked from my employment up to the poll from that time.

25,225. Did you get anything for your vote?—I got nothing.

25,226. Or the promise of anything?—Not anything. It was my intention to vote for Mr. Tillett.

TWENTIETH DAY.

1 Oct. 1869.

ARTHUR RACKHAM sworn and examined.

A. Rackham.

25,227. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

25,229. What are you?—A coachman.

25,230. In whose service?—Captain Crow's.

25,231. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

25,232. Were you promised anything?—No.

25,233. Were you in Captain Crow's service at that time?—Yes.

25,234. How came you not to vote earlier?—It was not convenient to get away.

C. Mace.

CHARLES MACE sworn and examined.

25,235. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

25,236. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

25,237. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing.

25,238. Did you ask for anything?—No.

25,239. Where were you all the day?—At work.

25,240. What do you work at?—Cabinet-making.

25,241. Do you know Buttifant?—I know several Buttifants.

25,242. Did you see a man of the name of Buttifant on the day of the election?—Not that I am aware of.

25,243. Did you see him the day before?—No.

25,244. Are you quite certain you did not see him upon the day of the election?—Yes.

25,245. Will you swear it?—Yes.

25,246. Will you swear you did not see him the day before?—Yes.

25,247. Or the day after?—Certainly not.

25,248. How much money did he give you?—Nothing.

25,249. How much did Cunnington give you?—I do not know him.

25,250. Will you swear you do not know a man of the name of Cunnington?—Yes.

25,251. Were you at the "Eagle" public-house on the day of the poll?—Yes.

25,252. Who was with you?—Various people. I cannot say who they were exactly.

25,253. Were you there with a man of the name of Carver?—Not on the day of election.

25,254. Do you know Carver?—Yes.

25,255. Do you know that he got some money?—Not that I am aware of.

25,256. Were you not saying you got some money when you were at the "Eagle"?—Certainly not.

25,257. Will you swear you did not get any money?—I will swear that I did not.

25,258. Were you not promised any?—No, certainly not.

25,259. Have you got nothing since?—No.

25,260. You got some beer at the "Eagle"?—Yes, at my own expense though.

25,261. You were there the whole day?—No, I was at work all day pretty well.

25,262. You went there after you voted?—Yes.

25,263. What men were there?—I cannot say.

25,264. Do you not know the name of any one of them?—I cannot say I do, barring the landlord. I knew him perfectly well; that is all.

25,265. Did you know nobody else?—No; I stayed there only a few minutes.

25,266. Have you ever been at the house before?—Yes.

25,267. Often?—Yes; I go there every evening after work.

25,268. You go there regularly?—Generally.

25,269. There must have been a number of men that you knew who were there?—There were many about that day, strangers tumbling into public-houses.

25,270. Tell me the names of the men who were in the "Eagle"?—I do not know one.

25,271. Try and recollect.—I do not recollect. If I do not know them of course I cannot say.

25,272. How much beer did you get there?—I might have a glass or two occasionally, and nothing more.

25,273. Who treated you?—No one.

25,274. Will you swear that no one gave you any beer there?—Yes, I will.

25,275. Will you swear you have had no money paid you since for voting?—Yes.

25,276. To whom did you promise your vote?—I did not promise my vote to anyone.

25,277. Were you asked to vote?—No.

25,278. Not during the day of the poll?—No.

25,279. Who took you up to the poll?—I went myself.

25,280. Who were you with on that day?—With lots of folks; I cannot say who they were—strangers. It is a very exciting day, and I cannot tell who I met with.

25,281. You do not recollect the names of any of the persons you were with that day?—No.

B. W. A. Tallowin.

BENJAMIN WILLIAM ARTHUR TALLOWIN sworn and examined.

25,282. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a timber merchant.

25,283. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

25,284. For whom?—For Mr. Stracey.

25,285. At what time in the day?—About 11 o'clock, as near as I can tell.

25,286. Had you ever voted before?—No.

25,287. This is your first time of voting?—Yes.

25,288. Did you get anything for voting this time?—No.

25,289. Or the promise of anything?—No.

25,290. Had you been canvassed?—No.

25,291. You went of your own accord and voted?—Yes.

W. Drane.

WALTER DRANE sworn and examined.

25,292. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

25,293. For Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

25,294. What time in the day?—A little after 3 o'clock.

25,295. What are you by business?—A gas lighter.

25,296. Were you canvassed?—There was a man came to my house the night before the election.

25,297. Who was that?—I do not know who he was.

25,298. On which side?—On the blue side.

25,299. Did anybody come on the other side?—No.

25,300. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

25,301. Were you promised anything?—Nothing at all.

25,302. Have you ever voted before?—No.

25,303. Did anybody take you up to the poll?—No.

25,304. Did nobody come and fetch you?—No.

ABEL RICHARD CHAPMAN sworn and examined.

25,305. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

25,306. At what hour in the day?—Between 1 and 2.

25,307. Are you certain you did not vote later?—I am quite sure of that.

25,308. Who asked you to vote?—Not anyone.

25,309. Have you ever voted before?—No.

25,310. What did you get for your vote?—Not anything.

25,311. Did you get any beer?—No.

25,312. Did you give anything to anybody?—No.

25,313. Have you had anything paid to you since?—No.

25,314. Have you paid anything to anybody since for voting?—No.

GILBERT SAMUEL COOK sworn and examined.

25,315. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

25,316. For Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

25,317. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

25,318. What did you get for voting?—Nothing.

25,319. How was it you did not vote earlier?—I was engaged up to noon time.

25,320. How?—At my business.

25,321. What is your business?—A brushmaker.

25,322. Could you not leave it?—No.

25,323. Had you been canvassed?—Yes, by the Conservatives.

25,324. By whom?—By young Mr. Stracey and another gentleman I do not know.

25,325. When?—Two or three days before the election.

25,326. Did you promise to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

25,327. And you kept your word?—Yes.

25,328. As soon as you could on the day of the polling?—Yes.

JOHN ABLE sworn and examined.

25,329. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

25,330. What did you get?—5*s.*

25,331. From whom?—Mr. George Keddington.

25,332. Where does he live?—Hampshire Hog Yard, St. Swithin's.

25,333. Did anybody get anything with you?—Cubitt Page.

25,334. What did he get?—The same money.

25,335. Do you know where Keddington got the money from?—I believe he got it from William Houghton.

25,336. Did he get the money for any besides you?—No, not that I am aware of.

25,337. Have you heard of any other men receiving money?—Not that I am aware of.

WILLIAM BYGRAVE sworn and examined.

25,338. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Mr. Stracey.

25,339. What time in the day?—I voted at about a quarter to 4. I had not been up long. I am a captain of one of Mr. Brookes' wherries, and I had been at work all the night.

25,340. Did you get anything for your vote?—I did not take it; Mr. Houghton gave it to my wife.

25,341. How much?—Half a sovereign.

25,342. Was that all you got?—Yes.

25,343-4. Did you get any beer?—No, only what I bought myself.

25,345. Do you know of anybody else getting money?—No.

25,346. Have you been told of it since?—I did not see anyone else.

25,347. Did you ever have any money before for voting?—Yes, I had once.

25,348. Was that at Waters' election?—Yes.

25,349. How much did you get then?—4*l.*

25,350. Who gave it to you?—John Houghton.

25,351. Did you ever get anything else but that?—No.

25,352. Was that the only time you ever voted?—Yes.

25,353. How was it you took so little as 10*s.*?—I do not know; because they did not give me no more.

25,354. Did you ask for more?—No, I did not ask for anything.

25,355. Did you hear that 10*s.* was the best price going for a vote?—No, I did not hear anything. I was in a public-house, and Mr. Houghton came after me.

25,356. Which public-house?—The "White Rose," on St. Margaret's Plain.

25,357. There they were talking about what was going on?—I was not; I was playing at nine-pins.

25,358. Were you not making inquiries?—No.

25,359. Where did you first learn that this 10*s.* was to be had?—Mr. Houghton came to me and offered me, or rather my wife, 10*s.*

25,360. Did you hear about it at any other public-house?—No; I did not go into no other.

25,361. You were satisfied with your 10*s.*?—Yes, and I should like to have had one again to-day if I could have got it.

25,362. When Houghton came to you, did you not make any bargain with him about your vote?—No; he came to me, and offered my wife 10*s.* He said, "I will make a present to your wife of 10*s.* if you will go and vote;" and I said, "All right, I will go."

JOHN HORACE HUGGINS sworn and examined.

25,363. (Mr. Biron.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

25,364. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

25,365. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

25,366. At what time in the day?—I was first man in the first ward for Sir Henry Stracey.

25,367. You were summoned here many days ago.—I have been here every day.

25,368. We have called you every day, and you have not answered.—I was here on Wednesday and Thursday.

25,369. We have called you over and over again—I can prove I have been here by other people that have been here.

25,370. What time did you come here to-day?—I came here at 10 o'clock, and I had to go to the Guildhall to establish my vote for the municipal election. I have established my vote for that affair, and I came back immediately.

25,371. You were summoned here for Tuesday last.—I did not receive this summons until 4 o'clock on the Tuesday afternoon, and I came here immediately, and the court was closed.

25,372. Did you come on Wednesday, the 29th?—It was on Wednesday that I did not receive it till 4 o'clock.

TWENTIETH DAY.

J. H. Huggins.

1 Oct. 1869.

25,373. How long have you been here at one time?—I was here the whole of yesterday, and I was here an hour on Wednesday.

25,374. What did you get for voting?—Nothing for voting.

25,375. What did you get to distribute amongst the other men?—2*l.*, from Mr. Furse.

25,376. How many men did you get for it?—To explain that matter I must go into particulars, you know.

25,377. Those are the particulars I am asking for.—Well, on the afternoon of the election day I was appointed as one of the persons to get up voters in St. Helen's parish. There were three persons appointed; myself and Mr. Traxton, and Mr. Brooks, the carpenter, were appointed.

25,378. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Who appointed you?—The first ward committee. On that morning I voted about three minutes past 8. I went on purpose to get up these people, but the lists were in Mr. Traxton's hands, and Mr. Traxton went from the polling booth immediately after me to Mr. Pearce's at the "Compasses," and was there till 2 o'clock in the afternoon; consequently I had not the list at all, and could not get up the voters until he came back again. He came back again at 2 o'clock, and left the worse for drink—I will not say the man was inebriated at all. We went directly to three men in the old men's hospital.

25,379. Did you go to Allen?—Yes, I did, immediately. I never knew the man before. I went there upon Mr. Traxton's recommendation. I went there to him, and he says, "There is ten or a dozen men sitting "about there, and they want their day's pay. They "have been offered their day's pay for the Liberal "side of the question."

25,380. Tell me what occurred?—I had no money at that time whatever, and I went home and borrowed 6*d.* of my wife on purpose to treat Mr. Traxton. He said he had no money. I went to the men, and they said, "We shall not go up, because we have been "offered so much for our day's work from the other "side of the question." I went back again directly to my house and got my dinner, and went back to the committee room, where I see Mr. Furse about 20 minutes past 3. I do not know whether it was 20 minutes or half-past 3, but it was as near half-past 3 as could be, and he gave me 2*l.* I directly went up, intending to give these men their proper day's pay, and going across Tombland, running along, I met Mr. Taylor, and got into his gig, and he drove me there, and I went to Mr. Allen's. When I got there there was no man there, only his self, and I said to him, "Where are these men?" and he says, "These men are gone to vote for the other side of the question."

25,381. Did you give Allen half a sovereign?—No, I did not give him half a sovereign, or even offer him half a sovereign, although he has said so. I distinctly deny it.

25,382. What did you do with the money?—If you will allow me, I will tell the tale in my own way.

25,383. We cannot let you talk for an hour.—I will be as quick as I possibly can.

25,384. Did you give away any of that 2*l.* or not?—Oh yes, to a lot of people.

25,385. Who were they?—I went to Mr. Allen, and he says, "I will not vote unless you give me 1*l.*;" and I says, "I will not give you 1*l.*;" and I went away, and when I got into St. Martin's Palace Plain, Mr. Taylor says, "I will not have you any longer in my gig;" and I got out and went into the seventh ward, where I see several people, and the first person I met was Mr. Womersley, who seemed to be in a great hurry——

25,386. I will not have any more of this nonsense,—I am telling you the truth.

25,387. I put to you a question, and you will answer it. To whom did you give any of that 2*l.*?—To several men in the seventh ward.

25,388. Give me the name of one.—I do not know one name. I did not wish to know their names.

25,389. To how many did you give it?—They did not vote.

25,390. You go and sit in the dock till the rising of the court, and then if you do not tell us the truth without hesitation you will go to gaol.

G. White.

George White sworn and examined.

25,391. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you the manager at one of the wards at the last election?—I was one of the managers for the third ward.

25,392. Paid manager?—No.

25,393. A volunteer?—Yes.

25,394. Have you never been paid for any of your services?—Not a farthing.

25,395. How many managers were there in the third ward?—There were three.

25,396. Who were the other two?—Mr. Berry and Mr. Runacres.

25,397. Were they volunteers like yourself, or were they both paid?—They were both paid, I believe.

25,398. I suppose you were at the committee room the greater portion of the day?—I was at the committee room the whole of the election day.

25,399. Do you know of any money which was provided or paid on the part of the Liberal interest that day?—No, not any for unlawful purposes.

25,400. Had you any reason to suppose there was any provided or paid?—Not a farthing.

25,401. Did anything occur which led you to suppose that money was being spent on the other side?—I had reports brought to me from about 12 o'clock in the day, that it was believed money was going in several directions in the third ward.

25,402. In what directions was it said to be going?—One place mentioned was the "Bull and Butcher," on Grapes Hill. It was said Mr. Stanley was there with a number of voters. I at once sent a number of volunteers to the house, but they could not get in; the house was full, and there were no means of access at all. I believe it was a committee room; it was closed as a public-house, and used by the Conservatives as a committee room.

25,403. Of what other place did you hear?—The "Derby Arms" was another.

25,404. What did you hear about the "Derby Arms"?—A similar statement, that a large number of voters were there; a man stood at the door, so that there were no means of getting in. To one or two of these places I sent off parties whom I thought would not be known, to see if they could get in, but in no case could I get any direct information.

25,405. Whom did you send to the "Derby Arms"?—I think it was a man of the name of Lincoln. I am not quite certain; he is not in the city now.

25,406. Could you get any reliable information as to anything that was going on?—No, I could not. One place I sent to they said the report was not true at all, there was no one there; but in two or three cases they came back with the conviction that money was being spent, but they could get no direct information; they could not get into the house in fact.

25,407. Had you, from your own observation, any cause to know that money was being spent, or was it merely from these reports?—I had nothing more direct than the fact of there being several late voters who from my little knowledge of the ward I believe would not vote without money.

25,408. Was it their voting late which excited your suspicion?—Yes, voting late, coupled with the character of the men.

25,409. Until the latter part of the day had you any cause to suspect that there was money being spent?—No, not any. I do not remember noting any names in the early part of the day. We noted about noon time a great absence of activity on the part of the Conservatives; the committee room was empty, and there seemed to be nothing going on; several of us concluded that they had almost given up the election as lost, but in the course of an hour or two after that there was much more excitement than there had been in the early part of the day; they were driving about in all directions, and quite resumed their activity, and the committee room from that time was full.

25,410. You yourself did not go down to any place for the purpose of observing anything of the kind?—No, I did not; I was not able to leave for long together.

25,411. Did either of your colleagues, the gentlemen you have named, do so?—No. Mr. Runacres took very little active interest in the election, and I do not think he was much interested in the success of Mr. Tillett; he took very little interest in the whole affair. I should like to make one remark in reference to the canvassing. Evidence has been given on several occasions that there were large numbers of doubtful voters. It may be explained, so far as my connexion with the third ward is concerned, and I have had a great deal to do with the canvassing, even before the coalition, that a large number of voters were not marked almost entirely because they were not found at home. These men were all volunteers who canvassed, and could only go at certain hours, and they found a great number absent; also there were a great number of voters who remained doubtful, because they were employed by Messrs. Barnard and Bishop. Every one of them declined to give any promise, though we knew a great many of them were Liberals in politics.

25,412. Who are Barnard and Bishop?—Large iron-founders.

25,413. Are they Tories?—Yes. We found in every case that we canvassed one of their men they declined to promise; some of them said if their votes were wanted they would vote, but they preferred not to promise at that stage. I had at the "Grapes" several applications for money. I have noticed by the evidence of Trumbetta, that he has stated he did not leave his house till five minutes to 4 on the polling day and went to poll, and was too late; that man came to me at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and asked me for a sovereign to vote. I told him I should not give him a halfpenny. I said he could get it over the way, and I sent some one of the men about me to watch him and see if he did get anything. He went over there and found nothing, and came back again about an hour after and said he could get some dozen who would vote if I would give them 5s. each. I said they would not have a farthing, and it was no use their waiting whatever. That was the only direct application I had for money the whole of the day.

25,414. Did you hear of any application being made to your colleagues?—No, I do not think they would be likely to have any application made to them. I was the most active of the three, and took the greatest interest in Mr. Tillett's success.

25,415. Do you know where Trumbetta went after he left you?—It is quite true he did not vote. When I found him stating that he had a number of men whom he could influence, I asked two or three parties to keep him there if possible, so that he did not vote or did not communicate with his colleagues, because I thought it possible, as I had heard money was stirring, the whole dozen might sell themselves to the other side. He kept about the "Grapes" committee room evidently with the intention of getting something, though I am quite certain no hopes were held out to him.

25,416. How do you mean you kept him there?—Talked to him; I talked to him myself to keep him there, and set one or two men to watch him, when I heard him state that he had a dozen men whom he could influence.

25,417. You cajoled him a little?—No, I did not cajole him. I was with him a very few minutes, and I persuaded him to go and poll like a man. I knew him; he was the only man I did know out of the several who were waiting about for money, and I spoke to him in a more direct way than I did to any of the others.

25,418. (Mr. Mansfield.) Can you explain why this canvass of the organisation is said to be so inaccurate?—So far as the organisation members themselves are concerned, I totally disagree with the evidence of Mr. Bryant Allen and one or two others. My instructions were on no account to mark persons for Mr. Tillett simply because they were members of the organisation, but to canvass them and obtain their opinions. The books of the organisation will show that the majority polled as truly as it was possible for such a number of men to do. There was a majority of the members who voted for Tillett.

25,419. It ought to be a great deal more than a majority, it ought to be an overwhelming majority?—From what I understood from the secretary, they would not be likely to find more than 200 names who did not vote out of 2,000 members, and if you will allow me to remark, there was no money fee whatever for entrance; anyone was allowed to join, so that there was nothing to test their principles whatever.

25,420. There was something in the way of benefit, was there not?—No, no benefit whatever; the whole of the organisation committees worked perfectly free; they gave all their time voluntarily; I know of no one who got anything at all.

25,421. Not the members?—No, not one of them; it was a perfectly free organisation got up by working men who were interested in the success of Liberal politics in the city. It was afterwards proved that the bulk of them were favourable to Mr. Tillett's candidature, though when the organisation was started nothing was stated about Mr. Tillett being the candidate.

25,422. You believe nine out of 10 voted for Tillett?—Yes, I believe so. Some of them did not vote for some reason, and some were Barnard and Bishop's men; not one of those men would promise. Nine out of 10 who voted, I believe it could be proved voted for Tillett.

JOSEPH LINDSEY sworn and examined.

J. Lindsey.

25,423. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—For Stracey.

25,424. At what time in the day?—About 3, I suppose.

25,425. What made you vote so late?—Because I chose my own time.

25,426. For whom did you promise to vote?—No one.

25,427. Had you been asked to vote?—No.

25,428. Not by anyone?—No.

25,429. With whom did you go up to the poll?—No one.

25,430. Where were you all day?—At home, at my work.

25,431. Did anybody come to your house that day?—No.

25,432. Did you not speak to anybody before you went to the poll?—No, not a soul.

25,433. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing.

25,434. Have you been paid anything since?—No.

25,435. Have you been promised anything?—No, I never heard of anything.

25,436. Have you ever voted before?—No.

25,437. Do you know of any money going at this election?—I never heard of any at all.

25,438. Were you not trying to get some money?—No, I never tried at all.

25,439. Did you not know money was going?—No, I never heard of any.

25,440. What are you by trade?—A butcher.

25,441. On your own account?—Yes.

TWENTIETH DAY.

1 Oct. 1869.

A. Beckett.

ALFRED BECKETT sworn and examined.

25,442. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A gardener.

25,443. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Stracey.

25,444. You got 10*s.* for it?—My wife took 10*s.*, but I did not know anything about it.

25,445. She got it, and told you to vote?—Yes, afterwards she did.

25,446. Who gave it to her?—William Houghton.

25,447. What time of the day was that?—Some time in the afternoon, I cannot say when, because I was not at home.

25,448. When you got home she told you you must go and vote?—No, I did not get home till night; I had voted then.

R. Whall.

ROBERT WHALL sworn and examined.

25,449. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Tillett.

25,450. What time in the day?—Between 2 and 3.

25,451. Had you promised your vote?—No.

25,452. Had you been asked for your vote?—No.

25,453. Had you not been canvassed by Sir Henry Stracey's friends?—I do not know about his friends. Mr. Williams came and visited me, and two or three other gentlemen.

25,454. They wanted you to vote for Stracey?—Yes.

25,455. Did you say you would vote for Stracey?—No, I did not say anything about it.

25,456. Did you give no answer?—No.

25,457. Did you say your opinions were the other way?—No; they said they were going to call again, and I did not give any particular answer.

25,458. Did they call again?—No.

25,459. What made you vote for Tillett?—Them is my principles.

25,460. Did you get anything for it?—No.

25,461. Did you get a glass of beer?—No.

25,462. Was there no beer going on that side?—I had not any that day, not at my own expense or anyone else's.

25,463. I suppose you would have been glad to have had a glass of Tillett beer?—No; I am not a beer drinker myself.

25,464. Did you hear of any money going?—No.

25,465. Did you not give anybody else some money or beer to go and vote?—No. I did not go amongst them; I was busy at work.

25,466. What are you?—A match and blacking manufacturer.

25,467. Were you not out and about during the day?—No, I was busy after my work; I had some folks that were waiting for work. I have several hands at work for me, boys and girls; and I did not vote till after I had got them to work.

25,468. Did you go back directly you had voted?—Yes.

25,469. You did not go to any of the public places?—No, that I am sure I did not.

C. Page.

CUBITT PAGE sworn and examined.

25,470. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A carpenter.

25,471. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

25,472. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

25,473. At what time?—It might be 3 o'clock.

25,474. Why did you not vote earlier?—I do not know.

25,475. What did you get for voting then?—A crown.

25,476. Who gave it to you?—John Keddington gave it to me through Mr. Houghton.

25,477. Which Houghton, William or John?—William I think it is, but I do not know one from the other.

25,478. Did you see anyone else get money?—There was Keddington, I, and Able.

25,479. Do you know what they got?—A crown each I think.

25,480. From Houghton?—Yes.

25,481. Then you went to the poll?—Yes.

H. Barker.

HENRY BARKER sworn and examined.

25,482. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at this last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

25,483. At what time in the day?—Three o'clock.

25,484. What made you vote so late?—I was down in the city; I thought any time would do to vote.

25,485. Are you sure it was not later than 3 o'clock?—Yes, it was not later than 3.

25,486. Had you promised your vote?—Yes, to Sir Henry Stracey.

25,487. To him personally?—To his son, on the Saturday evening before the election.

25,488. Do you know which of his sons it was that you promised?—I do not know which it was.

25,489. Did he give you anything?—No.

25,490. Did he promise you anything?—No.

25,491. Have you had anything since?—No.

25,492. Did you get any beer on the day of the poll?—No; I am not a public-house man.

25,493. You might have beer for all that?—No, I did not.

25,494. Do you know of anybody getting anything?—No, not anyone.

25,495. Is this the first time you voted?—No, I voted for Mr. Waters.

25,496. What did you get then?—Nothing.

25,497. Did you vote before that for anyone?—No, that was the first vote.

J. Keddington.

JOHN KEDDINGTON sworn and examined.

25,498. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A master shoemaker.

25,499. You got 5*s.* for voting for Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

25,500. From whom?—From Mr. Houghton.

25,501. William Houghton?—Yes.

25,502. What time in the day was that?—About 20 minutes before 4.

25,503. You were the paymaster?—Yes.

25,504. You got 15*s.* from Houghton, and gave two other men 5*s.* each?—Yes.

W. Parsons.

WILLIAM PARSONS sworn and examined.

25,505. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at this election?—Stracey.

25,506. At what time in the day?—About half-past 11.

25,507. Had you promised your vote?—Yes.

25,508. To whom?—Mr. Buttifant.

25,509. Did he give you anything for it?—No.

25,510. Did he promise you anything?—No.

25,511. Have you had anything since?—No.

25,512. Did you go about the town during the day of the poll?—No.

25,513. Did you get any beer?—Not anything.

25,514. Nowhere?—No.

25,515. Did anybody come with you along with Mr. Buttifant?—Yes, Mr. Cunnington.

25,516. Anybody else?—No.

25,517. How much did Cunnington give you?—Not anything.

25,518. Did you not try to get something from him?—No.

25,519. Have you ever voted before?—No.

25,520. What did you expect to get at this election for your vote?—I did not expect to get anything.

25,521. Did you not try?—No.

25,522. Did you not want?—No.

25,523. Was nothing said to you about money this time?—No, not anything.

25,524. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes, quite certain.

25,525. You knew Mr. Cunnington was about giving money?—He never gave me any, nor said anything about any.

25,526. You knew there was money going?—I never axed for any, and never was offered any.

25,527. Was there anybody else besides Cunnington that canvassed you along with Buttifant?—No.

25,528. Did you promise them to plump for Stracey?—They asked me whether I would oblige them with my vote for Stracey, and I said, "Yes," I would; and I went and voted between 11 and 12 in the day, as soon as I had an opportunity.

25,259. Was that all that passed between you and them?—Yes, that is all.

25,530. Did they try to persuade you to vote, or were you ready to vote without persuasion?—I did not want any; I promised to vote, and I went and voted.

25,531. Was there any reason why you should vote for Stracey more than anybody else?—No. I never had a vote before.

25,532. Was Buttifant known to you before?—Yes, I have known him a long time. I do a little business with him at times.

25,533. In what way?—I buy a few things of him at times, nails and paint; a few things I want in his way.

25,534. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you get any allowance or credit?—Not any.

25,535. Did not Mr. Buttifant say he would give you credit?—No.

25,536. Or that he would let you have something cheap?—No, nothing of the sort.

25,537. He did not promise you any accommodation?—No, not any. I never axed for any, and he never promised any.

25,538. Did you ever have anything to do with Mr. Cunnington?—No.

25,539. He was a stranger to you?—No, he was not a stranger. I have lived close to him for years past.

25,540. You have never had any transactions with him?—No, not any.

25,541. Mr. Buttifant was the person who you wanted to oblige?—They came round and canvassed my vote, and I promised them my vote, and I went and voted.

WILLIAM MALLETT sworn and examined.

W. Mallett.

25,542. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A scavenger.

25,543. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

25,544. For whom?—For Mr. Stracey.

26,545. At what time in the day?—About half-past 8 in the morning.

25,546. What did you get for it?—Nothing.

25,547. What did you get afterwards?—Nothing.

25,548. Nothing all day?—No.

25,549. Did you not get a shilling from somebody?—No.

25,550. Did you get anything to eat or drink?—No, not even the smell of a beer glass.

25,551. Did Masters invite you to breakfast?—No.

25,552. Did you go there without being invited?—I did not go at all.

25,553. You did not get anything for your vote?—No.

FRANCIS METCALF, junior, sworn and examined.

F. Metcalf, junr.

25,554. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

25,555. Have you voted at elections before?—No.

25,556. Never?—No, never; this was my first vote.

25,557. At municipal elections you have voted, have you not?—No.

25,558. At what time did you vote?—About a quarter or 20 minutes past 9 in the morning. I wanted to vote before, but I could not get near the poll.

25,559. Had you been canvassed?—No.

25,560. Did anybody ask you for your vote at all?—No.

25,561. Nobody came to you that morning?—No.

25,562. Did nobody speak to you the night before?—A man asked me which way I was going to vote, and I said I shall plump for Stracey.

25,563. What was the man?—I do not know the man's mane.

25,564. Where was it?—In a public-house; the "Tuns."

25,565. That was the night before?—Yes, the night before the election. The election took place the next morning.

25,566. Did he say he would give you some beer if you did?—No.

25,567. Or some money?—No. I never received a farthing; I voted independent of anybody.

25,568. Did you receive no beer from anyone?—No, not half a pint, nor yet a glass of beer. I should have voted earlier if I could have got near the poll. I went twice.

JAMES BURRELL sworn and examined.

J. Burrell.

25,569. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A plasterer.

25,570. For whom did you vote at this election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

25,571. At what time in the day?—About half-past 3.

25,572. Who asked you to vote?—Not anyone.

25,573. Had you promised your vote?—To no one.

25,574. What did you get for voting?—Not anything.

25,575. Did you get any beer?—No.

25,576. Where were you all day?—At business.

25,577. Is that the first time you got out during the day?—No, I went about 8 o'clock in the morning.

25,578. Where did you go to?—To work.

25,579. Between that time and voting did you get out?—No.

25,580. Not at all?—No, not from 8 till half-past 3.

25,581. Then you went straight to the poll?—Yes.

25,582. Did anybody go with you?—No one.

25,583. Did you talk to nobody?—No.

25,584. Did you go up by yourself?—I went up by myself. I know what I say.

25,585. Did you see Cunnington that day?—I do not know him.

25,586. Do you mean to say you were not asked by anybody for your vote?—I was not asked by anyone; neither Conservatives nor Liberals came to my house.

25,587. Did you try to get any money for your vote?—No.

TWENTIETH DAY.

J. Burrell.

1 Oct. 1869.

25,588. Did you hear any money was going ?—No.

25,589. Did you go to any public-house that day ?—No.

25,590. Not before you voted ?—Not before I voted, nor yet afterwards.

25,591. Did your master speak to you about voting ?—No.

25,592. You are quite certain about that ?—Yes ; if he had it would not have been for Mr. Stracey.

25,593. Do you mean to tell me nobody spoke to you about voting ?—No.

25,594. And you did not speak to anyone as to how you were going to vote ?—No.

25,595. You never mentioned how you were going to vote ?—No, I voted according to my own principles.

25,596. You must have spoken to somebody about it ?—No, I did not.

25,597. You never spoke to anyone at all ?—No, not anyone.

25,598. Was anything promised to you ?—Not anything. I had no one from either side come to my house, neither canvassing nor anything else.

25,599. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Where did you breakfast that morning ?—At home.

25,600. At what public-house were you the night before ?—I do not think any. I do not remember any.

25,601. Were you not at a public-house the night before ?—No.

25,602. Will you swear you were not ?—Yes.

25,603. Did not anybody make you an offer ?—No.

W. Dunn.

WILLIAM DUNN sworn and examined.

25,604. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A shoemaker.

25,605. For whom did you vote at the last election ?—I voted for Mr. Stracey.

25,606. At what time in the day ?—Half-past 3, or thereabouts.

25,607. What did you get for doing it ?—I got nothing ; nobody ever asked me to vote for Mr. Stracey.

25,608. You did it of your own head ?—I did it of my own head.

25,609. Did you get anything, or the promise of anything ?—No, nor the promise of anything. I was making a pair of lady's boots, and finished them before I went to vote.

W. Dawson.

WILLIAM DAWSON sworn and examined.

25,610. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey ?—Yes.

25,611. At what time in the day did you vote ?—About half-past 3.

25,612. Where had you been all the day ?—At work.

25,613. For whom ?—Myself.

25,614. At what ?—Coopering.

25,615. You could have got away from coopering ?—I could not leave off.

25,616. Why not ?—I had an order to make a tub, and I was forced to get it in.

25,617. Who came to you and asked you to vote ?—No one.

25,618. Were you never canvassed at all ?—No.

25,619. Did nobody ask you for your vote ?—No.

25,620. Either before or on the day of the election ?—No.

25,621. Did you vote of your own head entirely ?—Yes.

25,622. Without any request from anybody ?—Yes.

25,623. Did anybody come to your house that day to get you to vote ?—No.

25,624. Did you receive any money for voting ?—No.

25,625. Were you promised any money ?—No.

25,626. Were you standing about the streets ?—No.

25,627. From where did you go to vote ?—I came from my own house.

25,628. Were you not walking about the streets before you voted ?—No.

J. Bridges.

JOHN BRIDGES sworn and examined.

25,629. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade ?—A butcher.

25,630. Did you take any part in this election ?—No, not any.

25,631. Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey ?—Yes.

25,632. What time in the day ?—Just after 2.

25,633. What made you so late ?—I was detained at home at my business.

25,634. Did you pay any money to anybody to vote ?—No, not a farthing.

25,635. Did you give any beer ?—I never see any.

25,636. You did not give any beer to other people ?—No, not a drain.

25,637. And you got none yourself ?—No, none.

25,638. Have you voted at other elections ?—Yes.

25,639. Have you always voted Tory ?—Not always; the last few years I have.

25,640. At which election did you change ?—It may be 10 years back.

25,641. Did you get anything for voting then ?—No.

25,642. Has anything been promised to you this time ?—No, nothing at all.

R. Bacon.

ROBERT BACON sworn and examined.

25,643. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A publican.

25,644. Did you vote at the last election ?—I did not vote at all that I am aware of.

25,645. Did you get any money from anybody ?—Yes, I believe I did.

25,646. How much was it ?—30*s.*

25,647. From whom did you get it ?—A man of the name of Bunn.

25,648. What did he give it to you for ?—To lay out, I believe.

25,649. Did you lay it out ?—Yes.

25,650. How many people did you get for it ?—Three or four ; I am sure I do not know which.

25,651. Was it three or four ?—I cannot say. I know there was three, but I think there was a fourth ; but I was intoxicated.

25,652. Tell me the three ?—Two Barkers and a man of the name of Scott, I think.

25,653. Where do the Barkers live ?—At Heigham.

25,654. Do they both live there ?—I cannot say ; I believe they do.

25,655. Where does Scott live ?—I think he lives in Heigham also.

25,656. At what time in the day did you get the money ?—Three or 4 o'clock, I suppose.

25,657. What did you give those men each ?—5s. each.

25,658. Cannot you recollect the fourth man, if there was a fourth ?—There was a fourth ; but I was the worse for drink, and I do not know who it was.

25,659. You did not vote yourself ?—Not that I am aware of.

25,660. Had you a vote ?—I believe so.

25,661. Do not answer in that way; you know whether you had a vote or not?—I believe my name is on the register, but I never tried it.

25,662. Had you a vote, or not?—I believe I had.

25,663. Did you vote?—I believe not. I do not recollect voting.

25,664. Do you mean to say you were so drunk towards 4 o'clock that you do not know whether you voted or not?—Yes.

25,665. (Mr. Mansfield.) Were you sober enough to recollect you got 10*s.* out of the 30*s.* for yourself?—No, I spent it.

25,666. On yourself?—Amongst friends.

25,667. In treating other people?—Yes.

25,668. In treating voters?—I do not know whether they were voters or not.

25,669. Do you know who they were who you treated?—I had a house full of people.

25,670. Who were these people; you must recollect some of them?—I recollect those three persons I have told you of.

25,671. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Besides those whom did you treat?—Anybody I see. I was not at home all the day.

25,672. Did you not employ some of that money in giving beer to voters in your house?—I think most likely I did. I asked several people to drink that day, not only in my house but in other houses.

25,673. You did not get this money till past 3 o'clock?—No, I believe not.

25,674. Were you in such a hazy state that you cannot recollect anything about it?—I recollect some of it. I went to bed at 6 o'clock at night I believe.

ANDREW THOMPSON COCK sworn and examined. A. T. Cock.

25,675. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

25,676. At what time?—Just before 4.

25,677. What did you get for voting?—Not anything.

25,678. Are you a Conservative?—Yes.

25,679. Why did you not vote before?—Why, because I had not time before.

25,680. The polling place is only a few hundred yards from your house?—I was not going to leave off work on purpose for voting.

25,681. What is your business?—A shoemaker.

25,682. A shoemaker's time is not so extraordinarily valuable that he cannot go out of his house to vote?—I thought that would be the best time for me.

25,683. Were you not waiting back in order to see what you could get?—I was not.

25,684. Did you ever vote before?—Yes, several times.

25,685. Did you ever get any money for it?—Never yet.

25,686. Not at Waters' election?—Never.

25,687. Or at Schneider's election?—I never got a farthing at no election.

25,688. Did nobody promise you anything for voting at this election?—No.

25,689. Or give you anything?—No.

25,690. Either before, since, or on the day?—Never before, nor yet since, nor on the day.

WILLIAM FREEMAN sworn and examined. W. Freeman.

25,691. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at this last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

25,692. At what time of the day?—Half-past 3.

25,693. What made you so late?—I could not get out on account of my business.

25,694. What is your business?—A cabinet-maker.

25,695. Have you ever voted before?—Yes.

25,696. Have you always voted Tory?—Yes.

25,697. For 20 years?—Yes, and hope I always shall.

25,698. Have you ever had any money for it?—No.

25,699. Have you had nothing promised you on any occasion?—No, nothing at all.

FRANCIS METCALF sworn and examined. F. Metcalf.

25,700. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A fish hawker.

25,701. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

25,702. For whom?—For Stracey.

25,703. At what time of the day?—A quarter to 4.

25,704. What did you get?—Nothing.

25,705. Why did you not vote sooner?—Because I had not done my rounds.

25,706. You were near the polling booths before that?—Yes; but I had my baskets, and could not get at any then.

25,707. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—No.

25,708. Had you promised anybody to vote for Stracey?—No.

25,709. Did you go up entirely of your own accord?—Yes.

25,710. When did you make up your mind to vote for Stracey?—I made up my mind the whole of the day.

25,711. What did you do with your baskets when you did go at last?—I left them at home.

25,712. Had you ever voted before?—No, never.

25,713. Were you at any of the public-houses during the day?—No.

25,714. Were you not in one?—No.

25,715. Did you get anything after you had voted?—No.

WILLIAM ALLEN sworn and examined. W. Allen.

25,716. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

25,717. What time in the day?—About 3.

25,718. What are you?—A master printer.

25,719. I believe you determined not to vote unless you were paid for it?—No, sir.

25,720. Did you not say you would not vote unless you were paid?—No; two or three gentlemen called upon me, and I told them I should not vote at all.

25,721. But did you not also say to other people that you were determined not to vote unless you were paid?—No.

25,722. Do you know Mrs. Vincent?—I know Mrs. Vincent quite well.

25,723. On the Monday before the election did you not say you would not vote unless you were paid?—No.

25,724. And well paid for it?—No.

25,725. Did some people call upon you for your vote?—Yes.

25,726. Who were they?—Mr. Rix.

25,727. That was on the day of the poll?—The day of the election.

25,728. Mr. Rix and Mr. Huddart came to your house on the day of the election, did they not?—Yes.

25,729. What did they give you for your vote?—Nothing.

25,730. What time did they come to your house?—They came at first at 10 o'clock in the morning.

TWENTIETH DAY.

W. Allen.

1 Oct. 1869.

25,731. You would not be persuaded to vote then ?—No.

25,732. Why should you not be persuaded to vote at 10 o'clock in the morning ?—Simply because I had some things to go off by the train at 4 o'clock, and I was forced to finish those things, or else they would have been thrown on my hands.

25,733. Did you not say to them that you would not vote until there was some money forthcoming ?—No.

25,734. They came again after you, did they not ?—Mr. Rix called three or four times, and I told him I should not go out until I had finished my things.

25,735. Did you not tell him you would not vote until you got some money ?—No ; and there was no money mentioned either between me or between him.

25,736. If it was not mentioned, what did pass ?—There was not a word mentioned about money whatever.

25,737. Did Huddart mention something about money ?—Mr. Huddart never spoke.

25,738. They took you up to the poll, did they not ?—Mr. Huddart walked behind me when I went to the poll.

25,739. To see that you polled ?—I don't know whether he saw that I polled ; I left him at the corner of the "Pigeons." I went and voted, and Mr. Huddart went into the "Pigeons."

25,740. Do you mean upon your oath to say that you got nothing for voting ?—I got not a farthing for voting.

25,741. Nor was anything promised you ?—Nor a promise of anything.

25,742. Were you afterwards treated ?—I left the poll, and I went to work again directly.

25,743. How did Mr. Huddart and Mr. Rix prevail upon you to vote ?—Mr. Huddart I don't think mentioned a word to me.

25,744. But how did Mr. Rix persuade you to vote ?—I don't think I saw him after 12 o'clock, and I told him I should not leave until I had finished the things I was about ; I told him the position I stood in.

25,745. How did he persuade you to vote when you had finished the things ?—Mr. Huddart did not persuade me to vote ; I don't think he ever spoke.

25,746. But how did Mr. Rix persuade you to vote ?—Mr. Rix did not persuade me to vote, because he was not there at the time when I voted.

25,747. You say that you had told him you would not vote until you had done your things ?—I told him that I should not vote until I had done those things.

25,748. How came you then to go up with Mr. Huddart ?—Mr. Huddart, and two or three gentlemen that I don't know anything at all about, came and asked me if I would go and vote, and I went and voted.

25,749. What made you go up and vote at all ?—I don't know what made me go and vote at all ; I went the same as another man would go and vote, because I thought I would go and vote.

25,751. Had you ever voted before ?—Never, only at the municipal elections.

25,750. Which way have you voted then ?—I have always voted on the Tory principle ; I was brought up in it, and my father always voted that way ; I was brought up in that and nothing else.

JAMES BULLOCK sworn and examined.

J. Bullock.

25,752. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey ?—No.

25,753. For whom did you vote ?—Nobody.

25,754. Have you a vote ?—Yes.

25,755. Why did you not vote ?—Because I was in the country ; I was at Lowestoft at the time.

25,756. You are quite certain that you were away ?—Quite certain.

25,757. I suppose nothing was offered to you for your vote this time ?—Certainly not.

25,758. Have you ever voted at elections in this city ?—I never voted at all in this city in my life. I never had a vote in my life, and never voted for anybody in my life.

25,759. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you know that they voted twice in your name ?—I do not know.

25,760. Did you not hear it ?—No.

25,761. Well, someone went and voted in your name twice.—I don't know it.

25,762. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you registered in one or two places ?—I have a vote only as a ratepayer, that is all.

25,763. You may go ; you have the credit of having helped to return a member to Parliament.—All right, sir.

CHARLES BURCH sworn and examined.

C. Burch.

25,764. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—An omnibus conductor.

25,765. Did you vote at the last election ?—I did.

25,766. For whom ?—Stracey.

25,767. At what time in the day ?—Half-past 3 in the afternoon.

25,768. Did you get anything for doing it ?—No.

25,769. Why did you not vote earlier ?—Because I had not an opportunity.

25,770. Were you with your omnibus all day ?—I was on a cab then.

25,771. Were you promised anything for voting ?—Nothing at all.

25,772. Had you been canvassed for your vote ?—I had.

25,773. Did you promise it ?—I promised I would vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

25,774. (Mr. Mansfield.) Were you taking up Stracey voters to the poll all day ?—No.

WILLIAM CHAPMAN sworn and examined.

W. Chapman.

25,775. (Mr. Dowdeswell,) Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

25,776. For whom ?—Mr. Stracey.

25,777. What time in the day ?—Half-past 1.

25,778. Were you in the "Ribs of Beef" on the day of the election ?—No.

25,779. Not at all ?—I never went in.

25,780. What public-houses were you at ?—I went to several that day.

25,781. How many ?—I don't know ; perhaps 30.

25,782. Pretty nearly every public-house in your ward, I suppose ?—I went round with my basket.

25,783. What are you ?—I am a fish hawker and fish curer.

25,784. Were you drinking in any public-house that day ?—Yes, I drank a good many glasses at my own expense.

25,785. Did you not get some beer at other people's expense ?—Not a glass.

25,786. You had none given you ?—No, not that day.

25,787. You were offering your fish for sale ?—Yes.

25,788. Were you yourself to be bought ?—I bought a lot of fish that day ; I bought a lot of oysters and things.

25,789. Did you have some money to pay voters ?—Not a farthing.

25,790. Did you get any voters to vote ?—No, not one.

25,791. Were you yourself paid for voting ?—No, sir ; that is what I wanted, but I could not get nothing.

25,792. Could you not hear where it was to be found ?—No, I could not tumble on to none.

25,793. Did you not come across Hardiment?—No, I did not; I never saw him that day; I did see him the night before.

25,794. Did you ask him whether you could have a little money for your vote?—I saw him, but did not speak to him.

25,795. Could you not find where the money was to be had?—No, and I did not want; I had got plenty of my own in my pocket.

25,796. Then did you get nothing at all for your vote?—No, not a halfpenny; I did not want it; I voted on principle.

25,797. (Mr. Biron.) But you said a minute ago that you did not want money?—Yes; but I said I could not tumble on to anything. I always want it; but I had plenty in my pocket.

25,798. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What would you have taken?—All I could get; 5*l.* if I could have got it.

25,799. However, you did not get any?—No, I never got a farthing.

25,800. Or the promise of anything?—No.

25,801. Nor any beer?—I had plenty of beer all day, and I paid for it.

GEORGE FREEMAN sworn and examined. G. Freeman.

25,802. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who did you vote for?—Sir Henry Stracey.

25,803. At what time in the day?—Three o'clock.

25,804. Why did you not vote earlier?—I had not time; I was at work.

25,805. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—No.

25,806. What did you get to vote?—Nothing.

25,807. No beer?—No.

25,808. Have you had anything since?—No.

25,809. Have you ever voted before?—Yes, twice.

25,810. Have you always voted on the Tory side?—Always Tory.

EDWARD BURRAGE sworn and examined. E. Burrage.

25,811. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A baker.

25,812. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

25,813. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

25,814. At what time of the day?—As near as I can say, about half-past 12.

25,815. Had you ever voted before?—No.

25,816. This was the first time?—Yes.

25,817. Had you promised to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

25,818. Did you get anything for it?—No.

25,819. Did you take up any voters?—I took up one.

25,820. What did you give him?—Nothing at all.

25,821. Who was he?—Thomas Wilkinson.

25,822. Did he want anything?—No.

25,823. He went up with you and voted?—He went up and voted in the afternoon, about half-past 2.

25,824. You did not give or promise him anything?—No.

JAMES LOVEWELL sworn and examined. J. Lovewell.

25,825. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

25,826. At what time in the day?—As near as I can tell, about half-past 1.

25,827. Later than that, I think?—It was between 1 and 2; it was not 2.

25,828. Who came to you to go up to the poll?—Nobody. I walked up by myself.

25,829. Did not someone come and ask you to go up?—No.

25,830. Had you been canvassed before for your vote?—Yes.

25,831. On which side?—Mr. Stracey's.

25,832. Had you promised your vote?—I never saw him myself. I was not at home when he came.

25,833. Did nobody ask you for your vote on the day of the election?—No.

25,834. Did anybody give you anything for your vote?—No.

25,835. Or did anybody give you anything that day?—No, not a farthing.

25,836. Or the promise of anything?—No.

25,837. No money, no beer, nor anything else?—No.

25,838. Did anybody promise you any custom?—No.

WILLIAM FROST BOON sworn and examined. W. F. Boon.

25,839. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A carpenter.

25,840. Did you vote at this election?—Yes.

25,841. Have you voted before?—Yes, at other elections.

25,842. On which side did you vote this time?—For Stracey.

25,843. Have you always voted Tory?—Yes.

25,844. Without exception?—Yes.

25,845. Have you ever had any consideration or promise for your vote?—Nothing of the kind.

25,846. Neither this time or any previous occasion?—Not on any occasion.

25,847. Has any money ever passed through your hands to influence other voters?—Not any.

25,848. Have you ever made any promise to other voters to secure their votes?—Not any.

25,849. Have you ever treated people with beer?—No, I have had nothing to do with it whatever.

25,850. You have not taken an active part?—All I have done in it has been to give my vote.

25,851. That has been your practice?—That is all I have done.

THOMAS PETTETT sworn and examined. T. Pettett.

25,852. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A boot and shoe maker by trade; in business for myself.

25,853. And you voted at the last election?—Yes.

25,854. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

25,855. What time in the day?—About half-past 3.

25,856. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

25,857. Why did you not vote sooner than that?—My business compelled me. I was working at the time for commercial travellers, and I could not vote.

25,858. Do I understand that you were at your business all the day?—Yes.

25,859. And could not vote before?—No.

25,860. Had you been canvassed?—Yes.

25,861. Had you promised to vote for Stracey?—No, I had not promised either. I could not get the work done before that time, and I should not have voted if I could not have finished the work by that time.

25,862. Did you not say, "I have got this work, and if I can get it finished I will vote for you"?—No, I did not, because I did not intend to vote.

25,863. You were trying what you could get?—No. I was never offered anything, and never asked for anything; it is not my principle.

25,864. You were waiting to see whether anything would be offered?—No, I was not, sir.

TWENTIETH DAY.

H. Buttifant.

1 Oct. 1869.

HENRY BUTTIFANT sworn and examined.

25,865. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You were a member of one of Sir Henry Stracey's committees, were you not?—I was put down as such, but I did not act.

25,866. You were down upon the list of the committee, were you?—I was told so.

25,867. In which ward?—The third.

25,868. When were you first told that you were upon the list of the committee of Sir Henry Stracey?—Perhaps, about two days before the election; something like that.

25,869. Did you upon the election day go out with a person of the name of Cunnington for the purpose of collecting votes?—No.

25,870. Were you not out with Cunnington upon that day?—No, I was not out all day, sir. I had to attend to my business, and that is why I declined acting. I went out at 8 o'clock in the morning, voted at five minutes past 8, and did not go out all day, even to get a glass of beer with a friend.

25,871. Do you know Cunnington?—Yes; but I do not consider myself an electioneering man.

25,872. (Mr. Biron.) Is there another man of your name?—Oh yes.

25,873. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you an ironmonger?—Yes.

25,874. Is there a Josiah Buttifant?—That is my brother.

25,875. Was he active on the day of the election?—I did not see him all day. I believe he was in another committee room at the top of the hill. I did not go out all day myself; I understood that he was at the "Tuns."

25,876. Your brother was at the "Tuns"?—So I was told; he was engaged there. I did not go out myself even for a glass of ale; I simply voted.

25,877. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you take no active part in this election at all?—No.

25,878. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you do nothing more than vote?—That is all. I voted and went into my shop, and did got go out all day; we do not shut up till late at night.

25879. Did you give or promise money to any voter,?—No, certainly not.

25,880. Either before or since the election?—No.

25,881. Or take any active part in it?—No. I do not consider myself an electioneering man at all, but the name is sufficient for the city for people to say that I am. There was a Mr. Edwards next door, a jeweller, that my son asked whether he would vote, and he said he would vote for anyone that bought a watch of him; so my wife being an electioneering one said to the boy, "Go in and tell Mr. Edwards that if he will vote I will buy a watch of him;" but he had already voted. She merely did that to gammon him up, so I considered.

25,882. (Mr. Biron.) She had her bit of chaff with him?—Yes.

J. H. Huggins.

JOHN HORACE HUGGINS recalled and further examined.

25,883. (Mr. Biron.) Are you prepared to answer that question I put to you?—What question is that?

25,884. What did you do with that 2*l.*?—Well, I spent a great deal of it in the evening after the election.

25,885. Do you mean to say you bought no voter with it?—No, not one.

25,886. How did you spend it?—Well, I went into, I should think, ten or a dozen public-houses, and people that I had canvassed two or three days previously came up to me and asked me what I would stand, and so on, and I treated them independently of whatever position they were or anything about it; in fact I wanted to get rid of the money. Mr. Furse would not have it again, and I wanted to get rid of it.

25,887. Did you offer it to Furse?—I told him I had not got rid of the whole of it, and he said, "I dont "want to have anything to do with it; I know "nothing about it;" and I intended to get rid of it, because, to tell you the truth, when I came to get rid of the excitement of the thing, I was rather disgusted to think that I had had anything to do with it.

25,888. You spent it in this way?—I spent it in the evening; in the morning I had only 9*d.* left.

25,889. You spent it in several houses?—Yes, I spent it in different Conservative houses; there was a lot of people in every house.

25,890. Why could you not tell us that before?—I had no idea I was asked the question.

Adjourned to to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

Saturday, 2nd October 1869.

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

J. Dombrain.

2 Oct. 1869.

JAMES DOMBRAIN sworn and examined.

25,891. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—I was.

25,892. Did you vote?—I did.

22,893. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

25,894. Did you take an active part in the promotion of the election of Sir Henry Stracey?—It depends upon what you consider an active part.

25,895. Surely you understand what is meant by taking an active part in promoting the election of a member of Parliament?—If you mean canvassing, I did not canvass. I certainly asked two or three people in the market-place whether they had voted, and I advised them to vote for Sir Henry Stracey; but I did nothing further.

25,896. That was all you did?—That is all I did.

25,897. Were you at the "Pigeons" that day?—I have never even seen the "Pigeons," nor do I know except from hearsay that there is such a place.

25,898. Do you know Mr. Hulme, the chemist?—I have called on him since the election; I did not know him before.

25,899. Did you not see him on the day of the election?—Never.

25,900. Did you not speak to Mr. Hulme on the day of the election?—I did not. I did not know Mr. Hulme.

25,901. Although you might not have known him you might have spoken to him?—Very possible, indeed—no, it is not possible. I have seen him since, therefore I know I did not.

25,902. Did you go into any of the committee rooms on the day of the election?—No, I did not.

TWENTY FIRST DAY.

J. Dombrain.

2 Oct. 1869.

25,903. Were you in any committee room that day?—No, I was not.

25,904. Were you in any public-house that day?—No, I was not.

25,905. Nor any inn?—Nor an inn.

25,906. Or beershop?—Or beershop.

25,907. How long did you remain in the market-place asking people to go up and vote?—I was at the market-place when the second return was made; I think it was the second.

25,908. That would be about 10 o'clock in the morning?—About 10 o'clock in the morning. I was at the "Chronicle" office, and I remained in the "Chronicle" office from 10 o'clock in the morning till 6 o'clock in the evening with very little intermission, and I am quite ready to give you an account of my time.

25,909. You were waiting in the "Chronicle" office merely to hear the result of the poll?—I took my little child down with me to the "Chronicle" office, knowing the people there, and it was for the purpose of leaving him there; and I was so interested in the second return that I remained for the third, as is very often the case, and then I stopped to hear the later ones.

25,910. You remained in the "Chronicle" office the whole day?—With very few intermissions.

25,911. When were those exceptions?—I will give you an account of those exceptions. Upon several occasions, I suppose two or three, between the half hours, I walked out of the "Chronicle" office and walked just in front amongst three or four market stalls.

25,912. Were you not very anxious about the election, and were you not active in getting up voters for Sir Henry Stracey?—Decidedly not. I asked several people in the market-place; that I acknowledge; but I think I can say upon my oath, that I did not ask another single individual.

25,913. Did you offer nobody money that day to vote?—No, I did not.

25,914. Nor promise them money?—Nor promise them money. I had none either to offer or promise.

25,915. Did you confine yourself simply to asking them to vote?—I did, most decidedly.

25,916. Were they people whom you knew?—No, and I do not know whether they were voters. I said, "Have you voted?"

25,917. Did you confine your attention entirely to the market-place?—I did, most decidedly.

25,918. Is there no foundation whatever for the suggestion that you were influencing people to give their votes by means of money that day?—I declare that there is no foundation whatever, most distinctly and emphatically; and I regard the suspicion as most injurious and harmful to a clergyman, even when he is innocent.

25,919. Or that you were at several public-houses during that day?—It is utterly false.

EDWARD TRAXTON recalled and further examined.

E. Traxton.

25,920. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you know Huggins?—Yes.

25,921. Did he tell you that he was furnished with a list of voters to bribe?—I believe he had a list.

25,922. Did he tell you he had a list?—I am almost certain he had one, and I had one as well.

25,923. How came you to know that he had?—Because we went up in the room. There was a list of voters to go and search, and tick them off. He had his list, and I had mine. I should say he had. I had mine, I know.

25,924. Who gave you your list?—You pick the list out yourself. You go in and see who have not voted; and you say, "I must try and get those men to come." I said, "It's no use going after these men if you have not money." I said, "It's folly to go after them. You can do as you like, Huggins." I went and looked out, but it was of no use. I gave it up afterwards as a bad case. If I had had money I should think it was perfectly right. I only make that statement because Huggins said about my being in the "Compasses." He said I was in the "Compasses" drunk. I was not.

25,925. Did you furnish any list to Huggins yourself?—Of voters?

25,926. Yes?—I took the list from the marked off one.

25,927. Did you give any list to Huggins?—No.

25,928. Who did?—He took them off himself, the same as I did.

25,929. Were you present?—Yes, in the room when they were marking off.

25,930. He had a list of voters?—He had a list of voters there is no doubt about it, because I went one way and he another.

25,931. Did you tell Huggins that there were men who wanted a day's pay?—Yes, many of them.

25,932. How many of them?—Everyone you came in contact with almost. I cannot tell you the names.

25,933. Are you sure he had a list of the people?—I am sure he had a list.

25,934. And he went out for that purpose?—Yes, that's all. He had nothing to do with it.

CHARLES WADE sworn and examined.

C. Wade.

25,935. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a licensed victualler.

25,936. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

25,937. What time in the day?—As soon as I could in the morning; as soon as the poll was opened. I was about number 6, I think.

25,938. You went about the city doing what you could to get up voters?—I went home and got my breakfast.

25,939. And after that you went out again, did you not?—At that time I lived close by where I voted; and now I live at the "Mitre Tavern," in the market-place.

25,940. After breakfast you went about the city trying to get up voters?—I did not go out of my own ward.

25,941. Who was with you?—A young man of the name of Howes. I went home once or twice. I went home and had a snap of dinner.

25,942. How many men did you take up?—I do not think I took up more than one directly. I went and called upon 14 or 15. They preferred going alone. I met them, and I looked at the list in our committee room to see who had voted. Those that had not voted I took the trouble to go up the road and see after. I left a message at the "White Horse," but I did not take but one man up.

25,943. What is your parish?—South Heigham, Rupert Street.

25,944. You found some of these men rather disinclined to vote?—No, I did not.

25,945. All went readily?—I may say the majority of them.

25,946. The others out of the 14 or 15 you mentioned were disinclined to vote?—I don't think there was one.

25,947. Not one?—I could not swear there was one disinclined to vote. There was one man who did not vote till late. It was simply because he could not vote till he came back from his work.

25,948. Who was that?—I will tell you directly. James Berry, when I called upon him the night before he was not at home. I left a card. I saw him in my public-house a day or two after. He said, "I don't want to make a noise, but I shall vote for Sir Henry Stracey." He did not, like some out of these little houses that are in this road. The others were extreme party people.

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

C. Wade.

2 Oct. 1869.

25,949. Did you get up a man of the name of Nathaniel Townsend?—No.

25,950. Did you see him that day?—I don't know him. I don't remember one of that name in my street at all.

25,951. Did you give any of these men money on that day?—Not a farthing.

25,952. Or promise them money?—Not a farthing.

25,953. Or give them beer?—I did not. I guarded myself very much on that day. The election day was a dry day as far as regards myself; that is, I had to pay for my own beer, if I could not get it in my own house.

25,954. That is not usual at election times?—It's what I call usual. I don't say other people did not give it. I never gave nothing.

25,955. You gave nothing to any man?—I did not, nor yet promised him anything.

25,956. Were you about with Hardy?—Not on that day. I saw him during the day.

25,957. Did you see anybody else give any money?—I did not.

25,958. Or hear of any money having been given?—I heard it from the opposite side, not from my own party.

25,959. What did you hear from the opposite side?—That they knew we had bought. It did not refer personally to me.

25,960. Did you see Hibbett about that day?—Yes, he was riding about.

25,961. He was an active man on your side?—Yes; we were terribly short-handed at the time. It is a very large ward.

J. Mallett.

JOHN MALLETT sworn and examined.

25,962. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

25,963. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

25,964. At what time of the day?—About half-past 9.

25,965. Had you promised your vote before?—No.

25,966. Had anybody asked you for your vote?—No.

25,967. Did anybody come to you that morning?—No.

25,968. Were you at the "Horse Shoes" that morning?—No.

25,969. Had you breakfast anywhere besides your own house that morning?—No.

25,970. Then you went up and voted without being asked in any way for your vote?—Yes.

25,971. Had you ever had a vote before?—No.

25,972. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

25,973. Were you promised anything?—No.

G. Chambers.

GEORGE CHAMBERS sworn and examined.

25,974. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Stracey and Tillett.

25,975. What did you get?—Nothing at all. I did not expect anything.

25,976. At what time in the day did you vote?—About 9 in the morning.

25,977. Something was promised you?—No.

25,978. Do you know Hibbett?—No, I don't know him.

25,979. Did not anybody come to you to get you to vote?—No.

W. Bensley.

WILLIAM BENSLEY sworn and examined.

25,980. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A fly driver.

25,981. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

25,982. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

25,983. What time in the day?—A little after 2.

25,984. Did you get anything for voting?—Nothing.

25,985. Or the promise of anything?—Not anything.

25,986. Why did not you vote sooner?—I went a time or two, and I see they were full at the place. I came when it was most convenient.

25,987. You tried to vote early?—Yes.

B. Coman.

BENJAMIN COMAN sworn and examined.

25,988. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Stracey and Russell.

25,989. At what time in the day?—I believe it was between 2 and 3. I know it was.

25,990. What did you get for your vote?—I never got nothing.

25,991. Was not something promised you?—Nothing.

25,992. Who got you up to vote?—Well, I got myself up.

25,993. Did not somebody come to you and ask you to go up and vote?—No one.

25,994. Do you know Mr. Hibbett?—No, I don't know that man. I think not.

25,995. Did you see a person who called himself Hibbett that day?—Not that I know of.

25,996. What made you so late in voting?—I could not get away from my work.

25,997. What was your work?—Overlooker at a factory.

25,998. Was your factory at work that day, then?—Yes.

25,999. You were home at the breakfast hour?—No, I did not go home to breakfast.

26,000. Did you go home to dinner?—No, I got my dinner at the factory.

26,001. Did your factory close on that day at all?—We did not close till about 4 o'clock.

26,002. Did you get anything whatever for your vote?—No.

26,003. Nor the promise of anything?—No.

26,004. (Mr. Mansfield.) Have you ever voted before?—No.

26,005. Which are you, Whig or Tory?—I voted for both of them.

26,006. How came you to vote for both of them?—That was my own opinion.

26,007. Had you promised anybody to vote?—No.

26,008. Had you not been asked?—No, I have not been asked.

W. T. Armes.

WILLIAM T. ARMES sworn and examined.

26,009. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

26,010. What time of the day?—Close to 1 o'clock.

26,011. Who asked you to vote?—Not anybody.

26,012. Did not Hibbett?—No.

26,013. Had not you been asked before the day of the poll?—Yes, I had, several days before. Mr. Sparrow asked me.

26,014. For which side?—He came with Mr. Russell.

26,015. Did anybody ask you for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes, Mr. Sparrow.

26,016. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

26,017. Was anything promised you?—No.

26,018. Have you had anything since?—No.

26,019. Were you treated to any beer?—No.

26,020. With whom did you go up to the poll?—Nobody at all.

26,021. What are you by trade?—A cabinet-maker.

26,022. On your own account, or a journeyman?—Journeyman.

26,023. Have you ever voted before?—No.

26,024. Was no inducement offered to you to vote?—None at all.

26,025. Did you get anyone else to go up to the poll?—No.

26,026. Were you at any public-houses during the day?—Yes, I went into one or two.

26,027. Which?—I went into the "City Arms."

26,028. Any other?—I am sure I cannot tell. I don't think I did. I don't recollect any other.

26,029. Were you at any of the Tory committee rooms that day?—No.

CHARLES COPPERWHEAT sworn and examined. C. Copperwheat.

26,030. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A licensed victualler.

26,031. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Russell and Stracey.

26,032. What time in the day?—About half-past 10.

26,033. How came you to vote for Russell and Stracey?—Because I look upon Mr. Tillett as an unmitigated humbug, and I would not support him under any circumstances.

26,034. Were you active in looking after voters?—Yes.

26,035. Were you out with anybody?—Yes.

26,036. With whom?—With various people; any chance acquaintance I met in the streets.

26,037. You were not trying to influence voters to vote?—I was not influencing any person, nor no one tried to influence me.

26,038. Were there voters in your house?—I was not at home much. I was out almost all day. I was very much interested in the election.

26,039. Did you get anything for voting?—Nothing whatever.

26,040. Or the promise of anything?—Or the promise of anything.

26,041. Did you give anything to anyone for voting?—I did not interfere with money matters; I neither gave nor promised anything.

26,042. Or treated anybody?—I never treated anybody, nor accepted anything.

26,043. Who managed your business that day at home?—My wife.

26,044. Did you hear from her that people were treated in your house?—Not anyone; such a thing might occur the same as it might to-day; one man might come in and treat another to a glass, but not anything about electioneering matters.

WILLIAM BARLEY sworn and examined. W. Barley.

26,045. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

26,046. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

26,047. At what time in the day?—Between 2 and 3.

26,048. Did you receive anything for your vote?—Nothing.

26,049. Was anything promised you?—Nothing.

26,050. Neither custom nor anything else?—Nothing at all.

26,051. What are you by business?—A gasfitter.

26,052. Had you promised your vote beforehand?—No.

26,053. Had you been canvassed?—Yes.

26,054. Who canvassed you?—Mr. Hardy, I believe, but I was not at home.

26,055. Were you solicited by any persons on behalf of Sir Henry Stracey?—No.

26,056. Did anybody come and fetch you upon the day of the poll?—No, I went alone.

26,057. You went of your own accord?—Yes.

WILLIAM ABRAHAMS sworn and examined. W. Abrahams.

26,058. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

26,059. What time in the day?—About three minutes before 4, I think.

26,060. What made you so late?—Because I did not intend to vote at all that day.

26,061. Had you promised your vote?—I never promised anyone.

26,062. What made you change your mind?—I will tell you. When I was at one of these houses in St. Benedict's, I was a special constable, and I was employed at the polling booth, and there was a radical, Mr. Betts, who kept that house. There was a lot drinking about, and about 10 o'clock the state of the poll was so many ahead for Mr. Tillett——

26,063. But what made you change your mind at three minutes to 4?—Because I had not seen no account of the poll from 11 o'clock till I left off with the work. I thought I was entrusted with a vote, and I determined I would give it to the best of my judgment.

26,064. What time did you leave off?—At the close of the poll nearly.

26,065. What public-houses were you at?—None.

26,066. Have you ever voted before?—No. I did not want to vote this time. I had confidence in the Government—in the Tories. I did not want to give a vote to Tillett. I thought I should be doing wrong in voting for a man like him.

26,067. Who took you to the poll?—No one.

26,068. Who asked you to go?—No one. A man came from Tillett's lot, a snob, a weaver, came to my house and insulted my wife. I said I would push him out.

26,069. What did you get for your vote?—I never got anything, and did not want. Don't ask me that. When you look at me you will look at an honest man.

26,070. Have you had anything since?—No, and I don't want anything. I have my living to get. I am independent of everyone. I don't want to be paid or bribed. I have too much respect for my Queen and country. I am an Englishman, and a thorough-bred one, and no mistake.

26,071. Had you ever promised to vote for Tillett?—No. I should be very sorry to vote for such a man as that.

26,072. Nor for Russell?—No. I don't like the class at all. I have got a good drop of blood in me. I am a thorough Tory.

26,073. Why did not you intend to vote?—I was at the polling booth all day. I did not feel inclined to vote.

JAMES MINNS sworn and examined. J. Minns.

26,074–5. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A coal dealer.

26,076. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

26,077. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

J. Minns.

2 Oct. 1869.

26,078. At what time in the day?—I think it was about half-past 3 in the afternoon.

26,079. Did you get anything for voting?—I did not.

26,080. Why did not you vote earlier?—My business called me another way.

26,081. Where did you go upon business?—All over the city, selling coals.

26,082. You must have gone by the polling place, then?—I did not, not till after I come home. I was at the outside of the polling places, but I did not go near any one till after I left off.

26,083. Did anybody canvass you to vote?—I was canvassed on the 26th of October by the Liberals; I told them plainly I should not vote for them.

26,084. Had you ever voted before?—Yes.

26,085. For the Tories?—For the Tories; but I have not had a vote before for the city, not since 1831.

26,086. Then it was at the municipal election that you voted for the Tories?—Yes, and I voted for the Tories at the general election; I think it was in 1831, just before the Reform Bill.

26,087. You have not changed your opinions from 1831 till now?—I have not.

P. Pentin.

PAUL PENTIN sworn and examined.

26,088. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

26,089. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

26,090. What time in the day?—About 2 o'clock, I think.

26,091. How came you to vote so late?—I was very unwell, and have been so ever since.

26,092. Did you receive anything for your vote?—Never in my life.

26,093. Or were you promised anything?—No.

J. Forster.

JOHN FORSTER sworn and examined.

26,094. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Stracey.

26,095. What time in the day?—As nigh as I can guess, about half-past 10.

26,096. Had you promised your vote?—No, I went and voted of a free and good will.

26,097. Did anybody ask you for your vote?—No.

26,098. Did you get anything for your vote?—No, certainly not.

26,099. Have you had anything since?—No.

26,100. Did you ever vote before?—Yes.

26,101. On which side have you voted?—Generally for the Liberal party; but I thought Mr. Stracey being a very clever man, I thought proper to vote for him.

26,102. Was there no other inducement except the cleverness of Sir Henry Stracey?—No.

26,103. Was that the only thing that weighed upon your mind?—Yes.

26,104. Did not you get beer even?—Not a glass of beer, nor yet offered a glass, nor see a glass offered.

26,105. You did not get any voter up?—No.

26,106. What public-houses were you in that morning?—No public-house at all.

26,107. Not during the whole of the day?—I was in the evening; I went and got a pint of beer for my supper in going home.

26,108. Did anyone treat you?—No.

26,109. Are you quite sure of that?—Quite sure of that; not a glass from nobody.

26,110. Were you asked by anybody to vote this time?—No.

W. Burton.

WILLIAM BURTON sworn and examined.

26,111. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a boot-maker.

26,112. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

26,113. For whom did you vote?—Russell and Tillett.

26,114. What time in the day?—Breakfast time; about 9.

26,115. Did you get anything for voting?—Nothing.

26,116. Nor the promise of anything?—Nor the promise of anything; and I was not even asked or solicited.

J. C. Case.

JOHN CUBITT CASE sworn and examined.

26,117. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

26,118. What time in the day?—Between 2 and 3 o'clock.

26,119. How many times did you vote?—Once.

26,120. Are you a freeman?—No.

26,121. Are you not upon the register in two places?—No.

26,122. You are sure you did not vote twice?—Yes, quite sure.

26,123. How came you to vote so late in the day?—I don't know; I was at work.

26,124. Where?—In St. Benedict's.

26,125. You voted just before 4 o'clock?—Begging your pardon, I voted between 2 and 3.

26,126. I am told it was just before 4?—No.

26,127. Where were you the whole day, up to the time you voted?—In St. Benedict's, the "Stag" yard, working.

26,128. Were you at no public-house?—Yes, I went into the "Stag" two or three times.

26,129. Were there other voters there?—No, I don't think there was.

26,130. What time in the day were you at the "Stag"?—I was in perhaps at about 11.

26,131. Being able to go to the "Stag," why did not you go and vote?—I stopped there to get my dinner, and I got my dinner, and then I went and voted.

26,132. Did anybody come and ask you to go and vote?—Not anyone.

26,133. Had you promised your vote beforehand?—Not to anyone.

26,134. You went up entirely of your own accord?—Yes.

26,135. Did you get anything for voting?—Not a halfpenny.

26,136. Nor anything to drink?—No, only at my own expense.

26,137. Were you promised anything?—No.

J. Abel.

JOHN ABEL sworn and examined.

26,138. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at this last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

26,139. What time of the day?—10 o'clock; a little after 10.

26,140. Had you promised your vote to anybody?—No, I always voted that way.

26,141–2. How often have you voted?—A good many times.

26,142. And have you always voted Tory?—Yes.

26,143. Did you get any money for voting?—No.

26,144. Nor any beer?—No.

26,145. Were you promised anything?—No.

26,146. Have you had anything since?—No, nor yet had no promise.

26,147. Are you a freeman?—No, a freeholder.

26,148. What are you by trade?—A weaver.

26,149. Who took you up to the poll?—Nobody. I always go up by myself.

26,150. Did anybody walk up with you?—No.

26,151. None of your friends?—No.

26,152. Did you talk to anybody about this election?—No.

26,153. You swear that you never talked to anybody about which way you were going to vote?—No, they know which way I should go.

JAMES LORD sworn and examined.

J. Lord.

26,154. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A licensed victualler.

26,155. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

26,156. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

26,157. What time in the day?—Between one and two.

26,158. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

26,159. Nor the promise of anything?—No, I am a freeman.

26,160. Have you voted before for the Tories?—I have voted for Stracey.

26,161. I asked you whether you had voted on former occasions?—No.

26,162. Was this the first time?—The first time.

JOHN BUSH sworn and examined.

J. Bush.

26,163. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

26,164. At what time in the day did you vote?—Between two and three.

26,165. What is your business?—A builder.

26,166. How came you to vote so late in the day? My business detained me till then.

26,167. Are you a master builder?—Yes.

26,168. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

26,169. Or the promise of anything?—No.

JAMES DANIELS sworn and examined.

J. Daniels.

26,170. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A bricklayer.

26,171. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

26,172. At what time in the day?—About 2 o'clock or a few minutes afterwards.

26,173. Had anybody asked you to vote?—Yes, I was asked.

26,174. By whom?—I do not know the gentleman.

26,175. Did you ever promise your vote?—Not before the election day, but I promised on that morning.

26,176. Who did you promise then?—I do not know the man.

26,177. Did you get anything for your vote?—No, not a farthing, not even a thank.

26,178. Did you get any beer?—No.

26,179. Were you in any public-house that morning?—No, I was at my work till dinner time, and then I went and voted.

26,180. Did you get treated afterwards?—No, not even a glass of beer I had not.

26,181. Have you had anything since?—Not a halfpenny.

26,182. Was this the first time that you had voted?—Yes.

WILLIAM BARNACLE sworn and examined.

W. Barnacle.

26,183. (Mr. Biron) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

26,184. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

26,185. About what time in the day?—About 3 o clock, or between 3 and 4.

26,186. You got some money for it, did you not?—I got 2*s.* 6*d.*

26,187. Who gave it to you?—That was for my loss of time.

26,188. You may call it what you like. Who gave it to you?—Mr. Taylor.

26,189. Which Taylor is that?—I do not know only one.

26,190. Where does he live?—In St. Martin's-at-Palace.

26,191. Did he give it to you just before you voted—He gave it to me in the street just before I voted.

26,192. Did any other men get money from him besides you?—I do not know. I was not there many minutes. I never saw any money pass.

26,193. Do you know any man who gave money?—No, I am a stranger here. I do not know much of anybody.

HORACE BYGRAVE sworn and examined.

H. Bygrave.

26,194. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You voted, I believe, at the last election for Russell and Tillett?—Yes.

26,195. Did you receive anything for voting?—I did not.

26,196. Were you offered anything to vote the other way?—No.

26,197. Have you not stated that you were offered money three times by the Conservatives to vote for them?—No, I have not.

26,198. Do you know Mr. Vassar?—I do.

26,199. Have you not told him that you were offered money by the Conservatives?—No.

26,200. Do you know a person of the name of Jeremiah Smith?—I know a person named Smith, but whether his name is Jeremiah or not I must leave.

26,201. Were you spoken to by Dr. Masters on the day of the election?—Yes, I was.

26,202. Did he offer you any money?—He did not.

26,203. Or did he promise you any money if you would vote?—No.

26,204. Then is it untrue that you ever made any such statement to Mr. Vassar?—It is quite untrue respecting Mr. Vassar saying that I told him I was offered money.

26,205. Did you tell him that you might have had some money?—I told Mr. Vassar that I fancied there was a chance of getting something. I never told him I was offered any money. That is a misunderstanding.

26,206. Where were you on the day of the election?—I was at home till about 20 minutes past 3.

26,207. What made you fancy that there was a chance of your getting money?—Because I had heard during the day that there was money going about, and as I was looked after by the party I thought very likely the observation was right.

26,208. You say you were looked after by the party; who looked after you?—When I came out

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

H. Bygrave.

2 Oct. 1869.

first of all a person met me, and asked me if I had voted. I came out to have a little air. I had been ill that day and for a fortnight previous, and I was lame and could not go about.

26,209. Who was the person who spoke to you?—Mr. Winter; he asked me if I had voted. I said no, and that I did not think about voting.

26,210. If you did not then think of voting for Russell and Tillett, how came you afterwards to vote as you did?—Because when I went out Mr. Masters met me; I had told this man that I had not voted, and by that Mr. Masters asked me had I voted, and I said "No, I have not, and I do not think I am going to vote."

26,211. But what made you go up and vote for Russell and Tillett afterwards?—I came out, as I have observed to you, to take a walk and get a little air not intending to vote for either party.

26,212. But having no intention to vote at that time of the day, what made you make up your mind afterwards to vote; Mr. Vassar had asked you to vote?—Yes, and Mr. Masters asked me if I had voted.

26,213. Did Mr. Vassar promise you anything?—He did.

26,214. What did he promise you?—He never named any amount.

26,215. But he promised you something?—He promised me something.

26,216. Did he say when he would give it to you?—No, he stated no time.

26,217. Did he say "If you vote for Russell and Tillett I will give you something"?—No, it was not in that way. He asked me "Have you voted?" I said "No." He said, "Are you going to vote?" I said, "No, I do not think of voting for either party." "Well," he said, "I think you will go and vote for Russell and Tillett." I said, "Very well, I am of no "particular party, and I would as leave vote for one "as the other, for I believe that, as regards the working "class it does not signify at all who sits, because all "the good that they do to the working people might "be put into a nut shell."

26,218. What did Vassar say?—He said, "Look at what So-and-so, and So-and-so have done," and I said, "Well, if I go and vote for either party I shall "not vote unless I am paid for it. I have been ill, "and a little money would be very acceptable to me, "and if I go at this late hour I must be paid." Mr. Vassar said, "I dare not give you anything now, but "if you will promise to vote for the party I will go "with you and make it all right with you afterwards."

26,219. (Mr. Mansfield.) And has he made it all right with you?—No, and he never will.

26,220. Have you ever asked him to make it right?—I have asked him since.

26,221. When?—I went to him just after I came from polling; in fact, I came from the poll with him.

26,222. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Have you ever gone to Vassar since and asked him to give you what he had promised you?—Yes.

26,223. How long was that after the election?—The same night.

26,224. Did you then tell him which way you had voted?—No, he went up with me and told me who to vote for.

26,225. What did he say when you went to him to ask him for what he had promised you?—I said, "Of "course you know I voted for you according to my "promise, and now what are you going to do?" He said, "Well, I will see you again;" and that passed off that night, and I might not see him again for three weeks, but then he took no heed of the affair, and I considered it a mean and unmanly trick. I said "Have you forgotten the promise you made to me?" He said, "Oh, I did not think about giving you any "money." I said, "What did you mean when you "promised me that if I would vote for your party you "would make it all right?" He said, "I did not "think of giving you any money, but of doing you "good."

26,226. Did you see him after that?—Yes, he keeps a shop, and I am in the habit of going in there to get half-an-ounce of tobacco or anything that I require.

26,227. How often have you applied to him to give you what he promised?—Two or three different times.

26,228. But you have never been able to get it?—No.

26,229. Have you heard of Mr. Vassar having promised anything to anybody else?—No, I have not.

26,230. Was Vassar active on the day of the election?—I never saw him till a late hour, and therefore I cannot say.

26,231. When did you hear that there was money on the Conservative side?—I heard it when I came to a house where one or two parties were standing together, and I heard the word drop. I believe that there was money flying about; in fact, that it had been flying about all day.

26,232. That was merely general talk?—Yes, that is all.

26,233. And you mentioned it to Vassar?—Yes, I did.

H. J. Turner.

HENRY JOHN TURNER sworn and examined.

26,234. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Russell and Tillett.

26,235. At what time in the day?—At half-past 8.

26,236. Had you promised your vote to anyone?—No.

26,237. Had you anything to do with the organisation?—Yes.

26,238. Were you a member of it?—Yes.

26,239. Have you had anything for your vote?—No.

26,240. Were you promised anything?—No.

26,241. Were you treated on the day of the election?—No, not by any one.

26,242. Do you know of anybody having been bribed or treated?—No.

26,243. Did you vote a second time that day?—No.

26,244. Are you registered in two places?—Not that I know of.

26,245. Is there anybody else of the same name as yours?—I understand there is a man named Henry John Turner, but my name is Henry Turner only, though John is put to it.

26,246. Was your card accurate?—I gave the card in Russell and Tillett when I voted. I understand since that they have got my name in the poll book for Stracey.

S. Savory.

SAMUEL SAVORY sworn and examined.

26,247. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shoemaker.

26,248. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

26,249. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

26,250-1. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

26,252. Why did you not vote earlier?—I went between 8 and 9 o'clock in the morning, but there were so many people there that I could not wait.

26,253. Were you at work all day?—No, I was part of the time.

26,254. What were you doing the rest of the time?—Walking about.

26,255. Walking about looking for money ?—No.

26,256. Did you get any money ?—No.

26,257. Or the promise of any money ?—No.

26,258. What public-houses did you go into ?—The "Grapes," in St. Giles'.

26,259. Was nothing said to you about money there ?—No.

26,260. But there was beer going there, was there not ?—I never had any, only what I paid for out of my own pocket.

WILLIAM SPOONER THOULES sworn and examined. W. S. Thoules.

26,261. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election ?—Yes.

26,262. At what time in the day ?—Between 3 and 4 o'clock.

26,263. What is your business ?—A shoemaker.

26,264. Are you on your own account or a journeyman ?—On my own account.

26,265. Did you get anything for your vote ?—No; I never saw anything or heard of anything.

26,266. Did you get anything promised to you ?—No, I never saw anybody.

26,267. Were you about in any public-houses that day ?—Yes; I was at the "Derby Arms," in Derby Street, previous to my voting.

26,268. There were a good many people there, were there not ?—The most I saw at one time I should say was six.

26,269. How long were you there ?—I should suppose about an hour. I should say I did not see more than six there at any one time.

26,270. What time in the day was that ?—I was going home to dinner and they called me in.

26,271. Who called you in ?—My father.

26,272. How came you not to vote earlier ?—I thought there was plenty of time before 4 o'clock; my vote was just as good a little before 4 as it was a little after 8.

26,273. Did your father say anything to you to induce you to vote ?—No.

26,274. Who asked you to vote ?—Nobody.

26,275. Did your father vote ?—Yes.

26,276. For Sir Henry Stracey ?—Yes, and Russell.

26,277. Do you know whether your father got anything for his vote ?—That he did not, I know.

26,278. Was anything given to you at the "Grapes" in the way of beer or refreshment ?—No.

26,279. Do you know any of the persons who were in the "Grapes" ?—No.

26,280. Were they all strangers to you ?—I went there the first thing, before I voted, for the number of my register, and two gentlemen were there, one of them was a youngish man and the other an elderly gentleman; they were both strangers to me.

26,281. Was the committee room at the "Grapes" ?—I hardly know one house from the other. I do not know the sign. I think it was the "Tuns;" it was the public-house on the left as you go to the gaol. I think it is the "Tuns."

26,282. How came you to get into the "Grapes" ?—I did not go there. I made a mistake; it was the "Tuns" I went to. I went there for the number of my register.

26,283. The "Tuns" was the place where the committee room was ?—To the best of my knowledge; that is where I was directed.

26,284. You are sure that you were not at the "Grapes" ?—No, I never went near the house the whole day, no nearer than I was at the "Tuns."

26,285. Did you see a considerable number of people congregated at the "Grapes" ?—I did not notice them.

JEREMIAH WHALL sworn and examined. J. Whall.

26,286. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade ?—A pianoforte tuner.

26,287. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

26,288. For whom ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

26,289. Had you ever voted before ?—Yes.

26,290. On which side ?—Tory.

26,291. Have you always voted Tory ?—Well, I believe I have voted on the other side, but it is some years back.

26,292. Have you ever had anything for your vote ?—No.

26,293. Never at any time ?—No, not at any time.

26,294. Were you treated this time ?—No, not at all.

26,295. Who asked you to vote ?—No one.

26,296. Were you not canvassed ?—It was when I was not at home.

26,297. Have you never at any time had anything for voting in this city ?—No, never.

26,298. Did you vote for Mr. Waters ?—No.

26,299. Did you not vote at that election at all ?—No, I did not vote at all.

26,300. Did you vote at the election before that ?—No, nor yet at the one before.

26,301. Did you vote on the Whig side for Lord Bury or Bury and Schneider ?—No, I cannot remember the name.

26,302. What time in the day did you vote this time ?—After 3.

26,303. What made you vote so late ?—I had business; I could not get home before.

26,304. Were you at any public-house that day ?—No, none at all.

26,305. With whom did you go up to the poll ?—With no one.

26,306. Was any inducement offered to you ?—No, I never saw anyone.

26,307. Had you spoken to anybody about the election ?—No, I never had any conversation with anyone.

26,308. Had you never told anybody how you were going to vote ?—No, I could not do that.

26,309. But you did talk about the election ?—No, I never talked about it.

26,310. Not at all ?—Well, I cannot say that I never spoke about it.

26,311. But did the people to whom you spoke know which way you meant to vote ?—No.

SAMUEL MARTIN sworn and examined. S. Martin.

26,312. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A rivetter.

26,313. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

26,314. For whom did you vote ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

26,315. At what time in the day ?—Some time after 3.

26,316. Why did not you vote earlier ?—Because I had my work and employment to seek after.

26,317. Were you at your work up to 3 o'clock ?—Yes, I was at my work up to 3 o'clock, and then went straight to the poll and voted.

26,318. Were you canvassed before ?—No.

26,319. You voted of your own accord ?—Yes; I had not even a voting card.

26,320. Who do you work for ?—Mr. Gosling.

26,321. Was he a supporter of Sir Henry Stracey's ?—No.

26,322. Did you get anything for voting ?—No, not one farthing.

26,323. Nor the promise of anything ?—No, not a farthing.

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

2 Oct. 1869.

Dennis Ransome, junior, sworn and examined.

D. Ransome, jun.

26,324. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you keep the "Blackhorse" public-house?—Yes.

26,325. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

26,326. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

26,327. At what time in the day?—Ten o'clock.

26,328. Were there a good many voters in your house that day?—No, a very few indeed; two or three at the most at any time.

26,329. Was anybody there with them?—No.

26,330. Were they treated in your house in any way?—No, not at all.

26,331. Was no beer paid for that was supplied to them?—No.

26,332. Was there no money given to them in your house that you know of?—No.

26,333. Who were the two or three who you say were in your house?—I do not recollect now who they were; they were strangers. An old chap named Picken came in after he had voted.

26,334. Were there not a good many voters taken from your house to the poll?—No, there was not one.

26,335. Did anybody come to your house on behalf of Sir Henry Stracey that day?—No.

26,336. Did you go up of your own accord?—Yes.

26,337. Did nobody ask you to come?—Mr. Cunnington was coming past in a cab, and he asked if I would go up with him, and I rode up with him.

26,338. Mr. Cunnington was very active in getting up voters for Mr. Stracey, was he not?—I believe so. He took an active part.

26,339. Did he offer you any money?—No.

26,340. Did he talk to you about money?—No.

26,341. Did you ask him whether any money was going?—No.

26,342. Did you see him afterwards in the latter part of the day?—No.

26,343. You only saw him then?—That is all.

26,344. Did you offer money to anybody in your house or anywhere else that day?—No.

26,345. Or did you promise any money?—No.

26,346. Or did you give them any beer?—No.

26,347. Had you promised your vote before?—Yes, a day or two before.

26,348. Who had canvassed you?—Mr. Dudley Stracey asked me for my vote, that is all, and I promised him a day or two before the election.

James Berry sworn and examined.

J. Berry.

26,349. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Stracey.

26,350. At what time in the day?—At half-past 2.

26,367. Did you vote of your own accord?—Yes.

26,368. Who is your employer?—Mr. Jolley.

Henry Covell sworn and examined.

H. Covell.

26,369. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

26,370. At what time in the day?—At about five minutes past 2, as near as I can tell.

26,371. Who came to you?—Not any one.

26,372. Had nobody canvassed you before?—No; I had cards from each of the three different members, and circulars sent to my house.

26,373. Nothing more?—No.

26,374. How came you to go up so late?—I went after my dinner hour.

26,375. Had nobody asked you for your vote?—No further than the cards that had solicited it, which were sent round.

26,376. What is your business?—A master sawyer.

26,377. For whom do you work?—For Mr. Morris, and several people jobbing about. I work for Mr. Newall part of the time.

26,378. Were you at work all the morning?—No, I was out in the morning. I went to Diss. I went to work in the afternoon.

26,379. At what time did you return from Diss?—The train came in, I think, about 1 o'clock.

26,380. At what time did you go to Diss in the morning?—At 10 minutes before six. I went by the parliamentary train.

26,381. Did you get or were you promised anything for your vote?—No.

Thomas Ashen sworn and examined.

T. Ashen.

26,383. At what time in the day?—At a quarter past 1.

26,384. Who went with you to the poll?—There was a man called—I do not know his name—to know if I had voted, and I said I was going to vote as soon as I had got my dinner.

26,385. Did he give you anything?—No.

26,386. Did he offer you anything?—No.

26,387. Have you had anything since?—No.

26,388. Did you get any beer?—No.

26,389. Had you ever voted before?—No.

26,390. And you had nothing this time for voting?—No.

26,391. Did that man come to your house?—Yes.

26,392. Were you at work then?—No; I was then going to get my dinner.

26,393. Had you been at any public-houses during the day?—No; I do not use such as that.

JOSHUA BULLARD sworn and examined. J. Bullard.

26,394. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A greengrocer and fruiterer.

26,423. Did you promise to vote for anyone?—No.

26,424. Were you asked to vote?—Yes.

26,425. By whom?—By Mr. Hardy, and Mr. Walker called in the morning and asked if I would vote for them. I told him that I did not know that I should go out at all, but I did about 3 o'clock.

26,426. Did you see them again?—No.

26,427. What made you determine at 3 o'clock to go and vote?—I found that Sir Henry Stracey was getting in, if he was not I should not have went and voted, because that was my party.

26,428. Did anybody come to fetch you?—No.

26,429. What did you get for your vote?—Not anything.

26,430. Have you had anything since?—No.

26,431. Was anything promised to you that day?—No.

26,458. Had you promised your vote?—No.

26,459. Had you been asked?—No.

26,460. Not by either party?—I had been asked two or three days before, or a couple of days, by Mr. Tillett, whether I would oblige him with my vote, and I told him no.

26,461. What did you tell him?—I told him I was not going to vote for him because I am not a Whig, and therefore I made up my mind to vote as a Tory, and I voted for Mr. Stracey.

26,462. Was anything offered you for your vote?—No, not a halfpenny.

26,463. Have you had anything since?—No, not a single halfpenny, nor yet anything said about it.

26,464. Were you treated that day by anyone?—No.

26,465. Was this your first time of voting?—Yes, that was the first time.

26,466. No promise of any sort was made to you?—Not a bit in the world.

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

W. Wright.

2 Oct. 1869.

26,470. At what time in the day?—Between 1 and 2.

26,471. Did you get anything for voting?—Nothing.

26,472. Nor the promise of anything?—No; I was never solicited by either party. I always vote one way.

26,473. You went and voted of your own accord?—Yes.

W. Pearson.

WILLIAM PEARSON recalled and further examined.

26,474. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You are sworn.—Yes.

26,475. And sworn to tell the whole truth.—Yes.

26,476. You said when you were examined here before that you were promised 10*s.* by Mr. Furse, of Queen Street.—So I was.

26,477. Did Mr. Furse put down the money in your house?—No.

26,478. Did you see no money produced by Mr. Furse?—No.

26,479. Did your wife receive any money?—Well, I suppose you want the truth.

26,480. Yes?—We were in the "Duke" public-house, on Tombland, when Mr. Furse asked me for my vote; I axed him what he was going to give me, and he said he would give me 10*s.* if I went and voted, and I went and voted, and I asked when I came out for the 10*s.*, and he said, "That is all right," and when I went back into the "Duke" my missus she said that Mr. Furse had given her 10*s.*

26,481. You knew your wife had received it when you were before examined, and you were bound upon your oath to tell the truth?—He said he gave it to me.

26,482. You were guilty of gross perjury when you gave us that answer?—If he had said he had given it to her I should have owned it.

26,483. You knew it was got for your benefit, and that was what the gentleman meant when he put to you the question. It is a very sad thing to see a man come up in that way and commit such gross perjury. You may go down.

R. J. Baker.

ROBERT JEFFERSON BAKER sworn and examined.

26,484. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

26,485. At what time in the day?—A little before 3.

26,486. What made you vote so late?—My business prevented my getting to the poll earlier.

26,487. What is your business?—I was an insurance agent at that time.

26,488. Had you promised your vote to anyone?—Not to a soul.

26,489. Was anything offered to you?—Not anything.

26,490. Did you offer any money to anyone else?—Certainly not; I had not any to offer.

26,491. Did you take any part in the election except voting?—No, certainly not; I not even attended a meeting.

26,492. Have you ever voted before?—Not for Norwich.

26,493–4. Have you always voted Conservative wherever you have been?—Yes, always.

W. Martin.

WILLIAM MARTIN sworn and examined.

26,495. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a dealer.

26,496. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

26,497. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

26,498. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

26,499. What did you get for voting?—Not anything.

26,500. Why did you not vote earlier?—I could not spare time to go before; I had my business to attend to, and I went as soon as I could spare the time.

26,501. You were at work all the morning?—Yes.

26,502. Had you been canvassed?—No.

26,503. Did nobody come to ask you for your vote?—Not anyone.

26,504. Were you in any public-houses that morning?—Yes, I think I went for a walk and got a glass of ale as I was going for my walk, that is all.

26,505. Why did you not vote when you were going for your walk?—Because I was after my business, and could not stop.

26,506. What business was it you were going about?—I was going to take some pigeons to a gentleman.

26,507. You say you got nothing; did you get the promise of anything?—No, not anything. I never asked for anything, and no one came to ask me for my vote, I can assure you.

G. E. Wills.

GEORGE EDWARD WILLS sworn and examined.

26,508. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a fishmonger?—Yes, and tanner.

26,509. In Heigham Street?—In Heigham Lower Street.

26,510. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

26,511. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

26,512. At what time?—About 25 minutes after 8 in the morning.

26,513. You were very active, were you not, in the course of the day?—I was not, for I returned back to my labour and business and attended to my trade. I did not leave my business afterwards till the evening time when I closed my gates.

26,514. Do you know a person of the name of Cunnington?—I know a man of the name of Cunnington, but I can say nothing about his doings during the election day.

26,515. Do you know a man of the name of Buttifant?—No, I do not.

26,516. Did you take up any voters to the poll?—No.

26,517. Did you go up with any voters to the poll?—I never went out after I went and voted. I returned back to my premises and continued there till the evening till our labour was done.

26,518. Were you in any public-house that afternoon?—No, I did not leave my premises.

26,518*a*. Does Cunnington live in Orchard Gardens?—Yes, he lives at the "Orchard."

26,519. Does he keep a public-house?—Yes, he keeps a public-house.

26,520. Were you there?—No, I was not.

26,521. Were you there on the Sunday evening before?—No, it is a place I do not much frequent on a Sunday.

26,522. Do you not frequent Cunnington's house?—I have been at various times with people who have come to my premises to purchase things in the skin line to take them in to get a glass of ale, but perhaps that would not occur once in a month.

26,523. Do you mean to say you were not in Cunnington's house on the Sunday night before the election?—I do.

26,524. Do you know a man of the name of John Brown, also a fishmonger?—No, I have heard speak of him, but I do not know him.

26,525. Did you hear Cunnington offer Brown money?—No, I have not.

26,526. Did you hear Cunnington say anything to a man about half a dollar?—No.

26,527. Nothing of that sort?—No.

26,528. Did you hear a man offered half a dollar?—No.

26,529. Not on the day of election?—No, I was not leaving my premises to hear anything about the election, and how the affair was going on.

26,530. Nor yet the morning before?—Nor yet the morning before the election I was not.

26,531. Did you receive any money for your vote?—No, I did not.

26,532. Were you promised any?—Nor yet promised any.

26,533. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—No, I went up in a deliberate way to vote for Sir Henry Stracey; it is my usual way, and I went as I thought it was my duty as I have been used to do for years gone by.

26,534. Have you been a voter before?—I have been a voter for several years as a freeman of this city.

26,535. Have you voted for the Conservatives always before?—Yes, I have, and that is to be proved by books.

26,536. Of course. Have you ever received anything for your vote on former occasions?—I have not received anything I can assure you.

26,537. Can you swear that you have never received anything on former occasions?—Yes, I can swear to it and have sworn to it on this book.

26,538. Were you promised anything for your vote?—No, no one came to me to ask me no question, they does not want to come to me for I do not accept anything. I go and vote the way that I formerly has done.

Samuel Cunningham sworn and examined. S. Cunningham.

26,539. (Mr. Mansfield.) Whom did you vote for at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

26,540. Who asked you to vote?—No one, they only sent papers.

26,541. What did they give you for your vote?—Nothing at all.

26,542. Did they not give you any beer?—Not a glass.

26,543. Have you had anything since?—I have had nothing to drink nor yet anything else.

26,544. Is this the first time you voted?—Yes.

26,545. Nothing has been promised you for your vote?—Nothing at all.

26,546. Who asked you to vote?—No one, they only put me on the register and so I went up to vote.

26,547. Did anyone come to fetch you the day of the poll?—No, they sent each of them two papers, and that is all I had come to me.

26,548. And you did not get a farthing of money?—I never got a farthing of money.

26,549. Nor even a glass of beer?—Nor yet a glass of beer I can assure you.

26,550. What are you by trade?—A gardener.

David Wyatt sworn and examined. D. Wyatt.

26,551. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A tailor.

25,552. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

26,553. For whom?—Mr. Henry Stracey.

26,554. At what time in the day?—I think I took my dinner about 3, and I think I voted about 20 minutes past.

26,555. Why did you not vote before then?—My business would not allow me, I had some work to get out and get it in hand.

26,556. Did you get anything for voting?—I did not have anyone to call upon me at my house nor even in the shop.

26,557. Did you get anything?—I never had anybody calling upon me.

26,558. Answer me, yes or no?—No, of course not.

26,559. Nor the promise of anything?—Nor yet anything at all.

Henry Waite sworn and examined. H. Waite.

26,560. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

26,561. At what time in the day?—I believe it was about 3.

26,562. What are you by business?—A gasfitter; I was at work at the other part of the city at least about a mile off, and I had not an opportunity to come before.

26,563. Is that the sole cause why you did not vote before?—Yes.

26,564. Were you not standing out to get something for your vote?—No, I certainly had a glass of ale, but that is all I had, I just got it and out again; I went back to my employment.

26,565. Did anybody offer you anything for your vote?—No, not anything, I was not even canvassed.

26,566. Did anybody give or promise you anything?—I assure you I was not even canvassed for my vote.

26,567. Did you pay for your own beer?—Yes, I paid for my own beer, I was not asked to have a glass of beer the whole day.

William Runacres sworn and examined. W. Runacres.

26,568. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a manager of one of the wards at the late election?—I was appointed manager of the third ward.

26,569. On the Liberal side?—Yes.

26,570. For Sir William Russell and Mr. Tillett?—Yes, I consider so.

26,571. Were you a voter?—I am.

26,572. Were you a paid manager?—I was.

26,573. Have you been paid since?—Yes, I have.

26,574. Did you vote?—I voted.

26,575. Russell and Tillett?—Yes.

26,576. Were you in the committee room the whole day?—Yes.

26,577. Was there any application made there on the part of voters to be paid for their day's work, or to be paid money for their votes?—Not to me personally.

26,578. Did you hear any application made to anybody else?—No; I was chiefly engaged in the room where the poll was kept, which was generally quiet.

26,579. Did you hear any discussion about money that day?—I heard a great deal of general talk that money was afloat.

26,580. Did you see any money yourself given, or do you know of any being provided that day?—Certainly not.

26,581. Was there anything of the sort on the part of the candidates for whom you were engaged?—Certainly not.

26,582. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes, quite.

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

W. Runacres.

2 Oct. 1869.

I think that two or three voters applied to me in the course of the day for beer, or something of that kind. I think I have a remembrance of it, but there was some confusion in the room. I feel certain that two or three did ask for some treat or something of the kind.

26,583. What answer did you give them?—I told them the law did not allow a single farthing to be spent in refreshment to a voter.

26,584. Was anything given?—Certainly not by me.

26,585. Or promised?—Nor promised.

26,586. Or by anybody on your side?—No, certainly not.

26,587. As far as you know?—Yes, quite so.

26,588. Did you hear any rumours about money being spent by the other side?—Yes, I did.

26,589. When did you first hear those reports?—In the room, I should think. It was about 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

26,590. Who brought you in that report?—I cannot remember. I have tried to recollect since this Commission has been sitting. I have inquired of two or three persons. Philo was one and Cokin another. I cannot remember who told me of it. I do not think I knew the men personally.

26,591. Had you yourself canvassed at all?—No, I had not.

26,592. Did you find that up to 2 o'clock the voting proceeded according to your canvass pretty well?—I think we did up to about 1 o'clock. I think we may say that the voting coincided with the canvass book I had before me, and it was after that time that we saw indications leading to the belief that money was going.

26,593. Then did you find that those persons who were reported to you as having promised their votes to your party had deserted and gone over to the other side?—Not quite so; we found that the men who were marked doubtful were going in swarms on the other side, that is to say, the voting cards denoted it.

26,594. That was as regards men in your own ward?—Yes, men in the third ward. I know nothing of any men in the other wards.

26,595. In what part of the third ward was that specially?—We could not tell that, because all the polling cards from each polling place, and I think there were five, came to my hand, and I did not notice particularly from which polling booth these voting cards came, but I think I might say it was down in the lower part.

26,596. What comprises the lower part?—I think it is what is called North Heigham.

26,597. Was it a considerable number of men that you found?—It was quite remarkable; it was the subject of conversation between Mr. Gould and myself that the doubtful men were going on the other side, and we drew our inference from it.

26,598. Did you go out of the room to ascertain what was the cause of it?—I did not leave the house till about 20 minutes to 4 when I went to vote.

26,599. You would have no personal observation which would enable you to form any conclusion?—None whatever, except that a report was brought to me by these men whose names I have told you I cannot remember.

26,600. At what time was that report brought to you?—I think that must have been between 1 and 2.

26,601. As early as that, or was it later?—I do not think it was later than that.

26,602. You do not know who it was?—No.

26,603. Did they say where it was going on?—Yes, I did not know I was at liberty to tell you what they told me. They told me there was a body of men at the "Barn Tavern," which is in the lower part of the Heigham, on the Dereham Road, and that a gentleman had got them there, that was the phrase.

26,604. Who did they say was the gentleman?—Mr. Joe Stanley was the expressson. He had got a body of men in the room and was treating them; they asked me to go down, and I said I did not think that was a part of my duty and I did not wish to get into a public-house broil or squabble. I was keeping the poll and I felt it difficult to leave. I did not consider it was part of my duty to go into a public-house after a body of men in the hands of an agent on the opposite side, and I did not go.

26,605. Did you communicate it to any higher authority?—I told it to somebody in the third ward room where they were keeping the marking-off sheets. I mentioned it to two or three people there, but I am sure I cannot remember who they were.

26,606. You did not take any measures to ascertain whether it was well founded or not?—I did not.

26,607. Who keeps the "Barn Tavern," is it a man named Coldham?—Yes, that is the man, a cabman.

26,608. Do you know whether anybody went down to the "Barn Tavern"?—No, I do not.

26,609. Did you hear any of your men who were present in the committee room say that they had gone to the "Barn Tavern"?—No, I did not.

26,610. You took no means of testing the foundation of the report?—I am sorry I did not. I have thought since I ought to have, but I felt afraid. There was a great row and confusion, and I felt afraid I should get into some public-house broil or something of the kind; that is the reason I did not go, but I suggested it to two or three persons, whom I call outdoor men, that they should go and prevent it, though I cannot state the names of the persons to whom I suggested it. I felt I ought not to go and I did not go.

26,611. Have you since heard that anybody went there?—No, I do not think that anybody went.

26,612. Who was managing that ward besides yourself?—Three others besides myself; there was Mr. Berry, Mr. Ladell, and Mr. White.

26,613. Did you not mention it to anyone of those three with a view to their going down and testing the foundation of the report?—I think I did to Mr. White; he lives in the ward.

26,614. Were you a resident in that ward?—Yes.

26,615. It is a pity that no measures were taken to ascertain the foundation for it.—I am sorry now I did not go.

26,616. (Mr. Biron.) You said you had observed suspicious names as having voted; doubtful men?—Yes, large numbers of them having voted for Mr. Stracey.

26,617. You kept a check upon the poll at the committee room?—I kept the poll, that is to say, when the cards came in we cast the numbers and entered them in a book.

26,618. Could you, by referring to those books, give us the names of the doubtful men?—I could only do so by reference to the canvass books. I should have the canvass book on one side, and the voting card on the other.

26,619. Where are the canvass books?—They have been produced here. I have not seen them since the election day.

26,620. When you speak of doubtful men, do you mean they were doubtful only because upon the canvass books they were marked doubtful?—Yes.

26,621. I thought you spoke of them as doubtful, because you knew them to be doubtful?—No, I had no personal knowledge of them; it is a very large ward.

26,622. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You depended entirely upon the returns of your canvassers?—Yes, entirely.

26,623. And the returns of the organisation?—I do not know about the organisation; it was the canvass books.

C. Walker.

CLEMENT WALKER sworn and examined.

26,624. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

26,625. Did you take an active part during the election?—Yes.

26,626. You were very busy yourself?—Yes.

26,627. Were you a member of any committee?—Yes.

26,628. Which?—The committee of the "Tuns."

26,629. Which ward was that?—South Heigham.

26,630. Did you canvass a great number of voters yourself?—Yes.

26,631. And got their promises?—Yes, I got the promises of some.

26,632. Did you take many voters up to the poll yourself?—Yes, I took a great many up I may say.

26,633. You did yourself?—Yes, with one or two others.

26,634. Can you tell me how many you took up?—I cannot say the number.

26,635. Who were the gentlemen who were active with you?—Mr. Hardy and Mr. Hibbett. Mr. Hibbett lent us his trap.

26,636. Did he lend you any money?—No.

26,637. How did you get these voters up to the poll?—In the horse and trap.

26,638. How did you persuade them to go?—I used very little persuasion at all. Three or four of them were crippled.

26,639. They all wanted beer or money?—I never heard one ask for beer or money.

26,640. Did you not give anyone either beer or money?—No.

26,641. Do you not know that beer and money was being very freely given?—Very likely, but I did not see any given.

26,642. Do you mean to say you gave neither beer nor money that day?—No, I did not.

26,643. Did you not know that Hibbett was doing it?—No.

26,644. Have you never done it before at any other election?—No.

26,645. How many elections have you worked at?—I think this was the only one I worked at.

26,646. Have you ever paid money before at any single election?—No.

26,647. Have you never been a party to treating voters at previous elections?—No.

26,648. Do you mean to say you did not do so at this election?—No, I never treated nor gave anything or promised anything.

26,649. You were at the "Tuns"?—Yes.

26,650. Do you not know that the men were being very freely treated at that place?—No, I was out and in.

26,651. What did you go to the "Tuns" for?—To see who was there.

26,652. You knew that was a place where the voters were being treated?—I did not know that. I never saw any being treated.

26,653. Did you not know they were being collected there to be taken to the poll?—No, I never see a body of men collected there.

26,654. Do you mean to tell me that men were collected there and you do not know for what purpose?—I only saw a lot of men there.

26,655. You knew they were voters?—I did not know they were voters; I only saw them standing against the door.

26,656. You had very good reason to suppose they were voters?—No, I had not.

26,657. Why did you go there if you did not think they were voters?—To see what was going on.

26,658. What was your motive?—To see who had voted, and so that we could go and fetch another voter up if we could find him.

26,659. You went to see if you could fetch up another voter?—Yes, but we did not take away any from there.

26,660. You knew they were voters about there?—I cannot say that.

26,661. Do you mean to say there were no men there looking out for money?—I cannot say there were any looking out for money.

26,662. Who were the persons in the committee room at the "Tuns" when you went there?—I think Mr. Corsbie and Mr. Buttifant.

26,663. Was Mr. Stanley there?—I do not recollect it.

26,664. Do you know Mr. Stanley?—Yes.

26,665. Did you see him during the day of the election?—I might see him somewhere.

26,666. Tell me whether you did or not?—I am not positive whether I did or did not.

26,667. Will you swear you did or did not?—I will not swear.

26,668. Tell me what you know of the working of the election?—I know nothing about it. I only went and canvassed, and I went and voted the first thing in the morning at 8 o'clock, and Mr. Hibbett offered us his trap, and we got up voters.

26,669. Do you mean to say you never offered anything to anybody and are not cognizant of anybody offering money on your side that day?—No, not that day. I do not know of it.

26,670. How soon after?—The next day.

26,671. What did you hear the next day?—Only the report that there had been bribery.

26,672. By whom?—That I do not know.

26,673. What was the report you heard the next day?—I heard there was bribery, and that the election was gained by bribery; that is all I heard.

26,674. Did you hear the names of any persons in connection with the bribery?—No, not till the petition was coming on.

26,675. Do you mean to say you never heard till the day of the petition the names of any persons who were concerned in bribery?—No, certainly not.

26,676. Were you in Norwich all that time?—Yes, I never went out of the parish. I did not go out of the parish, but I was in Norwich all the time.

26,677. And you never heard of anything?—No, not during that time.

26,678. You say you did not order any beer yourself?—No, and I did not drink any at anybody's expense.

26,679. Do you not know that some of your friends were offering beer for the men?—No, I never see it.

26,680. You know there were men hanging back at the "Tuns" in hopes of getting money?—No, I cannot say that.

26,681. Do you not know that that is what they wanted?—No, I think they were men who had no votes, Cossey men.

26,682. Do you not know that there was a body of men hanging about the "Tuns" in hopes of getting some money?—No, I do not know it.

26,683. Was there no other place where you knew the men were hanging about for a day's wages?—No, certainly not. I heard about that afterwards.

26,684. How soon afterwards?—A day or two afterwards.

26,685. Where?—I heard of it at the "Trumpet," but that was a day or two afterwards. I knew nothing about it till the petition came on.

26,686. In your own ward where were the places you heard of men waiting to be bribed?—I never heard of any, not that day.

26,687. (Mr. Biron.) What other day?—Not any other day.

26,688. Then why did you say "that day?"—Not that day I say now. I never heard of anybody waiting about in that ward at all. I know nothing about North Heigham; I was only in the south.

26,689. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You were very active in getting up voters?—Yes.

26,690. How many voters did you take up?—I am not able to say how many.

26,691. Were there so many that you cannot tell me?—I cannot recollect just now.

26,692. Were you going about getting up voters until the close of the poll?—Until after the poll had closed. We took a voter up after the poll had closed and could not poll him.

26,693. In what part of your ward?—The south part.

26,694. Do you mean to stand there and say that a number of voters whom you tried to get up did not express an opinion that they ought to be paid their

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

C. Walker.

2 Oct. 1869.

day's wages, or that they ought to have something for voting ?—I never heard any one say so to me.

26,695. Did you see voters loitering in the street ?—No ; I cannot say I saw any voters loitering in the street.

26,696. What is your position in life ?—I am not following anything just now.

26,697. You were going about all over the south part of your ward asking voters to come up, and I suppose getting them ?—Yes.

26,698. You had a carriage to take them up ?—Yes, Mr. Hibbett lent us his trap, at least he drove it.

26,699. Had you any trouble whatever in getting up any voters ?—No, not the least.

26,700. Wherever you went they rushed into the trap ?—I do not say they went to rush in, they did not rush in, but they went in, some of them were invalids, two or three of them.

26,701. Did Hibbett go in before you went in ?—Sometimes he went in and sometimes not ; sometimes he stood by the horse.

26,702. What sort of a carriage was it ?—A little waggonette.

26,703. How many would it carry at a time ?—I suppose four or five.

26,704. Wherever you went with your trap the people immediately came out and got into the carriage ?—No, in some places we went to they did not go with us at all.

26,705. Did they refuse to go ?—They said they would walk, some of them.

26,706. You never found any who had the least hesitation in coming ?—No.

26,707. Really I will not ask you another question. All I tell you is that your statement to me is utterly incredible.—I cannot help what you think ; at any rate I tell you the truth.

26,708. Do you think that your ward was utterly immaculate, that there was no sort of bribery, and no sort of hesitation on the part of any voters to vote ?—I say nothing about that at all. I know nothing of it ; that is all I can say.

J. Vassar.

JOHN VASSAR sworn and examined.

26,709. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—I am a grocer.

26,710. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

26,711. For whom ?—For Russell and Tillett.

26,712. Did you take an active part in the election ?—I urged upon several men to vote that lived in my locality.

26,713. How did you urge them ?—Why by explaining to them the principles of the Liberal and Conservative side.

26,714. Contrasting them, in fact ?—Yes, and speaking to them on the bribery question, and requesting them to vote.

26,715. What were the names of those men ?—I have not a list of them here. I could furnish you with a list of those names. They all conscientiously went and voted.

26,716. I suppose you said much about the same thing to every one of them ?—Yes, it was simply showing which was the right side.

26,717. And showing which side they would benefit most by voting for ?—Yes.

26,718. Did you use the same arguments to them all ?—Yes.

26,719. Among the lot did there happen to be a man of the name of Bygrave ?—I know a man of that name.

26,720. Horace Bygrave ?—I do not know his christian name.

26,721. Did you use the same arguments to him as you did to the others ?—I came in contact with him just before 4—half-past 3, I think.

26,722. That would be the time when the arguments required to be used more forcibly ?—No, these men that I speak of went and voted conscientiously long before that.

26,723. Did not Bygrave vote conscientiously ?—I understood from a man of the name of Burrell that Dr. Masters was influencing two men to vote, and I went across the passage, and Bygrave and a man of the name of Smith were there. When I went in I saw Dr. Masters urging these men to go and vote for Stracey, and I spoke to Bygrave and said, "Do you "not belong to organisation ?" He said, "Yes," I said, "You had your cards of membership." and he said, "Yes," and I said, "Both of you profess to be "Liberals," and they said, "Yes," upon which I said, "How on earth can you vote for Stracey ?" upon which he said, "They have bid us money ;" and I directly turned to Dr. Masters and said, "You are "offering these men money ;" he did not speak, and I said, "What do you mean ? Do you not know the "terror of the law ?" he did not speak, and I said to Smith, "Come in," and Bygrave called me round and said, "What will you give us ?" I said, "Nothing ; "do you know the heavy fine inflicted upon those "who offer a bribe ?" I went back to Dr. Masters and said, "You have been trying to bribe these men "who are Liberals in principles."

26,724. Where does Smith live ?—This was in Smith's passage in West End Street. I said, "I shall "not leave you, it is no use your attempting to give "them any money, Dr. Masters ; I shall not leave the "men." Dr. Masters urged upon Smith to get in, but did not ask Bygrave. Bygrave was trying to extort something from me, and Dr. Masters went away without him.

26,725. Did he take away Smith ?—No, he took neither of them, and I walked along with them ; it was getting near the time. Bygrave tried to extort money, and said he was back in his rates 12*s.* or 14*s.*, and had had a good deal of affliction in his house. He told me a long tale, but I said, "I don't "offer anything. Go and vote like a man. Be con-"scientious and straightforward and you will be "respected." He still persisted. "Will you give me something ?" and I said, "I will not." I got him along to the voting place, where Smith halted and said he would go no further. I said, "Why will you not go and vote ?" and he said, "If I do I shall get discharged." I said, "Who is your employer ?" "Mr. Martin," he said, "and if I vote for Russell and Tillett I shall very likely lose my situation." I said, "What are you ?" and he said, "A clicker." I said, "Won't you go and vote ?" and he said, "No, I shall lose my place." I said, "Will you stand neuter ?" and he said, "Yes." He stood in the road, and I went up with Bygrave, and Bygrave voted. I saw Bygrave the next day. He came to my place about 6 o'clock in the following evening about some grocery goods, and a friend of mine from Yarmouth was sitting in my shop, and I said, "Now you talk about bribery, and Stracey, &c." and I said (appealing to Bygrave), "Mr. Bygrave, Were you not bid money three times yesterday ?" and he said, "Yes." I said, "Were they three distinct times ?" He said, "Yes." I said, "By three distinct persons ?" and he said, "Yes."

26,726. Who is your friend from Yarmouth ?—Mr. William Palmer, an upholsterer.

26,727. Where does he live ?—In Gaol Street, Yarmouth, and a young man, a journeyman of mine, heard him say so, because I appealed to those two afterwards.

26,728. What is the name of your journeyman ?—Edward Wilson.

26,729. Is he with you still ?—Yes, he is behind the counter, and has been with me five or six years. I said to Bygrave, "Will you give me the names of the three distinct parties who offered you money ?" and I says, "Why are you not candid ? Give me the names." He says, "If I were to tell you the names they would knock me on the head." He then paid for his groceries, and beckoned me out of the door, and said, "I voted for you, you know. Are you going to give me anything?" I said, "My dear fellow, I "never told you I would give you money, and "I never intended to give you money. You voted "conscientiously. Are you not satisfied?" Since then he has been troubling me with boots. I bought a pair or two of rivetted boots of him; but they were such an inferior sort that I said they were of no use, and told him it was no use coming to me; but he said, "I voted for you. Are you not going to give me anything?"

26,730. He has been speaking to you about this matter since?—He has been trying to sell me goods, thinking he obliged me.

26,731. Bygrave was a customer of yours before?—No, I didn't know him at all. I did not know his christian name.

26,732. You said that he came to get some things of you?—He came the following day after he had been down with me to vote. I knew the man to see him, but did not know his name. I saw him go backwards and forwards every day past mine to work.

26,733. Is it true that you promised to give him something if he would go and vote, although you did not say what it was?—Certainly not. I abhorred the very name of purchasing anybody. My principles are straightforward. If a man came to me and talked about bribery I should have spurned him out.

26,734. You must have known pretty well before he voted that he was trying all he could to get money?—I knew he did. He tried to extort money from me because Dr. Masters offered him money, and I said, "You both belong to the organisation. You have "got your cards of membership, and you profess to "be Liberal, why turn your backs on your party?" But he said Dr. Masters had bid money to him, and he said. "How much will you give me?" He said that to me in the passage. I said, "I dare not, neither shall Dr. Masters, for I will not leave him."

26,735. Did Smith go too?—Smith walked with me.

26,736. Then he parted with you before you got to the poll?—No. He walked with me to the National School, and Bygrave voted.

26,737. Smith did not?—Smith did not, because he thought he would get discharged.

26,738. (Mr. Mansfield.) Was anything said by Bygrave about being discharged from his employment?—I don't remember that he said that. I don't remember that he said anything about it.

26,739. Did Bygrave say anything to you about his being exposed to difficulties if he voted against you?—No.

26,740. Or persecution of any kind?—No, his plea was that he was back in paying his rates, and that he wanted a little money; that it would be very helpful to him; that he had had a sick house; several of his children had been ill for some little time. That was his plea for trying to get money from me.

26,741. There was nothing else that he was afraid of?—I never heard of anything.

26,742. (Mr. Biron.) Was it Smith who worked for Martin somewhere or other?—Smith lived nearly opposite mine, and they both worked for Martin.

26,743. Where is that?—West End Street, North Heigham.

26,744. Do you know Smith's christian name?—I think it is William. The postman asked me if I knew where William Smith lived when he has had letters.

26,745. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you know which way he voted?—He did not vote at all.

26,746. Which way did his master vote?—I should think the master is a Conservative by that, because he said, "I shall get discharged if I vote, in all probability." He admitted his principles were Liberal, but he was afraid of his place.

26,747. (Mr. Mansfield.) You never said anything to Bygrave about making it all right?—No, I never offered him anything.

26,748. Did you give any intimation to Bygrave that you would directly or indirectly do anything for him as a reward for voting on your side?—No.

26,749. Did you give any hint that you would be of use to him in any possible way?—No. As I was going down West End Street Smith walked forward. As we were going to the poll I said distinctly, "I dare "not give you anything. The law will inflict fines "and punishments upon me, and I dare not offer you "anything for your vote, and dare not give you any-"thing," and I never offered him any money, or offered to do anything for him.

26,750. Do you think he believed that?—I don't know what conclusion he came to.

26,751. Do you think that when he was voting he believed you were going to do something for him?—No. I laid the whole case before him. It seems he wanted to get money. As I frustrated Dr. Masters' design he thought he would try what he could do with me, and he has been to me several times since with boots and shoes.

26,752. Might you have led him to believe so?—Nothing of the sort.

26,753. You are quite certain there was nothing in your language or manner which would lead him to believe that he was voting for a consideration?—No.

26,754. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) How did you get him to vote?—I said to you, "You belong to the organisa-"tion. You have your card of membership. Your "principles are Liberal. How can you be a turncoat "now and go and vote on the other side?" It was the man's own statement. He professed to be Liberal all the way through and was then waiting to get money to vote whichever way he could get it I suppose. It appeared like that to me.

26,755. Although the man was poor and in great distress, that is the only means which were used, and by which you were successful in getting him to vote?—He told me this as we were going on, and it was near four, and in a few minutes more he could not have voted at all.

26,756. You must have started from his house?—No; his house is in Northumberland Street, much nearer the poll.

26,757. You got the man to go out of his house?—No.

26,758. But it was close to the man's house?—No, I started from Smith's house, and Smith's house is not half the distance.

26,759. How far was that from the poll?—It is about 100 yards or 150 from Smith's house to the poll.

26,760. (Mr. Mansfield.) How was it that you persuaded Bygrave, but failed to persuade Smith?—Bygrave I believe was not intimidated about his situation. The other was. The other said, "In all probability I shall lose my place if I do vote," and he halted and said, "I'll not vote," and positively gave me a denial. He would not go in and vote and I left him.

26,761. (Mr. Biron.) Bygrave tried all he knew to get you to give him something?—He did try.

26,762. And you tried all you could to get him to poll, and determined to give him nothing?—Yes.

26,763. Since he voted he has been to you several times trying to get something out of you for doing it?—Yes, he came the following evening, when that conversation took place which I have stated, with reference to his being bid money by three different persons. He called me out the same evening expecting that I should give him something. In fact he asked me, and I said, "My dear fellow, you cannot expect to get anything from me."

Adjourned to Monday next at 10 o'clock.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

Monday, 4th October 1869.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

H. Purcell.

28 Oct. 1869.

HENRY PURCELL sworn and examined.

26,764. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

26,765. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

26,766. At what time?—About half-past 2.

26,767. How came you to vote so late?—I did not think it was of any consequence at what time I voted. I had no reason for stopping till that time.

26,768. What is your position in life?—I am a pensioner from the army.

26,769. What was your position in the army?—Sergeant.

26,770. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

26,771. Were you promised anything?—No.

S. Roberts.

SAMUEL ROBERTS sworn and examined.

26,772. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

26,773. At what time in the morning?—About 9 o'clock.

26,774. Afterwards you went to the "Woolpack"?—No.

26,775. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing. I should scorn the idea of having anything.

26,776. Were you promised anything?—No.

26,777. Have you had anything since?—No.

26,778. Did you promise or give anything to anyone else?—No.

26,779. Who asked you to vote?—I had one of those circulars, that's all, from Mr. Stracey.

26,780. Did anybody come and ask you in person?—No; I was canvassed.

26,781. Who canvassed you?—Mr. Webb and Mr. Claxton on the Liberal side.

26,782. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What did you say?—I did not promise either.

26,783. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you ever vote before?—No.

26,784. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Why did you not promise?—Because I did not wish to bind myself on either side. If I had been very busy on the day, and my work had bound me, I should not have voted.

26,785. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A shoemaker.

J. Wade.

JAMES WADE sworn and examined.

26,786. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A furniture broker.

26,787. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

26,788. For whom?—Mr. Stracey.

26,789. What time of the day?—About a quarter to 3.

26,790. Had you been canvassed?—Yes.

26,791. By whom?—By the blue party.

26,792. Not by Stracey's party?—No.

26,793. Did you tell the blues that you were going to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

26,794. Why did not you vote earlier?—The poll was open from 8 to 4, and I thought I could vote at what time I thought proper.

26,795. Were you busy that day?—Yes, I was busy in the shop.

26,796. At home?—Yes.

26,797. You were not about the city?—No.

26,798. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

26,799. Or the promise of anything?—No.

26,800. Have you voted before?—No.

W. Sparks.

WILLIAM SPARKS sworn and examined.

26,801. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

26,802. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

26,803. At what time?—Between 3 and 4.

26,804. Where were you during the rest of the day?—During the rest of the day I was packing up goods to get off. I am an upholsterer and cabinet-maker, and I was packing up goods to get off by the carrier. It was inconvenient to vote earlier.

26,805. Did anybody come to you for your vote?—No, I never spoke to anybody.

26,806. Did nobody canvass you?—No. I had only circulars sent from each party; nobody asked me for a vote.

26,807. Did nobody come to fetch you to the poll?—No; I never spoke to no one, but I went and voted of my voluntary will.

26,808. Did anybody give you anything to vote?—No; I never thought of such a thing.

26,809. Were you promised anything?—No.

26,810. Have you been a voter before?—I don't think I ever voted at a general election before. I cannot say. It might be several years back. I don't remember. I am not interested in it particular.

G. Manclarke.

GEORGE MANCLARKE sworn and examined.

26,811. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

26,812. What time of the day?—About 3 o'clock.

26,813. What made you so late?—It was more convenient.

26,814. Were you very active during the day?—No.

26,815. Where were you during that day?—About the city, and at home about my business.

26,816 Where is your home?—In Colegate Street.

26,817. Do you live with your father?—No.

26,818. Your father keeps a tavern?—Yes.

26,819. Were there not a good number of voters there?—Not that I am aware of.

26,820. What public-houses were you at?—I was at the "Black Boy."

26,821. Did you take up any voters?—No.

26,822. Did you take up anybody?—I took up nobody.

26,823. What were you doing about the city all day?—I was about my business.

26,824. What is your business?—A broker.

26,825. Did you do nothing but follow your own business during the day of the poll?—Nothing else.

26,826. Had you the day before taken any part in canvassing?—No.

26,827. Did you treat anybody?—No.

26,828. Did you make any promise to anybody?—Not any.

26,829. Did you pay any money that day, or have you paid any since the election?—Not any.

26,830. (Mr. Biron.) What brought you to the "Black Boy"?—I have been in and out there every day about business.

26,831. What business?—My father and mother live there, and I was in and out. I was not in that day more than any other day.

26,832. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you take up any one from the "Black Boy"?—Not any one.

26,833. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were there not many people there?—There were a lot of people about the streets.

26,834. At your father and mother's house I asked you?—Not that I am aware of; no more than usual. There were two or three people in the house. I did not know what they were there for.

26,835. You were in and out of the house the whole day?—Yes.

26,836. You must have been aware of what was going on?—I did not hear of anything going on. If I go in and out of the public-house I don't go into the bar, I go in the private room at the side.

26,837. (Mr. Mansfield.) Were there any people there that you knew?—Not any people.

26,838. Did you get anything for your vote?—Not anything.

26,839. Have you ever voted before?—Not before.

James Swann sworn and examined. J. Swann.

26,840. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shoe manufacturer.

26,841. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

26,842. At what time in the day?—The first thing in the morning, about 8.

26,843. Were you employed at any committee-rooms?—No.

26,844. Or as a canvasser?—Nothing of the kind.

26,845. You were not employed in any way about the election?—Never at all.

26,846. Did you take any active part in getting up voters?—Not a bit.

26,847. You went out and voted early, and then went back to your business?—Yes; after it was done I was in bed. I went and lay down, and my daughter came up and said the election was over, and Sir Henry Stracey had got in. I found it was so.

26,848. Did you get anything for your vote?—Not a farthing. I never asked for anything.

26,849. Did you get a promise of anything?—No.

William Quantrill sworn and examined. W. Quantrill.

26,850. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) There are several persons of your name in the city, are there not?—I believe so.

26,851. What are you by trade?—A shoemaker.

26,852. Are you a master?—In a small way.

26,853. What time of the day did you vote?—From half-past 3 to 4.

26,854. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

26,855. Where were you in the earlier part of the day?—I came up to town, and I happened with a friend. We got into the "Mitre" together, and then it was after 2 o'clock when I had got my dinner. I could not vote before that time.

26,856. Why could not you vote earlier?—I could not get up to the poll.

26,857. Did you go to the poll for the purpose of voting earlier than 2 o'clock?—I went up to the poll at 9 o'clock, and I could not get up; and then I went and had my dinner, and after that I voted.

26,858. Did not you go again till after dinner?—No.

26,859. Was there such a crowd there?—Yes.

26,860. Which was your polling place?—Magdalen Street.

26,861. Where do you live?—Church Street, New Catton.

26,862. Did you ever live in Mill Lane?—No, never in Mill Lane. I lived on Mill Hill.

26,863. Did you go into the "Elm Tavern" that day?—No.

26,864. Were you never there at all?—Not that day.

26,865. Will you undertake to swear that you were not in the "Elm Tavern" on the day of the election?—Yes; I was not in the "Elm Tavern" at all on that day. The day after I was in; but not on the election day.

26,866. Did you hear a talk about money then?—No.

26,867. Was nothing said about money then?—Not a word, I did not hear.

26,868. Do you know a man of the name of "Smasher" Smith?—I know a man they call "Smasher Smith," but I did not see him that day.

26,869. Will you undertake to say that you were not in the "Elm Tavern" that day, and that nothing occurred there about money?—I will undertake to say I was not in the "Elm Tavern" on the day of the election at all.

26,870. And that nothing occurred there about money?—I never heard anything. That I can swear to.

26,871. Were you anywhere near the "Elm Tavern" that day?—Only as I passed it to go to town in the morning.

26,872. Do you know a person of the name of Charles Foster?—Yes.

26,873. Did you see him at the "Elm Tavern" that day?—No; I was not in the "Elm Tavern" at all.

26,874. Did you see young Mr. Stracey that day?—No. I don't know him.

26,875. Did you see a young gentleman at the "Elm Tavern" that day?—No; I was not in the "Elm Tavern."

26,876. Did you say anything about treating anybody?—No.

26,877. Did you say to anybody, "We have 30*s.* apiece"?—No.

26,878. Did you see a person of the name of Maris that day?—No.

26,879. Did you get anything for your vote?—No, not a farthing.

26,880. Or the promise of anything?—No.

26,881. Did young Mr. Stracey speak to you about your vote at all?—No. On the election morning I went out between 9 and 10 for the purpose of voting, and there was so many round the polling place that I could not get nigh it. I went up the town to the committee room of the blue party, and I met a friend of the name of Warren. I asked him to have a glass of beer. He belonged to the organisation. "Yes," he said, and he went with me. He said, "I want to "get the state of the poll and put it in my window, "because there is an opposition party;" that was opposite his house. I said, "Come, and we will go "arm in arm to the poll. You can give a plumper "for Tillett and I will plump for Stracey," and we went about the town till we got to the "Golden Star," and there were Tillett's men there, and we stopped there till 2 o'clock. Then we went to dinner, and then came down and voted. I was not in a public-house in Catton that day.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

4 Oct. 1869.

WILLIAM QUANTRILL sworn and examined.

W. Quantrill.

26,882. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you any relation to the last witness?—No.

26,883. Where do you live?—At New Catton, Mill Lane.

26,884. For whom did you vote at this last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

26,885. What time of the day?—It might be getting on to 3 o'clock.

26,886. Who asked you to vote?—No one.

26,887. Did you promise to vote for anyone?—They came round to solicit my vote same as they did other people, but nobody persuaded me to vote either way.

26,888. Did you promise your vote?—When they came to solicit my vote I never promised it.

26,889. Did you say you were going to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—No.

26,890. Not to anyone?—Not to anyone. When they came round to solicit my vote I said I should vote as I pleased.

26,891. Were you at the "Elm Tavern" on the day of the poll?—No.

26,892. Did you ever go to the "Elm Tavern"?—I have not been to the "Elm Tavern" for more than 30 years.

26,893. Do you know young Mr. Stracey?—I do not. I know the old gentleman, but I never spoke to him in my life.

26,894. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

26,895. Did you get treated?—I did not. I was not in a public-house on the election day.

26,896. Are you married?—Yes.

26,897. Did your wife get anything?—No; my wife did not get anything.

26,898. You did not get paid for your day's work?—I did not.

26, 899. Have you ever voted before?—No.

E. Woods.

EDWARD WOODS sworn and examined.

26,900. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shoemaker.

26,901. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

26,902. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

26,903. What time in the day?—Between 3 and 4; I could not say exactly to a moment.

26,904. Did you get anything for voting?—Nothing.

26,905. Why did you not vote earlier?—I should have voted earlier. I came down from the city about 10 o'clock. I went a little errand and I happened to meet with a man and went and had a pint of ale. I did not take much interest in the election.

26,906. Where were you when this happened about the pint of ale?—We went into a house that a man of the name of Marshall keeps. I cannot tell you the sign—the "Fishmonger's Arms" I think.

26,907. Was anything said about money going there?—No; I never see anything.

26,908. You went at your leisure and voted?—Yes.

26,909. Did you get anything, or the promise of anything, for voting?—Nothing.

C. Miller.

CLARE MILLER sworn and examined.

26,910. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—I did.

26,911. What time in the day?—To the best of my knowledge I voted at or about 3 o'clock.

26,912. Where were you during the early part of the day?—I left my home in Catton about dinner time and I came into the "Two Brewers" in Magdalen Street.

26,913. Where were you up to dinner time?—I was at home at my own house.

26,914. What were you doing at home?—I was preparing my children's victuals. My wife was not at home that day.

26,915. Were you preparing your children's dinner all the time from 8 o'clock in the morning till dinner time?—I stopped and gave my children their dinner after they came from school, and then I went and voted.

26,916. What were you doing from 8 till your children came home?—I was stopping in my own house.

26,917. What are you by business?—A retired warrant officer from the artillery.

26,918. Where did you go after your children's dinner?—To the "Two Brewers" in Magdalen Street, kept by Mr. Cubitt.

26,919. What did you do there?—I sat down there, and had some ale, for a short time.

26,920. What beer did you get there?—Nothing, only what I paid for.

26,921. Do you mean to say Cubitt did not say he would give you as much beer as you liked if you would vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—No, he did not.

26,922. Did not you find many men in there drinking?—Several.

26,923. Drinking whatever they liked?—No.

26,924. Did you see Cubitt?—Yes.

26,925. Did you inquire whether anything was going?—No.

26,926. Did not you hear the men talking about what beer they could get?—I did not get anything for voting.

26,927. Did not you hear that men were having whatever beer they liked, and did not you get some?—No; I paid for whatever beer I had there.

26,928. How much did you pay there?—I cannot say; I only had a shilling in my pocket.

26,929. Do you mean to say you cannot tell me then how much you spent?—I spent the whole of it.

26,930. What did you get for the shilling?—Several people asked me to drink and I asked several to drink, but I did not know it was for voting at that time.

26,931. How long did you stop there?—Perhaps five or six hours, in and out.

26,932. Drinking at Cubitt's all the time?—Not drinking all the time.

26,933. What were you doing then?—Sitting down.

26,934. And sipping occasionally?—Yes.

26,935. Do you know Cubitt's brother?—No, I don't.

26,936. Did not you see his brother come in?—No, I don't know his brother.

26,937. Did not a man come in who was very active in taking up voters to the poll?—No, not that I am aware of. My eyesight is not good.

26,938. Was there not a man who came in who was active in taking up voters to the poll?—I did not take any notice of him.

26,939. Who took you up to the poll?—I went myself.

26,940. With whom?—First I went with Cubitt, and Cubitt wanted me to vote then. I said, "No, I "shall not vote till I think proper to vote."

26,941. Being inclined to vote for Sir Henry Stracey, why would you not vote then?—I would not vote then because I would not be forced to vote.

26,942. I suppose he did not take a man like you bodily up to the poll?—No, I walked with him.

26,943. Why did you not vote then?—I did not think proper.

26,944. Why did you go to the poll if you were not going to vote?—I did not know where the poll was till Cubitt told me.

26,945. But finding yourself at the poll you said you would not be forced to vote?—No.

26,946. Was it not that you wanted some beer?—No.

26,947. You went back to Cubitt's?—Yes, I went back to Cubitt's and had some more beer, and drank whatever I thought proper.

26,948. And had whatever beer you liked?—No, I had not.

26,949. Who was drinking with you?—There was several drinking there.

26,950. You can tell me who they were if they were your companions?—They were not companions of mine.

26,951. Then how came you to be drinking there, and treating people of whom you knew nothing?—I see a number of people there.

26,952. Do you mean to say that you go into a public-house with a shilling in your pocket, and that you treat everyone, although you have never seen them before?—I did not treat everyone.

26,953. Did you know any of them?—I knew one.

26,954. Tell me what his name is?—Middleton.

26,955. Where does he live?—He lives at the present time in St. James'.

26,956. Who else?—I don't know that I knew anybody else, unless Mr. Cubitt; he was in there.

26,957. Surely you can tell me whether there was anybody else who was in there?—There were several.

26,958. Whom you knew?—I did not know the whole of them, nor yet a quarter of them.

26,959. What time was it when you went up with Cubitt in the first instance?—I should say between 1 and 2.

26,960. What time was it when you went back to Cubitt's?—I should say about 2 o'clock.

26,961. Then you sat down to drink?—I sat in the bar, and had a pint of ale.

26,962. Did you go on drinking your pints till you went up to the poll?—Yes.

26,063. Was it nearly 4 o'clock when you went up to the poll?—I should say it was about 3.

26,964. Will you undertake to swear that it was not very nearly 4 when you got up to the poll?—I could not say whether it was 3 or half-past 3; I did not look at the clock before I went.

26,965. Not having been forced to poll at 2, or a little before, what took you up to poll a little before 4?—I went up of my own accord.

26,966. Had you been talking about voting in the mean time?—Oh, yes. I told Cubitt at the time I first came into Norwich that I intended to vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

26,967. Then if you intended to vote for Sir Henry Stracey, and told Cubitt you were going to vote for him, why did not you vote?—Because he seemed so anxious for me to vote, and I said I would please myself.

26,968. You were not being compelled to vote if you went there and were going to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Certainly not.

26,969. Being a free man, and having made up your mind, can you give me any rational answer to the question, why you did not vote?—The only answer I can give is, that I thought I would please myself, because Cubitt was so anxious for me to vote.

26,970. You thought you would get some beer first, and would vote afterwards?—Not at all.

GEORGE DUFFIELD sworn and examined. G. Duffield.

26,971. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

26,972. At what time?—It might be about 10.

26,973. Had you promised your vote?—No; I never promised at all.

26,974. Had you been asked for your vote?—No; I had a circular sent. That is all that I had.

26,975. Did you get anything for your vote?—Not anything. I went and voted myself.

26,976. Are you certain you did not vote later than 10 o'clock?—It might be a few minutes after 10, but I think it could not be but a very few minutes.

26,977. What became of you afterwards?—I went and enjoyed the day by myself. I never was with any party of men in the city.

26,978. Were you in any public-house in the city?—I went to several, but I joined with no party. I drank some porter in one place, and then went to another.

26,979. Had you any beer given to you?—No; I paid for what I had myself.

26,980. Have you ever voted before?—Never

26,981. Was anything offered you?—Never; my principles would not let me take it.

26,982. What are you by trade?—An ironmonger.

26,983. In whose employ?—Messrs. Barnard and Bishop.

26,984. Which way did they vote?—For Stracey; but they gave notice that all their men might vote as they liked.

WILLIAM WARNES sworn and examined. W. Warnes.

26,985. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A tailor.

26,986. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

26,987. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

26,988. What time?—About nine in the morning.

26,989. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

26,990. Or the promise of anything?—No.

26,991. Where did you go after you had voted?—I went out about half an hour and then came home.

26,992. You went to the "Elm" tavern, did you not?—Yes; that is my house. I was home by 10.

26,993. When you got home you found Parnall there?—No.

26,994. Do not you know Robert Parnall?—Yes.

26,995. Did not you see that man that day?—Yes.

26,996. Where?—At my house.

26,997. He had got his voting card with him, had he not?—He brought it in betwixt 7 and 8 in the morning.

26,998. Did he say he could not afford to lose a day's pay?—He said, would I oblige him to go and take his card and vote for Sir Henry Stracey? He was going into the country.

26,999. You voted for him?—No; his vote is not recorded.

27,000. You tried?—No.

27,001. Do you mean to say that you did not go up with Parnall's card to the poll?—I left it on my mantelpiece.

27,002. Do you mean to say that you did not go up to the poll and try to vote for Parnall?—I don't remember it.

27,003. This is not the sort of thing that you could forget?—Well, I don't remember it.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) We shall be obliged to take extreme measures if you do not mind.

(Mr. Biron.) I will put the question to you once more, and only once.

27,004. Did not you go to the poll and endeavour to vote in Parnall's name?—I took his card, but they would not take it, and they said it was not lawful.

27,005. You did go and endeavour to vote for Parnall?—I thought I could vote for a dozen. I never had a vote at a general election. I thought one man could answer for a dozen.

27,006. Did you go and endeavour to vote for Parnall?—Yes, after I had voted myself.

27,007. Why could you not have told me that before?—His vote was not recorded.

27,008. Did you, after having endeavoured to vote for Parnall, go back to Catton?—Yes.

27,009. What time was it when you got back?—Somewhere about 10.

27,010. What did you do from 10 to 1 or thereabouts?—Waited on my customers.

27,011. At half-past 1 did young Mr. Stracey come in?—No.

27,012. You know young Mr. Stracey?—I have seen him. He passes my door almost every morning.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

W. Warnes.

4 Oct. 1869.

27,013. Do you mean to tell me that at abour half-past 1, or from that to 2 o'clock, Mr. Stracey did not come to your house?—Certainly not.

27,014. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did he come to the door?—No.

27,015. (Mr. Biron.) Did he call you out?—No.

27,016. Did you see him at that time?—No. I am speaking the truth.

27,017. Was a man of the name of Foster in your house at that time, a man whom you call "Brushey"?—No, I believe not.

27,018. Is that all you can say?—My house was very full that day, and I cannot distinctly answer the truth about everybody in my house.

27,019. Were you bargaining with him about a mat?—No. I know the man you mean.

27,020. You are not going to say that you did not see him?—I might see him in the house that day, out and in as a customer, but not bargaining for any mats.

27,021. Was a man of the name of Quantrill in your house that day, a boot finisher?—No.

27,022. Are you clear about that?—Yes.

27,023. Or Robert Pointer, a boot finisher?—I don't know the man to the best of my knowledge.

27,024. Was any man there dressed in a grey tweed suit with one of those deer-stalking hats?—No.

27,025. No man dressed in that style, a gentleman?—No.

27,026. Did any man give 30*s.* apiece to two men?—In my house?

27,027. In your house and in your presence?—No.

27,028. Do you remember a man of the name of Maris?—Yes.

27,029. Did he come to your door with a horse and cart?—No; he did not come in it. He sent for it after he came there.

27,030. He sent for it to come to your house?—No; he told a man, "If you go and tell Charley" (that is his name) "to put my horse in the cart, I will "give you a pint of beer."

27,031. Did not he take some voters up to the poll that day?—No.

27,032. Was any beer going at your house on that day?—Only what was paid for.

27,033. Paid for by whom?—By the individuals that called for it.

27,034. Was there no money left at your house to give voters beer?—Not a penny; nor yet beer.

27,035. Was there no treating going on in your house?—No, not one pint.

27,036. Did you take any people to the poll that day?—Yes.

27,037. Whom did you take up?—A man of the name of Bolingbroke; and he voted for Sir William Russell.

27,038. What did you give him for voting?—Not a glass of beer.

27,039. What is he?—I believe he is a tailor, and lives in St. James'.

27,040. Did you take a lame man up to the poll?—No.

27,041. Whom else did you poll besides this man?—Not one. I would as lief tell you a dozen as one.

27,042. Do you know Blyth, of the "Cross Keys," Magdalen Street?—Yes.

27,043. Did he come to your house with a gentleman in the afternoon?—In the afternoon I was out from half past 1 to 4, so I am not able to say. Young Blyth came with Mr. Maris somewhere about 10 minutes to 1.

27,044. You mean to say you gave no money nor yet any beer to any voter that day?—Not any.

27,045. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you know David Cubitt?—Yes, I know a man they call David Cubitt, or Mr. Woodrow's lapdog, as he said the other day.

27,046. And you also know Mr. Woodrow?—I did not know his name was Woodrow till I saw him last Saturday month giving his evidence. I did not know him before.

27,047. Do you recollect seeing Cubitt in Magdalen Street on the day of the election?—Yes.

27,048. Did you tell him that you heard there was money afloat?—No.

27,049. Did you say anything to Cubitt about money?—When I pulled up the cart at Mr. Rizen Mollett's, David Cubitt got on. I did not know what for.

27,050. Had you then some talk about money?—No, not any.

27,051. Did you go to the "Swan" committee room?—Not at that time.

27,052. Did you go to the "Swan" committee room that day?—Yes.

27,053. What time of the day was it?—Getting towards 3 in the afternoon.

27,054. Did you see Mr. Woodrow there?—Yes.

27,055. How came you to go and see Mr. Woodrow there?—Because I had a friendly feeling towards Sir Henry Stracey.

27,056. You said you did not know Mr. Woodrow?—I did not know his name was Woodrow till the Saturday I heard him giving his evidence.

27,057. How did you know he had a friendly feeling towards Sir Henry Stracey if you knew nothing of the man?—I did not know he had. I knew I had.

27,058. How came you to pick up Woodrow, whom you knew nothing about?—I went to the "Swan" hotel to hear the state of the poll. I thought I could get it more correct there than anywhere else.

27,059. Did you speak to Woodrow?—Yes.

27,060. What did you say?—He asked me how things were getting on.

27,061. How came he to ask you, who were going there to ascertain the state of the poll, how things were going on?—He did.

27,062. Did you not go in there and speak to Mr. Chittock first?—No.

27,063. Did you speak to Mr. Chittock at all?—No, I did not see him.

27,064. Had you been doing anything that you should be asked how you were getting on?—I thought it was the likeliest place to ascertain.

27,065. What did you say to him?—I told him I thought there was a few friends (voters) down to my mother's. I had been there, and he could come with me, if he thought proper, and see what he could do with them.

27,066. Had you heard that there were persons down at your mother's who wanted money?—I had called previous to that.

27,067. How long previous?—I should say about half an hour.

27,068. Did you say that to him simply in consequence of his asking you how you were getting on?—I told him there was people there.

27,069. How came you to say that "There was a lot of people at my mother's wanting money?"—I did not use those words.

27,070. You heard that they wanted money?—I thought they were likely to want money.

27,071. Did you not know that they did?—I had not been asking them.

27,072. You thought they were persons that looked like it?—Yes.

27,073. Then how came you to blurt out that there were a lot of persons that you thought wanted money down at your mother's house?—You have asked me for the truth and I have spoken it.

27,074. How came you to do that?—I thought perhaps he could come down and speak, and make some impression on the men's minds.

27,075. Did you think a person of that kind was likely, by merely going down and speaking, to make an impression upon people who wanted money?—I went in to try.

27,076. Did not you go in to try and get somebody to come and treat or pay the voters?—If he thought fit.

27,077. Did you also tell him there was some at your own house?—Yes.

27,078. I suppose that was the truth?—That was the truth.

27,079. Did he go with you?—Yes.

27,080. Do you recollect his going anywhere to make an inquiry whether it was safe to go with you?—No.

27,081. He went at once with you?—Yes.

27,082. Did Cubitt join you?—Cubitt was against the "Swan" hotel gate.

27,083. Did Cubitt and you go away down to your house?—Yes, down to my mother's.

27,084. Did you go to your mother's first?—Yes.

27,085. What did you do down at your mother's?—My mother stood outside on the threshold of the door, and said, "They are all gone, your father and all, to vote for Sir Henry Stracey."

27,086. Did not you get half a crown to give to your mother?—I gave her half a crown.

27,087. Did not you get it?—No.

27,088. Did Mr. Woodrow give you half a crown?—Yes.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you not understand what I meant by the word "get?" Go down; I will examine you again this afternoon.

JOSEPH LAFFIN NOCKALL sworn and examined. J. L. Nockall.

27,089. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—I did.

27,090. What time of the day?—About 3. I am not quite certain.

27,091. How came you to be so late?—Because I was engaged all day, and had not an opportunity to go and vote.

27,092. What are you by business?—An attorney's clerk.

27,093. Did you get anything for your vote?—Oh, no.

27,094. Or the promise of anything?—Oh, certainly not. If I had I should not have taken it.

27,095. Had you anything to do, directly or indirectly with getting up voters at this election?—No.

GEORGE PARNELL sworn and examined. G. Parnell.

27,096. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Tillett and Russell.

27,097. What time of the day?—About 9 o'clock in the morning.

27,098. Had you promised your vote to anyone?—Only to Tillett and Russell.

27,099. Who had canvassed you?—Mr. Claxton.

27,100. Are you a member of the organisation?—Yes.

27,101. You always meant to vote for Tillett and Russell, did you?—Yes.

27,102. Did you get anything for your vote?—Nothing at all.

27,103. Have you had nothing since?—No.

27,104. Were you treated at all with beer that day?—Nothing at all.

27,105. Had you any inducement to make you vote?—No.

DANIEL STIGLES sworn and examined. D. Stigles.

27,106. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A hair dresser and herbalist.

27,107. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

27,108. For whom?—Russell and Stracey.

27,109. What time in the day?—About half-past 2.

27,110. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

27,111. Or the promise of anything?—Nothing.

27,112. Had you ever voted before?—Not at a general election.

27,113. Where were you all the day of the election?—At my own shop.

27,114. Were not you at the "Jolly Dyers" public-house?—No.

27,115. Not at all?—No; I never entered the door during the day, nor for several days previously.

27,116. You are clear about that?—Perfectly.

GEORGE BRYANT sworn and examined. G. Bryant.

27,117. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

27,118. What time in the day?—4 o'clock; at least 10 minutes before 4.

27,119. Where were you all the morning?—At work.

27,120. For whom?—The Gas Company.

27,121. Are you in the employment of the Gas Company?—Yes.

27,122. Could not you get away before?—I could get away before, but I did not leave my work.

27,123. Who asked you for your vote?—No one.

27,124. Do you mean to say you went and voted without being asked to give a vote at all?—Yes; I went up of myself, walked up and gave it, and came back to my work again.

27,125. Did nobody come to you that day for your vote?—No, not where I was.

27,126. Did you get anything for your vote?—No, nothing.

27,127. Nor the promise of anything?—No.

27,128. Did nobody treat you that evening?—No.

27,129. (Mr. Mansfield.) Most men at the gasworks voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—A great many of them.

27,130. Was there nobody at the works who canvassed the men for Sir Henry Stracey?—I never see nobody while I was there.

27,131. Did none of the managers ask them to vote?—No.

WILLIAM HENRY NEWMAN sworn and examined. W. H. Newman.

27,132. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

27,133. At what time?—About a quarter past 11.

27,134. Who asked you to vote?—No one.

27,135. Did you tell anyone you were going to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—No.

27,136. What are you by trade?—A tailor.

27,137. Were you at the "Jolly Dyers"?—In Fishergate Street?

27,138. Yes.—I was.

27,139. Did you get some beer?—Yes.

27,140. Who paid for it?—No one paid for it; it was out of my own pocket.

27,141. Did anybody offer you beer?—No.

27,142. Were any people there receiving beer?—I am quite certain I did not. There were some people.

27,143. How many were there?—I could not say. I merely got in with my working clothes on, and had a glass of ale.

27,144. Did you find any of your friends there?—No.

27,145. Did not you know a soul in the place?—Only the landlord.

27,146. Did not he give you some beer?—No.

27,147. Has anything been promised you?—No.

27,148. You got nothing for your day's work?—No.

27,149. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Was not it arranged that there should be a jollification afterwards, if Sir Henry Stracey got returned?—I am not aware of it if there was.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY

4 Oct. 1869.

Henry Manclarke sworn and examined.

H. Manclarke.

27,150. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A publican.

27,151. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

27,152, For whom?—Mr. Stracey.

27,153. What time of the day?—About 3 o'clock. I and my son voted together.

27,154. What did you get for voting?—Nothing at all; not a penny, neither direct or indirect.

27,155. Were there men at your house that day drinking?—I don't know how many there was there, because I was in and out all day. There were several in and out no doubt in a public-house.

27,156. What is the sign of your public-house?—The "Black Boy."

27,157. Did not your son take up a lot of men?—No, he and I went up together, and voted together at 3 o'clock.

27,158. Did not you take up a lot of men with you?—No.

27,159. Did not some men go out of your house to vote at the same time?—No.

27,160. Was there anybody in your house after the voters, or after the men there?—I was at home so little, I was out almost all the day.

27,161. Who was managing your business?—My wife. She usually draws the beer.

27,162. You tell me you got nothing directly or indirectly for your vote?—Not anything; not a penny.

Charles Hare sworn and examined.

C. Hare.

27,163. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

27,164. What time in the day?—A quarter to 4.

27,165. How came you to be so late?—I was so busy at work.

27,166. What is your business?—A wholesale upholsterer; and thought I was at liberty to vote what time I thought proper. I had from 8 to 4.

27,167. Had you any inducement whatever to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—None whatever.

27,168. Had you no money, or the promise of money, or custom, or anything of that kind?—No; I was never solicited by either party.

27,169. You were not promised anything?—Not the promise of anything all.

James Aldridge sworn and examined.

J. Aldridge.

27,170. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Tillett and Stracey.

27,171. What time of the day?—From 11 to 12 o'clock. I cannot say to half an hour.

27,172. Which are you, a Whig or a Tory?—I am neither.

27,173. Did you promise your vote to anybody?—No.

27,174. You divided it between the two parties?—Between the two men that I liked best.

27,175. Was anything given to you for your vote?—No.

27,176. Was anything promised to you?—No.

27,177. Were not you at the "Jolly Dyers" that day?—Yes.

27,178. There was a good deal of beer going?—I don't know.

27,179. Did not you get some?—I got some that I paid for.

27,180. Was there a good deal of beer going without being paid for?—I did not see any.

27,181. Did anybody offer you anything?—No.

27,182. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes.

27,183. Have you received anything since for your vote?—No.

27,184. Is this the first time you have voted?—Yes.

James Tate sworn and examined.

J. Tate.

27,185. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A confectioner.

27,186. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

27,187. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

27,188. What time in the day?—Just after dinner.

27,189. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

27,190. Or the promise of anything?—No promise at all.

27,191. Where had you been that morning?—I had been nowhere.

27,192. Had you been at the "Jolly Dyers"?—No.

27,193. Were you at work all the morning till you voted?—I was at work till past 2.

27,194. Then you went and voted?—Yes.

Walter Claxton sworn and examined.

W. Claxton.

27,195. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—I voted for Russell and Tillett.

27,196. Did you get anything for your vote?—I voted early in the morning.

27,197. Were you promised anything for your vote?—No.

27,198. Is your father alive?—No. I have a son, Walter Claxton. He voted at the last election the same as I did. I think, sir, my name is twice down in the register.

27,199. Are you a ginger-beer manufacturer?—Yes.

27,200. Did anybody promise to get you Doughty's hospital?—I have had the promise some time back.

27,201. Who promised you?—I never asked for it.

27,202. You may not have asked for it, but who promised to give it you?—Mr. Tillett promised to give it—not for my vote, I can vouch for that.

27,203. When did Mr. Tillett happen to promise you Doughty's hospital?—It was just before the election.

27,204. After Mr. Tillett had become a candidate?—Well, I think it was.

27,205. Are you receiving any money now?—No; never did in my life.

27,206. Is anything being paid to you weekly?—No; I never had a farthing in my life; never dreamt of it; I am the wrong sort.

27,207. I mean out of the monies of the hospital?—Oh, no! I have not heard anything about it since.

27,208. How came Mr. Tillett to promise you Doughty's hospital?—That I cannot tell; I have got a good many friends who would be glad to see me in. I have been a hard-working man all my life time.

27,209. How came Mr. Tillett to do that?—Mr. Tillett has known me for years.

27,210. Did you ask him to get you Doughty's hospital?—That I did not; that I can swear.

27,211. Did he come and volunteer it?—He did so far as I am concerned.

27,212. How long was it before the election that he promised it you?—It might be a week or a fortnight; I don't know exactly.

27,213. When the canvass was going on?—I don't think he had canvassed at all then.

27,214. You say it was more than a week before the election?—I think it was.

27,215. Do not you know that the canvass was going on very actively for a considerable time before that?—Why, I cannot say.

27,216. Mr. Tillett had been a candidate for months before?—That's all right enough; so he might.

27,217. Did he come round to you?—I was at a meeting when he spoke to me.

27,218. What meeting?—It was a meeting at the "Duke's Palace."

27,219. One of the election meetings?—Yes, it was.

27,220. Being at the election meeting, Mr. Tillett comes up to you and promises you Doughty's hospital?—I will tell you how it was. I was at this meeting and Mr. Tillett had known me a great many years, and seeing me at the meeting he came up to me and asked how I did. I told him I was pretty well, and I thanked him. He said to me, says he, "After the "meeting I want to have a few words with you." "Very well," said I. Of course after the meeting was over, Mr. Tillett, he said, says he, "Come along with me," says he, and he took me a little way, and he said, says he, "Claxton," says he, "I understand," says he, "that you would like to have the hospital?" "Well, sir," says I, "I should feel truly thankful to "have it." "Well," he says to me, "look here," says he, "come down to my office to-morrow morning, and you shall have it."

27,221. That was a political meeting held by Mr. Tillett?—Yes, it was; that's how it was; it was after the meeting.

27,222. Did you go next morning?—I went down next morning, and he told me to go down, it was the quarterly meeting, and I went down to the Boys' hospital where the meeting was, and I was called, but the clerk told me there was no appointment that day. I believe Mr. Tillett, when he told me, had got a note in his pocket to say that he had got a turn for Doughty's hospital, but it was not so. It turned out he had not got a turn.

27,223. He had not a nomination that day?—No; nor has not since.

27,224. Has he promised it you since?—No; I have not been spoken to about it.

37,225. And you have never got it?—I have not got it; that's the truth, and I had no more idea of having the hospital from Mr. Tillett——

27,226. Until Mr. Tillett spoke to you, you had no idea of the hospital?—Not at all.

27,227. Your son has a vote as well as yourself?—Yes; Mr. Tillett had no occasion to ask me for my vote, for I have been a partizan all my lifetime. He did not think of giving me the hospital for my vote.

27,228. I should think Mr. Tillett was not so weak as that?—I don't think he was. Mr. Tillett is a perfect gentleman; that's all I can say about it. They would like to find something against him if they could.

HENRY HARVEY sworn and examined. H. Harvey.

27,229. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

27,230. What time in the day?—Between 1 and 2.

27,231. Who asked you to vote?—Mr. Ellis.

27,232. Did not Pratt take you up to the poll?—No.

27,233. Who did take you up?—I don't know.

27,234. Somebody did take you up?—I went up alone.

27,235. Somebody walked up with you?—No.

27,236. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes.

27,237. Where had you been on the morning of the poll?—I had not been anywhere.

27,238. Had you spoken to anybody about your vote?—No.

27,239. Had you never promised it?—No.

27,240. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

27,241. What are you by trade?—A shoe manufacturer.

27,242. Have you had anything since?—No.

27,243. Is this your first time of voting?—Yes.

27,244. Was anything promised you?—No.

27,245. Has nothing been given you since?—No.

HENRY SKIPPER sworn and examined. H. Skipper.

27,246. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A confectioner.

27,247. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

27,248. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

27,249. What time in the day?—A few minutes after 10.

27,250. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

27,251. Or the promise of anything?—No, not anything.

27,252. Had you been canvassed?—No.

27,253. Not by either side?—No; I fully made up my mind who to vote for.

27,254. And you voted accordingly?—Yes.

RICHARD NURSEY sworn and examined. R. Nursey.

27,255. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

27,256. What time in the day?—I voted about half-past 8 in the morning, before I got my breakfast.

27,257. Do you keep the "Tuns" public-house?—No; No. 12 in St. Giles', a lodging-house.

27,258. Is it called the "Tuns"?—No; that is a niece of mine keeps the "Tuns." His name is Henry Nursey.

27,259. (Mr. Biron.) How long has your niece been a man?—He is a married man, and has been for several years. He has had two wives.

27,260. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) That is your niece?—That is my niece—my nephew I should say.

27,261. What time did you vote?—About half-past 8 in the morning.

27,262. Did you get anything for your vote?—Not a farthing. I did not get a glass of ale.

27,263. Or the promise of anything?—I never got a farthing promised, nor did I ask for it. I voted at different times, and never received a farthing in my life; not from any one.

27,264. Did anybody treat you at the "Tuns"?—Not a soul, I can assure you.

JAMES LUNNIS sworn and examined. J. Lunnis.

27,265. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A clipper.

27,266. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

27,267. At what time?—Between 3 and 4.

27,268. How came you to vote so late?—I did not come into Norwich till late.

27,269. Do you live far off?—I live a mile and a half from the city, at the further extremity.

27,270. Did anybody ask you for your vote?—No.

27,271. Did you get anything for voting?—No, nothing, and no offer of anything; and I should not have taken anything if it had been offered. I am a Conservative in principle, and I should not have taken anything. No one enticed me to vote.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

4 Oct. 1869.

William Bunting sworn and examined.

W. Bunting.

27,272. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A French polisher.

27,273. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

27,274. At what time?—Between 3 and half-past 3.

27,275. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

27,276. Why did you not vote earlier?—Because I had some work that was wanted.

27,277. Where were you during the early part of the day?—I was at work.

27,278. Were you at work at your own place?—Yes.

27,279. Were you working until you went and voted?—Yes, until about a quarter of an hour or 20 minutes before I voted.

27,280. Did you go into any public-houses before you voted?—I went and had a glass of ale in the "Three Kings," but there was no body there.

27,281. Was anything said about money for votes?—There was not a soul there.

27,282. Then you got nothing nor the promise of anything?—No.

Arthur Drake sworn and examined.

A. Drake.

27,283. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

27,284. At what time in the day?—Between 1 and 2 I should think.

27,285. Was it not after 2?—No, it was not after 2.

27,286. Where were you during the early part of the day?—I was taking down the stage in St. Andrew's Hall.

27,287. Are you a carpenter then?—Yes.

27,288. There was plenty of time for you to go and vote, taking down the stage was not such an urgent matter?—No, but when we began it, we stuck to it till we got it all away.

27,289. Why did you not go and vote before?—There was time enough; there was no occasion to go before I thought.

27,290. You cannot tell what went n that morning in your house?—No, there was not ything went on that I am aware of.

27,291. Were you engaged all day at St. Andrew's Hall?—No, I came and voted, and after I had voted I did not go to work any more.

27,292. Where were you after you had voted?—I was in one place and another. I cannot say exactly where.

27,293. Did you go home?—Yes.

27,294. Were there not a number of voters in your house?—There were some there at one time.

27,295. Was there a person named Traxton there?—Not that day I think.

27,296. Was he there the day before?—He was in about a week or so before.

27,297. Did you hear Traxton agree to pay money to voters?—No.

27,298. Or to any man?—No.

27,299. Not that day?—No.

27,300. Are you sure of that?—Yes.

27,301. Nor yet any other day?—Nor yet any other day.

27,302. Was there a good deal of beer drunk in your house that day?—No.

27,303. Was any score run up there?—No.

27,304. Have you made any claim, or has your wife made any claim against anybody for beer supplied that day?—No.

27,305. Have you been paid anything for beer supplied that day?—Mr. Traxton in the Close gave me 2*s.* after the election for beer that was stuck up about a week before the election.

27,306. To whom was that beer supplied?—To several working men's wives.

27,307. What was he giving the beer for?—That I cannot say; there were several women there when he came in one day, and he treated them as far as 2*s.*, and he paid me a week or two after the election.

27,308. Was there a talk about the election at that time?—I was not at home. I cannot say about that.

27,309. Did he not pay for some beer that had been supplied on the day of the election?—I was not there, but I have not heard my wife say that he was in that day.

27,310. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

27,311. Or were you promised anything?—No.

27,312. Were you canvassed for your vote?—I was canvassed by both parties, but I did not promise anyone.

27,313. Had you promised your vote before the day of the election?—I said that if I voted at all I should vote for Sir Henry Stracey; that is what I told Mr. Taylor, my governor.

27,314. (Mr. Mansfield.) Has there been any beer paid for that was supplied at the time of the election?—There was the 2*s.* I have told you of, nothing more.

George Tuttle sworn and examined.

G. Tuttle.

27,315. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

27,316. At what time in the day?—Between 11 and 12 o'clock. I cannot say exactly to a minute.

27,317. Had you promised your vote before?—No.

27,318. Were you asked by anybody for your vote?—I was never asked which way I was going to vote.

27,319. Who took you to the poll?—No one.

27,320. Who did you go up with?—Two or three of us went up together. I did not go to the poll just then. I went round the street before I voted.

27,321. Who were with you then?—My son was one, and a man of the name of Clarke; we walked round the street.

27,322. What public-house were you in?—The "Red Lion," I believe, and had about a pint before I voted; that is the only house I was in the whole day.

27,323. Who gave it to you?—I paid for it.

27,324. Did you get any money for your vote?—No, not a farthing.

27,325. Had you heard of any money going that day?—No, not a farthing.

27,326. Have you had any money given to you since?—No.

27,327. On the day of the election did anybody come to you and say anything to you about your vote?—Not a word.

27,328. Did anybody speak to you about your vote?—No.

27,329. Not in the street?—No.

27,330. Nor yet in the house?—No.

27,331. Did you see David Cubitt that day?—I saw him.

27,332. Did you see Warnes that day?—I do not know the man.

27,333. Did David Cubitt give you any beer?—No; he never spoke to me, and I never spoke to him.

27,334. Do you know Maris?—No, I do not know such a name.

GEORGE TUTTLE, junior, sworn and examined. G. Tuttle, junr.

27,335. (Mr. Biron.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Mr. Stracey.

27,336. At what time in the day did you vote?—Between 11 and 12.

27,337. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

27,338. Or the promise of anything?—No promise.

27,339. Are you married?—Yes.

27,340. Did your wife get anything?—No.

27,341. Were you canvassed?—No.

27,342. Did nobody ask you to vote?—No.

27,343. Not on either side?—No.

27,344. Had you ever voted before?—No.

27,345. How came you to vote this time?—I voted as a ratepayer, paying rates.

27,346. But what made you vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—I have got my own principles.

27,347. You are a Tory, are you?—Yes.

CHARLES DAYNES sworn and examined. C. Daynes.

27,348. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

27,349. At what time?—At half-past 3.

27,350. Where were you all the morning?—I was at work till just before half-past 3.

27,351. At what work?—At Mr. Young's, the builder's.

27,352. Could you not get away from your work?—No.

27,353. What was there so urgent about your business that you did not go to vote?—I did not want to lose my time.

27,354. Did anybody come and ask you to vote?—No, I voted of my own free goodwill.

27,355. You saw nobody about voting that day at all?—No.

27,356. Were you in any public-house that day before you voted?—No, I never had a drop of beer.

27,357. Was anything given to you for voting?—No.

27,358. Or were you promised anything?—Nothing.

GEORGE ANDERSON sworn and examined. G. Anderson.

27,359. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

27,360. Who asked you to vote?—Young Mr. Henry Stracey, the Thursday previous to that.

27,361. Did you promise him?—I did.

27,362. Did he offer you anything?—Not a halfpenny, nor yet a drink of anything. I gave it honest and true.

27,363. Had you ever voted before?—Yes; but not for a member of Parliament.

27,364. Had you known Mr. Stracey before?—Not to speak to him.

27,365. Have you had anything for your vote?—No, nothing.

27,366. Not even a glass of beer?—No, not even a glass of beer.

ROBERT POINTER sworn and examined. R. Pointer.

27,367. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A weaver.

27,368. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

27,369. For whom?—For Mr. Tillett and Mr. Russell.

27,370. At what time in the day?—I do not know exactly what it was o'clock, but it was from 8 to 11; it was between those hours.

27,371. Were you at the "Elm" Tavern in the afternoon after you had voted?—No.

27,372. I mean young Warnes' house?—Not to the best of my knowledge. I do not know; I do not believe I was.

27,373. Do you live in Church Street?—No.

27,374. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

27,375. Or the promise of anything?—No.

JAMES BARKER sworn and examined. J. Barker.

27,376. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

27,377. Where were you all the earlier part of the day?—I was at work.

27,378. For whom were you at work?—Along with Mr. Buttle.

27,379. Could you not get to vote before you did?—No, I could not.

27,380. Why not?—Because the craft wanted to get away, and Mr. Buttle asked me not to vote before he did.

27,381. Did anybody ask you to vote?—Nobody asked me, only Mr. Buttle.

27,382. What did Mr. Buttle say to you?—He asked me how I was going to vote. I said, "I do not know." He said, "You cannot vote till you have finished the work," and he said, "How much do you want?" I said, "I do not know." He said, "I will give you 10*s.* if you will wait and go with me," and I went and voted before ten minutes to 4.

27,383. You got the 10*s.* from Buttle?—Yes.

27,384. What Buttle is that?—Richard Buttle, the coal merchant on the quay side.

27,385. Was there anybody else that he asked to vote besides yourself?—No, not in my presence.

27,386. Did you hear of his asking anybody else to vote?—No.

27,387. Did anybody go up with you and Buttle?—No.

ROBERT POINTER sworn and examined. R. Pointer.

27,388. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—I am a milkman, a milk seller.

27,389. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

27,390. At what time in the day?—After I had done my round about 10 or 11 o'clock; I cannot tell exactly the time.

27,391. Were you at Warnes' public-house on the day of the poll?—No.

27,392. Were you at the "Elm" tavern?—No.

27,393. Are you certain of that?—Yes.

27,394. Where were you during the day?—I did not stop at all in the town after I had done my milk round. I went home directly.

27,395. What public-houses were you at that day?—I cannot tell, because I call at so many, both night and morning too.

27,396. Did you stop at any of them besides stopping to deliver your milk?—No.

27,397. Who asked you to vote?—No one did not ask me to vote.

27,398. Did you promise?—I did not promise anybody further than to say I was going to vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

27,399. When did you say that?—When I went to the poll.

27,400. Not before?—No.

27,401. Do you know Warnes?—No.

27,402. Were you in the parlour of the "Elm" tavern that day?—No, I did not go near it.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

R. Pointer.

4 Oct. 1869.

27,403. Did you see William Quantril that day?—No.

27,404. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing; that is just what I should have liked. I should have liked something, but there was nothing for me. I did not ask for anything, and did not receive anything. I gave my vote gratis.

27,405. How much would have contented you?—I did not want anything.

27,406. But you would have been glad to have taken something if it had been offered to you?—Yes, I should have been very glad of an old cow. I had one die the other day.

27,407. Did you get any beer?—No, only what I paid for.

27,408. Would half a sovereign have been accepted by you?—No, I should not have accepted it. I had half a sovereign in my pocket.

27,409. Do you know William Quantril?—No, I do not know him.

27,410. Do you know a man called Smasher Smith?—No.

F. Widdows.

FRANCIS WIDDOWS sworn and examined.

27,411. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am hall keeper for the corporation at the Guildhall.

27,412. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

27,413. At what time in the day?—I do not know whether it was five minutes before 9 or five minutes past.

27,414. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

27,415. Or the promise of anything?—No.

W. Fisher.

WILLIAM FISHER sworn and examined.

27,416. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What are you by business?—A rivetter.

27,417. Did you vote?—I did not vote at all.

27,418. Where were you on the day of the election?—The fore part of the day I was at the sign of the "Prince of Wales," I believe, at the corner of St. James'.

27,419. When did you go to the "Elm" tavern?—I was not there at all. I do not know where it is.

27,420. Do you mean to say that you were not at the "Elm" at all?—No, not at all.

27,421. Is the house at which you were kept by Reuben Cann?—Yes.

27,422. At what time in the morning did you go there?—I should say about 10 o'clock.

27,423. And till what time did you remain there?—Till about half-past 11.

27,424. Did you go in there again?—Yes.

27,425. At what time?—I should say about half-past 12.

27,426. How long did you remain there then?—About an hour and a half as near as I can guess.

27,427. You went out and came in again?—I did.

27,428. At what time did you get back again?—I think about 2 or half-past 2.

27,429. And did you remain there till 4?—No, till five or ten minutes after 3, as near as I can remember.

27,430. Did you go in there again?—No, I went home.

27,431. You had had enough beer by that time, had you not?—Well, what I had I paid for, that is all. I did not mix up with the men in the tap. What I had I had in the bar, and that I paid for.

27,432. Had you a vote?—Yes, that was the first time that I had had a vote.

27,433. Do you know David Cubitt?—No, I do not.

27,434. Did you not see him at Cann's that night?—I do not know him. I saw several of them there that day, but I do not know Cubitt. It is not much that I go out into company, and so I do not know him.

27,435. During the time you were in that house who were there?—Well, I only knew them that went with me, that was Mr. Cann, old Mr. Cann, the father of the landlord, his son, John Cann, and Mr. Nudds, and Mr. Mears, the miller, we all went away together.

27,436. Do you know anybody else who was there?—No.

27,437. There were a considerable number of people in the house, were there not?—I should say there were something like 20 people in the tap room.

27,438. Going in and out?—Yes.

27,439. And drinking?—Well, I never saw them drink only what they paid for.

27,440. Never mind who paid for the drink, they were in fact all drinking?—Yes, they were drinking.

27,441. Did you see a man there paying for beer that was supplied to the men?—No.

27,442. Do you recollect a talk about voting?—No. I was asked several times if I had voted, and I said no, that was all.

27,443. Who was it who asked you whether you had voted or not?—I do not know. I did not know them.

27,444. They were asking you for your vote?—No, they asked me had I voted, and I said no.

27,445. Did nobody come and urge you to vote?—No, no one came and asked me individually to vote.

27,446. Did nobody ask you if you would vote?—No, I do not remember it, not anybody.

27,447. Do you remember anybody saying something about 5*s.*?—There was a man came in, but who he was I am not able to say, and said I could have 5*s.*, and I said no I did not want 5*s.*

27,448. Did he say you could have 5*s.* for your vote?—I do not remember his saying that; he meant that undoubtedly. He said, "You can have 5*s.*," I said, "I have not voted, and I do not want it."

27,449. Did he say where you could get it?—No, he did not say that. I did not pass any more words with him.

27,450. Do you know who the man was?—No, I do not know him.

27,451. Do you know Worledge by sight?—No, I do not.

27,452. There is a man named Maris who keeps a cart, do you know him?—No.

27,453. Was it that man?—No, he came in there.

27,454. Was Maris with the man who offered you the 5*s.*?—No, I think Maris came in alone.

27,455. Did the man who spoke to you about the 5*s.* come in before or after Maris came in?—Before, I think.

27,456. How long before Maris came in did he come in?—Well, I am sure I cannot say how long it was, a little time I believe.

27,457. Do you know Warnes of the "Elm" Tavern?—Yes, I believe I do.

27,458. Was he there?—No, I did not see him there.

27,459. When the 5*s.* was offered to you by this man what did you say?—I told him I did not want it, and should not take it.

27,460. Did you intend then not to vote at all?—Well, I did not trouble myself anything about voting.

27,461. Had you determined not to vote unless you were paid for it?—I believe I did make that remark.

27,462. And well paid for it?—No, I do not remember that.

27,463. What was your price?—I do not know I am sure. I was not offered any price, and I did not ask any price.

27,464. You made up your mind that you would be paid before you voted. You were offered 5*s.*, and you would not take it; now tell us what was your price?—I did not put any price upon it.

27,465. You know you have told us that you would not vote for 5*s.*, how much would have satisfied you, a sovereign?—I did not ask for anything.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

W. Fisher.

4 Oct. 1869.

27,466. What was the amount that you had in your mind at the time ?—I had no mind for anything of the kind. I did not ask anybody for anything.

27,467. If you had been offered a sovereign do you mean to say you would have refused it ?—I do not know that I should.

27,468. You say there were some other people with you, was the 5s, offered to them ?—Not that I am aware of, I was passing through the tap room in fact when this man, whoever he might be, stopped me.

27,469. He asked you whether you had voted ?—Yes, he did.

27,470. And you said no ?—Yes.

27,471. And then he said, "What do you want for "your vote ?"—No.

27,472. Did you tell him that you did not intend to vote or what ?—No, I told that I had not voted, that was all I said.

27,473. And then what did he say ?—He never spoke to me any more.

27,474. You have told us that he spoke to you about 5*s.* ?—Yes, he said, "You can have 5*s.*," and I said, "I do not want it."

27,475. What further passed, because that seems not to be at all consecutive; when you said that you had not voted, what did he say ?—He said I could have 5*s.* I said, "I do not want it," and then I went in, and when I came back the man was gone.

27,476. Did he not say for whom he would give you the 5*s.* to vote ?—No, I did not stay long enough. I had no more to say to him than what I have said to you, not a bit.

27,477. Whereabouts in the house was this said to you ?—In the way from the tap.

27,478. What sort of a man was it ?—A lowish man. I took no particular notice of him, I only saw him as I passed through the room, and when I came back the man was gone.

27,479. Do you mean to say that you can recollect no one else who was at Cann's that day ?—I cannot.

27,480. How came you to go to Cann's ?—I went out with my neighbours, and Mr. Cann's son keeping that house we went to that house.

27,481. Did Mr. Cann's son go with you, then ?—Yes, one of his sons; we are all neighbours, living close to each other, and we all started away together.

27,482. Did you go together to see what you could get for your votes ?—We had not much idea of that.

L. H. Pert.

Leonard Henry Pert sworn and examined.

27,484. At what time ?—About 2 o'clock.

27,485. Did you promise your vote ?—Yes; I did not promise only so far that I promised I should not vote for Mr. Tillett, and they thanked me and went away.

27,486. When was that ?—Two or three days before the election day.

27,487. Did you get anything for voting ?—No. I had been laid up with the rheumatics, and I was in the house all day till I went out to vote.

27,488. Who took you to the poll ?—Three gentlemen came after me.

27,489. What gentlemen were they ?—Mr. Maris, Mr. Love, and Mr. Ellis. One came in at the front and one at the back door, and said, "Old friend, we want you to go and vote." I said, "I cannot come; "you see how I am situated, I cannot walk. I have "not had my boots on for a fortnight." They said, "We will carry you. We have got a cab here;" and so I went with them in the cab and voted.

27,490. What did they give you ?—Nothing.

27,491. What did they offer you ?—Nothing.

27,492. Did you ask for anything ?—No.

27,493. Did they promise you anything ?—No.

27,494. Have you had anything since ?—No.

27,495. Are you quite certain of that ?—Yes, quite certain; I should be sorry to take anything as a bribe in any way.

J. Edwards.

James Edwards sworn and examined.

27,496. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A cooper.

27,497. For whom did you vote at the last election ?—Mr. Stracey.

27,498. At what time in the day ?—About half-past 2.

27,499. Did you get anything for voting ?—No.

27,500. Or the promise of anything ?—No.

27,501. Why did you not vote earlier ?—Because I did not leave my work till past 1.

27,502. Were you at work the whole morning ?—Yes.

27,503. Were you taken up to the poll by anybody ?—Yes.

27,504. By whom ?—Mr. Maris.

26,505. Did not Maris give you anything ?—No.

27,506. Or promise you anything ?—No.

27,507. Are you married ?—Yes.

27,508. Did he give your wife anything ?—No.

27,509. How came you to go up with Maris ?—He called at my place at dinner time, and asked if I had voted; I told him I had not voted, and was going to vote for Sir Henry Stracey after dinner.

27,510. Is Maris a customer of yours ?—I am a customer of Mr. Maris'.

27,511. You are on friendly terms with him ?—Yes.

B. George.

Benjamin George sworn and examined.

27,512. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

27,513. For whom ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

27,514. At what time in the day ?—Between 2 and 3 as near as I can guess.

27,515. What is your business ?—A shoemaker; a cordwainer.

27,516. Why did you not vote earlier ?—It is a man's option to vote when he likes.

27,517. Quite so. Were you looking out for what you could get ?—No, I never looked out for nothing.

27,518. Though you did not look for it, did you get it ?—No, I do not require it.

27,519. Was nothing offered to you ?—No.

27,520. Who came and fetched you up to the poll ?—Nobody.

27,521. Did anybody come and ask you to come and vote ?—No.

27,522. Did anybody come to your house that day ?—No.

27,523. What public-house were you at on that day ?—The "Tiger," in St. Edmunds, is the only house I use.

27,524. Were you at that public-house that day ?—Yes, at some time during the day.

27,525. At what time in the day ?—I suppose between 2 and 3 in the afternoon.

27,526. Before you voted ?—After I voted.

27,527. Did you not go there before you voted ?—Yes, I might.

27,528. Did you ?—I might go there.

27,529. I know it is posssible you might, but that is no answer to my question. Did you go there ?—I am not confident whether I did go there.

27,530. Do you believe you went there before you voted ?—I might have went and got a glass of ale; I generally do go of a morning; perhaps I go at six in the morning and get a glass of ale.

27,531. You must answer the question.—I was in the house during the day.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

B. George.

4 Oct. 1869.

27,532. Were you not there before you voted?—Yes, I have not the least doubt but what I was; but I am not confident whether I was or no.

27,533. Why did you not tell me so before? Is there anything about which you are ashamed of being there?—Not a bit in the world.

27,534. Was anything offered to you?—No.

27,535. Was there any talk about voting in the house?—No.

27,536. Was there any treating going on in the house?—No, I do not believe there were above three or four persons in the house during the day.

27,537. Did anybody offer you any beer?—No, all the beer I had I paid for; and that was very little.

27,538. Do you mean to say you got nothing for your vote, and were not promised anything?—No, I never was offered anything.

27,539. Neither money nor beer?—No, I never saw the sign of anything of the kind.

J. Edwards.

JOSIAH EDWARDS sworn and examined.

27,540. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Tillett and Russell.

27,541. At what time in the day?—Just after 9.

27,542. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

27,543. Was anything promised you?—No.

27,544. Was any money offered you to vote for the other side?—No.

27,545. Were you canvassed to vote for Stracey?—Yes.

27,546. By whom?—Young Mr. Stracey, and someone else whose name I do not know.

27,547. Did they offer you any money?—No.

27,548. Did they tell you where you could get some beer?—No.

27,549. Did you tell them you meant to vote for Tillett and Russell?—Yes.

27,550. No offer was made to you?—No, no offer at all.

27,551. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Have you not said that something was offered to you?—No.

27,552. Are you sure about that?—I am quite sure of that.

27,553. Have you been chatting in a public-house, and saying you might have had something?—No.

27,554. (Mr. Mansfield.) Were you one of the organisation?—Yes.

H. Baker.

HENRY BAKER sworn and examined.

27,555. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A clicker.

27,556. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

27,557. For whom?—For Stracey.

27,558. At what time in the day?—About 2 o'clock.

27,559. Did you get anything for voting?—Certainly not.

27,560. Or the promise of anything?—No, certainly not; I should scorn the idea.

27,561. What were you doing the early part of the morning?—I was at work.

27,562. Until your dinner hour?—Yes.

27,563. And you voted at your dinner hour?—Yes.

27,564. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You did not go to the "Horse Shoes" that morning?—No, certainly not. I was at work all the forenoon.

J. Gurney.

JOSEPH GURNEY sworn and examined.

27,565. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Mr. Tillett and Russell.

27,566. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

27,567. Were you promised anything?—I was, by a man of the name of Pratt.

27,568. Is he the landlord of the "Prince of Denmark" public-house?—Yes.

27,569. What did he promise you?—A crown.

27,570. For what?—To vote for Mr. Stracey.

27,571. At what time in the day did he promise you that?—Between 2 and 3.

27,572. Did you say that you would vote for him?—No, I did not.

27,573. Were there any other men there besides yourself when that offer was made?—No.

27,574. Were you alone there?—My wife was with me.

27,575. Does she recollect it?—Yes.

27,576. Were there no other men in the house at that time?—That was in the public street,

27,577. How came it to happen?—I was going down to the city, and he asked me if I had voted, and I said I had not.

27,578. Did you know him before?—Yes, I know the man.

27,579. He asked you whether you had voted?—Yes; I said I had not. I was going down, and he told me to jump up, and he would get a crown if I would vote.

27,580. Did he say for whom?—For Stracey.

27,581. What did you say?—I said No, I should not.

27,582. (Mr. Biron.) Was he driving?—Yes, in a van.

27,583. Was he alone?—No, there were two other men in the van with him, but I do not know these other men.

27,584. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were they going up to the poll?—I cannot tell where they was going to; it was near the "Cat and Angel" where I see them; they drove off for the city.

S. Dunn.

SAMUEL DUNN sworn and examined.

27,585. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A master hairdresser.

27,586. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

27,587. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

27,588. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

27,589. Did you get anything for voting?—No, nothing.

27,590. Or the promise of anything?—Nor the promise of anything.

27,591. Why did you not vote earlier?—I went up at half-past 10 to vote, but it was so crowded round the poll that I could not get near, and I could not wait as I was obliged to attend to my business. I have plenty of business, and I am losing customers now by being here.

S. Chaplin.

SAMUEL CHAPLIN sworn and examined.

27,592. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

27,593. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

27,594. Have you voted before?—I have.

27,595. Which side?—Do you mean for the municipal election?

27,596. No, I am speaking now of an election for members of Parliament?—I never did vote for a member of Parliament before.

27,597. What time in the day did you vote?—I should say about 20 minutes to 3.

27,598. How came you not to vote earlier than that?—Because I was busy at work.

27,599. What is your business?—My business is making sweets, and travelling in the country with them.

27,600. That would enable you to get about anywhere you liked pretty well, would it not?—If I thought proper. I was not solicited for my vote by no one.

27,601. Were you not asked for your vote?—No, by no one.

27,602. Did nobody come and ask you?—Nobody came and asked me. I went of my own free good will.

27,603. Did nobody speak to you in the street about voting?—No.

27,604. Did nobody come and tell you you could have a little money for it?—No.

27,605. Did you vote without any offer?—I voted of my own free good will.

27,606. Did anybody offer you anything?—No; I never spoke to anybody, and nobody see me vote only the gentlemen at the books.

27,607. You got nothing for your vote?—No; and did not want.

27,608. Although you did not want it, did you get anything?—Nobody gave me anything, and I did not ask anybody for anything; nobody knew I voted but myself.

WILLIAM CHAPLIN sworn and examined. W. Chaplin.

27,609. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Stracey.

27,610. At what time in the day?—About half-past 2.

27,611. Who took you up?—Mr. Maris.

27,612. What did you get?—Nothing.

27,613. Did he offer you anything?—No.

27,614. Did you get any beer for it?—No.

27,615. Where did he take you up from?—Wright's.

27,616. Is that a beerhouse?—Yes.

27,617. There was beer going there for the voters?—No; I did not see any.

27,618. Did you not get any of it yourself?—No.

27,619. Are you quite certain?—Yes.

27,620. Have you had any money since for your vote?—No.

27,621. Where is Wright's beerhouse?—Catton Old Road.

27,622. A good many voters were there, were there not?—Five or six.

27,623. Were others taken up as well as yourself from Wright's beerhouse?—Yes.

27,624. Do you know that they were being treated?—Not that I see.

27,625. Did you not hear treating was going on there?—No.

27,626. Did you not hear of treating going on anywhere there?—No; I never see any. I never left my work till 2 o'clock.

27,627. Did you try to get any beer yourself?—No.

27,628. Did you not ask if any was going anywhere?—No.

27,629. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you mean to say you got taken up by Maris and got no beer?—Yes; I saw the others going, and I asked them to wait for me.

WILLIAM TANN sworn and examined. W. Tann.

27,630. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A bricklayer.

27,631. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

27,632. For whom?—Stracey and Tillett.

27,633. At what time in the day?—I should think about half-past 2, as near as I can recollect.

27,634. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

27,635. Why did you not vote sooner?—I had not an opportunity.

27,636. What were you doing?—I was at work in my malt-house and could not get away before.

27,637. You got nothing for voting?—No.

27,638. Nor the promise of anything?—No; not anything.

GEORGE JAMES WOOD sworn and examined. G. J. Wood.

27,639. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A leather seller.

27,640. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

27,641. For whom?—For Stracey.

27,642. At what time in the day?—I cannot say for a few minutes, but I should think nearly 2 o'clock.

27,643. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

27,644. Or the promise of anything?—Not anything; not even a glass of ale.

WILLIAM HOUGHTON recalled and further examined. W. Houghton.

27,645. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You are sworn.—Yes; I was sworn the day I was here.

27,646. That oath is binding upon you now. Do you recollect, just before you were examined here, being in company with Mackley as you were coming up?—Yes; quite well.

27,647. Did any conversation take place between you and Mackley?—Yes.

27,648. What was it?—He wanted us to go to Mr. Hulme and get a sovereign each off of him to swear as Mr. Hulme swore the day before.

27,649. He wanted you to go to Mr. Hulme?—Yes; I and my brother.

27,650. To get a sovereign from Mr. Hulme to swear what Mr. Hulme had sworn the day before?—Yes.

27,651. And that was that he had given you 5*l.*?—He never gave me no 5*l.*

27,652. But it was to swear that you had received 5*l.* of Mr. Hulme?—Yes; that I had received 5*l.* of Mr. Hulme, which I never did.

27,653. What did you say?—I said no; I was not going to be guilty of no such dirty action. That is what I told him.

27,654. Was your brother present at the same time?—Yes; he was.

27,655. Did Mackley say what he was going to say?—Mackley said he should go and get some off of him, and so he did; there was no mistake about that, because I saw him go into the shop, and I walked on here.

27,656. Did you see him afterwards?—Yes; I saw him afterwards.

27,657. Did he say anything to you then?—No.

27,658. Did you ask him anything about it?—No.

27,659. Nothing occurred between you and him about that?—No.

27,660. Before that had Mackley said anything to you about what he had received from Hulme?—Yes; he said he had taken 5*l.* and a few shillings of him. That is what he told me.

27,661. Have you stated all the money you have received from Hulme?—Yes; I received 2*l.* from him altogether; 2*l.*, and when the election was over I had 5*s.* from him.

27,662-3. (Mr. Biron.) You have told us that before.—Yes, I did tell you, and I did not come up here to tell you a lie first of all.

We have had an opportunity of ascertaining a great deal about the correctness of your statement. We know that the money was applied as you said it was in the first instance.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

J. Houghton.

4 Oct. 1869.

JOHN HOUGHTON recalled and further examined.

27,664. (Mr. Mansfield.) You were sworn when you were here before.—Yes.

27,665. That oath is still binding upon you with regard to the evidence you are about to give. Were you present with your brother and Mackley at the time you were going to give your evidence, some time back ?—Yes.

27,666. Do you recollect a statement being made to you by Mackley as to what you were to say here ?—Yes.

27,667. Tell me what the statement was.—The statement between us was that I was to go with him to Hulme's shop, and there I should have a quid—a sovereign he meant.

27,668. You were to have that sovereign for what ?—To come up here to say I had 5l., whereas I had only 5s.

27,669. In truth and fact what did you get from Hulme ?—I got the 5s., and never more, nor yet no less. When he represented I had 5l. that is all I had.

27,670. Had you any further conversation with Mackley then?—No, I do not recollect having no further conversation. When he asked me about going to Hulme's shop I said, "No, I do not get my living by that game."

27,671. You know Mackley did go to Hulme's shop ?—I see him go.

27,672. Do you know what he went there for ?—I know nothing, no further than what he represented to me.

27,673. Did Mackley tell you afterwards what he went for ?—No, I never asked him ; I did not like the idea of it.

27,674. Mackley did not tell you what he got from Hulme for that transaction ?—No ; he represented to me that he came out with no money, but before long he had some ; that is all I know about it.

27,675. You were offered 1l. to give a different account of the facts from the true account ?—He said, "Come along with me, and we will get a sovereign," or "a quid," one of those two words ; and he said, "Come along with me," and I said, "No, I am not to be had so." Them were the words as near as I can say them.

27,676. You were to come, in return for that sovereign, and swear before us that Hulme had told the truth ?—Yes, that is how I reckoned it was.

27,677. For that you were to have a sovereign ?—Yes, that was my reckoning of it.

27,678. That was the meaning of the transaction between you and Mackley ?—Yes, that is what I reckoned it at.

27,679. (Mr. Biron.) Did Mackley in your hearing say what it was he got from Hulme ?—Yes.

27,680. What ?—5l., and he gave 10s. to a man who was a tailor ; and then he went to him after that, and he got a few shillings ; altogether it made up 5l. and a few shillings. Mackley told me that in his own house.

27,681. When was that ?—On the morning of our being here.

27,682. Before you came here ?—Yes.

27,683. Did Mackley ever say in your hearing what sum it was he was going to tell us he had got ?—Yes.

27,684. When was that ?—That was on that day—15l.

27,685. Did he say why he was going to tell us he got 15l. ?—He said he should go to Hulme and get something off him, and he wanted me to go to Hulme and get some money to state it.

27,686. Did he give you any reason why he was coming here to tell us he got 15l. when he only got 5l. ?—No, he gave no further reason.

G. Sarsby.

GEORGE SARSBY recalled and further examined.

27,687. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A licensed victualler.

27,688. What house do you keep ?—The "Queen," Opie Street.

27,689. Do you know Mackley ?—Yes, I know both the Mackleys.

27,690. Tom Mackley I mean ?—Yes, I know him.

27,691. Do you know the Houghtons ?—Yes, I know them both to see to.

27,692. Do you know Mr. Hulme the chemist, the chairman of the Eldon club ?—Yes, quite well.

27,693. Has Mackley ever said anything to you about the money he got ?—Not to me.

27,694. In your hearing ?—I heard him mention it to Mr. Hulme one day.

27,695. Where was that ?—In my porter room.

27,696. What did he say ?—I heard him say he gave him only 5l. something, but what the something was I could not understand—meaning some odd shillings ; and Mr. Hulme said, "Never mind, I will be the right side with you, Edwards."

27,697. When was that ?—That was the time the inquiry was going on, previous to the adjournment.

27,698. Was it before we had examined Hulme ?—It was after you had examined Mr. Hulme.

27,699. And before we had examined Mackley ?—I could not exactly swear to that.

27,700. How soon after we had examined Hulme ?—It was just at the time you examined Hulme.

27,701. As I understand you, Hulme and Mackley were talking about what money had been given by Hulme ?—From what I could understand, Mr. Hulme treated Mackley with something to drink, and they were both in conversation together, and that is what I heard.

27,702. Was anything said about the money the Houghtons had got ?—Not at that time at all.

27,703. At any other time ?—Yes, Mr. Hulme mentioned it to me in one instance.

27,704. When ?—I think it was on the same day that John Houghton was examined in the box. He came to my place, and I asked him what he had done with the 40l., which was the first commencement of the conversation ; and he began to whistle when I asked him that, and it passed off for awhile till the coast was clear ; and he called me into the little room and said he had asked John Houghton what he had given him, and he said 5l. I said, "Did he say 5l. or 5s. ?" He said he did not say, but that he had put it down 5l., thinking it must be so.

27,705. Did you say anything upon that ?—I told him he must know his own business best.

27,706. Did he say anything about William Houghton ?—No, William was not mentioned, not in my hearing at all.

27,707. Have you told me everything that Hulme has said ?—Everything that Hulme has said in my hearing concerning himself or Mackley.

27,708. Or the Houghtons ?—Yes, all that I know about it.

27,709. Did you vote last election ?—Yes, I did.

27,710. Did you get anything for voting ?—Not a penny.

27,711. Did you apply to Hulme for any money to get up voters with ?—No.

27,712. Did you apply to anybody for money to get up voters with ?—No.

27,713. Did you get up any voters ?—No.

27,714. Did you pay or promise anybody anything, for voting ?—No, not for voting.

27,715. After they had voted ?—No.

27,716. You say not for voting ; for what ?—Mr. Hulme promised me money, but not to get up voters with.

27,717. What was it for ?—It was one Sunday evening previous to the election Mr. Hulme came to mine, and called me away from the company that was in the house, and told me that Mr. Colman was going to send up his men on the following morning to get the show of hands at the nomination, and he asked me if I could go anywhere and get a lot of people to go and show their hands, to be as high up in the nomination as the opposite party was, and I told him I did not know hardly where to go to, and he mentioned two or three places, Ber Street, the Market Place, and Pockthorpe. I said I had no objection if he would pay me my expenses for so doing, but I said I should not undertake the job without. I explained that I thought I might get a lot by giving them 6*d.* or 1*s.* each. Consequently I went, and it cost me in various sums, though I cannot give you the exact sums, 10*s.* 6*d.*, and I went to several places where there were men that would show their hands, but not under 2*s.* 6*d.* I was not authorised to give any amount further than 1*s.* or 6*d.*, and consequently I did not engage with any, but my expenses were 10*s.*, which I asked Mr. Hulme for, and have on several occasions.

27,718. Has he paid you back again ?—No.

27,719. Do I understand you that this 10*s.* 6*d.* was spent in different sums of shillings and sixpences paid to men to show their hands ?—No, I did not do so, but you cannot get into conversation without spending money.

27,720. You spent the money in making inquiries ?—Yes, and for a cab I had to ride part of the way. I understood from Mr. Hulme that whatever expenses were incurred he would pay me again.

27,721. You went to different public-houses to pump the men and see what they would do it for ?—Yes.

27,722. That is what you mean to convey ?—Yes, and they would not go unless I gave them half a crown each.

27,723. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You could not come up to that price, and therefore you did not get them ?—No, I would not go further than Mr. Hulme authorised me to go.

27,724. Did you go to the nomination ?—I was in the market, but I did not go inside.

27,725. Was anything said about Mr. Stanley ?—I never heard his name mentioned.

WATLING CANN sworn and examined.

W. Cann.

27,726. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election ?—I did.

27,727. For whom ?—For Mr. Stracey.

27,728. At what time in the day ?—The afternoon ; the middle of the afternoon.

27,729. Between 2 and 3, or between 3 and 4 ?—I cannot say to half an hour, but I should think about 3.

27,730. Your son keeps a public-house, does he not ?—Yes.

27,731. You were very active, were you not, in getting up voters for him ?—No.

27,732. Did you not go about and get some people to come to your son's house ?—No ; I am come here to speak the truth you know, and I will do it too.

27,733. Did you go to your son's public-house that day ?—Yes, every day.

27,734. Were there a considerable number of persons there that day ?—Yes.

27,735. Were they drinking there ?—Yes.

27,736. Do you know a man of the name of Gurney ?—No.

27,737. Was he there ?—I do not know him.

27,738. Did you get any men to go to your son's public-house ?—No, my neighbours went with me ; they lived in my parish.

27,739. Were those the only persons that were there ?—Oh, no ; there were several there.

27,740. Who was paying for the drink ?—I paid for what I had myself.

27,741. And did they pay for themselves ?—Yes.

27,742. And did everybody else who had any ?—To the best of my knowledge they did. I know I did.

27,743. Do you know Cubitt's public-house ?—Yes.

27,744. Were you there during the day ?—No.

27,745. What quantity of drink had you ?—I cannot tell you whether it was ale or porter.

27,746. Had you so many pots that you cannot tell ?—I never drank two pots of beer in my life at one sitting. I say that as a gentleman standing here, and I am a gentleman.

27,747. Were you drunk or not ?—I do not understand being drunk.

27,748. Are you sure that you were not drunk on that day ?—I never do get drunk. I was not drunk that day and no other day ; no one can say it of me.

27,749. Did anybody offer you any money ?—No, I never saw any.

27,750. Did anybody offer it to you ?—No.

27,751. Did anybody give you any money ?—No.

27,752. Or promise you any ?—No ; that is the truth. I do not care who says they did ; I say they did not.

27,753. Why did you not vote before ?—That was my own option.

27,754. But why did you not vote before ?—It is very seldom that I do vote till that time.

27,755. Have you voted before ?—Yes, scores of times.

27,756. Which way have you voted before ?—I never change. I am not a weathercock.

27,757. Have you always been a Tory ?—Yes, always a Tory. Mr. Kent, a neighbour of mine, came and asked me for my vote, and I told him, "No, it is of no use coming and asking me ; I am a Tory." He wanted me to go as he did, but I would not.

27,758. Why did you not vote before, you being a Tory ?—I was on the spree then, you know, along with other people. I did not like to leave my sons in a hurry. I was next door to the voting place. I can assure you that I took nothing to drink with no one. If I did I wish I may never move from this place. I do not care who says I did. I am not a man of that principle.

27,759. Did you hear them bargaining about votes in your son's house ?—There was nobody to hear them bargaining with.

27,760. Did you come in and talk about votes at your son's house ?—No.

27,761. Were they not trying in your son's house to get men to vote ?—Who do you mean ?

27,762. The people who were in your son's house ?—They went of their own accord.

27,763. Did you not hear them asked to vote for Sir Henry Stracey ?—No, I did not. I can assure you I never heard anybody ask for a vote ; there might be, but I do not believe there was.

ROBERT PARNELL sworn and examined.

R. Parnell.

27,764. (Mr. Mansfield.) You are a voter, are you not ?—I have not voted.

27,765. Are you a voter ?—Yes.

27,766. You got your card ?—Yes.

27,767. With whom did you leave it ?—With Warnes.

27,768. Were you in the city on the day of the election ?—No.

27,769. Where were you ?—In the country, walking to Wymondham, nine or ten miles out.

27,770. Are you quite certain you were not in the city on the day of the poll ?—Not from half-past 8 or 9 in the morning.

27,771. You did not vote at half-past 8 or 9 in the morning ?—No, I had not time.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

R. Parnell.

4 Oct. 1869.

27,772. You gave your card to Warnes ?—I left it along with Warnes.

27,773. You went to Warnes before you left the city in the morning ?—I went there to leave the card.

27,774. What did you get for it ?—Nothing.

27,775. Why did you leave it with him ?—I told him he might use it. I thought it was legal for him to do so, being the first time I ever had such a thing.

27,776. Did you get anything for it ?—No.

27,777. A glass of beer ?—I had a glass of beer and paid for it.

27,778. Did you get something more ?—No, I did not get nothing, only what I paid for.

27,779. You wanted a day's work ?—No, I did not. I did not ask such a question.

27,780. You would have stopped to vote if you could have got anything for it ?—It would not have answered my purpose to neglect my customers.

27,781. You asked for something ?—No, I did not ask for anything.

27,782. You knew afterwards that your card was used ?—Not that I am aware of.

27,783. You know very well Warnes used it ?—I asked him if he used, and he said, "All right."

27,784. You never had anything for it ?—Not the least thing.

27,785. Had you known Warnes before ?—Yes, I have known him some considerable time; he has dealt with me for pots and glasses for the use of his house.

27,786. Did you ask for any money when you parted with your card ?—No.

27,787. You must have known you were doing wrong ?—No, I was not aware of it at all. I never had such a thing before.

27,788. You are sure you never voted ?—I am sure of it. I was not in the town not till after dark in the evening.

J. Clarke.

JOHN CLARKE sworn and examined.

27,789. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

27,790. For whom ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

27,791. At what time in the day ?—Between 11 and 12. I cannot say exactly.

27,792. Who brought you to the poll ?—I came myself.

27,793. Had you been canvassed that day ?—No.

27,794. Did people come after you ?—No, I had not seen no one.

27,795. What did you get for voting ?—Nothing at all.

27,796. Did you see Warnes at the "Elm" Tavern that day ?—No.

27,797. Or Samuel Ellis ?—No.

27,798. Or Maris ?—No.

27,799. James Carpenter ?—No.

27,800. Taylor ?—No.

27,801. Have you ever voted before ?—No.

27,802. Have you not voted at a municipal election ?—No, I never voted before.

27,803. Did you get the promise of anything for voting ?—No, I never got the promise of anything.

W. Barker.

WILLIAM BARKER sworn and examined.

27,804. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

27,805. At what time ?—Between 2 and 4.

27,806. What is your business ?—A carpenter.

27,807. Why did you not vote before ?—I was busy making a coffin and could not leave till we had finished it.

27,808. Did any one come and ask you to vote ?—Yes, Mr. Kemp asked me whether I would vote, and I told him I would vote for Mr. Tillett. I should give him one.

27,809. For whom did you vote ?—Tillett and Stracey.

27,810. Who else asked you ?—No one else.

27,811. Did you get anything for voting ?—No. I had no one come round to canvass me; only Mr. Kemp asked me.

G. Bugg.

GEORGE BUGG sworn and examined.

27,812. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election ?—Stracey and Russell.

27,813. At what time in the day ?—Between 3 and 4.

27,814. What are you a Whig or a Tory ?—A Whig.

27,815. How came you to vote for Stracey ?—They was the two men I thought best.

27,816. What did you get for it ?—Not anything.

27,817. What did you ask ?—Nothing.

27,818. Were you promised anything ?—No.

27,819. Have you got nothing since ?—No.

27,820. Had you any beer that day that you were treated to ?—No.

27,821. Did you not try to get something ?—No.

27,822. What did you want ?—Not anything.

J. D. Potter.

JONATHAN DAVY POTTER called and examined.

(The witness.) Should I be allowed not to swear upon the book ? I do not believe in the book.

27,823. (Mr. Biron.) What are your religious notions ?—I have none at all. I wish to speak with the greatest respect to you and all the Commission, but I do not believe in swearing on the book. I will tell you the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

27,824. Repeat after me. "I will solemnly and sincerely declare,"——"I solemnly and sincerely swear to tell the whole truth and nothing but the truth."

27,825. You understand this, that the form of oath in which you have sworn is binding upon your conscience ?—Yes.

27,826. And if you tell anything that is untrue after taking that oath you are liable to be prosecuted for perjury ?—I believe it.

27,827. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes, the first and the last time.

27,828. For whom ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

27,829. At what time in the day ?—3 o'clock, as near as I can guess, not much over or under.

27,830. What did you get for doing it ?—One half sovereign, given to me by Mr. James Thomas Furse.

27,831. Where was he when he gave it to you ?—At the "Waggon and Horses," or very near to it, on Tombland.

27,832. Did you see him give any other man money ?—No.

27,833. Did you see him speak to any other man ?—No.

27,834. Did he come up to you and ask you whether you had voted ?—No.

27,835. How was it ?—I was going past there and he asked me if I had voted; and I said No, I had not. He says, "Who are you going to vote for ?" and I said, "Sir Henry Stracey." And I said, "If there is anything to be had I should like to have it." And he said, "I have no authority to give you any money at all; but," he says, "If you will give a plumper for Sir Henry Stracey I will give you half a sovereign when you come back." I went and voted for Sir Henry Stracey, and when I came back he gave me half a sovereign; and that is all I know about the election. That is the truth.

THOMAS TOWELL sworn and examined. T. Towell.

27,836. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

27,837. What time in the day?—About 2.

27,838. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

27,839. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing.

27,840. What did your wife get, if you did not get anything?—I am not aware that she got anything.

27,841. Are you aware that you did?—I am aware that I did not.

27,842. Do you mean to say that you got nothing for your vote?—Nothing.

27,843. Nor your wife?—Nothing.

27,844. Did anybody come to you for your vote?—No.

27,845. Where were you on that day?—At work.

27,846. Where were you at work?—At St. James' factory.

27,847. What public-house were you at?—I was not at a public-house that day.

27,848. None at all?—The one that I had my breakfast at that morning, that is all.

27,849. Where had you your breakfast?—At the "Black Horse," on St. Giles' road.

27,850. What did they say to you at the "Black Horse"?—No one said anything to me there.

27,851. Did they not ask you at the "Black Horse" to vote for Stracey?—No.

27,852. Did they not say that you would get something if you did vote for Stracey?—No.

27,853. Do you mean to swear you did not know there was some money going for those who voted for Stracey?—I did not.

27,854. Did nobody come and ask you afterwards to vote?—No.

27,855. Had you anything promised you the day before?—No.

27,856. Who is your employer?—Mr. Keary.

27,857. Why did you not vote before?—I was engaged till between 1 and 2.

27,858. Engaged how?—At my business.

27,859. You went out for your dinner hour?—Yes, that is when I voted.

27,860. Going to and from your business you could vote?—Yes, I could.

27,861. Why did you not? Was it not that you wanted something for your vote?—I should have been most happy to have got it.

27,862. I thought so. Being happy to get something for your vote, did you not get something?—No, no one ever offered me anything.

27,863. It was the common talk that you ought to have something for your votes?—I never heard it.

JOHN JOHNSON sworn and examined. J. Johnson.

27,864. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

27,865. At what time in the day?—About a quarter to 4.

27,866. What made you so late?—I was at work in the forenoon.

27,867. At what do you work?—I am a tailor.

27,868. Who asked you for your vote?—Not anybody.

27,869. Did you talk to anybody about how you were going to vote?—No.

27,870. Is this the first time you have voted?—Yes.

27,871. Did you ever speak to anybody about your vote?—No.

27,872. What did you get for your vote?—Not anything.

27,873. Who took you to the poll?—Not anybody.

27,874. Did you get any beer that day?—No.

WILLIAM PRATT sworn and examined. W. Pratt.

27,875. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A watch and clock maker.

27,876. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes, I did.

27,877. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

27,878. At what time in the day?—I cannot speak to a few minutes, but it would be about 2 o'clock.

27,879. Did you get anything for voting?—No, not a farthing from anyone, and never asked.

27,880. Who brought you up to the poll?—I am sure I do not know the name. I went in a fly, but I am sure I do not know with who it was.

27,881. From where did they take you?—I went away from the "Elm" tavern.

27,882. Somebody drove up in a carriage, I believe, to take you away?—There was a carriage coming up to the door, and I went with it.

27,883. Was Blyth of the "Keys" with it?—No.

27,884. Young Blyth?—Not that I am aware of.

27,885. There was a gentleman with a carriage, was there not?—There were three or four in the carriage.

27,886. Did one of them come into the tavern and say something to the men there?—There was one of them came in and asked whether we were going to vote.

27,887. How many were there in the tavern?—There were three or four, or four or five.

27,888. Or nine or ten?—Yes, there might be for all I know.

27,889. What did the gentleman say to them?—He asked us to go and vote.

27,890. Did he say he had got some money?—He never offered no money, not there; I never saw any.

27,891. Did he say that he had some money?—No, I never heard him or any one say they had money.

27,892. Did you hear him say anything about money?—Not a word about giving money; I never heard it mentioned.

27,893. Did you hear him say that he had got 30*l.*?—No, I never heard such a word.

27,894. And that if the men there would vote he would give them 10*s.* a piece?—I never heard anyone say anything about 30*l.* or 20*l.*

27,895. What sum was it?—I never heard any sum mentioned, or that anybody had got any money.

27,896. Was nothing said in your hearing about giving the men money?—Not for the election.

27,897. What was said about giving them money?—I heard a man say that he had laid a bet that Sir Henry Stracey was returned, and if Sir Henry Stracey was returned he would not mind standing 10*s.*

27,898. 10*s.* a piece?—Yes, it was only spoken in a jocular manner.

27,899. Was it not a man of the name of Maris who said that?—Yes.

27,900. That was the gentleman who came with the carriage?—That I cannot speak to; I did not go with Maris to vote.

27,901. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) He said he stood to win some money upon it?—Yes.

27,902. (Mr. Biron.) Did not two of the men who were there say, "Give us the 10*s.* now?"—That I cannot say. I am sure I did not say so.

27,903. You heard a man say, "I have got some "money on this election, and I will give you 10*s.* "each if Sir Henry Stracey is returned?"—He said he had laid a wager of 10*l.* that Sir Henry Stracey was returned, and if he was returned he would give us 10*s.* each; but I never saw a farthing and never received one, and never saw anyone else receive anything.

27,904. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) There is no reflection

TWENTY-SECOND DAY

W. Pratt.

upon you. It is a most extraordinary thing to me that men in this city, although they are merely the hearers of a conversation, will not speak to a single word.—When the words were said, I took it the same as many other words spoken in a public-house, merely a joke.

27,905. Many a true word is said in what people think is a jest.—I took it as a joke.

27,906. (Mr. Biron.) Let us know what was said, and we will form our own judgment?—Nothing more was said.

27,907. I ask you whether two of the men did not themselves say, "Give us the 10*s.* now?"—I do not remember those words being spoken. This I know, that in my presence there was not a farthing parted with or a farthing given.

27,908. You have told me that; what I am asking you now is whether two of the men did not say, "Give the money now"?—I do not remember those words.

27,909. Or something to that effect?—I do not remember it.

27,910. Did not Maris say that he would not give it to them until after they had voted?—That might be said, but I do not remember those words, and if I had I would say so.

27,911. Who were the men that were there when this was going on?—At the time of the election I had not been living in that part of the city twelve months, and during that time I was frequently away for a month or five or six weeks on journies, and although I know the man by sight, still I do not know their names no more than order beer, and it is a house that I do not often go in, for this last six or seven weeks I have only been in the house and drank two glasses of ale I know. I know the men by seeing them, but I really do not know their names. I know one or two I see to-day when I was up here, but I do not know their names.

27,912. Was the landlord there?—I saw him, but he was not a minute in the kitchen, he was in and out and about.

27,913. During the time this gentleman was there?—He was not there that I saw.

27,914. Who was there serving?—I saw the landlady, and I think the sister; however, if it was not, some young woman was serving, and also Mrs. Warnes.

27,915. You cannot tell me the names of one of the men?—I really do not know the names, and if I did I would willingly give you the names, but I really do not know them. I have been living in quite a different part, and I have not been in that part quite twelve months, and I do not know the people by name I am sure.

27,916. Did you get any money to give to other people?—No, never a farthing, and never saw a farthing given from one party to the other.

W. Nudds.

William Nudds sworn and examined.

27,917. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

27,918. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

27,919. At what time?—Between 3 and 4.

27,920. How came you to vote so late?—I had to be at business during the day.

27,921. What is your business?—A warehouseman.

27,922. In whose employment are you?—Middleton, Ainsworth, and Company.

27,923. You went out for your dinner?—Yes.

27,924. Why did you not vote in the dinner hour?—I could if I had liked I dare say.

27,925. Were you not standing out for something?—No.

27,926. Did anybody come to you and get you to vote?—No.

27,927. You went up of your own accord?—Yes.

27,928. Did anybody offer you anything?—Not a farthing.

27,929. Did you get anything?—No.

27,930. Or the promise of anything?—Nor yet the promise of anything.

27,931. Had you ever voted before?—No.

W. C. Atkinson.

William Cook Atkinson sworn and examined.

27,932. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at this election?—Mr. Stracey.

27,933. At what time of the day?—About half-past 3.

27,934. What made you vote so late?—I was obliged to keep at my work.

27,935. What are you by trade?—Overlooker at St. James' factory at the time of the election.

27,936. Were you asked by anybody for your vote?—No, not an individual asked me.

27,937. Not before the election?—No.

27,938. Nor yet on the day of the poll?—No.

27,939. With whom did you go to the poll?—I went with Mr. Nudds.

27,940. Did he give you anything for your vote?—No.

27,941. Did anyone give you anything for your vote?—No, I never had a farthing.

27,942. Did you get any beer?—No.

27,943. Have you got anything since?—No.

27,944. Did your wife get anything for your vote?—No.

27,945. You did not get your day's work?—I was paid my day's work; I am a weekly servant.

27,946. You mean you were paid your day's work by your employer?—Yes.

J. Cooper.

John Cooper sworn and examined.

27,948. For whom?—Tillett and Russell.

27,949. Did you go to the "St. Paul's" tavern that day?—Yes, I went past the tavern in St. Paul's Plain. A man of the name of Mollett stood against the door (he is dead since), and he took hold of me by the collar and pulled me in. He said, says he, "Have you voted?" and I said "No," says I, "I "have not yet, and I am only now up." He gave me hold of a glass of ale, and I drank with him, and I stepped in the house about half an hour, and I went into a back room in the house and there saw a gentleman of the name of Hindes, an old gentleman, and Mr. Hindes said to me, "Are you going to vote?" I said, says I, "Yes, by and bye." Says he, "And who "are you going to vote for?" I said, says I, "I do "not know yet; I have not made up my mind just "yet." I came out of that room, and left Mr. Hindes, and the man's wife who keeps the house laid me down half a crown to vote for Stracey, and I says, says I, "No, I shall not do that; I shall vote according to "principle; I see now in which direction things are "going." I turned out of the house directly, and went and voted for Tillett and Russell, and went home. I was not gone above three quarters of an hour altogether, and that is all I know about it.

27,950. Did you see Mollett take other men into the room where Hindes was?—Yes; they were passing the taproom. I see several men go in, but I do not know what they got, nor yet who they were.

27,951. You saw several go in?—I saw several go past me into the room where Mr. Hindes was.

27,952. Did you see any of them get money?—No, I did not. I never see a penny piece paid no other than the halfcrown that was laid down for me, and that I never took. I never see no money paid at all.

HENRY DOWNES sworn and examined.

27,953. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes, I did.

27,954. I do not suppose you got anything for your vote?—No.

27,955. Not were promised anything?—No.

27,956. You were active, were you not, in supporting Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes, I was.

27,957. Do you know Jarvis, the coal merchant?—Yes, quite well.

27,958. He had been very active on the Conservative side at prior elections?—Yes.

27,959. And spent some money?—I do not know.

27,960. Have you not heard that he has been a person distributing money in the seventh ward at prior elections?—No.

27,961. You went into "St. Paul's" tavern on the day of the election?—No.

27,962. Did Jarvis go alone?—I do not know. I did not go into the seventh ward until about half-past 2 in the day.

27,963. Did you not offer some men some money?—No, certainly not.

27,964. Did you give any men any money?—No.

27,965. Did you treat any persons that day?—No.

27,966. Did you confine your attention simply to asking men to go and vote?—Yes.

27,967. Did you take anybody to the poll?—No, I had several promised me.

27,968. You knew money was going?—No, I never heard anything about it till the day after.

27,969. Did you not know that there was to be some money forthcoming?—No, I had not the least idea of it.

27,970. Have you contributed any money towards the expenses of the day?—No.

27,971. Have you been asked to do so?—No.

27,972. You are not one of the persons who guaranteed anything?—No.

27,973. Do you know of any guarantee?—No, I never heard anything of the kind.

27,974. (Mr. Mansfield.) Have you had anything to do with former elections here?—Yes.

27,975. Did you put any money about?—No.

27,976. Nor at any other election?—Years back I might have, perhaps, but not within the last ten or a dozen years.

27,977. Had you nothing whatever to do with Waters' election?—No, no further than asking people to vote, as I did this time.

27,978. Did you have anything to do with the canvassing at Waters' election?—No, I think not. I have not had much time the last seven or eight years, only when I had a spare hour or so I have gone round with other parties and solicited votes, but not upon a regular canvass.

27,979. Before Waters' election you made yourself useful with money?—Yes, some years ago.

27,980. Do you know how much?—It was more particularly in municipal elections.

27,981. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) At parliamentary elections what was the price?—I forget what it was, 2*l.* or 3*l.*

27,982. At which election was that, Lewis and Forlonge?—Yes.

27,983. (Mr. Mansfield.) Was it Schneider's?—I think that must have been the one when Bury and Schneider were turned out.

27,984. You worked for the Bignolds?—No.

27,985. You canvassed for them?—Yes, I have always been a warm supporter of the cause, and have never voted any other way.

27,986. You put about a good deal of Bignold money then?—I think if I recollect rightly it was like 3*l.* or 3*l.* 10*s.*, what I remember of it.

27,987. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Small by degrees and beautifully less. You are coming down to a pint of beer now?—With this election I have had nothing to do.

JOHN HUGHES HULME recalled and further examined.

J. H. Hulme.

(The Secretary.) The shorthand writer will read over to you some evidence given to-day, if you will listen to it.

(The shorthand writer reads the notes of the evidence of William Houghton, John Houghton, and George Sarsby).

27,988. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did Mackley come to you on the morning of the day that he was examined here?—He might come to my shop, but he did not see me, because I came directly the court opened, and I never saw Mackley on that morning.

27,989. He may have come to your shop?—Yes; these men have frequently been in the habit of coming down to my shop, all of them.

27,990. Did you give him any money at any time since the election?—No, I have lent him a shilling now and then; Mackley gets out very often drinking, and I have lent him a shilling now and then.

27,991. Have you lent him a shilling or two since this inquiry began?—Oh yes, within the last fortnight or so perhaps, but he has generally paid me again; I believe he owes me a shilling or two now.

27,992. You have heard the statement respecting you?—Yes.

27,993. Is that true?—No, that is not true.

27,994. Is it false?—I was in his house on the day; it was the second day after Mackley had been examined; of course I felt very grateful to Mackley for saying that he had the 15*l.*

27,995. It is a simple question I have asked you, whether it is true?—No.

27,996. I want to know whether you say it is false?—There is no truth in it.

27,997. It is false then?—It is false.

27,998. Have you done anything with the balance of that money in your hands?—The balance in my hands is very small indeed; I explained to you, if I remember, that I spent 30*l.*; then there was a band 3*l.* and the men to go round with the band, therefore I do not suppose that I have got any balance at all in my hands.

27,999. Did you count it up to see whether you had any balance in you hands?—No, because I had got money of my own at that time in my pocket as well.

28,000. You knew that the money had come from Webster?—I know now, but I did not know it then.

28,001. Have you never taken the trouble to return any portion of it which there might be belonging to Webster?—I think it is all gone; I never took any trouble certainly, because I did not know that it was Webster's until the inquiry commenced.

28,002. But you were present at the inquiry respecting Webster's money, and you heard the whole of the evidence?—Yes, I read it afterwards.

28,003. It is more than a month that you have known of this; have you taken any steps to return any portion of the money to Webster?—No.

28,004. With regard to the money, we have nothing to do, and the only value of the evidence about it is to ascertain to a certain extent your sense of honour, and your tenacity for money; that becomes very important in the inquiry which we have had to go into, whether the Houghtons or you are telling the truth, and I must say that the sense of honesty of a man must be infinitesimally small, and his tenacity for money very great if he would retain a single shilling of that money a single day after he had heard what Mr. Webster had done, and it naturally forms a great ingredient in my judgment, and in the judgment of those gentlemen who are associated with me, and we have come to this conclusion, that the Houghtons have given a true account and you have given a false one. Under those circumstances we shall feel it our duty so to report, and we shall decline to give you any protection whatever.—I am very sorry for that, sir; I came here to tell you the truth, and I advised all the people to tell you the same. I got up no tale with the Houghtons; John Houghton particularly asked me more than once or twice to meet him so that we might agree together what we should say, but I refrained from doing anything of the sort.

JOHN STAMP sworn and examined.

J. Stamp.

28,005. (Mr. Mans field.) For whom did you vote at this election?—I voted for Mr. Stracey.

28,006. What did you get for it?—Not anything.

28,007. Is this the first time you have voted?—I never see a farthing, and never received a farthing, that I take my oath of.

28,008. You had promised before to vote for Tillett?—Yes.

28,009. What made you alter your mind?—Nothing.

28,010. Then having promised to vote for Tillett you went and voted for Stracey?—I had not made no promise; I said I would vote which way I thought proper; I had made no promise to no one.

28,011. Were you at Cann's beerhouse that day?—No, I made no promise to anyone.

28,012. Were you at Cann's beerhouse that day?—No, I was not.

28,013. Had you been asked for your vote?—Yes, a week before.

28,014. By whom?—Young Mr. Stracey asked me.

28,015. Before that had you been asked for your vote?—Yes.

28,016. By whom?—By Tillett's party, and I said I would vote which way I liked.

28,017. Did you get any beer for voting?—Yes.

28,018. Who gave you beer?—I had made no promise that I would vote for him.

28,019. Did you get any beer?—No.

28,020. Were you paid anything afterwards?—No, I never received a farthing, and never took nothing.

WILLIAM WYMER sworn and examined.

W. Wymer.

28,021. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shoemaker.

28,022. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

28,023. For whom?—Mr. Stracey.

28,024. What time in the day?—I think, as near as I can tell, between 12 and 1.

28,025. Later than that, surely?—I cannot recollect; that is as near as I can tell.

28,026. Did you get anything for voting?—Yes.

28,027. How much?—5s.

28,028. Who paid you?—Mr. Hardiment.

28,029. Where?—At Mr. Cartwright's.

28,030. Did you see him pay anyone else?—No.

JAMES CORYDON LEWIS sworn and examined.

J. C. Lewis.

28,031. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you keep the "Red Lion," Bishopgate Street?—I do.

28,032. Do you know Mr. Edward Arthur Tillett?—I cannot say I know the Mr. Tilletts, only by their surnames.

28,033. Do you know young Mr. Tillett?—I know young Mr. Tillett.

28,034. Do you know a person of the name of Isaac Churchyard?—I do.

28,035. Did they come and canvass you on the Friday afternoon before the election?—They were in my house the day before the election.

28,036. But did they come and canvass you on the Friday before the election?—Yes, on the Friday afternoon, I think it was.

28,037. At that time were some of the Conservatives in your house?—They were there about the same time.

28,038. Did they afterwards come again in the evening?—I forget whether they did again on that evening.

28,039. Do you recollect whether they had anything to drink that evening in your house?—I do not remember whether they were there or not that same evening.

28,040. Do you recollect the night before the election their coming again?—I do.

28,041. Did Mr. Tillett say anything to you?—He asked me what I would take to drink.

28,042. What did you say?—I said I would have a glass of brandy and water.

28,043. What did Mr. Tillett do then?—I called my wife in, and he ordered it.

28,044. Did they have a glass too?—Yes, they had a glass of port each.

28,045. Was Churchyard with him?—Yes.

28,046. Did you sit down and begin drinking your brandy and water?—I was sitting down when they came into the room.

28,047. While you were there did Mr. Tillett say anything to you?—He said he hoped I should support his father in the morning.

28,048. What did you say?—I said I never pledged myself to anyone, but I should be there in the morning.

28,049. Who paid for the drink?—Mr. Churchyard did.

28,050. Was Mr. Tillett going to pay?—He put his hand in his pocket as though he were going to pull out his purse, but Mr. Churchyard was foremost with him.

28,051. What did Mr. Churchyard say?—Mr. Churchyard gave my wife a two-shilling piece to pay for what we had, two glasses of port and a glass of brandy and water.

28,052. That is liberal payment. Did you promise to vote?—I did not.

28,053. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

28,054. The brandy and water did not operate upon you then?—Not a bit; it was not enough. The quantity would not do, although the quality was good.

28,055. Did you get anything for your vote?—I did not.

28,056. Or the promise of anything?—I did not.

WILLIAM BURLEIGH sworn and examined.

W. Burleigh.

28,057. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Tillett and Russell.

28,058. What time in the day?—Between 9 and 10.

28,059. Did you get anything for it?—No.

28,060. Did you get any beer?—No, not anything.

28,061. Had you promised your vote?—I had not promised it to anyone, only Mr. Tillett and Mr Russell.

28,062. You had been canvassed then?—Yes.

28,063. By the organisation?—By Mr. Claxton; he asked me to vote for the party, and I did so.

28,064. Have you had anything for it?—No, not anything.

28,065. Did you not get any beer either?—No, not anything at all.

28,066. Were you offered anything?—No.

28,067. By either side?—No, not anything.

28,068. Did you get any beer out of either side?—No, neither side.

ROBERT CLARKE sworn and examined.

28,069. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A cooper.

28,070. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

28,071. For whom?—Mr. Stracey.

28,072. At what time in the day?—A little after 3.

28,073. Did you get anything for doing it?—Nothing.

28,074. What did you get after you had done it?—Nothing.

28,075. Who induced you to go and vote for him?—No one.

28,076. Were you canvassed?—No.

28,077. Did not your wife say you had better go and vote for Stracey?—No.

28,078. Did she get anything?—Not that I am aware of, but I cannot answer for her.

28,079. How came you to vote after 3 o'clock?—Because I had a mind to vote for Mr. Stracey.

28,080. Why did not you vote sooner?—Because I was at work until 2 o'clock.

28,081. Where were you at work?—At Mr. Monsey's, Thorn Lane.

28,082. You went back to work after you had voted?—Yes, I got more by that than I should by voting, I thought.

S. Scarlett.

SAMUEL SCARLETT sworn and examined.

28,083. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What are you?—A shoemaker.

28,084. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

28,085. For whom?—Tillett and Russell.

28,086. What do you know about the last election?—Well, I canvassed the district in which I live for Tillett and Russell, and I formed my own observation as to certain practices.

28,087. What district was that?—Philadelphia Houses and Road, Hellesdon Road, and Drayton Road, which would embrace a number of voters of about 120 or 130.

28,088. Having canvassed them, what do you say?—Do you wish the result of the canvass?

28,089. Yes.—I will give it to you. I do not hold the canvassing books; Mr. Kemp holds them. We canvassed in all 130 electors, 77 promised for Tillett and Russell, seven of that number voted for Stracey, seven did not vote at all. I should say of the seven who promised to vote for Tillett and Russell and voted for Stracey, you have had some up to-day; 33 were doubtful, and would give no promise, but I believe the majority of them during the day voted for Stracey. In that district we found but eight men who avowed themselves Tories; Mr. Kemp can supply you with the names of the Tories.

28,090. Can you give us the names of the seven who promised Tillett and voted for Stracey?—I cannot. I canvassed with Mr. Kemp, and he can supply you with the names of the persons; I can give you some of the names from memory.

28,091. Give us the names of the seven?—I could not do that. One was a man by the name of Stamp, who has just left the witness box; he promised us to vote for Tillett. I called upon him, in company with Mr. Kemp, the night before the election, and he said, Well, he did not think he should vote either way; but I find, from the statement of his wife, that on the day of the election at 1 o'clock he left his home, went to Tom Cubitt's, and had some drink. He says he had no drink. His wife tells me that he had not a penny, but he went to Cubitt's, had some drink, and went with Cubitt and voted at 3 o'clock. That is the statement of his wife. Of course I took note of any of these circumstances as they transpired.

28,092. That is one?—Yes. Then William Barker, a next-door neighbour of mine, has been in this box and stated that he voted for Tillett and Russell, but if you refer to the register you will find that he voted for Tillett only.

28,093. That may be nothing?—And he passed the house of this Cubitt.

28,094. Who were the seven?—One witness who has just left this box, Mr. Nudd, promised for Tillett and voted for Stracey.

28,095. Do you know anything about him?—Quite well, as a neighbour.

28,096. Do you know what time in the day he voted?—3 o'clock.

28,097. Who is the next?—Well, my memory does not serve me; Mr. Kemp can give you the names, but I have not the names.

28,098. Very well, we will ask him; but do you know anything respecting these individuals?—I can only say that the man Fisher, who was up this morning, gave a statement something like this to a friend of mine, who is prepared to give evidence, that he was at certain public-houses during the day, and was during the day offered 5*s*.

28,099. For whom did he vote?—He did not vote, for he made this remark to my friend, "I would not "sell myself for half-a-crown at half-past 3."

J. Stamp.

JOHN STAMP recalled and further examined.

28,100. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Now, were you at Cubitt's public-house on the election day?—Yes, I was.

28,101. What time did you go there?—I went there about 1 o'clock.

28,102. What beer did you get there?—No beer; only what I paid for; I saw no beer stirring.

28,103. How long did you stay there?—Till half-past 3.

28,104. What were you doing all the time?—I was along with some others that I knew, having a glass or two.

28,105. What did you pay for there?—Two or three pints.

28,106. Who took you up to the poll?—A man of the name of Delmark; I had never seen him before.

28,107. Now were you not drinking there the whole time from the time you went to the time you went to the poll?—I was.

28,108. Did you go back afterwards?—Yes.

28,109. How long did you remain afterwards?—About half an hour.

28,110. Did you go back there after the half hour?—No; I went into the house after that time. I got there about half-past 3.

28,011. Who was it talked to you at Cubitt's about voting?—Young Delmark; but I voted Tory.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) You will not be allowed your expenses. I have no doubt whatever that you had beer given to you at Cubitt's.

S. Scarlett.

SAMUEL SCARLETT recalled and further examined.

28,012. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) I do not know that we need trouble you any further, if there is a gentleman who can give us these names.—I would just ask if I may be allowed to make one statement.

28,113. Certainly.—It is with reference to a case which I took some trouble to investigate, and which has not yet been before you; it is the case of Samuel Walpole in South Heigham. He was offered money on the Sunday night before the election.

28,114. How do you know that?—By his own statement, and he will not deny it, I think; he works at Mr. Ford's in St. George's.

28,115. By whom was he offered money?—I cannot say by whom, but I have my impression by whom

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

S. Scarlett.

4 Oct. 1869.

it was offered; it was offered him in the shape of three quids.

28,116. Was he a voter for Stracey?—No, he voted for Tillett and Russell.

28,117. (Mr. Biron.) What is your impression about it?—My impression is that it was Mr. Selfe who offered him money, with some other person with him, that he put to him the question, "Will you vote for one quid," and he says, "No, nor for two." "Well," he said, "I will give you three." "No," he said, "I shall vote for Tillett and Russell."

28,118. Then I must say this, that I think it highly improbable that as much as 3*l.* were ever offered to anybody at this election.—That of course I know nothing about.

J. M. Kemp.

JAMES MATTHEW KEMP sworn and examined.

28,118. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Tillett and Russell.

28,119. You were a canvasser, I believe?—Yes.

28,120. Were you paid for canvassing?—No.

28,121. Did you get up a good many voters?—I got up a great many; I was about for something like a fortnight before the election, night and day. I hold in my possession my canvass books, and I can give you, if you think proper, the result of my canvass and how it turned out, in numbers or names.

28,122. Have you got the names?—Yes, these (producing the same) were the two books given to me by the district committee to canvass that part.

28,123. You had better hand those in?—I will just give you the items as to the quantity I canvassed.

28,124. Can you give us the names of all those persons in your district who promised to vote for Tillett and Russell, and afterwards voted for Stracey?—Certainly I can. In the first place I have 77 promises for Tillett and Russell, and of those seven voted for Stracey.

28,125. I want the names of those seven?—The first one is George Neave.

28,126. What is the number?—I have no number here; I can give you his residence.

28,127. Is this in South Heigham?—No, in Philadelphia.

28,128. We want to get the names?—William Nudds is another, John Stamp is another.

28,129. He promised to vote for Tillett, did he?—Certainly he did. Then there is William Barker, George Bowles, and James Green. Henry Stolworth promised not to vote, and voted for Stracey. Then I have 33 doubtfuls; I don't know how they voted, for I did not attempt to inquire; I only looked out for those who had promised me. I had two voted for Russell, and there were seven Tories on my canvass, men that I believe were conscientiously Tories. That is the result of the two canvass books.

28,130. It does not appear that these seven men gave a distinct promise to vote for Tillett and Russell?—Certainly they did.

28,131. Or did they leave it open?—They left it in no way open; it was a distinct promise that they would support Mr. Tillett.

28,132. And Sir William Russell too?—When I canvassed for one I canvassed for the two.

28,133. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) When did your canvass take place?—Well, it commenced something like a fortnight before the election.

28,134. That was before the coalition?—Some of it was; but at the same time I went round again, and to parties who asked me whether I was for Tillett only I said "I hoped there would be a coalition be-"tween the parties before the time came, and I should "think the men who voted for Tillett would support "the other party in preference to going on the other "side." It was a distinct understanding with me that I should not canvass for one alone.

28,135. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you know of your own knowledge of anybody getting money at this election?—Reports were flying about for the first three or four days until they understood that there was to be a petition to inquire into it, and then everybody was dumb.

28,136. Do you know of any case?—One man on my list wanted the hospital, and distinctly told me so.

28,137. Was that Claxton?—No, his name is Cooper. I said, "I cannot promise you the hospital." He said, "I must have it, I am an old man." There were three or four went to him the day before the election, and he was told what house to go to, and I understood it was Sir Henry Stracey's.

28,138. He wanted to get the hospital from Tillett?—He would not trouble who it was.

28,139. Had Sir Henry Stracey any nominations for the hospital?—I cannot say.

28,140. Mr. Tillett had?—I know nothing about it.

28,141. Was there any other case?—He came and told me the next day that he might have had half-a-crown after they had tried to make him, as far as they could, drunk; but he said he would not go and vote for that.

28,142. Did he tell you by whom he was offered that half crown?—Mr. Ives.

28,143. Who was it gave you that information?—The man himself.

28,144. Where does he live?—He is a deaf man who was in a short time ago.

28,145. Do you know of any other case?—Yes. I was told another thing, if I am supposed to tell what I hear.

28,146. Certainly?—That is all I want to know. I can only give you hearsay. I was talking along with Mr. John Balls, of Catton, and he said that Mr. Cann came to him and asked him whether a pound was any use to change his opinion; he said no. "Is two? No, nor three pound;" and he said, "You won't get that." That was the conversation that took place between him and Mr. Balls.

28,147. Can you tell us of any more cases?—Well, I know of one or two cases, but I believe they have been up here.

28,148. You say that all the cases you know of have already appeared here?—Some of them have; Gurney's to-day has.

28,149. Do you know of any others?—No.

28,150. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did that man promise you (pointing to Nudds)?—Yes.

W. Nudds.

WILLIAM NUDDS recalled and further examined.

28,151. (Mr. Biron.) You promised to vote for Tillett?—Yes.

28,152. And on the day of the polling you voted for Stracey?—Yes.

28,153. What made you break your promise?—I altered my mind; I did not have anything to make me break my promise, I assure you.

28,154. But the night before the election you promised to vote for Tillett?—Yes.

28,155. What occurred on the following day to make you change your mind?—Not anything.

28,156. Where were you all the day?—Some part of the day I was at business, and some part walking about.

28,157. Who did you meet?—I did not meet anyone only two or three neighbours.

28,158. Did you go drinking anywhere?—Well, I went into two or three houses.

28,159. Who did you drink with?—Only my neighbours and friends.

28,160. What houses were you in; was Cubitt's one?—No, I never went into Cubitt's.

28,161. Was Warnes' one?—No.

28,162. Give me the name of one; the "Horse Shoes" or the "Pigeons?"—No, there was one called the "Duke of Sussex," I think.

28,163. Who was standing beer there?—No one stood any for me; I paid for all the beer I had, I can assure you.

28,164. How came you to promise to vote for Tillett, if you did not mean to keep it?—Mr. Kemp came to me some long time before and asked me whether I would vote.

28,165. Why should you promise a man if you did not mean to keep it?—I can assure you I never received anything.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) You were about the city all the day in public-houses, and when a man promises to vote one way and then votes another in the after part of the day, we can form a very good conclusion as to what induced him to do so.

28,166. (Mr. Biron.) What made you promise to vote for Tillett?—Well, Kemp kept bothering me, and I had never voted before.

28,167. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) And who "bothered" you to vote on the other side?—Nobody.

28,168. (Mr. Biron.) What time in the day was it that you voted for Stracey?—Between half-past 3 and 4, as near as I can recollect.

28,169. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) If you promised the day before, why did not you go up and vote in the morning, and why were you wandering all over the city, doing nothing, during the day?—Well, I was going about.

28,170. (Mr. Biron.) What were you going about the city for; why did you not go and vote when you had promised?—I did not receive anything and I was not promised anything, I can assure you.

28,171. Did your wife receive anything?—No.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) Your account of yourself is so extremely unsatisfactory that you will get no expenses allowed; the city cannot be put to the expense of such an unsatisfactory witness as you.

ROBERT SPURGEON sworn and examined. R. Spurgeon.

28,172 (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

28,173. For whom did you vote?—Stracey.

28,174. Had you been asked for your vote?—No.

28,175. Where do you live?—In the Infirmary Road, St. Augustine's Gate.

28,176. Did anyone come to you on the day of the election?—No, I was not at home.

28,177. Where were you?—At work.

28,178. Where is your work?—About in the city.

28,179. What time did you vote?—About 10 minutes past 3, as near as I can tell.

28,180. How came you to vote so late in the day?—Because I did not come home to dinner until a quarter to 3, and called as I went back from dinner.

28,181. Were you at any public-houses that morning?—No, none at all.

28,182. Did nobody come and fetch you up?—No.

28,183. Did you go to any public-houses after?—No, I went to work again directly, and worked until 8 or 9 o'clock at night.

28,184. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

28,185. Or were you promised anything?—No.

28,186. You are sure about that?—Quite sure.

CHARLES JEREMIAH GREEN sworn and examined. C. J. Green.

28,187. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Stracey.

28,188. You were very active in canvassing for him, were you not?—Yes, I was.

28,189. With whom did you canvass?—With several.

28,190. Did you canvass with Cubitt?—No, I canvassed principally with Messrs. Morgan, the brewers.

28,191. Did you canvass with Patteson the brewer?—No.

28,192. Did you canvass with young Mr. Stracey?—No.

28,193. Did you canvass with Mr. Hindes?—No.

28,194. Who did you canvass with besides Morgan, the brewer?—Mr. Watson, the chemist, Mr. Bacon, in King Street, Mr. Love, the painter; in fact there were about a dozen of us perhaps in the party.

28,195. And Mr. Jarvis too?—No.

28,196. Do you know Mr. Jarvis?—Quite well.

28,197. I think you and he had something to do with sending those men to Yarmouth, had you not?—No, I had not.

28,198. Do you know nothing about that?—Nothing whatever.

28,199. During this election did you give away any money yourself?—Not one farthing.

28,200. Did you take anybody up to the poll?—One man only.

28 201. Who was he?—He is a man from the sixth ward, of the name of Rickwood, I think.

28,202. Did you give him any money?—Not a farthing.

28,203. Do you know that some one else gave him money?—No.

28,204. Don't you know that Bacon gave him some money?—I don't think Bacon saw him; it was during the man's dinner hour.

28,205. Have you ever given any money, or promise of money, to any one this election?—Certainly not.

28,206. Did you spend any money yourself upon beer for voters?—Certainly not, not one pint.

28,207. Have you had anything for your services?—No.

28,208. No acknowledgment, as it is called here?—No, nothing of the kind.

28,209. No favour of any sort?—No.

28,210. What are you by trade?—A tobacconist.

28,211. You are a leading man of the party, are you?—I was on the committee of the first ward.

28,212. Was any money going there?—I never saw any.

28,213. Did you subscribe anything for this election?—Not one farthing; I subscribed to assist in paying Sir Henry Stracey's expenses for the petition, but nothing for the election.

28,214. Do you know of any fund of money being raised for carrying on the election?—I never heard of any.

28,215. But don't you know there were a great number of gentlemen who produced sums in different parts of the town; have you no notion where those sums came from?—No.

28,216. Mr. Woodrow was always putting his hand in his pocket?—He is a very kind-hearted man, I believe.

28,217. He was kind hearted to the extent of 12*s.*; do you know where that came from?—No, out of his own purse, I suppose.

28,218. Did you give any money to Inspector Clarke?—No.

28,219. Were you the means of giving money to him?—No.

28,220. Do you know where he got his money?—I cannot say at all.

28,221. Did you hire any people to go about the street?—No, I object to anything of the kind.

HENRY MURRELL sworn and examined. H. Murrell.

28,222. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

28,223. For whom?—Mr. Russell and Mr. Tillett.

28,224. Do you live in Drayton Road?—I do.

28,225. Do they call you "Old Times"?—Yes, and "Timer."

28,226. Did you not go up and vote with Claxton?—No.

28,227. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

28,228. Or the promise of anything?—No, I did not get no promise.

28,229. Did not Green, the plasterer, try and get

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

H. Murrell.

4 Oct. 1869.

you ?—No, I did not see Mr. Green, the plasterer, that day ; I saw his brother.

28,230. Did he offer you anything to vote for Stracey ?—No.

28,231. Did anybody offer you anything to vote for Stracey ?—Oh, yes.

28,232. Who was it ?—Mr. Clarke did.

28,233. What Clarke is that ?—Inspector Clarke.

28,234. What did he offer you ?—He promised me in this way—this was the night before the election—if I voted for Mr. Stracey, if there was anything given he would give me as much as anyone had, that is the words he said to me ; it was up at the Green Hills Gardens where he said that to me.

28,235. Was anybody with you ?—Yes.

28,236. Who ?—Young Thomas Hudson was one.

28,237. Was anybody else with you ?—Mr. Bunn was in the gig curling up his reins at the time when Mr. Clarke whispered to me, and told me that.

28,238. Could Bunn have heard it ?—No.

28,239. Could young Hudson ?—No, but he heard what was said another time.

28,240. What was that ?—Mr. Bunn said to Mr. Clarke, "That old chap have a vote." That was meaning me, and Mr. Clarke called to me and said if there was anything given I should have as much as anyone, so help his God, I should.

28,241. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Who said this ?—Inspector Clarke.

28,242. (Mr. Biron.) Have you heard of Clarke offering any other man anything for voting ?—Oh, yes ; I heard him offer one man.

28,243. Who was that ?—Mr. Bacon.

28,244. Where does he live ?—I think it is Crook's Place.

28,245. Do you know his christian name ?—George Anthony.

28,246. Was this on the day of the election ?—On the day of the election, about half-past 8 in the morning.

28,247. Was anybody present then ?—There was Mr. Clarke, me, and Bacon.

28,248. Anybody else ?—No. I told Mr. Clarke that Mr. Grint was waiting to vote, and he said, "Where is he ?" I said, "He is just gone home" ; but I think he promised Mr. Grmt as well, at least I am sure he did.

28,249. Where does Grint live ?—In Botolph Street.

28,250. Have you heard anything else about Clarke ?—Well, I don't know particularly that I have heard anything else ; if I should recollect anything else I will tell you.

28,251. I am sure you would, but I just ask you that you may brush up your memory ?—Yes, sir, I will ; that is the truth I have told you.

28,252. You voted for Russell and Tillett ?—Yes.

28,253. You know that Clarke wanted people to vote for Stracey ?—Yes.

28,254. How came you to tell Clarke that this man Grint had not voted ?—This was about half-past 8 in the morning. I will tell you how it is. They call me "Timer," as you say ; of course I run, and Mr. Grint run, and Bacon run, and Mr. Clarke's boy run, and so we were all in a string together, and so we had this offer together. I was with Mr. Clarke the night before the election.

28,255. I don't quite understand what you mean ; you voted yourself for Russell and Tillett ?—Yes, I did not intend to vote no other way.

28,256. Having that upon your mind, you meet Clarke in the early part of the morning ?—Yes.

28,257. He has already tried to bribe you for Stracey ?—Yes, I knew well Mr. Grint was going to vote for Stracey, and I was almost sure Bacon was going to vote for Stracey.

28,258. And then you thought you might as well get something for it ?—No, I did not try to get nothing for it, I did not think of such a thing ; I knew these men wanted money because they told me they did.

28,259. Then as I understand you, you being a friend of theirs told Clarke that they had not voted ?—I told him they were wanting to vote. "Well," says he, "tell them to go and vote, and if there be anything given," again says he, "you shall have as much as anyone."

28,260. Then in fact you sent Clarke off to Grint, or you told Clarke that Grint was ready to take money ?—Yes, and he stepped on one side and went to George Arthur Bacon, I was close to him about two yards from him, and I heard what he said to Bacon. Arthur Bacon went to him afterwards and asked him for the money, but Bacon got rid over on the day of the election ; he got knocked down in the market place, therefore he could not go for a day or two afterwards, but when he got a little better he went to Clarke and asked him for it, because Bacon told me this himself, and Clarke said there was nothing given so he would not give him anything. He told me he gave him half a pint of beer and that is all ; that is the truth sir, I assure you, that is what Bacon told me and I don't think the man would deny it, at least he cannot deny it before my face without he tell a lie.

28,261. Did Clarke say whether he had got any money to spend for getting up voters ?—No, I never heard him say that.

H. Metcalf.

HENRY METCALF sworn and examined.

28,262. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade ?—A hotpresser.

28,263. For whom did you vote at this election ?—Stracey.

28,264. What time in the day ?—About 2 minutes past 8 in the morning.

28,265. Had you promised your vote ?—No one called upon me.

28,266. Had you said you were going to vote for Stracey ?—No, certainly not.

28,267. Not to anyone ?—No ; because there was no one called upon me.

28,268. Had you told your friends you were going to vote for Stracey ?—Certainly not.

28,269. Had you ever voted before ?—No.

28,270. Did you get anything for voting ?—No ; I would scorn the action.

28,271. Was any promise made to you ?—Not a bit.

28,272. Were you asked to go to any place to be treated ?—No.

28,273. Did anyone take you up to the poll ?—No ; I took myself there.

28,274. Did you go with anyone ?—No.

28,275. Did you offer money to anyone to go and vote ?—No ; I neither offered, or saw, or took any.

28,276. Did you canvass anybody ?—No.

28,277. Not before the election ?—No.

J. Money.

JAMES MONEY sworn and examined.

28,278. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

28,279. For whom ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

28,280. What time in the day ?—I cannot say what time exactly. It was during the afternoon.

28,281. Where were you in the morning ?—I was at work.

28,282. The whole of the morning ?—I went to work in the morning at 7 o'clock, and worked until the afternoon.

28,283. Then when did you vote, after dinner ?—After dinner.

28,284. Did you get anything for voting ?—No.

28,285. Or the promise of anything ?—No.

28,286. Or anything after you had voted ?—No.

28,287. Do you know anything about anyone else getting anything ?—No, I do not.

WILLIAM WARNES recalled and further examined.

28,288. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You know David Cubitt?—Yes.

28,289. Just give me an account of what money David Cubitt gave to you on the day before, or on the day of the election, or the day after the election?—Not a penny piece.

28,290. He never gave you a single shilling the whole time?—Not a halfpenny or a farthing. The man is no better than a lunatic.

28,291. Did not Cubitt give you money the day before the election?—I never saw him.

28,292. When did you first see him on the day of the election?—About half-past 1, again the Magdalen gates.

28,293. Did you say to him that you had heard that there was money afloat?—Not then.

28,294. When did you say to him that you had heard that there was money afloat?—While he got on my cart.

28,295. Did he get on your cart shortly after you first saw him?—Just about that time.

28,296. Then you told him that you thought there was money afloat?—No, I goes down to my mother's after that.

28,297. But I want to know when it was that you told him you thought there was money afloat?—Not at all.

28,298. I asked you whether you told him you thought there was money afloat, and you said "Not then." Now, what did you mean by that?—I don't think I could tell him that, because I did not know that there was money afloat.

28,299. You must go to gaol.—I beg your pardon, sir, I will speak the truth if you will hear me; I am here and I have kissed the book. Treat me as a gentleman, sir.

28,300. Answer the question.—I am anxious to speak the truth.

28,301. You saw Cubitt, and Cubitt got on to your cart?—Yes.

28,302. Did you not say to Cubitt that you thought there was money afloat?—Not at that time.

28,303. But at any time did you say that to him?—I might, about an hour after.

28,304. What made you think an hour afterwards that there was money afloat?—I thought it was possible that there might be.

28,305. Who was it that gave you any idea that there was money afloat?—No one; only it was an idea of my own.

28,306. What was it that gave you that idea?—I cannot tell; that struck my memory just at the present time.

28,307. But you had no idea whatever when you took Cubitt up that there was money afloat; what gave you the idea an hour afterwards that there was money afloat?—Only my own idea, my own supposition.

28,308. A man does not come to an idea without some cause for it?—I had no proof of it; I did not see any, or hear of any, but I thought it likely.

28,309. What induced you to have the idea that there was money afloat?—Only my own supposition, my own belief; I fancied there was.

28,310. You had no supposition, you say, when you took Cubitt up; what induced you to suppose an hour afterwards that there was money afloat.

28,311. I thought that if I went to the "Swan Hotel" I might ascertain whether there was or not.

28,312. Then you went to the "Swan" for the purpose of ascertaining whether there was money afloat?—Oh yes, sir, I will speak the truth if you will hear me.

28,312*a*. The "Swan Hotel" was where the committee was?—Yes.

28,313. Did you go the "Swan Hotel" for the purpose of ascertaining whether there was money afloat?—That was my idea.

28,314. But did you go there for that purpose, if you did not what did you go there for?—I went there for two or three purposes.

28,315. Was one of them to ascertain whether money was afloat?—Yes.

28,316. Now wishing to know whether money was afloat, to whom did you apply?—Mr. Woodrow.

28,317. Was Mr. Woodrow a person whom you had ever seen before?—Never until that day, to the best of my knowledge.

28,318. What did you say to Mr. Woodrow?—Asked him to go with me; at least he asked me how things were getting on.

28,319. He asked you how things were getting on, and then you asked him to go with you?—Yes.

28,320. What did you say to induce him to go with you?—I said there was voters down at my mother's, and likewise at my own house.

28,321. Did you say how many there were at your own house?—No.

28,322. What did Mr. Woodrow say to that?—"Come along with me;" he put on his hat, and we both went together.

28,323. Did you find Cubitt outside?—Yes.

28,324. Did you go down to your own house?—No.

28,325. Did you not go to your own house at all?—No, I am speaking the truth and David Cubitt did not; I went to my mother's and to my own house afterwards.

28,326. Going to your mother's did Mr. Woodrow give you any money?—No.

28,327. No money at all?—No, nor yet Mr. Cubitt, though he has stated so; if he had I would say it.

28,328. Do you mean to say that neither Woodrow nor Cubitt gave you any money?—Not going down to my mother's.

28,329. I am not speaking of that, but when you were at your mother's did neither Cubitt nor Woodrow give you any money?—Mr. Woodrow gave me half a crown; I undersood you to say it was on the way.

28,330. What did he give you half a crown for?—Because I asked him.

28,331. What did you ask him to give you half a crown for?—Because I had no money of my own.

28,332. To get up voters?—No, they were all gone.

28,333. What did you ask him for that half a crown for?—To give to my mother.

28,334. For what?—Because David Cubitt called for two or three pots of beer about half past 1, and he had not the money to pay for them.

28,335. Cubitt had been treating voters at your mother's house, had not the money to pay, and you wanted the money for that?—As soon as ever I entered the room I told my mother to take the money for the beer, and trust no one that day.

28,336. Did you find that your mother had trusted anybody with beer, and that the money was due to her?—I passed through the passage to my mother's private room, and she told me she had drawn Cubitt two or three pots of beer, and I said go and take the money for it.

28,337. We are speaking, not of what occurred in the morning, but of what passed between you and Mr. Woodrow. For what purpose did you get the half-crown?—To pay my mother for the beer that David Cubitt had not got the money to pay for.

28,338. Had you been down to your mother's before and known that Cubitt was treating people with beer?—Yes, I knew he had left my mother's in debt.

28,339. You knew that Cubitt had been getting beer of your mother that day?—He got beer on false pretences.

28,340. Then it was to pay your mother Cubitt's debt that you got the half-crown, was it?—Cubitt's debt.

28,341. It was not that she might treat voters?—No, because my mother is a poor woman, and I knew he had got the beer and never intended to pay for it.

28,342. It was not given as a present to her, but to pay the debt?—That is how she took it, she did not know the difference; she never saw me ask Mr. Woodrow for it.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

W. Warnes.

4 Oct. 1869.

28,343. Did you not tell her that you had given it to her to pay Cubitt's debt?—No, I did not; I knew she had drawn a pot or two of beer, and it is quite likely she may have forgetten it.

28,344. Do you really mean to tell me that you did not tell your mother what that half crown was for?—No, it was momentarily done; I asked Mr. Woodrow for it, and gave it to my mother like that.

28,345. Did she tell you that those voters who had been drinking the beer had gone up to the poll?—She told me they were all gone to vote, father and all.

28,346. For Sir Henry Stracey?—I understood her for Sir Henry Stracey.

28,347. Did you not get the money from Woodrow to pay for the beer which had been given to Stracey's voters?—It was not given to Stracey's voters.

28,348. But did you not tell that to Mr. Woodrow?—No, I don't remember.

28,349. Did you not tell Mr. Woodrow that you wanted half a crown to give to your mother, because that had been drank by the Stracey voters?—No.

28,350. What did you tell Mr. Woodrow to induce him to give you half a crown?—I asked him for it, and as I asked him for it he gave it to me the next minute; he did not ask me for what purpose I wanted it.

28,351. Did you tell him that there had been Stracey voters drinking there?—No, I told him there was voters at the "Swan," and we came down for the express purpose to see them, but they were gone.

28,352. Did you afterwards go to the "Elm Tavern?"—Yes, to my house.

28,353. Did Mr. Woodrow give you some money there?—Half a sovereign.

28,354. Was that to pay for beer?—Four glasses of ale, or it might be six.

28,355. Was that to pay for beer which had been drunk by the Stracey voters?—No, I returned him three half crowns back again; Mr. Woodrow told you the candid truth about that.

28,356. Do you mean to say that half a crown was all he gave you?—That is all; I am on my oath, and I guarantee that Mr. Cubitt, if he has his senses, will not say different, but he is more fit for a lunatic asylum. I heard Mr. Woodrow's examination, and that man told you the candid truth last Saturday month, but David Cubitt I should think is more fit for an examination by medical men, and to be put somewhere else; he is rather touched in the brain I should think. But whatever questions you put to me I am ready to answer as near as I can with regard to the truth; but a lie I will not speak to, and Mr. Cubitt is a false speaking man.

28,357. How many voters did you pick up as you were going along?—Only one myself.

28,358. What was his name?—Bolingbroke.

28,359. (Mr. Biron.) But you picked up other men?—There was others on the cart, but they were not voters no more for that; I only knew one man who had a vote and that was old Bolingbroke.

28,360. Where does Bolingbroke live?—In St. James'; he voted for Russell.

28,361. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You picked up Bolingbroke, did you?—Yes.

28,362. And took him to vote for Stracey?—No; for Sir William Russell.

28,363. Do you mean to say you did not pick him up with a view of getting him to vote for Stracey?—Not the slightest; I have known him for many years and I took him up in a friendly manner and left him at his own option.

28,364. Did you see Mr. Woodrow give him a shilling to vote?—This was not in Woodrow's presence.

28,365. While Mr. Woodrow was in the cab did you not pick up a voter?—No; I took a man up but not a voter.

28,366. Did you see Mr. Woodrow give him a shilling?—No, I did not.

28,367 You know Mr. Woodrow said that he wanted you to get men up to vote; that you got out of the cab, and brought one man in to vote; that you took him up to the poll, and then you picked up another?—Yes; but Mr. Woodrow made a great mistake; the man had voted; in fact he took himself up, and the time we stopped in Magdalen Street going to speak to Mr. Jarvis the man got in my fly.

28,368. This is his evidence: "That was in St. "James'." Where abouts in St. James'?—I don't "know, but near the church." Then he says they were picked up for a shilling or two?—Never saw Mr. Woodrow give any man a penny piece, and I can swear he never gave anybody a shilling; what he gave he gave to me.

28,369. He gave you half a crown for beer?—No; I never asked him for beer; I asked him for half-a-crown, and as I asked him so he gave it to me.

28,370. But he gave you half a crown?—Yes.

28,371. (Mr. Biron.) Did he give you anything else?—No; we all three got into my house, and he gave me half a sovereign for three glasses of ale; I gave him three half crowns, and someone said, "You chump, why did you not stick to the lot."

28,372. Who was the man who voted?—Bolingbroke; I took him from St. James', and I took no more; if I took 20 I would tell you, and for myself I voted about 9 o'clock in the morning.

28,373. Had Cubitt run up a score for beer with you?—No; I should be very sorry to trust him a penny; that is why I told my mother to look after the money.

28,374. Had men been having beer in your house in the course of the day?—Not any; I never trusted a pint.

28,375. You told Woodrow before you started that there were voters waiting at your mother's house, and at yours?—Yes; but in consequence of the time being almost expired, they were gone.

28,376. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) But how came you to take up a Russell voter with Mr. Woodrow in the cab when you were hunting for voters to take up, and you had gone to get Mr. Woodrow for that purpose?—I could not tell how he was going to vote.

28,377. Then you took him up with a view of trying how he would vote?—Certainly.

22,378. You did not know whether he would vote for Stracey or the other way?—No; I did not.

28,379. Did you try whether he would vote the right way?—No; I never named it to him; I fancied he would vote for Russell; he knew I was a Conservative.

28,380. If you thought he was for Russell why did you take him up?—Because we are that particular friends together, he would not want picking up, he would pick himself up.

28,381. But you did pick Bolingbroke up, you say, and took him to the poll?—Yes, I did.

28,382. Then you say, "I picked him up because I thought he would vote for Russell." Why did you, with Mr. Woodrow in the cab, who had taken the cab for the purpose of getting up voters for Sir Henry Stracey, pick up Bolingbroke, a man you thought would vote for Russell?—I could not help that.

28,383. But how came you to pick up Bolingbroke unless it was with a view of getting him to vote for Stracey?—It was a mistake on my part.

28,384. Did you pick him up under the idea that he was going to vote for Stracey?—Yes, I did.

28,385. And with a view of getting him to vote for Stracey?—Not particularly; I left it to his own option.

28,386. Did you see Woodrow give him a shilling?—No, not a penny piece; to tell you the truth he was not present with Mr. Woodrow when he voted.

28,387. Of course not, Mr. Woodrow remained in the cab?—No, Mr. Bolingbroke will tell you the truth if you subpœna him; he went in a horse and cart, not in a cab at all; that is a false statement of David Cubitt's that you are putting to me. If you subpœna Bolingbroke he will tell you he voted before Mr. Woodrow came down. This was afterwards.

28,388. The man that you picked up you took to vote in Magdalen Street, did you not?—Yes, before I came in contact with Mr. Woodrow.

28,389. Mr. Woodrow told us that the man you picked up was taken to Magdalen Street for the purpose of voting, and voted?—I do not remember.

28,390. Do you mean to say that you don't recollect picking up a man with Mr. Woodrow whom you took to Magdalen Street, and who voted in Magdalen Street?—Not to the best of my knowledge. I do not remember it.

28,391. Will you undertake to swear you did not?—Well, I would rather swear I did not than I did; I am placed on my oath to speak the truth; if I took up two I would tell you.

28,392. You know Parnell?—Yes.

28,393. You received his card?—Yes.

28,394. Did you not go and vote with his card?—Just after I delivered my own I took his; I said that was for Mr. Parnell; I took it home after that.

28,395. Do you know a man of the name of John Fox, and did a man of that name come to you last Saturday?—Certainly I do not remember it.

28,396. You don't remember last Saturday?—I remember last Saturday.

28,397. Don't you remember a man of the name of Fox coming to you last Saturday?—Unless it was the gentleman who left the subpœna I don't know the man.

28,398. What conversation had you with Fox?—He brought the subpœna, got a bottle of porter, and went about his business.

28,399. Did you have a conversation with the man who brought the subpœna?—Not any to the best of my knowledge, I only instructed him as to the best way to get rid of those papers, because I knew better than he did where the people lived, and I looked his papers over to save him a step or two.

28,400. You will attend here to-morrow morning.—Very well, sir.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

W. Warnes.

4 Oct. 1869.

Adjourned to to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

Tuesday, 5th October 1869.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

J. Cooper.

5 Oct. 1869.

James Cooper sworn and examined.

28,401. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A grocer.

28,402. For whom did you vote at this last election?—Stracey and Russell.

28,403. What time of the day?—About half-past 3.

28,404. What made you split your vote in that way?—I don't know, I'm sure.

28,405. Had you been canvassed?—No, never.

28,406. Had you promised your vote?—Never.

28,407. Have you voted before?—No.

28,408. Is this the first time that you voted?—Yes.

28,409. Have you received anything for your vote?—No.

28,410. Have you promised anything to anybody else?—No.

28,411. Did you treat anybody that day?—No.

28,412. Were you promised anything yourself?—No.

28,413. No favour or advancement?—Nothing of the kind.

28,414. Were you promised any custom, or anything of that kind?—Nothing of the kind.

J. Abel.

John Abel sworn and examined.

28,415. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A horse dealer.

28,416. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

28,417. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

28,418. What time of the day?—I should think it was about 9 o'clock in the morning; as soon as the poll was open, almost.

28,419. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

28,420. Or the promise of anything?—Nor the promise of anything.

28,421. Before the day of the election, did you take any active part in canvassing?—Not of any description.

28,422. After you had voted, or on the day of the polling, did you canvass anybody?—No.

28,423. Did you try to get anybody up to the poll?—I drove a pair of horses the whole day, and tried to get up as many as I possibly could for Sir Henry Stracey, but I could not get up any, so far as I was concerned, because I was coachman.

28,424. Whom did you drive about?—Mr. Bunn, Mr. Cutlock, and his brother-in-law.

28,425. Who is Bunn?—A man that lives at the "Gates."

28,426. What is his christian name?—Really I don't know.

28,427. Is it the man who was scheduled in the Yarmouth inquiry?—That same man.

28,428. Where did you take him to in the course of the day?—All round the low parts of the city, and twice to Thorpe.

28,429. Where did you go to in the low parts of the city?—Heigham, Pockthorpe, and all round that part.

28,430. How many voters did you get up, do you suppose, from that part?—I really could not say.

28,431. You were hard at it all day?—I was driving about till about 3 o'clock. Then I left off and went home.

28,432. From 9 until 3 you were hard at it?—Yes I drove about a very great deal.

28,433. Cannot you tell me any of the public-houses that you called at?—I never got off the box from the time I got on to the time I got off.

28,434. But you drove up to places where voters were. I suppose Bunn told you where to drive to?—No. We only drove about the streets, and if anybody said they were going to vote for Sir Henry Stracey there was my trap for them, and they went up, but whether they did vote for Sir Henry Stracey or not I don't know.

28,435. Did not Bunn go into any house?—No. I don't think he got off more than once or twice, and where he went to I don't know.

28,436. How long was he away?—Not two minutes hardly. He was off and on again.

28,437. Who else was with you?—Cutlock and a brother-in-law of his. His name is Towell, I think.

28,438. What Cutlock is that?—I think he is a lawyer's clerk. He lives next door to me.

28,439. In whose office is he?—I think in Sewell Blake, and Keith's.

28,440. Did you lay any man 10*s.* to 1*s.* that he would not vote for Stracey?—I never laid a bet at all upon Stracey, not of any description.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

J. Abel.

5 Oct. 1869.

28,441. Had not you any bets upon this election?—I had no bet at all. I never made a bet about an election. I drove about for Mr. Stracey, which I should do to-morrow if he was going again.

28,442. During the course of that day were you in the market place, standing about?—I was driving about all the day.

28,443. What did you do between 3 and 4 o'clock?—I went home and had my dinner, and then walked out in the market place; when I heard that Sir Henry Stracey was returned I went out into the market place in the evening.

28,444. Had not you been in the market place before in the day?—No, only as I drove through.

28,445. Did not you bet some men 1*l.* to 1*s.* that they did not dare to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Certainly not. Not a farthing.

28,446. Do you know Porter's public-house in West End Street?—No; I don't know that there is a Porter in West End Street at all.

28,447. Do you know Porter's public-house at all?—No, certainly not.

28,448. Do you know any public-house in West End Street that you stopped at that day?—I don't know where West End Street is.

28,449. Do you know the "Bull and Butcher"?—No.

28,450. One of the committee rooms?—I never went to a committee room at all the whole day. I never got off my box the whole of the day. I drove into the streets, and when the people got out I drove away again directly.

28,451. Do you mean to say you did not pull up at any public-house for the men to get on your trap?—I did not.

28,452. During the whole of the day?—During the whole of the day. I do not think I only pulled up at one public-house. I don't know where it was. I could walk with you and show it you, but I don't know the sign of it.

28,453. Have you lived here all your life?—No.

28,454. How long?—Thirty odd years.

28,455. That is time enough to know about this place?—I know every foot of the place to drive over, but I am as much in London as Norwich. I have to go and get my living in London; there's not enough for me in Norwich.

28,456. Forty years is long enough to make you know Norwich?—I might be away 30 years out of the 40.

28,457. On election days your mind is a blank; you go about seeing and hearing nothing?—Yes.

28,458. Do you know a man of the name of Lord, of the City Road?—No.

28,459. Did you bring a man from the Bethel infirmary that day?—I did not; I never went to the Bethel.

28,460. Did not you give anything to drink to any of these men whom you brought up?—Not a drop of anything.

28,461. Did not Bunn give them anything?—I don't know what Bunn done; I never gave so much as half a pint of beer to a soul.

28,462. Did not you see Bunn give them any money?—No, certainly not.

28,463. What did you think he was at this day when you were driving him about?—I could not have any thought. He is a neighbour of mine. He got into my trap, and where I drove there he went, but Bunn left me at 12 or half-past 12, and I think Cutlock's brother-in-law was in the trap at the time.

28,464. Were you paid anything for the use of your trap that day?—No, not a farthing, nor yet asked to vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

28,465. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did anybody ask you to drive up voters?—No.

28,466. Had you been at any committee room before the day of the poll?—Not one.

28,467. What made you take Bunn about with you?—He is a neighbour, and he jumped into the trap when I was driving about, and I did not tell him to get out.

28,468. With his Yarmouth reputation, did not you think it rather dangerous to Sir Henry Stracey's cause for him to be seen going about with you?—No.

28,469. You were driving about with a briber, and you, a determined supporter of Sir Henry Stracey, were doing your best to ruin his chances?—I don't know that. I should do the same for you if you were a candidate, and I respected you as I do Sir Henry Stracey. I never study election matters myself; I care nothing about them, only I care a deal about Sir Henry Stracey. I would go again to-morrow, and work night and day if I could serve him.

28,470. As you know nothing about elections, you wanted some assistance in order to ascertain what men to take up?—No, I did not want no assistance.

28,471. How did you know the voters?—I did not know them. If anybody said they were going to vote for Sir Henry Stracey I took them up.

28,472. Was not that the reason why you had Bunn with you?—No. He has only come to keep this public-house, I should think, not more than half a year; that is all he has been in Norwich at all, so I should think he knew as little as I did.

28,473. Unless you had assistance how could you tell who the voters were?—I did not know; I had no assistance.

28,474. You had Bunn on the trap; he knew all about it?—I cannot tell you what Bunn knows; I can only tell you what I know myself.

28,475. But Bunn did a great deal?—I don't know what Bunn did; I know what I did.

28,476. He was with you the whole day?—No. He left my trap at about 12, or half-past 12; I cannot say to half an hour.

28,477. After that, who was there giving you assistance?—No one. I merely said, "Is anybody going to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?" If they said, "Yes," I said, "Jump up," and I drove them up.

28,478. Did you know any of them by name?—No, I have only the three.

28,479. You might have taken up voters for the other side?—I think it is very likely. If I did I did not know it, or I should not have done it, I promise you that.

28,480. You think you did?—I think it is very likely.

28,481. Have you received thanks from the other side for taking up their voters?—I might have taken them up.

28,482. Did you see either of the Mr. Straceys that day?—I should think I see the whole lot of them walking about.

28,483. Did you speak to Mr. Edward Stracey that day?—Well, really, I cannot bring it to my memory whether I did or not.

28,484. Did you speak to Mr. Gilbert Stracey?—Yes, I speak to him when I see him, but I don't know that I saw him that day. I see Mr. Dudley Stracey.

28,485. Did anything pass between you and Mr. Dudley Stracey?—No, not anything. I see Mr. Dudley and Mr. Edward, and not one of them asked me to vote for their father.

28,486. Have you always voted Tory?—No; I never voted before in my life. I vote for a man if I likes him. If he had been on the other side I should have voted for him. I vote for a man not for politics, but if I likes him.

28,487. Did you subscribe any money for the purposes of the election?—No.

28,488. You have not paid a shilling for anything connected with this election?—Not one solitary farthing of any description.

CHARLES TAYLOR sworn and examined. C. Taylor.

28,489. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A clerk.

28,490. To whom?—Clabburn, Sons, and Crisp.

28,491. What is their business?—Manufacturers.

28,492. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

28,493. Who canvassed you?—Mr. Hibbett.

28,494. Did you promise to vote?—No, not at first.

28,495. Had you ever said you were going to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

28,496. What time did you vote?—About a quarter to 11.

28,497. Did you get any money, or the promise of any money, for voting?—Certainly not.

28,498. Have you given any money, or the promise of any money, for voting?—No.

28,499. Did you treat anybody on the day of the poll?—No.

28,500. Nor afterwards?—Nor afterwards.

28,501. Do you know of any corrupt practices at this election?—No.

28,502. Is this your first time of voting?—Yes.

ROBERT SUTTON sworn and examined. R. Sutton.

28,503. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A wheelwright.

28,504. Where do you live?—Philadelphia, St. Clement's.

28,505. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

28,506. What time of the day?—Getting close to 4.

28,507. How much did you get for it?—Not anything.

28,508. What did your wife get?—Nothing at all.

28,509. Why did not you vote till 4 o'clock?—I was at work.

28,510. Where?—I was at work at Dunn's, I think, and then went home and got my dinner, and came out about 3 o'clock.

28,511. Why did not you go to the poll at once?—I had a little way to go before I went to vote, and I knew there was plenty of time between that and 4 o'clock.

28,512. Where was the little way you had to go?—Magdalen Street.

28,513. What were you doing there?—Nothing at all. I never stopped.

28,514. Did you see anybody that day who asked you to poll?—Not anyone.

28,515. Had you been canvassed before?—No.

28,516. Did you promise to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—No, never promised anyone.

28,517. Did nobody ask you for your vote?—There was one asked me for my vote a day or two before, and I told him no.

28,518. For whom did he ask your vote?—Tillett and Russell.

28,519. Had you made up your mind to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

28,520. Did anybody come to you on the day of the poll?—No.

28,521. Did anybody canvass you for Sir Henry Stracey?—Not anyone, and I never asked them.

JOHN DANIELS sworn and examined. J. Daniels.

28,522. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—An overlooker.

28,523. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

28,524. Who asked you to vote?—No one.

28,525. What time did you vote?—About 2, in the dinner hour.

28,526. Did anybody come to ask you to vote?—No.

28,527. What have you had for your vote?—Nothing.

28,528. Did you get any beer?—No.

28,529. With whom did you go up to vote?—A man of the name of Reeve, a friend of mine.

28,530. Did he give you anything?—He asked me to drink after I had voted.

28,531. Did you drink?—I did so.

28,532. And he paid for it?—He paid for it.

28,533. That was after you had voted?—That was after I had voted.

28,534. Have you had anything else since?—Nothing else.

28,535. Or any promise?—No promise.

28,536. Did you treat anybody yourself?—No.

WILLIAM NELSON recalled and further examined. W. Nelson.

28,537. (Mr. Biron.) You told us when you were examined the other day that you got 5*s.* from Mr. Self of Tombland?—Yes.

28,538. Did not he give it to you to buy other men with?—No, certainly not. He gave it me for my own vote.

28,539. That was the understanding at the time?—Yes, before I voted.

28,540. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Mr. Self said he gave it to you to buy two or three other voters, and that you did get up two or three other voters?—No. I never got one.

28,541. (Mr. Biron.) I will just read you what Self said: "I know nothing about bribery except 5*s.* that "I gave to Nelson. It was in the afternoon, I believe, "Nelson got up two or three other men in the after-"noon. It was on his statement that he could do so "that I gave him 5*s.*"?—I never said no such thing. He gave me 5*s.* for me to vote, and I would not vote at all till I got it.

28,542. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you sure you did not get up any voters?—No one.

28,543. Where did you go after you had voted?—Home.

28,544. You did not go about picking up other people?—No.

WILLIAM ERLY sworn and examined. W. Erly.

28,545. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

28,546. What time in the day?—About 10 minutes to 4.

28,547. What did you get for it?—Nothing.

28,548. Had you promised your vote?—I never promised to anybody.

28,549. Who took you up to the poll?—A butcher on Tombland.

28,550. What is his name?—Bloomfield.

28,551. What did he give you?—Nothing.

28,552. Did not he give you some beer?—Not a glass of anything.

28,553. Did you go to the "Horse Shoes"?—No.

28,554. Have you had anything since?—Nothing.

28,555. Has nothing been promised you?—Not a farthing.

28,556. Did your wife get any money?—Not a farthing.

28,557. What made you so late?—I don't know. I did not think about voting at all.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

W. Erly.

5 Oct. 1869.

28,558. Had anybody been to you for your vote?—Oh yes, I was canvassed for my vote.

28,559. By whom?—By one of the young Mr. Straceys, I believe, and Mr. Dunn, and Mr. Fletcher.

28,560. What day was that?—Some time before the election.

28,561. Then you promised to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—No.

28,562. Why did you not?—I did not care about voting at all. It did not trouble me at all.

28,563. What made you change your mind a few minutes before 4 o'clock?—Because they said Sir Henry Stracey was winning, and I said I would go the winning side, that's all.

28,564. You did not get any money to help you to change your mind?—Not a farthing.

28,565. Did not they promise you anything?—Not a farthing.

28,566. Did not they give you a glass of beer?—Not one glass of ale, I had only what I paid for.

N. Townshend.

NATHANIEL TOWNSHEND sworn and examined.

28,567. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A greengrocer.

28,568. Were you canvassed for this last election?—No.

28,569. Had not you promised your vote before the polling day?—Yes, before the polling day.

28,570. Did you promise to vote for Tillett?—No.

28,571. For whom did you promise to vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

28,572. To whom did you make that promise?—To Mr. Hibbett I am almost sure; in fact I am positive it was Mr. Hibbett that solicited me.

28,573. Did not you ever promise to vote for Tillett?—No.

28,574. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

28,575. What time of the day?—Well, I think close upon 1. I think it was a little after 1. I am almost sure it was a little after 1.

28,576. Were you at the "Black Eagle" that morning?—No, not in.

28,577. Outside it?—I stood speaking to Mr. Wade.

28,578. And Wade took you up to the poll?—No, there was no particular taking up. Me and him walked together to the poll, me and Mr. Wade.

28,579. What did he give you for voting?—Nothing whatever.

28,580. Or promise you?—No, not in any way, not the slightest.

28,581. Are you quite sure about that?—Quite sure about that. I don't want to hesitate about that for a moment.

28,582. He did not give you anything or promise you anything?—Decidedly not. I should not have taken it if it had been offered.

28,583. Did he give you anything afterwards?—No.

28,584. Do you know of any other man having been bribed at this election?—Not in any way, for I took no part in it. I merely gave my vote and came up, nothing else.

28,585. What were you doing in the earlier part of the morning?—Soliciting custom. There are some ladies I supply with vegetables in that district, and several other houses. I go round every forenoon. It is a customary thing in me.

28,586. To take orders and deliver goods?—Yes.

28,587. Do you mean to say you know nothing of any bribery that has taken place at this election?—No, nor do I even associate with any of them. What I mean by that is that I don't go from one public house to another. I don't make a practice of doing so.

C. Barnes.

CHARLES BARNES sworn and examined.

28,588. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

28,589. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

28,590. What time of the day?—Nearly 4.

28,591. With whom did you go up to the poll?—In Magdalen Street.

28,592. With whom?—Not anybody.

28,593. What did you get for your vote?—Mr. Buttle gave me 10*s.* on Saturday night to poll.

28,594. Then you promised to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—No, I did not promise to vote.

28,595. He gave you that to vote?—He gave it me the Saturday night after.

28,596. He had asked you to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Oh, I told him I was going to vote for him.

28,597. Before that you got the 10*s.*?—No, I never got it till the Saturday.

28,598. You got it after you had voted?—Well, I suppose so.

28,599. Were you at Mackley's, at the "Marquis of Granby," that day?—I did not go in.

28,600. Were you there that day?—No, nor anywhere else.

28,601. Did you get any beer that day?—I never see a drop about all the day.

28,602. Do you know of anyone else that got anything from Buttle?—That I do not.

28,603. Where was it that Buttle asked you to vote?—He did not ask me to vote at all. He asked me whether I had voted, and I said, No. Then he said, "Go and vote. I must go after my work." I went.

28,604. Was it in a half sovereign or in silver?—Four halfcrowns.

28,605. Did you want more than that?—No.

28,606. Did you try to get any more?—I have spoke the truth.

H. Green.

HENRY GREEN sworn and examined.

28,607. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A labourer.

28,608. Where do you live?—In Union Street, South Heigham.

28,609. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

28,610. What time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

28,611. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing.

28,612. Are you a married man?—Yes.

28,613. What did your wife get?—Nothing.

28,614. Why did not you vote earlier?—Because I was at work.

28,615. What are you?—I was an ostler at that time.

28,616. How did your master vote?—I don't know.

28,617. Did he say anything to you about voting?—No.

28,618. Were you at his place the whole of the day?—I was at his house till 3 or 4 o'clock, when I went to vote.

28,619. Who canvassed you for your vote?—I don't know. I was not at home when they canvassed me.

28,620. Who brought you up to the poll?—No one. I went myself.

28,621. What made you vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Well, I don't know. You can vote for anyone who you like.

28,622. Yes, but you must have had some reason for voting in one way in preference to another. What was it?—Well, I voted for Sir Henry Stracey. That's who I voted for.

28,623. I want to know why you voted for him. Did anybody offer you anything?—No.

28,624. Did anybody say he would give you money after if you voted?—No.

28,625. Or lay you money that you would not vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—No.

28,626. Nothing of the sort?—Nothing of the sort.

SAMUEL FULCHER sworn and examined. S. Fulcher.

28,627. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Mr. Stracey.

28,628. What part of the city do you live in?—Back Mill Street.

28,629. Is that in South Heigham?—Yes.

28,630. What time of the day did you vote?—I think it must have been after 2.

28,631. Who asked you to vote?—Nobody.

28,632. Did you promise your vote?—Never.

28,633. Who took you up to the poll?—Not anyone.

28,634. Were you treated with any beer that day?—Not so much as a glass of ale, or yet the worth of a straw.

28,635. Where were you?—Walking about seeking a job. I am a jobbing gardener.

28,636. Trying what you could get for your vote?—No, my work lays where I can get something to do.

28,637. Why did not you vote earlier in the day if you were walking about?—It's no use looking for work in the afternoon.

28,638. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What public-houses were you at?—Not any.

28,639. (Mr. Mansfield.) Is this the first time you have voted?—It is the first time.

28,640. Did you get the promise of anything for your vote?—No promise of any kind whatever.

28,641. You have had nothing since?—Nor nothing since.

28,642. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What were you doing wandering about the whole day for?—I went as far as Mill End to seek for employment. That is where my employment lays, among the little gardeners.

28,643. You were doing nothing the whole day?—No. The person I wanted to see lived in King Street. I did not know that it made any difference what time of the day I voted.

28,644. Why were you wandering about the city?—I was not in the city particular.

28,645. What were you doing wandering about the whole morning?—Seeing whether I could not find somebody to give me something to do.

28,646. Seeing whether you could not find somebody who would give you some money or some beer somewhere or other?—I can assure you that I did not. I did not taste a glass of beer or get the worth of a straw.

JOHN NEWMAN sworn and examined. J. Newman.

28,647. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A tailor.

28,648. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

28,649. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

28,650. What time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

28,651. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

28,652. Are you certain?—Yes.

28,653. Who brought you up to vote?—No one.

28,654. Why did not you vote sooner then?—Because I could not leave my work. It was not far off where I voted.

28,655. You were at work, then, the whole day?—Yes, till between 3 and 4 o'clock.

28,656. As soon as you were at liberty you went and voted?—Yes.

28,657. Had you ever had a vote before?—No.

28,658. Had you promised to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—No. I made no promise to anyone.

28,659. Had anybody been to canvass you?—Yes, but I was not at home at the time, so I don't know who they were.

WILLIAM PETCH sworn and examined. W. Petch.

28,660. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

28,691. Or the promise of anything?—No.

28,692. Did you take any active part in the election?—Not the slightest.

28,693. You merely voted?—I merely went to the poll and voted.

28,694. Is there any other man of your name in the city?—I think there is.

ROBERT ROLL sworn and examined. R. Roll.

28,695. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—An upholsterer.

28,696. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Stracey.

28,697. What time of the day?—A quarter before 4.

28,698. Who asked you for your vote?—Nobody.

28,699. Had you told no one that you were going to vote?—No.

28,700. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing.

28,701. Did you not get any beer?—No. I keep a public-house myself, and I can get all I want.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.
R. Roll.
5 Oct. 1869.

28,702. Were any voters at your house that day?—No.

28,703. Were there many people there?—Not that I am aware of, but I was out all day.

28,704. Who managed the house during your absence?—My wife, the same as she always do.

28,705. Do you know whether any score was run up that day for beer?—I am certain of that. There was nothing.

28,706. Have you had any money since, for beer supplied by you that day?—Certainly not. I voted for Mr. Waters, so I should for Mr. Stracey again.

28,707. Did you get anything for voting for Waters?—No, certainly not.

28,708. No inducement of any kind?—Not a bit. I am a dead Tory.

28,709. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Have you been paid for beer supplied to men in your house?—Not a penny, not the colour of one.

28,710. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who is your brewer?—Mr. Young, a Whig.

T. Stannard.

THOMAS STANNARD sworn and examined.

28,711. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A labourer.

28,716. At what time of the day?—Between 3 and 4.

28,717. What did you get for voting?—Nothing.

28,718. Who brought you up to the poll?—I went myself.

28,719. Why did not you go earlier?—I did not think fit to go before.

28,720. What were you doing before?—I was at home the best of the time.

28,721. Were you waiting for what you could get?—I should have took some if I could have got it.

28,722. Did nobody offer you anything?—Not anything.

28,723. Did nobody stand treat?—Not a pint.

28,724. You heard that there was money going?—I never see any.

28,725. Did you go to the "Eagle"?—No.

28,726. Did you go to any public-house that day?—Only Mr. Fletcher's in Silver Road.

28,727. Were there men waiting there besides you?—There were some having a glass of beer. I don't know what they were waiting for.

28,728. Were they all Barnard's men?—No, I was the only one.

28,729. Did anybody come in there and try to get you up to the poll?—No.

28,730. Were not you offered anything?—Not anything, nor a pint of beer.

28,731. What made you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at last?—My principles.

28,732. You should not talk much of principle when 5*s.* would have turned you either way; you got nothing?—Not anything. If I did I should tell you the truth.

28,733. I think you would.—Yes, I should.

E. Green.

EDWARD GREEN sworn and examined.

28,734. (Mr. Mansfield.) Where do you live?—In Silver Road.

28,735. Pockthorpe?—Yes.

28,736. For whom did you vote?—SirHenry Stracey.

28,737. At what time?—Between 3 and 4.

28,738. What did you get?—Not a farthing.

28,739. Did you try to get anything?—I did not try because I had not a chance.

28,740. Did you hear that there was any money going?—No.

28,741. Were not you looking out for some?—I should have taken some if I could have got it.

28,742. How much would you have taken?—I do not know. That all depends upon what had been offered me.

28,743. Would you have taken 5*s.* for your vote?—I daresay I should, glad enough.

28,744. But you had not a chance?—No.

28,745. Did you get any beer?—Not a drop.

28,746. Did anybody ask you to vote?—No.

28,747. Did anybody go up with you to the poll?—Not a soul.

28,748. What made you vote after all, as you could get nothing for your vote?—I thought I should like to vote as well as other people.

28,749. Did you get any money afterwards?—No.

28,750. Have you not had anything since?—Not a farthing.

28,751. Nor yet your wife?—Nor yet my wife.

E. Edwards.

ELIJAH EDWARDS sworn and examined.

28,753. What time of the day?—10 minutes past 8.

28,754. Did you get anything for your vote?—Nothing.

28,755. Or the promise of anything?—Nothing.

28,756. Had you promised to vote for him?—Well, I had.

28,757. You were canvassed a day or two before?—Yes.

28,758. By whom?—Young Mr. Stracey.

28,759. And you promised him that you would vote for Sir Henry?—I did.

J. Chittick.

JAMES CHITTICK sworn and examined.

28,760. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

28,761. Do you live in Pockthorpe?—Yes.

28,762. What time did you vote?—Five minutes before 4.

28,763. What did you get?—Nothing at all.

28,764. Did you try to get something?—Yes.

28,765. To whom did you go?—I went to Mr. Mackley's.

28,766. Mackley who keeps the "Marquis of Granby"?—Yes.

28,767. You found there was no money going there?—None at all.

28,768. You got a little beer there?—Yes.

28,769. You did not pay for it?—No.

28,770. There were a good many men waiting there for money?—About 30 of us.

28,771. What was your price?—We asked 2*l.*, but did not get 1*l.*

28,772. What made you vote after all?—Well, I don't know.

28,773. Have you had anything since?—No.

28,774. Not a shilling?—Nothing at all.

28,775. And all you got was your glass of beer at Mackley's?—Well, I got several glasses of beer at Mr. Mackley's.

28,776. I suppose, in consequence of getting that beer, you thought you might as well vote for the persons who had given it you?—Well, I don't know.

28,777. (Mr. Biron.) Were not you offered any money at Mackley's by anybody?—Yes, sir, Mr. Womersley and Mr. Smith. We asked him 2*l.* He said if we waited about 20 minutes we should have one, and we waited, and he said he could not give anything.

28,778. Then you left?—Then we left.

28,779. Where did you go to then?—The "Horse Shoes."

28,780. What happened at the "Horse Shoes"?—We had some beer.

28,781. You did not pay for that?—No.

28,782. Who stood the beer at the "Horse Shoes"?—I don't know.

28,783. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) That was Tory beer at the "Horse Shoes"?—That was Tory beer at the "Horse Shoes."

28,784. (Mr. Biron.) The Tory beer prevailed against the Liberal promises, did not it?—I don't know.

28,785. You voted Tory after you got the Tory beer?—Not at all.

28,786. How came you to vote Tory?—That is what I intended to vote.

28,787. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You did not like having been taken in at Mackley's?—No.

28,788. You had got a little Tory beer, and you thought you would pay them off; that was it, was it not?—That's pretty like the truth of it.

28,789. You thought they had treated you shabbily at Mackley's?—I did not think it was right.

28,790. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you know who paid for the beer at Mackley's?—I don't know who paid for it.

28,791. On which side was it?—That was for the Whig side, I believe.

JOHN EMERY sworn and examined.

J. Emery.

28,792. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A carter.

28,793. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Stracey.

28,870. Did not you get 3*s.* 6*d.* ?—Nothing.

28,871. Where were you ?—I was taken up from the "Bricklayers' Arms," Union Place, in Mr. Hibbett's vehicle. I rode to the poll I may say.

28,872. All the morning until that you were hanging about drinking ?—Oh no, I was about after one little business or another.

28,873. Where were you at work ?—Not anywhere. I had been at work.

28,874. Why did not you vote without been taken up to the poll ?—Well, I don't know. The vehicle stopped there, and of course I thought I might as well ride as other people.

28,875. How many of you got into the vehicle there ?—I think I was the only one.

28,876. Why could not you walk to the poll and vote earlier ?—Well, sir, the reason I stopped to that time is because if Sir William Russell wanted any assistance I was going to give my vote to keep Tillett out.

28,877. Were not you waiting for money ?—I had no idea of the thing, no such thought that they were giving money.

28,878. I suppose if money had come across you you would have taken it ?—I don't know that I should; I am rather independent, I can assure you.

D. Swash.

DANIEL SWASH sworn and examined.

28,879. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade ?—I am at Barnard and Bishop's.

28,880. Do you live at Pockthorpe ?—No. I used to keep the "Jolly Farmers," at Charing Cross.

28,881. Did you keep that place on the day of the poll ?—Yes.

28,882. What time did you vote ?—About 3 o'clock.

28,883. What did you get for voting ?—Nothing.

28,884. Who took you up to the poll ?—I went myself.

28,885. Who asked you to vote ?—No one.

28,886. Had you ever told anybody how you were going to vote ?—No.

28,887. Never once ?—No, not once.

28,888. Did you give any beer to people in your house that day ?—No.

28,889. Were many people there ?—People kept coming out and in, but nothing to do with the voting.

28,890. Have you been paid any money since for beer supplied on the day of the poll ?—No.

28,891. Did you get anything by the election ?—No.

28,892. Were you promised anything ?—No.

28,893. Are you quite certain of that ?—Yes.

28,894. Did you treat anybody to beer ?—No one.

28,895. Where were you the whole of the day ?—At home till half-past 2.

28,896. Were many people in your house ?—Several people kept coming out and in.

28,897. Were not they talking about the election ?—There was nothing going on in mine about the election.

28,898. Not the whole day ?—No.

28,899. You never spoke about it the whole of the day ?—No.

28,900. Not to anybody ?—No.

28,901. We cannot believe that.—Well, that is right.

28,902. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) How can anybody believe that there were a number of people in your house that day, and yet no talk was going on about the election ?—I was waiting on them. I paid no regard to what people were talking about.

28,903. It seems to me as if every publican in this place sees and hears nothing that goes on in his house. I do not think your evidence is of such a satisfactory nature as to entitle you to call upon the Secretary to pay your expenses.—I am speaking the truth. I never got a farthing.

(Mr. Biron.) That is not it.

28,904. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) One cannot help believing that you know a great deal more, because you tell a falsehood about such a paltry thing as that.—I am speaking the truth, sir.

G. Sadler.

GEORGE SADLER sworn and examined.

28,905. (Mr. Biron.) For whom did you vote at the last election ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

28,906. What did you get for voting ?—Nothing at all.

28,907. What time in the day did you vote ?—About 3 o'clock,

28,908. Where were you all day ?—At work.

28,909. Where ?—Down King Street, Mr. Watts'.

28,910. What is your work ?—A carter.

28,911. Had you been canvassed for your vote ?—No.

28,912. Or promised your vote ?—No, not to anybody.

28,913. Did anybody come to you about your vote at all ?—I was not at home.

28,914. How came you to vote at 3 o'clock ?—I happened to go that way, or else I did not think of voting at all, but I was driving along the street, and I got off the cart and voted.

28,915. Who suggested that you should get off the cart and vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Not anybody.

28,916. Nobody spoke to you about it?—Not anybody.

28,917. Had you received a card before?—I had received a card sent by post.

28,918. Had you got it with you when you voted?—Yes.

28,919. Where had you been carrying it?—In my pocket.

28,920. Were you promised anything?—No.

28,921. You did not get anything afterwards?—Not anything.

28,922. When did you make up your mind to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—I had made up my mind altogether to vote for Mr. Stracey and no other man.

28,923. At first?—Yes.

28,924. Why did not you go up earlier?—Because I had not an opportunity to go.

AMOS HIBBETT sworn and examined.

A. Hibbett.

28,925. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—I am a stonemason.

28,926. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

28,927. You were very active during the day of the poll?—I was so.

28,928. You took up a good many voters?—I did so.

28,929. Where did you take them from?—I cannot tell you—so many parts.

28,930. Do you know whom you took up?—I could not tell you. I could tell you one, or two, or three, perhaps more than those if you require it. I took up Major Hebgin for one, Mr. Mitchell for another, Mr. Drane for another, Mr. Cook for another, and a good many. Those were all invalid gentlemen not able to walk.

28,931. What money did you give to voters?—I never gave one penny.

28,932. Was any money given to you to give away?—As an Englishman I know myself better than to receive money for that purpose.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do not assume a virtuous indignation in Norwich, which is very invidious to a great many inhabitants.

28,933. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you ever tell Mr. Money that you had a purse given you with 30 sovereigns in it for the purpose of the election?—It is not likely.

28,934. Did you tell anybody?—Not a farthing for the election.

28,935. (Mr. Biron.) Or for any purpose?—Nor any purpose. I did not receive a farthing.

28,936. (Mr. Mansfield.) Have you received money since?—I hope I never made a charge for a penny, neither for my vehicle nor for my services. I did it as an Englishman ought to do, and I worked hard, and if I had the chance I should do it again.

28,937. Did anybody ask you to give your services?—No.

28,938. Did anybody canvass you?—No. They never want to do that with me.

28,939. Were you a member of any committee?—Yes; I was on the committee in the south part of Heigham.

28,940. Did you take any particular part in the business of that committee?—No particular part. I assisted the canvassing.

28,941. Did you make an offer of anything to any voter?—Not a farthing.

28,942. Did you promise anything?—Not a farthing.

28,943. What part of the city did you canvass?—I canvassed the south part of Heigham, the third ward.

28,944. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Then you found there were a large number of men who would not give their votes, and who were standing out for money, did you not?—Begging your pardon, I had no time for that, and was not wanted to do that.

28,945. You said you canvassed?—Yes.

28,946. If you canvassed, you must have got answers from the people whom you canvassed?—I did so.

28,947. How many people did you canvass?—I could not tell you for a truth, I worked very hard.

28,948. Do you mean to say that a considerable number of those men did not refuse to give you any answer at all?—I will tell you what I did. There were some who hum'd and ha'ed; but I did not stand to press those people at all, because I did not intend to do anything of the sort.

28,949. Listen to the question. Did not you find that a considerable number of those people refused to give you any answer at all?—I don't know.

28,950. Did not some people refuse to give you an answer?—There might be some who refused.

28,951. Was there not a considerable number?—Well, no, I shall not say that, because we had very great offers and very liberal offers to vote for Sir Henry Stracey in our part.

28,952. Did not you find that there were men standing out who wanted to be paid for their votes?—No.

28,953. Not one?—Not one.

28,954. All I can say is that I don't believe your statement.—Very well.

28,955. It is absurd.—I assure you I was never asked for it.

28,956. (Mr. Biron.) You know by a man's manner whether he wants money or not?—I speak again, sir, candidly, that I never was asked for money.

28,957. That I can perfectly believe, but the question put to you by the Chief Commissioner was whether in your canvassing you had not reason to believe from the manner of the men, and what they said, that they wanted money?—I had no reason to believe it. We had such liberal offers for Sir Henry Stracey that I do not believe that. I do speak candid, if a man may be believed.

28,958. (Mr. Mansfield.) There was no single person whom you canvassed whom you believed to be waiting for money?—There was no person offered to ask me for money.

28,959. Do you mean to say that there was not a single person whom you believed to be waiting for money?—I don't know about that. Not a single person asked me for money.

28,960. The question is whether you believed any to be waiting for money?—I cannot tell you any other person's mind.

28,961. (Mr. Biron.) You are asked about your own mind. What did you believe?—I know my own mind. I will speak candidly. We put it down as doubtful. I don't know what you may term it. You gentlemen may put it into better terms than that.

28,962. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you canvass anybody at the workhouse?—Yes.

28,963. Whom?—I cannot tell you the names.

28,964. How many did you canvass there?—I think there was three.

28,965. Do you know whether they voted?—I cannot say.

28,966. Were they paupers?—No. I must leave it, but I believe they was officers. I am speaking truth, but I cannot say that.

28,967. Cannot you tell the difference between an officer in the workhouse and a pauper?—Yes, I can. What gentlemen I spoke to—I spoke to about one—that gentleman had a very nice suit of livery, and I should not fancy he was a pauper.

28,968. Did you canvass as many as five in the workhouse?—I cannot say. I was not the principal on the canvass.

28,969. You recollect going there?—Yes.

28,970. Were there many voters there?—I cannot tell you whether there was two, three, or four. I was told there were some voters there, and we were very anxious to get all we could, and I went with some of the other gentlemen.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

A. Hibbett.

5 Oct. 1869.

28,971. Who were the other gentlemen with you?—Mr. Walker went with me and Mr. Hardy, as we canvassed together.

28,972. Mr. Hardy, the grocer?—No, Mr. Hardy a retired gentleman I believe he is now. I cannot say.

28,973. Had you any conversation with Hardy and Walker about these men whom you canvassed at the workhouse?—No.

28,974. You said nothing about them?—I cannot recollect that I said nothing about them, because these officers that were there—there were two or three—said they should support Stracey (with the exception of one) if they voted at all.

28,975. Were any of the persons canvassed by your party at that time, paupers or not?—I don't know. I spoke to three officers I daresay. I won't be certain whether there were three or four.

28,976. Do not you know that they were taken away from the workhouse to the poll?—I don't know that.

28,977. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Is there anything that you do know?—Yes, there is.

28,978. (Mr. Mansfield.) What do you know about this election?—I don't know anything about that, only as a working man I worked hard. I speak sincerely, if I am to be believed—I worked sincerely hard for it, I did indeed.

28,979. Did you go to the workhouse on the day of the election?—No. I was better engaged.

28,980. Can you tell me what public-houses you went to, to take up voters?—I did not want to go to any to fetch voters. We had plenty of work without going to public-houses for voters.

28,981. Where did you take up voters?—We had a very great many in my neighbourhood that I know as friends, and they said they would go up with me, and I took them up, or my horse did.

28,982. Did you go to none of the public-houses?—No, not for the purpose of asking a voter. Of course if you wish to know what I went to a public-house for I will tell you. I knocked up my horse by 2 o'clock and had another put in. There is a friend keeps a porter shop near me. I went and got one glass of ale and a pennyworth of biscuits. My good lady said, "Dinner is ready," but I said I had no time to stop. I would go on with my journey and finish it. I went and had a glass of ale and a biscuit.

28,983. Was that all the money you spent?—No, I spent 4½*d.* I will give you an account of the remaining 1½*d.* At the "Coach and Horses," a Tillett house close to mine, they hooted me, and I drew up and asked for a glass of ale. Next time I passed by they were very polite and bowed to me, so that took away the ill feeling. That is all that I spent truly.

28,984. Did you never subscribe anything?—Not a penny. I think I did my part, to do as I did without subscribing.

J. Hurry.

JOHN HURRY sworn and examined.

28,985. (Mr. Biron.) For whom did you vote?—Russell and Tillett.

28,986. What time of the day?—At a quarter past 8.

28,987. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

28,988. Nor the promise of anything?—No.

28,989. Is there another man of your name?—There is one in the same ward, I believe.

28,990. Where does he live; do you know?—I don't know, in North Heigham, I believe. I was told that I was personated in the afternoon, but I was not positive about it.

28,991. Did you canvass for Russell and Tillett?—No.

28,992. Were you paid in any way?—No.

S. Rayment.

SAMUEL RAYMENT sworn and examined.

28,993. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Stracey and Tillett.

28,994. What time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

28,995. Had you promised your vote?—No.

28,996. Had you been asked for your vote?—No, I never was asked for it.

28,997. What made you vote for Stracey and Tillett?—Because they were parties I knew very well. I did not think of voting, but I happened to finish my work about 3 o'clock, and I thought I would go and vote.

28,998. Did anybody take you to the poll?—No.

28,999. Did you get anything for voting?—No, not a halfpenny, or a glass of anything.

29,000. Have you had anything since?—No.

29,001. Did anybody give you a glass of beer on the day of the poll?—No, I never thought of such a thing.

29,002. Were you at work the whole of the day?—I was; I am an organ builder, and I was at work at Heigham Church. I thought I should not be able to go at all, but I got my work done at 3 o'clock, and I then thought that I would go and vote.

W. Metcalfe.

WILLIAM METCALFE sworn and examined.

29,003. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A collector of cottage rents.

29,004. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

29,005. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

29,006. At what time in the day?—About 9 o'clock.

29,007. You were one of Sir Henry Stracey's committee men, were you not?—I was put on the committee.

29,008. Were you paid anything for your services?—Nothing.

29,009. Neither as canvasser or manager, or anything of that sort?—No, I did not receive a penny, and I never asked for anything.

29,010. Did you canvass Tinkler's Lane and that district?—I canvassed part of Tinkler's Lane.

29,011. Did you canvass no part of the city but Tinkler's Lane?—Adelaide Street.

29,012. Is that in South Heigham?—That is in North Heigham.

29,013. And what other part?—Part of Union Place.

29,014. How many men did you get to vote?—Do you mean promises?

29,015. Yes?—I cannot tell.

29,016. Did they promise pretty readily?—No, a very few did.

29,017. They wanted money I suppose?—I cannot tell that.

29,018. You know human nature, and you are particularly concerned with money; now tell us, they wanted money, did they not, according to your judgment?—They did not ask for money.

29,019. I do not suppose they did, but did not they want money?—They hung back.

29,020. Did you see a man of the name of Crosbie?—When?

29,021. The Sunday before the election?—No, certainly not.

29,022. Are you quite certain that you did not?—Yes.

29,023. In King Street?—Certainly I did not.

29,024. Did you not receive anything from him?—No.

29,025. No money?—No.

29,026. No parcel?—No.

29,027. Nothing?—Nothing.

29,028. Are you quite sure about that?—Perfectly sure.

29,029. You have told me that in canvassing you supposed that the men wanted money, did you give any of them money?—No.

29,030. Or the promise of any money?—No.

29,031. Not one?—Not one.

29,032. You saw the wives of some of the voters, did you not?—I did not go into many of the houses; there were other people canvassed with me, and they went in.

29,033. Who canvassed with you?—Mr. Hibbett and Mr. Hardy, and I think Mr. Walker one part of the day.

29,034. Do you collect rents in part of Tinkler's Lane?—I had to collect a few in Tinkler's Lane.

29,035. Did you canvass that part in which you collect the rents?—No.

29,036. Do you tell me that you did not give a single man anything for voting at the last election?—Certainly not.

29,037. Did you bring a lot of voters up to the poll between 3 and 4 o'clock?—No.

29,038. Did you bring anyone up to the poll?—No I have called on Mr. Hassell in Union Place, and Mr. Scarf. I went up into the committee room about half-past 2 o'clock and found that they had not voted, and then I called on them, and I called on a person named Edwards, and a man named Smith came voluntarily; those are the only four I called on.

29,039. Did you induce them to go and vote?—I said that the time was drawing on, and if they intended to vote they had better go at once.

29,040. And did they go?—Yes, I believe they did.

29,041. Did you give them anything to go?—No.

29,042. Or did you promise them anything?—Certainly not.

29,043. Are you sure of that?—Perfectly sure.

29,044. Do you know of anybody having given any money to get up voters at the election?—I do not.

29,045. Have you heard since of anybody having given bribes?—Certainly not, except from report. I felt confident myself that no money had been given. I felt quite sure of it until I met one of my neighbours as I was going home to tea say that there had been bribery. I said I felt satisfied that there had been none.

29,046. The result proves that he was right and you were wrong.—I was wrong certainly.

THOMAS EDWARDS sworn and examined. T. Edwards.

29,047. (Mr. Mansfield.) You voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

29,048. What did you get for voting?—Nothing.

29,049. Were you promised?—No, nor yet had I any promises.

29,050. What time in the day did you vote?—About 10 minutes after 8 in the morning.

29,051. At the time when the petition was about to be tried before Mr. Baron Martin you were taken over to Yarmouth?—Yes.

29,052. Who took you over?—Mr. Jarvis.

29,053. What did he give you for that?—We had a crown a day and our expenses.

29,054. For how long?—A fortnight.

29,055. Was that to prevent your being served as a witness upon the petition; to keep you out of the way?—Yes; not to keep us out of the way, but that so that we might not be interrupted by the Liberal side.

29,056. Did you see anybody else besides Mr. Jarvis about that business?—There was another gentleman took us to Yarmouth.

29,057. Was that a gentleman named Hunter?—I do not know his name. I never heard his name.

29,058. You do not know Hunter?—No, I do not know that I do.

29,059. Did anybody canvass you?—Yes, young Mr. Stracey.

29,060. And who was with him?—There were several other gentlemen with him; Mr. Patteson I believe was one, and several other gentlemen, but I do not know who they was.

29,061. What was it that you knew that made it worth their while to send you to Yarmouth?—I know nothing about that.

29,062. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Who had given you money?—No one.

29,063. What did they send you to Yarmouth for?—I do not know, only so that we might not be interrupted by the Liberal party.

29,064. What did you know?—Nothing. I did not know anything only by my being at Mr. Mackley's after I had voted.

29,065. Which Mr. Mackley's?—Mr. John Mackley's.

29,066. Were you there before you voted?—No, after.

29,067. At what time in the day?—I voted at 10 minutes after 8 in the morning, and I was there between 11 and 12.

29,068. (Mr. Biron.) You were there when Mr. Womersley came in?—Yes, they told me it was Mr. Womersley.

29,069. And Moy was there also?—Yes.

CHARLES LEEDS sworn and examined. C. Leeds.

29,070. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A whip maker.

29,071. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

29,072. At what time in the day?—I think about a quarter to 3.

29,073. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

29,074. Or the promise of anything?—No, not a farthing.

29,075. Why did you not vote sooner?—I had not time. I was busy at my work.

29,076. Where were you busy?—At home.

29,077. Was there any particular order that you had to finish?—Yes.

29,078. For whom?—For people that I work for in London.

29,079. But you are your own master?—Yes, but I was busy and wanted to get my work away.

29,080. Had you promised to vote?—Yes, I had promised the canvassers that I would vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

29,081. When was that?—When they called.

29,082. Who called?—A young man named Howse and some other gentleman with him. I think his name was Hardy.

WILLIAM LACEY sworn and examined. W. Lacey.

29,083. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A bricklayer.

29,084. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

29,085. At what time in the day?—About 3 o'clock.

29,086. Had you promised your vote?—No.

29,087. Had you been asked?—No.

29,088. What made you vote so late?—I always vote that way.

29,089. Had you voted before?—Yes.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

W. Lacey.

5 Oct. 1869.

29,090. And you always voted Tory?—I always voted that way.

29,091. Have you had anything for your vote?—No.

29,092. Neither at this election nor at any other?—No.

29,093. Did you get beer this time?—No, not a drop.

ROBERT READ sworn and examined.

R. Read.

29,094. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A coal-heaver.

29,095. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

29,096. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

29,097. At what time in the day?—I left off at 1 o'clock.

29,098. What did you get for voting?—Nothing, nor yet half a pint of beer.

29,099. Did you not get 3*s.*?—No, not half of 2*s.*

29,100–1. You are a Tory?—I am, I voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

29,102. Are you a member of the Eldon club?—No, I belong to no club.

29,103. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

29,104. Or the promise of anything?—No, I went up for old England and voted.

29,105. Did not your wife get anything?—No, I never heard a word about her getting anything; if I had got it I should have been very glad of it.

29,106. Did you go up and vote of your own accord?—Yes, they left the papers at my house, and I went and voted.

R. Horsley.

RICHARD HORSLEY sworn and examined.

29,107. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—I am a printer.

29,108. For whom did you vote at the last election?—I voted for Stracey and Russell.

29,109. What made you split your vote in that way?—That was my fancy; it was not because I got any money by it, because that is a thing that I would not have. I never got any money or a draught of beer except what I paid for with my own money.

29,110. Were you canvassed?—No, I was never canvassed by either party.

29,111. Was this your first time of voting?—No, I have voted many times.

29,112. On which side?—I voted for two Whigs always before, but I had a little objection to one of the Whig candidates, and therefore I voted one and one.

29,113. I suppose your objection was to Mr. Tillett?—Yes.

29,114. You belong to the old Whig party?—Yes.

29,115. Did you ever receive anything at any former election?—No, never in my life.

J. Green.

JAMES GREEN sworn and examined.

29,116. (Mr. Biron.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

29,117. At what time in the day?—At 3 o'clock.

29,118. Did you get anything for voting?—No, I never saw anything. I stood outside.

29,119. Did you get the promise of anything?—No.

29,120. Had you promised to vote for him?—No, I never promised anybody.

29,121. You went up and voted of your own accord?—Yes.

W. Hansell.

WILLIAM HANSELL sworn and examined.

29,122. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A shopkeeper.

29,123. Where do you live?—In Union Place, Heigham.

29,124. Who asked you for your vote?—Mr. Hibbett.

29,125. Did you promise him?—Yes.

29,126. What did he offer you for your vote?—Nothing.

29,127. Have you had anything since?—No.

29,128. Has your wife had anything?—Ah, I do not know.

29,129. Do you think she has?—I should hope not.

29,130. Do you know whether she has or not?—Not to the best of my knowledge.

29,131. Was anything left at your house?—No.

29,132. Are you quite sure that you have had nothing since?—Yes.

29,133. Did you get any beer?—No.

29,134. Are you certain that nothing was left for you?—I am.

29,135. At what time in the day did you vote?—I think at about 20 minutes to 4, as nigh as I could guess.

29,136. Did Mr. Hibbett come to fetch you?—No.

29,137. Who did?—No one. I was coming out of Union Place, and I saw Mr. Hibbett driving up the road, and he said, "Have you voted?" I said, "No;" and then he said, "Jump in," and I did jump in, and then I went and voted. I was going down to the market, for I value a vote so little that I do not care whether I vote or not.

29,138. At how much did you value your vote?—Not anything.

29,139. Would you have taken anything for it if you could have got it?—I cannot say.

29,140. Would 10*s.* have tempted you?—I do not think it would.

29,141. Or 1*l.*?—No, nor yet 1*l.*

W. Lock.

WILLIAM LOCK sworn and examined.

29,142. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A publican.

29,143. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

29,144. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

29,145. At what time in the day?—A little after 1.

29,146. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

29,147. Or the promise of anything?—No.

29,148. Was any beer going at your house?—No.

29,149. Was any money left with you that you might supply voters with beer?—No.

29,150. Were there any voters at your house that day?—No.

29,151. Were there no men there?—No.

29,152. Then was your house empty?—There was none except my regular customers.

29,153. I asked you just now if you had any voters in your house that day, and you said no; and then I asked you if you had no men in your house that day, and you said no, but you said afterwards that you had your regular customers?—Only those that came in in the regular way for their meals.

29,154. Were there people sitting and drinking there?—No. I had no strangers come into my house.

29,155. Or customers?—Only people who came in for beer for their meals.

29,156. Is the beer which you sell beer not to be drunk on the premises?—They may drink if they think proper.

WILLIAM MANN sworn and examined. W. Mann.

29,157. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A shoemaker.

29,158. Do you live in Heigham?—Yes.

29,159. Who asked you for your vote?—No one.

29,160. Did you give no promise of your vote to anyone?—No.

29,161. At what time in the day did you vote?—Between 3 and 4.

29,162. Who took you up to vote?—Mr. Walker.

29,163. What did he give you?—Nothing.

29,164. Did he not promise you anything?—No.

29,165. Have you had anything since?—No.

29,166. Has your wife had anything, or has anything been left at your house?—No.

29,167. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes.

29,168. Did anybody treat you to beer on the day of the election?—No.

29,169. Nothing was given to you at all?—No.

29,170. What made you vote so late?—Why I was busy that day.

29,171. What were you doing?—I was at work.

29,172. Were you not out the whole day?—I went out a little while in the afternoon.

29,173. Why did you not vote earlier, then?—Because I did not choose to vote at all.

29,174. What made you change your mind so late in the afternoon?—Because I saw Mr. Walter going, and others, and I thought I would give my vote along with them.

29,175. Did you go up in a carriage to the poll?—Yes.

29,176. Who took you up, Mr. Hibbett?—Yes.

29,177. Did he give you anything for voting?—No.

JAMES ARMES sworn and examined. J. Armes.

29,178. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A brewer's servant.

29,179. Who is your master?—Steward and Patteson.

29,180. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

29,181. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

29,182. At what time in the day?—At half-past 2 in the afternoon.

29,183. How came you not to vote before?—I was grinding malt at the brewery, and did not get my work done till 12 o'clock.

29,184. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

29,185. Or the promise of anything?—No.

ROBERT NEAVE sworn and examined. R. Neave.

29,186. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A porter at the Victoria station.

29,187. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Stracey and Russell.

29,188. What time in the day did you vote?—About 10 minutes past 3.

29,189. Why did you not vote earlier?—I went up to the polling place on Grapes Hill at a quarter before 9, and I found 50 or 60 voters there, and if I had stopped to give my vote then I should have lost my morning's work, and therefore I went to breakfast, and then went back to my work, and afterwards went to vote at half-past 2, and it was as bad then as it was in the morning.

29,190. Had you promised your vote?—No.

29,191. Had you been canvassed?—I had been asked for my vote, and I said I should vote for Stracey and Russell.

29,192. Did you receive anything for your vote?—No.

29,193. Did you get any beer?—No, not even a glass of beer.

JOSEPH SCARFE sworn and examined. J. Scarfe.

29,194. (Mr. Biron.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

29,195. At what time in the day?—At a quarter to 4.

29,196. What did you get for voting?—Not anything.

29,197. Why did you not vote before?—Because I was at work the whole day.

29,198. How came you to turn out when you did?—Mr. Metcalfe came and asked me if I had voted, and I said no; that was between 3 and 4, and he said, "You had better go now." I said I had not voted as I had work that I was obliged to be about all day.

29,199. Did he say he would give you anything if you went and voted?—No, not at all.

29,200. Had you been canvassed before?—Only once.

29,201. By whom were you canvassed?—Mr. Hibbett and Mr. Metcalfe.

29,202. Had you promised them to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—No.

29,203. Did you not promise at all?—No.

29,204. Why not?—I did not know which way I might vote.

29,205. You wanted something, did you not?—No.

29,206. Were you not waiting to see what you could get?—No, not at all.

29,207. Would you not have taken half a sovereign if it had been offered to you?—No, I should not have done anything of the kind.

29,208. Why did you vote at last?—Mr. Metcalfe asked me if I had been and voted, and I said no; and he said, "Then you had better go and see about it;" and then I went, I voted.

29,209. Do you know Mr. Metcalfe?—Yes.

29,210. Is he a customer of yours?—No, he is my landlord.

29,211. Did he pay your rates?—No, I paid them myself.

JAMES FITT sworn and examined. J. Fitt.

29,212. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A millwright.

29,213. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Stracey and Russell.

29,214. At what time in the day?—At half-past 1.

29,215. Had you promised your vote?—No.

29,216. Had you been asked for your vote?—No, not by anyone.

29,217. Have you had anything for your vote?—No.

29,218. Were you treated to any beer?—No, I was at work all day, only going to meals.

29,219. Did you go back to your work directly after you had voted?—Yes.

29,220. And nothing was promised to you?—No.

29,221. Had you ever voted before?—No, this was the first time I ever voted.

HENRY PAULING sworn and examined. H. Pauling.

29,222. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A baker.

29,223. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

29,224. At what time in the day?—About 3 o'clock.

29,225. Why did you not vote before?—Because it was not convenient for me to go before.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

H. Pauling.

5 Oct. 1869.

29,226. Are you a master baker?—Yes.

29,227. Were you engaged in your business the whole day?—Yes.

29,228. Did you take an active part in the election?—No.

29,229. You did not canvass?—No.

29,230. Did you take up any voters?—No.

29,231. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

29,232. Or the promise of anything?—No.

W. James.

WILLIAM JAMES sworn and examined.

29,233. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A cab driver.

29,234. Did you vote at the last election?—For nobody at all.

29,235. Have you a vote?—Yes, I have had a vote for nearly 45 years.

29,236. Had you voted on former occasions?—Yes; I do not know that ever I neglected voting only once before in my life.

29,237. Where do you live?—In the "Nag's Head" yard, on the Castle meadow.

29,238. At other elections have you ever had anything given to you for your vote?—No, nothing worth mentioning.

29,239. Did you get a trifle from Mr. Waters?—No.

29,240. From whom have you had money on former occasions?—I am sure I cannot say.

29,241. The Whigs or the Tories?—I am sure I cannot say; I cannot tell you that.

29,242. (Mr. Biron.) How much money did you get?—I am sure I cannot say now, it is so long ago.

29,243. (Mr. Mansfield.) I suppose you were willing to take what you could get?—No, I do not know for that.

29,244. (Mr. Biron.) You say you have taken money on former occasions?—A trifle, not much.

29,245. How long ago?—20 years, perhaps.

29,246. In the time of Scarlett was it?—I cannot say.

29,247. Did you live in King Street?—That is many years ago.

29,248. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you get a trifle at this election for anything?—No, not a farthing; there was a neighbour offered me half-a-crown.

29,249. Who was that neighbour?—Why Mr. Bacon; he offered me half-a-crown, and I said, says I, "Everyone that solicits me for my vote I have told "that I shall not vote at this election at all;" and then he came again in the afternoon, and told me he would double it, and I said, "You may go and treble and "treble it again if you like, I shall not vote at this "election."

29,250. Had you any reason for not voting at this election?—No, not particularly; I made up my mind not to do it.

J. Perry.

JACOB PERRY sworn and examined.

29,251. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A mat maker.

29,252. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

29,253. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

29,254. At what time?—Between 3 and 4.

29,255. What did you get for voting?—Nothing at all.

29,256. Where were you all day?—I was at home till after dinner, at my own house, doing my work.

29,257. You were waiting to see what would turn up?—I do not know; I do not think that is likely.

29,258. Were you not waiting to see if anybody would come and give you anything?—No, I should not think so. I was waiting to get my children's dinner as much as anything.

29,259. If anybody had come to you and offered you money you would have taken it, I suppose?—I do not suppose I should. I do not know what I should have done.

29,260–1. Nobody did come?—No.

29,262. Did anybody ask you to vote?—No.

29,263. And you got no money and no beer?—Not till after I had voted, and then I had half a pint of beer, but that I paid for myself.

T. Abel.

THOMAS ABEL sworn and examined.

29,264. (Mr. Mansfield,) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

29,265. At what time in the day?—At about half-past 2 as near as I can tell.

29,266. Had you promised your vote?—No.

29,267. Had you been asked for your vote?—Well, I had been asked for it in the forenoon.

29,268. By whom?—By Mr. Cubitt.

29,269. What answer did you give?—I told him I did not think proper to vote at that time.

29,270. Why not?—Because I had not time. I was after my work.

29,271. Did Cubitt offer to take you up to the poll?—No.

29,272. Did he give you some beer?—Not then.

29,273. When did he give you some beer?—I think I got a glass at half-past 3, after I had voted.

29,274. Who gave it to you?—Mr. Cubitt.

29,275. Was that Cubitt, the publican or David Cubitt?—Mr. Cubitt the publican.

29,276. You did not pay for it?—No.

29,277. Who did pay for it?—I do not know who paid for it; the woman drew it.

29,278. Did he tell you that if you went and voted for Stracey he would give you some beer?—I did not go to dinner till 2 o'clock nearly, and I thought I would walk about Magdalen Street, and then I saw Mr. Cubitt again in the street, and he asked me to vote. I said, "I shall not vote yet, I have not time." He said, "Oh, nonsense, go up and vote;" and then I thought proper to go up and vote, and after that he said, says he, "Go up to my house and you can have "something to drink." I did not go directly.

29,279. Did Cubitt go up with you to the poll?—No, not exactly; he went about half the length of the street, or something like that.

29,280. Had you promised him to go and vote?—I went and voted myself.

29,281. And then he told you to go to his house and get some beer?—He did not tell me to go.

29,282. There were a good many people there, were there not?—Not many then.

29,283. There was a good deal of beer going?—No; there was nothing stirring then, but perhaps there was ten or a dozen of them in there, and they said, "If you will come up in the evening there will be "plenty of drink," and I went up in the evening.

29,284. And you found that there was plenty of drink?—Perhaps there was plenty of drink going on, but I got very little of it.

29,285. I suppose you got as much as you could?—I got my share, I daresay, among the rest, but who paid for it I do not know.

29,286. You did not pay for it?—No, I did not.

29,287. Do you know the names of any of the men who were there?—I know one or two of them; there was one of the name of Horth, and one of the name of Caps.

29,288. Where do those two men live?—I think that Horth lives in Cross Keys Yard. I think that he voted in the forenoon.

29,289. And where does the other live?—Somewhere in St. Paul's churchyard, I think.

29,290. Did you not try to get any money for your vote?—No, I never saw a copper.

29,291. I suppose you were looking out to see if there was any chance of getting any?—Yes, I looked out as well as the rest; if there was a chance of getting a little I should have taken it as well as the rest, but I never saw a copper stirring.

29,292. Did you make any inquiries as to whether there were any coppers stirring or not?—No.

29,293. You walked about in the hope that somebody would come up to you and make a bargain for your vote?—No, I had not time to walk about, I was working from 5 o'clock in the morning till 8 o'clock at night. I was after my business.

29,294. Have you had anything before for voting in Norwich?—No, I never voted before.

29,295. Not at the municipal elections?—No.

SAMUEL MOORE sworn and examined.

S. Moore.

29,296. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A weaver.

29,297. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

29,298. At what time in the day?—Between 1 and 2.

29,300. Where were you all day?—At work.

29,301. Were you not in any public-house?—I only had one glass of beer.

29,302. Where was that?—At the "Lord Nelson" in Ber Street, and I paid for that myself.

29,303. After you had voted what did you do?—Went home to my work.

WILLIAM CHARLES THOMPSON sworn and examined.

W. C. Thompson.

29,304. (Mr. Mansfield.) I believe you did not vote at this election?—No.

29,305. Were you asked to vote?—I was asked to vote about 3 minutes to 4 in the afternoon.

29,306. Who asked you to vote?—John Nockles.

29,307. What did he offer you?—5*s.*

29,308. And some beer?—Yes.

29,309. You would not take it?—No.

29,310. You stood out for something more?—Yes.

29,311. And did he raise his price?—Yes, he raised it a shilling.

29,312. Then he offered you 6*s.*?—Yes.

29,313. Did he make any further offer?—I do not remember it.

29,314. Did you say you were ready to vote for the 6*s.*?—I did not vote.

29,315. You were too late?—He took and shoved me through the crowd, and just as I got to the window it was pulled down.

29,316. You could not vote?—No.

29,317. (Mr. Biron.) Did you get your 6*s.*?—No, he took and shoved me through. I did not do it of my own accord, because I was not of the mind.

29,318. (Mr. Mansfield.) But still you took the 6*s.*?—No, I did not.

29,319. You were willing to take it?—No, I was walking away from him, but he shoved me along.

29,320. And you neither got the 6*s.* nor any beer?—No.

JOSIAH BUTTIFANT sworn and examined.

J. Buttifant.

29,321. (Mr. Biron.) Did you take an active part in the last election?—I did.

29,322. Were you one of the ward managers?—I was the manager for South Heigham.

29,323. On which side?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

29,324. Was your committee room at the "Tuns"?—Yes.

29,325. Did you canvass at all yourself?—I canvassed one half day, I think, in St. Giles' parish.

29,326. Did you find in the course of your canvass that men were hanging back?—Not more than five or six, and they were poor people, living in yards. But I should mention that St. Giles' is a first-class parish.

29,327. When you got among the poorer class of voters, there was the well-known reluctance?—The new voters would not promise one way or the other.

29,328. Have you got any canvass books here?—Yes. I think I may say that mine was the only ward in the city that had canvass books. I made them for my own use. I was not aware that I had them; I thought Mr. Chittock had them, but since I received your summons I have looked them up. I think they will not be of much service; the promises we got were few and far between. (The books referred to are handed by the witness to the Commissioners.)

29,329. Do you know anything of any corrupt practices?—None whatever at the last election.

29,330. Did you know anything about Waters' business?—I acted as agent for Mr. Waters up to the time when the disagreement took place between Mr. Waters and Mr. Goldsmid, and then I ceased.

29,331. That was when an agreement was entered into that Mr. Goldsmid was to pay a lump sum?—That agreement was entered into, I think, after the election was over.

29,332. There was a division between Mr. Goldsmid and Mr. Waters from some cause or another?—Yes. I had been acting till that time, and then Mr. Skipper was appointed two days before the election. We could not get an agent, and in fact I was obliged to do the work for a certain time; and when the division took place, Mr. Skipper acted for Mr. Goldsmid, and Mr. Atkinson was appointed for Mr. Waters.

29,333. Did you know anything of any money going at that election?—No; I had nothing to do with the election.

29,334. You did not know of Mr. Waters having got 1,000*l.*?—No; I heard after the election was over that money had been going, and that there had been bribery on the election day.

29,335. From whom did you hear that?—From different voters. I was about a great deal on that day, in consequence of my not being employed as agent, and I went about endeavouring to persuade people to vote for the two parties, notwithstanding the division.

29,336. You had not the handling of any money at that election?—No, not a farthing. I had always acted as one of the legal agents, and therefore I thought it my duty not to interfere with money. I left that to the underground people.

29,337. You know these subterranean people?—Yes.

29,338. Who were they?—Mr. William Kitton was the chief man.

29,339. Would he have been the person to give us all the information we require upon the subject?—Yes; I should think the late Mr. Kitton on the one side, and the late Mr. Wilde on the other.

29,340. Did Dawson act under Mr. Kitton?—No; Mr. Dawson was with me till the last election.

29,341. Is there anybody else besides Mr. Kitton who could give us information upon the subject?—I cannot call anyone to mind just now, after this lapse of time. I do not know who distributed money at Mr. Waters' election, but at Bignold and Lushington's election I believe there was a great deal of money spent in bribery.

29,342. I am speaking of Waters' election and the preceding election of Lewis and Forlonge?—There I acted as deputy to Mr. Lewis, the brother of the candidate.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

J. Buttifant.

5 Oct. 1869.

29,343. Do you know of any money having been spent by Mr. Lewis?—No.

29,344. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Is there anybody, so far as you know, who can give us the same information that Mr. Kitton could have given with reference to that election?—There were people in each ward always open to employment. Mr. Kitton, I should say, would communicate direct to his staff in each ward.

29,345. Your impression is that there was a staff acting under Mr. Kitton?—There would be in cases of bribery previously agreed to; but an agent would be the last person to know anything about it.

29,346. Who they were you do not know?—No; I might, perhaps, be able to tell you if I were to consider the matter a little. I should say that Mr. Kitton was a man who would not trust to a second or third person.

29,347. (Mr. Biron.) If you could give us anything like information which would enable us to get at the whole or anything like the whole truth of the matter, we should be very glad, with reference both to Waters' and Lewis and Forlonge's election?—There was nothing in Lewis and Forlonge's election, I am perfectly satisfied. There was none on our side; from what has transpired since I am perfectly satisfied of it. There might be treating by individuals.

29,348. But no organised bribery?—No, I am perfectly satisfied that there was not.

29,349. There was not what they call here "plant" money?—No. I do not suppose that any election could take place in Norwich without bribery or treating to some extent. I do not think that either side can win without it.

29,350. Do you remember the preceding election, when Colonel Boldero, Lord Bury, and Sir Samuel Bignold were candidates?—Yes; I had to do with that election.

29,351. Do you know of any bribery on your side at that election?—No.

29,352. Or on the other side?—No. I think it was a pure election. It was not an election to call for the spending of money, because Colonel Boldero was merely a nominee who was put up without his consent, to take the chance of a petition.

29,353. You would know, from your experience, whether bribery was carried on on the opposite side?—I do not think that there was any bribery on that occasion. At the last election I took no active part.

29,354. I am not speaking of the last election but of the election in 1860, in consequence of Lord Bury accepting office?—That was a bye election which took place between the former election and the petition being heard.

29,355. Can you form any opinion as to whether there was any bribery at that election?—I should think there was none at all; there was no cause for it, because we felt satisfied as to the result of the petition. We served a protest on that occasion upon the voters against Lord Bury's election, saying that he was not qualified, in consequence of the petition standing over.

29,356. Therefore it would not be worth his while to bribe, or yours either?—No; we considered that he was not qualified to sit, and it turned out that he was not.

29,357. (Mr. Mansfield.) You trusted to win on that technical ground?—Yes; the committee was against us. We expected that Mr. Lewis would be returned as the next on the poll, but the election was declared to be void, and therefore we lost our "tip" on that occasion.

29,358. Did you take the precaution of giving notices?—Yes; every voter who came up to poll for Lord Bury was served with a printed form, signed, I think, by me, to the effect that he was disqualified to serve in Parliament, he having taken the office of treasurer of the household, or something of that sort. Colonel Boldero was merely put forward as an electioneering dodge. Sir Samuel Bignold was affected by the same inquiry, so that he might be disqualified as well as Lord Bury, and we thought that in the event of Sir Samuel being disqualified he would go in.

29,359. Then I understand it to be your impression that there was no bribery on that occasion on either side?—Yes.

29,360. Were you engaged then as agent?—Yes; all the agents at that election worked voluntarily; nobody was paid, it being a bye election.

29,361. Do you know who was Lord Bury's agent then?—No, I do not recollect.

29,362. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Wilde?—Wilde was one of the agents, no doubt; he was always looked upon as the working agent, not the legal agent.

29,363. The legal agent they take care shall know very little?—Yes, that is understood; they never do know anything. It would not answer their purpose.

29,364. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you know who did the underground work at the last election?—I did not believe that there was any till after the election was over. I live in a district where there is very little to operate upon.

29,365. At Waters' election the man who did a great deal was Mr. Arthur Bignold?—So I have heard.

29,366. And he was pretty active in this?—I found he was cashier or financial agent to Mr. Waters. I tried to get paid for my services, but never did. I tried to get paid through Mr. Arthur Bignold, but I never could.

29,367. He was pretty active at this election?—I never saw anything of him at this election. I took very little interest in it, and it was only the week before that I was induced to enter into at all. I had retired from agency, and had made up my mind to retire from political matters altogether.

29,368. Did you never see Mr. Arthur Bignold at this election?—No, I did not see him till after the election was over. I never attended at the central committee room. I did not take what may be called a general interest in the election. I merely took my own ward that I reside in.

29,369. You thought everything was plain and above board, and that there was no underground action?—I did not think there was any on the last occasion. I thought there was treating going on.

29,370. That you could see?—I saw people standing about public-houses and going in and out, and I thought treating was going on.

29,371. I suppose that at former elections nothing so low as half a crown was given for votes?—I can scarcely conceive that a man could debase himself so much as to take so little as half a crown; but the payments this time were merely nominal, what we should call in election matters a mere bagatelle, a thing not worth talking about.

A. Master.

ALFRED MASTER sworn and examined.

29,372. (Mr. Mansfield.) I believe you took a very active part in this election?—No, I do not think I did take a very active part.

29,373. You canvassed a certain number of voters?—Yes, I did, some voters.

29,374. How many did you canvass?—I could not tell you. I spoke upon the matter to people that I met, but I did not go canvassing at all. I was a great deal about in my profession, and when I had an opportunity I spoke to people and canvassed their votes.

29,375. Did you give any money to anyone?—Not a farthing.

29,376. Did you treat anyone?—You know the great breakfast case; that is the only treating that I had to do with.

29,377. Give us your account of that?—My account of it is this: a notice was issued to call the Conservative voters to meet opposite my house, to go in a body to the poll. The street being a little wider there than in other places I suppose, and it being a cold wet morning, I asked two or three people to come in and have some coffee, it was in my servants' hall, and the servants were just going to breakfast. There was coffee upon the table at the time; the people were waiting out there, and rather than that they should be waiting in the cold I asked them to come in; and whether they were voting for my candidate, Sir Henry Stracey, or for anybody else, I really did not take the pains to inquire; but I have found, since the inquiry, there were two or three that voted the other way, though of course the majority were for the Conservatives, because they were meeting there by appointment.

29,378. Do you know how many there were in the house altogether?—Not above five or seven at one time; two or three people came dropping in afterwards, but I should say that two of them were my farming men, and one was my partner's coachman, who is very often in; they all more or less were in the habit of frequenting my house, and having a glass of beer whenever they came in, and have had a good many since. I never made any canvass on that occasion at all.

29,379. (Mr. Biron.) I think you told Mr. Baron Martin that you put them altogether at 23 that you could reckon up?—I think it was so. I tried hard to reckon them up at the time; they were most of them people who had been in my house frequently before and since.

29,380. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you promise anyone any money for voting at this election?—Not a farthing.

29,381. Did you canvass a man of the name of Smith?—I do not know at all; I did not knowingly.

29,382. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You know the person to whom we allude. You know the person you saw in the presence of Mr. Vassar?—I do not know Mr. Vassar. I should not know him if I were to see him.

29,383. Do you not recollect having some conversation with a man who said you should not bribe another?—No; I am quite sure I should have recollected it if he had said such a thing to me.

29,384. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you know a man of the name of Bygrave?—No, not at all; I think it is an extremely improbable thing that a man would come and tell me I was not to bribe anyone; whoever knows me would know better than that I think.

29,385. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Your political opponents are not very charitable?—No, not very.

29,386. (Mr. Biron.) Do you remember talking to some men at half-past 3, and trying to persuade them to go and vote?—Yes.

29,387. Was there a man of the name of Bygrave?—I could not tell you his name; somebody said to me as I was coming home from my farm that there was a man or two in the street who had not voted yet, and would I go and speak to them. I could not tell you who it was who told me of it even.

29,388. Did you find a man who was unwilling to go and vote?—Yes.

29,389. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you recollect the circumstance that he said he had been ill?—I think I do recollect something of that sort, now you name it. I think he said so, but it was nothing that made any impression on my mind at all.

29,390. (Mr. Biron.) While you were talking to him did a man came up to you and say something?—I had many who came round directly, but what one person said I do not know, though certainly no one said anything to insult me

29,391. You heard nothing said of which you could take notice?—No.

29,392. Did anyone come and interfere with your talking to the man and take or get the man away from you?—No, I do not think so; there was nothing of that sort at all.

29,393. A man has been examined here who has stated that he saw you talking to Bygrave and endeavouring to persuade him to vote, and that he went up to you and said, "I will not have any of this bribery"?—Nothing of that sort took place, and if he had said so I should have let him know what I thought about it.

29,394. You would have said something to him?—Yes.

29,395. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) This is the statement: "I saw Dr. Master urging them to vote for Stracey. "I spoke to Bygrave and reminded him that he was "a member of the organisation and professed to be a "Liberal, and asked him how he could possibly vote "for Stracey. He then told me that Dr. Master "would give him money, and asked me how much I "would give. I then expostulated with Mr. Master, "who urged Smith to go and vote, but did not address "himself to Bygrave. Bygrave again asked me what "I was going to give, and I told him that I dare not "and would not give him anything, and said there "was a heavy penalty against it. I again remon-"strated with Mr. Master, and he then left, neither "of the men going with him"?—The remonstrance is entirely a lie. I can venture to say that no man made any remonstrance to me at all.

29,396. That is the statement which was made here by Vassar; there is considerable difficulty certainly in believing anybody in Norwich.—If all the statements are like that I can quite understand your difficulty.

29,397. (Mr. Biron.) You were talking to the two men?—Yes, I did talk to them, but I never offered anybody anything at the election, not a single farthing, nor any promise of any kind whatever.

29,398. Did the man make any remonstrance with you?—No, certainly not; he might have said, "You "have no business to come here," or something of that sort, but he did not say that I was attempting to bribe, or that I should not bribe him; it was in a public place and I did not make any secret of it, so that it is hardly likely I should go and accost a man in that way.

29,399. Did you hear a man say anything about your giving money?—No, not at all.

29,400. According to this account it was a thing that must have occurred in your very presence?—It was not so, decidedly not. I read it in one of the papers in London, and there it was put in I suppose by accident, that he saw me attempting to bribe somebody. I see his evidence now will bear another construction, that I was simply trying to persuade him.

29,401. He seemed to have got it into his head that you were doing it?—He probably knew something about it himself I should think. I never did anything of the sort.

29,402. As the chairman has said your opponents at an election are not the most charitable?—I should like to have it put upon record that I never offered a single shilling.

ROBERT ROLL sworn and examined.

R. Roll.

29,403. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A brickmaker.

29,404. Who did you vote for?—Stracey.

29,405. What time in the day?—2 o'clock.

29,406. Who asked you to vote?—Not anyone.

29,407. Did you not promise your vote?—No.

29,408. What did you get for it?—Nothing.

29,409. Have you had anything since?—No.

29,410. Who took you up to the poll?—Not anyone.

29,411. Did anybody treat you that day?—Not at all.

29,412. Where were you all the morning?—At work till 1 o'clock.

29,413. After 1 o'clock where did you go?—I got my dinner, came down into Magdalen Street, and voted, and then went for a walk just where I thought proper.

29,414. Did you go to any public-house?—Yes, lots.

29,415. Which?—All round the market. I went to Holmes', and Miller's, and lots of places, but not to get any treatment.

29,416. Did you not get any beer?—What I paid for.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

R. Roll.

5 Oct. 1869.

29,417. No one treated you ?—No.

29,418. Did you hear of any money going ?—No.

29,419. Did you ask for any ?—No.

29,420. Did you want any ?—No.

29,421. You have had nothing paid you since ?—No.

WILLIAM PRATT sworn and examined.

W. Pratt.

29,422. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A coal carter.

29,423. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

29,424. For whom ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

29,425. What time in the day ?—Between 3 and 4.

29,426. Did you get anything for voting ?—No.

29,427. How was that ?—I did not ask for anything, and was not offered anything.

29,428. You waited to find out if anything was going ?—No ; I took a load of coal and went into the country in the morning, and when I got home it w getting latish, and I got my dinner and went and voted.

29,429. Had you promised your vote ?—No, I had not promised it to anyone and I was not asked for my vote.

29,430. Not by anybody ?—No, I was not.

29,431. Had you ever voted at former elections ?—No.

29,432-3. This was your first vote ?—Yes.

29,434. You have told me you got nothing for it ?—No.

29,435. Nor the promise of anything ?—Nor yet a promise.

J. Edwards.

JAMES EDWARDS sworn and examined.

29,436. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade ?—A weaver.

29,437. Who did you vote for ?—Tillett and Russell.

29,438. What time in the day ?—About 3 o'clock.

29,439. Who asked you to vote ?—There were several gentlemen came to my door and asked me, and I told them I was going to vote for Tillett and Russell.

29,440. Did you get anything for voting ?—No, no one offered me a single farthing.

29,441. Nor yet a glass of beer ?—No, nor yet a glass of beer.

29,442. Have you had anything since ?—No, I have had nothing since. I have never seen anything, nor yet a fraction of anything.

29,443. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Have you voted at former elections ?—Yes, I voted for many years.

29,444. Which side did you vote for ?—All but one I have voted for the Whigs.

29,445. Did you get anything for it then ?—Oh yes, several times.

29,446. You have often had money ?—Yes, several times, in former times back.

29,447. What is the biggest sum you ever got ?—I have been offered 10*l.*

29,448. Did you ever get 10*l.* ?—Yes, I have.

29,449. Who from ?—A woman gave it to me at a cellar house at St. Martin's, and asked me whether I would vote.

29,450. What election was that ?—Gurney and Grant's, I think a number of years ago.

29,451. This time you could not get anything ?—Not a single fraction.

29,452. Did you look out for anything ?—No, and never asked for nothing.

29,453. Did you hear whether there was any money going ?—No, I never saw anything, nor yet anybody offered me anything.

29,454. You wanted it ?—Yes, no doubt I did ; an old man like me wanted something, but I got nothing and had nothing nor yet a fraction offered me.

29,455. You did not know there was as much as 10*l.* going among the whole lot ?—No, I had not a fraction offered me.

29,456. Did you hear of anything going ?—No, I never heard of anything.

29,457. You would have been there if you had ?—I should like to have had something, it would have been very useful to me.

W. Maris.

WILLIAM MARIS sworn and examined.

29,458. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A potato salesman.

29,459. On your own account ?—Yes.

29,460. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes, I did.

29,461. For whom ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

29,462. What time in the day ?—Half-past 8 in the morning.

29,463. Had you been canvassed for your vote before ?—No.

29,464. Had you promised to vote ?—No.

29,465. You went of your own accord and voted as soon as the poll was opened ?—Yes.

29,466. What did you do after you voted ?—Went and got my breakfast.

29,467. That is natural ; I mean after that ?—Well, I done a little bit.

29,468. Did you get up any voters ?—Yes, I did.

29,469. Whereabouts did you go to get up voters ?—I cannot say, a good many places.

29,470. Just give me the names of one or two you got up ?—I do not remember one name.

29,471. Do not state such a thing as that.—I do not remember one, that is the truth.

29,472. Do not say that is the truth.—I do not remember one.

29,473. I would much rather you would not say that is the truth. Did you go about with your cart ?—No.

29,474. Did you go about with any cart ?—No, I went about in a cab.

29,475. Did you take up voters in your cab ?—Yes, I did, a great many.

29,476. Some of them were very drunk, were they not ?—No.

29,477. They were drunk ?—No.

29,478. Did you not take up any man that was drunk ?—No.

29,479. Did you stand any beer that day ?—Yes, I did, a few pints of beer or a few pots of beer, that would not make anyone drunk.

29,480. Where did you stand your beer ?—At two or three different places. I do not know the signs exactly.

29,481. What were the houses, in what streets ?—There were several different houses, but I do not know the names of the streets or the houses.

29,482. Are you a native of Norwich ?—Yes, I live in Norwich, and belong to it.

29,483. How long have you lived in Norwich ?—A few years.

29,484. You know Norwich perfectly well ?—Yes, I know Norwich.

29,485. Do you mean really to tell me that you do not know where you stood the beer ?—I do not know the names of the houses where I stood the beer.

29,486. If you answer like that I shall know what course to take.—I do not know the signs of the houses where I stood the beer.

29,487. You do not know the name of the street or the name of the house ?—I know the names of some of the parishes, but not the streets.

29,488. Do you know the landlords?—Yes. I stood half a gallon of beer at Wright's, at the "True Briton," at Catton.

29,489. What time in the day was that?—I cannot exactly say.

29,490. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) How many voters was that for?—Not for any voters.

29,491. (Mr. Biron.) How many voters did you get up from Wright's?—I cannot say.

29,492. Did you get any?—I do not know that there was any through that half gallon of beer.

29,493. I did not ask you that. You told me you stood beer at Wright's, and I ask you did you get up voters from Wright's?—No.

29,494. Not one?—No.

29,495. What did you give the beer for?—I treated the cabman with half a gallon of beer, and I drank with him.

29,496. You saw some men there?—No.

29,497. What did you say; repeat it again?—I treated the cabman with half a gallon of beer, and I drank with him.

29,498. You treated him with half a gallon of beer?—A few people stood about that had no votes that I know of, and they drank out of it.

29,499. How many men did you take away from that place?—I cannot say.

29,500. Did you take any?—There was some in the cab at the time, but they did not come from there.

29,501. Where had you got them from?—From Old Catton.

29,502. How many?—I cannot say; several of them.

29,503. You brought them from Old Catton, and stopped there to give them a drink?—I did not treat them, I treated the cabman. The cabman said, Was I going to have anything to drink? and I said, "Yes, have what you like," and he got half a gallon of beer, and I paid for it.

29,504. And they drank it?—Yes.

29,505. Give me the names?—I do not know the names.

29,506. We shall be under the unpleasant necessity of detaining you here.—So you must; I cannot help it. I tell you the truth. I do not know the names. I do not recollect the names.

29,507. You do not know a street, a name, or a public-house. All you know is you took up a great number of men.—I took them from all parts, where I could gather them.

29,508. You cannot give the name of one single man that you took up?—I do not remember the names.

29,509. You told me that you paid for some beer?—Yes, I spent a few shillings.

29,510. How much did you spend?—I cannot say. No more that day than I do another day.

29,511. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Not more for that day than other days?—Not a bit.

29,512. (Mr. Biron.) Do you stand half a gallon every day in your life?—So I do a few gallons, and have done for the last few years.

29,513. You stand gallons of beer every day of your life?—I stand gallons of beer.

29,514. Where have you spent your money to-day for your gallon or two?—Several houses. I cannot tell where I have been.

29,515. To-day?—I do not know the signs.

29,516. You must think this over.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) I think you had better take a week in gaol to consider it.

(Mr. Biron.) We will have a warrant prepared for you, and you shall go for a week, if you prefer that.

JAMES COMAN sworn and examined.

J. Coman.

29,517. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you?—A labourer.

29,518. Who did you vote for at the last election?—Mr. Stracey.

29,519. What time in the day?—About half-past 3, as near as I can tell.

29,520. Who asked you for your vote?—No one at all to the best of my knowledge.

29,521. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing at all.

29,522. Where were you during the day?—At work.

29,523. The whole day?—Barring the time it took me just to go and vote.

29,524. Where were you working?—At Messrs. Steward and Patteson's.

29,525. Most of them voted for Stracey at that establishment, did they not?—I believe so.

29,526. Did you go back to your work as soon as you had voted?—Direct.

29,527. You had nothing for it?—No, nothing at all.

JOSEPH GARDINER sworn and examined.

J. Gardiner.

29,528. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a lodging-house keeper.

29,529. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

29,530. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

29,531. At what time in the day?—About a quarter past or half-past 1.

29,532. What did you get for voting?—Nothing.

29,533. Or the promise of anything?—No, nothing; certainly not.

29,534. Who brought you up to the poll?—I went myself.

29,535. Had you promised your vote?—Nobody asked me.

29,536. Nobody asked you at all?—No. I have voted for the party for the last three or four elections.

29,537. Have you always voted for the Tories?—Yes.

29,538. Did you ever get anything on former elections?—No.

29,539. Never in your life?—No.

29,540. You said that no rather faintly?—I say no, I never did; I never asked the question.

WILLIAM LIMMER sworn and examined.

W. Limmer.

29,541. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A painter.

29,542. For whom did you vote?—Stracey.

29,543. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

29,544. What did you get for your vote?—Not anything.

29,545. Who asked you to vote?—I cannot say.

29,546. Did anyone ask you to vote?—I was asked by different people at different times, but I never took anything. I never asked for anything, and never was offered anything.

29,547. Did you promise to vote?—No, I did not promise anybody.

29,548. Did you say you would not promise?—I cannot say nothing about that.

29,549. You must know whether you promised or not?—I never promised anybody.

29,550. Are you certain nobody asked you to promise?—I cannot say about whether anybody asked me. I was asked by both sides whether I would vote for them.

29,551. Who took you up to the poll?—Not anybody.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

W. Limmer.

5 Oct. 1869.

29,552. With whom did you go to the poll?—I did not go with anybody, I went by myself.

29,553. Have you had anything since?—No, nor yet before.

29,554. Did you get any beer given you that day?—No.

29,555. Where were you during the day?—About different places.

29,556. Where?—I cannot say where I was; I was about at different places.

29,557. At what public-houses were you?—I cannot say any particular public-houses.

29,558. Were you at any public-houses?—Yes, I was in, perhaps, two or three in the day.

29,559. Cannot you recollect where?—Yes, I was in the "Tuns."

29,560. You got some beer there, did you not?—None but what I paid for.

29,561. Were there any other people there getting beer without paying for it?—I never saw anyone.

29,562. Do you mean to say you got no beer there without paying for it?—I mean to tell you I never got any beer anywhere without paying for it.

29,563. What other houses did you go to?—I cannot say; I might be in one or two during the day.

29,564. You cannot recollect them?—No, I do not know that I can.

29,565. Have you had anything paid you since for your vote?—No, nothing at all. I never was paid anything. I never asked for anything, and never was offered anything.

29,566. Have you ever been paid before?—No.

C. Widdows.

CHARLES WIDDOWS sworn and examined.

29,567. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a teacher of music.

29,568. Did you vote at the last election?—I did not.

29,569. Have you a vote?—I have a vote.

29,570. Are you the master of the band?—Yes.

29,571. Were you hired at all for the last election?—Yes, I was.

29,572. You and your band?—Yes.

29,573. On which side?—The Liberal side, the Whig side.

29,574. Was that for the nomination day?—That was for the election day.

29,575. The polling day?—Yes.

29,576. Who paid you?—I was paid by Mr. Copeland, through Mr. Tuxford.

29,577. How much was it?—I had 16*l.*, I think it was, or 16 guineas; I forget which almost now; it was one of the two.

29,578. What were you to do?—Simply to send out a band to play in the streets anywhere they chose to go.

29,579. To go round the streets playing?—Yes.

29,580. Popular airs?—Yes.

29,581. Why did you not vote?—Because I did not approve of the coalition.

29,582. Amongst your band were there any voters?—Yes, several voters.

29,583. Did you pay them anything?—Yes, I paid them the same as the others. I paid them all alike.

29,584. How many voters did you pay?—I do not know. There were about 20 or 21 in the band altogether.

29,585. You had a list of them?—Yes. I have not got the list before me, but I know who they are.

29,586. You could tell me?—Yes.

29,587. Could you remember them now?—It would take some little time.

29,588. How many of them do you think were voters?—I should think they were all, under the new Act.

29,589. Do you know how they voted?—Some one way and some the other. I had both Whigs and Tories in my band.

29,590. How much did you pay them each?—I did not keep any account. I distributed the money amongst them after paying for the refreshments of the day.

29,591. Some got more than others, I presume?—No, I think they were pretty well all paid alike.

29,592. What was it, something like half a guinea?—More than that; 12*s.* 6*d.*, I think.

29,593. Try and make out a list of the voters in your band?—I will do so.

R. Mear.

ROBERT MEAR sworn and examined.

29,594. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Stracey.

29,595. At what time in the day?—Between 2 and 4 in the afternoon.

29,596. What did you get for it?—Nothing.

29,597. Did you not try?—No, I did not.

29,598. Did you not hear there was some money going?—No, I did not.

29,599. Did you get any beer?—What I paid for.

29,600. Where did you go to that afternoon?—I cannot say the sign of the house exactly, but it was, I think, the "Prince of Wales," kept by Reuben Cann.

29,601. Have you had anything since the election?—No, and never had.

29,602. Did you try to get anything?—No, certainly not; I did not wish anything.

29,603. Was nothing offered you?—No, not in the least.

29,604. Did you promise your vote?—No.

29,605. Were you asked for it?—I cannot positively say respecting that; the parties called at my house. I think it was Mr. Tillett's party, but I would not be certain about that. I did not promise them; I never promise them until I go up and vote, and then I know what I am doing.

29,606. Have you ever voted before?—Yes.

29,607. Upon which side have you voted before?—Always on the Conservative side.

M. Debbage.

MILES DEBBAGE recalled and further examined.

29,608. (Mr. Biron.) Were you at the "Pigeons"?—No, not on the election day.

29,609. Are you perfectly clear about that?—Yes.

29,610. What was your public-house on the day of the election?—I never went to any. I had not a glass of ale anywhere that day in the 24 hours.

29,611. Were you near the "Pigeons" on the day of the election?—Yes, I was standing on the kerb directly opposite the bar door; that was about 2 yards or 2½ yards from the bar door.

29,612. Did you see any clergyman go to the "Pigeons" that day?—I saw Mr. Dombrain in the bar.

29,613. What was he doing there?—He was speaking to a man whom I do not know, and should not know if I was to see him again; he was standing on the left hand of Mr. Dombrain.

29,614. What time in the day was that?—I should think as near as I can recollect, but I would not say to swear positively, that it was between 2 and 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

29,615. Who was present there besides?—I do not know who that man was; the bar was full of people besides Mr. Dombrain. I was not in the bar.

29,616. Was anybody with you?—No, I was standing at the outside. I live in Charing Cross when I am at home.

SAMUEL RUST sworn and examined. S. Rust.

29,617. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—I am a wood turner.

29,618. Were you at the "Pigeons" on the day of the poll?—Yes, I was in the house in the afternoon a short time.

29,619. What were you doing there?—I went in for a pint of ale.

29,620. Who gave you the pint of ale?—I do not know who drawed it; I paid for it myself.

29,621. Who else was there at that time?—I could not say. There were several persons there, but I could not call anybody to mind particularly.

29,622. Was Miles Debbage there?—He was not in the house while I was there.

29,623. Did you see a clergyman there?—No.

29,624. Not at any time?—I did not see any clergyman.

29,625. Do you know Mr. Dombrain?—Yes.

29,626. Did you see him there?—No, not while I was there; I never see the man that day.

29,627. For whom did you vote?—Russell and Tillett.

29,628. At what time in the day?—About 10 o'clock; it might be a little after or a little before.

29,629. What did you get for it?—Nothing.

29,630. Did you get any beer?—No.

29,631. Who canvassed you?—I was not canvassed at all.

29,632. Had you not promised your vote?—No.

BENJAMIN NEWMAN sworn and examined. B. Newman.

29,633. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shoemaker.

29,634. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

29,635. For whom?—For Stracey.

29,636. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

29,637. Why did you not vote sooner than that?—I had some work to do which I could not give over before.

29,638. Were you at work the whole day?—Yes.

29,639. Until you voted?—I was at work till 3 o'clock.

29,640. Where did you go then?—I went to vote then.

29,641. Did you get anything for voting?—Not anything.

29,642. Or the promise of anything?—Not any promise.

29,643. Had you promised your vote?—I was canvassed by some gentleman, but I do not know who he was.

29,644. Did you tell him you would vote for Stracey?—I promised him to vote for Stracey.

FREDERICK GEORGE PRESS sworn and examined. F. G. Press.

29,645. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Stracey.

29,646. At what time in the day?—About half-past 10 in the morning.

29,647. Had you promised your vote?—I never promise my vote. Mr. Stracey and three or four more were canvassing in the lane a morning or two before the election, and I was on my cart, and I said, "You "do not want to go to my house; my vote is answer-"able for you on the election morning."

29,648. Did you get anything for voting?—No, nothing at all; I never saw anyone on the day.

29,649. Have you ever voted before at other elections?—Yes.

29,650. On which side?—The Tory side.

29,651. Always?—Yes, always.

29,652. Have you ever got anything for it?—No.

29,653. Did you vote for Waters?—Not to the best of my knowledge; I almost forget. I do not think I did.

29,654. Were you promised anything?—No.

29,655. Did you go to any public-houses?—I was going about during the day, but I did not stop anywhere.

29,656. What public-house were you at?—I do not know that I stopped anywhere two minutes during the day.

29,657. Do you not know the public-houses you were at?—I can tell you where I spent most of the day, and that was at Mr. Marshall's, in St. Clement's, where I got two glasses of porter.

29,658. What is the sign of the house?—I do not know. I went and paid for my own drink.

29,659. No one treated you?—No, not one.

29,660. You are quite certain of that?—Not one treated me, unless a friend came in and said, "Here is a glass of beer for you."

PHILIP LINES sworn and examined. P. Lines.

29,661. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a hackney master and a publican.

29,662. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

29,663. What time in the day?—Ten minutes before 1.

29,664. Did you get anything for it?—No, certainly not, and I never was asked for my vote by any creature.

29,665. Were there any people at your house that day?—Not a soul; I never drawed a pint of beer that day; that is what I wish I had done.

29,666. How was it? Were you at home all day waiting?—I had no company at all, and never had at any election. When I kept the "Somerleyton" I never had a soul come to my house on the election, because I was quite away from all the town.

29,667. You never interfered with the election at all?—No.

29,668. Had you promised your vote?—No, certainly not to a soul. I never promised to any; but Sir Henry Stracey is the gentleman I meant to vote for, and no other man.

29,669. You kept that to yourself, and went and voted when it suited you?—Yes, certainly I did.

JAMES SNELLING sworn and examined. J. Snelling.

29,670. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A shoemaker.

29,671. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Stracey.

29,672. At what time in the day?—Three o'clock.

29,673. What did you get for it?—Nothing at all.

29,674. Did you try to get something?—No.

29,675. Did you get any beer?—No.

29,676. What made you vote so late?—Because I did not leave off till dinner time.

29,677. Did anybody ask you for your vote?—No.

29,678. Had you never told anybody how you were going to vote?—No.

29,679. You never spoke about the election at all?—No.

29,680. Have you ever voted before?—No.

29,681. Did anybody ask you to go up to the poll?—No.

29,682. You never spoke about it at all?—No.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

J. Snelling.

5 Oct. 1869.

29,683. You cannot expect me to believe it; you must have talked about it to somebody?—No, I did not.

29,684. What made you go and vote?—I came and voted at the first place I saw open.

29,685. Did no one speak to you about it?—No.

29,686. Tell me what you got?—I got nothing at all.

29,687. Did you get some beer?—Not a drop, only what I paid for.

29,688. Where were you all day?—I was at work in the morning at home.

29,689. When you left your work did you not go and get some beer?—Yes.

29,690. Where did you go?—I came down Magdalen Street, and went into Mr. Cubitt's and ordered a pint of beer and paid for it, and went and voted; no one ever axed me about it.

29,691. Have you got anything since?—No.

D. Kirby.

DAVID KIRBY sworn and examined.

29,692. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A master shoemaker.

29,693. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

29,694. For whom?—Tillett and Russell.

29,695. At what time in the day?—Something after 3, but I cannot tell you exactly the time.

29,696. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

29,697. Nor the promise of anything?—No, not a farthing.

29,698. Do you know a man of the name of Dover?—Yes.

29,699. Did he not give you something for voting?—No, I never saw him, and had not seen him for a fortnight before the election.

D. Cook.

DANIEL COOK sworn and examined.

29,700. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A hawker.

29,701. Have you ever voted before?—No.

29,702. For whom did you vote this time?—Sir Henry Stracey.

29,703. At what time in the day?—Between 1 and 2.

29,704. What did you get for it?—Nothing.

29,705. Who asked you to vote?—Mr. Maris.

29,706. Did he take you up to vote?—Yes.

29,707. Did he not give you some beer?—No, only what I paid for myself; that is the only beer I got.

29,708. Did you not get any beer all day?—Yes, by paying for it.

29,709. There was a great deal of beer going without being paid for?—I got none of it.

29,710. Did you not hear that there was some money going?—No, not a farthing.

29,711. Did you hear nothing about it?—No.

29,712. Were you not looking out for it?—No, I never thought nothing about it.

29,713. You would have been glad enough to get it?—No; I should not think about the like myself.

29,714. Are you sure you would not?—Yes.

29,715. Where did Maris pick you up?—I was at work for Mr. Maris at the same time.

29,716. What were you doing?—Digging potatoes.

29,717. He took you from the potatoes and put you in his cab and took you to the poll?—He asked me to go and vote.

29,718. Did he not give you anything for it?—No, not a farthing. I never asked him.

29,719. No beer on the day?—I never see none, only what I paid for myself.

29,720. Did you not get something afterwards?—No, not a farthing. I went from the poll up to Mr. Dover's.

29,721 Did you get no more beer that day?—Yes, what I paid for.

29,722. What public-house did you go to after polling?—Mr. Cubitt's, and from that I went up to Mr. Dover's, up at New Catton.

29,723. Who gave you the money to pay for the beer?—It was my own money.

29,724. Who gave it to you?—It was money that I had with me.

29,725. You got beer both at Cubitt's and Dover's?—Yes, by paying for it.

29,726. At both those houses beer was going for nothing?—I never got none of it, only what I paid for.

C. Fox.

CHARLES FOX sworn and examined.

29,727. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am an independent man.

29,728. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

29,729. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

29,730. At what time in the day?—About half-past 3.

29,731. Had you promised before to vote for him?—I did not promise to vote for anyone on either side.

29,732. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

29,733. Nor the promise of anything?—No, nothing.

W. Warnes.

WILLIAM WARNES recalled and further examined.

29,734. (Mr. Mansfield.) What more can you tell us about what happened in your house?—I can only tell you what I told you yesterday. I took money for all the beer I drawed.

29,735. Where did you get that half-a-crown from?—That was spent in my house.

29,736. Yes.—From Mr. Woodrow.

29,737. Is that all the money you got?—Yes.

29,738. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you mean to say you did not have some money from Cubitt?—No, not a penny piece. Mr. Cubitt, poor fellow, had not a penny to give to me.

29,739. The question is whether we are to believe him or you.—If you think his statement is a fit and proper statement for any gentleman to believe I will say done with it. Look at Mr. Woodrow's statement and mine; if you think we are all wrong we will put up with it. I am very sorry to think that Mr. Cubitt is a false speaking man, though I do not think he knows what he has said.

29,740. We are quite satisfied that the publicans in this city are determined to keep everything back. I have not seen a single publican in the witness-box yet in whose statement I can place the slightest reliance. I have not seen a single publican yet whose statement is even decently credible, and as to your statement, the way in which you gave your evidence yesterday satisfied me that you were trying to conceal the truth. You told the most atrocious lie that a man could utter in reference to the personation of that man Parnell, and then you expect me to believe your statement in preference to the statement of Cubitt.—I beg your pardon; what was that?

29,741. In the first instance you swore you did not personate Parnell.—Not at 9 o'clock; that was at 2 o'clock.

29,742. Do not tell me that. You told me the most atrocious lie that a man could utter, and you ought to be severely punished. I cannot believe a single word that you say after that statement.—I have told you the truth.

JAMES GEORGE ZOBEL sworn and examined.

29,743. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—An artist.

29,744. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

29,745. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

29,746. At what time in the day?—About 1 o'clock.

29,747. Did you get anything for voting?—Not anything.

29,748. Or the promise of anything?—Not the least.

29,749. Had you promised your vote before?—No.

29,750. You voted of your own accord?—Yes, I did.

W. Wurr.

WILLIAM WURR sworn and examined.

29,751. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Russell and Tillett.

29,752. At what time in the day?—I think between 2 and 3 o'clock, just after dinner.

29,753. What did you get for it?—The same as I always did before, and that is nothing. I never asked for a penny, and never was offered one.

29,754. Have you voted before?—No, never.

29,755. Did you get any beer?—No, I never had so much as a glass of ale.

29,756. Did you promise your vote to anyone?—No.

29,757. Were you not asked for your vote?—Yes, I was.

29,758. By whom?—Mr. Berry.

29,759. Did he not offer you anything?—No, certainly not.

29,760. Have you had anything since?—No.

29,761. No promise of anything?—No, and never expect anything.

W. Bolingbroke.

WILLIAM BOLINGBROKE sworn and examined.

29,762. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

29,763. For whom?—Sir William Russell.

29,764. At what time in the day?—Between 2 and 3.

29,765. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

29,766. Or the promise of anything?—No.

29,767. Were you offered anything to vote on the other side?—No.

29,768. Were you about in any of the public-houses that day?—Yes.

29,769. In which of them?—At the "Ship," in St. James'.

29,770. Did you see anybody there paying for beer for the men?—I saw plenty of beer, but I did not see anybody pay for it.

29,771. You saw plenty of drinking, and no pay?—Yes, I did.

29,772. That was at the "Ship"?—Yes.

29,773. Were there voters there?—Yes.

29,774. How long were you there?—Several times during the day.

29,775. And the same thing was going on; beer was being supplied, and no money paid; was that so?—No.

29,776. As far as you saw?—Money was paid by different people. I paid money myself, but there was a lot that was not paid for.

29,777. That is what I mean; who supplied the beer?—Mr. and Mrs. Warnes.

29,778. Did you see Hardiment there?—Yes, I did.

29,779. What time in the day was it?—Between 1 and 2.

29,780. Did he say anything when he came in about voting?—There was a man there of the name of Dyer, who kept the "Black Boy," Blackfriars Bridge, who says to Hardiment, "Don't talk to that man, he is a Tillett's man." Hardiment says to me, "I will lay you a shilling you do not vote for Stracey;" and I says, "I will lay you a shilling I will not;" and a man of the name of Moggs caught hold of his collar and led him away from me altogether, and I did not speak to Hardiment again.

29,781. Did he speak to any other men besides the men you have mentioned?—Only to Daniel Moggs.

29,782. What did he say to him?—I do not know; they were in close conversation.

29,783. You did not hear what they said?—No.

29,784. Did Hardiment come there in a trap?—I cannot tell you.

29,785. How did he go away?—I cannot tell you.

29,786. Was Warnes, of the "Elm" tavern, with him?—I do not believe he was there at the time.

29,787. Did you see Warnes and Hardiment together at all during the day?—No, I do not think I did. I saw Warnes there, and I saw Hardiment there, but I do not think I saw them together.

29,788. Did you see Warnes in the "Ship"?—Yes.

29,789. Did he come in the room where you were?—Yes, and I rode along with him to the poll.

29,790. What time was that?—Between 2 and 3.

29,791. I thought you polled earlier?—No.

29,792. He took you up to the poll?—Yes, he was on the start when I went away, and he says, "Come on, jump up; are you going to vote for Stracey?" "No," I says, "I am not going to vote that way." He says, "Jump up, I am going your way;" and I went riding along with him.

29,793. What was it he took you up in?—Mr. Maris' cart, I believe; it was a long cart.

29,794. Did you see anybody else there during the day?—I saw several people there during the day.

29,795. Waiting for money, I suppose?—I believe they were.

29,796. Did you see anybody bring money there?—No, I did not.

29,797. Or take any voters away privately into a room?—No, I did not.

29,798. How long did you stay there?—I was there three or four times during the day, perhaps an hour or an hour and a half at a time.

29,799. Can you give me the names of any of the men who were there?—Yes.

29,800. Who were they?—William Bensley, two Staffs, James Wasp, Isaac George, James Simpson.

29,801. Who else?—I cannot think of no more.

29,802. Is there not somebody else that you can recollect?—I cannot recollect anybody else. I saw plenty of people there, but I cannot remember the names.

F. Tuxford.

FREDERICK TUXFORD sworn and examined.

29,803. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you?—A bookseller and stationer.

29,804. Where is your shop?—In St. Andrew's Hall Place.

29,805. Do you do a pretty good business?—Middling.

29,806. At what is your house rated?—30*l.*, that is the rent, and it is rated at, I think, 27*l.*

29,807. Do you recollect on the day of the poll being at the "Three Pigeons," or near it?—I was near it.

29,808. Did you see a clergyman of the name of Dombrain enter the "Three Pigeons"?—I saw him by the door, just next the door; just inside the door.

29,809. Will you swear it was inside the door?—It was just inside, on the step.

29,810. Did you see him doing anything?—He had a memorandum paper; it looked like two sheets of

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

F. Tuxford.

5 Oct. 1869.

note paper doubled in half, but I did not see him do anything particular.

29,811. Is the "Three Pigeons" in the market-place?—No.

29,812. Was it the committee room?—Yes, the Conservative committee room.

29,813. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) How far from the market-place?—Three minutes walk, not more.

29,814. (Mr. Mansfield) Is that all you saw of Mr. Dombrain that day?—I saw him two or three times in the market-place.

29,815. Have you known him before?—Yes.

29,816. Are you intimate with him at all?—He comes into my shop occasionally. I know him quite well.

29,817. Have you ever had any difference with him?—Not the slightest; rather the other way.

29,818. He is a customer of yours?—He is hardly a customer, but he comes into the shop as he is going to St. Andrew's Hall; he comes and leaves his umbrella, and looks at the paper or anything of that sort, and once or twice he has come in to wait for somebody.

29,819. Will you positively swear that you saw him on the doorstep of the "Three Pigeons"?—Yes, on the doorstep; I am quite certain of it.

29,820. Who was he talking to?—He was not talking to anybody in particular; there were a lot of men round, and he stood on the doorstep looking at the paper in his hands.

29,821. Was he writing on it?—No, he had the paper in his hands, which was about the size of a couple of sheets of note paper folded lengthways, narrow ways, and he was looking at it.

J. Sly.

JOHN SLY sworn and examined.

29,822. (Mr. Biron.) Were you about on the day of the election?—Yes, part of the day.

29,823. Do you know John Thaxter?—Yes.

29,824–5. Where does he live?—He lives next door to me.

29,826. Did you see Cunnington come down to your neighbour's house on the day of the polling?—Yes.

29,827. At what time of the day was that?—I do not know what time it was.

29,828. After dinner, or before?—I do not know what time it was.

29,829. Was Mrs. Thaxter at home?—Yes.

29,830. Did you see him give her anything?—No, I did not.

29,831. Did you see anybody give her anything that day?—No.

29,832. Are you sure?—Yes.

C. Pleasance.

CHRISTOPHER PLEASANCE sworn and examined.

29,833. (Mr. Mansfield) What are you?—A brewer's servant.

29,834. What brewer?—Messrs. Steward and Patteson.

29,835. Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

29,836. At what time in the day?—About half-past 9.

29,837. Was anything offered to you for your vote that day?—No.

29,838. Have you had anything since?—No.

29,839. Did they treat you?—Never. I did not get a glass of ale, nor yet a drop of ale.

29,840. Most of your people voted that way, I believe?—I believe they did.

W. Hayden.

WILLIAM HAYDEN sworn and examined.

29,841. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

29,842. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

29,843. At what time in the day?—About half-past 3, I think; that is about the time.

29,844. Why did you not vote earlier than that?—My business kept me at home.

29,845. Were you busy the whole day?—Pretty well the whole day. A friend of mine asked me if I I would wait for him until he could go, and I said I would, but he could not go until after dinner; I said I would go whenever he liked.

29,846. Did you get anything?—No.

29,847. Or the promise of anything?—No.

29,848. Had you ever voted before?—No.

29,849. Had you promised to vote for Stracey?—I did not promise anyone; I had made up my mind to vote for Stracey, but no one asked me, except young Mr. Stracey came down to mine and canvassed me, but I did not promise.

29,850. Why did not you promise?—Merely for this reason, I did not want to tell him which way I was going to vote.

29,851. Why not?—I don't know why I wanted to tell him that; he asked me which way I was going to vote, and I said, "I do not know; I shall not vote for Mr. Tillett, because I don't like Mr. Tillett."

29,852. What conceivable reason could you have for keeping back from young Mr. Stracey that you were going to vote for his father?—I had no reason for it.

29,853. You can understand that he would want to know whether you were going to vote for his father or not?—No, I said I would not promise.

29,854. Did you want something?—No; if they would have given me 5*l.* I would not have taken it.

29,855. Why did you not say at once, "I am going to vote for your father, you need not bother me"?—I have no reason; it was simply because I did not want to do such a thing.

29,856. What is there about it that you should not do it?—Was it not optional with me whether I answered that question or no? I was not obliged to answer him that.

29,857. You were not obliged, but a straightforward man would have done it.—Well, I always was straightforward.

J. Thaxter.

JOHN THAXTER sworn and examined.

29,858. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

29,859. Your wife got something?—No, I never see any money, neither me nor yet my missus.

29,860. Are you quite certain of that?—I can take my oath of it; I never saw no money.

29,861. Was not money left at your house?—No.

29,862. Are you quite sure of that?—Yes, and my wife will say the same.

29,863. Has anything been given to your wife since?—No.

29,864. Were you taken up to the poll?—Yes.

29,865. By whom?—Young Buttifant and Mr. Cunnington.

29,866. Well, they gave something to your wife?—No.

29,867. Are you certain your wife would have told you if she had got it?—No, sir. I tell you the truth, sir, and I cannot speak no other thing. Neither me nor yet my missus never took nothing, nor yet never see nothing of the sort.

JAMES CHAPLIN sworn and examined. J. Chaplin.

29,868. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

29,869. For whom?—Mr. Tillett.

29,870. At what time in the day?—A quarter after 2.

29,871. Did you get anything for voting?—Nothing.

29,872. Or the promise of anything?—Nor the promise of anything.

29,873. Did you see anything in the shape of bribery at this election?—Nothing.

29,874. Do you know the shop of a man of the name of Page, opposite St. Clement's Church?—Yes.

29,875. Did you see any men there?—No, none that I am aware of.

29,876. Did you not see any men get 4*s.* there?—I did not see anything of it.

29,877. Have you ever told anybody that you did?—No.

29,878. Have you ever told anybody that you saw people get money from the Liberals?—Nothing on either side; I have not seen anything.

29,879. Did you ever tell anybody that you had seen it?—No.

29,880. Are you sure of that?—Yes.

29,881. You never said it in Page's shop?—No, I never said such a thing.

ISAAC CATTERMER sworn and examined. I. Cattermer.

29,882. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Stracey.

29,883. At what time in the day?—About a quarter past 12.

29,884. Had you promised your vote?—I had promised my vote to Mr. Stracey, or to his son.

29,885. Did he offer you anything for it?—Not a farthing.

29,886. Have you had anything since?—No.

29,887. What are you by trade?—I keep a grocer's shop.

29,888. Did any money pass through your hands for other people?—Not in the slightest.

29,889. Did you treat anybody?—No.

29,890. Were you treated yourself?—No.

29,891. Did your wife get anything?—No.

29,892. Were you a voter before?—Yes.

29,893. Which side did you vote?—At the last election I voted for Russell and Warner.

29,894. What made you change your opinion this time?—Because I was determined not to vote for Mr. Tillett.

29,895. But you might have voted for Russell?—So I should if he had not taken Tillett by the hand and walked in with him.

29,896. You determined not to vote for Tillett, and you determined to spite Russell for coalescing with Tillett; is that so?—Yes, I would not vote at all that way.

WILLIAM DENMARK sworn and examined. W. Denmark.

29,897. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

29,898. For whom?—Mr. Stracey.

29,899. What time in the day?—About 3 or a quarter past.

29,900. Did you get anything for it?—No, and never asked, and never was offered anything.

29,901. Or promised anything?—No. The reason I did not go up and vote was that I had got some work to do in a hurry, or else I should have voted for Mr. Stracey the first thing in the morning, but I could not leave my work.

RICHARD SEAMAN sworn and examined. R. Seaman.

29,902. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A tailor.

29,903. For whom did you vote?—Stracey.

29,904. What time in the day?—Half-past 3.

29,905. Had you promised your vote?—No.

29,906. Is this the first time you have voted?—Yes.

29,907. What made you so late?—I had my business to attend to.

29,908. Did anyone ask you to go up to the poll?—No.

29,909. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing.

29,910. Had you anything promised?—No.

29,911. Nothing since?—No.

29,912. Where had you been all day?—I had been at home.

29,913. Had you not been out during the day?—No.

29,914. I believe you promised to vote for Tillett and Russell?—No.

29,915. You had been asked to vote for them?—Yes, I was asked.

29,916. What answer did you make?—I told them I should not vote for anyone.

29,917. And then at a quarter to 4 you altered your mind?—It was not a quarter to 4 when I voted.

29,918. What time was it?—Half-past 3.

29,919. What did you get then to make you change your mind?—Nothing.

29,920. I think you went up to the poll with Pauling?—Yes.

29,921. What did he give you?—He did not give me anything.

29,922. Do you know a man of the name of Howse?—No.

29,923. Or a man of the name of Pooley?—No.

29,924. Did you not tell the people who canvassed you for Russell and Tillett that you would not vote unless you were paid for your day's work?—No.

29,925. You said something to that effect, did you not?—No.

29,926. What did you say?—I told them I should not vote.

29,927. Did you tell them why you should not vote?—No, they did not ask me.

29,928. Did you say anything about a day's wages?—No.

29,929. Did you try to get something from the other side?—No.

29,930. You knew money was going, did you not?—No.

29,931. Had you not heard anything of the sort?—No.

29,932. You were on the look out for it?—No.

29,933. Will you swear you got nothing?—I can swear that.

29,934. Where were you when Pauling took you up to the poll?—I was in my backyard, and he said, "Are you not going to vote?"

29,935. Is there a public-house near there?—There is one about 200 yards of.

29,936. What public-house is that?—The "Victoria."

29,937. Did you not go there with Pauling?—No.

29,938. Did you not get any beer for voting that day?—No.

29,939. Are you quite certain of that?—Quite certain.

29,940. Has no money been paid to you since?—No.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

J. B. Williment.

5 Oct. 1869.

JOHN BARNABAS WILLIMENT sworn and examined.

29,941. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A boot and shoe maker.

29,942. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

29,943. For whom ?—Mr. Tillett.

29,944. At what time in the day ?—Ten minutes to 4.

29,945. Was your house one of the committee rooms ?—I was in the committee room the whole of the day.

29,946. Was one of the committee rooms in your house ?—No.

29,947. What were you doing at the committee room ?—I was connected with the organisation prior to the election, and I was working all the day in our committee room at the "Grapes."

29,948. Were you paid for it ?—No, I never got a penny.

29,949. Why did you not vote earlier ?—Well, I said the night before that I had no faith in the man that pretended to be our friend, that is the Whig, and I wished we had a reserve force, but I hoped we had got sufficient that at the last hour we could have carried our man, Mr. Tillett, and therefore I did not vote earlier in the day on purpose to see whether we could get in Tillett alone, and I am glad I did vote for Tillett alone.

29,950. Your object was to secure Tillett ?—That was it ; nothing else.

29,951. Was there a Conservative committee room opposite yours ?—Quite opposite.

29,952. Did you see anything going on there ?—I saw a great deal that looked very suspicious the last two hours of the day

29,953. What was that ?—I saw certain gentlemen (I can name some of them), with a great number of waggons and things bringing up gangs of voters, drunken men and others, setting them down there ; and from the "Tuns" they were escorted down to the polling place.

29,954. Can you give me any of their names ?—I saw Mr. John Abel for one ; Mr. Hardy, of Park Lane, was two ; Mr. Gilbert a third ; a Mr. Newton, a fishmonger, who lives down in the City Road, was there very active in pulling up men at this time of the day, the men being mostly drunken men.

29,955. Bringing them to the "Tuns" ?—Bringing them to the "Tuns," and then going off for other lots ; then they sent them down to St. James' to record their votes.

29,956. When did this begin ? — I observed it from 2 to 4, but more especially from 3 to 4 ; and when I went and recorded my vote there were men there actually pulling them about on the hill to get them to vote, one man in particular. There was a man wanted to get in to vote and they would not allow him inside along with the voter, and he was holding up his hand and saying, "Mind who you vote for ; you vote for Stracey."

29,957. Who was that ?—Mr. Bacon, of the "Swiss Cottage" tavern, on the Dereham Road.

29,958. Do you know who it was that he was treating in that way ?—I don't know who it was, and I have been trying to ascertain his name, but I have not been able.

29,959. Was Maris one of these men ?—No, I don't think Mr. Maris was in that ward at all. I did not see him.

29,960. What time in the day was it that you saw Abel at the "Tuns" ?—From 2 to 4 in particular. He was driving about the whole of the day, but in particular from 2 to 4 o'clock.

29,961. Was he driving when you saw him ?—He was driving himself ; a four-wheeler with a pair of horses. He was very active in pulling up these men ; and there were men standing against the polling-booth saying, "Come on ; this is the way for Stracey ;" and I saw numbers of men set down there in a state of intoxication.

29,962. Did you see Abel get down from his trap ?—No, he set the men down, and as soon as they got off he went away again for some more.

29,963. Do I understand that he brought them up to the "Tuns," and left them there ?—I saw him bring lots up to the "Tuns," and leave them there.

29,964. Did you see him take men away to the poll ?—No, he drove off directly. That seemed to be the rendezvous to set the men down for polling.

29,965. Who were the men that took them from the "Tuns" to the poll ?—I don't know. But there is another house which ought to be named, near the "Grapes," a very notorious house, and that is another public-house at the other corner, called the "Wine Vaults," a new public-house. I observed there that the shutters were up in the early part of the day, and we took it as the inference, as we could see quite into the public-house before, that it was that we might not see what was going on.

29,966. That is a place kept by a man of the name of Bunn, is it not ?—Yes.

S. Fletcher.

SAMUEL FLETCHER sworn and examined.

29,967. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

29,968. For whom ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

29,969. You did a good deal of canvassing for him did you not ?—Yes.

29,970. You were very active on the day of the poll ?—Yes.

29,971. You were taking up voters, were you not ?—Yes.

29,972. In your own carriage ?—I had no carriage.

29,973. Did you walk up with them ?—Yes.

29,974. What public-houses did you take them from ?—Some from my own house, and some from the "Dog" public-house.

29,975. Which is your own house ?—The "Anchor," on Silver Road.

29,976. There were a good many people in and out that day ?—There were several in and out.

29,977. Voters for Stracey ?—Some were and some not.

29,978. You did not take up the men who were not going to vote for Stracey ?—No, certainly not.

29,979. You did not give them any beer, I suppose ?—Not before they voted.

29,980. But after they voted ?—After they voted I did.

29,981. Who paid you for that ?—I paid it out of my own pocket.

29,982. Have you been repaid since ?—Yes.

29,983. By whom ?—Mr. Henry Lamb.

29,984. How much has he paid you for beer scores ?—10*s*.

29,985. Is that all you have been paid ?—That is all I have been paid.

29,986. Can you tell me the names of the men that you took up ?—I could not tell you all of them.

29,987. Did you take up a man called Burrows ?—I believe I did.

29,988. Did you take up a man called Green ?—I believe he was with the lot.

29,989. Holmes ?—Yes.

29,990. Arnupp ?—Yes.

29,991. Barnes ?—He might be amongst the lot, but I am not positive.

29,992. Did you see Claxton there that day ?—I don't know a man named Claxton ; I know a man named Clayton.

29,993. Was there a man called Colman ?—I did not take him up.

29,994. Did you take up a man called Rudd ?—No.

29,995. Perry ?—No.

29,996. Chittock ?—No ; but there were several men went with me that I did not know their names, although they went with me.

29,997. Did you take up a man called Gardiner?—No.

29,998. Moore?—I don't know a Moore that I am aware of.

29,999. Foster?—No.

30,000. Resdale?—No.

30,001. These men had been in your house the whole day, I suppose?—Well, nearly so, the men that went with me.

30,002. You told them to come back and get some beer, I suppose?—No, I did not.

30,003. You let them understand that they would have beer if they came back?—No, it was not an understanding; as I was taking them up and they voted, I treated them to a pot or two of beer at the "Dog" public-house, and after the election was over I asked them to drink at my own house.

30,004. How much did you pay for at the "Dog"?—I might have seven or eight quarts there.

30,005. Would that be 2*s.* or 3*s.*?—Somewhere thereabouts; between 3*s.* and 4*s.*

30,006. Then is that sum, 3*s.* or 4*s.* at the "Dog," and 10*s.* at your own house, all you laid out?—It was 10*s.* altogether; there might be a penny or two over or under; I cannot say.

30,007. Is that including the score at the "Dog"?—Yes.

30,008. And the rest was at your own house?—Yes.

30,009. Did anybody ask you to do this?—No.

30,010. Were you a member of any committee for the purposes of the election?—Yes.

30,011. Which committee?—I went to the meeting at the "Swan," at the back of St. Peter's, where they chose the committee.

30,012. The central committee?—Yes.

30,013. I suppose you told them that you should do what you could?—No, I did not speak, for I was not asked, not there.

30,014. They let you know that you were expected to be as active as you could be?—Most decidedly they did; of course they would not have put me on the committee without.

30,015. Then your activity amounted to 10*s.* spent for beer for these voters?—Yes.

30,016. I suppose that had the effect of getting up about 20 voters altogether?—It might be 30; I could not say; I took them up four or five at a time.

30,017. Ten shillings spent upon 30 voters would be about 4*d.* apiece?—Some might have nothing at all, and some might have 8*d.*; I cannot say.

30,018. (Mr. Biron.) You said that Lamb repaid you the 10*s.*?—Yes, about a fortnight after the election.

30,019. Why did you go to him for it?—I spent 5*s.*, as near as I could tell, out of my own pocket, and I saw Mr. Lamb on the afternoon of the election, about half-past 3, and he said, "How are you getting on, Fletcher?" I said, "Well, I am doing what I can; but I cannot do it without spending a few shillings;" and he said, "Well, you must spend a crown." I saw Mr. Lamb after the election, and told him I had spent 5*s.* besides the 5*s.* at my own house, and he gave it to my wife.

30,020. Who is Lamb?—A clerk at Patteson's brewery.

30,021. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) I am glad to find that there is at least one publican in Norwich who is disposed to tell us the truth; you are an honourable exception to the class we have seen before.—I have told you the truth, sir, as far as I know.

DANIEL MARIS sworn and examined. D. Maris.

30,022. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A baker and shopkeeper.

30,023. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

30,024. For whom?—Stracey and Russell.

30,025. At what time in the day?—Just after 2.

30,026. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

30,027. Or the promise of anything?—No.

30,028. Had you been canvassed?—No.

30,029. Had anybody been to you to ask you to vote?—No.

30,030. Did you take any active part at all in the election?—No.

30,031. Did you endeavour to persuade any men to vote that day?—No, I was not interested at all.

30,032. Did you see Frederick Balls that day?—Not that I remember.

30,033. Did you see Bailey?—I don't know him.

30,034. Did you see Amos Hibbett?—No.

30,035. Did you say anything to Balls about voting?—No.

30,036. Do you know which way he voted?—No, I don't think he have a vote.

30,037–8. Did you give anybody money for voting?—No.

ROBERT PLUMSTEAD sworn and examined. R. Plumstead.

30,039. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at this election?—Stracey.

30,040. What time in the day?—Between half-past 11 and 12.

30,041. Had you promised your vote?—Not to anyone.

30,042. Had you been asked for it?—I had been asked for it, but I did not promise it to anyone.

30,043. Why did you not promise it?—Because I did not think proper.

30,044. Had you been asked by the other side to vote?—Not at all; I never promise to anyone; I vote just as I think proper. I had been canvassed on the other side.

30,045. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) When you were canvassed by the other side what did you say?—I never gave a decided answer at all.

30,046. (Mr. Mansfield.) You kept a house called the "Victoria Tavern," did you not?—Yes.

30,047. There were a good many voters there that day, I suppose?—There were several round about.

30,048. You were very active in your own ward, were you not?—No.

30,049. You were canvassing?—I beg pardon, I was not canvassing at all.

30,050. What did you do that day?—Nothing at all; I went and voted and went back to my house, and remained there all day.

30,051. Did you take up any voters to the poll?—No.

30,052. What were you doing all day?—I did not get up until 11 o'clock in the morning.

30,053. What did you do the rest of the day?—Went about and enjoyed myself, the same as the rest of the people.

30,054. Did you not try and get up any voters that day?—No.

30,055. Did you not go back to your house at all?—No, I believe not.

30,056. Who carried on your business in your house?—My wife.

30,057. Don't you know your house was full of voters, drinking the whole day?—Not at all, that I am aware of.

30,058. You heard nothing about that?—Not a word.

30,059. Have you heard of Hibbett being at your house?—Certainly not. Mr Hardy has called round once or twice at mine, but Mr. Hibbett never called at mine.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

R. Plumstead.

5 Oct. 1869.

30,060. Not that day?—Certainly not, nor yet any other day.

30,061. You have just now said you were not at your house that day; how can you know?—Not from 11 o'clock in the morning, but I was there before that time.

30,062. But from 11 to 4?—From 11 to 4. I never said my house.

30,063. Do you know whether these men were there or not?—That I cannot say.

30,064. Have you heard?—That I do not know; I don't suppose they could be there.

30,065. Do you know that voters were being treated at your house?—Certainly not.

30,066. Are you certain they were not being treated there?—Certainly not.

30,067. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) If you were not at home, how could you know?—If voters had been treated at my house my wife would have told me.

30,068. If a man comes in and gives another a pot of beer, do you mean to say your wife always tells you?—No, certainly not.

30,069. That is what we call treating.—Oh.

30,070. (Mr. Mansfield.) Have you not said since the election that you knew of distinct cases of bribery?—Certainly not; never in my life.

30,071. Have you heard of any bribery at this last election?—Only that I have heard people talking about it.

30,072. What have you heard?—I don't know, I am sure.

30,073. Did you at the time of the election hear of any money going?—Certainly not.

30,074. Have you been paid any money since for beer supplied at your house during that day?—Certainly not; neither before nor after.

C. Widdows.

CHARLES WIDDOWS recalled and further examined.

(The witness.) I just wish to make a little statement with regard to what I paid the men; I find that I paid the majority of them 15*s.* each instead of 12*s.* 6*d.*

30,075. (Mr. Biron.) That did not leave anything for yourself, did it?—Yes, it did, a very little indeed; but I had no object in gaining anything myself.

30,076. That would leave you less than 2*l.* for yourself?—Yes, it does; I did not get 2*l.*

30,077. Of those men you say about half voted one way and half the other?—I should think pretty well half of the voters were Tories and half Whigs.

30,078. How many of them were voters?—I don't know how many; I don't know whether they were all voters or no; I cannot say.

J. Arnup.

JAMES ARNUP sworn and examined.

30,079. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a carter.

30,080. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

30,081. For whom?—I voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

30,082. What time of the day?—About half-past 2 to 3.

30,083. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

30,084. Or the promise of anything?—No.

30,085. Or anything after you had voted?—No.

30,086. Were you canvassed before?—No.

30,087. Had you promised your vote to anybody?—No.

30,088. What made you vote?—My mind led me to vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

30,089. And you went up with your neighbours, was that it?—I went up in the afternoon.

30,090. Did your wife get anything?—No.

J. Bussey.

JAMES BUSSEY sworn and examined.

30,091. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you vote?—I did not vote at all.

30,092. Why was that?—Why, my business lay between the parties.

30,093. You were down at the "Marquis of Granby," Mackley's public, were you not?—No.

30,094. Are you quite certain of that?—I am quite certain of it.

30,095. Where were you all the day?—I was on my land all the day at work, and did not go into the town all the day.

30,096. Did you promise to vote for anyone?—I never intended to vote at all, and never did vote.

30,097. You never did vote?—Oh yes, I voted several times before.

30,098. Why did you not vote this time?—Because my business lay between different gentlemen, and I made up my mind that I would not vote. I did not go amongst them at all.

30,099. On which side have you voted on former occasions?—Well, sir, I have voted both sides.

30,100. Did you ever get any money for it?—No.

30,101. Not a farthing?—Not a farthing.

30,102. Only a little beer, I suppose?—No, nor yet no beer.

30,103. Was anything offered you?—No.

W. Maris.

WILLIAM MARIS recalled and further examined.

30,104. (Mr. Biron.) You told me you were driving about the city all day, and yet you know nothing.—I was a little excited when I first came in.

30,105. You did not know what houses you went to, who you saw, or anyone you took up. I will give you a night to think over it. You shall be called the first thing to-morrow morning, and see whether you can recollect anything then.—Yes, sir.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) If you do not want to spend a week in gaol you will consider this.

(Mr. Biron.) The story you were telling us that you knew nothing about it is simply incredible.

30,106. (Mr. Biron.) You will recollect where you were by to-morrow morning, I daresay.—I don't know the names of the houses I went to.

30,107. You can just brush up your memory.—I will go round and find them out.

Adjourned to to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

Wednesday, 6th October 1869.

HENRY MUNDAY sworn and examined.

30,108. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You were at Cubitt's house on the day of the election ?—Yes.

30,109. What did you require for your vote ?—Nothing.

30,110. No beer or money ?—Nothing.

30,111. You had beer ?—By paying for it.

30,112. Do you mean to say that you did not have beer supplied to you in Cubitt's house without paying for it ?—No.

30,113. No beer at all ?—No.

30,114. Did you see Warnes there ?—No.

30,115. Were you so drunk that you do not recollect whether Warnes was there ?—No.

30,116. Were you drunk ?—No ; I had some beer.

30,117. Were you sober all day ?—No.

30,118. When did you get drunk ?—I could walk and record my vote, and if I could do that I don't consider myself drunk.

30,119. If you can walk you do not consider yourself drunk ?—I do not consider myself drunk as long as I can walk.

30,120. What quantity of drink had you ?—I suppose I spent 5*s.* on drink, but I don't think I drunk it all myself.

30,121. What time did you go to Cubitt's ?—About 20 minutes past 3.

30,122. But you had been at Cubitt's long before that, you know ?—I don't think it.

30,123. How do you recollect that it was 20 minutes past 3 exactly ?—Because I looked at the clock.

30,124. Then you took notice of it ?—Yes ; so that shows I was not drunk.

30,125. What made you take notice when you went to Cubitt's that it was 20 minutes past 3 on the election day ?—I looked at the clock to see the time. The clock was there, and I lifted up my eyes.

30,126. How many times in the course of a week do you look at a clock to see what time it is ?—I did look at the clock.

30,127. How many times a week do you look at the clock to see what time it is ?—It happened to be that I looked at the time.

30,128. What made you recollect that you looked at this clock upon that particular day ?—I just happened to put my eye on the clock and see the time.

30,129. What public-house were you at besides Cubitt's ?—The "Cross Keys."

30,130. Perhaps you looked at the clock at the "Cross Keys" ?—No.

30,131. What time was it when you went into the "Cross Keys" ?—About 10 in the morning.

30,132. You went from the "Cross Keys" to Cubitt's ?—Yes.

30,133. And you had been drinking all the time ?—Yes, all the time.

30,134. What beer had you at the "Cross Keys" ?—I don't know. I did not take no particular account of how much I had. I paid for what I had.

30,135. Did you go anywhere before you went to the "Cross Keys" ?—Yes. I think I had a little stout in the morning.

30,136. Where had you been in the morning ?—At the "Windmill."

30,137. You took a turn at the "Windmill" before you went to the "Cross Keys" ?—Yes.

30,138. How long were you at the "Windmill" ?—About two hours.

30,139. You started early in the morning ?—Yes ; I suppose a little after 8.

30,140. Did you do anything a little before 8 ?—No ; I don't know.

30,141. You forget, do you ?—No ; but I don't know that I am supposed to tell you what I did before that.

30,142. Yes, you must.—I got up and dressed myself.

30,143. What public-house had you been in before 8 ?—None.

30,144. Your first start was at the "Windmill" ?—Yes.

30,145. Then at the "Cross Keys" ?—Yes.

30,146. Then from the "Cross Keys" you went to Cubitt's ?—Then I went to Mr. Cubitt's.

30,147. How long did you remain at Cubitt's ?—Perhaps 10 minutes.

30,148. From Cubitt's where did you go to ?—To vote.

30,149. You could not make up your mind to vote till you went to Cubitt's ?—No.

30,150. What was it after you got to Cubitt's that made you make up your mind to vote ? — I had nothing particular to make me make up my mind.

30,151. Something in general ?—No, nor yet in general.

30,152. Was the beer very good at Cubitt's ?—Very good.

30,153. Good sound Tory beer ?—I don't know anything about that. The Tory beer is what I paid for, what I drunk myself.

30,154. There were a good many people there ?—I did not see anything liberal at Cubitt's myself.

30,155. Were there not a good number of men in Cubitt's when you were there ?—No.

30,156. Was anybody in there besides yourself ?—Yes, but not a good number.

30,157. How many ?—About two or three. There might be four.

30,158. Who were the two or three in Cubitt's when you went in there ?—Mr. Maris was one.

30,159. Did Maris take you up in his cart ?—No.

30,160. You went up from Cubitt's to the poll ?—Yes.

30,161. Besides Maris, who had spoken to you in Cubitt's ?—Mr. Maris did not speak to me at all.

30,162. Then, with the exception of Maris, who had spoken to you at Cubitt's ?—In what way do you mean ? A gentleman asked me to drink there. He was a pint, and I was a pint.

30,163. And you did drink ?—Yes, but I paid for one out of the two.

30,164. Who was the gentleman who asked you to drink ?—Mr. John Denmark.

30,165. What did you have—beer or spirits ?—I never drink spirits. I don't like it. Beer suits me. It's quite enough for a working man.

30,166. You did not like to mix your fluids that day ?—No. I always drink beer.

30,167. Was he there when you went in ?—No.

30,168. Did he come in immediately afterwards ?—Yes.

30,169. You voted for Sir Henry Stracey ?—Yes.

30,170. After you had voted where did you go to ?—I went into Mr. Cubitt's again.

30,171. How long did you remain at Cubitt's then ?—About a quarter of an hour.

30,172. From Cubitt's where did you go ?— The "Elm" tavern.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

H. Munday.

6 Oct. 1869.

30,173. How long did you remain at the "Elm"?—About a quarter of an hour.

30,174. Drinking there?—No, I did not. I paid for a pint, and never touched it. I left it.

30,175. After leaving the "Elm" where did you go?—Home to bed.

30,176. That is your account of the election day?—That is my election day.

30,177. A very respectable account, highly creditable to you.—If there is any more I shall never vote again—never.

30,178. Now we shall be able to form an estimate of what induced you to vote.—It will take all your time, or any gentleman living in the world, or any judge in the world.

30,179. Did you get any money?—No.

30,180. Was anything promised you?—Yes.

30,181. Who promised you anything?—Cubitt.

30,182. What did he promise you?—The old man's hospital, when I got old enough to take it.

30,183. I should think you were in a fit state for the hospital that night. You have not got the hospital yet?—No, I shall have to live some years yet.

A. Brigham.

ANNA BRIGHAM sworn and examined.

30,184. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you the widow of Brigham, a voter in this city at the last election?—He was my husband.

30,185. Do you recollect seeing Mr. Bacon on the day of the election?—Yes.

30,186. What passed?—Nothing, only in reference to the state of the poll. Mr. Bacon was there near my house when my husband and I returned from town, and all that passed was with reference to the state of the poll. He asked my husband if he should give him a ride up. He said, "Thank you, I can walk when I wish to go."

30,187. Did he give your husband any money?—No, he did not.

30,188. Did he promise him any?—No, he never offered him anything.

30,189. You never heard him offer him anything?—No.

30,190. Did he offer you anything?—No.

30,191. Or give you anything?—He gave me nothing, and offered me nothing.

30,192. Then if Mr. Bacon says he offered your husband 10*s.*, it is not true as far as you know?—It is not true.

30,193. Your husband voted for Mr. Tillett, I believe?—Yes, he did.

30,194. Was Brigham at work on the railway that day?—Yes, he was.

30,195. Do you know whether Bacon spoke to him at the railway?—No, he did not. Bacon was in the lane at the time my husband went down to the railway, and I saw him pass over the railway bridge. Bacon was after other voters round our house at the same time.

30,196. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Mr. Bacon was coming after him to vote?—Mr. Bacon was against the turn, against the passage that go into our house.

30,197. Mr. Bacon came to him for the purpose of getting him to vote?—Yes, but he did not see him at all.

30,198. But whether he saw him anywhere else you cannot tell?—Yes. I went out with him in the morning, and returned with him.

30,199. (Mr. Mansfield.) Mr. Bacon did not see your husband except in your presence?—No, he did not.

30,200. You are quite certain of that?—Quite certain. My husband passed into the house before me, and left me speaking to Mr. Bacon.

A. W. Morant.

ALFRED WILLIAM MORANT sworn and examined.

30,201. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A civil engineer.

30,202. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

30,203. At what time?—About half-past 1, I think.

30,204. Did you get anything for your vote?—Certainly not.

30,205. Or the promise of anything?—Nothing at all.

30,206. Did you take an active part at all in the election?—Not the slightest. I was engaged all the morning, or else I should have voted earlier.

E. Balderson.

EDWARD BALDERSON sworn and examined.

30,207. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What are you?—A blacksmith.

30,208. You were very busy in Thorpe hamlet and Spitalfields on the day of the election, were you not?—No, I never went in Spitalfields that day at all.

30,209. Where were you on the day of the election?—At work half the day out of the day.

30,210. Where?—The Great Eastern, the railway. I left off at half-past 11 the half day.

30,211. Leaving off your work at half-past 11, where did you go to?—Home, and washed, and then went and voted.

30,212. You went home at half-past 11?—Yes, and washed myself.

30,213. How long did you remain at home?—About a quarter of an hour or 20 minutes; something like that; I don't know exactly to five minutes.

30,214. Where did you go to then?—To the polling place then, on Chalk Hill.

30,215. Did you poll?—Yes.

30,216. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

30,217. Had you that day seen a person of the name of Baldry?—No. I know a man named Baldry, living round our corner.

30,218. Did you see Baldry, of St. George's, Tombland?—No.

30,219. Did you see his brother?—No.

30,220. Are you sure you did not?—This man that I mean has not got a brother. The John Baldry that I mean is a pensioner, and he lives in Thorpe hamlet.

30,221. Do you know Robert Baldry of Princes Street?—No.

30,222. Did not any person come to you that day to ask you to go up and vote?—No.

30,223. Nor the day before?—No. There was not a person asked me for my vote at all; only Mr. Russell when he came through the shop.

30,224. Did not some people come to you, or did not a person come to you and offer you money?—No.

30,225. Not that day at all?—No.

30,226. Nor the day before?—No.

30,227. Did nobody speak to you about your vote?—No; no further than Mr. Russell asked me when I was at work whether I would oblige him with my vote, and I told him I had made up my mind to vote for Mr. Stracey.

30,228. When did he ask you that?—A day or a couple of days before the election, I don't know which.

30,229. Your employer asked you for whom you would vote?—No; Sir William Russell, the candidate did, him that is now the member.

30,230. Did he come to your employer's place?—He come to me at my work. He come through the shop.

30,231. Did you tell him that you would not vote for him, but you intended to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—I told him at once I intended to vote for Stracey. That is all there was passed.

30,232. Had you been canvassed for Sir Henry Stracey before that?—No.

30,233. That was your own independent opinion?—Yes.

30,234. You are sure of that?—Yes. I believe there were some gentlemen went to my house; so my wife told me. I never saw them.

30,235. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

30,236. Nor the promise of anything?—Not anything, nor half a pint of beer at the expense of no man in this world.

GEORGE WILSON sworn and examined. G. Wilson.

30,237. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—I am a hairdresser by trade, but I have not followed it for some years.

30,238. You have retired from business?—Yes.

30,239. Did you take any active part in the business of this election?—Not the least.

30,240. Did you canvass at all?—Not at all.

30,241. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

30,242. Had you promised your vote?—No; I was never asked to vote by anybody.

30,243. Did you always vote Tory?—I have for many years. I do not always vote.

30,244. Did you give anything to anybody to induce him to vote?—No, nor asked anybody else to vote.

30,245. Nor give anybody beer?—No, nor tasted any myself.

30,246. Did you take anybody up to the poll?—Not at all.

30,247. I suppose you got nothing yourself?—No.

THOMAS PHILLIPS sworn and examined. T. Phillips.

30,248. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

30,249. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

30,250. What time of the day?—About five minutes before 3, I think; I spoke to a policeman; I thought I was too late. I did not know hardly what o'clock it was, and the policeman looked at the clock, and said it wanted five minutes to 3.

30,251. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

30,252. Nor the promise of anything?—No, nobody came to my house, no further than a man of the name of Elmer when I was going upstairs He asked me if I was going up to vote. I told him I must finish a job that I had to do, and I did not finish before half-past 2.

30,253. You said you would vote after finishing your job?—If I got it done in time enough.

30,254. Did you tell him you were going to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes; he and another man come a canvassing almost a week I should say, I cannot tell how many days, before the election. I promised them, he knew.

WILLIAM BODEN sworn and examined. W. Boden.

30,255. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

30,256. What time of the day?—Half-past 3 in the afternoon.

30,257. Had you promised your vote?—No.

30,258. Had you been asked to vote?—Yes.

30,259. By whom?—Several came round; I was not at home at the time; I was doing my duty.

30,260. Had you anything for voting?—No.

30,261. Were you promised anything?—No.

30,262. No promise of promotion or assistance of any kind was given you?—No, not anything.

GEORGE LIDDAMENT sworn and examined. G. Liddament.

30,263. (Mr. Biron.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Stracey.

30,264. What time of the day?—Nearly 4 o'clock.

30,265. What did you get for voting?—Nothing at all.

30,266. Why did not you vote before?—Because I was at my employment.

30,267. Where?—Mr. Pointer is my master.

30,268. What is he?—A coal merchant, skin merchant, and manure manufacturer.

30,269. Had you promised to vote at all?—I never saw anyone, only they left a ticket at my house.

30,270. Then you did not promise to vote?—No.

30,271. How came you to vote so late?—On account of my occupation.

30,272. Were you at work all day long?—Yes, I was with a horse and cart that day, and I could not leave.

30,273. Have you ever voted before?—No.

30,274. You tell me you got nothing for voting?—Nothing at all.

30,275. Nor the promise of anything?—No, neither direct or indirect.

JAMES WEBB sworn and examined. J. Webb.

30,276. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

30,277. Did Abel take you up to the poll?—He did.

30,278. Where did he pick you up?—Just past my own house; I lived again him for 15 years in one house.

30,279. Were you in the road?—No, in the yard.

30,280. Did he offer you anything to vote?—Not a penny.

30,281. He asked you to get up?—He did.

30,282. What did he say to you?—He said, "Will you go to the poll?" and I told him "Yes."

30,283. Did you say for whom you were going to vote, or did he ask you?—Sir Henry Stracey.

30,284. Did he ask you that?—He axed me that.

30,285. Did he say he would give you anything?—No.

30,286. Had you made up your mind to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

30,287. Had you promised your vote beforehand for Stracey?—I stopped till the last day; the blues came up to me, so I would not vote for them, and I voted for Sir Henry Stracey the next day.

30,288. Had you promised to vote for Sir Henry Stracey before the day of the election?—Well, sir, I think it was; but I went and voted between 9 and 10 that morning, and went home and got my breakfast. I did not go out no more that day.

30,289. Had you ever voted before?—No, never.

30,290. You had known Mr. Abel before?—My wife had been backward and forward at the house this 15 years; worked there.

30,291. Did he drop you at the "Tuns"?—No, down at the "Grapes," a red brick house at the right-hand side; I should say about 10 minutes from the house where I live.

30,292. Do you know the "Tuns"?—Yes, I went past that.

30,293. Did he drop some people at the "Tuns"?—That I don't know. I don't think there was anyone in but myself.

30,294. Did you get anything for your vote?—Not a halfpenny.

30,295. Nor yet the promise of anything?—Nor yet the promise of a halfpenny.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

H. Fellingham.

6 Oct. 1869.

HENRY FELLINGHAM sworn and examined.

30,296. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

30,297. What time in the day?—I daresay it was about half-past 3.

30,298. Who asked you to vote?—A great many gentlemen employed me, and they went down to vote, and there was a crowd, and I thought there was plenty of time for me to vote between 8 and 4. Then there came a lot of gravel carts up and filled the road. I thought there was plenty of time for me to vote, and I voted free, as a man should do.

30,299. Who asked you to vote?—Mr. Stracey.

30,300. Sir Henry Stracey himself?—Yes.

30,301. Did you promise him that you would vote for him?—I told him I had no objection to vote for him.

30,302. Did he give you anything for it?—No.

30,303. Did you get anything for it?—Not at all.

30,304. Did you get a drop of beer?—That I paid for as a man. I never asked for any.

30,305. Is this the first time you ever voted?—No.

30,306, Did you always vote Tory before?—Yes.

30,307. Have you ever had anything for your vote?—No.

30,308. Not at any time?—I have not voted much, because there was nothing less than the 10*l.* hire; it is a shilling hire now.

30,309. Did you get 10*l.*?—No, it was a 10*l.* hire, you understand.

30,310. Do you mean that at former elections you have had 10*l.*, and only a shilling at this?—No, I don't mean that. It is the hire—10*l.*

30,311. Were you never paid or treated at any election before?—No. As for treat, there was a dinner given at St. Andrew's Hall, and 800 of us dined there.

W. Maris.

WILLIAM MARIS recalled and further examined.

30,312. (Mr. Biron.) You told me yesterday that after voting you drove up in a cab getting up voters.—I was a little excited, and worse for drink.

30,313. We will say nothing about yesterday, if you will tell the truth now.—I went up in the morning with 40 or 50 voters, and we all voted by 9 o'clock. Then I went home and had my breakfast. Then I went about with a cab, and got what I could.

30,314. Can you give me the names of any men you got up?—Yes, the names of a few of them. Three persons of the name of Adis.

30,315. What time did you get them up?—About 11 or 12 o'clock.

30,316. Did you give them any beer before you got them up?—No.

30,317. Where did you get them from?—From Catton.

30,318. After you polled them what did you do?—I stood several pots of beer during the day; but it might be before they voted or after.

30,319. But you stood beer for them during the day?—Yes.

30,320. Were they three men whom you took to Wright's?—No.

30,321. Now as to the men whom you took to Wright's. You pulled up at Wright's with some men in your cab, and stood half a gallon of beer there. Who were those men?—There were some of my workmen.

30,322. Who was there?—There was Mr. Pointer.

30,323. What is he?—A farmer.

30,324. Who else?—A man named Leighton.

30,325. What is he?—He works for me.

30,326. Who else?—Daniel Cook.

30,327. Did he work for you?—Yes.

30,328. Where does he live?—Catton.

30,329. Who else?—Robert Pitcher, I think.

30,330. Where does he live?—Somewhere at the back of Catton.

30,331. Does he work at all for you?—No.

30,332. You stood beer at Wright's for them?—Not for them; I did not stand for them only. The flyman asked me if I would stand, and I called for half a gallon, and I don't think they drank it all.

30,333. Did not you stand beer for them during the day?—Yes, during the day.

30,334. At what other place?—We stopped at Cubitt's. I think we had a pot of beer there.

30,335. Anywhere else?—At the "Prince of Wales," I think.

30,336. However, you treated these men?—I did.

30,337. Well, now, besides these men of whom you have told me, do you remember taking up any others?—I took up several during the day.

30,338. Besides the cab, did you go about in your cart at all?—No.

30,339. How many more do you think you got up?—I cannot say. I might get up 20 altogether. It might be more.

30,340. Putting them all together?—Putting them all together.

30,341. You stood beer?—Yes, I stood beer that day; a few pots of beer.

30,342. Tell us, now, what you did?—I treated almost anybody, as far as a pot of beer went. I might spend 10*s.* or 15*s.*

30,343. You got more or less excited over the election, and you spent money out of your pocket to get up voters?—Yes.

30,344. I suppose you found late in the day that giving the men beer was enough to induce them to go?—That was plenty.

30,345. Did you give any of them money?—No.

30,346. You found that beer was quite enough?—That was quite enough.

30,347. Did you ever get repaid the money you were out of pocket that day?—Never. I never thought about it.

30,348. Have you ever asked anybody for it?—Never.

30,349. Do you know of any fund, or anything of that sort, you could go to?—No.

30,350. Or any person who paid such monies?—No. I never inquired about anything of the sort.

30,351. You did this on your own account?—I did.

30,352. Are you a tolerably well-to-do man for your station?—Pretty middling.

30,353. Could you give me any more names of people whom you took up?—When I got up in the city there were several others; they knew me, but I did not know them. I treated them with a little beer.

30,354. The names you have given me are in your own neighbourhood, Catton?—Yes.

30,355. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You see, if you had only told the truth in the first instance, what ignominy, shame, and annoyance you would have saved yourself.—I was a little excited yesterday.

30,356. Your first statement showed a determined resolution not to tell the truth. I am very glad that we have given you the opportunity of considering this matter at home instead of in gaol, which I felt it our duty, almost our imperative duty, to do. Let it be a warning to you for the future; and, moreover, let those persons whom we have to examine hereafter take warning by you, and see what folly they will be guilty of when they attempt to conceal the truth. We know a good deal more about this matter than to believe such a story as that you came to tell.—I could not have told you six houses that you axed me about, not for the worth of Norwich, nor yet the streets they were in.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

W. Hopson.

6 Oct. 1869.

WILLIAM HOPSON sworn and examined.

30,357. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Where were you on the election morning ?—At home.

30,358. What is your work ?—A bricklayer.

30,359. What work, as a bricklayer, were you doing at home ?—I were not doing nothing that morning.

30,360. What time did you vote ?—Half-past 2.

30,361. Why did you not go and vote before half-past 2 in the day ?—I was at home. I stood about at home. I was not away from home.

30,362. Did anybody come and take you up to the poll ?—No, I went myself.

30,363. Did not you see anbody before you went to the poll, about going there ?—Oh yes.

30,364. Who was it ?—I see two. I don't know what their names were.

30,365. Did anybody come to you on the part of Sir Henry Stracey ?—Yes.

30,366. Who was that ?—I don't know who it was, I am sure. It was quite a gentleman.

30,367. Were not you waiting in order that you might get something for your vote ?—No, never axed a question for nothing.

30,368. Had you been asked for your vote before the day of the election ?—Yes, I had a paper sent to me before the day of the election.

30,369. Did anybody call upon you and ask you for your vote personally ?—A gentleman came and axed me.

30,370. Had you promised your vote ?—No.

30,371. Why had not you promised your vote when you were asked for it ?—Because I was at home. There I was. I did not feel inclined to hurry myself. I was at home most of the day.

30,372. When you were asked for your vote, why did not you promise your vote ?—There was one party came there about 10 o'clock ; another party came about 11 at my house.

30,373. Why did not you give your vote then ?—I might as well have given it then as at 3 in the afternoon.

30,374. Were not you looking out for what you could get ?—No, I did not think nothing about that.

30,375. Did you get anything for your vote ?—Not a farthing, nor yet a glass of beer.

30,376. Were you promised anything ?—No.

30,377. The hospital, or anything of that kind ?—No, nothing of the kind.

A. Cupper.

ARTHUR CUPPER sworn and examined.

30,378. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

30,379. What time of the day ?—Dinner time.

30,380. What did you get for your vote ?—Nothing.

30,381. Were you asked to vote for Sir Henry Stracy ?—No.

30,382. Did nobody canvass you at all ?—No.

30,383. Did no one come to you that day ?—No.

30,384. Have you had anything given you since for your vote ?—No.

30,385. Were you at any public-houses that day ?—Yes.

30,386. Which ?—The "Butchers' Arms," Ber Street.

30,387. Any others ?—No, I don't think that I were.

30,388. Did they give you any beer there ?—No ; only what I paid for.

30,389. Was there any beer going there ?—Only what we paid for.

30,390. Nothing else ?—No.

30,391. Did you hear that there was any money going anywhere else ?—No.

30,392. Did you look out for it ?—Not I.

30,393. Did you try to hear of anything of the sort ?—No.

30,394. You were not at work that day ?—No.

30,395. Where were you ; standing about ?—I went in for half a pint, that's all. I went up with the intention to vote for Sir Henry Stracey, and I went in and had a glass of ale going along.

30,396. Did you not hear that there was any beer going ?—No.

30,397. Did not you try to get anything ?—No ; only what I paid for.

P. Youngs.

PETER YOUNGS sworn and examined.

30,398. (Mr. Biron.) Do you keep the "Richmond Hill" tavern ?—Yes.

30,399. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

30,400. For whom ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

30,401. After you voted, were you active in getting up voters ?—Well, sir, I went for two ; that's all. I drove two.

30,402. Who were they ?—They were out of the city people ; they did not know where to go to. I had a horse and gig standing outside my door, so I drove them up.

30,403. Did you give them anything ?—No.

30,404. Or promise them anything ?—No.

30,405. Or treat them ?—No.

30,406. Were there not a lot of men collected at your house ?—There were not so many there as I have seen at an election.

30,407. There were a good many ?—There were a good many hanging about.

30,408. They were hanging about till late in the day before they voted ?—All the day, some of them.

30,409. Some of them stayed there all day drinking ?—Yes.

30,410. Who paid for the beer they drank ?—They paid for it as they had it.

30,411. Did you see Gowing ?—Yes.

30,412. Did he come into your house ?—I would hardly swear that he came in.

30,413. He came to your house ?—Yes.

30,414. Did he try and persuade these men to vote ?—That I don't know.

30,415. You saw him there ?—I saw him there. He came up with three or four people in his phaeton, but who they were I don't know.

30,416. Was William Brighton, a servant of Mr. Reed's, there ?—He might be, but I did not see him.

30,417. You did not see him treating the men in your house ?—No.

30,418. Did you hear any of the men say they had had money given them for drink ?—No.

30,419. Was a man of the name of Trumbetta there ?—I don't know him.

30,420. Do you know George Randell Holmes ?—I know George Randell Holmes was the managing man in the committee room.

30,421. He is a sixth ward man ?—Yes.

30,422. Was he in your house that day ?—He was there all the day. My house was a committee room.

30,423. Did you see him give any men money or drink ?—No.

30,424. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you, when the men were out and in your house from time to time, learn from them that they wanted something for voting ?—No. I never heard anything of the sort breathed at mine. It might be, but I never heard it.

30,425. You perfectly understood what they were loitering about for ?—I cannot say.

30,426. As a sensible man you could form your own judgment ?—If there had been anything stirring they would not have minded taking it.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

P. Youngs.

6 Oct. 1869.

30,427. Were there a pretty good number of them?—Not at mine.

30,428. In front of your house were there a great number of men loitering?—I have seen a great many more at elections. There were not so many about my house that day as I have seen.

JOSEPH LATTEN sworn and examined.

J. Latten.

30,429. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Where do you live?—In Spitalfields.

30,430. What were you doing on the morning of the election?—Not anything.

30,431. Except drinking?—Never drinking at all that day.

30,432. Not at all?—No.

30,433. Do you mean to say you had a dry election day?—I never drank a drop of ale at anybody's expense.

30,434. Did you have a drop of ale?—Yes, I had at my own expense, no one else's.

30,435. Where did you have that?—Mr. Hobrough's; "Bishop Bridge."

30,436. What is the name of his public-house?—"Bishop Bridge House."

30,437. What time did you go there in the morning?—Half-past 5 in the afternoon.

30,438. Where were you in the morning?—Part of the time in the market.

30,439. What were you doing in the market?—Looking about.

30,440. For what you could get?—No.

30,441. What were you looking about for?—Like the rest of the people, looking and walking round; that's all.

30,442. Do you mean to say that you were not looking about for what you could get, to see if there was any money afloat?—I do mean that. I were not looking after money, nor yet after drink.

30,443. You would have taken it if you could have got it?—No, I should not.

30,444. You would have refused it?—I should.

30,445. A 10*l.* note would have made no impression on a man of your independence?—I was not offered anything; neither one thing nor the other.

30,446. Do you know a man named Leander Brown?—Yes.

30,447. Did you see him in the course of the day?—Yes.

30,448. What did he offer you?—Not anything.

30,449. Do you mean to say that Leander Brown did not offer you anything for your vote?—No, never.

30,450. How came you not to vote till 3 o'clock in the day?—Because I had not made up my mind.

30,451. Having nothing to do the whole day, why had not you made up your mind before 3 o'clock in the afternoon?—I had not made up my mind.

30,452. Did you see Leander Brown before you made up your mind?—I see him, but he never spoke to me.

30,453. You saw him before you made up your mind?—Yes.

30,454. Did he not say something which induced you to make up your mind?—No.

30,455. What did induce you to make up your mind?—I don't know about that.

30,456. Can you give me any rational account of how you came to vote upon that day?—I had a mind to vote for Mr. Stracey, and I done so.

30,457. At 3 o'clock what made you make up your mind?—I thought there was plenty of time between 3 and 4.

30,458. Not to make up your mind?—That is soon made up.

30,459. Then why could you not make it up before 3 o'clock on that day if it could be soon made up?—I don't know.

30,460. Did not you see Leander Brown, and did not he or some other person give you money that day?—No, not anyone.

30,461. Nor promise you anything?—Nor yet never promise me anything.

30,462. Have you had anything since?—No.

30,463. Have you a wife?—Yes.

30,464. Did some money happen to be left for your wife?—No, no money at all.

30,465. Are you sure your wife did not get a little money?—No.

30,466. Just tell me what induced you at 3 o'clock that day to make up your mind. If money or beer did not do it, what did?—I had a mind to vote for Mr. Stracey.

30,467. You told me you had not made up your mind?—I voted before 3 o'clock.

30,468. How much before 3?—I should say half-past 2.

30,469. There is plenty of time between 8 in the morning and half-past 2 for a man who says it does not take much time to make up his mind. Had not you something that led you to make up your mind?—No, I had no particular cause.

30,470. Was there not a little something that induced you to make up your mind? Who was it that gave it you?—No one.

30,471. Did not you have a little drop of Tory beer?—Not a drop of Tory beer did I get, nor yet Tory money.

30,472. What was it, then?—I never got anything; never had the offer.

30,473. You say you would not have taken a 10*l.* note?—No.

30,474. (Mr. Biron.) You were waiting for what you could get?—No, I was not.

C. Fox.

CHARLES FOX sworn and examined.

30,475. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

30,476. What time of the day?—About half-past 2.

30,477. Had you promised your vote?—No.

30,478. Had you been asked for it?—I had been asked for it, but I did not promise it.

30,479. You made up your mind to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

30,480. Have you ever voted before?—No.

30,481. Were you promised anything for your vote?—No.

30,482. Did you promise anybody anything?—No.

30,483. Have you had anything since?—No.

30,484. Did you treat anybody on the day of the poll?—No.

30,485. Were you very active in this election?—No. I never left off till dinner time.

30,486. What are you by trade?—A boatwright.

30,487. Were you at any public-houses that day?—No.

30,488. Not one?—No.

30,489. What were you about all day?—I did not leave off till after dinner.

30,490. What did you do after dinner?—Walked about.

30,491. Did you hear of any money going?—No, I did not see any.

30,492. Did you not hear of it?—No.

W. Carver, jun.

WILLIAM CARVER, junior, sworn and examined.

30,493. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

30,494. For whom?—Stracey.

30,495. What time of the day?—I should think about five or six minutes to 4.

30,496. How came you to put it off so late as that?

—In the first of the morning I had some work to do that I wanted to get done. I got done by 12. I see several parties ill-used in front of the "Greyhound," and I should not have gone up and voted had not it been for my brother coming up out of the third ward and saying, "William; Stracey is winning; I would go and vote if I was you." I said, "Look at the people about here." I had seen several of them ill-used. He said, "Come on," and I went and voted.

30,497. Do you mean to say that they were ill-used when they went and gave their votes?—Those that passed up the street I mean. I did not go out of my house. I live within four doors of the "Greyhound."

30,498. Was that a polling place?—No, a committee room.

30,499. How near to the polling place?—I should think it is about 150 yards from mine to the polling place.

30,500. At what time in the day did you first see this mob, or whatever you call it?—They assembled when the poll was opened first. A man I see insulted was a man of the name of Jonathan Hayes.

30,501. Which way did he vote?—He had orange and purple ribbon round his cap. That is what caused it.

30,502. The man that had colours about him got hustled?—Yes; so that in the middle of the day none of them with those colours came that way. They had to go another way.

WILLIAM STRINGFELLOW sworn and examined.

W. Stringfellow.

30,503. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Where were you upon the morning of the election?—At work.

30,504. Where were you at work?—Mr. Petch, the boat-builder's.

30,505. Up to what time did you remain at work?—Till about 1 o'clock.

30,506. Could not you get away before 1?—No.

30,507. Had you promised your vote?—No.

30,508. Why did not you go and vote at 1?—I could not clean myself and get up town before the time I voted.

30,509. What time did you go to the poll?—About a quarter before 4.

30,510. There was ample time for you to clean yourself and go up town before a quarter to 4?—I had not a chance to get there before then.

30,511. You went home at 1 o'clock?—Yes, but I had my dinner to get.

30,512. To get dinner and to clean yourself would not take up all the time till a quarter to 4. Did anybody come in the meantime to get you up to vote?—No, not anyone.

30,513. What were you doing all the time between 1 o'clock and a quarter to 4?—I was at home some part of the time.

30,514. And during the other part of the time that you were not at home, where were you?—I went down the dockyard first of all.

30,515. Did not you go to a public-house?—No.

30,516. Had you no beer before you went to the polling place?—No.

30,517. Did anybody speak to you before you voted?—No.

30,518. For whom did you vote?—Mr. Stracey.

30,519. Had you promised your vote before that?—No.

30,520. Did you get anything for voting?—No, not anything.

30,521. Or the promise of anything?—Not anything, nor yet the promise of anything.

30,522. Did you go to any public and have beer after you voted?—No, not any, not till after the poll was taken.

30,523. Where did you go after that?—I went up into the market.

30,524. What public-house did you go into and have some beer?—I never got beer anywhere; all I had was a glass of gin at Wiseman's.

30,525–6. Whereabouts is that?—Opposite "Exchange" tavern.

30,527. What is Mr. Wiseman?—A liquor merchant.

30,528. You went into Mr. Wiseman's and had a glass of spirits there?—Yes.

THOMAS LOOMBE sworn and examined.

T. Loombe.

30,529. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A cooper.

30,530. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

30,531. What time in the day?—Half-past 2.

30,532. What made you so late?—I did not leave off work before.

30,533. Had not you been about the town that day?—Not at all; I went home straight to dinner, and then to vote.

30,534. Who asked you to vote?—I was canvassed by the three candidates, Russell, Tillett, and Sir Henry Stracey.

30,535. Had you promised to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—No; I promised I should not vote against him.

30,536. You did not promise to vote for the other two?—No.

30,537. What made you make up your mind at half-past 2, having left yourself free up to that time?—I did not pledge to anyone.

30,538. What made you vote at all?—I voted for Sir Henry Stracey; nothing made me vote.

30,539. Was nothing offered to you?—Nothing; not a drop of beer or anything else.

30,540. Was nothing promised you?—Nothing. I had not a drop of beer all the day.

30,541. Are you a married man?—No.

JOHN NUDD, junior, sworn and examined.

J. Nudd, jun.

30,542. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A labourer.

30,543. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

30,544. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

30,545. What time in the day?—About half-past 3.

30,546. What did you get?—Nothing.

30,547. Why did not you vote earlier?—Why, because there was not no one to persuade me to go. Master came and asked me whether I would oblige him, and I went down.

30,548. You went to oblige your master?—Yes.

30,549. For whom do you work?—I work for Mr. Moore now.

30,550. Who was your employer then?—Mr. Moore then. I had worked for Mr. Newman.

30,551. Was it Mr. Newman that came to you?—Yes. He asked me if I would oblige him, and I said yes.

30,552. Did not he give you anything?—No.

30,553. Or promise you anything?—No.

30,554. Did not he stand treat?—No; I went and voted, and then went back.

30,555. I suppose you would not have voted if you had not been asked?—I should have went and voted, perhaps. I never had a vote before, and so I would vote.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

6 Oct. 1869.

W. Clarke.

William Clarke sworn and examined.

30,556. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

30,557. Were you in any public-house in the early part of the day?—The latter end of the day.

30,558. In the early part of the morning were you in any public-house?—No.

30,559. What were you doing in the early part of the day?—At work at my trade.

30,560. What is your trade?—A card spinner.

30,561. Why did not you vote before?—Because I had some work, and I could not get away from it.

30,562. With whom did you go to the poll?—No one.

30,563. Did not someone come and ask you to go up?—No.

30,564. You went up of your own accord?—Yes.

30,565. Had you promised before?—No.

30,566. Had not you been asked for your vote?—No.

30,567. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

30,568. Did anybody promise you anything?—No.

30,569. Did you get any beer given you that evening?—No. What I had I paid for.

H. Gedge.

Henry Gedge sworn and examined.

30,570. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—An attorney's clerk.

30,571. Were you engaged in this election?—I was.

30,572. For whom?—I was engaged as polling clerk.

30,573. By whom?—Mr. Pilgrim.

30,574. On which side?—Sir Henry Stracey's.

30,575. Did you get paid for your services?—I did.

30,576. Did you vote?—I did.

30,577. Did you get anything for your vote?—Nothing at all.

30,578. When were you paid for your services?—I think it was about two days after; somewhere like that.

30,579. You were paid by your employer, I suppose?—By my employer.

30,580. (Mr. Biron.) How much?—A guinea.

30,581. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you know of any money going at this election?—None at all.

30,582. Were your duties simply confined to the polling clerks' work?—Simply confined to that.

30,583. Had you nothing whatever to do with the management of this election?—Nothing at all.

A. J. Clapham.

Arthur John Clapham sworn and examined.

30,584. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A grocer's assistant.

30,585. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

30,586. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

30,587. At what time of the day?—About 3 o'clock. I cannot say to half an hour. It might be about 3 o'clock.

30,588. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

30,589. Or the promise of anything?—No.

30,590. Did you take any men up to vote?—No.

30,591. Did you go to the "Jolly Butchers"?—Yes.

30,592. In the afternoon?—Yes.

30,593. Was that before or after you had voted?—Before.

30,594. Did you find a lot of men there waiting?—There were several backwards and forwards.

30,595. Were not there a lot of men waiting there who had not voted?—Yes.

30,596. Did you try to get them up to vote?—No.

30,597. Did not you say anything to them?—No.

30,598. Did not you take any of them up to the poll along with you?—No.

30,599. Not one?—Not one.

30,600. Did you see anybody there attempting to persuade them?—No, not anyone.

30,601. Do you know whether they voted or not?—I believe they all voted, what were there.

30,602. They were waiting there for money, were not they?—I cannot say. They were having their pints of beer, but I don't know what they were waiting for.

30,603. Did not you see anybody come in to talk to them?—No.

30,604. You left them there?—I left them there.

30,605. Did you go back at all after you had voted?—No.

30,606. Had they polled when you went to vote?—I suppose they followed me. I went and voted, and I suppose they did.

30,607. They came up to the poll after you?—Yes.

30,608. Had not you said anything to them?—No.

30,609. Had you stood drink there?—No.

30,610. What did you go there for?—I live opposite. He is a neighbour of mine, and I merely went in for a glass of ale, the same as the rest of them; that's all, nothing else.

T. Worledge.

Thomas Worledge sworn and examined.

30,611. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You were at Clarke's beerhouse on the day of the election, were you not?—Yes.

30,612. And you gave some tickets for beer there?—I gave some address cards to Mr. Clarke, and asked him if he would oblige me by giving credit for 6*d.* upon them, and he said, "Yes."

30,613. If you have anything to tell us respecting your proceedings on the day of the election we shall be glad to hear you. I do not propose to examine you now, but we will examine you to-morrow morning; and I should advise you to be prepared to give a true account of what you did on the day of the election.—You may depend upon it I shall give a true account. I treated people during the day; there is no doubt of that.

30,614. To-morrow morning we will have from you a full account of your proceedings, and I hope you will give us that account with candour; if you do you will be protected from all consequences.—You may depend upon it I will.

W. Amy.

William Amy sworn and examined.

30,615. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

30,616. At what time in the day did you vote?—I believe between 3 and 4.

30,617. What made you vote so late?—I could not leave off work till 3 o'clock.

30,618. Were you not out at all before?—No.

30,619. Had you promised your vote to anyone?—Yes, to Sir Henry Stracey.

30,620. Did he canvass you personally?—Yes.

30,621. On what day was that?—I cannot say what day it was; it was a day or two before the election.

30,622. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

30,623. Or was anything promised to you?—No.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

6 Oct. 1869.

JAMES BRADLEY sworn and examined. J. Bradley.

30,624. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A Tory.

30,625. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes, I voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

30,626. At what time in the day?—About 3 o'clock.

30,627. For a Tory that was rather late, was it not?—I do not know about that.

30,628. Why did you not vote before 3 o'clock in the day?—I do not know. I did not know that it signified.

30,629. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

30,630. Or the promise of anything?—No, no one promised me.

30,631. What were you doing all the day?—I was at my work.

30,632. Where were you at work?—On Mr. Rump's brickyard; tile maker, in Thorpe Road.

30,633. Were you there all day?—No, I came to vote at 3 o'clock.

30,634. Did you remain there till 3 o'clock?—Yes.

30,635. Had anybody canvassed you?—No.

30,636. Had nobody asked you to vote?—No.

30,637. Is the man at whose place you work a Tory?—No, he is a blue.

30,638. Did nobody ask you for your vote?—No.

30,639. Are you sure of that?—No one ever came and canvassed me.

30,640. You went up and voted by yourself?—Yes, I went up and voted all alone.

30,641. What did you do after you had voted?—I went back to my work again.

30,642. Were you in any of the public-houses?—No, I never went into any on that day.

30,643. Not either before or after you had voted?—No, I did not go into one either before or after I had voted.

30,644. Are you married?—Yes.

30,645. Did your wife get anything?—No.

30,646. Are you sure about that?—She never got anything that I know of.

30,647. Did she say anything to you about voting?—No, she never said anything to me.

EDWARD WICKHAM sworn and examined. E. Wickham

30,648. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What are you?—A publican.

30,649. What is the sign of your house?—The "Rosary."

30,650. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

30,651. Where were you all the day of the election up to the time of voting?—At home.

30,652. Who came to your house that morning on the Tory side?—A lot of people.

30,653. Had they a breakfast there?—No.

30,654. Who came and gave them beer?—No one.

30,655. Was there no beer given away in your house that day?—No beer, not a pint I do not believe.

30,656. Did you see Hardiment at your house that day?—No.

30,657. Did Benfather come in at all?—Not that I know of.

30,658. You know Benfather?—No, I do not think I do.

30,659. Do you not know Benfather of the "Oak"?—No.

30,660. Did Cubitt come in?—No.

30,661. Do you know David Cubitt?—Yes.

30,662. At what time did the voters begin to come into your house that morning?—A little after 8.

30,663. And did they remain drinking there the whole of the day?—No.

30,664. But did they keep coming in and out?—Yes, they were in and out.

30,665. Did you see anybody there giving them money?—No.

30,666. Or paying for beer supplied to them?—No, not a penny.

30,667. Did you see Worledge that day?—Yes, I saw him in Magdalen Street, but I did not speak to him.

30,668. Did he go into your house?—No.

30,669. Young Wiseman; do you know him?—Yes.

30,670. Was he there that day?—No.

30,671. Did you see anybody coming to take up voters from your house?—No; there is a polling place about 10 yards from my door.

30,672. Was there nobody there trying to persuade voters who were in your house to go and vote?—No, I never heard it.

30,673. I suppose that, as in other places, there were a lot of men who wanted something for their votes?—No, I do not think there was.

30,674. You think that all the men in your house were men who would not take a bribe?—I think they voted free.

30,675. And they would not take a bribe?—I think they would if they had the chance.

30,676. Do you not think that there were a good many of them hanging back?—No; most of them that came to mine are railway men; they have only an hour given to them, and I do not think they would take a bribe.

30,677. Are those the principal persons who were in your house?—Yes.

30,678. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

30,679. Or the promise of anything?—No.

30,680. Were you canvassed before for your vote?—Yes, I was canvassed by both parties.

30,681. Had you made up your mind which way you would vote?—I had made up my mind not to vote for Tillett.

30,682. And did you tell them so?—Yes.

30,683. Why did you not say to Sir Henry Stracey that you would vote for him?—I did not say so. I was not at home when he came.

WILLIAM CALVER sworn and examined. W. Calver.

30,684. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

30,685. At what time in the day?—About half-past 10.

30,686. Had you promised your vote?—No.

30,687. What did you get for it?—Nothing. I have been a voter for 23 years, and I have never had a halfpenny in my life.

30,688. Have you always voted orange and purple?—No.

30,689. You changed your side?—I changed this time.

30,690. Why did you change?—Because I respected Sir Henry Stracey.

30,691. Has your wife had anything?—No.

30,692. Are you a freeman?—Yes.

30,693. Did you get any beer on the day of the election?—No; I wanted some, but I was forced to pay for it.

30,694. Who canvassed you for your vote?—I was not canvassed by Sir Henry Stracey's party at all; I was by the other party.

30,695. And what did you tell them?—I told them that I should vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

30,696. You dislike the Tillett party?—Yes, I do dislike them, I assure you. If they had all acted as I have done we should not have required your presence here.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

J. Bugg.

6 Oct. 1869.

JOSEPH BUGG sworn and examined.

30,697. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—An innkeeper.

30,698. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

30,699. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

30,700. What house do you keep?—The "Windmill" tavern.

30,701. Did you get anything for voting?—Certainly not.

30,702. Or the promise of anything?—Not a farthing.

30,703. Were there any men at your house that day?—Several, the same as any other day.

30,704. They were there drinking?—Yes.

30,705. Were they voters?—That I cannot say; I never asked them any question.

30,706. You did not know of any treating going on at your house?—Not a bit.

30,707. Do you know Leander Brown?—No, I cannot say that I do.

33,708. Did you see anybody in your house standing beer for the men?—No.

R. Gedge.

ROBERT GEDGE sworn and examined.

30,709. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

30,710. What is your business?—A boot and shoe maker.

30,711. Had you been asked for your vote?—No.

30,712. Had nobody been to canvass you on either side?—No, not on either side.

30,713. Did anybody come to you on that day to ask you to go up and vote?—No.

30,714. Did you go up entirely of your own accord?—Yes.

30,715. How came you to go up so late in the day?—Because I was busy at my work, and I wanted to finish the employment I was about. I did not get out till dinner time, and then I had to shave and wash.

30,716. Did anybody give you anything for your vote?—No.

30,717. Nor the promise of anything?—No; I had no one come to ask me who I would vote for.

30,718. And you received nothing?—Nothing at all.

J. Hobrough.

JAMES HOBROUGH sworn and examined.

30,719. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you?—A contractor and licensed victualler.

30,720. Did you take any active part in this election?—No.

30,721. Did you canvass anybody?—No.

30,722. Did you vote?—No.

30,723. Have you been a voter long in Norwich?—No, I have not had the chance of voting before.

30,724. You had nothing whatever to do with the election?—No, not the slightest.

30,725. Do you know Leander Brown?—Yes.

30,726. Did you see him at your house on the day of the election?—He was there pretty well all day, backwards and forwards.

30,727. Taking men up from your place?—Yes.

30,728. Were those men drunk or sober?—Some of them were drunk and some were sober.

30,729. Were those men in your employment?—Some of them were.

30,730. Do you know young Mr. Stracey?—Yes.

30,731. Was he in your house that day?—I never saw him.

30,732. Do you know whether he was there or not?—He was not there.

30,733. Are you certain of that?—Yes; I was at home all day, and he was not there.

30,734. Was he there the day before?—He had canvassed me a day or two before.

30,735. And you promised, did you not, that you would do what you could to get up your men?—No, I made no promise of any sort.

30,736. Did you not intimate to him that you would help him in any way?—No.

30,737. How was it that you did not vote yourself?—I had to attend to my business. My house was full all day, and I could not get away.

30,738. How far off was your house from the polling place?—About half a mile.

30,739. Do you mean to say that you could not leave your house to go and vote?—No, I could not; there was nobody at home but my wife, and I could not leave her to manage the business.

30,740. Do you mean to say that you did not use any influence with these men to get them to vote?—Not the slightest.

30,741. Had you seen Leander Brown the day before the polling?—I am sure I could not say.

30,742. Did he speak to you about these voters?—No.

30,743. Did he only speak to you about them on the day of the election?—Only on the day of the election; he was backwards and forwards all day.

30,744. He took them up from your place?—Yes.

30,745. Did you spend any money on this election?—No.

30,746. Did any money go through your hands for paying voters?—No.

30,747. Or to pay for any beer drawn at your house for these men?—No.

30,748. Who paid for the beer they had?—Those that had it.

30,749. Did not Leander Brown pay for the beer?—No, he never paid for anything in my house all that day.

30,750. Are you certain of that?—Yes, I am quite certain of it. I was at home in my house, and was at the bar myself.

30,751. Do you know the names of any of the men who were taken up from your place?—No.

30,752. Were they regular customers of yours?—Yes, some were, and some were strangers.

30,753. Some of them were men in your employment?—I do not think he took up any men in my employment.

30,754. You said just now that he did.—I do not know whether he took my men up or not. I know he took several men up; he went several times from my house.

30,755. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What time in the morning did your house begin to fill?—I should think about 11 or 12 in the forenoon.

30,756. And what time in the day did Leander Brown first come to your house?—I cannot say; somewhere about dinner time.

30,757. Was your house pretty full when he came?—Yes, I generally have a house full.

30,758. Are you near to any place where there are men employed in any particular work?—Yes, there are lots of men employed about my place on the chalk staiths, and coalmen and gasmen.

30,759. And they come and frequent your house?—Yes.

30,760. Did anybody come up with Leander Brown?—I never saw anybody, only the man that drove the conveyance.

30,761. Did Leander Brown leave the conveyance and come into your house?—Yes, it stood outside the door.

30,762. Where were the men?—In the tap-room, and in the bar.

30,763. I suppose you cannot see into the tap-room when you are in your bar?—No, not from the bar.

30,764. Then what he did in the tap-room you would not know?—No, I should not know anything about that.

30,765. But there were a good number of men there that got drunk?—Yes, there was plenty drunk, and sober too. I had a whole house full all day from 11 or 12 o'clock.

30,766. And Leander Brown kept coming to and fro, carrying the men away?—Yes.

30,767. What sort of conveyance had he?—He had a 'bus or a fly, or something of that sort.

30,768. How many loads did he take away from your house?—I do not know. I know he took a great many.

30,769. Twenty or 30 loads?—I cannot say for that; he took them as fast as he could get them.

30,770. And when he came did he go into the tap-room and take them from there?—I do not know that he took them from the tap-room; he took them from wherever he could find them.

30,771. Did you hear the men say that Leander Brown had been standing beer?—No, I never heard them say that. I heard plenty of them say that they could not get any.

30,772. Did you hear afterwards a considerable number say that those that went to poll did get it?—I never heard anyone say that.

30,773. They kept that quiet, did they?—Yes, they did to me.

30,774. Did anybody besides Leander Brown come to your house and fetch up voters?—I saw another man there, but I do not know who he was; a man with a grey pony.

30,775. Do you know Hardiment?—No, I do not know him.

30,776. How often did that man come to your house?—Two or three times; he was a perfect stranger to me.

30,777. Did he come with a trap?—He had a light trap and a grey horse.

30,778. And he took away voters too, did he?—I cannot say; I do not know that.

30,779. Did he go into the tap-room?—No, he came into the bar.

30,780. Was he talking to the men inside your house?—I do not know; I could not see from the bar.

30,781. At what time did he first come to your house?—I am sure I do not know; I believe it was just after dinner.

30,782. He came two or three times?—Yes. I do not know how many times he came.

30,783. Was he a young or an old man?—A man of about 30, I should suppose.

30,784. A gentleman?—A gentleman in appearance.

30,785. Do you know Charles Sidney?—Yes.

30,786. Was he there?—He was at my house.

30,787. Do you know George Brooks?—Yes.

30,788. Was he there?—Yes.

30,789. Charles Gates?—Yes, he was there.

30,790. Minns?—I do not know him.

30,791. William Butcher?—Yes, I saw Butcher there.

30,792. Those men were pretty drunk when they went away, were they not?—I do not think that any of them were drunk.

30,793. Were they not?—No, they were not drunk I know.

30,794. Those were the sober men, were they?—Yes, they were sober enough.

30,795. Has anybody paid you any score for that day, since the election?—No, I had no score.

30,796. Was any lump sum given to you?—No, not the slightest; no one took any interest in it on my part.

30,797. No one came in and gave orders for a gallon, or anything of that sort?—No.

30,798. Each man ordered his own beer?—Yes.

30,799. How they got the money you do not know?—No; of course I had no business to ask them that.

THOMAS RATHMEL sworn and examined.

T. Rathmel.

30,800. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A master coppersmith and publican.

30,801. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

30,802. For whom?—For Russell and Tillett.

30,803. Did you get anything for voting?—Not a farthing.

30,804. Or the promise of anything?—No, nor the promise of anything.

30,805. Did you see Leander Brown in the course of the day?—Yes, he came up to my house to fetch me to vote, with a carriage and pair.

30,806. Did he ask you to vote?—He came and got hold of my collar, and said, "Come, Tom; I have come for you to vote for Stracey."

30,807. What did you say to that?—I made rather a vulgar phrase of it, but still I said that when I wanted to go and vote I could walk.

30,808. Did he then go to any of the men who were in your house?—Yes, one man.

30,809. Who was that?—Henry Laws; he called him out of the house into the passage, and Henry Laws told me that when he came in he offered him half a quid, and he would not take it; and he then asked him if a quid would be of any use, and he said, No, he should not take anything; and then Henry Laws went and voted with me.

30,810. What time was that?—Between a quarter and half-past 11.

30,811. Did Brown say anything to you about money?—No, he never spoke to me about it, because he knew better.

30,812. Did he speak to any other men about money in your presence?—No; there was only two besides myself in the house at the time when he came; Laws was one, and he never spoke to the other at all.

30,813. Was anyone else there when Laws mentioned this to you?—Yes, there was another person with him. I do not know his name. Laws knows him; he was a partner of his.

30,814. Was there anybody there who could have heard Brown say this?—No, I think not, because he called him out into the passage.

30,815. Did you hear anything else of bribery during the day?—No, not anything.

30,816. Or treating?—No. I never went amongst them. I went and voted, and never went among any of the voters.

THOMAS MITSON sworn and examined.

T. Mitson.

30,817. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

30,818. At what time?—A little after 2.

30,819. Did you take any interest in the election?—No.

30,820. Did you make up your mind before the election day which way you would vote?—Yes.

30,821. Had you promised your vote?—No.

30,822. Did anybody ask you for your vote?—No.

30,823. Having made up your mind, as you say you had, which way you would vote, why did you not vote before that time in the day?—I had not time. I was engaged.

30,824. What are you?—A groom.

30,825. Who is your master?—Mr. Pymar.

30,826. Which way did he vote?—I do not know; I think for Mr. Tillett.

30,827. Did anybody come and ask you for your vote?—No.

30,828. Did nobody come to fetch you?—No.

30,829. You went up of your own accord?—Yes.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

T. Mitson.

30,830. Were you at any public-house that morning?—No, nor yet that day.

30,831. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

30,832. Not the promise of anything?—No.

6 Oct. 1869.

J. Shenfield.

JOSEPH SHENFIELD sworn and examined.

30,833. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

30,834. Who asked you to vote?—I was never canvassed only once, seven days prior to the election.

30,835. Did you promise your vote?—Yes.

30,836. Did you receive anything for your vote?—No.

30,837. Had you any promise of advancement?—Not at all. I was only canvassed by one person.

30,838. What are you?—I am turnkey in the city gaol.

30,839. Did you give anything to anybody to induce him to vote at the election?—No.

C. Arnup.

CHARLES ARNUP sworn and examined.

30,840. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

30,841. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

30,842. At what time in the day?—About 20 minutes to 4.

30,843. Why did you not vote sooner than that?—I never left off work till 3 o'clock.

30,844. What were you at?—Carting turf. I began at 6 in the morning, and did not leave till 3.

30,845. What did you do then?—I went home, and went right straight and voted.

30,846. Did you go to the "Anchor" tavern before you voted?—No.

30,847. Did you see a man named Balls before you voted?—Not that I know of. I do not recollect it.

30,848. Had you promised to vote?—No.

30,849. Did not somebody ask you that day to vote?—No. I went on to Mousehold Heath at 6 o'clock in the morning, and never left till 3 o'clock, and then I went home and voted.

30,850. And you never got anything for voting?—No.

30,851. You went and voted of your own accord?—Yes. I went and voted right straight off.

G. Dunn.

GEORGE DUNN sworn and examined.

30,852. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What is your business?—A butcher.

30,853. What were you doing all the morning of the election day?—Not anything. I went and voted about 9 o'clock, and then went away after my business.

30,854. Where did you go after 9 o'clock?—To Dereham.

30,855. What were you doing up to 9 o'clock?—Carrying some beef out that I had to carry out for my master.

30,856. At what time did you come back from Dereham?—At 8 o'clock at night.

30,857. At what time did you vote?—About 9 o'clock, or a little after 9.

30,858. Had anybody come to you to ask you to give your vote the day before?—No, not anybody.

30,859. Had you been canvassed before for your vote?—No.

30,860. Did you get any money for your vote?—No.

30,861. How came your wife to say that you had?—I do not think she said such a thing as that.

30,862. She has said it?—I know better.

30,863. Are you sure you did not get any money for your vote?—Quite sure.

30,864. Had you promised your vote before?—No, not to anybody.

30,865. Did anybody ask you for it?—No, nobody. I went entirely of my own accord.

30,866. Have you not heard that your wife has told Ellis, the greengrocer, living next door to you, that you got money for your vote?—No.

30,867. You neither got anything, nor the promise of anything?—No, not anything.

J. Gardner.

JOHN GARDNER sworn and examined.

30,868. (Mr. Mansfield.) At what time in the day did you vote?—Between 3 and 4 o'clock.

30,869. For whom?—I voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

30,870. What did you get for your vote?—I never got anything for it.

30,871. Did you not get some beer?—No.

30,872. Were you promised anything?—No.

30,873. Have you had nothing since?—No, nor spoke to anybody about it, nor has anybody spoken to me.

30,874. Were you never asked to vote?—No.

30,875. Had you ever voted before?—No.

30,876. Do you mean to tell me that you got nothing for your vote this time?—Certainly I do.

30,877. Where were you all day?—At my labour.

30,878. Where is that?—At the gasworks.

30,879. At what time did you get out?—I did not know that I could get out till the afternoon.

30,880. Most of the men at the gasworks voted for Sir Henry Stracey, did they not?—I cannot say; the biggest part of them I believe did, but I am not able to say; I know that four or five did.

30,881. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You agreed that that was the best way of voting, did you?—No, I had no agreement with no one for that; I was not asked for my vote, not by no one on the premises.

J. Chilvers.

JOHN CHILVERS sworn and examined.

30,882. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A wood turner.

30,883. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

30,884. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

30,885. At what time?—Between 3 and 4.

30,886. Did you get anything for voting?—No, not anything.

30,887. Or the promise of anything?—No, not anything.

30,888. Had you been canvassed?—No.

30,889. You voted of your own accord?—Yes.

30,890. Had you voted that way before?—I never had voted before.

J. Batch.

JOHN BATCH sworn and examined.

30,891. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Had you ever voted before?—No.

30,892. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

30,893. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

30,894. Did anybody come to you and ask you for your vote before the election?—No.

30,895. Did anybody come and ask you for your vote on the day of the election?—No.

30,896. Nobody came and asked you to go up to the poll?—No.

30,897. Where were you on the morning of the election?—At home.

30,898. What were you doing at home?—I had not anything to do that day.

30,899. Having nothing to do at home, why did you not go up and vote before 2 o'clock in the day?—I went up to the polling booth about half-past 9 o'clock, but I found that there was such a crowd there that I went away again. I thought I had better wait for an opportunity to vote when it was at liberty.

30,900. Did nobody promise you anything that day?—No, I had no promise from anybody.

30,901. Did anybody give you anything?—No, not a farthing, nor a farthing's worth of anything.

JOHN DOWNING sworn and examined. J. Downing.

30,902. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A boiler maker.

30,903. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

30,904. Where were you working?—At Mr. Tidman's.

30,905. Did he vote for Stracey too?—I am sure I cannot say.

30,906. Did anybody ask you to vote?—No.

30,907 Did you promise to vote?—No, I made up my mind vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

30,908. Has anything been paid you for voting?—No, nothing at all.

30,909. Has anything been promised you?—No.

30,910. Do you know Leander Brown?—No.

30,911. Were you at Hobrough's public-house on the day of the poll?—Yes.

30,912. Who took you up to vote?—Some gentleman said he was going up that way, would I ride with him; I was just going up.

30,913. What sort of a carriage was it?—It was a carriage with a pair of greys, I believe.

30,914. There were several other men who went up with you, were there not?—I believe I was the only one.

30,915. Did not the gentleman give you anything?—Not a farthing.

30,916. You had some beer at the public-house?—Not a drop but what I paid for.

30,917. Was there not any beer going that day at Hobrough's public-house?—No, not that I saw.

30,918. You were never treated the whole day?—No, not a drop.

30,919. Have you had nothing paid you since for your vote?—No, not a farthing. I came down there alone, and went up in the carriage by myself. I was going up as the carriage stood there.

30,920. Do the men from your works generally go for Stracey?—There are only one or two that have votes besides me.

30,921. Is this the first time you have had a vote?—Yes.

30,922. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What time did you go into Hobrough's?—About 1 or a quarter past 1.

30,923. How long did you remain there?—I should say about half an hour or three quarters of an hour.

30,924. Were you having your dinner there?—No.

30,925. There were a large quantity of men there, were there not?—There were several. I only went as far as the bar.

30,926. You did not go into the tap-room?—No, only as far as the bar.

30,927. You stood in the bar?—I stood in the bar, and drank my glass of ale and came out again.

30,928. And then a gentleman came up to you and asked whether you had voted?—No, he never asked me; not then. It was after I came down again. I went in after I came down again.

30,929. Where did the gentleman pick you up who took you to the poll?—As I stood outside the door.

30,930. Was that before you went into Hobrough's at all?—I had been in in the first of the morning, about 6 o'clock.

30,931. Had you been in at that time before and came out again?—Yes, in the first of the morning.

30,932. I mean at that time were you going into Hobrough's house when this gentleman came up to you?—No, I was coming out.

30,933. How long had you been in the public-house before you came out, when the gentleman spoke to you?—About half an hour or three quarters of an hour.

30,934. Had he been in the public-house during the time you were there?—No, I had not seen him.

30,935. He came up to the public-house when you were coming out?—Yes, he came up there in a carriage.

30,936. Did he ask you whether you had voted?—No, he never asked me no such thing.

30,937. What did he say to you?—Another gentleman said, "Here is a young fellow now going to vote; he will ride up with you."

30,938. How did that gentleman know you were going to vote?—Because I told him, and asked him if he was going that way.

30,939. You got into the carriage, and he drove you down?—Yes.

30,940. You had made up your mind to vote at that time?—Yes, I had made up my mind to vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

30,941. Did you see that gentleman there at all that day at Hobrough's?—No, I cannot say I did. I went home to dinner.

GEORGE MANN sworn and examined. G. Mann.

30,942. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A yachtsman.

30,943. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes; I was getting Mr. Stanley's yacht ready.

30,944. At what time in the day?—It might be 3 o'clock, or a little after 3.

30,945. How came you to be so late?—Because I had to get Mr. Stanley's yacht ready.

30,946. Is that Mr. Stanley, the solicitor?—Yes; I sail for him.

30,947. Did he ask you to vote for Stracey?—No, he never named anything to me about voting. I do not believe he knew I had a vote.

30,948. He said nothing to you a all about voting?—No.

30,949. Did anybody ask you to vote?—No.

30,950. Had you ever voted before?—Yes, these 23 or 24 years.

30,951. Are you a freeman?—Yes.

30,952. Which way did you vote before?—Always for the Tories.

30,953. And you voted for the Tories this time?—Yes.

30,954. Did you get anything for it?—No.

30,955. Or before?—No.

30,956. Did you ever get anything for voting?—No.

GEORGE HEWETT sworn and examined. G. Hewett.

30,957. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you keep a public-house?—No.

30,958. What business is yours?—A master foundryman.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

G. Hewett.

6 Oct. 1869.

30,959. Do you work for any person in your business?—No, I am a master for myself.

30,960. You are not the master of a foundry under any people, but it is your own foundry?—Yes, my own foundry.

30,961. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

30,962. Did you get anything for voting?—No, that I did not.

30,963. Or the promise of anything?—No, nothing of the sort. I never see none of them. Neither parties did not come to me at all.

H. Box.

HENRY BOX sworn and examined.

30,964. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

30,965. At what time of the day?—Between 2 and 3.

30,966. Had you promised your vote?—No.

30,967. Had you not been asked for it?—No, not personally; a party came to my house, but I did not see them.

30,968. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

30,969. Has anything been paid you since?—No, not a fraction; not so much as a glass of pump water.

30,970. Have you ever voted before?—No. I can tell you the reason I did not vote before, because I am a rural messenger from Norwich to Plumstead, and my duties compel me to be about from that time. I walked away from Plumstead to vote for Sir Henry Stracey, free and independent as I thought.

30,971. Do you carry letters?—Yes, I do.

30,972. You know the people at Rackheath?—Yes, I do. I do not carry their letters.

30,973. You know them?—I know Sir Henry Stracey quite well, and have known him ever since I was a child.

30,974. That as the reason you voted for him?—Yes, I did so; it was my principle.

W. Fulcher.

WILLIAM FULCHER sworn and examined.

30,975. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A baker.

30,976. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes; I voted for Stracey and Russell.

30,977. At what time in the day?—About half-past 11.

30,978. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

30,979. Or the promise of anything?—No.

30,980. Do you keep a public-house?—Yes.

30,981. Were there men there waiting to vote?—No.

30,982. Were there men there during the day?—There was not above one or two people in my house during the day.

30,983. Was there any drinking going on there?—Only by one man: he came in after having voted, and he sat there pretty well all the day.

30,984. Was he the only man?—I do not think I had anyone else in that day.

30,985–7. Was there anybody there treating voters?—No.

R. S. Green.

ROBERT SAMUEL GREEN sworn and examined.

30,988. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

30,989. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

30,990. You voted late in the afternoon?—No.

30,991. Are you sure you did not?—I voted at about a quarter past 8 in the morning.

30,992. Are you a timber merchant, living in Julian Street?—Yes.

30,993. You took an active part, did you not, in support of Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes, I did.

30,994. What money did you commission Larkman to pay?—None.

30,995. In what way did you exert yourself in support of Sir Henry Stracey?—I canvassed for him.

30,996. On the day of election what did you do?—I was there early in the morning. There were three or four voters I got up.

30,997. Where were you?—I was in Ber Street.

30,998. You know Larkman, who keeps a public-house?—Yes.

30,999. Were you at Larkman's?—I was in there two or three times in the afternoon.

31,000. There were a number of voters there, were there not?—Yes, there were.

31,001. How many voters did you take up from Larkman's?—I might take up one or two.

31,002. Did you take up one or two?—I think I did.

31,003. Did you not take up several voters from Larkman's?—Yes, I believe there were two I took up; I do not remember more.

31,004. You know, do you not, that Larkman promised money to men at his house?—No, I do not.

31,005. Did you not hear that day that Larkman was promising money to people at his house?—I do not remember. I never made any promises.

31,006. Do you not know that Larkman was promising money?—Yes, it is reported about Ber Street.

31,007. Did you not hear that very day Larkman was promising money to people in his house?—No.

31,008. When did you hear it first?—I have heard it since the election.

31,009. When did you first hear it?—I cannot say exactly the time. I have heard it since the election; since the petition.

31,010. Had you not heard it before?—No.

31,011. You never heard that Larkman had promised money to people in his house immediately after the election?—I heard it after the election.

31,012. Immediately after the election?—No, not immediately after.

31,013. Before the petition?—Yes, I heard it before the petition.

31,014. Did you see Larkman before the election day?—No.

31,015. You had not spoken to him?—No.

31,016. What time in the morning did you first go to Larkman's on the election day?—I should think I was in there from 10 to 11 o'clock. I went in several times during the day.

31,017. Between 10 and 11 o'clock, or some part of the day, did not Larkman speak to you about giving the men money?—In the afternoon, I should say between 3 and 4 it might be, he named the thing to me, and I said I had no promises, nor did I know of any money going anywhere, and I never gave him any authority to promise.

31,018. Did he not speak to you about giving the men money?—He asked me whether there was any money, and I said, No, there was not; that I had not heard of any; nor did I authorize him to make any promises.

31,019. Did you not say to Larkman that he might spend or promise a little money?—No, I did not say he might.

31,020. You were a very active supporter of Sir Henry Stracey's?—I took an active part, the same as other persons.

31,021. He told you there were a number of men there that wanted a little sum, a day's pay?—Yes. I know there were 20 or 30 men that wanted some money.

31,022. They wanted their day's pay?—Yes.

31,023. A very little trifle would do it?—Yes.

31,024. Did you not say, "Yes, you had better promise them a little money"?—No, I did not; I never made any promise at all.

31,025. Did you not say that it would be well to do it?—No, I never gave him any authority at all.

31,026. Did you not say so, as a matter of advice, or did you not suggest that he could do it?—No, I never gave him any authority at all.

31,027. What did you say to him?—He asked me whether he might put the names down, and whether I thought there was any money to be had, and I told him I had not heard of any; nor did I believe there was any given anywhere.

31,028. The names were put down?—I believe he put the names down, but I did not see it done.

31,029. Was not that because he had promised them some money?—Well, I suppose it was. All I can say is, I never gave him any authority to put the names down in any shape whatever.

31,030. Perhaps you thought it would be a little unsafe to do that?—I should not like to be mixed up with anything of the sort.

31,031. If he did it, I suppose you, as an active supporter of Sir Henry Stracey, would not let the man suffer?—If he had paid anything he would have paid it out of his own pocket.

31,032. No doubt he would have paid it out of his own pocket, but you, as an active supporter of Sir Henry Stracey, would not let the man suffer for it, would you?—He would have had to suffer; he would not have had anything of me, because I never promised anything, and never gave him any authority.

31,033. I did not suggest that you promised anything. If he paid it you would not have let him suffer, would you?—He would have had to have suffered. I had no money to give, and I had no promise from any one of the party.

31,034. We know a good number of people in Norwich may do things from mere party zeal on their own account?—Very true.

31,035. I suppose you are not a person entirely destitute of public spirit any more than your neighbours?—I have not spirit enough to spend my own money about a thing like that.

31,036. He did talk to you, and you knew the names were put down. How many of those out of that list did you take to the poll?—I did not take above one or two from his house to the poll.

31,037. Out of that list?—No, not out of that list. There was a man, I think, by the name of Gathergood.

31,038. If you did not take them out of that list you saw the list?—No, I did not see the list.

31,039. How can you tell unless you saw the list that they were not on the list?—I did not see the list.

31,040. Then how can you tell that those men whom you took to the poll were not on the list?—Simply for this reason, the men were in the house.

31,041. And Larkman took a list of the men in his house, did he not, who wanted money, and you saw that list as a piece of paper?—I did not see it. I never saw it.

31,042. You only knew it was taken?—I only know he told me that he had taken a list of the men, but I never saw the list, and never authorised him to do it.

31,043. If that is so, how did you know that those men you took were not part of that list?—I cannot say they were part of the list.

31,044. How came you to tell me just now that they were not on the list?—Because I do not know whether they were or not.

31,045. I asked you distinctly whether they were on that list, and you said you knew they were not on that list. Now you mean to say you do not know whether they were on the list or not?—I do not know any more than you do.

31,046. You knew he had taken a list; any reasonable man would conclude that all the persons in his house were on that list, and yet you took two persons from his house?—I told you he made the list on his own responsibility. I never saw the list, nor do I know the names of any of the persons on the list.

31,047. You knew he made a list of the people in his house?—Only from what he told me.

31,048. And you believed him?—Yes, I believed him according to his own statement.

31,049. You knew he had taken a list?—I know he told me he had made a list or reported about it.

31,050. You took two of those persons who were in his house?—I cannot say whether he put them on the list or not.

31,051. You took two persons from his house?—I believe I took one or two persons from his house.

31,052. What made you suppose they were not put upon his list?—I do not say they were not on his list. How is it possible for me to say?

31,053. Do you not believe they were on his list?—It is impossible for me to answer the question, because in the first instance I never authorised him to make the list, and in the second place I never saw the list.

31,054. Only consider.—I know what I am saying, and what I am doing.

31,055. You took two of the people who were in his house. Do you mean to say you did not understand you were taking up people who were upon the list?—I mean to say, I do not know whether they were on the list or not.

31,056. You know, do you not, that these men who came from Larkman's house went up to the poll believing they were to be paid?—I do not know that.

31,057. Did you inquire of those two men you took up whether they had been promised money?—I did not. I advised them to go and vote. I told them over and over again in the house that there was not a farthing for anyone; that I had not heard of anything going; that I had not heard of any bribery going on in the city.

31,058. The men spoke to you about it?—Yes. I told you when I first commenced that the men were waiting for a bribe.

31,059. You did not tell me that they spoke to you about it.—Several of the men wanted a day's pay.

31,060. Did they not all go up?—I believe they did ultimately.

31,061. Have you any doubt whatever that every one of those men were induced to go up with the promise of money?—I believe they went without the promise, that is my opinion.

31,062. They were men who wanted money. They were men who would not vote up to that time without money. What induces you to suppose that they went up without the promise of anything? Do you not believe that every one of those men were promised money?—I do not, unless Mr. Larkman did it.

31,063. Do you not know Mr. Larkman did it, saying he was commissioned by you to do it?—I never gave him any commission, that I will swear to.

31,064. Has Larkman ever applied to you to pay some money?—No, not a penny.

31,065. Will you give me the names of the two men you took up?—There is one man that went up of the name of Robert Gathergood, but I cannot tell you the other one.

31,066. Where does Gathergood live?—He lives in Ber Street.

31,067. Will you give me the names of some of the men who were in Larkman's house; did you know Charles Daniels?—I do not.

31,068. Do you know Preston?—No.

31,069. Do you not know the names of any of the persons who were in Larkman's house?—No, I do not know one. If you were to give me the world or a thousand pounds to give you the names of the men who were there I could not do it. I do not come here to tell an untruth. I might just tell you this,

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

R. S. Green.

5 Oct. 1869.

that I gave up the election at 11 o'clock, taking any interest in it, and did not make any fresh commencement till about 3 o'clock, after I had done my business.

31,070. You were several times in Larkman's house. Unless it was for the purpose of getting up and influencing voters what took you several times to his house?—It was for the purpose of getting men to vote of course. I had no other interest in it, but I never had a penny from the party in any shape whatever, I am upon my oath.

31,071. Do you know a man of the name of Amiss?—Yes, he was engaged with me. We were both together. Mr. George Amiss. We were both together in the house, and Mr. Amiss can confirm what I have said.

31,072. Did he go every time with you to Larkman's?—I might go into the house without him; I will not say I did not. We were in and out of the house several times in the afternoon, and tried to get the men up to vote.

31,073. How many men were there together?—I should think between 20 and 30; I have no doubt of it.

31,074. They all wanted money?—They said they wanted a day's pay; that is the fact, but we had no authority from anyone to give them a farthing.

31,075. They all said they would not vote without it?—No, I never heard them say they would not vote without it, because they did vote without it.

31,076. How do you know they voted without it?—That is my firm opinion.

31,077. Have you been told that they voted without it?—All I can say is this——

31,078. Have you been told that they voted without it?—Yes, I have.

31,079. Did you hear that they voted upon the promise of having a day's pay, but that they have never been paid?—No. I heard they were promised byLarkman, and it was circulated that I authorised him to promise it, which is false; I never authorised him to promise it, because I had no money from anyone.

31,080. You heard they were promised by Larkman?—Yes, I think I did; I am not going to deny that.

31,081. Has Larkman ever applied to you for money?—No; I had no authority from any of the parties in any shape whatever.

31,082. A thing of that kind does not require an authority?—I had no money of my own to spend about a thing of that kind.

31,083. Those things are very well understood?—I daresay they are. It is the first time I have ever taken part in an election.

31,084. You did not say to Larkman that it should be all right?—No, I did not say so, nor did I ever make him any promise.

31,085. Did you go to any of the committee rooms?—Yes, I went to the central committee room in the afternoon.

31,086. Who did you see at the central committee room?—I met Mr. Joseph Stanley; he is a stonemason, and I told him there were several men there, and he says, "Go back as quick as you can and tell them to vote; there is not a penny for anyone." That is what he told me.

31,087. What time in the day was that?—About 3 o'clock I should think.

31,088. You could not get the men up?—Yes, we did get the men up in the afternoon. When I went back again the chief part of them went and voted.

31,089. And they never had a penny?—No, I do not believe they had a penny, nor yet a farthing; they never had any money at all.

31,090. They were worse treated than if they got it. They were promised, but they did not get it.—I am not accountable for what other people do; I never promised them.

31,091. You were a party to getting them up, and must have perfectly well known what was going on?—I have told you the truth.

31,092. I am quite sure you must have perfectly understood what was going on. There is a great deal that is understood between persons without being actually expressed?—I never authorised the man to do it; he did it upon his own responsibility.

31,093. That you were conscious of what had been done is clear to my mind.—You are quite wrong about that.

31,094. I must draw my own conclusions.—I never gave the man any authority.

31,095. Here are men who would not vote without having a day's pay, and firmly stand out till 3 o'clock, and because you walk in the room where they are, do you suppose they would immediately go and vote as a body, having seen you before, without your having tried to persuade them?—I say after they found they could not get any money they went up and voted. I have told you the truth. I told you in the first commencement they were waiting for a day's pay.

31,096. I take a different view entirely of the matter from what you do.—I have told you the truth.

T. Green.

THOMAS GREEN sworn and examined.

31,097. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you?—A fireman at the gasworks.

31,098. For whom did you vote?—Stracey.

31,099. At what time?—About half-past 12.

31,100. Had you been at work all the morning?—Yes. I went home about half-past 11 or a quarter to 12 to go and vote.

31,101. To whom did you promise your vote?—To nobody.

31,102. Had you anything for your vote?—No.

31,103. Have you had anything since?—No.

31,104. Not even a drop of beer?—No.

31,105. Most of the men at the gasworks voted for Stracey, did they not?—Some of them did, no doubt.

31,106. Who took you up to the poll?—I walked there myself.

31,107. With some other people?—No.

31,108. You went quite alone?—Yes.

31,109. Are you quite sure of that?—Yes.

31,110. Did the manager of the works ask you to vote?—No; I asked him whether he would give me leave to go and vote, and he said yes.

31,111. Did he not ask you for whom you were going to vote?—No.

H. W. Betts.

HORACE WALTER BETTS sworn and examined.

31,112. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

31,113. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

31,114. At what time of the day?—Between 10 minutes and a quarter to 4.

31,115. Did you get anything for it?—No.

31,116. Not anything?—No.

31,117. Nor the promise of anything?—No.

31,118. How was it you did not vote earlier?—I was stoker at the gasworks, and we cannot run away from our draws.

31,119. Had you to wait till the 3 o'clock draw?—Yes; and a lot of our men at the works had to do the same.

J. Frost.

JOHN FROST sworn and examined.

31,120. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

31,121. Where were you on the morning of that day?—I was at home in the morning.

31,122. Why did you not go and vote?—I voted in the afternoon.

31,123. Why did you wait till the afternoon?—Business kept me away till noon.

31,124. But you were at home?—I was at home in the morning, but business kept me at home till noon time.

31,125. What is your business?—A shoemaker.

31,126. A master shoemaker?—Yes.

31,127. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

31,128. Were you promised anything?—No. I neither got anything, nor was promised anything.

JOHN KING sworn and examined. J. King.

31,129. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A painter and decorator.

31,130. On your own account?—Yes.

31,131. Do you employ men?—Yes.

31,132. For whom did you vote?—Russell and Tillett.

31,133. Did you take any active part in the election at all?—No, not at all.

31,134. In no way whatever?—In no way.

31,135. Did you subscribe any money?—I did.

31,136. For the Tillett fund?—Yes.

31,137. How much?—5l.

31,138. That was for the legal expenses?—Yes, certainly it was.

31,139. So that he might not be out of pocket?—Yes, certainly.

31,140. Did you canvass your men for Russell and Tillett?—Not one.

31,141. Did you give them a holiday?—I allowed them to do as they pleased.

31,142. Did you give them a holiday?—Certainly not.

31,143. Did you give them a day's wages?—No, certainly not.

31,144. That 5l. was the only thing you parted with at this election?—Yes, the only thing.

31,145. Did you offer any inducement of any kind to people in your employment?—No, not of any kind at all.

31,146. I suppose you did not receive anything yourself?—No.

GEORGE HEWETT sworn and examined. G. Hewett.

31,147. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A moulder.

31,148. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

31,149. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

31,150. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

31,151. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

31,152. Were you promised anything?—No.

31,153. Why did you not vote earlier?—Because I thought about getting some money; that is the reason, and I did not get any.

31,154. You wanted to see what you could get, and nothing turned up?—Yes.

31,155. Did you see anyone getting money?—No.

31,156. Were you treated with any beer?—No.

31,157. What public-houses did you go to?—Mr. Young's; opposite Ber Street Church.

31,158. There was nobody there giving anything?—No.

31,159. Did you try any others?—No.

HENRY LAWS sworn and examined. H. Laws.

31,160. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

31,161. For whom did you vote?—Tillett and Russell.

31,162. Had you any money offered you by them?—Not anything.

31,163. Were you promised anything?—Yes.

31,164. Was anything promised you by Tillett and Russell?—No.

31,165. Had you any money offered you that day?—I might have had some, but I would not accept it.

31,166. Who offered it to you?—Mr. Lea Brown.

31,167. Is that Mr. Leander Brown?—I do not know. We call him Lea Brown.

31,168. Where were you when he offered you that?—I was at the "Ostrich" when he came up in the carriage and wanted me to vote, and I told him I should not go in the carriage, I could walk up; if I wanted to go and vote I would walk there. I always did, and always would do so.

31,169. Did he come up to you when you were at the "Ostrich"?—Yes.

31,170. Did he offer it to anyone else?—That I cannot say.

31,171. How did he offer it to you?—He called me outside of the door close to the passage, inside of the passage; he says, "I suppose you want half a quid?" I says, says I, "I am not on that footing," and he says, "I suppose you want a quid?" and I says, "No, I am not on that footing at all; I shall go and vote by myself."

31,172. Did you tell him that you were going to vote for Tillett and Russell?—No.

31,173. For whom did he offer it?—He called me outside of the "Ostrich;" says he, "Is half a quid any use to you?" and I says, "No, I am not on that footing;" and he says "I suppose you want a quid?" and I says "No, I am not on that footing at all."

31,174. Did he say to vote for whom?—He came in a carriage for Mr. Stracey.

31,175. Had he been canvassing anybody for Stracey before that?—Yes, Mr. Thomas Rathmel, the landlord of the house; and he pulled him aside by the collar, and old Thomas Rathmel said (it is a vulgar phrase), "You may go to—— for I shall not vote at all." It is a vulgar phrase, but those are the very words.

31,176. He took hold of you, then?—No, he did not take hold of me, he called me out.

31,177. Where did this conversation take place?—The conversation with Mr. Rathmel took place inside.

31,178. But the conversation with you took place outside?—Yes, outside.

31,179. Was Mr. Rathmel there at the time this occurred?—Yes, he was in the house, close agin the door. He stood agin the door at any rate.

31,180. You did not take anything?—I never took a farthing, nor yet a glass of ale.

GEORGE PAUL sworn and examined. G. Paul.

31,181. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A shoemaker.

31,182. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

31,183. At what time in the day?—Twenty minutes to 4.

31,184. What made you vote so late?—Because I had work to finish.

31,185. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing.

31,186. Are you quite certain you did not get anything for your vote?—Yes.

31,187. Was anything promised you?—Nothing.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

G. Paul.

6 Oct. 1869.

31,188. Have you had nothing since ?—Nothing.

31,189. What were you doing all day ?—I was at work.

31,190. At your own house ?—Yes.

31,191. Did you not go out till 3 o'clock ?—Not till half-past 3 o'clock.

31,192. You were very busy ?—Yes.

31,193. Had anybody been to you to ask for your vote ?—No, no one.

31,194. Had you promised it to anyone ?—No one.

31,195. Had you made up your mind ?—Yes.

31,196. Had you told anybody you were going to vote for Stracey ?—No.

31,197. Do you mean to say you never talked to anybody about the election ?—Not a word ; I had been hard at work.

31,198. But the day before ?—Mr. Brownfield had been to me and asked me how I was going to vote, and I said I was going to vote for Stracey.

31,199. What day was that ?—The day before the election.

31,200. Did he give you anything for voting ?—No, he gave me nothing.

31,201. Did you try to get something ?—No, I did not.

31,202. Did you know there was a little money about ?—I never heard ; I had never been out.

L. Brown.

LEANDER BROWN sworn and examined.

31,203. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A saddler.

31,204. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

31,205. For whom did you vote ? — Sir Henry Stracey.

31,206. Did you take an active part in getting up voters ?—Yes, I did ; I took a good many voters to the poll that I knew were about to vote.

31,207. You drove about in a carriage, did you not ?—I had a carriage that day.

31,208. And a pair of horses ?—Yes.

31,209. Where did you get the carriage ?—I came on to Tombland, and a gentleman was there, and I told him I knew where there was a voter or two who were not able to walk ; if he would go with me I would show him where they lived, and he went with me.

31,210. Who was the gentleman ?—A gentleman named Brown, an architect in the city.

31,211. What time was it you began with your carriage ?—I think it was about 12 o'clock in the day when I was on Tombland.

31,212. Where did you go to first ?—I could not positively tell you the first I went to, but I went to the "Bishopbridge" tavern—Hobrough's. Mr. Hobrough had told me the night previously he would vote for Sir Henry Stracey, and I went there to him.

31,213. Was he a cripple or an invalid ?—No ; but I had two other persons to go to, and I had a gentleman to meet first.

31,214. Why did you go to Hobrough ?—Because he told me he would vote, and I thought if I went for him he would go.

31,215. Did you think he was unable to walk ?—No, not Hobrough ; but I knew of one in particular who could not walk.

31,216. Who was that ?—A man living on Gas-house Hill.

31,217. Who was he ?—I could not tell you his name, but Mr. Fulcher is the man who informed me of him.

31,218. You took him up ; he was a cripple ?—Yes.

31,219. You took up a good many ?—Yes.

31,220. Were they all cripples ?—No.

31,221. Who else did you take up ?—I could not tell you the names of them all. I can tell you some of them.

31,222. Where did you go for them ?—To their houses.

31,223. Did you not go to any public-houses ?—Yes, to some of them.

31,224. Which houses ?—I went to the "Ostrich" and the "Bishopbridge" tavern.

31,225. We will take the "Ostrich" first. Did you see the landlord there ?—Yes.

31,226. Did you ask him to vote ?—Yes, I did.

31,227. What did he say ?—He would not.

31,228. Did you see anybody else there ?—Yes, a man of the name of Laws.

31,229. What did you say to him ?—I asked him if he would vote. I had been to his house, and his wife told me her husband was at the "Ostrich," and I would find him there. I went there and asked him if he would vote for Sir Henry Stracey, but he would not make any particular answer. I said, "If you have "made up your mind to vote, go with me at once and "do so." He made some growl about it, and I asked him to come outside the door. I said, "There is a "carriage, and you can go with me and vote if you "have made up your mind." During the time I was speaking to him the daughter of the landlord of the "Ostrich" (the landlord himself belongs to the opposite party) comes and says, "No, you do not want to ride in the carriage," or something to that effect, and persuaded him not to go. I got into the carriage and pulled the door to and laughed at him, because I had spoken to him about his vote previous to that. I said, "Well, Harry, I suppose you are waiting for half a sovereign or a sovereign," and went away without him.

31,230. Then it was a joke ?—Yes.

31,231. You did not mean to give it to him ?—No, I had not anything to give. I might have polled 30 or 40 votes, but ne'er a one got a glass of beer from me.

31,232. What did it, personal influence ?—Moral persuasion.

31,233. Personal influence and a carriage and pair ?—It might have had something to do with it.

31,234. Did you say, "Will half a sovereign do it" ?—I did not say so.

31,235. "Half a quid" was your expression ?—I said I supposed he wanted a sovereign or half-a-sovereign.

31,236. Did you not say to him, "Will half a quid be of any use" ?—No, I never said that.

31,237. When he said, "That will not do ; I am not on that tack," did you not say, "Suppose I make it a quid" ?—No, I never made use of that expression.

31,238. Or anything like that ?—I said, "I suppose you are waiting for half a sovereign." I said it merely as a joke, from what I had heard before ; but I never offered it to him or anyone else.

31,239. Did you go to Hobrough's place ?—Yes.

31,240. You took up some men from there ?—Yes.

31,241. They were unable to walk ?—Oh, no.

31,242. Have you not boasted that you took up a lot of men from Hobrough's who were so drunk that they could not walk, and did not know for whom they were going to vote ?—No.

31,243. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) We have had the evidence of Hobrough, and we have also had the evidence of Laws. Hobrough has given us an account of what occurred at his house, and I caution you that you may be indicted for perjury, and, moreover, if we are satisfied that you do commit perjury we shall take such a course as to have you sent at once before the magistrates and committed.—I will not tell an untruth.

31,244. I caution you to be careful ; your story is incredible. Did you not go backwards and forwards to Hobrough's, taking a few men at a time, as you could get them ?—Yes.

31,245. Did you not go into Hobrough's and persuade the men from time to time to go and vote ?—Yes.

31,246. Did you not promise them anything ?—No, I did not.

31,247. Did you not give them anything ?—No, not a farthing.

31,248. What men did you take up from Hobrough's ?—I took a good many; some of them I knew, and some I did not.

31,249. Give me the names of those that you know ?—I took a man of the name of Gates.

31,250. Where does he live ?—Somewhere in the neighbourhood. I cannot tell you exactly; somewhere in the neighbourhood of Bishop Bridge, and I took a man of the name of Brooks, but it is impossible for me to know everyone's name.

31,251. Did you take Samuel Mumford ?—Yes, but not from there.

31,252. From where did you take him ?—On the road.

31,253. What did you give him ?—Nothing.

31,254. What time in the day did you get him ?—As near as I can tell, it would be 2 or 3 o'clock.

31,255. Did you take William Amiss ?—No.

31,256. Robert Clark ?—No.

31,257. John Downing ?—No, I do not know the name.

31,258. Do you mean to tell me that at Hobrough's you gave no beer ?—Not a glass of anything.

31,259. Did you give money so that the men might have beer ?—No, I had none.

31,260. None at all ?—I might have had a shilling or two in my pocket, but nothing to give away. I had no more than I wanted for my ownself.

31,261. Is a man of the name of Henry Newman a relative of yours ?—Yes.

31,262. Did you get any money from him ?—No.

31,263. Not a farthing ?—No.

31,264. Was there a man of the name of Amiss there ?—I do not know anybody of that name. I know Amy.

31,265. Did you see him ?—Yes, I know him.

31,266. Did you get him to vote ?—No, Amy did not go with me.

31,267. Did not Newman tell you if you spent some money he would make it all right for you ?—No.

31,268. In no way, directly or indirectly, did you get the promise of money for Newman ?—No, neither directly nor indirectly. I never had the promise from anyone that I should receive a farthing for anything I might do.

31,269. Were you told beforehand that if you spent a little money it would be made up to you ?—No, certainly not.

31,270. Do you know of any money being spent on that day ?—Only what I have read, and nothing further.

31,271. You know nothing of your own knowledge ?—Nothing at all.

31,272. Did you take up any drunken men that day ?—One.

31,273. And one only ?—He asked me to let him ride with me; he was going to vote, but he was too late, the poll was closed; it was 4 o'clock.

31,274. Did you not go up with men so drunk that the poll clerk would not take them ?—No.

31,275. Have you not said that ?—No.

31,276. Have you not said that you carried your game a little too far, and the poll clerk would not take the men that you brought ?—No, I never said that. I made some remarks as to the difficulty of getting people to remember the names of the candidates, but I never said they were drunk.

31,277. That was a symptom, was it not, of drunkenness, that they could not recollect the names of the candidates ?—No, it was one or two men that I took who would not be likely to read about the affair, and would hardly know, in fact, the candidates' names; but they had a vote, and I asked them if they would vote for Sir Henry Stracey, and they went with me to do so; but there was a difficulty at the poll to get them to remember the names, though they were not drunk.

31,278. Those men who could not recollect the names of the candidates were not drunk ?—No. The man that I took up, and whom I have admitted was tipsy, did not vote at all.

31,279. How should you describe these men who you say could not recollect the names of the candidates ?—One man I took away from his private house, he could remember Sir Edward Stracey; he was a very old man. He wanted to say Sir Henry Stracey, but said Sir Edward Stracey. He had known Sir Edward Stracey before Sir Henry Stracey; that was the only difficulty.

31,280. I thought you said that you had a difficulty with a lot of them ?—I did not say a lot. There was another one who was awkward in giving his vote, but not through anything of that kind. When he went up they asked him his name, and he said, "I vote for Stracey." They then asked him, "Where do you live?" and he said, "I vote for Stracey." The man was perfectly sober, for he went from his work with me.

31,281. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who is the gentleman who lent you the carriage ?—A gentleman named Brown.

31,282. Was it not a carriage from the "Maid's Head"?—I could not say; it very much resembled their carriages. The gentleman who went with me I met on Tombland, and I told him that I knew of a few voters if he would go with me; and one amongst them was a man who could not walk.

31,283. Had you any talk with Hobrough, the publican, the day before?—I merely asked him if he intended to vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

31,284. The day before ?—I believe it might have been a day or two before, but he did not vote at all. When I went for him he was not at home.

31,285. Had you any talk with him before about getting up voters from that place ?—No, not a word. I did not know that there would be any voters in his house, but it appears the men left off work at the gasworks, which are close by, and they went to his house at the dinner hour. I found them there, and persuaded them to go and vote.

31,286. What made you go if you did not know they would be there ?—We went directly past the house to go to the poll.

31,287. Who called you in there ?—I went there for Hobrough in the first instance.

31,288. And after that Hobrough told you to come backwards and forwards ?—No.

31,289. What made you do it ?—I knew there were voters there, or heard of it.

31,290. What part did Hobrough take in bringing up these men ?—Nothing at all. He did his business. He never left his business that I know of. When I went the first time he was not at home, but the second time I called he was, and I never saw him leave the house afterwards.

JOHN DAMBROCK sworn and examined. J. Dambrock.

31,291. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election ?—Yes.

31,292. What are you by business ?—A musician and publican.

31,293. What is the sign of your house ?—The "Jolly Butchers," in Ber Street.

31,294. There were a good many men in that day, were there not ?—There was a few.

31,295. Were there voters in and out of your house the whole day ?—There were a few people in and out, but I do not know whether they were voters or not.

31,296. Who were they ?—They were strangers. I could not say who they were.

31,297. You do not know the name of any man who was in your house that day ?—Yes, a man of the name of Clapham; a neighbour of ours.

31,298. Who else ?—There was a man of the name of Charles Bond, a wheelwright.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

J. Dambrock.

6 Oct. 1869.

31,299. Who else?—I cannot recollect any more neighbours.

31,300. Were there not a number of your regular customers there?—No, they were all strangers.

31,301. Did you not hear them say that they wanted a day's pay?—No.

31,302. Was there any talk about the election?—No.

31,303. Not a word was said about the election?—No.

31,304. You stand down and consider the matter. Your story is altogether incredible.—I have told you the truth.

J. Catermole.

JAMES CATERMOLE sworn and examined.

31,305. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—An innkeeper.

31,306. What is the inn you keep?—The "Coach and Horses," on Thorpe Road.

31,307. For whom did you vote at this election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

31,308. Did you promise your vote?—No.

31,309. Had you been asked?—Never.

31,310. Have you always voted Tory?—I always did, as long as I have had a vote.

31,311. Were you employed as a clerk at this election?—No.

31,312. Was your son?—My two sons were.

31,313. Did you yourself take any active part in this election?—No, decidedly.

31,314. Were there any voters at your house that day?—Yes, I had four.

31,315. Was the place very full of voters?—No; there were four in my house.

31,316. Were they drinking there all day?—No, they came in about 2 o'clock.

31,317. Did anybody come to canvass them?—Sir Henry Stracey came and Mr. Patteson came; the other two gentlemen that were in the waggonette I do not know. These men said they should not vote, and neither they did I know, because they did not go away from my house not till 10 minutes past 4.

31,318. I suppose they wanted something for their day's work?—I do not know whether they did, they never asked for it.

31,319. You could tell what they were?—They were jolly sort of fellows, but they never asked for it at any rate.

31,320. They did not get anything that you do know?—I am sure they did not, because they never voted. They never went away from my house till 10 minutes past 4.

31,321. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you there when Sir Henry Stracey spoke to them?—Yes.

31,322. Did they not say something about rates, or money?—No, I did not hear them. I was in the kitchen when he came.

31,323. (Mr. Mansfield.) You thought they wanted to have something?—I fancied they did, but they did not have anything, not even so much as half a pint of beer.

31,324. What did Sir Henry Stracey say to them?—He said, "If you be not very quick you will be lost, because the votes will be gone." It was after 3 o'clock.

31,325. What did they say then?—They did not say anything at all, and stopped till 10 minutes past 4.

31,326. Did Mr. Patteson say anything?—No.

31,327. Were you paid for any beer supplied by you to any voters that day?—No.

31,328. Not afterwards?—No, not a farthing.

31,329. I suppose you got nothing yourself?—No, not a farthing in any way.

31,330. Nor the promise of anything?—No.

31,331. You did not give anything to any voters?—No.

J. Crancher.

JOHN CRANCHER sworn and examined.

31,332. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A licensed victualler.

31,333. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

31,334. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

31,335. Did you get anything for voting?—Not a farthing.

31,336. Or the promise of anything?—Not a farthing.

31,337. Was any money left at your house to supply voters with beer?—Not with me.

31,338. With your wife?—There was a gentleman gave orders for a drop of drink.

31,339. Who was the gentleman?—Mr. Riches.

31,340. What is he?—A licensed victualler I believe.

31,341. To whom did he give the order?—To my wife.

31,342. For how much?—That I cannot say. He treated a few women there, that is all I can say.

31,343. Were they the wives of voters?—No, I do not think they were.

31,344. What induced him to treat the women?—I think most of the women he treated were travellers.

31,345. Did he ever do it upon any other day?—No, I do not remember his coming to my house any other day.

31,346. How much did he pay for the drink for these women?—I cannot say; I think about 6*s.* or 7*s.*; it might be a little more. He did not pay me; he paid my wife for it.

31,347. Did he stay there while they drank?—That I cannot say; I was not there. I was in the taproom, and he treated these women in the bar.

31,348. Were there any voters at your house that day?—I believe there were two or three.

31,349. More than that?—I could not say for more.

31,350. Give me the names of the two or three?—That I could not do.

31,351. Cannot you give me any name at all?—No, I do not know their names.

31,352. Were they waiting for money?—I believe they were.

31,353. Did you say anything to them about money?—No.

31,354. Or drink?—No.

31,355. Was any of the drink sent in to them by Riches?—I cannot say whether it was sent in particularly for them.

31,356. You really can, if you like.—It was sent in for anybody to drink.

31,357. It was sent into the room where those men were?—Yes, it was sent into the room where they were.

31,358. Now give me the names of those men?—I believe Mr. Frost was one, and Mr. Proud was another.

31,359. Who else?—I do not remember any other.

31,360. That is only two?—I do not remember any other.

31,361. What time in the day was this?—In the afternoon, about 3.

31,362. Did the men go up and vote afterwards?—I believe they did.

31,363. Where does Riches live?—The "Catherine Tavern," I think.

31,364. Did you get anything, or the promise of anything?—I did not.

31,365. Are you quite sure you have told me everything that took place?—I have told you the truth.

31,366. Is there any more truth to come, that is what I want to know?—Nothing to my knowledge.

31,367. Are you quite certain that you have told me everything that occurred as to treating?—I think I have to the best of my knowledge.

EDWARD BIRD sworn and examined. E. Bird.

31,368. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a labourer?—Yes.

31,369. Where were you on the morning of the election?—Carting stone for my master.

31,370. I suppose you went home to breakfast?—No.

31,371. Nor to dinner?—No.

31,372. When did you leave off work?—Not till 3 o'clock.

31,373. Did anybody come to you and ask you for your vote that day?—Not anyone.

31,374. The day before?—No, I never see anyone.

31,375. Nobody came and asked for your vote at all?—No, I never see anyone.

31,376. Did your wife tell you that somebody had been?—No.

31,377. How came you to go up to the poll?—I had a paper; that is all I know about it. I never see anyone, or heard anything further than that.

31,378. Did your master ask you to vote?—No, not at all.

31,379. You are sure you had no conversation with anybody with respect to anything of the kind?—I was going on the road with free good will to vote, and they asked me how I was going to vote, and I said I was going to vote for Mr. Stracey.

31,380. That is all?—Yes.

31,381. You went of your own free good will?—Yes, my own free good will.

31,382. Did you get anything for your vote?—No, not anything.

31,383. Nor the promise of anything?—No, not anything.

31,384. No beer?—No, not a drop.

ROBERT MOORE sworn and examined. R. Moore.

31,385. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A cabinet maker.

31,386. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

31,387. At what time in the day?—About a quarter past 2.

31,388. What made you vote so late?—On account of my employment. I did not leave off till 2, and that was my dinner hour, between 2 and 3.

31,389. What did you do after voting?—I went to work again.

31,390. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

31,391. Any beer?—No.

31,392. Were you anywhere else except at your work that day?—Not anywhere until the evening.

31,393. Had you promised your vote?—No, no one had canvassed me.

31,394. Had you told anybody how you were going to vote?—Only my neighbours about me.

31,395. Had you told them that you were going to vote for Stracey?—Yes.

31,396. Have you had anything since for your vote?—No.

WILLIAM WILLIAMS sworn and examined. W. Williams.

31,397. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—An engine driver.

31,398. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

31,399. For whom?—For Mr. Stracey.

31,400. What time in the day?—Between 2 and 3.

31,401. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

31,402. Or the promise of anything?—No.

31,403. You are employed by the railway?—Yes.

THOMAS FARROW sworn and examined. T. Farrow.

31,404. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

31,405. What is your business?—A shoemaker.

31,406. What sort of a shop do you keep?—A fish shop.

31,407. You went to vote for the Liberals, did you not?—Yes, they took me on a cart and carried me up: I did not intend to vote for them.

31,408. Do you mean that they took you bodily?—Yes.

31,409. Against your will?—Yes.

31,410. By force?—Yes.

31,411. And carried you right up to the poll?—Yes.

31,412. How many of them?—I could not say; there were three or four in the cart.

31,413. Did you ask the police to let you out?—No.

31,414. You went quietly enough, did you not?—I was forced to go at the time the horse was going.

31,415. Do you know Mr. Stephen Fitt of Ber Street?—Yes.

31,416. When you were going along to the poll did you not say, "Will you pay me my day's work?"—No.

31,417. Did you say anything to him about a day's work?—I said I would not vote without I was paid my day's work.

31,418. Did he not say he certainly would not pay you?—No.

31,419. He did not pay you?—No.

31,420. You made up your mind you would not vote without a day's work?—I thought I should get something.

31,421. Out of the Liberals?—No.

31,422. Mr. Fitt was a Liberal, and the Liberals were carrying you up bodily against your will?—Mr. Fitt pulled me on to the cart.

31,423. You told him you would not vote unless you had a day's pay?—Yes.

31,424. You thought you would get it?—I did.

31,425. Did Mr. Fitt give you a day's pay?—No, nor yet anyone else.

31,426. How came you to vote for Stracey?—I had the promise of 5*s.*

31,427. Who promised you the 5*s.*?—Mr. Larkman.

31,428. When did he give you the promise?—Just before I voted.

31,429. Did he promise anybody else at the same time?—That I do not know.

31,430. He promised you 5*s.* if you would vote for Stracey?—I had not 5*s.* I had nothing.

31,431-2. You were only promised it?—Yes.

31,433. Did you go to him for your 5*s.*?—No, I never troubled any more after it.

31,434. Has Mr. Larkman ever spoken to you about it since?—No.

31,435. You are a very forbearing creditor.—I am telling you the truth.

31,436. I suppose you thought after the noise about it you would not go to get it?—I did not think any more of it.

31,437. Going up with the Liberals you had that promise and then you voted?—I should not have gone up only Mr. Fitt took me on to the cart and took me up. I am telling you the truth, and nothing but the truth.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

F. Lince.

6 Oct. 1869.

FREDERICK LINCE sworn and examined.

31,438. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—Keeper of the Clerical Rooms.

31,439. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

31,440. Who canvassed your vote?—The Reverend William Cooke.

31,441. Did you promise him you would vote for Stracey?—Yes.

31,442. Did he give you any reason for asking you to vote for Stracey?—No, not particularly.

31,443. Did you get any money for it?—No, not any.

31,444. Were you promised any?—No, I was not promised any.

31,445. Have you had anything since?—No, nothing at all.

31,446. Have you been a long time the keeper of those rooms?—About 16 months.

31,447. Is Mr. Cooke one of the managers of the club?—No, I think not; he is one of the managers of the Churchman's Club, but not of the Clerical Rooms.

31,448. Is he a member of the Clerical Rooms?—Yes.

31,449. Have you ever voted before?—No, never.

31,450. You voted really for your employers; they are mostly Stracey people?—Yes, nearly all of them.

C. Gates.

CHARLES GATES sworn and examined.

31,451. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A labourer.

31,452. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

31,453. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

31,454. At what time in the day?—Between 1 and 2.

31,455. Did you get anything for it?—No.

31,456. Or the promise of anything?—Not anything.

31,457. You did not come across Larkman that day?—No.

W. Hardingham.

WILLIAM HARDINGHAM sworn and examined.

31,458. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a labourer?—Yes.

31,459. Who gave you something for your vote?—No one.

31,460. Did you not get some beer?—I did not, not that day.

31,461. Where were you all the morning?—At home till I went and voted.

31,462. What were you doing at home?—I have a little piece of ground at home, a garden.

31,463. Were you at work in your garden all that morning?—I do not know that I was. I went home to breakfast; I could not be in the garden at the time I went to breakfast.

31,464. Why did you not go to vote before 3 o'clock in the day?—I voted about half-past 10.

31,465. Did you vote twice?—No, I could not do such a thing as that.

31,466. Where were you until you voted?—I came back to my own house to breakfast, and went up to the poll booths and voted then.

31,467. Are you aware that somebody went and voted in your name in the afternoon?—I know nothing about the afternoon; I came home after I had voted and went into my garden again.

31,468. Are you quite sure you did not go to the polling booth again?—I am quite sure of that; I must be a stupid man if I did not know that; I could not go twice.

31,469. Did you never hear before that somebody had gone and voted in your name, or that you had voted twice?—No, I never heard anything of the kind.

31,470. That is what has been done.—I know nothing about it.

31,471. Are you sure you got nothing for your vote?—Yes, I declare to you I did not.

31,472. Or the promise of anything?—No, I was not promised anything, nor yet had a glass of ale of anyone.

H. Childs.

HENRY CHILDS sworn and examined.

31,473. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A tailor.

31,474. For whom did you vote?—Stracey.

31,475. At what time in the day?—Between 11 and 12.

31,476. Had you promised your vote?—Yes, a gentleman came down.

31,477. Do you know the gentleman's name?—Yes, Mr. Elwood; I promised the gentlemen that came round canvassing.

31,478. Was that two or three days before?—A day or two before.

31,479. Was anything promised you for your vote?—Nothing, not a farthing, nor a drop of beer; I can kiss the book to it.

31,480. I believe your statement.—That is right, sir.

J. Fitzgerald.

JAMES FITZGERALD sworn and examined.

31,481. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a pensioner.

31,482. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

31,483. For whom?—Mr. Stracey.

31,484. At what time in the day?—About 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

31,485. Why did you not vote earlier?—I was busy at work.

31,486. What were you doing?—Working in my garden.

31,487. But you could have left that at any moment, could you not?—Yes.

31,488. Why did you not vote earlier?—Well, I wanted to finish what little work I was doing; no other reason.

31,489. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

31,490. Or the promise of anything?—No.

31,491. Had anybody canvassed you?—No.

31,492. You had not promised to vote, then, at all?—No, no one came to me from either party.

31,493. Have you ever voted before on other occasions?—No.

S. Clay.

SAMUEL CLAY sworn and examined.

31,494. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What are you?—A blacksmith.

31,495. Where were you on the morning of the election?—At home.

31,496. What were you doing?—I was fetching coal from the wharf until dinner time, when I gave my vote.

31,497. Did anybody come and fetch you to vote?—No.

31,498. Or ask you to give your vote?—Oh, yes. I was asked several times.

31,499. Had you ever promised your vote?—Yes. I promised it to the "reds," but did not vote for them.

31,500. When did you do that?—When first they began to issue papers out.

31,501. For whom did you promise to vote?—Mr. Tillett.

31,502. Did you vote for Stracey afterwards?—Yes.

31,503. How came you to vote for Stracey, having promised to vote for Tillett?—Because my landlord was on that side; that was the cause of it.

31,504. Your landlord wished you to vote that way?—Yes.

31,505. Did you receive any money for voting?—No.

31,506. Or the promise of any?—No.

31,507. Did you get your rates paid?—No, I paid them myself.

31,508. Did your landlord promise to let you off some of the rent?—No.

31,509. Who is your landlord?—Mr. Baker.

31,510. Did he promise you nothing of any sort?—No.

31,511. Not to do repairs or improvements to your place, or anything of the kind?—No.

CHARLES BUNN sworn and examined. C. Bunn.

31,512. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A coach wheelwright.

31,513. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

31,514. At what time in the day?—A little before 3, or about 3 o'clock.

31,515. What did you get for voting?—Nothing at all.

31,516. Who took you up to the poll?—No one.

31,517. You went up with a man of the name of Clapham?—I went up with a man of the name of Dambrock, but he did not take me up.

31,518. What did he give you?—Nothing at all.

31,519. What public-houses were you at?—I was at Dambrock's public-house. I was standing in the street when he came down the street. I went there with him and voted. He did not give me anything. I did not go to vote for to take anything.

31,520. Do you mean to say that you got nothing this election for voting?—I got nothing at all.

31,521. Did you not get treated?—No.

31,522. What public-houses were you at?—I was at Mr. Dambrock's public-house in the course of the day. I was not there all the day.

31,523. What is the sign of the public-house?—The "Jolly Butchers."

31,524. Well, they gave you some beer there?—No, I never saw any beer.

31,525. There was a great deal of beer going on there. Did you not get any of it?—There was none given that I saw. What I called for I paid for.

31,526. Did anyone ask you to vote?—No, I had no one ask me.

31,527. Neither before the election, or on the day of the election?—Before the election the canvassers came to me.

31,528. Did you ever promise your vote?—To no one.

31,529. Did you tell your fellow-workmen or your neighbours that you were going to vote for Stracey?—No, I never told anyone.

31,530. How came you never to say a word about it?—I do not know for what reason. I did not tell anyone who I was going to vote for.

31,531. Have you no friends that you talked to during the daytime?—No. I did not talk to any of my mates about it, and there is plenty of them that voted and never said anything to me about voting.

31,532. Did you want any money for your vote?—No, and I never tried for any.

31,533. You heard there was money going?—I did not ask for any.

31,534. Did you not try and find out whether there was some money going?—I did not.

31,535. You would have been very glad to get some, I suppose?—Well, I did not vote for that purpose.

31,536. You would not have refused it if it had been offered to you?—I should not have took 5*s.*

31,537. Would you have refused 10*s.*?—Yes, and I should not take any money to vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

31,538. Not even 10*l.*, if they had offered it you?—If Sir Henry Stracey was to put up to-morrow I should vote for him. I never got anything, and never tried for anything from anyone.

JOHN MALLETT sworn and examined. J. Mallett.

31,539. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

31,540. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

31,541. What time in the day?—A quarter past 3.

31,542. Where were you in the early part of the day?—At my occupation, gardening.

31,543. Could you not have gone up before a quarter past 3?—Yes, I could have gone, but my work lay so that I could not leave it.

31,544. Who came for you?—No one.

31,545. Had you been canvassed before?—No.

31,546. Had anybody asked you to vote?—No.

31,547. When did you make up your mind to vote for Stracey?—I made up my mind in the first part of the time to vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

31,548. When he was first a candidate?—Yes.

31,549. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

31,550. Or the promise of anything?—No.

31,551. Or anything after you had voted?—No, nothing after, nor yet before.

31,552. Were you in any public-houses that day?—Not any that I know of.

31,553. That you know of?—I was not in one.

CLEMENT ROLLING GALLANT sworn and examined. C. R. Gallant.

31,554. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What is your occupation?—Saw mill proprietor and timber merchant.

31,555. Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

31,556. How came you to vote so late in the day?—I had not an opportunity to vote before.

31,557. I don't suppose you were bribed?—No.

31,558. Have you been a voter at former elections?—I never voted before, though I have had a vote for several years.

ALFRED DASHWOOD sworn and examined. A. Dashwood.

31,559. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A gasfitter.

31,560. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

31,561. Who asked you to vote?—Nobody.

31,562. What time in the day did you vote?—Between 2 and 3.

31,563. Who did you go up to the poll with?—No one.

31,564. Had you promised your vote?—No.

31,565. Had you told anybody how you were going to vote?—No.

31,566. What public-house were you at at the time when you were going up to vote?—None at all before I did vote.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

A. Dashwood.

6 Oct. 1869.

31,567. What public-house did you go to after you had voted?—Mr. Worthington's.

31,568. Did they give you some beer there?—No.

31,569. Is this the first time you have voted?—The first time.

J. Bryant.

JAMES BRYANT sworn and examined.

31,570. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—I voted for Mr. Stracey.

31,571. What time in the day?—Between 12 and 1; I could not say to five minutes. They took me out of the gas yard where I have served for 37 years.

31,572. Who took you?—I could not say; they came in a dog-cart, two of them, and asked me who I intended voting for, and I told them Mr. Stracey; they asked me to get into the dog-cart, and I did so. They told me I could vote up at the "Bakers' Arms," that is where they took me, and I was back in the yard half an hour from the time I went away, not more.

31,574. Or the promise of anything?—No, not a drop of drink, nor yet nothing else.

W. Carington.

WILLIAM CARINGTON sworn and examined.

31,575. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

31,576. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

31,577. How came you to vote so late?—Because I was busy, and could not get there before.

31,578. What are you by business?—A gardener.

31,579. Why could you not vote before?—Oh, I don't know; I did not think it was any consequence what time of the day I went.

31,580. Did anybody come and fetch you to vote?—No.

31,581. Was anything given you to vote?—Not at all, nothing whatever.

31,582. Nor any promise of anything?—No, nor yet any promise; I went of my own accord just at the time that suited me.

31,583. Had you been asked to give your vote before the day?—No, never.

31,584. You went up freely of your own accord?—I went up freely of my own accord and my own will; I was not biassed by anybody, nor yet did not see scarcely anybody. I was only gone a few minutes. I was close by.

31,585. Had you ever been a voter before?—No.

H. Barker.

HENRY BARKER sworn and examined.

31,586. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A wheelwright.

31,587. Who did you vote for at the last election?—Mr. Stracey.

31,588. What time in the day?—Near 4.

31,589. What made you so late?—Because I was at work.

31,590. Who do you work for?—Mr. Holmes.

31,591. Were you at work the whole of the day?—Yes, from 6 in the morning till near 4.

31,592. Had Mr. Holmes asked you to vote?—No.

31,593. Who did?—No one.

31,594. Did you promise anyone that you would vote?—I never promised anyone.

31,595. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

31,596. Were you promised anything?—No.

31,597. Has anything been given you since?—Not anything at all.

G. Rice.

GEORGE RICE sworn and examined.

31,599. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

31,600. For whom?—Mr. Stracey.

31,601. What time in the day?—It might be just before 4.

31,602. What did you get?—Not anything.

31,603. What were you promised?—Not anything.

31,604. Not by anybody?—No.

31,605. Why did you not vote earlier?—Because I could not leave off before.

31,606. What were you at all day?—Stone cutting.

31,607. Were you asked for your vote by anybody?—No.

31,608. Not before the day?—No.

31,609. Nor on the day?—No.

31,610. Who did you go up with?—Not anybody.

31,611. Have you ever voted before?—No.

S. Mumford.

SAMUEL MUMFORD sworn and examined.

31,612. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You voted for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election, did you not?—Yes.

31,613. Who asked you to do that?—No one; I went with a free good will.

31,614. We hear a great deal about "free good will;" who has talked to you about that?—No one has ever talked to me.

31,615. Has it been talked of outside, is that the form in which you are to give it us?—No one asked me to vote at all.

31,616. Do you mean to say that nobody came to your house and asked you for your vote?—No, not anyone.

31,617. Where do you live?—Neave's Buildings, Spitalfields.

31,618. Did anybody come and leave a card or a paper at your house?—Yes, there was a card left at my house.

31,619. Was that the night before?—No, that was three or four days before.

31,620. When they came and left that, did they not ask you for your vote?—I never saw them.

31,621. But did your wife?—Well, I believe she did.

31,622. Have you ever had a vote before?—No.

31,623. How came you to vote for Stracey?—Why it was my intention to vote for him.

31,624. Why?—Why, I liked that party best, I thought.

31,625. Are you sure you received nothing for your vote?—I did not.

31,626. Nor the promise of anything?—No.

31,627. And have never had anything given you since?—Never a halfpenny, nor yet the worth of a halfpenny.

31,628. Nor any beer?—No.

J. Hall.

JONATHAN HALL sworn and examined.

31,629. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Mr. Stracey.

31,630. Who asked you to vote?—Well, I don't know anyone in particular.

31,631. Were you asked to vote?—I believe I was.

31,632. Did you promise to vote?—No, I did not.

31,633. You kept it open to the last?—Yes.

31,634. What time did you vote?—From 3 to a quarter past.

31,635. What did you get for it?—Not anything.

31,636. Did you not try?—No, I should have been very sorry to have done so.

31,637. Then how was it, if you were so independent, that you did not promise your vote?—No, I did not.

31,638. But how was that?—Well, sir, I did not want to promise it. I did not want no money.

31,639. Why did you not promise your vote when you were asked for it?—Well, I did not promise it.

31,640. But why?—I don't know that there was particular reason that I did not do that. I don't know why I did not promise it.

31,641. Did you not want a little money for it?—No, I did not. I should not have took it if it had been offered me.

31,642. It was not offered you?—No.

31,643. Nor yet any promise made?—No.

31,644. Have you had anything since?—No.

31,645. Did your wife get anything?—No.

31,646. Were you not paid for your day's work?—No, not a farthing, nor yet a glass of beer. I had to treat myself when I wanted a glass of beer.

SAMUEL GOODSON sworn and examined. S. Goodson.

31,647. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

31,648. For whom?—Mr. Stracey.

31,656. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—I did.

31,657. How came you to vote so late?—I was ill at the time, and could not go out until the afternoon.

31,658. What is your business?—A guard on the line.

31,659. Did you receive anything for voting?—I did afterwards.

31,660. Who gave it to you?—Mr. Bacon.

31,661. What is he?—A shoemaker, I believe.

31,662. What did he give you?—3*s*.

31,663. Was that for your time?—No. He asked me to go and have something to drink, and I would not go, so he came and put that into my hand and told me to get something.

31,664. How long after was that?—After I had given my vote.

31,665. (Mr. Biron.) The same day?—Yes.

31,666. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) At the polling booth?—No, in Bank Street.

31,667. Had you seen him before voting?—He called me on one side before voting. I was against the poll booth.

31,668. He called you on one side?—Yes.

31,669. Had you spoken to him before voting?—No.

31,670. Then it was when you were coming out, was it?—I was against the poll place.

31,671. Did he give it to you when you were coming out of the polling booth or when you were going into the polling booth?—It was afterwards.

31,672. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—Yes, I had promised it a week before.

31,673. Who had canvassed you?—Mr. Bacon.

31,674. Had he promised you anything at that time?—Not at all, and I never expected anything.

31,675. Had he said anything to you about it before?—No.

WILLIAM BALDERSON sworn and examined. W. Balderson.

31,676. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who did you vote for?—Sir Henry Stracey.

31,677. What did you get for it?—Nothing at all.

31,678. Who took you up to the poll?—That I cannot tell you, sir, for I do not know the gentleman.

31,679. Don't you know it was one of the Mr. Straceys?—No.

31,680. Have not you heard that?—No.

31,681. It was a gentleman's carriage, was it not?—It was one of those busses, or a fly you may term it.

31,682. Don't you know the names of any of the people who were with you when you were taken up?—I was all alone. I was at work.

31,683. Who was with you when you were taken up to the poll?—Not anyone.

31,684. Nobody but you and the gentleman in the carriage?—That is all. At least my wife was in the carriage.

31,685–6. Did she get anything?—No, I don't think she did; I never heard she did.

31,687. Are you quite sure that your wife did not get something?—I am pretty well sure that she did not; if she did she never told me, and I never got anything.

31,688. Did you not get some beer?—No, not half a pint, nor yet one drop of anything.

31,689. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Where were you when this gentleman took you up?—I was at work at the corner of Town Close Road, out at St. Stephen's Gate.

31,690. What were you doing there?—I was working on the sewers job.

31,691. Did the gentleman come there to you?—Yes.

31,692. Do I understand you to say that your wife went with you?—She came along with him; she told him where I was at work.

31,693. So he had gone to your house, and your wife came with him, and then he took you and her up to the poll?—Yes.

31,694. Now did she tell you that she had got anything for it?—I don't think she got anything; if she did I did not, and I never heard her say that she got anything.

31,695. (Mr. Biron.) She told you which way you were to vote, did she not?—No, sir, it was the man that came with the fly; he said, "Will you give Sir Henry Stracey a vote?" I said, "Well, I am not much fit to go;" it was then getting on to 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

31,696. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) She came to you and said you should give Stracey your vote, did she not?—That was left to my observation, which way I liked.

31,697. Then did she get out of the carriage and come to you?—No.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

W. Balderson.

6 Oct. 1869.

31,698. How then; did she call you to the carriage?—Yes.

31,699. Then she said, "Come along, you must give Stracey a vote;" is that it?—No.

31,700. How was it, then?—The gentleman got out of the carriage and said, "Will you oblige Mr. Stracey?" I said, "Well, I am not much fit to go." I was right on with my day's work, and that is a dirty job, the sewers job, but he said, "Well, never mind, come along," and so of course I got into the fly.

31,701. Seeing your missus there you got into the fly, and away you went?—Yes.

31,702. Have you ever asked her whether she got anything?—No, sir, she never got anything; I am sure she did not.

R. Clarke.

ROBERT CLARKE sworn and examined.

31,703. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A carter.

31,704. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

31,705. For whom?—Mr. Henry Stracey.

31,706. What time in the day?—About 3 o'clock.

31,707. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

31,708. Or the promise of anything?—No.

31,709. Or anything after you had voted?—No.

31,710. No money and no beer?—No.

31,711. Why was it you did not vote sooner?—My business detained me so that I could not leave until that time.

R. Woodrow.

ROBERT WOODROW sworn and examined.

31,712. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You voted for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election, did you not?—Yes.

31,713–4. How came you to vote for him?—Because I preferred that.

31,715. Did anybody give you anything to prefer it?—No.

31,716. Or promise you anything?—No. I had a shilling given me; that a gentleman give to me. He says, "Here is a shilling for you to drink." That was after I had promised to vote.

31,717. Who was that?—Mr. Coyte.

31,718. Was that on the day of the election?—On the day of the election.

31,719. He came to you and asked you for your vote?—Yes.

31,720. Then when you said you would vote for Stracey he gave you the shilling, did he?—No, not until some time after that.

31,721. How long?—It might be, perhaps, half an hour after.

31,722. Was it after you had voted?—Oh no. I did not vote not until late.

31,723. But how came he to give it about half an hour after; did he wait with you half an hour?—No, I went up the road along with him, and he asked me if I knew where there was any more voters that would vote. I told him I did not know. There was three or four, or four or five about; but I did not know whether they would vote or not. I said I could ask whether they would vote or not. He said, "Do so," and I did so; and he asked me to go and vote then. I said, "No, it is not convenient for me to go and vote "now. I promise that I shall vote for Sir Henry "Stracey, but I will suit my own convenience. If "I vote any time between this and 4 o'clock I shall "think it is legal if I vote in those hours." He said, "I would rather have you vote now," but I said, "I "cannot now, for I have not an opportunity."

31,724. Then he gave you a shilling, and you went and voted?—He put his hand in his waistcoat pocket, and said, "Here is a shilling for you; I daresay you will want some beer." I said, "All right, sir."

31,725. Then you went and voted?—I did when I had an opportunity.

31,726. You got the beer first?—I got that when I had an opportunity. I suited my own convenience when I got that.

G. Folkard.

GEORGE FOLKARD sworn and examined.

31,727. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—I am a shopkeeper and fruiterer.

31,728. Where?—Julian Place, Vauxhall Street.

31,729. Who did you vote for?—Mr. Stracey.

31,730. What time in the day?—About 3 o'clock.

31,731. Did you promise your vote?—No.

31,732. Had you been asked for it?—No.

31,733. What made you vote so late?—I was soliciting orders about the city.

31,734. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

31,735. Did you offer any money or beer, or make any promise to anyone else?—No.

31,736. Were you in any public-houses during the day of the poll?—Nowhere particular; I just called and had a glass of ale down in St. George's.

31,737. What is the name of the house?—The "Crown," I think.

31,738. Were you drinking there with voters?—No, I got a glass of ale by myself. I never saw anyone that I knew.

31,739. Were any voters there being treated?—I never saw any.

31,740. Do you know of any voters being treated?—No, I never saw anything of the kind.

R. Stammers.

ROBERT STAMMERS sworn and examined.

31,741. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A whitesmith.

31,742. On your own account?—Yes.

31,743. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

31,744. For whom?—For Mr. Stracey.

31,745. Were you canvassed before?—No.

31,746. Did not anybody ask you for your vote?—Yes, the two Mr. Morgans asked me for my vote.

31,747. For which side?—Mr. Stracey's.

31,748. Well, you said you would not vote without money, did you not?—No, they never named no money to me, nor I to them.

31,749. You would not promise your vote, though?—I was not solicited by anyone else.

31,750. You would not promise them your vote?—No, I did not promise them. Of course I promised them when they came and asked me.

31,751. Did you promise them?—I promised them so far as saying, Yes, I should vote for them.

31,752. Who took you up to the poll?—Why I went up along with the clerk of the parish, of the name of Robert Swash.

31,753. He gave you something, did he not?—No.

31,754. Did he promise you anything?—No.

31,755. Have you not since the election said that he gave you something?—No, not one farthing; I will kiss all the books you have got that I never had a farthing, nor yet asked for one.

31,756. Did you get no beer?—No, no further than a glass what I bought.

31,757. But nothing from this clerk?—No.

EDWARD STONE sworn and examined. E. Stone.

31,758. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a labourer ?—Yes.

31,759. For whom do you work ?—On the Great Eastern Railway.

31,760. Were you asked for your vote at the last election ?—No.

31,761. Did nobody speak to you about it ?—No.

31,762. Not a soul ?—No.

31,763. How came you to go up and vote ?—Because I had a paper sent.

31,764. Why did you not go up and vote earlier ?—Because I could not, I was at work.

31,765. What time in the day did you vote ?—A quarter to 2.

31,766. Was that in your dinner hour ?—Yes.

31,767. Did you vote for Stracey ?—Yes.

31,768. Did anybody offer you anything ?—No.

31,769. Or promise you anything ?—No.

31,770. You went up of your own accord ?—Yes.

31,771. Without being in any way solicited ?—No.

RICHARD SMITH sworn and examined.. R. Smith.

31,772. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade ?—Stoker in the gasworks.

31,773. Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey ?—I did.

31,774. What time in the day ?—Between half-past 3 and 4.

31,775. Had you promised your vote ?—No.

31,776. Did you get anything for it ?—I got 2*s.* 6*d.* for my vote.

31,777. Who gave you 2*s.* 6*d.* ?—Mr. Worledge.

31,778. Did you get any beer that day ?—No, only what I bought myself.

31,779. Do you know of anyone else getting money ?—No ; I was not there above 20 minutes.

31,780. Is that Thomas Worledge ?—Yes.

31,781. Where was it that he gave you that 2*s.* 6*d.* ?—At a public-house in St. Saviour's Lane ; I don't know the sign of it. I was never in there before nor yet since.

31,782. Who asked you to go in there ?—He saw me in the street ; he took hold of my arm and asked me to go and vote. I said I wanted a day's pay if I voted. He took me to the poll, I voted, and then he gave me this 2*s.* 6*d.*

31,783. Where was the poll ?—At Mr. Hamers, the pawnbroker's.

31,784. Had you been told by him to come to this public-house ?—No, he went with me.

JOHN PRATT sworn and examined. J. Pratt.

31,785. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A publican ; a licensed victualler.

31,786. Did you vote for Stracey ?—Yes.

31,787. What hour in the day ?—About 10 o'clock.

31,788. Did you get anything for it ?—Not a farthing.

31,789. Or the promise of anything ?—No.

31,790. Were there any men in your house ?—Yes, several.

31,791. Waiting to see what they could get ?—No, several of them went up along with me to vote.

31,792. Early ?—Yes, early.

31,793. Was anybody in your house standing money for beer ?—No, not anything.

31,794. Nobody ?—No.

31,795. Was any money left at your house to provide beer with ?—No.

31,796. Did you offer anybody money ?—No, not that I know of.

31,797. Not that you know of ?—Well, I say, I don't think I did. I don't know why I should do it.

31,798. That mode of answering convinces me that you did, and was not the man Joseph Gurney, and did you not offer him 5*s.* ?—I might do so.

31,799. You did ?—I might promise him anything such a day as that, but I did not part.

31,800. You promised him 5*s.* if he would go and vote for Stracey ?—I might do such a thing, but I don't think I did.

31,801. That sort of answer won't do, you must either say yes or no ?—I know I was very busy that day. I took up a lot of poor cripples and voted, but I never got anything for it.

31,802. I asked you whether you promised anything to the man ?—Yes, I say I think I might do such a thing.

31,803. You know you did it ?—Well, I will say I did it.

31,804. You might as well have said it at first.—I might do such a thing, but I know I never parted.

31,805. How many more did you promise money to ?—I am sure I don't know.

31,806. Of these old cripples that you took up, how many more did you promise money to ?—Well, I don't know, sir. I don't know e'er a man that I promised that day. I know I was very busy that day.

31,807. Very busy promising men to get them to vote ?—Well, I might promise them.

31,808. What are their names ?—I am sure I don't know one. If Gurney say I promised him anything, let him come forward and ask me whether I give him anything.

31,809. I have been putting to you very plain questions, and I regret to say you have been giving me very evasive answers.—I will give what answers I can.

31,810. Now, just give me the names of some more people that you promised money to ?—I cannot think of any more. You say that I promised money to Mr. Gurney ?

31,811. I asked you, and you said it yourself.—You said I promised Mr. Gurney 5*s.*, and I won't contradict it ; I think it is very likely I did.

31,812. You have told me more than that, that you not only promised Gurney, but you promised some others ?—I took a lot of them up that could not walk; some of them cripples, and some of them silly people, but they all had votes.

31,813. Give me their names, whether they were cripples, or silly, or whatever they were ?—I don't know ; they live in Catton.

31,814. Then they were your neighbours, were they ?—They did not live near me; I started from the "Whalebone."

31,815. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) It will be a very unpleasant thing for you to be sent to the city gaol to remember the names of these people.—I should not like that.

31,816. Under those circumstances had you not better brush up your memory and avoid spending the night there ?—Any fair question you ask me I will answer.

31,817. (Mr. Biron.) I asked you perfectly plain questions. I asked you the names of the men you promised money to ?—I never promised any men money that I know of, only Mr. Gurney. You say I promised Mr. Gurney money, and I will not deny it.

31,818. Who did you take up ?—I took several people from the "Whalebone," but they were persons who never use my house. I was in my waggonette, and there was some of them there that could not walk, and I drove them up.

31,819. Do you mean to say that you did not promise any of these men ?—I did not, sir ; I won't deny it, if you say I promised Mr. Gurney.

31,820. Then you cannot give me the names of any other men you took up that day ?—Yes, I took a man of the name of Graver up to vote ; but if you was to give me a thousand pounds I could not tell you all their names.

31,821. I did not ask you all their names, I asked

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

J. Pratt.

6 Oct. 1869.

you the names of those you recollect?—I took a man of the name of Graver, and a man of the name of Smith.

31,822. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Where does he live?—He lives at Catton, against the "Whalebone"; that is a long way from my house.

31,823. (Mr. Biron.) What is his christian name?—I don't know.

31,824. What is he by trade?—I think he is a shoemaker.

31,825. Now, are there any other names?—I cannot think of any other names. I would tell you in a moment if I knew the names, but I was busy that day; I said, "Get in and go and vote for Stracey."

31,826. Cannot you give me the names of any other people that you took up?—No, I cannot.

31,827. What did you promise Smith?—Not a farthing.

31,828. What did you promise Graver?—Not a farthing. Why should I do so?

31,829. How came you to promise Gurney?—I don't recollect it; I might do such a thing. I won't contradict it; if he says I did I won't deny it.

31,830. If you might have promised him, you might perhaps have promised half a hundred more?—It is very likely I did. I took a man up in Calvert Street; he was eating a dumpling. He said, "I shall not go and vote," but I got him to go and vote for Mr. Stracey. He was a bricklayer's labourer; he was having his dinner.

31,831. Did he say he wanted something?—No, I treated him with a glass or two of beer.

31,832. Where did you treat him with beer?—I treated some of them in Calvert Street.

31,833. How much did you spend there?—I don't know; but when I went out I changed a sovereign, and I had not much of it left the next morning.

31,834. You spent it in beer upon those men you were getting up to vote?—Yes, I did.

31,835. How many did you get up for that sovereign during the day?—Fifty, I should think.

31,836. You found that a pint of beer would do the trick?—Yes, or half a pint of beer. I know that poor fellow that was eating his dinner was very glad of a pint when I gave it to him to go and vote.

31,837. They were hanging back to get something, and a pint of beer did it?—There was plenty of them would vote for half a pint of beer that day.

31,838. Did you see Inspector Clarke at all that day?—Oh, yes, several times in the course of the day.

31,839. Did you say anything to him about the way the men were to be got?—No.

31,840. Did he say anything to you?—No, I know who I spoke to; I said to Mr. Provart, "I know "where to get about 20 voters for about five shillings "each." In fact, I went into the committee room, and I said, "I can get about 20 voters, but they want to be paid for the day's work;" but they said, "There is nothing here; you cannot have a farthing here."

31,841. What committee room was that?—At the back of St. Peter's.

31,842. Where were these men waiting for their day's work?—At the "Jolly Farmers," on Charing Cross.

31,843. Do you know any of their names?—No, I do not know; only the landlord.

31,844. What is the landlord's name?—Swash.

31,845. Is he the parish clerk of some place here?—No; I think he works for Barnard and Bishop.

31,846. Have you told me now all that you know about it?—Well, I have sir, all that I can think of.

31,847. What was Clarke doing when you saw him?—I saw him riding about.

31,848. Getting up voters?—I think he was, the same as me.

31,849. Much about the same game you were at, I suppose?—Yes, about the same game.

J. Dambrock.

JAMES DAMBROCK recalled and further examined.

31,850. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You will come here to-morrow morning prepared to tell us the truth, and the whole truth, and if you do not without equivocation I will most assuredly send you to gaol for a week.—I told you the truth.

31,851. Yes, but you were not telling the whole truth, or anything like it.—Yes, I have, sir.

31,852. You were evading and equivocating when you said you knew nothing about the election. I will not enter into any controversy with you now; I will examine you to-morrow morning, and mind you speak the truth, or else you shall go to gaol for a week.—We had a very sick child during the time, and my wife had to look after the child.

Adjourned to to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

T. Worledge.

7 Oct. 1869.

THOMAS WORLEDGE sworn and examined.

31,853. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Will you tell me without any reservation what you did on the day of the election?—I will answer you any question that you can put to me as a man, fairly and honestly.

31,854. I require you to tell me without any reservation what you did that day?—The fact is, sir, on the election day I got tipsy.

31,855. But you can recollect what you did before you got tipsy?—I can tell you as far as that.

31,856. You did not get tipsy till late in the day?—I got tipsy about dinner time; in fact, I was in drink, of course, all day.

31,857. I think you can tell us what money was given you for the purposes of the election, and what money was spent?—Money! I would not dirty my fingers with electioneering money; I had none given me.

31,858. Now do not assume an indignation which is a virtue, which, under the circumstances we know we cannot at all appreciate. Just tell me what you did upon the election day? From what place did you start?—From my house.

31,859. Where did you go?—I went to Catton for a voter.

31,860. Who was that voter?—William Thorpe.

31,861. How did you go there?—In my pony trap.

31,862. Did you bring up that voter ?—Yes.

31,863. Where did you take him to ?—To Magdalen Street, to a polling booth there, adjoining the "White Horse" yard, at 8 o'clock in the morning.

31,864. Where did you take him after that ?—I left him there.

31,865. What did you say to that man to induce him to come up and vote ?—He was one of my workmen. I had asked him a week before, the Saturday before, to vote for Stracey, and I told him to be there early.

31,866. How came it to be necessary for you to go and fetch him up ?—He is lame.

31,867. What did you do next ?—I went and voted myself, and then got my breakfast.

31,868. Did you vote for Stracey ?—Of course I did.

31,869. Where did you go after breakfast ?—I went to St. Martin's.

31,870. Where in St. Martin's ?—To my brother's.

31,871. Who is he ?—John Worledge.

31,872. What did you do there ?—Had a little beer along with his wife and two or three more ladies in the house.

31,873. After you left there where did you go ?—To Clarke's beerhouse.

31,874. Did you find a number of voters there ?—There were a quantity of voters there.

31,875. And some non-voters ?—And some non-voters.

31,876. Did you count the number of voters there ?—No, I did not count them, although I asked them all round, one by one, whether they were voters. I never was more disgusted with a class of men in my life than I was when I went into that house. They got up and asked me to bribe them; and one fellow, more forward than the rest, said he never voted without being paid, and never intended, and I told him I was ashamed of him.

31,877. They all said they wanted you to bribe them ?—Yes.

31,878. What was about the number ?—I should think there was 10 or a dozen there; something like that.

31,879. Did you then give some tickets for beer ?—Yes; I asked Mr. Clarke if he would oblige me with credit for 6*d.* each one of my tickets. He said, "With pleasure." I was leaving the house when they called me back and said, "Are you going to leave us like that ?" And I went back and asked who were voters and who were not. There was a roughish looking gentleman standing by the fireplace. I gave them a card each (there were three), and said, "Mr. Clarke will give you beer for it;" and they said, "Give us another each; this won't last all day;" and so I did.

31,880. You gave those tickets to the non-voters ?—Yes; I was disgusted with the voters.

31,881. You knew perfectly well that that beer would be drunk among the lot ?—Very likely it was. I knew no difference; I did not know.

31,882. Do you mean to tell me you did not suppose that it would be so ?—I did not think anything; I told them I was ashamed of them.

31,883. Really, this protestation of innocence about these things is very surprising to my mind after the caution you received yesterday. We shall be obliged to abstain from examining you any further, and apply that remedy to you which will teach persons in your position not to assume a virtue which they do not possess. I will, however, give you another chance, and ask you a question. Do you know a person of the name of Dick Smith ?—No.

31,884. Did you see a person on the day of the election whose name is Smith, a stoker at the gasworks ?—I don't know him; I may have seen him.

31,885. Do you recollect seeing a man from the gasworks at the dinner hour ?—No, I don't.

31,886. Did not you give a man who is a stoker at the gasworks half-a-crown to vote for Sir Henry Stracey ?—I cannot recollect it.

31,887. Will you undertake to swear that your virtuous indignation against bribery prevented you from giving to this man half-a-crown to vote for Sir Henry Stracey in the dinner hour of that day ?—I would not undertake to swear it.

31,888. Now let us have no virtuous indignation after that.—Not a bit. I don't wish to make myself a bit more pure than other people in any shape.

31,889. You gave the cards at Clarke's ?—Yes.

31,890. How long did you remain at Clarke's ?—Oh, I should say about 10 minutes or a quarter of an hour; something like that.

31,891. After you left Clarke's, where did you go to ?—I went to find two of my workmen living up the "Bath House" yard.

31,892. What are their names ?—John Mann and John Clarke.

31,893. Did you find them ?—No, not there.

31,894. Where did you go to from there ?—I stayed there, I should think, pretty well an hour, with a lot of women down the yard, and we had some beer down there and enjoyed ourselves.

31,895. After that, where did you go to ?—I rode down the street, and happened with the very particular gentlemen I wanted and took them to the poll.

31,896. Were these women the wives of voters ?—They were the wives of those two workmen of mine, and some other ladies besides.

31,897. Were the "ladies besides" the wives of workmen ?—Not workmen of mine; they were all working people.

31,898. Were they the wives of voters ?—I don't know.

31,899. You met the two men ?—Yes.

31,900. And you took them to the poll ?—I did.

31,901. Then where did you go to ?—After that I went to St. Stephen's, to the "Peacock."

31,902. Did you find a number of voters there who wanted to be paid for their day's work ?—No.

31,903. Did not you find a number of voters there ?—No, I found two.

31,904. Who were they ?—Their names was Copeman.

31,905. Is that the name of both of them ?—Yes. They are two brothers.

31,906. Did you get them to vote ?—Yes.

31,907. Did you give them some beer ?—No.

31,908. No beer at all ?—No, they treated me, and I drank with them.

31,909. How long were you at the "Peacock" ?—I went and took the men from there to the poll. I should think I might be in the "Peacock" something like altogether (I went twice, to take the men and take them back) a quarter of an hour.

31,910. What are they ?—Sweeps.

31,911. Is it not an uncommon thing for a person in your position of life to be treated to beer by a sweep ?—Well, it is nothing more than a fact.

31,912. Were you ever treated by a sweep before ?—I have been treated by workmen before, by the poor, for they respect me in Norwich.

31,913. Were you ever treated by two sweeps before in your life ?—No.

31,914. Or by any sweep ?—Oh yes, I have drunk with sweeps.

31,915. Have you ever been treated by a sweep ?—Of course I have. I was treated to just a pint or two of beer that day with a sweep.

31,916. Did you treat as well as receive ?—I don't think I spent a penny in the house.

31,917. After having been treated by sweeps, where did you go to next ?—After that I think I went to Geldart's, and I had a glass or two of wine.

31,918. Where is Geldart's ?—In Wensum Street.

31,919. Did you find voters there ?—No, nothing of the sort.

31,920. Why did you go there ? — To refresh myself.

31,921. It seems to me that you were employing yourself actively about the election. Were you not in search of voters ?—I went to my workmen's houses,

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

T. Worledge.

7 Oct. 1869.

several of them, during the day, and they were all out excepting what I have told you. Oh yes, there was a man of the name of Clarke, the brother of John Clarke that I have been speaking about. He went to the poll with me before breakfast. I did not care so much. I was active in getting men.

31,922. Do you get drunk every day?—Well, I am in the habit of imbibing, I am sorry to say. That is my fault, and I cannot help it.

31,923. "Imbibing!" that is what you call it, and you get beastly drunk?—I take a glass when I wish for it.

31,924. Well, now then, where did you go to after you had imbibed at that last place you mentioned?—I went to the "Bull," in Magdalen Street.

31,925. Did you find voters there?—No.

31,926. What did you go there for?—To have a drain. That is exactly how I came to be so drunk, drinking from place to place.

31,927. You were drinking at the other place. If you wanted to have a drain why did you not go on drinking there?—I went for a change.

31,928. Did not you go there with voters?—No.

31,929. You went for the purpose of having a drain?—Yes.

31,930. Who was with you?—Mr. Chaplin I believe.

31,931. Was he a person who was actively engaged in getting up voters?—I think he was. In fact I am sure he was. He was more active than me. He appeared to be sober when I was drunk; and he drove me home.

31,932. After going there, how long did you remain?—I don't know.

31,933. You cannot recollect?—No.

31,934. You were so drunk that you cannot recollect?—I went in there in passing, and what I had there finished me off.

31,935. What time of the day was this?—Somewhere about 1 o'clock, I should think. It might be half-past 1. I cannot exactly say, for my mind is bothered about that day—with regard to that time of day.

31,936. After that you went about the city, did you not?—I don't recollect going.

31,937. Do you know a man of the name of Taylor of Fellmonger's Yard?—No, I cannot say that I know him.

31,938. Do you know a man of the name of Thomas Taylor of Fellmonger's Yard?—Fellmonger's Yard; Taylor, Taylor.

31,939. Thomas Taylor of Fellmonger's Yard?—Oh yes, of course, he works for my brother at times. He is a jobber. I know the man quite well. I took him to the poll about 11 o'clock at St. Martin's.

31,940. What money did you give him?—Nothing.

31,941. Do you mean to say you gave him no money on that day?—Nothing. I was sober at the time.

31,942. Did you at any time give any money to Taylor?—No.

31,943. Never in your life?—Well, he borrowed 2*s.* off me about four or five years back, and he has never paid me; that's all.

31,944. Is that the only money transaction you have had with him?—Nothing else.

31,945. You know the man I mean, Thomas Taylor?—Yes; my brother keeps the "Fellmonger's Arms." He sometimes jobs for him.

31,946. Did not you give him on that day 10*s.*?—No.

31,947. Did he ride about with you?—I drove him from my brother's house to the poll and brought him back. That is how far he rode with me.

31,948. Do you know a person of the name of John Gamble Waller?—Yes.

31,949. Did you drive about with him?—No.

31,950. Were you with him on the day of the election?—I don't recollect. I should say not. I don't recollect seeing him.

31,951. Do you say you don't recollect at all being with Waller that day?—I don't recollect seeing him.

31,952. Do you recollect going to Clarke's in the afternoon again?—No.

31,953. Will you undertake to say that you were not at Clarke's public-house again?—I could be on my solemn oath that I never was at Clarke's beerhouse in the afternoon.

31,954. Although you were so drunk that you cannot remember anything?—I take my wife's word that she had me indoors. I have had this put to me before by gentlemen, and I cannot recollect going; and I don't believe I did go.

31,955. Do you recollect seeing Hardiment that day?—Yes, I saw Hardiment driving down St. Martin's.

31,956. Did you not see Hardiment when you were at Clarke's beerhouse, not in the morning but in the afternoon?—No, I cannot recollect anything of that.

31,957. Did you see a person of the name of Brandish?—No.

31,958. Do you know Brandish, a man who keeps a shop near Clarke's beerhouse?—I know Mr. Brandish. He voted at my request in the morning. I never saw him at Clarke's.

31,959. Did you not give Brandish money to vote?—No.

31,960. You know that he is dead?—Yes.

31,961. Was William Fisher with you when you went to Brandish's?—Fisher was in the street that morning with me. We had a glass or two together.

31,962. Did he go with you to Brandish's?—I think not.

31,963. Did you see Fisher give any money to Brandish?—No.

31,964. Was there any talk with Brandish about money in Fisher's presence?—No, not that I am aware of. If it was talked about by anybody else it was not in my presence anyhow.

31,965. Did you see a man of the name of Thorpe at Clarke's beerhouse?—Yes.

31,966. In the latter part of the day?—No.

31,967. What time did you go home?—My wife told me I got home about 2 o'clock, or a little after, and Mr. Chaplin has told me so since.

31,968. Do you mean to say that you were not out after 2 o'clock?—Yes, but I had no riding.

31,969. Do you know what you did after 2 o'clock in the day?—No, only I kept drinking and getting worse.

31,970. What public-houses did you go to?—I went in Boswell and Baxter's. That is a favourite place of mine.

31,971. At what other place were you drinking?—I don't know.

31,972. Do you mean to say that you cannot tell me what money you spent?—I reckon I had about 1*l.* or 25*s.* in my pocket, and I found I was minus the next morning.

32,973. Of every single farthing of it?—Yes, it was all gone clean.

31,974. How you spent it you cannot tell me?—No.

31,975. You did not drink 25*s.* worth yourself?—There is no question but I treated some people in the day in my drunken state; there is no doubt about that.

31,976. I want to know who are the men whom you treated on that day?—I could not tell you. I know this much: I gave those men at Clarke's beerhouse those tickets.

31,977. Were you not treating the voters to go and vote for Sir Henry Stracey at every public-house to which you went?—No. I think that is rather too hard. I don't think I did anything of the kind.

31,978. At how many public-houses to which you went did you treat voters to go and vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—The fact is that at Boswell and Baxter's they would not entertain such a notion.

31,979. You gave away several cards besides in the course of the day ?—Yes, of course I did.

31,980. To other people ?—Yes.

31,981. How much did you afterwards pay in respect of these cards ?—I don't exactly know, but I should think I paid something like 7*s.* or 8*s.*

31,982. 7*s.* or 8*s.* in addition to the sum of 25*s.* ?—Yes, what I spent myself.

31,983. Taking that as your data, do not you recollect that in almost every public-house into which you went that day you treated voters for Sir Henry Stracey ?—No, nothing of the sort.

31,984. At how many public-houses did you treat them ?—I don't always drink beer. Beer would not make me drunk.

31,985. 33*s.* worth including what you could drink yourself ?—Yes. That's about it.

31,986. Now cannot you tell me in how many public-houses you treated voters ? There was Clarke's first ?—Yes.

31,987. Which was the next public-house at which you treated voters ?—I did not treat voters at Clarke's.

31,988. We will draw our own conclusions abont that ?—Well, let me see ; I was at Sabberton's, I think, St. Paul's Plain, and I asked Mrs. Sabberton the same as I did Mr. Clarke, the same question with regard to these tickets of mine. They said they had no objection whatever. I gave a few rough gentlemen some tickets on purpose that they might go about and shout "Hurrah for Sir Henry Stracey."

31,989. I want to know whom you treated with these 25*s.* out of your own pocket. I take it that you did that at two or three beershops ?—No more than what I have told you, to my knowledge, you know.

31,990. Clarke's beerhouse and that other, were those the only two places at which you gave tickets ?—Yes.

31,991. The only two ?—The only two.

31,992. In what public-houses did you treat men with 25*s.* worth, striking out what you spent upon yourself ?—The fact is that was pretty well all spent upon myself and my friend that was with me, Mr. Chaplin. We drunk almost the lot of it. I don't mean to say we did not ask people we met with to drink.

31,993. Then I deduct also the 2*s.* 6*d.* you paid to Smith ?—I might, but I cannot recollect it.

31,994. It might have been spent in paying men, if it was not spent in drink ?—Yes ; but I have spent more than 25*s.* one day in my life, for drink.

31,995. At what other public-houses did you spend any of this money ?—I cannot recollect. I had a lot of women, treating them, and then getting into wine drinking, and that sort of thing, the money went. I had no money given me, I assure you, to lay out.

31,996. How many voters in all did you treat, 20 or 30 ?—I never took 20 or 30 to the poll.

31,997. You may not have taken them to the poll because you were so drunk yourself that you might not be able to take them ?—I cannot tell what I done in the afternoon. The money was gone the next morning. That is all I can say about it.

31,998. You spent 22*s.* 6*d.* in bribing voters. Have you paid any more money since the day of the election beyond those 8*s.* you mentioned ?—I don't recollect paying any more. I often if I am in a house slip up a score (they know me all over Norwich), and I go and pay it afterwards, but not for electioneering matters.

31,999. I will not trouble you further about your proceedings on the day of the election. We must draw our own conclusions with respect to it. You were away at the time of the trial of the election petition ?—Yes.

32,000. Where did you go ?—I went to London.

32,001. How came you to go to London ?—Because I had to go on business.

32,002. What business ?—My own business.

32,003. What was the business ?—I went for the purpose of getting what trade I could. You must recollect that is the time of the year that I have to make my staple for the whole year. I had to go to Manchester as well.

32,004. Did anybody pay your expenses for going away ?—Not a penny, nor I never asked anyone.

32,005. Where did you go to in London ?—I went to the regular warehouses where I generally go to.

32,006. Where are those regular warehouses ?—Messrs. Homan & Co.

32,007. Where else did you go to besides the regular warehouses ?—I went and saw Messrs. Somerville & Co.

32,008. Where is that ?—Noble Street, Cheapside.

32,009. Where else ?—I went to music halls in the evenings, and all that sort of thing.

32,010. Did you go out of London anywhere ?—Yes.

32,011. Where to ?—To Manchester.

32,012. How long were you in Manchester ?—I should think I was, in Manchester very nearly a fortnight. I would not say exactly for a day or two.

32,013. How long before the election inquiry did you go away ?—I left Norwich, I think it was, on the 22d or 23d of December.

32,014. Directly the announcement was made of the day on which the election petition would be tried ?—Somewhere about the same time.

32,015. And you remained away until after it was over ?—I did.

32,016. Have you any business in Norwich ?—Yes.

32,017. Did you leave your address so that it could be procured in Norwich, during the time you were away ?—No.

32,018. Why did you not ?—Because I was going to Manchester, and I never had been there before, and did not know exactly where I should stay at.

32,019. You were going to Cheapside and the other places, where you could be found in London ?—They could easily find me in Londoa.

32,020. You were not going for a fortnight to Manchester ?—Yes, I was.

32,021. You could not tell where you possibly would be in Manchester ?—No.

32,022. And you went there to be out of the way ?—Yes.

32,023. Did you ever happen to go away from Norwich before and not leave any means of finding you ?—Yes. Whenever I go to a strange place I always have to do it.

32,024. Did you ever go away before, and leave simply your address "London" or "Manchester" ?—No. I never went to Manchester before.

32,025. Did you ever go away and leave your address of that general character ?—No, I cannot say I ever did. I could not tell you.

32,026. Were you not keeping out of the way of the election inquiry ?—Of course I was.

32,027. Were you not keeping out of the way of the election inquiry because you knew you had done that which would get you into trouble and upset the election ?—I was out of the way for my own purposes. Will you allow me to explain ?

32,028. Yes.—That will do. I will explain. The time of the year that this petition was to be coming off in Norwich I was obliged to be away after my business, or else I should have had business taken out of my hands. I was obliged to be away at the time. Had I been in Norwich it would have been of serious consequence to me and my workmen during the year.

32,029. You could have attended to your business in Norwich ?—I wanted to be away finding business. Business was slow.

32,030. Was it not to avoid your being called as a witness here ?—Yes, of course, exactly.

32,031. Were you not apprehensive of being called, because you had done that which you knew was illegal ?—I thought it very probable that I should be summoned here.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

T. Worledge.

7 Oct. 1869.

32,032. Did you not think it probable that you would be summoned here because you had done that which was illegal and which formed the subject of the inquiry before the judge?—I did not.

32,033. Then you thought you were perfectly innocent?—You have already had my innocence, and I have told you truth in everything.

32,034. Was there nothing else to conceal but what you have told?—Not a bit. If there is anything you can enlighten my mind upon, I will tell you the truth about it.

32,035. Before you went away did you see Dawson?—I have seen him, but not about this. I never had any conversation with him.

32,036. Did you see Mr. Skipper?—No.

32,037. Had you any note from them then?—No. I never spoke a word——

32,038. Had you no communication, written or verbal?—No.

32,039. You know Hunter?—No.

32,040. Was there a man down here of the name of Hunter?—Do you mean Hunter, the auctioneer.

32,041. No, the man who came from London and was attending to the election petition?—I don't know him.

32,042. Had you any communication with a person who was conducting the election petition on the part of Mr. Skipper?—I had not.

32,043. None?—None at all.

32,044. With no one connected with Mr. Skipper or Sir Henry Stracey's party?—No.

32,045. You did what you have told us entirely of your own accord?—Yes, exactly, entirely of my own accord.

32,046. Have you paid any money besides that 8*s*., since the election, for any debt incurred by you upon the day of the election?—Not anything that I incurred upon the day of the election.

32,047. (Mr. Mansfield.) For anything connected with the election?—No.

32,048. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Have you paid anything to any men who said that they were promised money by you upon that day?—No.

R. Carver.

ROBERT CARVER sworn and examined.

32,049. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at this election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

32,050. To whom did you promise your vote?—No one.

32,051. Were not you asked for it?—No.

32,052. What time of the day did you vote?—About a quarter before 2.

32,053. What are you by trade?—A carter.

32,054. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

32,055. What public-houses were you at that day?—Not one.

32,056. Did not you get any beer?—No.

32,057. Did you get nothing afterwards for voting?—No.

32,058. Is this the first time you have voted?—No, I have voted for 20 years.

32,059. Have you always voted for the orange and purple?—Always.

32,060. Have you ever had anything for your vote?—No, I never had nothing.

C. Trumbetta.

CHARLES TRUMBETTA sworn and examined.

32,061. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

32,062. For whom?—Mr. Stracey.

32,063. Had you been canvassed?—No, not that I know of.

32,064. Were you at the "Richmond Hill" that day?—No, I was not, I was at the "Wheatsheaf," in Bethel Street.

32,065. What time in the morning did you go there?—About half-past 6 o'clock in the morning. I was at work in the night.

32,066. How long did you stay at the "Wheatsheaf"?—All day almost, till the afternoon time, betwixt 3 and 4 o'clock, and then I went home and got my dinner.

32,067. You stayed there waiting to see what you could get?—Yes. I had a horse or two in there and I could not leave.

32,068. What did you get towards the end of the afternoon?—For the horses?

32,069. No, for voting.—Nothing at all.

32,070. Did you not get any beer?—No, I had not a drop of anything all night.

32,071. You said you would not vote without money?—No, I did not. Nobody heard me say so.

32,072. Are there any other men of the name of Trumbetta in Norwich?—Yes, many, my brother's children.

32,073. What time of the day did you vote?—Betwixt 3 and 4, when I was going home to dinner.

32,074. Why did you not vote earlier?—I had not an opportunity to leave my horses.

32,075. Were you at work at the "Wheatsheaf"?—Yes.

32,076. Looking after the horses?—Yes.

32,077. Had you promised to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—No, I did not promise. I thought I might as well vote for him as well as anybody else, so I went away and voted after my dinner.

32,078. Who asked you, do you remember?—No, no one.

J. Allen.

JOSEPH ALLEN recalled and further examined.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) When we examined you before, we had not the opportunity of reading over carefully the evidence of Mr. Howse Allen, and it is quite clear from reading his statement, and also your own, that we had a very imperfect account of what occurred between you and Mr. Edward Stracey relative to supplying the 200*l*.; therefore I must ask you to tell me exactly how that matter took place, from its commencement to its termination, because when I read your evidence it is quite plain that everything is omitted (not intentionally, but by accident, because we were not aware of the facts) with regard to the arrangement with Mr. Webster.

32,079. Now, somewhere about the middle of the day you came to the conclusion that it would be expedient to provide some funds?—I did.

32,080. And very shortly after that you say that you saw Mr. Edward Stracey?—Yes.

32,081. Can you tell me the time of the day that you first came to that conclusion?—It was about half-past 1; I expect from about 1 to half-past, about that time; it might be a little later, but it was about that time.

32,082. Did you speak to anybody upon that subject before you saw Mr. Edward Stracey and spoke to him?—Simply Mr. Howse Allen knew about it.

32,083. As I understand you, there were two interviews with Mr. Stracey?—Yes.

32,084. According to the statement which we have here, no communication took place with Mr. Howse Allen until after the first interview with Mr. Edward Stracey. I want to know about that?—I think I saw Mr. Howse Allen before I saw Mr. Edward Stracey.

32,085. Before you saw Mr. Edward Stracey at all?—Yes, I believe so.

32,086. Where was it that you spoke to Mr. Howse

Allen respecting the providing of the funds?—Somewhere on Tombland. He was standing on Tombland, and I spoke to him. We went down to the "Maid's Head," to ask if they knew where Mr. Edward Stracey was. I thought he was the most likely person to provide it quietly; so we went down to the "Maid's Head," to ask if they knew anything about where he was.

32,087. Did you and Mr. Howse Allen go in search of Mr. Edward Stracey?—Yes.

32,088. Together?—Yes; we saw him by the "Maid's Head." He was driving past and we stopped him.

32,089. Did he get down?—Yes.

32,090. Did you and Mr. Howse Allen talk with him?—It was chiefly myself. I think Mr. Howse Allen scarcely had any conversation, he was standing by.

32,091. You three were together, and one or the other spoke to Mr. Stracey?—Yes.

32,092. It was the conversation of you all three in effect, although one only was the speaker?—Yes.

32,093. Can you tell me what was said to Mr. Edward Stracey?—I told Mr. Edward Stracey that I thought we ought to have some little money, that it was advisable to have some, and he said he dared not do it. I said, "I think we ought; it is not worth "while losing the election for a few pounds. It is "only a few pounds required, just to stir the people "up;" but he said, "I really dare not do it," and it was settled then that we should wait, perhaps we might not want it.

32,094. What became of Mr. Edward Stracey then, did he remain with you?—No; I think he and I went up to the market place, to hear the last state of the poll. We heard the general talk in the market place, and ultimately returned to the "Maid's Head," and he said he thought Mr. Webster would advance the money as he had not the money himself.

32,095. Let us take it consecutively. You went and made an inquiry about the poll?—Yes.

32,096. Did Mr. Edward Stracey accompany you in making the inquiry about the poll?—Yes.

32,097. Was Mr. Howse Allen with you at that time?—No, I think not.

32,098. What became of Mr. Howse Allen?—I believe he remained somewhere about Tombland. I saw him afterwards. I fancy he waited till I came back, to hear what the result might be.

32,099. Had it been suggested then in Mr. Howse Allen's presence that possibly money might be provided?—Yes, of course at the first conversation he was present.

32,100. I thought you told us that Mr. Edward Stracey said he dare not do it?—Certainly he said that he dare not do it.

32,101. You said that you dropped it, hoping that it might not be required?—Yes.

32,102. Was there any sort of reservation about it, because one would have thought that then it would have ceased?—We went to see how things were getting on, and Mr. Howse Allen would wait there for me to come back, so that he might know what to go and do.

32,103. Then there was an understanding, if I may so term it, implied, that if it was requisite something might possibly be done?—Yes, there was just a chance.

32,104. Was that expressed, or was it left indefinite?—It was left indefinite.

32,105. Mr. Howse Allen went on to Tombland, and you went to make the inquiry about the poll?—Yes.

32,106. You found the inquiry unfavourable, did you?—Well, I thought it was too near to allow it to remain as it was. We were getting up considerably, but I thought we might lose by three or four, and that would be as bad as losing by 100. It was too close to be pleasant. That was my impression, and I thought we might just as well lose by 100 or more as lose by two or three.

32,107. You say that you went with Mr. Edward Stracey, and found that that was the state of things?—Yes.

32,108. Did you consult anybody with respect to it?—No, we saw Mr. Arthur Bignold.

32,109. Where did you see him?—He was in the market, just about there.

32,110. That being in your mind you took him into your counsels, did you?—Yes.

32,111. Was the result of your consultation with him that Mr. Webster should be applied to?—Mr. Arthur Bignold thought it was a very dangerous game, and I fancy it was Mr. Edward Stracey's own arrangement.

32,112. Mr. Arthur Bignold thought it was a dangerous thing?—Yes, he was cognizant of it.

32,113. He must have been something more than cognizant of it, because if he advised you to the contrary it would not have taken place?—Oh yes, it would. We did not mean to lose the election.

32,114. Then, if you would have made that arrangement, why did you speak to Mr. Arthur Bignold about it?—We wished to have another opinion.

32,115. What if that opinion had not been in favour of doing it?—You do not always follow the opinion you ask.

32,116. Do you mean to say that nothing passed between you more than that he thought it was a dangerous game?—Yes.

32,117. But he also thought that it was a good idea?—Yes.

32,118. Where did this consultation with Mr. Arthur Bignold take place?—We saw him in the street, somewhere about the market place, getting on towards Surrey Street, somewhere about there.

32,119. How long did you talk upon the subject?—Some little time. I believe he came back as far as the "Maid's Head" with us.

32,120. Were you discussing it during the time that you were going back to the "Maid's Head"?—I believe the conversation was between Mr. Arthur Bignold and Mr. Edward Stracey. I did not pay much attention to what conversation was going on in the cab.

32,121. There was a conversation between Mr. Arthur Bignold and Mr. Edward Stracey that you did not hear?—Which I did not hear.

32,122. Then did Mr. Edward Stracey tell you what arrangement he would make for the purpose of providing the money?—He said it was all right. We stopped at the "Maid's Head," and he went in. He said, "It's all right," and I understood from that that there was something to be had.

32,123. Something must have occurred before he went into the "Maid's Head." He said it was all right; did he say he would go and see Mr. Webster?—Yes, I understood so.

32,124. I do not want what you understood; was that said?—I don't know whether it was said. I knew we stopped at the "Maid's Head" for that purpose.

32,125. Did not he tell you he was going to see Webster for the purpose of providing the money?—Most likely he did.

32,126. You were all three together in front of the "Maid's Head"?—Yes.

32,127. And Mr. Stracey went in to see Webster?—Yes.

32,128. Did you make the arrangement that it should be in half sovereigns?—No.

32,129. The sum must have been mentioned, because we see what occurred immediately afterwards. Who mentioned the 200*l.*?—Mr. Edward Stracey.

32,130. Before he went into the "Maid's Head"?—I don't know whether it was before or whether it was after.

32,131. Had you suggested or who had suggested that it should be in two parcels of 200 half sovereigns

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

J. Allen.

each?—I do not know anything about that. Nothing was said to me about how it was to be, only that Mr. Webster would provide money.

32,132. Just consider. That is the very thing I want to know from you, because when we referred to Mr. Howse Allen's evidence as to what you said to him, we find he said that you told him it would be in two bags of 200 half sovereigns each, and he was to give one bag to one person, and to divide the other bag with other people, according to the directions?—Mr. Howse Allen must be labouring under a mistake. I simply told him that there would be 200*l.* in some form or other. Whether it was coming in notes or gold I did not know, but there would be 200*l.*, and I told him how to divide it, to distribute it, but whether it was coming in bags in sovereigns or half sovereigns, I did not know.

32,133. The particular form in which it was to come was not communicated to you?—Certainly not.

32,134. Well, then Mr. Edward Stracey went in to the "Maid's Head," did he?—Yes.

32,135. Did you remain with Mr. Arthur Bignold outside?—Yes.

32,136. How long did he remain in the "Maid's Head"?—Scarcely any time.

32,137. Did he come out and communicate with you?—He said, "All right," and then he left, and I saw no more of him.

32,138. He communicated to you there that it would be all right, that the 200*l.* would be forthcoming?—Yes.

32,139. Two hundred pounds had been mentioned as the sum before he went in?—Either just before he went in or just when he came out.

32,140. Did he mention before he went in that there would be 200*l.*, or did he mention it when he came out?—Mr. Edward Stracey said somewhere about that time, "I will be 200*l.*," because I pressed him. I said, "For heaven's sake let us have some money, and then we shall win." He said, "I will be 200*l.*;" and I said to him that I would do what I could myself.

32,141. You waited to see that the arrangement was complete?—Yes.

32,142. Then it was communicated to you and you went away, ?—He went away.

32,143. Did he go away with Mr. Arthur Bignold, or did you go away with Mr. Arthur Bignold?—I walked towards my house with Mr. Arthur Bignold, and then Mr. Arthur Bignold left me.

32,144. Mr. Arthur Bignold had said that it was a dangerous thing?—Yes.

32,145. It being a dangerous thing, did you consider as to the man to whom you should entrust it, that is, that it should be carefully managed?—Yes; those three men I named I thought were men who would have done. I had an idea that they had done something at former elections.

32,146. With whom did you consult as to that, with Mr. Stracey?—The people were known to me and I went for them.

32,147. Did Mr. Arthur Bignold suggest that?—He might have known some of these people.

32,148. But was it suggested to you?—No; these names suggested themselves to me; I knew these men, and I thought they were likely men to do the trick. Mr. Arthur Bignold knew the men and he would know. Mr. Arthur Bignold had nothing to do with it.

32,149. Did you communicate to him who the men would be?—I daresay I mentioned it to him.

32,150. Have you any doubt that you did?—No, I have no doubt I did.

32,151. They would be the safest men to employ for the purpose, you thought?—Yes; they were the names that in a hurry struck one as the most likely.

32,152. They were persons who had been employed in Waters' election?—So report said.

32,153. You had got Mr. Howse Allen into your house before that, had not you?—Yes, he had been into my house when I first saw him on Tombland; but then he came in with me or followed me up as I walked from the "Maid's Head" to my own house; he would follow me up, and went in and stayed there. I said, "Sit down and have some lunch," and I thought Mr. Webster would give the money direct to him.

32,154. Did Mr. Arthur Bignold come with you into your house?—Yes, he just walked inside my house and left.

32,155. Mr. Howes Allen following you in?—Yes.

32,156. How long did Mr. Arthur Bignold stay?—He went almost directly.

32,157. As I understood you, Mr. Stracey went in alone and saw Mr. Webster?—Yes.

32,158. While you remained outside with Mr. Bignold?—Yes.

32,159. He then came and told you it was all right, according to the arrangement which you had previously made?—Yes.

32,160. Did you see Mr. Edward Stracey after that upon that day?—No.

32,161. Do you know where he was the rest of the day?—No, not at all.

32,162. Did you see Mr. Arthur Bignold again?—Yes; just in the central committee room, where he went to hear whether we had won or not. That is the only time.

32,163. Did you tell him then what you had done?—I told him I had sent men out. At least he understood that. I said, "All right."

32,164. There was no inquiry about money then?—No.

32,165. You would tell him, of course, what you had done?—I did not give him any particulars. I said it was all right, or something to that effect.

32,166. You said it was all right with regard to that matter of Webster's, or of Mr. Edward Stracey's?—Yes.

32,167. Was that in consequence of his inquiry?—He asked me how I thought we were getting on, whether we had been successful, and I said I thought it was all right.

32,168. You understood it to refer to this?—I meant him to understand that I had done all I could, and left him to draw his own conclusion.

32,169. You had, in fact, carried out the arrangement that had been made between you three?—Ah, but it was not an arrangement with Mr. Arthur Bignold. It was simply between Mr. Edward Stracey and myself. Mr. Arthur Bignold simply heard it, but took no part.

32,170. We shall draw our own conclusions about that. You had been very active, had you not, during Waters' election?—Yes.

32,171. And you had provided 1,000*l.*, as you told us, from Harvey's bank?—Yes, somewhere near 1,000*l.*

32,172. We have been told by Mr. Skipper that Mr. Arthur Bignold was the financial agent of Mr. Waters upon that occasion. Did you pay the money over to Mr. Arthur Bignold?—I paid I think it was 500*l.* to Mr. William Kitton, and the rest, as I said before, went for the legal expenses. That was paid over to Mr. Arthur Bignold by a cheque drawn upon myself.

32,173. With a view to his settling Waters' claims?—Waters' legal claims.

32,174. There were also claims, were there not, against Mr. Waters in addition to those which were legal claims?—I don't know as to there being any claims. At least I believe that the 500*l.* Mr. Kitton had was for illegal purposes.

32,175. Yes, we quite understand Mr. Kitton was for secret service.—Secret service money.

32,176. That we understand, but there were also other disbursements, were there not, which were afterwards paid by Mr. Arthur Bignold on account of Mr. Waters, do not you know that?—Only legal payments. There were no illegal claims that I have any knowledge of. I do not think there were any.

32,177. Were there not claims which Mr. Skipper

as representing Mr. Goldsmid would in no way recognise ?—No, not that I know of, because I believe Mr. Waters paid more than his share of the legal expenses.

32,178. Why should he pay more than his share of the legal expenses ?—Because he behaved in a generous way ; for instance, he had hired, I believe, all the cabs and handed them over, or at least allowed the use of them, to Mr. Goldsmid's party, but I don't think that was charged to Mr. Goldsmid.

32,179. Have you heard from Mr. Bignold what was the amount he paid ?—No. I don't know what was the amount; but as far as I have any knowledge of it, I don't believe that Mr. Arthur Bignold did pay any illegal expenses or illegal claims. I never heard of there being any. I thought that the money Mr. Kitton had would satisfy all the illegal claims.

32,180. You were not aware what sum Mr. Arthur Bignold actually paid ?—No ; I don't know the exact sum.

32,181. Do you know where Mr. Waters is ?—He is at Upton Park.

32,182. (Mr. Mansfield.) Near Slough ?—Poole is the post town, I think.

32,183. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) In Dorsetshire ?—Yes.

32,184. When had you the last communication from Mr. Waters ?—I had a letter yesterday.

32,185. Have you that letter here ?—No, I have not.

32,186. I must ask you then what were the contents of that letter ?—It was headed "Private and confidential."

32,187. I cannot help that. We must have it, even if it is private and confidential.—It is simply that he drew my attention to my evidence, and thought that there was some mistake as to his handing over the securities to me. He thought that he had handed them over to Mr. Arthur Bignold. I have no objection to your seeing the letter.

32,188. You have not destroyed it ?—No.

32,189. Then I must ask you to go and fetch it.—Certainly.

32,190. Understand you do it under compulsion.—Yes.

32,191. If you have any other letter from Mr. Waters bring it.—I have not.

32,192. Or if you have any letter from Mr. Arthur Bignold.—I have none.

32,193. Have you had any letter from Mr. Arthur Bignold ?—No.

32,194. Have you had any letter from Mr. Edward Stracey ?—No.

32,195. Not since this inquiry commenced ?—No, not at all.

32,196. Nor since the election ?—I may have had a short note from Mr. Edward Stracey once. I had one, just a note, "Meet me;" and saying he was not very well. That is the only note I ever had from Mr. Edward Stracey.

32,197. Mr. Arthur Bignold had been the means, had he not, of bringing Mr. Waters down here ?—I don't know whether it was Mr. Arthur Bignold.

32,198. He was a personal friend of Mr. Waters, was he not ?—They seemed to be great friends.

32,199. He was very active, was he not, in promoting Mr. Waters' return with yourself ?—He did not do so very much, except he looked after the legal payments.

32,200. He knew about the 1,000*l.* ?—Yes, he knew about it.

32,201. What ?—Yes, he would know about it.

32,202. He was, in fact, the prime mover in Mr. Waters' election ?—Everybody was as anxious about that, at least a great many people.

32,203. But he was a personal friend of Mr. Waters, and had been mainly instrumental in his coming down here at all ?—He was quite a stranger in Norwich. He was to myself. He came down to stay at Sir Samuel Bignold's house, but how he came there I don't know, or who introduced him.

32,204. He was staying there during the election ?—Part of the time.

32,205. Mr. Arthur Bignold was his constant associate during that time ?—Yes, very likely.

32,206. He, in fact, knew everything that you knew connected with the election, and everything that you did ?—No, I don't think he did.

32,207. Did he know everything about Mr. Kitton and the 500*l.* being paid to him ?—Yes, he would know that.

32,208. When did you see Mr. Arthur Bignold last ?—Oh, it is some time ago.

32,209. Do you know whether he went abroad immediately this Commission issued ?—No, I don't. I understood before this Commission issued that he was going abroad as usual for the benefit of his health. I have heard nothing in connexion with this Commission at all.

32,210. Oh yes, we understand, for the benefit of his health. Do you know at what time he went abroad ?—No.

32,211. Had you any conversation with him after the election and before or after the issuing of the Commission, with respect to the Commission ?—No. We have never spoken about this Commission ; oh yes, before the Commission was issued.

32,212. At the time when it was threatened ? It was threatened before it was issued ?—There was a talk about it and nothing more than that. We thought it would not issue.

32,213. I must ask you to fetch Mr. Waters' letter.—I will do so.

MATTHEW CHAPMAN sworn and examined. M. Chapman.

32,214. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

32,215. Did you ever vote before ?—Yes.

32,216. Have you always voted purple and orange ?—Yes.

32,217. Have you ever had any money for voting ?—Never.

32,218. Did you get nothing this time ?—Not one single farthing.

32,219. What are you by trade ?—A butcher and fellmonger.

32,220. Do you know Mr. Hardiment ?—Quite well.

32,221. Had you anything to do with him in respect of this election ?—Not the slightest.

32,222. Did you hand about any of his money ?—Not the slightest.

32,223. Do you take a busy part in elections ?—Not the slightest part.

32,224. You only voted ?—Only voted; that's all.

JOHN DAMBROCK recalled and further examined. J. Dambrock.

32,225. (Mr. Biron.) Did you take any men up to the poll on the polling day ?—No.

32,226. Were any men in your house ?—There were several men in the house during the day, a few backwards and forwards.

32,227. Was there anything said about the election ?—I never heard anything ; I never took no notice.

32,228. What were you doing ?—Drawing a pint or two of ale for people who came in, and they paid for it; but I never heard a word mentioned, at least I never took any notice.

32,229. Were you there in your house all day long ?—No. We had a sickly child, and sometimes when the child was a little easy she took sometimes two rooms backwards and forwards; but I never heard nobody mention about election.

32,230. Do you remember Mr. Morgan, the brewer, coming to your house ?—My wife is ill in bed. She was telling me last night about Mr. Morgan. The men there stood in a circle round him, and he said, "Vote like men, and you will receive the benefit by it;" and they all rushed out, my wife told me, and voted. My wife told me that last night. I was not in the house during the time. They were strangers that came in.

32,231. Did you not hear what Mr. Morgan said?—No, my wife did.

32,232. This was very handy upon 4 o'clock, was not it?—I think from what she told me it might be half-past 3. When I came home she told me.

32,233. There were several men there?—There were several men rushed in.

32,234. Who had not voted?—I believe they had not voted; I don't know. I was along with the child during the time.

32,235. After that was a man of the name of Clabburn in?—That I cannot say. Clabburn had been in our house several times during the day, and had a glass or might have had a pint of ale by paying for it.

32,236. Did not he give beer to some men who were there?—Not a fraction. I never received a farthing, nor yet a shilling.

32,237. Did not he take up some men to the poll?—That I don't know, I cannot say.

32,238. After the batch which Morgan took did not Clabburn take some?—I don't know. My wife told me that when I came home.

32,239. This is information you got from your wife?—Yes; anybody is welcome to go and see her. She is now sick in bed, and if you go you will find my statement correct. I would not go and kiss this book to tell an untruth for my life. I have voted Tory for a good many years, and I have been in Norwich a good many years.

32,240. Did you ever vote on former occasions?—I always voted Tory.

32,241. Did you ever get anything?—I never requested anything.

32,242. Did you get it?—I never wanted anything.

32,243. Did you get anything?—No, never.

32,244. Or the promise of anything?—Nothing. I have to work hard for my living.

32,245. Did you never get anything?—Not that I know of.

32,246. There is something behind this. Come, you were talking about the book, and making a great parade of your truthfulness. Now tell me if you ever received anything?—I might.

32,247. Tell me who it was who gave you something. If you do not you will spend another uncomfortable day.—I might pick up a pound or 30*s.*

32,248. Which was it, a pound or 30*s.*?—I cannot tell at the present moment.

32,249. Who gave it you?—I will tell you. Mr. Wace might give me a pound or 30*s.* I cannot tell you his name.

32,250. What is he?—I don't know.

32,251. Do you not know what his trade is?—I think he is in the tripe way; he lives in Ber Street.

32,252. What election was that?—I think it was the election before this, if I am not mistaken.

32,253. Did you not see him this time about voting?—No.

32,254. Try and brush up your memory a little.—No, I can remember very well; I know what I am doing.

32,255. Did not he give you anything this time?—Not a farthing, not a fraction.

32,256. Did nobody give you anything?—Not a farthing, not a fraction.

32,257. How came he to give it you the last time?—He come into the bar, and there were several people in. There was a man of the name of Brown, he is dead and gone, and a man of the name of Tom Parr, he is in Ber Street now. I think he gave 30*s.* or 2*l.* apiece, but I cannot recollect.

32,258. Did he buy the whole lot of you?—I think he did.

32,259. At 30*s.* apiece?—30*s.* or 2*l.*; I cannot remember exactly.

32,260. How many of you were there?—Two or three.

32,261. Besides yourself?—Yes.

32,262. What time did you vote at this election?—After 3 o'clock, because the child was very ill.

32,263. Were you not waiting for another visit?—No; I was very busy, and my wife was very busy.

32,264. You know you got something for your vote before. Now, were not you waiting this time as you did before.—No, I did not wish for anything.

32,265. Is not that the truth that you were waiting?—Well, if a person came in and give you 30*s.*, or anything, of course you would take it, would not you?

32,266. I am quite sure I would not. However, you would, and you were waiting this time?—I was not waiting for a farthing this time.

32,267. You might just as well have told us that yesterday morning?—Well, sir, I did not know.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) It is very unpleasant to us to be obliged to use force for this purpose, but if we had not done it we never should have got a great deal of the information which we have done, and which it was our bounden duty to get. We must get it from everybody who is called into that box, at any cost of personal trouble to ourselves, and whatever the expense may be. Depend upon it we shall get the truth in one way or another, however many people we have to send to prison.

R. Newman.

ROBERT NEWMAN sworn and examined.

32,268. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

32,269. Who asked you to vote?—No one.

32,270. Did you not promise your vote?—No.

32,271. At what time did you vote?—Between 9 and 10 o'clock.

32,272. Had you ever voted before?—Yes.

32,273. Had you always voted purple and orange?—Yes.

32,274. Had you anything for your vote?—No.

32,275. Or was anything promised to you this time?—No, nothing was promised.

32,276. Were you treated at all?—No.

S. Tinkley.

SAMUEL TINKLEY sworn and examined.

32,277. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

32,278. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

32,279. Where were you on the morning of the election day?—I was at work till dinner time, and I left off.

32,280. Why did you not vote earlier?—I voted in my dinner hour.

32,281. Why did you not vote before?—I did not think proper to leave off before.

32,282. Did anybody come to you to ask you for your vote?—They canvassed me.

32,283. Did they canvass you for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

32,284. And did you promise to vote for him?—No.

32,285. Did you refuse to promise your vote because you were waiting to see whether there was anything coming on the day of the election?—No.

32,286. Then why did you not promise?—I had no motive for not doing so.

32,287. What made you change your opinion?—I had no opinion.

32,288. What made you vote at all if you had no opinion ?—That was my principle.

32,289. Then it was your principle when you were canvassed ?—Yes.

32,290. Then if it was your principle why did you not promise when you were canvassed ; were you not waiting to see what you could get ?—No.

32,291. Then why should you hesitate about promising ?—I was not at home when they came round.

32,292. You say you did not promise ?—I did not promise either way myself. I was not present when they came round.

32,293. Did you get anything for your vote ?—No.

32,294. Or the promise of anything ?—No.

32,295. Did anybody come and fetch you up to the poll ?—No.

32,296. Nobody came to your house for the purpose of taking you up to the poll ?—No.

JOSEPH ALLEN recalled and further examined.

J. Allen.

(The witness.) Here is Mr. Waters' letter (handing it to the Commissioners). You will see he says that he is a cripple, and has been completely confined to his chair for the last two years.

32,297. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) I suppose you raised 1,000*l.* from Harvey's bank in order that 500*l.* might be handed over at once to Mr. Kitton for the purposes of the election ?—I was asked to raise the money, but no reason was assigned.

32,298-9. Who asked you to raise the money ?—Mr. Waters.

32,300. Was it not Mr. Bignold ?—No ; Mr. Waters himself. My impression is that Mr. Waters gave them (the securities) to me, that Mr. Kitton was there, and that Mr. Arthur Bignold happened to be in the room. They had just come into my house from a drive, and they asked me if I could cash them, and I said I would. Mr. Kitton himself said, "I will be security, I will be guarantee that these are right." I said, "It is a large sum to raise." I did not know whether they were worth a farthing or anything, but Mr. Kitton guaranteed that they were all right.

32,301. Was Mr. Kitton present at the time they were handed over to you ?—Yes, it was in my drawing room.

32,302. There were Mr. Waters, Mr. Arthur Bignold, Mr. Kitton, and yourself, was there anybody else present ?—That is all. I do not think they were there when I brought the money, but I am not certain about that.

32,303. Did you go at once and get the money ?—I went at once and saw Mr. Hill.

32,304. Is he the cashier at the bank ?—He is the manager at Harvey's bank, and he said he would advance the money if I would be guarantee. I did not like to take upon myself the responsibility of guaranteeing it, and so I went back, and Mr. Kitton said to me, "I will be guarantee ;" and he wrote out a guarantee on a slip of paper and handed it over to me, and when the money was paid I handed it over to him again, and he tore it up. I am almost certain that this was the day before the election. At any rate Mr. Hill said that he would advance 500*l.* on them.

32,305. Was only 500*l.* advanced at that time ?—Only 500*l.*, and then they were sold.

32,306. Five hundred pounds was advanced that day ?—Yes.

32,307. And was that 500*l.* handed to Mr. Kitton ?—Yes.

32,308. For the purposes of the election ?—Yes.

32,309. As secret service money ?—Nothing was said about that, but I understood so.

32,310. Mr. Kitton was the secret service agent ?—Yes.

32,311. Mr. Waters was represented by another gentleman, Mr. Atkinson, was he not, who acted, if I may so term it, as the legal agent ?—Yes.

32,312. The 500*l.* was handed over on the day before the election ?—Yes.

32,313. This letter which you have produced speaks of the sale of the securities, when were they sold ?—Either on that day or the next. Messrs. Harvey and Hudson had them for the purpose of realising.

32,314. Then the money was only advanced upon the emergency, and the securities were handed over not so much by way of security as for the purpose of sale ?—Certainly.

32,315. And were they immediately sold by Messrs. Harvey ?—Yes, and the amount credited to me.

32,316. What did they realize ?—I think it was over 900*l.* ; I forget, but the bank book of Messrs. Harvey can tell you, because the amount was credited to me, and both transactions stand in my pass book.

32,317. Afterwards you drew a cheque for the balance ?—Yes.

32,318. And handed it over to Mr. Arthur Bignold ?—Yes, for the purpose of paying what was legal.

32,319. Do you know that he received other monies from Mr. Waters besides the money you have mentioned ?—No, I do not ; but I suppose he did, because otherwise there would not be enough to pay the legal expenses.

32,320. But how much more you do not know ?—No. (The letter above referred to is put in, and is as follows :)

"Private and confidential.

"Upton Park, Poole,

"My dear Sir, 4th October.

"I am unhappily too ill to follow the proceedings of the Norwich Commission, but I have read in the 'Times' your evidence and Mr. Skipper's. There seems to be some great mistake in the report, for you are made to say that in 1865 you received from me some securities. The only securities that I can think of are some 1,400*l.* colonial bonds payable to bearer, which I gave to Mr. A. Bignold with other money to pay my election bills with ; but I never had the slightest communication with you about them, and I had not the least idea that you had ever even heard of them before I read it in the 'Times.' I do not understand now why they were not sold in the usual course of business, because the bills were not paid for many days after the election, and there were plenty of bank notes for those which required immediate payment. I leave it to you to set this matter right in your evidence, which can easily be done without compromising anyone, since Mr. Skipper has proved that my bills were paid by Mr. Bignold : Kitton is dead. You will be sorry to hear that I have long been a helpless invalid without hope of recovery. My health gradually declined from nervous prostration, until by degrees I lost the use of all my limbs, and for nearly two years I have been a prisoner to my chair. Please to give my kindest regards to Mrs. Allen, and tell her that if all the ladies were as staunch and as brave as she is, the Tories would certainly vote for the franchise being extended to women.

"Always, my dear Sir,

"Most faithfully yours,

"J. Allen, Esq., EDMOND CHESTER WATERS.

"Surgeon, Tombland, Norwich."

DUDLEY STRACEY sworn and examined.

D. Stracey.

32,321. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You are a son of Sir Henry Stracey, who was a candidate at the last election for this city?—I am.

32,322. Were you in the city before and during the election ?—Both before and during the election.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

D. Stracey.

7 Oct. 1869.

32,323. Did you take an active part in promoting your father's return?—Yes, I did.

32,324. Did you canvass?—Yes.

32,325. Who accompanied you in your canvass?—Mr. Cooke, who was living at Thorpe. He went with me two or three days, and several gentlemen; I do not know the names of half of those who did go with me.

32,326. Did your brother Edward go with you?—No.

32,327. Or did he go independently of you?—I did not go with him, and I do not know who did go with him.

32,328. You did not accompany him in any canvass?—No, not at all.

32,329. How many days did you canvass?—I do not know. I should think four or five days.

32,330. During your canvass did you find that there were a very considerable number of persons who would give you no answer at all?—No, I did not find that; there were centainly some who did not give an answer, but not many.

32,331. Did you not find that there were a considerable number?—No, I do not think there were a great number, because I saw so many people.

32,332. What part did you take?—I canvassed Thorpe hamlet.

32,333. That is a more respectable part of Norwich?—Yes, it is a very respectable place.

32,334. And what did you canvass besides Thorpe hamlet?—I canvassed in different parts of Norwich. I believe I canvassed in Ber Street and Magdalen Street, but I do not know the different wards.

32,335. Did you at all canvass the lower part of Norwich, Pockthorpe and North Heigham?—Yes, Heigham I went into, but I do not think I went to Pockthorpe.

32,336. Was that South or North Heigham?—I do not know.

32,337. The more respectable part of Heigham is it, where the new houses are?—Yes, where the new houses are.

32,338. Did you continue your canvass down to the day of the election?—Yes.

32,339. During that time did you find that there were persons who suggested being paid for their votes?—No, I was not asked once.

32,340. But did some persons suggest without asking for it that there had been payments made before, and that they would be expected upon the present occasion?—They might have said so, but if they did I paid very little attention to them. I left them instantly.

32,341. But that did occur?—I think it occurred in one instance.

32,342. Was anything said about rates?—No, nothing at all.

32,343. Did you note down the result of your canvass in any book?—I did not, but one of the gentlemen who was with me did.

32,344. Do you know who that was?—No, I do not, unless it was Mr. Cooke; one day I think he did, and Mr. Jarvis; he was with me the same day, I think he had a book.

32,345. On the day of the nomination were you in Norwich?—Yes.

32,346. Do you recollect a large body of men being collected on one side who held up their hands in your father's favour?—In the Shire Hall do you mean?

32,347. Yes?—Yes, there were some.

32,348. Had you anything to do with arranging for their attendance at the nomination?—Not at all.

32,349. Do you know at all how they were provided?—No, not at all.

32,350. Or who provided them?—No.

32,351. Do you know Mr. Stanley the solicitor?—Yes.

32,352. Did you see him down among the men on the floor of the hall?—I do not remember that I did.

32,353. On the day of the election were you active in getting up voters?—Yes.

32,354. At what time did you begin in the morning?—I began about 9 o'clock I think.

32,355. Did anybody accompany you in getting up voters that day?—I think there were two or three who went occasionally with me, different gentlemen that I met.

32,356. Can you give me their names?—I really do not know, I fancy Mr. Cooke was one. I met him in Magdalen Street that day.

32,357. Did you drive, or were you in any conveyance taking up voters?—Yes, I drove my dogcart.

32,358. Had you a servant with you, or anybody in attendance upon you?—No one.

32,359. Then how did you get the voters from their houses if you did not take a servant or some person with you?—I spoke to them in the street and asked them if they had voted, and if they had not I told them I would drive them to the poll.

32,360. Did you not go to those parts you had canvassed in order to get up to the poll those voters who had promised their votes?—I do not think I did.

32,361. Did you confine yourself to driving about the streets and asking people in the streets whether they had voted or not?—Yes.

32,362. Had you become pretty familiar with the faces of the voters?—No, not at all.

32,363. Did you confine yourself entirely to persons in the streets, and did you not go into any houses?—I do not think I went into any houses, if I did I do not remember it. I drove down to Heigham that day, where I saw some men standing at a corner of a street, and I asked them if they had voted; they said no, and I think I drove two of them up.

32,364. Did you not go into any house at all for the purpose of getting up a voter?—I think very likely I went into a house before I drove about. I think I did.

32,365. What house was that?—I think that was in Magdalen Street.

32,366. What house was it?—I do not know; it was a house Mr. Cooke showed me.

32,367. Was it at his suggestion that you went into the house?—Yes, I think it was.

32,368. Did you take up a voter from there?—No, I do not think the man voted.

32,369. You went in with a view to persuade him to vote?—Yes, I did.

32,370. When you were driving about and seeing these people did you not find that they wanted something for their day's wages, or something of that kind?—No, I never was asked once.

32,371. Was nothing of the kind ever mentioned to you?—No, nothing at all.

32,372. You did see, I suppose, a considerable number of persons who were hanging about, and who declined your invitation to go up and vote?—Yes, several.

32,373. A considerable number?—I had not much chance of taking many in a dogcart.

32,374. But there were a great many to whom you applied?—I asked several, and some came with me and some did not.

32,375. Do you know the "Horse Shoes"?—Yes.

32,376. Did you go there that day at all?—Yes, I went there.

32,377. Did you get up any voters from there?—Yes.

32,378. Did you drive them up to the poll yourself?—Yes, I did.

32,379. The landlord of the "Horse Shoes" had been an old servant of your father's?—Yes.

32,380. Did you hear from any of the men that they had been treated in the "Horse Shoes"?—No.

32,381. Had you any knowledge yourself of any treating going forward at the "Horse Shoes"?—No, not a bit.

32,382. Were you in the "Horse Shoes" yourself at all?—No, I was not.

32,383. You merely called there for the purpose of taking up any voters who might be willing to go?—Yes.

32,384. Did you walk about at all with your brother that day?—I should think I did.

32,385. Edward?—Yes, certainly. I met him several times.

32,386. Did you talk with him upon the subject of the election?—Yes.

32,387. Upon the subject of getting up voters?—Yes.

32,388. Had you any other brother in Norwich that day?—Yes.

32,389. Who was that?—My brother Henry, Captain Stracey.

32,390. Was your brother Gilbert here?—No, he was ill; he had not been in Norwich for two days previous to the election.

32,391. You can tell us that he was not here at all on the election day?—I know he was not here on the election day.

32,392. Did you yourself before or on the election day give any beer to any men, or any refreshment?—No, not a single drop.

32,393. Did you pay for anything of that kind?—No.

32,394. Not on the day nor before the day of the election?—No.

32,395. Have you paid anything since?—No, not a farthing.

32,396. Has any claim been made on you for anything of the kind?—No, not any.

32,397. Were you aware at all of any money being paid to any men that day?—No, I never heard of it.

32,398. Or of beer being given them?—No, I did not know a bit about it.

32,399. Did you yourself pay any men?—No, not one.

32,400. Or promise anybody?—No, not a soul.

32,401. Not during your canvass?—No, not once.

32,402. Were you aware of any money being provided for the purpose of influencing men?—No, I did not know of it.

32,403. Were you entirely ignorant of money being provided which we have heard came from Webster?—I never knew of it till I read it in the paper the other day. That was the first word I had heard of it.

32,404. Has any claim been made upon you for money that any individual has paid for the purpose of influencing voters?—No.

32,405. Have you any knowledge of any money whatever having been provided as a fund for that purpose?—No, I never heard of it.

CHARLES SEAMAN FOLKARD sworn and examined. C. S. Folkard.

32,406. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who asked you to vote this time?—No one.

32,407. Did you promise your vote?—No.

32,408. Had you ever voted before?—No, I had not.

32,409. At what time in the day did you vote?—I think between 2 and 3.

32,410. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

32,411. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing.

32,412. Did you not try to get anything?—No.

32,413. Did you not hear that there was money going?—No.

32,414. What public-house did you go into before you voted?—I did not enter into any public-house.

32,415. What public-house did you go into after you had voted?—Not any.

32,416. Were you not treated to any beer during the whole of that day?—Nothing whatever.

32,417. Has nothing been paid to you since?—No, nothing.

32,418. What are you by trade?—I am clerk to the West Norfolk Militia.

32,419. Did anybody canvass you?—No.

DAVID MINNS sworn and examined. D. Minns.

32,420. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

32,421. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

32,422. At what time in the day?—I think between 2 and 3. I cannot tell exactly, but I think so. I have forgotten. I paid no attention to it.

32,423. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

32,424. Or the promise of anything?—No, I never went out of my own house, only across the street to vote.

32,425. Were you not about during the day of the election?—No.

32,426. Do you know Mr. John Bignold?—No, that I do not, though I have lived in the city all my life.

32,427. Were you with him on the election day?—No, nor with nobody.

32,428. What did you do after you had voted?—I went and got a pint of beer and paid for it; there was no company there.

32,429. Nobody else paid for it?—No, only myself.

32,430. Do you live in Ber Street?—Yes; not now I do not.

32,431. But you did at the time of the election?—Yes.

ABRAHAM WITHAM sworn and examined. A. Witham.

32,432. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

32,433. Where do you live?—In Mariner's Lane.

32,434. Is that in Pockthorpe?—No, against St. Mary's Church.

32,435. What is your business?—I voted for Mr. Stracey.

32,436. But what is your employment?—A labourer, a scavenger.

32,437. Is Inspector Clarke your master?—I am employed by the board of health.

32,438. Did he get you to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—No.

32,439. Did he speak to you about it?—No.

32,440. Not at all?—No.

32,441. Has he told you not to tell us that he spoke to you about it?—No.

32,442. Have you had any talk with him about it?—No.

32,443. Who induced you to go and vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—No one.

32,444. Do you mean that no one spoke to you at all about it?—No.

32,445. Are you sure of that?—There was two men came to the house and asked me who I was going to vote for.

32,446. Who were they?—I do not know.

32,447. When did they come to your house and ask you that?—One night.

32,448. How long before the election?—The next night before.

32,449. Were they perfect strangers to you?—Yes, two of them was.

32,450. Then there were more than two; who was the one that you knew?—Young Tillett was one.

32,451. Did you promise to give them a vote?—No.

32,452. Were you ever asked by the Stracey party for your vote?—No.

32,453. Who induced you to go up and vote for Stracey?—That was my intention.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

A. Witham.

7 Oct. 1869.

32,454. Had your foreman spoken to you about voting ?—No.

32,455. Did nobody speak to you about voting except those three men who came to you the night before ?—That is all.

32,456. How many of you are there under Inspector Clarke ?—There are eight of us.

32,457. And they all voted for Stracey, did they not ?—I do not know whether they all voted for Stracey or not. I do not know nothing about that.

32,458. Who went up with you ?—No one.

32,459. You went up by yourself ?—Yes.

32,460. Did you get any beer ?—No.

32,461. Or the promise of any beer ?—No.

32,462. Did you get any beer given to you in the afternoon of that day ?—No, not a drop.

J. Revans.

JOHN REVANS sworn and examined.

32,463. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade ?—A wine cooper.

32,464. For whom did you vote at the last election ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

32,465. At what time in the day ?—A little after 3.

32,466. What made you vote so late ?—Because I was after my business, and I could not get home before with the cart.

32,467. Did anybody ask you to vote ?—No.

32,468. Did you ever tell anyone who you were going to vote for ?—No. I had one soliciting card sent me from Sir Henry Stracey, and that is who I voted for.

32,469. Did you have anything for your vote ?—No.

32,470. Were you treated on the day of the poll ?—No.

32,471. Have you had anything since ?—No. I have had nothing since.

32,472. Had you ever voted before ?—No.

W. Fisher.

WILLIAM FISHER sworn and examined.

32,473. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

32,474. For whom ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

32,475. At what time in the day ?—About 12, or it might be a little after.

32,476. Who brought you up to the poll ?—I came up along with Mr. Porter, who lives just past my house.

32,477. Had you been canvassed before ?—Yes.

32,478. By whom ?—By Tillett's party twice.

32,479–80. What did you tell them ?—I told them that I should not vote for them.

32,481. Did you get anything for voting ?—No.

32,482. Or the promise of anything ?—No.

32,483. Did you see Daniel Soames that afternoon ?—Yes.

32,484. And William Smith ?—No, I do not know such a man.

32,485. Was Soames in Porter's beerhouse ?—Me and Soames came with Mr. Porter.

32,486. Where to ?—To the poll.

32,487. And you all voted together ?—Yes.

32,488. Did not Mr. Porter give you anything ?—No.

32,489. Was a man named Miller with you ?—Yes.

32,490. Edmund Miller ?—Yes.

32,491. A fish hawker ?—Yes.

32,492. Did you see Porter give him anything ?—No, I did not.

32,493. Did not the man say that he could not go to the poll because of his fish ?—No.

32,494. And did not Porter then buy the fish ?—No, I never saw no fish that day.

W. Batley.

WILLIAM BATLEY sworn and examined.

32,495. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote at the last election ?—For Sir Henry Stracey and Sir William Russell.

32,496. At what time in the day ?—About a quarter or half-past 2.

32,497. Where were you in the early part of the day ?—At work.

32,498. What was your work ?—Shoemaking.

32,499. In whose employ are you ?—In Mr. Hotblack's and Mr. Benjamin Martin's.

32,500. Why did you not vote earlier than you did ?—Because I wished to be after my work. I had some work to do that I wanted done.

32,501. But you could have voted before, could you not ?—Sometimes we have particular work to do and we cannot leave it.

32,502. There is the breakfast and the dinner hour, why did you not vote earlier ?—I had no reason why, only I wished to be after my work.

32,503. Did anybody give you anything for voting ?—No, not a farthing's worth of anything, neither did I request any.

32,504. Did anybody promise you anything ?—No, not anyone, nobody never named such a thing.

32,505. How came you to vote for Stracey and Russell ?—It was my ideas ; I thought they were the two fit and proper persons as candidates.

32,506. Are you sure that nobody induced you to vote ?—Not anyone. The candidates when they came and visited me asked me for my vote, and I did not promise anyone. All I promised was that I should not vote for Mr. Tillett.

32,507. That was the only promise you made ?—That was the only promise I made.

32,508. Had you not an idea that you should vote for Stracey and Russell when they canvassed you ?—I had made up my mind to vote for them.

32,509. If you had made up your mind when they canvassed you to vote for them, why did you not tell them so ?—I would not promise my vote. I made up my mind I would not vote at all, but that if I did I should vote for Russell and Stracey.

32,510. Why did you not tell the gentlemen so when they called ; was it because you wanted something ?—No, I never named such a thing, neither did anyone name it to me.

A. D. Davy.

ALFRED DANIEL DAVY sworn and examined.

32,511. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade ?—A carpenter.

32,512. Are you a new voter ?—Yes.

32,513. Who asked you to vote this time ?—I voted of my own accord.

32,514. Were you not asked for your vote ?—No.

32,515. Did you tell anybody for whom you were going to vote ?—No.

32,516. None of your friends ?—No.

32,517. What time in the day did you vote ?—About 3 or half-past 3. I daresay it might be 25 minutes to 4 before I voted, because I had a sick house and could not leave before.

32,518. Did you get anything for your vote ?—No.

32,519. Have you had nothing since ?—No, nothing since.

32,520. Were you treated that day for your vote ?—No, not at all.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

7 Oct. 1869.

JOHN WILLIAM CALL sworn and examined. J. W. Call.

32,521. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—An organ builder.

32,522. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

32,523. For whom?—Stracey.

32,524. What time in the day?—Shortly before 3.

32,525. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

32,526. Or the promise of anything?—No.

32,527. Why did you not vote earlier?—I did not intend to vote at all, neither should I had he been in a majority at 2 o'clock.

32,528. What induced you at last to do it?—I thought I had a right to at last.

32,529. But what induced you to exercise that right?—Because he was behind. I also advised a man who was at work with me to vote at the same time.

32,530. If you wanted him to win, why did you not vote for him before?—I worked for both parties, and did not care about voting at all.

32,531. You thought you would sooner keep quiet?—Yes, I did.

JAMES FITT sworn and examined. J. Fitt.

32,532. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) At what time did you vote?—About a quarter to 9.

32,533. Did you vote more than once?—No.

32,534. Have you heard that anybody has voted in your name after 2 o'clock?—That was the time I voted.

32,535. Are you sure that is the time?—Yes, quite certain.

32,536. Somebody has voted in your name in the afternoon if you voted in the morning.—That was the time I voted.

32,537. Are you quite sure you did not go up to vote again?—I am certain of that.

32,538. Is there anybody of the same name as yours in the city?—In the same parish, I think; two or three, I think.

32,539. You are the only James Fitt of William Street, Heigham?—I think so.

32,540. If you voted in the morning, somebody has voted in your name in the afternoon.—That was the time I voted.

32,541. I need hardly ask a man in your position, did you receive anything for voting?—Not anything.

32,542. Or the promise of anything?—No.

SOLOMON RICHARDS sworn and examined. S. Richards.

32,543. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A cabinet maker and carpenter.

32,544. Are you a new voter?—No, I voted before.

32,545. Which side have you voted?—Conservative.

32,546. Always?—Yes.

32,547. You keep a public-house, do you not?—Yes.

32,548. On St. Catherine's Plain?—Yes.

32,549. There were a good number of people there that day, were there not?—I had a good number in and out during the day.

32,550. Were you paid anything for giving them beer?—No.

32,551. Not on that day?—No.

32,552. Nor the day after?—Not at my house.

32,553. Were other people treating them there?—No.

32,554. Do you not know there were a great number of voters waiting there the greater part of the day?—They were in and out of the house during the day.

32,555. They were drinking a great deal of beer?—They were drinking beer during the day.

32,556. A considerable quantity?—No.

32,557. Do you mean to say that everybody paid for the beer as he ordered it?—Yes.

32,558. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Or someone for them, I suppose?—No, no one for them.

32,559. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did anybody come to your house to fetch up voters?—Not that I am aware of.

32,560. Are you certain there was not anybody?—I cannot say there was. I never saw anyone.

32,561. You were there the whole day, I suppose?—I was there all the day up to 2 o'clock, except the time I went to vote.

32,562. Did you take anyone up to vote yourself?—I persuaded two or three to go and vote.

32,563. What were their names?—I am sure I can hardly mention their names now.

32,564. Were they your regular customers?—They were not from my house.

32,565. I suppose you gave them a glass of beer?—Yes.

32,566. How many of them were there?—I cannot say. There might be half a dozen.

32,567. You just gave them a glass of beer and persuaded them to go to the poll?—I gave them several glasses of beer.

32,568. How much did it cost you altogether?—I should think about 12 or 14 shillings.

32,569. And you only got up six for that?—I do not think I got more than that.

32,570. Other publicans do it at a cheaper rate.—I can only tell by the bill that was brought to me. I had to pay 9 or 10 shillings afterwards for the beer I stood.

32,571. Where did you spend that money?—At the house of a man by the name of Cranshaw.

32,572. What is the sign of the house?—The "Recruiting Serjeant."

32,573. Those were persons that you took to the house to get beer?—Yes.

32,574. And you saw them vote?—No, I did not go to see them vote.

32,575. You supplied some men in your own house?—No, not with beer, only what they pai l for.

32,576. Nor spirits?—No.

32,577. The people you took up were not from your own house but another house?—Out of the street. I told them if they would go and vote I would stand some beer.

32,578. You say that came to about 9*s.* 6*d.*?—Yes, 9*s.* 6*d.*, besides the loose cash I had in my pocket at the time, which I think was about three or four shillings.

32,579. For that you got six votes?—Yes, five or six.

32,580. Is that all you have been out of pocket?—Yes, every farthing.

32,581. Has anybody repaid you that?—Ten shillings of it.

32,582. By whom was that?—By Mr. Blyth.

32,583. How soon did he do it?—I do not know whether it was the next day or not; within a day or two he came and left it at my house.

32,584. He was the man who told you to spend the money, I suppose?—Yes.

32,585. Is that all you know?—I do not know o anything more.

JAMES WAITES sworn and examined. J. Waites.

32,586. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

32,587. What time in the day?—I should think about half-past 10.

32,588. Did you take any active part in getting up voters?—I did a little in the morning.

32,589. How many did you get up?—I might say perhaps seven or eight.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

J. Waites.

7 Oct. 1869.

32,590. What did you give them to induce them to go ?—Nothing at all.

32,591. Are you sure you gave them nothing at all ?—Yes.

32,592. No beer ?—No.

32,593. Did you not stand drink before you took them up ?—No.

32,594. After they voted ?—No.

32,595. You did not give them anything at all ?—No.

32,596. Do you know Mr. John Bignold ?—Yes.

32,597. Were you about with him that day ?—No.

32,598. Did you see him that day ?—No.

32,599. Are you sure of that ?—Yes.

32,600. You did not see him the whole of the day ?—To the best of my recollection I never saw Mr. John Bignold during the whole of the election day.

32,601. Were you about with either of the Mr. Bignolds ?—No.

32,602. After you had taken up these voters what did you do ?—I went and sat down and got a pint of ale, and smoked my pipe for two or three hours.

32,603. Where did you do that ?—At the "Richmond Hill."

32,604. That is Young's place, is it not ?—Yes.

32,605. There were a lot of men there waiting ?—There were a lot of people stood outside.

32,606. Waiting for what they could get ?—I did not go out after them.

32,607. Were you not tempted ?—No.

32,608. Did you stand beer there ?—No.

32,609. Not a drop ?—No.

32,610. Nothing but your own pint ?—I had what I paid for myself.

32,611. And did not give anything to anybody else ?—No, nor yet did I get treated with anything.

32,612. You did not give anybody anything that afternoon ?—No.

32,613. Did you see any of these men who were hanging about go and vote in the afteenoon ?—I saw a lot of persons standing about in the afternoon.

32,614. Did they not ask you what you were going to stand ?—One or two asked me whether I was going to stand treat, and I told them no.

32,615. They told you they would go and vote how you liked if you would do it ?—I did not hear them say that.

32,616. You knew that was what they meant ?—I judged that was what they wanted.

32,617. Were you not tempted to get hold of any of them ?—No; I did not take but very little interest in the election after the morning.

32,618. Had you canvassed before the day of the election ?—Yes.

32,619. Often ?—Only one day.

32,620. How was it you resisted this temptation ? Here were a lot of men all ready to go and vote for a pint of beer ?—I had no means to treat the men with. I was furnished with no funds. I had only my own money, and did not think proper to give that away.

32,621. You were not going to stand anything out of your own pocket ?—No.

M. Norton.

MICHAEL NORTON sworn and examined.

32,622. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election ?—Yes.

32,623. Had you promised your vote before the election ?—No.

32,624. They had canvassed you, had they not ?—Young Mr. Stracey had beforehand, but I said I would promise no one.

32,625. You were on the look out for what you could get ?—Oh no, that is not my principle.

32,626. Why did you not promise then ?—That was my principle.

32,627. But Mr. Stracey canvassed you, is that your principle ?—Yes ; Mr. Dudley Stracey canvassed me, not Sir Henry Stracey.

32,628. Why did you not say, "I will vote for you" ?—I did not promise anyone.

32,629. Why would you not promise ?—Because I said I might be dead before that.

32,630. (Mr. Biron.) You are a scrupulous man ?—That is what I said.

32,631. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Is that the reason why you did not promise, for fear you should die ?—That is what I said.

32,632. Do you really mean to stand there and tell me that ?—Yes, that is the truth.

32,633. It is the strangest truth I have heard, even in Norwich. Your sole motive for not promising your vote was lest you should die before the day ?—I never promised to no one.

32,634. Your sole reason for not promising was for fear you should die ?—Yes.

32,635. Was your health very bad then ?—Yes, it was, and had been beforehand very bad.

32,636. What was the matter with a good hearty robust man like yourself ?—Very nervous.

32,637. Nervous about what ?—Different things.

32,638. What were the different things ?—A large family, and bad off for work.

32,639. You were afraid that might kill you ?—No, I was not afraid that that might kill me ; that is what I told Mr. Dudley Stracey when he came.

32,640. You told him you had a large family, were badly off for work, and were afraid you might die before the election day ; really is that what you told him ?—No, I did not say that.

32,641. Did you tell him you had a large family ?—I told him that I promised no one.

32,642. You left him to infer the rest ?—I said that we would wait till the day of the election came.

32,643. You did wait till the day of the election came ?—Yes.

32,644. What became of you on the day of election ?—I was at work in the shop.

32,645. You had not died in the interval ?—No.

32,646. You had been at work all the time between, had you not ?—Yes.

32,647. What day before the election was it that you refused to promise Mr. Stracey your vote ? Was it the day but one before the election ?—No.

32,648. Which day was it ?—I think it was on the Thursday before the election that Mr. Stracey came.

32,649. And the election took place on the Tuesday ?—Yes.

32,650. When the day of the election came, what made you make up your mind to vote for Sir Henry Stracey ?—Nothing at all.

32,651. Did anybody come ?—No.

32,652. Did anybody give you anything that day ?—No.

32,653. Did not anybody offer you a little sum of money ?—No, I will swear to that, not one farthing.

32,654. You looked out for it ?—No.

32,655. You had a large family, you were exceedingly nervous about them ; do you mean to say you did not look out for some money ?—Not one halfpenny did I receive ; here I stand as a witness before God.

32,656. You did not receive it, but were you not looking out for some money ?—I might be looking out for my day's pay.

32,657. You were looking out for your day's pay ?—Yes.

32,658. What was your day's pay ?—4s.

32,659. Did you get your day's pay ?—No, I never received one halfpenny, nor yet did I see one halfpenny.

32,660. Did you not find out anywhere where it could be got ?—No, because I never went after it.

32,661. Did anybody tell you where you could get it ?—No.

32,662. Did anyone come and promise it to you ?—No.

32,663. Did you get anything ?—No.

32,644. Or the promise of anything ?—No.

32,665. Were you at any public-house that day?—Yes; I went into Mr. Creek's, at the "George the Fourth," that was the only house I used during the day.

32,666. How many times did you go in there?—That I cannot say, five or six.

32,666–7. What time did you begin going there in the morning?—I went in about 12.

32,668. And how many times after that did you go in?—Not many times.

32,669. How many times?—Four or five times.

32,670. For what did you go in there four or five times?—I went in to get a glass of ale.

32,671. Each time?—I might.

32,672. Did you?—I might have a glass of ale.

32,673. You had a large family, and were afraid of dying, who gave you the money to pay for the ale?—It was what I earned, took at the shop.

32,674. Did the landlord or anybody there give you any ale?—No.

32,675. Did anybody give you any ale at all?—No.

32,676. Or the promise of any ale?—No.

32,677. Did you get a card with anything on it?—No.

32,678. A card for ale?—No.

32,679. You were virtuous against your will, and did not get paid?—I will swear that I never received a farthing.

THOMAS FOX sworn and examined. T. Fox.

32,680–1. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A cab driver.

32,682. Are you a new voter?—Yes.

32,683. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

32,684. Had you been asked for your vote?—Yes.

32,685. By whom?—Mr. Buttifant.

32,686. Did you promise to vote for Stracey?—Yes.

32,687. Did he offer you anything for it?—No.

32,688. Have you had anything since?—No.

32,689. At what time did you vote in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

32,690. Why did you not vote earlier?—Because I was on business all day up to that time.

32,691. Do you mean to say you did not get anything for voting from Mr. Buttifant?—No.

32,692. At what public-houses were you that day?—I was at the "Tuns" and the "Grapes."

32,693. You were at both?—I was about there, that is against my stand.

32,694. Did you go inside either of them?—No.

32,695. Not one?—Not with Mr. Buttifant.

32,696. Did you go in with anybody?—No.

32,697. Did you go in by yourself?—Yes.

32,698. I suppose you got some ale there?—Yes.

32,699. Who paid for it?—I did.

32,700. All the ale you had?—Yes.

32,701. The whole day?—Yes.

32,702. You knew there was a good deal of beer to be had at the "Tuns" without paying for it?—I did not see any.

32,703. Did you not find that out?—No.

32,704. Were you not looking about to get some?—No.

32,705. Did anybody offer you anything?—No.

32,706. Not all day?—No.

JOHN GOODWIN COOKE sworn and examined. J. G. Cooke.

32,707. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am an insurance agent.

32,708. Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

32,709. At what time in the day?—Between 2 and 3.

32,710. Did you get anything for voting?—No, and never expected anything.

32,711. Nor the promise of anything?—No, nor the promise of anything.

32,712. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—I had been canvassed by the Liberal party at 10 o'clock.

32,713. What did you tell them?—I told them that I should not vote for them, I should go the other side.

HENRY NEWMAN sworn and examined. H. Newman.

32,714. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A contractor.

32,715. Did you take a busy part in this election?—Not any at all.

32,714. For whom did you vote?—Neither for Sir Henry Stracey nor yet any of the parties; I did not vote at all.

32,715. You kept out of it altogether?—Yes.

32,716. Is not Leander Brown a connexion of yours?—He is a son-in-law.

32,717. Do you not know that he was pretty active at this election?—I believe he was.

32,718. Do you not know he was putting a little money about?—I never heard of his putting a farthing about.

32,719. Did you ever lend him any money for that purpose?—No, not a penny; he never asked me.

32,720. Did you during any time of the election lend or advance Leander Brown any money whatever?—Not a halfpenny, not a shilling, nor yet a pound.

32,721. Do you know where he did get the money?—I never heard that he did get any at all, and if I were to speak what I think, I do not think he did, or else I think I should have heard of it.

32,724. Are you not aware, of your own knowledge, that he did get some money from some quarter, for the purposes of this election?—I think he did not.

32,725. You are certain you did not advance him any?—I am quite confident of that.

32,726. Were you in Norwich during the time of the election itself?—Yes.

32,727. Did you make any promises to anybody?—Not any.

32,728. Did any money go through your hands for other people?—Not anything at all. I never took any active part at all, because I am not at all a party man to either side; it is very seldom I trouble myself to vote at all.

32,729. Have you voted at former elections?—Yes.

32,730. On which side, Whig or Tory?—I have voted on both sides in my time.

32,731. You mean splitting your vote?—No; I have voted sometimes one way and sometimes another.

32,732. Did you ever get anything for voting?—Not a penny in my life.

32,733. Have you ever been employed in canvassing?—No, never.

32,734. You do not care very much about such matters?—That I do not.

CHARLES CUNNINGTON sworn and examined. C. Cunnington.

32,735. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A timber merchant.

32,736. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes, I did.

32,737. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

32,738. I believe you were one of his committee?—I was.

32,739. Were you active in the third ward?—I

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

C. Cunnington.

7 Oct. 1869.

was, on the election day, and two or three days previously.

32,740. You canvassed, and did what you could on that day to get up the voters?—Yes, I did.

32,741. At what time did you vote?—About half-past 8.

32,742. Did you get anything for voting?—No, certainly not.

32,743. Or the promise of anything?—Certainly not.

32,744. You have told me already you went about trying to get up voters?—Yes.

32,745. Did you not find, in the course of the day, that men were reluctant to vote?—Certainly not. I never found a class of men more ready to vote for Sir Henry Stracey; they were all, or nearly all of them, perfectly willing to vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

32,746. Do you remember meeting or seeing a man of the name of John Brown; I mean John Brown of Heigham?—Yes.

32,747. Did you ask him to vote?—Yes, I did, the night previous to the election.

32,748. And the day of the election?—No, certainly not.

32,749. Had you got a cab?—Yes, I had.

32,750. Riding about for the purpose of picking up the men?—Yes.

32,751. Did you not ask John Brown to come and vote?—On the election day?

32,752. Yes.—I asked him about 12 o'clock to vote, and he told me he had been and voted for Russell and Tillett. I asked him in my house about 12 o'clock, and he said it was of no use, he had voted for Russell and Tillett.

32,753. Did you not offer him before that time a dollar to go and vote?—No, certainly not.

32,754. Was this at the "Orchard" door?—Yes; I keep the "Orchard" gardens as well.

32,755. Were you at the "Bull and Butcher" that day?—I went in once or twice during the day.

32,756. Did you go in there about 3 o'clock?—I might go in in the afternoon, but I cannot say at what time.

32,757. Did you find some voters there?—No.

32,758. Did you say, "We do not mind laying out "some of our own money if we are safe"?—I never said such a word.

32,759. Did you lay out any of your own money?—No, not a farthing in bribery.

32,760. In treating?—I am a business man, and am in the habit of giving two and three shillings a day in beer. I might spend that.

32,761. You spent, I suppose, more than usual?—I do not know that I did much more than usual. I might spend two or three shillings more.

32,762. Did you not give money for beer to these men that you took up to the poll?—I might spend I should think during the whole day about five or six shillings, but that I should think is the utmost.

32,763. You got a fly to bring up the men?—Yes.

32,764. Either before or after you brought them up it is natural that you should give the men some beer?—I might stand one glass.

32,765. You mean a glass to a voter?—No. I was very particular about that; I went into one house, where they asked me to stand some, and I said no, I would not stand a farthing to a gentleman who was going, but if there were any gentlemen in the house who were not voters I would not mind standing something, but I would not spend anything for the voters.

32,766. You did not do it till after they had voted?—I did not treat the voters at all.

32,767. You treated other voters elsewhere?—No, or other voters elsewhere.

32,768. Did you not treat anybody who was a voter that day?—No.

32,769. Not after they voted?—I would not swear that.

32,770. I thought not. You took care, as I understand, that you would give them nothing before they voted?—I never promised them anything before, I assure you on my oath.

32,771. You persuaded them the best you could to go and vote, and after they voted you stood something more than once?—No, not more than once, I do not think I did.

32,772. Did you at all?—I would not swear I did not. I went to several public-houses during the day, and I might call for half a gallon or a quart of beer.

32,773. And of course the men who happened to be in the place would drink it?—Of course if I ordered it anybody would drink; I am a publican myself and used to ordering a quart or two of beer, and of course anybody would drink it.

32,774. Did you take up amongst the rest of the men a man of the name of Thaxter?—Yes.

32,775. He is a blacksmith at Heigham?—Yes.

32,776. At what time of the day did you get hold of him?—Some time after dinner; he promised me the night before that he would vote for Stracey, but he was very unwell and suffering from rheumatics, and I promised there and then if he would vote for Stracey I would take him up, that I would find a conveyance for him.

32,777. You had arranged that the night before?—Yes, I told him I would do so.

32,778. You went for him in the afternoon?—Yes.

32,779. Did you give him anything for voting?—No, not a farthing.

32,780. Did you give his wife anything?—Not anything, I can assure you.

32,781. Did you not give her some money just before you started?—Certainly not a fraction.

32,782. While you were at Thaxter's when you went up to get him was Mr. Sly there?—I believe he lived the next door, but he was not in the yard.

32,783. You did not see him?—No.

32,784. This is Beech's yard?—Yes, where he used to work.

32,785. And Sly was the foreman?—Yes.

W. Basham.

WILLIAM BASHAM sworn and examined.

32,786. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A fishmonger.

32,787. For whom did you vote?—For Stracey.

32,788. What did you get for it?—Nothing at all.

32,789. What did you try to get?—Nothing at all.

32,790. Have you had anything since?—No, not a fraction from no man.

32,791. Did you ever promise your vote?—No.

32,792. Were you ever asked for it?—No.

32,793. Are you a new voter?—I am.

32,794. Did you not hear there was some money going?—No.

32,795. Were you about during the whole day?—No, I was not. I was about my occupation, selling, my fish about the street; I am a fishmonger by trade, and never got a fraction from no man.

32,796. You being about the town knew what was going on that day?—No, I do not.

32,797. What time in the day did you vote?—11 o'clock, as nigh as I can guess. I was about with my fish, and came past the polling place, and voted for Mr. Stracey, and no one gave me a halfpenny, or yet half a pint of beer.

32,798. Do you know a man of the name of Jonathan Hayes?—He is a neighbour of mine.

32,799. I think he came to you about your vote?—No, he did not; he axed me whether I was going to vote, and I said I should vote for Stracey, and I voted for him. We have always been Tories, my father and all of us, and so I should vote again, if it was for Stracey.

32,800. You told me just now that no person spoke to you about your vote?—I have told you the truth.

JAMES BRICKHAM sworn and examined. J. Brickham.

32,801. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A carter.

32,802. Did you vote for Stracey?—Yes.

32,803. It was pretty nearly 4 o'clock before you voted, was it not?—About half-past 3, I think; I think it was about that time.

32,804. You do not vote without getting something for it, do you?—Yes, I do vote without getting anything.

32,805. You said you did not before the election?—I said I never received a farthing.

32,806. Before the election you told ever so many people that you would not vote without money?—Not that I am aware of.

32,807. Did you not say so to anybody?—No.

32,808. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You were determined in your own mind that you would not vote without money?—No.

32,809. How was it you did not vote sooner?—I was out with my horse and cart at work.

32,810. At work where?—Carting in the city, coal carting.

32,811. You could have gone to vote before half-past 3?—I was not home till late, and waited to get my dinner before going to vote.

32,812. Had anybody asked you fo your vote?—No.

32,813. Did anybody canvass you?—No .no one solicited me.

32,814. Not on either side?—Not on either side; I only had a circular sent me.

32,815. Did anybody bring you up to the poll?—No, I walked up alone.

32,816. Were you in any public-houses that day?—No.

32,817. You got nothing for your vote?—No, I never received a farthing's worth of anything.

32,818. Nor had the promise of anything?—No.

32,819. After you voted did you get anything?—Neither after nor before.

OSBORN BETTS sworn and examined. O. Betts.

32,820. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A butcher.

32,821. Is this your first time of voting?—Yes.

32,822. Who asked you to vote?—Nobody.

32,823. Did you promise your vote?—No.

32,824. Did you tell anybody you were going to vote?—No.

32,825. What time in the day did you vote?—Between 3 and 4.

32,826. How came you not to vote earlier?—Because my business will not submit to it.

32,827. Did you vote for Stracey without being asked?—I never was asked for a vote.

32,828. What induced you to support Sir Henry Stracey this time?—Because I liked his speeches at the meetings.

32,829. Did you go to the meetings?—Yes.

32,830. Has anything been offered to you for your vote?—No.

32,831. To how many meetings did you go?—Several, both Mr. Tillett's and Mr. Stracey's too.

32,832. You never hinted to anybody which way you were going to vote?—No, I never was canvassed.

32,833. Were you at any public-houses on the day of the poll?—I never went to a public-house.

32,834. You did not even get a glass of beer for voting on that side?—No.

32,835. Did you treat anybody else?—No.

32,836. Did anybody pass any money through your hands for voters?—No.

32,837. You are quite certain of that?—Yes.

32,838. You had nothing to do with this election except voting yourself, and voting independently without getting anything for it at all?—Yes, without getting any sum of money at all.

HENRY BOWLES sworn and examined. H. Bowles.

32,839. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

32,840. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

32,841. At what time in the day?—About half-past 3.

32,842. What did you get for it?—Nothing.

32,843. You were asked for your vote earlier in the day, were you not?—I was axed for it the day before, but I could not leave my work to come after it. I was carting in the country.

32,844. You said you could not leave your work, and could not do without your day's pay?—I never axed for my day's work; I did not think about voting at all.

32,845. Unless you got your day's work?—I never axed for my day's work.

32,846. You asked a man 5*s.* first?—You cannot bring a man forward to say so.

32,847. He offered you 3*s.*?—He never offered me anything, and you cannot bring forward anyone to say so.

32,848. Did anybody offer you anything?—No, not a farthing.

32,849. Did anybody ask you for your vote?—Not the day I voted.

32,850. The day before?—Mr. Stracey did when he came round, the same as he did to other people.

32,851. Nobody but Mr. Stracey?—The gentleman who came with him; I do not know who he was; I see them when I came home at night from my work.

32,852. Why did you not vote before?—I could not come home before, I had to go twice to Drayton with my two horses.

32,853. What time did you get back?—About half-past 2, and I had my horses to take out, and gave them water and victuals, and then I went down to vote about half-past 3.

32,854. Did you not see anyone on the way to the poll?—No.

32,855. Not a soul?—No; I did not speak to a soul. I lost my card, and went to the "Bull and Butcher" and got one.

32,856. You did not ask for 5*s.* for your day's work?—No, not a farthing.

32,857. You did not get it?—No, because I did not ax for it.

32,858. You wanted it?—What did I want it for? I should have axed for it if I had wanted it.

32,859. You got no promise?—No, I did not ax.

32,860. Were you at any public-houses?—No, I had no chance of going to any public-houses, I had to go back to see after my work.

JOHN BROOKS sworn and examined. J. Brooks.

32,861. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A waterman.

32,862. Are you a new voter?—Yes.

32,863. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

32,864. Who asked you for your vote?—No one.

32,865. Had you not promised your vote?—No.

32,866. Had you told anybody how you were going to vote?—No.

32,867. When did you make up your mind to vote for Stracey?—The last day.

32,868. What hour of the last day?—Between 1 and 2.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

J. Brooks.

7 Oct. 1869.

32,869. What made you make up your mind then ?—Because I had been at work all day.

32,870. I suppose you got some beer at Hobrough's public-house ?—No.

32,871. You were there ?—I did just go in, but I had no beer.

32,872. Who took you up to the poll ?—I walked up myself.

32,873. Who asked you to go ?—No one ; I went of my own accord.

32,874. Did no one at all ask you to go up ?—No.

32,875. Do you mean to tell me you went up quite alone ?—Yes.

32,876. And got nothing for going ?—Nothing at all.

32,877. Was nothing offered you ?—No.

32,878. How long were you at Hobrough's public-house ?—Not above five minutes.

32,879. There was a good deal of drinking going on there ?—I never see none.

32,880. You know you got some of it ?—Oh no, that I did not.

32,881. Now what was it ?—Not a drop, only what I paid for.

32,882. There were a great number of you there, and you got beer, and most of you were carried up to the poll ?—I know I walked up.

32,883. Who walked up with you ?—I walked up alone.

32,884. Do you mean to tell me that you walked up alone to the poll, and you never mentioned to anybody how you were going to vote ?—No, I did not.

32,885. Did you never speak about the election to anybody ?—No.

E. Dunnell.

EDWARD DUNNELL sworn and examined.

32,886. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A milkman.

32,887. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

32,888. For whom ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

32,889. At what time in the day ?—Between 2 and 3, as near as I can tell.

32,890. Had you been canvassed before ?—Yes, I saw two or three that came down to mine a day or two before.

32,891. Had you promised ?—Yes, I said I would vote for Stracey if I voted at all. That is my principle ; I always was a Tory.

32,892. Have you voted Tory before ? — Yes, always.

32,893. Did you get anything for voting ?—No, not anything.

32,894. Or the promise of anything ?—Not anything.

32,895. Neither directly nor indirectly ?—Not anything at all.

E. T. Cockaday.

EDWARD THOMAS COCKADAY sworn and examined.

32,896. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade ?—A fitter.

32,897. Did you ever vote before ?—No.

32,898. For whom did you vote this time ?—Stracey.

32,899. At what time in the day ?—About half-past 2.

32,900. What made you so late ?—Because I was busy at home.

32,901. Were you at any public-house that day ?—No.

32,902. Had you been asked for your vote ?—No.

32,903. Had you not a card ?—Yes.

32,904. Whose card ?—Mr. Tillett's. Tillett and Russell.

32,905. Did you tell anybody how you were going to vote ?—No.

32,906. Were you not asked ?—No.

32,907. Where were you working during this day ?—At Barnard and Bishop's.

32,908. I suppose you went up with some of your fellow workmen ?—No.

32,909. Were they generally for Stracey ?—That I cannot say.

32,910. You must know something about it ?—No.

32,911. Did you get anything for your vote ?—No.

32,912. Did you get anything after the election for voting ?—No.

32,913. Did not anybody treat you with a glass of beer ?—No.

32,914. Nothing at all ?—No.

J. Sparrow.

JOHN SPARROW sworn and examined.

32,915. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

32,916. For whom ?—Stracey.

32,917. At what time in the day ?—I do not know; about a quarter or 10 minutes before 4.

32,918. What did you get for voting ?—Nothing.

32,919. Did you not get the promise of anything ?—No.

32,920. Nor anything after you had voted ?—No.

32,921. Did you see Mr. Gowing that day ?—Yes.

32,922. Did you see him just before you voted ?—Yes.

32,923. What did he give you ?—Nothing ; I never spoke to Mr. Gowing.

32,924. How came you to vote at last ?—I do not know ; I made up my mind to vote at the last of it.

32,925. Why did you not vote sooner ?—I do not know that I had any reason.

32,926. You were about doing nothing all day ?—I know I was not.

32,927. Were you waiting to see if you could get something ?—Yes.

32,928. You did not succeed ?—No.

32,929. Did you tell Gowing ?—No, I never spoke to Gowing.

32,930. Did you tell anybody ?—No.

32,931. Where were you looking out for this ?—I was at Mr. Tupman's part of the day.

32,932. Where is that ? — At the "Exhibition" tavern.

32,933. Were there any other men waiting there too ?—Yes, there were three or four waiting there.

32,934. Waiting to see what they could get ?—I do not know what they were waiting for.

32,935. They waited as you waited ?—Yes.

32,936. Did anybody stand beer there that day ?—No.

32,937. Nothing ?—No, I had not a drop of beer, only what I paid for myself.

32,938. Nothing before or after you voted ?—No.

32,939. How came you to vote without money ?—I made up my mind to vote for Stracey.

32,940. As you could not get money you made up your mind to vote for Stracey ?—Yes.

H. Dawson.

HOLMES DAWSON sworn and examined.

32,941. What are you by trade ?—A hotpresser.

32,942. Is this your first time of voting ?—Yes.

32,943. For whom did you vote ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

32,944. At what time in the day ?—I called in as I came from dinner, about half-past 2, I should think.

32,945. What did you do after that ?—I went into the market ; I did not go to work after dinner.

32,946. What had you been doing in the morning?—I was at work.

32,947. Did you promise your vote before the day?—No.

32,948. Were you not asked for it?—No.

32,949. Not at all?—No.

32,950. Did you not get any card?—Yes, I got a card two or three days before.

32,951. Whose card?—Sir Henry Stracey's.

32,952. Have you had anything since for voting?—No.

32,953. Are you quite sure of that?—Yes, quite sure.

32,954. You were not even treated on the day of the poll?—I never went into a public-house at all. I never had half a pint of beer.

EDMUND CHAMBERS sworn and examined. E. Chambers.

32,955. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A cab proprietor.

32,956. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

32,957. Who canvassed you?—Not anyone.

32,958. Did you canvass anyone else?—No.

32,959. Were you not at all busy about the election?—Not at all.

32,960. Have you always voted purple and orange?—This is my maiden vote.

32,961. Do you live on the Dereham Road?—Yes, I do.

32,962. Had you a public-house at the time of the election?—No, I had not. I did live on the Dereham Road in a public-house, but I left last September twelvemonth.

32,963. Where do you live now?—On the Dereham Road.

32,964. In a house of your own?—No, in a house I occupy.

32,965. Do you carry on any other business but that of a cab proprietor?—No.

32,966. Did you make your men vote either one way or the other?—No, I did not, not one.

32,967. You did not canvass them?—No.

32,968. Did any money go through your hands to induce other people to vote?—No.

32,969. I do not suppose you got anything yourself?—No, I did not.

32,970. Did you treat anybody for voting at this election?—No, I did not.

WILLIAM CABLE sworn and examined. W. Cable.

32,971. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A fitter.

32,972. Do you live in Paradise Road?—At a time previous to the election I lived in Ber Street, but at the time of the election I lived in Paradise Place.

32,973. Did you vote?—Yes, I did.

32,974. At what time in the day?—About half-past 3.

32,975. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

32,976. Or the promise of anything?—Well, as regards the promise, I was in Mr. Larkman's in the afternoon. There was a great many more there besides me, waiting like me to see what they could get, and Mr. Larkman said all them that voted for Mr. Stracey, he did not know whether he could get them anything, but if he could he would.

32,977. Five shillings was the sum named, was it not?—No, I never heard no sum named; I would swear that.

32,978. He said if he could get anything for you he would?—Yes; them that voted for Stracey, if he could get anything for them he would.

32,979. It was getting on then for 4 o'clock, I suppose?—Half-past 3.

32,980. You thought that was better than nothing?—I did not get nothing. If I could have got it I should have taken it.

32,981. That induced you to go and vote?—I intended to vote for Stracey, and I thought after hanging about instead of being at work, as I ought to have been, if I could have got anything I would take it.

32,982. You wanted to take it from Larkman if you could get it?—Yes.

32,983. You found a difficulty about that?—I could not get it.

32,984. He would not part?—He said if he got anything he should give it to me, but he could not get anything.

32,985. You asked him afterwards?—I went the next night and asked him if he had got anything, and he said, "No," he could not get anything, and that is all I could get out of him.

32,986. How many more men were there there?—There was a great many more.

32,987. They all went up, I suppose, upon the same representation?—I never saw anyone go up; I believe they did.

32,988. We have got the names of one or two. Give me the names of those that you recollect?—There were a great many; I do not know more than two or three. I saw a man there of the name of John Brown, and I saw a man of the name of Preston.

32,989. Where does he live?—He lives in Mill Street, Lakenham; and I saw a man of the name of Larkman. That is all I know.

32,990. Do you mean the man who was making the promise?—I beg your pardon, I mean a man of the name of Larker.

32,991. Where does he live?—Somewhere by Scoles Green, or somewhere that way.

32,992. Is he a neighbour of yours?—He is no neighbour of mine.

32,993. I thought you were living there?—I was living there. He keeps a shop somewhere that way.

JOHN BROWNE sworn and examined. J. Browne.

32,994. (Mr. Mansfield.) You are a new voter, are you not?—Yes.

32,995. You voted this time for Stracey, did you not?—Yes.

32,996. Do you recollect being at Larkman's public-house?—Yes.

32,997. There were a good many other people down there too, were there not?—Yes.

32,998. You were all waiting for what you could get?—Yes.

32,999. I think Larkman said if any money was going he would give you 5*s.* apiece?—No.

33,000. How much?—He said he would try and see what he could get for us, he did not say how much, but he said he would try and get something.

33,001. He said if you went to the poll and voted for Stracey he would do what he could for you?—Yes.

33,002. And you polled your vote?—I did not get nothing.

33,003. You polled your vote because you thought you would?—I was in good hopes I should be getting something, but I got nothing.

33,004. Have you had anything since?—No, I went and asked him, but there was nothing for me.

33,005. Did he not even give you any beer there?—No; only those that were in there asked me to drink with them, there was no beer given.

33,006. Was there no beer stood all round?—No, only what those that were there asked me to drink.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

7 Oct. 1869.

JOHN HARRISON sworn and examined.

J. Harrison.

33,007. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

33,008. At what time?—About 12 o'clock. I went in the morning but could not get in, and so I went to work again and thought I would go at a better opportunity.

33,009. Was it for Stracey you voted?—Yes, I voted for Stracey.

33,010. Had there not been Liberal colours about your house ?—No, I had no colours, but I had papers. On account of Mr. Harvey coming forward I thought I would sign my name to Mr. Harvey's list. Mr. Harvey did not come forward, and no doubt that list was sent to Sir Henry Stracey, and I received a letter from Mr. Stracey. There (producing some letters) are the letters I received from the committee, and this one is from Mr. Stracey himself.

33,011. What has this got to do with Mr. Harvey ?—It has nothing to do with Mr. Harvey ; they made a sort of canvass for Mr. Harvey in order to see whether he would be brought forward, and I signed my name to Mr. Harvey's list to make one if he should come forward, and after that I received that letter from Mr. Stracey. No doubt the list that Mr. Harvey had was sent to Mr. Stracey.

33,012. Why did you vote for Stracey ; I do not want to know about Harvey ?—As I had promised Mr. Harvey I thought I would not alter my colour again, and so I voted for Mr. Stracey.

33,013. Did you get anything for doing it ?—Nothing in the world.

33,014. Nothing from Cunnington ?—Nothing at all from anyone, nothing in the world.

33,015. Nor the promise of anything ?—No, nor yet a drop of beer. Nothing in the world ; I was never promised anything.

J. Boyden.

JAMES BOYDEN sworn and examined.

33,016. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a new voter ?—Yes.

33,017. What are you by trade ?—A gardener.

33,018. For whom did you vote this time ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

33,019. At what time ?—I cannot tell you exactly. I was busy at work and could not get away.

33,020. Where were you busy ?—In my garden.

33,021. Had you been about the town at all ?—No.

33,022. Did you vote more than once ?—No.

33,023. Are you quite certain you did not vote close upon 4 o'clock ?—I cannot say exactly what time it was ; I tell you I was busy, and I had to get away as soon as I could. I think it was somewhere between 3 and 4 o'clock.

33,024. What did you get for it ?—Nothing at all.

33,025. Did you not try ?—No, I did not.

33,026. You knew there was money going, did you not ?—No, I did not.

33,027. You heard something about it ?—No, I did not.

33,028. Were you making inquiries where money was to be had ?—No, I did not want any such thing.

33,029. Did you not want your day's work paid for you ?—No, I did not.

33,030. Have you had nothing since ?—No, I have neither seen money nor beer.

33,031. You expected to get some, did you not ?—No.

33,032. There were a good many other people getting money ?—I cannot help that ; I never received a farthing.

33,033. Did you not try to get some ?—No.

33,034. You would have been glad to have got it if you could ?—I tell you what, perhaps I might have, like the others, but I never received a farthing.

33,035. You would have been glad enough to get 5*s.* ?—I did not.

33,036. You would have been glad enough to get it the same as the rest ?—But I did not receive anything, I take my oath of it.

33,037. You are certain you only voted once ?—Yes.

33,038. Is there anybody else in the city of the same name ?—There is some other people of the same name, but I have not been in the city many years.

33,039. You had two cards sent you ?—I had three or four.

33,040. Voting cards ?—I had three or four, but I flung them out.

D. Beck.

DANIEL BECK sworn and examined.

33,041. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election ?—No.

33,042. How was that ?—When I went down to the poll I could not get near it, and then I went after a little deal for my livelihood, and then I went back again and the books were closed.

33,043. You were at Mackley's, the "Woolpack," were you not, during the whole day ?—No, at the "Marquis of Granby." I live next door to it ; I was up here five weeks to-morrow.

33,044. Were you fetched and brought to the "Marquis of Granby ?"—Yes, to meet Mr. Womersley.

33,045. Did you hear something about a pound apiece ?—No, I never heard nothing at all about no money.

33,046. Were you not told what you were wanted for ?—He said no doubt it would be right.

33,047. However you did not get anything ?—No.

33,048. And never voted ?—No.

33,049. Of course you would have taken anything if you could have got it ?—Of course I should, but I was never offered none, and never asked for none.

W. Whisker.

WILLIAM WHISKER sworn and examined.

33,050. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade ?—A basket maker.

33,051. For whom did you vote ?—I voted for Mr. Stracey.

33,052. At what time in the day ?—I think it was about 1 o'clock, or something about that time, as near as I can judge ; it was past 12 I know.

33,053. What did you get for voting ?—Nothing at all.

33,054. Did you not try to get something ?—No, I never asked and never tried.

33,055. Did anybody ask you to vote ?—No.

33,056. Did anybody go up to the poll with you ?—Not that I recollect, I do not remember going with anybody.

33,057. Have you had any money since ?—No.

33,058. Did you get any beer that day ?—No, nothing, or the promise of anything, no beer or nothing, only what I paid for myself.

33,059. Did you not try to get some beer ?—No.

33,060. Did you not know where to go for it ?—I never heard of any being given, and I would not believe there was any given, not until I heard of it afterwards.

33,061. Is this the first time you voted ?—No, I have voted 50 years back, and more ; I am a freeman.

33,062. You used to get money for it ?—No.

33,063. Did you never get any money for voting before ?—No, only just after the members had sat, as at present.

WILLIAM QUANTRILL sworn and examined. W. Quantrill.

33,064. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a staff sergeant in the militia.

33,065. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

33,066. For Stracey?—Yes.

33,067. At what time in the day?—From 3 to half-past.

33,068. Why did you not vote earlier?—I thought it was time enough when I was going out in the evening.

33,069. You had been canvassed?—No.

33,070. You had not promised your vote?—No.

33,071. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

33,072. Or the promise of anything?—No.

33,073. Or anything after you had voted?—No.

WILLIAM BRASNETT sworn and examined. W. Brasnett.

33,074. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A coal merchant.

33,075. Are you a new voter?—For the city I am.

33,076. For whom did you vote?—Stracey.

33,077. What did you get for it?—I never see anything yet, and I never had the promise of anything.

33,078. You were at the "Woolpack"?—I have been in in my time, but not that day.

33,079. That day you were at the "Woolpack," were you not?—No.

33,080. You got some money for your vote?—No.

33,081. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You know Hardiment?—Yes; I never saw Hardiment that day.

33,082. Hardiment gave you some money for voting?—No, certainly not.

33,083. Did you see him afterwards?—No.

33,084. Have you not asked him for something?—No.

33,085. Will you swear you never got anything for voting?—I will take my oath of it, not a halfpenny.

33,086. Did you not get some beer given you that day?—No.

33,087. Where were you that afternoon?—I voted at 10 o'clock in the morning.

33,088. And you say nothing has been promised you for your vote?—No, certainly not.

ROBERT SMITH sworn and examined. R. Smith.

33,089. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote for Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

33,090. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

33,091. Had you been canvassed?—No.

33,092. Why did not you vote sooner than that?—I had business to attend to. I might have voted sooner, but I did not think anything about it. I thought if I voted within the polling time that would be time enough.

33,093. What were you doing during the day?—I am a general shopkeeper.

33,094. Did you get anything from a man of the name of Sparrow for voting?—No.

33,095. Or from anybody else?—No.

33,096. Or the promise of anything?—No, not a farthing.

SAMUEL FORSTER sworn and examined. S Forster.

33,097. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A shopkeeper; I keep a general shop in the parish of Pockthorpe.

33,098. Are you a new voter?—No, I have had a vote for this 20 or 30 years.

33,199. Which side have you always voted?—I voted for Stracey this time.

33,100. Have you always voted Tory?—No, not always.

33,101. You have gone backwards and forwards?—Well, I have not always voted a Tory.

33,102. At what time did you vote?—Not until the afternoon.

33,103. Had you been asked for your vote?—Yes.

33,104. Had you promised your vote?—No, not particularly.

33,105. You kept it open until the last moment?—I was not well that day, and I did not think about going to vote at all; I only voted to oblige a party.

33,106. You did not make up your mind until late?—No, not until I was asked by a friend.

33,107. Did you get anything for it?—No.

33,108. Come, how much did you get?—I never thought of such a thing.

33,109. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You never thought of such a thing, perhaps, but you got it, which is better than thinking?—No, I never took a farthing of money, and never asked for it, and no one ever offered it to me in no shape whatever. I gave a regular free vote.

33,110. (Mr. Mansfield.) Was it not 2*s.* and a pot of beer?—No, that it was not.

33,111. Will you swear nothing has been given you since?—Yes, I never asked for it.

33,112. Has anything been given you since?—No, not anything.

33,113. Have you ever asked for anything since?—I never was asked for anything, and I never asked for anything.

33,114. Have you ever been paid before at other elections?—I might have taken something when I voted for Mr. Springfield, some years ago; he always gave me half a crown for my trouble to go and vote for him.

33,115. How much would have satisfied you this time?—I did not ask for anything, and I did not think of getting anything.

33,116. You would have been very glad to get it?—No, I did not care about it.

33,117. You would not have refused it if you had had the chance?—I don't know that I should not, because I might have thought I should get into tronble about it, so I do not think I should have taken it if it had been offered to me; I am not in want of a piece of bread so much that I should take half a crown.

33,118. Suppose a sovereign had been offered to you?—I don't know what a pound would have done. I am very fond of a glass of ale.

THOMAS STAMP sworn and examined. T. Stamp.

33,119. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A master bricklayer.

33,120. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

33,121. For whom?—For Tillett and Russell.

33,122. What time in the day was that?—I think about half-past 9; I went up before that, but could not get to the poll.

33,123. Did you get anything for your vote?—No, certainly not.

33,124. Or the promise of anything?—No, certainly not.

33,125. After you had voted did you go about the city at all?—No.

33,126. Were you at the "Ship" in Cowgate Street on the day of the election?—No, I have never been into the house.

33,127. Were you at a beerhouse kept by Thomas Warnes?—No; I was at the Lecture Hall the chief of the day.

33,128. Do you live near Barrack Street, in Pockthorpe?—Yes.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

T. Stamp.

7 Oct. 1869.

33,129. Did you go to any public-houses at all that day ?—No, I never went into a public-house.

33,130. Did you see Inspector Clarke that day ?—No.

33,131. Or Doctor Allen ?—No, certainly not.

33,132. You did not see them at all in the course of the day ?—No.

33,133. Did you hear of any treating that day ?—No, I heard of what was going on at the "Ship" and different places, but I never saw it, because I did not go myself; I only heard what people came to the hall and told me.

33,134. Who told you about the "Ship" ?—I don't know now ; I went and stated it to other people at the office. Personally I never saw anything, I was at the Lecture Hall.

G. Moore.

GEORGE MOORE sworn and examined.

33,135. (Mr. Mansfield.) You keep a public-house?—Yes.

33,136. In Barrack Street ?—Yes.

33,137. Do you recollect on the day of the poll there being a great number of persons in your house ?—There were several folks in there.

33,138. Principally voters ?—Some of them were.

33,139. There was a good deal of drinking going on ?—No, not much of that.

33,140. There were some who came down to pay for that beer ?—No, certainly not.

33,141. Do you mean to say that all the people who were there paid for their own beer ?—Some of them paid for it, and the rest I spent myself.

33,142. How much did you spend ?—I cannot say.

33,143. Was it 10*s.* ?—I don't know that it was so much, it might be as much as that, or perhaps a little more.

33,144. That you spent in treating these men ?—Yes.

33,145. And I suppose they went and voted for Stracey afterwards ?—Not that I know of.

33,146. Why did you treat them ?—I often do so ; it cost me more than 10*s.* yesterday.

33,147. You do not mean to say that you spend 10*s.* a day upon your customers ?—Not particularly upon my customers, they come in and go out again ; I spent more than 10*s.* yesterday.

33,148. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) The question is whether we can believe you.

33,149. (Mr. Biron.) You must remember that would be 180*l.* a year ?—I don't do it every day.

33,150. (Mr. Mansfield.) How many days do you do it ?—I cannot say ; I spend 10*s.* a day some days.

33,151. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Now be careful, or you may find yourself in a place where you cannot treat yourself or others.—What I tell you is the truth.

33,152. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you mean to tell me that on this election day you spent 10*s.*, except for the purpose of getting these men to go and vote ?—I say I did not.

33,153. Then what did you do it for ?—What did I do it for ? Why did I spend 10*s.* yesterday ?

33,154. Do you mean to say you spent 10*s.* in your house yesterday ?—Yes, I did.

33,155. You are not to be believed.—I am upon my oath, and I swear to it.

33,156. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What object could you have ?—I make no doubt but what you have been tight more than once in your lifetime ; I did not give it away for any purposes at all ; if I spent a shilling or two I did not spend it for any purpose.

33,157. Who gave it to you ?—I earned it and worked for it.

33,158. Why did you give it away ?—Why do other people do things ?

33,159. You had better stand down and come again to-morrow morning, and consider the matter in the meantime, because we may be obliged to find you lodgings in a very uncomfortable place.—What I tell you is the truth.

J. Ames.

JAMES AMES sworn and examined.

33,160. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A labourer.

33,161. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

33,162. For Stracey ?—Yes.

33,163. What time in the day ?—Near 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

33,164. Why did you not vote before that ?—As soon as I leave off my work my pay stops, I get nothing for the day if I leave off.

33,165. You worked as long as you could ?—Yes, until I had done my 3 o'clock draw at the gasworks, then I left off.

33,166. Did you get anything ?—No.

33,167. Or the promise of anything ? — No, nothing.

33,168. We know that one or two of your men did ?—That has nothing to do with me.

33,169. Had you promised to vote for Stracey ?—No, I went and voted of my free goodwill.

S. Balls.

STEPHEN BALLS sworn and examined.

33,170. (Mr. Mansfield.) Is this your first time of voting ?—No.

33,171. Have you always voted Tory before ?—Yes, I have.

33,172. For the last 10 or 12 years ?—Not so long as that.

33,173. I think you have been rather a busy person at these elections in the city ?—Yes, I have.

33,174. You were busy in canvassing this time ?—Yes.

33,175. What parts of the city did you canvass ?—My own parish and the adjoining parishes, Pockthorpe and St. James'.

33,176. On the day of the poll you were getting people up to vote ?—Yes, I was.

33,177. You took them up yourself ?—Yes, the fore part of the day.

33,178. In considerable numbers ?—Well, I cannot say considerable numbers.

33,179. How many do you suppose you took up in the course of the morning, 20, 30, or 40 ?—If you will allow me I will explain. I was stationed or I took up a position so that while other parties were taking of them up, they had to pass me to get to the poll.

33,180. From what public-houses did you get them ?—I never went to any public-houses, only one, the "Anchor," in Silver Road.

33,181. I suppose you got some out of there ?—Yes, I did so.

33,182. I suppose you got them to move by treating them to a little beer ?—No.

33,183. Not a drop ?—No.

33,184. You know that class of men do not vote without a little encouragement ? — I know I was asked, but I never spent a farthing until after the election.

33,185. What did you spend then ?—I cannot say ; I might limit, it, perhaps, to under a pound.

33,186. I suppose that was in payment of scores for men that had been treated ?—It was for electors that had voted on the Conservative side ; they met and I treated them, and the landlord treated them, whose evidence you have, who supplied a small portion of it; but I know from the first instant that there was no treating wanted.

33,187. These were men that you had canvassed ?—Yes, the canvass was so good that I did not think there was any treating required.

33,188. Somebody told them to meet you afterwards ?—No, I don't think so, because I am certain that the gentleman who canvassed with me would not do such a thing as that.

33,189. It is very odd that you should light upon these people when you had money in your pocket and they were thirsty, and they should drink to celebrate the victory. — The public-house that I spent this little money at was very close to my own dwelling house.

33,190. You thought it better to have the voters there than in your own place?—Mine was a private house, so I could not take them there.

33,191. Altogether you spent about 1*l.*?—Something under 1*l.*, but the canvass was so good that I was certain there was nothing required.

33,192. Is that all the money you spent with reference to this election?—Yes.

33,193. Had you promised anything in the way of money?—No.

33,194. Had you offered no consideration?—No.

33,195. Were you entrusted with any money to put about?—No, not at this election.

33,196. Not by anyone?—No.

33,197. Have you had anything to do with bribing and treating at former elections?—Yes, I have.

33,198. What have you done then?—Spent all the money that I was entrusted with, and more.

33,199. I don't accuse you of retaining any, as some people do.—I spent a small sum over the sum I was entrusted with, 30*s.*, and that I never got from that day to this.

33,200. Was that at Waters' election?—Yes.

33,201. How much were you entrusted with then?—70*l.*

33,202. I suppose the price in those days got up a good many voters. How many do you suppose you got up?—35 or 36; I would not swear to one or two; it was over 30 and under 40.

33,203. That would be over 2*l.* apiece?—Yes, I think you might take it on the average at 50*s.*

33,204. Who gave you that money?—Mr. Kitton, I had it through him.

33,205. Do you know where it came from?—From Mr. Kitton.

33,206. Who handed it to you?—I sent a messenger to the committee room. Mr. Kitton saw me two or three days before the election, or it might be only the day before the election, and he asked me whether I could depend on the parties that were round me, and I said, "Well, sir, if I am to be mixed up in any "electioneering matters I should not depend upon any "man." I says, "Is it a monetary affair?" and he says, "Yes;" and I says, "Then I should like to have it "direct myself, and I can distribute it," and I did so. We had a committee room in my parish, and I don't think I went out of the committee room that day. There were six or seven of us in this committee, and the other parties spent the money; they told me, and I had the names of each party that received the money on two of my address cards, and I have tried all I could to find the card, but I cannot. If I could have found them I would have produced them.

33,207. Do you know the names of the persons who worked under you? — Yes; Fletcher, Buller, he is dead, and Pilcher, he is dead.

33,208. They all die. — No, not all, only two, I believe. Then there was Waller, Minns, and myself, I think that is six.

33,209. Do you know where the survivors live?—Yes, all of them. Fletcher lives in Silver Road, Minns keeps a public-house by the sign of the "Jolly Hatters," and I think Waller lives in Pockthorpe Street; myself would make the fourth, and the two who are dead the six.

33,210. Was that the only time you had money to work the election with?—Yes.

33,211. Do you know the names of any other gentlemen who got money from Kitton for this purpose at that time?—No.

33,212. You cannot recollect any?—I don't believe any persons in my parish and the adjoining parish got any money from Kitton. I believe all the money Mr. Kitton furnished I received.

33,213. You don't know what Mr. Kitton did in the other districts of the city?—No.

33,214. At this election do you know of any money going on the Conservative side?—I do not; I have told you before that the canvass was so good that we did not think any was required.

33,215. In your district?—In the two parishes.

33,216. Did you hear of anything being organised in other parts of the town for the purposes of bribery?—No; I was one of the seventh ward Conservative association; I was to keep in my parish and the adjoining parish; the two parishes of Pockthorpe and St. James' were amalgamated, and I never went out of those parishes until after the election was over.

33,217. You say your canvass was very good in your district; I suppose there were a great number of people whom you knew very well, who were hanging out for money?—I am sure that I and Mr. Edward Stracey canvassed 322, and we got 162 promises, the other 160 were put on the other side of the canvass book with the doubtful ones, although we knew that many of them would vote Conservative.

33,218. Amongst those doubtful ones I suppose there were a large number whom you knew would not poll unless they had their day's wages, or something?—I think most likely they would not; of course there are some on all occasions that will not come up, but in the canvass of the two parishes we had not above eight persons who told us they would vote on the other side.

33,219. Have you any notion from your experience of canvassing in your district what per-centage of people there would be who would not vote without inducement?—I could not tell you unless I ran over the canvass book, and I have that in my pocket.

33,220. Would there be 10 or 15 out of 100?—Ten per cent. would be very few.

33,221. There would be at least that, according to what we have heard of Pockthorpe?—No, not Pockthorpe, because the only man whom you have complimented is a Pockthorpe man.

33,222. Who is he?—Mr. Fletcher, the gentleman that was with me.

33,223. Is that all you can tell us with regard to the last election?—Yes, it is, so far as my memory serves me, but if any question suggests itself to you I will answer it.

33,224. Did you hear about 2 o'clock on the day of the poll that money was going?—No.

33,225. When did you first hear of it?—I never heard of it, and had no idea that such a thing was. I tell you candidly, on the morning of the election certain parties appeared in Pockthorpe, who it is believed stopped many voters from going to vote early; in fact certain parties that had promised me they would go and vote early in the morning came and told me there was money going, and they should not. I asked them their authority, and they said, "Well, so and so "is the case, I have seen two gentlemen driving "about here." I says, "You can depend upon it "they have got no money, because I am certain they "are not recognised by the committee of this ward."

33,226. People might tell you that in hopes of your opening your purse?—I being on the committee knew they were not recognised by the committee.

WILLIAM NORTH sworn and examined. W. North.

33,227. (Mr. Biron) What are you?—A plasterer.

33,228. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

33,229. For whom?—Stracey.

33,230. At what time in the day?—About 11 o'clock, as near as I can say, but I cannot say to half an hour.

33,231. Did you get anything for it?—No, certainly not.

33,232. Or the promise of anything?—No, certainly not.

33,233. After you had voted yourself what did you do?—I went after my business.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

W. North.

7 Oct. 1869.

33,234. Did you not go to look after voters?—No, certainly not.

33,235. Did you go straight back to your business?—When I say straight back, my business lays all over the city.

33,236. Did you try to pick up voters?—No, certainly not.

33,237. Did you do anything to induce any person to go to the poll?—Not that I am aware of, in any shape or form.

33,238. Did you neither give money nor beer?—No, certainly not.

33,239. Did you give anything directly or indirectly which induced any person to go and poll?—No, certainly not.

A. Risdale.

ALFRED RISDALE sworn and examined.

33,240. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a new voter?—Yes.

33,241. What are you by trade?—I am a shopkeeper in Silver Road.

33,242. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

33,243. At what time in the day?—At half-past 3.

33,244. What made you vote so late?—I was busy at home.

33,245. Had you ever promised your vote?—No.

33,246. Had you been canvassed?—Yes.

33,247. By whom?—By Mr. Balls and young Mr. Stracey.

33,248. Did you not tell them how you were going to vote?—I told Mr. Stracey if I should vote at all I should vote for his father.

33,249. How was it you could not give a more distinct answer than that?—I knew I had a vote.

33,250. Did you not want to vote?—I intended to vote.

33,251. You said if you voted at all you would vote for him?—I said I should vote for his father.

33,252. Was any promise made to you?—No, not any at all.

33,253. Nothing was given to you then, nor since?—No, nothing at all.

33,254. Did anybody give you a glass of beer?—No.

H. Brock.

HENRY BROCK sworn and examined.

33,255. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote for Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

33,256. At what time in the day?—I think it was a trifle after 3.

33,257. Why did you not vote earlier?—I was rather busy that day.

33,258. What at?—I was at shop. I keep a shop, and that being near the polling place I had a great deal of business to attend to that day.

33,259. What is your shop?—A general shop, grocery, fish, and all manner of things, tobacco and cigars, &c.

33,260. Did you get anything for voting?—Yes; at least when I say for voting I met a man at the top of the hill, and he asked me who I intended to vote for, and I said Sir Henry Stracey, and he asked me if I knew any more who would vote, and I said I thought I did. I went to two or three more and he gave me half a sovereign, and agreed with two others to give one 7*s.* 6*d.*, and the other 5*s.*

33,261. Who was to get the 7*s.* 6*d.*?—Lincoln.

33,262. Where does he live?—On Grapes Hill.

33,263. What was the name of the other man?—Charles Chenery.

33,264. Where does he live?—In Clement's Court, I think it is.

33,265. Who was the man?—His name is Read, a harness maker.

33,266. Where is his shop?—He lives at the back of St. Peter's. He used to have his shop in Lamb Yard, but I think he has turned that up now and works at home.

33,267. At his dwelling house?—Yes.

33,268. Do you know anybody else who got money?—No, I do not know anybody else.

33,269. Did you send any more men?—No, I did not send any more, nor yet did I speak to any more.

33,270. Is that all you know about bribery?—Yes.

33,271. Did you see any treating that day?—No, I saw no treating. I never drank anything myself that day until after the election. I think I had one glass of stout, which is all I had during the day, and that I paid for myself.

E. Thompson.

EDWARD THOMPSON sworn and examined.

33,272. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A shoemaker and lodging-house keeper.

33,273. Was this your first time of voting?—No, my second time.

33,274. For whom did you vote before?—Mr. Waters.

33,275. You voted for Mr. Stracey this time?—Yes.

33,276. At what time?—Between 3 and 4 o'clock.

33,277. What made you vote so late?—Because I was looking out to see if I could get some money.

33,278. Were you very busy at this election?—No.

33,279. Did you not take any part in canvassing?—No.

33,280. Did you not ask anyone to go and vote?—No.

33,281. Did you take anyone to the poll?—No.

33,282. Did you treat anyone?—No.

33,283. Did you promise money to anyone?—No.

33,284. Have you paid any money to anybody since, in connexion with the election?—No.

33,285. Did you get anything yourself?—Yes.

33,286. What?—Three halfcrowns.

33,287. For voting?—Yes, Mr. Townsend told you he gave me three halfcrowns.

33,288. Did you get the same at Waters' election?—No.

33,289. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What did you get at Waters' election?—Nothing.

33,290. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you vote gratis?—Yes.

J. Perowne.

JAMES PEROWNE sworn and examined.

33,291. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A general shopkeeper.

33,292. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

33,293. For whom?—Stracey.

33,294. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

33,295. Why did you not vote earlier?—Because my business kept me away from it.

33,296. What were you at all day?—I was at home part of the day, and the other part I was about.

33,297. About the city?—Yes.

33,298. Why did you not vote then?—Because I thought it was possible there might be something given away, and I thought I would take it if there was.

33,299. Did you not get anything?—No.

33,300. Or the promise of anything?—No.

33,301. Were you at any public-house that afternoon?—Yes.

33,302. Where?—The "Lily."

33,303. Who keeps that?—Mr. Young.

33,304. Were there many men there?—Yes.

33,305. Waiting, I suppose?—I do not know, I was.

33,306. You do not know whether they had voted or not?—No, I do not.

33,307. Did anybody stand any beer there?—No, not at the time I was there.

33,308. I suppose when you found there was nothing going you went and voted according to your fancy?—Yes.

GEORGE LAUNDER sworn and examined. G. Launder.

33,309. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A wardrobe dealer.

33,310. For whom did you vote this time?—Sir Henry Stracey.

33,311. What did you get for it?—Nothing.

33,312. What made you vote so late?—I thought about getting something, but I did not get anything.

33,313. You tried, I suppose?—Yes.

33,314. You could not hear of anything going that was worth your acceptance?—No, I never heard of nothing, nor yet see nothing.

33,315. How much did you want?—I would have taken a sovereign if I could have got it, but I had none offered to me at all.

33,316. Did not John Sparrow try to put you in the way of getting something?—He voted with me.

33,317. Did he not offer you something?—No, nothing at all.

33,318. At what public-houses were you during the day?—I was at several.

33,319. I suppose you got a little of the Tory beer?—I never got a drop, only what I paid for myself.

33,320. Did you not go to any of the houses where there was beer going?—Not that I know of.

33,321. I suppose you were looking after that too?—I never had any offered to me.

33,322. Did you not hear where there was beer going?—No.

33,323. Did not any of your Tory friends treat you to a glass?—Not one. I only had what I paid for myself.

JOHN WORLEDGE sworn and examined. J. Worledge.

33,324. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A fish merchant.

33,325. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

33,326. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

33,327. At what time in the day?—About half-past 3 it might be.

33,328. Did you get anything?—No, and did not want anything.

33,329. Did you not get anything from Cubitt?—No.

33,330. You were about with Cubitt the greater part of the day?—No.

33,331. Were you not about at all with Cubitt?—No.

33,332. Were you not in Cubitt's company on the day of the election?—No, I was in Yarmouth on the day of the election.

33,333. Did Cubitt come to you at all on the day of the election?—No.

33,334. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You may have been at Yarmouth, and you may have come back again?—Yes, I did come back again by 3 o'clock train on purpose to vote.

33,335. (Mr. Biron.) What is the sign of your public?—The "Fellmongers' Arms."

33,336. Have you got a brother Walter?—Yes.

CHARLES SIDNEY sworn and examined. C. Sidney.

33,337. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A waterman.

33,338. Do you recollect on the day of the election being at Hobrough's public-house?—Yes.

33,339. You got a good deal of beer there?—Not any, only what I paid for.

33,340. There was a good deal of beer being stood there for the voters, you recollect that?—No.

33,341. Who took you up to the poll?—I do not know. I live close to the poll where I went.

33,342. At what hour did you poll?—Between 1 and 2.

33,343. Who went up with you?—A young man that has gone to America. I went up with Thirkettle.

33,344. What did he give you?—Nothing at all.

33,345. Did you get nothing at all that day?—Nothing but a pint of beer I bought myself.

33,346. Did you go up with Clarke to the poll?—No.

33,347. Did you see Self that day?—No.

33,348. Was that Inspector Clarke's son that you went with?—No.

33,349. You are sure of that?—I do not know him.

33,350. He is a young man that has gone to America?—His name was Thirkettle, the young man that I went up to vote with.

33,351. Did you not go up to the poll with a man of the name of Leander Brown?—No.

33,352. Did you see him that day?—I might see him.

33,353. Did you not get something for your vote?—No, not a drop of beer.

33,354. Were you paid any money afterwards?—Never a halfpenny.

33,355. You were all day at Mr. Hobrough's public-house?—I work for Mr. Hobrough.

33,356. I suppose he asked you to vote, did he not?—No, not a bit of it, no more than anything else.

33,357. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes, I am.

33,358. Who did ask you to vote?—Not anybody.

33,359. Did you never promise your vote?—Never in my life. I never voted before, and do not know what voting is much.

33,360. Did you not promise this time?—No, not to anybody. I do not know what voting is hardly.

33,361. You never talked about voting?—No.

33,362. Not to anyone?—No.

33,363. Not to the man with whom you went up to the poll?—I do not know about that.

33,364. Did you not tell anybody you were going to vote for Stracey?—No.

THOMAS CLARKSON sworn and examined. T. Clarkson.

33,365. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A pavior.

33,366. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

33,367. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

33,368. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4 o'clock.

33,369. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

33,370. Or the promise of anything?—No; my occupation would not allow me to go before, because I had got the street partly up, and was obliged to fill it in before I could leave.

33,371. Had you promised your vote?—No, I was never solicited, not by either party.

33,372. You went and voted when you could leave your work?—Yes.

JACOB YOUNGS sworn and examined. J. Youngs.

33,373. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A merchant's clerk.

33,374. Is this your first time of voting?—Yes.

33,375. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

33,376. Did you promise your vote?—No, I was not at home when they called.

33,377. Have you had anything given you for your vote?—No.

33,378. Do you keep a public-house?—Yes.

33,379. Did you take any busy part in this election yourself?—Yes.

33,380. I suppose there were voters at your public house?—Yes, lots of them.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

J. Youngs.

7 Oct. 1869.

33,381. All day?—Oh yes.

33,382. I suppose there was a good deal of drinking going on there the whole day?—Yes, of course there was.

33,383. Did you see a man of the name of Waites there?—Yes.

33,384. Was he taking up voters?—No.

33,385. Was he talking to them?—He might have been.

33,386. Do you not think he was?—I think it is very likely, but I do not know. I was very busy and I could not look to everybody.

33,387. Have you received anything since for beer supplied by you on that day?—No, nothing.

33,388. Did you receive anything on the day of the poll?—No.

33,389. Beyond the beer supplied to persons who paid for their own?—No, nothing.

33,390. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) There was treating going on?—Not in my house.

33,391. Some people paid for other persons' beer?—They might have done so.

33,392. Do you not know that Waites was there trying to bargain with the voters?—I did not know of it.

33,393. What was he doing?—I cannot say.

33,394. You knew very well what he was at?—No, I was behind my bar attending to my customers.

33,395. Was Waites sitting quietly by himself drinking?—No, he was in and out three or four times.

33,396. He was busying himself with the voters?—I think it is very likely.

33,397. I suppose they were a class of men who were waiting for something?—I do not know.

33,398. You could tell pretty well from their manner and appearance?—I do not know. You must recollect that my public-house is next door to the polling booth, and of course there were a great number of people in during the day, and I could not tell who they were.

33,399. A great number of them were Stracey's people?—No; I got more support from the opposite side than I did from the Stracey people.

33,400. Did you treat them with beer?—I treat them?

33,401. Yes, the opposite side?—No, I treated no one.

33,402. Did you see a person of the name of Isaac Daynes that day?—I believe there was a Daynes there, but whether his name was Isaac or not I would not be certain.

33,403. You know Samuel Daynes?—Do you mean of St. Stephen Street?

33,404. Yes.—The printer?

33,405. Yes.—I know him well.

33,406. Was he there that day?—No, I think not, I did not see him.

33,407. Was Isaac Daynes looking up the voters?—No, I should think not, I should not be certain whether he was there. I fancy he was, but I would not swear he was there.

33,408. Did any money go through your hands for other people?—No.

33,409. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes.

J. Dick.

JOHN DICK sworn and examined.

33,410. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A licensed victualler.

33,411. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

33,412. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

33,413. At what time in the day?—I should think about a quarter to 4.

33,414. You promised to vote for Tillett, did you not?—No.

33,415. Did you not see anybody on the morning of the polling day who asked you about voting for Tillett?—No.

33,416. Did you see a man of the name of Osborn Betts that day?—No, I do not know him at all.

33,417. Do you live at New Catton?—I do.

33,418. Are you quite clear that you do not know Betts?—I know Betts, a young fellow who used to work at the shoe warehouse at the top of the market, but I do not remember speaking to him that morning.

33,419. Do you remember asking for 5s. for some beer for voting for Tillett?—No, most decidedly not, and never had anything.

33,420. Nor the promise of anything?—No, from nobody.

33,421. Did you give anybody anything?—No.

33,422. Neither money nor beer?—Neither money nor beer.

33,423. You did not vote till a quarter to 4?—I would have polled at 8 in the morning if I could have got near. I should not have been able to poll my vote had I not got a ride up.

33,424. You could not get up in the first place?—No, I could not get near.

33,425. Who gave you a ride up?—I rode with Mr. James Dunn, they had got a voter there in the cab; and when they got to the nearest place they could not get him in that, and he says to me, "Have you voted yet?" I says, "No, I am now going;" he says, "Ride along with me," and this old gentleman when they got to the poll did not belong to the seventh ward at all, but to the first ward.

33,426. They could not poll him?—I do not know what they done with him, they left me there to poll.

C. Hall.

CHARLES HALL sworn and examined.

33,427. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—I do street jobbing.

33,428. For whom did you vote?—Stracey.

33,429. At what time in the day?—Between 10 and 11.

33,430. Had you promised your vote?—Not to anybody.

33,431. Did you get anything for your vote?—No, nothing, and never wanted anything.

33,432. Were you at any public-houses during the day?—No, I have been a Conservative for 40 years, so I do not think they would want to trouble me much.

D. Howard, jun.

DANIEL HOWARD, junior, sworn and examined.

33,433. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

33,434. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

33,435. At what time in the day?—About half-past 3.

33,436. Why did you not vote earlier than that?—My wife was ill in bed, and I could not leave my business before.

33,437. Did you get anything for it?—No.

33,438. Or the promise of anything?—No.

33,439. Did you yourself give anybody anything for voting?—No.

33,440. Neither money nor beer?—No.

J. Sexton.

JAMES SEXTON sworn and examined.

33,442. Is this your first time of voting?—Yes.

33,443. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

33,444. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—Yes.

33,445. Had you promised it?—No, I did not promise it to anyone.

33,446. I suppose you were looking out for what you could get for your vote?—No, that I was not, because I did not get anything.

33,447. You wanted something?—No.

33,448. You would have been very glad to have got it if it had been offered?—Just so.

33,449. Do you know Inspector Clarke?—I did not know him till last Sunday, when my brother-in-law showed him to me.

33,450. Did you see him at the time of the election?—No.

33,451. Are you certain you never went to him about a little money?—No, I never went to him. I never saw him till last Sunday.

33,452. Where do you live?—In Bishop Street, down by Bishop Bridge.

33,453. Do you know of any money going that day?—No.

33,454. At what public-houses were you during the day?—Not any.

33,455. Do you mean to say you were not treated?—No, not at all; I never had a glass of beer the whole day.

33,456. If you would have been glad of money I suppose you would have been glad of beer?—I had no money.

33,457. Did you not try to get some?—No, I never tried.

33,458. Have you ever had any since?—No, not a halfpenny.

33,459. Was nothing promised to you?—No, nothing whatever.

33,460. Have yon ever asked for anything?—No, I have never axed for anything.

33,461. Have you ever worked for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes, I worked for him for about a week at one time.

33,462. Not more than that?—No.

WILLIAM NEAVE sworn and examined.

W. Neave.

33,463. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

33,464. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

33,465. At what time in the day?—Half-past 3, as near as I can say.

33,466. Why did you not vote earlier than that?—I could not leave my busines.

33,467. What is your business?—A butcher and gardener.

33,468. Surely you could have gone earlier than that?—I think not.

33,469. Why not?—I could not leave my business.

33,470. Your business does not tie you by the heels so much as all that?—I had things there I was obliged to attend to.

33,471. What was that?—I had a lot of pigs by me at the time, and I was obliged to see after them.

33,472. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—Yes.

33,473. By whom?—By Mr. Straccy's son.

33,474. Did you promise to vote for him?—Yes.

33,475. When was that?—I am sure I cannot say now.

33,476. Two or three days before?—Yes.

33,477. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Was it Mr. Edward Stracey or Mr. Dudley Stracey?—I think Mr. Edward Stracey.

33,478. (Mr. Biron.) Did you get anything for voting?—No.

33,479. Or the promise of anything?—No, I was never promised anything.

33,480. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Was Hardiment with Mr. Edward Stracey when he canvassed you?—I am sure I never noticed the gentleman that was with him.

THOMAS LINCOLN NOCKOLDS sworn and examined.

T. L. Nockolds.

33,481. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—I am foreman to Mr. Hotblack.

33,482. Is this your first time of voting?—I have only voted once before in my life.

33,483. On that occasion did you vote purple and orange?—Yes.

33,484. At what time in the day did you vote upon this occasion?—A little after 3.

33,485. What made you so late?—I was at work till 1 o'clock, and I went off to dinner first.

33,486. Were you not waiting for what you could get?—No.

33,487. Did you try for something?—No.

33,488. Have you received anything?—No.

33,489. Have you given anybody else anything?—No.

33,490. Has no money passed through your hands?—No.

33,491. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes.

33,492. Were you in any public-houses that day?—Yes; I should tell you a falsehood if I were to say I was not afterwards.

33,493. At what public-house were you?—One at the top of my own street.

33,494. What other?—I was in one besides and got a glass of ale myself.

33,495. Was there some treating going on there?—I did not see any.

33,496. Did you get any beer given you?—No, not a glass.

33,497. Did you not try to get some?—No, I did not want it. I pay for my own.

33,498. I suppose you would have taken some beer if you could have got it?—Upon the election job?

33,499. Yes.—I did not want it; I had got some money in my own pocket. If anybody had asked me to have a glass of ale I daresay I might have taken it.

JOHN THOMAS PETER BURROWS sworn and examined.

J. T. P. Burrows.

33,500. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shoemaker.

33,501. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

33,502. For whom?—Stracey.

33,503. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

33,504. What did you get for voting?—Nothing.

33,505. No money?—No.

33,506. No beer?—No, not a drop, only what I paid for myself.

33,507. Were you in any public-houses that morning?—I was at work till 2.

33,508. Why did you not vote earlier if you left work at 2?—I was walking about.

33,509. To try if you could pick up anything?—I should have taken it if I could have got it. Money is a tempting thing to a poor man.

33,510. Nothing came in your way?—No.

33,511. So you voted without?—Yes.

33,512. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Independent against your will?—Yes.

JOSIAS HOLMES sworn and examined.

33,525. And asked for it?—No.

33,526. Did you let him know that you wanted it and were entitled to it?—No, I did not let him know anything about it.

33,527. Will you swear you never had anything for this vote of yours?—Yes.

33,528. And that you were not treated?—Yes.

33,529. What time in the day did you vote?—Half-past 3.

33,530. What made you so late?—I had some work to do in the morning, and could not lose time before.

33,531. Had you told anybody how you were going to vote?—I did not promise my vote to anybody.

33,532. Had you told anybody that you were going to vote for Stracey?—No.

33,533. You did not make up your mind till half-past 3?—No, I did not.

33,534. What made you make up your mind at that moment?—I was that way inclined, so I voted for Mr. Stracey.

33,535. Do you mean to tell me you made up your mind to vote without getting anything for it?—Yes.

33,536. It is an impossible hypothesis.—I am telling you the truth.

J. Cumby.

JAMES CUMBY sworn and examined.

33,537. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A boot finisher.

33,538. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

33,541. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

33,542. Were you canvassed?—Yes.

33,543. By whom?—By Mr. Stanley.

33,544. Did you not say you would not vote without getting something for it?—I never said no such a thing.

33,545. Do you know William Brown?—Yes.

33,546. Did you not tell Brown you would not vote unless you got something for it?—No.

33,547. Unless you got your day's pay?—No.

33,548. You would not waste a day over it?—No, I kept to my work till the time I went to vote.

33,549. Did you not say to Brown you would not vote without your day's work?—No, I told him every man ought to get a day's work.

33,550. For voting?—Yes.

33,551. You tried to get paid a day's work?—No.

33,552. You would have taken it, of course, if anybody had offered it?—If they had offered it I should have taken it.

G. Dove.

GEORGE DOVE sworn and examined.

33,553. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A shoemaker.

33,554. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

33,556. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing at all.

33,557. Did you not ask for something?—No.

33,558. You were waiting for it, were you not?—No.

33,559. You would have been very glad to get it, would you not?—No.

33,560, Did you get treated to any beer on the election day?—No, I never went out to be treated.

33,561. Have you had anything given to you since?—No.

33,562. What public-houses were you in that day?—None at all.

33,563. Are you sure of that?—Yes.

W. Calver.

WILLIAM CALVER sworn and examined.

33,564. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

33,565. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

33,566. At what time?—About 3 o'clock.

33,567. Did anybody take you up to the poll?—Yes.

33,568. Who?—A man named Mackley.

33,569. William Mackley?—I do not know his name.

33,570. Did he give you anything?—Yes.

33,571. What?—A sovereign.

33,572. Was that from Mackley?—No.

33,573. From whom was it?—Hardiment.

33,574. Where did he give it you?—Against the polling place.

33,575. Was anybody with you?—No, not anyone.

33,576. Did you see him give anyone else money?—No, not anyone.

33,577. Do you know of anybody else having got money?—Not anyone.

33,578. How did you come across Hardiment?—I was in the market, and was going to vote for Sir Henry Stracey in the morning, and I walked into Mackley's, and they said that Mr. Hardiment was going to give money, and I heard that he was giving a sovereign, and so I thought I might as well have one.

33,579. After hearing that you looked after Hardiment?—Yes.

33,580. And you got hold of him in time to get a sovereign?—Yes.

J. Brown.

JOHN BROWN sworn and examined.

33,581. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A builder.

33,582. Was this your first time of voting?—No.

33,583. On which side had you voted on former occasions?—On the Whig side.

33,584. But this time you voted for Stracey?—The same, Tillett and Russell.

33,585. Do you recollect on the day of the poll seeing Cunnington?—I do not know such a man.

33,586. Were you at the "Orchard"?—No.

33,587. In what public-house were you?—Not one at all.

33,588. Not the whole day?—Only once.

33,589. Where do you live?—In the Dereham Road.

33,590. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Is there a John Brown of Heigham Street?—I think there is.

33,591. Did you ever have anything for your vote?—No.

G. Cossey.

GEORGE COSSEY sworn and examined.

33,592. (Mr. Biron.) You voted for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

33,593. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

33,594. Were you at Cartwright's beerhouse, in Rosemary Lane, that afternoon?—Yes.

33,595. With your brother-in-law, Barker?—Yes.

33,596. What did you get?—7*s.* 6*d.*

33,597. Who gave it you?—Mr. Hardiment.

33,598. And then you voted?—Yes.

33,599. Did you get any money besides that?—Yes.

33,600. Who did you get the rest from?—Mr. Robert Bacon gave it to me.

33,601. What is he?—He is a tinman by trade.

33,602. What did you get out of him?—5*s.*

33,603. Did he know that Hardiment had given you money?—No.

33,604. What else did you get?—Nothing else.

33,605. You were a good hand at it. Money was scarce, and you got it from two people. Did you not get money out of anybody else?—No.

33,606. But you got some beer?—No; what I had I paid for.

33,607. Do you know of any other men getting money besides Barker and yourself?—No, I do not. I never saw any paid.

G. Cossey.

7 Oct. 1869.

33,608. But there were people there ?—There were one or two.

33,609. Let us have their names ?—Young Barker's father was there ; that is all I know that was in the house.

33,610. Then it was Barker, and Barker, junior ; both of them are named James ?—That I do not know.

33,611. They are father and son ?—Yes.

33,612. Can you not give me any other names ?—No, I cannot give no others.

33,613. Have you not said that if you were asked about it you would have to let in four or five more ?—No.

33,614. Not up at the works ?—No.

33,615. Are you sure of that ?—Yes, I do not know no other names ; if I did I would tell you.

ROBERT CHAPLAIN sworn and examined.

R. Chaplain.

33,616. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade ?—A shoemaker.

33,617. Was this your first time of voting ?—Yes.

33,618. For whom did you vote ?—For Tillett and Russell.

33,619. You keep a public-house, do you not ?—Yes.

33,620. Why did you not tell me that before, when I asked you what you were ?—You asked me what I am by trade. I was a publican and general shopkeeper at the time of the election.

33,621. You were a publican then ?—Yes.

33,622. And you are a publican still ?—Yes.

33,623. What did you get for your vote ?—Not anything.

33,624. Were there a good many people in your house on the day of the poll ?—There was a good many.

33,625. Were they principally voters ?—There were a great many men and women ; they were continually coming in and out all day.

33,626. Voters waiting for what they could get ?—There was five or six standing about, and I believe they was waiting for that purpose.

33,627. Did anybody come there to look them up ?—Several different persons came round with conveyances in the course of the day, but I did not know the persons, only Dr. Grey.

33,628. Did Mr. John Abel come ?—He was going past the opening of the street, and one or two called him back, and he came back. I do not think he stopped above a minute.

33,629. Did he pull up at your door ?—No, he stopped when they called to him.

33,630. That was close by your house ?—Yes.

33,631. And then some of the men from your public-house went and got on to his vehicle ?—No, I do not remember any man going from my place with him. His vehicle did not stop within sight of my house. My house stood 50 yards from the main road. He stopped on the main road, and the buildings prevented my seeing the vehicle.

33,632. But these men called to Mr. Abel to stop ?—Yes ; one man went up the opening, and Mr. Abel came down as far as the door. I do not think he came further than the step of the door of my house.

33,633. Mr. Abel got off his box and came to the door of your public ?—Yes.

33,634. And spoke to somebody there ?—He spoke to the man, I believe, that called him.

33,635. Do you know who that man was ?—No, I do not know above one man that was in my house.

33,636. Did that man go away with Mr. Abel ?—No.

33,637. Did the man Mr. Abel was speaking to go away in his conveyance ?—No.

33,638. Do you know who the man was ?—A young man named Mansfield.

33,639. Was he talking to Mr. Abel ?—To the best of my knowledge he was not.

33,640. Do you know the names of any of the other men ?—No, I do not.

33,641. Do you know the names of any of the men who were waiting at your place to be bought ?—No, I do not.

33,642. Did you stand any beer to the men who were waiting about your house that day ?—No, not a glass.

33,643. Not at your own expense ?—No.

33,644. But did anybody else ?—I think Mr. Grey spent about a shilling in my house.

33,645. I suppose that was for beer for these voters ?—I almost forget now.

33,646. I do not suppose that a medical man would go to a public-house and drink a shillingsworth of beer ?—I do not suppose he would. I think my wife served what was supplied. The men in the house asked me if I would trust Mr. Grey to the amount of half a sovereign, and I said certainly not ; Mr. Grey was a stranger to me, and I was not inclined to trust him. They asked me to let them have some beer, and I was disinclined to do so, but I drew five or six quarts, and these men said they would pay for it.

33,647. And did they pay for it ?—No, they never paid.

33,648. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Have you applied to Dr. Grey to pay for it ?—Mr. Grey came to my house a day or two afterwards, and my wife asked him if he was going to pay the reckoning for what certain men in the house had, and he paid it.

33,649. How much was it ?—Three or four shillings, not more.

33,650. (Mr. Mansfield.) Was that the only score that was paid to you after the election for beer supplied at or before the election ?—That was the only score that was paid.

33,651. Was this beer supplied by Dr. Grey for the Stracey or Tillett party ?—I did not know the men ; they went away separately, and I do not know which way they voted. This young man Mansfield went with me to the poll, and we both voted for Tillett and Russell.

33,652. How long was Dr. Grey in your house ?—He came in at various times in the course of the day, and stopped perhaps ten minutes or a quarter of an hour each time.

33,653. And each time he was among the voters, trying to persuade them to vote ?—He was trying to get voters for Sir Henry Stracey, I believe.

33,654. Do you know whether he did get any voters from your place ?—I am not positive. I was very busy myself during the day, and not having any beer engines I had to go to the back part of the house to get beer. People kept coming in and out continually.

33,655. Who came with Dr. Grey ?—He was by himself.

33,656. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did anybody besides Dr. Grey come to your house in the course of the day to get up voters ?—There were different vehicles stopped there, but I did not know the persons.

33,657. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you see David Cubitt that day ?—I do not know a person of the name of Cubitt.

33,658. Is that all you can tell us about the last election ?—That is all I know of it.

FREDERICK POOLEY sworn and examined.

F. Pooley.

33,659. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election ?—I did.

33,660. For whom ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

33,661. At what time in the day ?—About 3 o'clock.

33,662. Did you get anything for voting ?—No.

33,663. Or the promise of anything ?—No.

33,664. You got no money and no beer ?—No.

33,665. Had you promised your vote before ?—No.

33,666. You voted of your own accord ?—Of my own accord.

Adjourned to to-morrow, 10 o'clock.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

Friday, 8th October 1869.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

G. Moore.

8 Oct. 1869.

GEORGE MOORE recalled, and further examined.

33,667. (Mr. Mansfield.) You told us that you spent 10*s.* in treating people on the day of the poll?—Yes, I believe I spent 10*s.*; I did not say in treating the people.

33,668. You did that for the purpose of inducing them to vote?—No.

33,669. You still adhere to that statement?—Yes.

33,670. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What did you do it for?—I often spend 10*s.* when I am about. I did not tell you an untruth yesterday. I told you the truth.

33,671. It is impossible for us to believe that you spend 10*s.* in beer, and that you are constantly doing it.—I did not say I constantly do it; perhaps I go for a month or six weeks without, but when I am forrard in drink I spend money like the rest.

33,672. Were you "forrard" in drink on the election day?—Yes.

33,673. Without any object connected with the election, you spent 10*s.* of your own money?—Of my own money; I never had a farthing from no one.

33,674. We have heard strange things in Norwich, but this is one of the strangest things we have heard.—I have told you the truth.

33,675. Beer has a wonderful influence, according to our experience here, and I must say, for myself, that I cannot believe your statement. The conclusion I come to is that on the day of the election you spent 10*s.* for the purpose of influencing persons to vote.—I have told the truth.

33,676. You voted for Stracey?—Yes. I left my home at half-past 10.

33,677. You wished Sir Henry Stracey to succeed?—Of course I did.

J. Dombrain.

JAMES DOMBRAIN recalled.

33,678. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) We are informed that you wish to make some communication to us, and we shall be happy to hear it if it is relevant to the matter which we have to decide.—I desire simply to confirm my statement of last Saturday, and to say that I can give a full account of my time for that day, and I can prove that account by the testimony of most credible persons in the city.

33,679. The duty which we have to perform is to inquire into corrupt practices at the last election. In the course of our inquiries, observations and imputations may be made upon particular individuals; but so long as they are not relevant to the matter which we have to decide, namely, whether a person was guilty of corrupt practices, it is impossible for us, and it is beyond our jurisdiction, to try such an issue; but, independently of that, it would be imposing upon the city a very heavy burden which we have no right to impose in trying such issue, an inquiry which might involve very great expense, and one in which the city and community at large have no interest, and which is only of individual interest. We should, therefore, be violating our duty if we listened to the witnesses whom you propose to call, or if we listened to witnesses who might, be called on the other hand, to support any observations which may have been made. It may, however, be satisfactory to you and to your parishioners to know the opinion which we have formed upon this matter, as it stands. We should not, in an ordinary case, certainly, have taken upon ourselves to form or express an opinion upon a matter which is not officially before us; but, considering your position here, and hearing what we have heard respecting it, we have considered the evidence which has been laid before us, and I do not hesitate in saying that we think that upon the day of the election, owing to peculiar causes, I have no doubt from your love of your profession, and your great zeal in it, you laboured under a degree of excitement which has caused you to forget many things which occurred upon that day. We are not surprised that under the peculiar circumstances and the very active and unusual interest which you took in the election things which occurred upon that day have escaped your memory, more particularly as your memory has to go back to a period now of very nearly a year ago, and as the incident, which was the principal incident alluded to, is one which, if you were entirely innocent of any offence, would very likely pass from your memory. Under these circumstances, I hope that these observations may entirely put at rest a controversy of a very painful character to yourself, and one which has been of some concern to us.—I thank you most heartily. I have only asked for this opportunity, because it is the only method by which I, a poor clergyman, could in any way vindicate my character.

W. Fisher.

WILLIAM FISHER sworn and examined.

33,680. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

33,680. What time of the day?—Two o'clock.

33,682. What are you by business?—A plumber and glazier.

33,683. Did you take an active interest in the election?—Not at all.

33,684. Did you fetch up any voters?—No.

33,685. Did you canvass any voters?—Not one.

33,686. Did you receive any money for your vote?—No.

33,687. Were you promised anything for your vote?—I was neither promised anything nor asked anything in any shape.

R. Bullard.

ROBERT BULLARD sworn and examined.

33,688. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A horse dealer.

33,689. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Stracey.

33,690. What did you get for your vote?—Half a sovereign.

33,691. From whom?—Crancher, I think his name was. He lives on the Quay Side. That was after I voted.

33,692. He had spoken to you before about voting?—He axed me who I was going to vote for.

33,693. And he promised you half a sovereign?—No; he did not promise me. He said he would give me half a sovereign after I voted.

33,694. Was there anybody else with you that got half a sovereign or anything?—No; I did not see anyone else.

33,695. That is all you got?—That is all.

33,696. You did not get a drop of beer besides?—No; I did not drink any.

JAMES BROWNE sworn and examined. J. Browne.

33,697. (Mr. Biron). What are you?—A publican.

33,698. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

33,699. For whom?—Mr. Stracey.

33,700. What time in the day?—Eleven o'clock.

33,701. Did you get anything for it?—Not a farthing.

33,702. Or the promise of anything?—No.

33,703. Were you employed at all at any committee rooms?—No; I was employed about a week before.

33,704. What had you to do then?—I heard they were giving out little jobs, so I thought I would try and earn a shilling or two, as well as anyone else. I went about some time, and got an order to get 10 men for the meetings.

33,705. Was that to attend the meetings?—Yes.

33,706. You were employed in the same way as Ambrose Andrews?—Yes.

33,707. Were you employed at the nomination?—No; I tried to get a job for that, but they said they dare not give it me, because I had a vote.

33,708. How many days did you and your men work?—Only one evening.

33,709. What did you pay your men?—Two shillings and a pot of beer.

77,710. What did you get paid yourself?—Ten shillings for myself.

GARDINER CHRISTOPHER STEVENS sworn and examined. G. C. Stevens.

33,711. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—I was.

33,712. You took an active interest, did you not, at the last election?—I did.

33,713. Is your father alive?—My son's name is George Gardiner.

33,714. Was he a poll clerk?—No.

33,715. Your son is a voter?—Yes.

33,716. You live on Orford Hill?—I live on Orford Hill.

33,717. You know the "Bell" Hotel, Orford Hill?—I live next door to it.

33,718. There was a meeting there, was there not, just before the election?—Not that I am aware of.

33,719. Were you and several people there together one day?—No.

33,720. Not before the election?—No.

33,721. Was it on the day of the election?—No.

33,722. Did you meet any people on Orford Hill, and talk to them before the election about it?—No.

33,723. Have you heard your son say that he did so?—No; I don't remember that there was a meeting at the "Bell."

33,724. Were there not some supporters of Sir Henry Stracey who met by appointment, or casually, at the "Bell" Hotel, either the day before or on the day of the election?—No; not to the best of my recollection.

33,725. You were one?—I was not.

33,726. You were one, if it was held?—I should have been, in all probability, I think.

33,727. Did you talk to any persons at the "Bell" Hotel on the day of the election?—I was not at the "Bell" Hotel until after the election was over.

33,728. Were you there the day before?—No.

33,729. Not in the "Bell" at all?—Not in the "Bell" at all.

33,730. Were you there on the Saturday?—No.

33,731. Did some other supporters of Sir Henry Stracey discuss with you about spending money at the election?—Certainly not.

33,732. You had no conversation about spending money?—Not the slightest.

33,733. Was there anything said about a guarantee being given for election expenses?—Not a word. I never heard a word.

33,734. Have you never heard about a sum being guaranteed for election expenses?—Certainly not.

33,735. Did you on the day of the election get some voters up?—I took an active part; yes.

33,736. How many persons did you take up to the poll?—I don't know. I think perhaps I might have taken up 15. I should say about 15.

33,737. From different parts of the city?—No; only from the fourth ward, and some from the sixth ward; four from the sixth ward.

33,738. Do you know a grocer on Orford Hill to whom you spoke about money on the day of the election?—I spoke to no grocer on Orford Hill.

33,739. Did you speak to any tradesman on Orford Hill about money?—Certainly not.

33,740. How did you influence the persons whom you took up to vote?—I don't know that I influenced them at all. I asked them to go and vote, and they went and voted. They were all persons in pretty much the same position as myself, and only required to be asked to go and vote.

33,741. Did you take up any persons from the low localities of your ward?—I did not.

33,742. Did you give or promise any man any money for voting at that election?—Certainly not.

33,743. Either before or on the day of the election?—Certainly not.

33,744. Did you promise anything or give anything?—Nothing; I never spent a farthing the whole day.

33,745. You may not have spent a farthing on that day?—Neither spent nor promised anything.

33,746. Did you give an order for anything?—Certainly not.

33,747. I do not suppose you received or were promised anything for your vote?—Certainly not.

WILLIAM DEBBAGE sworn and examined. W. Debbage.

33,748. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a new voter?—Yes.

33,749. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

33,750. What time of the day?—About three o'clock.

33,751. What did you get for your vote?—Not anything.

33,752. Where were you all day?—At work at Messrs. Morrison's buildings in Market Lane.

33,753. Had you promised your vote?—No.

33,754. Were you never spoken to about voting?—No.

33,755. Did you speak to no one about voting?—No further than four or five men in the shop, when I told them I would vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

33,756. Did they vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—No. They had not a vote; not one of them.

33,757. Were they in your employment?—Yes.

33,758. Did you get any beer that day for voting?—No.

33,759. Have you had anything since?—I have had a little since I have voted for Sir Henry Stracey, but not for voting.

33,760. What public-houses were you in?—Not one. I went and voted, and then came back again.

RICHARD BUNTING sworn and examined. R. Bunting.

33,761. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

33,762. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

33,763. At what time in the day?—Between three and four.

33,764. Did you get anything for voting?—Nothing.

33,765. Why did not vote earlier?—Because I was busy.

33,766. Were you at home during the day?—I was.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

R. Bunting.

8 Oct. 1869.

33,767. Were not you about the city, getting up voters ?—No.

33,768. You took no part at all in getting up voters that day ?—Not any ; not the slightest.

33,769. What are you ?—A cabinet-maker and upholsterer.

33,770. Were you at home at your workshop the whole of the day ?—Yes ; I did not go out of my workshop till after dinner ; till I went out to vote.

33,771. Had you promised your vote to anybody ?—No.

33,772. Had you been canvassed by any one ?—Yes ; in the morning.

33,773. By which party ?—The Whig party.

33,774. Did you tell them you would vote for the other side ?—I did not tell them at all. I was very busy. After I got my work done, I went and voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

33,775. Had you made up your mind to vote for Sir Henry Stracey ?—I had, partly.

33,776. What do you mean by "partly" ?—Why, I fancied I should vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

33,777. Which way did you vote before ?—I voted both ways before.

33,778. You are not much of a politician ?—Well, I vote according to my judgment.

33,779. Did you ever get anything for voting ?—No.

33,780. Never ?—Never.

33,781. Are you quite sure about that ?—I am sure of it.

33,782. You seem to hesitate a little ?—I am sure of it.

F. G. Cobb.

FREDERICK GEORGE COBB sworn and examined.

33,783. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

33,784. For whom ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

33,785. Did anybody give you anything for your vote ?—Nothing at all.

33,786. How came you to vote so late in the day ?—Because I could not leave my business before.

33,787. Had you been canvassed for your vote ?—No ; I was not canvassed by any one.

33,788. Did nobody ask you for your vote ?—Mr. Henry Morgan said he was sure of my vote, and that was enough. He was canvassing in the neighbourhood where I live, and he said, "I believe you will vote for Stracey," and I said "Yes."

33,789. That was promising your vote ?—Yes.

33,790. When was that ?—About a fortnight before the election.

33,791. He knew your colour pretty well, and therefore spoke to you in those terms ?—Yes.

33,792. Did you receive anything for your vote ?—No.

33,793. Nor the promise of anything ?—Nor the promise of anything. I never thought of such a thing.

W. Copeman.

WILLIAM COPEMAN sworn and examined.

33,794. (Mr. Mansfield.) This is the first you have voted ?—Yes.

33,795. What time of the day did you vote ?—Between two and three.

33,796. What did you get for it ?—Not anything.

33,797. Did not you try to get anything ?—No.

33,798. Did you know that there was money going that day ?—No.

33,799. Did you get any beer ?—None.

33,800. Where were you during the afternoon ?—I was in the market.

33,801. Where were you before you voted ?—At my own house.

33,802. Where is that ?—Tinkler's Lane, Heigham.

33,803. Were you asked for your vote by any one ?—Yes ; by Mr. Stracey's party. They came before the election.

33,804. Did you promise your vote ?—No.

33,805. What did you tell them ?—I said I should not promise my vote to any one.

33,806. On the day of the poll, did you speak to anybody else ?—No.

33,807. Were you not looking out for money ?—No.

33,808. Why did you not promise to vote ?—Because I did not know which way I should vote.

33,809. What made you decide at last ?—I don't know, particular. I thought perhaps Mr. Stracey would do more good than the other gentlemen.

33,810. You thought he would do more good to you ?—No, not to me.

33,811. Now tell me what you got for voting ?—I never got anything.

33,812. Have you had anything since ?—No.

33,813. Have not you tried for anything ?—No.

33,814. Were you promised anything ?—Not anything ; nor yet canvassed, except by Mr. Henry Stracey.

33,815. Who took you up to the poll ?—I went alone.

33,816. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You were at home all the morning ?—I was.

33,817. What are you by business ?—I am a shoemaker.

33,818. Do you work on your own account, or have you a master ?—For my own account. I have a master too.

33,819. Did you ever get anything for your vote ?—No.

33,820. Why did you not go to vote before two o'clock ?—I was busy with my work.

33,821. A shoemaker working at his own home has his time at his own disposal ?—There was some work wanted finishing.

33,822. Were not you looking out to see if there was any money going ?—No ; I did not leave my own house till I went and voted.

33,823. You were canvassed for your vote, and you said you would not give any answer, and then, without any reasonable cause whatever, so far as we can ascertain, you go up at two o'clock and vote ?—Yes.

33,824. Why, if you have any political principles at all, did you not promise your vote when you were asked ?—I had not made up my mind which way I should vote.

33,825. What made you make up your mind at two o'clock on the day of the election ? We cannot help thinking that something occurred which induced you to make up your mind.—I don't know that anything did.

33,826. A man does not act without some motive. What made you make up your mind to vote for Sir Henry Stracey ?—I don't know of anything particular. I thought Mr. Stracey would perhaps do more good than the other gentlemen.

33,827. What made you think so ?—I heard that he was a very good gentleman. That's it.

33,828. Sir William Russell is also a very good gentleman ?—No doubt.

33,829. And Mr. Tillett is a very good gentleman ?—No doubt.

33,830. Then what made you make up your mind to vote for Sir Henry Stracey, and not for them ?—Nothing particular.

33,831. I am afraid there are very great doubts as to what occurred on that day, so as to cause you to make up your mind to vote for Sir Henry Stracey.—I never received anything.

33,832. Did you go to any public-house after you voted ?—No ; I walked through the market till the election was over, and then I went home.

GEORGE GOULTY sworn and examined. G. Goulty.

33,833. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A labourer.
33,834. Did you vote at the last election ?—I did.
33,835. For whom ?—Sir Henry Stracey.
33,836. At what time?—As nigh as I can guess about ten minutes after two.
33,837. After your dinner hour ?—Yes.
33,838. Had you promised your vote ?—Not to anybody.
33,839. Had you been canvassed ?—No.
33,840. What were you doing the earlier part of the day ?—I was at work at Mr. Buttifant's saw mill.
33,841. After voting what did you do ?—I went deal carrying.
33,842. You went to work again ?—Yes, and never see nobody.
33,843. You got nothing for your vote ?—Not the worth of a pin's head.
33,844. Nor the promise of anything ?—No.

JOHN BUCK sworn and examined. J. Buck.

33,845. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election ?—Yes.
33,846. Where were you on the morning of the election ?—I was at home.
33,847. What were you doing at home ?—I was doing a little job at home for myself.
33,848. What made you vote so late in the day ?—Well, sir, I did not know that it was of any consequence voting early or late. I had a little job to do, and I wanted to get it done.
33,849. Did anybody come to you to ask you for your vote ?—Nobody.
33,850. Who took you up to the poll ?—Nobody.
33,851. Did you go up entirely of your own accord? —Yes.
33,582. Were you at any public house in the morning ?—Well, I did go and have a pint at the "Greyhound" in Tinkler's Lane.
33,853. Did you see anybody there ?—There were two or three drinking in the house.
33,854. Did anybody come to you about your vote there ?—No.
33,855. What time in the day did you vote ?—Something like three; it might be a few minutes after, as near as I can tell.
33,856. You had time to go to the public house and drink there; why, then, did you not vote before that time in the day ?—I did not know that it was of any consequence; I wanted to get my job done.
33,857. Did you get anything for your vote ?—No.
33,858. You saw a good number of people in Tinkler's Lane who were voters, and who got something for voting ?—No.
33,859. Did not you hear of men in Tinkler's Lane getting money for their votes ?—No.
33,860. Did you talk with your neighbours that day ?—No, only what was in there; the man that keeps the house.
33,861. You also saw your neighbours ?—No.
33,862. Did not you talk to anybody near your house that day ?—No, only my next-door neighbour.
33,863. It was the common talk, was it not, that there was something to be got for voting ?—I never heard it.
33,864. Was anything promised you for your vote ? —No.
33,865. Did you get no beer that day for your vote ? —No.
33,866. Did you get any beer at all that day ?—Only what I paid for myself.

CHARLES CHENERY sworn and examined. C. Chenery.

33,867. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade? —A baker.
33,868. Is this the first time you ever voted ?—Yes.
33,869. For whom did you vote ?—Sir Henry Stracey.
33,870. Did you promise your vote before ?—I never promised it.
33,871. Were you asked for it ?—I was asked.
33,872. What answer did you make ?—I said I would.
33,873. Was anything offered you for your vote ?—Not at that time; no.
33,874. When was it offered to you ?—The day of the election.
33,875. By whom ?—By Brock.
33,876. Who is he ?—He is a tailor, and has a general shop.
33,877. How much did he offer you ?—Five shillings.
33,878. To vote for Stracey ?—Yes.
33,879. Did he pay you ?—Yes, the same day.
33,880. Where did he pay you ?—Close by his own house.
33,881. Was anybody else with you at that time ?—No.
33,882. Do not you know that he was paying other men ?—That I cannot say.
33,883. Have you not heard of his paying other men ?—Yes; he told me he paid another man.
33,884. Did he tell you who it was ?—Lincoln.
33,885. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Where does he live ?—Close by.
33,886. (Mr. Mansfield.) Is that all he told you ?—Yes, that is all.
33,887, Did he tell you that he gave Lincoln five shillings ?—No; he did not tell me what he had given him.
33,888. Is that all you can tell about this election ?—Yes, that's all.
33,889. Were you at any beerhouse where beer was going ?—No.
33,890. You did not get treated at all ?—No.

WILLIAM EVERETT sworn and examined. W. Everett.

33,891. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A tailor.
33,892. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.
33,893. For whom ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.
33,894. What time of the day ?—Very near two.
33,895. Did you get anything for voting ?—No.
33,896. Or the promise of anything ?—No.
33,897. Did you take any active part in the election yourself ?—I lost about a quarter of an hour to go and vote.
33,898. You did not get anybody else to go ?—No.

ROBERT FULLER sworn and examined. R. Fuller.

33,899. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote at the last election ?—Mr. Stracey.
33,900. What time of the day ?—About 20 minutes to four.
33,901. That is very late for a man in your position; why were you so late ?—I wished to see what was going on in the city, before I voted.
33,902. You wished to see which was the winning side ?—No.
33,903. Why did you want to see what was going on in the city ?—Just at the time I came up, I saw a rush at Mr. Tillett's carriage, and I wished to see what was going on there.
33,904. But that crowd was not rushing to Mr.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

R. Fuller.

8 Oct. 1869.

Tillett's carriage until very nearly four o'clock ?—I know, but I wished to see how things was going on.

33,905. Why should you wish to see how things were going on before you voted?—I took my own time and my own pleasure when to vote; I had got no set time when I was to vote.

33,906. I do not understand why you were hanging back till nearly four o'clock in the day ?—There was no such thing as hanging back from voting in me. There never was.

33,907. You certainly were not in the van?—I voted when I thought proper.

33,908. Why did you come up in the rear ?—I just see a little bit of a brush when the party was beating up. There was a crowd about Mr. Tillett's carriage.

33,909. Why did you wait for the brush?—I had no occasion to rush.

33,910. Everybody interested in Sir Henry Stracey's success, like yourself, would think it a matter of importance to support him earlier ?—My time was my own.

33,911. That is the very reason why I make the observation. You had plenty of time to go up when you liked?—But I did not choose, you see.

33,912. Why were you so much behind your companions as to vote so near four o'clock ?—I waited in the city till my own pleasure time when I liked to go and vote. I just saw a little bit of a brush there.

33,913. What time did this "little bit of a brush" take place ?—Some time in the afternoon.

33,914. What were you doing up to that time in the afternoon ?—Well, I dare say I might have been taking a glass.

33,915. Were you at the "Horse Shoes"?—No; I was at my own house. I kept a house at the time.

33,916. You are not a solitary drinker, are you ?—I can take a glass now and then, on occasions.

33,917. You were taking a glass in a public if you were taking it anywhere ?—If I took it I paid for it.

33,918. I want to know which was the public in which you took a glass ?—I took none, except where I paid for it.

33,919. Where did you pay for it?—Mr. Phinn's.

33,920. Where is that ?—In the market.

33,921. What other place ?—I had some in my own place; I kept a public house myself.

33,922. Were you treating voters there ?—No.

33,923. You are a staunch Straceyite ?—I am, and I hope he will come up again.

33,924. Are you a recruiting sergeant ?—I am called that.

33,925. Did you beat up recruits for Sir Henry Stracey that day ?—I wished I had the chance.

33,926. Did you beat them up ?—I did not. I was not on the recruiting service that time.

33,927. Did not you beat up some recruits for Sir Henry Stracey ?—I did not.

33,928. Did not you try ?—No.

33,929. Did not you get anybody to go up to the poll?—Not one. If they respect the gentleman they can go up of themselves without any one to bring them up.

33,930. But you know there were a good number of people who had not any respect for anybody that day?—There were plenty of people had not much respect for me, because I got a crack on the head, so there was not much respect for me; if I had catched that party I would have given him one the same.

33,931. Did you not find a few people who had respect for you?—Not one. What I had I paid for out of my own private pocket.

33,932. Then you were a hard-used man. You went about the city ?—I did, at my own pleasure.

33,933. When you had a look round, I suppose you found a few people who were what they call a little fresh ?—I dare say they were.

33,934. You are sure, are you not, that there were some fresh ?—I am sure there were some fresh, but not at my expense.

33,935. Were there men going about with cards in their hands?—I don't know; I didn't see any.

33,936. Did you try whether you could get them up to vote ?—No, I had no occasion, because I could see there were plenty would vote for Stracey that would not for the other party.

33,937. You thought you knew a great deal more about his affairs than his advisers?—I don't know about that.

33,938. Did not you know that at two o'clock he was a great way behind ?—I don't think I stirred but a little from the end of London Street.

33,939. According to your account you took an interest in the election. Did you not know that at two o'clock he was very greatly behind ?—It was very little after that that he was a little in front, and I was very happy to see it.

33,940. Up to that time he was getting gradually behind, and at two o'clock he was considerably behind. You knew that?—Yes. I knew I had a plumper for him.

33,941. When you found that he was behind why did you not go and plump ?—I knew it was all right. It did not matter so much what time I went.

33,942. Who told you that it would be all right ?—I did not know that he would gain the day; I could not tell that.

33,943. If you were so anxious to support Sir Henry Stracey, why did you not go up and poll when you saw that your man wanted support ?—I wanted to see a little sport in the city.

33,944. The polling place was close to you ?—It did not suit my taste to go at that time.

33,945. Were you waiting to get something ?—No.

33,946. Did you get anything for your vote ?—No.

33,947. Were you promised anything ?—No.

33,948. Did anybody come to you for your vote ?—Well, I don't know. I am not sure whether there was or no. If there was I was not in the way at the time.

33,949. Had you promised anybody your vote before the day of the election ?—I think I had. I am not exactly sure, but I said if I did vote it would be for Mr. Stracey.

33,950. Were you so lukewarm about voting for Sir Henry Stracey that you only said that if you did vote it should be for him ?—That's what I said.

33,951. Being a staunch supporter of Sir Henry Stracey's, how came you to say that ?—I had no occasion to do that, but still I did not intend to vote for the others.

33,951. I suppose we must take your account, but it is a very strange one.

J. Gazly.

JOHN GAZLY sworn and examined.

33,952. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade ?—A shoemaker.

33,953. Is this the first time you ever had a vote ?—Yes.

33,954. For whom did you vote ?—Russell and Tillett.

33,955. What time of the day ?—Between three and four.

33,956. Where were you that day ?—I was down at my father's the chief part of the day.

33,957. I think you went to Mackley's ?—Yes.

33,958. With whom did you go ?—I was going through the New Mill yard, and I met with a man who asked me to have a glass of beer.

33,959. A man of the name of Fountain ?—Yes; he and his wife.

33,960. You went into Mackley's ?—Yes.

33,961. Did Fountain also go in ?—Yes.

33,962. Did you find Bradbury at the door ?—I see Mr. Bradbury there. He was sitting there.

33,963. Did he let you in ?—No; anybody might go in and have a glass of beer.

33,964. Was not Mackley standing at the door ?—No; he was behind the bar, drawing the beer.

33,965. Was not Bradbury at the door?—I cannot say. I see him sitting on a seat, whether it was close to the door or not I cannot say.

33,966. Then you went up stairs?—Yes.

33,967. And there you saw Hardiment?—Yes.

33,968. I believe you got some money there?—Yes.

33,969. How much?—One pound.

33,970. Then you went and voted for Russell and Tillett?—Yes.

33,971. Did anybody else get any money?—Yes.

33,972. Who else got money that you saw?—I see several paid.

33,973. Did Fountain get some?—No; he had voted. He would have liked to have had it, I dare say.

33,974. Did not Fountain tell you afterwards that he had had something?—No.

33,975. Are you quite certain of that?—Quite certain.

33,976. What other men did you see there?—There was one man I know of the name of Goodwin that I can recollect. I cannot recollect any other names.

33,977. This was on the landing that you got the money?—No.

33,978. Cannot you say what other persons were there?—I cannot recollect the names. I have tried to do, since that gentleman (the secretary) sent to me.

33,979. Did you see Goodwin get some money;—Yes.

33,980. A sovereign?—Yes.

33,981. You saw Mackley there, did not you?—Yes. I see him attending to his customers behind the bar.

33,982. You had some talk with him?—No.

33,983. Did not Mackley tell you there was money going?—No.

33,984. What took you to this public house?—I was going through the New Mill yard, when I see Mr. Fountain. I says, "Where are you off to now?" He had his wife with him, and he was a little half-in-half; and he said, "Going along with my wife for "a walk. Shall we have a pint of ale?" I said, "No, thank you." "Well," he said, "Let's go in "to Mackley's." That was close by, and we went in, and he left me there. How I came to go upstairs was there was nowhere to sit down, and I saw a lot of people go up and down.

33,985. You knew that money was going?—I did not know it. I saw people go up and down. I thought I would go and see if I could sit down. I did not know what was going on till I got to the top of the stairs, when I see a man. He said, "Let "me see your card." "What card," I said, "Your "voting card." I took one out of my pocket.

33,986. Was it Stracey's card?—I don't know. I had two or three in my pocket.

33,987. Who was that man that spoke to you?—I don't know. When I got to the top of the stairs, Hardiment took my card, and never spoke to me at all. He took my card and the number, and then he gave me a pound, and never asked me nothing.

33,988. He told you to go and vote for Stracey?—No; he never spoke a word to me; but I thought it was a nice way of getting money like that.

33,989. Did you not tell him you were going to vote for Stracey?—No; I had made up my mind to vote for Tillett and Russell. I thought if they were so foolish as to give their money away in that way I would take it, but I made up my mind to vote for the two blues.

33,990. Cannot you recollect any of their names?—I have tried to recollect them since that gentleman (the secretary) sent to me a fortnight ago.

33,991. Before you went to the house, I suppose you knew that something was going on there?—No more than them that never was in Norwich.

33,992. How long was it before you went up to the landing that you saw people going up and down?—There were lots of people going up and down.

33,993. Were they not your neighbours?—There was no particular people that I knew; they were almost all strangers to me.

33,994. Did you see Hardiment come there, and go upstairs?—I did not know him then. I see him going up after I got up. I recognised that man who gave me money as the one who went through the house along with the rest.

33,995. You saw Hardiment go into the house?—I saw him come in, but did not know who he was until days after that.

33,996. Did he not come in by the same door as you?—Yes; by the street door.

33,997. As soon as Hardiment came, a number of people followed him?—I saw a lot go up.

33,998. When he came upstairs they were more busy and active?—No; I never noticed any one more active and busy than before.

33,999. How long did you remain in the house?—I might be there about an hour.

34,000. Was this going on all the while?—Yes.

34,001. Were people coming up and going downstairs?—I saw people going up and down.

34,002. How many people, do you suppose, you saw go up and down?—I was in there about an hour.

34,003. Did you see fifty?—I won't say any number, because I cannot tell.

34,004. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did they keep going up and coming down without intermission?—Yes; the same as they do generally in a public house when they are pretty busy.

34,005. (Mr. Mansfield.) Cannot you tell me whether you saw as many as fifty people go up and down?—No, I cannot tell you that. Goodwin is the only man I can recollect. I have tried since I was asked.

34,006. Where does Goodwin live?—I don't know. I have only heard of him by hearing his name called.

34,007. What is the Christian name of Goodwin?—I dont know; George, I think.

34,008. What is he by trade?—A shoemaker.

34,009. Cannot you tell me where he lives?—No.

34,010. Can you tell me of anybody else who got money?—No; I saw several taking it, but I do not know their names.

34,011. Was anybody with Hardiment when he gave you that sovereign?—I don't know whether they were with him personally; several people were standing there.

34,012. People were standing close by?—Yes, round him.

34,013. Can you give me the names of any of them?—No, I don't know only that one. I did not know Mr. Hardiment's name until days after.

34,014. Had you never seen Hardiment before?—No, never. I have seen him since several times, but I had never seen him before.

ISAAC DAYNES sworn and examined.

I. Dayne.

34,015. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A carpenter and joiner.

34,016. At Heigham?—Yes.

34,017. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

34,018. For whom?—For Tillett.

34,019. At what time in the day?—At ten o'clock.

34,020. Did you get anything for voting?—Nothing. I had not the chance.

34,021. You would have taken it if you could have got it?—I had not the chance. Some had it, but I never saw any.

34,022. After you had voted, what did you do?—Went back to my work again.

34,023. Were you in any public houses during the day?—Only at Mr. Last's.

34,024. Did you go to Young's public house?—No; I never went into any public house at all but that one.

34,025. Do you know Young's public house, the "Lily," in Ber Street?—Yes.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

I. Daynes.

8 Oct. 1869.

34,026. Were you not there?—No, I was not.

34,027. Did you see Waites that day?—I saw him two or three times.

34,028. The tripe boiler?—Yes. I saw him backwards and forwards in the street, and I saw him standing in this public house that you mention, the "Lily."

34,029. You were not in the public house yourself, but passed by it?—I was not in the house at all. I was in the street, and saw him standing there.

34,030. Did you see him do anything there?—I only saw him take and shove a man to the voting place.

34,031. Did you see him give him any money?—No; not to be sure.

34,032. Do you know who the man was?—No.

34,033. Did you see him give the man anything?—No; he only shoved him up to the polling place.

34,034. After the man had voted, did you see him give him anything?—No.

G. G. Stevens.

GEORGE GARDINER STEVENS sworn and examined.

34,035. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you at any meeting at an inn on Orford Hill the day of or the day before the election?—Yes; I think I was at a ward meeting.

34,036. Who were present at that meeting?—The members of the ward association.

34,037. Is there any secretary?—Yes.

34,038. Who is he?—Mr. Phillips.

34,039. On what day did that meeting take place?—I do not know; it was just before the election.

34,040. Who were the members present?—I was there for one, and the secretary, and I think my father was there.

34,041. I suppose the secretary would enter the names in some book of those who attended that meeting?—We pay our subscriptions every time, so that I daresay he would.

34,042. And he would therefore be able to tell us who were present at that meeting?—He would.

34,043. Where does he live?—In St. Peter's.

34,044. At that meeting was not the election mentioned?—I should think very likely it was; I do not remember it.

34,045. You were all Straceyites, were you not?—Yes; it is a Conservative association.

34,046. You determined to support Sir Henry Stracey?—Thick and thin.

34,047. That was the object of the meeting?—Yes; that was what I wished to do.

34,048. What arrangements did you make to support Sir Henry Stracey; did you subscribe together?—No; we were to meet on the Hay Hill, and we all walked together to the poll.

34,049. In addition to that, was it not agreed that something more should be done than the mere meeting to go to the poll?—No.

34,050. Was it not arranged that you should do something for those persons who wanted a day's wages?—No; it was not mentioned.

34,051. Was anything subscribed; was any payment made?—Only payments for the association. We have a dinner at the end of the year.

34,052. There was a subscription that day?—As we meet so we pay.

34,053. What did you pay?—I think it is 3*d.* a month that we pay.

34,054. Was nothing more paid that time than usual?—No, nothing more.

34,055. Was anything said about providing anything for people who were to meet the poorer class of voters?—No; only that we wished them all to be there.

34,056. But did you not make arrangements to give them something on the November morning?—No.

34,057. Was nothing said about a drop of beer?—No, not a word.

34,058. Beer was avoided, was it?—No, not by me; I had some.

34,059. Was there no discussion about what you should do to get your poorer class of voters up?—No, there was nothing said.

34,060. Were there any directions given?—No.

34,061. Was nothing done about money?—No, only what I have told you.

34,062. Have you ever heard of a guarantee fund?—Yes, for Mr. Edward I did. After Sir Henry Stracey was turned out, that is, after he came forward, we were to guarantee his expenses.

34,063. When was that?—That was after Sir Henry Stracey's election.

34,064. Was there not before the election day, or about that time, an arrangement by which a guarantee was to be given?—Not that I know of.

34,065. You never put your name down for a guarantee?—No; I had not got the stuff to do it.

34,066. At the time of the election, or about that time, did you not say that you would stand something, as an independent man?—I do not remember saying so.

34,067. Did you not say that as an independent man you would stand something?—No, I did not, because I was not independent.

34,068. I do not mean independent of your father, but as an independent man and a voter, did you not say that you would stand something?—No.

34,069. Did you not say, that as an independent voter in the city you would stand something?—I do not remember saying it.

34,070. Did other people say that as independent men in the city they would stand something?—No, I did not hear it.

34,071. Were you not told that they had said it?—No.

34,072. Have you heard of nothing being subscribed by independent men for any purpose beyond that to which you have alluded?—No; I know of nothing of the kind.

34,073. What was done with regard to Mr. Edward Stracey?—We have not had any election, and so he could not come forward.

34,074. You thought of starting Mr. Edward Stracey?—Yes; we wished to have Mr. Stracey a member for Norwich.

34,075. That is, if there was a fresh election, and Mr. Edward Stracey stood, you intended to support him?—I would.

34,076. Have you not heard of any guarantee or of any subscription with regard to the expenses of the election made about that time, or paid since?—No, I have not.

34,077. You were very active in supporting Sir Henry Stracey on the day of the election?—Yes, as far as I could.

34,078. Did you get up some voters?—No.

34,079. Did you go about for them?—I went with some voters the first thing in the morning; my father was one of them; we all went together.

34,080. Did you give any of the men some beer?—No.

34,081. Not a drop?—Not a drop.

34,082. Did you not subscribe among yourselves something to give to them to go and get it?—No; they did not want it at that time, I think.

34,083. Was nothing given to the poorer men to drink that morning?—No; nothing that I saw.

34,084. After you had gone up with them, did you go about getting up voters?—No; I went home for my breakfast.

34,085. But did you after breakfast?—I had to stop in the shop; my father was out.

34,086. Did you get out during the day?—I got out once or twice.

34,087. Did you go out to try to get some voters?—No; I did not know who to get.

34,088. There were plenty of them about?—I did not know anything about that; the only experience I had was in getting up some ladies to vote for my father as guardian.

34,089. Did you not see a number of men waiting about, who wanted a day's pay, or something of that sort?—No, I did not see them. I was not about the city much.

34,090. Did not some of them speak to you?—Yes; there was one man came into the shop. He said, "I am going to vote." I said, "You had better let my little brother go with you," and he said he would, and my brother went with him, and voted.

34,091. Did you not find that there were some men who wanted a day's wages?—No; I did not look for them.

34,092. But they may have looked for you?—I did not see them.

34,093. Do you know a person named Robert Walker, a gardener in St. Stephen's?—No.

34,094. Do you not know a person named Walker, who is a gardener?—No, I do not.

34,095. Did you go at all to the "Trumpet" that day?—No, I did not.

34,096. You have a brother?—Yes.

34,097. Do you know whether he went to the "Trumpet"?—They are only boys. I do not think that they would go there.

34,098. Did you not see Robert Walker, the gardener?—No. I do not know him.

34,099. Did you not say to him, or to some man, "You go and vote for my friend. You know me "well, and I will give you half a sovereign, if you "will come to me after you have voted"?—No; I did not say that. I had not got it to give him if I had said so.

34,100. But are you sure you did not say it?—I am certain I did not.

34,101. Did you not give anything to anybody for voting?—No.

34,102. Neither money nor beer?—No.

34,103. Nor the promise of anything?—No, nor the promise of anything.

34,104. I suppose you did not get anything for your vote?—No.

34,105. Nor the promise of anything?—No.

James Lane sworn and examined. J. Lane.

34,106. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A pig dealer.

34,107. Is this the first time you have had a vote?—Yes.

34,108. For whom did you vote?—For Russell and Tillett.

34,109. Did you get anything for voting for them?—Certainly not.

34,110. Did anybody offer you any money to vote for Stracy?—Yes; I had half-a-crown and 5*s.* offered me.

34,111. By whom?—By a man named Porter, who keeps the "New Inn."

34,112. Did you take it?—No.

34,113. Do you know of his offering money to anybody else for voting?—I do not; only me.

34,114. Where were you when that offer was made?—Opposite the "Grapes," on the open plain.

34,115. What did you say?—I said, no, I should not take it. I said that if I voted at all I would have a piece of gold.

34,116. What he offered was not enough for you?—No.

34,117. Did he say that he would make it 10*s.*?—No, he did not say more; we had a glass of ale, and then I went and voted.

34,118. You voted according to your own opinion, as you could not get gold?—I thought it was not enough, to tell you the truth.

34,119. And so you voted your own way?—Yes.

34,120. Where does Porter live?—At the "New Inn," I think they call it, in West End Street.

34,121. Were you offered any money by anybody else?—No.

34,122. Neither before nor after the election?—No.

34,123. Do you know a man named Bailey, a milkman?—No.

34,124. A man who lives in Distillery Street?—No.

Thomas Middleton sworn and examined. T. Middleton.

34,125. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

34,126. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

34,127. At what time?—Between three and four o'clock.

34,128. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

34,129. Nor the promise of anything?—No.

34,130. Why did you not vote before?—Because I was at work before I voted. I wanted to finish my work, and I made up my mind not to go out till I had finished it, and I did finish it, and then I went and voted.

34,131. Had you been asked to vote before?—No; I meant to vote for Sir Henry Stracey, and nobody else.

34,132. Had you voted before?—No.

34,133. That was your first time?—That was the first time.

David Haylett sworn and examined. D. Haylett.

34,134. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

34,135. At what time in the day?—At three o'clock.

34,136. What public house were you in on that morning?—Not any.

34,137. What were you doing up to three o'clock? I was working at my own business.

34,138. What is your business?—A master shoemaker.

34,139. Did you get anything for voting?—No, not a farthing, and I never went after anything of the kind.

34,140. Did you get the promise of anything?—No.

Thomas Thetford sworn and examined. T. Thetford.

34,141. (Mr. Mansfield.) Was this the first time you had a vote?—Yes.

34,142. Were you asked for your vote?—No.

34,143. Did you promise your vote to any one?—No.

34,144. Who did you vote for?—Sir Henry Stracey.

34,145. At what time in the day?—At two o'clock.

34,146. What did you get for voting?—Nothing.

34,147. Did you go up to the poll with anybody?—No.

34,148. Have you had anything since for voting?—No.

34,149. Did you get treated that day by anybody?—No.

34,150. What are you by trade?—I am a porter.

34,151. Where were you the whole of the day of the poll?—I was at work till the time when I went to the poll.

34,152. Where were you working?—At my master's.

34,153. Who is your master?—Mr. Clement Hart.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

T. Thetford.

8 Oct. 1869.

34,154. And did you go back to work after voting?—Yes.

34,155. And did you remain there the rest of the day?—Yes.

34,156. Were you ever promised anything for voting?—No; I discountenanced anything of the sort.

34,157. Did your master canvass you?—No.

R. Bartram.

ROBERT BARTRAM sworn and examined.

34,158. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A foundryman.

34,159. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

34,160. For Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

34,161. What time in the day?—About three o'clock.

34,162. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

34,163. Or the promise of anything?—No.

34,164. Were you canvassed for your vote?—Yes.

34,165. By whom?—Mr. Stracey's people.

34,166. Did you promise your vote?—No.

34,167. Did you make up your mind to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

34,168. Where were you all the morning of the polling day?—I was at home till after dinner.

34,169. What were you doing at home?—I was at work in my own garden.

34,170. Why did you not vote before three o'clock?—It is a long way into the city from where I live.

J. Wilson.

JOSEPH WILSON sworn and examined.

34,171. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What are you?—A coach painter.

34,172. Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—I did.

34,173. Who came and fetched you up to the poll?—Nobody; I went myself.

34,174. Had you been canvassed before for your vote?—Yes, I had.

34,175. When?—Well, I cannot say the day exactly, but a day or two before the election; I cannot say exactly what day.

34,176. By whom had you been canvassed?—Mr. Morgan.

34,177. Did he ask you to vote for Stracey?—Yes. I should have done so had he not asked me the question.

34,178. He asked you for whom you were going to vote?—He asked me whether I would vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

34,179. And what did you say?—I said I would if I voted at all.

34,180. What made you doubt about your voting?—I did not trouble myself about voting. I am no particular politician, and I do not trouble myself about voting.

34,181. You not being at all a politician, what made you go up and vote?—I told him that if I voted at all I would vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

34,182. But what made you vote at all?—Because I told him that I would vote for Sir Henry Stracey if I voted at all.

34,183. You say you were indifferent about voting; what induced you to make up your mind to vote?—I do not know that there was anything particular.

34,184. But there must have been something?—I do not know of anything, if there was.

34,185. Then you made up your mind without any reason for it?—Just so.

34,186. Did nobody come and offer you anything?—No.

34,187. Were you at any public house on that day?—Yes; I went to two or three.

34,188. What houses were they?—I went to a public house called the "Robin Hood."

34,189. What time in the day was that?—I worked half a day, and then I left off to go and vote.

34,190. But before you voted, you went to a public house?—I did.

34,191. What other public house did you go to?—I went to the "Robin Hood" before I voted, and got a glass of ale, or I might have two, and then I went and voted, and after I had voted I called in there again, and had another glass of ale, and then I walked down the town, and then I went to another public house called the "Albion," and there I had a glass.

34,192. Did you see anybody in the "Robin Hood" who spoke to you about voting?—Nobody in particular; nobody spoke to me about voting.

34,193. Did anybody offer you anything that day for voting?—No, and I did not expect anything of the kind.

34,194. Or any beer?—No.

34,195. Did anybody promise you anything?—No.

34,195. You voted according to your own fancy?—Yes.

S. Pye.

SAMUEL PYE sworn and examined.

34,196. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you?—A labouring man.

34,197. Where do you live?—At Stone End.

34,198. Is that in the Dereham Road?—Yes.

34,199. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

34,201. Who took you up to the poll?—I do not know who the gentleman was.

34,202. Did you not go up in a cab?—Yes.

34,203. With one or two gentlemen?—There were wo gentlemen.

34,204. Have you heard since who they were?—I do not know who they was.

34,205. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes.

34,206. Do you know young Mr. Stracey by sight?—No.

34,206. Do you know whether it was he?—I was told afterwards that it was Dr. Allen; that he was one of them.

34,208. Was he a light-haired gentleman, with a beard?—Yes.

34,209. Who told you it was Dr. Allen?—I was told that by a man who worked along with me.

34,210. How much did you get for your vote?—Nothing at all.

34,211. Did you not tell some one afterwards that you got 10*s.* for it?—No.

34,212. Do you know a man of the name of Pearce?—No.

34,213. Are you certain of that?—Yes.

34,211. Pearce, who lives in Cock Yard, St. Giles'?—I do not know him.

34,215. Are you certain that you did not talk to him about what you had got for voting?—I never got anything, so I could not tell no one.

84,216. Was not something promised you?—No.

34,217. Did not either of the gentlemen in the cab give you something?—No.

34,218. No beer?—No.

34,219. Nor money to get beer with?—No.

34,220. Have you not had anything since?—No, nor yet have I had anything since.

34,221. Do you know a man named Seeley?—Yes.

34,322. Did you see him that day?—Yes.

34,223. Did you not tell him that there was some money to be got?—No.

34,224. What did he tell you?—He and I went and voted together.

34,225. What did he say?—He did not get anything, I see.

34,226. Did he not tell you that he had got something ?—No.

34,227. Are you sure of that ?—Yes.

34,228. You went up with these two gentleman ?—Yes.

34,229. Did both of them go with you to the poll ?—Yes.

34,230. The whole way ?—We kept together the whole time.

34,231. Did not either of the gentlemen get out before you got to the poll ?—No.

34,232. What time in the day was this ?—As near as I can guess, it was about three o'clock ; between two and three.

34,233. Now just tell me what you got ?—I did not get anything ; if I had I would tell you.

34,234. Are you quite certain you got nothing ?—Yes, I am sure of it.

34,235. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) How came you not to vote before ?—I was at work on the hill. I should not have went then if they had not come for me.

34,235. (Mr. Mansfield.) What job were you upon ?—Cleaning out the sheep-pens.

34,237. Who were you at work for ?—Mr. Newman.

34,238. Did he tell you how to vote ?—No ; he was not there.

34,239. After you had voted, what became of you ?—I came back, and went on with my work.

JAMES BULL sworn and examined. J. Bull.

34,240. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A superintendent of labourers.

34,241. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

34,242. For whom ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

34,243. What time in the day ?—About half past three.

34,244. Did you get anything for voting ?—Nothing.

34,245. Or the promise of anything ?—No.

34,246. Why did you not vote early in the day ?—Because I could not leave my employ.

34,247. Were you at work all the morning ?—Yes.

34,248. After you had voted, what did you do ?—I went home, and saw after my work again.

THOMAS RANT sworn and examined. T. Rant.

34,249. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election ?—Yes.

34,250. You did not vote till late in the day ?—No.

34,251. How came that ?—Business called me the other way.

34,252. Where were you on business ?—At home.

34,253. But the polling place was close to your house ?—I know it was, but I could not get there.

34,254. Why not ?—Business called me other ways. Peoples lives are in danger when I am away.

34,255. Were you at home the whole time ?—I was at home the whole day.

34,256. Attending to your business ?—Yes.

34,257. You are a publican, I believe ?—Yes.

34,258. I suppose you heard nothing said about the election in your house on that day ?—No, never.

34,259. No publican in Norwich ever did, with one exception. You did not hear a word spoken in your house about the election on that day ?—No one ever came to me. I did not intend to vote at all.

34,260. But there was nobody in your house that day who talked about the election ?—No ; I know nothing about nobody else.

34,261. Were there not a number of voters in your house ?—No.

34,262. What business had you to attend to ?—My own business.

34,263. If there were no customers, what business had you to attend to ?—I was after my business. I had to attend to the bathing-house. Peoples lives are in danger when I am away.

34,264. What business is yours besides that of a publican ?—Bathing.

34,265. (Mr. Biron.) Were they bathing on the 18th of November ?—Yes ; plenty of them do now.

34,266. But were they on the 18th of November ?—They bathe all the season round.

34,267. All day long ?—No. You are too sharp upon me.

34,268. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) How many bathers had you in your house that day ?—That I cannot tell.

34,269. Had you any ?—Of course I had, if not I had other work to see after.

34,270. What public house is it that you keep ?—The "Dolphin," in Heigham.

34,271. Were you attending to the baths ?—Yes.

34,272. Not to the public house ?—Sometimes, and sometimes I was in the garden.

34,273. But you say that you had nobody in the public ?—I cannot tell you who came in in the course of the day.

34,274. You told me just now that you had no voters in your public ?—No more I had ; no voters that I know of. I do not know who are voters and who are not. Many persons come into my house, and I do not know who they are.

34,275. I asked you if there were any voters in your house ?—I do not know.

34,276. That is not the answer that you gave me just now. You told me that you had no customers in your house ?—It is a very poor public house that has no customers.

34,277. Did you promise any man in your house anything for voting that day ?—No, I did not.

34,278. Did you give anything ?—I did not give anything.

34,279. Did anybody give you anything ?—No.

34,280. Or promise you anything ?—No.

ALFRED LIVOCK sworn and examined. A. Livock.

34,281. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at this election ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

34,282. Had you promised your vote ?—No.

34,283. Had you been asked for it ?—No.

34,284. What time did you go to the poll ?—At a quarter past three.

34,285. What did you get for voting ?—Nothing.

34,286. Were you promised anything ?—No.

34,287. What were you doing all the day ?—I was at work for Mr. Geldhart, and I did not leave off work till two o'clock.

34,288. What is your trade ?—I am a cellarman to Mr. Geldhart.

34,289. What is he by trade ?—A wine merchant.

34,290. Did anybody treat you to anything ?—No.

WILLIAM WALLER sworn and examined. W. Waller.

34,291. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A gardener.

34,392. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

34,393. For whom ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

34,394. Did you get anything for voting ?—No.

34,395. Or the promise of anything ?—No, not anything.

34,296. Were you canvassed for your vote ?—I never saw anybody about it.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

W. Waller.

8 Oct. 1869.

34,297. You voted of your own accord?—Yes.

34,298. At what time in the day?—Some time after dinner.

34,299. Where were you all day?—In my garden.

34,300. After you had voted, what did you do?—I took my glass, and enjoyed myself.

34,301. Did you get anything after you had voted?—No.

34,302. Did you treat anybody else?—No.

R. Spauls.

ROBERT SPAULS sworn and examined.

34,303. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

34,304. At what time in the day?—Between three and four.

34,305. What public houses were you in in the course of the morning?—I was after my business. I am a cab driver.

34,306. Then I suppose you were in one or two public houses that morning?—No; I was after my employment.

34,307. At the station or where?—No; on the cab stand at St. Giles' Gate; that is where I stand.

34,308. Could you not get away to vote till that time?—No, it would not suit me. I could not leave my business.

34,309. What time did you go on the stand?—About nine or half-past nine in the morning.

34,310. And until what time did you remain on the stand?—Till about nine at night.

34,311. You were driving about to all parts of the city, were you not?—Driving and standing about.

34,312. But you must have passed a polling place in coming back to your stand?—Yes; I passed several.

34,313. Why did you not get off your box and go and vote?—Becanse I did not wish to do so.

34,314. Why not?—Because I did not think about voting at all.

34,315. What made you think of voting so late in the day?—Because it did not suit me to go before.

34,316. Did anybody come and speak to you about your vote?—No.

34,317. Did nobody give you anything?—No; not a farthing.

34,318. Or the promise of anything?—No.

34,319. What made you think about it when it was nearly four o'clock in the day, any more than you did at nine o'clock in the morning?—I did not think about it at all; not particular.

34,320. What made you think about it at all?—I cannot say what made me think about it at all, but there was lots of people that thought about it.

34,321. You were driving up to the poll, were you not?—No; because I was not engaged. We were not engaged the same as we used to be.

34,322. If people came and wanted a cab to go and poll, they hired you, I suppose?—I do not think that I drove anybody to the poll.

34,323. What made you poll when you did if you were so indifferent about it?—I had not any particular reason, only of course I was after my business.

34,324. But you were as much after your business when it was near four o'clock as you were at nine in the morning, were you not?—No, I was not, because I had nothing to do then.

34,325. You would not have anything to do for some considerable time in the course of the day?—That is quite right.

34,326. Are you sure that you got nothing for your vote?—Quite sure.

34,327. Did anybody stand treat?—No, I had nothing only what I paid for myself.

E. Waller.

EDWARD WALLER sworn and examined.

34,328. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

34,329. At what time in the day?—At 12 o'clock, I think.

34,330. What did you get for voting?—Nothing.

34,331. Did you not try to get anything?—No.

34,332. Did you not know that there was money going?—No; I never heard anything of it.

34,333. Had you ever voted before?—Yes.

34,334. On which side?—Always for the Tory side.

34,335. Were you ever paid for your vote?—No, never.

34,336. Or treated?—No.

34,337. Did you not get anything at Waters' election?—No.

34,338. There was plenty of money going then, you know that, do you not?—No, I never heard of it.

34,339. For whom did you vote at the municipal election on the 1st of November?—Mr. Thorne.

34,340. Who asked you to vote then?—I always was a Tory; nobody particular asked me.

34,341. What did you get for voting on that occasion?—Well, I am not able to say; a little beer.

34,342. Did you not get five shillings?—No, not so much as that; a little beer.

34,343. At Stracey's election you did not even get beer?—No.

34,344. Did you go to Dr. Master's house?—No.

34,345. Did you see anybody go there?—No.

34,346. Are you certain of that?—I am telling you the truth.

34,347. Do you know him?—Right well.

34,348. Have you had any talk with him about the election?—Never.

34,349. Where were you during the polling day?—I am a greengrocer by trade, and as I came out of the market with some apples I jumped off my pony cart and voted; after that I was after my business.

34,350. Did you not go to any public house that day?—Yes.

34,351. Which?—One next my own house, and I took out some bread and meat, and got a pint of ale.

34,352. Was that the only public house you went into?—No. I had a mind to know how the election was going on, and I went, and got myself a glass of ale at the "Grapes;" that is all.

34,353. That is near the city gaol, is it not?—Yes.

34,354. Was not beer stood there for voters?—No, I never heard of it. I had to pay three halfpence for my glass.

34,355. Did nobody offer to pay for you?—No.

34,356. Did you not try to get anybody to pay for you?—No.

J. Spinks.

JOSEPH SPINKS sworn and examined.

34,357. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A labourer.

34,358. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

34,359. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

34,360. At what time in the day?—Between nine and ten, as near as I can tell, and when I had voted I went back to my work.

34,361. Did you get or were you promised anything?—No.

THOMAS GIFFORD sworn and examined.

34,362. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

34,363. You were clerk to Mr. Stanley, were you not?—Yes.

34,364. He was very active at the election?—He was.

34,365. Were you employed at the committee-room of the third ward?—I was there during three or four days previous to the election, and during some part of the day of the election, and I was backwards and forwards to Mr. Stanley's office, managing the business during his absence.

34,366. He was about the town, absent from his business, on the day of the election?—Yes, and so he was on several previous days.

34,367. The whole day?—I believe he was.

34,368. Do you know a man named Heinrich?—Yes.

34,369. Was he employed by Mr. Stanley?—He was busy there, but I do not know who employed him.

34,370. At Mr. Stanley's office?—I have seen him at Mr. Stanley's office. He came up there on election business.

34,371. And was he also employed in the committee-room?—He was, at the committee-room.

34,372. On how many days was he employed?—I do not know.

34,373. Was he frequently consulting with your master before the election?—Yes.

34,374. And during the day of the election did you see him with your master?—Yes.

34,375. Were you present at any of the conversations between your master and Heinrich?—No.

34,576. Heinrich came several times to be paid, did he not, after the election?—Yes.

34,377. He wanted 15*l.* 10*s.*, did he not?—I do not know.

34,378. Do you not know how much he wanted?—No.

34,379. Do you know how much he got?—No.

34,380. You paid him a balance, did you not, of 7*l.* 10*s.* for Mr. Stanley?—No.

34,381. Did you pay him anything?—No.

34,382. Do you mean to say that you never handed him over any money from Mr. Stanley?—No, I did not.

34,383. Did you never give Heinrich any money?—No.

34,384. Did you never say you had done so?—No.

34,385. Do you know a person of the name of Fuller?—Yes.

34,386. Did Heinrich come up several times for his money?—Yes.

34,387. And bothered you pretty nearly every day of your life?—Yes.

34,388. Do you recollect his coming up on the 7th of December?—I do not recollect his coming on any particular day.

34,389. He came so often?—He did. We keep a call-book, if you would like to send for it.

34,390. Was he paid the balance of his money at any time?—I do not know. I left Mr. Stanley just after the election.

34,391. When did you leave Mr. Stanley?—At the end of March.

34,392. The election was on the 19th November?—I left Mr. Stanley in March.

34,393. Then you were there on the 7th December?—Of course I was.

34,394. Did he apply for the balance of his money up to the time you left?—Yes.

34,395. Was he constantly applying?—Yes.

34,396. What money did he ask for?—I do not know.

34,397. Did he not say what money he came for?—Not to me.

34,398. Did he send in a bill?—I never saw any.

34,399. But he was constantly coming after his money?—Yes.

34,400. Did he not say there was a good bit of money coming to him from Mr. Stanley?—He said he had something to take from Mr. Stanley, but he never told me the sum.

34,401. Mr. Stanley paid him money from time to time, did he not?—Not to my knowledge.

34,402. You told Mr. Stanley that Heinrich had come?—Yes. I showed him the call-book every night.

34,403. Did he not say that he had paid Heinrich money?—No; not to me.

34,404. Did not Heinrich tell you that he had been paid money?—No.

34,405. When he applied for money, had you no conversation with him about money?—No.

34,406. What did he say?—He said, I have come up for what Mr. Stanley owes me. He never told me the amount.

34,407. You never heard the amount either from him or Mr. Stanley?—Decidedly not.

34,408. Was it so secret that it was never mentioned?—It was secret from me.

34,409. When he came up so often, what answer did you give him?—I either told him that Mr. Stanley was in or not in, or engaged or not engaged.

34,410. And sometimes you told him he was not at home when he was at home, I suppose?—No, I did not.

34,411. Are you sure of that?—I am.

34,412. Do you not recollect his being paid 7*l.* 10*s.*?—I do not.

34,413. Do you recollect having any talk about 7*l.* 10*s.* that he had paid to Heinrich?—No.

34,414. Is there a cash-book in the office?—Yes.

34,415. Was all the cash that was paid generally entered in that cash-book?—I believe it was.

34,416. Was it entered by you or by Mr. Stanley?—By Mr. Stanley and by myself. If I received any money I entered it in the book, and if I paid any I entered it.

34,417. Did you enter into the book any sums paid to Heinrich?—No.

34,418. Did you see any sums entered as having been paid to Heinrich?—No.

34,419. Then if anything was paid to Heinrich it was kept out of the book?—I cannot say; I never saw any in it.

34,420. What was Heinrich doing?—He was busy fetching up voters and canvassing.

34,421. Anything else?—Canvassing prior to the election.

34,422. How many days did he canvass?—I do not know; it might have been a week.

34,423. Were you ever present at any conversation between Mr. Stanley and Heinrich?—No.

34,424. Never?—No.

34,425. You never heard any?—No.

34,426. They always had it privately, had they?—They had.

34,427. At what time did you vote?—Between ten and eleven.

34,428. Did you not vote a second time?—Yes.

34,429. Where did you vote?—I voted first on Charing Cross, and I voted again in the third ward at the house of the late John Grimes, on Grapes Hill.

34,430. How came you to do that?—Because I thought I was wrong in voting out of my parish. I thought I must vote in the parish in which I resided.

34,431. Did you, as a lawyer's clerk, think, although you saw your vote recorded in the poll book, that it would not be counted?—I thought it would be struck off.

34,432. Did you tell the people, when you voted at the second place, that you had voted before?—No.

34,433. Were you not asked, "Have you voted before at this election"?—No.

34,434. Do you mean to say that the poll clerk did not put to you the question, "Are you Thomas Gifford, and have you voted before at this election?"—Yes; he did ask me that question.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

T. Gifford.

8 Oct. 1869.

34,435. Did you not see him score your name in the book?—Yes.

34,436. And you had voted before at this election?—Not under that name, I did not.

34,437. Then you voted in another man's name?—No; I voted in my own name.

34,438. Both times?—Yes; but the first time I voted as William Thomas Gifford, and the second time as Thomas Gifford, an occupier in the third ward.

34,439. That is your account of voting twice?—Yes.

34,440. Do you mean to tell me, on your oath, that you did not know at that time that you were doing wrong?—I did wrong; I admit it. You want the truth, and I give it to you.

34,441. Did you receive anything for doing it?—No.

34,442. Did your master know that you were doing it?—No.

34,442. Had anybody instigated you in any way to do it?—Two or three did.

34,443. Who were they?—I do not know.

34,444. If you do not tell me I will send you to gaol.—I do not know.

34,446. Where was it?—At the Bull and Butcher.

34,447. That was the committee-room at which your master was?—Yes.

34,448. Now you must know who instigated you to do it?—I do not know the names of them.

34,449. Now go and sit there the rest of the day, and if you do not remember the names of the persons who instigated you to do what you did we will see whether we cannot refresh your memory.

G. Munford.

GEORGE MUNFORD sworn and examined.

34,450. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

34,451. At what time in the day?—About nine in the morning.

34,452. Did you get anything for voting?—I did not.

34,453. Were you promised anything?—No, nor I was not asked for my vote.

34,454. Had you ever voted before?—I had.

34,455. On which side?—I voted on the other side before.

34,456. What did you get then for it?—Nothing.

34,457. What made you change this time?—According to my opinion; conscience, that is all. I never received nothing from no party.

34,458. Did you get treated that day?—I did not, not by no person.

34,459. Have you had anything since?—I have not. I never had anything in my life, and never expected it.

34,460. Did you ever try to get anything?—I did not, never.

W. S. Rackham.

WILLIAM SIMON RACKHAM sworn and examined.

34,461. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am in partnership with Mr. Coaks now.

34,462. Were you employed at the last election?—Yes; I was manager in the fourth ward for Sir William Russell.

34,463. Did you vote?—No; I had not a vote then.

34,464. What were your duties in the fourth ward?—To go through the list of voters.

34,465. And check them as they polled?—Yes.

34,466. And to watch those who remained unpolled, I suppose?—Yes; and to send out, and get them up, if we could.

34,467. In the course of the day did anything occur to rouse your suspicions as to bribery going on?—The fourth ward is not a ward where there would be likely to be much of that; it is round by the market-place, where all those shops are.

34,468. For the most part, in your ward, the houses are good, and the tenants of them are substantial men?—Yes.

34,469. Then I understand you did not observe anything suspicious in your ward?—No. There is one locality about Coburg Street; I do not know much about it myself, but some people employed in the fourth ward said they thought there were some voters there who they thought there might be something wrong about, but we had no means of knowing for certain.

34,470. Had there been a canvass reported to your committee-room of that Coburg Street district?—Yes; we gave out the names of persons to be canvassed.

34,471. What was the result; did they promise or hang back?—A great many promised, and most of those who did promise came up and voted as they had promised.

34,472. So far as your judgment went, they voted as they had promised?—Yes.

34,473. But some of the other men in the committee-room seemed to think that all was not quite straightforward?—Yes; those who heard more about the ward than I did.

34,474. With the exception of Coburg Street, there was nothing that roused suspicion in your committee-room?—Certainly not.

34,475. Can you of your own knowledge speak to any bribery, treating, or corrupt practice?—Certainly not. I hardly went out of the committee-room for a week before the election, and knew nothing of what occurred outside.

J. Holmes.

JAMES HOLMES sworn and and examined.

34,476. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at this election?—Yes.

34,477. You voted late?—Between one and two.

34,478. What is your business?—A carpenter.

34,479. A journeyman carpenter?—Yes.

34,480. Where were you on the morning of the poll?—At home at work.

34,481. Did you work at home or at your master's?—At Barnard and Bishop's. I was at home at work that morning.

34,482. What were you doing at home?—At work for my brother.

34,483. Did you go to any public house that morning?—Yes.

34,484. What public house?—The "Albert" tavern in Heigham, along with a man of the name of Palmer.

34,485. Did you see anybody there?—No, only the landlord.

34,486. Did you go to any other public house?—No.

34,487. How long did you stay at the "Albert"?—About half an hour.

34,488. Did anybody come and ask you for your vote?—No.

34,489. Did anybody come and take you up to the poll?—Yes.

34,490. Who was that?—Young Buttifant. I do not know the other man's name. They took me and Palmer to the poll.

34,491. What did they promise you?—Nothing.

34,492. Do you mean to say Buttifant neither promised nor gave you anything at all?—No, nothing at all.

34,493. Did he promise you some beer?—No.

34,494. Did he not promise either you or the other man?—No.

34,495. Did he not give him anything?—No.

34,496. Was there no talk about anything?—No.

They did not stay above two minutes, and drove us there, and drove us back directly.

34,497. Had you promised your vote beforehand?—No.

34,498. You merely went up because they came? I went up because I promised this man that worked along with me to go; we were both going together.

34,494. Do you know whether he got anything?—I never see anyone give him anything.

34,500. Did you hear from him whether he got anything?—No, I never heard from him; I never heard him say anything about it.

34,501. Did anybody give or promise you anything that day?—Nothing at all.

HENRY BULLOCK sworn and examned. H. Bullock.

34,502. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A cabinet maker.

34,503. What were you doing on the day of the poll?—I was at work.

34,504. Where were you working?—At home.

34,505. Do you work on your own account?—Yes.

34,506. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

34,507. At what time in the day?—Two o'clock.

34,508. What did you do after you had voted?—I went to work again.

34,509. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

34,510. Was anything promised to you?—No.

34,511. Have you had anything since?—No.

34,512. What public houses were you at during the day of the poll?—None.

34,513. Do you mean you only went out just time enough to vote, and then you went back to work?—Yes, that is all.

34,514. Did anybody treat you that day for voting?—No.

34,515. You are sure of that?—Yes.

CHARLES HOWLETT sworn and examined. C. Howlett.

34,516. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—An ironmonger.

34,517. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

34,518. At what time in the day?—Between five and ten minutes past eight.

34,519. Did you get anything for it?—I did not.

34,520. Or the promise of anything?—No.

34,521. After you had voted yourself did you do what you could to get up voters?—I took up three or four—I would say four—from the committee-room at the market place, now Lake the grocer's shop.

34,522. What time in the day was that?—About three o'clock. I was standing there talking, and I took four up, but who they were I cannot tell you.

34,523. What did you give them?—Nothing at all.

34,524. Did you not treat them?—No.

34,525. Have you not said since the election that you got a dozen men for a shilling apiece?—No, I did not.

34,526. Have you not said so?—I have not.

34,527. Have you said that you got a dozen men up by giving them anything?—I have not.

34,528. Have you said that you gave anybody anything?—I have not.

34,529. Were you directly or indirectly the means of getting anybody up to the poll by bribery or treating or anything else?—I was not.

EDMUND MILLER sworn and examined. E. Miller.

34,530. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did vote at the last election?—Yes.

34,530. For whom?—Stracey.

34,531. What is your business?—A fish hawker, dealer in vegetables, and shopkeeper.

34,532. At what time in the day did you vote?—About 12 or a little after.

34,533. Do you know the "New Inn," West End Street, Heigham?—Yes.

34,534. Do you know the landlord, Joseph Porter?—Yes.

34,534. Did you receive anything for voting?—No.

34,535. Did you receive any money that day?—No.

34,538. None at all?—Yes, what I took on my rounds.

34,539. I do not mean that. Did you get 2*s.* 6*d.* that day?—No.

34,540. Did you sell some fish for 2*s.* 6*d.* that day?—No, I had no fish that day.

34,541. Did not Porter give you 2*s.* 6*d.* to vote for Stracey?—No.

34,542. Did anybody give you anything to vote for Stracey?—No.

34,543. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—Yes.

34,544. Had you promised to give it?—I was not at home when they canvassed me.

34,545. Was nothing promised you?—No.

34,546. Were you at Porter's that day?—Yes.

34,547. When did you first go to Porter's?—About twelve o'clock, I should suppose it might be, or a little before.

34,548. How long did you remain there?—About ten minutes.

34,549. Did you get some beer at Porter's?—Yes.

34,550. He gave you that, did he not?—No; I paid for it.

34,551. Did you pay for every drop you had?—Yes.

34,552. Did you go back to Porter's afterwards?—No.

34,553. Did you go back there at all that day?—No.

34,554. Did young Porter give you anything?—No.

34,555. There is a young Porter, is there not, a son of the old man?—Yes; there are several young Porters.

34,556. Are you sure he did not give you anything?—No, nothing.

34,557. Or promise you anything?—No.

34,558. Did anybody give you anything?—Nobody.

34,559. You went and voted independent of every thing?—Yes, independent of every thing.

CHARLES HOWLETT recalled and further examined. C. Howlett.

34,560. (Mr. Biron.) I believe you wish to add something to your evidence?—There is one thing I omitted to name,—that one Sunday about a week after the election, I went for a walk with a friend of mine, named Robinson, up Gashouse Hill, and just at the corner of Telegraph Lane we were called in by a Mr. Bensley, where Mr. Robinson originally lodged. We had a long conversation, talking about Mr. Wicks, who was a clerk of Mr. Tillett's. I was then quite convinced in my mind that not the slightest bribery was going on, and Bensley says, "There is plenty of money "going about, for Wicks brought home a bag full of "money; he knew I was a Tory, and he pulls out a "sovereign, and puts it into one of his eyes, and says,

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

C. Howlett.

8 Oct. 1869.

"If that will not do, I can put a couple in." I said, "Do you think that money was for bribery?" He said, "Well, it was shown to me, and I might have "had some of it."

34,561. Was this the Sunday before the election?—The Sunday after, I think it was.

34,562. That was rather late in the day to bribe, was it not?—It was done before the election. That was merely the conversation I heard.

34,563. Robinson was the man with you?—Yes; and Bensley is the man who said it to Robinson and myself.

G. Presants.

GEORGE PRESANTS sworn and examined.

34,564. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A cabman.

34,565. Were you employed on the day of the election?—I was on my stand.

34,566. The whole day?—Not all the day.

34,567. At what time did you vote?—From three to four.

34,568. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

34,569. Did anybody treat you?—No, only what I treated myself.

34,570. Were you promised anything that day?—No.

34,571. Is this the first time you have voted?—Yes.

34,572. Who had asked you for your vote?—Mr. Buttifant came and canvassed me.

34,573. Did you promise to vote for Stracey then?—Yes.

34,574. Did he make you any offer of any sort?—No.

34,575. How long before the polling day was it that you promised him to vote?—I cannot say for a day or two.

34,576. Was it two or three days before?—It might be two or three days before.

34,577. You gave him an unconditional promise to vote for Stracey?—I told him I should vote for Stracey.

34,578. Did anybody look you up, on the day of the poll to get you to vote?—No.

34,579. How came you to leave it so late?—I could not go before. I went up to the poll, but it was so full that I could not get near.

34,580. Did you try to vote earlier?—Yes, I did, in the morning.

34,581. Were you asked to vote for any one?—No.

H. Bussey.

HENRY BUSSEY sworn and examined.

34,582. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A brewer's servant.

34,583. Who is your master?—Messrs. Bullard and Sons.

34,584. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

34,585. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

34,586. At what time in the day?—About a quarter past three.

34,587. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

34,588. Or the promise of anything?—No.

34,589. Or anything after you had voted?—No.

34,590. What were you doing in the early part of the day?—Carrying about beer in different parts of the city.

34,591. At work for your master?—Yes.

34,592. After you had voted what did you do?—Went to work again.

H. Plunkett.

HENRY PLUNKETT sworn and examined.

34,593. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

34,594. At what time in the day?—I think somewhere about twenty minutes to three or half past three.

34,595. Where were you up to that time?—I was at work up to three o'clock.

34,596. What were you at work at?—At shoe making.

34,597. In your own house?—Yes; I had got four pair of boots out to get in at three o'clock so that the order might go away.

34,598. You could not go to vote before?—No; if I did I could not have got my work done.

34,599. Did anybody come and ask you to go up?—No one came to my house that day.

34,600. Were you at the "Orchard" Tavern that day?—No; I never went into the "Orchard" Tavern.

34,601. Were you in any public house?—No, not till five o'clock or half past five.

34,602. Had anybody been to your house to fetch you?—There might have been some one at my house, but I was up-stairs, and did not come down to see any one.

34,603. Did you see anyone going up to the poll?—No; I never spoke to no one. As soon as I finished my work I went and washed myself, and then went and voted, and came straight home.

34,604. Did you get anything for voting?—No, neither a glass of beer nor nothing.

34,605. Nor the promise of anything?—No, nothing at all.

T. Riches.

THOMAS RICHES sworn and examined.

34,606. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

34,607. Were you canvassed by any one?—No.

34,608. Did you promise to vote for him?—Yes.

34,609. At what time in the day did you vote?—Between three and four.

34,610. What made you so late?—That was the most convenient time for me.

34,611. Had you not time to go before that?—No.

34,612. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

34,613. Did you give any money to anybody else for voting?—No.

34,614. Did you promise anybody anything?—No; I took no interest in it.

34,615. Where is your house?—On the Dereham road.

34,616. A public house, is it not?—Yes.

34,617. Were there many people in your house that morning?—Several people.

34,618. Was anybody standing them beer?—No; they paid for their own.

34,619. Has anybody since paid you for beer supplied that day?—No.

34,620. Did you run up any score that day?—No, I did not, I am happy to say.

34,621. Were you asked to take any part in the election?—No.

34,622. You kept out of it altogether?—Yes.

34,623. And carried on your business in the ordinary way?—In the usual way.

34,624. Did you take any more money than usual that day?—No.

WILLIAM CHAMBERLAIN sworn and examined.

34,625. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

34,626. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

34,627. What time in the day?—Between two and three.

34,628. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—No.

34,629. You voted of your own accord?—Yes.

34,630. Had you ever voted before?—No.

34,631. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

34,632. Or the promise of anything?—No.

THOMAS GIFFORD recalled and further examined.

34,633. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Now will you give me any of the names of the men who advised you?—A young man of the name of Starkey was present. Fuller was one that advised me.

34,634. You say you were advised to do this?—They said there would be no particular harm in it, and it would help Sir Henry up.

34,635. You were advised at the committee-room?—Fuller advised me, in the presence of the others; but I cannot recollect the others names.

34,636. Who is Fuller?—Percy Fuller his name is.

34,637–8. You said that several advised you. Was there anybody else?—I believe a young man by the name of Starkey was present.

34,639. Where does he live?—He lives somewhere in St. Lawrence, I think. I think he was present, but I will not be sure.

34,640. It was in the committee-room?—Yes, I know it; there were several out and in.

34,641. It was known you had voted?—Yes, I believe it was.

34,642. And Mr. Stanley was there?—No, he was not.

34,643. You say he was in the committee-room all day?—The chief part of the day, not all day, he was not.

34,644. Did you speak to him about it?—No.

34,645. Why did you not speak to him?—I did not think about asking him.

34,646. You were in doubt about it, and your employer was a solicitor; do you mean to say you did not apply to him?—I did not ask him, and he knew nothing about it till afterwards, and he told me I had done wrong in so doing.

34,647. Do you mean to say you went and acted on the advice of persons you knew nothing of?—Yes.

34,648. Where does Fuller live?—He lived at that time in Cathedral Street, Prince of Wales' Road.

34,649. Was anybody else there at that time?—There might have been two more, but I do not know who they were.

34,650. Did you talk to Fuller about it?—Yes.

34,651. Who had charge of the committee-room when Mr. Stanley was out?—Starkey had.

34,652. Was that the man who advised you?—Whether he was present at this time or not, I do not know, but Fuller was, and Fuller said, "Go and vote again, that will help Sir Henry up."

34,653. When did you speak to Mr. Stanley about it?—The day after, when I went to the office next morning.

34,654. How came you to speak to him about it the next morning?—We were discussing the matter over, and he said, "At what time did you vote?" and I told him, and I said I voted twice, and he said, "if you had "mentioned it to me at first I should have advised "you to do nothing of the sort. You will get in a "mess for it, in all probability."

34,655. Were you paid anything for that day?—I was paid altogether 1*l.* 15*s.* for services rendered.

34,656. Who paid you?—Mr. Stanley paid me at the "Bull and Butcher," at the same time as he paid the others.

34,657. For your services at the election?—At the election, and prior to it.

34,658. (Mr. Mansfield.) Independent of your regular weekly wages?—Yes, quite.

34,659. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Your irregularity consisted in voting at all, and next, you are guilty of a serious offence, for which you are liable to be prosecuted, for having voted again. We shall not protect you unless you tell us the whole truth. You may go, but I advise you to think over it well, and if you have got any further information to give it to us.—I have told you the truth as far as I can.

SAMUEL MEEK sworn and examined.

34,660. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes, I did.

34,661. For whom?—Mr. Stracey; about 9 o'clock in the morning.

34,662. Did you get anything for voting?—Nothing at all.

34,663. Had you promised your vote?—No, never.

34,664. Did anybody promise you anything for voting?—No.

34,665. Have you not stated that you knew well the Tillett party bribed four men for 2*s.* 6*d.* each, and a pensioner for 20*s.*?—No.

34,666. Do you know anything about bribery by the Tillett people?—No, I know nothing about it.

34,667. Did you not talk about it?—On an electioneering day there is a deal of talk, but I know nothing; I know nothing about it.

34,668. I shall not be content to take that. Have you not said that you knew the Tillett party gave four men 2*s.* 6*d.* each?—Never four men; never.

34,669. You say, "never four men"?—Never, or never any.

34,670. Did you say that you knew where any men were paid by the Tillett party?—No.

34,671. Nothing of the kind?—No.

34,672. Did you say anything about a pensioner being paid something?—I do not know a pensioner.

34,673. Have you not said that you knew where a pensioner was paid something by the Tillett party?—No, that is wrong; quite wrong.

34,674. Had you heard anything about bribery by the Tillett party?—I have heard a deal about it, and the more is the shame of it. I voted for a good intent, and am sorry to say it ended badly.

34,675. I am speaking about bribery by the Tillett party?—I am not concerned in it.

34,676. Do you know anything about it?—No, I do not; if I did, I have come with a good intent, and I would have said so at once.

34,677. Have you heard anything about it?—No, I have not.

34,678. Have you not been talking about bribery by the Tillett party?—Any person might do it.

34,679. You must have had some ground?—I mean to say I know nothing at all about it, and was not concerned in it.

34,680. How came you to be talking about bribery by the Tillett party if you knew nothing about it?—I do not know that I did.

34,681. Do you mean to swear you have not said you knew where four men had been bribed by the Tillett party for 2*s.* 6*d.* each?—I can say that confidently.

34,682. Have you said anything about bribery by the Tillett party at all?—No, never.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

S. Meek.

8 Oct. 1869.

34,683. By the Liberals ?—No, never. I can look anybody in the face and say that.

34,684. What have you said about it ?—Nothing at all ; I had nothing at all to do with it. I came and voted, and went home at night.

34,685. It is not what occurred on the day of election, but what have you said since ?—I am happy to say I am clear of all that you lay to my charge.

34,686. It is not what you did yourself; you said you knew something that other people had done ?—No.

34,687. That the Liberal party had been bribing ?—No.

34,688. Did you never say anything of that sort ?—No.

W. Gardiner.

WILLIAM GARDINER sworn and examined.

34,689. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade ?—A rag and metal merchant.

34,690. For whom did you vote at the last election ?—Tillett and Russell.

34,691. Do you employ any men ?—Oh yes.

34,692. Did you make them vote ?—Neither of them happened to have a vote.

34,693. You took a good deal of interest on the side of Mr. Tillett and Sir William Russell ?—No, I did not, at this election. I lent my horse and trap for the good of the election ; but I was not very well, and never asked a single man to vote.

34,694. Did you not go out at all that day ?—I was out.

34,695. Did you take up some voters ?—No; not one.

34,696. Did you get other people to take up voters ?—I gave my horse and trap and man for the use of the election.

34,697. For what purpose ?—So that if any one wanted fetching up to the poll, it was at their use.

34,698. You were not with the horse and trap ?—I was by myself about an hour or an hour and a half.

34,699. You took no part in it yourself ?—I never took one up, I will swear.

34,700. You drew a cheque for a considerable sum of money that day. You had a considerable sum of money upon you ?—It was my own.

34,701. Do you know what you had ?—I cannot say.

34,702. Do you know what you did with it ?—I kept it for my business. I did not spend it on that day.

34,703. Did you not part with any of it for election purposes ?—Not a farthing.

37,704. Are you quite certain of that ?—Yes, I will swear that.

34,705. Have you not said you were putting a little money about on that day ?—I never said so ; certainly not. I could not say so unless I told a lie.

34,706. Did you draw a cheque on your banker's that day ?—Not that I know of ; if it was it was for my business ; but I did not draw on that day.

34,707. Are you quite certain of that ?—I feel most sure of it.

34,708. Did anybody hand over to you a cheque that day ?—No ; not any one.

34,709. You had a good deal of money in your pocket ?—I had some, but I could not tell to a few shillings. I am not like some of these misers who reckon up every sixpence. I carry about with me what I think fit, and if I spend a shilling I spend it.

34,710. You spent a few shillings in beer that day ?—Not a halfpenny.

34,711. Did you not treat any one ?—No.

34,712. Did you not try to get up some voters for Tillett ?—No, not any one.

34,713. Did you not send messages to people to get them up ?—No ; I never sent a message. I did nothing no further than lending my horse and trap for the use of the party, and I was not asked for that.

34,714. You did not part with a shilling yourself ?—Not one farthing, and I never took one person up to the poll.

34,715. Do you know a man of the name of Claxton ?—I know several Claxtons.

34,716. George Claxton ?—Yes, very well.

34,717. You know he is a very busy man at elections ?—Yes.

34,718. Municipal elections ?—Yes ; I know him quite well.

34,719. Do you recollect the last municipal election on the 1st of November ?—Yes, that I do.

34,720. I suppose you spent a little money then ?—Oh yes, that I did.

34,721. On the Liberal side ?—Yes, but I was not asked to do it.

34,722. Still you did do it ?—Oh yes; that I do not deny.

34,723. Was there much of a contest in your ward ?—There was a great contest, I should consider. The reason I did it was that I wanted to get in two men ;—one poor man of the name of Kelton, who is dead, and a Mr. Jarrold; they were the very men to do away with the common sewer rate, which was a curse upon the city, and I did not care what I did if I could put in men to vote against it.

34,724. How much did you spend ?—I went into my room there, and whether I spent it, or whether they plundered it from me, I do not know. I had three or four fellows who stood before me, and swore they would knock my brains out. I got so confused that I could not find my purse.

34,725. How much did you part with altogether ?—I dare say I spent 40*l.* I make no doubt I did.

34,726. I suppose the people you spent it upon at that municipal election went with you for Tillett ?—One of them was Mr. Pratt, and one Mr. Morris, the potato dealer.

34,727. This municipal contest was about a fortnight before the Parliamentary election ?—I did not keep any account.

34,728. It is the beginning of November, is it not ?—Yes.

34,729. You recollect the election was on the 18th ?—I cannot tell you. I am no scholar, and I cannot recollect.

34,730. The 18th was the day of the poll in Norwich ?—Well, I am sure I never took any account.

34,731. The municipal election would be the first week in November ?—Yes.

34,732. That would be a very short time before the general election ?—I dare say it was, but I did not take much notice of it.

34,733. By getting the party together for the municipal contest, you kept them for the Parliamentary contest ?—These very fellows that behaved like blackguards stood before me in my room, and swore they would knock my brains out.

34,734. Did not these men that you paid for the municipal contest afterwards vote for Tillett at the Parliamentary election ?—No; they voted for Stracey.

34,735. All of them ?—Almost all of them ; all that I can think of.

34,736. Perhaps you will tell us the names of persons to whom you gave money at the municipal election ?—John Pratt, at the "Prince of Denmark," was one, and Maris, of Catton, was another.

34,737. You gave that money to those men to put about amongst the small voters ?—No, not at all. I believe they plundered very nearly all the money they got, and I never was so insulted in my life. Talk about blackguards ! if a lion was there they could not have behaved worse.

34,738. You parted with 40*l.*, and did not get the men to vote as you wished ?—I never see one man vote.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

W. Gardiner.

8 Oct. 1869.

34,739. Who were you supporting at the municipal election?—Mr. Jarrold and Mr. Kelton.

34,740. That was last November?—Yes, and Mr. Kelton told me, if I spent any money he would not pay a penny of it. I did it all of my own accord.

34,741. Were those the only men to whom you gave money?—There were several of them took it; I could not say who they were, there was such a confusion. The landlady of the house knows how they behaved.

34,742. You did not get them to do what you wished?—No, not one. They got in the house, and I could not get out. I could not get away more than a rat from a lot of dogs.

34,743. At that municipal election your party was the Tory party?—No.

34,744. You were against the sewerage question?—Yes; and so was Jarrold and Kelton.

34,745. By what side were they supported?—They were against it, and worked very hard against having it.

34,746. Were they supported by the Whigs or by the Tories, or both?—They were the very men that worked very hard, having meetings to get a resolution passed to vote against having this common sewerage.

34,747. I want to know whether, at this municipal contest, it was a political thing, or merely a question of sewerage rate?—All I can say is, I tried all I could to vote these people who would work hard against having the sewerage.

34,748. It had nothing at all to do with politics?—Not at all, that I know of.

34,749. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) It was a mere question of how to manage the drainage of the city?—Yes, that was all.

34,750. (Mr. Mansfield.) You wanted to get rid of a sewerage rate?—Yes; it was a curse on the city; and all those that voted to have it ought to be buried in the deepest place.

34,751. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You thought the sewerage was all an imposition?—Yes; it was what you call a lawyers' and gentlemen's fee, that is what that is, and the poor shopkeepers have to do it.

34,752. You thought it was all a job?—Yes, so it is; and a lot of roguery as well.

34,753. And you are against that?—Oh yes, that I am.

RICHARD COOPER sworn and examined. R. Cooper.

34,754. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A baker.

34,755. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

34,756. At what time in the day?—About twenty minutes to four, as near as I can tell.

34,757. Why did you not vote earlier?—Because my business prevented me from so doing.

34,758. Have you your ovens heated until a late hour in the day?—Yes.

34,759. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

34,760. Nor the promise of anything?—No, not anything.

34,761. Neither directly nor indirectly did you receive anything for your vote?—No, neither directly nor indirectly.

JAMES NOBBS sworn and examined. J. Nobbs.

34,762. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

34,763. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—Yes.

34,764. Who canvassed you?—I cannot say who it was, but some gentlemen on the Liberal side.

34,765. What answer did you give to them?—I told them I could not make no promise, that I should vote which way I thought for the best.

34,766. Why did you not promise?—Because it was possible I might break such a promise, and it would not be right.

34,767. What would induce you to break that promise; money?—No; I had no request upon the subject.

34,768. How did you come to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Well, in the first place, of course, my employer led me some little way, although not in the shape of bribery, only by employment.

34,769. Did he promise you employment?—No; no particular promise. I have worked for him for upwards of twenty years.

34,770. Did he ask you to vote for Stracey?—No, certainly not.

34,771. You know he was for Stracey?—Well, so far, I knew he was a Tory, but I did not know whether he was a friend of Stracey or not. I never had any conversation with him upon the subject.

34,772. Did you get any money?—No; not one single farthing.

34,773. Nor the promise of any money?—No, nor any promise.

34,774. Were you at any public house where you got any beer that day?—No.

DAVID HARMER sworn and examined. D. Harmer.

34,775. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A shoeing smith and farrier.

34,776. How long have you had a vote?—About 25 years.

34,777. On which side have you always voted?—On the purple side.

34,778. Orange and purple?—Yes.

34,779. Have you always voted for the Tories?—Yes.

34,780. Have you ever got anything for it?—No.

34,781. I suppose you have been treated sometimes?—No; I generally treat myself. I pay for what I drink myself.

34,782. This time have you had any money given to you?—I received 7*s.* 6*d.*

34,783. Who gave it to you?—Robert Bunn, about five weeks after the election.

34,784. I suppose he promised it to you on the day of the election?—I met him in the morning about seven o'clock, and he asked me which way I was going to vote, and I said, "I shall vote for Stracey;" and he said if I did he would pay me for my day's work. That is all the conversation I had. I met him about four or five weeks afterwards, and he asked me if I had voted for Sir Henry Stracey, and I said yes, and he paid me.

34,785. Was there anybody else there being paid at the time?—Not any one.

34,786. Had he made any bargain with you for this?—No; it was his own proposition. I never asked him either way for it.

34,787. I suppose you generally get your day's work at elections, if you can?—Yes, if I can.

34,788. Did you ever get as high as 10*l.* for it?—No, not one, nor yet half a one.

34,789. 7*s.* 6*s.* is about your price?—He did not offer it to me. He said he would pay me my day's work, and when I received the money it was 7*s.* 6*d.*

34,790. Did you help to take any one else up?—No.

34,791. Did you not take any message to people that they might get money for their voting?—No, not to any one.

'WENTY-XTH DAY.

E. Cole.

Oct. 1869.

ELIJAH COLE sworn and examined.

34,792. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A publican.

34,793. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

34,794. For whom?—For Stracey.

34,795. At what time in the day?—About three o'clock.

34,796. Why did you not vote earlier than that?—I had something to do at home.

34,797. What was it?—Seeing after my garden; mine is a garden house.

34,798. There was no particular hurry about your garden?—I do not know about that; there were little jobs that wanted doing, and I stopped to do them.

34,799. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

34,800. Nor the promise of anything?—No, not a halfpenny.

34,801. Were any persons waiting there?—I had some customers.

34,802. Were they voters?—I do not know.

34,803. Were you attending to them?—Sometimes, and sometimes my wife.

34,804. Did you hear anything said about voting?—No, not a word.

34,805. I did not expect you did, as you are a publican. You mean to tell me you got nothing?—Not a farthing, and never did.

34,806. Had you been canvassed before?—No; I was not canvassed by either party.

34,807. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Nobody said a word in your presence about the election that day?—No.

34,808. Really the publicans in this city are the most extraordinary generation I ever came across, not a single one of them ever heard a word mentioned about the election. You are not telling the truth.—My house is no way near a polling place.

34,809. You know as well as possible there were people talking about the election at your house; it was the great topic of the day in the city, and it is idle to tell me that.—My house was not in the way.

34,810. Every one of the publicans in the city come and tell the same thing, that they heard not a single word about the election, and that they had not a single voter in their house.—My house was not in the way of it at all; it was nowhere near any polling place.

E. Gunn.

EDWARD GUNN sworn and examined.

34,811. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you for vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

34,812. At what time in the day?—Between three and four.

34,813. Why did you not vote before?—Because I did not leave my business till three o'clock.

34,814. What is your business?—Animal and bird preserver.

34,815. You could spare five minutes from that at any time to go and vote?—If we are about a job we are obliged to finish it before leaving it; it is a peculiar business.

34,816. Were you looking out for what you could get?—No; I never saw anyone.

34,817. You may not have seen any one, but were you looking out for what you could get?—No.

34,818. Were you not waiting to see whether anybody would come and offer you money?—No.

34,819. Were you willing to take money?—No.

34,820. Had you ever voted before?—No.

34,821. Why did you not vote before?—I took very little interest in the election at all.

34,822. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

34,823. Or the promise of anything?—No, from no one whatever.

34,824. Neither before nor since.?—No.

JAMES SMITH sworn and examined.

J. Smith.

34,825. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

34,826. Is this your first time of voting?—Yes.

34,827. What are you by trade?—A bricklayer.

34,828. For whom do you work?—Mr. Youngs.

34,829. Were you working on the day of the poll?—Yes.

34,830. What time did you begin?—At six in the morning, and worked up to one.

34,831. When did you vote?—At half-past one, and went to work again at two.

34,832. You voted at your dinner hour?—Yes.

34,833. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

34,834. Did any one treat you?—No, not any one. I never see the worth of no money or a glass of beer.

34,835. You went to the poll, and you were not hanging about the streets?—That is the truth.

. Allthorpe

JAMES ALLTHORPE sworn and examined.

34,836. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A licensed victualler.

34,837. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

34,838. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

34,839. At what time in the day?—Between ten and eleven.

34,840. Did you take any active part in the election?—No, not any.

34,841. Were there any voters collected at your house that day?—No; they were in and out. They would come in, and get a glass of ale, and go out again, as they usually do.

34,842. Was there any treating going on in your house?—No, not any.

34,843. Was no money paid for beer you served on that day?—No.

34,844. Did you get anything yourself for voting?—No, and did not want.

34,845. Or the promise of anything?—No; I did not want, and never did.

34,846. On former elections have you been engaged in paying voters?—No; never in my life.

34,847. Did you ever get anything yourself for voting?—Only my expenses, once. I had my expenses from Yarmouth to Norwich once.

34,848. Was that at Waters' election?—No; years before that.

W. Smith.

WILLIAM SMITH sworn and examined.

34,849. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

34,850. Did anybody canvass you for your vote?—No.

34,851. Were you not asked at all for your vote on the day before the election?—No.

34,852. Did anybody come and ask you to go up to the poll?—No.

34,853. Did you go up of your own accord?—Yes.

34,854. At what time did you go?—Between one and two. I left my work at dinner time.

34,855. Did anybody carry you up to the poll?—No; I walked up.

34,856. Were you at a beer-shop in West End Street, Heigham, that day?—No.

34,857. Do you know a man of the name of Miller?—I know a man of the name of Miller.

34,858. Do you know a man of the name of Fisher?—No.

34,859. Do you know a man of the name of Soames?—No.

34,860. Did anybody go with you to the poll?—No; I went alone.

34,861. Had you been in any public house that day?—No.

34,862. Or beer-shop?—No. I left my work, and went up in my dinner-hour, and voted, and returned back to my work again.

34,863. Before you went to vote, did you not go into a beer shop?—No; I did not go into any house that day.

34,864. Do you know a man of the name of Heinrich?—No.

34,865. Did any foreigner come to you that day?—No.

34,866. Did anybody offer you any money?—No.

34,867. Or promise you anything?—No.

34,868. Are you quite sure of that?—Yes.

34,869. Did anybody promise or give you any beer?—No, nothing. I do not know that I spoke to anybody except those that I was at work with. I left my work at my dinner hour, and went with my victuals in my hand, and got half a pint of beer as I went along, and stood to drink it with my victuals in my hand. I went and voted, and returned again.

JAMES ANDREWS recalled and further examined.

J. Andrews.

34,870. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—I am a shopkeeper. I am no trade.

34,871. Do you do anything else?—Yes; I put stalls out in the Norwich Market.

34,872. Is this the first time you have had a vote?—No.

34,873. For which side have you generally voted?—Always Conservative.

34,874. What do you generally get by voting for the Conservatives?—I never took a penny piece in my life for voting.

34,875. You got nothing this time?—No.

34,876. What houses were you at to be treated this time?—I am not in the habit of being treated by anybody.

34,877. Never?—No, never.

34,878. Were you not treated at this election for the sake of your vote and interest?—No.

34,879. You took a very busy part in the election, I believe?—I did what I could to promote Sir Henry Stracey's return.

34,880. You took some people up to the poll?—Yes, some.

34,881. You had to stand them some beer?—No; I did not do anything of the sort.

34,882. How did you get them up?—I asked them if they had voted, and if they had not whether they would oblige me by voting for Sir Henry Stracey; some did, and some did not.

34,883. Did you not use any other means to get them up?—No.

34,884. Do you mean that you treated none of these men?—No; I never treated any of them, until after the election was over.

34,885. Who did you treat then?—Some of my customers that were in the house, but nobody that I took up to vote.

34,886. Not the people that you had asked to vote?—No, not one.

34,887. They were all belonging to the Stracey party, and I suppose that you treated them?—My house on the day of the election was pretty full of partisans of Sir Henry Stracey.

34,888. There was a committee-room there, was there not?—No.

34,889. Were none of the agents of the party there?—No.

34,890. Was anybody getting up voters from your house?—I am not aware of anybody. I was not at my house on the election day, I should think, half an hour during the whole of the day; not from eight in the morning to seven or eight at night.

34,891. What were you doing the whole day?—I was about the different wards; sometimes I was at the central committee-room in one part of Norwich, and sometimes another.

34,892. How many people do you suppose you got up during the day?—Seven.

34,893. Do you mean that the whole day, from eight in the morning to four in the afternoon, you only got up seven voters?—Yes.

34,894. And you mean to say you took a good deal of trouble in the election?—Yes.

34,895. You were about the city all day?—No, not all day. I was for the most part at the central committee-room.

34,896. You received instructions to go to different parts of the town?—No; I received no instructions.

34,897. Did anybody speak to you at the central committee-rooms?—No.

34,898. Did anybody give you instructions about what you were to do at the central committee-rooms?—No; not on the election day.

34,899. At the central committee-room on the election day what was said to you?—Nothing was said to me.

34,900. Do you mean to say you went and sat down and heard and said nothing?—I was at the central committee-room some time previous to the election, some twelve or fourteen days, and on the election day I went up to the central committee-room, and they were very busy. After that I had no instructions from anybody, and went about Norwich wherever I thought fit.

34,901. What money was given to you to put about?—Not a farthing.

34,902. Or to treat people?—Not a farthing.

34,903. Do you mean to tell me you did nothing but take those people up to the poll?—No, certainly not.

34,904. You took the whole day about that?—I was not the whole day about it. I did not start about anything of that sort till between twelve and one.

34,905. That was the time the money was being put about?—I do not know anything about that. I never saw any money or beer given for the purpose.

34,906. You still say you got none yourself?—Yes, I still say so. I have no occasion to say anything else.

34,907. Did you not engage some people before the election?—No, not on my behalf. My brother Ambrose had the engagement of the men, and if my brother Ambrose's list was not filled up, I would say, "Have you got his name down?" And my brother would put his name down.

34,908. I suppose you took no pains to inquire whether they were voters or not?—No, certainly not.

34,909. How many do you suppose there were?—Before the election?

34,910. Yes. Did you send a dozen?—Yes, a great deal more.

34,911. A couple of dozen?—I should say fifty perhaps during the different meetings.

34,912. Do you know the names of them?—I gave in a list of them when I was examined here before.

34,913. Did you tell them what they were to get?—Yes; two shillings and a pot of beer.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

8 Oct. 1869.

W. Nicholls.

William Nicholls sworn and examined.

34,914. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A maltster in the winter season, and a pavior in the summer.

34,915. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

34,916. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

34,917. At what time in the day?—Somewhere about 3 o'clock.

34,918. Did you get anything for voting?—No; I had not the chance.

34,919. You wish you had, I suppose?—I do not know about that.

34,920. You did not get an offer of anything?—No.

34,921. Or the promise of anything?—No.

W. B. Harvey.

William Bury Harvey sworn and examined.

34,922. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

34,923. What public houses did you go to in the morning?—Not on the poll day.

34,924. Did you go to none of them?—No; I had nothing.

34,925. What were you about the whole of the morning?—I was at work.

34,926. For whom were you at work?—At Mr. Bullard's.

34,927. What is he?—Mr. Bullard, the brewer; I was at work all the forenoon.

34,928. Did all your men vote for Stracey?—No, I think not; I do not know, I am sure, about that. I think two of them did. I think two of the carpenters did.

34,929. Mr. Bullard voted for Stracey, did he not?—I do not know.

34,930. Did Mr. Bullard ask you to vote?—No, nor yet any one.

34,931. Did nobody come to you?—No; nobody came to my house; neither from one side nor the other. I went merely because I had voted a Tory, and would vote a Tory this time.

34,932. Did no one offer you any money?—No one spoke to me about such a thing.

34,933. You went up entirely of your own accord, and came back?—Yes; I came home to my dinner, and went and voted on the Dereham Road at the school, and went to work again.

34,934. Are you sure you got nothing and were promised nothing for it?—No one ever asked me such a word, and I never thought of such a thing.

W. Watling.

William Watling sworn and examined.

34,935. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A market gardener.

34,936. Where do you live?—At Heigham.

34,937. How far off from your polling-place do you live?—I do not know what the polling-place is.

34,938. Where you give your vote.—I gave my vote on St. Giles' Hill.

34,939. How far is that off from where you live?—A mile off, I suppose, from where I live.

34,940. Who asked you to vote?—I voted for Mr. Stracey. I was not axed by anybody, nor yet canvassed by any anybody.

34,941. What did you get for it?—Nothing.

34,942. Are you quite sure of that?—Yes, I am quite sure nobody came to me.

34,943. What have you had since?—Nothing.

34,944. Is this the first time you ever voted?—No; I voted for Mr. Bignold and Mr. Peto.

34,945. What do you generally get on these occasions?—I never got anything at an election.

34,946. And never tried?—No, never. I have always voted a Tory ever since I have ever voted.

34,947. Has nothing ever been offered you?—No, nothing; and they never even canvassed.

34,948. Do you know a man of the name of Porter, who keeps the "New Inn"?—Yes; I believe he is about here now.

34,949. I think you were at his place on the day of the poll?—No, never; I was never in his house, and nobody ever see me there.

34,950. If a number of people say you were there, is that untrue?—Yes, that is quite untrue, because I was not in his house.

34,951. Do you often go there?—No, I have never been, except three times, since he has kept the house, and that was to buy a piece of meat. He sells meat, and I have been there to buy meat about three times.

34,952. At what public houses were you on the day of the poll?—I left my labour at half past two, and came and voted at three; and after I voted I got half a pint of porter and a biscuit.

34,953. Who paid for that?—I paid for it myself out of my own pocket.

34,954. Did nobody offer to pay for it?—No, nobody offered me a farthing, or asked me to have a glass of anything.

34,955. Did you go near the "Tuns" that day?—Yes; I passed the "Tuns," but I did not go there; I went to the next shop.

34,956. Did you go into the "Tuns" that day?—I was in the "Tuns" after the election was over.

34,957. What did you get there?—Nothing.

34,958. Are you sure of that?—Yes, I never had nothing at the "Tuns."

34,959. Was that the only place to which you went?—Yes; except after my business in the evening, and then I called at different places.

34,960. What places were those?—I think one place was in St. Benedict's, and I had a glass of ale there. I was going after my wife's linen, and I had a glass of ale.

34,961. Do you mean to say that nothing was paid for you by any of your Tory friends?—No, nothing.

34,962. Did you not get some beer out of the Tillett people?—No, nor yet from anybody else.

34,963. Did you not know where to get some of the Tillett beer?—No, nor yet anybody else's beer. I never got none but what I bought myself.

H. Smith.

Henry Smith recalled and further examined.

34,964. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes; I have been before you before. I was tried on the "Trumpet" case.

34,965. You were not tried; did you tell anything about the "Trumpet" case?—I have told you as far as this, that I knew nothing about it. I thought it must be a mistake, having the paper sent; I was surprised at it.

34,966. Are you a freeman in Coburg Street?—Yes.

34,967. You were in the "Trumpet" that day?—Yes; I had to go there.

34,968. Some one asked you if you had got 7*s.* 6*d.*?—Yes.

34,969. What did you say to that?—No; I never see it.

34,970. Do you say the same thing to-day?—Yes. If I had seen it then I should have been as lucky as others.

PHILIP WAYLING sworn and examined. P. Wayling.

34,971. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) At what public house were you on the morning of the election?—I was not at any.

34,972. What are you by trade?—A boot finisher.

34,973. Do you mean to say you were not out of your house that morning?—No.

34,974. Where were you in the afternoon?—About half-past three or a quarter to four I went out.

34,975. Why could you not get out before that time?—Because I had not finished my work.

34,976. There was plenty of time, you know. You had some time at your breakfast and some time at your dinner?—That was the most convenient time for me to go out.

34,977. Why did you not go and vote in the morning?—Because it did not suit me to leave my work.

34,978. Who came to fetch you up?—No one did not come to fetch me up.

34,979. Did anybody come to you?—I stood against my door, and a fly came past, and they were going up, and I got into it, and went up and voted.

34,980. Who was in the fly?—Mr. Cunningham.

34,981. Cunnington, was it not?—Cunningham.

34,982. It must be Cunnington. Did Cunnington promise you something for your vote?—No.

34,983. Did he not give you anything?—No

34,984. Was anybody else in the fly at the time?—Yes; Mr. Buttifant was in the fly at the time.

34,985. What did he give you?—Nothing.

34,986. Did they not promise you something?—No.

34,987. Did they not give you something;—Yes.

34,988. Did you ask for anything?—No; I went voluntarily; I was going up the lane to vote, and they was going up at the same time.

34,989. Did anybody give you anything to drink or anything of the kind that day?—No.

34,990. Where did you go after you had voted?—I went and got a pint of beer at the "Reindeer" after I had voted, at my own expense.

34,991. Had you no jollification that evening?—No, not anything of the sort, not a glass.

34,992. The next day?—I know nothing of the sort.

GEORGE ROWBOTTOM sworn and examined. G. Rowbottom

34,993. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you?—A labourer.

34,994. Have you ever voted before?—Not for a general election.

34,995. Only at the municipal elections?—Yes.

34,996. Are you Whig or Tory?—Tory.

34,997. Have you always been a Tory at the municipal elections?—Yes, I always was.

34,998. You voted Tory at the general election?—Yes.

34,999. Did you get anything for it?—No.

35,000. No beer?—No.

35,001. What time in the day did you vote?—Between twelve and one.

35,002. Had you promised your vote?—No.

35,003. Had anybody asked you for it?—I had a card sent to me by both parties.

35,004. Did any gentleman come to your house, and speak to you, and ask you for your vote?—No.

35,005. That being your principle, you went and voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes; I always was a Tory in principle.

35,006. You have had nothing since?—No.

ROBERT WELLS sworn and examined. R. Wells.

35,007. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—An ostler.

35,008. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

35,009. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

35,010. At what time in the day?—About a quarter past three.

35,011. Why did you not vote sooner?—I could not get away.

35,012. What were you about in the morning?—I was busy after my horses.

35,013. What did you do after you had voted?—I went back to my employment.

35,014. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

35,015. Or the promise of anything?—No, certainly not.

WALTER HART sworn and examined. W. Hart.

35,016. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

35,017. Did anybody come and ask you for your vote?—No.

35,018. Did anybody take you up to the poll?—No.

35,019. What were you doing on the morning of the election?—At work.

35,020. Where?—At my shop.

35,021. Could you not get away from your work?—No.

35,022. Why?—Because I had some work that lasted me till three o'clock.

35,023. You went off to breakfast, did you not?—Yes.

35,024. Did you not go off to dinner?—Yes.

35,025. You had a whole hour to dinner?—I had a long way to go.

35,026. Why did you not vote as you went home to dinner?—Because I had not time.

35,027. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

35,028. Did anybody give you anything that day?—No.

35,029. Or your wife?—No.

35,030. Did your wife tell you she got anything?—No.

35,031. Did anybody promise you anything?—No.

35,032. Did your master ask you to vote?—No.

35,033. Are you sure you got nothing for your vote or the promise of anything?—I am quite sure.

WILLIAM FARROW sworn and examined. W. Farrow.

35,034. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—I am a farming bailiff.

35,035. For whom did you vote at this election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

35,036. Who asked you to vote?—No one did not ask me to vote.

35,037. Did you promise to vote?—I did not promise anyone to vote.

35,038. When did you make up your mind to vote?—I made up my mind as soon as I heard the election was coming on, to vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

35,039. Have you always been Tory?—Yes, always.

35,040. Have you ever voted Tory at the municipal elections?—Yes.

35,041. Were you at the entertainment at Dr. Master's?—I was there because I am employed by Dr. Master.

35,042. You are one of his workmen?—I am farm bailiff for Dr. Master.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

W. Farrow.

8 Oct. 1869.

35,043. He gave you a little breakfast that morning?—He often gives me my breakfast, because I am up his way in the morning.

35,044. Have you had anything for your vote?—No, nothing at all.

35,045. Or the promise of anything?—No, nothing at all.

35,046. You got nothing at all that day except this breakfast?—No, nothing more.

35,047. No one stood you beer?—No, not at all.

W. Shingles.

WILLIAM SHINGLES sworn and examined.

35,048. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A cab driver.

35,049. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

35,050. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

35,051. What time in the day?—About five minutes to four.

35,052. That was driving it off rather late?—Yes, it was; but I had a fare for the four o'clock train, and could not go before.

35,053. Why did you not go sooner?—I had a fare for the train.

35,054. You were on your stand, waiting?—Yes.

35,055. Did you get anything for voting?—Nothing.

35,056. Or the promise of anything?—Not a farthing.

35,057. Or anything after you had voted?—Nor anything after I had voted.

H. P. Wicks.

HENRY PHILIP WICKS sworn and examined.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) The shorthand-writer will read to you the evidence given by Charles Howlett.

(The shorthand-writer reads the evidence referred to.)

35,058. Are you a clerk to Mr. Tillett?—To Messrs. Tillett & Co., not Mr. J. H. Tillett; he had retired from our firm then. Mr. Flux was a partner in the firm at that time.

35,059. Did you have any money for the purposes of the election at any time?—No.

35,060. Was none ever carried by you anywhere?—70*l.* was carried by me on the 3d of November to Mr. Bensley's, where I then lodged; it was a sum of money which was paid on the 2d, after the cashier had gone from our office, to Mr. Flux, one of the partners; he was going to London in the morning, and he handed me the money to pay the cashier in the morning, which I did, and here is the receipt in my cash-book which the cashier gave me for the money, and the cashier's entry in the book; that is the only money I ever had at Bensley's, and Bensley saw me with the money that night.

35,061. Was that handed over the next morning for the purpose of taking to London?—No; it was handed to the cashier next morning; the partner went to London by an early train.

35,061. It was handed to the cashier the very next morning?—It was.

35,062. Had the cashier left that evening before you received the money?—Our offices close at half past five, and it was between half-past six and seven that the money was received, and the cashier had then gone.

35,063. Who paid you the money?—Mr. Swanstead of Diss.

35,065. Was it an ordinary debt?—Yes; a little due to the firm.

35,066. Is there any truth in the statement that you ever carried home any sum of money for the purposes of the election?—Not the least.

35,067. Do you know of any money having been used for such a purpose?—I do not.

35,068. Did Mr. Bensley see the money?—He did.

35,069. Did you tell him what it was for?—I did not.

35,070. He simply saw the money in your possession?—He simply saw the money; I did not even mention to him that I had the money, but I heard that he had mentioned it afterwards.

35,071. And he saw you with the money in your custody?—I put it on the table in my sitting-room when I went in, and he saw it.

35,072. How did he know it was a bag of money?—I pulled it out, and counted it, after I got home, and he might have seen it then.

35,073. You were counting it to see whether it was correct?—Yes.

35,074. Do you know of any money being spent by any of the Messrs. Tillett connected with this election?—I do not.

35,075. Did any money pass through your hands for the purpose of being paid to anybody?—No.

35,076. In any way connected with the election?—Not in the least.

35,077. Did you yourself pay anybody anything on account of the election?—I did not.

35,078. Or for voting at it?—No.

35,079. Or for beer supplied at it?—No. I paid the messengers, and I paid for the room where I sat, the committee-room at Catton.

35,080. Where did you pay for that committee-room at Catton?—I forget.

35,081. For whom did you pay it?—I got the money from Mr. Stevens, and paid it over.

35,082. Did you pay the sum of money for the room which you got from Mr. Stevens, neither more nor less?—No; not exactly the amount I got from Mr. Stevens; there were other things included in our bill against Mr. Stevens. I paid a portion of the money.

35,083. Did you pay the sum of money which was appropriated by Mr. Stevens for the purpose?—Yes.

35,084. Neither more nor less?—Neither more nor less.

35,085. Did you vote at the election?—I did.

35,086. Did you receive anything for your vote?—No.

35,087. Or were you promised anything?—No, nothing.

35,088. Were you left free to vote just as you pleased?—Yes.

35,089. You were in no way influenced in voting?—Not in the least.

35,090. Which way did you vote?—For Mr. Tillett and Sir William Russell.

35,091. (Mr. Biron.) Howlett said it was reported to him that you put a sovereign in one eye, and said, "That is the way we are going to do it"?—I did not.

35,092. "And if one won't do, it will be a sovereign "in the other"?—I did not do any such thing.

35,093. Did you say any such thing?—I did not.

35,094. Or anything that conveyed to this man Bensley that you intended to use the money for bribery?—I did not.

35,095. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you say anything in joke about that?—No.

HENRY HARBORD sworn and examined. H. Harbord.

35,096. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A publican.

35,097. Where is your public-house?—Down in Heigham, the "Marquis of Lothian."

35,098. Is this the first time you have had a vote?—Yes.

35,099. For whom did you vote?—Stracey.

35,100. What time in the day?—Between three and four.

35,101. Who asked you for your vote?—Well, I was solicited by both parties.

35,102. Did you promise your vote?—To neither.

35,103. You preferred to wait?—Yes.

35,104. What made you vote at last for Stracey, between three and four?—Because it is my profession.

35,105. But you told me just now you did not make up your mind?—No; I beg your pardon, I did not. I said I would not promise to any one.

35,106. You did not say which way you were going to vote?—No, I did not.

35,107. What did you get for it?—Nothing at all.

35,108. Was there much doing at your house that day?—No, very little.

35,109. Were there many voters in there drinking?—No.

35,110. Were there any voters you knew of there?—I don't know of one; they might have come in and got a glass and out again, but there was no business done.

35,111. Have you had any score paid you for beer served on that day?—No.

35,112. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes.

35,113. Did anybody come in and find these men there?—No.

35,114. Are you quite certain of that?—Certain of it.

35,115. Did you take any busy part in the election yourself?—Not at all.

35,116. Did you ask any one to vote?—No.

35,117. Not one person?—Not one person.

37,118. Did you accompany any person to the poll?—No.

35,119. Have you been paid anything since for doing anything that day?—Not a farthing.

35,120. Who is your brewer?—Arnold and Wyatt.

35,121. Are they on the Stracey side?—I do not know.

35,122. Did they ever ask you about it?—No.

35,123. Did none of their managers speak to you on the subject?—No.

SAMUEL THOMAS MELVIN sworn and examined. S. T. Melvin.

35,124. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A boot and shoemaker.

35,125. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

35,126. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

35,127. What time in the day?—At a quarter before four.

35,128. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

35,129. Why did you not vote sooner than that?—I did not know it was any matter, as the polling hours was from eight to four in the afternoon; it did not suit me before, because I had some work on hand that I was obliged to finish.

35,130. Were you busy all the day?—Yes, and never left my home on any occasion.

35,131. Did you get any promise of anything?—No.

JOHN NELSON sworn and examined. J. Nelson.

35,132. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

35,133. Had you promised your vote before the election?—I had not.

35,134. Did anybody ask you for it?—I was asked.

35,135. Who asked you for it?—He did not ask me but he asked my wife, and she said as this, if I voted I should vote for the Tory party.

35,136. When was that?—I cannot tell you; a few days before the election took place.

35,137. Had you told your wife you meant to do that?—I had, sir; that is my principle.

35,138. Why did you say "if you voted?" Had you not made up your mind to vote?—I had, sir; I never had a vote before, and I thought if I had the chance I might do so.

35,139. Why did not your wife say you would vote for the Tories, without saying, "if you voted at all"?—Why did'nt she say so? She did say so.

35,140. It is a funny way of promising a vote. Had you made up your mind to vote?—She said as this, "If my husband vote, he vote for the Tory party," no more.

35,141. That was the answer?—That was the answer.

35,142. And you acted upon it, did you?—I did.

35,143. Did you get anything for your vote?—I never remember it.

35,144. (Mr. Biron.) Do you mean that you did not?—I did not.

35,145. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you sure you got nothing?—I got nothing.

35,146. Nor the promise of anything?—Nor the promise.

35,147. Have you ever had anything given you at all, before or since?—Nothing.

35,148. Have you ever voted before?—No.

HENRY MITCHELL sworn and examined. H. Mitchell.

35,149. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A sawyer.

35,150. A workman or a master?—A master.

35,151. How many people do you employ?—One that helps me to saw.

35,152. Do you know Cunnington?—Yes.

35,153. You had some talk with him about this election, had you not?—Yes.

35,154. Did he give you some money?—No.

35,155. Are you quite certain of that?—I am quite certain of that.

35,156. Did he not promise you some?—No.

35,157. What have you had for voting at this election?—Not anything.

35,158. Have you not been promised something?—No.

35,159. Has any money gone through your hands for any one else?—No.

35,160. Are you sure of that?—Yes.

35,161. On the day of the poll were you treated anywhere?—No.

35,162. Nowhere?—No.

35,163. Who did you go up to the poll with?—No one.

35,164. Had you promised your vote this time?—I had promised Mr. Cunnington my vote.

35,165. When did you promise it to Mr. Cunnington?—Two days before.

35,166. Did he not tell you that you would get something by it?—No.

35,167. Did he not lead you to think so?—No.

35,168. Did he not say that he thought there might be money going?—No, he never said no such thing.

35,169. And that you should get what anybody else got?—No; he never said anything about money at all.

35,170. What time in the day did you vote?—Between eleven and twelve.

35,171. Did you try to get anything?—No.

35,172. Did you hear that money was going?—No.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

W. Pritty.

8 Oct. 1869.

WILLIAM PRITTY sworn and examined.

35,173. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a labouring man; I work for Mr. Master.

35,174. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

35,175. For whom?—For Lord Stracey.

35,176. At what time of the day?—I should think about nine o'clock; between nine and ten; I don't know exactly.

35,177. Did you get anything for voting?—No, that I did not.

35,178. Or the promise of anything?—Not a farthing.

T. H. Porter.

THOMAS HALL PORTER sworn and examined.

35,179. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You took an active part, did you not, in supporting Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—No; I never took no active part.

35,180. Did you do anything in support of Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—No, I never took no active part.

35,181. Did you take some men up to the poll?—Some men walked with me at the same time I did up to the poll.

35,182. When they went up, did the poll clerk ask the men for whom they voted?—I did not go up with a poll cart, we went walking up.

35,183. Do you not recollect going up with some men to the poll, and the poll clerk asking the men for whom they voted, they did not answer, but you said, "Oh, we are all for Stracey"?—We went walking up, three or four of us.

35,184. Well, do you recollect that happening?—Yes, I said we were for Stracey.

35,185. The men were a little fresh?—Not that I am aware of.

35,186. You can tell when a man is fresh, surely?—Well, sir, they that went along with me was not fresh.

35,187. What time in the day was it that you voted?—A little after twelve.

35,188. Do you keep a public-house?—A beer-shop. I have been there ten years come Christmas.

35,189. Do you know a fish dealer of the name of Miller?—Quite well, sir; he is a customer of mine.

35,190. Did you buy fish of him for half-a-crown that day?—No, that I did not.

35,191. Did you give him half-a-crown that day?—No, that I did not.

35,192. Did you promise him half-a-crown?—No, I had no money to part from.

35,193. There were a number of voters in your house that day, were there not?—There was a few of my regular customers.

35,194. Was William Watling there?—Yes.

35,195. William Fisher?—Yes.

35,196. Daniel Soames?—Yes.

35,197. William Smith?—Not that I know of. I never saw Smith.

35,198. Do you know a man of the name of Ladbrooke?—Yes.

35,199. Was he there?—I believe he was; all that you have mentioned was there.

35,200. And Whelpton?—Yes, he was there.

35,201. Had anybody given you any money to pay voters?—Not a farthing.

35,202. How came you to offer any of them money?—I never offered any of them money.

35,203. We have evidence about this, upon oath.—I never offered any one money.

35,204. Did you not offer James Lane 7*s.* 6*d.* for his vote?—No, I never offered him a farthing.

35,205. Remember.—I remember quite well, sir.

35,206. Did you not offer Robert Ladbrooke half-a-crown?—No.

35,207. Nor James Whelpton half-a-crown?—No.

35,208. Did you say that if they would vote they should have five shillings each?—No, that I did not.

35,209. Now, do you mean to say that you offered no money?—No.

35,210. To Miller, Watling, Fisher, Soames, Smith, Ladbrooke, Whelpton, or Lane?—Smith I never saw.

35,211. Did you offer any one of these men money that day?—No, not a farthing.

35,212. Or promise them any money?—No, nor yet ever promise them.

35,213. Did you have any conversation with them about voting?—I had a conversation as far as this—they came to my house, they are customers of mine, and I asked them whether they were going to vote.

35,214. With whom of these did you go up and vote?—There was Fisher, Miller, and Soames.

35,215. Watling?—No, not Watling.

35,216. Ladbrooke?—No, nor yet Ladbrooke.

35,217. Whelpton?—No, nor yet Whelpton.

35,218. Lane?—No; Lane was never in my house at all that day. I don't know which Lane you mean, I suppose you mean Lane the pig dealer, and he was not in my house at all.

35,219. Wilson?—No, nor yet Wilson. There was Watling, Fisher, Soames, and Miller, them is the four that went along with me, about twelve o'clock.

35,220. I call your attention again to it. Did you neither pay nor offer any one of these men money that day?—Not a farthing.

35,221. Or promise them anything?—I never promised them anything.

35,222. Did you have any money from anybody?—Not a farthing.

35,223. Did you give these men any beer?—No, not a drop; what they had they paid for; that I can swear to.

35,224. Neither before nor since have you offered them money?—No, neither before nor yet since.

35,225. James Lane has been here and has sworn that you did.—That I offered him money?

35,226. That you offered him 7*s.* 6*d.* for his vote.—That is false, sir; I can tell you about that if I am allowed to speak.

35,227. Certainly, by all means.—When I went and voted, I had a mind to see what was going on, and I happened on Lane against the "Grapes" where the polling place was; I said, "Have you been and voted, "Lane." He said, "Not yet." I said, "Which way "are you going to vote?" He said, "I don't know "yet." I said, "Is that your game?" I expected he wanted money. I said, "You want a five pound "note, do you?" He said, "I don't know." I said, "I suppose you would take a sovereign," but I never offered to give him one. He said, "I should not take "that." And I said, "You will stand a good chance "to get nothing; go and vote like a man." Lane said, "Will you stand a glass?" I said, "I don't mind "standing a glass," and I went into the public-house at the corner, Mr. Bunn's, and called for two glasses of ale, and I called the waiter and said, "This man has "asked me to treat him with a glass, and I am going "to do so, but not to vote, and you bear this in "mind." I said, "I don't mind treating him with a "glass but not for his vote." Them are the words that I used. I never offered him a farthing.

35,228. How long had these men been in your public-house before you took them up to vote?—One or two of them came in just at the time I was going.

35,229. Early in the morning?—I don't know about early in the morning. Some are regular customers.

35,230. What time did Miller, Watling, Fisher, and Soames come into your house?—I cannot tell what time; Mr. Soames is a regular customer of mine, and he might come in perhaps at eight o'clock for half a pint.

35,231. Had they been drinking in your house all the morning?—Oh, no; Miller came in after he had been round with his cart, and we went up together.

35,232. I thought these other men went with you, Watling, Miller, and Soames?—So they did; they live close by, and they went and voted for Stracey.

35,233. Do you mean to say you never offered them any money?—Not a farthing, and never was authorised by any one to give them a farthing, and never received a farthing at all.

35,234. You had a conversation with Lane about money?—I have told you the truth, sir. I asked whether he had voted; he said, "No." I asked, "Who "are you going to vote for?" He said, "I don't "know." I said, "That's your game, is it?" I expected that he would not vote unless he got money, but I never offered him any. Not a farthing. I treated him with a glass of ale and told the waiter at the public-house, "I am going to treat this man with "a glass of ale but not for his vote." It was a public-house right opposite the "Grapes."

35,235. Why did you treat him?—I often treat him; I have treated him before.

35,236. You find a man who wants money for his vote, and then you take him into a public-house and treat him?—I supposed he was dry, and he had not got no money.

35,237. Do you always take him into a public-house and treat him?—Yes, sir; but I made the observation, the waiter knows it as well as I do; I said to the waiter, "I am going to treat this man with "a glass of ale, but not for his vote," because I was pretty cautious about it; I never thought about treating him for his vote.

35,238. There is a conflict between you and Lane, you know.—Well, I am prepared to meet Mr. Lane at any one moment that I never offered him any money; I treated him with a glass of ale, as I told you before, and I told the waiter at the public-house, "I am "going to treat this man with a glass of ale, but "mind, it is not for his vote," and he went away and I never saw him no more.

35,239. Which ward do Soames and Watling belong to?—They all belong to one ward. I think they call it the third ward, but I am not acquainted with the wards much; I don't trouble myself much with that sort of thing.

George Christmas Taylor sworn and examined. G. C. Taylor.

35,240. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—I work at a yarn mill.

35,241. Who do you work for?—Sole, Stewart & Sole.

35,242. Were you at work on the day of the poll?—Yes.

35,243. When did you leave your work?—At a quarter past three.

35,244. Then did you go and vote?—Yes.

35,245. What did you do after that?—Went home; the yard was shut up.

35,246. What did you get for voting?—Nothing.

35,247. Have you had anything since?—No.

35,248. Were you asked by any one to vote?—No.

35,249. Had you promised your vote?—No.

35,250. Were you treated on the day of the poll?—No, I was at work until a quarter past three.

35,251. Is this the first time you have voted?—No.

35,252. Have you never promised your vote at all?—No, I never saw none of the parties.

35,253. You have had nothing since?—No.

Benjamin Howlett sworn and examined. B. Howlett.

35,254. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A miller.

35,255. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

35,256. For whom?—Stracey.

35,257. What time in the day?—About a quarter to two, as near as I can guess.

35,258. Is that after your dinner hour?—After I got my dinner.

35,259. Did you get anything for it?—Not anything.

35,260. Or the promise of anything?—No promise of anything.

35,261. Or anything after you had voted?—No.

George Foster sworn and examined. G. Foster.

35,262. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

35,263. Who came and asked you to go up to vote?—Well, one of the young Cunningtons.

35,264. What time did he come to you?—About half-past one.

35,265. Did he promise you anything to vote?—No; not anything at all.

35,266. Did he not offer you something to go and vote?—No, not anything.

35,267. Why did you not vote before that time?—Because I did not leave work until one o'clock; then I went home and got my dinner, and then I went up and voted about a quarter before two, or something like that.

35,268. What were you about in the morning?—At work.

35,269. For whom?—Mr. Wales, at the new mills.

35,270. What are you by business?—I work for Mr. Wales, at the new mills.

35,271. What do you do for him?—I am a miller by trade.

35,272. Did not Cunnington give you anything to vote?—Not anything; I never see anything at all, and he did not offer me anything.

35,273. Did you get nothing?—No.

35,274. No beer, or anything of that sort?—No, only what I paid for; I had one glass of mild beer, and that I paid for myself.

35,275. Did he drive you down to the poll?—Yes.

35,276. How did you get back?—Walked back.

Ephraim Hollidge sworn and examined. E. Hollidge.

35,277. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A driver.

35,278. Who do you work for?—The Eastern Counties.

35,279. You are employed on the trams?—Yes.

35,280. Who did you vote for?—Sir Henry Stracey.

35,281. Were you at work that day?—Yes.

35,282. Did you go back to your work after voting?—No.

35,283. Had you been at work until you had voted?—I left off at one o'clock.

35,284. What time did you vote?—Half-past two.

35,285. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

35,286. Did any one ask you to vote?—No.

35,287. Then why did you go and vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Well, I thought he was the properest man.

35,288. Are your friends generally on that side?—Yes.

35,289. Did any of them stand you any beer?—I never see any, only what I paid for.

35,290. Have you had anything given you since?—No.

35,291. Did any of the railway people get you and your friends to vote for Stracey?—No.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

8 Oct. 1869.

A. Smith.

ARTHUR SMITH sworn and examined.

35,292. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A tailor.

35,293. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

35,294. For Stracey?—Yes.

35,295. What time in the day?—Between two and three.

35,296. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

35,297. Or the promise of anything?—Not anything.

35,298. Did you get anything after you had voted?—No, not anything.

R. Laws.

ROBERT LAWS sworn and examined.

35,299. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Have you been a voter before the last election?—Once before.

35,300. For whom did you vote then?—Sir Samuel Bignold.

35,301. Are you a Tory?—Yes.

35,302. Were you paid anything for your vote?—No.

35,303. Or promised anything for your vote?—No, not anything.

E. Nelson.

EDWARD NELSON sworn and examined.

35,304. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A coachman.

35,305. In whose service?—Mr. Gedge's.

35,306. What time did you vote?—A quarter before four.

35,307. What made you so late?—I was in the country.

35,308. Did your master tell you to vote?—No.

35,309. What made you vote?—Why it is my feeling towards a gentleman; we had only one gentleman in Norfolk, and for that reason I had better vote for him.

35,310. Have you ever voted before?—Never.

35,311. This was your first time?—The first time, and it will be the last.

35,312. Did you get anything for it?—Yes.

35,313. How much?—Several civilities.

35,314. Who from?—Every one.

35,315. Did you get any beer?—Yes.

35,316. Who gave you that?—I bought it myself.

35,317. (Mr. Biron.) I think you have been buying some this morning?—Yes.

35,318. And drinking it?—Yes. I bought some, and give it away.

35,319. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You had better go down and come to-morrow morning at ten.—I cannot.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) A man who comes here in that state is not a fit and proper person to be examined; we may have some more questions to put to you, and if you do not come, a constable will fetch you.

J. Palmer.

JOHN PALMER sworn and examined.

35,320. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A harness-maker.

35,321. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

35,322. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

35,323. What time in the day?—About eleven o'clock.

35,324. Were you employed at any of the committee-rooms?—No.

35,325. Were you employed in any way about the election?—No.

35,326. Did you get paid anything with reference to the election?—No.

35,327. Or anything for your vote?—No.

35,328. Or did you get any promise of anything?—No.

R. Piggin.

ROBERT PIGGIN sworn and examined.

35,329. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you get anything for your vote at the last election?—Nothing at all, and spent my own money.

35,330. Had you been a voter before?—No.

35,331. Were you promised anything?—No.

W. Cooke.

WILLIAM COOKE sworn and examined.

35,332. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A boot and shoemaker.

35,333. Are you a master?—Yes.

35,334. How many men do you employ?—Sometimes two and sometimes three.

35,335. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

35,336. What did you get for it?—Not anything.

35,337. Who canvassed you?—Mr. Hutton.

35,338. Did you promise to vote for Stracey?—I did not promise him.

35,339. Why did you not promise him?—Because I did not like the man that canvassed me.

35,340. Did you get anything to induce you to make up your mind?—No.

35,341. Were you treated that day?—No.

35,342. Have you had anything since?—No.

35,343. Is this the first time you have voted?—Yes.

35,344. Have you ever had anything for voting at municipal elections?—No; this is the first time of my voting.

G. Spelman.

GEORGE SPELMAN sworn and examined.

35,345. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

35,346. For whom?—Russell and Tillett.

35,347. What time in the day?—About half-past eleven, I think.

35,348. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

35,349. Were you at all active on the day of the election?—No, I only went and voted.

35,350. I mean in getting up voters?—No.

35,351. Did you take any active part at all in the matter?—Not at all.

35,352. Did you see Read the harness maker that day?—No.

35,353. Do you know anything about Read's proceedings that day?—Well, I can tell you what I do know about the matter; I was going past his shop and I looked in; I know the man very well, and in the course of conversation I says, "Are you doing "anything on the election, are you busy?" and he said, "Yes, I have an interest in it, and then he told "me, though I did not ask for it, that he had 2*l.* "given him, and that he bribed two men with it at "10*s.* each, and kept the other himself." That is all I know about it.

35,354. Did he tell you who gave him the two sovereigns?—No. I said to him, "Mind, if you go "up you had better speak the truth, or it will go fur-"ther, and be the worse for you;" that is all I said.

Adjourned to to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

Saturday, 9th October 1869.

ALFRED KENT sworn and examined.

35,355. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a paid manager for Russell and Tillett in one of the wards?—I was.

35,356. Which ward?—The second.

35,357. Did you vote at the last election?—I did not.

35,358. Do you know of any money being paid or provided in that ward in your committee-room or elsewhere during the election?—Certainly not.

35,359. Did you hear a talk in the committee-room of any money being spent?—Certainly not.

35,360. Did you hear of any provision being made for the purpose of paying for beer or provisions for persons during the election?—No provision whatever. I paid for some myself.

35,361. For voters?—Not for voters.

35,362. Who were the persons for whom you provided?—They were persons who were engaged in the committee-room.

35,363. Employeés in the committee-room, not voters?—Not voters. I ought to explain that we expected refreshments would be sent up at a certain hour. I and my colleague, Mr. Cooper, wanted some, and we sent for some.

35,364. During the day had you any reason to suspect that there was any irregular practice going on on the other side?—Yes, I had.

35,365. What gave you any reason to suppose that?—Well, members of our committee, one and another came in and said they were buying voters.

35,366. What time did that report first reach you?—In the afternoon of the day.

35,367. Did they give you any specific information, or did they merely make that general assertion?—There was no specific information, excepting that it was said that one man had asked below stairs for money.

35,368. Was the name of that man given to you?—The name was not mentioned.

35,369. Was it stated who had been asked for that money, or who had asked for it?—It was said that it had been asked down stairs where the messengers were. That I should tell you was about ten minutes to four.

35,370. As late as that?—As late as late.

35,371. Beyond the vague reports which were brought in, and to which you have alluded, did you hear or see anything which induced you to believe that any mal-practice was going on?—Nothing beyond that; except that at a house opposite, voters—at least I ought not to say voters—persons were brought up in conveyances where the Stracey colours were being used. That house was a public-house.

35,372. Well, they might be brought up very innocently?—Precisely; they might. I knew nothing.

35,373. What is the name of the house?—I cannot tell you. It was directly opposite the committee-room.

35,374. Where was your committee-room?—I really forget the name of the place. I am not so well acquainted with the locality as some are.

35,375. Do you know the name of the street?—I should not like to charge my memory as to that.

35,376. Did you take any part in canvassing?—None whatever.

35,377. Were you in the committee-room almost the whole of the day?—The entire day.

35,378. Do you know of any undue influence having been used to procure persons to vote for Russell and Tillett?—Certainly not.

35,379. Or of any inducement held out to persons?—Not the least.

35,380. Had you engaged under you any persons who were voters?—I had nothing to do with engaging the men at all.

35,381. Then under whom did you act?—Under directions received from the central committee-room.

35,382. Your instructions were derived entirely from the central committee-room?—Entirely.

35,383. Whoever had the control of that had the control of you?—Certainly.

ROBERT GISSING sworn and examined.

35,384. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A commercial traveller.

35,385. Did you take any part in this last election?—No.

35,386. Did you vote?—Yes.

35,387. For whom?—Russell and Stracey.

35,388. What time in the day?—About half-past nine o'clock.

35,389. Did you promise your vote before?—No.

35,390. Is this your first time of voting?—No.

35,391. For which side have you generally voted?—Liberal.

35,392. This time you voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—I did.

35,393. Did anybody ask you to do that?—Certainly not.

35,394. Did you canvass at all yourself?—No.

35,395. Did you give any money, or the promise of any money, to any voters for Sir Henry Stracey?—Certainly not.

35,396. Neither one side nor the other?—Certainly not.

35,897. Have you ever said that you got up voters?—Yes.

35,398. Do you mean that you did get up voters?—No.

35,399. Then what made you say that you did?—I done it in jest, and it was well known at the time that it was in jest. I am surprised at things being so handled in a commercial room. The party that told of it knew it was a jest.

35,400. Who was the party?—Benjamin Fuller.

35,401. He is a commercial traveller?—Yes, and a disgrace to the body for having made use of what he heard in that way.

35,402. Did you make any statements as to money being given to you to get up voters?—No; I said that I gave some sherry and cigars.

35,403. Then you now mean to say that there is no foundation for your saying so?—Not the slightest.

35,404. Have you never been an active politician in this city?—Never in my life; not at all. I never asked a man to vote.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

R. Gissing.

9 Oct. 1869.

35,405. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) I suppose that these men had been joking with you about your having voted for Sir Henry Stracey this time?—Yes, that is the way it was brought about in the commercial room in the way of a joke, a chaff and a laugh as we do in a commercial room.

35,406. Then you made it a little worse than it was?—I made it all up.

35,407. You got nothing for your vote?—No.

35,408. Neither were promised anything; money, or anything of the kind?—No.

H. J. Esling.

HENRY JONATHAN ESLING sworn and examined.

35,409. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A coal merchant.

35,410. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

35,411. For whom?—Stracey.

35,412. What time of the day?—Just after eight in the morning.

35,413. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

35,414. Or the promise of anything?—Certainly not.

35,415. After you had voted were you active in getting up voters?—Yes.

35,416. Who were you with?—Mr. Abel.

35,417. Where did you go first with him?—He called at mine at about ten o'clock in the morning.

35,418. Was he on foot or in a trap?—In a trap.

35,419. Was yours a public-house?—I keep a porter shop, not a public house, as you may call it. It is an out-door business principally.

35,420. A beershop?—A beershop.

35,421. Were there any men at your house?—No, merely our own customers that come in generally every day.

35,422. Had those customers of yours voted or not?—Yes.

35,423. All of them?—I believe to a man they had voted.

35,424. (Mr. Mansfield.) They had voted then?—Yes.

35,425. (Mr. Biron.) At ten o'clock?—At ten o'clock.

35,426. Can you give me any of their names?—No, I cannot.

35,427. Not one single name?—Not one single name. I was scarcely at home all the day. Of course there were men in my house.

35,428. At ten o'clock I mean, when Abel called upon you?—There were no men there when Mr. Abel called upon me.

35,429. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Had there been men in your house that morning who had voted before Mr. Abel came?—I dare say there might be.

35,430. (Mr. Biron.) Will you say "Yes" or "No" to it?—There were no men waiting to be taken to the poll.

35,431. Were there in your house that morning before Abel called, or when he called, voters who had voted before ten o'clock?—There might be some who had voted, and come and had a glass of ale, and paid for it.

35,432. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were there?—I will not swear whether there were or whether there were not.

35,433. (Mr. Biron.) Did Abel take up any men from your house in his trap?—No.

35,434. Not a man?—Certainly not.

35,435. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Then what did he come to your house for?—Because I was canvassing a few days before, and I knew the streets where I canvassed, and I went and showed him where the parties were.

35,436. (Mr. Biron.) Where did you go from your house?—I cannot tell you.

35,437. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you sober?—Quite sober.

35,438. (Mr. Biron.) You had been canvassing and you were there with Abel for the purpose of showing him where the voters lived. Now, who was the first man whom you took up to the poll?—I should want to refer to the books to see who I had canvassed.

35,439. It is quite possible that you may not remember all the persons, but can you give me the name of any whom you took up to the poll that morning with Abel?—I believe the first whom we took up was a man who lived in Charles Street, who was very ill, and could not walk.

35,440. What was his name?—I don't know. He did not want any persuading. He promised me yes, and said "I cannot walk."

35,441. Whom else did you take up?—We took up another old gentleman from near the west end, out of one of those streets; Adelaide Street I think the name was.

35,442. What was his name?—I never saw the man before in my life. He was ill in bed. No, I beg your pardon, not ill in bed, but he could not get out of the house without being carried.

35,443. What was his name?—I don't know.

35,444. Well, who was the next man?—A man of the name of Newton.

35,445. Where did you get him?—Out of his own house.

35,446. Where?—In the City Road.

35,447. What time was that?—Between eleven and twelve, I suppose.

35,448. Did you take them up one by one, or fill the trap, and go off to the poll?—About three or four, at the outside, would fill it.

35,449. You waited till you got them up, and then went back?—The polling place was very close to mine, so that we went and polled there, and back again, at least, I did not poll the men. I merely went to the committee-rooms to see the names on the list, to see who were good.

35,450. Which was the committee-room?—The "Bull and Butcher."

35,451. Did you drive up to the door of the "Bull and Butcher," and as soon as you ascertained that the names were all right, take them up to the poll?—No; Mr. Abel stopped at the top and I jumped out from the box. I ran down to get up a fresh name; whatever there was upon the list I know.

35,452. Where was it that Abel stopped?—Between the "Tuns" and the "Grapes" and the "Gate." You must stop very near the whole three.

35,453. Very near the "Tuns," for instance?—Yes.

35,454. Did you take up any men from the "Tuns"?—No.

35,455. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you drive down to this place near the "Tuns"?—I did not drive, Mr. Abel drove. The committee-room was close to the "Tuns."

35,456. Was the carriage in which you were driven down to the spot near to the "Tuns"?—Yes.

35,457. From which place was it driven down there?—From different directions.

35,458. With people in it?—Yes.

35,459. I suppose when you got there some of the people got down?—I got down; I had nothing to do with taking them to the poll.

35,460. Some of the other people that came with you got down while you went up there to see that all was right?—I went down to pick up any fresh name.

35,461. Some of the people got down?—I think there was very few voters there.

35,462. Not many, but some of the people, I suppose, got down there?—Well, they might have got down at the time I was away.

35,463. That is up to twelve o'clock. Now, after twelve where did you go?—I think I went to St. Augustine's first and then to Thorpe.

35,464. How many did you get there?—Only one.

35,465. Did you bring him up and poll him?—I did not poll him at all.

35,466. Where did you bring him to?—To the bottom of William Street, I believe.

35,467. Is that a polling-place?—Yes.

35,468. You left him there?—I left him there.

35,469. How many did you get up between twelve and two?—Very few then; not more than three or four.

35,470. Was Abel with you all this time?—With the exception of my being in the committee-room, when I was going to hear the state of the poll.

35,471. You and he were working together?—Yes. I was doing my part and Abel was doing his.

35,472. After two what number did you get up?—Very few indeed; fewer still.

35,473. How was that?—Mr. Abel sent me to the central committee-room to see the state of the poll, and Mr. Tillett had got 650 majority, and I came and told him; he said the election was lost. I said, "No, "I don't think it is." He was down-hearted after that, and, in fact, he did not work the same as I should have liked to have seen him.

35,474. He seems to have thought that was the true state of the poll?—Yes.

35,475. Did you stop at any public houses in the course of the day for voters?—Not one.

35,476. Did you take any voters to a public house and leave them there?—No, not that I saw; if it was it was unknown to me.

35,477. Did you take some men to the "Tuns" and leave them there?—No.

35,478. Are you quite sure you did not stop at the "Tuns," or near the "Tuns"?—We were obliged to stop near the "Tuns" every time I got down to see the state of the poll.

35,479. How far was the polling-place from the "Tuns"?—I should think from 40 to 50 yards, about. I have not measured it, but I should think that is about the distance.

35,480. Did Abel go on to the poll, or did he turn round and wait for you to go back and get some other voter up?—He waited for me every time.

35,481. Did the voters get out and go to the poll?—Yes; I had not anything to do with that.

35,482. But I want to know facts; he waited for you?—He waited for me.

35,483. Then the voters whom you had brought up would go to the poll while you were going to the committee-room?—Yes.

35,484. Does the "Tuns" lie between the committee-room and the polling-place?—No.

35,485. Which side is the "Tuns"?—It is a very steep hill.

35,486. There is an entrance to the passage where you go up to the committee-room?—No; it is a four-cross way where the polling-place was. There is a very steep hill; here is the "Gates" public house, here is the "Tuns," and here is the "Grapes"; Mr. Abel came up here, so he would pass the whole three of them so, in order to turn his trap round.

35,487. In fact they are all together?—They stand all three together, the whole three public houses.

35,488. And the polling-place is about 50 yards off?—About 50 yards lower.

35,489. (Mr. Biron.) Did you give any of these men that you took up any money to vote on the day of the election?—No.

35,490. Or promise them anything?—I never promised them anything.

35,491. Or give them anything afterwards?—Or give them anything afterwards.

35,492. Did you pay for any beer for them to induce them to go up and vote?—No, not to induce them to vote.

35,493. Did you pay for any beer?—There was one man rather noisy on Mr. Abel's trap; Mr. Abel wished him to get off, and I gave him a glass of beer to quiet him, but he was not one whom we had polled; he had voted before.

35,494. You gave him a glass of beer to get rid of him?—Yes.

35,495. Did you give any beer to any of those men on the day of the election?—No. I stopped one man in the morning, I cannot tell you his name but I know where to find him; that was before ten, I think, I am almost sure it was. I was close to my house. I said, "Have you voted?" and he said, "No." He went and voted with me in William Street, and I took him into Mrs. Brooks' and gave him threepenny worth of brandy and had threepenny worth myself, but it was not for his vote. It is a man that always comes to see me, and brings beer from Bullard's.

35,496. You made him no promise before voting, but stood a glass of brandy afterwards?—I stood a glass of brandy afterwards.

35,497. Did you see Abel give any man money that day?—I never saw him part with a farthing.

35,498. Did you know of him giving any man anything?—I am certain he did not.

35,499. Or promise anything?—I am certain he did not.

35,500. Any beer?—No.

35,501. He did not treat any of the men with beer?—No; in fact Mr. Abel only had one glass of ale. Once I felt thirsty, and I said "I must have a glass of ale," and then he said "you may as well bring me one."

35,502. Was that at your own house?—That was at my own house.

35,503. When you canvassed these men before the day of the poll, did you then promise or give any of them money?—Not one; in fact we did not want to promise in our district, because if the books were examined they would show that the parties we canvassed were three to one in favour of Sir Henry Stracey against Tillett.

35,504. What did you do with these canvass books?—They were returned, they went back again to the committee-rooms.

35,505. To which committee-room?—To the third ward committee-room, they were sent in every night.

35,506. After that you don't know what became of them?—I do not, I have never seen them since.

35,507. What do you call your district?—The third ward.

35,508. You don't know whether they got into Mr. Chittock's hands or not?—I should think probably they might, I should think they did go there.

35,509. (Mr. Mansfield.) What time in the day was it when Mr. Abel first came to you?—A little after ten o'clock.

35,510. I suppose you had some conversation with him about what you were going to do?—He was sent by a Mr. Alden I believe, because I was canvassing with Alden, and he said I should know where to go to.

35,511. Where did that conversation take place?—Just ontside the door in the room.

35,512. Did he not come into your house?—No.

35,513. Did he not ask you whether you had any people there ready to vote?—No, he never asked the question.

35,514. How long were you driving about?—Until about 3 or a little after 3; I think it was 10 minutes or a quarter past three when I left Mr. Abel and went home.

35,515. Did you not take any more trouble about the election?—No, not until after it was over, and then I went back again to the Grapes.

35,516. Who was with you besides Mr. Abel?—Mr. Bartley and Mr. Alden.

35,517. Anyone else?—Herr Heinrich the teacher.

35,518. Was he with you the whole day?—No, he was off and on, he was not with us the whole day.

35,519. Who else?—A man by the name of Bunn that keeps the "Gates," was there at the beginning of the morning.

35,520. Did Heinrich also take an active part in getting up voters?—Yes, a very active part; he was bustling about wherever he could get a voter.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

H. J. Esling.

9 Oct. 1869.

35,521. Were you aware that Heinrich was buying voters?—I did not hear a word about that.

35,522. You knew Bunn was one of the Yarmouth bribers?—No, I never saw the man before in my life; it is a house I never go into.

35,523. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What number of persons did you canvass?—I cannot say; the books will show.

35,524. I don't ask you to a man?—I was canvassing I think, four days, and I went into a great many houses in the course of the four days.

35,525. In what part of Norwich, in respect to quality; was it the lower part or the better part of it?—In the parish of Heigham, we reckon that a very respectable parish.

35,526. Did you find there were a considerable number of persons hanging back?—There were some that required a little stimulant, but I told them it was no use, I could not stop and talk to them.

35,527. They did suggest that they ought to be paid a day's wages, or something of that sort?—Oh yes.

35,528. Did you know of any means which had been provided for the purpose of influencing doubtful voters?—No, I never heard of sixpence being provided in any way until after the election was over.

35,529. Did you know of any person who was going among the voters in your district influencing them in any way?—No, I saw nothing of the kind.

35,530. Have you not heard it before or since?—I have not.

35,531. I am speaking of your district.—I do not think there was a penny spent there, not round me, I could not hear of anything, I have not heard of any being bribed there.

35,532. Do you know, or have you heard of any beer having been given at any public house or public houses that day?—No, I have not.

35,533. By either side?—By either side.

Sir H. J. Stracey, Bart.

Sir Henry Josias Stracey, Bart., sworn and examined.

35,534. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You were one of the candidates at the last election for the city of Norwich?—Yes.

35,535. Before you became a candidate did you receive any deputations inviting you to become a candidate?—Yes; more than one.

35,536. From whom were they?—They were from the Eldon Club, and I think from a representation of the working classes; I believe that was all. I had three deputations altogether.

35,537. You have been resident, I suppose, in this neighbourhood for many years?—Yes.

35,538. As to the Eldon Club, is that an association of Conservatives of an influential character in this city?—It is an association of Conservatives.

35,539. Is it of an influential character?—I have no doubt that some members are influential, certainly some of them are.

35,540. But take it as a body?—Yes; I should think so; yes, certainly.

35,541. Did you consent to become a candidate in accordance with those requisitions?—Yes; in consequence of those requisitions, but not for some time. I had three, I think, before I consented.

35,542. Who were the principal persons who attended upon you, presenting those requisitions?—I cannot accurately tell you all their names, because I did not know them. I remember asking one gentleman his name, and he said his name was Swash. I knew another gentleman whose name was Hulme, I think.

35,543. Hulme the chemist?—Yes. The organ of the last deputation was Mr. Sparrow, who is a solicitor in the town.

35,544. Was Mr. Hulme presented as chairman of the Eldon Club?—Yes.

35,545. Having been resident in the neighbourhood, I suppose you had heard rumours that corrupt practices had prevailed at some elections in the city?—Yes.

35,546. Being aware of that, did you take any precaution to prevent such practices taking place at your election?—Every precaution which I think a candidate could take I took.

35,547. Will you tell me what precautions those were?—I told the several deputations that I would not spend one shilling beyond the legal expenses, and that if I heard of any corruption of any kind existing after I became a candidate I should at once withdraw.

35,548. Were those terms acceded to by that deputation?—Quite.

35,549. Do you recollect the exact time at which you announced yourself as a candidate of your own act?—No, I do not know, but I should think about a fortnight before the election; I believe that will be the utmost.

35,550. Did you then go into the city and proceed to canvass?—No; I made no absolute canvass. I told these gentleman who waited upon me that I could not go round the city to canvass, and that I had no intention of doing so, but that I would speak to any body of men at any time, and wherever there was any large body of men I would most happily go and speak to them, and I did so; I went and spoke to Barnard and Bishop's men, and several others.

35,551. How many meetings did you attend in the interests of the election for this purpose?—I cannot tell you.

35,552. About?—I attended, I believe, all the ward meetings, certainly most of them, and perhaps I attended two ward meetings sometimes the same night.

35,553. Were those ward meetings meetings of clubs in the wards, or were they general meetings of voters in the wards?—I presume they were general meetings of voters in the wards, but of course I could not tell that, but that was my presumption.

35,554. I suppose that now you are aware of what you may not have known before, namely, that there are clubs in the wards—Conservative clubs in the different wards?—I know that there are clubs in the wards, that is, I suppose they are clubs. I suppose the ward meetings are all clubs, that I don't know accurately.

35,555. Did you understand that you were attending meetings of the clubs, or that you were attending meetings of voters in the wards generally?—I understood that I was attending meetings of voters in the wards; that was my idea.

35,556. (Mr. Mansfield.) I suppose that notice had been given that you would meet gentlemen on those occassions?—I have no doubt that notice was given on each occasion, generally in the day, if I was in the town, not always, I believe, but when I was in the town my agent told me of ward meetings which would take place that night, and I made a point of attending them when I was told in the day that they would be held.

35,557. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you see printed announcements placarded in the streets, or anything of that sort?—No, I think not; I don't remember it.

35,558. Did you at all canvass personally in different parts of Norwich?—I think I have mentioned that I was ready to canvass, to speak, if that may so be taken.

35,559. I mean did you personally canvass?—No, no. I spoke to any body of men to which I might be invited to speak. I, perhaps, might have canvassed personally in some two or three instances, but very few instances indeed. I distinctly told the deputation that I should not undertake, and would not undertake, a canvass of the city generally, but I should be very happy to speak to any body of men.

35,560. Although you might have made that resolution originally, you might have deviated from it afterwards. Did you at all make a personal canvass of any part of Norwich ?—No ; I did not.

35,561. Did you at any of the meetings receive any intimation that any of the voters required to be paid or influenced for their votes ?—Never ; never.

35,562. Did you hear of nothing which indicated a desire for any corrupt practice ?—Not a word.

35,563. Nor in any visit that you may have paid to any house ?—Never.

35,564. Mr. Chittock became your representative or agent ?—He was my election agent.

35,565. Did you select Mr. Chittock, or was he selected for you and recommended to you ?—He was recommended to me.

35,566. Who recommended Mr. Chittock to you ?—There was a meeting at Sir Samuel Bignold's, I believe, the day after I assented to become a candidate. I met certain leaders of the party, Sir Samuel Bignold being, of course, in the chair, and the principal one, and then the question of who should be the agent was urged ; if I remember rightly I think Mr. Utten Browne recommended him, but that I would not positively say ; I believe it was the general wish of the room, but I think Mr. Utten Browne suggested him.

35,567. Did you communicate with any other professional gentleman besides Mr. Chittock with a view to your election ?—No.

35,568. Was he the sole person whom you in any way employed as your agent for your candidature in the city ?—Yes ; he was the sole person.

35,569. Did you give any instructions to him respecting the mode in which the election should be conducted ?—I particularly told him, immediately after he was recommended to me, this—I begged he would understand that I would not spend one shilling beyond the legal expenses—that whatever was spent must be published ; and I have no doubt I said that if anything was spent illegally I should withdraw. I very likely said that, but I don't remember it exactly ; I certainly told him the first part—that I would not spend one shilling beyond the legal expenses, and if he was my agent he must strictly understand that. He did strictly understand that, and he accepted the agency under those circumstances.

35,570. You had been a member of Parliament before, and had been concerned in elections ?—Yes, but not for Norwich.

35,571. Did you put any limit on the expenditure which you were willing to incur ?—Do you mean with regard to this election ?

35,572. Yes, in point of amount ?—No.

35,573. Was no sum specified by you ?—No, I specified no sum.

35,574. Did you merely insist upon the legality ?—The legality I particularly specified in the hearing of all persons of the different deputations, and the last meeting which I had previous to being declared a candidate was at Sir Samuel Bignold's——

35,575. Did you impress that on the persons at the meeting at Sir Samuel Bignold's ?—Certainly, and I am quite certain not one of them forgets it.

35,576. Now before the day of the election was any suggestion made to you in any way by anybody that money should be provided for anything like illegitimate purposes ?—No ; not a word.

35,577. Were you aware of a number of roughs having been provided and paid to parade the streets during the time of your candidature ?—No.

35,578. Do you know where the funds came from with which those roughs were to be paid ?—Not a bit ; they did not come from me.

35,579. Bands were parading the town, were they not ?—After the election I saw or heard a band, and perhaps more, and I can remember a band at some torchlight meeting which there was. That is all I do remember.

35,580. During the time of your candidature, when you were in the town, were there any bands ?—No ; I do not remember that there were.

35,581. You were not present when there were any ?—I was not present, to the best of my recollection, at any band meeting previous to the election.

35,582. Was your attention at all called to any organised body of men parading the town with your colours or in your name ?—No, not at all. You are speaking, I presume, previous to the election ?

35,583. Oh yes ; I am speaking of previous to the election day. Were you aware that Inspector Clarke was hiring persons of that description to parade the town in any way ?—The band I allude to at this torchlight meeting was, I believe, headed by Inspector Clarke, but I know nothing more of it than that.

35,584. I suppose you were not present at that meeting. You heard of it ?—I drove away immediately after making a speech at whatever the public house was. This band business went on, but I drove home.

35,585. Did you hear of it the next day ?—Not a word.

35,586. Now, you were not acquainted with anything like an expenditure which would not be perfectly legitimate, if I understand you, before the day of the election ?—I did not spend one shilling.

35,587. Or authorise its expenditure ?—Or authorise it to be spent by anybody.

35,588. Or know of its expenditure ?—I did not know of any one shilling being unlawfully spent.

35,589. Did you hear anything respecting the show of hands at the nomination ?—No, I did not, indeed. I have read the evidence since, but I knew nothing about it.

35,590. Were you aware of what was done with respect to the nomination on either side at the time it was done ?—No. I am only aware that it was a very riotous kind of meeting, and I was very considerably hooted.

35,591. Then you were not aware of any persons being employed to support you at the nomination ?—I was not aware of any persons being so employed.

35,592. On the day of the election, what time did you come to Norwich ?—Well, I came I am afraid rather late, that is for a candidate. I suppose, but I do not actually remember, still I think I was not here before one o'clock.

35,593. That is late.—I do not say that as a matter of certainty, but I think that would be about the time.

35,594. Did you then find that there was a considerable number of men hanging back who refused to vote at all ?—In going round the town, as candidates I suppose do, I understood that there was a certain number of men who were hanging back and would not vote, or were, as you say, hanging back, in fact.

35,595. Were reports brought to you of their being congregated at any particular places ?—No.

35,596. Did you see a considerable number of men loitering about the streets ?—Indeed I did not. I do not remember seeing any men loitering about the streets, more than six or seven together. There might have been that—that at the outside.

35,597. Did you go to the different committee rooms ?—I went to several of them certainly, only for a second or two ; I came out again directly.

35,598. At any time during the day of the election, did you hear that there were men who wanted to be paid something for voting, to be paid their day's wages or anything of that kind ?—I have no doubt that I heard that there were men who wanted to be paid, that I have not the least doubt about. As far as I was concerned I assented to nothing or countenanced nothing of the kind.

35,599. I am only asking now as to what you heard.—I could not tell you who informed me of it.

35,600. Do you recollect being at one of the committee-rooms, and a report being brought to you that there was a number of men at the "Trumpet" who wanted something for their day's pay, or something of that kind ?—Not a word.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

Sir H. J. Stracey, Bart.

9 Oct. 1869.

35,601. You did go to the "Trumpet"?—I went down to the "Trumpet," I believe it was the "Trumpet;" yes, "the Trumpet case." I know I did go there.

35,602. Will you tell me, as far as you can recollect, what exactly it was that led you to go down to the "Trumpet"?—Well, I suspect you are quite right in putting that question, because I do believe that I did hear there were a certain number of men there. Oh, I remember, it was a man outside who told me; he told me "there are a certain number of men all "willing to vote for you if you will only speak to "them."

35,603. How came you to see the man outside?—I was driving past in my carriage at the time with Mr. Patteson, and this man was at the door, a half-drunken fellow. He was at the door, and he ran up to me, and said "so many men are here willing to vote for "you if you will only speak to them." I went in and said some few words to them, and then I came out again directly.

35,604. Had you not been in a committee-room before that, to which a report was brought that men were down there who wanted to be paid something?—No, I was not.

35,605. Were you not in a committee-room with Mr. Patteson before you went to the "Trumpet"?—Only that which was called the central committee-room, and that central committee-room was, perhaps, wrongly called so, because I had no committee.

35,606. We have been told by a person here that he went—I am now speaking from memory, I have not got the exact note, but I think what I say is accurate—into the central committee-room, that he saw Mr. Patteson and yourself there, that he communicated to you that there were a number of persons at the Trumpet, and that they wished to get a day's pay, and he urged that somebody should go down and try to get them to vote?—I do not remember it. It is possible, but as far as the day's pay is concerned I am certain that I should remember that, and I am sure that was never said to me.

35,607. It may have been said to Mr. Patteson, and yet you may not have heard it?—I cannot possibly tell that.

35,608. Did you not go to the "Trumpet" in consequence of something that you learned at the committee-room?—Possibly; but really my only recollection is getting into the carriage to drive round to show one's self, and talk to the people wherever there was a crowd; and then I saw outside the door this man, whom I described to you as half drunk. He was a fine looking fellow, and he told me that there were so many men in the house who were willing to vote for me if I would only speak to them. I told this fellow, "You are a fine fellow, you go up and head them to "the poll."

35,609. You went yourself into the "Trumpet"?—I went into the "Trumpet."

35,610. Was Mr. Patteson with you?—Yes, to the best of my recollection.

35,611. Was there no discussion between you and Mr. Patteson as to whether you should go to the "Trumpet" before you did go?—I do not remember it.

35,612. When you got into the room did you find a number of men sitting there drinking?—If I remember rightly—but I think I have a very indistinct memory of it, because it was the only one case—if I remember rightly, I stood at the door, close by the passage, and I did see a certain number of men about, and I said something or other to them, perhaps the style of language that candidates use generally, and then I went out again directly.

35,613. Was anything said to you there which gave you to understand that they wanted money?—No. I think I have answered that question before.

35,614. I mean in the room?—Not at all.

35,615. Was there not something said to you about rates?—I do not remember anything being said to me about rates there.

35,616. Your memory was fresher when you were examined before Mr. Baron Martin?—Yes. If you will kindly turn to my evidence then, at the time of the petition, you will find that is what I felt at the time; I do not remember things so accurately now.

35,617. Was there anything said to you about giving anything to drink?—Not a word, that I remember.

35,618. Your memory was fresher at that time, because it was very soon after the election. I will call your attention to what you did say in a passage which I have before me. "I went into the room, "which was full of men (whether voters or not, I do "not know, but I suppose they were), I believe "I said either these words, or words to this effect, "'My friends, I understand you want me to ask you "'to vote for me. I shall be obliged to you to do "'so, and if there be any questions you may like to "'put to me I shall be very happy to answer them.' "Some man or other, or men, said 'Cannot you give "us something to drink?'"—Very possibly; I do not remember it.

35,619. "I answered 'I cannot give you one "'farthing, not even half a pint of beer?'"—I believe I did, now you bring that to my recollection.

35,620. Whether it was in your evidence or in Mr. Patteson's I do not exactly know, but do you recollect anything having been said with respect to rates?—No, I do not. I do not remember. You know that was my cheval de bataille, the erroneous representation of Mr. Tillett with respect to rates, and I may have spoken; no doubt I always did speak upon that subject of rates.

35,621. I am not speaking of the mode of rating, or anything of that sort, but whether any men said to you "We have rates to pay?"—I should think it is very likely. Most complaining men did say so, but I have no recollection of their saying so.

35,622. It may have been said, but in a different sense from that suggested?—At any rate if it was said, it would not have the slightest influence upon my paying the rates.

35,623. The suggestion was made, you know, that they had rates to pay, and therefore that something ought to be paid to them?—Very possibly something of that sort might have been said, but I do not remember it.

35,624. Did you see a man of the name of Hunt there?—Yes.

35,625. Did you also see a person of the name of Smith, a fowl dealer?—No; I don't remember him, nor did I know that that man's name to whom you allude was Hunt till I saw him in this witness-box at the time of the election petition.

35,626. Do you know Smith, the fowl dealer?—No.

35,627. Do you know him now?—No, I do not.

35,628. Had you seen a person who was represented to you to be Smith, the fowl dealer, at any committee-room?—No, indeed, I have no recollection of having seen Mr. Smith the fowl dealer, or any other man of the name of Smith.

35,629. Then he is a perfect stranger to you at this moment?—A perfect stranger.

35,630. How long did you remain in the "Trumpet"?—I cannot say, but I should think perhaps three or four minutes, not more, at the very utmost.

35,631. When you left, did the men follow you out?—I don't know that they did. I believe there was a general crowd. It is a small passage, and I dare say that was thronged to a certain degree, but I have no recollection of the men following me out, with the exception of this man Hunt.

35,632. Did you hold out any inducement to anybody there to pay those men any money whatever?—I held out no inducement to them to be paid at that time, previous to the time, or subsequent to that time, and I never have paid one shilling, or been asked for it.

35,633. You never authorised anybody to pay anything?—I never authorised anybody to pay one sixpence, beyond my agent, and he was not authorised to pay anything illegal, of course.

35,634. You are now aware that sums were paid to the men at the "Trumpet"?—Yes, I have heard that. I have read the evidence given here.

35,635. Had you in any way authorised or encouraged, or were you cognisant of any one of those payments?—Not one. I knew nothing about it. I had no idea of one sixpence being spent illegally until after the election.

35,636. Where did you go to after you left the "Trumpet"?—I cannot tell you the names of the public houses. If I remember rightly, I turned in my carriage to the right soon after, and I went to some public houses, and was there for a minute or two, and said very much the same thing.

35,637. Did you go to a number of public houses in the same way to speak to men?—I have a recollection of going to that one or two others, and I might have gone to others, but I don't remember going to more than two others besides the "Trumpet." I kept driving about the town. That was the great object, I understood.

35,638. Do you know Hardiment?—I never saw him, never heard of him, and did not know there was a man of such a name until I heard him mentioned at the time of the election inquiry.

35,639. You knew Mr. Allen, the surgeon?—Yes.

35,640. I will ask you generally. On the day of the election were you aware of any money whatever having been spent in bribery upon your side?—I was not aware of one sixpence being so spent, nor did I believe that one sixpence had been spent illegally during that day.

35,641. You found, did you not, that you improved very considerably after 2 o'clock?—Well, I understood that it was the case, but I made very few inquiries about it. I understood that it was the case.

35,642. I am afraid that if you did not take particular notice of it, you may not have made any inquiries. Was any suggestion made to you as to the mode in which the majority, which was procured after 2 o'clock, was procured?—Not the slightest in the world. After the election, I put the question to Mr. Chittock, the election agent. I said "Are you "sure that there has been no impurity whatever "occurring during the election?" and he said "I "know of none, and I believe there has been none."

35,643. When was it that you put that question?—Immediately after the election.

35,644. What induced you to put that question to Mr. Chittock?—Well, upon my word, I believe this, and I believed then, that for Norwich this was the purest election that ever had taken place, and I did not believe that as a general rule elections in Norwich were pure, but I believed this election to have been a perfectly pure one, and I thought it was a very great triumph that I should have been the one at the time.

35,645. Then why did you put that question to Mr. Chittock?—Because I was very proud of it. I felt that it had been a pure election, and I wished to have his corroboration of it.

35,646. Then am I to take it that you were neither privy to, nor were you even aware of, any corrupt practice whatever at the last election?—Yes. I was not at all aware of the slightest impurity having taken place at the canvass or during the time of the election.

35,647. I see that the expenses returned by Mr. Chittock, for yonr election, amounted to 1,915*l.* 1*s.* 9½*d*; did you pay that to Mr. Chittock?—I did.

35,648. Beyond that sum, did you promise or pay any money?—Not one shilling beyond the sum I paid to Mr. Chittock, which I thought was 1,922*l.*, but I may be in error about that.

35,649. Assuming that was the sum demanded of you, and paid to Mr. Chittock, has there been anything else?—Whatever the sum was, that was published; and I paid neither more nor less; and since then I have not paid one shilling.

35,650. Have you had claims made upon you in respect of any other sums than those which you paid to Sir Henry Stracey?—No. The only claim I had was from a publican, who at the time of the petition brought me a charge which I told him I certainly should not pay, inasmuch as I had paid all the legal expenses to my agent, and I should not pay one shilling more. So the man went away. He was rather drunk at the time he came.

35,651. Can you tell me who that man was?—I do not know his name, but I believe he is the landlord of the "Waterloo." I believe so. Well then, this man came again.

35,652. For what was that amount claimed?—I do not remember the amount.

35,653. What was it?—For drinking and breakages.

35,654. You do not recollect the amount?—No, I do not. I have only an impression of it, but I do not know it. I fancy it was 12*l.*

35,655. You did not keep the bill or claim?—No.

35,656. You entirely repudiated it?—I did not listen to it for a moment.

35,657. Have you had any application made to you, not in the nature of a claim, but of a suggestion for payment of any other money expended on your behalf—No. That is the only man who has made a claim upon me, bringing a bill with him. I am not sure that there was not another man who came for some small amount. I did not pay it. I believe that was previous to the payment to Mr. Chittock. I told him whatever was recognised by Mr. Chittock I should very gladly pay, but I did not intend to pay anything else, and I did not.

35,658. I will not put it so high as a claim, but did not persons suggest that in point of honour, or as a matter of indulgence, you should reimburse money which they had spent on account of the election?—For the honour of Norwich, I have not had one symptom of a demand of the kind.

35,659. You were, very shortly after the election, served with a notice of a petition?—Yes.

35,660. Did you proceed to make inquiries as to whether the allegations in the petition were well founded?—No, not personally. I put the whole of the matter into Mr. Skipper's hands, and I had very little communication with him during the time, for I knew of no corruption myself, and I left him to work it out.

35,661. Did you give him instructions thoroughly to sift the matter?—Whatever the solicitor's duty was under the circumstances he had full instructions from me.

35,662. To do whatever was necessary?—To do whatever was necessary.

35,663. You left yourself for that purpose entirely in Mr. Skipper's hands?—Quite so.

35,664. You made no personal inquiries yourself?—I did not make one inquiry.

35,665. Were you aware before the trial of the petition that money had been spent by Hunt, or Smith, or Hardiment?—I knew nothing about it, and as I told you just now I never heard of Hardiment before. I never heard of his having spent one shilling, and I never saw Hunt before. I saw him in this box, and I was not aware that he had spent one shilling either.

35,666. Had you heard of any money having been used by Mr. Hulme, or Mr. Bunn, or Mr. Howse Allen?—No; I knew nothing of it.

35,667. Or Wiseman?—Not a word.

35,668. Do I understand that the statements which were made here with respect to corruption were entirely unknown to you?—Perfectly.

35,669. You were wholly ignorant of anything of the kind up to that time?—I was totally ignorant of anything of the kind.

35,670. Had Mr. Skipper been your personal solicitor before?—No. I knew he was well acquainted with electioneering matters, and he had been a very great supporter of mine during the contest.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

Sir H. J. Stracey, Bart.

9 Oct. 1869.

35,671. Mr. Patteson was a very active supporter of yours during the election, was he not?—He was.

35,672. And a very influential man in the city?—I should say so.

35,673. Was Sir Samuel Bignold also a strong supporter of yours?—Yes.

35,674. And Mr. John Bignold?—Oh yes. I have no doubt that he was; in fact, I am sure he was.

35,675. And Mr. Arthur Bignold?—Yes; in short, all the family. I am very much indebted to them all in that way.

35,676. They were very active in your behalf?—I have no doubt they were; in short, I am sure they were.

35,677. Did you see Mr. Arthur Bignold several days before the election in Norwich?—I think not. No, I don't remember it.

35,678. Have you ever heard of his providing any money for this election?—I have not heard of it up to this time, and certainly not before the election.

35,679. He never made any communication to you that he was about to provide any money, or any suggestion of that kind to you?—Never. He knows very well that it would have been very badly received if he had.

35,680. We have heard that some money was provided by your son, Mr. Edward?—I am sorry to say I heard it in the papers when I was at Glasgow, I believe, on the 2d of September.

35,681. Had you ever heard anything respecting that matter before you read it in the paper that day?—Never.

35,682. You never, directly or indirectly, had any knowledge or idea of that circumstance?—I had not the remotest suspicion.

35,683. Your son, Edward, was very active during the election?—Very.

35,684. Was he here, or where was he during the time of the election petition trial?—He was here in court every day. He was subpœnaed and remained in court during the whole time of the trial, but never was called.

35,685. And he never made any communication to you before or during that trial?—He did not.

35,686. Is your son abroad now?—Upon my word I cannot tell you in what quarter of the globe he is. I have not heard from him. He has never written to me. He writes very seldom indeed to any of us. He has never written to me, perhaps not for the last year.

35,687. When did you see him last?—I think at the time of the petition would be the last time. I saw him in London for a minute or two one day, but I have not seen him since then.

35,688. The secretary of the commission called upon you respecting the attendance of your son here?—Very true. It was for information generally.

35,689. But he spoke about your son's attendance here, did he not?—Yes.

35,690. He told you that his attendance would be required here, if he could be found?—Well, I don't remember his telling me that his attendance would be required; I remember his mentioning his name, and also my son's name in the Guards. He asked me if I had a son in the Guards.

35,691. He asked you where your son was?—I do not remember that. He might have done so. I am sure I should have told him at once if I had known where he was.

35,692. Did you not tell him that you did not know where he was?—I dare say I did; if I did not know, you may depend upon it I did.

35,693. Did you take means to acquaint your son with that communication which had been made to you?—I don't believe I saw him afterwards.

35,694. You may not have seen him, but there are members of your family, I suppose, who correspond with him?—Indeed, I doubt it; I do not believe that he has any correspondents in the family.

35,695. When did you see Mr. Arthur Bignold last?—Last? Oh, I don't know, I am sure. I don't know when I saw him last. I saw him I fancy in London, but I have not seen him for a very considerable time now.

35,696. Have you seen him since you saw the secretary on that occasion?—No; I believe not.

35,697. Have you had any communication with him in the shape of letters since that period?—No, none at all.

35,698. Do you happen to know where he is?—I know no more than the man in the moon. I have not an idea where he is.

35,699. When you last saw him had you any conversation with him respecting the inquiry which is now going on?—I cannot say that I had. I think it is more than probable that I had; but I cannot say that I had.

35,700. Do you recollect the subject of any conversation you had?—No; but it was certainly not of any consequence. There was not anything material in the conversation.

35,701. Did he tell you that he meant to be here at the time of this inquiry?—No. My idea is that he said he had the gout. He was very lame at the time, and I have no doubt he had the gout badly, and he was going abroad to drink the waters, he said.

35,702. He did not tell you that he intended to be here in September?—No; certainly not.

35,703. Or that he had told the secretary that he would?—No.

35,704. Sir Henry, I do not think that we need trouble you further; but there is one matter which I should like to communicate to you, which is of importance for your own information; that is, that during the inquiry here we have found that the number constituting your majority, certainly a number exceeding your majority, had been influenced either by bribes or treating, and that therefore, under these circumstances, the unseating of yourself by the election judge was a just result independently of anything like the question of the agency of Mr. Hardiment. At the same time, the people of Norwich ought to know that Mr. Tillett could not have retained his seat after the illegal practice which was resorted to respecting the procurement of the majority at the show of hands at the nomination; so that justice in fact was done by the decision of the election judge; and the vacating of the entire seat was the right result, independently of any agency of Mr. Hardiment.—Sir, I have never made a remark upon the judge's justice, whatever my opinion might have been. May I take the liberty of making one observation? I do not find fault, the least in the world, either with your examination of me, which I am sure has been sufficiently courteous and indulgent, or with the judge's opinion upon the inqury; but will you allow me to say that there were no houses open here for treating, and although certain treating in pints of beer and half pints of beer doubtless went on, which you have elucidated clearly enough—to what extent it was is a matter of doubt perhaps—but, however, one in my position cannot help contrasting his case with that of others. The same judge, if you remember, tried the Bradford case——

35,705. Pardon me; I do not think we can listen to that.—I think I may be allowed to say this, that there were 128 houses open at Bradford, all of which were recognised by the judge who tried the petition here, and he allowed Mr. Forster to sit.

35,706. Sir Henry, will you pardon me—— ?—I mean no disrespect.

35,707. All I wish to assure you is that when the matter comes to be thoroughly sifted from the beginning to the end, the majority which was your majority was one which had been improperly influenced, not in any way let me assure you, I believe, through your instrumentality or with your cognisance, but by persons whose conduct was exercised on your behalf, and who were partisans of yours; whose acts, therefore, would have in fact invalidated your election.—I quite agree with you; I have no doubt of it, and it was most improperly exercised. No one regrets it more than I do that it should have been so exercised. It was most unjustifiably exercised, there is not the least doubt about it, and particularly against my son. These men evidently knew they could not influence the father unless the father was compromised through the feelings of the son, and I call that most unjustifiable on the part of those people with whom you have found fault. I am only echoing your remarks; I find fault with them much more even than you have done.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

Sir H. J. Stracey, Bart.

9 Oct. 1869.

THURSTON WILLIAM LINCOLN sworn and examined. T. W. Lincoln.

35,708. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A master chimney sweep.

35,709. For whom did you vote at this election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

35,710. Did you get anything for it?—I got 7*s.* 6*d.*

35,711. Who gave you the 7*s.* 6*d.*?—Mr. Brook.

35,712. Where did he give it to you?—In his shed.

35,713. Was there anybody else present?—I never see anybody else.

35,714. When had he promised you that 7*s.* 6*d.*?—I did not have it until after I voted.

35,715. He gave it to you for voting for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes; I suppose that is what it was for.

35,716. Had anybody asked you to vote?—No; I was going to vote for him.

35,717. Was that all the money you had?—Yes, that was all.

35,718. Do you know of anybody else getting any money?—No.

35,719. Is that all you know about the election?—Yes, that is all.

35,720. Have you ever voted before?—No.

ROBERT RAYNOR recalled and further examined. R. Raynor.

35,721. (Mr. Biron.) You have been examined before?—Yes.

35,722. Do you work for Bacon?—Yes.

35,723. Were you in his shop the first day after the election?—The first day, I believe, or the next.

35,724. Did you see Bacon give anything to a railway guard?—Yes.

35,725. What was it?—Half a sovereign.

35,726. Who was the man?—A railway guard.

35,727. Do you know his name?—No, I do not.

35,728. Did he say what it was for?—No.

WILLIAM BROWN sworn and examined. W. Brown.

35,729. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

35,730. For whom did you vote?—I voted for Sir William Russell and Mr. Tillett.

35,731. At what time in the day?—I was the sixth that voted. I should have been the first, only I gave way to another gentleman.

35,732. Do you know a person of the name of Edmund Adcock?—No, I do not know that I do.

35,733. Do you know a person of the name of Adcock?—To the best of my belief I do not.

35,734. Do you live in Chittock's Yard?—No; I lived at St. Julien's at the time of the election; I now live in Museum Court.

35,735. Do you know a person of the name of Edmund Adcock, who lives in Goose's Lane, St. Clement's?—No, I do not; I voted in Ber Street, at Mr. Harris'.

35,736. Do you know a person of the same name as yourself, who lived in Chittock's Yard?—No, I do not.

35,737. Did you receive anything for voting at the last election?—No, not a farthing.

35,738. Nor the promise of anything?—No.

35,739. Was nothing promised you?—No, and I never wished them to promise me anything.

35,740. Do you know where Chittock's Yard is?—No, I do not.

WILLIAM SLAUGHTER sworn and examined. W. Slaughter.

35,741. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A shoemaker.

35,742. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

35,743. At what time?—In the afternoon.

35,744. What made you so late?—I was at work in the morning.

35,745. For whom do you work?—Mr. Tillyard.

35,746. Did you go back to your work after voting?—No, not after I voted.

35,747. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

35,748. Did you try?—No.

35,749. Did you get any beer?—No.

35,750. Was anything promised you?—No.

35,751. Is this your first time of voting?—Yes.

35,752. Who asked you to vote?—No one at all.

35,753. Did you ever say for whom you were going to vote?—No. A paper was sent to me once. I was not at home, and I never saw any one. I do not work at home. I do not go home sometimes till eight or nine and ten o'clock at night. Some parties called during the day, but I never saw them.

HENRY WILLIS sworn and examined. H. Willis.

35,754. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—An engine driver.

35,755. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

35,756. At what time in the day?—It would be about ten minutes to four.

35,757. Did you get anything for it?—No.

35,758. Or the promise of anything?—No, nothing; no coin.

35,759. Neither directly or indirectly?—No.

35,760. Did you see Mr. Bacon that day?—No, I never saw no one.

35,761. Were you promised anything?—No, I never see anyone, nor yet anyone promised me anything. I should have gone and voted before but I was an engine driver, and could not leave my engine.

WALTER BENNETT sworn and examined. W. Bennett.

35,762. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a member of the firm of Bream & Bennett?—Yes, I am.

35,763. Have you heard anything from a person in the employment of the brother of Fuller, of the "Trumpet," with respect to the money being spent in public houses, at the election?—One of our workmen married a daughter, I think, of Fuller, the brother to the one who keeps the "Trumpet," and I have heard him speaking sometimes to the other men, chaffing about money.

35,764. Chaffing?—Yes, about the money that was spent. I overheard him making a statement one day to one of the men in our yard, that some money was taken to the "Trumpet" and given to him on the day of the election, and his father-in-law received some portion of it. I believe that has been sworn to during this inquiry.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

W. Bennett.

9 Oct. 1869.

35,765. Did he say by whom it was taken there ?—No.

35,766. Or how it was taken there ?—No.

35,767. Or who provided it ?—No.

35,768. Merely that the money was taken there ?—That is all. When I overheard the statement, I asked him if he really knew anything at all about it, and he said, no, his father-in-law knew nothing about it, and he would take very good care not to let him know about it ; he was not a voter.

35,769. The wife of the man is the daughter of Fuller's brother ?—I believe that is so.

35,770. That would be George Fuller ?—I really do not know ; I believe he lives in Coburg Street. I really knew nothing of him, and his son-in-law lodges with him.

35,771. He said that his father-in-law would take very good care not to give him any information ?—Just so.

35,772. Do you know anything about how money was provided for purposes of this kind ?—No, on the day of the election I was actively engaged in getting up voters in the sixth ward. I canvassed a portion of the sixth and third wards, and so far as the canvass was concerned it was very satisfactory. In the first instance I canvassed merely for Mr. Tillett ; I had no faith in the other section of the Whig party. I canvassed for Mr. Tillett and successfully in both portions of the city. On the day of the election I was actively engaged in getting up voters. On the canvass I might say I canvassed a man named Spinks, a cabman ; when I went to him, he said he could not attend to me, and that his wife would attend to me, and I said to his wife, "Which way is your husband going to vote ;" she said that he had always voted for the Liberals, but they always engaged his cab, and I said that no cabs would be engaged by the Liberals this time, and she said he would not vote unless his cab was engaged. I saw him on the morning of the election and asked him if he had voted, and he said, "No, not at present." I saw him at the "Surrey" Inn with four voters, and he said he was going to vote, for his cab was engaged, and I believe he voted for Stracey because his cab was engaged.

35,773. Where does he live ?—In St. Stephen's, opposite the hospital. I was down in the seventh ward and went down to the gasworks after a voter about three o'clock of the election day, and went into a public house there to see if the man was there, and a lad told me he had gone down the river in his wherry ; that somebody had given him some beer to do so. I went into the public house and there were about 16 or 20 men there.

35,774. What public house was that ?—I do not remember the sign ; it was close by Bishop's Bridge, towards the gasworks ; there were 16 of them that had not voted, and they said they were quite willing to vote for Tillett if I would stand a gallon or two of beer. I said that was quite out of the question ; and they said they should not vote without, and I left them.

35,775. Do you know of any money being spent at the last election ?—Only what I have seen reported in the papers about this inquiry.

35,776. (Mr. Biron.) On your own side or Tillett's side do you know of any expenditure for the purpose of getting votes ?—No, not any.

W.C.Hazelton.

William Charles Hazelton sworn and examined.

35,777. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade ?—A sawyer.

35,778. For whom do you work ?—For anybody where I can get a job.

35,779. Who did you work for on the day of the election ?—Messrs. Harvey.

35,780. Were you at work that day ?—Yes.

35,781. When did you leave your work ?—About a quarter past three. I had a job to finish.

35,782. You voted for Stracey ?—Yes.

35,783. Was anything offered to you ?—No.

35,784. Not a glass of beer ?—No ; I was a teetotaler at the time.

35,785. Has anything been given you since for voting ?—No.

35,786. Did anybody ask you to vote ?—No.

35,787. Had you promised your vote ?—No.

35,788. This is your first time of voting ?—Yes.

W. Roper.

William Roper sworn and examined.

35,789. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A miller.

35,790. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

35,791. For whom ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

35,792. At what time in the day ?—About three, or it might be a little after.

35,793. Why did you not vote before that ?—I was ill.

35,794. Were you brought up to the poll ?—No.

35,795. Did you walk ?—Yes.

35,796. Who came for you ?—No one.

35,797. Did you get anything for voting ?—No.

35,798. Or the promise of anything ?—No.

R. Ladbrooke.

Robert Ladbrooke sworn and examined.

35,799. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) At the time of the election were you engaged in Porter's beerhouse ?—Yes.

35,800. How long were you engaged there ?—Well, I might be there two or three hours.

35,801. Assisting in the house ?—No, not at all.

35,802. What were you doing ?—Nothing ; only taking a little beer at my own expense.

35,803. You were not employed there ?—No.

35,804. You know the landlord, Porter ?—Yes.

35,805. Do you know a person of the name of Welton ?—Yes, I know the person.

35,806. Did Porter offer you anything that day ?—No.

35,807. Did he not offer you 2*s.* 6*d.* ?—No.

35,808. To vote ?—No.

35,809. Did he not offer you any money ?—None at all.

35,810. Have you not said that he offered you 2*s.* 6*d.* to go up and vote, that you would not take, and that then he offered you 5*s.* ?—No.

35,811. Did anybody offer you anything ?—No. You will excuse me this far : he says to me like this, "You wish to be paid for the day." I said, "I shall be paid for the day ;" that was by the man I was engaged for, Mr. Freeman ; he lay dead at the time, but that was nothing to do with the election. He says to me, "You will have half a crown," not that he said he would give me half a crown.

35,812. He said you would have half a crown ; did he say who would give you the half a crown ?—No.

35,813. He said you would have half a crown if you would vote for Stracey ?—No, half a crown for my day's work, but he did not say I should vote for Stracey.

35,814. Were you doing any work on the day of the election ?—I was after Mr. Freeman's business.

35,815. What business were you about ?—It was the property tax, carrying out letters and that like.

35,816. Did you go to work at all that day ?—Yes, between times. I went to vote at the national school between 9 and 10, but could not get up without being jammed, and therefore I would not do it. I am crippled in this arm, and thought it most likely I should get my arm broken again, and so I would not go up then, and as I went back I met with Mr. Porter, and he says to me as I now says to you, "Where are "you going now." I says, "I am going back again, I "could not get up;" he says, "Come along with me." "No," I says, "I do not think I shall;" he says, "Just come into my house a little while," just as I now say it to you, and I says, "No, I do not think "I shall;" he says, "There are only two or three "there who perhaps you know;" "No," I says, "I "do not know anybody about here." I went in, and there was only one person I knew, and that was a person of the name of Cozens, and that is all I can say. No money was offered to me no further than half-a-crown for my day's work, but he did not say he would give it.

35,817. Was he talking about your voting at that time?—No.

35,818. Did he not say anything to you about voting?—No.

35,819. Not at all?—No, not at all.

35,820. Did he not say a word about your going up?—No, not a word.

35,821. Have you been drinking some beer this morning?—It is very likely I have.

35,822. We will continue your examination on Monday morning.—Very good, I will come.

JOHN HARDY sworn and examined.

J. Hardy.

35,823. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A retired tradesman.

35,824. Did you make yourself very busy at the last election?—Yes.

35,825. On which side?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

35,826. Did you canvass?—Yes.

35,827. Did you take up any voters to the poll?—Yes, I canvassed five or six.

35,828. Were you at it all day?—Yes.

35,829. From where did you take them up?—From their homes.

35,830. Were you travelling about with Hibbett?—Yes, I was. I think I commenced with Hibbett about half-past ten. I was along with Mr. Abel the first part of the morning.

35,831. Can you tell me at all how many voters you got up in the course of the day?—I cannot say—a great many.

35,832. To which public-house did you go to pick up the voters?—Not any.

35,833. Did you not stop at any public-house during the whole day?—I might go up to the "Tuns" to get a list the latter part of the day to see where I was to go.

35,834. I suppose voters were hanging about the "Tuns?"—There might be some, possibly.

35,835. Did you take up some from there?—No.

35,836. Are you certain of that?—Yes.

35,837. Was there any public-house from which you did take up voters that day?—I believe I took two voters from the committee-room that belonged to the Liberals—the "Coach and Horses" in Union Place—they called me, and they got into our trap, and we drove them up to vote.

35,838. Did they vote for the Liberals?—No, they did not.

35,839. Did you induce them to change their minds?—No, I did not; they were friends of mine, and they promised to vote for Sir Henry Stracey, but they happened to be in the house.

35,840. Did you give them anything?—No.

35,841. Have you spent any money of your own at this election?—Certainly not one half-penny. When I say that I think I did spend a shilling. I was visiting one of the booths, it might be eleven o'clock, and I gave the clerks half a gallon of porter, and paid for it, but that is all I spent.

35,842. Have you spent anything since on matters connected with the election?—No.

35,843. No money, or given the promise of anything?—No.

35,844. Did you make any promise to a man of the name of Hansall?—No, certainly not.

35,845. You have not assisted him in any way in his trade?—No; it was reported he was bribed, but it was false; more than that, he had received a note from some one to go and clear up the case before Mr. Morgan, and he told me of it, and I said, "Go by all means." He never received a penny from me, or the promise of anything, and that I will say upon my solemn oath. I have the letter if you like to look at it that he received. I sent him to Mr. Morgan three different times to see him, but he was not in the way, and a witness with him to clear it up.

35,846. You did nothing but take up voters?—I canvassed. I took up a Mr. Whall at the back of St. Stephen's; he lived in Park Lane, but he was at the shop, and I took him up at three o'clock. He did not intend to vote at all, but when I saw him I persuaded him to go and vote, and he went and voted in St. Stephen's, and then I believe we called at a Mr. Robinson's, a horse dealer on Chapel Field Road. We took up a man there to vote and took him to the poll, but they objected to his vote, and I thought it was an objection that they did not ought to make, and therefore I drove him to the sheriff, and the sheriff not being at home I drove him up to the "Tuns," and left him there for some one to see him voted; that is all the persons I ever drove up to the "Tuns" on the day of the election.

35,847. Have you subscribed any money for the purpose of the election?—No, I have not.

35,848. Do you know of any money having been spent either for bribing or treating by any person at this election?—No, certainly not, and I would have made any bet that there was not a single penny spent when the inquiry first commenced, and I was surprised to hear it.

RICHARD HANKS sworn and examined.

R. Hanks.

35,849. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A publican.

35,850. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

35,851. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

35,852. At what time in the day?—A little after three.

35,853. Why did you not vote earlier than that?—Because it did not suit my purpose; my business prevented me.

35,854. What were you doing in the early morning?—My business.

35,855. Were you attending to your business in your own house?—Yes.

35,856. Were you doing a pretty good business that day?—No, nothing hardly; only there was no one at home, only myself.

35,857. Were there no men at your house?—No.

35,858. No voters at all?—No, none whatever.

35,859. Where is your house?—Next to the theatre.

35,860. Was there anybody there that day?—No, not at all; not voters at all that I remember.

35,861. Did you get anything by voting?—No, not a farthing.

35,862. Or the promise of anything?—No, never, and never expected it.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

F. Merry.

9 Oct. 1869.

FREDERICK MERRY sworn and examined.

35,863. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A shoemaker.

35,864. Do you work on your own account?—Yes.

35,865. Where were you working on the day of the poll?—In Thorpe parish.

35,866. Is that your own place or your master's place?—My own place.

35,867. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

35,868. At what time in the day?—I think it was just about dinner time.

35,869. What became of you after that?—I called in on a man named Burdett at a public-house close by.

35,870. Did you get anything for your vote that day?—No, not a farthing.

35,871. Were you treated?—No, not a farthing.

35,872. Have you had anything for voting?—No.

35,873. Did anybody offer you any inducement to go and vote?—No, not the slightest.

35,874. By whom were you asked to vote?—By Mr. Morgan and Mr. Green.

35,875. Did you promise to vote for Stracey?—Yes.

35,876. Did they say anything to you about a day's wages?—No, not the least.

35,877. You were willing to go without any inducement?—Yes; I told them they need not call upon me any more, I should vote for Mr. Stracey.

C. Ratter.

CHARLES RATTER sworn and examined.

35,878. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a butcher by trade.

35,879. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

35,880. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

35,881. At what time in the day?—Between eleven and twelve, up at the school on the Dereham road.

35,882. Did you get anything for voting?—I never got anything or never see anything.

35,883. Or the promise of anything?—No, bless you, no; if I had I should have repelled it at once, I despise anything of the sort.

J. Moore.

JOSEPH MOORE sworn and examined.

35,884. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A wire worker.

35,885. For whom do you work?—Barnard and Bishop.

35,886. Were you at work on the day of the election?—No.

35,887. Where were you that day?—At home.

35,888. Did anybody come and ask you for your vote?—No.

35,889. Did you promise your vote?—No.

35,890. At what time in the day did you vote?—Somewhere about three, or a little after three it might be.

35,891. What did you get for it?—Nothing.

35,892. Did you not get any beer?—No, I do not drink beer.

35,893. Was anything promised you?—No.

35,894. Have you had anything since?—No.

35,895. Is this your first time of voting?—Yes.

35,896. Had you not been canvassed by either side?—No.

J. Nichols.

JEREMIAH NICHOLS sworn and examined.

35,897. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

35,898. For Stracey?—Yes.

35,899. Did you get anything for it?—I never got anything for it, or never asked for anything.

35,900–1. Did nobody promise you anything?—No.

J. Welton.

JAMES WELTON sworn and examined.

35,902. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

35,903. At what time in the day?—At half-past eleven as near as I can guess.

35,904. Had you promised your vote?—No.

35,905. Did you get anything for it?—No.

35,906. Did you try to get anything for it?—No.

35,907. Has anything been paid you since for voting?—No.

35,908. Were you not treated that day at all?—No, not so much as a pipe of tobacco.

35,909. Have you ever voted before?—No.

35,910. Had you promised your vote this time?—No.

35,911. Had you not been asked?—No, I had no one at my house.

35,912. Do you know Porter's beer-house?—Yes, that is in my neighbourhood.

35,913. You were there on the day of election?—Yes.

35,914. At what time of the day was that?—I I think I went as near as I can guess about nine o'clock.

35,915. I think something was said there about your getting a day's wages?—I do not know.

35,916. You did not get it but something was said about it?—There was a little report, but I know nothing about reports.

35,917. Something was said there about it?—I think there was something said about receiving half-a-crown.

35,918. Do you recollect who said that?—I do not know; it was reported that there would be half-a-crown, but I did not see half-a-crown given.

35,919. Who said it was likely there was to be half-a-crown for your day's work?—I do not know.

35,920. You were there with Ladbrooke were you not?—Yes.

35,921. Something was said to him about half-a-crown too?—There might be.

35,922. You know there was?—I do not know, because I left the house with Mr. Abel's man and voted.

35,923. You went up with Mr. John Abel?—Yes, I did.

35,924. Have you ever had your half-crown since?—I never had a farthing.

35,925. You were told there was half-a-crown to be had for your day's work?—I was not told it.

35,926. You heard it there?—Yes.

35,927. I suppose that made you go and vote for Stracey?—No; I voted according to my principle.

35,928. Who did you ask afterwards for that half-crown?—Nobody.

35,929. You tried to get it?—No, never.

35,930. You talked about it afterwards, surely?—No, never.

35,931. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes, I am certain. I have come here to speak the truth.

35,932. Did you get some beer that morning at the beer-house?—I believe I had several half pints during the day, but I was not treated.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

J. Welton.

9 Oct. 1869.

35,933. Were you not treated at Porter's beer-house?—No, not with so much as a pipe of tobacco or half a pint of beer.

35,934. Was there not some there which you might have had?—No, I never had the offer.

35,935. Are you certain of that?—Yes, quite certain.

35,936. You are quite certain you have never had the half-crown?—No, I never see one.

35,937. I suppose you would be very glad to get it?—Yes, that I would; I stand in need of it, but it was never offered.

35,938. You would have voted for anybody for half-a-crown?—I voted according to my principle.

JAMES SEELY sworn and examined.

J. Seely.

35,939. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

35,940. At what time in the day?—I suppose it would be between two and three o'clock.

35,941. What did you get for voting?—Nothing at all.

35,942. Did you not get ten shillings?—No, I never see any money.

35,943. What were you promised?—Not anything.

35,944. Were you in company that day with a man called Pye?—He was at work along with me.

35,945. Did not you and he go and vote together?—He was at work sweeping the sheep-pens out on the hill here.

35,946. Did not you and Pye go up and vote together?—Yes.

35,947. Who took you up?—I cannot say who it was.

35,948. There were two gentlemen in the cab?—Yes, there were two gentlemen, but who they were I cannot say.

35,949. Do you know a man of the name of Pearce, William Pearce, of Cock Yard?—No, I do not know the name.

35,950. Did you ever say to a man about your having voted, that you got ten shillings and went to vote like a gentleman?—I never got a farthing, and never see anybody.

35,951. Did you say, "You are a fool to vote for "nothing, I got ten shillings and went to the poll "like a gentleman"?—No, never to any one, I could not tell them that, because I never got it.

35,952. Were you promised it?—No, never.

35,953. Was nothing offered you?—I was never promised nothing at all.

35,954. Why did you not vote earlier?—I was at work, I could not go.

35,955. You mean to say you got nothing directly or indirectly for your vote?—No, I had nothing nowhere.

ROBERT RANSOME sworn and examined.

R. Ransome.

35,956. (Mr. Mansfield.) Were you employed at the last election?—Yes.

35,957. By whom?—By Mr. Stracey.

35,958. You were paid for that I suppose?—No.

35,959. Not paid at all?—No.

35,960. In what capacity were you employed?—As a carpenter.

35,961. Where?—At Mr. Hood's then.

35,962. Were you employed by Sir Henry Stracey's committee?—No.

35,963. Were you a check clerk?—No.

35,964. Had you anything to do with this election?—No, nothing at all, only by going and voting with my free good will.

35,965. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

35,966. Had you promised your vote?—No, not to any one.

35,967. Where do you live?—In Derby Street.

35,968. Was your father employed?—No.

35,969. Was any one of your name that you know employed?—Not that I know of.

35,970. Have you any son old enough to be employed?—No.

35,971. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

35,972. Was anything offered you?—No, nothing at all.

35,973. Has nothing been given to you since?—No; and if they had offered it I should not have taken it.

THOMAS FLAXMAN sworn and examined.

T. Flaxman.

35,974. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

35,975. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

35,976. Where were you on the morning of the election?—Cab-driving.

35,977. Was your cab engaged by Sir Henry Stracey's people at all that day?—Not that I know of.

35,978. Not at all?—Not that I can say.

35,979. Was it engaged in taking up people to the poll?—No.

35,980. Did you drive voters up to the poll?—No, only myself.

35,981. When did you vote?—In the afternoon.

35,982. Why could you not vote before?—Because I could not neglect my business.

35,983. You were passing to and fro by the poll?—No, not where I polled.

35,984. Where was your stand?—In the market.

35,985. Where was your polling place?—Ber Street.

35,986. That is close by?—I know it.

35,987. What did you receive for your vote?—Not anything, only civility.

35,988. Who gave you the civility?—Them that took my name down.

35,989. Was that all?—Yes, that was all.

35,990. Had you been canvassed for your vote beforehand?—No.

35,991. Had you not been asked to give your vote by anybody?—No, I was never at home only at night.

35,992. You might have been asked during the day?—No.

35,993. Did you get any beer after voting?—Yes, at my own expense.

35,994. Did anybody give you any beer?—No.

GEORGE BEAUMONT READ sworn and examined.

G. B. Read.

35,995. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A master tailor.

35,996. You got some money from Mr. Bunn I believe?—No, I do not know Mr. Bunn.

35,997. Did you get any money from any one?—No.

35,998. Not to pay to voters?—No.

35,999. Did you get nothing yourself?—No.

36,000. Have you ever voted before?—No.

36,001. You are a tailor?—Yes, I keep a tailor's shop in White Lion Street.

36,002. A master tailor?—Yes.

36,003. How many people do you employ?—Seven.

36,004. Did you canvass them for their votes?—No.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

G. B. Read.

9 Oct. 1869.

36,005. Have you never had anything yourself for your vote?—No.

36,006. Nor anything promised you?—No, I should not have taken it if I had been offered anything.

36,007. Nothing went through your hands for other people?—No, I had nothing to do with canvassing or anything of the kind.

A. Cain.

ABEL CAIN sworn and examined.

36,008. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

36,009. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

36,010. At what time in the day?—As near as I can recollect about half-past two.

36,011. Did you get anything for voting?—No, not anything.

36,012. Or the promise of anything?—Not a farthing.

D. Stone.

DANIEL STONE sworn and examined.

36,013. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

36,014. For whom?—Tillett and Russell.

36,015. At what time?—Eleven o'clock in the forenoon.

36,016. Did you get anything for your vote?—No, nothing at all.

36,017. Did anybody promise you anything?—I was asked to have something but I did not take anything.

36,018. Was any money offered to you on the day of the election by anybody?—A man asked me if I had voted, and I told him no, and he said I might as well oblige his party.

36,019. Which party was that?—Mr. Stracey's party. He said, "I suppose you are laying back for "something?" and I says, "Yes;" he says, "We are "giving our party half-a-crown," and I said, "I shall "not have it."

36,020. Who was that?—Mr Hayes in King Street.

36,021. Did he offer that to anybody else in your hearing?—Not that I know of, I left him walking, he was walking past my shop when he said that to me and that is all the conversation we had.

36,022. What time in the day was that?—That was about three o'clock.

W. Whiting.

WALTER WHITING sworn and examined.

36,023. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A blacksmith.

36,024. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

36,025. At what time in the day?—A little past three, I suppose.

36,026. Where were you all the day of the election?—At work.

36,027. For whom did you work?—Mr. Bolton.

36,028. You went and voted after your dinner?—I voted after I got my dinner. We worked till one o'clock, and then I went home and got my dinner and washed and put on my other clothes, and then went and voted at the first place I came to.

36,029. Did you get anything for it?—No.

36,030. Did anybody offer you anything?—No.

36,031. You were not promised anything?—No; I was not canvassed for my vote at all.

36,032. Were you treated?—No, I never went into a public house that day.

36,033. Have you had anything since?—No.

36,034. I suppose your master asked you to vote?—No, he did not.

36,035. He voted for Stracey, did he not?—I do not know. I never see the poll book. I believe he did.

36,036. And you voted to oblige him as much as any other person?—Yes, but he did not ask me.

36,037. You voted to oblige him without being asked?—I voted which way I thought best.

36,038. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You would rather vote with your master than against him?—Yes, I would.

E. Weeks.

EDMUND WEEKS sworn and examined.

36,039. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shoemaker by trade.

36,040. Did you vote at the last election?—No.

36,041. For neither party?—No.

36,042. Were you canvassed?—No.

36,043. You took no part in it at all?—No.

36,044. Do you know that somebody else voted for you?—There must have been somebody personated me I think.

36,045. Were you ever offered money to vote yourself?—No.

36,046. Were you offered money afterwards?—No.

36,047. Were you asked to go away at the time of the election?—Yes, I was about six weeks after the affair, after the election.

36,048. That is when the petition was pending?—Yes.

36,049. Who asked you to go away?—My deputy landlord.

36,050. A man to whom you pay the rent, the man who collects the rent?—Yes, that is the man.

36,051. Who is that?—Mr. Hall.

36,052. Why did he ask you to go away?—Because my name was in the poll book. I told him I did not wish to get into any muddle as I had not voted and he wanted me to go away, and he said, could I hide myself for three weeks until the bother was over, and I told him, no.

36,053. Do you know who voted for you?—No.

36,054. Do you know now?—No.

36,055. Did your deputy landlord tell you who had voted for you?—No.

36,056. Did he say he knew?—No.

36,057. What did he offer you to go away?—Nothing; he said the expenses would be too great for me to go London.

36,058. Did you want to go to London?—I told him I could not run away and leave my wife and family, and he asked me if I had got any relations close by, and I told him none nearer than London, and he said the expenses would be too great to send me to London.

36,059. Did he pay your expenses?—No, he never gave me anything.

36,060. Who paid your expenses?—No person; I never got anything. I never went away.

36,061. You stayed here during the inquiry, is that it?—Yes.

GEORGE BETTS sworn and examined. G. Betts.

36,062. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

36,063. At what time in the day?—Between three and four.

36,064. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

36,065. At what public-houses were you during the day?—Nowhere.

36,066. Nowhere at all?—No, I never went into one at all.

36,067. Were you not in a public-house before you went up to vote?—No.

36,068. What were you doing before you went up to vote?—Walking about the city.

36,069. What were you walking about the city for?—I was looking about the same as other people were.

36,070. Who got you to vote?—Nobody, I went myself and voted.

36,071. Did not anybody speak to you about voting and ask you to vote?—No, not a man.

36,072. I suppose you were looking out for what you could get?—No, I was not. I did not think anything about it. I never voted before in my life, and know nothing at all about it.

36,073. Were you not wishing for a day's pay?—No, I was not thinking about it.

36,074. You would have taken a day's pay if anybody had offered it to you?—Yes, but I had no chance.

36,075. Were you not looking out for it?—I never got nothing, and never saw no man.

36,076. Are you sure you did not get anything promised you?—Not a farthing.

36,077. Was no beer given you?—No, not a half-penny.

36,078. There were a good number of other people standing out like yourself to get a day's pay?—I do not know. I never paid no regard to other people, I looked to myself.

36,079. Did you not talk to them about it?—No, I did not.

36,080. You were loitering about the town all day?—Yes, of course, I was walking about the same as other people.

36,081. What is your employment?—Working on the common sewer.

36,082. Were the works stopped that day?—I do not think they were stopped.

36,083. Were you working under Mr. Clarke?—No, Mr. Smith.

36,084. Is he the contractor?—Yes, he is the undertaker.

JOHN DRANE sworn and examined. J. Drane.

36,085. (Mr. Mansfield.) Whom did you vote for at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

36,086. Who asked you to vote?—No one.

36,087. Did you not promise your vote?—No, I never promised it.

36,088. Did you say you were going to vote for him?—I voted for him.

36,089. Had you told people you were going to vote for him?—No.

36,090. Had you not said so to your friends?—No.

36,091. Had you not mentioned it at all?—Not till a few minutes before I voted.

36,092. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

36,093. Was anything offered to you?—No.

36,094. With whom did you go to the poll?—Only with a neighbour next door to me.

36,095. Was he a Straceyite too?—Yes, he voted for Stracey.

36,096. Have you had nothing since for your vote?—No, nothing.

36,097. Did anybody stand you any beer on the day of the election?—No.

36,098. Nothing at all?—No.

36,099. What are you by trade?—A hot presser.

36,100. Were you busy on that day at your work?—I was busy at home.

36,101. The whole day?—Three parts of the day.

36,102. Did nobody come to you about the election?—Previous to the election they did.

36,103. Did you not promise then?—No.

36,104. Who came to you previous to the election?—Mr. Green and some other gentleman with him.

36,105. Why did you not promise to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—I promised him in this way, I said I would not do him any harm.

JAMES BEXFIELD sworn and examined. J. Bexfield.

36,106. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a cabinet maker and shop keeper.

36,107. Have you your own shop or are you working under some one else?—I have my own shop.

36,108. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

36,109. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

36,110. At what time in the day?—About 3 o'clock, as near as I can guess.

36,111. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

36,112. Or the promise of anything?—No.

36,113. Had you been asked for your vote?—No, not even solicited.

36,114. Why did you not vote earlier?—I was so very busy in the fore part of day.

JOHN SARGENT sworn and examined. J. Sargent.

36,115. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

36,116. Where were you during the day?—I was at work from the morning till three o'clock.

36,117. What were you doing?—Pulling mangold-wurzel.

36,118. That was outside Norwich I suppose?—Yes, for Mr. Clarke.

36,119. How far from Norwich was that?—About a mile.

36,120. Did you come in and vote as soon as you could?—Yes, I voted about half-past three.

36,121. Who asked you to come and vote?—Not any one.

36,122. You came of your own accord?—Yes.

36,123. Did anybody offer you anything to vote?—No.

36,124. Did anybody give your wife anything?—No.

36,125. Or promise you or her anything?—No, not a half-penny.

36,126. Did you get any beer before you came?—No, I had not a drop of beer all the day.

GEORGE ADAM AMIES sworn and examined. G. A. Amies.

36,127. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a builder?—Yes.

36,128. You took an active interest in the last election?—Yes, I canvassed the whole parish as far as I could, with the assistance of others.

36,129. Do you recollect on the day of the election seeing a man of the name of Barker?—I do not know that I know the man; I perhaps might recognize him if I saw him, but I do not know him by name.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

G. A. Amies.

9 Oct. 1869.

36,130. Do you know a man by the name of Chettleburgh?—No.

36,131. Do you recollect anybody saying to you "This man wants 1*l.* for his vote"?—I am quite certain no person said such a thing to me.

36,132. Was nothing of that sort said in your presence on the day of the election?—Nothing, I am quite positive.

36,133. Nor before the election?—Nor before the election.

36,134. Has any money passed through your hands for voters at the election?—No, not one farthing in any shape or form.

36,135. Did you make any promise?—No, I never heard any promise. I am proud to say I took an active and honest part in the election.

36,136. Did you treat anybody that day?—I am not aware, but if I did it was most decidedly not a voter; if I did so it was the latter part of the day. I might possibly give a glass of beer away, I could not swear whether I did or not, but I did not most certainly give a glass of beer to any voter.

36,137. For the purpose of influencing his vote?—No, I did not most decidedly, I can swear it.

36,138. Have you paid any money since for beer supplied?—No, not one farthing; neither have I been applied to or had it intimated to me in any fashion. I was not aware until the close of the election, but that it was the most pure election that had ever been conducted; I quite believed that in my own mind.

36,139. You had nothing whatever to do with any corrupt practices?—Neither at that election nor at any other time, and I hope I never shall, it is quite contrary to anything I have ever upheld.

W. Barker.

WILLIAM BARKER sworn and examined.

36,140. (Mr. Biron) What are you?—I am on the highway.

36,141. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

36,142. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

36,143. At what time in the day?—I cannot say exactly, but it would be somewhere about twelve or one o'clock.

36,144. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—A gentleman came and asked me to vote.

36,145. That day?—Yes, not till that day.

36,146. Who was it?—Mr. Green came and asked me whether I would vote.

36,147. Green the plasterer?—No, Mr. Green the timber merchant.

36,148. Did you go with him?—No, I did not go with him; he came to me some time in the forenoon, but I forget what time it was.

36,149. What did you say to him when he asked you to go?—I was not at home when he came. I do not think—but I really forget—I told him I should vote.

36,150. Did you say for whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

36,151. Did he promise you anything if you would go?—No.

36,152. Did he give you anything?—No; not anything.

36,153. Nothing at all, no money?—No.

36,154. Did he not give you half-a-crown?—No.

36,155. Did you get nothing for voting, neither money nor beer?—No.

36,156. Or the promise of anything?—No; not the least promise of anything.

36,157. Or anything after you had voted?—No; I was my own master, so I could go and vote when I pleased.

J. Aldouse.

JAMES ALDOUSE sworn and examined.

36,158. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) At what time in the day did you vote at the last election?—About half-past three or twenty minutes to four.

36,159. Where were you?—In different public houses.

36,159*a*. Tell me what was the first public house you went to?—I went to the "Nelson," at the bottom of Ber Street.

36,160. From the "Nelson" where did you go to next?—To the "Thorn," in Ber Street.

36,161. Where did you go to after the "Thorn"?—I went to different public houses that day.

36,162. You got a good drop of beer given you that day, did you not?—Not a drop but what I paid for.

36,163. There were a lot of you drinking in the different public houses, were there not?—There were several men drinking; they were full almost all the day.

36,164. They were talking about that they wanted their day's pay, were they not?—Yes.

36,165. At all the public houses?—Yes, they were all looking for that.

36,166. I suppose you wanted your day's pay?—Yes, I should like to have got it.

36,167. Did anybody offer it you?—No, that is what I was looking after.

36,168. Did anybody give you anything?—No.

36,169. Somebody gave you some beer, did they not?—Not a drop but what I paid for.

36,170. Did you get neither money nor beer that day?—Neither.

36,171. You seem to have tried a good number of public houses?—I was looking after it but I could get none.

36,172. You did not happen to go to the "Horse shoes"?—No.

36,173. Or Cubitt's?—No.

36,174. Were you at Clarke's beer house?—No.

J. Soloman.

JAMES SOLOMAN sworn and examined.

36,175. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

36,176. At what time in the day?—About ten minutes before four.

36,177. What did you get for it?—Nothing.

36,178. Where had you been all day?—Waiting to see if I could get anything.

36,179. Where did you try to get something?—I never asked anybody.

36,180. You were on the look out?—Yes.

36,181. Was anything offered you at all?—No, nothing at all. I never had a farthing offered me.

36,182. You let people know you wanted it?—Yes.

36,183. Did they give you no beer?—No, not a drop.

36,184. Have you had nothing since?—No, nothing since.

36,185. Did you promise your vote to any one?—Yes, I promised Sir Henry Stracey.

36,186. At the last moment?—I promised it two or three days before the election; a man came round and canvassed me.

36,187. On the day of the election you wanted your day's wages?—I was seeing whether I could get it as well as other people.

36,188. You did not get it?—No.

GEORGE THIRTLE sworn and examined. G. Thirtle.

36,189. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a smith and fitter.

36,190. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

36,191. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

36,192. At what time in the day?—About twenty minutes to four.

36,193. Did you get anything for it?—No, not a farthing, nor yet see a farthing.

36,194. What were you waiting for?—I went there, and they promised me a day's pay. I went there, and they took my name down, but I never received a farthing, nor yet see a farthing.

36,195. Where was it?—At Mr. Larkman's, in Ber Street. I never see a farthing, or got a farthing.

36,196. How many of you were there there?—I should say there were from 20 to 30 people in the house.

36,197. Were their names all taken down by Larkman?—I cannot say, but a great many were, I believe.

36,198. Can you give me the names of any of the men?—A man of the name of Holdiss, and a man of the name of Brown.

36,199. What Brown was that?—An engine driver I think he was; and another man who keeps a shop, but I cannot think of his name now.

36,200. What sort of a shop does he keep?—A fish shop.

36,201. In what part of the city?—In Thorn Lane I think it is.

36,202. Who else?—I do not recollect anyone else.

36,203. Who took down the names?—I think a man of the name of Larkman did it.

36,204. What did he promise you?—He did not promise anything, he said he thought he could get us something the next day.

36,205. What was it he was to get you the next day?—He did not promise anything at all, he said he thought he could get us something.

36,206. Did you understand he was going to get you a day's pay?—I did not understand anything; he said he thought he could get us something, and we never got a farthing, none of us.

36,207. Did you go the next day?—Yes, I went the next day, and never received a farthing.

36,208. What did he say to you?—He said he thought there was not anything at all.

36,209. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) He said if you would vote for Stracey, he would try what he could get you?—Yes, that is right, that is what he told me.

THOMAS SENDELL sworn and examined. T. Sendell.

36,210. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

36,211. For whom did you vote?—I voted for Sir Henry Stracey about a quarter past two.

36,212. What are you in business?—A plumber.

36,213. Are you on your own account?—No; I work for Mr. Cozens in Goat Lane.

36,214. Did anybody canvass you?—Not at the time I was at home. I did not see any one at all.

36,215. Did any one come to your master that day?—No; no one.

36,216. Which way did your master vote, do you know?—He voted for Sir Henry Stracey, I believe.

36,217. Did you get anything for your vote?—Not anything, not a farthing.

36,218. Or the promise of anything?—No, nothing at all.

36,219. Did anybody give you any beer that day?—No.

ROBERT GATHERGOOD sworn and examined. R. Gathergood.

36,220. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A sawyer.

36,221. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

36,222. At what time in the day?—Between three and four.

36,223. What made you so late?—Well, I do not know.

36,224. Who asked you to vote?—I was not asked by any one particularly.

36,225. Not by anybody?—No, I meant voting for Sir Henry Stracey, but I was not in a hurry about it.

36,226. Did you go up to the poll with anybody?—No.

36,227. Were you at any public houses that day?—Yes, I was.

36,228. Which?—I was at the "Bull" in Ber Street, and I was at Larkman's, the "Thorn" tavern.

36,229. Did not Larkman tell you there was something going?—There was something rumoured about it the latter part of the day, but I never see nothing of the sort.

36,230. Do you not know that Larkman was taking down the names of the men, and saying he would get something for them if they voted for Stracey?—Yes.

36,231. Did he take your name down?—Yes.

36,232. Have you asked since for something?—No.

36,233. Have you not been near the place?—I live quite against him.

36,234. Have you never mentioned the promise?—No.

36,235. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you not ask whether he got anything?—No; I heard there was nothing after the election was over, and for that reason I never troubled anything more about it.

36,236. You expected you would have had something for it?—Yes; but still there was no particular promise of anything; but that was the rumour amongst the parties that was there.

36,237. He took all the names down and told you he would try and get something?—He took mine down and several others. I do not know all the names.

36,238. You have never had anything?—No.

JOSEPH TILLEY sworn and examined. J. Tilley.

36,239. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shopkeeper.

36,240. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

36,241. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

36,242. At what time in the day?—The middle part of the forenoon as near as I can tell.

36,243. Did you get anything for voting?—No, certainly not.

36,244. Or the promise of anything?—No, not anything.

JAMES HICKS sworn and examined. J. Hicks.

36,245. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A confectioner.

36,246. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

36,247. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

36,248. At what time in the day?—Twenty minutes past one.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

J. Hicks.

9 Oct. 1869.

36,249. At your dinner hour?—Yes.

36,250. Where you bribed?—No.

36,251. Or treated?—No.

36,252. Did you get the promise of anything?—No.

36,253. Have you been asked since the election whether you were bribed or not?—No.

36,254. Or whether you knew anything about it?—No.

36,255. Are you sure of that?—Yes.

HENRY NEWMAN sworn and examined.

H. Newman.

36,256. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

36,257. At what time in the day?—About half past two or twenty minutes to three.

36,258. Why did you not vote before that?—I was busy the first thing of the morning.

36,259. What made you so busy that you could not go up and vote before half past two?—I could have gone I dare say if I had left my work.

36,260. What was your work?—I am a chairmaker.

36,261. On your own account?—Yes.

36,262. Did anybody ask you to vote?—No; no one persuaded me to vote.

36,263. Nobody came to you about voting?—My landlord came in the afternoon and asked me how I was going to vote.

36,264. Who is your landlord?—James Welch.

36,265. Before the election did Mr. Stanley come to you?—No.

36,266. Did you go with Mr. Stanley to the poll?—No.

36,267. Did you go with your landlord to the poll?—He walked up with me.

36,268. Your landlord came and fetched you did he not?—No.

36,269. He came to you?—He came and asked me how I was going to vote. I waited for him.

36,270. He asked you to go up and vote?—Yes.

36,271. Did anybody promise you anything for your vote?—No.

36,272. Did he agree to pay your rates for you or anything of that kind?—He always has paid them, right through.

36,273. There was a question about paying rates last year?—I never disputed it. He always agreed to do so.

36,274. And has always paid them?—Yes.

36,275. Did he knock anything off the rent?—No.

36,276. Did you want any repairs done?—No.

36,277. Did he give or promise you anything for voting?—No, not even a glass of ale.

36,278. Nor anybody else?—No, no one else.

JAMES SOLOMON recalled and further examined.

J. Solomon.

36,279. (Mr. Mansfield.) Were you at Larkman's public house on the day of the election?—Yes.

36,280. Did he take your name down?—Yes.

36,281. You wanted something next day in consequence?—He said there would be a crown allowed, but I never thought about it although he put my name down.

36,282. I suppose you heard that there was nothing elsewhere?—No; I promised my vote for Sir Henry Stracey as soon as he came.

36,283. You went to Larkman's again?—No, I never went to Mr. Larkman's no more. I have not been there above once since.

36,284. You heard there was no money coming I suppose?—No, I never heard there was no money coming at all.

36,285. Why did you not make inquiries?—Because I thought it was of no use.

EDWARD BOUGHTON sworn and examined.

E. Boughton.

36,286. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A hairdresser.

36,287. Did you take any part in the last election?—Yes.

36,288. You got up some voters I believe?—Yes.

36,289. I think you got some money to get them up with?—Yes.

36,290. Who gave you the money?—Dr. Allen.

36,291. How much did he give you?—10*s*.

56,292. How did you lay it out?—I gave the half sovereign to Mr. Bloom, and he parted with it between himself and Mr. Freeman.

36,293. Is that all the money you parted with?—Yes.

36,294. Is that all you know about it?—Yes.

36,295. Did you spend any money on your own account?—Three or four shillings.

36,296. How did you spend it?—In drink.

36,297. For voters?—I believe it was.

36,298. Do you know who they were?—No.

36,299. Can you tell us in what public house you spent that money on voters?—I cannot say. I was at several.

36,300. I suppose you spent that money for the purpose of inducing them to go up to the poll?—I spent it in drink, but not particularly to get them to vote.

36,301. To encourage them?—Yes, that is quite right.

36,302. I suppose they were very unwilling to go unless they had a glass of beer or so?—Yes, that is quite correct, I found it so.

36,303. Cannot you tell us the names of the public-houses?—Yes.

36,304. Which were they?—I went to Mr. Warner's, the "Horse-shoes," for one.

36,305. Any more?—Mr. Aylmer's for another; but I saw no voters, and I spent my own money.

36,306. What other public-house were you at?—Mr. Geldhart's the same day.

36,307. Did you give any money to anybody by way of treat?—No; only the two I have named.

36,308. Do you recollect the names of those you treated?—No, not one. I only remember the name of those two that I have given.

36,309. Have ever you applied to anybody for a payment?—No.

36,310. Have you received nothing since?—No.

36,311. Only that ten shillings?—That is all.

36,312. Did you promise any voters something for their day's work?—No.

36,313. You led them to believe they would get something elsewhere?—No.

36,314. You offered no other inducement except that which you have mentioned?—No.

36,315. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you know of anybody having done the same thing as yourself that day?—No.

36,316. Were you associated with anybody in getting up voters?—Yes.

36,317. With whom?—With a Mr. Goldsmith.

36,318. Did he not do the same thing as you did?—No, not that I know of.

36,319. Did he pay any men?—Not that I know of.

36,320. You found the men very slow to come up without a little treating, I suppose?—I do not suppose there was one that would come up without his being treated, by the appearance of them so far as I saw.

36,321. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did any of these men ask for money for their day's work as well as beer?—Yes, they asked for it, but I could not give it to them.

36,322. At the different public-houses you were asked to give money?—Yes.

THOMAS WATERS sworn and examined.

T. Waters.

9 Oct. 1869.

36,323. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

36,324. For whom ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

36,325. At what time ?—As near as I can tell you about half past two.

36,326. What did you get for it ?—Not anything at all.

36,327. Did you not get any money ?—No, not anything, nor yet no beer.

36,328. Have you since the election said that you got some money and bought a pair of boots with it ?—No, not at all. I was in with a new pair of boots on, and they said that I got them by the election, but I did not. I never had a farthing.

36,329. Did you ever say you did ?—No, I never said so ; it is not likely.

36,330. Did you ever say in the "Yarmouth Arms" that you did ?—No, never. I did not go to the place ; it is a disrespectable place ; a lot of women live there, and I should not like to go there. I never took one halfpenny, nor yet a glass of ale.

ROBERT LARKMAN sworn and examined.

R. Larkman.

36,331. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You voted for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election ?—Yes.

36,332. Where were you all the day before you voted ?—At my own house, the "Thorn" tavern, Ber Street.

36,333. There were a great number of voters in your house that day, were there not ?—Yes, out and in.

36,334. They all wanted their day's pay, or something for voting ?—I believe they wanted something, if they could get it.

36,335. You were anxious to get them up for Stracey if you could ?—I did not try to get any man up myself.

36,336. You were anxious that they should vote the same way as you voted ?—I never asked one man that question.

36,337. Did you at any time in the day take their names down on a piece of paper ?—Yes.

36,338. Did you tell them if there was anything going you would get it for them ?—I believe I told them there would be some money for them if a certain party came back with it.

36,339. Who were the parties to come back with it ?—They did not come back with the money, they came without it.

36,340. Who were the parties ?—Mr. Green, the timber merchant, was the man.

36,341. Robert Samuel Green ?—I do not know his Christian name.

36,342. Had Mr. Green gone for the purpose of getting money, if he could ?—That is what he told me he was going for.

36,343. Who else had gone ?—No one else, not that I am aware of.

36,344. What time was it that Mr. Green came into the house ?—He was in, I believe, the fore part of the forenoon, but I did not see him then ; when I see him I think it was two o'clock, and he came in several times afterwards.

36,345. He came into your house about two o'clock ?—Yes.

36,346. Did he find the men there, and talk to them ?—He talked to two or three against the door.

36,347. Did he also speak to you about the men ?—He asked me what I thought the men were waiting about for. I said I did not know. He said, "Have "they voted ?" and I said, "That I cannot tell you." He said "Do you think they want any money ?" and I said, "I should think very likely from their "appearance they do."

36,348. I suppose you had no doubt of that ?—I thought by their appearance they did, but I did not ask the men personally.

36,349. Did he speak to the men, or what did he say to you ?—He spoke to me.

36,350. What did he say ?—He asked me what I thought they wanted, how much ; and I said, "I "have not asked them, of course not." He said, "Do you think half-a-crown a piece would suit "them ?" I said, "I think very likely;" and the consequence was I let him out at my back door with the intention of his getting the money ; but of course he came back without it.

36,351. Before he went out to get the money did you speak to any of the men ?—No, not before.

36,352. When he was gone did you speak to the men ?—The men came to me. Apparently they met Mr. Green as he was going out of the back door. From what they said to me I anticipated that they had had some conversation with him, though I did not ask what it was ; and they said, "Mr. Larkman, "would you be so kind as to put our names down ?" From that I thought they had spoken to him upon the subject, and knew the purpose for which he was gone. I said, "I do not mind," and I put two names down, and they told me a lot more, and I put their names down. I should think it might be 23 or 24 altogether, or something like that.

36,353. Have you got that list ?—No ; I rent it when he came back and said he could not get any money. I thought it was of no use whatever.

36,354. Did he tell you where he had been to get the money ?—No.

36,355. Can you tell me the names of the men who were at your house upon that day ?—I do not know but a few of them, and the chief of them frequented my house.

36,356. Tell me the names of those you recollect ?—I have put them down here. There was a Daniels, Farrow, Brown, Haig, Gathergood, Claxton, Cable, and Brook.

36,357. Are those all you can recollect ?—Yes ; those are all I could recollect when I put them down this morning. I might possibly recollect one or two more.

36,358. Had Mr. Green treated the men at all in your house ?—He never spent a farthing, not as regards treating the men. I believe he got a glass of ale either once or twice for himself.

36,359. Had you seen him speaking to the men himself ?—No, not personally I did not.

36,360. Did he return after the close of the poll ?—He did not come in the house no more after he went out at my back door.

36,361. At what time do you say he returned, or came to your house again ?—He did not come to my house again after he went out at the back door, because the men, or the larger portion of them, were waiting outside with the greatest expectation for Mr. Green to come back, and two or three of them went to meet him before he arrived as far as my house, and he told them he had been and could not get them anything.

36,362. When did you see him again ?—I did not see him no more after he left my house.

36,363. Who brought you word ?—The men came back and said Green said it was all up ; he could not get nothing. Green went after the money where he thought proper.

36,364. You did not see him again, but learnt from some of the men that he had got nothing ?—Yes ; that is it.

36,365. Was a man of the name of Barrett there ?—Yes. The Barrett I mean is a man that lives in St. Martin's. I do not know whether you mean the same man.

36,366. Was a man of the name of Claxton there ?—Yes ; Claxton was there.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

R. Larkman.

9 Oct. 1869.

36,367. Was a man of the name of Snelling there; I do not know whether he was amongst the list?—I believe there was a man of that name.

36,368. You have mentioned Daniels?—Yes; he is a sawyer, the Daniels that I mean.

36,369. And Preston?—Preston, I do not know.

36,370. Do you know John Brown, of Scot's Yard, Ber Street?—Yes.

36,371. Was he there?—Yes; I have mentioned his name.

36,372. Was Mr. Morgan, the brewer, at your house that day?—I believe he was there twice.

36,373. Did you, after he had been there, take any men privately into another room?—No, certainly not.

36,374. Did he see any men privately in any room?—Certainly not.

36,375. What was Morgan there for that day?—I suppose he was there trying to get the men to go and vote.

36,376. Were you present when he was trying to get the men to go and vote?—I was not. I never heard him ask a single individual, at the time he was at my house, to vote. He made a little sort of a speech in the bar, surrounded by a lot of them, so much as to say that when he was along with working men and working people of course he considered he was well treated, and such like. I thought it was an electioneering piece of kid to the men. That is all I heard him say to all those that were there to hear.

36,377. Did you see him give any money to any men?—No, not a farthing.

36,378. Or any promise?—No, nor yet a promise; nor yet half a pint of beer.

36,379. He did not give anything away that day?—Not a single farthing's worth.

36,380. Did any of the men say he had given them anything?—No, I never heard any men say that he had, or anybody else. All the men that were there at that time paid for what they had out of their own pockets.

36,381. Did anybody come into your house, and promise anything to the voters?—I never saw any individual.

36,382. Or heard anything of the sort in your house that day?—Yes, I heard a man make a remark in my porter room,—that is the very man you refer to living in St. Martins,—Barrett; I heard him drop a few words to some of them; he said that he thought he could get them something for their votes. He asked them whether they would stop half an hour; I think those were the words, and they said yes, and they told me he was gone to Mr. Blackburn's, the currier, in St. Stephen's, after the money; however, he came back, like Mr. Green, without anything.

36,383. The men remained there after that?—Yes, they remained there after he left.

36,384. What time was it that Green left your house to go and see what money he could get?—I should think it was half past three, as near as I can guess; I would not say for five minutes, but I think that was about the time.

36,385. The men immediately afterwards left your house, did they not, and went up to the poll?—They left my house, a great many of them, after he returned without any money, and where they went to of course I do not know.

36,386. You say Green did not return to your place?—He did return, but not into my house; he came up the street, and they met him; he did not come into my house after he departed to go and get the money.

36,387. How long was he gone?—I think he was gone a good quarter of an hour; it might be between that and twenty minutes.

36,388. Had not the men gone up and polled, a good many of them, during that time?—I believe there was a few went; that was after I put their names down, and before Mr. Green returned.

36,389. Did you get anything for your vote?—Not a single farthing.

36,390. Or the promise of anything?—Nor the promise of anything, and had not a friend to ask me to drink neither.

36,391. Do you know a man of the name of Durrant?—Do you mean a grocer?

36,392. Yes.—I know him quite well.

36,393. Was he in your house that afternoon?—He was not in my house the while; I never saw him in my house.

36,394. Are you sure you did not see him in your house?—Yes.

36,395. Outside?—I saw him go past once or twice the time I was in.

36,396. In the afternoon of that day?—I believe I saw him go past before dinner, and I believe I saw him go past in the afternoon at some time.

36,397. Between three and four?—I believe it was between three and four.

F. Rudrum.

FREDERICK RUDRUM sworn and examined.

36,398. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A stationer.

36,399. Did you take any part in this last election?—Not a bit.

36,400. Did you canvass for neither side?—No.

36,401. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

36,402. Did you make any promise to voters?—Not at all.

36,403. Neither money or beer?—Not at all.

36,404. Did any money pass through your hands for those purposes?—No; I gave a shilling in the afternoon.

36,405. To a voter?—No, to be protected by some people in the Market Place; that is all.

36,406. Do you not know who they were?—No.

36,407. That was for the sake of the party?—Yes, and myself for protection.

36,408. That is all you have done at this election?—Yes, that is all.

36,409. You have never received anything since?—No, not at all.

36,410. And I suppose no promise was made to you?—I should reject it.

G. Claxton.

GEORGE CLAXTON sworn and examined.

36,411 (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A labourer, and work for Mr. Andrews.

36,412. Were you at the "Thorn" Tavern kept by Larkman, on the afternoon of the polling day?—No; I never went into a public house till I had done my work, when master gave me a glass of ale.

36,413. Did you vote at the election?—Yes.

36,414. At what time in the day?—I should reckon between eight and nine, as near as I can tell.

36,415. Which way did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

36,416. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

36,417. Or the promise of anything?—No.

36,418. Had anybody asked you to vote for Stracey?—No.

36,419. You went the first thing in the morning and voted?—Yes.

THEOPHILUS HEWITT sworn and examined. T. Hewitt.

36,420. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You did not vote till between three and four?—No.

36,421. Close upon four?—Yes.

36,422. Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

36,423. What were you doing up to four o'clock upon that day?—It was the transfer of a licence up at the Hall.

36,424. Were you the person to whom the licence was to be transferred?—Yes.

36,425. That would not be until after ten o'clock. What were you doing between eight and ten?—I was at home then.

36,426. What time did you go up to the transfer of the licence?—I think they began about one.

36,427. What were you doing from eight to one?—It is a hard job to say.

36,428. You cannot say?—No, that I cannot.

36,429. Why were you not voting?—Because I had other things to do.

36,430. Were you looking out for something to get?—No doubt I was.

36,431. Did you get anything?—No.

36,432. Did anybody give your wife anything that day?—No; not that I know of.

36,433. Did anybody promise you anything for giving your vote?—No.

36,434. And you went without anything, much against your will?—No; it was not against my will.

36,435. Your will was good to take something, if you could get it, was it not?—Yes, quite good enough.

SAMUEL BARKER sworn and examined. S. Barker.

36,436. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Stracey.

36,437. What time in the day?—Between three and four.

36,438. Did you get anything?—No.

36,439. Did you try?—No; I thought there was no chance to get anything.

36,440. I suppose you were looking out for it?—No; I was busy after my work.

36,441. Were you at any public houses that day?—I went to get a pint of beer at my own expense.

36,442. Did you go to Mackley's public house?—No.

36,443. What house did you go into?—I went into the "Butchers' Arms," and I think I went into Mr. Blyth's, but at my own expense.

36,444. Was anything offered to you?—No; not a farthing.

36,445. Have you had anything since?—No; nothing since.

36,446. Is this the first time you have voted?—My first time.

36,447. I suppose you would have been glad enough to get something if you could?—I do not know for that.

36,448. How much would have satisfied you?—I was supposed to be satisfied without anything, I never thought about getting anything.

EDWARD JOHNSON sworn and examined. E. Johnson.

36,449. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A millwright.

36,450. On your own account?—No, for my master.

36,451. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

36,452. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

36,453. At what time in the day?—About a quarter to three, as near as I can remember.

36,454. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

36,455. Or the promise of anything?—Not the promise of a farthing.

36,456. Had any one asked you for your vote?—Yes; I was canvassed by Mr. Green, the brewer, and another gentleman, and I promised my vote to them, and personally refused my vote to Sir William Russell and Mr. Tillett.

36,457. You got nothing for it?—I got nothing for it whatever. I am a Tory by principle, and vote independently.

ROBERT TWADDLE sworn and examined. R. Twaddle.

36,458. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

36,459. It was very nearly four o'clock before you voted?—Yes, a quarter to four.

36,460. Did anybody give you anything to vote?—Nobody. I went to vote for Sir William Russell, and I went to a man of the name of Harris, at the polling place. I am a coal merchant and carter. I was in my horse and cart, and I stopped there and said, "My name is Twaddell. I want to vote for "Russell." Says he, "Where is your ticket?" I said, "I had a ticket, but I did not pay any regard to "it." Says he, "What is the number of it?" Says I, "I don't know."

36,461. Did you vote for Russell?—No, sir: he said, says he, "I cannot vote you." And I said, "That is of very little consequence; I am not in- "terested in electioneering jobs myself. I will go on "with my business." I finished about half past three; and after I had finished, my son says to me, "Have not you voted?" And I said, "No; I went "to the polling place but they wanted the ticket "and the number, and I could not vote." "Well," says he, "you can vote next door." That was adjoining my premises; and I went there and I said, "I should wish to vote for Stracey." And they asked me nothing about it. They asked me who I would vote for, and I voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

36,462. You voted for your son?—He said, "Does "it signify who you vote for?" And I said, "I am "so electioneering that I don't care who I vote for, "that's the truth of it neither better nor worse." I should have voted for Russell, but they would not take my vote, and as long as they would not take the vote, I voted for t'other.

JOSEPH HARRISON sworn and examined. J. Harrison.

36,463. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Mr. Stracey.

36,464. What did you get for it?—Nothing at all.

36,465. Did you not try to get anything?—No.

36,466. Have you had anything since?—No, certainly not; only a lot of trouble.

36,467. Did they not treat you to some beer?—No, I never drank a drop of beer that day till half past eight in the evening.

36,468. What time did you vote?—I voted about a quarter after three, as near as I can possibly tell.

36,469. What made you vote so late?—I worked until ten minutes to two.

36,470. Where were you working?—Down at Carrow Abbey.

36,471. In whose employment?—Mr. Field, the boat builder.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

E. Coe.

9 Oct. 1869.

EDMUND COE sworn and examined.

36,472. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A bricklayer.

36,473. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

36,474. For whom?—Mr. Stracey.

36,475. What time in the day?—Ten o'clock in the morning.

36,476. Did you get anything?—No.

36,477. Or the promise of anything?—No.

36,478. Did you take any active part in getting up voters afterwards?—No; I went to my employment.

36,479. Do you know anything, directly or indirectly, about bribery or treating at this election?—No.

E. Nelson.

EDWARD NELSON sworn and examined.

36,480. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What time in the day did you vote?—A quarter before four.

36,481. Why did you not vote before that?—I was in the country.

36,482. What part of the country?—That I cannot tell you now.

36,483. You must know where you were if you were in the country?—I cannot remember where I was; I know I was out.

36,484. You know you were out of Norwich; is that all?—That is all.

36,485. Did you not get back until nearly four o'clock?—I got back at half past three.

36,486. Who asked you to go and vote?—No one.

36,487. Did you go and vote entirely of your own accord?—Yes.

36,488. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

36,489. Did anybody give you anything for your vote?—No.

36,490. Neither beer nor money?—No.

36,491. Did anybody promise you anything?—No.

D. Soames.

DANIEL SOAMES sworn and examined.

36,492. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—Well, sir, as to that, I am in no trade at all.

36,493. Are you an independent man?—Yes sir; I am a pensioner, that's the truth.

36,494. A soldier?—I have been.

36,495. For whom did you vote this time?—I voted for Sir Henry Stracey; at twelve o'clock as near as I can guess.

36,496. Who asked you to vote?—No one asked me, only a card was sent to me.

36,497. Were you in Porter's beer house that day?—Yes, I was; I often go in there.

36,498. You were asked at Porter's beerhouse to vote?—No, I was not, because Mr. Porter is a neighbour of mine and I very often go in there.

36,499. Was not something said about getting a day's wages for voting?—No.

36,500. Are you certain of that?—I am confident.

36,501. Have you had anything for voting?—No.

36,502. Was anything promised you?—No.

36,503. Has anything been paid you since?—Nothing has been paid to me since.

36,504. Did you get any beer given to you on the day of the poll?—No.

36,505. Nowhere?—No.

Adjourned to Monday at 10 o'clock.

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

Monday, 11th October 1869.

RICHARD GREEN sworn and examined.

36,506. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you by business a plasterer?—I am.

36,507. Were you a voter at the last election?—I was.

36,508. Did you take an active part in promoting the interest of Sir Henry Stracey at that election?—I did.

36,509. Did you canvass before the day of the election?—I did.

36,510. What part of the city?—Mostly about St. Miles' and St. Martin's.

36,511. In which ward is that?—The eighth ward.

36,512. In the course of your canvass did you find that there were a number of men who declined to say which way they would vote?—Yes, I found that there were a number of men who would not promise either way without money.

36,513. Did they say that to you?—They did not exactly say those words, but they gave me to understand that they would be paid before they would vote.

36,514. You found that there were a number of what you would call doubtful voters, that is persons who would be influenced, and who were disposed to be influenced by money?—Decidedly so.

36,515. Was there a considerable number of such persons in the district that you canvassed?—No, I canvassed a great many, but the number I cannot exactly speak to. I was canvassing for about a fortnight I think.

36,516. On how many days did you canvass?—I had my own business to attend to, and I canvassed in the evening and at odd times when I found that I had time to spare.

36,517. On how many evenings should you say you canvassed?—Five or six, I should think.

36,518. Did no one accompany you in your canvass?—No, I did it privately.

36,519. Before the day of the election did you give or promise to give anything to any voter for his vote?—No, I did not.

36,520. On the day of the election, at about 2 o'clock, did you find that Sir Henry Stracey was behind?—Well, I did not take particular notice of it. I was about in different public-houses, and did not know that he was behind.

36,521. Did you, in the course of the day, receive money from anybody for the purpose of influencing voters?—I did, at about 20 minutes to 4.

36,522. Had you received no money before that time?—No, not one farthing.

36,523. Had it been intimated to you that you might, or that you should have means to influence voters in that way before that time?—No.

36,524. What had you been doing up to that time on the day of the election?—I had a job in Princes Street Chapel, which I was then doing, and I was attending principally to that.

36,525. Did you try to get up any voters on the day of the election?—I did not on the day of the election; I had no particular interest in getting them up, because from what I saw there was nothing to do it for.

36,526. Had you been a paid agent?—No, not at all.

36,527. You were a mere volunteer?—A mere volunteer.

36,528. Then up to that time in the day you had taken no active part in getting up voters?—No, not at all, only so far as going to hear how the poll was getting on.

36,529. At what time in the day did you vote?—From 8 to a quarter past 8.

36,530. Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

36,531. You say you received some money; from whom did you receive it?—From Mr. Wiseman.

36,532. What sum did you receive?—5l.

36,533. Did you live at that time in St. Giles'?—I did.

36,534. You say you received money from Mr. Wiseman; how came you to receive it?—I was with the two Mr. Barnes; we left the market at half-past 3. Mr. Wiseman called to me and said, "We are getting close;" and he took 5l. from his pocket, and gave it to me and said, "Do the best you can with it." It was then 20 minutes to 4 o'clock.

36,535. Was it Wiseman, the elder, who gave it to you?—Yes, the elder Wiseman.

36,536. Where did he give it to you?—In the back yard belonging to the committee room.

36,537. At what place?—At St. George's, in Middle Street.

36,538. What did you do with the 5l.?—I had not much time. I could not spend it all. I gave 10*s.* to a Mr. Sexton, and 10*s.* to the best of my remembrance to Robert Balls.

36,539. Where does he live?—In St. Miles'. One man who showed me his voting card under my own window I gave 10*s.* to, and 10*s.* to another man. I spent 2l. on voters; that is all I gave.

36,540. What did you give to each of those men?—10*s.* If I had had a mint of money I could not have spent more than I did. I had not time to do it.

36,541. Was what you gave to these men given to them for their votes?—Yes.

36,542. And did you see that they went and voted?—I did.

36,543. Do you know who the man was to whom you gave the last 10*s.*?—I cannot recollect. I have been trying to find out, but I cannot recollect at all who it was.

36,544. Do you know a man of the name of Levick of Bridge Street, St. Miles'?—I know such a man, a shopkeeper in St. Miles'.

36,545. Was he the man to whom you gave it?—I really cannot say. I was very excited, and I could not say who it was.

36,546. Do you know a man named Thomas Grint?—I do not.

36,547. Henry Murrell?—I do not know him by name.

36,548. Was there no other person to whom you gave a portion of the money you had received besides the persons you have mentioned?—Not to the best of my knowledge.

36,549. Did you receive any further sum than the 5l. you have spoken of?—No, I did not, not one farthing.

36,550. Is it true that you received three different sums in instalments amounting to 20l. 10*s.*?—No, that is not true; it is false, and that was my reason for writing to the Commissioners.

36,551. After you had received the first sum of 5l., did you go to the committee room at all?—I received it in the back yard belonging to the committee room.

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

R. Greene.

11 Oct. 1869.

36,552. Did you go back to the committee room at all before the closing of the poll ?—I did not.

36,553. I must put this question to you directly in order that there may be no possibility of a mistake; did you receive first one instalment of 8*l.* 10*s.* ?—No, I did not.

36,554. Did you tell Wiseman that you had done something with that money on one of the sides of St. Miles' Street ?—I did not.

36,555. Did you when you were before Mr. Baron Martin give Wiseman the names of those persons you had bribed ?—I never was before Baron Martin.

36,556. When he was waiting to be heard before Mr. Baron Martin, did you say to him, "There is one," pointing out a man to him ?—No, I did not.

36,557. Did he afterwards give you 7*l.* ?—He never gave me one farthing except the 5*l.*

36,558. Have you received any further sum than that 5*l.* ?—I have not.

36,559. Not on that or any other day ?—I did not receive anything on any other day but that day.

36,560. You say that in the early part of the day you were at your work ?—I was.

36,561. When did you leave your work ?—Several times during the day.

36,562. What did you do in the intervals of your work ?—I went down to the committee room to see how they were getting on, two or three times during the forenoon.

36,563. Did you leave off work that day ?—I went out at intermediate times. I had to keep the work going on, but at the same time I took an interest in the election.

36,564. You were superintending your own work ?—Yes, it was my own job. I am a master.

36,565. Had you been to the committee rooms several times in the course of the day ?—I had in the forenoon.

36,566. Where were you at half-past 3 o'clock ?—I was in the market.

36,567. What were you doing ?—In fact I was at the "Oxford" along with Robert Sexton, and made a bet, and I had more interest in that than I had in the election; but Mr. Wiseman asked me to oblige him by doing what I could, but as regards money I knew nothing about it till 20 minutes before 4.

36,568. What were you doing between 2 o'clock and half-past 3 ?—I cannot say exactly. I left the market about half-past 3, and went straight towards the committee room, and got there at 20 minutes to 4, as near as I can recollect, but I cannot speak to a minute.

36,569. What were you doing in the market ?—I was in different houses along with those two men.

36,570. Which men ?—William and Charles Barnes.

36,571. What were you doing with them in the market ?—I was drinking with them. I was in the "Oxford" with them.

36,572. Wiseman has given us a different account from yours.—Yes, I am aware of that. I saw it in the paper.

36,573. Do you know of any other money having been given away that day ?—I assure you I do not.

36,574. Did you give any beer away that day ?—After the election I did.

36,575. I am speaking of before 4 o'clock ?—No, I did not.

36,576. Did you give any beer away, or did you pay for any beer supplied to other people in the course of the day ?—I cannot say as to that. I was with my friends, having glasses with them, first one paying and then the other paying.

36,577. I do not mean that, but I am speaking of a quantity of beer supplied to voters. Did you pay anything for that ?—I assure you I did not.

36,578. After the election did you spend any money in beer ?—Yes, I did, in several houses. I was rather excited, and I believe that I spent a good bit in the course of the evening. I did not get home till late.

36,579. When did you see Wiseman again ?—I should say it was two or three days before I saw him again.

36,580. What have you done with the residue of the money ?—I cannot say. I found myself minus the next morning. I know I spent it in some way or another, but that which I have told you is all that I spent for voting.

36,581. There were four men, to each of whom you gave 10*s.*, Sexton, Balls, and two others. Do you know the names of those men ?—No, I cannot call their names to mind. Those two men I perfectly know.

36,582. In what houses did you spend money that evening ?—I spent some at the "Cellars," and at the "Oxford," but how much I cannot say.

36,583. Did you go to the "Horse Shoes" at all ?—No, I did not.

36,584. Did you go at all to Warnes' that evening ?—No. I went back into the "Oxford" to receive the money, but I did not get it that evening. That was where I chiefly spent my time.

36,585. Did you hear of any persons betting that day 5 to 1, or 10 to 1, that persons dare not vote for Stracey ?—No. I heard a great deal of talk, but I could not say what was said. You could not go into a house without the election being called over, but I really cannot call to mind the conversation that passed.

36,586. Did you ever tell Wiseman what you had done with the money ?—No, I did not. He never asked me a question about it.

36,587. And you never volunteered it ?—No, I did not.

36,588. The election was won ?—Yes; and there was an end of it I thought.

36,589. Was anybody present when the money was paid to you by Wiseman ?—No. It appeared to me that that was the only money that he had in his pocket. It was 10 half-sovereigns that he gave me.

36,590. Did you mention to anybody that you had got 5*l.* from Wiseman ?—Yes.

36,591. Who was that ?—I told Richard Mackley. He was telling me what he had got, and he said he had had 5*l.*, and asked me what I had had, and I said, "That is what Wiseman gave me."

36,592. When did you mention this to Mackley ?—A week after that. He said that Wiseman had given him 5*l.*, and I said, "That is what he gave me." Richard Mackley, who keeps the "Woolpack," said that he got 5*l.* from Mr. Wiseman.

36,593. He spoke to you about it ?—Yes.

36,594. Have you ever said to anybody that you received 20*l.* 10*s.* ?—No, never in my life.

T. Priest.

THOMAS PRIEST sworn and examined.

36,595. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade ?—I am no trade whatever. I live on my means.

36,596. Did you take an active part in the last election ?—Not very active. I canvassed for half a day.

36,597. For whom ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

36,598. Did you take up any voters on the day of the poll ?—No, I gave up canvassing because I think it is very dirty sort of work, and I would have nothing more to do with it.

36,599. Did you contribute any money towards the expenses of the election ?—No, I know better what to do with my money than that.

36,600. Did you make any promises to anyone ?—No, not any.

36,601. Neither that day nor afterwards ?—No.

36,602. Did you pay any score for beer ?—No.

36,603. Did any money go through your hands for other people ?—No, none whatever.

36,604. You confined yourself to canvassing for half a day?—Yes; that was in the most respectable part of the city, and I had enough of it.

36,605. Even there, did you find that people were waiting for money?—No, not those people that I canvassed. I had a fly for half a wet day, and then gave it up. I object to canvassing altogether. I wish it were done away with.

36,606. You received no inducement to vote?—I hardly think that is a question you need put to me.

36,607. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) We have been obliged to put questions of this kind. No doubt it is a very offensive thing to do, but in consequence of a large number of persons in this city having combined together, and having been advised by persons who ought to have known a great deal better not to divulge what they know, and in consequence of the equivocation of a large number of witnesses we have been obliged to put these questions to every individual, whether he be rich or poor, and such being the case, I am quite sure that you as a man of common sense will not suppose that any insult is intended to be offered to you.—Then to that question I decidedly answer no.

36,608. (Mr. Mansfield.) Have you ever been engaged in former elections?—No. I do not like electioneering work. I am not at all a party man. I voted for Sir Henry Stracey because I considered that this city had not been represented for years, and I thought he would make a very good member for the city. If it had not been for Mr. Disraeli's Reform Bill being carried I should not have voted at all.

36,609. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) I understood you to say that you got disgusted after the first half day of your canvass?—Yes.

36,610. And you said, if I understood you, that you thought canvassing was a dirty business?—I know it is.

36,611. What induced you to say you thought it a dirty business?—I think that to go among all the holes and alleys of the city, and to find out these men to induce them to vote is a dirty sort of work. I consider it so, and I would not do it again for anyone.

36,612. Was there anything in the overtures which voters made to you, or in their demeanour that induced you to come to that conclusion?—Certainly not. I know from former experience what canvassing work is among the lower class of people in the city.

36,613. Then it was your apprehension rather of what might occur than the result of what did occur?—Precisely. Among the class I canvassed of course there would be no question; if I asked a gentleman who he was going to vote for, and he told me, of course there was an end of it.

36,614. You did not go among the class called venal?—Certainly not; I should say not half a dozen.

36,615. Then there was nothing said to you indicating venality?—No. I would not have canvassed in any other part of the city to please anyone.

EDWARD WILD sworn and examined.

E. Wild.

36,616. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

36,617. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

36,618. At what time in the day?—During the first half hour.

36,619. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

36,620. Or the promise of anything?—No.

36,621. Did you take an active part in the election after you had voted?—No.

36,622. Did you canvass at all?—No, not at all.

36,623. Did you busy yourself at all in getting up voters to the poll?—No, not in any way whatever.

36,624. Did you come across a man of the name of Waters that day?—No.

36,625. Do you know Waters by sight?—No, I do not know anyone of that name.

36,626. Did you give anybody a sovereign on the day of the election?—No.

36,627. I do not say it was to vote?—Not in any way whatever; I had nothing to do with any voters whatever in any form or shape.

36,628. Did you give anyone a sovereign?—No. I voted in the morning, and went home to my business. I have no reservation whatever. I had nothing to do with the election beyond recording my vote.

WILLIAM STANLEY sworn and examined.

W. Stanley.

36,629. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you take an active part in the last election for this city?—I canvassed.

36,630. What part did you canvass?—The part I reside in, St. Julian's.

36,631. Where is that?—The sixth ward.

36,632. How many days did you canvass?—I was solicited by the committee on the Saturday previous to the election, and every day from that time up to the day of the election, I should think, I canvassed more or less.

36,633. You say the Saturday evening?—The Saturday evening prior to the election.

36,634. Then you began your canvass on the Saturday evening?—I began on the next Monday morning. I think I canvassed part of three days.

36,635. That would be on the Monday and the day of the nomination?—That is it.

36,636. Were you present at the nomination?—No.

36,637. In the course of your canvass did you find that there was a considerable number of doubtful men?—Not very many.

36,638. Have you got the result of your canvass?—No; a list was provided by one of the clerks in the committee room in a twopenny memorandum book, and it was so pulled about that I put it into the waste basket on the election day, and I do not know what became of it afterwards.

36,639. Did any of the men ask you for anything, or did they suggest to you, or did you gather from what they said, that they wanted a consideration for their votes?—There were one or two very poor men who would not promise me; they stood out, and if they could have got anything I have no doubt they would have accepted it.

36,640. But you would know what they wanted?—Yes; they were very poor people, and perhaps a shilling or two would have been very handy to them.

36,641. You understood from their demeanour or from something that they said that they wanted some money?—They would have been very glad to have it, no doubt.

36,642. Did you hold out any inducement to them, or lead them to suppose that there would be money forthcoming?—No; I was cautioned greatly against that, and told not to do so.

36,643. Who had cautioned you on that subject?—Several people; my brother in particular had cautioned me.

36,644. You, in the course of your canvass, never promised money to anyone or suggested to any voter that he might have it?—Certainly not; I would not do it on any consideration.

36,645. On the day of the election were you active in getting up voters?—I got up a few in the morning, three or four.

36,646. Were you not occupied more or less the whole day in getting up voters?—I was at the committee room marking off from the list those that had voted.

36,647. Did you go to the "Thorn" tavern?—I went there about half-past 3.

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

W. Stanley.

11 Oct. 1869.

36,648. Did you find a considerable number of men congregated there who wanted to be paid for their votes?—There was one man who had promised me his vote; I went particularly after him.

36,649. What is his name?—I think his name is Custance.

36,650. Where does he live?—In St. Julian's, Church Alley.

36,651. Did you see him there?—I saw him there.

36,652. He had promised you his vote?—Partly; he led me to suppose that he would vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

36,653. I suppose it was a very imperfect promise?—Yes.

36,654. When you found him down at the "Thorn," what did he say?—He would not come with me, and he wanted some more beer. I could not get him to vote, and I left him; he wanted me to stand some beer.

36,655. And did you decline to let him have it?—Yes, I declined to let him have it.

36,656. Did you in the course of the day pay for any beer for any men?—Not a penny the whole day.

36,657. And you declined to provide any for him?—Decidedly.

36,658. Did you see whether there were a number of men who like himself were wanting beer?—There were a number of men at the "Thorn" tavern.

36,659. Did you see Larkman, the landlord there?—I do not know him; I may have seen him, but I do not know him.

36,660. Did he tell you that there were a number of men there?—To the best of my knowledge I only spoke to this man and Mr. Morgan, the brewer, who was in the house at the time.

36,661. Are you a timber merchant?—No, I am a surveyor and slate merchant.

36,662. Is there a person of your name who is a timber merchant?—No.

36,663. Is there a person named Green who is a timber merchant?—Yes.

36,664. Did you see him there?—I am not sure; I rather fancy I saw him outside the door.

36,665. Do you recollect at all whether you saw Green, the timber merchant, that day?—I believe I did see him there. I believe he was there at the time I went after this man.

36,666. Did he say anything to you about money?—No, I am certain that he did not.

36,667. Then you did not get Custance to go up?—He did not go.

36,668. Was a person named Henry Newman, of Barge Yard, there?—I do not know the name.

36,669. Did you take up Henry Newman?—I really do not know at all that I did.

36,670. Henry Newman, of Barge Yard, King Street; do you know such a person?—I met him on Saturday, and he told me he was asked that question, but I did not take that man up; I never saw that man till I saw him leave this witness-box on Saturday afternoon, so I could not have taken him up.

36,671. Did you have a conversation with him on the day of the election?—No; I did not know him till I saw him last Saturday, and therefore I could not have a conversation with him.

36,672. You might speak to him though you did not know him?—I never saw that man before Saturday.

36,673. Is there any foundation for the statement that you gave him anything on the election day?—There is no foundation whatever for it.

36,674. You were at the committee room on the day of the election?—I was.

36,675. Did you hear of any money being provided or given for the purpose of influencing voters?—I never heard of such a thing, and I should think from what I heard from Sir Henry Stracey that it would be the farthest from his wish, and I did not hear of a penny being spent.

36,676. Was there any talk in the committee room about providing anything for the payment of voters?—I never heard a single sentence uttered about the payment of anything.

36,677. Have you heard anything since of any guarantee or of any subscription being raised?—No, I have not.

36,678. You know that there were sums spent before the election and during the election; do you know at all whence the fund came out of which those payments were made?—I do not know at all.

36,679. Have you ever been asked to subscribe?—No, I have never been asked to subscribe anything.

36,680. Not to anything of the sort?—To nothing of the sort.

36,681. Nor have you subscribed?—No, I have not subscribed.

36,682. Have you heard of anything of the sort being proposed in the city?—I heard of something, if the seat was vacant, to offer Sir Henry Stracey's son to come forward.

36,683. That is in case of a vacancy?—Yes, that is all I have heard.

36,684. Beyond that you have heard nothing?—No, I have heard nothing beyond that.

36,685. Did you during or before or after the election, pay any man anything for his vote?—No, not a penny.

36,686. Or give anything?—No, not a penny. I neither promised nor paid anything.

36,687. Are you aware of anybody else having done so?—No; I do not know of a single penny having been spent in bribery at all.

J. Raven.

JOHN RAVEN sworn and examined.

36,688. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A stationer.

36,689. Did you take any part in canvassing at the last election?—No, not any.

36,690. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

36,691. Did you receive any consideration for voting?—No, not any.

36,692. Was any promise made to you?—No, not any.

36,693. Was there no promise of custom, or of assistance of any sort?—No, nothing of the kind.

36,694. Had you promised your vote?—No.

36,695. Was this your first time of voting?—Yes.

36,696. Have you received anything since the election for having voted?—No, not anything.

36,697. Has no money gone through your hands for other voters?—No.

36,698. Have you been paid any score for beer supplied either on the day of the election or afterwards?—No. I took no part whatever in the election.

W. Hague.

WILLIAM HAGUE sworn and examined.

36,699. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A wood turner.

36,700. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

36,701. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

36,702. At what time?—About 20 minutes to 4.

36,703. Did you get anything for it?—No.

36,704. Why did you not vote before?—I was promised 5*s.*, but I did not get it.

36,705. Were you at Larkman's?—Yes.

36,706. I suppose you thought when you voted that you were going to get the 5*s.*?—Yes.

36,707. And did you go back to Larkman's afterwards for it?—Yes, the following day, and he said there was not anything for me.

36,708. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you see Green there?—Yes.

36,709. (Mr. Biron.) What did Green say to you?—I do not know. Green never spoke to me.

36,710. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you get your name put down on the list?—Yes.

36,711. (Mr. Biron.) Who was with you there?—John Chilvers.

36,712. Where does he live?—In Ber Street; and Solomon James was there, and Gathergood was there.

36,713. Can you give me any other name?—There was Thirtle, that is all I know; there were several more, but I do not know their names.

36,714. How many were there altogether; were there 30?—Between 20 and 30. I could not say to one or two.

ROBERT HARE sworn and examined. R. Hare.

36,715. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What is your business?—An upholsterer.

36,716. On your own account?—Yes.

36,717. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

36,718. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

36,719. What time in the day?—About a quarter to 4.

36,720. How came you to vote so late?—I had a job in hand that was very pressing and I could not leave it, or I should have got into disrepute.

36,721. Did you receive anything for your vote?—No.

36,722. Or the promise of anything?—No.

36,723. Did you give anything to anybody for voting?—No.

36,724. Or the promise of anything?—No.

36,725. Are you aware of any money having been paid to any person for voting?—No.

36,726. Or of any treating?—No.

36,727. You, I suppose, did not take an active part in the election?—No, I did not.

SAMUEL CLAXTON sworn and examined. S. Claxton.

36,728. (Mr. Mansfield.) I believe you voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

36,729. At what time in the day?—About half-past 3.

36,730. Did you get anything for voting?—No, nothing.

36,731. Were you in Larkman's public-house that day?—Yes.

36,732. Were you one of those whose names were taken down?—No.

36,733. Was no offer made to you there?—No, not in any shape or form.

36,734. Was not a promise made to you that you should have something afterwards if you voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—Certainly not.

36,735. How long were you there?—About half an hour.

36,736. What time did you go there?—It might have been about half-past 2.

36,737. There were a good number of men there?—There were some men.

36,738. Did you see some names taken down?—There were some names taken down.

36,739. Was your name taken down?—Not that I am aware of.

36,740. Are you certain about that?—Yes, quite certain.

36,741. Had you any conversation with Larkman?—Yes.

36,742. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You know what was being done; now tell us what it was?—I do not know what was done.

36,743. (Mr. Mansfield.) What were the names taken down for?—I cannot say. I had no conversation with any person. I drank my pint of ale, me and the friend that was with me, and came out again.

36,744. You did not hear what was going on?—There were some names taken down, but my name was not.

36,745. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you see Mr. Green, the timber merchant, there?—Not that I am aware of.

36,746. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote before or after you had been in that house?—After.

36,747. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who went with you to the poll?—A friend of mine.

36,748. What is his name?—Pawle.

36,749. Where does he live?—Down St. Miles', Thorn Lane.

36,750. Did you apply afterwards to Larkman for anything?—I never had any thought of it.

36,751. Did you not know that money was being promised for votes at Larkman's beerhouse that day?—Not that I am aware of. I was not promised anything, and was never asked a question about it.

36,752. Did anybody speak to you about money?—No. I went and recorded my vote after I came out of Mr. Larkman's.

36,753. And you got nothing for it?—I got nothing for it.

36,754. Why did you not vote earlier?—I did not know I was tied for time.

36,755. You were not at work?—No, that I admit.

36,756. What were you doing all day?—I was going about from place to place.

36,757. You were looking out for what you could get?—I never asked anybody for anything.

36,758. But you expected to get something?—I could not expect it.

36,759. But you were seeing whether you could get something or not?—I could not expect anything; nothing was said to me about it.

36,760. You wanted to find out whether there was any money going for voting?—No; I did not know where to look for it.

36,761. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Why did you not vote before, if you were not on the look-out to see what you could get?—I was not looking out for anything.

36,762. Then why did you not vote before?—I did not know that I was tied to time.

36,763. There is no doubt that you are one of that large class of people who were looking out for what they could get. It would have been far better if you had told the truth openly and plainly at once instead of prevaricating and attempting to conceal what had been done.—I have taken my oath, and I have spoken the truth.

36,764. (Mr. Biron.) You have taken your oath, and told us a tale which we do not believe?—I cannot help that. I have told you the truth.

CHARLES RODWELL sworn and examined. C. Rodwell.

36,765. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

36,766. At what time in the day?—About half-past 3.

36,767. Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

36,768. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

36,769. Or the promise of anything?—No.

36,770. What are you?—A hoop maker.

36,771. Are you on your own account?—No.

36,772. Did you promise your vote?—Yes.

36,773. Had you been canvassed?—No.

36,774. How came you to vote so late as half-past 2 o'clock?—Because I only left off work at 12 o'clock, and got my dinner and then went and voted.

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

1 Oct. 1869.

Walter Lubbock sworn and examined.

W. Lubbock.

36,775. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

36,776. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

36,777. At what time in the day?—A little after 2 o'clock; somewhere about that time.

36,778. Where were you on the morning of the election day?—I was at work.

36,779. What was your work?—I am a master shoemaker.

36,780. Have you men under you?—Two men under me and one outside.

36,781. Could you not get from your work before 2 o'clock?—No, I had some work to do that I wanted to finish by dinner time.

36,782. Had you been asked for your vote?—Yes.

36,783. Who asked you?—Mr. Green.

36,784. The timber merchant?—Yes.

36,785. Had you promised?—Yes.

36,786. Did you get anything, or the promise of any thing, for your vote?—Not a farthing.

36,787. Do you know of any beer having been given away to voters on that day?—I never heard of any and never saw any.

36,788. Nor any money?—No, nor any money.

36,789. Or the promise of money?—No, not to me or to anybody else that I was connected with.

Edward Paul sworn and examined.

E. Paul.

36,790. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A shopkeeper.

36,791. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

36,792. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

36,793. What made you so late?—My business required me at home, and I could not attend to election affairs.

36,794. I believe that you were not very sober at the time you voted?—Yes, I was when I voted.

36,795. How soon afterwards were you otherwise than sober?—I cannot say. I was sober enough when I voted, but afterwards I believe I got more than I ought to have had.

36,796. At whose expense?—My own.

36,797. Who did you treat on that occasion?—Only my friend and I. We were together all day, and I paid for a pint and he paid for a pint, and so we kept on.

36,798. What public-houses were you in?—Different public-houses. I did not start from my house till 2 o'clock.

36,799. Did you get anything for your vote?—Certainly not.

36,800. Were you promised anything?—No.

36,801. Have you had anything since?—No.

36,802. Did you treat any voters?—No.

36,803. You were giving beer away, I suppose?—No, I had enough to do treating myself.

36,804. And you rather overdid it?—Yes.

36,805. Did you not give your friends anything?—No, not a glass of beer.

Robert Gooch sworn and examined.

R. Gooch.

36,806. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A carpenter.

36,807. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

36,808. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

36,809. At what time in the day?—At a quarter before 4, I think.

36,810. Were you at Larkman's?—No.

36,811. How came you not to vote sooner than a quarter before 4?—I was out at my work, and I could not get my job done in time to vote earlier.

36,812. Where were you at work?—In the New-market Road. I had to finish that before I came away.

36,813. You got away just in time to vote?—Yes.

36,814. Had you promised your vote before?—Yes.

36,815. How came you to run it so fine as a quarter before 4?—I was obliged to finish my work first.

36,816. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

36,817. Nor the promise of anything?—No.

36,818. Did you get anything after you had voted?—No, I never had anything.

James Thouless sworn and examined.

J. Thouless.

36,819. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

36,820. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey and Sir William Russell.

36,821. Was this the worst election that you had ever known?—I do not know. I am very little among electioneering.

36,822. Did you ever say that it was the worst election you had ever known, because you got no money and no drink?—No, I never said anything of the sort to the best of my knowledge.

36,823. Did you get any money?—No.

36,824. Did you get anything to drink?—No, nothing only what I paid for.

36,825. Or the promise of anything?—No, nor the promise of anything.

36,826. At what time in the day did you vote?—It might be between 3 and 4; I cannot say exactly.

36,827. Why did you vote so late?—I was at work till 2 o'clock.

36,828. Why did you not go to the poll before?—I was not going to leave my business to go to the poll; I knew I should be in time enough.

36,829. Had you voted at previous elections?—Yes.

36,830. It was made worth your while to go up earlier then?—Sometimes.

36,831. At Waters' election what did they give you?—Nothing.

36,832. At what elections did they give you something?—Well, I do not know; I never got paid at any elections, only for my day's work.

36,833. When did you get that?—Several elections ago.

36,834. Did you get paid your day's work at more than one election?—Yes, I think at two.

36,835. What was it that you got?—5s., I think, at one time.

36,836. And how much the other time?—I think it was 10*s.*, but I will not be certain.

36,837. You were modest in your demand?—I never asked for a bribe.

36,838. No, I do not suppose you did; nobody ever asks for that.—I do not know what other people may have done.

36,839. People never ask for bribes, a bribe is always forced upon the voter; there is a sort of decent reluctance to take it.

36,840. (Mr. Biron.) It is never called a bribe; you may depend upon that.—If anything had been offered to me I might have taken it as others did.

36,841. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) It is called a "doceur." Are you sure that you got nothing of that sort?—I am quite sure I did not.

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

J. Fiske.

11 Oct. 1869.

JAMES FISKE sworn and examined.

36,842. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A licensed victualler; a publican.

36,843. Did you take an active part in this last election?—No.

36,844. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

36,845. Did you get up any voters to vote for him?—No.

36,846. Did you canvass for him?—No.

36,847. Were there many voters in your house on that day?—Not any that I am aware of.

36,848. Do you know of anyone treating voters on that day?—No.

36,849. Were any treated in your house that you know of?—No.

36,850. Have you been paid anything since for beer supplied by you?—No.

36,851. Before or at the time of the election?—No.

36,852. I suppose nothing was offered to you for your vote?—Not anything.

36,853. Have you voted at former elections?—No.

36,854. Was any promise made to you at this election for your support?—Not any.

W. Tupman.

WILLIAM TUPMAN sworn and examined.

36,855. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A licensed victualler.

36,856. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

36,857. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

36,858. What time of the day?—A quarter to 4.

36,859. What were you doing till a quarter to 4?—Attending to my business behind the counter.

36,860. What is your house?—The "Exhibition" tavern.

36,861. Were there any men collected there?—The house was full, in and out all day, from 7 o'clock in the morning till 1 the next morning.

36,862. Did any number of men remain there drinking?—No.

36,863. Were there any men hanging back?—Not that I am aware of.

36,864. Was anybody there standing treat to the men who were collected?—No.

36,865. Was any money paid to you in order that you might supply men with beer during that day?—None. There was only what the customers called for and paid for themselves.

36,866. Was any money paid you after the election day for beer that had been supplied?—Not one farthing.

36,867. Was it entirely because of your brisk business that you did not vote earlier?—Yes; I could not leave the counter.

36,868. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

36,869. Or the promise of anything?—No.

36,870. Nothing either direct or indirect?—No.

36,871. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) How many men do you think there were hanging about your house?—I don't understand what you mean by "hanging about."

36,872. There were a number of men loitering about on the day of the election?—There were a quantity of men in and out during that day, not "hanging about."

36,873. Were they people whom you saw loitering about the street?—No.

36,874. Were they people who came in from their work?—They were people that were making a holiday of it.

36,875. That is, loitering about?—They did not loiter about, because they came in and drank a glass and went out.

36,876. Did you have any talk with them?—No. I had plenty to do with my trade at the counter instead of looking after people except serving them, and attending to their orders.

36,877. Have you a tap-room?—I have got a porter room.

36,878. Did they go and sit down there?—Not but a very few minutes.

36,879. Was there any polling booth near your place?—About 150 yards off.

36,880. Was there any public-house between your place and the polling booth?—Several.

R. Jeary.

ROBERT JEARY sworn and examined.

36,881. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What is your business?—A stationer and fancy warehouseman.

36,882. You were an active supporter of Sir Henry Stracey at the last election, were you not?—Yes.

36,883. Did you canvass for him?—No, I did not.

36,884. Did you not before the day of the election go round anywhere?—No.

36,885. Did you ask any persons for their votes without going through a regular canvass before the day of the election?—No. I had two or three men in my own employ who had votes, and I would not even ask them.

36,886. You might abstain from asking them, but you might ask others to vote for him?—Yes, of course.

36,887. On the day of the election did you take up voters?—Not one.

36,888. There were a good many men standing about and wanting something for their votes?—That I know nothing of. I had not a single man standing about, asking me. The principal thing that I done was to send up to the general committee room to get the state of the poll, and post it outside my shop that the people might see the state of the poll as it was announced.

36,889. You know David Cubitt?—I do know him now, but I did not know him previous to the day of the election.

36,890. Was he very active in getting up voters?—I don't know.

36,891. You saw him during the day of the election?—I saw him once during the day of the election.

36,892. Did he tell you that he was active in getting up voters?—He did. I guessed by his appearance that he was intoxicated when he spoke to me. I had never seen the man before that.

36,893. Did he tell you that a good number of voters wanted beer?—I think he did.

36,894. And that he could get them up if he had a little beer?—Yes, I think that was what he remarked to me.

36,895. Did you not then say that you would give him something?—No, certainly not.

36,896. Did you ask him in the first place how they were getting on?—No; he stopped me in the street and asked me for money for beer for the men.

36,897. Was there not any parley or anything beyond his stopping you in the street?—No. I was passing through the street, and he stopped me. He knew my name but I did not know his. He called me by name, and I spoke to him.

36,898. What did he say?—He said he had lots of men who would go and vote for Sir Henry Stracey, but he had no money to get beer. If I would get him some money he could get men to go up and vote. I told him I had no money of the party to give him, and I did not want to give it out of my own pocket. I asked him his name, and he said it was Cubitt.

36,899. Are you sure that you did not promise him two sovereigns?—That is perfectly false. I have read that in the papers, and I beg on my oath to deny it. I never promised the man two shillings, let alone two sovereigns. He was very excited then, and had been drinking. I think the time was about half-past 2 or a quarter to 3.

36,900. Are you sure nothing passed to induce the man to think he would get money?—He did not ask me for any money.

36,901. But you would understand what he said as an application?—No; he asked me if I would give money to these men. I told him I had none belonging to the party, and I did not feel disposed to give any out of my own pocket I asked him his name, and he said it was Cubitt.

36,902. Was that all that passed?—Yes. I have never spoke to the man from that day to this, except one day when he called upon me to ask me to give him some money, but I refused to give it him.

36,903. How long after the election was it that he called upon you to ask that?—I cannot be positive, but within a week after the election.

36,904. Are you sure you did not say that he might "use" you for two sovereigns?—Certainly not.

36,905. Or any words to that effect?—Or for any other amount. He was a perfect stranger to me. I never saw the man to the best of my knowledge previous to that time.

36,906. (Mr. Mansfield.) When he told you his name, did he give you his residence and trade?—No; I don't know his residence now. He merely told me his name was Cubitt.

36,907. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You say he called upon you a few days after?—Yes.

36,908. How long after, can you tell me?—I should think within a week after the election. I cannot tell you exactly.

36,909. There was a fuss at that time about some irregularity having taken place at the election time?—At the time he called?

36,910. Yes.—There had been a petition lodged at that time.

36,911. What was the answer you gave him?—I told him I had never promised to give him any money, and I should not do so.

36,912. Has he ever been to you since?—No, I don't remember speaking to the man since that day.

36,913. What time did you vote?—About half-past 8. I was at the place at 8 o'clock, and I clashed with the other voters that were waiting for their turn; and I was there 20 minutes, I should think, before voting.

36,914. Was anything promised you for your vote?—Oh no, not at all.

36,915. Did you pay or promise anything to anybody, for voting on that day?—I never paid anybody a single shilling.

36,916. Did you promise anything?—Well, yes, I promised to one man, and that was to the brother of Cubitt.

36,917. What did you promise him?—10*s.*, in this way; not for his vote, but after his brother allowed me to pass on; by the time I got up to the corner of this street—it was in St. Paul's—I was met by the brother, Mr. Tom Cubitt; he is a broker.

36,918. And a publican?—And a publican. He stopped me and told me he had 20 or 23 men, I would not be sure to two or three, in his house who had voted for Sir Henry Stracey, and they were grumbling that they had nothing to drink. I said, "If Stracey wins I have no objection to give half a "sovereign. I have no objection to stand half a "sovereign for drink." Then Mr. Cubitt said, "I "shall stand half a sovereign in your name."

36,919. Did he afterwards call on you for it?—No. It was during the time the inquiry was going on. I said it might injure Sir Henry Stracey's cause. "I shall not pay it now for fear it may do Sir Henry "Stracey some harm."

36,920. Did you pay it afterwards?—No. He has never asked me for it since. That I should think was about a fortnight after.

36,921. You have never gone to him to pay it?—No, I have never paid him a shilling. He told me these men had voted for Stracey and wanted some beer, and I said, "If we are successful I will give it out of my own pocket."

36,922. When was that?—As near as I can remember it was just after I had left the brother.

36,923. Did not he say there were people in his house who would vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Not to me; certainly not. It was merely a conversation of a minute or a minute and a half. I did not stop with him, certainly not two minutes.

36,924. Did you know Cubitt before?—Which Cubitt?

36,925. Cubitt the publican.—I have known him for some years to speak to. He is at all auctions. Nearly every tradesman in Norwich knows Cubitt the broker; but I did not know his brother. He told me he was brother of Cubitt the broker; so he introduced himself to me.

36,926. Are you sure he said the men had voted?—He did. He said there were 20 or 23 who had voted for Stracey and were grumbling because they wanted some beer. I said "I cannot give anything for it."

36,927. The difference between the words "had voted" and "would vote" is very small. Did not he say they would vote?—No; as a party man I should have noticed that word.

36,928. Are you quite sure about that?—Yes, I am quite sure.

36,929. Did you take any active interest in Sir Henry Stracey's election?—Well, I felt a warm interest in it.

36,930. Why should you give money to men who had voted?—As a party man I felt very warm at the time. It was within an hour of the close of the poll, about 3 o'clock; and like many other men who had voted for Sir Henry I felt very warm, and of course we were very anxious to see that he was the winning man.

36,931. But why, when they had done the cause good, should you not give the men their money, whether you were successful or unsuccessful?—Simply because if we had lost the cause I should not have felt inclined to part with money.

36,932. They had done the cause as much good as they were able, whether you were successful or unsuccessful?—We don't feel that.

36,933. Are you sure the words were "had voted"?—Yes.

36,934. I am afraid we must form a different conclusion.—I cannot.

36,935. Did you promise anybody else anything?—No.

36,936. Are you sure of that?—Positive.

36,937. Nor pay anything?—Neither direct nor indirect.

36,938. You have not paid that 10*s.* yet?—I have not paid it for fear it should prove an injury to the cause.

36,939. That is a breach of promise.—I am quite willing to fulfil my promise if it won't injure Sir Henry.

G. Clarke.

GEORGE CLARKE sworn and examined.

36,940. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A fishmonger.

36,941. For whom did you vote?—Mr. Stracey.

36,942. What time did you vote?—Half-past 2.

36,943. What did you get for voting?—Nothing.

36,944. When did you vote a second time?—I did not vote a second time at all.

36,945. Did not you vote a second time at about a quarter to 4?—No, I was at home at the time.

36,946. Were not you asked whether you had voted twice?—I was axed that question.

36,947. What answer did you make?—I told them no.

36,948. Did you say anything else?—No.

36,949. Did not you say that if something was given to you you would say all about it?—No. I had a broken leg at the time. I was very lame.

36,950. Do you know whether anybody else voted for you?—No.

36,951. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you give your card to anyone else?—No.

36,952. Are you certain of that?—Quite sure.

36,953. (Mr. Mansfield.) Cannot you tell me who voted for you?—No one to my knowledge.

36,954. How many cards had you?—Two. I have got them at home now as far as I know, except the children have made off with them.

36,955. Who took you up to the poll?—No one. I went alone.

36,956. Were you taken up to the poll?—No, I went on two crutches. That is the reason I did not vote before, because I was waiting for people to get away.

36,957. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Had you told anybody that you would vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—No.

36,958. (Mr. Biron.) I suppose people knew that it was difficult for you to get about?—Yes.

36,959. (Mr. Mansfield.) And someone voted for you?—No, not to the best of my knowledge.

36,960. Have you heard since that someone did?—No, I never heard anything about it.

36,961. Have you had anything paid since?—No.

36,962. Did you not get a day's wages?—No.

36,963. Nor any beer?—No, not a drop of beer all day. As soon as I had voted I went home, and stopped at home.

James Everett sworn and examined. J. Everett.

36,964. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A weaver.

36,965. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

36,966. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

35,967. What time of the day?—Between 3 and 4.

36,968. Did you get anything for it?—No.

36,969. Or the promise of anything?—Not at all.

36,970. Were you at Larkman's?—No.

36,971. Why did you not vote before 3 o'clock?—I was busy at work, and that suited me best.

William Freeman sworn and examined. W. Freeman.

36,972. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You voted for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

36,973. Where were you on the morning of the election?—I was in Bridge Street waiting for an answer.

36,974. You continued walking about till between 3 and 4 in the afternoon?—Yes.

36,975. Looking out for what you could get?—No, I did not look out for anything. I would not have taken anything.

36,976. What were you walking about for?—I had no intention to vote at all until I was persuaded by a friend.

36,977. What induced you at a quarter to 4 to vote?—I voted long before 4.

36,978. Very nearly 4 o'clock?—No, it was not.

36,979. What time did you vote?—I voted between 2 and 3.

36,980. Not having any intention of voting till between 2 and 3, what could have induced you to vote at all?—Because I thought I would give Sir Henry Stracey a chance.

36,981. What made you think you would give Sir Henry Stracey a chance?—I don't know what induced me.

36,982. Did anybody offer you anything?—Not anything; I never saw anything during the day.

36,983. Did your wife get anything?—No.

36,984. Were you promised anything?—No.

36,985. Did anybody go and ask you to vote?—Not on the day of the election; no, I was merely asked by several parties.

36,986. Did you refuse to give your vote before?—Yes, I never promised anyone.

36,987. What public-houses were you in?—I went into Larkman's a time or two, as I was walking past, and got a glass.

36,988. Were you one of the men that were put down in the list at Larkman's?—No.

36,989. Were you told that if there was anything going you should have it?—No, I never requested anything of the kind.

36,990. Did anybody speak to you about it to induce you to vote?—Yes, I had a friend in the street asked me if I would vote; I said I had not made up my mind.

36,991. Who was the friend?—Mr. Green was the friend.

36,992. Green, the plasterer, or Green, the timber merchant?—The timber merchant; he is a neighbour of mine. He said, "You had better vote for Sir Henry Stracey."

36,993. Did he tell you that if anything was going you should have part of it?—No.

36,994. Did he say he would give you anything?—No, nothing at all; in fact I should not have taken anything; I should have felt insulted if anybody had offered me anything.

36,995. You got no beer for voting?—Not but what I paid for.

36,996. Did you ask anybody for anything?—No.

36,997. Neither before nor since?—No.

36,998. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A carter and porter.

36,999. What were you doing on the day of the election?—Following my daily labour.

37,000. Where do you work?—Howes and Son's, Goat Lane.

37,001. What time did you go to your work in the morning?—Seven o'clock.

37,002. Did you get away at breakfast time?—No, I did not leave till 1 o'clock, the dinner time.

37,003. Did you vote?—I did not vote at all.

37,004. Were you asked to vote?—No.

37,005. Was anything offered you?—No.

37,006. Did anybody treat you?—No, not at all.

James Freeman sworn and examined. J. Freeman.

37,007. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A rivetter.

37,008. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

37,009. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

37,010. What time in the day?—Between 2 and 3.

37,011. After your dinner?—After dinner.

37,012. What did you do after you had voted?—I was about the city.

37,013. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

37,014. Or the promise of anything?—No.

37,015. Or anything after you had voted?—No.

37,016. Neither beer nor money?—Nothing.

37,017. Had you promised to vote for him?—Yes.

37,018. When?—Several days before the election.

37,019. You were canvassed and promised?—Yes.

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

J. Huggins.

11 Oct. 1869.

JOHN HUGGINS sworn and examined.

37,020. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You voted for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election, did you not?—Yes.

37,021. Do you keep a public-house?—Yes.

37,022. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

37,023. Or the promise of anything for voting?—No.

37,024. There were a good number of men in your house on the election day, were there not?—No.

37,025. I suppose you did not hear the least talk about anything concerning the election in your house that day?—Oh yes, there was some talk, but not very much.

37,026. Did you hear of a lot of men who wanted their day's pay?—No.

37,027. Nothing of the sort?—No.

37,028. Were they all willing to vote?—I had not more than one voter in my house, not to my knowledge.

37,029. Were not there a lot of men in your house the whole of the day?—No.

37,030. Only one voter?—Not that I know of.

37,031. Were there not a number of men coming in to your house almost the whole day?—No, not a great number at all; there was two or three at a time, not more.

36,032. Did anybody stand treat there that day?—No.

37,033. Did nobody pay for any beer for any other people?—No.

37,034. Each man paid for his own beer?—No.

37,035. Did anybody come there after voters that day?—Yes.

37,036. Who?—Mr. Bignold came and asked my vote.

37,037. Which Mr. Bignold, Mr. John or Mr. Arthur?—I don't know one from the other.

37,038. Not the old gentleman?—No, not the old gentleman.

37,039. Was it a lame gentleman?—No.

37,040. What time did he come to you for your vote?—From about a quarter past to half-past 10.

37,041. Did you go up with him to the poll?—Yes.

37,042. Did he give you any order for beer for voters?—Not a glass.

37,043. Or the promise of anything?—No.

37,044. Did you know him before?—No.

37,045. Who came with him?—Alden, the last maker.

37,046. Where does he live?—In Ber Street.

37,047. Did you go up to the poll in a carriage?—No.

37,048. Did you walk up?—It was not above 100 yards from my door to the polling place.

37,049. You walked up with him, did you?—Yes.

37,050. Is he a friend of yours?—Yes; I know him very well.

37,051. Were there not a number of men afterwards taken away from your house to vote?—Not one to my knowledge.

37,052. Have you asked anybody to pay for beer which was supplied that day at your house?—No.

37,053. Has any money been paid to you for beer supplied?—Not any.

W. Cary.

WILLIAM CARY sworn and examined.

37,054. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A tailor.

37,055. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

37,056. What time of the day?—About 4 o'clock.

37,057. What made you vote so late?—I had business to do.

37,058. You never went out of your place till 4 o'clock?—No.

37,059. Who asked you to vote?—Mr. Morgan come to mine.

37,060. Did he give you any beer?—Not a glass of ale.

37,061. What public-houses were you in on that day?—I cannot tell you which I was in.

37,062. Were you at Larkman's public-house?—No, I never went in there at all.

37,063. What houses were you at?—I was at the "Jubilee."

37,064. Any other house?—I might be; I cannot tell.

37,065. What time was that?—It might be 2 o'clock; I cannot tell.

37,066. You told me just now that you were busy all day?—I was busy.

37,067. But you were not so busy that you could not go to a public-house?—I don't know that; I wanted a glass of ale.

37,068. Were there many people at the "Jubilee"?—Not many.

37,069. Voters?—I never see none that voted.

37,070. Did you talk to anybody there about voting?—No.

37,071. Was any beer given to you that day?—No, only a glass what I paid for.

37,072. Nothing of any sort was given to you that day?—No.

37,073. Have you had anything since?—Nothing.

37,074. Were not you standing about to get something?—No.

37,075. You did not even want a day's pay?—No.

37,076. You would have been glad to get it?—I can do without a day's pay.

37,077. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You thought you would get it?—I never got nothing, and I never was promised nothing.

37,078. (Mr. Mansfield.) It is quite clear that you were about the whole day waiting for what you could get.—Certainly not.

37,079. You have said that you were busy all day, and then you said that you were at a public-house.—If I want a glass of ale there is no harm in that.

J. Howard.

JAMES HOWARD sworn and examined.

37,080. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A tripe dresser.

37,081. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

37,082. For whom?—Mr. Stracey.

37,083. What time of the day?—Betwixt 11 and 12.

37,084. Did you get anything for voting?—Not a farthing.

37,085. Or the promise of anything?—Not a farthing.

37,086. Were you employed in any way at the election?—No, not in any way.

R. Ladbrooke.

ROBERT LADBROOKE sworn and examined.

37,087. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You voted at the last election?—Yes.

37,088. What time in the day?—Between 11 and 12.

37,089. Before you went to vote were you in Porter's beerhouse?—Yes.

37,090. Was a person of the name of Welton there?—Yes.

37,091. Did not a person in the house offer you half-a-crown to vote?—No.

37,092. Who besides Welton and yourself were at Porter's at that time?—There was a man of the name of Cosens, and Welton. Those are the only two I know.

37,093. Where does he live? — In Devonshire Street, not a great way from Welton's. Those are the only two I know.

37,094. Were you taken up to the poll?—Yes.

37,095. Who took you up?—I rid up along in Mr. Abel's trap.

37,096. Did Mr. Abel come to Porter's house for you?—No, his man was in the trap.

37,097. Did he come for you?—I jumped up there, that is all. He did not come for me particular.

37,098. What is the name of Abel's man?—Payne.

37,099. Who came and fetched you?—Not anyone did not fetch me.

37,100. How came you to get in there?—It came up to the door, and we see it.

37,101. Did they then call out for voters, or what?—No, they never said anything.

37,102. They did not say anything, but you thought they had come for the voters?—I did not know about it.

37,103. Did not anybody tell you that they had come for voters?—Not a word of it.

37,104. But you saw the trap drive up with Abel in it?—No.

37,105. Only his man?—Only Payne.

37,106. What time in the day was this?—Between 11 and 12.

37,107. Are you sure that Abel was not on the trap at all?—He was not on the trap, not then.

37,108. Did they drive you up to the poll?—I rode round with Payne, up William Street, and voted.

37,109. Were you brought back again?—No.

37,110. Were you left there?—I went home then.

37,111. Were you driven home?—No.

37,112. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you not see Abel at all?—No, I did not see Abel at all that day.

37,113. Not on the coach box?—No.

37,114. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Was this a one-horse or a two-horse trap?—A one-horse trap.

37,115. How did you know that it was Abel's trap?—I knew Payne right well.

37,116. Did you see Abel's two-horse trap there that day?—No, I did not.

37,117. Did not anybody speak to you about money at Porter's?—No, only I heard people talking. I heard them talking that there would be half-a-crown. That is all I heard.

37,118. You heard it said that there would be half-a-crown?—Yes, I heard people talking about it.

37,119. Who were saying there would be half-a-crown?—That I cannot say; the name I do not know at all.

37,120. You would not take half-a-crown; you wanted 5*s.*?—No.

37,121. Did not Porter say that you and Welton should have 5*s.*?—No, Porter never mentioned that at all.

37,122. Did not Porter talk to you about the half-crown?—He said there would be half-a-crown for the day's work.

37,123. How many men were there in when he said that?—That I cannot say. There is only two that I knew altogether, and only three or four in the room when I was there. I cannot say at all.

37,124. Who were in the room at the time that was said? Was Welton there?—No, I cannot say that.

37,125. Was Cosens there at that time?—We were walking about I cannot tell who was in there; there was three besides myself.

37,126. Can you tell me the names of those persons whom you saw at the house?—Only them two, Welton and Cosens. That's all I can say. I don't know any more.

37,127. There was some drink going before you went up to the poll?—Not a drop, only what we paid for.

37,128. Did you go back to Porter's afterwards for the half-crown?—No.

37,129. You have not got it?—Not a farthing.

37,130. Have not you asked him for it?—No.

37,131. There was a noise about it soon afterwards?—No, I never heard a word about that at all.

37,132. You heard that there was a noise about money being promised?—No, I had nothing to do with it. As I had not it at first, I did not trouble myself about it. I never see a farthing. I never asked for it.

37,133. Have you heard whether Cosens went up to Porter's for it?—No.

37,134. Have you had any conversation with Cosens since about it?—Not at all; not one word.

37,135. Or Welton?—No, I have not; only in passing, merely saying, "How do you get on?" Nothing further. That is all that has passed between him and me.

WILLIAM WRIGHT sworn and examined.

W. Wright.

37,136. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A publican.

37,137. Where is your public-house?—I do not keep one.

37,138. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

37,139. Had you promised your vote?—No.

37,140. Did you take any active part in this election?—No, not in the least.

37,141. Did not you canvass anyone?—Not anyone.

37,142. Did you not take anyone up to the poll?—No.

37,143. Did nobody ask you for any money?—No.

37,144. Was not a man brought to you who said he wanted a pound?—I have no recollection of it.

37,145. Do you know a man of the name of William Barker?—Yes.

37,146. Did William Barker bring Chettleburgh to you?—I saw William Barker in the latter part of the day.

37,147. Did you see him in company with Chettleburgh?—I think that is his name.

37,148. What passed?—Barker came and told me there was a man that had not voted, or something to that purpose. I says, "Why don't he go and vote?" and from what Barker said I inferred that this man wanted something; but I never took any active part in the election whatever.

37,149. Did you offer any money?—I was not asked for any. I told him to go and vote like a man.

37,150. You knew this man wanted a bribe?—No; I inferred from the peculiar manner of the men that that is what they were hanging back for.

37,151. Did not you say that you did not give any money till afterwards?—I might have said that, but I do not recollect it.

37,152. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) I shall believe that you did. It would be far better for you to speak the truth.

37,153. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did these men return to you that day after voting?—Who?

37,154. Barker and Chettleburgh?—I never saw them afterwards.

37,155. Did not you see them afterwards?—No, I have no recollection of seeing them.

37,156. Are you certain they did not come and get treated to some beer?—I know that I did not.

37,157. Do you know that they were not in your house?—I never saw them in my house nor on my premises. Outside my gate I saw Barker and this man. They were both the worse for drink. I never saw them drinking at all.

37,158. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You may try to evade it as much as you please, but it is clearer to us almost

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

W. Wright.

11 Oct. 1869.

than if you had told us frankly and openly that you induced those men to believe they would have money, and that afterwards you saw them and gave them something to drink.—I never gave them anything to drink, and never promised them anything.

37,159. We are quite satisfied that you did, and you have attempted to conceal it, which is infinitely more disgraceful.—I had nothing to conceal. I gave them nothing to drink.

37,160. It is impossible to believe that a man forgets entirely a conversation of that kind with a voter upon the day of the election, particularly when it is brought to his knowledge immediately afterwards that there has been a noise about corrupt practices.—I have said the truth.

37,161. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you get anything for your own vote?—No.

37,162. Was anything promised to you?—No, neither was I solicited for my vote. I voted at 9 o'clock in the morning.

T. Burrage.

THOMAS BURRAGE sworn and examined.

37,163. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A baker.

37,164. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

37,165. For whom?—Stracey.

37,166. What time of the day?—Half-past 3.

37,167. Why did you not vote earlier than that?—I did not think about voting. Mr. Alden called on me about half-past 3, and I voted to oblige him.

37,168. Did he promise or give you anything for voting?—No.

37,169. Is he a friend of yours?—No, only a customer of my master's.

37,170. You were anxious to oblige him?—Yes.

37,171. And so you went and voted?—Yes.

J. Youngman.

JOHN YOUNGMAN sworn and examined.

37,172. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You were very active, were you not, in bringing up voters for Sir Henry Stracey at the election?—No, I was not.

37,173. Did you bring up voters?—I did.

37,174. Did you bring up a considerable number at the latter end of the day?—No.

37,175. How many did you bring up?—Well, before 10 o'clock I might bring up 20 or 30.

37,176. Then how came you to say that you were not active in bringing up voters?—I did not say that. I said I was not very active. Between 20 and 30 in the morning went and voted because I asked them ten weeks before that.

37,177. If you brought up 20 or 30, how was it that you told me that you were not active?—You asked me the latter part of the day.

Go and sit down there until you are in a fit state to answer the questions put to you.

J. Foreman.

JAMES FOREMAN sworn and examined.

37,178. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

37,179. At what time in the day?—About half-past 3.

37,180. Where were you in the early part of that day?—Out in the country.

37,181. Was that the cause of your voting so late?—Yes.

37,182. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—No.

37,183. Nobody came and asked you for your vote before the election day?—No.

37,184. Did anybody come and ask you to go up and vote?—No.

37,185. You went up entirely of your own accord?—Yes. At half-past 3 my wife said, "You had better go up and vote." I went up directly, and got home again before 4.

37,186. What is your business?—I am a butcher and dealer.

37,187. Were you promised anything for your vote?—No.

37,188. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

37,189. Have you been a voter at former elections?—Never before.

A. Dean.

ALFRED DEAN sworn and examined.

37,190. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—I am a temperance hotel keeper.

37,191. Did you take any active part in the last election?—No.

37,192. Did you canvass for anyone?—No.

37,193. Was your house used as a political house for people waiting about there?—No.

37,194. Did you receive anything for your vote?—No.

37,195. Or the promise of anything?—No.

37,196. Have you had anything to do with the municipal elections in this city?—Yes.

37,197. Have you been very active about those elections?—No. I have voted at them.

37,198. Have you ever spent any money upon them?—No.

37,199. Have you ever done anything in the way of treating at municipal elections?—No.

37,200. Have you ever received anything?—Yes, 5l.

37,201. What for?—For my vote.

37,202. Who gave you that 5l.?—I am sure I cannot tell you the gentleman's name that gave it me.

37,203. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Was it a "man in the moon" who did that?—No; it was a Norwich man.

37,204. (Mr. Mansfield.) When was that money given to you?—I cannot tell you when it was. It was the election of guardians, I think.

37,205. What time of the year would that be?—I think it must be somewhere about the beginning of the year, the spring time. I believe it was in the spring time.

37,206. Are you sure it was not in November?—Yes. It was March or April.

37,207. Last April?—No. This is two or three years ago.

37,208. Which party gave you that?—That was the Tory party.

37,209. And I suppose ever since that you have been a true friend of the Tory party?—No, I have not particularly.

37,210. Have not you voted for them on all occasions since that?—No.

37,211. When did you go against them?—A twelvemonth ago.

37,212. What did you get from the other side?—5l.

37,213. What did you get at this last election?—Nothing. I never was offered a farthing.

37,214. Is this your first time of voting at parliamentary elections?—No. I have voted two or three times before.

37,215. What have you got on previous occasions?—Nothing.

37,216. Did you not try to get money for your vote?—No; I never asked for anything.

37,217. You confine your corruption to the municipal elections, do you?—Yes; nothing more.

37,218. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) A vote with you is like any other commodity; you are the customer?—No,

I am not always so; but at these local affairs I have taken money twice.

37,219. (Mr. Mansfield.) How long does the influence of the 5*l.* last? How long do remain with the party for 5*l.*? Is it a retainer for one year or one day?—They merely come and ask me what I want for my vote, and nothing more.

37,220. You do not feel bound by it to support the party further?—No.

37,221. You would be open again to a corrupt bargain?—Yes, I should be very glad to have 5*l.*

37,222. I suppose you would have been very glad to have taken 5*l.* for the last election?—Yes, I should have been very glad. I believe I should have taken it if it had been offered to me. I was very much in want of it.

37,223. You would vote for either party for 5*l.*?—No, I do not think that.

37,224. (Mr. Biron.) You have proved by your actions that you would. You voted first one side and then the other?—At local elections, but not for a member of parliament.

JAMES HENRY SIMPSON recalled and further examined.

J. H. Simpson.

37,225. (Mr. Biron.) Were you canvassed by any-anybody on the Sunday before the election?—Yes.

37,226. By whom?—Old Mr. Taylor, a carpenter, against St. James' Bridge.

37,227. Did he promise you anything if you voted for Stracey?—Yes, either 5*s.* or 10*s.* afterwards.

37,228. Did you vote on the day of the election?—Yes.

37,229. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

37,230. Where had you been spending the day?—I had been walking about.

37,231. Did you go into a beerhouse kept by a man of the name of Sparkes?—I went on Tombland.

37,232. Has he got a house there?—Yes.

37,233. Did you go in there before you voted?—Yes.

37,234. You got about as much beer as you wanted money there, did you not?—Yes, I got some.

37,235. Perhaps not so much as you wanted, because that is perhaps rather a wide order. Did you get any money there?—Yes.

37,236. Before you voted?—No, afterwards.

37,237. What was it?—5*s.*

37,238. Who paid you that?—A man of the name of Sparkes gave it to me through Mr. Hall the butcher.

37,239. How did it come to you?—Mr. Hall the butcher gave it to young Taylor the gardener, and young Taylor the gardener gave it to me.

37,240. Were you summoned at the time of the election petition to appear as a witness?—Yes.

37,241. Did you make anything out of that?—I was not called for.

37,242. Some people thought you were going to be called?—Yes.

37,243. Did any persons say anything to you about what evidence you were going to give?—Yes, Mr. Minns, the carpenter at St. James'.

37,244. What did he say to you?—He said one Sunday night, "I have received 2*s.* from Taylor the carpenter to give to you."

37,245. Did he say what for?—He said, "You must keep your silence whatsomever."

37,246. That means whatever happens?—Yes, and I told him I would do so.

37,247. You were asked to do so?—Yes, and last week he turned round against me.

37,248. When was it that you had this conversation with Mr. Minns?—At the last election.

37,249. Before I examined you the other day, had you any further conversation with Minns?—Yes, he told me to keep it secret here in the forenoon.

37,250. Was that outside the court before you were called?—Yes.

37,251. Did he give you anything?—No, he promised to give me something after the job was over.

37,252. After our job was over?—Yes.

37,253. What did he promise you?—He did not tell me what.

37,254. Did he say who told him to do that?—Yes, Mr. Minns, of St. James'.

37,255. It was young Taylor who spoke to you here before you were examined before us?—Yes, last week.

37,256. After he had spoken to you you came here and were examined?—Yes.

37,257. You held your own pretty tight, did you not?—Well, he told me to keep it secret, and I did so, and he kept the secret about me till the last minute; he has informed against me, and I have a right to inform against him.

37,258. Have you told me the truth this time?—Yes.

37,259. You are quite sure about it this time?—Yes.

37,260. When young Taylor was speaking to you outside, were there any more men there?—No, he was waiting there to have his hearing.

37,261. Were there any more there who heard what you were talking about?—No, we sat out there alone.

37,262. Was he examined the same day as you were?—Yes, in the afternoon after I was examined.

ISAAC HAYWARD sworn and examined.

I. Hayward.

37,263. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What public-house do you own?—None.

37,264. What are you by business?—A brazier.

37,265. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

37,266. Are you a journeyman or a master?—Master for myself.

37,267. How many men do you employ?—Occasionally I employ one, sometimes two, and sometimes none.

37,268. Where were you on the morning of the election?—I was at home in my own house up to about half-past 8.

37,269. After half-past 8 where were you?—I think I was waiting to vote.

37,270. What time in the day did you poll?—Ten minutes before 9.

37,271. What public-house were you at?—None at all.

37,272. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

37,273. Did you go into no public-house at all that day?—No.

37,274. Do you know a public-house called the "Jolly Dyers"?—Yes.

37,275. Were you not in that house on that day?—Not till after 9 o'clock in the morning.

37,276. Are you sure you were not there before you had voted?—Yes, quite sure.

37,277. Who fetched you up to the poll?—No one.

37,278. You went up and voted without any one asking you to go up?—Yes.

37,279. Had you promised your vote before?—No, I promised my vote to no one.

37,280. Did they ask you for your vote?—Some of Mr. Tillett's party came and solicited me.

37,281. What did you tell them?—I told them conscientiously I should vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

37,282. Did you receive anything for your vote?—No, nothing.

37,283. Were you promised anything?—Nothing.

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

C. Wegg.

11 Oct. 1869.

CHRISTOPHER WEGG sworn and examined.

37,284. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A smith.

37,285. Are you a master?—Yes.

37,286. How many men do you employ?—Only my son who is at work with me.

37,287. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

37,288. Had you promised your vote?—No.

37,289. Is this your first time of voting?—Yes.

37,290. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

37,291. Was anything offered you?—No.

37,292. Or promised to you?—No, nobody ever asked me.

37,293. Have you received anything since?—No.

37,294. Have you offered anything to anyone else to vote?—No.

37,295. Did anyone treat you with beer?—No.

37,296. Did you treat anyone else?—No.

37,297. Was any money passed through your hands for the purposes of this election for getting up voters?—No, certainly not.

W. W. Smith.

WILLIAM WILSON SMITH sworn and examined.

37,298. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You were a voter at the last election, were you not?—Yes.

37,299. Were you asked for your vote before the day of election, by the Tillett party?—I was called upon by several men; in fact, to tell you the truth, I did in the early part belong to the organisation.

37,300. You were asked for your vote by the Tillett party and promised to give it?—I never promised it.

37,301. Did you say you would not vote for them?—I did at the lecture hall in St. Andrew's when the meeting took place there.

37,302. What did you say there?—That I withdrew from the party.

37,303. When did you say that?—At a meeting when the union took place between Sir William Russell and Tillett.

37,304. What made you withdraw from the organisation then?—Because I did not approve of the union. I thought that the gentlemen of the organisation were going to contest the city by their own principles, that is to say, by the principles of an advanced Liberal.

37,305. You were an advanced Liberal?—Yes, I was.

37,306. An out-and-out Radical?—Yes, just so.

37,307. How came it that you, an out-and-out Radical, voted for Sir Henry Stracey just before 4 o'clock?—I am not aware of the time. I know it was after dinner, but I think it was not so late as that. I was at work before 4 o'clock again.

37,308. How was it, very near the close of the poll on the day of the election you, an out-and-out Radical voted for an out-and-out Tory?—I simply say this, I disapproved of it, and if they had let me alone in the early part of the day I should not have voted at all.

37,309. Did they come and try to get you to vote for Tillett?—They did at 8 o'clock in the morning.

37,310. Because they tried to get you to vote for Tillett, is that the reason you went and voted for Stracey?—They would not let me alone, and I went the opposite side altogether.

37,311. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing.

37,312. Do you mean to say nobody offered you anything for your vote?—Nothing. I never was asked.

37,313. Do you recollect their coming to you, and your wife saying you were out, but it answered your purpose to go the other way?—I never heard such a word, and I know nothing of the kind.

37,314. Do you know that your wife gave that answer?—I may say that I believe my wife never spoke such a word.

37,315. Did not your wife tell you she gave that answer to the people?—No.

37,316. What could induce you, an out-and-out Radical to vote for an out-and-out Tory?—I have not committed any sin by so doing that I know of.

37,317. Why did you do it?—Because they would not let me alone.

37,318. Did they molest you?—They molested me coming with a horse and cart, then again with a cab, and then asking me to walk. Would I go? would I go? I told them I was busy at work, and they had better let me alone.

37,319. Because they came and asked you to vote for Tillett you therefore determined to go and vote for Stracey, is that so?—Yes, I did.

37,320. I have heard of strange things in Norwich, but that is the strangest I have yet heard, and it is something, you know, so strange that I do not believe it.—I am sorry to hear that.

37,321. If you had told us of the 5*s.* which you got, that would have explained the whole transaction?—I beg pardon, if any person has informed you that I received money from either party they tell you a great falsehood.

37,322. Perhaps you got the promise?—No, I never got a promise, not so much as a glass of beer. I never attended any committee room, no public-house, and saw no procession. I simply went and voted for Sir Henry Stracey and walked back again to my own house.

J. Spight.

JAMES SPIGHT sworn and examined.

37,323. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A coal carter.

37,324. Were you at work on the day of the election?—Yes.

37,325. For whom do you work?—Mr. Dawbarn.

37,326. What time did you leave work?—About a quarter after 1.

37,327. When did you vote?—About half-past 2, I believe.

37,328. What became of you after that?—Well, I cannot exactly say what became of me. I had a glass or two of beer after that.

37,329. Had you promised your vote to anyone?—No, no one ever asked me for my vote.

37,330. What did you get for voting?—Nothing at all.

37,331. Did you not get treated?—I never got treated; after I had voted I got a glass or two of beer, but before I voted I never got anything.

37,332. Where did you go for the beer?—I went into Mr. Warnes', the "Ship."

37,333. Who gave it to you?—I do not know who paid for it. I know who gave the order for it.

37,334. Who?—Mr. Minns, of the "Jolly Hatters."

37,335. Had you been in the public-house before that day?—I live close by it.

37,336. Had you been there that morning?—No.

37,337. Had you been there before you voted?—I called in once in the forenoon.

37,338. I suppose you heard that there would be some beer going there after voting?—No, as soon as I got my dinner I went up to vote, and after I voted I called in, and there was some beer going on, but I never heard anything about the beer.

37,339. That beer was given to you by the friends of the Stracey party?—I do not know who gave it. I got the beer and never asked who paid for it.

37,340. Were there any other voters there?—I am sure I do not know.

37,341. Do you not know the names of any of the people there?—Though I live in the parish I cannot remember the names. I go home very seldom before 9 o'clock, and I hardly know my next-door neighbour.

JOHN YOUNGMAN recalled and further examined.

37,342. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) If you are disposed without any reservation to tell us the truth now, we will hear you. We wish to relieve you from any annoyance to which you may be subjected, but it is absolutely necessary to warn witnesses who come into the box with the evident disposition to deceive us of the danger they are encountering, and we should not be doing our duty if we did not reduce them to that frame of mind in which they may be disposed to tell the truth.—You will get nothing else from me. I have come 50 miles to oblige you on account of the summons being left at my house.

37,343. It is better not to enter into any controversy. Will you tell me whether you are in a frame of mind to tell us that which your oath obliges you to tell?—I was in the box——

37,344. (Mr. Biron.) Do you really mean to do it now without fencing the question?—Yes, and I will show the documents I have against the other parties. I will answer any question you put, because I do not come here to evade anything at all. There is an impression in the city that I have had to do with elections gone by, and if the Commissioners will ask me any questions I will give an answer to them—parties go and talk behind one's back.

37,345. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Be calm. I want you to give your evidence deliberately.—I suppose you would like me to tell what I heard about the election when I was away?

37,346. Certainly.—I will tell you all the particulars I did hear.

37,347. What I asked you was, and I will ask you again, were you active in bringing up voters for Sir Henry Stracey on the day of the election?—I was the fore part of the day, and that was before 7 o'clock in the morning.

37,348. Did you not also bring up voters in the after part of the day?—No.

37,349. None?—Never one.

37,350. What time in the day did you cease to bring up voters?—I did not bring up a voter after 10o'clock.

37,351. Did you bring up the voters whom you brought up before 10 o'clock in any conveyance?—No.

37,352. How did you bring them up?—You ask me, and I will tell you how I did it; on the night previons to the election I went and hired a conveyance on my own account.

37,353. Did you bring up the voters?—No, I will tell you how I did it; I ordered the cabman to go to a certain house and stand there, and I told him anyone that asked to go up and vote that he might take them up.

37,354. To vote for whom?—It did not matter who it was—Sir Henry Stracey of course—he took them up for both parties, because he told me so afterwards.

37,355. You yourself superintended, did you not, the taking up of some voters?—No.

37,356. Was that all that you did in taking up voters?—No.

37,357. What else did you do?—There was a party on the other side, and the time I was going up to vote I passed through, I do not know whether the officer is now in court he may be, and he refused to take the old gentleman's name because he would not give his number. I had not voted then; the old gentleman came round to me, and he says, "Mr. Youngman, I cannot vote." I knew he had voted for years, and always voted on the Conservative side; and I said, "I have not voted yet, and you and I will go and vote together." Mr. Wortley was the old gentleman's name, and you will find our names both together. I said to them, "What do you want to annoy the poor old gentleman in that way for?"

37,358. We do not wish to inquire into any matter which we have not a full opportunity of investigating. I only want information with regard to corrupt practices. You say you yourself did not take up any voters except through the medium of that conveyance which you say you chartered, with the orders you have mentioned?—No.

37,359. Did you accompany anybody besides this poor old gentleman to the poll?—No, never a one.

37,360. Were you not at the poll in the afternoon?—No.

37,361. Were you not in the polling booth the afternoon of that day?—No.

37,362. Were you outside the polling booth?—No.

37,363. Were you not making way for the Stracey voters to come up?—Not after 10 o'clock in the morning.

37,364. What became of you after 10 o'clock?—I will tell you where I was in the afternoon at 3 o'clock.

37,365. Answer the question which I put to you. What became of you after 10 o'clock?—I went down to Lakenham, Old Lakenham they call it.

37,366. What did you go there for?—There was one individual there that had promised me; his name was Charles Simmonds. I asked him six weeks before, if a Conservative candidate was brought forward, whether he would vote, and he promised me he would.

37,367. When was that?—About 1 o'clock in the day.

37,368. What did you do between 10 o'clock and 1?—Looking round and watching Tillett's people, and seeing who they brought up.

37,369. Where were you?—In Ber Street.

37,370. Why were you looking after the persons whom Tillett's party brought up?—Because I have been in the habit, year after year, of knowing the people who had been bought at former elections.

37,371. You supposed there would be bribery on the part of Tillett's party?—Yes, and it would not be the first time. I was standing to see them come up to the poll, the same as I had done before.

37,372. Had you acted in that capacity upon any previous election?—Yes.

37,373. On the Conservative side, as against the Liberals?—Yes, for the Conservative side.

37,374. You were only looking at them being brought up, is that what I am to understand, as you stood in Ber Street?—They were suspected parties that I thought the other side would be buying, as I knew they had bought before, and if you ask me I will tell you why and wherefore.

37,375. You were looking at the parties whom you might suspect were being bribed by the other party?—Yes, on account of having had to do with previous elections.

37,376. Was that at any particular polling place?—Yes, by Ber Street gates, opposite the Church.

37,377. That includes the whole of St. Sepulchre?—Yes; there were three booths there, but that was the particular one at which I was watching, and the one I voted at.

37,378. Did you hear or observe anything done with regard to bribing voters?—You ask me what I heard, and what I heard I will tell you: there was an organisation society, and Mr. Cowlis, a neighbour of mine, talking about the election, informed me that he had a card, and produced me the card afterwards, and I asked him last evening, after I came home from where I have come on purpose to come here, for his card, and he handed me these papers (producing several papers, of which the following are copies):

"Card of Membership,
"1867–8.
"No. 2,079.
"Name.—John Cowlis.
"Trade.—Baker.
"Residence.—9, Howard Street, Grove Place.
"F. H. CAUSTON, Secretary."

"Card of Membership,
"1867–8.
"No. 2,081.
"Name.—Robert Wright.
"Trade.—Gardener.
"Residonce.—2, Mill Street, Union Place.
"F. H. CAUSTON, Secretary."

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

J. Youngman.

11 Oct. 1869.

" Electoral Organisation Offices,
" St. Andrew's Street and Museum Court,
" Dear sir, City Election. 13th August 1868.

" Tuesday, the 25th of this month, is the last day for sending in claims. Please ascertain whether your name, and the names of any you may know in your parish who paid the last October rate, appear correctly on the overseers' lists. If you discover any mistake or omission, report to us by Friday the 21st at latest.

" We would at the same time remind you of the importance of adding to the enrolled members of the Electoral Organisation. The manifest advantage of so doing is that we know our friends and where to find them, and as the enrolment involves no expense, pray urge it on all within your reach.

" The success of the popular cause is daily becoming more and more certain.

" For the Committee,
" F. H. Causton, Secretary."

" Norwich Election.
" Committee Rooms, Redwell Street,
" Dear sir, November 11th, 1868.

" The day of election being fixed for Tuesday next, the 17th instant, we have the pleasure to enclose you a card, showing your number on the register and the several polling places for your ward, and we beg to urge upon you the necessity for recording your vote for

Russell and Tillett,

the Liberal candidates, as early as possible.

" A vote given in the first hour is worth much more than if given later. A large majority at 9 o'clock accomplishes the victory, therefore poll before 9 o'clock, and the best thanks of the cause will be due to you.

" We are, dear sir,
" Yours faithfully,
" W. Foster,
" J. J. Colman."

" To the Electors of the city of Norwich.

" Gentlemen,

" Having received the assurance of the united and cordial support of the whole Liberal party in your city, I hope to have the honour of again representing you in Parliament.

" With reference to my political views, I think I have but to refer to my votes for the last 11 years during which I have been in Parliament to show that I have always consistently supported and promoted the great principles of civil and religious liberty.

" I have already given my support to Mr. Gladstone's resolutions on the Irish Church, and I shall be prepared in the new Parliament cordially to join in his endeavours to settle this question.

" I shall support such measures as may be necessary for altering and amending the last Reform Bill, more especially as regards the compound freeholder clause.

" The growing increase of the national expenditure requires grave consideration, and I shall be most anxious to assist in reducing it to the utmost extent that is consistent with the maintenance of efficiency in the various departments.

" A scheme of national education is one of the measures most urgently requiring attention. To meet the requirements of the present times, it must be framed in a very liberal spirit.

" To Mr. Gladstone and the great Liberal party I shall continue to give my hearty support, believing that to them alone we must look for the advancement of the great principles of our constitution.

" I have the honour to be, Gentlemen,
" Your obedient servant,
" William Russell.

" Charlton Park, near Cheltenham,
" October 30th, 1868."

" To the Electors of the city of Norwich.

" Fellow citizens,

" It is now fully expected that the dissolution of Parliament will take place in the week after next, and the election early in the week following.

" The assurances of support which I have received from overwhelming numbers of the electors leave me without doubt of success.

" The feeling is almost universal that so large a city as Norwich should, as to one of its members, be represented by a Norwich man. Local questions are continually coming up in Parliament and before the departments of State. These questions require the experience and knowledge of facts which only a local man can have; and as it is now certain that the important considerations involved in the questions of poor rate and social taxation generally will come up for discussion and settlement next session, it is more than ever necessary that a city so heavily and unjustly burdened should have one man in the house who, from actual knowledge, can say a word in exposition of its wishes and its grievances.

" I believe that the poor rate system is altogether on a wrong basis. Property of every description should be rated, and all persons of ability to pay should be assessed fairly and equally all the country over.

" The abolition of the compound system has caused incalculable inconvenience and misery. If I am sent to represent you in Parliament, it shall be my primary and unceasing effort to promote the repeal of the odious ratepaying clauses of the late Reform Act, and to find a more equitable basis for local taxation than the present exclusive charge on rental.

" Gentlemen, I need not repeat my political principles. I have laboured for all the ameliorations and reforms of the last five and twenty years, in the success of which the people are now rejoicing. I am for religious liberty in its largest applications; for the pacification of Ireland by measures of justice; for retrenchment in every department of the State; in a word, I am for Gladstone.

" It will be impossible to canvass the electors individually, I must therefore leave my cause, which is really the people's cause, in the hands of the people. My friends must work for me, and they will not fail to achieve a glorious and decisive victory.

" I have the honour to be, gentlemen,
your obedient servant,
" J. Henry Tillett.

" Carrow, October 30th, 1868."

" Norwich Election, 1868.
" Bribery, &c.

" The following are extracts from the Acts of Parliament relating to corrupt practices at elections:

" 17 & 18 Vict. cap. 102. sec. 2. Any person who shall have bribed shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and in Scotland of an offence punishable by fine or imprisonment, and shall also be liable to forfeit the sum of one hundred pounds to any person who shall sue for the same, together with full costs of suit.

" Sec. 3. Any person who shall have been bribed shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and in Scotland of an offence punishable by fine and imprisonment, and shall also be liable to forfeit the sum of ten pounds to any person who shall sue for the same, together with full costs of suit.

" Sec. 4. Every person guilty of the offence of treating shall forfeit the sum of fifty pounds to any person who shall sue for the same, with full costs of suit.

" Sec. 5. Every person guilty of the offence of undue influence shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and in Scotland of an offence punishable by fine or imprisonment, and shall also be liable to forfeit the sum of 50*l.* to any person who shall sue for the same, together with full costs of suit.

" Sec. 23. The giving or causing to be given to any voter on the day of nomination or day of polling, on account of such voter having polled or being about to poll, any meat, drink, or entertainment by way of refreshment, or any money or ticket to enable such voter to obtain refreshment, shall be deemed an illegal act, and the person so offending shall forfeit the sum of forty shillings for each offence to any person who shall sue for the same, together with full costs of suit.

" 15 & 16 Vict. cap. 57, sec. 13. Every person who upon examination wilfully gives false evidence, shall be liable to the pains and penalties of perjury.

"2 Geo. 4. c. 22, 3 Geo. 4. c. 114, 20 & 21 Vict. c. 3. By these statutes perjury is punishable with penal servitude for not exceeding seven years nor less than three years, or with fine and imprisonment with hard labour for not exceeding seven years.

" 26 Vict. cap. 29. sec. 7. No person who is called as a witness (every person is liable to be so called) shall be excused from answering any question relating to any corrupt practice at or connected with any election forming the subject of inquiry on the ground that the answer thereto may criminate or tend to criminate himself; provided always that where any witness shall answer every question relating to the matter aforesaid which he shall be required to answer, and the answer to which may criminate or tend to criminate him, he shall be entitled to receive a certificate stating that such witness was upon his examination required to answer questions or a question relating to the matters aforesaid, the answers or answer to which criminated or tended to criminate him, and had answered all such questions or such question; and if any information, indictment, or action be at any time thereafter pending in any court against such witness for any offence under the Corrupt Practices Prevention Acts, or for which he might have been prosecuted or proceeded against under such Acts, committed by him previously to the time of his giving his evidence, and at or in relation to the election concerning or in relation to which the witness may have been so examined, the court shall on production and proof of such certificate stay the proceedings in such last-mentioned information, indictment, or action, and may at its discretion award to such witness such costs as he may have been put to in such information, indictment, or action."

37,379. What is the use of all this. That card merely shows that he was a member of the organisation ?—He was not a member.

37,380. This shows that he was ?—Yes, because it was delivered to him afterwards.

37,381. It is merely a card of membership ?—Yes, that was delivered to him after the meeting; he never was a member at all.

37,382. I suppose somehow or other, being at the meeting, he was put down as a member ?—Merely because he attended a meeting.

37,383. I want to know whether you observed on the day of the election any bribery, or anything of that sort, being committed on the Liberal side ?—No, never a shilling.

37,384. Do you mean to say these cards were sent to doubtful voters in the district ?—Yes, they were all the way through the district. I have handed in the letter that was sent to the men. I went and got them last night on purpose for your information.

37,385. I want to know what you mean by it. You say they sent these cards to doubtful voters in the district ?—Yes, and that is the way they tried to get the organisation up.

37,386. That was got up long before the election ?—Yes, of course, from time to time, and that is how they endeavoured to get their votes.

37,387. That is no bribery or corruption.—No, of course not, but it is intimidation.

37,388. We cannot waste our time over this.—Mr. Cowlis was a customer of Mr. Colman and that was done towards intimidation.

37,389. Did you see anything done on the day of election in this ward which you were watching which led you to suppose that bribery was going on ?—No.

37,390. You were watching for the purpose, were you ?—Yes.

37,391. You say you were watching there from 10 to 1 ?—Yes.

37,392. What became of you at 1 ?—I went away towards my own home.

37,393. How did you employ yourself after 1 o'clock ?—I will tell you; I went to Mr. John Sadler's, at the " Roebuck."

37,394. How long did you stay there ?—About an hour.

37,395. That would bring us up to 2; between 2 and 3 what were you doing ?—I went home.

37,396. How long did you stay at home ?—I never went out no more.

37,397. Do you mean to say you were not out of your house after 2 o'clock that day ?—I was not out of my house after half-past 2, not till the next morning at 9 o'clock. You ask for the truth and I tell you the truth. The fact is I and Mr. Tom Richards, he lived in Victoria Street, went home together.

37,398. You were not at the poll making way for the Stracey voters to come up ?—Certainly not.

37,399. Let there be no mistake; you swear you were in your house and did not go out after 2 o'clock ?—Three o'clock.

37,400. You said 2 o'clock ?—No, I said half-past 2 o'clock.

37,401. There is no mistake about that ?—None at all.

37,402. At any time did you see Mr. Morgan on that day ?—No, certainly not. I did not return home until the Saturday, and my wife says to me, " There have been parties——

37,403. We do not want this.—Mr. Dean came and canvassed Mr. Fulcher, and Mr. Fulcher told me on the Sunday morning after I came home, I had been in Suffolk upon the East Suffolk election, and on the Wednesday previous to my coming home I was in London——

37,404. We do not want all this.—But you ought to know what was promised if you bring me here.

37,405. Who do you say promised anything to anybody ?—Mr. Dean.

37,406. Where does he live ?—Grove Road, and he is a retired shoe manufacturer.

37,407. What do you say he promised ?—Mr. Fulcher told me on the Sunday morning, " I am pro-" mised, if I vote for Russell and Tillett, to have some " pigs in my stye, and that is not the only one in the " ward. I have been watching them, as you might " suppose, being an old electioneerer." There was Charles Simmonds promised some pigs by a man of the name of Fitt.

37,408. Did you hear him do it ?—No, the parties told me.

37,409. How do you know it ?—I will tell you. Fulcher on the Sunday morning says, " How am I to vote ?" and I says, " You know quite well you " ought to vote for Sir Henry; Mr. Green is agent " for your landlord, and if you do not do so you are " wrong." He says, " I have been offered so and so;" and I says, " By whom ?" He says, " He lives across here;" and I says, " That is Dean;" and he says, " Yes, that is him." He offered him five pigs if he voted for Russell and Tillett.

37,410. Being a very active partisan on the part of the Conservatives, you knew, did you not, there were inquiries of any malpractices that were committed by the Liberals before the election judge ?—Yes, of course I did, and I gave the report.

37,411. Did you give this information to Mr. Skipper ?—No, I sent a party to give the information; I did not wish to tell it myself.

37,412. You sent the information ?—Yes. I did not wish to be here to-day; I ought to be 50 miles another way.

37,413. Did you give anything to anybody to vote during that day ?—Never a penny.

37,414. Or promise anything to anybody ?—No.

37,415. Did you spend any money upon any beer ?—Yes.

37,416. Where did you spend money upon beer ?—I had 5*s.* in my pocket when I went away, and 1*s.* 8*d.* when I went back.

37,417. Where did you spend it ?—At different places; some at Mr. Sadler's, who keeps the " Roebuck."

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

J. Youngman.

11 Oct. 1869.

37,418. Was that in giving it to different people?—No, only in the common way.

37,419. To whom was it you gave the beer?—William Jacobs, the butcher; we spent 1*s.*, I think.

37,420. Do you mean to say you spent it with your friends, glass and glass about?—Yes.

37,421. Was it given in any way to voters?—No.

37,422. Merely spent amongst your ordinary companions?—Yes, whom I knew quite well. I have been in the city more than 20 years.

37,423. It was not spent on account of the election at all?—No, not a shilling, not a penny. I had only 5*s.* in my pocket. I turned out a 5*l.* note, and asked my wife to give me 5*s.*

37,424. (Mr. Biron.) Did you get all these documens handed in from the same person?—Yes. You will see one card has Mr. Wright's name upon it.

37,425. Did you get these that are bound together from Mr. John Cowlis?—Yes, the whole of them.

37,426. Are they circulars which were sent to him by the Liberal party?—He informed me so, and I did not receive them till last evening; there is a man's name there by the name of Wright you will find amongst them, he is a very respectable man.

37,427. If we call Cowlis before us he will tell us how he received them?—I received them last evening from him after I received the summons.

37,428. What about Robert Wright?—He will explain that to you. I received it from Cowlis.

37,429. Did Cowlis give you all these?—Yes; as soon as I found I had a summons and was telegraphed for, I said all the information I could get I would get for you. Any information I can give I shall be happy to furnish you with.

37,430. I understood from you in your examination that your notion was these were given for the purpose of intimidation?—Yes, they were, and Mr. Cowlis will tell you how Mr. Colman's servant actually came to his house and threatened him.

37,431. How did these papers intimidate him?—He had been in the habit of dealing with Colman's people, and they came and threatened him about his vote; he will tell you about it himself.

37,432. Are you aware that one of these circulars is to this effect, "Norwich Election, 1868. Bribery, "&c. The following are extracts from the Acts of "Parliament relating to corrupt practices at elec-"tions," and then follow the sections from the Act specifying what are the offences against the Act, and it goes on to say any person who commits any of those acts will be liable to fine and imprisonment, and so on. It is cautioning people in the most explicit terms against bribery?—That was delivered to Mr. Cowlis.

37,433. How could that intimidate any person?—Look at the circumstance; there might be such a thing as deceit, and that is how that was done.

37,434. If there is anything in it we will ascertain it.—That is how that was done, they were delivered with deceit.

S. Lake.

SAMUEL LAKE sworn and examined.

37,435. (Mr. Mansfield.) I believe you were an active partisan of Sir Henry Stracey's at the last election?—No.

37,436. What part did you take?—I was not an active partisan.

37,437. What did you do?—I did but very little.

37,438. You canvassed voters, I believe?—No.

37,439. You paid voters?—No.

37,440. Did you not pay a single voter?—With one exception.

37,441. You had some conversation with Wiseman on the day of election?—Yes, in the committee room.

37,442. You received some money from him?—Yes.

37,443. How much was that?—Two half sovereigns.

37,444. Are you quite certain it was not more than that?—Yes, quite so.

37,445. What were you instructed to do with those two half sovereigns?—I had better explain how I came by them; it was represented at a certain time of the day, I think at about 3 o'clock——

37,446. Who represented it?—I cannot tell you who exactly, but it was represented that money was being given away for votes.

37,447. In whose presence was this represented?—It was represented privately to me, I think by Robert Fryer, but I cannot say whether it was so or not; I might say in former elections I have always taken a very active part, but upon this one I took no active part whatever, and was not on the committee even, bvt happening to stroll into the committee I found no one present except Mr. Wiseman, the manager of the ward, and after being in the room half an hour, it was represented that money was being given away.

37,448. By whom was it represented?—By this Mr. Fryer I think, and I said, "Is there?" and I said I had not seen a penny nor heard of a penny, and he said, "It is so, for I see a cab come down with Dr. "Allen in it." "I do not know," I says. He says, "If "there is anything I think we are entitled to it; we "always oblige you; here are four votes, and I "think we are entitled to a little remuneration." I says, "I will go into Mr. Wiseman, and see if there is "anything. I do not see why you should not have it "as well as anybody else." I told Mr. Wiseman the facts of the case and he said, "What do you think we "had better give them?" I said, "I should think they "would be satisfied with a crown apiece," and he said if that was so he would do it. I said you had better call in Fryer to see whether he will be satisfied with it. I called him into the door and said "I have sug-"gested a crown apiece;" and I said, "Do you think "that will satisfy you," and Mr. Wiseman put his hand in his pocket and gave me two half-sovereigns, and I gave them to Fryer; that is all the money I saw pass on the day.

37,449. Did you make any offer to any persons yourself?—No, I never asked a single soul for a vote on that day.

37,450. At what hour of the day was this passed through your hands?—I should think it was about 3 o'clock.

37,451. You took no further part yourself in obtaining votes?—No, and a very good reason for why, my house was one of the polling places for the ward, and knowing there had been such an excitement with this organisation on the Liberal side, and likewise the enthusiasm on behalf of Sir Henry Stracey, I thought possibly there might be a riot, and so I said to my wife, "I shall not enter the committee room or "take any part in the election, and I shall be at home "on purpose to protect my premises;" being a Conservative polling place I was fearful of the result and stopped at home, and stopped at home and never went out of my house till a quarter-past 10 or 11 o'clock in the morning.

37,452. Is that sum of 20*s.* the only sum you know of being corruptly spent at that election?—The only sum I know of, but not the only sum I have heard of by a great many; I have seen the evidence as regards bribery on the Conservative side, but I have heard of a lot on the other side.

37,453. Did you hear on the day of the election of any other money being spent on the Conservative side?—Not to the best of my knowledge.

37,454. Not till after the day?—No.

37,455. You are quite certain of that?—Yes.

37,456. Did you not hear that Hunt and Smith were spending money?—No, not till the inquiry took place.

37,457. Did you not hear that money was being spent at the "Trumpet?"—Not till after the the election.

37,458. Can you tell me about money being spent by the Liberal side?—I should say with regard to the election day I should have bet any amount of money that not a single penny was spent.

37,459. Do you know of any sum having been subscribed?—No.

37,460. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you know of any individual having been paid?—Yes, with regard to the organisation. I have heard members of the organisation boast about being paid.

37,461. Give us the names?—Two of the members nearly got to fighting at a meeting of which I was chairman, because one had got 5*s.* and the other 2*s.* 6*d.*

37,462. Give us the names?—William Stride was one.

37,463. Where does he live?—I cannot say exactly, but he is known all over the city.

37,464. What is the other?—John Seeley of St. Augustine's.

37,465. What have you heard those men state?—They were chaffing one another in the room.

37,466. In your presence?—Yes, and I was rather amused with it, and let them go on. Stride began it first. You must understand there was a difference between the Radical and Whig section. Seeley was on the Whig side and Stride on the Radical side, and they were chaffing each other about being the best men of the two. Stride said he could always earn a crown where the other could only earn half a crown.

37,467. Did either of them admit that they received anything?—They admitted it because they did not contradict it.

37,468. Will you tell us what they said?—They were quarrelling with each other; one said the other was no better man than him. Yes, he says, he was. He says he is getting a crown a day where the other was only getting half a crown.

37,469. Was that with reference to the election?—Yes, with reference to the organisation, going about and getting up meetings.

37,470. Had that any reference to their getting voters?—Yes, that organisation was the sanctum sanctorum of the Radical side.

37,471. Was it before the election?—Yes, a month before, I should think.

37,472. (Mr. Biron.) They were chaffing?—Yes, chaffing at the "White Horse," in St. Mary's Church Alley.

37,473. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Can you give us anything besides chaff?—I should like to give you the grain, the whole of it.

37,474. (Mr. Mansfield.) Can you tell us any other cases of corrupt practices on the Liberal side?—I heard Mr. Claxton say that he knew Mr. Gardiner, of St. Paul's, spent 40*l.* on the last election and never got a penny of it back; that was for Mr. Tillett and Russell.

37,475. To what election did this expenditure of 40*l.* refer, to the parliamentary or municipal election?—I will tell you the conversation, and you can draw your own inferences.

37,476. You heard the conversation?—Oh yes, and referred other persons to it, because I thought it was a rich treat.

37,477. Give us the details of that conversation?—It was a day or two after Dr. Allen was examined. Mr. Claxton is a very warm Radical, and never met me without giving me a talk about being a Tory and about a Tory being a bad sort of a character. I was in getting a glass of ale, and he says, "Now what do you Tories think of to-day?" and I says, "There is nothing to be ashamed of;" and he says, "I think Dr. Allen has shown you up," and he says, "I will tell "you what it is, you Tories ought to be swept, all of "you, off from the face of the earth." I thought it was a warm compliment, and I says, "I do not know, I "think if your hands were clean yourself, you might "ask other people to show their hands. I believe you "signed the memorial for the Commissioners to come "down, and you know perfectly well you are a mem-"ber of the town council, and that you are in there "by nothing but by bribery, you were bought in, and "I think it is very bad grace to make a remark of "that kind, a man having such dirty hands as you "have," I retorted with so much smartness, and he says, 'Well, the fact of it is, it is six to one and half a dozen to the other." He said, "There has been bribery on both sides," I says, "How is that?" and he says, "A friend of mine spent 40*l.* on that day and has never got it back again."

37,478. Was that at the municipal election?—He distinctly referred to the last election.

37,479. Your conversation was about the town council?—No, I referred to him as being a member of the town council, talking like he did; he said that at the last election a friend of his had spent 40*l.*, and had never got it back again. I says, "I cannot believe "it, that is another needle you have got for me being "a poor Tory;" he says, "No, it is not," and he says, "I can tell you the name," and I said, "You "dare not," and he says, "It is no other than old Billy "Gardiner, of St. Paul's." There were two or three others with me.

37,480. Was a man of the name of Coleman present?—Yes.

37,481. Anybody else?—Mr. Holly and the landlord's daughter, Mrs. Nockold's, but Mr. Holly was rather deaf, and I have asked him whether he remembers it; he says he remembers Claxton being in there, but cannot remember what he said.

37,482. Are they all alive?—Yes. I said, "Are you sure they spent 40*l.* and never got it back again?" and he said, "Yes," he had either seen the cheque or the counterfoil of the cheque.

37,483. Was there anything else referred to about the way in which the 40*l.* was spent?—Not at that time.

37,484. What time did you hear about that?—This was about 9 in the evening, or something like that.

37,485. Have you heard at any time how this 40*l.* was laid out?—I heard about a fortnight afterwards, when in conversation with the landlord of the "Shakespeare," that he had a man in at his place getting a glass of ale who had said Gardiner had been paid back that 40*l.*, and he believed Mr. Colman had paid it back again.

37,486. That is all you know?—I cannot say I know that, that is what I have heard about it.

HENRY HEINRICH sworn and examined. H. Heinrich.

37,487. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a professional gentleman, a master of languages, a schoolmaster.

37,488. Do you keep a school?—Yes, I do.

37,489. Where?—At Norwich.

37,490. What is the direction?—Unthanks Road.

37,491. Were you employed at all upon the election of last November?—No.

37,492. Did you canvass at all?—I did canvass at that time.

37,493. Where did you canvass?—In various parts of the city of Norwich.

37,494. In whose company?—I am not sure who the gentlemen were, because they were strangers to me.

37,495. Have you not since ascertained what their names are?—I did not try to ascertain, because I saw them in the committee room, and naturally I went with them because I saw they were substantial Conservative parties.

37,496. Did you canvass anywhere in the third ward?—Yes, I did. There is one gentleman that I remember, but the names in English are very foreign to me, and you must give me some opportunity of recollection.

37,497. I am willing to give you what time you like.—I think it was a man of the name of Metcalf.

37,498. Did you canvass at all with a gentleman of the name of Fuller?—No, I did not.

37,499. Are you sure about that?—I am positive as far as my memory goes, quite positive of that.

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

H. Heinrich.

11 Oct. 1869.

There are two Mr. Fullers concerned in this case, and I wish you to tell me which Mr. Fuller you mean.

37,500. Did you canvass with either of them?—No.

37,501. Did you canvass with Mr. Dudley Stracey?—No, I did not.

37,502. Do you know Mr. Fitch, the chemist?—Yes.

37,503. Did you canvass with him?—No.

37,504. You were often in and out of the third ward committee room?—Yes, I was.

37,505. Were you about the committee on the Monday?—That is the day previous to the election. My profession naturally brings me to go out upon business matters, but I was not out for election matters on the Monday.

37,506. Do you know the committee room at the "Tuns"?—I was at the "Tuns."

37,507. Were you in and out of that committee room?—Not on the Monday.

37,508. Did you see Mr. Buttifant, the house agent, there?—I saw Mr. Buttifant on the Tuesday, the 17th of November, and he was very active in taking the reports down.

37,509. Did you see him give any money in bribery?—No.

37,510. Or treating?—No. He was very active in taking the names down, the polls.

37,511. On the poll day what did you do?—I was trying to see it on both sides. I was appointed overseer, without any payment, to see that both parties had the right of going to the polling place orderly, because so many people came there crushing to vote; one would try to get in before the next one, and I prevented them doing so.

37,512. Who appointed you?—I believe Mr. Joseph Stanley, the solicitor, of Norwich, if I am right.

37,513. Where were you to station yourself for this purpose?—I believe as overseer I have a right to go over all parts of the city of Norwich, but they did not tell me exactly any part.

37,514. You were to be an overseer?—Yes.

37,515. What were you to get for it?—I am a substantial Conservative, and I told him I would do anything what I could that was legal without any payment.

37,516. Were you a volunteer?—Yes, a volunteer according to my knowledge.

37,517. I should like to know what you did as a volunteer?—I will give you everything to save you all examination; I will give you everything what I know.

37,518. You volunteered to Joseph Stanley?—Yes.

37,519. Had you not been to the Liberals to ask for employment there before going to Mr. Stanley?—No.

37,520. Did you never ask them to employ you?—No, I never asked anybody. Being a member of the Third Ward Association, and a member of the Eldon Club, it is not natural that I should go to those parties.

37,521. Never mind whether it be natural or unnatural, did you?—No.

37,522. As overseer what did you do?—I went up to various places and tried to prevent the parties crushing forward. I tried to let them get up according to the general rule, that they may go forward and vote according to the order, and that they might go orderly into the place and give their votes.

37,523. Did you think you were of much use?—I believe I was.

37,524. Do I understand that people were in danger of outrage?—No danger, but there was such a crowd.

37,525. Do you mean to say you prevented anybody going out of his turn?—Yes, the police were there at the time. I cannot give the name or number of the police, but I told the policeman for the purpose of trying to put them in the right order.

37,526. The police put them right, and you looked on while the police were doing it?—Yes, that is it.

37,527. That is an important duty.—Yes, I believed so; I have no power whatever to order, because I have no full power from the magistrate.

37,528. It was, of course, a very important duty. Did you go to Mr. Stanley's office afterwards to get paid for it?—No, never.

37,529. Did you go to Mr. Stanley's office afterwards?—I go frequently there upon business matters. I have a large connexion in my school, and therefore, when I want legal advice I go to my solicitors.

37,530. What I want to know is, whether you went there for money?—No, never.

37,531. Did he pay you any money after the election?—No, never; not a penny.

37,532. Do you know his clerk, Gifford?—Yes, I do know his clerk, Gifford; he was at the "Bull and Butcher," but I do not know anything else of him.

37,533. Did you see Gifford at Mr. Stanley's office and ask for money, or ask when his master would be home?—I asked him when his master would be home.

37,534. Because you wanted money?—No, if I wanted money I would ask Mr. Stanley and not his clerk.

37,535. You have asked Mr. Stanley for money?—No, I have never had an opportunity of seeing Mr. Stanley.

37,536. Not a good client like you?—I am not a good client.

37,537. A man with an important connexion you know he would come down and see?—I never went in for any money, and that was because I had some business to do; I will tell it if I am compelled; a gentleman tried to rob me of some money, and I asked him if he would be kind enough to do that business for me.

37,538. It is no use running on; did you after the election get any sum of money from Mr. Stanley?—Not a penny, on my oath.

37,539. Did you ask Mr. Stanley after the election for any sum of money?—I never did; I am on my my oath, and I say I never did.

37,540. Do you remember being at Mr. Stanley's office about the first week in December and meeting Mr. Fuller there?—No.

37,541. Do you remember Mr. Fuller coming in as you were coming down the stairs from Mr. Stanley's office?—Which Mr. Fuller do you mean?

37,542. Either of them?—I know only one Mr. Fuller. I saw him about the end of November, and he told me that he went to the agent of the Liberal party, and gave information about me that I had been bribing, and he was near Mr. Stanley's door, but I have not seen him at Mr. Stanley's.

37,543. Did you say to him you had been at Mr. Stanley's and could not get your "monish"?—No.

37,544. That you could not get your money?—No, never.

37,545. Did you say anything about money?—No; I never said anything about money, because I considered he was not fit to be mixed in with society.

37,546. What was there about money that you would have said to him if he had been a decent member of society?—I had nothing to say to him about money, because if I had any money matters to say I naturally keep that to myself, and go up to my own lawyer.

37,547. Do you mean to say that you have neither gone to Mr. Stanley for money or received money from Mr. Stanley since the election?—I am on my oath; and I never went to Mr. Stanley for money or anything of the sort since last December till now.

37,548. Did you take anybody up to the poll that day?—I think I took up 20 voters.

37,549. How did you take them up?—I took them up by conveyance with Mr. John Abel.

37,550. Had you not a cab of your own?—Yes, I had a cab about 1 o'clock.

37,551. Who paid for it?—I did not pay it yet, because I shall pay for it after the Commission, because I was subpœnaed before Baron Martin, and I thought it illegal to pay, because I considered myself to be an active member, and that is the reason I did not pay it.

37,552. You hired a fly, whether you paid for it or not?—Yes, I did.

37,553. Who was the man you hired it from?—I do not know his name. I took him from the stand.

37,554. You know his number, perhaps; has he not reminded you of his existence since?—I do not know his number; he knew me as a person, I suppose, whom he could trust, and has never asked me for the money since the election.

37,555. He never has?—No, he never has.

37,556. How many men did you bring up in this cab?—I do not think I brought up one in the cab, because I went to the place where I was informed there were two voters, and I came there and they voted, and of course I left the cab near the "Grapes." I saw Mr. Abel again, and I believe it was about a quarter of an hour afterwards, and the cab went to that spot.

37,557. Why did you not pay the cab?—Because I was so excited, I am such an excited person.

37,558. Have you ever employed him since?—Previous, not since.

37,559. How often?—Nearly every week I go up to the station with him.

37,560. Once?—I believe it is once.

37,561. He has trusted you from that time until now?—He did not trust me; his master is Mr. Howse; I know his master, and the firm is Howse and Son, and they have trusted me since this time, and never asked me once yet for the money.

37,562. Did you bring up a man of the name of Goreham?—No.

37,563. Never?—Of course if I have never brought him up I could not say so. I know the name of Goreham, but I do not know whether it is the same Goreham, because there are two Gorehams in the city of Norwich.

37,564. Did you ever tell anybody that you had bribed three men for a sovereign?—I said on the day of the election, about half-past 2, to a gentleman called Mr. Moore, because I saw two Liberal parties there, that I did bribe; the way I saw the person take it up made me say it. I said, "Now let them go and subpœna me," because they were saying the Conservative parties had bribed, and they are going to have a petition, because it was rumoured so the next day. I said, "Let them subpœna me, and I will come forward and tell what I do know;" that is Mr. Moore, the barber, in Grapes Hill, and he will tell you the same thing.

37,565. My question was whether you said on the day of the election that you bribed three men?—I did say so.

37,566. Was it true?—No, it was not.

37,567. What made you lie?—I did not lie, exactly. I will tell you what it was.

37,568. It was not true?—I could not call it a lie.

37,569. If you dislike the term "lie," what made you say something that was not true?—I went there because I saw a gentleman who branded me—(I should not use "branding," because I think it is different): he said I was active in bribing, and I said, "Well, I did pay one pound, go and report me for it." My nature is being hasty; I might have said all that, but I went directly and said it was wrong, because it was a lie, in the presence of the very person, Mr. Moore, who can say that I did say so.

37,570. Why did you say so at all?—Because he heard it.

37,571. A thing is not heard till after it is said?—To answer the question I shall say, for this very reason they thought that I did bribe; and I considered if I came before Baron Martin I shall prove I had not bribed.

37,572. You did not know anything about Mr. Baron Martin on the day of the election?—I did not say it on the day of the election.

37,573. When did you say it?—I believe a few days after. There was a rumour that there would be a petition.

37,574. If that is the date of it, let us have your reason now for making this statement that you bribed three men with a sovereign?—I believe I have said previously that I done it only because that this very person said that I did go about and bribe such a lot of people. I said to them, "Go and report that I bribed 1*l.*" I had no reason whatever to bribe, because I knew by 2 o'clock that there was no use bribing, because there were a number of voters in my part in favour of Sir Henry Stracey.

37,575. Two o'clock was when Sir Henry Stracey was in a great minority?—At 2 o'clock, you will pardon me. I know there were reports, but there was a mistake of 200 at that time.

37,576. It is of no use talking; we happen to know to one vote what the state of the poll was at 2 o'clock. Have you given me the only reason you can for making this statement that you bribed three men?—Yes, I give you the reason.

37,577. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you say who the three men were?—I did not say the three persons, because I never bribed a single penny to any person.

37,578. Did you say who the persons were you bribed?—I have not bribed a person.

37,579. (Mr. Biron.) You said you had bribed three men with a sovereign; did you say who the men were you bribed?—No, I did not.

37,580. You have been here a good deal during this inquiry?—Only once, because I have been out of the town.

37,581. Since we have been sitting here do you say you have been only once?—The time before I was about three times here, not more.

37,582. Were you not here day after day, sitting in the gallery?—No, I have been on my oath only three times, and that the constable can say only three times, because my business does not allow me always; it is only according to my holiday time, and I have been only three times here.

37,583. When you were here you were taking notes?—Yes, I have done so.

37,584. Notes of the names of the persons who were mentioned in the course of this inquiry?—Pardon me, I took the notes down, not of the names who were mentioned. I can produce to you, if you would understand it, my shorthand write, and some of the reporters might translate it. I took notes of the whole proceedings, not for the purpose of benefiting me, but I am rather a little politician, and I took it down for my own purpose.

37,585. Did you take down the names of persons who were mentioned in the inquiry?—I took down the whole proceedings.

37,586. Have you got the notes?—I have not got them in my possession.

37,587. What did you do with them?—I have got them at home.

37,588. What did you do with them from time to time as you took them?—I have not got them in my possession.

37,589. Are they at home?—Yes.

37,590. That is in your possession.—According to my English I have not them in my possession.

37,591. Can you produce them?—Yes, I can, perhaps.

37,592. Did you not send them away from time to time as you took them?—No, I never did; on my oath I never did.

37,593. Did you not hand them over to somebody after you left the court?—No, I never did.

37,594. Did you have them copied?—No, I never did.

37,595. Did you send out to anybody the names that you had taken down here in the course of each day you attended?—On my oath, as far as my recollection goes, since the day of the election and the day of the inquiry, I never did give any piece of paper out.

37,596. I am talking of the days you were taking

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

H. Heinrich.

11 Oct. 1869.

notes here ?—That is the day of the enquiry. I never did give a person any piece of paper.

37,597. To whom did you shew them ?—When I went out I had parties come and ask me, "Did you take notes," and I said, "I took notes of my own," but who the parties are who asked me I cannot tell you.

37,598. Did you not send your notes straight to Mr. Stanley each day ?—I take my oath I never did. I never was near Mr. Stanley's office since the year 1868, since last November.

37,599. You can say to whom you gave the notes ?—I cannot. I never gave a piece of paper out.

37,600. You read out the names ?—On my oath I never did.

37,601. Do you mean to say you did not communicate, either directly or indirectly, with anybody as soon as you got out of the court ?—I take my oath I never did.

37,602. You had some people come up to you and ask what had taken place ?—That is the first time I ever heard of it.

37,603. It is your own phrase, not mine.—I say I did not give a piece of paper to any parties. Parties came and asked me, but my answer was not to them. I never gave any answer. I kept the paper to my own self, and I can produce that paper to you if it is of any service. I took notes before Mr. Baron Martin, and have done it here also, and I shall be most happy to give it to you.

37,604. You will produce those notes.—Yes; and I can bring them at 3 o'clock if my examination is done in time.

37,605. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You hired a cab, and it was to be paid for ?—Yes, it was.

37,606. You say you did not pay for it because of the inquiry before Mr. Baron Martin ?—Yes.

37,607. Why did you not pay for it because of the inquiry before Mr. Baron Martin ?—Because I considered this: if Mr. Joseph Stanley was the agent for Sir Henry Stracey, according to my knowledge—I do not know exactly whether he was direct agent or indirect agent, but I know this—if Mr. Joseph Stanley was agent he had previously occupied the cab. I took the cab up from that man because Joseph Stanley had it for one hour. That was the very reason I took it.

37,608. Why should you not pay for it if you contracted to pay for it ?—I did not contract with the man.

37,609. Was it so that you could get into the witness box and say you had not paid for anything ?—Yes.

37,610. You wished to represent to Mr. Baron Martin that you had not paid for anything, although you contracted to pay for it ?—No, that is not my meaning exactly. I must not be very hasty with my words, because I am not exactly so free with the English tongue.

37,611. Were you doing this in order that you might represent to Mr. Baron Martin, although you had contracted to pay for it, you had not actually paid it, and so you might mislead him ?—No, that is not my meaning. My meaning is to give you in a common way to say that I did not intend to do so, because at that time this cabman was employed by Mr. Joseph Stanley, and after Mr. Joseph Stanley, the solicitor, had finished his journey I took the cab, and the cabman a week or a fortnight afterwards asked me for a demand of 12*s.* 6*d.*, which I have told him I shall not pay until I have given my evidence, because I was informed there would be an inquiry.

37,612. You wanted to mislead the election judge with regard to the hiring of the cab ?—I do not wish to mislead anybody. I should have said before Baron Martin what I say before you. I do not wish to mislead anybody. I never have done so, and do not wish to do it.

37,613. What could it signify Mr. Stanley having anything to do with the cab, unless he employed you to hire the cab, or authorised you ?—He never authorised me to hire the cab. I saw Joseph Stanley getting out from the cab, and knowing the very person I went in and took the cab and went as far as St. Benedict's, and that is all I have done.

37,614. What reason had you for not paying honestly that cabman ?—Because the man never asked me to the present time, only once, for the cab.

37,615. He asked you once; surely that is enough to pay for a cab, is it not ?—That is about, I believe, five or six months ago, and I say to him I shall pay after I have settled with Baron Martin.

37,616. Why should you not pay before you had settled with Mr. Baron Martin ?—I considered this, that if I came before Baron Martin, and if I am on my oath to say whether I paid anything, I naturally would have to say I paid for a cab, and I considered I did not have any right, being an overseer, to pay for anything. That is my reason.

37,617. Your idea was that you would deceive Mr. Baron Martin by saying you had not paid for it, although you contracted for it ?—I cannot say "deceive." I should not like to deceive any person.

37,618. Have you got no claim of any sort against Mr. Stanley ?—None whatever.

37,619. Have you received any money, directly or indirectly, from Mr. Stanley within the last 12 months ?—Not a single penny.

37,620. Nor ever demanded a single penny ?—Not a single penny.

37,621. And never went to his office for the purpose of asking for money ?—I ask him for money on business matters, but not for election money.

37,622. What were the business maters ?—I believe I said it before to one of you gentlemen what business money it was.

37,623. What business money was it ?—I went down to Mr. Joseph Stanley, I believe it was about December, and I asked for Mr. Joseph Stanley. I went in to inquire for him, and he was not in, and I waited there about three hours and could not see him, and left the place and never went again. I wrote a note and left the note; and in the note I said, "Mr. "Joseph Stanley. Sir,—I have called upon you to "inquire what time you shall be in;" and time after time I went, and never had an opportunity of seeing him, so I thought there was no use in going to see him.

37,624. You went there time after time for the purpose of getting some money ?—Yes. When I say so, one or two hours, or three hours, that is what I mean by time after time.

37,625. You went to get some money from Mr. Joseph Stanley ?—Yes, I did.

37,626. What money was that that you wanted to get from him ?—I believe it was about 2*l.* and some odd shillings.

37,627. For what ?—For expenses which I had incurred for the last election for Walpole and Sir Edward Lacon, but not for anything else.

37,628. That is the election for the county ?—Yes.

37,629. You did go to Mr. Stanley for 2*l.* something ?—Yes, that was all I went for. I hired a conveyance and naturally the man charged me 1*l.* I had a gentleman going to be a poll clerk, and to secure him I hired the cab, and I sent down my bill, and Mr. Joseph Stanley paid the bill to the very gentleman.

37,630. Have you ever got that 2*l.* ?—No, because Mr. Joseph Stanley paid the very party.

37,631. When did he pay it ?—I believe it was the middle of December.

37,632. Why did you go for it time after time ?—Because that very gentleman asked me for the money.

37,633. You said you went from time to time; if Mr. Joseph Stanley paid it within a fortnight how came you to go afterwards to get paid ?—I did not say afterwards, I meant previous.

37,634. Do you mean you never applied for it after a fortnight ?—No, not after this gentleman, Mr. Gibson, got his money paid.

37,635. That was a fortnight after the election, was it ?—No, it could not be a fortnight after the election.

37,636. When was it, do you say, that Mr. Joseph

Stanley paid that money?—I could not give you the date, I only know that Mr. Joseph Stanley paid it to Mr. Gibson for the conveyance. I cannot give you the date, because I do not remember it exactly, but I think I could furnish it to you if you thought it of any consequence to you.

37,637. Have you applied to Mr. Joseph Stanley for no money besides that, and received no money from Mr. Joseph Stanley?—I have not received a penny.

37,638. Have you received no money whatever from Mr. Joseph Stanley?—I did not receive a single penny.

37,639. And applied for no money beyond what you have mentioned, do you mean to represent that?—Yes, I do so.

37,640. Have you employed Mr. Joseph Stanley as your solicitor?—I went to him in one or two cases, but I thought he being so always absent that I could not see him, it was of no use, so my solicitors now are Messrs. Jay and Pilgrim.

37,641. You have changed your solicitors?—Yes, because I could not find Mr. Joseph Stanley always at home.

37,642. When did you change your solicitors?—I changed my solicitors in February.

37,643. Did you happen to owe Mr. Stanley anything at that time?—Not a penny.

37,644. Had you paid him?—I never had anything to pay him because I did not employ him.

37,645. You mean to say you employed a solicitor and never paid him, like the cabman?—I never said I employed a solicitor. I said I went to Mr. Joseph Stanley to see him, but his business being so important he was always out—that I did say.

37,646. He was not at home to you?—I know he was not at home.

37,647. You said you had paid three men a sovereign?—I said it, but I never paid it, because I never saw any three men to pay them.

37,648. It is not, I am afraid, probable that you did, after the cabman, but still, did Mr. Joseph Stanley authorise you to pay any money to anybody on the day of the election?—He never authorised me.

37,649. Did you pay anything to anybody on the day of the election?—I never paid, or treated, or gave anything on the day of election.

37,650. There is a conflict of probabilities in my mind. One question is whether one can believe anything you say, and another is whether it is possible that you should have paid.—Pardon me, I am here in the witness box, and have I said anything that is distrustful?

37,651. How came you to tell these people what you say is a falsehood, that you had given three men a pound?—Because I am not shaken in my evidence. I stand here upon my oath, I say I done it, because that very man got up and said I did so about a bribe. I did it with the intention of getting the men to say I had, but I never done it.

37,652. You wished the men to think you had?—Yes, but I never done it.

37,653. You did it to induce the men to believe it?—Yes, I did.

37,654. You told a deliberate falsehood for the purpose of inducing a person to believe that falsehood?—Yes, according to your ways, but according to my ways I thought it was not a falsehood, but if it is a falsehood in your ways then I must give it in.

37,655. It was not true?—No, it was not true; but I was so excited if I had said I had given 50*l.*, I should not know it. I did not know a single thing at that moment as to what I did say; and if any gentleman who had a knowledge of me would not accuse me for this, because a man being a foreigner, and a man being excited, should not be had up for the purpose of saying I told a falsehood upon it; I take my oath I never intended to deceive any person, neither did I come here for the purpose to say that I told a lie.

37,656. (Mr. Biron.) Why did you say what was untrue?—I might have said it at the time, but I did not know it.

37,657. You say you were so excited, if that were so, you do not know what you might have paid?—Oh yes, I know what I paid, because I took no money with me for that purpose.

37,658. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) It is only because you had no money in your pocket that therefore you say it is not true that you paid these three men one pound?—I believe, if I may have the right to say it again, that I have not paid a single penny. I say it again, if I did say I paid one pound I was so excited I did not know it.

37,659. (Mr. Biron.) But you have told us you did say it?—Yes.

37,660. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Who is the person to whom you said it?—Mr. Moore, at the corner of Grapes Hill, a barber, I believe, and he lives opposite the "Bull and Butcher;" it is the corner of William Street.

37,661. Was the committee room which you were in and out of during the day held at the "Bull and Butcher"?—Yes.

37,662. Did you not several times upon the day of the election go into Moore's shop?—Only once that I remember.

37,663. Will you undertake upon your oath to say you did not go in there several times?—Never, on my oath. I never went into Mr. Moore's shop on the day of the election but once, and I stood outside, because it being opposite the "Bull and Butcher," I stood outside to see; there were so many people standing there, it being a barber's shop, and it happened frequently for gentlemen to go in there. I might have stood outside, but never inside.

37,664. You may have gone there several times outside?—I will leave it several times.

37,665. Did you not, on the day of the election, say to Mr. Moore that you had got voters at so much per head?—On my oath I never said to Mr. Moore so much. I have said before that Mr. Moore had seen me previous to that. I believe it was about five months ago, and he then reported that I said so, but he afterwards said it was only my nonsense.

37,666. Mr. Moore did say to you that you had come to his shop on the day of the election, and had said that you had got voters for money, and you said, "Oh, it was only three voters that I got for a sovereign;" was that it?—No. You take it a different way to what I mean.

37,667. I want to know what your story is.—My story is a true story, and I stand here to say this, that upon the day of the election I went to Mr. Moore, the barber, and he says (if I may say according to his saying), "How are we standing?" and I said, "We "are standing upon our ground." He then asked me the question, "How is the poll going on?" and I said, "All right;" and I noticed a young gentleman sitting there, and knowing him, living about 80 yards from my residence—he was on the other side, and I said, I believe in the haste of the moment, I had bribed three voters with a pound, but I knew I never did bribe any party yet.

37,668. You did go to Moore's on the day of the election, and say that you had bribed?—I said that previous; I have said that all the time along I did.

37,669. Who was this person that you say was present at the time?—I cannot take my oath now who it was; I know he lives near.

37,670. You say it was a young man who you knew was on the other side?—He lives on the Dereham Road, 80 yards off; I see him frequently there.

37,671. Did you not go into or to the front of Moore's house several times in the course of the day of the election, and say that you had bought a few more votes?—No, I never said anything of the sort at all.

37,672. Did you not say upon two or three occasions to Mr. Moore that you had paid men money for their votes?—I never said to Mr. Moore only what I have stated once; I am on my oath here, and I say

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

H. Heinrich.

11 Oct. 1869.

again that I said to him in my excited state that I had paid 1*l.*, but I never paid not 20 farthings.

37,673. And you repeated this some time ago, about five months ago, did you ?—It might be more than five months ago, I believe.

37,674. Did not Mr. Moore then say to you that you had come to his house on the day of the election and had said that you had been buying voters, and did you not say, "The truth is, I only bought three voters that day with a sovereign" ?—I believe I said that five times that I did so, but I never bribed a party.

37,675. You got three men for a sovereign ?—I say again, I repeat my statement ; I say to Mr. Moore on the day of the election—I don't want to say what he asked me, but what I said to him—"I have got three voters for a sovereign," and after that, just about three minutes, turning myself round and seeing a person I came back to him and said, "That is only nonsense."

37,676. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who was the person to whom you said it was only nonsense ?—The very person, Mr. Moore.

37,677. (Mr. Biron.) But Mr. Mansfield asked you this. You say, "as soon as you saw a person," what person was that ?—Mr. Moore, the barber, because I believe there was only one other person in the shop, and I did not know anybody else, unless there were voters outside, not any person else.

37,678. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Very well, we shall have to decide whether your statement upon oath is true, or whether your statement on that day is true.—Yes.

37,679. We now want those notes. — I want to know before I go, as I sent my message in that I want to go away out of Norwich, if it should be of any service for me to be here again ; I must know that before I go.

37,680. Do you know Smith, the minister ?—No, I don't know a minister by the name of Smith.

37,681. Do you know a Unitarian minister in this city ?—Not a single man by the name of Smith.

37,682. Or Smythe ?—I don't know a single gentleman of that name ; I know a lot of ministers, but I don't know of such a minister.

37,683. Do you know a Unitarian minister ?—The only Unitarian minister here, perhaps I may say, is the Reverend Mr. Crompton. I believe that is the only Unitarian minister that I do know; I believe he is a Unitarian or free church, something similar to that.

37,684. Then I won't put it to you that it was Mr. Smythe, or Mr. Smith ; but did you ever at any other time say you had paid money for the purpose of paying voters ?—I do not know Mr. Smith.

37,685. Do you mean to say that you did not upon any other occasions but those two I have alluded to say that you had paid money to voters for the election ?—Never to those gentlemen or to any other gentleman.

37,686. Never to any other gentleman ?—Yes.

37,687. I call your attention to Mr. Smith or Mr. Smythe, the Unitarian minister, because we may have some evidence about that ?—Yes, I do not know Mr. Smith, or Mr. Smythe.

37,688. Do you know a public-house called the "Robin Hood" ?—Yes, I know the public-house, but I never was in there.

37,689. Were you there the night before the election ?—The night before the election I went out to see whether there were about eleven gentlemen ; I don't know the names of them——

37,690. Did you go to the "Robin Hood" the night before the election ?—I believe I did.

37,691. Was Mr. Edward Stracey there ?—No.

37,692. Do you know who were there ?—Not at the "Robin Hood" I do not ; I know that I went with four gentlemen about 10 o'clock, because we found that there were several people——

37,693. I want to know about the "Robin Hood" ?—That is the "Robin Hood" that I am alluding to. At 10 o'clock we found that there were several voters in Northumberland Street hanging about to get bribed, and we went ; when I say "we," I am sorry to say I cannot give the other gentlemen's names, but my messenger, and his name is Greenacre, we went there to prevent the bribing.

37,694. I want to know whether you saw Mr. Edward Stracey at the "Robin Hood" that evening ?—Yes.

37,695. Very well then, that will do. — Then I suppose I may go out of town, or anywhere else ?

37,696. Certainly, if you will send us those notes. —I will send them instantly.

F. Field.

FREDERICK FIELD sworn and examined.

37,697. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

37,698. Where were you in the morning part of the day ?—At work until half-past 2 o'clock, or thereabouts.

37,699. What was your work ?—Wood carving.

37,700. Why did you not vote before ?—I had a very urgent job I was obliged to get done by the time. I did not leave my shop till half-past 2.

37,701. Did you get anything for voting ?—Not a farthing.

37,702. Or the promise of anything ? — I went straight from my house to the poll, and came back again directly.

G. Middleton.

GEORGE MIDDLETON sworn and examined.

37,703. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote ?—Mr. Stracey.

37,704. What time in the day ?—Between 3 and 4.

37,705. What were you doing all the morning ?—At work.

37,706. Who do you work for ?—Myself.

37,707. Where ?—On my own property.

37,708. What is your trade ?—A gardener.

37,709. Were you asked for your vote ?—Yes.

37,710. By whom ?—I don't know who they were that came.

37,711. Did you promise ? — I never promised nobody.

37,712. What did you get for voting ?—Nothing.

37,713. Were you not trying to get something ?—That I did, but I could not get it.

37,714. How much did you want—a day's work ?—All I could get.

37,715. And you could not find any money going ?—I never got a farthing, and never saw a farthing.

37,716. Did you not get any beer ?—No, only what I bought myself.

37,717. Did you not get anything after the poll was over ?—Nothing.

37,718. Was anything promised to you ?—Nothing.

37,719. Were you disappointed in not getting something ?—Nothing ever disappointed me, because I had not a chance to take it.

37,720. But you were looking out for it ?—That I did, sir.

W. Preston.

WILLIAM PRESTON sworn and examined.

37,721. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A blacksmith.

37,722. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

37,723. For whom ?—Mr. Stracey.

37,724. At what time in the day ?—Between 3 and 4.

37,725. You were at Larkman's, were you not ?—Yes.

37,726. Were you promised something if you would go and vote ?—Yes.

37,727. What ?—He did not say what ; he said he would give me something if he could.

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

W. Preston.

11 Oct. 1869.

37,728. Did he take your name down on his list?—Yes.

37,729. Did you go and vote?—Yes.

37,730. Did you go for the "something" the next day?—Yes.

37,731. And you were then told there was nothing for you?—He told me there was nothing for me, he could not get nothing.

SAMUEL HURRY ASKER sworn and examined. S. H. Asker.

37,732. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) I believe you were one of the ward managers at the last election?—I was.

37,733. Which ward?—The sixth ward.

37,734. You acted for Russell?—Yes.

37,735. Now, during the day in your committee room did you hear any talk of money being provided, or see any money provided for the purpose of influencing voters?—Certainly not.

37,736. As far as your observation goes, was there anything of that sort in your ward?—None whatever; I saw nothing of the sort, nor did I hear of anything.

37,737. Have you heard any suggestion, or do you know of any money being provided for those purposes on that side?—I do not, nor did I ever hear any suggestion of it.

37,738. With regard to the conduct of the election, had you canvassed yourself?—No, never.

37,739. You had the results of the canvass, I suppose, before you?—Oh yes.

37,740. At any time during the day was information brought to you of any improper practices being carried on?—None at all.

37,741. Was there any suggestion of that kind in the course of the day at your place?—I think I heard something in the afternoon that they thought there was something wrong going on.

37,742. Who brought that informatiou?—I think that was the general conversation in the room.

37,743. Mere general conversation?—That is all.

37,744. No specific information?—None at all.

37,745. Was any particular locality pointed out?—No.

37,746. Did you vote?—Yes.

37,747. For Russell and Tillett?—For Russell and Tillett.

37,748. Were you a paid manager?—I have been paid.

37,749. Now, do you know of any irregularity in the way of payment, or treating, or anything of that sort, to voters, having occurred at the last election on either side?—I do not.

37,750. Beyond those rumours to which you have alluded, had you any cause at the time of the election to believe that there were any illegal practices going forward?—I had not.

37,751. On either side?—On either side.

37,752. Were you engaged at all upon prior elections?—I have been.

37,753. We have heard that a considerable amount of corruption existed at some of those elections; were you cognisant of anything of an improper character which occurred at Waters' election?—No, I was not engaged in that election.

37,754. Not in any way?—No, not at that election.

37,755. Were you engaged in the prior election of 1860, Lewis and Forlonge's?—No, I think not.

37,756. That was when Sir William Russell was first elected?—Oh yes, I was then, I think.

37,757. Do you know of anything irregular occurring at that election?—I do not.

37,758. Of money being spent?—I do not.

37,759. You received or disbursed no money for any purpose of that kind?—Clearly not.

37,760. Who was Lewis' agent?—I do not know.

37,761. Was any legal gentleman employed here?—I really don't know.

37,762. Were you a ward manager at that election?—No, I think not at that election.

37,763. In what way were you employed then?—I was ward manager in part of that election, I think, if I was employed at all, but I do not recollect the fact.

37,764. You know the Mr. Lewis of that election was Mr. W. D. Lewis, of the chancery bar?—I think I was only engaged on that election on the day before and the election day; I was out at the time.

37,765. On which side were you engaged?—For Sir William Russell.

37,766. Do you know of any money having been spent by Warner and Russell improperly during that election?—No, I do not.

37,767. You had not the disbursing of any sum of money for them?—No, not at all; I was not engaged on the canvass, I merely kept the book.

37,768. On the day of the poll?—On the day of the poll.

37,769. Did you hear during the time of the election of anything irregular going on?—I might have heard, but nothing particular.

37,770. I mean in your ward room?—No, I did not, certainly.

37,771. Did you hear reports of anything improper going on at that election?—No, certainly not.

37,772. (Mr. Mansfield.) Have you ever had anything to do with the money arraagements yourself at any election?—Never in any way.

37,773. Neither parliamentary nor municipal?—Neither.

ALFRED DANIELLS sworn and examined. A. Daniells.

37,774. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at this election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

37,775. At what time in the day?—About half-past 3.

37,776. You were at Larkman's tavern, were you not?—Yes.

37,777. And he took your name down with the rest?—Yes.

37,778. He promised you 5*s.*?—He did not.

37,779. He told you if there was anything going you should have it?—He did.

37,780. And upon that promise you voted?—Yes.

37,781. Have you asked for it since?—Yes.

37,782. What then?—I never got it.

37,783. You were greatly disappointed, I suppose?—Yes, I was.

37,784. Is this your first time of voting?—Yes.

WILLIAM PLANE sworn and examined. W. Plane.

37,785. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shoemaker.

37,786. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

37,787. For whom?—Mr. Stracey.

37,788. At what time in the day?—About half-past 2.

37,789. Did you get anything for it?—No.

37,790. Or the promise of anything?—No.

37,791. No beer and no money?—No.

37,792. What did you do after you had voted?—Came home.

37,793. Went home to your work?—To my work.

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

R. Roll.

11 Oct. 1869.

ROBERT ROLL sworn and examined.

37,794. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What time in the day did you vote at the last election?—About 3 o'clock.

37,795. What is your business?—Upholsterer and paperhanger.

37,796. A master?—Yes.

37,797. Do you keep a shop?—No.

37,798. How are you a master upholsterer and paperhanger if you don't keep a shop?—I am a master, I work for myself.

37,799. Does anybody employ you in the trade?—I work for who I can get work from; mine is all piece work.

37,800. But a man may be engaged on the piece as a journeyman, may he not?—No, I am not a journeyman.

37,801. What number of hands do you employ?—Well, I don't know what number of hands.

37,802. Well, then, you are but a journeyman after all. How came you to vote so late on the election?—Well, I cannot exactly say how I came to vote so late, my business is quite different to a great number of people's.

37,803. But there is nothing so very urgent about upholstery and paperhanging?—Oh yes, there is; this very day I have lost 10*s.* earnings; some days I work, and at others I have to stand.

37,804. What had you on this day so urgent to prevent your voting?—I had some business to attend to.

37,805. How came you to be so late in voting?—Well, I don't know, I think there was something urgent; I took no particular interest in the election.

37,806. Where were you until the latter part of the day?—I was at work at the top of Victoria Street.

37,807. Were you there until you went to the poll?—I left there to go and get my dinner, and I went back again, and then I went to the poll and gave my vote.

37,808. Did anybody come to you to ask you to give your vote?—No, they did not.

37,809. Did you see anybody about giving your vote?—No, I went and voted of my own accord.

37,810. Did anybody on the day of the election speak to you about voting?—Not a single soul, neither before nor after.

37,811. Then you voted of your own spontaneous will?—It was my own principle.

37,812. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

37,813. Were you promised anything?—Not a farthing.

S. A. Betts.

SAMUEL AMOND BETTS sworn and examined.

37,814. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A waterman.

37,815. What were doing on the day of the election?—Walking about.

37,816. All day?—Yes.

37,817. What time did you vote?—Between 3 and 4.

37,818. What did you get for it?—Nothing at all.

37,819. What made you vote so late?—I never got anything for it.

37,820. Did you come from Yarmouth?—Yes.

37,821. Who paid your railway fare?—I paid it myself.

37,822. All to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes, I voted for Mr. Stracey.

37,823. Have you had nothing since?—Nothing at all.

37,824. Not even your railway fare?—No.

37,825. Is this the first time you have voted?—No.

37,826. Which side have you voted before?—I have always voted the Tory side.

37,827. Have you ever had anything for it?—No.

37,828. Not even beer?—No.

37,829. Are you a freeman?—Yes.

37,830. Did they not even promise you your railway fare?—No.

W. Baker.

WILLIAM BAKER sworn and examined.

37,831. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A carman.

37,832. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

37,833. For whom?—Mr. Stracey.

37,834. What time in the day?—About half-past 2.

37,835. What were you doing all the morning?—I was out with my waggon, doing my master's business, so I could not get there before.

37,836. After you had voted, what did you do?—I went into a house and had a glass or two of ale afterwards.

37,837. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

37,838. Or the promise of anything?—No, and did not ask for anything.

J. Buttle.

JOHN BUTTLE sworn and examined.

37,839. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

37,840. Do you recollect at what public-house you began the day?—At Mr. Howes', the "Half Moon."

37,841. What time did you begin it there?—About 9 o'clock in the morning.

37,842. How long did you remain there?—I went in there and got one pint of ale; about 10 minutes.

37,843. Where did you go after that?—Up to Mr. Young's, the "Richmond Hill."

37,844. How long did you remain at the "Richmond Hill"?—A quarter of an hour perhaps.

37,845. Where did you go to from the "Richmond Hill"?—To Mr. Warlingham's.

37,846. Is that at Trowse?—No.

37,847. Where is it?—It was one of the polling places, but it is not in the parish of Trowse.

37,848. How long did you remain there?—I am sure I cannot say.

37,849. You first went up and voted at a quarter to 11; was that when you had left Warlingham's?—That is when I went and voted.

37,850. That is when you voted first; that is in the first compartment of the sixth ward. Now, had anything been given you to go and vote that time?—No.

37,851. Who had been standing beer?—I had, out of my own private pocket.

37,852. You had been standing beer for a week before, had you not?—Yes, I very often do.

37,853. For a week?—Yes.

37,854. Have you been drunk for a week often?—Very often I am.

37,855. Now, having voted at a quarter to 11, to what public-houses did you go then?—I cannot say.

37,856. Were you so drunk then that you cannot say?—Yes, I was.

37,857. Did you get sober enough by 2 o'clock to go up and vote again?—No.

37,858. You know you did vote three times?—I did, and I will own it.

37,859. Who gave you the money or the beer to go up and vote a second time?—I had been at work at Mr. Colman's the night before, loading a wherry with flour; I loaded her three parts the night before, and on the morning of the election I went and finished her, and that gave me 5*s.*, and when I got home I was without a penny, so I got drunk with my own hard earnings.

37,860. Did anybody give you anything else?—No.

37,861. Nor the promise of anything?—No.

37,862. Then who was it got you to go up and vote a second time?—It was my own headstrong will, through drink.

37,863. Was that what made you go up and vote a third time, at a quarter to 4?—Yes. I was proud to hear Sir Henry Stracey was ahead, and did not think there was any harm after the first vote.

37,864. Was it of your own headstrong will, as you call it, that you went up and voted three times?—Yes, it was.

37,865. Did nobody give you any money to do it?—No.

37,866. Or any beer?—No.

37,867. You went home to your wife without a single farthing in your pocket?—Yes, and the next day went without victuals, to my sorrow.

GEORGE THORPE sworn and examined. G. Thorpe.

37,868. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A bootmaker.

37,869. Master?—Yes.

37,870. How many men do you employ?—About two.

37,871. Who did you vote for?—Sir Henry Stracey.

37,872. Did you promise your vote?—No.

37,873. Have you ever voted before?—No.

37,874. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

37,875. What time in the day did you vote?—About half-past 2.

37,876. Did you go up with anyone?—Yes.

37,877. Who?—Mr. Holmes.

37,878. Did he offer you anything?—No.

37,879. Have you had anything since?—No.

37,880. Were you treated on the day of the poll?—No.

ROBERT FRYER, senior, sworn and examined. R. Fryer, senr.

37,881. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—No.

37,882. Were you too late?—No; I had not a vote.

37,883. Do you know Lake?—Yes.

37,884. On the day of the last election did you get any money from him?—Yes.

37,885. How much was that?—Two half sovereigns.

37,886. What was it for?—To buy voters.

37,887. And what voters did you buy with it?—Two.

37,888. Who were they?—James Burrell and a man of the name of Crompton.

37,889. Where does the first live?—In St. George's.

37,890–1. Where does the other live?—I believe in the same parish, somewhere thereabouts, in the eighth ward.

37,892. Did you get anything for doing this?—I got my day's pay; I was a messenger at that time.

37,893. On Stracey's side?—Most decidedly.

37,894. And these voters were for Stracey, were they?—Certainly.

37,895. Did you get any other money?—No, not a farthing.

37,896. Do you know of any other money being given for the same purpose?—No.

RICHARD CROWE sworn and examined. R. Crowe.

37,897 (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Stracey.

37,898. What time in the day?—10 minutes before 4.

37,899. What did you get for it?—Nothing.

37,900. Were you not promised something?—Not a farthing.

37,901. Were you at the "Thorn" tavern?—No.

37,902. Were you at any public-house?—No.

37,903. What were you doing all the day?—At work.

37,904. Where were you working?—At the Duke's Palace Wharf.

37,905. When did you leave your work?—At 10 minutes before 4, when I voted.

37,906. Were you at work up to that time?—Up to that time.

37,907. Had you promised your vote?—No, not to no man.

37,908. Had you been asked for it?—No.

37,909. Is this the first time you have voted?—Yes.

37,910. Had you anything given you since?—No.

37,911. Did not they even treat you with beer?—Not half a pint of beer.

37,912. You did not know where it was to be got?—Not I; I was at work all day.

ELIZABETH NOCKOLDS sworn and examined. E. Nockolds.

37,913. (Mr. Biron.) What is your husband?—He is a tailor.

37,914. Do you keep the "Shakespeare" tavern?—No, my father does.

37,915. Do you look after the bar?—Yes; I attend to the business in his absence.

37,916. Do you know that man (pointing to Lake)?—Yes, he is a neighbour of mine.

37,917. Did you ever hear anyone say anything about 40*l.* having been spent?—Yes; I heard Mr. Claxton say that he saw a cheque for 40*l.* odd for a man named Gardiner.

37,918. What did he say about it?—I know nothing more about it.

37,919. Did he say what it was for?—No.

37,920. Did he say it was for money to spend to secure the return of the Liberals, and he never got it back again?—Well, I never heard that.

37,921. Did you hear anything like it?—I heard him say he saw a cheque written for 40*l.*

37,922. Was that all you heard about it?—Yes.

37,923. How did this conversation arise?—Mr. Claxton and Mr. Lake were in conversation together; I was attending to the business; I did not know their conversation, I merely heard that sentiment.

37,924. You heard nothing more?—Nothing more.

37,925. Is that all you can tell us about it?—Yes, that is all I can tell you.

37,926. You recollect that much about it?—I heard them talking about it afterwards.

37,927. What did they say?—That there must have been money spent on that side, otherwise a cheque would not have been written for that sum.

37,928. (Mr. Mansfield.) Was it said whose cheque it was?—No, I never heard that.

37,929. (Mr. Biron.) That there must have been money spent on the Liberal side, because a cheque had been written for 40*l.*?—Mr. Claxton said he saw a cheque signed for 40*l.* for Mr. Gardiner, that is all I heard.

37,930. And then they said that because Mr. Gardiner had got a cheque for 40*l.*, money must have been spent on the Liberal side?—What more was said I do not know, that is all I heard.

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

J. Amiss.

11 Oct. 1869.

JOHN AMISS sworn and examined.

37,931. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

37,932. Did anybody ask you for your vote before the day of the election?—No.

37,933. Did anyone come to you on the day of the election to take you up to vote?—No.

37,934. Where were you during the morning?—Well, I was after my business.

37,935. What is your business?—I am a wherryman by trade.

37,936. Where were you at work?—At Norwich.

37,937. Different parts?—Yes.

37,938. Then why could you not go up and vote if you were in different parts?—Because I was otherwise engaged; I was after my business.

37,939. Were you engaged up to the time that you went and voted?—Yes.

37,940. Did anyone ever promise you anything for your vote?—No.

37,941. Did you ever get anything for your vote?—No.

37,942. Were you in any public-house before you did vote?—No.

37,943. You never got any beer that morning?—No.

37,944. Or the promise of any beer in the evening?—No.

37,945. Or at any other time?—No.

37,946. You voted without either beer or money?—Yes, that I did; I had not the value of half a pint of beer.

R. Brighton.

ROBERT BRIGHTON sworn and examined.

37,947. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Mr. Stracey.

37,948. At what time in the day?—About 10 minutes before 3.

37,949. Why did you not vote earlier?—I went to my employment at 8 o'clock in the morning, and never left off until after 1.

37,950. Who do you work for?—Mr. Freeman, of Pottergate Street, and I lost my work through voting for Mr. Stracey.

37,951. Was anything offered you for your vote?—No.

37,952. Have you had anything since?—No.

37,953. Were you treated with any beer that day?—No; I went and got half a pint after I had voted, but I paid for it myself; I never asked no one, and never thought anything more about it.

C. Starland.

CHARLES STARLAND sworn and examined.

37,954. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A cab driver.

37,955. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

37,956. For whom?—Stracey.

37,957. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

37,958. Why did not you vote earlier than that?—Because I had not my card with me. I was out driving and had not my card with me.

37,959. You had to go back for it?—Yes, I went home for it about 3 o'clock.

37,960. And that delayed you?—That delayed me.

37,961. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

37,962. Or the promise of anything?—No.

37,963. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—Only by the Liberal party.

37,964. What did you tell them?—I told them no.

R. Dye.

ROBERT DYE sworn and examined.

37,965. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What time did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—I should think about a quarter-past 3.

37,966. What is your business?—A shoemaker.

37,967. Who canvassed you?—Not any man.

37,968. No person came to you for your vote?—No, not any man.

37,969. Nobody came and fetched you up to the poll?—No.

37,970. You went up there entirely of your own act?—Yes.

37,971. Did you see anybody in going to the poll?—No, not personally; I saw a great many people.

37,972. What were you doing in the early part of the day?—At work.

37,973. In your own house?—Yes.

37,974. Did you not go to any public-houses that morning?—I never stirred out that morning.

37,975. Were you in any public-house before you voted?—Yes.

37,976. What public-house?—Well, I went into "St. Paul's" tavern.

37,977. Was any beer being given away there?—I never saw any.

37,978. Did you get any money for voting?—Yes.

37,979. Who gave it to you?—I do not know the gentleman's name.

37,980. Where did he give it to you?—At the "Woolpack."

37,981. What was it?—A sovereign.

37,982. Do you know Mr. Hardiment?—No.

37,983. Was it on the landing?—Yes.

37,984. How many men were there when you went up?—I should say a dozen, 12 or 13, if not more.

37,985. What time in the day did you get it?—Just before 3.

37,986. Do you know the names of any of the men who were there?—No; there was not a word spoken the time I was there.

37,987. You know a man of the name of Bradbury, do you not?—I have heard the name.

37,988. You know the man I mean, do you not?—No, I don't know the man.

37,989. Do you recollect seeing as you went in, at the bottom of the stairs, a stout, thick, coarse-looking man?—There was a stout man there.

37,990. Do you know a person who bears the name of "Tin ribs"?—No.

37,991. Or "Pot-headed"?—No.

37,992. Did you see him at all there?—I saw a stout man there, but I did not know who he was.

37,993. Was he on the landing?—He was on the landing, a stout man was.

37,994. Should you know him again?—No; I don't know that I ever saw the man before, nor yet since.

37,995. Was Vines there?—No; I never saw such a man.

37,996. They were strangers to you, were they?—They were all strangers to me.

37,997. How came you to go in there?—Because I was told there was something going on there, and so I walked in and walked upstairs, and no one ever said anything to me, nor I to them, and I walked out without speaking.

37,998. You went and voted for Stracey?—Yes.

37,999. You understood what it was for?—No, there was not a word named.

38,000. But it was quite understood what it was for?—Not by me.

38,001. Do you mean to say that you did not understand what you got the sovereign for?—I merely showed my card, and he wrote the number down, and laid a sovereign down, and I took it, and there was not a word spoken.

R. Dye.

38,002. That was your voting card?—Yes. I saw other men do the same, and I did so, but there was not a word spoken.

38,003. I believe that not a word was spoken, but you fully understood that you were to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Of course there is not a doubt about that.

11 Oct. 1869.

BARNARD BANHAM sworn and examined. B. Banham.

38,004. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Stracey.

38,005. At what time in the day?—A little after 3.

38,006. What made you so late?—My business called me.

38,007. What is your business?—A carpenter.

38,008. Were you employed all day?—Yes.

38,009. On your own account, or in anybody's employment?—For a master.

38,010. Did you not get away from that employment until towards 3 o'clock?—Yes, I got away at dinner, but my time would not allow me to stop then.

38,011. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

38,012. Was anything promised you?—No.

38,013. Were you treated that day by anyone for your vote?—No.

38,014. Not that afternoon?—No; I had nothing to drink at all that day, except perhaps a cup of coffee.

SAMUEL GROOM sworn and examined. S. Groom.

38,015. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A maltster.

38,016. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

38,017. For whom?—Stracey.

38,018. What time in the day?—Just after 3.

38,019. Why did not you vote sooner than that?—I could not get round before.

38,020. What had you been at?—Been at work all day until about half-past 2.

38,021. Where were you at work?—The further side of the city, St. Paul's, Cowgate Street.

38,022. As soon as you had done your work did you go and vote?—Yes, as soon as I could.

38,023. Did you get anything for it?—No.

38,024. Nor the promise of anything?—No.

38,025. Nothing, directly or indirectly?—No.

ROBERT ALLEN sworn and examined. R. Allen.

38,026. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

38,027. What is your business?—A shoemaker.

38,028. Master or man?—Partly master. I work for London sometimes.

38,029. Where were you during the early part of the day of the election?—At work.

38,030. In your own workshop?—Yes.

38,031. Why did not you go up and vote?—Because I had got a pair of boots to make for a lady, a customer of mine, and they were going to London.

38,032. Did anybody come and ask you to go up and vote?—No.

38,033. Did anybody offer you anything?—Not a halfpenny.

38,034. Did you get or were you promised anything for voting?—I was not promised anything.

GEORGE MURRELL sworn and examined. G. Murrell.

38,035. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote?—Stracey.

38,036. At what time in the day?—A little after 10 in the morning.

38,037. Who asked you for your vote?—No one; I went there myself.

38,038. Did you promise your vote?—No.

38,039. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

38,040. Was anything promised you?—No, not anything.

38,041. Was anything paid you afterwards?—Not anything.

38,042. Were you treated that day by anybody?—No.

38,043. Is this your first time of voting?—Yes.

HENRY ISAAC HIGH sworn and examined. H. I. High.

38,044. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A sexton at a Church.

38,045. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

38,046. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

38,047. What time in the day?—Well, between 10 and 11, I should think.

38,048. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

38,049. Or the promise of anything?—No.

38,050. Did you take any part in getting up voters that day?—Yes, all I could.

38,051. Were you in company with anybody?—No, only walking about.

38,052. Did you get up any?—Yes, one man.

38,053. Who was he?—Philip Beck.

38,054. What did you give him for coming up?—Nothing at all; he would not have been rude enough to ask me for anything.

38,055. And you were not delicate enough to offer him without his asking?—No; he never asked me for anything.

38,056. Nor did you give him anything?—No.

38,057. Did you see a man of the name of James Brinkley that day?—Yes.

38,058. Was he about with you?—I was in his house.

38,059. Were there any men there waiting for what they could get?—I never heard that.

38,060. Were there any men there waiting who had not voted?—They might have voted; I do not know.

38,061. What time in the day was it?—Close to dinner time.

38,062. Was a man of the name of Etheridge there?—Yes.

38,063. Did you ask him to vote?—I think not.

38,064. Did Brinkley in your presence?—No, I think not.

38,065. Was he asked at all?—No, I think not; I saw him coming down the street.

38,066. Was he asked to vote in your presence?—No.

38,067. Did you give him anything?—No.

38,068. Did anybody else give him anything?—No, I never saw anybody give anything the whole of the day.

38,069. Do you know of anybody having given that man anything?—No.

38,070. Or anybody else anything?—No, not a farthing.

38,071. Do you know David Sheldrake?—Yes.

38,072. Did you give him anything?—No, and I never heard of anyone giving him anything; I saw him coming down Trafalgar Street at the same time.

38,073. Was there any conversation between you?—No, not with me.

38,074. Or in your hearing?—No, not a word.

38,075. Do you know whether these men had voted or not, then?—I think not, but I will not be certain.

38,076. What makes you think that?—Because I

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

H. I. High.

saw them coming down the street, and some parties said, "Sheldrake, don't vote;" but who the parties were I do not know.

38,077. Did not the parties say they were waiting for what they could get?—No, I never heard such a word mentioned by anyone.

38,078. You know nothing about it?—No, not a word.

11 Oct. 1869.

W. Sherwood.

WILLIAM SHERWOOD sworn and examined.

38,079. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A shoemaker.

38,080. For whom do you work?—Mr. Ford.

38,081. Were you working on the day of the election?—Yes.

38,082. What time did you leave your home?—About 3 to 4.

38,083. Then you voted?—Yes.

38,084. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing.

38,085. Was anything offered you?—Nothing.

38,086. Were you treated on that day?—No, only what I paid for.

38,087. Did anybody treat you afterwards?—No.

38,088. Is this your first time of voting?—Yes.

38,089. Did you promise your vote to anyone?—Not to anyone.

38,090. Were you not asked for it?—No.

38,091. You never mentioned that you were going to vote for Stracey?—Well, I did mention it.

38,092. When?—Two nights before.

38,093. To whom?—Mr. Frederick Brown's son.

38,094. Where did that take place?—At Carrow Hill.

38,095. Did he promise you anything on that occasion?—No.

38,096. Did he treat you with a glass of beer?—No, not anything, because I was in bed at the time so he could not.

R. Shorten.

ROBERT SHORTEN sworn and examined.

38,097. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A baker.

38,098. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

38,099. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

38,100. What time in the day?—About 10 minutes to 3.

38,101. Did you get anything for it?—No.

38,102. Nor the promise of anything?—No.

38,103. Did you get anything after you had voted?—No.

38,104. Are you clear about that?—Yes.

38,105. You answer me in a very hesitating way; you had much better tell the truth.—I never got anything.

38,106. Perhaps you did not, but what was promised you?—Not anything.

38,107. Was anything said to you about voting?—Not anything.

38,108. Nothing by anybody?—No.

38,109. Did your wife get anything?—No.

38,110. Was anything paid to you or to her afterwards?—No.

38,111. Do you know of anybody who got anything?—No.

38,112. Where were you that afternoon?—At work.

38,113. Whereabouts?—At the "Staff of Life," in St. Edmund's.

38,114. For whom?—Mr. Harvey.

38,115. What is he?—A baker.

38,116. Were you at work until you went to vote?—Yes.

38,117. Where does your master live?—In St. Edmund's, Fishergate Street.

38,118. Did he not say anything about voting?—No.

38,119. Were you canvassed for your vote?—No.

38,120. You went up of your own accord?—Yes.

38,121. Who brought you to the poll?—I walked myself.

38,122. Nobody came for you?—No.

38,123. Do you know a man of the name of Horth?—Yes.

38,124. Did he say anything to you about voting?—No.

38,125. You know that he got some money?—No.

38,126. Has he never said so to you?—No.

38,127. Have you ever said that you got some money?—No.

38,128. Or that Horth got some money?—No.

38,129. Well, you have the oddest manner of anyone I have come across for a long while. Have you heard that he got money?—No, I never heard that he got any.

38,130. What did you hear about it?—Not anything.

38,131. I am sure by your manner there is something wrong, and I think we shall have to give you lodgings for the night. There is something that is being kept back, you know; what is it? You told someone this very morning?—I told that gentleman that sits there (pointing) a joke. I says, "Have you left one for Mr. Horth?" he is my brother-in-law; it was only for a laugh; I said he had a pound, but it was only a joke; I said so to that man; whether he believed it or not I must leave——

38,132. That is a good sort of a joke, to impute to your brother-in-law that he has been bribed.—If the man takes it as truth I cannot help that. I told that man that sits there (pointing).

38,133. What was your reason for saying it?—Well, I was joking.

38,134. That is your notion of a joke?

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) Many a true word is spoken in jest, you know.

38,135. (Mr. Biron.) Is it true or not?—It is true that I told that man.

38,136. Is it true that he got the pound?—No. I believe he did not get anything.

38,137. I do not understand your taking such liberties with your brother-in-law?—Well, we had a laugh and a joke about it.

38,138. How about your own pound. To whom did you tell that?—No one.

38,139. Did not you get it?—No.

38,140. Did you get anything?—Nothing, not one farthing.

38,141. Nor yet a drop of beer?—Nor yet a drop of beer. I never got anything.

38,142. What public-houses were you at that day?—I was at one all day. It is a public-house where I work, but not a public-house where they draw beer and drink it indoors.

38,143. You told me it was a baker's just now?—A baker's and publican's. It is the sign of the "Staff of Life."

38,144. Were you treated there with beer before you voted?—No.

38,145. Which way did Harvey your master vote?—I believe he voted for Tillett and Russell.

38,146. Well, you have a very odd manner with you. I hope you are telling the truth. We shall find it out if you are not.—I am telling the positive truth.

I. George.

ISAAC GEORGE sworn and examined.

38,147. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Who asked you for your vote?—No one.

38,148. Did anybody come to you?—No.

38,149. To take you up to the poll?—No.

38,150. How came you to go up to the poll?—How came I to go up there?

38,151. Did you go up by yourself?—Yes, all by myself.

38,152. Had you been in any public-house before you went up ?—Yes.

38,153. What ?—His name is Thomas Warnes.

38,154. You had a pretty good drop of beer there, had you not ?—Only what I paid for.

38,155. Tom Warnes' is the "Elm," is it not ?—I think it is the sign of the "Ship."

38,156. How long were you in the "Ship"?—I might be in there perhaps an hour, or an hour and a half.

38,157. What time in the morning did you go there ?—I suppose it was somewhere about 11.

38,158. What were you there for during that hour and a half ?—Getting half a pint of beer, that is all.

38,159. Only half a pint ?—Oh, I got more than half a pint, a pint or two.

38,160. Beer was going there, was it not ?—I got none, only what I paid for.

38,161. There was a great deal of beer going there ?—I never saw much, no time I was there.

38,162. You remained in there until about half-past 12, did you ?—I daresay that was about the time, about an hour and a half.

38,163. What became of you after half-past 12 ?—I went home.

38,164. How long did you remain at home ?—The time I was getting my dinner.

38,165. When did you go out after you had had your dinner ?—About 2 o'clock.

38,166. You were a long time making your dinner ?—I was.

38,167. Where did you go to after dinner ?—I went and voted.

38,168. You voted at very nearly 4 o'clock ?—Just about 2 o'clock when I voted.

38,169. You were later than that ?—No ; it might be perhaps a few minutes after, but not much after.

38,170. Did your wife get anything ?—No.

38,171. Did you go back to Warnes' ?—No, never no more that day, nor yet since.

38,172. What public-house did you go to ?—In the afternoon ?

38,173. Yes.—I did not go into one in the afternoon, not until the evening.

38,174. What public-house did you go to then ?—Close to my house.

38,175. What is that ?—It is the sign of "The Tiger."

38,176. Did they say anything to you at Warnes' about voting ?—No.

38,177. Not a word ?—Not a word ; I was not asked.

38,178. Did you hear any talk about voting ?—No, none at all, and I was not asked for my vote.

38,179. Did you see David Cubitt there ?—No ; I do not think I know him.

38,180. Was there a man there who was giving away beer pretty freely ?—I never saw one give any beer.

38,181. Had you been asked for your vote before the election day ?—No.

38,182. On neither side ?—Neither side.

38,183. Warnes' was a very suspicious locality for you to be in, and I cannot help thinking that Warnes had a good deal to do with your voting.—I had no beer, only what I paid for.

William Dawson sworn and examined. W. Dawson.

38,184. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade ?—A brickmaker.

38,185. Who do you work for ?—Mr. Dawson.

38,186. Were you at work on the day of the election ?—Yes.

38,187. When did you leave your work ?—I have left my work this fortnight or three weeks.

38,188. When did you leave your work on that day ?—The day of the election ?

38,189. Yes.—About 2 o'clock.

38,190. Then did you go and vote ?—Yes.

38,191. For whom ?—Mr. Stracey.

38,192. Did you get anything for it ?—Nothing at all, nor yet a drop of beer ; I never saw a drop of anything, for I did not go inside a house for that whole day.

38,193. Had you promised your vote ?—No ; I had not promised my vote at all to any person. The party came to my house, and I told him I had not made up my mind, but I went a couple of hours afterwards and voted ; I cannot exactly say how long.

38,194. Were you trying to get something for your vote ?—No, I did not. I never asked any questions about it. I went and gave it in, and walked home directly.

38,195. Did you get any beer ?—No ; I had not a drop, not even at my own cost, or anyone else's ; that I can swear to.

38,196. How comes it that you had not made up your mind two or three hours before, and then afterwards you did make up your mind ?—Because I thought I would not vote at all, and then I thought I would give it in, and I gave it in for Mr. Stracey.

38,197. What made you to give it in ?—Only my own mind. I thought I would give it in because it was of no use to me.

38,198. Did no one persuade you ?—No one, except my son ; he said, "Father, if I were you I should go and give it in," and I said, "Well, I don't trouble much about it," but I went and gave it in.

38,199. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Your son said he should like you to vote for Stracey ?—Yes, my son spoke to me.

38,200. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did your son tell you that you might get something ?—No ; he never said a word about it ; he only said, "The paper is no good to you, go and give it in ;" and I did so, and went home with him again.

38,201. Did your son get paid for his vote ?—No ; my son haven't got a vote.

38,202. Did he get paid for taking you to the poll ?—No ; he never got a farthing, nor yet see a farthing. He went home along with me.

Henry Bartram sworn and examined. H. Bartram.

38,203. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A market gardener.

38,204. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

38,205. For whom ?—Mr. Stracey.

38,206. What time in the day ?—Between 1 and 2.

38,207. Did you get anything for it ?—No.

38,208. Or the promise of anything ?—No.

38,209. Were you canvassed for your vote ?—Well, there was someone come to my house, but I was not at home.

38,210. Have you ever voted before ?—No.

Joseph Taylor sworn and examined. J. Taylor.

38,211. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What is your trade ?—A shoemaker.

38,212. What public were you in the early part of the election day ?—None at all the whole day.

38,213. Not before you voted ?—No.

38,214. Did you never go into a public that day ?—Not the whole day.

38,215. Did anybody come and fetch you up ?—Nobody.

38,216. Nobody asked you for your vote ?—Nobody.

38,217. You were left all alone to do as you liked ?—I was left all alone to do just as I thought proper.

38,218. Did nobody promise you anything ?—Nobody.

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

J. Taylor.

11 Oct. 1869.

38,219. Or give you anything ?—Nobody.

38,220. Neither money nor beer ?—Neither money nor beer.

38,221. Who was your landlord ?—Mr. Lound, who voted nearly the same time I did.

38,222. Trade had not been good with you for some time before, had it?—Well, it had been pretty middling.

38,223. Still you had got behindhand had you not ?—No.

38,224. Your rent book was a little back, was it not ?—I will not say it was not a trifle back.

38,225. And your landlord came to fetch you up ?—No.

38,226. You went up with him, you say ?—I met him in Peacock Street.

38,227. And he asked you to go up and vote for Stracey ?—No, I did not vote for Stracey.

38,228. Where does your landlord reside ?—In St. George's, Middle Street.

38,229. Where do you live ?—I live in the Fleece Yard.

38,230. Were you in a public-house the day before the election ?—No ; I do not use public-houses.

38,231. Did not you go into a public-house the day before the election ?—No.

38,232. Did you see your landlord the day before the election ?—Not that I am aware of.

38,233. Do you not remember seeing and having a conversation with him about your rent ?—I never had any conversation with him with regard to the election affairs.

38,234. Does he own a number of houses ?—Well, several, I believe, but I don't know the number.

38,235. Did you hear anything about the other men ?—No ; nothing.

38,236. Did you not hear that an arrangement had been made about their having a day's pay ?—No.

38,237. Was nothing said to you about something for your day's wages ?—No.

38,238. Or day's pay ?—No.

38,239. Did your landlord never speak to you, or did you never speak to him, about allowing you a day's pay ?—Not a word.

38,240. Or 7*s.* 6*d.* ?—Not a word. There was no money or no drink of any kind.

38,241. Now, was it not arranged that you should be allowed 7*s.* 6*d.* against your rent if you voted for Stracey ?—No, not a farthing.

38,242. You have heard the other men say so, have you not ?—No.

38,243. Have you not said so yourself ?—Not a word to anyone. If anyone has stated that it is false.

38,244. Have you not said that an arrangement was made with your landlord that you were to be allowed 7*s.* 6*d.* ?—Not a word, nor yet a ha'penny.

38,245. It is far better that you should tell the truth ?—I am telling you the perfect truth, and nothing but the truth.

M. Widdows.

MARK WIDDOWS sworn and examined.

38,246. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote? —Mr. Stracey.

38,247. What time in the day ?—A quarter past 1.

38,248. Did you promise your vote to anyone ?—No.

38,249. Did you receive anything for your vote ?—No.

38,250. Was anything promised to you for voting ?—No.

38,251. Did you get anything afterwards ?—No.

38,252. What are you by trade ?—A master boat builder.

38,253. Were you at work that day ?—Yes, the whole day.

38,254. Did anybody treat you for voting ?—No ; I never had anything to drink that day.

38,255. Were you at any public-house that day ?—No.

H. Royal.

HENRY ROYAL sworn and examined.

38,256. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

38,257. For whom ?—Mr. Stracey.

38,258. At what time in the day ?—About half-past 3.

38,259. What did you get for voting ?—Nothing at all.

38,260. Or the promise of anything ?—No.

38,261. Who canvassed you ?—Nobody at all ; I went myself.

38,262. Of your own accord ?—Yes.

38,263. Where from ?—From my garden.

38,264. After you had voted what did you do ?—Went to my garden again.

38,265. You were in no public-house that day ?—No.

Adjourned to to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

Tuesday, 12th October 1869.

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

H. Birch.

12 Oct. 1869.

HENRY BIRCH sworn and examined.

38,266. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election for Sir Henry Stracey ?—I did.

38,267. At what time in the day did you go up to the poll ?—Between 3 and 4.

38,268. What is your business ?—A druggist.

38,269. Have you a shop of your own ?—Yes.

38,270. Where is it ?—In St. James'.

38,271. Did anybody ask you for your vote ?—No, not anyone.

38,272. Did anybody come to you on the election day to take you up to the poll ?—No, not anyone.

38,273. Did you see anyone before you went up to the poll ?—No, not anyone.

38,274. How came you to vote so late in the day ? —Because I was busy in the morning, and had more leisure in the afternoon.

38,275. A chemist and druggest would have plenty of time to leave his shop and go and poll in the morning ?—Yes, of course, but I am more busy in the morning than I am in the afternoon.

38,276. You may be more busy in the morning than in the afternoon, but still you may have plenty of time to go and vote in the morning ; what made you vote so late ?—I thought it was immaterial when I voted. I intended to vote for Sir Henry Stracey. I would not take a bribe on any account. I should not condescend to do it.

38,277. Did nobody give you anything ?—No.

38,278. Not anything for your vote ? — No, not anything.

38,279. Or the promise of anything ?—No.

38,280. Were you in no way canvassed ?—No, not by anyone.

38,281. Do you belong to any club or association ? —No, I do not belong to anything of the kind.

William Hinsby sworn and examined. W. Hinsby.

38,282. (Mr. Mansfield.) What is your business ? —A tailor.

38,283. Do you work on your own account ?—Yes, partly on my own account and partly for a shop.

38,284. For whom did you vote at this election ?— For Sir Henry Stracey.

38,285. At what time in the day ?—At 10 minutes before 4.

38,286. Why did you vote so late ?—I do not know. I thought there was no particular time between 8 in the morning and 4 in the afternoon.

38,287. Had you promised your vote to anyone ?— No.

38,288. Had you been canvassed for your vote ?— No.

38,289. Had you told anybody how you meant to vote ?—No, I was not asked by anybody.

38,290. Had you mentioned to anybody which way you meant to vote ?—No ; I made up my mind to vote for Sir Henry Stracey when he came.

38,291. Did you never speak to anybody about the election ?—No, I never spoke to anyone.

38,292. Was this the first time you had voted ?— Yes.

38,293. Did you get anything for your vote ?—No, not anything.

38,294. Were you treated at all that day ?—No, not at all.

38,295. With whom did you go up to the poll ?— With no one. I walked out of the market place when I found that Sir Henry Stracey was gaining his election.

38,296. Have you had anything since ?—No.

38,297. Had any promise been made to you ?—No, no one asked me, so I could not have any promise made to me.

George Brighty sworn and examined. G. Brighty.

38,298. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A butcher.

38,299. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

38,300. For whom ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

38,301. At what time in the day ?—At half-past 3.

38,302. Why did you not vote before that ?—Because I was busy killing.

38,303. Where ?—At Trowse.

38,304. All day ?—Yes.

38,305. Were you in any public-houses that day ?— No.

38,306. After you had polled what did you do ?—I went home again along with my master.

38,307. Did you go up to vote with your master ? —He asked me if I had a vote, and I said, " Yes," and he said, " You may as well go along with me," and so I got in the cart and went off along with him and voted.

38,308. Did your master vote the same way as you did ?—No, he had no vote at all.

38,309. Did you get anything for voting ?—No, nothing.

38,310. Did you get the promise of anything ?—I got nothing, and I got no promise of anything.

James Buck sworn and examined. J. Buck.

38,311. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Where were you on the morning of the election day ?—At work.

38,312. Where ?—At Mr. Jarman's brickyard.

38,313. Where is the brickyard ?— On the old Lakenham Road.

38,314. Who came and fetched you up to the poll ? —I came up along with my master.

38,315. Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey ?— Yes.

38,316. And did he vote for Sir Henry Stracey also ?—Yes.

38,317. Did he give you anything for voting ?— No.

38,318. Did anybody give you anything for voting ? —No.

38,319. Did anybody give you any beer ?—No.

38,320. Did you go into any public-house ?—No ; I had a pint of beer after I had voted, that is all.

38,321. Your master gave it to you ?—No, I paid 3*d.* for it out of my own pocket.

38,322. Did not your master give you a pint of beer ? —No, that he did not.

38,323. Are you sure that you got nothing for your vote ?—Not a farthing.

38,324. Nor your wife ?—No, nor yet my wife.

Robert Mathews sworn and examined. R. Mathews.

38,325. (Mr. Mansfield.) What is your business ? —Overlooker at St. James' factory.

38,326. What were you doing during the day of the election ?—I was at work.

38,327. Were you at work the whole day ?—Yes.

38,328. At what time did you vote ?—About half-past 1, at the dinner hour.

38,329. Did you go back to work after you had voted ?—Yes.

38,330. Had you promised your vote to anyone ?— No, not to anyone.

38,331. Were you not asked for it ?—No. I saw a man named Goreham, who asked me if I was going to vote ?—I said, " Yes ;" and he said, " Come on, then."

38,332. Did he give you anything ?—No.

38,333. Did he stand any beer ?—No.

38,334. Was nothing given to you ?—No.

38,335. Was this your first time of voting ?—Yes.

William Palmer Hughes recalled and further examined. W. P. Hughes.

38,336. (Mr. Biron.) We understand that you wish to say something to us ; what is it ?—I have come here to make a statement of a woman that heard what Mr. Green said on the election day. She was subpœnaed before Baron Martin, but she was never called, and she told me this not more than an hour and a half back, and she will swear to it. She says that Mr. Green went into her house and said that he took 20*l.* on the election day, and did the best he could with it. She was subpœnaed before Baron Martin, but was never called.

38,337. What is her name ?—French. She does not know that I am come here to say this, but I thought I would come.

38,338. How came you to volunteer it ?—I have been at Mr. Fletcher's, in the market, for 40 years. I thought it over in my mind, and I thought I would come and tell you.

38,339. Did you see Mr. Wiseman ?—No, I have not seen him for months.

38,340. You got no message from him ?—No, I

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

W. P. Hughes.

12 Oct. 1869.

have not seen anybody since I saw the good lady, an hour and a half back.

38,341. We are much obliged to you for your communication, and we will inquire into it.—I have mentioned to no one that I was coming here.

38,342. We will send for Mrs. French.—If you wish to find me I am at Mr. Fletcher's, in the market, and if you will send for me I will come in a moment. I have been there for 40 years.

J. Waller.

JAMES WALLER sworn and examined.

38,343. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A carpenter.

38,344. On your own account?—No.

38,345. A journeyman?—Yes.

38,346. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

38,347. For whom?—For Russell and Tillett.

38,348. At what time did you vote?—At 5 minutes past 8.

38,349. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

38,350. Or the promise of anything?—No.

38,351. Do you know anything of the bribery that went on on that day?—No.

38,352. After you had voted did you go to work?—I went home and had breakfast, and then went into the market.

38,353. You were about afterwards, but did not see anything?—Yes; I did not take notice of anything at all. I did not think of anything.

R. Chettleburgh.

ROBERT CHETTLEBURGH sworn and examined.

38,354. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What time in the day did you vote?—Between 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

38,355. I suppose you got up a little before that time in the day?—I went in the forenoon, but there were so many people there, and so I went again in the afternoon.

38,356. Why did you not vote in the first instance?—There were so many there that I had not time to wait.

38,357. Do you know a man named Barker?—Yes, quite well.

38,358. You spoke to him, or he to you, on the day of the election?—Yes.

38,359. Did he not say to you, seeing you walking about, "Why do you not vote"?—No; he asked me what I was up to about there. "Well," says I, "I am "now about to give my vote in."

38,360. Did you ask for 1*l.*?—No.

38,361. What did you say you were up to?—Nothing of the kind, only that I was going to give my vote in.

38,362. You were not up to voting then, you know, when you were wandering about the city?—No, I know that.

38,363. I suppose you wanted some money if you could get it?—No, I did not want any; I had got some, thank God.

38,364. But you wanted to get some money, did you not?—No.

38,365. You would not have refused if it had been offered to you?—Yes, I should.

38,366. You would?—Yes, in a case like that.

38,367. Did you not say that you wanted 1*l.*?—No, I did not say any such thing.

38,368. Did you not say something about money then?—No.

38,369. Did he take you to Wright's?—No.

38,370. Did you go to Wright's?—I was walking past there, and walked past where Mr. Wright stood.

38,371. Did you go to Wright's?—No.

38,372. Did you speak to Wright?—I spoke to him as I walked past his gates.

38,373. With Barker?—Yes.

38,374. And did not Barker say to Wright, "Here "is a man who wants some money for his vote"?—I never heard him say so.

38,375. You were standing close together, were you not?—Yes.

38,376. What did he say?—He says, says he, "Have you got a vote?" "Yes," I says. He says, "You make haste and go and give it in, or you will "be too late." I said, "Oh, there is plenty of time," and he says, "Make haste and go, or you will be too late," and off I went and voted.

38,377. Then it was in consequence of what Wright said that you went and voted?—I went and voted because he said, "Go off, or you will be too late."

38,378. It was in consequence of what Wright said that you went and voted?—Yes, I was going to vote without that.

38,379. What time was that?—Between 3 and 4 in the afternoon.

38,380. Although he said, "Make haste, and go and vote," did he not say this: "We do not give money till afterwards; go and vote"?—No such thing was mentioned.

38,381. Do you mean to say that Wright did not say anything to you about money?—No.

38,382. Did you go back afterwards to Wright's?—No.

38,383. Did not you and Barker go afterwards back to Wright's?—No.

38,384. Will you swear that?—Yes, that I will; for after I voted I went into a public-house and had a pint of beer, and paid for it, and sat and drank it.

38,385. Did you not after voting go back to Wright's?—No, I did not.

38,386. Did you not go in alone to Wright's?—No, I did not.

38,387. And did not Barker wait outside for you to come out?—No.

38,388. I am quite sure that you have not told the truth, first from your manner, and also from the way in which you gave your vote. You never vote until you go and see Wright, and it is incredible that you should go and vote simply from Wright saying, "Go and vote, or you will be too late?"—I never went to see Wright; the man was standing against the gate, and I spoke to him.

38,389. You were bribed by Wright. I should advise you to think this matter over between now and to-morrow morning; then come here again.

W. Etheridge.

WILLIAM ETHERIDGE sworn and examined.

38,390. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade? A master shoemaker.

38,391. How many people do you employ?—I do not regularly employ people.

38,392. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

38,393. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

38,394. Had you promised your vote?—No, not to anyone.

38,395. Had you been asked for your vote?—I believe I had been solicited, but I was not at home at the time.

38,396. Did you ever say how you were going to vote?—No, not to anyone.

38,397. What made you vote so late?—I had some business to do outside, and some likewise at home, whereby I could not vote before.

38,398. Where were you during the day?—Not on any electioneering system at all.

38,399. Where were you?—I was on business in the country, and had to come home and do some work afterwards.

38,400. Were you at any public-house that day?—No, that I was not.

38,401. Do you know a man named Brinkley?—No, I do not.

38,402. Are you not aware that you went up to the poll with Brinkley?—No, I did not.

38,403. Did he not give you some money for voting?—No, I never heard no name of money mentioned anywhere.

38,404. Were you in any public-house that day?—Not till after I had voted.

38,405. What public-house were you in?—Mr. James Brickler's, in the Lakenham Road. That is the man that went with me to the poll.

38,406. Did he give you some beer for going?—No, he did not. All the beer I had I bought and paid for out of my own pocket.

38,407. You drank a good deal too much that day, did you not?—No, I did not, I assure you. I did not stop but a very little while at Mr. Brickler's house after I came back from polling.

38,408. How much money had you in your pocket that day?—As far as I recollect about 18*d.*

38,409. And you were about drinking the whole afternoon?—I could not do that; I did not go out of my own house till after 3 o'clock, and so how could I be drinking all the afternoon?

38,410. Do you mean to tell me that you did not get any beer at all given to you on that day?—Not a drop, except what I bought and paid for.

38,411. Was any money offered to you?—Not a farthing.

38,412. Have you had anything given to you since?—Not a farthing.

38,413. Or the promise of anything?—Not a farthing.

38,414. Had you ever voted before?—No, never before; the last election was the first election at which I ever voted in my life.

Francis Widdows sworn and examined. F. Widdows.

38,415. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A general shopkeeper.

38,416. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

38,417. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

38,418. At what time?—About 2 o'clock.

38,419. Was that your dinner hour?—I have not a dinner hour; I am generally about the city and country.

38,420. What were you doing till 2 o'clock?—I was about my business.

38,421. Why did you not vote before 2?—I did not know that it signified my voting before; the poll was open till 4 o'clock.

38,422. Who canvassed you?—No one.

38,423. No one asked you for your vote?—No.

38,424. You voted of your own accord?—Yes.

38,425. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

38,426. Or the promise of anything?—No.

38,427. Had you ever voted before?—Yes.

38,428. For which side?—I voted for the Tories the last time.

38,429. Did you get anything for voting then?—No.

38,430. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A publican, and householder, and freeholder.

38,431. Did you keep the "Edinburgh Castle" at the time of the election?—Yes.

38,432. Do you recollect on the morning of that day Mr. Hardiment coming to your place?—I do not know when it was; a gentleman came and asked me to go and vote for him, and I did so.

38,433. What did he give you for it?—Not anything.

38,434. What did the gentleman say to you?—He did not say anything, only he asked me to go and vote, and my housekeeper said I was an oldish gentleman, and she hoped he would bring me back.

38,435. You said that you hoped you would be paid for it, did you not?—No, I never named anything of that.

38,436. Was there another gentleman there?—Yes.

38,437. What did he say about money?—Nothing.

38,438. Did he not say, "Give him a shilling and he will vote"?—No.

38,439. Did not one of the gentlemen put a shilling and a sixpence on the table?—He cocked a shilling in this way, and a man named Francis picked it up.

38,440. What became of it?—I went away from the house then, but I believe he spent it in my house.

38,441. Did you not get any of it?—Well, I got a glass of beer when I came back, but he got five pints of beer for that shilling and half an ounce of tobacco; that was all I saw, and that is all I know about it.

38,442. Is that all you got?—That is all I got.

38,443. Who paid for what you had when you came back?—Nobody did not pay anything then. He paid my housekeeper for five pints of beer the time I was gone, and that is all I know about it. The last pint was not quite out, and he asked me to have a glass of it when I came back, and that is all.

38,444. You got some money given to you by a man named Freestone, did you not?—No, I never saw any money at all. I never saw 6*d.* nor yet 2*d.* after I came back, from no parties, except what I was drawing beer for.

38,445. Two gentlemen took you up to the poll?—Yes, and I went and voted for them, and they brought me back and set me down against the door, and my housekeeper said, "Help the old man," and they eased me out of the gig, and I walked in, and I never saw any more of them from that day to this.

38,446. Then you got this money which you say was spent in drink?—The five pints of beer was drank when I was gone, all but a pint, and he gave me a glass out of the last pint.

38,447. Who was the beer for?—Mr. Francis had the beer, he called for it after he had picked the shilling up. I never saw nothing of the shilling myself at all, my housekeeper did; she took it, I believe.

38,448. Had you ever voted before?—Yes, I had voted many a time.

38,449. On which side?—Orange and purple.

38,450. What did you get on those occasions?—I always was inclined to go that way, orange and purple.

38,451. What did you get for it?—Not anything.

38,452. Never?—Not anything.

38,453. Do not tell me that?—I did not get anything. I never saw no money flashing about at all.

38,454. Did you vote at the municipal election the beginning of November?—I voted when they came for me that day.

38,455. Did you vote at the municipal election the beginning of November?—I do not understand what you mean; I went and voted along with the gentlemen upstairs in the room in Magdalen Street.

38,456. What did you get for that?—Not anything.

38,457. You have not been paid anything for voting at municipal elections?—Not anything at all. I never saw the sense of any money at all.

38,458. Now listen to this; you were paid, were you not, when Hardiment and Freestone came to your house?—No.

38,459. Did you come in and find them in your house?—I came in and found them against the door, and they said, "We want you to go with us, if you please."

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

R. Fuller.

12 Oct. 1869.

38,460. Did you then talk to Hardiment, or did you speak to one of the men ?—No, not at all.

38,461. Did they speak to you ?—Yes, they asked me to go and vote for them, and I did so.

38,462. Did you not say that you would not go and vote unless you had something ?—No, I did not. I never named nothing to them.

38,463. Did not Hardiment then pull out a shilling and put it on the table ?—No, he did not, he "twissled" it up, and I never see the shilling.

38,464. You saw it "twissled" up ?—No, I did not see it "twissled" up ; my back was towards them, but I heard it fall.

38,465. Who picked it up ?—I am not able to say, for I got into the gig and went away.

38,466. You took good care that the shilling should remain there. — They said, "Now go and vote," and I said, "Yes," and I went, but did not see any money flashing about at all. I assure you I never see a farthing nowhere.

38,467. How came he to "twissle" the shilling up unless you had said something about money ?—I never named money to him. I think it was Mr. Francis that asked him about that.

38,468. What did Francis say ?—He asked him whether he would not have something to drink. I went away and did not stop.

38,469. You got the shilling ?—No, I did not.

38,470. It was spent in your house, and you got part of the beer ?—It laid on the table.

38,471. Did not Francis say, "Fuller is willing to vote, but we want some beer" ?—No, I did not hear no such word named.

38,472. How came Hardiment to spin up the shilling if nothing was said about money ?—That I cannot say. I did not ask him for it, but I think Francis did, but I was busy and going along with them. I do not know what did pass. I went along with a couple of gentlemen and voted for them. They never asked me no questions, only thanked me when I came back, and set me down.

It is quite clear what was done. A man in your hearing asked for some money for you to go and vote, and you were consenting to it. Hardiment gave a shilling. You took the money and supplied beer for it. It is clear that you were bribed as much as if you had received a sovereign.

R. Seabrook.

ROBERT SEABROOK sworn and examined.

38,473. (Mr. Biron.) What are you by trade ?—A packer at Mr. Wilson's.

38,474. Did you vote at the last election ?—I did.

38,475. For whom ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

38,476. What time in the day ?—At about a quarter past 1.

38,477. Did you get anything for voting ?—No.

38,478. Did you get any beer ?—No.

38,479. Had you ever voted before ?—No.

38,480. This was your first vote ?—Yes.

38,481. Are you a Tory ? — Yes, that is my principle.

G. Newham.

GEORGE NEWHAM sworn and examined.

38,482. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote at the last election ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

38,483. What time in the day did you go up to the poll ?—A little before 4.

38,484. What is your business ?—A master carpenter.

38,485. How many men do you employ ?—Sometimes more or less.

38,486. How many generally ? — Sometimes some and sometimes none. If I have not got any work to do I do not employ any men.

38,487. In the majority of times you employ none ? —I generally have two or three employed.

38,488. Do you work for other people who are in the trade ?—At times I have done it.

38,489. Where were you in the early part of the election day ?—At work.

38,490. Where were you at work ?—At home at my shop.

38,491. Had you been asked for your vote before ? —A man at the works at Mr. Corwen's by the name of Spurgeon solicited me for my vote at about a quarter before 4, and I told him that I did not think I should vote.

38,492. Where does he live ? — I cannot say, I think in Lakenham somewhere.

38,493. What is he by business ?—A bricklayer.

38,494. A journeyman bricklayer, I suppose ? — Yes.

38,495. Do you mean to say that his merely asking you induced you to vote ?—He asked me to vote, and I said I did not think I should vote at all, and afterwards I went and voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

38,496. Did that man coming to you and asking you to vote induce you to vote ?—No.

38,497. Then what it was that induced you at a quarter to 4 o'clock to go and vote for Sir Henry Stracey ?—I thought I would go and vote.

38,498. What had the bricklayer to do with that ? —He merely came and asked me to vote for Mr. Tillett.

38,499. Then because the bricklayer asked you to vote for Mr. Tillett, you went and voted for Sir Henry Stracey ; is that it ?—Yes.

38,500. I do not understand it myself, but it seems to be a good reason in Norwich. — Yes. I did not take a bribe.

38,501. Did anybody else come to you to ask you for your vote ?—Not on the election day.

38,502. Did they come before ?—Not in my presence. I never saw anyone else.

38,503. Can you give me any rational reason why, being indisposed to vote for Stracey, or to vote at all, you at a quarter to 4 o'clock made up your mind to vote ?—I had no particular interest in the election at all.

38,504. Then why did you at a quarter to 4 go and vote ?—The poll was open from 8 o'clock till 4, and I was more interested in my work than I was in the election.

38,505. But you have told us that you had determined not to vote ?—I had made up my mind not to vote at one time, and then I altered my mind and went and voted a little before 4.

38,506. What made you alter your mind a little before 4. Was not any inducement held out to you by anybody ?—My father came up and asked me if I would go and vote.

38,507. For Stracey ?—For Stracey.

38,508. And then you thought you would do what would be pleasant to your father by voting as he wished ?—Yes.

38,509. There was no harm in that. Was it that that induced you to vote ?—Yes.

I was quite sure that there must have been some other reason besides a bricklayer coming and asking you to vote. It is a pity you did not tell us at once what the real reason was.

J. H. Tillett.

JACOB HENRY TILLETT sworn and examined.

38,510. (Mr. Mansfield.) You have been a solicitor practising in this city ?—Yes.

38,511. Are you still in practice ?— No, I retired some three or four years ago.

38,512. I believe you have taken an active part in the politics of this city ?—Yes.

38,513. For how many years ?—I should say for nearly 30 years.

38,514. And you have been very busy at elections?—Yes; active.

38,515. I think the late members for this city were Sir William Russell and Mr. Warner?—Yes.

38,516. Mr. Warner being a Liberal?—Mr. Warner was a Liberal.

38,517. How did it come about that Mr. Warner retired on the last occasion?—The reason was this: the Liberal party here we consider to be divided into two sections. One we call the Whigs, and the other the advanced Liberal party; and when Mr. Warner first came he was more decided in his politics, but towards the last we thought he was veering round into a Conservative, or rather a Whig view of things. We were not satisfied with him, particularly as there was an extension of the suffrage. As representing the advanced Liberals I told him, "If the Whig party "select you as their man we shall be perfectly willing "to support you, but you are not sufficiently advanced "for our views." He had made certain declarations in Parliament and had abstained from voting on some occasions, so that we were not satisfied with him, and told him so.

38,518. When you made that representation to him were you acting entirely on your own discretion or as the representative of any considerable number of the party?—There was a general feeling at Waters' election that we could not carry those two men again, and it was said they did not sufficiently unite and elicit the feeling of the party, and as we did not unite it was understood that there must be a change. Afterwards among my own section of the party the feeling grew up that we were not satisfied with the two as representing the city. We did not object to either one of them in particular, but we thought we were strong enough to have carried a more advanced man.

38,519. Was that representation made by you to Mr. Warner independently, or as acting with other people?—I went to London and told him so in the February before the last election.

38,520. Did you tell him you were authorised by any number of persons to make that report?—No. I said I thought that was the feeling of our friends. Mr. Warner and I were always on the closest terms of friendship, and I said we should have no objection to support him, but we could not support the two.

38,521. How was the arrangement made which led to his withdrawal?—He did not actually withdraw. He left himself in the hands of the Whig party, and if they had selected him he would have stood. We were willing to support him, but they did not select him.

38,522. The Whig section of the party determined to have only one candidate as representing their particular views?—Yes, that has been the understanding for many years here.

38,523. Because you could not carry two?—Yes. That has been the means of binding us together.

38,524. How soon did it become known that Mr. Warner would not be a candidate?—I should say not until a few weeks before the election, because the Whig party had not chosen which of the two they would have. My impression always was, that they would have chosen Mr. Warner.

38,525. It was settled that there was to be only one Whig candidate?—Yes.

38,526. And the chiefs of that party were to determine which of the two was to be their candidate?—Precisely, and they had a meeting for that purpose.

38,527. Were you present at that meeting?—No. I was not summoned. I do not belong to that section.

38,528. At what date was that determination come to?—About three weeks before the election, or it might be a little more; three weeks or a month; about a month say.

38,529. At what time was it that they determined only to have one candidate?—We had repeated meetings at the "Royal" hotel, and it was conceded to us; we claimed it, and it was conceded that each section should name a candidate, and that the two should pull together.

38,530. About what time was that definitively settled?—I should say that in July we had meetings and we could not quite agree as to the names. There was no disagreement as to the principle, but it was a question of names.

38,531. You say that was some time in July?—The first or second week in July.

38,532. How soon after that did it become known that Sir William Russell would be the Whig candidate?—I should say that would be known about September, the end of September. I do not like to speak positively to dates, but there was a considerable difference of opinion amongst the Whig party, and I believe there was a division upon that question, as to whether it should be Sir William Russell or Mr. Warner.

38,533. That was settled about three weeks after, and it became known very soon after?—Yes. It was known before Sir William Russell actually came down that he was their choice, and Mr. Warner wrote to say he would abide by the decision of the Whig section. He put himself in the hands of Sir William Foster and the Whig section, and said, whatever the decision of the Whig section was, he would abide by it, whether he or Sir William Russell was chosen.

38,534. When it became known that Sir William Russell was to be the Whig candidate, I suppose it became necessary for the more advanced section of the Liberal party to determine upon their candidate?—We determined that before Sir William Russell came down. We determined that in July.

38,535. They determined on a candidate as early as July?—No. We chose our man first. They determined on theirs afterwards.

38,536. How soon was it intimated to you, that you were to be the candidate for that section?—There was a meeting at which about a thousand electors were present in July, and then there was a unanimous vote that I should be asked to stand. That was about the middle of July.

38,537. Did you begin your canvass from the middle of July?—No, I only issued an address, complying with that request.

38,538. How soon did you begin your canvass?—I was very unwilling to canvass, and I did not canvass until Sir William Russell came down, and then we canvassed here and there, but very little; I went to some of the principal workshops and the railway stations, and so on, but I did not make a house to house canvass.

38,539. You know that a body of men called the Organisation undertook the duty of canvassing?—Yes. They did; the working men did.

38,540. They canvassed from house to house?—I believe they did; yes. That would be about September, I should think.

38,541. When it was determined that you were to become a candidate, what arrangements were made about the expenses of the election?—I was unwilling; at least I hesitated a good deal as to uniting with the Whig party. I thought I should be stronger if I stood alone. I was unwilling for various reasons, but at last I consented to coalesce with the Whig party, but I stipulated as a condition that I would name my own agent, that I would name a separate ward manager in every ward, that I would have a separate fund, and that I would have three names that I would select, and that all money should pass through those person's hands. I made that a condition, and I did that (if I may be allowed to state it) on purpose to limit my liability and responsibility.

38,542. About what date was that?—That would be about a fortnight before the election.

38,543. Was an arrangement made to provide means for this election by subscription or otherwise?—My friends had determined to return me (that was their avowed intention) free of expense, or with comparatively small expense, and a subscription list, or a sort of guarantee list, was raised with which I had nothing to do personally, and my friends raised, including a subscription which I gave myself, about 1,500*l.* or 1,600*l.*

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

J. H. Tillett.

12 Oct. 1869.

38,544. (Mr. Biron.) It was about 1,600*l.*?—Yes. That was signed. They signed their names to it. I put my own name down as one for 500*l.* on that list, if I may be allowed to mention that.

38,545. (Mr. Mansfield.) That was, of course, before the coalition took place?—Certainly.

38,546. Whom did you choose for the three names?—The three names of my finance committee were Mr. Colman, Mr. Copeman, and Mr. Joseph Smith.

38,547. And all the money went through their hands?—I paid all the money into the National Provincial Bank. They collected the subscriptions and all was paid into the National Provincial Bank, and every payment was made by cheque, I believe.

38,548. That arrangement was made previous to the coalition?—Certainly. If I had stood alone it would have been the same thing.

38,549. The coalition was made about a fortnight before the nomination?—Two or three weeks.

38,550. What were the terms of that coalition?—That we should pull heartily together; that I should give the whole of my support to Sir William Russell, and Sir William Russell should give the whole of his support to me; and we had a joint meeting at St. Andrew's Hall. A resolution was proposed on one side and seconded on the other to support us as the two Liberal candidates.

38,551. Do you consider that that was a genuine and hearty coalition on the part of the supporters of the two sections?—On the part of Sir William Foster and the bulk of the Liberal party I have no doubt it was so.

38,552. But there were some quarters where it was not so?—I think there were enemies in the camp.

38,553. Then previous to the day of the nomination some arrangements were made about the show of hands?—There was a meeting on the Saturday afternoon, I think about 4 o'clock; a meeting at the committee room.

38,554. A meeting of both of you?—A meeting of us. I had my friends there. Mr. Colman was with me, Mr. Morgan, and Mr. Stevens, my agent. I think Sir William Russell was there; yes, certainly he was there. Mr. Coaks was there, and Mr. Kay; Mr. Daynes, and Mr. Youngs, I think were there.

38,555. This was on the Saturday before the nomination?—The Saturday before the nomination.

38,556. What passed at that meeting?—We first of all discussed the question of cabs, and an opinion was read, I think it was taken out of a newspaper, of Sir John Coleridge, that it would be very dangerous to hire cabs; that it would be doubtful whether it would not be called corrupt practices. Then we raised the question whether individuals could not hire cabs and pay for them themselves; it was thought that that was dangerous, and we resolved not to hire directly or indirectly, but keep strictly within the law. Then just before we broke up, I think Mr. Coaks said, "Are we to go in for the nomination?" or some expression of the sort, "Shall we make an effort to carry the nomination?" I said—I do not know that I said it immediately—"I do not think anything of the "nomination. I do not think it is worth a snap of "the finger." I have always held that opinion because the nomination is in a small building, the Guildhall, where even the judge of assize will not go because it is so close, and it is dangerous to get into it. It has been always a fight between the roughs on one side or the other. The people scramble in. There is an iron gate on one side, and an iron gate on the other side, and if a man was in feeble health he would jeopardise his life in trying to get in. This place holds only a few hundred people; at all events, it is a difficult and dangerous place for a multitude of people to squeeze into. Therefore decent middle-class people will not go. I always treated it as a monstrous thing to hold the nomination in such a place as that, and I suggested that we should apply to the sheriff to hold it in St. Andrew's Hall or the market place. Indeed, I wrote suggesting that it should be held in some place where the people would have a chance of attending, as the constituency had been so greatly enlarged. The sheriff or the under-sheriff wrote an answer, saying that it was too late to make the application. Therefore the nomination took place in the Guildhall. That is my reason for saying that it was an absurd thing and not worth any effort, but the feeling was that we should do it.

38,557. What further passed upon Mr. Coaks saying, "Shall we go in for the nomination?"—We had been discussing the law as to cabs. Then Sir William Russell said, "Is there any objection to it? is there anything wrong or objectionable in it?" "Certainly not," said Mr. Coaks, "nothing at all." That is all that passed. So it seemed to me.

38,558. In fact, we may take it that it was assented to by all the persons present?—It was assented to in that general way that we should make an effort to secure the nomination. Nothing was said about anything improper being done.

38,559. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Only consider. The question about its legality had been raised and settled by an opinion?—As to cabs?

38,560. No. Sir William Russell had asked whether there was anything improper.—Sir William Russell had asked the question, and Mr. Coaks at once answered in the most positive way, "Certainly not."

38,561. (Mr. Mansfield.) Was anything then said about what it would cost to secure the show of hands?—Not a word; certainly not.

38,562. Was anything said about the expense of it?—Not a word.

38,563. Had you no idea what the expense of it would be?—No, I had no idea of the expense. There was nothing said about it at all. I will tell you what was passing in my mind and what was done immediately, which will show what I thought about it. Mr. Stevens and Mr. Colman arranged about getting up the Carrow men and Tillyard's men. We went to work at once to get up volunteers. That showed the construction we put upon it.

38,564-5. Were you not aware of its being an immemorial practice to secure the show of hands by the payment of individuals?—I was not aware that that was a fact. I knew from attending a nomination that it always had been a scuffle by the multitude to get possession of the hall, but as to how that was done I did not know, though I might perhaps have suspected. But nothing was said at this meeting to lead us to suppose that anything of the sort was to be done, but the very contrary, because in the very room we arranged for getting up the volunteers.

38,566. One would have thought that the question of legality being raised would have led you to suppose that it involved payment?—I cannot tell what was in Mr. Coaks' mind. Mr. Coaks had been concerned in former elections, and knew what had been done. I cannot tell what passed between him and Sir William Russell, they were sitting together, but I know this distinctly, Sir William Russell asked the question, not knowing what we usually did, whether anything was done which was illegal, and Mr. Coaks said, "Certainly not."

38,567. The question of legality very seldom arises at an election unless it involves the passing of money?—I should say that Sir William Russell deprecated any expenditure for the purpose.

38,568. No; on the contrary, he acquiesced in the advice of his legal adviser.—There was nothing in Mr. Coaks' intention that would be objectionable or illegal. That is all I understood.

38,569. We have heard from Mr. Coaks that it had been the immemorial practice in Norwich to purchase men to secure the show of hands at the nomination.—Yes, but we did not do that this time. We did quite the contrary.

38,570. Have you ever been legal agent at an election here?—Not since Peto and Warner's election, and then I had nothing to with the actual details. I did a good deal of the outside work, attending meetings, and so on, but I never did interfere with the details of an election.

38,571. Had you no means of learning that it was the custom to pay men in order to secure the nomination?—No.

38,572. One would have thought that you must heard of it. You have seen much electioneering in this city?—If you had asked me I should have said it was the practice, merely from observation, that men would not, unless they were paid, expose themselves to all that risk.

38,573. If so, how came you not to take special precautions against its being done now, when you knew that it was considered by recent decisions to be a corrupt practice?—I did take special precautions against it, and Mr. Stevens was to attend exclusively and entirely to the getting up of volunteers, and did not sanction the hiring of a single man, and did not know of it. I only sanctioned the getting up of the volunteer men, and nothing else. Mr. Stevens was my agent, and I am not bound by the acts of anyone else.

38,574. After you had made this coalition and become jointly responsible for all expenditure, you became necessarily responsible for the mode in which your money was spent.—I will not discuss the law, but only the fact. I appointed an agent and several agents in every ward that I might limit my responsibility, and be only responsible for their acts. It was an extra expense, and I incurred it on purpose to be protected from responsibility. If you will allow me, I will state another reason. I thought if the contest lay between Sir William Russell and Sir Henry Stracey, they would not be so particular about the expenditure as I intended to be, therefore that is the reason why I appointed separate agents and ward managers, that I might not be dragged in for corrupt practices if in the emergency corrupt practices had arisen.

38,575. The result has been that you have borne your charge for the nomination.—I beg your pardon. I have not paid one single farthing, and I do not intend to do. As soon as I heard of it I repudiated it, and Mr. Stevens knew nothing of it until it was done, until Mr. Ray wished to keep it back in the money he held. So that literally I have paid nothing and consented to nothing, and knew of nothing. I can explain how it arose. A sum of money was paid by Mr. Stevens to Mr. Ray towards the clerks and the employés. When they came to square up, Mr. Ray claimed to hold back a certain sum, I think 4*l.*, and to debit me with 4*l.*, I think, for men keeping the peace, or something of that sort; Mr. Stevens objected to it, and said, "What does this mean?" "Oh," he said, "those were men engaged to protect the Carrow men, "and get them in at the nomination." Mr. Stevens, as I understand, refused to admit that, and up to this moment we have never admitted it, and certainly I told Mr. Stevens that I would on no account pay it. I have not paid it, I won't pay it; I am not legally bound to pay it; it was contrary to our understanding. Mr. Ray had no right to incur the liability without Mr. Stevens' knowledge of it; and if it was illegal it was contrary to my directions, and entirely contrary to the line I had marked out for Mr. Stevens.

38,576. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) It is quite clear the 8*l.* 10*s.* was paid for this purpose and was allowed by Mr. Stevens in the account.—I beg your pardon; it was not allowed. He repudiated it.

38,577. I am speaking from his evidence.—He had money to take from Mr. Ray, and Mr. Ray said, "I must take this money off." But the account has not been settled yet. It has not been allowed, and Mr. Stevens knows my positive instructions that it will not be allowed; so as a matter of fact I have not paid a farthing towards it, and as a matter of fact I won't.

38,578. (Mr. Mansfield.) With respect to the organisation of the Liberal party, are you not aware that political considerations have entered very largely into municipal contests in this city?—Quite against my consent, because I proposed in the council an equal division of the aldermen and an equal division of all committees to extinguish party spirit, and I incurred a great deal of odium for so doing.

38,579. Do not you know that in November last the contests in the wards were conducted with considerable warmth, and a great deal of money was spent on both sides?—There was money spent over the water, as we call it, in the seventh and eighth wards, but I am not aware of money having been spent in the wards on this side, and I do not recollect hearing of it.

38,580. The money was chiefly spent on political rather than local questions?—I am afraid that is not so. In the eighth ward there was a purely personal contest between two Liberals, and in the seventh ward I believe it was also to some extent the same. There was a Liberal candidate on one side and two on the other, so that it was not strictly a political contest in either of the wards.

38,581. In the seventh ward it was between two sections of the Liberal party?—No; there was an extraordinary union between a Liberal and a Conservative in the seventh ward, and two Liberals on the other side. I think the sewerage question or something was up then. There was a Liberal against two Liberals, so that really it was not a party fight. It was a strange affair, but it was not strictly a fight between the two parties.

38,582. Do you not think that the money spent at ward elections for municipal purposes has had a great deal of influence upon the elections of members of Parliament?—I do think so, in demoralising the electors.

38,583. And in keeping the respective parties together?—Yes; there has not been much of this in Norwich lately, because there has been an understanding between the two parties not to go for the ascendency, because of the corruption which it involved. For several years we have had no party fights in Norwich, at least not of any importance.

38,584. What was the amount of your legal expenses returned to the officer?—Mr. Stevens knows better than I do, but I think somewhere between 600*l.* and 700*l.*

38,585. Is that all the money which has been expended on your side at the last election?—We expended some money before the coalition in the registration. We thought it right to watch the registration, and that will cost us a good deal, because the register is very large.

38,586. But with regard to the last election. Has anything been spent that you are cognisant of beyond the sum returned for your legal expenses?—I think there was something paid to a number of clerks who were employed, who did not wish to jeopardise their votes in case we came to a scrutiny. They said, "If "we take money we shall lose our votes, and we will "forego the money rather than lose the votes;" and in that case they were not paid.

38,587. They were paid afterwards?—They were paid afterwards, but they would have foregone the money rather than lose their votes.

38,588. Is that the only additional payment made beyond the legal expenses returned to the officer?—I certainly know of nothing else; I paid nothing but to Mr. Stevens.

38,589. You know of nothing beyond that?—Certainly not. That was the rule I went upon.

38,590. During the canvass or the election did you make any promise of money or favour to any elector in this city?—Certainly not.

38,591. Do you know a man of the name of Walter Claxton?—Yes.

38,592. He voted for Sir William Russell and yourself?—I believe he did. I have read his evidence, and gather that from his evidence.

38,593. Do you recollect a conversation with him referring to a nomination for Doughty's Hospital?—Quite well.

38,594. On what occasion did that take place?—That took place on the occasion of a meeting we held at the "Duke's Head," in the eighth ward, in the month of September. He made a mistake as to the date. He said it was a week before the election, whereas it was two months before the election.

38,595. You are positive of that?—Yes. I have a

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

J. H. Tillett.

12 Oct. 1869.

paper here which I will hand up. Perhaps it will be convenient if I explain the facts of that case, which will, I think, remove any erroneous impression which may have been made. I am a trustee of a charity called "Doughty's Hospital," where old people, men and women, are admitted. I have been a trustee for some three or four years, and have only put in one man. I promised the next appointment to a man of the name of Watling. I was waited upon, I cannot fix the date, but it was some months before I thought of being a candidate, by a deputation from a tradesmen's club, who represented to me that they were very much interested in Walter Claxton, who is an old tradesman in the ward and getting infirm, and that they thought it would be a most excellent thing if I could put him into the hospital. A deputation of two waited upon me.

38,596. Who were they?—Mr. Hancock was one, and Mr. Fisher was the other. Mr. Hancock, I should say, was as bitter an opponent of mine as I had in the city. However, he waited on me and said, "I was "chairman at a tradesmen's dinner, and some one said, "'What a pity it is that we cannot get Claxton in; "he is a most respectable man.' Some one said, 'I "believe Mr. Tillett will have a turn soon;'" and then the deputation was appointed from this very meeting. The chairman and Mr. Fisher came and brought testimonials, which I have in my hand, one from the clergyman of the parish, I think; they certainly spoke of the clergyman of the parish, and I think they brought a testimonial from him. I was then waited on by Joseph Smith, and he said, "He is "a most respectable man. He has had a promise "from some one, who has disappointed him, so that "he is broken down because he thinks he is neglected." I knew him to be a most respectable conscientious man, as much so as any in the city, and I said, "I will think of him when I have a turn." Then I received this paper, which is a notice that I had a turn (producing a paper).

38,597. What month is that?—September. This is the identical paper I received, saying that I had a turn to appoint a man to Doughty's Hospital. The date is September 18th. (The paper is handed to the Commissioners.)

38,598. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) This, I see, is for Friday, the 25th?—Yes, that is it. As soon as I received that, I went to Watling and said, "I can put you in now, I think; I have a turn." He said, "I am very sorry, but I am not old enough; you must let it be to another time." My impression is that I drove up to Watling's house almost the same evening, and offered him this. I told the deputation that I must give it to him, and think of Claxton the next time. At this meeting, after I had seen Watling, I saw Claxton, and I called him out and said, "I have "a turn, and I think I can put you in if you come in "the morning." It was the very next day; I had no thought of corruption in my mind. The man is as upright and staunch a man as any in the whole constituency, and he is a very worthy man. I said, "If you come in the morning I will put you in." He came to the trustees' meeting the next day, and it turned out through some unaccountable mistake or other on the part of the chairman or the trustees that I had not a turn. I was extremely sorry, I was quite vexed, because the man looked disappointed, and he went away, and I have said nothing more to him. Watling was my man; he is the man whom I had promised to put in, so that Claxton cannot have even the next appointment. The thought of influencing Claxton's vote never entered into my mind nor into Claxton's. Another thing is that Claxton had a grandson apprenticed to me in the printing office. He was a very excellent apprentice, and that was an additional reason why I should have been disposed, apart from political matters, to put Claxton in; but at all events, I say most solemnly that a more proper man could not be put into the hospital. He is a staunch Liberal, and never hesitated to vote; a consistent and conscientious man.

38,599. That offer was made by you without any view to secure his vote?—I did not think of it in the slightest degree for a moment. If I had been asked, I did not know that the man had a vote, and I was asked by a man who was my opponent, and I gave the promise to Hancock that I would put him in. Mr. Hancock did not vote for me; he did all he could against me. He was the chairman of the meeting. I will hand in the testimonials I received, if you will allow me. I should like the Commissioners to see that I had the testimonials in 1867, to show that it was not for the election.

38,600. (Mr. Mansfield.) You have nominations to some of the other charities in this city?—Yes, I am on the general list.

38,601. Have you given away these nominations recently?—We have very few. This is a large list of trustees, and the vacancies are very rare. I have only put in one man, and with regard to the children; I have put in, I think, two; and I have considered in every case the best objects that were presented, and selected the people who were the most deserving.

38,602. Have you ever promised a nomination to the Hospital School to a son of Samuel Wood, of Church Lane?—Yes, and put him in.

38,603. What time was that?—That was in 1868, and the proof of that is very remarkable that I sent the name in, and the child was a week too young, and he was sent back. I put him in the next year when he was old enough, but the promise to him was made in 1867. He actually went up with my nomination a year before the election, and he was then too young.

38,604. Are you aware that any pressure was put upon the Carrow workpeople to vote for you?—No. I am aware of quite the contrary. Mr. Colman told them at a meeting in the Carrow school that every man was at liberty to vote as he pleased, and if any of them voted Tory from conscientious views, he should respect them for doing so. He said so publicly, and it was reported in the newspapers at the time.

38,605. Do you know of any money having been provided by your supporters for the purposes of this election. I mean other than that which has been returned as legal expenses?—I do not believe there has been a single instance of one coin being given for a vote on our side, nor any beer been given; but all my friends knew that I was fully determined upon that point, and therefore they would not risk it if they were minded to do it.

38,606. Bnt we often hear of persons in their zeal spending some of their own money, small sums. Have you heard of any supporters of yours doing that?—I have not heard of a single instance, and I believe there is not a single instance to be found.

38,607. Or of their offering any promise of favour and advancement to secure your return?—I have heard of none, and do not believe there is a single instance of the sort.

38,608. I suppose after the coalition your canvassers and your friends always requested the voters to vote for Russell and yourself?—Most earnestly, and I have been blamed since for having been so earnest; but I did on every occasion implore them to vote for Sir William Russell as well as myself.

38,609. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Nobody ought to have blamed you for that. It would have been a gross breach of good faith if you had not done so.—I did both publicly and privately urge that.

38,610. I should say they were very dishonest people who blamed you?—Well, there was a feeling of distrust among our friends, and they said that if the Whigs had worked as heartily for us as we did for them, we should have won the election. That is the reason of my having been blamed for having been so thorough.

38,611. That being so, how do you explain the fact that a good many voters gave plumpers for you?—Because they preferred me, I suppose. They would be what we should term advanced men. They would prefer me to Sir William Russell; and as soon as they saw that I was below they wanted to plump me up.

That was the feeling, and it was entirely their own act.

38,612. (Mr. Biron.) Some of the men have said that they kept back in order to secure your return. —Yes, precisely; but that was a course which I entirely deprecated on every occasion.

38,613. (Mr. Mansfield.) In the third ward we find by the poll books that there were 20 men who consecutively gave plumpers for you, about half-past 1, in Heigham?—Yes, I believe there was a feeling in that ward, where there are a great many working men, that they would make me safe. I do not know any of them. I am not aware of it.

38,614. You are not aware of any illegitimate influence having been exercised to induce them to plump for you?—No, not the slightest.

38,615. Have you any information yourself whether those men are new or old voters?—I should be inclined to think that they are new voters, but I have no reason for the opinion. I say again, I do not believe there is a single instance throughout the city of any corrupt inducement being presented to any voter for either Sir William Russell or myself.

38,616. Can you tell us anything of your own knowledge of the proceedings of the other side, Sir Henry Stracey's party?—I heard in the middle of the day, when I went over the water, that is in the seventh and eighth wards, that there were a number of men got together in Pockthorpe who would vote for us for 10*s.* apiece. I said, "Keep your eye on these men," because I felt that if they went in for bribery I should be beaten; but I thought we could unseat on petition. I said to Mr. Smith and Mr. Womersley, and others, "Go down; keep your eye upon them, and ascertain the truth of this." Mr. Harper in the eighth ward did the same. I believe he took men to watch the "Woolpack" for that purpose.

38,617. Were you aware that either of those gentlemen who were sent down to watch practised bribery?—Certainly not, because it was against our whole policy. We determined not to bribe, and we determined also that if the others did we would expose them on petition. That was our understanding.

38,618. Are you not aware that those gentlemen led persons in this public-house to believe that some money might be coming? Though there was no money coming they might keep back voters as an electioneering trick?—They must answer for themselves and their motives. I know they were not men accustomed to bribe. Mr. Smith, Mr. Kitton, and men of that sort, were not men who were ever mixed up with bribery.

38,619. That is not the question. Were you aware that these gentlemen were practising an electioneering trick in leading these people in the public-house to think that money would come, although they knew there was none?—No. I simply told them when I saw them in St. Saviour's in the middle of the seventh ward, "You had better keep your eyes open; if "they wanted something from us they may get it from "the other side," and then we should have had a case against them.

38,620. You are aware that Womersley has said that he had some conversation with Mackley, the object of which was to get these voters detained until it was too late for them to vote?—I am not aware that he did that. That was not done with my cognisance or sanction. Of course he must answer for himself.

38,621. You were not cognisant of any electioneering artifice of that sort being employed to neutralise the action on the other side?—Certainly not. The only communication I had with Mr. Womersley and Mr. Harper was to keep an eye upon these cases; not to bribe them, but to discover who did bribe them.

38,622. Can you tell us, from your experience of elections, anything of the expenditure which took place in former contests in this city?—The only election with which I had anything to do with regard to money matters, was that of Peto and Warner, which was, I think, 17 years ago, and I can only answer for this, that so far as I know there was not a sixpence spent at that election in bribery. It was at the time when the Corn Law excitement was great, and there was a good deal done in the way of excitement, but nothing in bribery.

38,623. Have you no knowledge of what took place at the election of 1865?—No; except that I can tell you this. I attacked Mr. Waters on the ground of his personal character at St. Andrew's Hall, and had an action brought against me for doing so. I went into the room at the committee on that occasion, and Mr. Wilde said to me "Waters' party are buying," but he said to me after the election, and I know he went down into the seventh ward and got into a cab and said, "They are buying in the seventh ward," he said there was no harm done; it looked like it, but after the election he told me on his honour that not one sovereign had been spent in corruption. That is Mr. Wilde who is dead. He gratuitously came up and told me that. He said mischief was going on.

38,624. It was a very gratuitous statement on his part.—I don't know why he should have said so. He had no occasion to tell me so if it were otherwise.

38,625. Do you know of any expenditure for improper purposes at the election of 1865 on behalf of Sir William Russell and Mr. Warner?—I was not agent for Mr. Warner at that time. I had nothing to do with money matters. Mr. Coaks was the agent of both.

38,626. Being an active politician on both sides, you would probably know something of the details of the expenditure?—I was not active in working the canvass or details. My activity was more outside, in attending meetings and so on.

38,627. You might have heard after the election was over how the success had been secured?—I believe the election was completely honest.

38,628. Completely honest on that side?—It was honest on our side. At all events if there was anything done it was done without my knowledge, and I have been assured by Mr. Wilde and others that there was nothing done.

38,629. How far back can you go in your recollection of elections in this city?—Not more than 30 years at the outside. I was then only a young man. I am now 50, so that I could not go back more than 30 years.

38,630. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Large sums have been paid here?—I have had nothing to do with it.

38,631. But you know, as a matter of common knowledge, that very heavy sums have been paid?—Yes.

38,632. With regard to municipal elections, we find that 5*l.* has been paid for a vote?—There have been 100*l.* paid in Norwich for a vote.

38,633. Within your memory?—Yes. There was a committee of inquiry and it came out in the House. It all came out there. There was a compromise, so that the inquiry ended. That was the election of Scarlett and Douro, and Smith and Nurse. That was a frightful election on both sides.

38,634. (Mr. Biron.) That went on for some weeks?—Yes, and there was an enormous expenditure. I was only a young man at the time. That was the worst time.

38,635. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You spoke of the registration expenses being heavy. What was the amount of your registration expenses?—I should think from 150*l.* to 200*l.*

38,636. How was that money distributed? To whom was it paid?—There were men employed to look through the lists, to be at the meetings of the different committees and different wards, to see who were qualified and who were not.

38,637. Was that the only expense incurred?—It was the only strictly legal expense.

38,638. Was any sum paid to persons whose votes were disputed, to secure their attendance before the revising barrister?—I am sure I never heard of it, and I do not believe that there was.

38,369. Do you not know any instances in which that was done ?—I have heard of cases, but not in Norwich on either side.

38,640. Was there anything of that sort with regard to the expenditure of that money which was used for the registration expenses here ?—Certainly not. I never heard of it here. It has been no practice here on either side.

38,641. Since the election have any claims for any money expended on your behalf, or demands, or suggestions, been made for payment, on account of things provided during the election other than those which you were disposed to pay ?—No ; I had a bill sent to me. A woman came to me from one of the committee rooms from one of the wards. She wanted the money, she said, very much. It was only a sovereign, so I paid it and handed the receipt over to Mr. Stevens, who repaid me, and it went into his account. That is the only item I have paid.

38,642. Have any suggestions been made to you that as a matter of honour you ought to pay for sums which had been expended on your behalf at the last election ?—Not one single instance ; not a single case.

38,643. You know of no claim of that kind ; not a legal claim, but a claim which is considered obligatory upon you as a matter of consideration and honour ?—No ; there was an advertisement put in the papers by Mr. Stevens, and those claims would have gone in to him.

38,444. I am not speaking of those which would be legal expenses, but those which you perfectly understand, as a man engaged in elections, are made upon candidates by volunteers who have spent money of their own. Has there been anything of that sort ?—I do not remember a single case, and I may say positively that there has not been a single case.

38,645. You quite understand what I mean ?—Yes, I perfectly understand, of persons who have rendered services and want to be paid for them.

38,646. Without any instigation of the candidate, but merely as volunteers, who think that as a matter of honour they ought to be repaid ?—I have no recollection of a single case, nor yet of a public-house bill, nothing of the sort.

38,647. When was it that you heard that there was bribery going on, or that there was a number of men congregated and wishing to be paid, and that you gave those directions that they should go down and watch them ?—I should say about 1 o'clock, in the seventh ward.

38,648. Who were the persons who offered you that information ?—Mr. Womersley, Mr. John Kitton, and Mr. Harper.

38,649. Did you see Mr. Harper as late as 2 o'clock upon that matter ?—No, I don't know whether I saw him in the eighth ward. The eighth ward was the ward in which he worked. I will not be sure whether I saw him there or not, but I did not see them after 2 o'clock. I did not go into those wards after 2 o'clock, if I remember.

38,650. Did you not hear either from Mr. Womersley or Mr. Harper that they asked for a quarter of an hour or 20 minutes to see whether the men could get something ?—I heard in the case of Harper that he had gone to the committee room, and they said, "Will you keep your eye upon them ? We have no money ;" and that Harper had taken two men down with him. I am told that one man's name was Ellis, and the other's Howell. He took them down to watch what was going on at the "Woolpack."

38,651. Before he went down to watch, did you understand that he came from those men upon the understanding that he was going away to see what he could get for them, and would be back in 20 minutes ?—I do not know that. That was entirely in his own breast. He reported that buying had begun at the "Woolpack," and we said, "Keep your eye upon them."

38,652. When that communication was made to you by Harper did he tell you, "I have had them kept in "tow, or had them put off for 20 minutes while I have "come up here" ?—Not at all. He merely said that they were beginning to buy.

38,653. The evidence before us is that he told the men that he would be back in 20 minutes. He must answer for himself about that. He did not say that to me.

38,654. I want to know if it was communicated to you ?—No.

38,655. Womersley said he did it at the other place as an electioneering trick.—Each must answer for himself in those matters.

38,656. I only want to know if you were in any way, directly or indir ectly, cognisant of that sort of practice ?—Certainly not.

38,657. Who was the person that had recommended Walter Claxton to you for the hospital ?—Mr. Hancock. He was the chairman of a tradesmen's club.

38,658. I suppose it would be satisfactory to you that that gentleman should be called ?—Certainly, I should like that he should be called.

38,659. I merely mention it that you should not suppose that he is called from our doubting in any way your word.—Certainly.

38,660. Do you recollect after the election seeing a letter which was produced by Sir William Russell ?—That was before the election.

38,661. Do you recollect seeing Sir William Russell on the Sunday or Monday before the election and his showing you any letter he had received about the supply of money or communicating the substance of the letter to you ?—When I went in one morning, I should say it was the morning before the election probably, he said, "Well, I have had a letter from an "old friend of mine who was in India with me. He "is connected with the Carlton Club, and he says "that there has been an application made to the "Carlton Club for money, and if they could have "1,000*l.* they could win the election for Sir Henry "Stracey, and that the money is sent down. So he "wrote to me to be on the look out." "Well," I said, "that's rather odd that anyone connected with "the Carlton Club should write to you about that." He said, "It may seem odd to you ; but he was on my "staff in India and he is a warm friend, a chum of "mine, and would not like me to be beaten by unfair "means. There is no doubt about it he said." I did not take it in ; I thought some officious person had written it, and that there was no ground for it. After the election, Sir William Russell called on me and said, "You see what I said was correct." I have asked Mr. Colman as it looked rather serious, to write up to Sir William Russell and see whether that was correct. Yes, he said, it was correct, and he had the letter.

38,662. Was any name mentioned in connexion with it as having made the application ?—No ; there was no name mentioned.

38,663. Was any name mentioned to you, do you recollect, as being the name of the person who made the application to the Carlton ?—My recollection of the words is, "An application has been made to the "committee for money for Norwich, and they are "assured that if 1,000*l.* is sent down, the election is "safe for Stracey, and the money is sent down. As "I should not like you, an old chum, to be beaten by "such means, I give you a hint that you may be on "the look out." That is the substance of the letter. I turned it off and said, "The Carlton must keep their "secrets very badly if your chum lets them out in "that way."

38,664. Do you recollect anything being said in the committee room on the day of the election about money being sent by the Conservative Club ?—About 10 o'clock, when we were looking up, Mr. Coaks came up as I was standing against the chimney piece, and he said, "I am told they have got the money all ready if it is wanted ; if there is a chance for them."

38,665. Did he state to you what the ground of that impression was?—No; I did not think much of it, because I thought we were going up, and it would not be wanted. That is what I thought at that time, but he says, "I know they are prepared if there is need." If I had been successful I should have apprehended the consequences. It would have made me more vigilant, lest bribery on the other side should destroy my majority.

38,666. When you get a majority of 500 it is not usual that that should be knocked down after 1 o'clock?—It has not happened before.

38,667. But you have doubled the constituency. You reckoned a little without your host.—My impression was that to go in to bribe was a desperate thing for them to do, that we should find it out; it would be a serious thing for them, and that they would not do it.

38,668. Is it your impression that no money was provided in the way indicated by Sir William Russell?—I don't know. I think more money was provided than has been found out yet. There must have been other money. Of course that is a mere surmise. I think there must have been some other money.

38,669. I should tell you, as to the money which is already known to have been subscribed, that we have found quite a sufficient number influenced by bribery to turn the majority against you considerably. That is the result of our investigations—considerably. But very little money was required to do that; even a pint of beer would get a vote.—There was no competition, you see.

38,670. There was no competition in the market, and as far as I have yet seen there is no suggestion that there was any bribery on your side; but I say that a very small sum of money would answer the purpose, for instance, 40 men would be influenced by 10*s.* worth of beer. It did not require a great deal of money to contend with a majority of two or three hundred?—I should not like to put my surmise before you in a case like this.

38,671. I only want to know if you have formed an impression as to whether that money was provided or not?—My impression is that money was sent down from London; whether that money was used in bribery or whether it went to assist the other expenses I cannot of course say, I believe there was a contribution sent to the Norwich Conservative Fund.

38,672. Have you any idea where Hardiment got the money he spent?—No, I have not.

38,673. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you know of any Conservative fund raised for the purpose of this election in Norwich?—Do you mean out of Norwich?

38,674. In or out of Norwich.—No; they make subscriptions sometimes, as they do on either side.

38,675. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) In the club?—Yes. I heard of no funds in the town.

38,676. I suppose when you were having the matter investigated for the purpose of the petition, you had it thoroughly investigated and you had efficient officers down for the purpose of detection?—Yes; I applied to Messrs. Ashurst and Morris, who are old friends of mine, to send down a staff, and they sent down a staff of experienced men, five or six, and those men thoroughly investigated the whole affair.

38,677. They thoroughly investigated the whole matter?—They went through the city.

38,678. Searching it everywhere in every way?—Searching in every way.

38,679. And the result of your investigation is contained, I suppose, in the brief which was laid before your counsel?—Precisely.

38,680. You, as a person who have been acquainted with the conduct of legal matters, would know whether all was thoroughly laid before counsel in the brief?—It was all set thoroughly before counsel.

38,681. In the brief?—Yes, in the brief, all that was discovered.

38,682. (Mr. Mansfield.) Have you any idea where the money spent by Hunt, and Smith came from?—I don't know, therefore I do not like to conjecture.

38,683. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) It would be mere conjecture?—It would be mere conjecture.

38,684. Of course we can conjecture.—I do not wish in a case of this sort to say anything about my surmises.

38,685. If you could give us any clue it would be valuable to us.—My belief is the leaders of the Conservative party were perfectly straight in the matter, that they intended to fight a pure election, but that they were overborne, by the corrupt section. I believe Mr. Johnson, Mr. Patteson, and those men were perfectly straight, and I believe that Sir Henry Stracey did not know anything about it,

38,686. I do not think there is any doubt as to Sir Henry Stracey. On the contrary it was most hostile to his principles as far as we can make out.—I believe so.

38,687. Do you recollect whether you had the conversation with Sir William Russell respecting this letter on the Sunday or the Monday?—Not on the Sunday certainly.

38,688. I thought the other gentlemen put it on the Sunday?—I think Mr. Colman called upon him, he was rather intimate with him.

38,689. The conversation with Mr. Colman was on the Sunday, and the conversation with you seems to have been on the Monday?—It was not on the Sunday certainly, it may have been on the Saturday. Sir William Russell told several persons of this; it is not any breach of confidence on my part telling this, because Sir William Russell told several persons that he had received this letter.

38,689*a*. Breach of confidence is not known in this court; it is a thing which we do not recognise, or anything of the kind, when a gentleman stands upon his oath as you do, whether there is any confidence between him and anybody else is wholly immaterial. It is his duty upon his oath to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, and he must, nolens volens, divulge everything he knows; that is his duty, and no observation can attach to any man who does state upon his oath that which he knows.

38,690. (Mr. Mansfield.) How many days elapsed after the receipt of this letter by Sir William Russell before he mentioned it to you?—That very morning probably, it must have been directly after.

31,691. That morning perhaps, you think?—I should say so, because he attached considerable importance to it, and he thoroughly believed it certainly.

38,692. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) We shall see Sir William Russell.—I presume so. Would you allow me the privilege of just making a remark upon that question of agency to which I have already called your attention?—Just to put it more clearly, because I hold it to be a thing of great importance that not merely you should understand exactly the facts of the case, but that the public also should exactly understand how I stood with regard to the question of agency.

38,693. Agency in what respect?—At the election. I will state it very briefly. I think it is only due to myself, as strong remarks have been made upon me outside, that the actual facts should be known by you and the public. Of course whatever responsibility the law may attach is a secondary consideration. I am only anxious that the facts should be known, and then I am content. The facts were these, that when I went into the coalition with the Whig party I went in under an apprehension that I endangered myself considerably by the feeling which they had, that they would not lose the election if a little money would save it. I had the feeling, and I believe that some of them at least would not take it as an insult or a misrepresentation when I express it as I now do. Then I was anxious to preserve my integrity, and in order to preserve it I selected three men who were as honest men as could be found in Norwich and had never been mixed up in corrupt practices, never; I selected three men of my personal friends, conscientious men, and I said to them, "I will pay no money but through "you, and you see to it that not one farthing shall be

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

J. H. Tillett.

"paid that is questionable." I appointed Mr. Stevens, always well known as a very conscientious and honourable man, and I said to him, "Now, Mr. Stevens, the "money for anything shall be paid by the cheque of "two out of three of this finance committee, and you "see to it that not a farthing is spent illegally or "questionably." Then I appointed him not merely as agent in the central committee, but a separate man in every ward, which was a double expense.

38,694. I think we quite understand that you took the precaution of having your own representatives quite independently of the representatives of the Whig party both in the wards, and, if I may so term it, as supervisors of matters.—I took every possible precaution.

38,695. We quite understand that; nothing can be clearer upon that matter than the evidence which you have given.—Precisely. Will you allow me to say one further sentence with regard to the nomination, of which a good deal has been said? If you look closely into the case you will observe that Mr. Stevens was limited entirely to what was right and what was actually commendable. He only did what he knew was right, simply getting up volunteers, and there were hundreds of volunteers got up from the different factories, more than enough to carry the show of hands. Mr. Stevens did that and that only, and did not know of anything else; and Mr. Ray expressly states that Mr. Stevens did not know of it, that he did it himself. This is my position; I did all that I could to limit my responsibility, and I did it because I was apprehensive of being led into responsibility through other people's acts; therefore, if Mr. Coaks or Mr. Ray bribed Sir William Russell in, am I to be answerable for their acts? I did this in order that I might not be responsible for such things. Therefore I say with regard to the nomination that not a single thing was done, not a single farthing was spent, but what was perfectly legal and even commendable, and if anything was done that is unlawful or blameable in any sense it was done by persons against whose acts I did the utmost to limit and preserve myself.

38,696. I do not wish to reply upon those observations, but to a certain extent it was an erroneous idea which very likely led to that which was an evil, namely, the employment of persons upon the show of hands. Sir William Russell had made the inquiry whether there was anything illegal in it; an opinion was given which was certainly erroneous. Everybody, if they reflected upon it (which possibly they did not), must have been aware that what was intended was that persons should be employed for that purpose and, those persons who did not dissent became in fact assenting parties to it, and it took place in consequence of that which was perfectly understood as an assent. Under these circumstances, all I can say is that, in my view of the law, they became responsible for these consequences. It may have been done quite innocently, but nevertheless it was an illegal act.—Will you allow me to make one further observation, which is the best illustration of showing what the impression upon our minds was as to the understanding? When we left that room we went expressly to get the volunteers; now if there had been any arrangement to hire people, Mr. Ray would have said at once, "We want to hire people;" but nothing of the sort was said.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) Very likely; but you know you were in a coalition, and persons, if they reflected upon it, which very likely they did not, would have seen that each party would provide some persons. You provided yours as volunteers, and they provided paid men, but it was the joint action of the two. It may not have been foreseen; it may have been perfectly innocent, but still it was undoubtedly illegal.

R. Finch.

ROBERT FINCH sworn and examined.

38,697. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

38,698. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

38,699. At what time in the day?—At a quarter past 2.

38,700. Did you get anything for it?—No.

38,701. Or the promise of anything?—No.

38,702. Had you been canvassed?—I had by Mr. Tillett's party, but not by Sir Henry Stracey's.

38,703. What did you say to them?—I told them that I should not give them my vote.

38,704. What were you doing all day till you voted?—Working.

38,705. Where?—For Mr. John Orfin, the timber merchant.

J. Huggins.

JOHN HUGGINS sworn and examined.

38,706. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

38,707. What were you doing the early part of the day of the election?—I cannot say. I was walking about.

38,708. Looking out for what you could get?—No.

38,709. What were you walking about for?—I went into the market.

38,710. I suppose you were not one of those who would refuse money if it was offered to you?—I was not offered any, nor yet thought of it.

38,711. But you would not have refused it if it had been offered?—I did not want any.

38,712. Why did you vote so late in the afternoon?—I thought I could vote at any time.

38,713. Did you think that if any money was going it would be convenient to you to get it—No.

38,714. You knew it was important that you should vote early, did you not?—No, I thought it was of no consequence what time I voted.

38,715. Did anybody ask you to vote?—No.

38,716. What public-houses were you in when you were wandering about all day?—None.

38,717. Did you not go into any public-house?—No.

38,718. Did nobody speak to you about going to vote?—No.

38,719. Did anybody see you in the street and ask you to vote?—No.

38,720. What is your employment?—A mustard miller.

38,721. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

38,722. For whom do you work?—Mr. Colman.

38,723. At the Carrow works?—Yes.

38,724. Do you mean to say that you had no money offered to you for your vote?—No.

38,725. And you got nothing?—No.

38,726. Did nobody give you any beer that day?—No.

38,727. Did you go up with any companions to the poll?—There was a man lived opposite to me; I went up along with him.

38,728. Did he vote for Stracey?—Yes.

38,729. Did he talk to you about it before you went up?—No.

38,730. Had you been canvassed for your vote before?—No, not by the Conservatives.

38,731. Had you been canvassed by the other side?—Yes.

38,732. What did you say to them?—I told them I did not think I should vote their way at all.

38,733. You are sure you got nothing for your vote?—Yes, I am sure of it.

E. French.

ELIZABETH FRENCH sworn and examined.

38,734. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you know a man named Green?—Richard Green?

38,735. A plasterer?—Yes.

38,736. Do you recollect shortly after the election his making a statement to you about some money he had received?—Yes. I remember on the election night he came into mine in the evening time, and I said, "Well, you have got this man of yours in?" He said, "Yes, we have got him in." "Yes," I said, "but you have got him in by bribery." He said, "You know nothing about it. The fact is I had 20*l.* "put into my hand this afternoon, and I was told to do "the best I could with it, and I and two or three "more have turned the election, and out of two evils "we have taken the best." Those are his own words. I know no more about it.

38,737. Was he sober at the time?—He was excited, but I do not think he was drunk.

38,738. Did he appear to be joking?—No, I do not think he was joking. I am persuaded that he had the money by the way in which he spoke.

38,739. What other persons were present when he said this?—A lady friend of mine was down to mine to tea. She was there at the time.

38,740. What is she?—She is a single lady. I will give you her name and address if you will give me a pen and ink; and if you will send for her she will make the same statement that I have made.

38,741. What is your business?—I am a housewife. I have no particular business. I have a husband.

38,742. What is your husband by trade?—He is at Mr. Grimmer's, the liquor merchant's.

38,743. Has any person been to you and asked you to make this statement here?—No. I had a subpœna when Baron Martin was here, but I was not called.

38,744. At that time had anybody spoken to you about the evidence you were to give?—Not at all, not in any shape.

38,745. Had any lawyer spoken to you about what you had to say?—No, I had not spoken to any lawyer.

38,746. Did nobody know that you were going to speak to what Green had said?—No.

38,747. When did you first mention this story?—Of course electioneering business is no secret, and when people do dirty work they will talk of it, and others talk about it among themselves. I mentioned what Green had said the next day morning.

38,748. Do you recollect to whom you mentioned it?—Yes, I told my husband of it, and he did not keep it secret.

38,749. Does your lady friend live in Norwich?—Yes. She is a single lady, and would not wish her name to be mentioned; but I will write it down and give it you. She will make the same statement that I have made.

JOHN YOUNGS sworn and examined.

J. Youngs.

38,750. (Mr. Biron.) Are you a brewer?—Yes.

38,751. In business in this city?—Yes.

38,752. I believe you took an active part in the last election?—Yes, I did.

38,753. Before the coalition were you favourable to the candidature of the two old members, Russell and Warner?—Yes, I was.

38,754. I believe ultimately you agreed to support Mr. Tillett in conjunction with Sir William Russell?—Yes, I did.

38,755. And after the coalition you used your influence to secure the return of both those candidates?—My best influence.

38,756. Was there any formal committee?—There was no committee that I am aware of.

38,757. It was managed through the medium of these ward managers, and so on?—Yes, I believe so.

38,758. From time to time were there meetings of a few leaders of the party to discuss how the matter was to be managed?—Yes, I might say principally that the meetings would be between two individuals, between myself on the part of Sir William Russell, and Mr. Colman on the part of Mr. Tillett. I will endeavour to explain the circumstances. There was a wish on the part of Mr. Tillett's friends to form a joint committee, and certain names were handed to Sir William Russell's friends as persons whom they would think suitable to form their part of the joint committee, and we endeavoured to meet them, but we found difficulties in arranging them. You will understand there had been a little unpleasant feeling before, and although it would not affect myself at all it might affect others, and we felt there might be difficulties in having those meetings.

38,759. You thought it would be more prudent not to have many persons?—Yes. Sir William Russell asked me whether I would undertake this rather difficult duty for him with the understanding that Mr. Colman should undertake it for Mr. Tillett. I said that I was thoroughly confident in the high character of Mr. Colman, and although it would be exceedingly inconvenient to me with my many busy engagements, I would so act; in fact we were the committee.

38,760. I take it that you and Mr. Colman from time to time did meet with reference to the business of the election?—Yes.

38,761. Do you remember on the Saturday afternoon prior to the election meeting Mr. Colman and other gentlemen at the central committee room?—Yes, Mr. Colman and myself had, I think, walked round the Corn Exchange. My business takes me there, and they asked me whether I would walk through with the candidates. Mr. Tillett did not come, and I walked through the corn hall with Sir William Russell, introducing him to such friends as we thought right and best, and I afterwards went to the central committee room.

38,762. Do you remember who were present there?—I think at first I told him that I wanted to go away for a short period to transact some of my business. I had told Mr. Coaks, who had spoken to me upon one or two subjects, that there were two subjects upon which I thought we ought to have some consultation than that between Mr. Colman and myself, and therefore I told him it would be more convenient to me to have the meeting later in the afternoon when I should return from my brewery to the central committee room to meet such gentlemen as it might be thought prudent to be there.

38,763. Was that done?—Yes.

38,764. And later on did the meeting take palce?—Yes, I should think at 4, or half-past 4.

38,765. Who were present then?—I do not think I can remember all who were there, but certainly the candidates were there, Sir William Russell and Mr. Tillett; Mr. Colman was there, Mr. Tillett's agent, Mr. Stevens, Sir William Russell's agent, Mr. Coaks was there, and Mr. Ray was there. I cannot say that I remember anyone else, but I am told Mr. Daynes was there, but I do not remember it.

38,766. What was the first matter discussed?—The first question discussed was the cab question, the hiring of cabs; whether any of us had been accustomed to use cabs instead of private carriages; whether we could lend the cabs instead of lending our own conveyances; whether it would be prudent, in addition to having our own conveyances, to hire cabs, and whether it would be legal in fact; that was the first question discussed.

38,767. Was any decision arrived at with respect to that?—Yes, I think the opinion of some learned judge, whose name I do not remember, was read to us, and it appeared to me quite clear that it would be an illegal course to take, and it was thought so by the rest of the gentlemen present; and we decided, and I think very properly, to relinquish it.

38,768. Very properly, no doubt. You determined not to hire cabs, that is the first thing?—Yes.

38,769. What was the next subject discussed?—The next question was a subject which I knew was coming on, because it was one of the two subjects that I thought should be discussed between us, and that question was with regard to the show of hands.

38,770. Who first mentioned that, do you know?—There was not much conversation upon the subject, but I should have thought that all the conversation

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

J. Youngs.

12 Oct. 1869.

there was would have been heard by every one present, but of course I could not be certain of that. I think it was first mentioned by Mr. Coaks, who said, "Well, how about the show of hands?" All this was conversation of the most friendly kind, if you can imagine it, and I think the first individual who spoke after Mr. Coaks would be Sir William Russell, who said, "Is it legal?" and the answer given, I should imagine, but I would not be positive about it, was by Mr. Coaks, and the answer which he gave was in these words, and I think I cannot be mistaken, "It will not void the election." I do not think the answer which was given was whether it was legal or not legal, but it was, "It will not void the election."

38,771. There must have been something upon the minds of you all with reference to that show of hands to call forth that expression?—Yes. I am here to give you the whole truth, and anything I can state to you upon any point in connexion with this election or any other I shall be happy to state it.

38,772. I understand that most fully.—With great respect, I do not wish to be reminded of it. Anything you ask me I will answer frankly and freely.

38,773. I am sure you are telling us everything according to your memory; now do not misunderstand me. What you told me was this, that Mr. Coaks said, "How about the show of hands?" and then Sir William Russell said, "Will it void the election?"—No, he said, "Is it legal?" and the answer was, "It will not void the election."

38,774. It seems to me that there would be something more said than "How about the show of hands?"—Yes, afterwards. I will tell you as far as I can from recollection the conversation. I will give you the whole as far as I can. We did not pursue the discussion as to the legality. Someone present, not myself, said in my hearing, "Is it a serious question, or, what is it a matter of?" which conveyed to my mind the notion that it must mean that it would cost some money; and the answer was certainly given in two figures; those figures I could not swear to, but to the best of my recollection the answer was, "It is a matter that has generally cost 30*l.*; or 40*l.*," not that it would cost that. I hope you understand the distinction I draw, but that it had cost generally 30*l.* or 40*l.* There was then a pause. I have rather a recollection of saying myself (and I wish to take the full responsibility upon myself in this matter), "We are the popular party." I apologize, of course, for assuming that now, but we are not talking politics. I have a recollection that I said, "We are the popular party, and it seems to me if we do not get the show of hands we shall lose that sort of prestige, although an insignificant matter, which it generally gives to the election." After a show of hands, you know, handbills are generally published. "Majority at the "show of hands. Electors, fortify this, or confirm this "by your attendance at the poll early to-morrow morning." It was that that induced me to give expression to that opinion, feeling assured that it was one of those things which would not void the election, and if a matter does not void an election, in my humble way of judging matters, it would be legal. I remember no other conversation. Mr. Tillett, I think, made no observation, and I do not remember positively that Mr. Colman did; and one of us then passed our eyes round the room to take the sentiments of those present, as I thought and still think. I think I should be the individual myself to say, "Now, Sir William, what do you say?" "Well, I think we had better," would be the answer. My impression is that Mr. Tillett said nothing, but gave that sort of assent which at cabinet councils we should take to be an assent.

38,775. At all events he gave no dissent?—No. I understood the same from Mr. Colman and Mr. Coaks. I do not think that Mr. Stevens had to give an opinion. I assumed that Mr. Stevens would probably assent to the opinions given already. Of course I give this evidence very reluctantly, because it is somewhat different from that given by gentlemen equally honourable as myself, and who would equally scorn with myself to say that which could for one moment be said to be untrue. I took it myself as a unanimous decision, and I take it so now. I believe when we rose I was very glad to get away, wanting to get home to my dinner. and I believe Mr. Colman, we live near one another, took me home in his brougham and dropped me at my house.

38,776. Nothing more occurred?—No.

38,777. You say that someone said, "It has generally cost 30*l.* or 40*l.*" Do you carry in your memory who it was who said that?—No, I would not be certain. I will say this, it certainly was not Mr. Tillett.

38,778. It could hardly be Sir William Russell because he was asking for information?—It might be Mr. Coaks.

38,779. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Or it might be Mr. Ray?—It might. I do not think that either of these gentlemen would wish to evade answering the question. It is difficult to remember what passed exactly.

38,780. All we want is your impression.—I believe the apparent contradiction in our evidence might be explained.

38,781. I think we quite understand it.—You will allow me to say this: I think probably that after I left (if I did leave with Mr. Colman, though it might be some other occasion when we rode off together) there was a conversation between Mr. Tillett and Mr. Stevens, or someone else, when Mr. Tillett might have expressed that reluctance which he thinks he expressed in the first instance. He might say, "I do not like this business of the show of hands," and then Mr. Womersley, or anyone else who might be there acquainted with the large mass of working classes, might say, "All the people would be too happy to go;" and the arrangement might then have been made unknown to me, that the men from Colman's might go up, if they so liked, and if there was any protection required for them at the door that should be arranged for; but that is new to me; I know nothing about it, though it is quite possible, and I hope it is so.

38,782. It might be with a view to save expense?—Yes. It is with great reluctance I give evidence which differs from men equally honourable as myself. The great point with me in the matter of the show of hands was that all the expenditure should be legal, because when Sir William Russell asked me to act for him, I took the liberty of saying to him, "I have no "doubt what your answer will be, but the expenditure "at this election, so far as you are concerned, is to be "confined to that which is strictly legal and free from "any of those consequences which, I believe, almost "every gentleman who occupies a position in Norwich "wishes to avoid," and his answer was in that frank manner in which Sir William Russell does speak, "Most certainly." I remember quite well Sir William Russell said, "Now, Mr. Youngs, will you confer "another favour upon me, will you keep your eye upon "the expenditure during the next few days to keep it "within the mark and see that nothing occurs which "ought not to occur so far as it can be prevented." I said (having first of all persuaded Mr. Coaks to take the agency, because he declined to do so, and declined so much that we even went over the Law List of Norwich to see whom we could best send for, and was on the point of sending for another gentleman when Mr. Coaks yielded, I believe, to my persuasions, and consented to take the agency), "I understood you, Sir "William, just now correctly as to the nature of the "expenditure, but I think the proper course is for "every item to be under the supervision of Mr. Coaks; "he would know better than I could any item which "would approach illegality." I said that was an uncertainty that I could not take upon myself, and it would be much better that the whole thing should be placed in the hands of Mr. Coaks.

38,783. You felt that Mr. Coaks was a better judge of what payments would be legal or illegal than yourself?—Yes. He is a most able solicitor in this town, and an experienced man.

38,784. To your knowledge was there any payment of a corrupt or illegal character made on the part of Sir William Russell during the last election?—No, I know of none.

38,785. Or of any bribery, or treating, or corruption of any kind on the Liberal side?—No; it is so contrary to the honourable understanding made between the gentlemen that I could not conceive it possible.

38,786. Have you heard since of any?—I have not heard. I have read the evidence here, and have occasionally been allowed to be in attendance here in court and heard what has been going on, but beyond that I know of nothing. I shall be very happy on any future occasion to render any assistance to the Commission in my power.

38,787. We are much obliged to you for your courtesy, I am sure.—I shall only be too glad to furnish you with any information that I may possess.

BRERETON GEORGE WOODHOUSE sworn and examined.

B. G. Woodhouse.

38,788. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

38,789. What is your business?—A clerk.

38,790. In what office?—In the Norwich Union Fire Office.

38,791. Were you a check clerk at the last election?—No.

38,792. Was your son?—No, I have no son.

38,793. Was any person of your name employed as check clerk, do you know?—I do not know.

38,794. Do you live in Victoria Street?—Yes.

38,795. Were you employed in any capacity at the election?—I was in the committee room on Grapes Hill for about three hours.

38,796. Were you paid for that?—Not a farthing.

38,797. Your was a gratuitous service?—Yes.

38,798. Did anybody canvass you for your vote?—No.

38,799. I suppose almost all the people in the Norwich Union Fire Office voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—I think not.

38,800. Were those your principles?—Yes, my principles are Conservative.

38,801. Did you receive, or were you promised anything, for voting?—No, not at all.

JOHN ELMER sworn and examined.

J. Elmer.

38,802. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—Managing merchant's clerk.

38,803. Did you take a busy part in the election?—Yes, rather so; a canvassing part.

38,804. A paid canvasser?—No, not at all.

38,805. You canvassed for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

38,806. How many days?—Parts of three or four days; I think four days, if I remember rightly.

38,807. How many houses do you suppose you canvassed?—A great number in that time.

38,808. Did you find, when you were canvassing, that a considerable number of voters hung back, to make terms for themselves?—Undoubtedly a great number did hang back.

38,809. In the district which you canvassed?—Yes.

38,810. Did any of those persons say they were waiting for money?—I did not hear such a remark.

38,811. Did they lead you to understand it by their attitude?—No, not at all.

38,812. In no instance?—I do not remember one. They were merely as I found them on many other occasions, hanging back to please themselves, but for what reason I cannot imagine.

38,813. Are you aware of any money being spent on your side in bribing voters?—No, I do not know of a single instance.

38,814. Were you aware of any treating going on in public-houses?—No, not at all; not the slightest, except people treating themselves.

38,815. Are you aware of any claims whatever being made on Sir Henry Stracey's friends for services rendered that day?—No, not one.

38,816. You have no knowledge of it yourself?—No.

38,817. Has any money passed through your hands for other than legal expenses?—Not a single farthing, for either legal or other expenses.

38,818. You made no promise to anyone, either money, favour, or advancement?—No, not the value of half a pint of beer.

JOHN GRIGGS sworn and examined.

J. Griggs.

38,819. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—An ex-policeman.

38,820. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

38,821. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

38,822. At what time in the day?—From a quarter to half-past 3.

38,823. Did you get anything for it?—No.

38,824. Why did you not vote earlier?—The reason I did not vote earlier is, that I waited to see how the case went with Mr. Russell, and if Mr. Russell had been behind Mr. Tillett I would have supported Mr. Russell and Sir Henry Stracey; that is the reason.

38,825. Your game was to keep Mr. Tillett out?—It was. I do not like a Radical.

PHILIP READ sworn and examined.

P. Read.

38,826. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a harness maker?—No.

38,827. Do you live in Coburg Street?—Yes.

38,828. What are you?—A seedsman.

38,829. Do you live at the back of St. Peter's?—No, I live in Stone Place, Coburg Street.

38,830. Did you vote at the last election for Sir Henry Stracey?—No.

38,831. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

38,832. For whom?—Tillett and Russell.

38,833. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

38,834. Were you promised anything?—No.

BENJAMIN CLARKE sworn and examined.

B. Clarke.

38,835. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A shoemaker.

38,836. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

38,837. At what time in the day?—A quarter before 9.

38,838. Had you promised your vote?—No, I had not promised it, no further than I intended to go.

38,839. Had you been asked for it?—I was solicited for it.

38,840. Had you told people you were going to vote for Stracey?—Yes.

38,841. Your friends?—No, the parties that came and asked me for my vote.

38,842. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

38,843. Has anything been given to you since?—No.

38,844. You had promised to vote for Russell and Tillett?—No, I did not. They asked me if I was going to do so, and I said no.

38,845. When was that?—That was before the election.

38,846. The night before, was it not?—A day or two before I think it was.

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

B. Clarke.

12 Oct. 1869.

38,847. That person left you under the impression that you were going to vote for Tillett, did he not?—They thought I should do so, and I said, "No, unless "my mind was altered I should not vote for that "man, because I never intended to do so."

38,848. Did you not go up to the poll with Worledge?—He was there.

38,849. And you went to the poll with him?—I drove in a cart, and he was at the poll at the time I voted.

38,850. What did he give you?—He gave me nothing.

38,851. Did he not give you some beer?—No.

38,852. To what public-house did you go after you had voted?—I went home and went to work.

38,853. Did you not get some beer for your vote that day?—No, only what I paid for.

38,854. Was nothing promised you at all for your vote?—No.

38,855. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes.

38,856. Is this the first time you have voted?—Yes,

38,857. Did not Worledge promise you anything?—No.

38,858. He was giving away his money in beer you know; did he give you nothing?—He never gave me anything.

38,859. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Had you not seen the day before the election Mr. Hart and Dr. Bloomfield?—Before the election you say?

38,860. Yes, the night before the election did you not see them?—I think Mr. Bloomfield.

38,861. The night before the election did you not see Mr. Hart and Dr. Bloomfield?—No.

38,862. Did you see Mr. Hart and Bloomfield any day or night before the election?—They came and asked me two or three days before who I was going to vote for.

38,863. Did you not then promise to vote for Mr. Tillett?—No.

38,864. What answer did you give them?—I said I should not vote for Mr. Tillett unless my mind was wonderfully altered.

38,865. Now, be careful, did you not tell them that you would vote for Tillett?—No.

38,866. What answer did you make?—I said no, unless my mind was altered.

38,867. Unless your mind was altered?—Yes; I did not intend to vote for Mr. Tillett, but if my mind was altered I might do so.

38,868. What would alter your mind?—I could tell you what would alter my mind very quick.

38,869. Did you mean that your mind might be altered if you had a 5*l.* note given to you?—No, it is not likely.

38,870. Did you not mean if you had money given to you your mind might be altered?—I will tell you. My missus wished me to vote for Tillett, and I said, No, I shall vote my way, and if I had altered my mind I should have voted to oblige her, and not without. You have got the truth this time.

38,871. I am very glad to get the truth, but we had not got it before.—I was not asked for it.

38,872. You have been asked how you came to vote for Stracey?—That was my way; and I always go my own way, and let a woman go hers.

38,873. I am quite sure we have not got to the bottom of it, from the way you are giving your evidence. I suppose you would not be ashamed of doing a thing to oblige a woman? If you had voted for Tillett you would not have been ashamed of obliging your wife?—I vote for principle.

38,874. Against your wife?—Yes, of course I should.

38,875. Why did you say, unless something changed you, you would not vote for Tillett?—I am not learned in the way of expressing myself.

38,876. (Mr. Biron.) I think you are very much to be envied; your wife was for Tillett?—Yes.

W. Berwick.

WILLIAM BERWICK sworn and examined.

38,877. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A brush-maker.

38,878. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

38,879. At what time in the day?—Half-past 11.

38,880. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

38,881. Did you get anything for it?—No, not anything.

38,882. No beer?—No, only what I paid for.

38,883. No money?—No.

38,884. Or the promise of anything?—No.

J. Hayes.

JONATHAN HAYES sworn and examined.

38,885. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you down at the "Marquis of Granby" upon the day of election?—No.

38,886. Were you never at the "Marquis of Granby"?—No, not on the day of election.

38,887. Where were you?—In the sixth ward, and never went out of it the whole day till past 6 at night.

38,888. Where do you live?—In King Street.

38,889. What are you by trade?—A turner by trade, a master turner.

38,890. Do you know a man of the name of Daniel Stone?—In what parish?

38,891. Do you know a Daniel Stone?—I know two Daniel Stones in the sixth ward.

38,892. Did you see him about 3 o'clock on the election day?—That is a question which rather interferes with me, because I do not know which Daniel Stone you mean.

38,893. Did you see a Daniel Stone?—I saw a Daniel Stone about 2 o'clock.

38,894. Did you offer him 2*s.* 6*d.* to vote for Stracey?—I cannot say I offered him 2*s.* 6*d.*; I merely said, "I suppose half-a-crown will buy you at any time?" I had no authority to buy any man, and I had no money to buy any with.

38,895. How came you to be offering him 2*s.* 6*d.* for his vote?—So far as that goes, I have been in King Street, and know a great many of the people about there, and we were passing jokes at each other. I merely said it knowing he was loitering about for what he could get. I said, "I suppose half-a-crown will buy you?" and he said, "Nonsense! I shall go and vote as I like."

38,896. Did you not mean it?—No, I had no intention of giving any, because I had no authority to give any money.

38,897. You might not have any authority, and yet you might give it?—I did not give it, and he never saw the sight of coin.

38,898. He did not see the colour of your money?—I never offered it to him.

38,899. He told you he voted the other way?—Yes, so I see by the public papers which way he voted.

38,900. Did you get up any voters?—Yes, I was busy on the election days.

38,901. How many did you get up?—I think I got five up.

38,902. Who were they?—Edward Scarlett was one, and Robert Flood was another, and a Mr. Harrison, of St. Julian's, Church Street, or St. Julian's, Church Alley you might term it, and the other I think was Wallace that keeps the "Elephant and Castle."

38,903. Who employed you to get up voters?—Not anyone. I never was employed.

38,904. Did you do it of your own wish?—Yes.

38,905. You were entirely a volunteer in the matter?

—Yes, and always was all my lifetime, so far as electioneering affairs go.

38,906. You have always been an active partisan?—At times.

38,907. You did not go to the "Trumpet" to see who was there?—No, I never stepped out of the sixth ward.

38,908. Being an active partisan what did you give any of these people?—Not a farthing; not a fraction.

38,909. Did you promise them?—No further than what I have said, "I suppose half-a-crown will buy you at any time."

38,910. You did not give any of these other men anything?—No.

39,911. Nor yet promise them?—No, nor yet promise them. I had no authority to do so.

38,912. You were trying to get up that man Daniel Stone?—I was not trying no further than that he happened to come across me at 2 o'clock, and I said, "Have you voted?" and he said, "No."

38,913. I suppose you wanted him to vote?—It is natural we did; every one of us that was on that footing.

38,914. You would not have said that about the half-crown if you were trying to get him to vote unless you meant to give it to him. It would be to insult a man?—As far as that goes it was only merely laughing and chatting as we came across each other.

38,915. You tried it on, and if it had answered you might have given it, I suppose?—No, I should not have given it, because I had not the power to give it. I was not authorised to give it, and I do not think the men would have taken it if even I had offered it.

38,916. Being an active partisan did you ever spend any money at an election before?—No more than going in at a public-house and getting a glass of ale, and treating a friend with a glass.

38,917. You have spent money at former elections?—Only amongst friends.

38,918. Giving them something to drink?—Not on the point of getting votes.

38,919. I am speaking of former elections.—No, not on the point of getting votes.

38,920. What was it given for?—I had not anything to give them.

38,921. Did you never give any money to get up voters?—Not that I am aware of.

38,922. Not that you are aware of; you are not likely to forget it?—As far as that goes I never had any money given me to give away.

38,923. They say Hardiment had no money given to him, and yet he spent a large sum of money.—I never did.

38,924. You never spent any of your own money?—Not for the sake of an election at all.

38,925. Not at any election?—No.

38,926. At how many elections have you been active?—About three.

38,927. Do you know of any money having been put about at those elections?—I never saw any. I have heard talk about it. I understood that at Bury and Schneider's election Mr. Wilde came down at 3 in the morning with a lot of money, but I never see any.

38,928. I suppose you got nothing for your vote?—No, not a farthing.

38,929. Nor the promise of anything?—No.

38,930. Did you not promise, or give any beer, to any man for voting that day?—Not for his vote.

38,931. Not a drop?—No, none at all.

ELIZABETH SEELEY sworn and examined. E. Seeley.

38,932. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you know a lady of the name of Mrs. French?—Yes, she is an old acquaintance of mine.

38,933. Do you recollect being in her company on the evening of the election?—I was there in the evening of the day of the election.

38,934. And a person called Richard Green, a plasterer by trade, came in there?—Yes, he did.

38,935. Can you tell me what Green said about the election?—He said that he had 20*l.* put into his hands at 3 o'clock on that day to go and do the best he could with, and he said that he and two or three more went and turned the election.

38,936. When he said that was he drunk or sober?—I do not know; he could not be sober, I do not think by the way he spoke. I do not know; I can only say as I saw him there.

38,937. Was your impression that he was speaking seriously about what he had done, or that he was speaking in joke?—I did not notice him so much as I might have done. I did not speak to him or him to me. He was merely saying of it to Mrs. French; but those are the words he said, and Mrs. French said he did not turn it without bribing; that was the statement she made, and that is all I know about it.

GEORGE RANDALL HOLMES sworn and examined. G. R. Holmes.

38,938. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—I did not.

38,939. What are you?—I am an accountant.

38,940. Did you take any active part in the election?—I was manager of the sixth ward on behalf of Sir Henry Stracey.

38,941. Were you at the sixth ward committee room?—I was.

38,942. Previous to the election?—Yes.

38,943. You were attending there for some days, I suppose?—Yes.

38,944. How many days?—Six or seven days, about a week before the election.

38,945. Were the reports of the canvassers brought in to you from time to time?—They met there in the evening after going canvassing about, but we did not take any particular account of the canvass. It was brought up there what there was done.

38,946. Were you the manager of that ward?—Yes, I was.

38,947. On the election day did you attend to the committee room?—I was there the whole day; I never left it.

38,948. Did anything occur during the day to lead you to suspect that there were any improper practices on the part of your own side?—Nothing whatever.

38,949. Or on the other side?—Nor on the other side.

38,950. You remained there checking the poll, I suppose?—Yes.

38,951. And sending out after voters who promised you, and who had not yet polled?—No, parties came backwards and forwards just to see who had not voted.

38,952. They wanted to know who had not voted, and you gave the information?—Yes.

38,953. You trusted to other people to bring them up?—Yes.

38,954. Did anything in the shape of bribery, or treating, or corrupt practices come within your personal knowledge?—No, nothing whatever.

38,955. Have you since heard of anything with regard to bribery or treating beyond what has been spoken of in this court?—No.

38,956. And before the election judge?—No.

38,957. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did not some people come in and say there were a number of persons who wanted a day's pay?—There was such a thing, parties standing about. I said, "Go and get them to vote;" but nothing further than that. I should have inferred

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

G. R. Holmes.

12 Oct. 1869.

from what they said that perhaps they thought about getting something.

38,958. Between 2 and 3 was not anything said in your ward about paying the men?—No, nothing to me.

38,959. Or in your hearing?—No, nor in my hearing.

38,960. Were you aware that any money was being spent in any way?—No, not the slightest. I had not the least idea of it.

38,961. You made a very sudden spring. Did it not take you rather by surprise?—It appeared to me they were voting very fast at the last hour, but I could not tell the reason as a matter of course. I was very busy inside, and could not tell what was going on, nor did I hear of anything.

R. Larwood.

ROBERT LARWOOD sworn and examined.

38,962. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) At what time in the day did you vote?—Between 2 and 3; I cannot say exactly, but it would be between 2 and 3.

38,963. Had you been canvassed for your vote before?—The blues came to mine the night before.

38,964. What did you say to the blues?—I said I did not think I should vote at all, because I did not think I would lose a day's work after it.

38,965. You did not vote till very nearly a quarter to 4?—I do not know the time, but I think it was not so late as that by a good deal.

38,966. You had been asked to vote, had you not, for Russell and Tillett?—Yes, that I had.

38,967. Have you a nephew?—I do not know what that means.

38,968. Has your brother or sister got a son?—Layton married one of my daughters.

38,969. Were you not going up to the poll with him?—He asked me to go.

38,970. And did he not ask you to go and vote for Tillett?—Yes.

38,971. Were you not going to vote for him?—I will tell you the reason I did not vote for Tillett. A man came to me the night before, and I said I did not think I should vote at all. "Oh," he says, "give Mr. Tillett a vote," and I said, No, I did not think I should lose a day's work after it. He said, "Never "mind a day's work, perhaps you will be rewarded "for that," and I voted on purpose. I had nothing.

38,972. In order to get you to vote they promised you a day's work?—They said, "Let your day's work be, perhaps you will get rewarded for that." I made up my mind and voted on purpose. I had no money, and never see a drop of beer.

38,973. Did not anybody promise you your day's work?—They did not promise me I should have the money; they said, "Never mind the day's work."

38,974. That was the night before?—Yes.

38,975. Who promised you your day's work on the day of the election?—Nobody; I had nothing.

38,976. Did your wife tell you she was promised a day's work?—No.

38,977. Your wife told you to go and vote for Stracey, did she not?—Well, I do not know what she said. No; I had made up my mind before I came away from my sister, about 10 minutes, to go and vote for Mr. Stracey, and only 10 minutes I believe.

38,978. What made you make up your mind at your sister's?—I do not know anything about that. I was turning the mangle for her all the day.

38,979. Do you not know that either your sister or your wife were promised a day's work?—No, I was promised no further than I have said.

38,980. Who do you say promised you your day's work?—They did not right promise me I should get paid a day's work. They said, "Never mind the day's work."

38,981. (Mr. Biron.) Who said that the day's work would not matter?—The men that came after your names the night before.

38,982. Who were they?—I do not know who they were.

38,983. Which side were they?—They were the blues, and I voted on purpose.

38,984. You voted Tory?—Yes. I had nothing promised on the Tory side, and never spoke to one not the whole day; only when I went to the poll I said I voted for Mr. Stracey, and gave it in direct.

38,985. Did not your wife tell you to go and vote for Stracey?—Not till after I had made up my mind.

38,986. After you had made up your mind, your wife told you to go and vote for Stracey?—Not till after I had made up my mind. I said, "Give "me Mr. Stracey's card, and I will give him a "plumper."

38,987. Did she not tell you to go and vote for Stracey?—Not to the best of my knowledge. I forget. I know nothing about that.

38,988. They say she can do what she likes with you?—I think it is very likely true.

38,989. Did she not tell you to go and vote for Stracey, and you went and did it?—I had made up my mind about 10 minutes before I came from my sister's.

38,990. What made you make up your mind in 10 minutes?—I told her before I came away how I should vote.

38,991. Who spoke to you to induce you to make up your mind in that 10 minutes?—There was not anyone. No one was in the room; there was only I and she in the room.

38,992. The thought suddenly came across you?—Yes, that is it.

38,993. It was a very sudden thought?—That is the truth. I will not tell a lie about it at all.

38,994. Do you not know that your wife got something?—No, that she did not, not a halfpenny, and never see a halfpenny. I would not say it if it was not true, not for all the world.

38,995. Do you mean to say you never got anything for your vote?—No, nothing.

38,996. Were you promised anything?—No, nor promised anything afterwards, nor yet at that time.

38,997. Have you ever had anything since?—No, nothing at all. I reckon I gave my vote as free as anyone in the city.

R. Carter.

ROBERT CARTER sworn and examined.

38,998. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—I have no trade at all. I was a servant.

38,999. You live on your own means?—Yes.

39,000. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

39,001. Have you ever served in his family?—No.

39,002. Did anybody ask you to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—No.

39,003. Had you promised your vote?—No.

39,004. Have you voted before in this city?—No.

39,005. Did you receive anything for voting?—No.

39,006. Was any promise made to you?—No.

39,007. Were you not canvassed at any time?—I canvassed a little.

39,008. You canvassed a little yourself?—Yes.

39,009. How many persons did you canvass?—I cannot say. I canvassed three days, about three or four hours in the day.

39,010. Who asked you to canvass?—Mr. Holmes.

39,011. Did he give you any money for the purposes of the canvass?—No.

39,012. Not for conveyance?—No.

39,013. Did you give any money to persons to vote?—No, none.

39,014. Did you lead them to believe that they would get a day's wages?—No, none.

39,015. Do you know any of their wives?—No.

39,016. Were you at any public-houses during the day of the poll?—Yes.

39,017. Which?—I was at the "Richmond Hill" tavern.

39,018. Any other?—I went into one in Ber Street.

39,019. Which was that?—The "Foresters' Arms."

39,020. Who keeps that?—I do not know the man's name; Hewett, I think.

39,021. Were you in any other public-house that day?—No.

39,022. When you were in those public-houses were you a party to the men being treated?—No.

39,023. You were looking up the voters there?—I went in to see if there were any, but there was not.

39,024. Did you not find any?—I found a few, but they would not go and vote.

39,025. Were they standing out for a day's pay?—Yes, that is what they stood for.

39,026. They let you know that?—Yes.

39,027. You had no money to give them?—No.

39,028. Did you tell any of them if there was any money going you would see that they had their share?—I did not know there was any going anywhere.

39,029. But you might have said it?—I did not; I never promised none.

39,030. Without promising did you say if there was any money going you would see that they had their share?—No.

39,031. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Nothing of that sort?—No, not at all.

39,032. (Mr. Mansfield.) Mr. Holmes was the manager of your ward, was he not?—Yes, he was.

39,033. He was putting a little money about?—I do not think he was; I never see any, and never heard of any.

39,034. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes, I am certain.

39,035. Have you had anything paid you since?—No, not a farthing.

39,036. Have you heard of Mr. Holmes getting anything since?—No.

39,037. Is this the first election at which you have been active?—Yes.

39,038. Do you know of any money being given away for the purpose of getting votes?—No, not a farthing.

CORNELIUS SEAMAN sworn and examined.

C. Seaman.

39,039. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

39,040. At what time in the day?—About half-past 2, I think.

39,041. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—Yes.

39,042. By whom?—By Mr. Stracey.

39,043. Did you promise to give it?—Yes.

39,045. Did you get anything for giving it?—No, nothing.

39,046. Nor the promise of anything?—No, nothing whatever.

WILLIAM CHARLES WOODCOCK sworn and examined.

W. C. Woodcock.

39,047. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) At what time in the morning of the election day did you go into the "Carpenters' Arms"?—I was there all the morning.

39,048. At what time did you go?—I was there all the morning, from about 8 o'clock I think.

39,049. How long did you remain there?—Almost all the day.

39,050. Did you not remain there till very nearly 4?—Past 3, I think it was.

39,051. Who was treating you there?—No one.

39,052. No one at all?—No.

39,053. Were you only treating yourself?—And two or three young people I was with.

39,054. You got very drunk, did you not?—Yes.

39,055. You went up and voted at a little before 4, did you not?—It was after 3.

39,056. Do you recollect anything about voting?—I was rather too far in drink then.

39,057. You were so drunk, were you not, that Thompson and Martin were obliged to carry you up?—They led me both of them.

39,058. Do you mean to say that other people had not been treating you and giving you something to drink?—Only at my own expense.

39,059. How much did you spend?—I cannot tell you exactly.

39,060. Who came and fetched you up to the poll?—Martin and Thompson; I was with them all the morning.

39,061. Drinking together?—Yes.

39,062. What did they get for voting, do you know?—They had no vote, I do not think, them two.

39,063. Did they not get something for voting?—No.

39,064. They got something for polling you, you know?—No.

39,065. It was a troublesome job to get you up to the poll; they had to carry you?—I did not think about going.

39,066. They had a troublesome job to get you up?—Yes, because I said I would not go.

39,067. They carried you up?—They pulled me up.

39,068. What did they get for carrying you up?—Nothing.

39,069. When they got you up they shouted "Stracey" in your ears?—Yes.

39,070. All the time you were voting?—They said, "Give Stracey a plumper."

39,071. They halloed that out in your ear the whole time?—Yes, in the street.

39,072. You heard it and gave Stracey a plumper?—Yes.

39,073. Did anybody give you anything for your vote?—No.

39,074. Not after you had voted?—No.

39,075. Before you had voted?—No, not anything.

39,076. Did they promise you anything?—No.

39,077. Where did you get all the money you spent in drink?—I worked for it.

39,078. Do you mean to say you got nothing whatever for voting?—No.

39,079. You were very drunk, and you got nothing whatever for voting after all?—Only at my own expense.

39,080. Did anybody give you anything afterwards?—No, not so much as a glass of ale.

WILLIAM LARKMAN sworn and examined.

W. Larkman.

39,081. Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A gardener.

39,082. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

39,083. At what time in the day?—Directly after dinner.

39,084. Who asked you for your vote?—No one.

39,085. Had you not promised?—No.

39,086. Had you told anybody how you were going to vote?—No.

39,087. What did you get for it?—Not anything.

39,088. Did you not try?—No.

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

W. Larkman.

12 Oct. 1869.

39,089. Did you not know there was some money going?—No, I never heard anything of the sort.

39,090. At what public-house were you on the day of the poll?—None at all.

39,091. Not one?—No.

39,092. Did you not get any beer for voting?—No.

39,093. Were you paid anything afterwards?—No.

39,094. What became of you after you had voted?—I went back to my work.

39,095. Have you ever voted before?—No.

39,096. Have you always been a Tory?—I have always been on the Conservative side. I work for the Conservatives, and always did.

39,097. Have you voted for the Conservatives in the city elections?—Yes.

H. Barnes.

HENRY BARNES sworn and examined.

39,098. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

39,099. At what time in the day?—About 20 minutes to 4.

39,100. What were you doing in the early part of the day?—Taking up potatoes for the market.

39,101. How long did that take you?—I had been taking up seven or eight pecks.

39,102. What did you get for your vote?—I never got anything.

39,103. What were you promised?—Nothing.

39,104. Where were you at work?—At Mr. Shorten's till I went and voted.

39,105. Where is that?—He is a gardener at Lakenham.

39,106. Were you at his garden the whole of the day?—Yes, till half-past 2 or 3 o'clock.

39,107. And then what did you do?—I went and voted.

39,108. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—No.

39,109. Had no one asked you?—No.

39,110. What made you vote?—Because my master is a Tory, and of course I went his way.

39,111. He voted for Stracey?—Yes.

39,112. And asked you to vote the same way?—Yes.

R. Brown.

ROBERT BROWN sworn and examined.

39,113. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

39,114. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

39,115. At what time in the day?—As near as I can tell about 10 o'clock.

39,116. Had you promised your vote beforehand?—No.

39,117. Had you not been canvassed?—No.

39,118. Did anybody come and ask you to vote at all?—No.

39,119. On either side?—No.

39,120. Did anybody come and ask you to go up to the poll that morning?—No.

39,121. You went up entirely of your own accord?—Yes, just so.

39,122. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

39,123. Were you promised anything for your vote?—No, nothing.

39,124. What is your business?—A cordwainer.

39,125. Where do you live?—At present at Tasburgh.

39,126. Where did you live at the time of the election?—At Tasburgh then.

T. Kent.

THOMAS KENT sworn and examined.

39,127. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A pensioner and labourer.

39,128. For whom do you work?—For Mr. Bullard.

39,129. Did he ask you to vote?—No.

39,130. For whom did you vote?—I was for Sir Henry Stracey.

39,131. What made you vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Because it was my disposition.

39,132. Were you not asked by anyone?—No.

39,133. Did you promise to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Not to any person.

39,134. Did you tell anybody you were going to vote for him?—No.

39,135. What did you get for voting?—Nothing at all.

39,136. Not even a glass of beer?—Nothing from any person.

39,137. At what hour in the day did you poll?—About half-past 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

39,138. Why did you not vote earlier?—Because I could not.

39,139. Why not?—Because I was locked up in the station-house.

39,140. What for?—For being drunk on the nomination day.

39,141. Did you go into the hall on the nomination day?—No, I was in the market, and walked about the streets and got a drop too much. That is telling you the truth.

39,142. Did your political friends give you that?—Yes—oh no, no particular friends.

39,143. Did any of the friends of Sir Henry Stracey give it to you?—No, it was all out of my own friends.

39,144. Did Inspector Clarke give you any?—I never spoke to him in my life, and do not know the man hardly.

39,145. He spoke to you perhaps?—No, never, and he do not know me.

39,146. Were you asked to go to the hall by anybody?—No, never; and I do not believe all the time I ever went into the hall.

39,147. Were you so drunk that you cannot recollect whether you went into the hall or not?—I am confident I did not go into the hall, because I walked up Magdalen Street.

39,148. You are confident you were very drunk that day?—I was not so very drunk that day. I was what they call knocked stupid.

39,149. Have you ever had anything since for voting?—No.

39,150. Did they not give you some drink when you voted?—Never half a glass of beer did I get from any man. As soon as the magistrates liberated me, I went up to the poll and gave my vote as what I call a man, and never spoke to no one either going or coming back.

R. Butler.

ROBERT BUTLER sworn and examined.

39,151. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A foundryman.

39,152. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

39,153. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

39,155. Where had you been in the early part of the day?—I had been at home.

39,156. At your own house?—Yes.

39,157. The whole day?—Yes.

39,158. What were you doing there?—Sitting by the fire, and enjoying myself.

39,159. Waiting, I suppose, for someone to take you to the poll, and give you something for voting?—No.

39,160. Why did you not vote sooner?—Because I had some relations over, and I spent the day with them.

39,161. Is that your reason?—Yes.

39,162. Who were the relations?—A mother-in-law and a father-in-law.

39,163. How was it you managed to tear yourself away towards half-past 3?—I thought then I would go and vote, and so I did.

39,164. Why had you not thought of that before?—I do not know; I thought that was time enough.

39,165. What did you get for it?—Nothing.

39,166. Who came for you?—No one.

39,167. Who was sent for you?—No one.

39,168. Do you mean to tell me that you went of your own accord?—Yes, I did.

39,169. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—No, I had not.

39,170. You had not promised your vote to anybody?—No.

39,171. Did you get neither money nor beer?—No.

39,172. Or the promise of anything?—No.

CHARLES DANIELS sworn and examined. C. Daniels.

39,173. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You were at Larkman's house, the "Thorn" tavern, on the day of the election, were you not?—No.

39,174. Do you live at Mill Street, Lakenham?—Yes.

39,175. Do you mean to say you were not in Larkman's house that day?—I was not, and do not know where it is.

39,176. Where were you on the day of the election?—I gave my vote at about 12 o'clock.

39,177. Where were you before you went up to the poll?—At Mr. Colman's, at work there till I went and gave my vote in.

39,178. Which way did you vote?—For Russell and Tillett.

39,179. Is there any other Charles Daniels of Mill Street, Lakenham?—I am not aware; there are several Daniels in my street, but I am sure I do not know any other Charles Daniels.

39,180. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

39,181. Nor any promise for your vote?—No.

39,182. You voted of your free good will, and without any influence?—Yes.

JOHN STAFF sworn and examined. J. Staff.

39,183. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—I am a weaver by trade, but I have no employment, and am forced to get my living as I can.

39,184. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

39,185. What did you get?—Nothing.

39,186. Did you not try?—No one came near me, and I never asked for anything.

39,187. Were you not looking to get something for your vote?—No, that I was not.

39,188. At what time did you vote?—About 3 o'clock.

39,189. Had you been to any of the public-houses that day?—I went to Mr. Warnes' with my son, and got a pint of beer.

39,190. You got a little beer to go and vote?—I never see any, and I never took anything that I know of but what I paid for.

39,191. After that you went to "St. Paul's" tavern?—No, I did not.

39,192. What public-house did you go to afterwards?—No other after that, not till after the election was over.

39,193. Where did you go then?—I went to Mr. Minns' after it was over and got a pint of beer, and then went home and went to bed.

39,194. How many times were you treated during the day for the sake of your vote?—I never had not one drop.

39,195. Have you had some money paid you since for your vote?—No, I have not.

39,196. Did your wife get anything?—I have not got any wife.

39,197. Has no promise been made to you?—No, not one farthing.

39,198. Have you ever voted before?—Yes.

39,199. On which side have you voted?—I voted Conservative the last twice.

39,200. Have you always voted Conservative?—No.

39,201. Have you ever voted for the Whigs?—Yes.

39,202. What did you get for it on those occasions?—Nothing, only employment.

39,203. What sort of employment?—As messenger.

39,204. And then you voted?—Yes.

39,205. Were you employed in any way this time?—No, I never earned one penny.

39,206. I suppose you would be glad to get anything for your vote that you could?—Yes, that I should.

39,207. You did not know where anything was going?—No.

39,208. You like a day's work when you vote?—Yes.

39,209. Do you get it when you vote at the municipal elections?—I never vote at the municipal elections.

39,210. There is money going then?—I do not know; I have no vote for that.

39,211. How much do you want when you vote, five or six shillings?—I should have been very glad to have taken it; I am a very poor man.

39,212. Five shillings would satisfy you?—Yes.

NATHAN COCK sworn and examined. N. Cock.

39,213. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a drover.

39,214. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes, I did.

39,215. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

39,216. At what time in the day?—I should say it was a little after 2; it might be nigh 3, but I cannot say exactly.

39,217. Did you go and poll with anybody?—Yes.

39,218. With whom?—Mr. Brinkley went along with me; I went there and had a pint of beer first.

39,219. Is that James Brinkley?—Yes.

39,220. Did he stand the pint before you went?—No, I paid for it myself.

39,221. From where did you get the money?—From my own earnings.

39,222. Did you get anything for voting?—No, not a farthing.

39,223. Nor the promise of anything?—No, not a fraction.

39,224. You did not get any money from anybody that day?—Not a fraction.

39,225. Did you see Smith, the fowl dealer, that day?—No.

39,226. Was he not at Brinkley's that day while you were there?—No, I never saw him.

39,227. Did you see him that day at all?—I never see him that day at all.

39,228. Did you get anything for your vote?—No, not a fraction.

39,229. Neither beer nor money?—No, not a glass of beer from either side; I did not want it.

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

S. Dawson, jun.

12 Oct. 1869.

SAMUEL DAWSON, junior, sworn and examined.

39,230. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What is your occupation?—Estate and general agent.

39,231. You have been actively engaged in elections for Norwich for some years, have you not?—Yes.

39,232. You were actively engaged at the last election?—Yes, I was.

39,233. In what capacity?—As manager in the central committee room.

39,234. Who was your superior?—Mr. Chittock.

39,235. You acted under Mr. Chittock?—Yes, under his instructions.

39,236. Upon former elections have you acted in a similar capacity?—Yes, I did at Mr. Waters' election.

39,237. On the Conservative side?—Yes.

39,238. Kitton was alive at that election?—Yes.

39,239. Mr. William Kitton?—Yes, Mr. William Manning Kitton.

39,240. He died before the last election?—Yes,

39,241. He had been what is called the financial agent of the Conservative party, had he not?—I believe he was at that election.

39,242. And had been at other elections?—Yes, I think he had.

39,243. Some time before the election a number of persons had been employed for the purpose of parading the streets in processions and that sort of thing, had they not?—No.

39,244. Had any persons been employed?—Yes.

39,245. By whom had they been employed?—I employed them.

39,246. Upon how many days did you employ them before the election?—I employed them for the evening's work, that is to say, if there were a meeting in St. Andrew's Hall I would have so many men, and if there were a meeting at the "Maid's Head," I would have so many men to keep the peace; that was what they were for.

39,247. How many had you so employed each time?—In St. Andrew's Hall, for instance, we had about 225, I think.

39,248. These peaceable individuals were your lambs, I suppose?—No; you must understand there was a captain to each.

39,249. They were your lambs?—Whatever you may term them.

39,250. There were 225 employed at one time?—Yes.

39,251. What did you give each man?—I think I engaged with each man to give 2*s.* and a pint of beer.

39,252. That was at St. Andrew's Hall?—Yes.

39,253. Where else had you some?—At the "Maid's Head."

39,254. How many had you there?—I think we had about 75 there.

39,255. At the same pay?—Yes, at the same pay; in fact that was the pay for the whole transaction all the way through.

39,256. Had you any other men employed any evening?—Yes, I think we had some one night where we anticipated there would be a row.

39,257. Where was that?—I think that was No. 3, North Heigham.

39,258. How many had you there?—I think it was only 25 there.

39,259. At the same pay?—Yes, at the same pay; we never made any difference.

39,260. The price for a broken head was 2*s.* and a pint of beer?—They were not there for that; they were on the defensive.

39,261. The price of a broken head was 2*s.* and a pint of beer?—Yes.

39,262. Had you had them during the day at all?—No, I never employed them in the daytime.

39,263. You know of their being employed also upon other occasions by Inspector Clarke, do you not?—No, I do not know anything about that.

39,264. (Mr. Mansfield.) That would be a separate gang of peacemakers altogether?—Yes, it would be.

39,265. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) With regard to the men whom you so employed, the lambs, have you got any list of them?—I have got the receipts of what we call the captains, to whom we paid the money.

39,266. How many had each captain under him?—Some had 50, another would have 25, and so on.

39,267. A captain's brigade consisted of 50?—Yes, and some 25.

39,268. When you had 25 you had only one captain?—Yes; and if we had 50 it would be just the same; there would be only one captain.

39,269. They were the paymasters; you handed the money over to them and they distributed it amongst the men?—Yes, that is it.

39,270. You did not know who the men were?—I gave the men instructions that they were not to employ a voter on any account.

39,271. Who were the captains?—Ambrose Andrews was one, and Joe Clarke another.

39,272. Where does Clarke live?—He is a Sprowston man.

39,273. Who were the other captains?—I almost forget the names, but I can easily give you the names out of my book.

39,274. Have you got the book?—Yes, I think I have got the book where I employed them, but if not Mr. Chittock has got it.

39,275. You only had them upon three days before the election?—When Sir Henry Stracey made his first speech at the "Maid's Head" we had a few then.

39,276. Did you have them upon more than three occasions before the day of nomination?—No, I think not; but I will not say for certain.

39,277. On the day of nomination you had a number of men engaged, had you not?—No, I never engaged one.

39,278. Were you at the nomination?—No, I did not go.

39,279. Had you no lambs that day?—No.

39,280. Not under your guidance?—No; Mr. Chittock told them that there was an agreement between the agents that there should be no men employed at all.

39,281. We hear that a considerable body got into the hall, headed by Mr. Stanley; had you any thing to do with that?—No, nothing at all.

39,282. On the day of the election did you provide the gentlemen who had the cocked hats and colors?—I did not engage any men for the election day, not in a rough capacity.

39,283. We will not call them "roughs;" did you employ some men who were dressed in Stracey's colors?—No, not one.

39,284. Do you know who employed those men dressed up in Stracey's colors?—I have no idea at all, not the slightest.

39,285. You heard of there being a lot of men dressed up in Stracey's colors, with cocked hats and so forth?—I never saw any cocked hats.

39,286. Hats with Stracey's colors?—I remember going down to the telegraph office, and seeing some fellows going round with red billheads round their crowns.

39,287. Do you know who employed them?—No, not at all.

39,288. Have you never heard?—No.

39,289. You paid the captains?—Yes.

39,290. Who gave you the funds to pay them?—I took the funds out of my own cash, that is to say, supposing I wanted 5*l.* or 10*l.* or 20*l.*, I drew a cheque and got the money.

39,291. You found the funds?—Yes.

39,292. Who paid them back?—Mr. Chittock paid it all back.

39,293. Did Mr. Chittock pay the expenses of those men who were engaged at the St. Andrew's Hall on those three days you mentioned before the election?—Yes.

39,294. Did you pay anything for bands?—No.

39,295. Can you give me the entire sum which you paid for those men?—No, I cannot tell you now from memory; but I could easily get the book and tell you.

39,296. I should like to see that book very much; does it contain the other expenses?—There is what you may term my private cash book and the rough cash book.

39,297. I should like to see them.—You can see them. I should be happy to produce them.

39,298. Did you get money from any other person than Mr. Chittock for anything connected with the election?—No.

39,299. Have you ever since got anything on account of the election from any other person than Mr. Chittock?—No.

39,300. Do you know of any fund being provided for the payment of the expenses of the election?—No.

39,301. Was there not a fund provided for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the election on behalf of Sir Henry Stracey?—No.

39,302. Was there no guarantee with regard to the expenses?—No.

39,303. You were superintending the first ward on the day of the election?—No; I was at the central committee room all the day.

39,304. Was not that in the first ward?—No, No. 4.

39,305. Was Dr. Allen at your ward?—I do not believe I saw Dr. Allen the whole day.

39,306. Was Mr. Arthur Bignold there?—I saw him.

39,307. Had you seen Mr. Arthur Bignold several days before?—No, I should be in the committee room.

39,308. Did you not canvass at all?—No.

39,309. You confined yourself entirely to the committee room?—Yes.

39,310. Was there before the day of the election a private meeting of the principal men of Sir Henry Stracey's party, at which you were present?—I was not present at that meeting.

39,311. There was a meeting, was there not?—I think there was two or three days before.

39,312. Who presided at that meeting; do you recollect?—I do not recollect now.

39,313. Where was it held?—It was held at the "Swan," an empty house.

39,314. Who was the secretary of that meeting?—There were no minutes taken.

39,315. Who acted?—Mr. Chittock might be in the room, and I might casually go in just to speak to Mr. Patteson, or someone.

39,316. Did you hear at that time that it was considered advisable to be provided with funds against emergencies?—No. I can tell you what I did hear Sir Henry Stracey say in that very room. He said, "If I know of one single penny about to be spent I will retire at once."

39,317. I am talking of a meeting at which you said you were not present.—I might go in casually.

39,318. Was Sir Henry Stracey present at the meeting to which you allude?—Yes, he was there.

39,319. I am not speaking of a meeting at which Sir Henry Stracey was present. I am speaking of another meeting of his supporters held immediately before his election?—There were several little meetings, but not of any account.

39,320. Did you not hear of a meeting at which it was resolved to give a guarantee, or to provide a fund?—No, nothing of the sort.

39,321. Did you hear of anything being subscribed by the clubs?—No, nothing.

39,322. Did you pay out of your own pocket and with your own cheques the claims which were made upon the central committee?—I think I did a great portion of them.

39,323. Did Mr. Chittock repay you?—He used to give me 30*l.* or 40*l.* at a time.

39,324. Has anybody besides Mr. Chittock repaid you any of those sums which you so disbursed?—No, not a single person.

39,325. When did Mr. Chittock repay you those sums which you paid for the lambs? Would your cash book show that?—Yes, it would.

39,326. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did he pay you by a cheque?—No, I think he had notes; but this book, I think, will show it.

39,327. I think we had better have the book; it will save us a great deal of trouble, and you also. I do not think it would be satisfactory to finish your examination without the book, so you will be kind enough to bring it to-morrow morning, and we will examine you the first thing.—I will do so.

ARTHUR DUNN sworn and examined. A. Dunn.

39,328. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A shoemaker.

39,329. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

39,330. At what time in the day?—About half-past 3.

36,331. Did you get anything for it?—Not a penny.

39,332. What made you so late?—I do not know.

39,333. You had been idling about all day?—Yes.

39,334. I suppose trying to see what was to be got?—Yes.

39,335. Did you not hear of anything?—No, I never see anything nor yet hear of anything.

39,336. You wanted something I suppose?—Yes.

39,337. How much did you want?—As much as I could have got.

39,338. Would you have been satisfied with 5*s.*?—I do not know that I should.

39,339. Half a sovereign, would that have suited you better?—Yes, I think it would.

39,340. And then you would have voted?—I might perhaps then.

39,341. On either side?—No, I think not.

39,342. It would take more than half a sovereign to make you vote against your principles?—Yes, I think it would.

39,343. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What is the balance; 10*s.* to vote for your own candidate, and 20*s.* for the other?—I do not know. I do not think I would vote against my principles for anything.

39,344. (Mr. Mansfield.) You do not like voting for your principles without something?—I did do so.

39,345. You were forced to do it?—Yes.

JAMES FARRINGTON sworn and examined. J. Farrington.

39,346. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

39,347. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

39,348. At what time in the day?—Somewhere about 12 o'clock, as near as I can guess.

39,349. Did anybody take you up to the poll?—Yes.

39,350. Who was that?—Mr. Willis. I was going up to vote, and he asked me if I would get up in the cart.

39,351. He gave you a ride?—Yes.

39,352. Did he give you anything for voting?—No.

39,353. Did he promise you anything?—No.

39,354. Did he stand treat?—No.

39,355. Did anybody else give you anything?—No.

39,356. Or promise you anything?—No.

39,357. Had you promised to vote before the day of election?—No.

39,358. Did you go up entirely of your own accord?—Yes, I did.

39,359. Did you get anything after you had voted?—No.

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

F. Alden.

12 Oct. 1869.

FREDERICK ALDEN sworn and examined.

39,360. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You keep a public-house, do you not?—Yes.

39,361. On the day of the election you had a considerable number of men in your house, had you not?—I had several people there.

39,362. A good many?—Yes, a goodish many.

39,363. The poll was close to your house, was it not?—No.

39,364. How far from your house?—I suppose 300 or 400 yards.

39,365. How many men do you think you had at a time in your house, voters?—Seven or eight.

39,366. Do you know James Tait?—Yes.

39,367. Daniel Stigles?—Yes.

39,368. William Henry Newman?—Yes.

39,369. James Aldridge?—Yes.

39,370. James Farrington?—Yes.

39,371. Richard Nichols?—Yes.

39,372. Isaac Hayward?—Yes.

39,373. Robert Cullingford?—Yes.

39,374. Christopher Wegg?—Yes.

39,375. They were all there at one time?—Not all of them.

39,376. They were there at different times at your house?—Wegg was not there at all.

39,377. Was he not there at all that day?—No.

39,378. You gave the men in your house a considerable quantity of beer, did you not?—No.

39,379. Do you mean to say you were paid for all the beer had in your house that day?—Every drop.

39,380. Did you give none away?—No.

39,381. Who paid you for the beer?—The men that drank it themselves.

39,382. Do you mean that nobody supplied other men with beer in your house that day?—Not a single drop.

39,383. You did not give beer away yourself?—No, not half a pint.

39,384. Did any of those men whose names I have mentioned to you pay you a single farthing for beer?—Oh yes, they had pints.

39,385. Do you mean to say that they paid you for beer?—They paid for what they had.

39,386. Did any of those men pay you for beer on that day?—Yes, half-pints and pints.

39,387. Did they pay you each and every one of them?—Every one that had it paid themselves for the beer.

39,388. Did each and every man pay you for the beer they drank in your house that day?—Yes, they did.

39,389. You were going up frequently to the polling place, were you not, in the course of the day?—Only once in the day.

39,390. Are you sure that you only went once?—Yes, that is all.

39,391. Did you not go up and take a fresh man to the polling place from your house from time to time?—No, only one man.

39,392. Who was he?—Mr. Newman.

39,393. Did you take him into your house?—No, he was at mine; he came in mine.

39,394. Did you take him up to the poll?—Yes, I did.

39,395. At what time in the day?—Half-past 11 in the forenoon.

39,396. What did you give that man?—Not a glass of beer; he did not ask for it.

39,397. Did you give him any money?—No, not a farthing.

39,398. Did you promise him any money?—No, he did not ask for a single farthing; and there was not a single soul in my house that got a farthing.

39,399. Was Mr. Flowers there?—He came in the morning.

39,400. Was he not there several times in the course of the day?—Only once.

39,401. What was he doing?—I do not know; he, like anybody else, came in to have a pint.

39,402. Did he come in to speak to the men?—No, he came in along with two women.

39,403. Were those two women the wives of voters?—No.

39,404. Who were they?—I do not know.

39,405. How do you know they were not the wives of voters?—I know they were not, because I know all the men's wives.

39,406. Do you mean to say that you know the wife of every voter in Norwich?—No, of them that were in my house. I am not talking of other people.

39,407. How do you know they were not the wives of voters?—They were not the wives of them that were in my house.

39,408. How do you know they were not the wives of other voters?—That I do not know anything about.

39,409. You do not know who those women were?—No, I do not.

39,410. Did he come in and treat the women?—Yes.

39,411. How long did he remain treating the women in your house?—About 20 minutes.

39,412. Was that the only time he came?—Yes, that was the only time he came in that day.

39,413. Where did he treat the women?—At the bar.

39,414. Were there a lot of men there at the same time?—Yes.

39,415. Did he treat them?—No.

39,416. Did he treat these women with beer, or gin?—With beer; he had four glasses of the best ale.

39,417. Did he not pay you for beer supplied to the voters there?—No, he did not.

39,418-20. What quantity of beer did he pay for?—Four glasses of the best ale.

39,421. No more?—No, no more.

39,422. Not at any time that day?—Not at any time that day.

39,423. Did he not come in the afterpart of the day again?—No.

39,424. Were you in your house the whole day?—Yes. After I went out and voted and came back, I did not go out no more.

39,425. You voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes, I did, at half-past 8 in the morning.

39,426. Do you recollect once when you went out touching a man on the shoulder, and saying to him, "Come with me into my house, I have plenty of beer for you"?—No, no such thing.

39,427. Did nothing of that sort pass between you and any man?—No.

39,428. Did you not say that to any man that day?—No, I did not, and I am on my oath.

39,429. Did you not see Mrs. Turrell standing by when you said that to a man?—No, I never said it to anybody. I never asked anybody to vote. I enjoy my own opinion, and I left others to do the same.

39,430. Do you mean to say you did not ask anybody to vote that day?—I did not, and that I can swear.

39,431. These fellows were staying in your house for the purpose of getting money?—No, they were not, not one of them.

39,432. Not one?—No.

39,433. What were they staying in your house for?—They always do; they use my house.

39,434. Were they not hanging about the house all day?—Not for a farthing of money, nor yet for a glass of ale, and not one of them got a penny, I am sure of it.

39,435. Were there no voters in your house that day who wanted to be paid for their day's work?—No, not one.

39,436. You are sure of that?—Yes.

39,437. Yours was a perfectly pure house?—Yes.

39,438. And every single man who came into your house would scorn to take money?—They did not want a penny for their vote.

39,439. And you expect me to believe that?—You must please yourself about that. I know it is right.

39,440. You did not see a single man that day who wanted to be paid his day's work?—Not in my house I did not.

39,441. You did not hear any talk about it in any way?—I heard it talked about after the election was over.

39,442. Where?—In the street.

39,443. And in your house?—No, not in my house; it was after the election was over.

39,444. Did you not hear it talked of on the election day?—No; I never left my house from half-past 8 till 4.

39,445. And you did not hear a single person speak about a day's pay or a day's wages, or anything of that sort?—I did not, not one.

39,446. If that be so I think that you must be an exception to all the other people in Norwich, but my impression is that you are not an exception. I do not believe a single word you have uttered except that those men were in your house.—I have told you the truth, and not one of them got a glass of ale, and that I can prove.

SAMUEL WILLIS sworn and examined. S. Willis.

39,447. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A waiter.

39,448. For whom did you vote at this election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

39,449. What did you get for it?—Not anything.

39,450. Have you ever voted before?—No.

39,451. What time in the day did you vote?—Half-past 8 in the morning.

39,452. Had you promised your vote?—Yes, I had promised my vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

39,453. Had you promised any person you would vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

39,454. Who?—Mr. Smith of the "Bell" hotel.

39,455. When did you make that promise?—Two months before the election.

39,456. As soon as you knew that Sir Henry Stracey was a candidate?—Yes.

39,457. You voted according to promise?—Yes.

39,458. Have you had anything for it?—No.

39,459. Were you not treated on that day?—No.

JOHN AMIES sworn and examined. J. Amies.

39,460. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A builder.

39,461. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

39,462. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

39,463. At what time in the day?—Between 9 and 10.

39,464. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

39,465. Or the promise of anything?—No.

39,466. Did you take any active part in the election?—No, not any.

39,467. You did not yourself give any other people money to vote?—No.

39,468. Or interfere with the election in any way?—No, not in any way whatever.

CORNELIUS SAUNDERS sworn and examined. C. Saunders.

39,469. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A miller.

39,470. Who do you work for?—Mr. Read, of Trowse.

39,471. Were you at work on the day of the poll?—Yes.

39,472. What time did you leave your work?—Somewhere about 11.

39,473. Then did you go and vote?—I went home and cleaned myself and had my dinner.

39,474. You had your dinner and then you voted?—No.

39,475. When did you vote?—Some time between 3 and a quarter past.

39,476. Did you get anything for it?—No.

39,477. Have you had anything since?—No.

39,478. Who asked you to vote?—Well, I was asked by some of Mr. Stracey's party, but I don't know who they were. They came into the mill and asked me before the election.

39,479. When they asked you to vote did you promise?—No, I never promised at all.

39,480. Did you say that you could not make up your mind?—Yes.

39,481. What made you make up your mind between 3 and 4 on the day of the poll?—Because I had made up my mind to vote that day then.

39,482. What inducement was offered to you to make your mind to vote that way?—Nobody induced me at all.

39,483. Did you not get a little money for it?—No.

39,484. Did you not get something afterwards?—No, not a farthing.

39,485. What public houses were you at after you had had your dinner and gone out?—The "Lily" tavern.

39,486. I suppose there were a good many voters there?—I believe there were several there.

39,487. And you were all drinking together?—Yes.

39,488. I suppose there was a good deal of beer being provided for the voters?—No, not a drop that I saw.

39,489. Did you not get any?—No, not a drop.

39,490. Were you not looking out for what you could get for your vote?—No.

39,491. Is this the first time you voted?—Yes.

39,492. And you mean to tell me you got nothing for it?—No.

39,493. And did not want to get anything?—No, I never asked for anything.

39,494. I suppose you would have been very glad to get it?—Well, I was not asked that question.

39,495. But I suppose if anybody had come to you with half a sovereign you would have been very glad to take it?—I don't know that I should not have taken it if I had been offered it.

EMERSON EGLINGTON sworn and examined. E. Eglington.

39,496. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A carpenter and joiner.

39,497. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

39,498. When?—About half-past 3, as near as I can tell.

39,499. Why did you not vote earlier than that?—Well, I thought the hours of polling was from about 8 o'clock in the morning until 4 in the afternoon, and that any time would do.

39,500. What were you at the first part of the day?—Walking about and taking my pleasure.

39,501. I suppose you were waiting to see what you could get?—I was not.

39,502. Did you get anything?—No.

39,503. Or the promise of anything?—No.

39,504. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—Yes.

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

E. Eglington.

12 Oct. 1869.

39,505. Had you promised your vote?—No.

39,506. Why did you not promise?—Because I was not at home.

39,507. You were wandering about until half-past 3?—Not wandering about; I was getting a glass of ale.

39,508. What houses were you in?—The Prince of something, on Charing Cross, but I cannot tell the sign of it.

39,509. I suppose there were men in there waiting to see what they could get?—I suppose there were.

39,510. And you were waiting with them?—I was not waiting for anything.

39,511. Well, I can form my own judgment about that.

G Linstead.

GEORGE LINSTEAD sworn and examined.

39,512. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What time in the day did you vote?—Between 3 and 4.

39,513. Where were you all the day?—I made half a day's work. I work for Mr. Colman.

39,514. Up to what time did you work then?—Half-past 11.

39,515. Where were you between half-past 11 and the time you voted?—After I left off I took my horse into the stables, and I had got to see to my horse.

39,516. That would not take you very long?—Well, that would take me an hour.

39,517. What did you do then?—I went home and got my dinner, and then I laid down.

39,518. Was that your way of doing half a day's work?—That was after I had done my half day's work.

39,519. Did you not go to any publics?—No, I keep a public-house myself.

39,520. What is the name of your public-house?—The "Royal Standard."

39,521. Were there a number of men in your house?—No.

39,522. Very few, I suppose?—No, there was not anyone there.

39,523. There was nobody there?—No, we stand a little bit out of the way. It is not a place for business.

39,524. It was not in one of the thoroughfares?—No, it was not in one of the thoroughfares.

39,525. The "Royal Standard" was not patronised very much on that day?—No, it was not appreciated very much that day.

39,526. Did anyone come to the "Royal Standard" to get the landlord to vote?—No, no one came to me; I went and voted on my own principle.

39,527. Entirely on your own account?—Yes.

39,528. Without any inducement?—No.

39,529. Nobody offered you anything?—No, nothing that I wanted; but I tell you what I think I got, I got the sack.

39,530. Well, I am very sorry to hear that, if anybody discharged you because you voted according to principle.—Well, I did vote according to my own principle.

It is a very sad thing if anybody did that, and they ought to be condemned for it by every sensible man.

39,531. (Mr. Mansfield.) Were you discharged from your employment?—I was discharged from Mr. Colman's, at the Carrow Works.

39,532. Had you been threatened with it before you voted?—No, I understood Mr. Colman that every man was at liberty to vote according to his principles, and I thought I was at liberty.

39,533. (Mr. Biron.) Have you ever asked the reason of your discharge from Mr. Colman?—No; but there was another carpenter took my place, that is Mr. Thirkettle; but I voted a Tory, and that made all the difference.

39,534. Did you ever make a complaint to Mr. Colman?—No.

I think if I were you I should remonstrate with Mr. Colman first.

(Mr. Mansfield.) Then, perhaps, you might learn what you were discharged for.

39,535. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Well, I do not think that Mr. Colman, from what we have seen of him, would do such a thing as that.—I have always thought that he was a gentleman.

39,536. What did you think you were discharged for?—Because I voted according to my own principle.

39,537. There may be an intermediate man who has control over these things, and the intermediate man is worse than the master.—That may be so.

39,538. (Mr. Mansfield.) Were you in Colman's regular employment?—No, I was a jobbing carpenter; and when they had extra work they had generally sent to me to do it.

39,539. You have never been employed since?—No, Mr. Sadler, of the "Roebuck," works for them now.

39,540. Had you worked for them before?—I had worked for them before, for five years.

39,541. You had better go and see Mr. Colman. I do not think he would do such a thing as that, not on that account at any rate.

W. Smith.

WILLIAM SMITH sworn and examined.

39,542. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A carpenter.

39,543. Do you work by yourself?—Yes.

39,544. Do you employ any people?—Yes.

39,545. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

39,546. Did you make your men vote for him too?—No.

39,547. Who asked you to vote for Stracey?—I cannot tell that.

39,548. Were you asked?—Yes.

39,549. Did you promise?—I promised I would vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

39,550. Have you ever voted Tory before?—Yes.

39,551. All your life?—Yes.

39,552. Have you ever had anything for your vote?—No.

39,553. Not at any time whatever before?—No.

39,554. Have you had anything this time?—No.

39,555. Was anything promised you?—No.

39,556. Has anything been given you since?—No.

39,557. You are quite sure of that?—Yes.

39,558. Did anyone treat you on the polling day?—No.

39,559. Did you treat anybody else?—I treated myself, but I did not treat anybody else.

39,560. Did you not get up any voters for your party?—No.

39,561. Did you not pay anyone any money?—No.

39,562. Did anything go through your hands for the purposes of this election?—I did not give any money to anybody.

J. Brinkley.

JAMES BRINKLEY sworn and examined.

39,563. (Mr. Biron.) Do you keep a public-house?—Yes.

39,564. Is that the "Southwell Arms"?—Yes.

39,565. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

39,566. For whom?—Stracey.

39,567. What time in the day?—About 10 o'clock.

39,568. Did you then go back to your house?—I did.

39,569. Were you there during the day?—No, not all the day.

39,570. How long were you there?—I was there until about 2 or 3 o'clock.

39,571. Were there men there?—Yes.

39,572. Drinking?—Certainly.

39,573. Who paid for the beer they had?—They that had it did.

39,574. As it was drawn?—As it was drawn.

33,575. Was no money paid by anybody else to treat those men there?—No, not a penny, to the best of my knowledge.

39,576. Were they waiting there to see what they could get for their votes?—There might be some of them, but they did not wait there long.

39,577. They waited there until 3, or thereabouts, did they not?—Oh no; it was the very early part of the day that I had so many in, from 9 to 10 o'clock.

39,578. What was said about voting then?—That I do not exactly know.

39,579. Not exactly, perhaps?—I will tell you. I had to go down a long passage for every pint of beer that was drawn; therefore I could not be in the room only a very little time.

39,580. But you heard enough to be pretty well aware that the men there expected something for their votes?—I believe if they could have got some beer they would have drunk it.

38,581. Did you take any of them up?—Yes.

39,582. Who did you take up?—Robert Bright I took up for one. He came and asked me whether I would walk along with him, and I walked with him. He was not in the house then; he was in the road when he asked me that question.

39,583. Did you give him anything for voting?—Not one farthing, nor yet a drop of beer.

39,584. Nor anything after he had voted?—Not a farthing, nor yet a drop of beer.

39,585. Did you give anybody any money or beer that day?—No, not a drop.

39,586. Do you know Samuel Etheridge?—I do, well.

39,587. Did you give him anything?—No.

39,588. Or promise him anything?—No. I went with him to the poll.

39,589. Did Etheridge ask you to go to the poll with him?—No.

39,590. Well, why did you go?—Because he was a neighbour, and I went with him to the poll.

39,591. But a man could go to the poll and say what his name is without your going with him?—Well, I felt a little anxious just at that time.

39,592. Anxious to see which way he voted?—Yes.

39,593. Did not you make certain that he would vote one way by giving or promising him something?—That man never asked me for a single farthing, nor one drop of ale.

39,594. What made you suspect him then?—I never suspected him then.

39,595. You were not sure which way he would vote, and you went with him to see?—Yes. I went up with him to see which way he voted, but I never suspected that he was going the other way. When I asked him whether he was going to vote, he said, "Yes," and he went and voted. I said, "Who are you going to vote for?" He said, "Stracey," and I said, "I will walk with you," and I did so.

39,596. Did you vote at the same time with him?—No, I voted at 10 o'clock in the morning.

39,597. Did you take any more men up in the same way?—No, I cannot recollect any.

39,598. Did you take Isaac Lee up?—No, I do not know the name.

39,599. Or Nathan Cock?—I went up with Nathan Cock.

39,600. What made you go up with him?—Because he asked me.

39,601. To take care of him?—No. I said, says I, "Mind you be right;" that is, which way he was going to vote; and he said, "You can go along with me if you like." I said, "So I will," and I walked with him.

39,602. What did you give him afterwards?—I got him some beer when he came back; what he called for.

39,603. Did he pay for it?—Certainly he did, and so did every other man, to the best of my knowledge.

39,604. Was Smith, the fowl dealer, at your place that day?—He was never in my house in his life, to the best of my knowledge.

39,605. Then he was not there that day?—No. I know the man well, but I never saw him in my house in my life.

39,606. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

39,607. Or the promise of anything?—No; I am too staunch a man for that.

HENRY BROOKS sworn and examined.

H. Brooks.

39,608. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What time in the day did you vote?—Between 3 and 4.

36,609. What were you doing all the early part of the day?—At work part of the day.

39,610. Up to what time were you at work?—Up to a little after 1.

39,611. For whom were you at work?—I was at work down at Carrow.

39,612. What were you doing?—Repairing some tiling; I am a bricklayer.

39,613. Did anybody come to your house that day to fetch you up to vote?—Not anybody; not anyone came particularly for that. Some came just as I was getting my dinner. I went home and got my dinner between 2 and 3, or it might be a little after 3, and my son-in-law came and asked me whether I had voted. I said I had not. He said, "Will you go and vote along with me?" I said, "I don't care whether "I vote at all; I work for both parties, and I don't "care whether I vote at all." "But," says he, "come and vote along with me," and I went and voted along with him.

39,614. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

39,615. Or the promise of anything?—No, I never did in my life.

THOMAS CARTER sworn and examined.

T. Carter.

39,616. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A cabinet maker.

39,617. Who did you work for?—I did work for Mr. R. B. Scott, Charing Cross.

39,618. Were you at your work on the election day?—Yes, I did work on the day of the election.

39,619. When did you leave your work?—I went to work at 6 in the morning, and left it at 1; then I went home to dinner, which I never do vote until I go home to dinner, because I have a mile to go and vote, and a mile back again, and I had no other time. When I got there at dinner time there was a lot of roughs and bullies round knocking people's hats off, and things of that sort, and I went home and got my dinner, and when I had finished the job I had to do I went and voted at a few minutes past 3.

39,620. Did you get anything for your vote?—Not a farthing.

39,621. Have you had anything since?—Not a farthing since, and never thought about it.

39,622. Had you promised your vote?—I did; I promised young Mr. Stracey about two or three days before the election.

39,623. He had spoken to you about it?—Yes, he met me in the street and asked me.

39,624. And you promised to vote?—I did on account of my father being on the estate for numbers and numbers of years.

39,625. That is a very good reason.

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

D. Shildrake.

12 Oct. 1869.

DAVID SHILDRAKE sworn and examined.

39,626. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A labourer.

39,627. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

39,628. For whom?—Mr. Henry Stracey.

39,629. When did you vote?—I think from about half-past 3 to 20 minutes to 4. I don't know to a few minutes.

39,630. Where were you in the morning?—At my master's work.

39,631. And your wife came and fetched you from it, did she not?—No.

39,632. Who did?—Not anyone.

39,633. Did you get anything for voting?—Not anything.

39,634. Did you see a man of the name of Sligh that day?—Yes, I saw him when I was going out, just at the end of my street, talking along with Mr. Leach, the clergyman, but he never spoke to me.

39,635. Did he speak to your wife?—No.

39,636. Did your wife get something for you?—That I don't know, I am sure.

39,637. Have you heard of it since?—I don't know what she done, I'm sure.

39,638. Did she not tell you that Sligh had left 5s. with her?—No, she never told me so, at any rate.

39,639. You know it was so, though?—No, I don't know such a thing. I know it was not so, as far as that goes.

39,640. Did she not tell you to go and vote?—No.

39,641. Who did tell you?—Not anyone.

39,642. Did she not say it was all right, and that you might vote now?—My wife never said no such thing; she never said anything at all about it.

39,643. Why did you not vote earlier?—Because I had a mind to pull through my day's labour.

39,644. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—Yes.

39,645. Had you promised to vote?—No.

39,646. Why did you not promise?—Mr. Aldons asked me whether I would not give my vote to Mr. Tillett, and I told him, No, I should vote the other side if I voted at all.

39,647. Had you a doubt about voting at all?—I should not have gone to give my vote in if my labour had been so that I could not have got there at the time.

39,648. Unless you could have done your day's work before voting you would not have voted at all?—I should not have voted at all.

39,649. Had you not said that you should not go unless someone paid your day's work?—I should not have gone to vote if I could not have fulfilled my day's work at the proper time.

39,650. Did you say you should not vote unless you were paid your day's work?—No, I never said such a thing. I did not mean to vote at all if I could not go without losing my time.

39,651. If anybody had paid you for your day's work I suppose you would have gone at once?—That was not mentioned to me, not by a soul.

W. Hare.

WILLIAM HARE sworn and examined.

39,652. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—I did.

39,653. Did anybody give you anything for it?—Not anything.

39,654. Did anyone come and ask you to vote?—No.

39,655. You went up of your own accord?—I did.

39,656. Did you not see anybody who offered you anything that day?—Not a soul.

39,657. Have you ever got anything?—Not anything, and I did not ask for it.

39,658. Have you ever voted before?—Yes.

39,659. Are you a freeman?—Yes.

39,660. Which way have you voted?—I always voted Tory.

39,661. You have always voted that side?—Always that side.

39,662. Did you ever get anything for voting?—No.

39,663. Not when 10*l.* notes were going?—No.

39,664. How came you to vote so late in the day?—I voted between 11 and 12 in the forenoon.

39,665. You voted later than that.—No.

39,666. You are returned as voting later than 2.—No, after I had done up my shop in the market I went and put my pony up, and came back again and voted.

J. Cattell.

JAMES CATTELL sworn and examined.

39,667. (Mr. Mansfield.) What is your business?—A tailor.

39,668. Are you a journeyman, or a master?—I work for myself.

39,669. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Stracey.

39,670. Who asked you for your vote?—Mr. Frederick Brown called.

39,671. When did he ask you for it?—A few days before; I cannot say exactly how long it was.

39,672. And you then promised him to vote for Sir Henry?—No, I did not.

39,673. Did you say you would not make up your mind?—Yes. I said I had not made up my mind which I should vote for.

39,674. When did you make up your mind?—About 2 o'clock on the election day.

39,675. I suppose you got a little money for doing so?—No, I did not.

39,676. How much was it?—I did not get anything.

39,677. Did they not promise you anything?—No, they did not.

39,678. They have given you something since?—No, they did not give me anything.

39,679. Did they not give you some beer?—No, not any.

39,680. Are you quite sure of that?—Quite sure.

39,681. Were you not treated the whole of the day of the election?—I was at work the whole of the forenoon.

39,682. But when you went out and polled were you not treated?—No.

39,683. What public-houses did you go to?—I did not go anywhere.

39,684. And you were not treated, and got no money?—No, not at all.

39,685. And were not promised anything?—Not at all.

R. Littleboy.

ROBERT LITTLEBOY sworn and examined.

39,686. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shoemaker.

39,687. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

39,688. For whom?—Mr. Stracey.

39,689. Did you get anything for it?—No.

39,690. What time in the day did you vote?—About 2 o'clock, I believe.

39,691. Had you promised your vote before?—No, nor yet was I spoken to by anybody.

39,692. How came you to vote?—Oh, that was my wishes.

39,693. Are you a Tory?—Yes.

39,694. Did you get anything, or the promise of anything for it?—I did not.

HENRY WYATT sworn and examined. H. Wyatt.

39,695. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a publican?—Yes.

39,696. What is the sign of your public-house?—The "Lord Nelson."

39,697. Is your house near any polling place?—No.

39,698. Had you many voters in it on the day of the election?—I was not at home.

39,699. Where were you?—I was holding a situation.

39,700. What was your situation?—Messenger.

39,701. To whom were you messenger?—For Mr. Tillett.

39,702. For whom did you vote?—Mr. Stracey.

39,703. How came you to be holding the situation of messenger for Mr. Tillett, and to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Because my father was a voter for Mr. Tillett, and he got the situation for my brother, but he was not able to attend, and he asked me to take his place.

39,704. And you went and voted for your brother, did you?—No, I took his situation.

39,705. You took his situation with Mr. Tillett?—Yes.

39,706. Or did you take his situation at the poll; which is it that you mean?—I took his situation at Mr. Tillett's.

39,707. Did you get some money for it?—I got paid for my day's work at Mr. Tillett's place.

39,708. That was not for voting for Stracey, you know.—I never got anything for voting for Mr. Stracey.

39,709. How came you to vote; had you a vote of your own?—Yes.

39,710. Did you merely take your brother's place for the day, or for some little time while he was away?—I took it for the day.

39,711. You were in fact holding your brother's place for the day; you were not Mr. Tillett's regular man, or anything of the sort?—No.

39,712. What time did you vote?—About half-past 3.

39,713. Could you not get up before?—No.

39,714. Did anybody give you anything for it?—No.

39,715. Or promise you anything?—Nothing.

SAMUEL WALPOLE sworn and examined. S. Walpole.

39,716. (Mr. Mansfield.) What is your business?—I am a shoemaker.

39,717. Do you employ men under you?—Well, I am a clicker; I hold a situation in a shoe manufactory.

39,718. Whose factory is that?—Ford and Sons, St. George's.

39,719. Were you employed there on the day of the election?—Yes.

39,720. Up till dinner time?—I think about half-past 11 or 12 we left off.

39,721. And when you left off did you go and vote?—I left off to go home.

39,722. When did you vote?—About a quarter past 3.

39,723. For Sir Henry Stracey?—No, for Tillett and Russell.

39,724. I think you were offered something for your vote, were you not?—No, not directly offered money.

39,725. How was it?—Indirectly. I will explain that to you; it was through a conversation I had with a man on the Sunday morning before the election, the Sunday dinner time.

39,726. Who is the man?—The man is Mr. Sayer, the leather cutter.

39,727. What took place?—Whether he was in the house before me, or me first, I don't know; but somehow we got into conversation about the election, and I said, "Which of the men do you think will be returned?" and he said, "Mr. Tillett is safe, no doubt, "but the Conservatives intend to fight for it, and they "intend to win, if possible." He said, "Which way are you going to vote?" I said, "I shall vote for Tillett and Russell, or, perhaps, Tillett alone." He said, "I should think you could find a use for a pound." I said, "I never had one that I could not find a use for, but I should not have it that way." "Well," he says, "I should think you would; they have got money down, and they intend to win the election."

39,728. The Tories did?—Yes.

39,729. Did he say anything more about the pound?—Well, he said he did not think the price for votes would run high.

39,730. Did he propose to give you the pound?—No, he did not directly say, "I will give you a pound," nor say that he had money to give.

39,731. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) But you understood it?—I understood from that that he knew, in some way or other, that the Conservatives had got money, and intended to bribe if they could not get the election without.

39,732. And that you could get a pound?—That I could.

39,733. (Mr. Mansfield.) But you did not?—No, I did not want it.

39,734. Have you had anything at all for voting?—No.

39,735. Do you know of anybody getting money?—I do not know of anyone.

39,736. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Where does Sayer live?—He is a currier, a leather cutter, and lives at the top of St. Lawrence's steps, in St. Lawrence's parish.

39,737. Was not anything said in this way: "Would so much induce you to vote for Stracey"?—No, he did not put it that way. I said it was the first vote I had, and I should not think of selling of it for a pound or two; he said, "Well, they won't run to any more," and I said, "I have heard talk years ago of their "offering forties and fifties, and I should not like "them to tempt me like that, because money is "useful."

39,738. Very well; I think you have given a true account of the transaction.—That is all I know about it.

ABRAHAM CANNELL sworn and examined. A. Cannell.

39,739. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A butcher.

39,740. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

39,741. For whom?—Mr. Stracey.

39,742. What time in the day?—About half-past 1 or 2.

39,743. Are you on your own account, or a journeyman?—On my own account.

39,744. Did you get anything for voting?—No, I did not.

39,745. Or the promise of anything?—No, nor the promise of anything.

ROBERT LARTER sworn and examined. R. Larter.

39,746. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What were you doing in the early part of the day of the election?—Walking about.

39,747. To what public-houses did you go?—Several.

39,748. I suppose you were walking about seeing

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

R. Larter.

12 Oct. 1869.

whether you could get a day's pay, or something of the kind?—No, I was not.

39,749. I suppose you would not have refused a day's pay?—Oh yes, I should.

39,750. What were you walking about for, then?—My own amusement.

39,751. Do you often take a day's walk about the city for your own amusement?—Yes, when I have nothing to do.

39,752. Often?—Yes, when I have nothing to do, and I had nothing to do that day.

39,753. Is that the way in which you amuse yourself?—Yes.

39,754. How many public-houses were you in that day?—Several.

39,755. How many?—Four or five.

39,756. Just mention the first you went into?—I went into Mr. Mallows, at the top of the market.

39,757. What is the sign of it?—The "Bull," I think.

39,758. How long were you there?—Perhaps half an hour.

39,759. Drinking?—Oh, yes, I had a glass.

39,760. Where did you go next?—Well, I went to the back of the "Tuns."

39,761. Where there?—Mr. Attwell's.

39,762. What sign?—I don't know the sign.

39,763. What time did you leave there?—I was not there long; I might be there a quarter of an hour perhaps.

39,764. When you left there, where did you go to?—I went up to Ber Street.

39,765. Where did you go to there?—To Mr. Larkman's.

39,766. I suppose you found a lot of them there, did you not?—There were several there.

39,767. They were all talking about getting a day's pay, were they not?—Well, I did not go into the room; I stood in the bar the chief of the time I was there.

39,768. There were lots there?—There were several in the back room, I believe.

39,769. Did you get your name put down on the list?—No.

39,770. Did you not hear them talking about a day's pay?—Well, I heard something about it.

39,771. Did you see Mr. Green, the timber merchant, there?—Yes.

39,772. What made you talk about a day's pay, and that you were to get something if there was nothing going?—I never heard that mentioned, not in my presence.

39,773. Not a word about it?—No, not in my presence, I did not.

39,774. Did you see the men's names taken down on the paper?—No.

39,775. What time was it when you left Larkman's?—When I went and voted.

39,776. What time was that?—About a quarter past 3.

39,777. We have had a great deal of evidence as to what took place at Larkman's; we shall not believe that you were not one of the parties to that transaction. Did you not have your name put down upon paper, and was not Mr. Green to get you something if anything was going?—I never heard anything about it.

39,778. Not a single syllable about it?—Not on my behalf.

39,779. Did anybody give you anything?—No, nor promise me.

39,780. Did you get some beer?—Only what I paid for.

39,781. Nothing but what you paid for?—Nothing.

39,782. Did Mr. Green speak to you?—I saw Mr. Green several times that day, and nodded to him, but I had no conversation with him at all.

39,783. Did he not speak to you at Larkman's?—He asked me whether I was not going to vote.

39,784. What did you say?—I said, when I liked.

39,785. If you wanted to vote why did you not say, "Yes, I will go and vote." Were you not looking out for what you could get?—No, I was not.

39,786. What were you looking out for?—Nothing at all.

39,787. Why did not you go and vote?—I went along with my father-in-law, Gathergood, and voted.

39,788. Gathergood is down on the list. You saw his name taken down?—No.

39,789. He told you his name was on the list?—I don't know anything about it.

39,790. (Mr. Biron.) You went up and voted with Gathergood?—I went up with Mr. Gathergood when he voted. I had voted first, and Mr. Gathergood went afterwards.

39,791. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) And Gathergood, you know, was at Larkman's before you saw him there. Did you meet Mr. Green coming up?—Up where?

39,792. Coming up again to Larkman's?—No.

39,793. And did he say he could not get anything for you?—No, he did not.

39,794. Thirtell was there, was he not?—I don't know the man.

39,795. Do you recollect James Solomons being there?—No.

39,796. Gathergood got his name put down on the list; 24 were put down. That is as many as ever were there in your time, I suppose?—There was a great deal more than that altogether.

39,797. It is no use telling us a falsehood about it.—I am telling no falsehood.

There can be no doubt that you got your name put down on the list. You may go.

R. Hubbard.

ROBERT HUBBARD sworn and examined.

39,798. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at this election?—Mr. Stracey.

39,799. What time in the day?—About half-past 3.

39,800. What did you get for it?—Nothing at all.

39,801. What made you vote so late?—I had done my day's work before I went.

39,802. What time did you leave your work?—About half-past 2. I went home and got my dinner, and then I went and voted.

39,803. Did you get treated that day?—No.

39,804. Did you go to any public-house before you voted?—No.

39,805. Did you go to any public-house after you had voted?—Not until I went home. I went there and voted, and came right home again.

39,806. Have you had anything given you since?—No.

39,807. Had you promised to vote for Stracey?—No.

39,808. Have you been asked to vote for Stracey?—No, I never saw anyone; the parties called at my house, but I was not at home.

39,809. Had you any particular reason for voting for him?—Well, I always was that way. My father voted many years in this city on that side, and I thought I would do so.

39,810. Had you ever voted before?—No, I never had a vote before.

39,811. You belong to a Tory family?—Yes.

JAMES BURDETT sworn and examined. J. Burdett.

39,812. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

39,813. For whom ?—Mr. Stracey.

39,814. What time in the day ?—About 3 o'clock I should reckon.

39,815. Where had you been ?—I was carrying of coals until 1 out of Mr. England's warehouse, and then I went home to dinner, and an old lady came and asked me to get her 3 cwt. of coals, and I could not get them till after 2 o'clock.

39,816. Did you get anything for voting ?—Nothing at all, and no one came and asked me.

39,817. No promise of anything ?—No.

39,818. No money nor beer ?—No money nor yet beer ; I had not the worth of a pin's head.

FREDERICK MOORE sworn and examined. F. Moore.

39,819. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What are you by business ?—A fireman or a stoker ; you may call me which you like.

39,820. In whose employment ?—Messrs. Steward and Patteson's.

39,821. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

39,822. For whom did you vote ?—Mr. Stracey, and I give him a plumper.

39,823. Did anybody give you anything for giving him a plumper ?—No, not a farthing.

39,824. You gave that, and got nothing in return ?—No, I did not.

39,825. Not a promise ?—No.

39,826. No money ?—No.

39,827. Nor beer ?—No.

39,828. You are quite sure about that ?—I can swear it on my oath.

JOSEPH FOUNTAIN sworn and examined. J. Fountain.

39,829. (Mr. Mansfield.) What is your trade ?—A stoker.

39,830. In whose employment are you ?—Steward and Patteson's.

39,831. For whom did you vote ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

39,832. Had you promised to vote that way ?—Yes.

39,833. To whom ?—To Mr. Henry Stracey.

39,834. He had canvassed you himself personally, had he ?—He came and canvassed, but I was not at home when he came, but I saw him in the lane.

39,835. And then you promised your vote ?—I did.

39,836. Did you get anything for it ?—No.

39,837. Was anything promised you ?—No.

39,838. And have you had nothing since ?—No, nothing.

WILLIAM WINTER sworn and examined. W. Winter.

39,839. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

39,840. What time in the day ?—Between 9 and 10 in the morning.

39,841. For whom did you vote ?—Mr. Stracey.

39,842. Did you get anything for voting ?—No.

39,843. Or the promise of anything ?—No.

39,844. No beer ?—No.

39,845. No money ?—No.

39,846. Were you canvassed for your vote ?—Yes.

39,847. Did you promise ?—Yes, I promised young Mr. Stracey.

WILLIAM BENSLY sworn and examined. W. Bensly.

39,848. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election ?—Yes.

39,849. What are you by business ?—A bricklayer.

39,850. Do you know the "Ship" public-house ?—Yes.

39,851. What time on the election day did you go to the "Ship" ?—About 10 o'clock in the morning I went in there.

39,852. How long did you remain drinking at the "Ship" ?—I went in and came out again, got my dinner and went back again.

39,853. How long did you remain in the "Ship" ?—I went in two or three different times during the day.

39,854. Well, there was beer going in the "Ship," you know, for the Stracey voters ; I suppose you got some ?—No, only what I paid for.

39,855. Did you not get any of the beer which was for the Stracey voters ?—No, I never saw any.

39,856. Did you get no beer but what you paid for ?—That is all I got.

39,857. Then you were more hardly used than other people at the "Ship." Did not the landlady tell you that there was beer for the Stracey voters ?—I heard her say there was some, but I did not get any.

39,858. How was it that there being beer for the Stracey voters, and you being a Stracey voter, that you did not get it ?—I don't know.

39,859. Surely you did get a little of the beer ?—Well, I paid for some.

39,860. I think you must have got a little without ?—Well, I never got any of that, and never saw any, to the best of my knowledge.

39,861. Come, now, we will put it at a pint ; you got a pint of the Tory beer, did you not ?—No, I do not recollect seeing a drop of it, only what I paid for myself.

39,862. When you heard that there was Tory beer going there, why did you not say you were a Stracey man, and ask for a little drop of it ?—Well, sir, I do not vote on account of beer.

39,863. Did you want a day's pay ?—No.

39,864. Did you get a day's pay ?—No.

39,865. Did nobody offer you any money that day ?—No.

39,866. Did nobody come and get you to go up and vote for money ?—No, I never got any money.

39,867. Did anybody speak to you about voting ?—Yes, Mr. Warnes asked me if I would go and vote.

39,868. Was it Mr. Warnes, or who was it that gave you the day's pay ?—No one. I never got a farthing.

39,869. What did he give you ?—Nothing at all.

39,870. What time did he come to you ?—Well, he keeps the house.

39,871. That is old Warnes, do you know young Warnes ?—Yes.

39,872. Did young Warnes come and speak to you ?—He came in the afternoon and wanted to know if I had voted.

39,873. Young Warnes had got some money, had he not ?—Not that I know of.

39,874. Did he not tell you that he had got some money.—No.

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

W. Beasley.

12 Oct. 1869.

39,875. Do you recollect a gentleman coming in a fly?—There was a fly came there.

39,876. Did you get into the fly?—Yes.

39,877. And the gentleman shoved a shilling into your hand, did he not?—No.

39,878. Were not you the man who got a shilling?—No.

39,879. They shoved you into the fly, did they not?—I went of my own accord.

39,880. Who got into the fly with you?—Young Mr. Warnes was in the fly along with me.

39,881. Was there a gentleman in the fly?—There was another man in the fly.

39,882. An old gentleman?—I don't know whether he was an old gentleman.

39,883. Do you know David Cubitt?—No.

39,884. Was there a youngish and an oldish man in the fly?—Mr. Warnes was the only man I knew.

39,885. Was there not an oldish person there?—I cannot say.

39,886. They took you up to the poll in the fly?—Yes.

39,887. What money did they give you as they went along?—Not anything.

39,888. You got some money?—No, that I did not.

39,889. We have had an account of this.—I never got a farthing.

39,890. Not a farthing; but you got a shilling, did you not?—No, I never got any.

39,891. Did you get half-a-crown?—No.

39,892. Were you to get some beer at Warnes' or at Cubitt's?—I was not to get any anywhere, only what I paid for.

39,893. How did they persuade you to get into the fly?—I got in myself.

39,894. How did they get you to get in yourself?—They asked me if I had voted, and I told them no.

39,895. That would not get you to vote, you know; what did they say to induce you to go and vote?—I intended all along to vote for Stracey.

39,896. But that would not induce you to vote. It was very nearly 4 o'clock in the day, and you had been hanging about the whole morning; if you were inclined to vote for Stracey why had you not voted before?—I was at work some of the morning.

39,897. But you said you had been several times in and out of the public-house. Do you mean to stand there and say that you did not get some inducement either at that public-house, or in that fly to make you vote? Now, be careful what you say, you are upon your oath?—I never got a farthing, I can assure you.

39,898. Did you get the promise of beer?—No.

39,899. While you were going along did Warnes get out and fetch another man in?—No, there was only me went to vote.

39,900. There was an oldish gentleman in the fly?—There was another man, but I don't know his name.

39,901. Do you know Mr. Woodrow the auctioneer?—No.

39,902. Or estate agent, as he calls himself?—No.

39,903. An oldish gentleman who sat back as if he did not like to be seen?—No, I don't know the man.

39,904. Of course I must take your answer, but I think you got into very suspicious company, and I am afraid we have not got the truth out of you.

T. Hainsworth.

THOMAS HAINSWORTH sworn and examined.

39,905. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—I am a gardener.

39,906. Where do you live?—In St. James', Cowgate Street.

39,907. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Stracey.

39,908. What time of the day?—About a quarter to 4.

39,909. What did you get for that?—Nothing.

39,910. What made you so late?—Well, I was like the rest of them, I had the day, and I got rather forward in beer.

39,911. Where did you get the beer which produced that effect?—I paid for it.

39,912. Where?—In Mr. Warnes', and lots of different houses I went to.

39,913. You went to Mr. Warnes'?—Yes.

39,914. Did you pay for any beer there?—Yes.

39,915. That is a very odd thing to do, because a great deal of beer was being given about to anyone who would vote for Stracey.—I never saw any beer given away; only there was a lot by ourselves a pot each.

39,916. Could you not get any without paying?—I never asked.

39,917. Did you pay for it all?—Yes.

39,918. Did you not get a bit of money for your vote?—Not a farthing.

39,919. Who asked you to go and vote?—I never was requested all day to go and vote; I never was asked.

39,920. Have you had anything since?—Nothing.

39,921. When did you promise your vote?—When Mr. Stracey came round soliciting.

39,922. Did you see him yourself?—Yes, he came to my house.

39,923. Young Mr. Stracey?—Young Mr. Stracey.

39,924. Did you promise him then to vote for his father?—Yes.

39,925. How long before the election was that?—That I cannot say.

39,926. Was anyone with him?—I think there was three came into the house.

W. Howes.

WILLIAM HOWES sworn and examined.

39,927. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shopkeeper.

39,928. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

39,929. What time in the day?—About 3 o'clock.

39,930. For whom?—Mr. Stracey.

39,931. Why did you not vote earlier?—Because I was engaged in my shop and could not get out.

39,932. Was nobody there to attend to it?—My young lad was out all day that generally attends to the coal bin, because my coal bin is 20 or 30 yards away from the shop.

39,933. Did you get anything?—No, not a fraction.

39,934. Or the promise of anything?—Not a fraction, either before or since.

R. Moore.

ROBERT MOORE sworn and examined.

39,935. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Stracey.

39,936. What time in the day did you get up to the poll?—About 3 o'clock.

39,937. Had you been drinking at any public-houses before you went up?—No, not a drop. I had a job to do, and I was forced to stop at home to do it.

39,938. What were you doing in the early part of the day?—Soling, heeling, and welting a pair of boots.

39,939. But there was not such a hurry about that?—Yes, there was, because they had to go into the country the next day morning.

39,940. Did you vote as soon as you could?—Yes, directly I had done my boots I carried them home, got my dinner, and went and voted directly.

39,941. Had anybody canvassed you?—No, and I never had a penny, nor yet half a pint of beer.

39,942. Did anyone promise you anything for your vote?—Not a farthing.

39,943. Or give it to you?—No.

Isaac Moore sworn and examined.

I. Moore.

39,944. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A hairdresser.

39,945. For whom did you vote?—Mr. Stracey.

39,946. Do you know a foreigner of the name of Heinrich?—Yes, perfectly well.

39,947. Did he pay you a visit on the day of the election?—Yes, on the morning of the election, and several times during the election day.

39,948. What did he come for?—To tell me how the election was getting on.

39,949. Did he ask you to come and vote?—No.

39,950. Did he take you up to vote with him?—No.

39,951. Did he tell you how things were going on?—No; he came in the middle of the forenoon, and said that he had given three sovereigns for three votes.

39,952. Did he tell you the names of the persons he had given them to?—No, he did not.

39,953. He boasted that he had given three sovereigns for three votes?—That is what he stated to me, but still I did not believe him at the time.

39,954. Did you think he was in earnest about it?—No, I have not, because he have joked about it so many times. In fact I have asked him about it, "Are you in earnest; did you really give it?" and he said, "No, so help his God, he never did so."

39,955. It is difficult to say whether he would part with the money or tell the truth. What do you know about him?—I don't know more than that about him.

39,956. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You did not believe he was telling the truth because he said, "So help my God"?—I believe he was speaking the truth when he said that. I believe he was only joking throughout.

39,957. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you think so at the time he first made the statement to you about the three sovereigns?—Yes, I did believe that.

39,958. What time of the day was it when he made that statement to you?—The middle of the forenoon, about 11 o'clock.

39,959. Eleven o'clock on the day of the poll?—Yes.

39,960. Was it "a sovereign for three voters"?—Three sovereigns for three voters; and I understood him to say by his statement yesterday that I should ask him to make that statement that I might be subpœnaed. Now that is false; I never asked him to say that he had given three sovereigns for three voters. He came into my shop deliberately, and without my asking any question, said, "I have given three sovereigns for three voters;" and I said, "Mind what you are talking "about, or you will do the party more harm than "good."

39,961. Had you known him before?—Yes, I had spoken to him before.

39,962. You never trusted him with three sovereigns?—No, and I don't believe anyone else in Norwich would.

Frederick Barker sworn and examined.

F. Barker.

39,963. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shoemaker.

39,964. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

39,965. What time in the day?—Somewhere about 3 o'clock.

39,966. Why did you not vote earlier than that?—It was my first vote, and I did not like to go and vote until my brother voted; so we both went up and voted together.

39,967. Did you get anything for it?—No.

39,968. Or the promise of anything?—No.

39,969. Had you promised to vote for Stracey before?—Yes.

39,970. When you were canvassed?—Yes.

39,971. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

39,972. Or the promise of anything?—No.

Samuel Severn sworn and examined.

S. Severn.

39,973. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

39,974. Were you an active supporter of his?—Yes.

39,975. Did you canvass for him?—Yes.

39,976. What part did you canvass?—I canvassed Philadelphia, Elvesdon Road, and part of St. Clement's.

39,977. Is that a locality in which there are a great many of what you may term doubtful voters of the poorer class?—I should think it would be.

39,978. In the course of your canvass did you find that there were a great many men who wanted a day's pay, or a day's wages, for their vote?—I never heard it named.

39,979. Was it never suggested to you?—Not at all.

39,980. Did you find a good many men who would refuse to give you any answer as to which way they would vote?—A great many would not promise either party.

39,981. You found a difficulty in getting a definite answer from them?—I could not get a promise from them.

39,982. And I suppose you tried your best?—Of course I did.

39,983. How many days did you canvass?—Well, perhaps four, I might say.

39,984. Were any meetings held at your house?—Not one.

39,985. Now, did you find that there were some voters who wanted a little persuasion on the day of the election?—Do you mean in my house?

39,986. No, not in your house.—Oh, no.

39,987. Did you find on the day of the election that there were some of the voters in your district who wanted a little persuasion?—No, I did not mix myself up with them on the day of the election.

39,988. Did you go to get up any voters?—I rode with one or two, but I had nothing to do with persuading them to vote, neither do I know who they were; I was merely asked to ride to the poll with them.

39,989. Who asked you to ride with them?—Leander Brown.

39,990. We have heard a great deal about what Mr. Leander Brown did. Did you learn from them whether they were promised anything?—Not a word. I never heard such a word as the promise of money.

39,991. Mr. Lea Brown, as they call him?—Well, he is rather a stranger to me; I don't know much about him.

39,992. Did you hear any of these men talking about money for their votes?—No.

39,993. Or getting a day's pay?—Certainly not.

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

12 Oct. 1869.

S. Severn.

39,994. On the day of the election were you moving about in the city ?—No, only in my own neighbourhood.

39,995. Did you find a number of men loitering about who seemed to be wanting money ?—Well, I saw plenty of men standing about, but I could not say whether they were voters or not.

39,996. Did any of them ask you for money ?—No, not one.

39,997. Did you go to the committee rooms at all ?—Yes.

39,998. In the committee rooms were you not told that there were a great number of men who wanted something to persuade them to vote ?—I heard such a thing. I heard that there were men who wanted money.

39,999. Did you know of any means which had been provided to persuade them ?—Certainly not; I never heard of it.

40,000. Did you promise any man anything for his vote that day ?—No.

40,001. Or did you give him anything for his vote ?—Certainly not.

40,002. No beer, or anything of the kind ?—Not a drop.

40,003. Do you know anything of other persons having done it ?—I am not aware of it myself.

40,004. Did you hear it that day at all ?—No.

40,005. I suppose you got nothing for your vote, either promise or money ?—No.

W. Scott.

WILLIAM SCOTT sworn and examined.

40,006. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote ?—Mr. Stracey.

40,007. What did you get for it ?—As much as I get here.

40,008. Were you promised anything ?—No.

40,009. Were you treated ?—No, nor yet treated.

E. Butcher.

ELEAZER BUTCHER sworn and examined

40,010. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

40,011. For whom ?—Mr. Stracey.

40,012. What time in the day ?—Between 2 and 3 o'clock.

40,013. Had you been canvassed for your vote ?—Yes, Mr. Fletcher came to mine, but I was not at home.

40,014. You did not promise your vote ?—Not until afterwards.

40,015. When did you promise it ?—The night before the election.

40,016. To whom ?—To Mr. Fletcher; I told him to put my name down for Mr. Stracey.

40,017. Did he give you anything ?—No.

40,018. Or promise you anything ?—No.

40,019. You went the next morning and voted ?—The next afternoon.

40,020. Did you get anything for voting ?—No.

40,021. Or the promise of anything ?—No.

J. Drew.

JOHN DREW sworn and examined.

40,022. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What time in the day did you vote ?—About half-past 11.

40,023. You have made a mistake about the time at which you voted, unless you voted twice. You voted at very nearly 4 o'clock ?—Not me.

40,024. What public-houses did you go to before you went and voted ?—None at all; my horses stood in the street the time I voted. I got a man to stand by the side of them, and gave him twopence to stand by them.

40,025. What were you doing that morning ?—Carting gravel.

40,026. And while you were carting gravel you went up and voted ?—I stopped my horses near St. Saviour's Church.

40,027. You went up and voted, and another man stood with your cart ?—Yes, and I gave him twopence to stand with the horses.

40,028. Did anybody come to you and ask you to vote ?—No, they never spoke a word to me, nor I to them. I turned round and gave my vote and went after my horses again. I gave the man twopence to stand by my horses in the street.

40,029. Who gave you anything to go up and vote ?—Nobody; I never spoke to anybody.

40,030. Or promised you anything ?—No, nor yet ever ask me to have nothing, not even a glass of beer.

40,031. It is a strange thing that you are returned here as voting at nearly 4 o'clock.—What I say is true; I can prove that by many people.

40,032. You did not vote twice ?—No; I should have been frightened to do that.

E. Rix.

EDMUND RIX sworn and examined.

40,033. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote ?—Mr. Stracey.

40,034. Had you promised your vote ?—Yes.

40,035. To whom ?—To Mr. Stracey when he came about canvassing.

40,036. Did he come to your place ?—Yes.

40,037. Was it one of the young gentlemen ?—Yes, a young fellow.

40,038. What day was it that you promised ?—I am not going to say now what day it was.

40,039. Was it two or three days before the election ?—Some days before the election.

40,040. You did vote according to your promise ?—Yes.

40,041. Did you get anything for voting ?—No.

40,042. Was anything paid you afterwards ?—No.

40,043. Were you treated on the day of the poll ?—No.

40,044. What were you doing all day ?—At work.

40,045. When did you leave your work ?—Between 3 and 4.

40,046. Had you been at your work all day until then ?—Yes, I had.

40,047. Where ?—At home at my own house.

40,048. What is your work ?—Shoemaking.

40,049. And you did not leave your house until after 3 o'clock ?—No, that I did not.

J. Beasley.

JAMES BEASLEY sworn and examined.

40,050. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—I am a carter.

40,051. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

40,052. What time in the day ?—Half-past 3.

40,053. What did you get for voting ?—Nothing.

40,054. Nor the promise of anything ?—No.

40,055. Why did you not vote earlier ?—Because I was at work with my horse and cart.

40,056. You were out with your master's cart ?—My own cart.

40,057. Then your time being your own, why did you not vote earlier in the day?—Because it would not do for me to go and lose a day's work.

40,058. Were you waiting to be paid a day's work?—No, I went and done my day's work.

40,059. Where?—At Magdalen Gates; I live there. I went with my horse and cart and done my day's work.

40,060. Had you been asked for your vote?—No.

40,061. Nobody had asked you?—No.

40,062. You voted of your own accord?—I voted of my own accord. I went down when I came home, and voted for Mr. Stracey.

40,063. Were you in any public-houses that day?—No.

GEORGE BETTS sworn and examined.

G. Betts.

40,064. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

40,065. Did any one come and ask you to do it?—No.

40,066. It was entirely of your own accord?—Yes.

40,067. Did not anybody come and canvass you?—Not at all.

40,068. Did anybody come and fetch you up on the day of the election?—No.

40,069. Had you ever had a vote before?—No.

40,070. Did you get anything for voting?—Not a farthing.

40,071. Nor any beer?—Not a drop, only at my own expense.

40,072. That is not much of a gift.—No.

Adjourned to to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

THIRTIETH DAY.

Wednesday, 13th October 1869.

SAMUEL DAWSON, junior, recalled and further examined.

40,073. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Have you your book here?—Yes.

40,074. Just hand it to me, if you please (a book is handed to the Commissioners). These surely were all written at one and the same time?—Yes, it was copied from the receipts.

40,075. I should like to have the book from which it is copied?—It was copied from the receipts.

40,076. Have you got the receipts?—Yes.

40,077. Was not there a book which you kept in Mr. Chittock's office in which the payments made from time to time were entered?—No, only what you see there.

40,078. Were not there any books in Mr. Chittock's office in which the payments which you made from time to time while you were acting for him were entered?—No, they were all in these little red books (referring to two M.S. books, which are handed to the Commissioners).

40,079. When did you write out this book?—It would be about three days after the election, I should think, from the vouchers.

40,080. What are the "expenses at H"?—If you will let me look at it I will tell you.

40,081. Do not you know what is meant by "expenses at H"?—No. I can tell you, perhaps, if I look at the book. (One of the red books is handed down to the witness.) I don't know what that is. How is it in the fair copy there for the same day? That will explain it, perhaps, if you look at the same date of the 15th of November. I believe that will explain it.

40,082. No, there is no entry of the 15th of November in this book. There is the 14th, and there is the 16th, but there is no entry of the 15th of any sort or kind.—Not in this book. I mean in the fair copy, that which you have got there.

40,083. I cannot find it here, "expenses at H"?—I don't know what it is now, I am sure. I think very probably it is on the file of the receipts. It is safe to be. Mr. Chittock ticked off every receipt. This is the rough one, and that is the one I passed in to Mr. Chittock.

40,084. (Mr. Mansfield.) The 81*l.* 15*s.* refers entirely to persons who were hired?—It is 81*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.*

40,085. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) 81*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.* refers entirely to men who were hired for this election?—Yes.

40,086. And these (referring to a number of papers) are the receipts?—They are the vouchers.

40,087. (Mr. Mansfield.) The money was paid by Mr. Chittock?—Yes.

40,088. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You paid it, and then he paid it back to you?—Yes.

40,089. I see there is a receipt here signed by you. How came you to be in possession of this book?—I went to Mr. Chittock's last night for it. You told me to go and get it. That is the sundry account, 24*l.* 9*s.* 6*d.*

40,090. This is the rough account?—No.

40,091. (Mr. Biron.) That is the account for the roughs?—Yes.

40,091*a*. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) The other book is what you may call the rough account in the other sense?—Yes, and this is the account when we settled up (handing a paper to the Commissioners).

40,092. (Mr. Biron.) Does that show all the items?

THIRTIETH DAY.

S. Dawson, jun.

13 Oct. 1869.

—That shows the exact money I took from Mr. Chittock for money paid away, the exact amount.

40,093. This is, in fact, a balance sheet made up from the books and the vouchers ?—Yes.

40,094. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) The entire amount which you received from Mr. Chittock was 114*l.* 7*s.* He paid you the balance of 22*l.* 7*s.* ?—Yes.

40,095. You received from Mr. Chittock 92*l.* during the progress of the election, and then you received the balance, 22*l.* 7*s.*, making up 114*l.* 7*s.* ?—Yes.

40,096. And these are the accounts to which those payments refer ?—Yes, except you find down to the 3*l.* 10*s.* they were money paid by me to the messengers ; of course they had been engaged a week. These are the messengers at the committee room. They wanted some money on account.

40,097. "Clerks, 3*l.* 10*s.*" Is that the account to which you refer ?—Yes ; they wanted some money on account, and the messengers are at the top.

40,098. These are monies that you paid during the progress of the election. The last item I see is the 17th. I see there is one on the 19th, but the last item before that was the 16th ?—Yes.

40,099. Who settled up with the men, because there must have been more paid than this ; because the expenses of the day of the election, which is the 19th, are not included ?—The election was the 17th.

40,100. There is nothing down for the 17th ?—Because we did not employ them.

40,101. You employed messengers, did you not, on that day ?—I think we had two to keep the doors, which are mentioned in that account.

40,102. If I understand you, the messengers required something on account ?—They did.

40,103. And this is what was paid to them on account ?—On account.

40,104. Did you or Mr. Chittock pay the balance ?—I and Mr. Chittock together. We were together in the room.

40,105. I do not see in this account the items for that balance. Can you show it me ?—No, they would not be in that ; they would be in the sheriff's account.

40,106. In fact, there would be an additional claim for monies due to the messengers, and monies due to the clerks ?—Yes.

40,107. Quite irrespective of these accounts ?—Yes.

40,108. These accounts only represent what you paid on account ?—What I paid myself out of my own cash.

40,109. On the 19th there is an item of "Andrews, A., 2*l.* 10*s.*" ?—That would be for something that occurred before the election.

40,110. (Mr. Biron.) The date would be the date of payment ?—Perhaps they would let it go two or three days before it came in.

40,111. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) I perfectly understand it now. Just give me the third book.—The rough book ?

40,112. Yes.—That is the rough cash book (handing a book).

40,113. This relates solely to the "roughs" ?—Yes.

40,114. (Mr. Mansfield.) Had Mr. Chittock sanctioned this expenditure for hiring these men ?—He gave me the necessary orders. For instance, he would say, "Let's have some men to keep the peace at the 'Maid's Head.' The men can get in." That was the first instruction. The next was this ; there were several reports that this meeting at St. Andrew's Hall was going to be disturbed by the Carrow men; then Mr. Chittock said, "You get sufficient men to keep the peace," and I did so. That was the only orders he gave in that way.

40,115. How many days before the election did he give orders to employ men ?—That would be about the 4th of November, the first meeting when Sir Henry Stracey spoke.

40,116. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) I see here are two receipts, "Thomas Beckett, election day," and "Charles Calver, election day." Who are they ?—They were two messengers to keep the doors on the stairs. I had not sufficient staff, and these two men were standing about, and I put them on.

40,117. Where do Beckett and Calver live ?—I am sure I don't know at all. They are not voters, neither of them.

40,118. We have to inquire into that.—They told me so at the time. They never left the premises from the time I put them there at half-past 7 till half-past 4.

40,119. Who are William Early, Robert Greaves, Charles Moore, Alfred Lee, John Webster, and Joe Painter ?—Six men engaged to stop the Radicals from posting over our bills in the Prince of Wales Road.

40,120. Do you know where they live ?—No. A man of the name of John Cadney got them.

49,121. Where does John Cadney live ?—Brown Street, North Heigham.

40,122. I see this, "The central committee to "Ambrose Andrews for 40 men at 1*s.* per man ; 10*s.* "captain in the market-place ; 2*l.* 10*s.*" It is paid on the 19th. What day was that ?—That would be when Sir Henry was speaking in the market-place. That is when he was speaking from the "Waterloo," when they broke the chains and things. Colman's men were in the front of the balcony, and would not let him say anything.

40,123. What day was that, Friday or Saturday ?—On the Monday.

40,124. The day before the election ?—The day before the election.

40,125. Then I see, "Received of Mr. Dawson the sum of 8*l.* for men at the Corn Hall on the 16th inst." —Yes, that would be the night before the election.

40,126. Where does James Graver, who signs that receipt, live ?—Sprowston.

40,127. I see you had that night 50 men at the Corn Hall ?—Yes, more than that.

40,128. We must look through these at our leisure, and then we will return them to you.—Thank you.

40,129. Have you any other accounts there ?—No, these are the only accounts.

40,130. Those men who are mentioned as the captains are publicans, or, as in the case of Ambrose Andrews, brothers of publicans ?—I don't think there is only one publican out of the whole.

40,131. The man who got them together ?—No. The captains always get the men together.

40,132. Was Ambrose Andrews a captain ?—Yes.

40,133. (Mr. Biron.) I see one receipt is in the name of Richard Mackley, and another in the name of Thomas Mackley ?—Yes ; they would be those over the water.

40,134. The publicans ?—Yes ; one is in St. Gregory's and one in St. Mary's.

40,135. Who is Charles Armes ?—He lives in Heigham Street.

40,136. Is he a publican ?—No.

40,137. Were those all the payments which you made during the election ?—Yes.

40,138. But they are not all the payments of which you were cognizant, because you were present at the payment of the messengers and the clerks ?—Yes, I was.

40,139. At what other payments were you present ?—No other but the clerks and messengers.

40,140. Do you know of no other sums whatever being paid by Mr. Chittock ?—No.

40,141. I suppose Mr. Chittock took receipts from the clerks and messengers ?—Yes.

40,142. Those receipts which were to be produced before the returning officer ?—Yes ; the sheriff.

40,143. Do you know where John Pratt, to whom one of these receipts is given, lives ?—Sprowston.

40,144. Does he keep the "Prince of Denmark" ? —Yes.

40,145. Have no other payments been made to Pratt ?—No.

40,146. Are you sure of that ?—Not to my knowledge.

40,147. Do you know of any other payment whatever being made by Mr. Chittock for any expenses or payments of any sort, or claims in respect of matters at the election ?—I know of none.

40,148. Are you sure of that ?—Certain.

40,149. Do you know of any claims being made ?— Yes, I know that.

40,150. Will you tell me what claims were made ? —There is a man of the name of Greenacre in All Saints Green. He made a claim, I think, for so many days services ; eight days I think. He charged 4*l.* and Mr. Chittock would not pay it. In fact you will see I let him have 10*s.* ; then Mr. Chittock would not pay me, and struck it out.

40,151. What services were they which he rendered ? —He was clerk at the central committee room.

40,152. Were any claims made for money paid by way of allowances to people upon the election day by anybody ?—Not to my knowledge.

40,153. Was any claim made for beer supplied ?— Not to my knowledge.

40,154. Or refreshments other than those to the clerks in the committee room ?—No.

40,155. (Mr. Mansfield.) Is that the only claim you ever had ?—That is the only one I can recollect for the present.

40,156. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Mr. Chittock may refuse to pay them, but were there not any ?—Mr. Chittock has got them on the file of claims disputed. There is a file of claims he won't pay. They could be found.

40,157. I am not speaking of claims which Mr. Chittock paid, but claims which have been made upon Mr. Chittock. Mr. Chittock has a file, you say ?— There was a file of that description.

40,158. You have seen the file, have you ?—Yes, because Greenacre's went on as well as the others, whatever they were.

40,159. There is a man of the name of Smith, the secretary tells me ; who is he ?—That is a Sprowston man. He lives in the county, I think.

40,160. What is he ?—A carter.

40,161. Can you tell me whereabouts he lives in Sprowston ?—I don't know at all. One of these other captains brought me to him, saying, "Here is a man can get you a few." Of course I engaged him there and then on the spot.

40,162. Who recommended him to you ?—I cannot tell you who recommended him. It was all done very quick. We did not make up our minds till 4 o'clock.

40,163. There is James Brown.—What is that for ?

40,164. That is for 10 men ?—I don't remember him, but I will try and find him out for you.

40,165. W. Swash ?—That would be a man at Bailey's yard, St. Faith's Lane.

40,166. What place do you say ?—Hill's & Underwood's, St. Faith's Lane.

40,167. "Will o' the Wisp" was a squib, was it not ?—Yes, published in Norwich at the time.

40,168. Who is Robert Hall ?—Robert Hall would be the Hall on Palace Plain.

40,169. Does he keep a public ?—He is the son of a publican, I think.

40,170. A beer-house ?—Yes.

40,171. Do you know of any fund being provided otherwise than through the influence of Mr. Chittock for the payment of any expenses connected with the election ?—No.

40,172. Or of any payments being made by anybody else ?—No.

40,173. You were employed, were you not, in the course of the election petition ?—Yes.

40,174. When were you first employed about the election petition ?—It would be about a month before Baron Martin came.

40,175. There were some persons sent down in the way of detectives for the purpose of investigating the matter on behalf of Sir Henry Stracey, were there not ?—There was one down.

40,176. And I suppose that you investigated every matter that you possibly could for the purpose of that inquiry ?—Yes.

40,177. Were you employed in getting up or drawing up the brief ?—No.

40,178. I suppose you reported everything that you could learn to Mr. Skipper ?—Yes, or to Mr. Corsbie ; that sat there.

40,179. Do you recollect a person of the name of Hunter coming down ?—Yes.

40,180. How long before the trial of the petition did Hunter come down from Mr. Arthur Bignold's ? —I should think that would be about 14 days before the petition.

40,181. Before the hearing of the petition ?—Yes.

40,182. After that did you report to Hunter everything you learnt ?—I did not report anything at all to him. He reported to me what he could get.

40,183. He was employed likewise to hunt up evidence, and so on ?—Yes.

40,184. I suppose you investigated the case against Sir Henry as well as the case for Sir Henry ?—In some cases.

40,185. You seem to have learnt pretty well about Hardiment's, Hunt's, and Smith's proceedings ?— Yes.

40,186. And also about the Houghtons ?—Yes.

40,187. Have you also learnt a good deal about what took place at the "Marquis of Granby" ?—Yes.

40,188. You sent the Houghtons away ?—I did.

40,189. On whose suggestion did you send the Houghtons away ?—There was a message sent to me at London Street that Mr. Hulme wanted the Houghtons to be got away.

40,190. Who brought you that message ?—I think it was a man of the name of Bailey.

40,191. Where does he live ?—In Wilde's yard, in Magdalen Street.

40,192. Did you inquire why Mr. Hulme wanted the Houghtons to be got away ?—I knew there was something wrong at once.

40,193. You conjectured that, but did you know what was wrong ?—I did not know to what extent.

40,194. Did you see the Houghtons and speak to them ?—I did.

40,195. Did you ask them what was wrong ?— When this messenger came up about sending these men away I said, "Let them meet me at Mr. Mallows' in the market at about 11 or 12 o'clock.

40,196. You sent for the Houghtons ?—Yes.

40,197. Did you yourself go and see Hulme upon the subject ?—I saw Hulme, I think, the same morning, and he said, says he, "They must be got away."

40,198. Did he give a reason why they must be got away ?—I formed my own conclusion at once.

40,199. But did he give you any reason ?—No.

40,200. Was that all he said to you, "They must be got away" ?—That was quite sufficient for me.

40,201. I daresay it was. You saw the Houghtons ?—I did.

THIRTIETH DAY.

S. Dawson, jun.

13 Oct. 1869.

40,202. Did you learn from them that they had received money from Hulme?—Yes.

40,203. And then I suppose you thought it desirable that they should be got out of the way?—At once. It took them about an hour and a half to get ready.

40,204. Do you recollect the amount which they said they had received?—No, I do not.

40,205. Nor what they had done with it?—No.

40,206. You did not think it wise to go into minute particulars?—It would not do.

40,207. Hardiment was got out of the way?—He was. I don't know whether he was got out of the way; he went away.

40,208. But you knew of it?—I knew he was gone.

40,209. Did you have any communication with him, or at least some person or Hunter before he went?—No, not to my knowledge.

40,210. Did not you have any communication through Thirkettle or somebody as to Hardiment's going?—I ran round twice myself, I think, but on another matter entirely.

40,211. You went twice to Hardiment's?—Yes.

40,212. Did you see Hardiment?—I did.

40,213. Did you learn from him that it was necessary that he should go away?—I went down to ask him the question whether anything had been done by him, because I never knew him to interfere in elections before. He said, "Yes." Some name was mentioned, and he said, "That's right enough."

40,214. Did he say what he had done?—He said he had given away some half-sovereigns and sovereigns.

40,215. Did he say where he had got them?—No.

40,216. Did not he tell you who had given him the money?—No. He made the remark that he had taken the money out of his own pocket.

40,217. And did not he say who was to repay him?—No, he did not say a word to me about that. In fact he did not go into that question.

40,218. You might, you know?—But I did not.

40,219. You say you saw him twice?—Twice.

40,220. What occurred upon the second occasion?—It was only the same as the first, to know whether this man had any money that I went about. I found he had.

40,221. You found certain people had received money, and you went to inquire from him whether that was true?—Yes.

40,222. (Mr. Biron.) I suppose you wanted to get them out of the way?—No, they had got subpœnaed.

40,223. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Your attention was directed to them in consequence of their having been subpœnaed?—Certainly. I could not get them out of the way.

40,224. You got the Houghtons away before the subpœnas were served?—No. The subpœnas were then flying about at the same time. In fact they had been after one of the Houghtons, I believe.

40,225. Did you find they had also been after Hardiment?—I don't think they had been after Hardiment when I went down.

40,226. Had not they?—No, I think not; because he was walking about the yard.

40,227. Was that after they had served the subpœnas upon the men? You say that the second time when you saw him you went down in consequence of the men having been served with subpœnas?—Yes. He was up at the wool warehouse at the end of the yard when I went up, and he walked direct into his counting-house and locked the door.

40,228. You asked him, then, whether those men had been paid by him?—Yes.

40,229. And he said it was all right as far as he was concerned; that they had been paid?—Yes.

40,230. Did he produce to you any list of the men whom he had paid?—He never stated either the amount that he expended. I could get nothing out of him about what I wanted.

40,231. Nor yet where the money came from?—Nor yet where the money came from; only that he said, "I spent it out of my own pocket." He did say that.

40,232. Some out of his own pocket?—He said he had spent it out of his own pocket.

40,233. I suppose you then thought it was high time that he was out of the way?—I thought so in my own mind; but it was not my business to get him out of the way.

40,234. You told him so?—I might have said, "It is best you were out of the way," or something of that sort.

40,235. Did you give him any money or arrange that he should have money to go away?—Not a penny piece, nor yet arranged anything.

40,236. Do you know of any sum having been paid for his going away?—No.

40,237. As far as you are aware did he go away entirely at his own charge?—I think he did.

40,238. Worledge was got out of the way?—So I understood at the time.

40,239. Did you see Worledge about going away?—I never saw him at all.

40,240. Were not you aware that he had been mixed up in anything irregular?—Well, I heard in going round to these different places that Worledge was about, drinking a good deal up in St. Martin's. That is all I heard.

40,241. You sent some people over to Yarmouth, Moy, for example?—Yes, four or five of them.

40,242. Why did you send them over to Yarmouth?—To keep them from the other parties as they had been after them.

40,243. That they might not be tampered with?—They had been partly tampered with.

40,244. Was it from any apprehension of what they would say against you, or the apprehension that they might not tell what they knew against the other side?—Well, I thought they would not tell the whole truth about the matter.

40,245. The object was to prevent their being tampered with by the other party?—Yes; but they were got at at Yarmouth. Some of the other party went and found them out.

40,246. Do you know of any other person being sent or got out of the way?—Yes. There was a youth of the name of Mackley was sent away.

40,247. Which Mackley?—I cannot say which, but he works at Mr. Taylor, the carpenter's.

40,248. Why was he sent out of the way?—Well, I believe he saw Hardiment pay some of this money, I think. That is the fact.

40,249. Did you see Mackley himself about it?—Yes.

40,250. Did he tell you what he had received?—I told him when he first came and spoke to me about it, "You had better bring your son up, and "I will hear what he has got to say." He went and fetched him and told me what he had seen. I said, "The best thing you can do is to go to Cromer," and I sent him off in the coach that afternoon.

40,251. The old man of the "Woolpack" brought him up, did he?—Yes. I believe that is the man.

40,252. Did you have anything to do with a man of the name of Bradbury?—Well, he certainly came to me and said he had been subpœnaed, or he came and asked me whether it was a good service, or something of that sort, because he got out of the door before the man could serve it. "Yes, certainly," I said, "You got sight of him. That is enough."

40,253. There was a question of whether the service was a good service?—There was.

40,254. You took counsel's opinion as to whether it was a sufficient service?—I communicated the matter to Mr. Skipper, I think, and he thought it was a good service.

40,255. Had you learned from Bradbury why you should take counsel's opinion, to avoid his being called ?—He said he was mixed up with Hardiment a good deal.

40,256. Did you send him away, or did he remain here ?—He went to Eye, to some fair or other, and he said, "If you want me send for me."

40,257. When you got the opinion you thought it wise to send for him ?—I think some one did go for him ; he was at some fair, I believe.

40,258. He was "non est inventus" in Norwich for a few days ?—He generally is all the year round when the fairs are going.

40,259. Do you know of any other person who was got out of the way or who went out of the way ?—I don't think there was anyone else.

40,260. Did John Pratt go out of the way ?—I never saw him at all. I don't know.

40,261. You know nobody else who went out of the way ?—Not that I remember. I think not.

40,262. You paid the Houghtons a considerable sum for going away ?—I paid them 10*l.*

40,263. Where did you get that money from ?—Mr. Skipper.

40,264. What did you pay to the Moy party ?—I think they cost us 30*s.* a week and their board. I think that's about it.

40,265. Although you paid the Houghtons only 10*l.*, did you pay their expenses as well ?—I took them over in a trap or sent a trap with them.

40,266. Did you pay their expenses while they were away as well as give them the 10*l.* ?—No, it was a bonâ fide bargain before they started what I should give them.

40,267. Then they provided for themselves with the 10*l.* ?—Yes.

40,268. I suppose Mr. Skipper paid for the trap ?—Yes.

40,269. You say you never paid Hardiment. Did you pay anything to Worledge ?—No, I never saw him.

40,270. Did you keep an account of the payments which you made on Mr. Skipper's behalf with respect to these things ?—Yes. I kept a rough account of it.

40,271. Has Mr. Skipper got that account or have you ?—I don't know where it is now I am sure. I have not the slightest knowledge.

40,272. Did these men give you receipts ?—Houghton gave me a receipt.

40,273. Did any other person give you receipts ?—There was only Mackley and these men at Yarmouth.

40,274. Did Mr. Skipper pay the expenses of sending Mackley out of the way ; young Mackley ?—Yes.

40,275. And also Bradbury ?—I think Bradbury had something for coming home, because he had to leave the fair. I think he had.

40,276. What did you give him ; do you recollect ?—It would not be much. He was about two days. I should give him about a sovereign or 30*s.* for about two days, and his travelling expenses.

40,277. Do you know a man of the name of Nockalls, or did you hear the name while this was going on just before the election petition ?—No.

40,278. Was he not sent or got out of the way ?—No, not by me.

40,279. Just listen to these names ; Bunn. Do you know the name of Bunn ?—Which Bunn do you mean ?

40,280. Robert ?—Robert ; I think he was out of town that time.

40,281. He was got out of the way ?—I don't know whether he was got out of the way, or whether he went away.

40,282. Was your attention called to Bunn as a person to be got out of the way as having been mixed up with the election ?—I heard just before the petition that there was something wrong there.

40,283. Who told you that ?—It came in from information from the sixth ward.

40,284. Did any message come to you from Mr. Hulme ?—No ; not from Mr. Hulme.

40,285. Did you have any communication with the Wisemans ?—No.

40,286. Do you know Samuel Fisher ?—No.

40,287. Does that name occur to you as having been one of the men who were sent out of the way ?—No.

40,288. Newton ?—Yes.

40,289. Was he sent out of the way ?—He went to Yarmouth. He was one of the Yarmouth men.

40,290. Do you know Crow ?—No.

40,291. You said you think that Fisher was not sent out of the way ?—No.

40,292. And that Newton was ?—Newton was.

40,293. Do you know that Mr. Arthur Bignold was out of the way prior to the petition ?—I heard that he was not in Norwich.

40,294. Did you inquire for him ?—No.

40,295. How came you to know that he was not in Norwich ? Had you reason to enquire about him ?—I might naturally say, "I wonder where Mr. "Arthur is ?"

40,296. Mr. Arthur Bignold does not generally live in Norwich.—I know he does not.

40,297. You do not know where he was during the time of the election petition, and just before ?—No.

40,298. During the time of the election did you see a man of the name of Dumbleton ?—A Yarmouth man ?

40,299. Yes.—I think it is very probable I met him in the street, London Street, I think.

40,300. Did not you see him active at the time of the election ?—No.

40,301. Had you no communication with him during the election ?—No.

40,302. On what days did you see him in the street ; the day of the election or the day before the election ?—I think it must have been about a week before.

40,303. And during the election ?—No, I never saw him during the election day, nor yet the day before, nor the day before that, nor yet the day before that ; it might be the Friday.

40,304. Do you know Bunn, the Yarmouth man ?—Charles Victor Bunn ?

40,305. Yes, was he here ?—Yes, he keeps the "Gates" public-house.

40,306. Do you know James Bunn, of Yarmouth ; that is the man I mean. Did you see him here during the election ?—No, not at all.

40,307. Do you know a person of the name of John Cooper ?—Oh yes, I know him well.

40,308. Was he here during the day of the election ?—No, I never saw him.

40,309. You did not see him at Mr. Chittock's office, or in the committee room ?—No.

40,310. Mr. Arthur Bignold was very active during the election, was he not ?—I did not see him during the election. Do you mean the election day ?

40,311. During the election ?—I don't think I saw him once till I saw him at 12 o'clock on the election day.

40,312. Where did you see him at 12 o'clock on the election day ?—Standing in the "Swan" yard.

40,313. What was he doing in the "Swan" yard ?—There were lots of gentlemen talking together.

40,314. Do you recollect with whom he was talking ?—I really don't remember now. There was a great many gentlemen in the yard ; I should think 40 or 50 of them.

40,315. Did you see him between 1 and 2 at all ?—I think I did about a quarter past.

THIRTIETH DAY.

S. Dawson, jun.

13 Oct. 1869.

40,316. Where did you see him between 1 and 2?—I think he came past my room door. I think I saw him pass.

40,317. Did he come in to enquire how things were going on at your central committee room?—I think it is very probable that was the purpose for which he went upstairs.

40,318. Do you recollect whether Mr. Edward Stracey came in with Mr. Arthur Bignold into the room at that time?—No, I think not.

40,319. Was Dr. Allen with him?—I don't think I saw Dr. Allen the whole day. I don't think I did, as far as I can remember.

40,320. How far was the central committee room from the "Maid's Head"?—I should think that would be about seven minutes walk.

40,321. (Mr. Biron.) Do you remember who it was that you sent to Bradbury to get him back?—It would be his brother, I think.

40,322. Where does he live?—He lives at Charing Cross.

40,323. Do you remember that it was his brother?—I am almost certain it was.

40,324. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You were, I think, mixed up with the former elections in this city?—Yes.

40,325. We will take Waters' election. What part did you take in Waters' election?—The same as I did at this.

40,326. With whom did you act upon that occasion? Who was your principal, if I may so term it?—Mr. John Goldsmith Atkinson, Post Office Street.

40,327. Have you got any documents relating to that election?—Well, I don't known. I can look.

40,328. Or book?—I think Mr. Atkinson has got the whole. I will have a look if you like.

40,329. Mr. Kitton was very active, was he not, as the financial agent in that election?—He was.

40,330. Do you know of any sum being spent for the purpose of influencing voters at that election?—I believe there was some spent.

40,331. Did that come under your personal cognisance, or was it a matter that was left in the hands of Mr. Kitton?—It was left in the hands of Mr. Kitton and others, I believe.

40,332. Did you make any payments?—Only the legitimate.

40,333. Mr. Arthur Bignold had the payment of the expenses connected with Mr. Atkinson, had he not?—Yes.

40,334. And you consulted him with regard to the expenditure, I suppose, at Waters' election?—Mr. Arthur Bignold, you mean?

40,335. Yes.—Yes.

40,336. He in fact was the person who was representing Mr. Waters at that election?—It appeared so to me.

40,337. Did Mr. Atkinson pay anything besides the legitimate expenses upon that occasion?—Not to my knowledge.

40,338. Mr. Kitton had nothing to do with the legitimate expenses, as far as I understand?—No.

40,339. His was secret service money entirely?—Well, there is no doubt about that.

40,340. At the prior election of Lewis and Forlonge, did you act in any capacity?—Oh yes, I acted under Mr. Lewis, of London, then.

40,341. Was Mr. Kitton active at that election?—I don't remember seeing Mr. Kitton at that election.

40,342. Do you know whether Mr. Kitton at all took part in that election, or was he in an inactive state?—I cannot remember just now.

40,343. Do you know of any money having been improperly expended at that election?—Not one penny.

40,344. Mr. Forlonge went to Australia, I believe?—He did.

40,345. He is in Australia now?—I have not heard anything about him for years. I understood that was his object when he left home, and Mr. Lewis is since dead.

40,346. Can you tell me of any illegitimate payment made at that election—illegal payment?—All the legal payments were paid by Mr. Lewis' brother.

40,347. Do you know of any secret service agent being employed at that election?—I know of none.

40,348. Mr. Wilde had been very active upon the Whig side, had he not, at both of those elections?—He always has been.

40,349. Do you know anything of your own knowledge of Mr. Wilde's proceedings?—No, I should think his machinery could tell that; the people he employed for the purpose would tell you.

40,350. Whom did he employ?—I will find you a list of them.

40,351. Can you?—Yes.

40,352. If you will send it to us I shall be glad.—I will do that.

40,353. At which election?—At the elections where Mr. Wilde have been employed in Norwich.

40,354. The election of 1865?—When the money was spent. Bignold and Lushington, that was the time the money was spent.

40,355. I am speaking of the election of 1865 or 1860?—I must just look and see. I have got a memorandum.

40,356. I want the election of 1865 or the election of 1860?—Very good. I will have a look.

40,357. He is dead?—Yes.

40,358. Is that all you know of the prior elections?—Yes.

40,359. There was an election, I don't know whether you took part in it, which was a sort of intermediate election, of Bury and Bignold, and Boldero?—Yes. I was engaged in that.

40,360. Do you know of any illegal payment being made then?—Not a penny.

40,361. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you know of any active agent on the other side engaged in secret service besides Mr. Wilde?—Mr. Wilde was the chief actor, and lots of them worked under him.

L. Burrows.

LEWIS BURROWS sworn and examined.

40,362. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A shopkeeper.

40,363. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Stracey.

40,364. At what hour of the day?—About half-past 11.

40,365. Had you promised your vote?—Yes.

40,366. To whom?—Mr. Severn.

40,367. How long before?—I should think for a fortnight, as nigh as I could guess.

40,368. Is this the first time you have voted?—No, I have always voted that way.

40,369. Did you receive anything for your vote?—No.

40,370. Or the promise of anything?—No.

40,371. Did you make any payment or promise to anybody else for voting?—No, not a penny.

FRANCIS GURNEY sworn and examined. F. Gurney. 13 Oct. 1869.

40,372. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A fish hawker.

40,373. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

40,374. For whom?—I voted for Mr. Stracey.

40,375. What time in the day?—I should say about half after 2 or 3; 3 o'clock I think.

40,376. What were you about?—I was out that day till 2 o'clock, and after I came home I voted for Stracey.

40,377. Did you get anything for voting?—Not a single drop of anything, or the worth of anything.

40,378. Or the promise of anything?—Or the promise of anything.

40,379. Had anybody asked you to vote?—No, I voted of my own free will.

40,380. Had you ever voted before?—Not at a general election. I have voted at municipal elections.

40,381. You have voted at municipal elections?—Yes, and for the same party.

40,382. Did you get anything for voting?—Nothing; not the worth of a farthing.

STEPHEN SENDALL sworn and examined. S. Sendall.

40,383. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

40,384. At what time of the day?—About 3 o'clock.

40,385. Where were you up to 3 o'clock on that day?—In my yard at St. Mary's Lane; a malthouse yard.

40,386. What were you doing?—Carrying corn. I am a maltster all the winter, and a master bricklayer of a summer time.

40,387. Had not you time to go up and vote before that time of the day?—No.

40,388. Did anybody come to you and ask you to go up?—No.

40,389. You went up of your own free will?—Of my own good will.

40,390. Without anybody coming and urging you to go?—No one persuaded me to go.

40,391. Did anybody promise you anything for your vote?—No.

40,392. Or did anybody give you anything for your vote?—Nothing at all.

EDWARD THOMAS CHAPLIN sworn and examined. E. T. Chaplin

40,393. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A farmer.

40,394. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

40,395. At what time of the day did you vote?—After 2. I could not say exactly what time it was.

40,396. What had you been doing all the day?—At work.

40,397. For whom were you at work?—Mr. Patteson.

40,398. Did you vote as soon as you had had your dinner?—Yes.

40,399. Did anybody ask you to vote?—No.

40,400. Had you promised anybody?—No.

40,401. Had you told anybody how you were going to vote?—No.

40,402. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

40,403. Was anything promised you?—No.

40,404. Were you treated anywhere that day?—No.

GEORGE KEY recalled and further examined. G. Key.

40,405. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A stoker.

40,406. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

40,407. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

40,408. What time in the day?—10 minutes to 4.

40,409. What did you get for voting?—Nothing at all; not a penny.

40,410. Why did you not vote earlier than that?—I could not get away from my work.

40,411. Where were you working?—At the gas-house; stoking.

40,412. Could you not get away till 10 minutes to 4?—I might have got away, but I did not think about voting.

40,413. You were here yesterday?—Yes.

40,414. Very drunk?—No; I had not but two glasses of beer all day.

40,415. Who gave you that beer yesterday?—I bought two glasses; that's all I had.

40,416. Did you get any beer on the election day for your vote?—No.

40,417. No beer and no money?—Only what beer I paid for.

40,418. Were you in any public-houses that day?—Yes.

40,419. Where were you?—"Bishop Bridge" inn; James Hobrough's.

40,420. Were you at the "Thorn"?—No.

44,421. At the "Horse Shoes"?—No.

40,422. Only at that one public-house you have mentioned?—No.

40,423. You were at work all day until you voted?—Yes.

Sir WILLIAM RUSSELL, Bart., sworn and examined. Sir W. Russell, Bart.

40,424. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You are the member for Norwich?—I am.

40,425. You became member in the year 1860?—That was my first election.

40,426. You were elected again in the year 1865?—Yes.

40,427. And also at the last election?—Yes.

40,428. At the last election we hear that Mr. Coaks was your agent?—Yes, he was.

40,429–30. Who had been your agent at the two preceding elections?—Mr. Coaks was in 1865, and also in 1860; both the previous elections.

40,431. When did you announce yourself as a candidate at the last election?—I always had intended to stand again if such was the wish of the party generally. Mr. Warner and myself would both of us have stood again, and had never any intention, either of us, of withdrawing. I may as well say at once that when I first came to Norwich the Liberal party selected Mr. Warner as the representative of the Radical, or advanced section; the Whigs selected me as their member, and it was decided between the two sections unanimously to support us both together.

THIRTIETH DAY

Sir W. Russell, Bart.

13 Oct. 1869.

There had been some dissatisfaction expressed by some members of the party, and I believe some of them wished to have more advanced Liberals as representing them. Mr. Warner and myself were asked to come down here to attend a meeting of the party, and we did so.

40,432. Can you tell me at what time that meeting took place?—I think it was in the end of June or the beginning of July. I have not got the date with me.

40,433. That is quite near enough.—We came down and attended the meeting and placed ourselves entirely in the hands of the party. I stated that if it was considered that, to prevent dividing the party it was necessary to put in a more advanced Liberal than one of us, I was quite willing to withdraw and let Mr. Warner stand as the other, provided that was decided upon by the party generally. Mr. Warner did the same thing. We drew up a joint letter and placed it in the hands of those gentlemen, a large section of the party, whom we had met, stating that we placed ourselves entirely in their hands, and either of us would withdraw, as it was decided by them. The result was that there was a meeting afterwards, and the members of the Whig section decided that as I had always been their member from the time of my first election they should certainly support me; and the members of the more advanced section decided that they would support Mr. Tillett. Upon that Mr. Warner, having signed the joint letter, of which I unfortunately have not got a copy here, but it is in the possession of some of the gentlemen here, was in honour bound to withdraw, and I was accepted as the representative of the Whig section.

40,434. Can you tell me now at what time, not to a day, but about what time it was that the resolution was arrived at?—It was within about a fortnight after our visit.

40,435. That would be about the middle of July?—I should think about that; two or three weeks after our visit.

40,436. What steps did you take upon that to secure your return at the election which was coming on?—I came down here and saw Sir William Foster, Mr. Youngs—no, I do not think Mr. Youngs was here at the time; but I saw one or two leaders of the party, and I said I put myself entirely in their hands and should act exactly as they directed. I would come down at once and canvass, or wait till they sent for me. They thought it desirable that I should not come down at once, and should not appear with any view of canvassing or anything else, unless a Conservative candidate was started. On that account I never took any steps. I came down three or four times for the day. I came down perhaps at intervals of a week, 10 days, or a fortnight, just to see the leaders of the party, and then I went away again; but I took no active steps till I was asked to come down and canvass.

40,437. Do I understand you that it was hardly anticipated that there would be a contest?—I have no doubt that if Mr. Warner and I had stood there would have been no contest, and I think it was only latterly that they succeeded in starting a Conservative candidate. It was very late when they determined upon it.

40,438. Before Sir Henry Stracey came forward did you not hear that active measures were being taken to secure a Conservative candidate for the seat?—Yes. I heard that there had been a good deal of talk about it, and I heard that they had failed in getting a Conservative candidate; in fact, the only Conservative candidate who would I consider have been at all dangerous, if he came forward, was Sir Robert Harvey. I thought he would have had a very good chance, and if he had been brought forward, would probably have beaten us; but having failed to secure him, I thought they had no chance with any other. I think, when they selected Sir Henry Stracey, they got the best possible candidate next to Sir Robert Harvey.

40,439. At the time you heard of Sir Robert Harvey being selected as a candidate you were uncertain, I suppose, whether he would become a candidate or not. There was an interval during which his answer, I suppose, would be uncertain?—I had heard myself that he did not intend to stand, but I believe he did not publicly give his decision until a short time afterwards.

40,440. Then you never seriously apprehended his candidature?—Not after I received that information. I was told that having his bank in the city of Norwich, and being on good terms with a great many people here, he did not wish to come forward.

40,441. When you heard of Sir Henry Stracey coming forward as a candidate, what steps did you take for the contest?—I was at once summoned down by telegraph, and I came down immediately and had a meeting with the leaders of the party. It was then decided that the two, Mr. Tillett and myself, should unite and fight together as the two Liberal candidates.

40,442. We have heard a good deal of that coalition. Did you come down upon the eve of that coalition, or had you taken any steps before the coalition to secure your re-election?—I never moved in any way whatever until I was summoned down by Sir William Foster, who said I had better come at once.

40,443. Can you give me the date when you came down?—I think it was about three weeks before the election. I cannot give you the exact date; a fortnight or three weeks.

40,444. Had you at that time communicated with or placed yourself in the hands of Mr. Coaks for the purpose of his being your legal agent?—Mr. Coaks had all along acted as my agent in Norwich, and continued acting for me; but I think it was not until a day or two before the election that I actually signed any paper constituting him my agent.

40,445. Was there ever any doubt as to Mr. Coaks acting for you at this election?—Mr. Coaks at one time said he could not, or he did not wish to act in the matter in conjunction with Mr. Tillett's candidature; and he objected at one time to acting as my agent if I coalesced with Mr. Tillett. I said that it was entirely a question for the party and not for me. I thought it was essential for the Liberal party that the two Liberals should work together, and I was quite prepared to do so if that was their wish. I thought that Mr. Tillett had every chance of success; in fact I fully expected that Mr. Tillett would be in advance of me. I thought that we should have beaten Sir Henry Stracey by a very large majority; but I fully expected, from the information that was given to me, that Mr. Tillett would be before me.

40,446. From whom did you derive that information?—From a good many different members of the party in conversation. Sir William Foster and the Whig section, always said that I should be at the head of the poll; the other portions of the party said the reverse. I went according to my belief, and from what I had seen and known of Mr. Tillett, I believed him to be very popular in the city, and I thought the chances were that he would head me.

40,447. We have heard that Mr. Coaks ultimately became your agent; do you know when he finally determined that he would act for you?—Directly I heard there would be a contest. I do not think there were six hours, or three hours interval.

40,448. Was it about a fortnight or three weeks before the election that you came down?—Yes.

40,449. Did you remain here from that time until the election?—Yes, except two days. I got a telegram to say that my wife was very ill, and I went away for a day to take her home.

40,450. Did you proceed to canvass?—I avoided canvassing as much as I possibly could, having done it twice before in Norwich, and knowing what a tremendous business it was with the old constituency, and knowing that it would be a great deal more serious with a new one. We strove to do everything by meetings. We attended as many as four or five meetings of an evening, and addressed the electors in different wards in the city. We did very little canvassing except at large establishments, where we met large bodies of workmen together.

40,451. Did you go into any what may be called "doubtful localities" in Norwich?—No. I never made any regular canvass of the town, for had I attempted it I should have required three weeks or a month to do it in, and I should have offended a great many persons by not calling upon them. I declined, therefore, to make a personal canvass except of the leaders of the party. I went to large factories where I met large bodies of men together, but a house to house canvass we declined to make.

40,452. You had made a house to house canvass, had you not, at both the previous elections?—Yes.

40,453. On those occasions had you found that there was a very considerable number of doubtful voters in Norwich?—There were a good many people who would not make up their minds, and who said they should wait and see. I did not like canvassing, and determined not to do it.

40,454. Had you received information at prior elections that many men expected to be paid a day's wages?—A great many men had asked me, and said, "I cannot lose a day; will you give me a day's wages?" And I invariably said, "Certainly not." That was on previous occasions.

40,455. That was in the course of a personal canvass?—Yes. It appeared to be a general feeling that they would not lose a day's work for either side; if they got their day's wage they would vote.

40,456. There was an arrangement made, we have been told, by which ward managers were appointed to assist in the canvass, and to see how it was carried out in the city; were you cognisant of that?—They went round, I believe, with a view to give us some idea of our position, that was the real object; but I do not know that that could have been carefully done, because according to that canvass we should have had a majority, so far as the books showed, of over 2,000 in our favour.

40,457. Mr. Coaks distrusted the return, did he not, and advised you that it was not one on which you could place any reliance?—Yes, he did.

40,458. When you consented to become a candidate I suppose you were aware that at many elections at Norwich there had been very corrupt practices?—Before I came down here I was aware that there had been, because there had been several committees of inquiry, and several members had been unseated. On the occasion of my first coming down here, when I was first invited, I came down with Mr. Warner, and I met a large number of the leaders of the party at the "Royal" Hotel with Mr. Warner. We were examined as to our political faith, and after that I stated distinctly to them that Norwich did not bear at that time, having had these committees of inquiry, a very good character.

40,459. You came down immediately after the decision of the committee which had unseated the members?—Yes, and I stated that I certainly would not pay 1*s.* in any shape or form that was not strictly legal, and that did not appear in the auditor's election accounts; that if there was to be any question of any after payments I would take my return ticket, and go back to London at once. I also stated that if they would make me out a sort of estimate of what the expenses in each ward ought fairly to be, and if all those were put into the auditor's accounts I was quite prepared to pay whatever the amount might be, provided it appeared in the election auditor's accounts, and was a legal payment. Upon that Mr. Warner and I were requested to withdraw for a short time. There was a short discussion among the members of the party. Mr. Warner, I should state, coincided with me in all I had said as to that, and gave me his word, and I gave him mine, that neither of us would under any circumstances pay a shilling without the knowledge of the other. We then went into another room, and on our return Mr. Tillett, who was the spokesman at the time, said they were quite prepared to accept us on our own terms. On that they gave us an estimate of what the expenses were to be, and I requested that a committee of gentlemen might be formed through whom every payment should pass. I forget whether it was three or four gentlemen who were appointed on that committee, Mr. Tillett, Mr. Bacon, and Mr. Colman. I forget whether there were three or four, but everything I paid was paid to those gentlemen and through them.

40,460. That was the commencement of your connexion with the city of Norwich?—Yes.

40,461. You have said that that was the sum you stipulated you should pay?—Yes.

40,462. Did you make any stipulation as to anything being provided from any other source besides your own?—Certainly not.

40,463. You misunderstand me, I think. Did you know sufficient of the city of Norwich to be aware that sums of money had from time to time been provided for improper purposes, by what I may call independent individuals in the city, in order to support their party?—No, I did not.

40,464. You were not aware of that?—I had never known anything of Norwich elections until I came down here at the request of the constituents to meet them.

40,465. Had you heard anything of the kind?—No, I had not the slightest knowledge of it in any shape or form.

40,466. So that you made no provision against irregular practices which might be attempted by third persons?—I merely stated that I was quite prepared to pay all my own expenses, and every expense connected with the election, provided they were legal and would be passed by the auditors.

40,467. You took no precautions, as I understand you, against any improper practices being resorted to by those who might be called independent supporters of your party?—Certainly not; for I was not aware that anything of the sort would be done, or was likely to be done.

40,468. That suspicion did not cross your mind?—No, not in the least.

40,469. I will take you to the first election. You were then elected by a considerable majority?—Yes, Mr. Warner was at the head of the poll, and I was elected with Mr. Warner.

40,470. What did that first election cost you?—I have not got the papers with me now, and I have no means of getting at them so as to bring them with me. They are at Charlton, and I was at Brighton when I got the letter which brought me here; but I think the amount was under 1,000*l.* Of course I can furnish you with that information.

40,471. What did you pay for that election; was it your moiety of the legal expenses that were returned to the officer?—It was my moiety of the legal expenses that were returned to the officer. There was a sum of 220*l.* I think, which was claimed afterwards by Mr. Coaks for expenses, which he stated were not illegal, and which I said I would not pay unless they were allowed by the finance committee. My moiety was 110*l.* of that amount, and that 110*l.* I refused steadily to pay, and it was not paid until Mr. Coaks in 1864, I think the end of 1864, threatened to sue me if I did not pay up my moiety. He said that Mr. Warner had paid his moiety, and that I was bound to pay mine. I then, with the concurrence of the finance committee, paid 110*l.* at the end of 1864 for the election of 1860.

40,472. Did you pay, directly or indirectly, any other money for the purposes or for the expenses of that election?—Nothing whatever in any shape or form.

40,473. Or have you ever done so?—No.

40,474. Do you know of any other funds having been provided by other persons for the repayment of money expended at that election?—Not one shilling to my knowledge.

40,475. Did you know a person of the name of Wilde?—Yes, I knew him very well.

40,476. Was he active at that election?—Yes, he had the charge of the central committee room on the day.

40,477. Was that the young man, or the old man?—The old man.

40,478. He is now dead?—Yes.

40,479. You knew, did you not, that he had been actively concerned in bribery at the preceding election which had been voided by a committee of the House of Commons?—Yes, it so appeared by the evidence, and that was one of my reasons for saying that I wanted to have a finance committee who should pass everything before I paid it; my object being to prevent the possibility of any question arising. Until the the finance committee in 1864 authorised the payment of the 110*l.* for the election of 1860 I would not pay it, and did not pay it.

40,480. Do you know whether Mr. Warner had paid, or had agreed to pay, any other sum than that which was his moiety of the returned expenses, and the moiety of the additional sum to which you have alluded?—No, I do not know of his having paid a shilling beyond that. He paid his 110*l.* in the year 1861, I believe.

40,481. Did you ever learn from Mr. Coaks the exact nature of the items which constituted that sum?—No, I never learnt it. It was, I was told, for bands, and some expenses which he said were not illegal, and which were passed by the committee. I do not know what they were at all.

40,482. Did you hear anything about a show of hands?—No, I never heard a word about a show of hands at that time.

40,483–4. In 1865 you became a candidate again?—Yes. I find that this (referring to a paper) was on the 30th of June 1864 that I paid the 110*l.*

40,485. Did you receive any claims of any sort or kind before the election of 1865?—No, not a shilling.

40,486. On becoming a candidate again in 1865, did you receive any intimation of any such matters being outstanding?—No.

40,487. Or did you receive any intimation or suggestion that you were expected to pay anything of the kind?—No, certainly not. I think that if there had been such a claim I should hardly have been informed of it, because I had so strongly resisted paying even the 110*l.* I have mentioned until the committee had sanctioned the payment of it.

40,488. In the year 1865, upon the occasion of your candidature, was the same system pursued as had been pursued in the year 1860?—No, I applied to the same gentlemen to act on the committee, but they said they had had a great deal of trouble on the committee before, and that as Mr. Coaks was solely acting as agent there was no necessity for a committee, and they declined acting as finance committee again. There had been a great deal of difficulty in arranging the accounts before, and they declined to act, and under those circumstances Mr. Coaks was appointed as Mr. Warner's and my agent jointly.

40,489. Were any instructions given by you to Mr. Coaks upon the subject of expenditure?—My instructions to Mr. Coaks were most positive, that I would far sooner lose the election than run the risk of having one single shilling spent illegally on my behalf, and I told him that I would only pay what could be proved to be strictly legal.

40,490. You were returned again at that election. Have you ever been called upon to pay any other sum than your moiety of the returned expenses?—I do not recollect what the return was at the time, but when the accounts were sent in to me I strongly objected to the amount; the amount was 2,872*l.* 5*s.* 2*d.*, a moiety of that. I considered that that was more than we had been at all led to expect. We had been led to believe that it would not exceed the same sum as the previous election had cost, and I strongly objected to paying so large an amount. I sent the accounts down before I paid them to Mr. Colman, who had acted as one of my committee on the previous occasion, and asked him to look them over. I also submitted them to my own solicitor in London, and then I sent them down also to Sir William Foster to look at under the direction of all three of those gentlemen. I came to the conclusion that I must pay half that sum, that there was nothing illegal in it, though it was not all in the auditor's published account, and I therefore paid my moiety. But I did that after considerable delay and a good deal of correspondence. I had paid my half of the published accounts.

40,491. Can you tell me what were the items generally to which you objected?—I never got any items furnished to me, and that was one of the reasons why I so strongly objected to paying the amount. I have no doubt that Mr. Coaks can furnish you with the particulars.

40,492. Have you been called upon to pay anything besides the moiety of that sum?—No, nothing.

40,493. Neither directly nor indirectly?—No, I must tell you that I had no means exactly of ascertaining the figures myself while I was at Brighton. They were at my own place in Gloucestershire, and therefore I had not the figures with me, and as I came down this morning I went to Mr. Coaks' office to look at the accounts, and I have taken this sum of 2,872*l.* 5*s.* 2*d.* from the paper in his office. I believe that that was the exact amount, but I can furnish you with the precise figures by referring to my cheque book and banker's book when I go into Gloucestershire.

40,494. What you paid was one half of the demand that was sent in by Mr. Coaks?—Exactly.

40,495. And nothing more?—Not a shilling more in any shape or way, and I did not pay that amount until after a good deal of correspondence, and after getting the opinion of three persons that there was not included in it any illegal payment that I was not bound to satisfy.

40,496. Have you ever paid any sum whatever besides that?—No. I do not mean to say that I paid the whole of the 2,872*l.* 5*s.* 2*d.*; I only paid one half.

40,497. That is half of the sum which was sent in as a demand by Mr. Coaks?—That is exactly it. I wish you to understand that I do not give you these figures from my own documents.

40,498. You do not pledge yourself to those precise figures, except so far as your general recollection goes?—I believe they coincide with the amount I paid.

40,499. Are you aware of any illegal payment having been made by anybody on your behalf?—Certainly not. I do not know of anything that has been paid in any shape or form by anyone.

40,500. Have you heard that at either that or the preceding election sums of money had been paid for secret service?—No, I never heard of it in any shape or form, and I do not think that there was any.

40,501. Was Mr. Wilde engaged at that as well as the preceding election?—If he was alive he was, but I am not certain whether he was alive in 1865 or not. He certainly was not at the last election, and I do not know that he was at the previous one, but I cannot say for certain. If Mr. Wilde was alive at that time he was in the election, but I am not quite certain about it.

40,502. Was there nothing to attract your attention to any irregular payment whatever at either of those two elections?—Certainly not, beyond the fact that this moiety was demanded from me.

40,503. I mean irrespective of the sum returned to you by Mr. Coaks, was there any outside payment which at all attracted your attention?—I never heard of any of any sort or description.

40,504. Did you ever hear that at either of those elections sums had been subscribed, or guarantees had been given, for other expenses besides those that you were called upon to pay?—No, I never heard it.

40,505. It was entirely without your knowledge?—Yes, it was entirely without my knowledge.

40,506. At the last election Mr. Coaks was your agent?—Yes.

40,507. Had you received from Mr. Coaks an account of the expenses of that election?—Yes, I received it and paid it. I questioned a portion of it. I sent it down to Sir William Foster for examination. He said there was nothing irregular in it, and I paid it.

40,508. Have you got that account?—Yes (producing it); there was a further sum added to that of 33*l.* 18*s.* 6*d.* and 23*l.* 8*s.*

40,509. What were those sums for?—Mr. Coaks said there were two further sums of 33*l.* 18*s.* 6*d.* and 23*l.* 8*s.* Here is his letter (producing it) forwarding me the statement. These were the only papers that I could put my hands upon; the papers relating to prior elections I have not got with me.

40,510. This, I suppose, is a mere transcript of the returned account?—I fancy so. I never had a full detailed account before I insisted on having it on this occasion.

40,511. Did you pay those two additional sums which are mentioned in that letter?—Yes, I did. Those were included in the application. I sent them to Sir William Foster, and Mr. Colman looked at them, and my own solicitor in London, and I paid the whole amount; but I must tell you that I objected to paying it at first, as being very much larger than we had been led to expect. We had been led to expect that the expense would be about 800*l.* apiece, but the expenses amounted to 1,300*l.* odd. I objected to that. I paid a proportion of it, about 1,000*l.*; and the 300*l.* odd I did not pay till some time afterwards, when I had the account carefully examined. I did not pay the 300*l.* till July last.

40,512. Have you ever paid any additional sum whatever beyond those three sums, the entire sum which is entered in this account against you, and the two other sums that are alluded to in the letter you have just produced?—Not in any way connected with the election.

40,513. Have you had any other claim of any sort or kind made upon you?—No, not in any shape or form.

40,514. Or a suggestion of any payment that you ought to make in honour or otherwise?—No, none whatever.

40,515. Are you aware of any payment having been made in respect of that election independently of those payments?—No; there is a list of my subscriptions which I have paid here pretty regularly, but they have nothing to do with the election.

40,516. Of course every member of Parliament has to pay subscriptions to charities.—Yes, there are subscriptions to the hospital, and to some other charities.

40,517. With regard to the last election, were you aware of any money having been expended by anybody on your side beyond the sums you have mentioned?—I am not aware of anything in any shape or form, and I do not believe that a single shilling was spent; that Mr. Tillett's and my instructions were so very strong that I do not think anybody spent a single halfpenny in our behalf.

40,518. There is one circumstance connected with the last election which has given rise to some inquiry here, that is the matter of the show of hands. I do not know whether your attention has been directed to that. A meeting, as I understand, took place on the Saturday before the election respecting some payments which might be made on the nomination day, or upon the election day; one of those was the payment of cabs, and the other was the payment of men for a show of hands. Now, I shall be glad if you will tell me exactly what you recollect as having transpired at that meeting with reference to the show of hands.—I was not aware that the show of hands was ever paid for; the question that was raised when we went in was as to the payment for cabs; after hearing an opinion which had been taken upon the subject we decided that it was an illegal payment. Upon that Mr. Coaks said, "And how about the show of hands; are we to have it?" I said, "Well, I do not think it signifies a straw in that place;" which I daresay you know. It is a mere rush to get in, and Mr. Youngs, I think it was, said, "There is a good deal of "prestige with it. We always carry the show of "hands; we always get the hall occupied first, and "carry the show of hands." I asked Mr. Coaks at once, "Is there anything illegal in it?" and he said, "Certainly not the least." I said, "Well, then, "I suppose we had better have it, and get it filled as "before." I may mention to you that when I stood as member for Dover they were anxious to get the show of hands, and Mr. Moxon, who was a contractor there, and a staunch supporter of mine, said, "Oh, we will have the show of hands;" and a large number of his navvies marched down in a body from the railway works, and held up their hands. There was no payment whatever for that, and I was not really aware that there was any payment to be paid for this.

40,519. Do you not recollect something being said about payment?—No, I do not really recollect any mention of a money payment for it.

40,520. Was not an inquiry made as to what it would cost?—Certainly not, to my knowledge. I never heard that it was to be paid for at all. I merely believed that it was a thing to be organised, and that there were to be a number of our own party who were to be shoved in and get the show of hands.

40,521. Did you not hear an inquiry made as to what it would cost?—No, I never knew that it had been paid for, nor did I know until I saw it in evidence here that it had been paid for. I read Mr. Coaks evidence.

40,522. Have you read the account of what Mr. Youngs said?—Yes, I have read what Mr. Youngs said. I saw it this morning.

40,523. What was said may possibly have escaped your ears?—We were meeting in a room at the "Royal." I certainly did not hear any statement as to the amount, or that there was to be any money payment whatever. My own impression was that the intention was simply to organise a body of volunteers who would undergo a good deal of hard fighting to get possession of the place. Mr. Colman said at the time "There are plenty of my men, and men of other "large employers in the town; we will take care of

THIRTIETH DAY.

Sir W. Russell, Bart.

"that." I was fully under the impression that it was to be taken care of by Mr. Colman's men, and the men of one or two other large factories.

40,524. Did you remain after Mr. Youngs left?—Yes, it was in my room that the meeting was. Mr. Youngs stayed only a very few minutes, and then went away.

40,525. You say that until you heard the evidence that had been given here you were entirely unaware that the show of hands had been paid for in any way?—Certainly. It does not appear in my account in any way, and I was perfectly unaware that 6*d.* had been paid for it.

40,526. (Mr. Biron.) There is an item charged for clerks, messengers, and so on.—Yes, and it might be included in that; but there is no item to show that a shilling was paid for the show of hands. When I asked the question as to its legality I did it just in the same way as I should ask whether a mob rushing in was an illegal act like marching with bands and banners.

40,527. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) I want to know how, unless it involved payment, you could suppose that there could be any illegality in it?—Because I believe that marching in bodies in any way at an election, carrying colours, or bands, or anything of that sort, is illegal whether it is paid for or not, and therefore I thought that it might be an illegal thing to have a rush.

40,528. The question was about the payment of cabs?—Yes, distinctly.

40,529. It is possible that you may not have appreciated what the real matter was.—I never was aware of it until I saw the evidence that had been given here, and in no account furnished to me did they say the show of hands was to have been paid for.

40,530. You say that you did not hear the question what it would cost either put or answered?—No, I certainly did not hear it.

40,531. (Mr. Biron.) There were a number of people there who were talking more or less?—Yes.

40,532. There were a number of gentlemen standing about the room discussing and talking over matters connected with the election?—Yes.

40,533. And a number of things might pass from one person to another, or between two or three persons, in which others might take no part?—Just so.

40,534. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) And yet that forms part of the general consultation?—Yes.

40,535. It is not a matter which you can entirely reject as resulting from the meeting; it is a result of the meeting, though it may not have had the entire concurrence of everybody there?—I myself said, "If "there is nothing illegal about it we had better have "it;" but my impression was that we were to have it by means of organising a band of people from the different works who would go in and win it. Will you allow me to say this, which I think Mr. Youngs will confirm me in. He acted for me on the last occasion, Mr. Colman acting for Mr. Tillett; they were really the only persons who acted as a committee for us. I cautioned him most particularly that not one sixpence in any shape or form should be spent illegally.

40,536. There can be no question in the mind of any gentleman here, I am quite sure, that what was intended to be done was not intended to be done illegally. The very circumstance of the inquiry being made and answered shows that there was a determined disposition not to do wrong, and under those circumstances, if wrong was done, it was done in ignorance. Both my colleagues and myself are quite satisfied of that. It was a mistake of the law simply under any circumstances. Were you aware of any arrangement made with any of your subordinates that there should be no show of hands?—No, I never heard anything of the sort.

40,537. In the election of 1860 had you any reason to suppose that there was any illegal practice on the part of your opponents?—I think that that was a perfectly pure election as far as both sides were concerned. I think that both Lewis and Forlonge did not do anything illegal on that occasion so far as I can judge; the fact was that there was a very strong feeling, and there has been on the part of the leaders, both Conservatives and Liberals, that the city having obtained a very bad name, owing to the Bury and other elections, every effort should be made by the leaders on both sides to prevent anything in the shape of bribery or irregular practices, and that was most strongly enforced in the election of 1860, and was most rigidly carried out, I believe, and also in 1865; and I believe that the leaders of the Conservative party upon this occasion, such as Mr. Johnson and one or two others, and I believe Sir Henry Stracey himself, were perfectly ignorant and perfectly unwilling that there should be any illegal practices.

40,538. Confine your attention, if you please, to the election of 1860. I want to know whether there was anything of the sort or kind which induced you to suppose, or even to surmise, that there was any improper practice on the part of either of your opponents?—I do not believe that there was anything whatever, so far as I have the means of judging. I have stated that the leaders, both of the Conservative and of the Liberal party, had come to a determination to prevent corruption as far as they could; and I believe that at the next election, when the leaders of the Conservative party found they could not control one of their candidates, they withdrew their support from him.

40,539. In the next election, in 1865, was there anything that induced you to believe that illegal practices were being resorted to?—Yes, I think there were very strong evidences that illegal practices were resorted to.

40,540. What were those evidences?—The sudden increase of numbers and the considerable amount of beer that appeared to show itself among a certain class.

40,541. Had the election of 1860 been free from intoxication?—I think it was very free; wonderfully free.

40,542. Were those indications much greater in the election of 1865?—Very much greater.

40,543. Who had taken a prominent part in the election of 1860 on the Conservative side?—I think Mr. Johnson, and Mr. Patteson, and Mr. Watson, and the usual leaders of the party.

40,544. At the election in 1865 were those gentlemen active again?—Yes, they were very active for Mr. Goldsmid; they at first supported both candidates, but when certain circumstances came to their knowledge they withdrew their support from Mr. Waters, and supported only Mr. Goldsmid.

40,545. Were those circumstances which induced them to withdraw their support from Mr. Waters illegal practices, or were they matters personal to Mr. Waters?—I really cannot answer for them; they probably will be better able to answer for themselves.

40,546. You said they seemed to withdraw their support, and you thought that their support was withdrawn on account of illegal practices?—What I meant was that I believe illegal practices did take place, but they did not countenance them in any shape. Of course they are themselves the best judges why they withdrew their support from Mr. Waters. I believe that there were other causes; but as to the person they supported, Mr. Goldsmid, I believe that his actions were perfectly pure, and that the actions of the leaders of the Conservative party were pure also.

40,547. Then, as far as the leaders of the Conservative party are concerned, you had no suspicion of any unfair practice on their part?—On their part, in that election, certainly not.

40,548. What induced you to suppose that there was any improper practices on the part of Mr. Waters?—The fact of the sudden majority in his favour, and the fact I was informed of, that money was flying about in every direction through him and his agents. I was told so in a good many quarters. I could not at this distance of time state where I heard it, but it was generally believed throughout the town.

40,549. They were rather general rumours than specific statements?—There were general rumours and one or two specific statements, quite sufficient to satisfy me that there had been a considerable amount of treating.

40,550. There was an exhibition of drunkenness?—Yes, and there was the appearance of the men generally.

40,551. At the last election, were you led to suppose by anything that there were illegal practices going forward?—I believe that up to the middle of the day there was nothing done in any shape or form. I believe that whatever did occur was done without the knowledge or sanction of the leaders of the Conservative party and against their wish, and strongly against the wish of Sir Henry Stracey.

40,552. At what time in the day did you first see anything that induced you to suppose there was anything improper going on?—I did not think there was anything seriously wrong until about 2 o'clock.

40,553. Did some circumstances then attract your attention?—Simply that I got messages from every direction sent up to the committee room that they were buying, and buying in different wards. I had not any specific information beyond that.

40,554. And did that continue up to the close of the poll?—Yes, up to the close of the poll.

40,555. Did you observe much drunkenness?—A good deal; more than I had ever seen at any election in Norwich before.

40,556. More than there was in the preceding election in 1865?—Certainly.

40,557. I suppose you can give me no specific information as to anything improper that was done at the last election?—No; I really know of no specific cases at all.

40,558. Do you know of any treating that took place at any one of those three elections on the Liberal side?—No, I do not at any one of the elections in the way of treating.

40,559. I am speaking of treating, separate from bribery?—I understand that, but I do not know anything of the sort.

40,560. You had a conversation with Mr. Youngs, and you also had a conversation with another gentleman, Mr. Colman, respecting a letter which you had received either the day before or the Saturday before the election?—Yes. I have read the evidence which has been given about those two cases, and I think there is a little misapprehension as to what I stated.

40,561. Have you that letter?—I have not.

40,562. What have you done with it?—I destroyed it at the time; it was simply a letter from one of my nephews. I will tell you the circumstances. When I was first coming down to Norwich I was told by a gentleman, a friend of mine in London, who had been in India, who is a Conservative, and who has stood as a Conservative for another constituency, "It is no "use your going to Norwich; we mean to have that "place, and the Carlton Club will have it. You may "be certain you will be beaten."

40,563. When was this?—It was in June, or somewhere about that time.

40,564. In June last?—Yes, June before the election. He said they were quite determined to have the election.

40,565. Who was that gentleman?—Mr. J. P. Mackenzie, of No. 9, Old Broad Street; he told me that in his office.

40,566. What is his position; is he a solicitor?—No, he is a merchant in the City. He stood as a Conservative canditate, and was beaten. He is a friend of my own, and was in India for many years, and made his money out there. He said, "It is of no use your "starting; you are sure to be beaten; the Conservatives "mean to have it, and they will send down someone "who will be sure to beat you; you may depend upon "it it is of no use your starting."

40,567. Is he a member of the Carlton Club?—Yes, I think so; at any rate he had good means of knowing, because he was very intimate with Mr. Rose, of the firm of Baxter, Rose, and Norton; he is a great friend of his, and I thought the probabilities were that the information he gave me was pretty accurate on that head. I said, "Well, I think there is only one "man that can beat me, and that is Sir Robert "Harvey. If he starts I think they may win. I think "he is the only person likely to succeed, and if he "does not start I think I am pretty safe." I meant Mr. Warner and myself; for I believed then we were both going to start. I could not get any further information from him. I asked him for information once or twice afterwards, and tried to get something specific, but I could not get anything beyond that sort of caution which he gave me. Before I came away from London I sent one of my nephews to try and fish out the matter, and let me know if he could get any information at all.

40,568. Who was your nephew?—A young nephew of mine, quite a youngster, of the name of Birch.

40,569. Where does he live?—At present he is living near Leatherhead. I told him to inquire and see what information he could get for me, and the day before the election I got a letter from him, saying he could get nothing definite at all; he gave me no definite information beyond that the report was the Carlton Club certainly intended to send down money here; from all he could pick up at the club and various other places it was to the effect that they meant to send down money, but he could give me no specific information. I told Mr. Colman I had that letter. It was just three lines from my nephew, and Mr. Colman asked me for the name, and I told him he could give me no names; it was merely a report that it was to be won, it was to be had; it was the general rumour in the clubs in London that the Conservatives meant to win it. Afterwards I was written to by Mr. Colman, when Mr. Baron Martin was coming down here, to ask me to try and fish out some specific trace of this general report, and I tried several places, but I could get nothing at all definite, and wrote to him to that effect, saying, I have no information; probably he could produce my letter, saying I had been quite unable to trace it to any source; it was a simple matter of rumour, and that the gentleman who had first given me the hint did not give me anything further, and I could not get anything from anyone else. The letter to which you have alluded was a note from my nephew, which I did not keep, and which I tore up at the time I believe.

40,570. We thought from what you heard that it was something of a much more authentic character than that?—I wanted to keep myself informed of what was going on in London, and ordered my nephew to give me any information he could pick up.

40,571. After that suggestion of course you were anxious to ascertain whether you might be met by an antagonist of that kind?—Yes.

40,572. Was there any sum mentioned in that letter?—No, none whatever. It was a sort of report that they meant to win the election, and they would send money down for the purpose.

THIRTIETH DAY.

W. Wilde.

13 Oct. 1869.

WILLIAM WILDE sworn and examined.

40,573. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by profession?—I am merely the high bailiff of the county court.

40,574. In this city?—Yes, in this city.

40,575. How long have you held that office?—20 years.

40,576. Who appointed you to it?—The late judge, Mr. Birch.

40,577. Were you in Norwich at the time of the last election?—Yes.

40,578. Did you take any part in that election?—A very little part.

40,579. What part did you take?—On the Saturday before the election I went with Mr. Coaks to the committee room, and went through the register to see how the marking was. I had been asked by Sir William Russell to do that. I went, and was there for several hours on the Saturday evening, and again on the Monday, and on the election day I was at the committee room all day helping and assisting in keeping the poll.

40,580. Did you canvass at all?—No, not at all.

40,581. Did you solicit any votes?—No.

40,582. Or induce anyone to go and vote?—No.

40,583. I suppose you are pretty well acquainted with the character of this constituency, are you not?—Yes; not of the new constituency.

40,584. But on former occasions you were pretty well acquainted with it?—Yes.

40,585. Who applied to you to come and take part in this election?—I see in Mr. Coaks' evidence that he says I came from Brighton, but I was living in the Newmarket Road. Sir William Foster asked me first of all if I would look into the register and see how it had been marked by the canvassers on Mr. Tillett's side, and I afterwards saw Mr. Coaks, who agreed that I should go on the Saturday.

40,586. At this last election you had nothing whatever to do with the disbursements of money?—No, nothing.

40,587. After it was over had you anything to do with the settling of accounts?—No, nothing whatever.

40,588. And you know absolutely nothing about what the financial arrangements were?—No, nothing.

40,589. Throughout the whole of the day of the election your services were restricted to the committee room; is that so?—I did not go out of the room excepting to vote.

40,590. And you did vote?—I did vote.

40,591. Have you taken part yourself in former elections?—Yes.

40,592. What was the first election you began at?—Well, I should think 30 years ago. My father always had the management of the Norwich elections.

40,593–4. You were brought up to the business?—Yes, as an election agent.

40,595. At what part of your life did you begin to take an active part yourself?—The first part I had any responsibility was in 1857, when Bury and Schneider were down.

40,596. You were then an active supporter of the Liberal side?—Yes.

40,597. And your father, I suppose, managed it all?—No, my father was away. He came down occasionally; but he was at Finsbury for Sir Morton Peto.

40,598. He was working that election, was he?—Yes.

40,599. At that election in 1857 you had what they call the under-ground work?—No, I had the general management of the election; the under-ground work and the upper ground work.

40,600. Tell me your experiences of the under-ground work?—Yes, with pleasure. We spent about 2,200*l.* at that election.

40,601. In corrupt practices?—Yes, in bribery.

40,602. In 1857?—I am presuming that Bury and Schneider's election was in 1857.

40,603. Yes, it was Bury, Schneider, and Bignold in 1857?—It was when Bury and Schneider were unseated.

40,604. That was in 1859.—That is the election I mean.

40,605. You were for Bury and Schneider?—Yes.

40,606. Who found that 2,000*l.* odd?—I received it from Mr. Rouger, the cashier to Foster and Company.

40,607. Can you call to mind the persons into whose hands you put that money?—No.

40,608. You are satisfied it was put about for the purpose of corrupting voters?—Yes, certainly.

40,609. Under whose orders did you receive that money? Somebody must have given an order upon the cashier?—The cashier brought it to my house.

40,610. Do you not know who gave the order?—No, not at all.

40,611. You were sitting in a room, and the cashier walks in and brings you 2,000*l.*?—No, he brought in 500*l.* at a time.

40,612. Were you never advised who gave the order to him?—No.

40,613. Have you not heard since?—No; I imagined, of course, it was done by Mr. Schneider.

40,614. You do not know who was the actual agent who managed that; you do not know who put you in possession of ammunition for this campaign?—No.

40,615. You are satisfied you spent it all in corruption?—Yes.

40,616. Have you any notion of the details of that expenditure; how it was done?—On the night before the election a report was brought to us that the Conservatives were buying. We had a majority of about 400 on our canvassing, and we had no intention whatever to buy; in fact, an offer was made to the Conservatives that it should be a pure election. In the evening we ascertained that they were buying at all points, and the question was whether the election should be allowed to go.

40,617. They were buying for Bignold and Lushington?—Yes; the question was whether the election should be allowed to go, or whether it should be kept.

40,618. That is, whether you should spend money too?—Yes; and I believe a communication was made to some parties in London as to whether the return should be lost and the seats gained afterwards, or whether the return should be gained and the seats lost, and the advice was that the return should be secured without any regard to the seats; and then on the morning of the election day it was considered that the Conservatives had bought the election. I met Mr. Arthur Bignold as he was coming down the street in the morning, and he told me I might go home again, that it was all done, but I did not take his word for it. I did not go home again, but went down again, and we had a tremendous fight during the day, we winning by somewhere about 200.

40,519. You did that without the assistance of your father?—Yes, I circulated the money myself.

40,620. Your father was at Finsbury?—He came down the night before the election and left the next morning before 11 o'clock, and charged me not to interfere with any corrupt practices, but I was induced to do so rather than that the election should be lost.

40,621. In consequence of the message that was received from London?—I believe that was the reason.

40,622. He sent down a man from London, did he not?—Who?

40,623. Your father?—There was a man that sold us; he was at Finsbury, and I telegraphed for him to come down, and he was sent down to Norwich.

40,624. How was this 2,200*l.* spent?—It was sent out into different parts of the city to different people who had the management of it.

40,625. In what sums?—I cannot remember at this moment.

40,626. Did Mr. Daynes have anything to do with that?—No, I think not.

40,627. Was he not engaged upon that election at all?—He was not engaged professionally, he was not paid for it.

40,628. He was working the election?—He worked at every election.

40,629. I suppose he had something to do with that expenditure?—It is so long ago that I do not remember.

40,630. Do you not believe he had?—I do not know; he is a very cautious man.

40,631. Do you not think that he had in spite of his caution?—I think his influence is more without than with it.

40,632. Was Mr. O. D. Ray taking part in it?—I do not think he had much to do with politics then, it is 10 years ago.

40,633. However you put about this 2,200*l.* and secured the election?—Yes.

40,634. Could you say how many votes you secured by that expenditure?—No, I cannot say, but I should think 400 or 500.

40,635. Do you not know at all what the other side were doing upon that occasion?—I should think they spent twice the money, because they had to buy our majority down, and all we had to do was to keep our own men.

40,636. Who was acting for Mr. Lushington, and Sir Samuel Bignold?—I do not know, but I believe the late Mr. William Kitton.

40,637. He was very good at that kind of work?—Yes, very good, but not good enough.

40,638. There was a petition on which Messrs. Bury and Schneider were unseated?—Yes.

40,639. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) In the mean time Lord Bury accepted an office, whereby his seat became vacated, and there was another election?—Yes, a bye election.

40,640. Did you take any part in that?—Yes.

40,641. Was any money spent?—No, not a penny.

40,641. On neither side?—No. I think Lord Bury's expenses were paid him.

40,642. It was not worth while spending money?—There was certainly none spent on our side, and I do not believe a penny was spent on the other side.

40,643. It was not worth while, the petition was pending?—I think the general understanding is, when a gentleman accepts an office, he has not a violently contested election.

40,644. Was there not an understanding that Bignold was not an eligible candidate, in consequence of the bribery that was alleged against him?—No, I think not.

40,645. As far as you are acquainted with it yourself you are not aware of a shilling having been spent at that bye election in order to corrupt voters?—No, not anything.

40,647. (Mr. Mansfield.) Now we come to the election of 1860, when Mr. Warner and Sir William Russell were the Liberal candidates?—That I had nothing to do with.

40,648. Had your father got anything to do with it?—No, very little. We got into grief with our party by being found out.

40,649. Neither of you had anything to do with it?—Very little. There was no money spent then.

40,650. Were you at Norwich at the time?—Yes.

40,651. Do you know anything about it?—I believe no money was spent then.

40,652. Not by Mr. Lewis?—No, I should think not. I do not know about the other side.

40,653. In 1865 did you do anything?—Whose election was that?

40,654. Sir William Russell and Warner, and Goldsmid and Waters?—I was not in Norwich.

40,655. Was your father in Norwich?—Yes, and had the conduct of the election.

40,656. Do you know at all what part he took in it?—No, I do not know, except that he had the sole control of it.

40,657. He knew pretty well how to get up the constituency?—Yes, better than any man, I should think.

40,658. Are you aware whether he got any money to work it with?—No, I do not think anything was spent then.

40,659. I suppose you would not know accurately if you were away. Have you any idea how the majority was secured for Russell and Warner?—I understood that a lot of money was spent by Waters' friends.

40,660. You know none of the details?—No, I was not in Norwich at the time. I was at another election.

40,661. Was Mr. Kitton alive then?—Yes.

40,662. Do you know anything about that election in which it was alleged that Sir Samuel Bignold gave 100*l.* or 100 guineas to your father?—Yes, I know all about it.

40,663. Tell us all about it?—My father had usually the sole conduct of the elections, and at that election, for some reason or other, some persons connected with our party behaved very ill to him, and made it a condition with Mr. Hammond that my father should not have anything to do with the election.

40,664. What election was that?—When Mr. Hammond stood alone. I was walking down Post Office Street, and met Mr. Hammond and my father together, and shortly after my father came back and said, "What do you think has happened? Hammond "told me that our people made it a condition that I "was not to have the management of the election, and "therefore he says we shall have nothing whatever "to do with it." I went and inquired further into it, and found that my father had been what I called most grossly insulted by his own party. My father went home and was very unwell, it had a considerable effect upon him to think he should be so treated after all the service he had rendered, because my father lost a large sum of money by always being a party man; he had a very fine business. Mr. Hardy, the grocer, asked me if I thought that my father would act for Sir Samuel Bignold, I said, "No, I do not think he "will. I do not think I shall let him do that. I "shall certainly keep him quiet, because I do not "intend he shall take any part in the election, "certainly not for his party after the way they have "treated him." In the afternoon I went home, and my father sent for me (I live some distance from my father); he said, "Since you left me I have been "offered a fee of 1,000*l.* to take charge of Sir "Samuel Bignold's election;" and I said, "You can-"not do that, for unfortunately we are different here "to what is practised elsewhere, because an election "agent elsewhere is open to work for either party, "and here you have confined yourself to work for "your particular party, and you cannot manage the "election for Sir Samuel Bignold or for his friends, "but I am very much inclined to advise you to "accept a retainer as an election agent from Sir "Samuel Bignold not to interfere with your own

THIRTIETH DAY.

W. Wilde.

3 Oct. 1869.

"party, because they are sure to be at you before the "election is over." He told me afterwards he had considered himself retained not to take any part in the election, no mention was made of any money by him, and I believe not to him; before he came to that decision we consulted one whom we considered at that time one of the most influential men in Norwich, the late Mr. Richard Bullard, a personal friend of my father's, and he advised us (our own party treating us in this way) that we were perfectly justified in refraining from taking any part in the election, and allowing our party to lose, as they certainly would do if we did not interfere. My father was solicited day by day to take part in the election, but he refused, and I also refused, being asked several times to take a part in it. I voted and my father voted for Mr. Hammond early in the morning, as we usually do, but during the day we merely sat at home; my father was unwell, and I was with Mr. Bullard, and took no part in the matter whatever. I was occasionally asked during the day if I would interfere, but I would not, and Sir Samuel Bignold was returned. Some months afterwards my father said to me, "Bignold "has behaved very shabby, I have never had any-"thing from him, and received nothing from him in "any way." It must have been a year afterwards, but one day my father said, "There is a prospect of "another election, and Hardy talks about giving us a "cheque, of course he knows what that means, he "thinks, I suppose, he shall go in again, but while I "live he shall never go in again if I can help it." The end of it was my father received two cheques for 150*l.*, one a cheque for 100*l.* for himself, and one of 50*l.* for me.

40,665. From whom did he receive those cheques?—From Hardy.

40,666. Upon whose names were these cheques drawn?—I do not remember.

40,667. Where did you cash them?—I think it was at the East of England Bank, now called the National Provincial Corporation. I think I was in London at the time. My father afterwards told me that his cheque was presented at the bank and refused payment.

40,668. It was never paid?—Yes, it was paid; I do not know whether my father got the money or Hardy got it; I think Hardy got it and repaid my father.

40,669. You both got the cheques?—Yes.

40,670. You say those cheques were a retainer to you as the agent for Sir Samuel Bignold, though you did nothing?—No, it was to prevent us accepting a retainer on the other side, the same as you give a barrister a retainer so that he may not go against you.

40,671. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) That is not the meaning of a retainer; on the contrary you are bound to deliver a brief.—That is the simple fact.

40,672. (Mr. Mansfield.) What it really comes to is simply this, that Mr. Wilde, senior, and yourself, received 150*l.* to do nothing?—Yes, for doing nothing.

40,673. To be passive?—Yes, and by our being passive Sir Samuel Bignold got in.

40,674. (Mr. Biron.) That is what you think?—Yes, I think so.

40,675. (Mr. Mansfield.) If you had canvassed you could have returned the other candidates?—I believe if my father, myself, and Mr. Bullard had taken the usual part in the election which we had taken before, Sir Samuel Bignold would not have been returned.

40,676. Could you have returned your own candidates if you had spent no money?—Yes.

40,677. Could you by your own personal activity without giving money have returned your own candidates?—Yes, I believe so with management.

40,678. Could you have done that in spite of the Tories spending money?—No.

40,679. In point of fact the cheapest thing they could do to win the election was to pay Mr. Wilde, senior, and yourself to do nothing?—Yes, as there was no money on either side.

40,680. They won the race by bribing the jockey, that is what it comes to?—Not so. I beg your pardon; we were election agents, it was our business, and I should have accepted a retainer to have worked for Sir Samuel Bignold if I had been offered one; it is my business as an election agent.

40,681. You cannot tell us anything about the operations on the other side at the last election?—No, only from what I saw by the poll I should have supposed there were 400 or 500 people bought.

40,682. Can you give us any information as to the mode in which it was done?—No, only by what I saw by the cards when they came up; I generally know when bribed men begin to vote.

40,683. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You have got a new class this time?—Yes, I know it, but there is a large number of the old class.

40,684. (Mr. Mansfield.) What would you put as the number of those who polled this time, who would be open to corrupt practices?—Four hundred, I should think.

40,685. Would you say that at least that number were corrupted?—Yes, I believe so.

40,686. That would be independent of those who voted for a glass of beer?—Yes.

40,687. You say 400 represents the money class?—Yes; I have known them to go up for a shilling at the municipal elections.

40,688. What is your ground for arriving at that figure of 400?—The number of people that polled during the latter part of the day and the way in which they polled; for instance, if you would see 20 people from one committee room all polling for Stracey I think that is a safe indication that they were bought men, if they all went in a body; I think that is a safe indication that they had been bought.

40,689. Is there any other fact upon which you found your opinion?—No, only the large number of people who polled in the separate half hours, so different from what it is when there is no money.

40,690. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Will not beer at the last moment do it?—I do not think that; I do not think beer has much effect upon a municipal election.

40,691. I think you will find that it is a most efficacious thing?—There will never be any more bribery in Norwich.

40,692. (Mr. Mansfield.) I hope not. Is it surprising to you when men go to their dinners leaving their various occupations that they should go and vote 20 and 30 at a time together?—No, not in the dinner hour, but it is not usual at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

40,693. Between half-past 2 and the close of the poll you think that a number of Conservative plumpers indicates some foul play?—Yes, of course the reports came from the wards where they knew the whole of these individuals.

40,694. What influence on the polling is produced by that system, of which we have heard a good deal, of buying mobs at 2*s.* or half-a-crown a day and beer previous to the poll?—In the olden times there was a great deal of corruption in that way.

40,695. This time we have heard of it?—This time I should think it did not operate to any particular extent.

40,696. We know that a sum of 80*l.* has been spent in that way?—So I have read.

40,697. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you aware that a trick had been played upon some of the men down at some of the wards?—No, I never heard of it.

40,698. You were a great deal too wise a tactician to attempt anything of that sort?—Yes, I should think I was; it was nonsense.

40,699. You would know it would have a reaction?—Yes, undoubtedly.

40,700. No doubt it was very unwise.—Yes, no doubt.

40,701. Honesty is the best policy even in bribery?—Yes, I believe so.

40,702. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you aware of any money having been improperly spent at the last election?—No, not a penny.

40,703, On neither side?—No.

40,704. You did not become aware of it?—No.

40,705. Do you know anything of the transactions of Mr. Hardiment?—No.

40,706. Did you learn nothing about them?—Only what I saw in the papers.

40,707. Was the bribing done by Hardiment a complete surprise to you?—I understood there was to be bribery, but I did not hear anything about Hardiment.

40,708. What led you to that conclusion?—Mr. Coaks told me on the Saturday that he knew there was money down.

40,709. Did you hear any names mentioned as to any money being procured?—No, I should not think they would mention any names.

40,710. It is strange that a man should say he knows there is money coming down without knowing at all from what channel it is coming.

40,711. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did he tell you the origin of that was a letter that Sir William Russell had received?—No, he did not tell me; he only said he knew there was money down; I did not pay any attention to it because there is an erroneous supposition that the clubs send money down, and I do not believe a word of it.

40,712. You never got any from the clubs?—No, that was the only election I had to do with in 1857, when I was engaged in anything of that kind in Norwich.

40,713. You knew Mr. Kitton very well?—Yes, quite well.

40,714. Did you know those men who worked under Mr. Kitton?—No, not to name them, there was a great mass of people in each ward that we knew would be at his service.

40,715. Do you know Mr. Hulme?—Yes.

40,716. He has always been active at elections, has he not?—Yes, very.

40,717. Did you think he was likely to be one to be mixed up with irregular practices?—I should think he would be one of the men in the ward, without meaning to be offensive to him.

40,718. Do you know the Stockings in St. Stephen's?—I should not say that they would be likely to be mixed up with it. They are too careful and too respectable people.

40,719. Hardy?—I should think he has always been in it more or less.

40,720. You never knew anything of Hardiment?—No, never; I never heard of his name before in connexion with the election. I know him, of course.

40,721. Mr. Arthur Bignold has always taken a very active part in the elections?—Yes, he has.

40,722. His observations to you were strong observations?—Yes.

40,723. Was he very active at that election?—Yes, I believe he had been out all night when I saw him, and was then going home.

40,724. You say on that occasion you think there was as much spent in bribery by the Conservatives as by your side?—I should think a great deal more.

40,725. He was very active at that election?—Yes, he was.

40,726. Has he been active in all the other elections since then?—At Lord Bury's election he was not in England, I think he was at Spa then.

40,727. Were you in Norwich at the election in 1865; Waters' election?—No, I was not in Norwich. I was at Thetford.

40,728. You know nothing about the part he took with regard to Waters' election?—No, nothing whatever.

DANIEL TUFFIELD sworn and examined. D. Tuffield.

40,729. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A labourer.

40,730. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

40,731. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

40,732. At what time in the day?—About half-past 9.

40,733. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—No.

40,734. No one had asked you for it?—No one.

40,735. Did you get anything for voting?—I never see anyone.

40,736. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

40,737. Or the promise of anything?—No.

40,738. What did you do after you had voted?—Went to my work in the cricket ground.

THOMAS JOYCE sworn and examined. T. Joyce.

40,739. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What time in the day did you vote at the last election?—About a quarter to 3.

40,740. What is your business?—A carpenter.

40,741. Where do you live?—Magdalen Street, St. Paul's.

40,742. Did anyone come to fetch you up to vote?—No.

40,743. Did you go up with anybody?—No, by myself.

40,744. Had you seen anybody before you went up?—Yes, Mr. Andrews canvassed me about a week previous.

40,745. What did he give you?—Nothing.

40,746. Did he not promise you anything?—No.

40,747. Are you sure Mr. Andrews did not promise you anything?—No, nothing at all.

40,748. Did he not tell you there was money going?—No.

40,749. And that he had been spending money?—No.

40,750. Did he not say anything about money to you?—No, not a word.

40,751. (Mr. Mansfield.) Had he not given you anything before for keeping the peace and walking about?—No.

40,752. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Had you been at all engaged as one of the persons who had acted for Sir Henry Stracey during the days preceding the election at St. Andrew's Hall or the Corn Hall, or any other place?—No, I was at work in the country.

40,753. Did you receive anything for your vote?—No.

40,754. Did you get the promise of anything?—No.

40,755. Did your wife?—No.

40,756. Are you sure nothing was left at your house?—Yes, nothing at all.

ROBERT PEACHMAN sworn and examined. R. Peachman.

40,757. (Mr. Mansfield.) What is your occupation?—A cordwainer.

40,758. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

40,759. At what time in the day?—I cannot say to a few minutes; it was after 2, I know.

40,760. Did you get anything for it?—No, not a penny.

40,761. Did you not try?—No.

40,762. Did you not hear there was some money going upon that day?—No, I did not give any hearing to it at all; I was walking about.

THIRTIETH DAY.

R. Peachman.

13 Oct. 1869.

40,763. Had you promised your vote?—No.
40,764. Have you ever voted before?—No.
40,765. Was anything promised you?—No.
40,766. Has anybody treated you since?—No.
40,767. Did anybody treat you upon that day?—No; I had not a pennyworth of anything that day but what I ordered for myself.
40,768. Nothing was given to you?—No, nothing at all.

T. Graver.

THOMAS GRAVER sworn and examined.

40,769. (Mr. Biron.) Are you a publican?—Yes.
40,770. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.
40,771. For whom did you vote?—Stracey.
40,772. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon.
40,773. Why did you not go up sooner than that?—I was ill at the time, and I could not walk.
40,774. Who took you up to vote?—I cannot tell the flyman's name, but I went up in a fly.
40,775. Do you know Cubitt?—Yes.
40,776. Did he come with a fly for you?—I do not know whether he was there or not, or whether he sent the fly. I went up in one, and he was in and out of mine during the day.
40,777. Standing beer to the voters?—I do not know whether he stood any more beer that day than others. He is in the habit of standing beer.
40,778. On that day did he stand beer?—I do not know.
40,779. You said just now you did not know whether he stood more that day than he did on other days. Did he pay for any beer for other men that day?—I am sure I cannot tell you.
40,780. Oh yes, you can.—No, I cannot.
40,781. He was in and out of your house that day?—I did not do any business myself, for I was not well.
40,782. Where were you?—I was at home.
40,783. Whereabouts in your house?—In the tap-room.
40,784. Cubitt was in and out of your house, you say?—Yes.
40,785. Was beer brought in to him in the tap-room?—I do not doubt but that there was beer brought in.
40,786. To him?—Yes, to him.
40,787. Which he paid for?—He paid for all he had.
40,788. How much was that?—It might be 1*s.* or 1*s.* 6*d.*
40,789. It might have been 10*s.* or 12*s.*?—I heard my wife say that she thought it might be 1*s.* or 1*s.* 6*d.*, and no more, that is what it would be at another time.
40,790. Did he give you any of it?—No, I did not drink any.
40,791. Did you get anything for voting?—No.
40,792. Or the promise of anything?—No.
40,793. Had you promised your vote?—I never was asked for it by any party. My intention always was, through the piece, to vote for Mr. Stracey, and I did so.

E. Head.

EDMUND HEAD sworn and examined.

40,794. (Mr. Dowdeswell,) You voted for Sir Henry Stracey, did you not?—Yes.
40,795. At what time in the day did you vote?—I went at 10 o'clock, but it was so full then I left and went home.
40,796. Do you know a man of the name of Cubitt?—Yes, I know two Cubitts.
40,797. I mean David Cubitt?—Yes, I know him.
40,798. Were you with him the night before the election?—Not that I know of.
40,799. Not that you know of. I shall be obliged to refresh your memory presently if you do not speak. Did he not give you beer the night before the election to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—I have no knowledge of that.
40,800. No knowledge of it; is that all you will say?—I do not believe I had anything of that man all the time.
40,801. You do not believe it?—No.
40,802. You might have had it, might you?—Not that I know of.
40,803. Is your memory very bad?—I was not asked to have any by that man.
40,804. Did you drink the night before?—I think I did go in and have a glass of beer.
40,805. Did Cubitt pay for it?—I paid for it.
40,806. Did not Cubitt pay for beer the night before the election?—I paid for what I had. I think I did go in, and have a glass of beer.
40,807. Did not Cubitt pay for beer you had the night before the election?—No.
40,808. Do you mean to swear that?—Oh yes, most decidedly.
40,809. Then why did you say you believed just now?—Believed what?
40,810. That Cubitt did not give you any beer?—He gave me no beer; I have not had any of David Cubitt to the best of my knowledge.
40,811. Is that all you will say, to the best of your knowledge?—That is all I can say at present.
40,812. Had anybody asked you for your vote?—Yes.
40,813. David Cubitt had asked you for your vote, had he not?—No, not that I know of.
40,814. Who asked you for your vote?—I will tell you who came canvassing; I think it was on the Friday previous to the election.
40,815. Who came?—I think Mr. Webb was one.
40,816. Who is he?—He lives up Magdalen Street.
40,817. For which side was he canvassing?—He was canvassing for Mr. Stracey.
40,818. Did he see you?—Yes; he and three more.
40,819. Did he ask you to give him your vote?—No.
40,820. He never spoke about your vote?—He asked me. Stop a minute; do not let me tell a story. He and the others came and canvassed me for Mr. Stracey.
40,821. What did you say?—I said, "I shall not promise my vote at all."
40,822. I thought you would not; you did not promise your vote until you saw Cubitt the night before?—I did not promise my vote to anyone.
40,823. Why did you not promise your vote?—Because I had not made up my mind who I should vote for positively.
40,824. When did you make up your mind?—I told the parties, "I shall not promise my vote; I shall let it stand over till Monday."
40,825. Why, if you had made up your mind to vote for Sir Henry Stracey, did you say that?—I do not know that I had any particular reason, only I would not promise any man, not a direct promise.
40,826. Was it not that you were looking out for what you could get?—No, that was not my intention.
40,827. Then what was your intention?—My intention was that I would not promise any man my vote.
40,828. Was it that you might get anything that might turn up?—I did not stand for that; I went at 10 in the morning to vote, but could not.
40,829. Why did you refuse to give a promise?—I had made up my mind to myself on Monday morning to go and vote for Mr. Stracey.
40,830. What made you make up your mind to yourself?—I do not know that there is any particular reason.
40,831. Was it not at the bar of Cubitt's on the night

E. Head.

13 Oct. 1869.

before?—I did not promise any man not till the Monday morning that I went and voted.

40,832. I think we are satisfied about you.—I went and voted clean handed. I would wish to say a word as regards David Cubitt. I saw in the paper that he had stated I was the first he polled on the polling morning, and that he promised me a pint of beer after I voted. Now, if you will believe me, I did not see the man all the day.

40,833. (Mr. Mansfield.) We do not believe you. —I did not see the man all the day, therefore every word that he has said about me in the paper is positively false.

40,834. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) I think your account of your voting is about as unsatisfactory an account as a man could possibly give. I think a pint of beer would have turned you, and I very much doubt whether Cubitt's beer did not turn you.—I did not see the man the whole of the polling day, if you believe me, therefore it is I wish to contradict what that man has said about me.

E. Stamp.

EDWARD STAMP sworn and examined.

40,835. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by occupation?—I work at the gasworks.

40,836. What were you doing on the day of election?—I was at work.

40,837. Till what time?—Till half-past 3.

40,838. Did you not leave before that?—No.

40,839. Then did you go and vote?—Yes.

40,840. For Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

40,841. Had you promised to vote for that party? —No.

40,842. Had you not been asked?—No.

40,843. Most of the men at the gasworks were on that side?—That I do not know.

40,844. You must know on which side your fellow workmen were?—No, I do not.

40,845. Do you mean to say all through the whole day you never talked about the election to anyone?—No.

40,846. You never mentioned the election to anybody?—No.

40,847. You did not tell anybody you were going to vote?—No.

40,848. You may go down, and you must not have your expenses; it is no use making the city pay the expenses of a man who will tell such outrageous falsehoods.—I have told you the truth.

F. Horth.

FREDERICK HORTH sworn and examined.

40,849. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What is your business? —A master shoemaker.

40,850. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

40,851. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

40,852. At what time?—About 11 o'clock in the forenoon.

40,853. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—No.

40,854. Did anybody come and ask you for your vote at all?—No.

40,855. How many men do you employ?—Two.

40,856. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

40,857. Or the promise of anything?—No.

40,858. Have you been a voter before?—No.

40,859. You voted for principle?—Yes, I voted for Mr. Stracey.

J. Carter.

JOHN CARTER sworn and examined.

40,860. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

40,861. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

40,862. At what time in the day?—I think it was about half-past 2.

40,863. What had you been doing during the early part of the day?—I was at work.

40,864. Until your dinner hour?—Yes.

40,865. And after that did you vote?—Yes, after that I voted.

40,866. What did you do after you had voted?—Took a walk up the market.

40,867. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

40,868. Or the promise of anything?—I had no promise at all.

40,869. Did you get anything afterwards?—No.

40,870. Did you go to any public-houses?—Yes, in the course of the afternoon I might go in and have a glass.

40,871. You were not treated by anybody?—No, not by anybody.

40,872. Did you get anything for your vote directly or indirectly?—No, nothing at all.

S. Margetts.

STEPHEN MARGETTS sworn and examined.

40,873. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A carpenter.

40,874. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

40,875. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

40,876. At what time in the day?—About 3 o'clock.

40,877. Why did you not vote earlier than that?—Because I was at work.

40,878. Where?—At Messrs. Richards and Watts'.

40,879. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—No.

40,880. You voted of your own accord?—Yes.

40,881. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

40,882. Did you get the promise of anything?—No.

40,883. Neither money nor beer?—Nothing of either sort.

40,884. Have you ever voted before?—No.

40,885. What did you do after you had voted?—I went up the market and had a look round.

40,886. You did not get any beer then?—No, not from anybody.

J. Frost

JOHN FROST sworn and examined.

40,887. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You voted for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

40,888. Do you recollect it?—Yes.

40,889. Do you remember it quite well?—Yes, quite well.

40,890. Do you know the Cubitts?—Yes.

40,891. How long were you at Thomas Cubitt's before you went up to vote?—About 10 minutes.

40,892. When you went up to the poll had you got anything in your hand?—No.

40,893. I am afraid you got what they call fresh? —No.

40,894. Are you sure of that?—Yes, I am sure of it.

40,895. You were perfectly sober?—Yes.

40,896. You were not at all forward in drink?—No.

40,897. Do you remember this, whether you had a sovereign in your hand in the street, and said, "There is some of the Tory money"?—Yes, I had

THIRTIETH DAY.

J. Frost.

13 Oct. 1869.

a sovereign in the evening time, of my own money, and I might say so.

40,898. Who gave you the sovereign?—I worked for it.

40,899. What by voting?—No.

40,900. How did you earn it?—In my trade; I am a tailor.

40,901. Do you mean to say that you would call a sovereign earned in your trade some of the Tory money?—I was a little forward in drink.

40,902. I asked you whether you were, and you said no?—I understood you to say when I went to the poll.

40,903. I want to know whether you were a little forward in drink?—I was in the evening time.

40,904. Did you get forward in drink at Thomas Cubitt's?—No.

40,905. At what public-house was it that you indulged?—I was at several in the afternoon.

40,906. Amongst the rest were you at Thomas Cubitt's?—No, I was not in there half-an-hour all the day.

40,907. What took you into Thomas Cubitt's house just before going to vote?—That is the house I mostly use in the evening to take my glass of ale.

40,908. You exhibited a sovereign and said, "Here is some of the Stracey money"?—Yes.

40,909. Do you mean to say you did not get paid for your vote?—No, not one farthing, nor yet half a pint of ale, did I get for my vote.

40,910. I should believe your statement on the day, and not your oath now.—I have told you the truth.

W. Chapman.

WILLIAM CHAPMAN sworn and examined.

40,911. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a voter?—Yes.

40,912. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

40,913. At what time in the day?—Just after 2.

40,914. What did you get for it?—Nothing.

40,915. To what public-house did you go?—I went to the "Ship."

40,916. Was there not money and beer going there for the voters?—Not a drop.

40,917. Did you not look for it?—I only had what I paid for.

40,918. I suppose you wanted your day's wages?—I daresay I could have put up with it.

40,919. I suppose you would have been very glad to have got five shillings for voting?—I was not asked.

40,920. You would have been very glad to get it?—Yes.

40,921. And you did not get it?—No.

J. Bates.

JOSHUA BATES sworn and examined.

40,922. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

40,923. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

40,924. At what time in the day?—Between 12 and 1.

40,925. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

40,926. Or the promise of anything?—No.

40,927. Or anything after you had voted?—No, not anything.

J. Ellgood.

JOHN ELLGOOD sworn and examined.

40,928. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A carter.

40,929. For whom do you work?—I work for myself what little I can do, but I cannot work to do anything hardly. I have not done anything of any account these three years, only what I can do with my pony and cart.

40,930. Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

40,931. What did you get for it?—Nothing.

40,932. Did you not get treated to a little beer?—No, not a glass of anything.

40 933. I suppose you were looking out for it?—No.

40,934. Did you not hear of any beer going?—No.

40,935. Have you got nothing since the election?—No, not anything from anybody.

40,936. Have you ever voted before?—No, I have never voted before.

40,937. You say you got nothing for it this time?—Not a halfpenny.

40,938. Did you not try to get something for it?—No, I did not, and never asked for anything.

40,939. Did you not ask whether there was money going?—No.

40,940. You made no inquiries about it?—No, not at all.

W. Olley.

WILLIAM OLLEY sworn and examined.

40,941. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a coal merchant.

40,942. Are you in business on your own account?—Yes.

40,943. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

40,944. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

40,945. At what time in the day?—I went up twice, but the first time I could not get to it; about half-past 9 in the morning.

40,946. What time was it when you did vote?—About half-past 9.

40,947. I thought that was the time when you said you could not vote?—I went up the first time as soon as it was opened, and went back to breakfast.

40,948. You voted at half-past 9?—Yes, about that time.

40,949. Did you get anything for it?—No.

40,950. Or the promise of anything?—No, neither would I accept it, nor have I ever done so.

J. Coldham.

JOHN COLDHAM sworn and examined.

40,951. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What is your business?—A butcher. I keep a shop in St. George's.

40,952. Are you a master butcher?—Yes.

40,953. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

40,954. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

40,955. Had you been asked for your vote before?—No.

40,956. Had anybody been to the shop?—There was a call or two, but I never was in the way at the time.

40,957. Did anybody come on the day to take you up?—No.

40,958. Did anybody come and ask you to go up?—No.

40,959. What time in the day did you vote?—I think it was about 12 minutes after 8 in the morning; about 12 minutes after the books were opened.

40,960. Did you get anything for your vote?—No, certainly not, and did not expect it.

40,961. Nor the promise of anything?—No, certainly not.

THOMAS HOWLING sworn and examined. T. Howling.

40,962. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A carman.

40,963. What were you doing on the day of election?—At work.

40,964. For whom do you work?—The Great Eastern Railway Company.

40,965. What time did you leave your work?—Not till night.

40,966. Did you vote?—Yes.

40,967. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

40,968. At what hour did you vote?—About 10 minutes past 3, as near as I can tell, in the afternoon.

40,969. I thought you said you had not left your work all day; did you go back at once after voting?—Yes.

40,970. Who asked you to vote?—Nobody.

40,971. Did you get nothing for voting?—No.

40,972. Were you not treated by anyone?—No.

40,973. Did you not get any canvassing card?—Yes.

40,974. Were you at home then?—No.

40,975. Did not anybody come and ask you to vote?—No.

40,976. Have you had anything since?—No.

MARK DUNTHORN sworn and examined. M. Dunthorn.

40,977. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A boot and shoe maker.

40,978. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

40,979. At what time in the day?—About half-past 3.

40,980. Where were you before you voted?—I was in the "Queen" public-house.

40,981. Were you in any other public-house?—During the day, many.

40,982. Were you among others at the "Jack of Newbury"?—Not on the day of election.

40,983. I suppose you were waiting to see what you could get?—Waiting to see what I could get? I got nothing.

40,984. Were you waiting to see what you could get?—Was I waiting?

40,985. Yes.—I was waiting for nothing.

40,986. You were idling about in different public-houses?—I was idling about in the day, so I do many a day.

40,987. Why did you not vote in the morning?—There were three hours to vote, and I thought I could vote at any hour.

40,988. Did you not wait till the last hour in order to get something?—No.

40,989. Did you not try to get something?—I did not see anything to get.

40,990. Did you not want it?—I should have got it if I could, but I did not ask for it.

40,991. Did you not get a shilling?—No, not a farthing.

40,992. Did not anybody give you anything that day?—Yes.

40,993. Who was it?—I had some best ale that day.

40,994. Who stood it?—Mr. Herring, the grocer.

40,995. How much?—He stood a glass of ale for me and some more.

40,996. Round?—Round.

40,997. Where was that?—At the "Queen" public-house.

40,998. Did anybody else stand any beer?—No, not to me.

40,999. Did anybody give you any brandy?—I had some rum, not brandy.

41,000. Who stood you that?—Mr. Herring, the grocer, the man that stood the ale.

41,001. Did he ask you to vote for Stracey?—He asked me to vote for Tillett a plumper.

41,002. He gave you the brandy?—No, the rum.

41,003. How much did he give you?—Two pennyworth round. I had two pennyworth, and several more besides myself.

41,004. Was that all you got in the way of drink?—Yes.

41,005. How many did he give drink to?—He gave drink, I know, to four.

41,006. Was that all you got?—That is all I got as far as I know, unless you ask me some more.

41,007. I asked you whether that was all you got?—That is all I have got to say as far as I know.

41,008. What do you mean by saying if I asked you more?—That is all that I know of.

41,009. I ask you did you get nothing more besides that beer and rum?—No, nothing whatsomever.

WILLIAM PAXTON BALLS sworn and examined. W. P. Balls.

41,010. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What is your business?—An umbrella manufacturer.

41,011. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

41,012. Do you know Andrews?—No, I do not.

41,013. Are you sure you do not?—I do not.

41,014. You know whom I mean?—No, I do not.

41,015. Did you not see a man of the name of Andrews on the day of the election?—No, I did not. If I did I do not know him.

41,016. Did any man give you a sovereign?—No.

41,017. Did any man offer you a sovereign?—No.

41,018. Are you sure of that?—I am sure of it. Not a soul asked me for a vote on either side.

41,019. I did not say anything about voting, but did a man give you a sovereign on the day of the election?—No.

41,020. Was there no talk about a sovereign?—No.

41,021. At what time did you vote?—Ten o'clock.

41,022. Did anybody come to you that morning and ask you to vote?—Not a soul. I was never canvassed at all.

41,023. Did anybody speak to you about money?—No, not a soul.

41,024. Had you been asked for your vote?—No, never.

41,025. Neither before nor on the day of election?—No.

41,026. You were never canvassed?—No.

41,027. You made a promise of your vote?—I never made no promise to anyone.

41,028. Do you mean to say that you did not get a sovereign for your vote?—I did not.

41,029. Did you get nothing for your vote?—I did not, I assure you.

41,030. Neither in the shape of money or beer, or anything else?—Nothing of the sort.

41,031. Nor the promise of anything?—I never had the promise of anything.

FRANCIS METCALF sworn and examined. F. Metcalf.

41,032. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—I work for a fish merchant in Yarmouth now. I am packer and clerk to him.

41,033. What is your qualification in Norwich, a freeman?—No, a ratepayer.

41,034. Is this the first time you have had a vote?—Yes.

41,035. For whom did you vote?—Nobody.

41,036. Was any offer made to you?—No, I was in Yarmouth all the time.

41,037. Do you know anything about this last election?—No, nothing at all, no further than what I have read about it.

41,038. Was any card left at your place?—Yes.

THIRTIETH DAY.

F. Metcalf.

13 Oct. 1869.

41,039. Do you know whether anybody used that card?—No.

41,040. Do you know of anybody voting in your name?—No.

41,041. Were you in Yarmouth the whole time of the election, both before and after?—Yes, I was there till the day before Christmas.

41,042. Were you not here in the month of November at all?—No.

41,043. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Somebody knew you were away at Yarmouth, and voted in your name?—It might be.

41,044. Do you know anything about it?—No.

41,045. I suppose they knew you were at Yarmout, and got hold of your card and made use of it?—I think it is very likely. I could find the card at home now.

41,046. What are you?—I am a Conservative in principle.

41,047. Did you ask anybody to use your card?—No.

41,048. You know nothing about it?—No.

C. A. Blyth.

CALEB ANTHONY BLYTH sworn and examined.

41,049. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

41,050. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

41,051. At what time in the day?—About a quarter before 9.

41,052. Did you get anything for it?—No, nothing.

41,053. Or the promise of anything?—No, nor the promise of anything.

41,054. After you had polled, what did you do?—I tried to get voters for the benefit of Sir Henry Stracey.

41,055. Did you drive about?—In my own pony cart.

41,056. In no other vehicle?—No.

41,057. Where did you go in your own pony cart?—I went to several parts of the city.

41,058. Did you get up any voters?—Yes.

41,059. Did you give them anything?—No.

41,060. Nor promise them anything?—No.

41,061. Neither money nor beer?—No, nothing.

41,062. Did you go into the "Elm" tavern, in New Catton, that day?—Yes.

41,063. At what time was that?—It might be a quarter to 1, or it might be half-past 12; it was somewhere about that time.

41,064. While you were there did a gentleman drive up with a carriage and pair?—Not that I am aware of.

41,065. Did you go into a room at the "Elm" tavern with a gentleman?—No.

41,066. Did a gentleman come in while you were there?—I never see one.

41,067. Did anyone, while you were there, come and say he had 30*l.* on Stracey?—No.

41,068. Did anyone say he had anything on Stracey?—I never heard anyone say so.

41,069. How many men were there at the "Elm" tavern?—As near as I can tell, I daresay there were half a dozen in the room.

41,070. Did you ask them to vote?—Yes.

41,071. What did they say?—They said they were waiting for money.

41,072. What did you say to that?—I said it was of no use.

41,073. Did anybody else come in while this was being said?—No, I do not think there was.

41,074. Did anybody there offer these men 10*s.* each?—No, not in the room where I was.

41,075. Anywhere else at all did you hear that?—No.

41,076. Did you hear of any money being offered?—No, not any money at all; not while I was in the house.

41,077. Was any drink given to them?—No.

41,078. Did you give them any drink?—I had some myself, and what I had I paid for.

41,079. Did you give these men any drink?—No.

41,080. How long were you there?—I might be there about five minutes.

41,081. It was a little after 1 that you left there?—It was not 1; I was there about a quarter to 1, and I stayed there about five minutes.

41,082. Did you go there again at all that day?—No.

41,083. During that day, did anybody in your presence offer any men money?—Not in my presence; I never saw any.

41,084. What do you know about it?—I never heard anyone offer any money.

41,085. Did you hear of anybody having done it?—No.

41,086. Were you at the "Cross Keys" that day?—No.

41,087. Do you know a man of the name of Pratt?—I know several of the name of Pratt.

41,088. On that day did you not say to some five, six, or seven men, that if they would go and vote they might have the money afterwards by coming to you?—No.

41,089. Did anybody else in your presence say so?—No.

41,090. Was any arrangement made that the men should come to your house afterwards for the money for having for voted?—No.

41,091. Do you mean to say you know nothing about it?—I do not know anything about it.

41,092. Did any man come to you after the election for money for having voted?—No, not to me.

41,093. Nor to your house?—No.

41,094. You mean to say you know nothing about any bribery or any treating or anything of the kind on that day?—No, I know nothing of the kind.

41,095. What place do you keep?—I keep a corn shop.

41,096. Do you not keep a public-house?—My father does.

41,097. Is his name Caleb Anthony?—His name is Anthony.

G. Claxton.

GEORGE CLAXTON sworn and examined.

41,098. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What is your trade?—A furrier.

41,099. You have been rather an active partisan in in this city have you not?—Not that I am aware of.

41,100. Have you not taken an active interest in the contests, municipal and otherwise, in this city?—I have not taken any interrst in this election.

41,101. I said municipal and otherwise?—Yes, the last municipal election I did.

41,102. Did you take no interest in the parliamentary election?—No, none whatever.

41,103. Never at any time?—No, never.

41,104. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

41,105. For whom did you vote?—Russell and Tillett.

41,106. Were you at all active in the support of Russell and Tillett?—No.

41,107. You took no active part in any way?—No, none whatever.

41,108. You did not canvass for them?—No.

41,109. Do you know Mr. Gardiner?—Yes.

41,110. Did he take an active part?—Not that I am aware of.

41,111. Have you not said that he has taken an active part?—Not that I am aware of.

41,112. Do you mean to say you have not said that

Mr. Gardiner took an active part in the last election?—Not that I am aware of.

41,113. It is quite clear; if a man is telling the truth he would recollect it, and if a man is telling a falsehood that is the way he answers.—I am not telling a falsehood.

41,114. It is the way a man would try to evade.—I am not evading it.

41,115. It is the way a man shuffles.—I am not shuffling.

41,116. Did you say that Mr. Gardiner took an active part in the last election?—No, certainly not.

41,117. Do you know of Mr. Gardiner having spent any money on the day of the election?—Not a penny. I heard he spent 40*l.*, but to my knowledge I never knew it.

41,118. Who told you he spent 40*l.*?—It was town talk, and he said so himself, it was no secret.

41,119. Who was talking the town talk that Mr. Gardiner had spent 40*l.* on the day of the election?—Hundreds of people I heard repeat it, and I might repeat it.

41,120. Will you tell me one?—I believe I heard Newman of King Street repeat it, and Cullingford.

41,121. Did you hear how he spent it?—He spent it for the municipal election.

41,122. Not for the parliamentary election?—No, certainly not.

41,123. Was that in November?—Yes.

41,124. Did they say which way he had spent it?—He had spent it in a public-house, and gave it away indiscriminately; got drunk himself, and made other people tipsy, like a fool.

41,125. Just give me something a little more definite than town talk?—I heard Gardiner say that he had spent somewhere about 40*l.*

41,126. On the last municipal election?—Yes, and did not expect to get a penny of it back.

41,127. Did he say on which side he had spent it?—No.

41,128. Then you heard Gardiner himself say that he had spent 40*l.*?—Yes.

41,129. Why did you tell me it was town talk?—So it was.

41,130. You told me it was town talk; do you mean to say you did not intentionally try to mislead and to conceal from me that you knew of it from Gardiner himself?—It was town talk.

41,131. Did you see the cheque?—No, certainly not.

41,132. Have you ever said, though I do not suppose anybody would believe what you said, ——?—I believe there are several people who would believe me.

41,133. Did you ever say you had seen the cheque?—No.

41,134. Are you sure you did not?—I am sure of that.

41,135. Did you say you had seen the counterfoil?—No, and the man who has come forward and stated that is a liar.

41,136. If half a dozen say it they are all liars?—If half a dozen hundred come and say it they are liars.

41,137. You never said it?—I never saw it or said it.

41,138. Why did you not tell me in the first instance you had heard the man say it himself?—I was only repeating hearsay.

41,139. The man told you himself?—That was hearsay. I did not see it.

41,140. I was satisfied after your first answer or two that you were intending to tell a falsehood.—I have done nothing of the sort.

41,141. You may go down.—Thank you.

JAMES MOUNTAIN sworn and examined.

J. Mountain.

41,142. (Mr. Mansfield.) What were you doing on the day of the election?—At work.

41,143. Where were you working?—At St. Paul's.

41,144. In whose employment?—Mr. Hindes.

41,145. When did you leave your employment?—At 11 o'clock.

41,146. When did you vote?—About a quarter before 12.

41,147. Did you then go back to your work?—Yes, between that and 1 o'clock.

41,148. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

41,149. Did you get some beer?—No.

41,150. At what public-house were you?—Mr. Molloy's.

41,151. Was anything offered you for you vote?—No.

41,152. Were you looking out for it?—No.

41,153. Have you had anything since?—No.

41,154. Had you been asked for your vote before?—Yes.

41,155. By whom?—By Mr. Fletcher of St. Paul's and, I think, Mr. Stracey.

41,156. Had you promised your vote?—Yes.

PETER SABBERTON sworn and examined.

P. Sabberton.

41,157. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shoemaker.

41,158. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

41,159. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

41,160. At what time in the day?—About a quarter past 3, as near as I can recollect.

41,161. What made you so late?—I do not know, I was walking about the city principally in the morning.

41,162. Waiting for what you could get?—No, I was not waiting for it.

41,163. You were looking out for it?—No, I was not.

41,164. Did you get anything?—Yes.

41,165. What was it?—1*l.*

41,166. From whom?—A man of the name of Hardiment.

41,167. Where did he pay you?—In St. Martin's; at the "Woolpack," I believe.

41,168. At what time in the day?—About 10 minutes before 3 or 3 o'clock. I cannot say to a few minutes.

41,169. Did you see anybody else paid there?—No, I cannot say I did. The man in front of me was refused, he had no ticket, and was not paid.

41,170. Did you get anything from Worledge?—No.

41,171. Were you offered anything from Worledge?—No, I never saw him on the election day, not to speak to him.

41,172. Who did you see at the "Woolpack" when you were paid?—I did not see anyone that I knew. I did not know Mr. Hardiment till he was shown to me last Thursday week. I should not have known the man again.

41,173. What induced you to go there?—I was in the market when I heard it spoken of. I was standing by the side of two or three others, and they were going into St. Martin's to see what was going on, and I followed.

41,174. Who were they?—I cannot say who they were, they went in at the front door and I went in at the back.

41,175. Did they say there was money going at the "Woolpack"?—No, I saw a back door open, and I went in.

THIRTIETH DAY.

13 Oct. 1869.

JOHN WILLIAM STAFF sworn and examined.

J. W. Staff.

41,176. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

41,177. What time did you go up and vote?—About half-past 3.

41,178. You had been in Warnes' public-house until you went up to vote, had you not?—Yes, I went in along with my father, and got a pint of beer.

41,179. They were treating all the people in Warnes', were they not?—No.

41,180. Did you not get treated amongst the rest of the people?—No.

41,181. Do you mean to say that you did not get any beer before you went up and voted?—No.

41,182. How came you to go up to vote at half-past 3 in the day?—I voted just at the time that suited.

41,183. What did you get for voting?—Nothing.

41,184. Do you mean to say that you did not get paid anything for voting?—No.

41,185. Did you get paid anything that day?—No.

41,186. You were looking out for a day's pay?—Yes, if I could have got it I should have took it.

41,187. Well, did not you get something?—No.

41,188. Did not Warnes give you some beer?—No.

41,189. Did he not say he would give you some beer?—No.

41,190. What made you go up and vote then, unless it was beer?—I was at work the first of the morning.

41,191. But you were not at work, were you, when you went to Warnes' public-house?—No; there was a lot of us there.

41,192. You had left off work long before you went up to vote?—Yes.

41,193. Now what did you get for your vote?—I did not get anything. I am very poor, and I wish I had got some.

41,194. Well, did not Warnes give you some beer?—No, not a drop.

41,195. Did anybody in Warnes' house?—No, not a drop.

41,196. There was a lot of beer going there, we have got evidence about that.—I never saw any.

41,197. Who was with you?—My father.

41,198. Did he ask you to go up and vote?—Yes. I went and voted along with my father.

41,199. Then whether he got anything or not you cannot tell us?—My father never got anything, I know, because we went and voted together.

41,200. What is your father's name?—John Staff.

41,201. Where did you live at the time of the election?—Beckham's Yard, St. James'.

41,202. Did you get into Maris' cart?—Yes, I got into a cart.

41,203. You recollect that?—Yes, I recollect that.

41,204. Now, were you not one of those men who were paid?—No.

41,205. You were much more hardly treated than the rest of them then. Did they not give you a shilling?—No, not a farthing.

41,206. (Mr. Biron.) Were you at Larkman's that day?—No.

41,207. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) They went up in Maris' cart?—I cannot swear it was Maris'. I do not know what cart you allude to.

41,208. Do you know a man of the name of Bacon?—No, I do not.

41,209. Did you see Mr. Bacon there that day?—I do not know him.

T. Plane.

THOMAS PLANE sworn and examined.

41,210. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A shoemaker.

41,211. Who do you work for?—Mr. Wellows in the market.

41,212. What were you doing on the day of the election?—I was working.

41,213. Were you working all day?—Up to dinner time. I had some ordered work.

41,214. What did you do after dinner?—I got my dinner and then gave my vote in.

41,215. Then I suppose you were loitering about the market?—No, I went to work.

41,216. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

41,217. Did you not try?—No.

41,218. Did nobody give you a glass of beer to induce you to vote?—Not a drop.

41,219. Is this the first time you have voted?—Yes.

41,220. Did you not expect that there was money going for votes?—No, I did not expect anything.

41,221. I suppose you would have been very glad to have got it?—Well, I do not know about that exactly.

41,222. I suppose you would have liked your day's wages?—Yes, I should.

41,223. About half a sovereign would have suited your taste?—That would have suited very well.

41,224. That would have been about enough to have taken you to the poll at once, would it not?—Yes.

J. Stanley, jun.

JOSEPH STANLEY, junior, sworn and examined.

41,225. (Mr. Biron.) I believe you are a solicitor in practice in this city?—I am.

41,226. Did you take any part in the last election?—I took a very active part.

41,227. Under Mr. Chittock?—Under Mr. Chittock.

41,228. Were you given up the management of one of the wards?—No; I was given up the management of the third ward north. I must explain that Heigham third ward is a very extensive ward; in fact, it is the largest ward in the city. It forms an important part of the constituency, and in that constituency it has been divided into north and south. I took the north, and Mr. Buttifant took the south.

41,229. North Heigham?—Yes.

41,230. Is that the more respectable division of the two divisions, or not?—Well, I can hardly define that about the respectability of North Heigham. Some portions of it are very respectable, and other parts rather low.

41,231. There are a great many alleys, I suppose?—I beg your pardon, I should think you would not find a dozen alleys in North Heigham.

41,232. There are, at all events, a great many houses occupied by the poorer classes?—I don't know so much about that; the north part of Heigham is occupied now by shop assistants and people of that sort. They get some very nice houses for about 10*l.* a year, and you find a great many of that class of people there.

41,233. But in North Heigham there is a considerable number of the residuum, the men of the poorer class?—Exactly so.

41,234. Did you canvass that district?—Well, I think I might have canvassed half an hour; but I was not a canvasser before; my time was fully occupied in looking after the business at the committee room.

41,235. Were other men employed in canvassing whose returns reached you at the committee room?—No men were employed in canvassing, but several gentlemen volunteered to carry out the canvassing; no one was employed. When I talk about employing people I mean that they were doing it for a consideration.

41,236. Never mind about that; it is enough for me that there were men who did canvass, and who sent in their returns to you.—Certainly.

41,237. From those returns did you learn that there was a considerable number of voters in the district who were unwilling to promise?—Well, I looked upon our canvass in North Heigham as being a myth from beginning to end. I did not place any reliance upon it at all, because the constituency was so very large, and matters were conducted in such a way that it would have been impossible for me, with the staff which I had, and those gentlemen who were willing to assist me, to place any reliance upon it. They had certain books to call upon certain voters in the different streets, and those books were sent in almost every night; but with the quantity of voters that were there I knew pretty well from the returns which were made to me that I should not be able to rely upon them.

41,238. After all, the canvass was so partial that you did not consider it any criterion?—Exactly so.

41,239. But did it come to your knowledge from what you heard from those gentlemen or otherwise that there were considerable numbers of men there who were anxious to get a day's pay, or to get money?—Decidedly not.

41,240. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) How long have you been in Norwich?—Well, I am 25 years old, and I have been in Norwich about 25 years, for I have never been out of Norwich for a longer time than 12 months.

41,241. You know the place pretty well?—Oh yes, every street in Norwich.

41,242. Then your experience would not be confined at all to this election, because you know the people. Did it come to your knowledge in some way or another that there was a considerable number of men who were anxious to get a day's pay, or something, before they voted?—No. You ask me that question definitely, and I tell you, sir, decidedly not; and if any one had mentioned that subject to me, either directly or indirectly, I should have ordered him out of the room.

41,243. I really do not understand why there should be any indignation about it.—I do not mean that, but I tell you that I should have ordered him out of the committee-room, because I was legally engaged for Sir Henry Stracey, and any illegal act done by me would have compromised him; therefore I would not have been a party to it.

41,244. But being legally engaged does not stop all understanding. You have got your brains, and very good ones, I daresay, in spite of being engaged in the election, and you had a knowledge of the people?—You asked me whether it came to my knowledge that certain people wanted a day's pay, and I say, decidedly not.

41,245. I said, having regard to your own knowledge, and the information you got, were you not aware that there were a certain number of people who wanted a day's pay.?—No; I was not aware of that. But if you ask me my opinion, I believe that in Norwich there are considerable numbers, in fact, it is well known, and I cannot shut my eyes to the fact, that there are hundreds who could be bought. But at this election I did not believe that there would be any money stirring, and I had reasons for believing so, because I had private conversations with Mr. Chittock, and we chatted the matter over.

41,246. Well then, it would have been much better to have said that at once, because you knew perfectly well what I meant. However, let us go on. Who was acting under you on this committee?—Well, first of all I reported to the central committee room at the "Swan," to Mr. Chittock, that I should require so many clerks for the purpose of conducting the business down at my committee room, and I had, I think, about eight or ten. I had a fellow there by the name of Fuller, a great scamp. I had an individual by the name of Starkey, a gentleman by the name of Alger, and several other people, but they were all sent down from the central committee room. I did not engage one.

41,247. From the supercilious way in which you speak of them you seem to have been rather unfortunate; they were not a very good lot, according to your way of speaking of them?—I beg your pardon; you may form your own opinion as to that.

41,248. You have mentioned one, and you said he was a great scamp; and you mentioned the other names as if they were in the same category?—Well, you may form your own opinion as to that.

41,249. Was Heinrich there?—That foreign fellow, do you mean?

41,250. Yes.—Well, he was in no way engaged. He came down simply as a canvasser, and a very great nuisance he was, I assure you.

41,251. You gave him an appointment, I believe?—I never gave him any appointment at all.

41,252. He told us you gave him an important appointment; that you made him an overseer.—I will tell you if you like what appointment I think he held.

41,253. Did you employ that man; that is all I want to know?—No, certainly not.

41,254. Did he come to you afterwards, and ask to be paid for what he had done?—No. I may tell you that this man certainly came up to my office, and was there constantly, so much so that the fellow was a complete nuisance.

41,255. Did Heinrich make constant claims upon you for money?—Certainly not.

41,256. (Mr. Biron.) Has he not demanded 15*l.* of you?—Certainly not.

41,257. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Is the statement of your former clerk, that he was coming to your place continually for money, entirely false?—I have read the statement of my former clerk.

41,258. That is a simple question, and you can answer it. Is that statement by your clerk, that he frequently came to your office to ask for money, untrue?—It is untrue.

41,259–60. Then why not give a straightforward answer to a straightforward question?—If you ask me a straightforward question I will do so.

41,261. (Mr. Biron.) What did he come to you for?—He came for this purpose; it appears that a firm in Norwich had placed him in the county court for a sum of 1*l.* 14*s.*, and he came to me, and asked me if I would lend him the money, which I refused to do. Now you have got at the whole gist of the affair.

41,262. Was that the only reason he had for coming to your office, as far as you know?—As far as I know. Really he never asked me for any money. I beg your pardon, after the North Norfolk election he made a claim for some 2*l.*; or 2*l.* 3*s.* for some expenses that he told me he had been put to. But I said he had no claim upon me at all, and the better plan would be to send me in an account, and if I found it correct I would send it to those gentlemen who were authorised to pay.

41,263. Beyond that county court business, and that claim of his respecting the North Norfolk election, do you mean to say he made no claim upon you?—Not for one farthing.

41,264. Did you go to any public-house on the night before the election?—Yes.

41,265. What was that house?—That was the "Tuns" inn.

41,266. Was that at your committee room?—No; at the committee room in South Heigham. Mine was North Heigham. Mine was at the "Bull and Butcher."

41,267. Was there any committee room in your division of North Heigham?—Only at the "Bull and Butcher," the place that has been so frequently before the Commissioners. But allow me to explain to you, because it may save you trouble, that although my committee room wes at a public-house which had the sign of the "Bull and Butcher," and which had been used as a beerhouse or as a public-house, it had not been so used for something like 18 months. It was completely empty; it belonged to Messrs Steward and Patteson, and being disengaged we had the sole control over it, and we furnished it ourselves.

41,268. At the "Bull and Butcher," do you mean to say, there was no beer drawn?—Oh no; it was closed until we took possession of it.

THIRTIETH DAY.

J. Stanley, jun.

13 Oct. 1869.

41,269. Was there any treating of any kind or sort at the "Tuns," as far as you know?—Decidedly not. I was at the "Tuns" very frequently on the day of the election, up and down the whole day, and I never saw anything.

41,270. On the night before was there no beer going?—That I cannot say; but there was no beer going for any purposes of the election, certainly not.

41,271. During the day of the election, were any reports brought to you about bribery?—Not one. About half-past two some gentleman came into the committee room and called me out, and there was the usual amount of whispering that there is always in election matters, as if the affairs were of all the importance in the world. He called me into the other room, and said, "If you will give me a sovereign I can get 20 men up." I was very indignant that he should have asked me such a question, and told him that if it was to save the election I would not give him 20 pence.

41,272. Do you know who it was made you that offer?—No; I have been trying to think it over since this inquiry, but I cannot for the life of me remember the name, because Heigham is very full of people, and I was completely infested with them; people were round me in all directions, and I could not tell the name of that individual.

41,273. Besides that instance, do you remember anything else which led you to imagine that bribery was going on?—Nothing whatever; that I will swear.

41,274. Was any demand made of you during the day by anybody for money?—No, not by one individual; not for one penny piece.

41,275. After the election was over was any claim made upon you?—Yes; a claim was made upon me by some individual by the name of Birch, some fellow I don't know. I saw him about on the day prior to the election driving some conveyances about, covered with Conservative bills. This individual called on me, I think it was on the Saturday, and said he had been very energetic in the election. I thanked him on behalf of Sir Henry Stracey, and then he wanted to know whether I would engage any conveyances for the election day. I said, "No;" but he said he should. I said, "Then you had better wait, and take a note," and I had that note copied by Mr. Leist, who was in the committee room, and that note was to the effect that if he engaged any conveyance it would be at his own expense, and that I should not hold myself liable in the slightest for it. That note was copied and given to him, and afterwards he charged for so many conveyances, but I then referred him to this note.

41,276. As I understand, he made a claim upon you for payment of those conveyances?—Yes, and I sent the claim down to Mr. Chittock, and Mr. Chittock, investigated it.

41,277. You refused to pay it?—Certainly.

41,278. What is the Christian name of this man Fuller you have spoken of?—Well, he is known by a great many aliases.

41,279. Is it Percy Fuller?—Yes, Percy Fuller; but he is known by a great many aliases.

41,280. Where is he now, do you know?—Well, I cannot tell you.

41,281. During the polling day was anything said in your hearing about Robert Bunn?—Decidedly not. I do not know the individual. I never heard his name until it was mentioned in this court.

41,282. You did not know him before?—I do not know him now.

41,283. Do you know Abel?—John Abel, do you mean?

41,284. Yes.—Oh yes, perfectly well.

41,285. Did he not come into your committee-room?—No; I will swear he did not.

41,286. Not during the day of the election?—Not during the day of the election, I will be upon my oath that he did not. I saw him, you know.

41,287. Now, has any claim been made upon you since the election by publicans for beer that they supplied?—No, not one penny piece, not a fraction.

41,288. No claim at all?—No claim at all.

41,289. Do you know of any treating that took place during the day of the election?—Not by anybody. I was under the impression, until the inquiry before Baron Martin, that this election was perfectly pure. I had no idea of anything to the contrary.

41,290. Did you furnish Mr. Chittock with the account of all the payments you had made in respect of this election?—Every penny piece, to the best of my knowledge. I had no reason for keeping it back.

41,291. Of course I only ask you the question. I presume you were repaid by him any amounts you disbursed, together with something for your professional services?—Certainly, as shown by the accounts.

41,292. Does the account Mr. Chittock furnished, the authorised account, contain all the items of your payments?—Yes; all the items of my payments, with, I think, one exception, and that exception was this: on the day of the election I was at the "Tuns," and I saw this organisation that you have heard about come out with a lot of flags and banners, kicking up a bother in the street, and I thought that our windows were not sufficiently secure. I then went down to the central committee room, and saw Mr. Chittock to tell him how we were situated at the "Tuns." I did this without consulting with any other person; but I found Mr. Chittock. I then saw Mr. Johnson, a leading Conservative in Norwich, and he said, "Well, I should say you should have some protection there." I said, "Well, Mr. Chittock is the agent for Sir Henry in this matter, and I had better see him." He said, "Well, take it upon yourself," and I took it upon myself, and I saw a man named Andrews, whose name you have had, and I said, "Andrews, there will be a "disturbance in St. Giles'; you had better send up "25 or 30 men to keep the peace in St. Giles';" and those men were sent there. After the election Andrews wanted his money, and Mr. Chittock said he had not ordered them; that Mr. Johnson ordered them, and he ought to take the responsibility of the matter. But it was such a trifling affair, some 4*l.* or 5*l.*, that I paid it myself. I wrote a cheque for it, and that is the only payment that I am aware of.

41,293. Was that the only payment you made?—Certainly; and I have told Mr. Chittock of that since the election; since this inquiry has been on.

41,294. Do I understand you to say that until the inquiry before Mr. Baron Martin you of your own knowledge knew nothing of any corrupt practice whatever at the last election?—Certainly, I mean to say that; and I will tell you, if you will just allow me to say, that my name has been used somewhat extensively in connexion with this affair, but in order to show you how my time was engaged during the day of the election I am in a position to say that I was watched by the other party, by a gentleman who was examined before you, and after the petition I was told by him, "Mr. Stanley, you were watched, and we saw nothing suspicious in your actions." That was by one of Mr. Coaks' clerks.

41,295. I understand you to say that on the day of the election you confined yourself almost entirely to your duties at the committee room?—At the committee room; I don't think I went out of my ward twice. I went down once to fetch from the seventh ward, in a conveyance, Mr. Charles Burton Daveney, a solicitor, and I also took his brother up to the poll. Those were the only two individuals.

41,296. With those exceptions, you were at the "Bull and Butcher" all day?—I was out and in, of course.

41,297. Did nothing attract your attention with regard to the names of the men who were polling late in the day?—Nothing whatever.

41,298. Or the way in which they polled?—

Nothing whatever. I can assure you that from a quarter past 3 to 4 o'clock my time was fully occupied with crowds of men coming round me to get their papers filled up, and to give them their numbers; there were crowds of them; I must have sent up 40 or 50 men.

41,299. Did it not strike you as rather extraordinary that there should be such a rush at the last?—No, it did not strike me as extraordinary, for this reason, the feeling in Norwich had been going on so much in favour of Sir Henry Stracey, that it reached the climax about 2, and if we could have kept the poll open for another hour we should have been in a majority of 1,000 instead of what we were, and without spending a farthing of money. I know that those men who came to me could not have received a farthing.

41,300. That might be your impression, but from the character which we have heard of the city we hardly agree with it.—It has also been stated that I was in the "Barn" tavern, but I never was in there but once, and that was two years since.

41,301. I think I have put it to you as broadly as I could, whether you knew of anything before the inquiry before Mr. Baron Martin, and you have told me your impression was that this election was perfectly pure?—Perfectly pure; no one was more astonished than myself at what came out there.

41,302. (Mr. Mansfield.) Were you not aware of those large sums which were spent by Dawson?—No, I was not.

41,303. (Mr. Biron.) Did you know Hardiment before then?—No; I have known him since because I have been concerned for him in several cases.

41,304. But did you know him before?—Never. I was not aware that there was such a man in Norwich.

41,305. Have you any notion where he got this money from?—No; the only notion that I have would be that it was from his own private purse, because I know that he keeps a banking account, and rather an extensive one.

41,306. Have you any idea who could have guaranteed him repayment for that advance of money?—Not the slightest.

41,307. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Have you no idea who could have suggested to him to do it?—No.

41,308. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you not know that Hardiment was bribed at the last election; at Waters' election?—I tell you I never knew there was a man in Norwich by the name of Hardiment; therefore I could not be aware that he was bribed.

41,309. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Had you anything to do with Waters' election?—Yes.

41,310. A good deal of money was going then, was there not?—I am not aware of it, though of course I was very young at that time.

41,311. You were quite ignorant of any money going on that occasion?—Quite ignorant.

41,312. Were you engaged for Mr. Waters?—I was engaged for the joint candidates, Goldsmid and Waters.

41,313. We hear that they separated.—Two days before the election.

41,314. After that, did you represent Waters?—I continued with Waters, under Mr. Atkinson.

41,315. You never had an idea that Waters was spending money in bribery?—No, that I can swear to. I was very young then, and they would not have trusted me much.

41,316. And I am afraid that your youth still continues to a certain extent. You are very well preserved.—Well, I am very glad of it, as far as that goes.

41,317. It is wonderfully well preserved.—Perhaps you will allow me to make one remark with reference to a statement made by the Chief Commissioner in some examination yesterday, asking whether I was not in the body of the hall on the day of the nomination? I feel it a duty to myself to explain that.

41,318. That is one thing which I forgot to ask you. Were you not in the body of the hall, amongst the roughs, on the day of the nomination?—Decidedly not.

41,319. Is the statement that you were down in the body of the hall untrue, because that is sworn to by a very respectable person?—I know all about it, but I was not in the body of the hall.

41,320. Will you undertake to swear that the statement that you were in the body of the hall is untrue?—That statement is not untrue.

41,321. Well, how came you, a respectable person, to be in the body of the hall amongst a lot of roughs?—I will explain it to you. I was leaving my residence in the morning, for the purpose of going down to the "Bull and Butcher," and in doing so I must go through the market place. The nomination was at 9 o'clock, and I saw a great quantity of people there, and as I had never had the pleasure of seeing a Norwich nomination, I determined to avail myself of the opportunity. I went up for the purpose of going into the magistrates' bench, but the policeman there had orders not to admit anyone unless they had a ticket from the under-sheriff. Of course I did not wish the fellow to do anything beyond his duty, and I said I will go in at the other door. I was perfectly well known to the policemen, and they made way for me. I then went into the hall, and, to my great surprise, I found a terrific barrier put up, and I jumped on to that, and got on next to the witness box, and I found I had got into the radical side of the hall.

41,322. Then it is not true that you were amongst a body of the supporters of Sir Henry Stracey upon that occasion, and acting to a certain extent in the conduct of them?—It is one of the grossest lies that has been told before you since you have been holding this inquiry.

41,323. You cannot say anything much stronger than that.—No, I cannot say very much more. I say it is one of the grossest lies that has been uttered.

41,324. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Perhaps human ingenuity cannot exceed it very well. I will take your answer.

JOHN LAWS sworn and examined.

J. Laws.

41,325. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

41,326. What is your business?—A fish salesman and game dealer.

41,327. A fish hawker?—No, a fish merchant and game dealer. I have a shop in the market.

41,328. Did you take an active interest, like Hunt and Smith, in the last election?—No.

41,329. Did you take an active interest in the election?—No.

41,330. What time did you vote?—About 20 minutes to 4 I reckon.

41,331. You are not an indifferent man, are you, in anything you undertake?—What do you mean by that, sir?

41,332. You are not indifferent about it?—If I choose to vote for a person I vote for him.

41,333. Of course you do make up your mind to vote for him.—Of course.

41,334. How was it you did not vote till near 4 o'clock?—I was at my shop in the morning.

41,335. Could you not get away?—I could, if I thought proper.

41,336. Why did you not?—I did not think there was any hurry about it. I mean't to vote, and I had about three quarters of a mile to go from my shop to vote.

41,337. Had you been asked for your vote?—No.

41,338. Then I cannot conceive why you did not vote before?—Because I did not leave my shop for that purpose.

THIRTIETH DAY.

J. Laws.

13 Oct. 1869.

41,339. Did anybody give you anything for voting ?—No.

41,340. Or promise you anything ?—Or promise.

41,341. You are sure of that ?—I am sure of it.

41,342. Do you know Smith ?—No ; not that I know of.

41,343. The fowl dealer ?—No, I do not know him ; I have seen the man.

41,344. Do you know Hunt ?—No. I had no one come to solicit me at all.

41,345. You had not any conversation with them about it ?—Not at all.

H. Cooper.

HENRY COOPER sworn and examined.

41,345. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade ?—A shopkeeper and general dealer.

41,346. Where is your shop ?—In St. Paul's Church Street.

41,348. Who did you vote for ?—Mr. Stracey.

41,349. Did you promise your vote ?—No.

41,350. Were you asked for your vote ?—No.

41,351. Was this your first time of voting ?—No.

41,352. Have you always voted Tory before ?—No.

41,353. How did you vote the time before this ?—The last time I voted for young Ballard ; at the last election.

41,354. I suppose that was a municipal election ?—Yes.

41,355. Did you ever vote before for a member of parliament ?—No.

41,356. What did you get for voting this time ?—Nothing at all.

41,357. Have you had anything since ?—No.

41,358. Were you not treated on the day of the election ?—No.

41,359. Did nobody come to you about your vote ?—No.

41,360. Did you never mention to anyone which way you were going to vote ?—No.

41,361. When did you make up your mind to vote ?—As soon as I was up ; just after dinner. I had not been very well, and by that means I did not get up much before dinner time, and I voted in the afternoon.

41,362. Were you at any public-house that day ?—Yes, several.

41,363. I suppose you got some beer ?—Yes, I did.

41,364. Some Stracey beer ?—No, I did not ; it was all my own.

41,365. There was a good deal of Stracey beer going ?—Well, I never got none of it.

41,366. Were you not looking out for it ?—No.

41,367. Were you not trying what you could get for your vote ?—No.

41,368. Would you have taken anything for your vote ?—No.

41,369. Not even a day's wages ?—No ; I did not have no day's wages.

41,370. Not if they had offered it to you ?—I do not know that I should not have taken it if it had been offered.

J. Newton.

JAMES NEWTON sworn and examined.

41,371. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A shopkeeper.

41,372. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

41,373. For whom ?—Stracey.

41,374. What time in the day ?—Half-past 10.

41,375. Did you get anything for it ?—No.

41,376. Or the promise of anything ?—No, not a farthing.

J. Beck.

JOHN BECK sworn and examined.

41,377. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election ?—No.

41,378. For whom did you vote ?—Mr. Tillett.

41,379. They tell me that you have been an out-and-out Tory ; is that so ?—No, not particular.

41,380. You always voted the other way ?—I have voted the other way.

41,381. How came you to vote blue this time ?—Well, my inclination led me to vote blue.

41,382. And what led your inclination ? Did anybody give you anything ?—That was my principles, just at that time ; no, not anything at all.

41,383. Are you sure nobody came and gave you something ?—Certainly not.

41,384. How came you to turn over ?—Dear me, you do turn over ; people vote which way they please.

41,385. But you had always voted the other way before ?—The gentleman that carried me up said I was to vote for Tillett and Russell, and I said, no, I would rather vote for one only, and that would be Mr. Tillett.

41,386. Did they not ask you to vote for Stracey ?—No.

41,387. Nobody came and asked you to vote for Stracey this time ?—Mr. Stracey had been round to mine but I did not see him, and these people picked me up on the road ; they were driving about, and I went along with them ; it was my wish to vote for Mr. Tillett only.

41,388. Did not they offer you anything ?—No, they did not.

41,389. You are quite sure about that ?—No, not anything at all.

41,390. It is an awkward thing to change your colour ?—If the other party had picked me up I should very likely have gone along with them, because I did not pay no regard to it.

41,391. Who took you up to the poll ; Sexton ?—I think the man's name who was driving was a man by the name of Savage, who lives in St. Giles', I think it was.

41,392. Have you been paid at former elections ?—I have had a trifle in my time.

41,393. Did they give you a trifle this time ?—Not anything at all.

41,394. Then you were badly off this election ?—Yes, quite so, indeed.

41,395. Did you get anything at Waters' election, the election of 1865 ?—I do not recollect I am sure.

41,396. The last election, you know. What did you get then ?—I am not sure.

41,397. Did you not get something four years ago ?—No ; I do not recollect getting anything.

41,398. When did you get something ?—Several years ago I did. I have had a trifle.

41,399. How many years ago ?—It may be five or six, or six or seven.

41,400. What did you get then ?—I am sure I am not able to say.

41,401. Was it such a trifle that you cannot recollect it ?—I never got but very little.

41,042. Was it a sovereign ?—Well, I might get a sovereign.

41,403. How many times have you had a sovereign ?—I am not able to say ; perhaps two or three times in the course of my living 30 years, I dare say.

41,404. Have you ever got more than a sovereign ?—No.

41,405. You never got a 5*l.* note ?—No.

41,406. Five pound notes were being given for votes. You recollect hearing that, do you not ?—No, I never got them.

41,407. You never got beyond a sovereign ?—No.

41,408. Have you ever got less than a sovereign ?—No. Of course this time I got not anything.

41,409. Are you sure that they did not give you a little beer ?—Oh dear me, I drank at different times all day long with different people, and paid for beer myself. I do not know that I drank so much beer as I paid for.

41,410. You were generous in giving it away?—Oh yes. I will own that I drank beer.

41,411. Did anybody give you any beer on the day of the election?—I was drinking along with different people.

41,412. Did anybody give you any beer to vote?—No, no.

41,413. Did you get any of the Stracey beer?—No, not to the best of my knowledge. If I was along with a party I might.

ROBERT CHETTLEBURGH recalled and further examined.

41,414. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A gardener.

41,415. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

41,416. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

41,417. Had you promised that you would vote?—No, I would not promise anyone.

41,418. What made you so late?—I went in the forenoon, but there was so many people that I went away.

41,419. You were examined yesterday?—Yes.

41,420. Had you been drinking yesterday?—No, I never use myself to that.

41,421. Who took you up to the poll?—Not any one.

41,422. Were you not with a man of the name of Barker that day?—Yes, in the afternoon.

41,423. I think he offered you something to go?—He walked with me.

41,424. And he offered you some money and beer?—No.

41,425. Well, he treated you?—No.

41,426. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes, quite sure of it.

41,427. Did he not tell you where you could get something?—No.

41,428. Did you not tell Barker on the day of the election that you would not vote unless you got a pound?—No.

41,429. Had you no conversation with him?—There was no such thing mentioned.

41,430. What did you talk to Barker about?—I did not talk to him about anything particular. He saw me when I was going to vote, and he said, "Where are you off to;" I says, "I am now going to give my vote in."

41,431. Did he not talk about what was going to be paid for the vote?—No, I never requested no such thing.

41,432. But you know you wanted a pound for your vote?—No, that I did not.

41,433. Have you ever voted before?—No.

41,434. This was your first occasion?—Yes.

41,435. And you wanted to get something for it?—No, I did not want anything for it; I went with a free good will,

41,436. You would have been glad to get a sovereign for your vote?—No, I did not want one, nor yet never asked for one.

41,437. You would have taken it if you could have got it, would you not?—No, I would not, not upon an occasion like that; that is not my principle.

41,438. What did Wright say to you about money?—I was going past his, walking along with Barker, and Barker says, says he, "Here is another of our friends now going to vote;" and Mr. Wright says, "What, are you going to vote?" and I says, "Yes, sir." "Well," sas he, "make haste, or you will be too late," and I went away directly.

41,439. Did Wright give you anything?—Nothing at all, nor yet the promise of anything.

41,440. I suppose they gave you some beer?—Not a drop.

41,441. Did they give you anything afterwards?—Nothing at all.

41,442. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did not Barker take you to Wright's?—No.

41,443. Did you not go to Wright's with Barker?—No, we were going past Mr. Wright's when I was going to vote.

41,444. Don't you recollect Barker saying to Wright, "This man wants a pound for his vote?"—No, I never heard him mention that at all.

41,445. Did not Barker speak to Wright?—Only as we were going past he said, "Here is a friend of ours, Mr. Wright."

41,446. Did he not say that you wanted a pound for your vote?—No, no such thing was mentioned.

41,447. Did you go back to Wright's after you had voted?—No; I went into a public-house and got a pint of beer, and sat and drank that; and after I had drunk it I went straight off home.

41,448. Did you not go back into Wright's at all?—No; I never was into Mr. Wright's yard at all, not the whole day, I will be upon my oath.

41,449. Now, did you not go back to Wright's while Barker sat outside?—No, I did not.

41,450. Barker says you did.—Then he said wrong, for I went into a public-house and got a pint of beer. I drank that off, and after I had drank it I went straight off home, and never spoke to a soul.

41,451. He says he spoke to Wright, and Wright spoke to you.—I wish he was here to face me, but he is dead, I am sorry to say.

41,452. Then Wright said they did not give it until they voted, and then you went and voted and you went back. That is the statement.—That is quite wrong, I will be upon my solemn oath.

41,453. I only tell you what is said, but we shall not take it to be true unless it is proved.—That is the truth, so help me God.

CAREY HAYWARD sworn and examined.

41,454. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A mechanic.

41,455. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

41,456. For whom?—Stracey.

41,457. What time in the day?—Between 3 and 4.

41,458. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

41,459. Why did you not vote earlier?—Because it did not suit me. I went when it was convenient. I had my work to attend to.

41,460. What were you doing?—At work.

41,461. Where?—At Mr. Boulton's.

41,462. Up to the time you voted?—Up to near 2 o'clock.

41,463. Were you in any public-houses that day?—No not any.

41,464. Did you get any money or the promise of any?—No, not any.

41,465. Or any beer?—Not any beer at all.

ROBERT HALL sworn and examined.

41,466. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

41,467. What time did you go up?—Between 1 and 2.

41,468. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—No.

41,469. Did anybody come to you and ask you to go up and vote?—No.

41,470. You went up without anybody asking you to do it?—I was not at home.

41,471. Did they see your wife?—Yes.

41,472. Did she say you would vote for them?—

THIRTIETH DAY.

13 Oct. 1869.

R. Hall.

She did not say anything about it; she would not tell them. She did not know which way I was going to vote.

41,473. Were you in any public-houses that day?—No.

41,474. Where were you at work?—At Mr. William Claburn's, of Thorpe.

41,475. What were you at work at?—Painting.

41,476. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

41,477. Or the promise of anything?—No.

W. Newton.

WALTER NEWTON sworn and examined.

41,478. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A fish curer.

41,479. For whom did you vote?—Stracey.

41,480. Did anybody ask you for your vote?—No.

41,481. Did you not promise it?—I did not.

41,482. Who did you go up to the poll with?—Nobody, I went up myself.

41,483. What time in the day?—About half-past 3. I was very busy that day in my business.

41,484. Is yours a large business?—Sometimes; there is more one day than others.

41,485. Whereabouts do you carry on your business?—In St. Paul's.

41,486. How far is that from the polling place?—Not above 50 yards.

41,487. Could you not find time to vote any earlier?—Yes, I could have done so if I had thought proper, but I thought that any time before 4 I was in time.

41,488, What led you to make up your mind to vote for Stracey?—Oh, I should do so to-morrow if he was put up.

41,489. Did you get anything for it?—No, nothing. I did not think about anything of the sort.

41,490. Have you always been on that side?—Yes.

41,491. Had you voted before?—I never voted before; that was my maiden vote.

41,492. Have you voted at the city elections?—No.

41,493. But you have always been a Tory, you say?—I have told you before that was my maiden vote, and if Sir Henry Stracey was to put up to-morrow I should vote for him.

41,494. You did not get any money or treating?—I never thought about it.

41,495. And have never had anything since?—No.

41,496. And no promise of any sort made to you?—No.

R. J. Beckham.

ROBERT JOHN BECKHAM sworn and examined.

414,97. (Mr. Biron.) For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

41,498. What time in the day?—About 11, or a little after.

41,499. Did you get anything for it?—No, not a farthing.

41,500. Or the promise of anything?—No.

W. Watts.

WILLIAM WATTS sworn and examined.

41,501. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What is your business?—A shopkeeper.

41,502. What shop do you keep?—A greengrocers'.

41,503. In what ward?—The seventh ward.

41,504. What time did you go up to the poll on the day of the election?—Near 3 o'clock, between 2 and 3.

41,505. Had you been asked for your vote before the day of the election?—Yes, I had been asked once.

41,506. Who asked you for your vote?—Some one on behalf of Mr. Stracey came to my house.

41,507. Did you promise your vote?—No.

41,508. You afterwards voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

41,509. Why did you not promise your vote when you were asked for it?—Because I had not made up my mind which way I should go, or whether I should vote at all, I did not know.

41,510. It was known long before you were canvassed that Sir Henry Stracey was standing for the city; what made you make up your mind in the interval?—I made up my mind all in a minute; I left my garden, and went down and voted directly.

41,511. What made you make up your mind to leave your garden so suddenly and go and vote; did anybody come to you and give you anything?—No, not even a drink of beer I had not, and no offer.

41,512. I cannot make out what made up your mind so suddenly?—Well, my business; I am sometimes at one place, and sometimes at another.

41,513. But you said you would not promise your vote because you had not made up your mind?—No, I would not promise my vote to no one.

41,514. Are you sure nothing was promised to your wife?—No, nothing, I am sure of that.

41,515. Are you sure nothing was promised to yourself?—I am sure of that, and I did not want nothing.

41,516. The operations of your mind are rather inscrutable to me. Are you sure you got nothing for voting?—Yes, I am sure I got nothing; I never asked for anything, and I did not wish for it.

G. Quantrill.

GEORGE QUANTRILL sworn and examined.

41,517–18. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A butcher and dealer.

41,519. Were you employed in any way at this election?—No, not at all.

41,520. Nor before the election?—Never.

41,521. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey, Baronet, of Rackheath Park.

41,522. What time in the day did you vote?—Between 2 and 3.

41,523. Did anybody ask you to vote?—Several people asked me.

41,524. Did you promise to vote?—I promised myself.

41,525. Had you promised that before the day of the poll?—I did so.

41,526. Had you ever voted before?—I never had the chance to vote before, and never will again.

41,527. Did you get anything for it?—No, I never had anything at all, I voted straight.

41,528. You have never had anything since?—No, and do not require none.

T. Goff.

THOMAS GOFF sworn and examined.

41,529. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A tailor.

41,530. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

41,531. I believe you got some money for it?—Yes, 5s.

41,532. From whom did you get that?—Mr. Andrews, the landlord of the "Cirque Unique."

WILLIAM ADAMS sworn and examined.

41,533. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

41,534. At what time in the day?—The latter part of it, between 3 and 4.

41,535. Just before 4?—I will not be positive to a few minutes, but between 3 and 4 o'clock I voted.

41,536. Do you keep a public-house?—I did.

41,537. Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—I did.

41,538. Did anybody come and ask you to vote?—About a fortnight, or it might be 15 days, before, Mr. Stracey, the younger, and another person came, and solicited me for my vote, and I promised it.

41,539. You did?—I did, and I fulfilled that promise.

41,540. How came you to be so very tardy in performing your promise as only to vote a little before 4?—They were very tardy in coming forward to solicit me; I was never asked from that day until the day of the election; it suited my purpose, when I had done a day's labour, to go and oblige them and myself as well.

41,541. Publicans' business, we are told, in Norwich, is not a very active one on the day of the election. How came you not to be able to get up to vote until a little before 4?—I will not say a little before 4, it might be a little after 3.

41,542. Between 3 and 4?—That will do. It did not answer my purpose.

41,543. Was your purpose, that you might get something for it?—Certainly not; I never took a farthing in my life, nor don't want it. I would sooner give than take.

41,544. Very well, you are a generous man. Are you sure nobody was generous like yourself, and gave you anything that day?—No one asked me a single question as to giving, and nobody received anything from me in the way of taking.

41,545. There was no giving to you and no taking by you?—As I am here, a man before my Maker, no one ever asked a single question to say, "William Adams, will you take or give a bribe?" I would not, nor did I take it.

41,546. Did you take or receive any money for your vote upon that day?—Decidedly not.

41,547. Were you promised anything for your vote?—This is obliterating of my oath.

41,548. It is a simple question; yes or no.—No.

(Mr. Biron.) You are very drunk; go down.

WALTER WORLEDGE sworn and examined.

W. Worledge.

41,549. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A shoe manufacturer.

41,550. I think you took a very active part in this last election?—Not such a very active part.

41,551. You took up a number of men to the poll, did you not?—I assisted in doing so.

41,552. With whom?—A man by the name of Cubitt.

41,553. Were you about the whole day?—I was three parts of the day with Mr. Cubitt.

41,554. Which of the Cubitts is that?—David Cubitt.

41,555. Is that the auctioneer?—No; the shoe manufacturer.

41,556. He was rather advanced in liquor that day, was he not?—Well, we had been having several glasses together during the day.

41,557. And I suppose you were with him treating voters?—No.

41,558. What public-houses did you go to?—I went to Mr. Warnes', the "Ship," in St. James'.

41,559. I think previously you had agreed with Cubitt to do what you could on the day of the election?—I had.

41,560. Which ward did you select?—The seventh ward, to which I belong.

41,561. What time in the day did you begin?—About 11 o'clock in the forenoon.

41,562. How much money had you in your pockets then?—I had 1*s.*, that was all.

41,563. At any time later on in the day did anybody give you any money?—Yes; I borrowed 2*s.* from Mr. Cubitt.

41,564. Is that all the money you dealt with that day?—That is all; and out of that 2*s.* I lent David Cubitt 1*s.*

41,565. That reduced your resources to a capital of 2*s.*?—1*s.*; that is all I had during the day.

41,566. What did you do with that?—I refreshed myself with it in different houses I went into.

41,567. Did you not give away any beer yourself?—To men that I knew, sitting round; I did not know whether they were voters or not. I asked several persons whether they had polled yet; they said, No; and I asked them to go and vote for Sir Henry Stracey, but I never intimidated them in any shape or form, or gave them any money.

41,568. Had you any carriage with you?—I was in Mr. Maris' cart during the day, when he went down to Warnes' after voters.

41,569. I suppose Cubitt was finding the beer then?—All that he spent during the day was what I supplied him with.

41,570. Was he not running up scores?—I never saw him run up scores. I gave him 6*s.* in the morning, part of a bill that I owed him, and a shilling in the afternoon that I had from his brother, and that is all that I saw Mr. Cubitt have.

41,571. How long were you with him during the day of the poll?—I should think three parts of the time during the election, from 11 to 4.

41,572. During that time he was spending a good deal of money?—No.

41,573. He has told us so.—Very likely, but I was astonished to see his evidence, and what an untruth he came and told, being that I was with him and saw his proceedings.

41,574. Don't you know that he was spending a lot of money?—Only the 6*s.*, that is all I saw him have.

41,575. Did he give glasses to voters?—He went in and spoke to different men; but what they were conversing about I do not know.

41,576. Some men you took up in a cart?—Yes; there were nine men at St. James', at Warnes'. I went in, and they asked me whether there was any money flying about; I said, "Not a farthing;" they said, "Your name is good here;" I said, "I don't know that; I have never been in the house before;" but I went in and asked the woman whether she would trust half-a-crown's worth of beer.

41,577. Was any money lent to you that day?—No, only the 2*s.* that I borrowed from Mr. Cubitt.

41,578. Did you run up a score any where that day?—No, not that I am aware of.

41,579. But if you run up a score you would have to pay it?—Only the score I ran up at Mrs. Warnes' for the voters.

41,580. Half a crown's worth there?—That is all.

41,581. That is all you did that day?—That is all.

41,582. That was for voters, of course?—Yes.

41,583. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) How many voters did you get up?—I think, if I am not greatly mistaken, there was about nine, but only six out of them, I think, polled.

41,584. Can you tell me their names?—I do not know any of them.

41,585. (Mr. Mansfield.) Is that all the money that you spent that day?—That is all the money I spent that day.

41,586. Did you get any other score?—No.

41,587. What did you do after the poll was closed?—I went home and went to bed; at least, about

THIRTIETH DAY.

W. Worledge.

13 Oct. 1869.

6 o'clock, I dare say, I went to bed; but I went home and got my tea, and after tea I went to bed, for I was tired; I had been up late the night before.

41,588. Did you yourself ever receive anything for voting?—No, not a farthing.

41,589. Was anything promised you?—No.

41,590. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) If I understand, you and Cubitt agreed on the Saturday night to do the best you could to get up voters?—I did not say anything of the sort to him.

41,590. I thought I understood you to say so. However, what time did you meet him on the morning of the election?—When I went to his brother Thomas' in the morning, his brother asked me if I had voted, and I said, "No, I have not voted;" he said, "I will go and poll you." I said, "I don't want you to do anything of the sort;" but he followed me down to the poll house, and asked me if I knew anyone who had not voted, and I told him, yes, a disabled man living at the top of the Gates, of the name of Scott, and we got a conveyance and took him down.

41,592. Where did you get your conveyance?—I don't know whose it was; it was not Maris' cart; I should know that.

41,593. Then some one lent you a conveyance?—Yes.

41,594. To go and get this man up?—Yes.

41,595. Was this the first voter you got up?—That was the first voter in the day.

41,596–7. Was he ill or lame?—He was lame; he could not walk.

41,598. You took him up?—Yes.

41,599. After you got him up, what did you do?—Went about to different houses inquiring whether there was any voters that had not voted, and persuading them to go and vote for Stracey.

41,600. Did you not find that they wanted something to drink?—Oh yes, several asked for drink, but I had nothing to give them.

41,601. Cubitt had something to give them?—He had only 6*s*.

41,602. Well, that is something, that would pay a great many gallons of beer?—I think he treated me more than anyone out of that, because I was with him.

41,603. Did you go to any public-house?—Yes.

41,604. What public house did you go to?—I went to the "Black Boy."

41,605. Was Cubitt with you there?—He was.

41,606. What next?—From there we went to Mr. Marshall's, and there we had a glass each.

41,607. Did you try to get up voters there?—Yes; but there was no one there to get up; we asked one or two.

41,608. At the first public did you get anybody up?—No; there were several men in the room, but they did not go up with us.

41,609. Did you try to get them up?—Yes.

41,610. Where did you go after that?—We went to a woman of the name of Hoggs, in Magdalen Street.

41,611. Did you get any up there?—No.

41,612. Where did you go then?—I went to the "Cross Keys" in Magdalen Street.

41,613. Did you find any voters there?—There were voters there, but they would not go with us, because I suppose we had nothing to give them.

41,614. Not even if you would stand a little beer?—They might have went if we had paid them.

41,615. They wanted money, did they?—Some of them.

41,616. How many were there there?—I think there were three men that I noticed who had not voted in the "Cross Keys" at the time I was there.

41,617. From there where did you go?—I can hardly say now where I went to. I went to several houses in the ward.

41,618. Did you find a number of men at those houses who wanted a little money?—They none of them expressed the wish of wanting money or beer there.

41,619. But you quite understood from their manner more than from what they said what they wanted?—I cannot tell by a man's inward appearance what he should want, not by looking at him.

41,620. You cannot by looking at him, but you can by speaking to him; did you find that they wanted a day's pay?—No one ever asked me for a day's pay.

41,621. Where did you get up those nine men?—At Mr. Warnes', in St. James'.

41,622. What time of the day was that?—I should think it must have been very close to 4.

41,624. Before that had you got up any voters?—Only Mr. Scott.

41,625. Only that one lame man that you spoke of?—That is all.

41,626. Had Cubitt left you before that?—Yes.

41,627. What time did Cubitt leave you?—I cannot exactly tell you what time he left me, but it was after dinner. I thought he went to Mr. Warnes' along with some gentleman in a carriage. He was gone about half an hour, and then he came back to William Warnes', and me and Cubitt went down to his father's in St. James' after these nine men.

41,628. You then got them from old Warnes', did you?—Yes.

W. L. Smith.

WILLIAM LEVRICK SMITH sworn and examined.

41,628. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

41,629. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

41,630. What time in the day?—About half-past 8 or a quarter to 9.

41,631. Are you a son of Samuel Smith?—I am.

41,632. Were you about with your father on the day of the polling?—I was.

41,633. Were you with him at the "Trumpet"?—I was.

41,634. Were you with your father the whole of the time he was at the "Trumpet"?—I should say I was, pretty well.

41,645. Did you hear a conversation in the course of the day about the men getting something for their votes?—Well, I did hear something of the sort.

41,646. Did you hear Hunt offer 5*l*. for the lot of them?—No, I did not.

41,647. Did you hear anybody offer anything for the lot?—No, I did not.

41,648. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) I think you had better go down and consider this before to-morrow morning.

41,639. (Mr. Biron.) You are not beginning very well.—I am telling the truth.

41,640. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You had better consider it very carefully.

Adjourned to to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

Thursday, 14th October 1869.

WILLIAM WILDE recalled and further examined.

41,640. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you know a person of the name of Gowing, a farmer, at Trowse?—Yes.

41,641. He was very active during the last election, was he not?—He was.

41,642. Did he say anything to you respecting what he had done on the election day?—Yes, shortly after the election I said, "If you don't mind you'll get into "a mess. I understand you are up to your neck in "it," and he said, "Oh, no; I was not. I had nothing to do with it. I took up people," but he never acknowledged to me that he had spent any money, only that he was very busy all the day taking up voters, and he said he had a letter from Sir Henry Stracey thanking him for his exertions, just after the election.

41,643. You spoke to him about being in a mess, you say. Did not he come to you about being in a mess?—No.

41,644. Had he been summoned before the election judge at that time?—No. I did not see him. I was not in Norwich between the time that he was summoned and the time that he appeared.

41,645. Was that all the conversation you had with him?—I do not remember any other. I have often talked to him about it.

41,646. Did not you tell him what you had heard?—I told him I had heard that he had been very busy indeed.

41,647. Being busy would not get him into a mess?—I told him I had heard he had been buying, but he never acknowledged, but always denied it to me.

41,648. He did not say that he had done anything of the kind?—Not in the least he did not. I always suspected that he did, and challenged him with it.

41,649. That was the origin of your observation?—Yes.

41,650. Did not you say upon that, "I have heard so and so"?—I said, "I have heard a great deal about it, and I have no doubt you spent a lot of money." He said, "I did not; I had not got any. I got people up, but I did not pay any." I did not believe it.

41,651. (Mr. Mansfield.) What led you to think he had been spending money?—Because I heard he was about all day, and that he was taking people up in his phaeton, and because I did not know that he had any particular influence to take people up, unless it was through money.

41,652. Did you hear from anybody that he did pay anything?—No. I heard no distinct charge made against him, only a general rumour.

41,653. You knew that he had been at the "Trumpet"?—Only as I saw it in the paper afterwards.

41,654. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) He told you that he had taken people up?—Yes. He told me he took up a very large number of people to the poll, and his man, who was with him, also told me he took a large number up. I think they used two or three sets of horses.

41,655. Did he say what time in the morning he began?—No, he did not. He was at it all day he said.

41,656. (Mr. Mansfield.) Had you learnt that he had been treating any of the men at any public-house?—No.

41,657. Has it been the practice here to give money to the publicans in order to keep people together?—I never heard of that practice.

41,658. I mean, giving small sums for beer, to be distributed among them?—I never heard of it.

41,659. Have not you heard of publicans afterwards making claims for services of that kind?—No. I generally find that men congregated in public-houses, and they were sure to be picked up in gangs there.

41,660. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) That is the mode in which it has been done hitherto?—Not generally. In general it has been in the streets; people have been waiting in the streets and near the polling place.

41,661. (Mr. Mansfield.) Without any go-between with the voter and the briber?—No; separate and individual bargains.

41,662. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) No gang system?—No, excepting sometimes at the municipal election; not at the parliamentary election.

41,663. There has been a system of ganging at municipal elections?—Oh, yes; not as you generally understand ganging, but I mean, a lot of them keep together in a public-house, and one would say, "There are 10 of us, if you like to give us anything."

41,664. (Mr. Mansfield.) Does the publican get anything?—Nothing but for what is spent in drink.

41,665. Nothing but what they spend of their own?—That is all.

41,666. Have you ever known any case in which a new candidate coming down here was required to satisfy any outstanding claims against the party he was supposed to represent?—No; I never heard of anything of the kind. I do not think I ever heard of anything of the kind.

WILLIAM COPLEY sworn and examined.

W. Copley.

41,667. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A maltster.

41,668. For whom did you vote at this last election?—Mr. Brown.

41,669. Are you in his employment?—Yes, I am in his service.

41,670. You always have worked for him?—Yes, for the last 15 years, in the winter season.

41,671. He is a Conservative?—That I cannot say.

41,672. You voted the same way as he did?—I voted the way my mind carried me.

41,673. I suppose Mr. Brown asked you?—No. He never asked me no such thing.

41,674. You said you voted for Mr. Brown?—No.

41,675. You said so just now?—No.

41,676. You certainly said that you voted for Mr. Brown. Mr. Brown is your master, and he is a Conservative?—I work for Mr. Brown, the maltster, in the winter season, in the malthouse.

41,677. You voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

41,678. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

41,679. Were you asked by anyone for your vote?—No.

41,680. Is this the first time you have voted?—Yes.

41,681. Was anything promised to you?—No.

41,682. Did the people in Mr. Brown's employment generally vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—That I cannot say; I don't know whether they did.

41,683. There are a great number of men in his employment?—That I cannot say. I don't know.

41,684. Do not you know how many men he employs?—He may employ 17 or 18 altogether, I dare say.

THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

W. Copley.

14 Oct. 1869.

41,685. You have been amongst them for some years?—I have worked for him during the last 15 years in the winter season.

41,686. Do not you know which way the men voted?—Some of them voted the same as I did, but there are many I cannot say anything about.

41,687. Were you asked by Mr. Brown or the manager to vote?—No.

41,688. Were you not asked by anybody?—No.

41,689. Were you at work on the day of the election?—Yes.

41,690. Till when?—I had a lot of work to do in the malt-house that day.

41,691. Did you go back to your work after you had voted?—Yes. It is a single man working where I am. I was obliged to go back because there was no else.

C. E. Lewis.

CHARLES EDWARD LEWIS sworn and examined.

41,692. (Mr. Biron.) I believe you are a solicitor in practice in London?—I am.

41,693. And you are the brother of the late Mr. W. D. Lewis, the Equity Queen's Counsel?—I am.

41,694. I believe he was a candidate for the representation of this city in the year 1860?—He was.

41,695. In conjunction with Mr. Forlonge?—Yes.

41,696. Do you know where Mr. Forlonge is now?—I do not. I neither know nor have heard, except that I have got an impression upon my mind that soon after the year 1860 he went back to Australia. That is my impression, but I cannot tell you even how I have gathered it. I have not seen him, or had any communication with him, since the year 1860.

41,697. Were you consulted by your brother before he commenced his candidature?—I was. I may state that I have here, if the Commissioners desire to see them, original letters from him before he came down and after he came down. I have found the original letters.

41,698. We are obliged to you. Perhaps we may want to look at them.—I found them all in a bundle of papers with the accounts, and I brought them down with me.

41,699. You say that you were consulted by your brother before his candidature?—Yes.

41,700. Afterwards, when he determined to stand, did you become his agent?—I did; the agent for the two.

41,701. The agent for your brother and Mr. Forlonge?—Yes.

41,702. Before they commenced their candidature had you consultations with Mr. Forlonge as well as with your brother?—No. The sequence of events in the exact dates were these: my brother came down here on the 17th of March. I had a letter from him dated the 18th, in which he referred to the possible candidature of Mr. Forlonge, and expressed his intention not to stand alone. He asked me to come down the next day, and I believe that I came down on the night of the 19th. When I came down I found my brother at a committee room somewhere in the city; and Mr. Forlonge had just arrived, and was announcing his determination to stand. I was introduced to Mr. Forlonge, and then took up the matter for the two jointly; but I had no consultation with Mr. Forlonge before he determined to stand.

41,703. That was at the very commencement of their candidature?—Quite so.

41,704. Did you get any instructions from them as to the mode in which the election was to be conducted?—I did—first from my brother in London anticipating his standing; then down here, and from them jointly.

41,705. What was the substance of those instructions?—The instructions were most distinctly to conduct the election, not only without any illegitimate expenditure, but on the strictest possible rule as regarded legal expenditure; not in point of fact to be led into any extravagance. Perhaps it is germain to the subject if you will allow me to interpose here the observation that I was very much against my brother standing for this city, and I wrote a private letter urging him not to stand for reasons connected with the past history of the place, and particularly with the last election; I put it as a matter between him and me as brothers, that he should not come without me.

41,706. No doubt that led him to write to you at once when he determined to stand?—Yes.

41,707. You have told us what instructions you had from the candidates. I presume you were very soon put into communication with the leaders of the party here?—Yes. I knew one or two of them personally—for instance, Sir Samuel Bignold, Mr. Patteson, Mr. Johnson, and several of the leading Conservatives here.

41,708. Did you communicate this resolve of your brother's and Mr. Forlonge's, that the election should be conducted on strictly pure principles?—I should not like to answer that question categorically; but so far as every communication from first to last went, there could not be upon their mind any other impression than a fixed resolve on my part that that should be the mode of carrying on the election.

41,709. They knew of the steps you were taking from time to time?—Certainly.

41,710. Did any suggestion come from those leading men that more money would have to be spent?—No.

41,711. Or was any pressure put upon you to spend money?—No. I may tell you, especially with regard to Mr. Patteson; I can speak with regard to him undoubtedly, because it had a very strong impression upon my mind. His feeling upon the conduct of that election approached intense nervousness with regard to the expenditure; and it was a continual subject of conversation between him and my brother upon that very point, that it was essential that the city should be saved from the disgrace which attached to the election of 1859. I speak of Mr. Patteson, not omitting the other gentlemen, but because I knew him so much better than some of the other gentlemen. I frequently came across him, and we very often had open and very free conversation on the subject.

41,712. But during the process of the candidature you would meet these gentlemen from time to time at committee rooms and so on?—Daily.

41,713. Was it stated publicly, and was it well known to them, that your brother and Mr. Forlonge were determined to have a pure election?—Unquestionably. They could not have any other impression of any sort whatever.

41,714. Was there time for any personal canvass?—I think there was a good deal of personal canvassing done, but you will see by the dates that there could not be a vast deal. My brother got down on the evening of the 17th, I think it was; it was on a Saturday that he left, a quarter to 2 on some Saturday; the almanack will, therefore, tell you the exact day; and the polling day was on the 29th, so that there could not be a vast amount of canvassing.

41,715. There were not more than 10 or 12 working days?—Not more than that certainly.

41,716. You told me there was a canvass?—A partial canvass.

41,717. During the progress of that canvass did you hear of any feeling, I do not mean on the part of the leaders, but on the part of the rank and file, that money would be needed to carry the election on your side?—No, I have no impression left on my mind of that sort until a conversation which took place, I think, the night before the nomination. I did not hear that it came from the ranks of the constituency as far as my recollection goes (I am speaking of nine years ago), but I have a very strong impression upon my mind, because my brother died a short time after the election, and I believe it was the physical pain he underwent at the election which brought on his last sad illness. There was nothing of that sort expressed on the part of the lower orders of the constituency.

It appeared that all parties were setting to work to try and fight it out as a party matter, purely in order to test their strength.

41,718. You told me that things went on upon that footing till the night or the day before the nomination?—Yes.

41,719. What occurred then?—We had the canvass returns moderately well made up as far as my experience went, and it was quite evident that we were to be beaten by two or three hundred. I was told plainly that unless money was to be spent we were sure to be beaten. I was told that in so many words, and that 400*l.* or 500*l.* (that was the sum mentioned) would make a very great difference, and would probably win the election.

41,720. Do you carry in your mind who it was who told you that?—I will tell you exactly what happened. I recollect the room in the "Rampant Horse Hotel," where it took place. I am staying there, and I identified the room this morning. I know two persons who were present, and I am inclined to think noboby else was present; they were Mr. Kitton, and I think the youngest Mr. Bignold, I don't know his christian name; but I know those two gentlemen were present, besides my brother, Mr. Forlonge, and myself. We were told, and it was evidently intended to convey to us strongly their impression as to the prospects of success without, and the prospects of success with an expenditure of money of that character.

41,721. Did you gather that it was their desire that money should be spent?—I do not think it would be fair to put it in that way. "It is no use your going "on unless you spend this additional money. You "will make a good fight of it, but you will be "beaten."

41,722. It would not be right to press you any further as to that conversation—I do not think it went beyond that.

41,723. It would not be right to press you any further than the impression it left upon your mind. I will just ask you this. I feel that it is a formal question. Did your brother, Mr, Lewis, or Mr. Forlonge, or either of them consent to the expenditure of money for that purpose?—We went through what was really a form of retiring from the room, Mr. Forlonge, my brother, and myself, simply for the purpose of arranging the form of the reply rather than the substance of it. We went out, and after a few minutes we went back and said that we expressly determined to carry out the arrangement upon which they became candidates, and would not spend a farthing.

41,724. I expected that answer. After that I presume no pressure was put upon them?—Not the remotest. I do not think the subject was ever mentioned afterwards.

41,725. You went to the poll, and you were beaten by 300 or 400, as you anticipated?—400 was the number.

41,726. At all events your opinion of your position was substantially correct?—It was.

41,727. The majority against you, I take from what you have told us, was not materially larger than what you anticipated, although perhaps a little larger?—My impression is that I thought personally that we might be beaten by 250. The majority was larger than I expected.

41,728. I think you told me that you have with you some documents connected with it. Can you tell me what the joint expenditure of those two gentlemen was?—They paid 1,434*l.* exactly.

41,729. Between them?—Between them.

41,730. Are the items set forth in that paper you have, which looks like a balance sheet?—This is an extract from my own ledger. I happened to find it pinned to the papers; the published election auditor's account of my brother and Mr. Forlonge's election expenses.

41,731. Does the election auditor's account contain all the items that go to make up the 1,434*l.*?—There is a difference of 35*l.* This is 1,399*l.* I have been endeavouring to account for the discrepancy, and I think I can account for it to a penny. This is my list of bills sent in to the election auditor, my original draft. Of course the document would be in the possession of the late Mr. Charles Evans, the chancellor of Norwich. He was the election auditor. If you will kindly turn to the last page but one you will find two items marked in red ink, No. 83. (A paper is handed to the Commissioners.)

41,732. One is "Band and procession"?—Yes, 15*l.*

41,733. The next is "Petty cash expenses at head office"?—Yes. I have been comparing them with the published accounts, and I do not find either of these items in the published account.

41,734. Probably he conceived that he ought to disallow the band and procession?—I cannot find the letter, but I have the strongest impression that I had a letter from him. They are paid, you will see.

41,735. Yes.—As far as a man can swear to such a thing at this distance of time I have no doubt that I sent him the bills and the receipts. He had compunctions about passing the "Band and procession" item, and he therefore said he could not publish it; but I had paid it, and I had returned it to him. That is the original draft of my list, and it will account for 30*l.* "Band and procession, 15*l.* Petty cash expenses at head office, 15*l.* 17*s.* 3*d.*" I cannot conceive why the other was struck out.

41,736. There is still a difference of 5*l.*, is there not?—Yes. I can explain it; my ledger account will show it.

41,737. There is "4*l.* not paid" against the items, I see, which reduces it further?—You will find an item, "July 16th, Buttifant, 5*l.*" I think that makes up exactly the difference within a few shillings, and I will explain to you how that happened. In the election auditor's published account you will find a bill of Mr. Buttifant's, which is marked "Disputed." That is in the printed list, and that is 12*l.* 15*s.* That is among the amounts claimed and not allowed. On the 16th of July I paid him 5*l.*, which is after the time I sent in my account. I hold in my hand a letter from Mr. Buttifant, dated the 19th of July, which is as follows:—"I regret exceedingly in having to "write to you respecting my account for payment at "the last election, but I cannot submit to the 12*l.* 15*s.* "being deducted, and have to request the favour of "your cheque for the amount in a post or two. "Yours very respectfully, J. Buttifant." Upon that I went into the matter afresh, and rather than have a dispute on the subject, I paid the money out of my own pocket. You will see that I paid 1,449*l.*, and I only received 1,434*l.* That was a payment out of my own pocket to pay a man who thought he was badly treated. I did not want to have a correspondence with a gentleman who said he was entitled to 12*l.* 15*s.* beyond what he had received.

41,738. Besides the expenditure of money shown on these accounts, are you aware of any sums having been directly or indirectly by your brother or Mr. Forlonge?—Speaking for myself, not one farthing; speaking as far as a man can negatively as to other persons, I do not believe one farthing was paid by any human being.

41,739. You have told me already that your brother, at all events, left himself entirely in your hands?—Yes; and the very last payment I credit him with I received from his executors. Every farthing of the expenditure was paid by me, and no one else. I was down here, and did not leave the place from the time I came, and all the cheques I had were from my own London bankers. I distributed the whole of the money, and paid all the bills through myself and the election auditor. I drew no distinction between legitimate and illegitimate expenditure. I returned every farthing.

41,740. I think you have given me all we want about the expenditure on your own side. I may just ask you this, can you give me the names of the gentlemen who acted under you at that time?—Yes.

41,741. Are they shown by these accounts?—The

THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

C. E. Lewis.

professional gentlemen were young Mr. Gilman, Mr. Arthur Preston, the late Mr. Roger Kerrison; he condescended, if I may use the expression, to act as my brother's agent, receiving a nominal fee. He did give his name, and condescended to receive 20 guineas, or something of that sort. I don't know whether Mr. Blake or Mr. Holmes were professional men. The lists are all here. You will find all the names.

41,742. I asked that rather with a view of laying the foundation for this question. Was Mr. Kitton employed under you?—No, not in the least. He was neither employed directly or indirectly, nor remunerated in any way.

41,743. As far as you know, no money passed through his hands?—I am certain he did not. I don't know whether he is alive or dead.

41,744. He is dead.—If he is dead, I would rather not say anything; if he was alive, I would say something.

41,745. That is enough for us. No money passed through his hands, as far as you know?—I am certain that no money beyond the 1,434*l.*, nor otherwise in any shape or form.

41746. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Had you any reason to suppose that there was any illegitimate expenditure by Mr. Kitton independently of you?—No, I have not the least reason to suppose it, and do not believe it.

41,747. (Mr. Biron.) Have you any reason to believe that there was any expenditure out of private subscriptions?—No, neither for legitimate nor illegitimate purposes. I do not know what a private gentleman might have done in paying anything for fly hire, or anything of that sort; but as far as my knowledge and belief go, I have not the least idea that any gentleman was 5*l.* out of pocket, either willingly or unwillingly.

41,748. I take it that that opinion is confirmed by the return of the poll corresponding substantially with the result of the canvass?—Oh, yes. I have no reason whatever to think from the course of the poll that there was anything to excite my suspicion. We worked gradually behind. We were fighting a losing game all day. There was, however, no change in the poll at any part of the day that excited my attention and I was an experienced electioneerer at that time.

41,749. You were full of it at that time?—Yes; I have since given it up.

41,750. With regard to your opponents at that election, did anything come to your knowledge, or attract your attention to lead you to believe that there were any corrupt practices on the part of your opponents?—No; on the contrary, Mr. Tillett, I think, was mayor at that time, and nothing could be more outspoken, I know, than his own public declarations, I believe, at that time as to the necessity of clearing the city from the scandal which had come upon it; and I know that communications passed between Mr. Patteson and himself with reference to a possible compromise to prevent persons being led one by one on the day of the election, unwittingly or unwillingly, so that there could be no possibility of an illegal expenditure. That was actually talked about very strongly up to the day before the nomination.

41,751. To sum it up, every precaution was taken on both sides to secure a pure election in 1860, and those apprehensions were successful?—I know every precaution was taken on my side. I have every reason to believe that there were bonâ fide intentions on the other, and that there were preparations equivalent with the intentions, and that they were successful. I have no doubt whatever that that was the result.

41,752. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) We need not trouble you any further except to thank you for the very clear and explicit manner in which you have given evidence.—I hope the Commissioners will remember, that as soon as I saw the names of the Commissioners in the House of Commons address, I wrote a letter saying, that if at any time they required to have any information as to the election of 1860, I should be happy to come forward and furnish it.

(Mr. Biron.) We are much indebted for your courtesy.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) I wish we had experienced the same readiness on all hands. Our labours here would have been lighter than they have been, and it would have been much better for the city.

R. N. Bacon.

RICHARD NOVERRE BACON sworn and examined.

41,753. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you take an active part in the election of 1860, when Sir William Russell, and Mr. Warner, and Mr. Lewis, and Mr. Forlonge were the candidates?—I took this part in it; that I was on the financial committee. That is the active part I took in it, and I went on at the express wish of Sir William Russell, although I was a stranger to him, having expressed an opinion at the private meeting when he first came down, that elections ought to be conducted at a much cheaper rate than they had been—not at the rate mentioned by a gentleman whose name I forget—namely, 2,000*l.*

41,754. Were you the chairman of that committee?—Yes.

41,755. Did the whole of your expenditure therefore come under your supervision?—Yes. When I say the expenditure, the accounts did come under my supervision, and the general discussion as to what was to be done did come under my supervision.

41,756. Have you got those accounts in your possession still?—I have got those which were given to me, and which I believe to be true; the estimate and the expenditure.

41,757. Was that estimate made before the election?—Yes; it was before the election, and it was in consequence of our wishing to have what the cost would probably be. At the bottom of that estimate I wrote this at the time: "The finance committee receive the "above as a fair maximum estimate of the proper and "legal expenses necessary to be incurred in carrying "out the election of Mr. Warner and Sir William "Russell."

41,758. What was the amount of that?—1,003*l.* 16*s.* 2*d.* There is a pencil mark at the side of account, of 431*l.* 16*s.* 6*d.* I do not quite recollect what that was now. You will see if you look at it here, that in order that there might be no mistake about this I put my signature at the foot of each of the pages at the time. (The estimate is handed to the Commissioners.)

41,759. It is in a very business-like form.—Here is a list of persons employed, and here is also the actual expenditure, which came apparently to 1,196*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.* (handing two documents).

41,760. This, which you handed to me first, was made in anticipation of the election?—Yes.

41,761. Was this, which you have just handed in, after the actual expenditnre?—That was given to me after the actual expenditure, and you will see that there are two lines, one being the claims as sent in, and the other what was paid after certain deductions. You will see some alterations.

41,762. I see one is in black and the other in red ink?—Yes, and the other paper is a list of the persons employed and the payments made to them. I should state that it was expressly understood that it was to be done at as cheap a rate as possible. Mr. Bugg (now Mr. Coaks) then undertook to be the gratuitous agent, and it was understood that everybody should act if he could gratuitously.

41,763. Do I understand that the estimated expenditure was 1,003*l.* 16*s.* 2*d.*, and the actual expenditure 1,196*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.*?—I believe so. Yes, I think that was about the thing, and I believe it was understood that one of the reasons of the increased cost was that the writ was delayed two or three days longer than was expected, and parties were employed consequently those two or three days and were obliged to be paid. I think that was it.

41,764. I think you are correct, because I see an item of 431*l.* 16*s.* 6*d.* (which is the item in pencil that you mentioned) carried out in this other account?—I do not recollect what that item was.

41,765. You see here, in this actual expenditure there is an item of 431*l.* 16*s.* 6*d.*, which corresponds with the item in pencil?—Yes.

41,766. If you look at the estimated expenditure in respect of that, you will find it was 61*l.* 11*s.* It is possible, therefore, that the employment of these "clerks, messengers, and other persons" for a few extra days swelled the amount up to 461*l.* That 431*l.* 16*s.* 6*d.* was most likely the item of 61*l.* 11*s.* in the estimated expenditure swelled to 431*l.* 16*s.* 6*d.* by the extra days of their employment?—That I cannot say.

41,767. Does that appear to be so on the face of that account?—It is so long back that I cannot say.

41,768. However, the result is that your estimated expenditure differed from the actual expenditure by a very small sum?—A very small sum.

41,769. Did you know of any other payment whatever having been made on account of this election other than that which is shown by these accounts?—I know that an application was made to the committee for the payment of 200*l.* and some odd pounds, 20*l.* or 30*l.* for what was called "watching." I recollect that at the very first meeting of the committee, as it was intended that the election should be a pure one as far as we were concerned, and as it was to be done at the cheapest possible rate, I recollect that the first understanding was that there should be no watching. That was a system that was begun, I believe, in Warner and Peto's election. A number of men were employed to watch persons who were suspected of being bribers. It was determined that it should not be at, I think, the very last meeting or nearly so, of the committee. I think there were only five present with myself, and two of the gentlemen were for paying it—who they were I don't know,—and I gave my vote against paying it on the ground that it was settled that there were not to be any watchers. Subsequently—I don't know whether I had written to him about the accounts; I cannot recollect, and I cannot find any other letter, but by accident I found this letter (handing a letter) put together with those papers, from Sir William Russell to me, relative to that very subject.

41,770. This is the letter: "47, Albemarle Street, "June 9th, 1860. My dear Bacon, Warner, Bugg, "and I went over the accounts together yesterday, "and decided on the following arrangements. We "are determined to pay nothing that is not first sanctioned by the finance committee, in accordance with "our original arrangements. The account you "brought up to me was for 1,172*l.*, all of which you "approved excepting 52*l.* to paid canvassers. Now "I quite agree with you that this sum ought not to "be paid, but if the finance committee on reconsidering the matter choose to admit it, why we will then "pay it. There is also, Bugg says, 116*l.* more for "watchers, which, he says, the finance committee "refuse to allow, and Warner and I certainly will "not pay unless the finance committee tell us they "consider we ought so to do. Will you, therefore, "learn their decision on these two sums of 52*l.* and "116*l.* Warner and I wish also to pay Wilde and "Bugg for their services, and therefore we wish you "to ask the finance committee to add 200*l.* to the "accounts, 100*l.* for Wilde and 100*l.* for Bugg. "These sums and every farthing that we pay must "appear in the published election auditor's accounts, "as I will not pay one shilling but what is fairly and "honestly published in accordance with the law. If "the finance committee agree to ask us to pay the "52*l.* for paid canvassers (which I do not approve) "and the 116*l.* for paid watchers, it must be on the "distinct understanding that they as well as the 100*l.* "to Wilde and 100*l.* to Bugg are published openly "in the election auditor's accounts with the other "items of the account. The account you have at "present allowed in the accounts is 1,120*l.*, then "Wilde and Bugg 200*l.*, 1,320*l.* If you choose to "allow these sums it will be—paid canvassers, 52*l.*; "paid watchers, 116*l.*; total, 1,488*l.* You had better "mention to Bugg and Wilde as to the 100*l.* each. "Will you be so kind as to let me have an answer "soon. Although I said I would not be responsible "for more than 500*l.*, as the amount is not very large "I shall share it equally with Warner, as I do not "like being under money obligations to anyone. You "must accept my most sincere thanks for the trouble "you have taken in the matter, and believe me, yours "very truly, WILLIAM RUSSELL." Do you recollect which of these sums, which are disputed here, were paid?—I believe the canvassers were paid, for this reason. It was argued that they were professional men, some of them, and that they had agreed to give their services at a much greater reduction of terms than ever before. That is my general recollection. I won't be quite sure, but I believe it was so agreed, and they were certainly paid, because I think you will find in the list of persons the term "canvassers" there.

41,771. I see the heading here is "canvassers?"—That is only a small amount. We had nothing to do with who were engaged. I cannot say who they were; but I was to take care that no money was improperly spent.

41,772. That sum to canvassers was ultimately paid?—I believe it was paid, but the other was not paid. Sir William Russell afterwards wrote to me and said he had been written to for the money, and what was he to do. I gave him the same answer as I did before, that the committee decided that it was not to be paid; and, subsequently, some very long time after, he wrote again to me. I do not know whether he told me, but I suspect he did—I cannot find the letter, but I think he told me—that he understood Mr. Warner's share had been paid by Mr. Warner's brother in Mr. Warner's absence abroad, and what was he to do. My answer to him was this, in substance: "If you ask me as the chairman of your committee, "I still say, looking at it in that light, that the com-"mittee decided it was not to be paid. If you ask me "as a gentleman, as a man of honour towards your "colleague, that is your affair, not mine." He afterwards paid it.

41,773. Were those paid "watchers" men who were employed for the purpose of watching the other side?—For the purpose of watching the other side, to see after persons who were rather suspected of being engaged, probably, in illegal acts.

41,774. If they were employed you would have had the means of ascertaining whether there had been any illegal practice, most probably, upon the other side?—Well, I apprehend we should, perhaps, have been; perhaps so, but I have always looked upon "watchers" as in some respects being persons employed merely because they were connexions, more or less some of them, or relations of voters.

41,775. That was the ground of their being employed?—That was the ground of their being employed.

41,776. You objected to it upon principle?—I have always been against it, all my life.

41,777. Do you know of any other sum having been paid on account of that election by either candidates?—No, I do not. I do not believe there has been, unless there was one figure, the sum which I was ordered to pay to Mr. Wilde. I sent him a cheque, which was afterwards returned to Mr. Bugg, just before the publication of the accounts; therefore I do not know, but I apprehend it was paid in another way. I do not know any further; I afterwards heard that. For that reason you will not find Mr. Wilde's name in the account for the receipt of 100*l.*

41,778. You do not know whether the 100*l.* mentioned in that letter was paid to Mr. Wilde or not?—A cheque was sent, because I wrote a cheque for it at the committee. We had not had an answer from him, and I wrote the cheque in the committee room at the time, at Mr. Bugg's office, and it was enclosed and sent to Mr. Wilde: but I understood from Mr. Bugg afterwards that it had been returned previous to the accounts being sent to the chancellor; and it was sent, if I recollect rightly, to the chancellor. It was returned to the chancellor, I think; I am not sure.

41,779. Do you know of any payments being made by other persons on account of the election in any way?—Not a farthing that I know of.

41,780. There had been, had there not, at previous elections payments made by independent persons for election purposes?—That I cannot say of my own knowledge, because I never took what is called "an active part" in the election except in my humble capacity as an editor of a newspaper. I have never taken any other active part.

41,781. You have heard that as a matter of report?—Oh yes; but I believe that had been always confined to some 300 or 400 scamps. I do not believe the body of the freemen are corrupt.

41,782. Are you aware of any payment of that kind having been made at that election?—I do not believe there were; I know of none, most certainly.

41,783. Did you receive at any time afterwards any claims against the candidates in respect of refreshments supplied or sums paid?—No, I have never had any application at all.

41,784. Do you know of any having been made upon the candidates?—I do not know of any except that of which I told you.

41,785. Then, as far as you are aware, no practice of an improper kind prevailed on your side at that election?—I believe not; neither do I think that there was on the other side. I think it was what might be called one of the purest elections ever fought at Norwich, except, perhaps, that of Harbord and Martin against Stormont and Scarlett.

41,786. Now with regard to the other side, you had paid "watchers," it seems, because the "watchers" were paid?—They were paid subsequently. The management of that part did not rest with the financial committee at all.

41,787. (Mr. Mansfield.) With whom did the getting of these "watchers" rest?—The managers would be Mr. Coaks (then Mr. Bugg) and I think Mr. Wilde, senior, was the manager of the canvassing and that part of it. I presume they would take the management of that, but I don't know of my own knowledge.

41,788. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you know yourself of any illegal practice being committed on the other side?—No, I do not. I believe that they did not commit any illegal practice.

41,789. You, I suppose, took an active part comparatively in the election?—No; all I did was to look after what I had undertaken to do: look after the money.

41,790. I suppose you heard generally about it?—It was a very fairly fought election on both sides.

41,791. You took the trouble to ascertain how the matter had been conducted?—Yes. We understood at the time that Messrs. Lewis and Forlonge did not mean to spend any money improperly.

41,792. Was there anything whatever, in any report or otherwise, which led you to distrust that promise?—No; there was no report that led me to discuss that question at all, as far as bribery is concerned.

41,793. So far as your own recollection is concerned you believe that was a perfectly fair election on the part of your opponents?—I believe it was.

41,794. Did you take any part in the election of 1865?—No.

41,795. That would be Waters' election?—Yes.

41,796. (Mr. Mansfield.) Nor in the election of 1868?—All I did in 1868 was this, I expressed my opinion about that election generally. I was at the first meeting at Sir William Foster's, and at that first meeting it was determined to await for a time. And then we had another meeting, which was not a public meeting, and at that meeting it was determined to take Sir William Russell in preference to Mr. Warner, who was considered as the extreme—the Radical candidate, while Sir William Russell was originally the candidate of the "moderate men," as they are called; and we did not think that Sir William Russell had done anything to forfeit his position. I was afterwards, just before the election, at a meeting at Mr. Bugg's office, at which I and some four other gentlemen who were present, did not agree with the coalition, because we thought that Sir William Russell ought to stand by himself. And we expressed our opinion that we should support Sir William Russell alone. As I was situated I thought it right to state, that although I should certainly not vote for Mr. Tillett, yet I would take no steps whatever against his election. That is the only part I have taken as an individual.

41,797. Do you know of anything which was in the nature of a corrupt practice, committed on the side of the Liberals at the last election?—No; I do not know anything of the sort. I disagreed with the organisation committee. I did not think that was a fair thing, because it might lead to intimidation when you get a sort of union of that kind, and I was against it.

41,798. Independently of that organisation, do you know anything which in your opinion could savour of illegality?—No; I took no part in it, because I expressly avoided it. As I was situated I did not choose to take any active part against Mr. Tillett.

J. Skippon.

JAMES SKIPPON sworn and examined.

41,799. (Mr. Mansfield.) Were you manager of the fourth ward?—Yes.

41,800. You represented Mr. Tillett, did you not?—I did.

41,801. Who requested you to act in the capacity of ward manager?—Mr. Stevens.

41,802. You took a fee for that?—Yes, 10 guineas.

41,803. Did you vote?—I did.

41,804. Can you tell me of any corrupt practices that came to your knowledge during the day of the poll?—I heard that there were several men at the "Trumpet," and I sent a man, I think, of the name of Grimshaw, to see whether he could withdraw those men, they being voters in the fourth ward.

41,805. What instructions did you give to that man?—To see if he could withdraw them. I think he took the wife of one of the men; I cannot recollect his name. I was in great trouble at that time, endeavouring to get up voters.

41,806. Was he instructed to delay them by any artifice?—No.

41,807. Or to make any offer to them?—No; I had no instructions to do anything of that kind.

41,808. Did any specific information reach you that day as to what was going on at the "Trumpet"?—No.

41,809. You only generally heard that they were buying?—Yes; I knew they were buying.

41,810. How did you know that?—By the change in the polling.

41,811. That was only a matter of inference?—That is all. I had nothing else to guide me, because I did not leave the room till I voted.

41,812. At what time did you vote?—At 20 minutes to 4.

41,813. And then I suppose you observed men coming up to the poll in great numbers to vote on the other side?—From my experience I knew that there was bribery going on.

41,814. Have you had great experience in elections?—Yes, I have been engaged in every election since 1847.

41,815. Always on the Liberal side?—I have always been a Radical.

41,816. Do you know of any corrupt practices having been employed on behalf of Mr. Tillett?—None whatever; I do not believe that there was a sixpence given.

41,817. Do you believe that nothing was spent beyond the amount returned in the published account of expenses?—Not a penny.

41,818. Are you aware of anything that took place in the interest of your side at the "Marquis of Granby" or any other public-houses?—No; because my room was next to the Guildhall, in a lower part of the city.

41,819. Then you knew nothing of what had taken place in that public-house?—Not until some time before the petition. I knew that something had taken place to lose the election.

41,820. Are you aware of any treating having taken place on your side?—None whatever.

41,821. Are you aware of any volunteers having spent smalls sums to get up voters?—No, I know nothing of that but what I have read in the public papers.

41,822. Have you heard of any claims for services of that kind?—No, none.

HENRY SHARPE sworn and examined. H. Sharpe.

41,823. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A licensed hawker and shopkeeper.

41,824. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

41,825. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

41,826. At what time in the day?—At about 5 or 6 minutes to 4.

41,827. How came you to put off voting till then?—I did not think of voting at all.

41,828. What made you vote at last?—Because I got something for voting.

41,829. What did you get?—I got 5*s*.

41,830. Who gave it to you?—Mr. Self, the butcher.

41,831. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you know of anybody else to whom he gave money?—No, I do not.

CHARLES KENT sworn and examined. C. Kent.

41,832. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

41,833. What were you engaged as at that time?—Nothing.

41,834. Do you keep a public-house?—Yes.

41,835. What is the sign?—The "Bull," in St. Paul's.

41,836. What time in the day did you vote?—I think a little after 2.

41,837. What were you about till then?—I could not get out before.

41,838. Why not?—I could not leave my business; my wife was not at home.

41,839. Did nobody else look after your business?—No, only myself.

41,840. Were there a good number of people in your house that morning?—No more than on any other day.

41.841 Did anbybody come and ask you to go up, and vote?—No.

41,842. Had you been asked for your vote before?—No.

41,843. Did anybody give anything to you for your vote?—No, not a farthing.

41,844. Or the promise of anything?—No; and I never was asked for my vote that day.

41,845. Was any money spent in your house that day in giving away beer?—No.

41,846. Not to anybody?—Not to anybody.

41,847. Did any number of voters congregate in your house that day?—Not that I know of.

TIMOTHY WIDDOWS sworn and examined. T. Widdows.

41,848. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—I am one of the bedesmen of the Norwich Cathedral.

41,849. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

41,850. Did anybody ask you to vote?—No.

41,851. Were you not canvassed at all?—No, only by a note and card inside.

41,852. At what time did you vote?—About 10 o'clock.

41,853. Did you get anything for voting?—No, not a farthing.

41,854. Did you try to get anything?—No.

41,855. Did you get anything before for voting?—No.

41,856. Did you not get even a glass of beer?—No; only what I bought myself.

GEORGE NELSON sworn and examined. G. Nelson.

41,857. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A hairdresser.

41,858. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

41,859. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

41,860. At what time in the day?—At a quarter before 3.

41,861. Did you get anything for it?—No.

41,862. Or the promise of anything?—No.

41,863. Why did you not vote earlier in the day?—Because my business employed me in the morning. I had not time to go before.

ROBERT DUNN sworn and examined. R. Dunn.

41,864. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A shopkeeper.

41,865. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

41,866. For whom?—For Russell and Stracey.

41,867. Who asked you to vote?—No one asked me to vote. I never was solicited by any one.

41,868. What made you divide your vote between the blue and purple?—If Mr. Warner had come forward I should have voted for him; but as he did not come forward, I thought propor to vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

41,869. You preferred Sir Henry Stracey to Mr. Tillett?—Yes.

41,870. Did you get anything for voting?—No, not a farthing.

41,871. Were you promised anything?—Not a farthing.

41,872. Have you had anything since?—No.

CHARLES SKIPPER sworn and examined. C. Skipper.

41,873. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

41,874. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

41,875. At what time?—At a quarter to 4.

41,876. What did you get for it?—Nothing,

41,877. Just think over it a little; what was it that you got?—Not anything.

41,878. How came you to vote if you got nothing for it?—I do not know. I voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

41,879. There was some reason or another, let us have it?—I voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

41,880. I know you did, but I want to know why; you had some reason or another. You would not have that manner that you have unless there was something

THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

C. Skipper.

behind that you do not like to say publicly?—I voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

41,881. So you have told us. Why did you not vote earlier?—Because I was busy after a job.

41,882. Where?—At Trowse.

41,883. When did you get back into the city?—I left my job at half-past 3, and was back again at a few minutes after 4.

41,884. Did anybody ask you to vote?—No.

41,885. Not before that day?—No.

41,886. Or on the day?—No.

41,887. Did you get the promise of anything?—No.

41,888. Did you get anything after you had voted?—No.

41,889. Did you hear that something had been left at your house for you?—No.

(Mr. Biron.) You had better wait in court, and think the matter over. I am sure there is something behind.

J. Minns.

JESSE MINNS sworn and examined.

41,890. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Were you one of the ward managers at the last election?—Yes.

41,891. In which ward?—The seventh.

41,892. On which side?—On behalf of Sir William Russell.

41,893. Did you exert yourself in the first place in canvassing?—No, not at all.

41,894. Did you only attend then in the ward room?—In the ward room, from the time of its opening till after the election was over,

41,895. On the polling day?—Yes.

41,896. Did you go out at all?—No, not at all.

41,897. Did you take up voters, or anything of that kind?—No, not in any way,

41,898. Then you only know what passed in the ward room?—That is all.

41,899. Were you paid?—Yes.

41,900. Did you vote?—Yes. I was not paid until the 10th of February, and I made no engagement for payment; but I was paid.

41,901. What are you by business?—I am a dresser. I finish manufactured goods.

41,902. Do you know of any improper payments having been made, or suggested to be made in your ward room that day?—I never heard of any one. I never thought of one myself, and never heard it suggested.

41,903. Do you know of any money having been provided in your ward for the purpose of paying voters?—Certainly not.

41,904. Or for the purpose of providing refreshment or beer to voters?—No; I have my instructions in my pocket, and I carried them out strictly, and to the letter.

41,905. Let me see your instructions, if you please. (A printed paper is handed by the witness to the Commissioners.)

41,906. You say you carried out these instructions to the letter?—I did I assure you, even to the restriction of a glass of ale in the room, so far as my side was concerned, in every form and shape.

41,907. In the course of the day was any information given to you respecting anything occurring on the other side?—No official report was brought to me.

41,908. Was any information given to you by any person that there was any bribery, or anything of that sort going on on the other side?—I only heard it from parties coming into the room, because I did not leave the room myself. I heard it mentioned by Mr. Joseph Harper, Mr. Womersley, and two or three others that came in between 12 and 1 o'clock. Sir William Russell, and Mr. Jacob Henry Tillett appeared in the room between 12 and 1 o'clock. I am certain it was between 12 and 1, because a very little after 1 I provided a person to sit in my chair while I went home and took my dinner, and I got back as quickly as I could, and I think it would be between 12 and 1 that Sir William Russell and Mr. Tillett were in the room. I only heard it from Mr. Womersley and Mr. Harper, and they communicated the same thing to Mr. Tillett.

41,909. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you aware of any money having been offered by your side?—Not a farthing in any way.

R. Cann.

REUBEN CANN sworn and examined.

41,910. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a publican?—Yes.

41,911. You keep a public-house in Cowgate Street?—Yes.

41,912. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

41,913. Had you promised your vote?—Yes.

41,914. To whom had you promised it?—Some one came round and canvassed me.

41,915. Who was it?—I think it was Mr. Gedge. I told him I did not know whether I should vote at all, but if I did I would vote that side. My people had voted that side for the last 30 years; my father did.

41,916. What time did you vote?—Between 3 and 4.

41,917. Who did you go up to the poll with?—My father and two or three friends of my father's, tenants of my father's.

41,918. Your house was pretty full on that day, was it not?—Not fuller than usual.

41,919. Do you know that a great number of voters got together there drinking?—There were more non-voters than voters.

41,920. But there were a good many voters?—There were several voters came in and out during the day.

41,921. Who was treating them?—They treated themselves, and they made anyone treat them that came in.

41,922. Do you not know that they were being treated by the Stracey party?—I cannot say whether they were being treated by the Stracey party or any others; they got treated by anybody that came in, whether they were Stracey's or Tillett's party.

41,923. Was there anybody who came in and ordered beer for voters?—No.

41,924. Are you sure of that?—There was now and then half a gallon of beer ordered, but I cannot say who ordered it.

41,925. Your customers do not usually order half a gallon of beer?—Yes, that is a regular thing; they will come in and order half a gallon of beer, and serve it to all the people round.

41,926. Do you know the names of any of those people who ordered half gallons of beer?—I cannot give you their names; they came in and ordered and paid for it, and that was all I wanted. I did not take notice who ordered it or who paid for it. When they came in they did not stop above five minutes perhaps: they got half a gallon of beer and then went away.

41,927. Do you know who those people were?—I believe that Mr. Maris for one bought a shilling's worth or so.

41,928. Can you mention anyone else?—I think that Mr. Cubitt came in and stood a couple of shillings or so.

41,929. Which Cubitt was that?—David Cubitt.

41,930. Do you remember the name of anyone else who came?—No.

41,931. Was any score paid to you afterwards?—No.

41,932. Was everything paid for in cash that day?—Yes.

41,933. Did you see either of the Worledges that day?—No, I do not know only one Worledge, and him I only know by just seeing him. I know more of him since the election, by his having been pointed out to me.

41,934. Did you see Hardiment that day?—No.

41,935. Or Dr. Allen ?—No.

41,936. Did you see any of the committee or ward men about your place ?—I do not know who is a committee man or anything of that kind.

41,937. Did you receive anything yourself ?—No.

41,938. Was any promise made to you ?—No ; my people always voted that way, and I voted that way myself. My family always voted that way.

WILLIAM BENJAMIN EARL sworn and examined.

W. B. Earl.

41,939. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A shopkeeper.

41,940. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

41,941. At what time in the day ?—At about a quarter to 11.

41,942. For whom did you vote ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

41,943. Did you get anything for it ?—No.

41,944. Or the promise of anything ?—Not anything at all.

41,945. After you had voted did you go to any public-houses ?—Yes.

41,946. Where ?—I went to one or two.

41,947. Did you go to the "Golden Dog ?"—Yes.

41,948. Were there any voters collected there ?—Not that I am aware of.

41,949. Were there men collected there ?—There were several.

41,950. Men that you knew ?—No, I do not know anyone that was there.

41,951. Do you not know whether they were voters or not ?—I never asked. I did not go for that purpose ; I went for a glass of stout.

41,952. Do you not know that the men who were there were voters ?—No.

41,953. Did you say anything to them about voting ?—No.

41,954. Or did anyone in your presence ?—Not that I am aware of. I did not hear it.

41,955. Was any beer paid for by anybody ?—No, not to my knowledge.

41,956. Did you stand any beer ?—No, not one drop.

41,957. Did you give any of them any money ?—No.

41,958. Did you receive any money that day from anybody to use ?—Not one farthing.

41,959. Do you know young Wiseman ?—I do.

41,960. Did he give you anything ?—No.

41,961. Did he tell you about his own proceedings that day ?—No.

41,962. Has he never told you since ?—No, never.

41,963. Have you had any conversation with him since with regard to what he did on the day of the election ?—No.

41,964. How long did you stay at the "Golden Dog ?"—Well, perhaps a quarter of an hour.

41,965. What did you do afterwards ?—After I left the "Golden Dog" I walked about the city.

41,966. Did you go to other public-houses ?—Yes.

41,967. On that day did you hear anywhere any talk about voters who were waiting for money ?—No.

41,968. Did you see any money given ?—No.

41,969. Or did you hear of it ?—No.

41,970. Or of any treating ?—No, I did not.

41,971. You heard nothing of either bribery or treating ?—No, I did not.

41,972. And you saw nothing ?—I did not.

CHARLES CARR sworn and examined.

C. Carr.

41,973. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What time in the day did you vote at the last election ?—At about half-past 1.

41,974. For whom did you vote ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

41,975. Had you promised your vote beforehand ?—No, I did not.

41,976. Had you not been asked for it ?—Not by any canvassers.

41,977. But had you been asked for it by anybody else ?—I had been asked by a friend of mine to vote for Tillett and Russell.

41,978. Who was your friend ?—There were two or three friends. I keep a public-house.

41,979. And did you promise them your vote ?—Certainly not.

41,980. What answer did you give them ?—Just at that time the permissive bill was on, and I had a mind to know which of the party was in favour of it, and I found that Sir Henry Stracey replied to certain questions that were put to him according to my ideas.

41,981. The permissive bill was the turning point of your politics ?—Not altogether, it was simply because I thought that Sir Henry Stracey was a man who the Norwich people ought to support, living in the neighbourhood and that sort of thing.

41,982. Did anybody give or promise to give you anything if you would vote ?—No.

41,983. Or for voting after you had voted ?—No, certainly not.

41,984. Had you a number of voters in your house that day ?—There was several people in the house.

41,985. Did you not hear the men saying they wanted a day's pay ?—No.

41,986. None of them ?—No.

41,987. Did you hear anything said about the election among the men who were there ?—I heard them speaking about the election.

41,988. But were they talking about wanting some money for their votes ?—No, I did not hear anything of that sort.

41,989. Was any beer given away to people in your house that day by a certain class of people who came in ?—To the best of my knowledge there was not. I took the money as I drew the beer behind the bar, glasses of beer and so on.

41,990. Was it the better class of tradesmen who came into your house and ordered beer for the lower class of voters ?—No.

41,991. Had you any score run up on that day ?—To the best of my knowledge none.

WILLIAM CRITTEN sworn and examined.

W. Critten.

41,992. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade ?—A musician.

41,993. Did you give your services to either party ?—No.

41,994. Were you not in either of the bands ?—No, they would not allow me.

41,995. Were you employed to parade the streets ?—No.

41,996. You had nothing to do with Inspector Clarke ?—No.

41,997. For whom did you vote ?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

41,998. Did you promise your vote ?—No.

41,999. Had you not been asked for it ?—No, I was out in the country at the time.

42,000. What were you doing all the day of the poll ?—I was tired and went home ; I had been out all night.

42,001. You are a night musician are you ?—Yes.

42,002. Did you get anything for your vote ?—No.

42,003. Were you promised anything ?—No.

42,004. Did you not render your services in any way to your party ?—No.

42,005. Have you had anything since ?—No.

THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

W. L. Smith.

14 Oct. 1869.

WILLIAM LEVRICK SMITH recalled and further examined.

42,006. (Mr. Biron.) You told us yesterday that you were at the "Trumpet" in company with your father, and that you heard something said in the market room about money?—I was not in the market room when that was mentioned.

42,007. But you did hear something said about money for voting?—Two or three parties told me of it.

42,008. Who were they?—I am sure I cannot tell you the names.

42,009. Can you not tell me the name of one of them?—No, I cannot recollect their names.

42,010. Where did you hear this?—In the bar.

42,011. Were you in the market room at all that day?—Yes, several times.

42,012. Did you see Hunt there?—I did.

42,013. And your father?—Yes, I saw my father.

42,014. Did you see Hunt and your father go to the bagatelle room?—Yes, I did.

42,015. Did you go there with them?—I did.

42,016. At what time in the day was that?—I am sure I cannot tell; it was after dinner I know.

42,017. Did you see Hunt do anything there?—I saw him give money to two or three parties.

42,018. To whom?—I am sure I cannot tell you their names exactly. I could recollect one or two of them I daresay.

42,019. Was Callow one?—Yes.

42,020. Was Henry Taylor one?—That I cannot say.

42,021. I think you could tell us the names of these men if you were to try?—No; I do not think I could.

42,022. Do you know Taylor?—Yes, I know him.

42,023. Did you see him in the house that day?—Yes.

42,024. Did you see him up in the little room that day?—I cannot say whether he was there or not.

42,025. Did you see Smith the painter there, George Smith?—Yes, I saw him there.

42,026. Did you see him get any money?—No, I did not.

42,027. Did you yourself offer him any money?—Very likely I might.

42,028. 7*s.* 6*d.* was it not?—I believe I did, and he refused to take it.

42,029. Do you remember who was the first man paid in the little room?—Callow, I believe.

42,030. Who paid him?—Hunt.

42,031. Was your father there at the time?—I believe he was.

42,032. What did he do when Hunt was paying the men?—I did not see him do anything; he was too far gone in drink to do anything.

42,033. Do you mean that he did not know what was going on?—No, he did not; he was too far in drink for that.

42,034. What time in the day was it that he got so very drunk?—The forepart of the day, I should say.

42,035. When Callow was paid, I believe you went up to the poll with him, to see that he voted?—I did.

42,036. Do you know who Callow rents his house from?—My father.

42,037. Do you know whether any of the other men who were there were tenants of your father's?—Yes, one or two.

42,038. Who were they?—There was Cracknell there. Hunt is a tenant of my father's.

42,039. And Cracknell is a tenant of your father's also?—Yes.

42,040. Did Cracknell take down the names of the men who were paid?—I did not see him do it.

42,041. Do you know whether any of the other men were tenants of your father's?—None, I believe.

42,042. Only Callow, Cracknell, and Hunt?—I think that is all.

42,043. Were you there by the little room later in the day?—I was there at all times in the day.

42,044. Did you see Michael Gilbert, Robert Parker, and Bygrave there?—I cannot say I know the gentlemen.

42,045. Did anybody, while you were there, try to go into the room?—I never saw them.

42,046. Did you slam the door in the face of anybody who tried to get in there?—I did not to the best of my knowledge.

42,047. I would rather you did not use that phrase.—I do not think I did.

42,048. Did you see anybody else do it?—No, I did not.

42,049. Do you know where Hunt got this money from?—I do not know. He got it out of his pocket.

42,050. Did you see Fuller hand him any money?—No, I did not.

42,051. Or Fuller's brother?—No.

42,052. Do you know George Gowing?—Perfectly well.

42,053. Was he at the "Trumpet" that day?—I never saw him.

42,054. You did not see him there during any part of the day?—No, I did not.

42,055. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you see young Mr. Stracey come there shortly before they went up into the bagatelle room?—No; I saw the old gentleman there. I saw Sir Henry Stracey there.

42,056. Have you heard from Hardiment or your father of anything having been said to them that day either by Mr. Stracey, or by anybody else, respecting the payment of money?—No; they never tell me their business.

42,057. Do you know Fisher, the grocer?—Yes, by sight.

42,058. Did you see him come into the "Trumpet" that afternoon?—I did not.

42,059. Did you see him there?—I did not.

42,060. Or Parker, the grocer?—No, I did not.

42,061. Do you know Mr. Garnham?—No, I do not.

42,062. You know the two Browes?—Yes.

42,063. Did you offer them any money that day?—No.

42,064. Did you hear them offered any money?—No.

42,065. They were in the "Trumpet" that day, were they not?—I did not see them.

42,066. Did you see them outside the "Trumpet?"—Yes, I did.

42,067. Did you see anybody speaking to them outside the "Trumpet?"—I saw a lot of people speaking together, but I did not take notice of that.

42,068. Did you see Hunt speaking to them at all?—No, I did not.

J. Nichols.

JOHN NICHOLS sworn and examined.

42,069. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A carpenter.

42,070. What were you doing on the day of the election?—I was at work at Crown Point.

42,071. Were you at work all day?—Yes, from breakfast time.

42,072. In whose employment were you?—In Mr. Horace Lacey's.

42,073. Did you vote?—I did not vote.

42,074. Did you take any part in the election?—No.

42,075. Was any money offered to you?—Yes; I was offered my day's work, my day's pay.

42,076. By whom was that offer made to you?—By Mr. Lacey.

42,077. Where were you when that offer was made to you?—At Crown Point.

42,078. At work?—Yes.

42,079. Were there other men in his employment at the same time?—Yes.

42,080. And was the same offer made to them?—Yes.

42,081. How many of them were there?—I cannot say how many.

42,082. Were there a dozen?—Possibly; there was a great quantity at work there.

42,083. More than a dozen?—A great quantity, more than a dozen.

42,084. Did he make that offer to them all?—I cannot say how many he made the offer to.

42,085. Did any of them accept his offer?—Yes.

42,086. Tell me the names of any men who did take their day's wages?—There are two of them I can speak to.

42,087. What are their names?—Charles Cousins and George Willimot.

42,088. Can you tell me the names of any others?—I believe there was more, but I cannot speak to any more; those I have named are the only ones I am positive of.

42,089. Do you know which of the men who were employed with you were voters?—I know several of them were voters.

42,090. Can you furnish us with their names?—I cannot say what other men voted.

42,091. What was the name of the gentleman who made the offer of a day's wages?—Mr. Horace Lacey.

42,092. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Where does he carry on business?—In Bridge Street.

42,093. Now be good enough to sit down, and try if you can remember the names of all the workmen in that employment, and also where they live; and if you can remember them, put them down on paper and hand them to us.—I will do so.

JAMES FITT sworn and examined. J. Fitt.

42,094. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

42,095. For whom?—For Tillett and Russell.

42,096. At what time?—About 3 o'clock; I cannot say exactly the time.

42,097. Why did you not vote before?—Because my business laid out, and I was out.

42,098. Out of the city?—No, I was out about the city, carting furniture or anything I am employed to do.

42,099. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

42,100. Or the promise of anything?—No.

42,101. Did you take up any men to vote?—Yes, my brother went with me.

42,102. Did you not take up any men in your cart to vote?—No, they did not vote that went along with me. I went and voted in Magdalen Street, at Mr. Sutton's, and they went to St. Mary's. I do not know whether they voted or not.

42,103. Who were they?—I do not know; they were all strangers.

42,104. Did they vote for Tillett and Russell?—I do not know.

42,105. Did you say anything to them about their votes?—No.

42,106. Did you give them anything?—No; I had nothing to give them.

42,107. Or treat them?—No.

ROBERT SPRUCE sworn and examined. R. Spruce.

42,108. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

42,109. What is your business?—A brush maker.

42,110. Why did you not vote earlier in the day?—I did not know that it made any difference when I voted.

42,111. What were you doing all the morning?—I was at home in my own house.

42,112. At your own work?—No.

42,113. What were you doing?—I was doing a little job that I had to do at home at my own house.

42,114. Did anybody come and fetch you up to the poll?—No.

42,115. Had anybody asked you for your vote before the day of the polling?—There was a party came round in the evening.

42,116. How long was that before the poll?—That was at 8 o'clock the night before.

42,117. On which side were they?—Sir Henry Stracey's.

42,118. Did you promise them your vote?—Yes, I promised them.

42,119. Who were the people who came round?—I do not know who the canvassers were.

42,120. Did they offer you anything?—No.

42,121. Or give you anything?—No.

42,122. Did they promise you anything?—No.

42,123. Did anybody offer or promise you anything?—No.

GEORGE CUSHING sworn and examined. G. Cushing.

42,124. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you?—A labourer.

42,125. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Mr. Tillett.

42,126. At what time in the day?—Between 1 and 2 o'clock in the day, or about half past 1.

42,127. It was later.—Was it after 2 o'clock?

42,128. After 3. How came you to vote only for Mr. Tillett?—I do not know. It was my wish to vote for Mr. Tillett.

42,129. How was it that you did not give a vote for Sir William Russell as well as for Mr. Tillett?—I do not know, I am sure. I had a mind to give it all to Mr. Tillett.

42,130. Do you know a person of the name of Sexton?—No.

42,131. Do you not recollect having a conversation that day with a person named Sexton, about voting?—No.

42,132. Had you any talk that day with anyone about voting?—I talked to a good many people that day.

42,133. Were you not asked to go and plump for Tillett?—I do not recollect anything about that at all.

42,134. Were you not bribed at this election?—No.

42,135. You have taken money before?—Well, I cannot recollect; it is so long back. I am sure I never got anything at this.

42,136. You got a trifle at Waters' election, did you not?—I cannot recollect.

42,137. Do you not recollect whether you got any at the last election?—I am pretty sure I got none at the last election.

42,138. You were looking after it?—I did not see any.

42,139. You would have been glad to get it?—It would have been acceptable if I had had it.

42,140. What was your price?—A shilling would have been acceptable.

42,141. How much would have induced you to give your vote?—I had not only one paper.

42,142. On former occasions you voted for the purple?—I have voted for both parties. It all depends on where my bread lies.

42,143. And whether you can get money for voting?—No, I do not stand for that.

42,144. But you were looking out for it this time?—If I did it was of no use, for I did not get any. I might look.

THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

14 Oct. 1869.

W. Weeds.

William Weeds sworn and examined.

42,145. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A carpenter.

42,146. A master carpenter?—Yes.

42,147. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

42,148. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

42,149. At what time?—At 10 minutes to 2.

42,150. Did you get anything for voting?—Not anything.

42,151. Or the promise of anything?—No.

42,152. Did you give anybody anything to vote?—No.

42,153. Or promise anything?—No.

42,154. Did you give any beer or anything of that sort?—No.

W. Groom.

William Groom sworn an examined.

42,155. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What are you?—A pointsman at the railway.

42,156. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

42,157. What was your time that day?—I was off duty that day.

42,158. Then you were entirely free, were you?—Yes. I work one day and one night, so I was off that day.

42,159. How was it that you did not go up to vote till near 4 o'clock in the day?—Because I had got to go to bed.

42,160. What time did you go to bed that morning?—I went to bed at half after 1.

42,161. Then you got up before 4 in the day?—I was up all night, and did not go to bed till half after 1.

42,162. What time did you get up?—About 5.

42,163. Five in the morning?—No, 5 at night. I had to go on duty at 6.

42,164. You voted?—Yes, I voted about 11 o'clock.

42,165. Did anybody promise you anything to vote?—No.

42,166. Or give you anything?—No.

42,167. You voted of your own will?—Yes.

42,168. Did anybody take you up to the poll?—A man named Sotherton took me.

42,169. What did he say to you?—He asked me if I was going to vote. I said, "Yes." He said, "Come along with me, and I will go with you."

42,170. Did he take you up in a conveyance?—He and I walked together. We had not far to go.

42,171. Did he give you a drop of beer?—No, not a drop.

42,172. What is he?—He keeps a public-house.

42,173. Did you go to his public-house after you had voted?—No; I live close against him. He asked me whether I would go, and I said Yes.

42,174. Did he tell you you should have a drop if you would drop in?—No, I voted and went into the market, and he went home.

J. Nichols.

John Nichols recalled and further examined.

42,175. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you belong to the Tillett party?—No.

42,176. Have you any opinion about that?—No, I have no opinion about it whatever.

42,177. Which way should you have voted if you had gone to the poll?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

42,178. Had you ever voted before?—No.

42,179. How did it happen that you did not vote?—I had not a vote.

42,180. When did you first mention this matter about a day's wages?—I mentioned it several times.

42,181. Did you mention it at or about the time it occurred?—Yes.

B. Herring.

Benjamin Herring sworn and examined.

42,182. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A grocer.

42,183. Did you take any part in canvassing at this election?—Yes, I did.

42,184. For Mr. Tillett?—For Mr. Tillett.

42,185. Did you make any promise to any voter in order to obtain his vote?—No, not any.

42,186. Did you treat any voter?—I will first explain that if you will allow me, and that is my reason for wishing to appear here. It is from seeing what I saw in the newspapers yesterday, in the case of Mark Dunthorn. I with another friend went to a house on the Stamp Cross for a glass of ale, and when I was there, one of these, which there are two or three in family, two was there I think that day, came to me and acknowledged me as knowing him ever since he was very small, and so I did the whole three, and he said, "Which shall stand a glass of ale, you or I?" and I said I did not care I would. I thought he being a shoemaker I could better afford it than he could, and I said I would, and I threw down 1½*d.*, and he had 1½*d.* of rum, and on my doing that another brother came and said, "You had better serve us both alike," and I said I had no objection, and I gave another 1½*d.*, and he had 1½*d.* of rum, and after that he congratulated me on the success of Mr. Tillett and said he was very pleased that such a man had come forward, and as that was his first time of coming forward he said he should support him, and he asked me to go into a room where the two wives and their brothers were sitting, I said, "I do not particularly want to go in," but he persuaded me and I went just to the door, and they in the same manner congratulated me on the success of Mr. Tillett, and I said, "Go and vote and have done with it," and that is all I said, and I came out and left them.

42,187. You mean to say that this treating which you practised was done on the ground of old acquaintance?—Yes.

42,188. And that it had no reference to obtaining votes for Mr. Tillett?—Not the slightest; in fact he would have treated me if I would have accepted it.

C. Cropley.

Charles Cropley sworn and examined.

42,189. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A boot and shoe maker.

42,190. On your own account?—Yes.

42,191. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

42,192. For whom?—For Mr. Stracey.

42,193. At what time in the day?—About half-past 3 as nigh as I can say.

42,194. How came you to be so late?—I had work that I was obliged to finish before I could go.

42,195. Had you promised to vote for him?—No.

42,196. Had you ever voted at former elections?—Yes.

42,197. Which way?—Tory.

42,198. Did you get anything for voting this time?—No.

42,199. Or the promise of anything?—No.

HENRY DUNN sworn and examined.

42,200. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

42,201. At what time in the day?—I voted the first thing after dinner, between 2 and 3.

42,202. What is your business?—A shopkeeper.

42,203. What shop do you keep?—Meat and vegetables.

42,204. Did you promise your vote before the election day?—No, I did not promise anyone my vote.

42,205. Did anybody ask you for it?—There were some gentlemen came and asked for it, but I did not promise it to no one not till the day I voted.

42,206. Had you made up your mind which way you would vote?—Yes; I had made up my mind to give it to Sir Henry Stracey.

42,207. When you were asked for your vote why did you not say which way you were going to vote?—I did not promise to vote for anyone.

42,208. Why?—I did not know who the gentlemen were.

42,209. But why did you hesitate to promise your vote if you had made up your mind already which way you intended to vote?—I made up my mind to give my vote to Sir Henry Stracey.

42,210. Then why, having made up your mind to give your vote to Sir Henry Stracey, did you not say so, instead of shuffling about it?—There was no shuffling at all.

42,211. Were you looking out for what you could get?—No.

42,212. Then why did you not give a plain answer, that you were going to vote for Sir Henry Stracey; you were not ashamed of it, were you?—No.

42,213. Give me a reason for that, if you can; were you not looking out for what might turn up on the election day?—No, I did not think anything about that.

42,214. Had you ever voted before?—No.

42,215. Had you ever had a vote before?—No.

42,216. You say you had made up your mind that you would vote for Sir Henry Stracey; why did you not say how you were going to vote when you were asked for your vote?—That was not the day the gentlemen came round.

42,217. They asked you which way you were going to vote?—I do not know who the gentlemen were. I said I should vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

42,218. Did you say so?—Yes.

42,219. You told me just now that you did not promise your vote to anybody?—I said Sir Henry Stracey.

42,220. Then in fact you did promise your vote; is that what I am to understand?—I said I should vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

42,221. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

42,222. Were you promised anything for your vote?—No.

JEREMIAH CAMPLING sworn and examined.

42,223. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A licensed victualler.

42,224. Do you know a man by the name of William Lovick?—Living in St. Miles'?

42,225. He lives in Bridge Street; do you know him?—No, I do not think I do.

42,226. Do you not?—No.

42,227. Do you know any man of that name?—I know a man named Lovett in Borough Close.

42,228. Do you recollect his making a statement about his having received some money?—No.

42,229. Did he say that his wife had?—There is a man Lovett lives in St. Paul's, who told me he did not vote till a certain time in the day; he did not know whether his wife had got anything.

42,230. Did he not say that she had something?—No. I understood him to say that Mr. Gedge called to see his wife. I do not think there was anything else passed between us.

42,231. Did he not tell you that his wife had money?—No, he did not, though I thought she had.

42,232. (Mr. Biron.) Did he say that she told him to go and vote and it was all right?—No, I do not think that occurred.

42,233. Or anything of that sort?—No, I do not think that anything of that sort occurred.

42,234. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you get anything for for voting?—No, I voted at five minutes past 8.

42,235. For Tillett and Russell?—Yes.

42,236. Did you get anything for it?—No, I should think not.

JAMES DUNN sworn and examined.

42,237. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a rag merchant now, a marine store dealer.

42,238. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

42,239. At what time in the day?—At about half-past 8 in the morning.

42,240. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

42,241. Did you get anything for it?—Certainly not.

42,242. Or were you promised anything?—Certainly not.

42,243. What did you do after you had voted?—I done all I could to forward Sir Henry Stracey's return.

42,244. You went about getting up voters?—Yes, I asked friends.

42,245. Did you succeed in getting up any?—Yes.

42,246. How many?—It might be about 20.

42,247. What time in the day did you get them up?—At various times.

42,248. How did you persuade them to go and vote?—In an honest way.

42,249. How?—I asked them simply to go and vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

42,250. And they went at once?—Some of them did.

42,251. What did you give to those who were not so ready?—I never gave one farthing, neither direct nor indirect.

42,252. That will cover the money at all events; now, how about beer?—Not one drop; not one glass of beer.

42,253. Were you about with young Wiseman on that day?—No.

42,254. Or with Green, of London Street?—No.

FREDERICK TUCK sworn and examined.

42,255. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

42,256. What are you?—A master shoemaker.

42,257. How many men do you employ?—Three.

42,258. On your own account?—Yes.

42,259. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

42,260. Or the promise of anything?—No.

42,261. Did you take up any voters?—No.

42,262. Did your men vote for Sir Henry Stracey;—I do not know.

42,263. You did not ask them to vote?—No.

THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

R. Southgate.

14 Oct. 1869.

ROBERT SOUTHGATE sworn and examined.

42,264. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A baker.

42,265. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

42,266. At what time?—At 3 o'clock.

42,267. Had you promised your vote?—Yes.

42,268. Had you voted before?—No.

42,269. Did you receive anything for voting?—No.

42,270. Was any offer made to you?—No.

42,271. Did any money pass through your hands in order that you might get men to vote?—No.

42,272. Did you treat any one to vote?—No.

42,273. Did you induce your men to vote?—No. I went in the morning between 8 and 9, but there were so many people about that I could not stay longer, and I had not an oppnrtunity of going again till the afternoon.

R. Sutton.

ROBERT SUTTON sworn and examined.

42,274. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a picture frame manufacturer.

42,275. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

42,276. For whom?—Russell and Tillett.

42,277. At what time in the day?—Between 9 and 10 o'clock.

42,278. Did you get anything for it?—No.

42,279. Or the promise of anything?—No.

J. Loveday.

JAMES LOVEDAY sworn and examined.

42,280. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What time in the day did you vote?—At half past 3.

42,281. What is your business?—I am a master shoemaker. I keep a shoemaker's shop.

42,282. Why did you not vote before?—Because I was busy at home in my own business.

42,283. Had you promised your vote?—No.

42,284. What made you so late in voting?—Well, I was so busy at home about my own business or else I should have voted before.

42,285. The polling place was close to you, why did you not go up and vote before; can you assign any reason for it?—No; only my business.

42,286. Did anybody come to you to ask for your vote?—No.

42,287. Did you go up entirely of your own free will?—Yes.

42,288. Did anybody promise you anything?—No.

42,289. Or give you anything?—No; I had nothing given me, nothing at all.

M. Tyrrell.

MARK TYRRELL sworn and examined.

42,290. (Mr. Mansfield.) For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

42,291. What are you by trade?—A carpenter.

42,292. Were you asked by anybody to vote?—Young Mr. Stracey came to me in the evening before the election and asked me for my vote, but I did not promise I would vote for him.

42,293. Did you say you would not vote against him?—I said I did not know hardly the way I should vote.

42,294. How was that?—I had not made up my mind. We do not always make up our minds in a minute or two.

42,295. When did you make up your mind?—During the day.

42,296. Did any one come to you during the day?—No one.

42,297. Was no offer made to you during the day to induce you to change your mind?—No; none at all.

42,298. Did anybody treat you that day?—No one at all.

42,299. Have you received anything since?—No.

42,300. Did you ever vote before?—No.

42,301. I suppose you expected to get something?—No, I did not; neither did I wish for anything.

42,302. Did you look out for it?—No, not the slightest.

T. Snelling.

THOMAS SNELLING sworn and examined.

42,303. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

42,304. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

42,305. At what time in the day?—About 3.

42,306. Did you get anything for it?—No.

42,307. Or the promise of anything?—No.

42,308. Why did you not vote before 3?—Because I had a job to do and could not get it done before.

42,309. What was the job?—Shoemaking.

42,310. All the shoemakers were busy that day?—Yes.

S. Fuller.

STEPHEN FULLER sworn and examined.

42,311. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Does your brother keep the "Trumpet"?—No.

42,312. Are you any relation of his?—No, none at all.

42,313. What are you by business?—A hatter and clothier.

42,314. Do you keep a shop?—No.

42,315. How are you a hatter and clothier if you do not keep a shop?—I make them up for sale.

42,316. Does a hatter make up clothes?—No, I buy the clothes up.

42,317. Were you so busy that you could not go and vote before the after part of the day?—I promised my vote for Sir Henry Stracey, and I thought it did not signify when I went to vote.

42,318. When had you promised your vote?—Two or three days before the election.

42,319. To whom?—Young Mr. Stracey and the Reverend Mr. Cooke.

42,320. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

42,321. Or the promise of anything?—No.

D. Maggs.

DANIEL MAGGS sworn and examined.

42,322. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A harness-maker.

42,323. What were you doing on the day of the election?—I went to work.

42,324. Where were you working?—At home.

42,325. Do you always work at home?—No.

42,326. At what time did you vote?—About a quarter before 3.

42,327. What did you get for it?—Nothing at all.

42,328. I suppose you were looking about after it?—No, I was not.

42,329. Did you not get any beer?—No.

42,330. Did they not give you something afterwards for it?—No.

42,331. You know there was a little money going?—I never heard of any and never see nothing.

42,332. I suppose you would have been glad enough to get it?—I did not care about any.

42,333. You did not want any ?—No.

42,334. You did not ask for any ?—No, not a farthing.

42,335. Is this your first time of voting ?—Yes.

42,336. Had you promised your vote to anyone ?—No.

42,337. Had you not told anybody how you were going to vote ?—No.

42,338. You kept you own council completely ?—Yes.

42,339. And then at 3 o'clock you made up your mind ?—A quarter before 3.

42,340. Never having mentioned the subject to anyone ?—No.

42,341. Your statement is wholly unworthy of credit.—I have told you the truth.

HENRY NORTON sworn and examined.

H. Norton.

42,342. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ?—A shopkeeper.

42,343. What sort of a shop do you keep ?—Goods in a general way; greengroceries and almost everything.

42,344. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

42,345. For whom ?—Russell and Stracey.

42,346. What time in the day ?—About 12.

42,347. Did you get anything for it ?—No.

42,348. Or the promise of anything ?—No, certainly not.

42,349. I suppose you wanted to keep Mr. Tillett out if possible; was that it ?—I did not pay any regard to that, I voted for whom I pleased.

42,350. How came you to vote for a Tory and a Liberal ?—That was my hobby.

JOSEPH ROBERT SMITH sworn and examined.

J. R. Smith.

42,351. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You voted for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election ?—Yes.

42,352. What did you get for it ?—Nothing.

42,353. Townsend gave you some money ?—No, nothing. I never had a farthing.

42,354. At what time did you vote ?—Between 3 and 4.

44,355. What were you doing all day ?—I was walking about; walking about in the market place. I had nothing to do at the time.

42,356. What public-houses did you go to ?—I never went to no public-house.

42,357. Were you not in any public-house that day ?—Yes, I went into one against the hall in the market-place. I went in there with my brother in the middle of the day and had a glass of beer along with him.

42,358. Do you know Townsend ?—Yes, I know him.

42,359. Did he not give you some money ?—No, I never see him on the election day at all.

42,360. Did Townsend send you some money ?—No.

42,361. Did he give your wife some money ?—No.

42,362. Did anybody give you any money ?—No.

42,363. Or promise you any ?—No.

42,364. Why did you not vote before a quarter to 4 o'clock ?—I was walking about the market-place and did not go home.

42,365. It did not require you to go home to go up to vote ?—It is close to my house, the polling place.

42,366. That is the very reason why you should go and vote ?—I did not think about it.

42,367. Were you not looking out for what you could get ?—No.

42,368. Would you not have taken anything if it had been offered to you ?—I had nothing to do, and I would not say that I would not have done so.

42,369. Were you not looking out for what you could get ?—I did not look out and did not ask it of anyone.

42,370. I will not put it that you were looking after it, but you were ready to take it if it had been offered to you ?—Yes, but they would not give me anything where I was. I was walking about the market-place.

42,370*a*. Did anybody offer you anything ?—No.

42,371. Not some beer ?—No.

42,372. Did you get no beer at all that day ?—No.

42,373. Not in the after part of the day ?—No.

42,374. What made you vote for Sir Henry Stracey ?—Well, I do not know particularly what made me.

42,375. I thought you did not. I think I can tell you.—I do not think you can.

42,376. What was it ?—Nothing. I was not offered anything, nor promised anything, and had not a drop of anything.

42,377. Have you had anything since ?—I have had nothing since.

42,378. Nor your wife ?—Nothing.

42,379. You cannot give me any reason whatever why you voted for Sir Henry Stracey ?—I went home of course at that time, and then I went and voted.

42,380. Did you hear anything from your wife which induced you to vote for Sir Henry Stracey ?—No, nothing at all.

42,381. How did going home induce you to vote for Sir Henry Stracey ?—I went home at that time to have a piece of dinner, and the polling place being close to my house I went to the poll and voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

42,382. Did anybody give you dinner ?—No.

42,383. How did you make up your mind at a quarter to 4 to vote for Sir Henry Stracey ?—It was the first vote I ever had, and thinks I, I may as well go and vote for somebody, and I went and voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

42,384. At last you thought as you could get nothing from either side you would go and vote for Sir Henry Stracey ?—Yes.

42,385. Had you been employed about the city by Ambrose Andrews ?—No.

42,366. Had you been paid for going about with the band or watching at the hall ?—No.

42,387. Not some day before the election ?—No.

42,388. Did your brother or any relation come to you ?—No, I never saw anyone.

42,389. It is a very unsatisfactory account of yourself.—I have told you the truth.

WILLIAM WOODHOUSE sworn and examined.

W. Woodhouse.

42,390. (Mr. Mansfield.) What is your occupation ?—I am a little master shoemaker.

42,391. For whom did you vote ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

42,392. How many men do you employ ?—Two and one lad.

42,393. What did you get for your vote ?—Nothing.

42,394. Did you ever vote before ?—No.

42,395. Did you promise your vote ?—No, I only promised one, and that was to Sir Henry Stracey's son. I promised to vote for his father.

42,396. Have you had anything for it since ?—No, nothing.

42,397. When was that promise made ?—On the Friday before the election.

THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

14 Oct. 1869.

W. Fisher.

WILLIAM FISHER sworn and examined.

42,398. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a builder.

42,399. In business on your own account?—No, I am superintending a job now in the Prince of Wales' Road.

42,400. As foreman?—Yes.

42,401. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

42,402. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

42,403. At what time in the day?—About a quarter to 4.

42,404. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

42,405. Or the promise of anything?—No, I got no promise. I was not even asked for my vote.

W. Rose.

WILLIAM ROSE sworn and examined.

42,406. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) At what time in the day did you vote?—Half past 2.

42,407. What is your business?—A baker.

42,408. Are you a master or journeyman baker?—Journeyman.

42,409. For whom did you vote?—Stracey.

42,410. Had you been canvassed?—No.

42,411. Had no one before that asked you for your vote?—No.

42,412. Why did you not vote a little earlier?—I was at work till past 1, and then I got my dinner before I went to vote.

42,413. Did anybody give you anything for that vote?—No.

42,414. Was no offer made to you of anything?—No.

42,415. You voted quite independently?—Yes.

42,416. Which way did your master vote?—I do not think he voted at all.

C. Skipper.

CHARLES SKIPPER recalled and further examined.

42,417. (Mr. Biron.) What was your reason for voting?—I was busy after a job. I could not leave it until I had finished it.

42,418. You told me you did not vote until close upon 4?—A quarter to 4.

42,419. How did you come to vote then?—I got away from my job as soon as I got it done.

42,420. Had you promised your vote?—No, no one had been to me.

42,421. Why did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—I thought I would vote that way, there is no reason in it.

42,422. There is no reason at all in it?—No.

42,423. Do you mean to say you had nothing on your mind at all of any description to influence you?—I made up my mind to vote at once for Sir Henry Stracey.

42,424. When did you make up your mind?—When I was busy after my work.

42,425. Did anybody promise you anything for it?—No.

42,426. No job?—No.

42,427. No money?—No.

42,428. I hope what you tell me is the truth.—It is the truth.

42,429. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Where had you been looking out for a job?—Nowhere; I had a job already.

42,430. (Mr. Biron.) You have a most extraordinary manner with you. Why would you not answer my questions in the morning?—I did not understand you.

E. Willer.

ELIJAH WILLER sworn and examined.

42,431. (Mr. Mansfield.) What is your occupation?—A shoemaker.

42,432. Are you a workman or master?—A workman.

42,433. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

42,434. At what time in the day?—Between 2 and 3.

42,435. Did you get anything for it?—No.

42,436. Did you not try?—No.

42,437. Did you not hear that there was some money about?—Yes, of course I did, but I had none, and did not think anything about it.

42,438. I suppose you were looking out for it?—No, I was at work up to 2 o'clock, before I left home.

42,439. You were anxious to get your day's work paid for voting?—No, I did not want it. I could earn my day's work very decently.

42,440. Did you not want to be paid for your day's work?—No.

42,441. Was anything paid you for your vote?—No; I never see anything of the kind.

42,442. Were you treated?—No; at my own expense I was.

42,443. Did they not give you any Stracey beer?—No, not a glass.

42,444. Did you get any Tillett beer?—No, I did not go nigh him.

42,445. Was there anything going which you could get?—No.

42,446. Have you had nothing paid you since?—No, not a drink from that party except what I have paid for myself.

42,447. Have you been employed by the Stracey party at all?—No.

GEORGE HIPPERSON sworn and examined.

42,448. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A brushmaker.

42,449. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

42,450. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

42,451. At what time in the day?—About half-past 2 or 3.

42,452. Why did you not vote earlier?—Because my business would not allow me. I could not get away. I was at work all day, and that was the time I came from dinner.

42,453. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

42,454. Or the promise of anything?—No.

42,455. No beer and no money?—No.

W. Dunthorn.

WILLIAM DUNTHORN sworn and examined.

42,456. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

42,457. What are you by business?—A silk weaver.

42,458. What were you doing on the morning of the election?—I was at work; not in the silk weaving line, because I had none to do, but I was at work for Mr. Rudd, the builder.

42,459. What were you doing for the builder?—Putting on the roof of a house, the tiles.

42,460. How came you to vote so late as you did in the day?—I could not afford to lose my time.

42,461. Were you looking out to be paid for your time if you went to vote?—No.

42,462. Did they pay you for your time to go and vote at last?—No, I never received a fraction or farthing, or yet the worth of a grain of sand for my vote. I voted independent, like a man.

42,463. Did you not get anything?—No.

42,464. Did you get the promise of anything?—No.

42,465. No beer?—No.

42,466. Not a drop?—No.

JAMES BARBER sworn and examined.

J. Barber.

42,467. (Mr. Mansfield.) What is your occupation?—I am a master shoemaker.

42,468. How many men do you employ?—Sometimes I give out work for men. I work for myself, and give out work occasionally.

42,469. You have no regular workmen?—I do not work for any shop.

42,470. Have you no regular workmen?—No, but I employ some sometimes.

42,471. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

42,472. Had you promised your vote?—I promised my vote, and I went and voted.

42,473. Whom did you promise?—Mr. Stracey.

42,474. Did he come to your place and ask you for your vote?—He came and asked me for my vote.

42,475. How long before the election day?—The night before.

42,476. Did you get any money paid you?—No.

42,477. Have you ever had any money paid you at election times?—I never had a farthing, and never took nothing.

42,478. Have you had anything since?—No, I never had anything at all.

WILLIAM SADD, junior, sworn and examined.

W. Sadd, jun.

42,479. (Mr. Biron.) Are you a solicitor in practice in this city?—Yes, I am.

42,480. Were you one of the ward managers on the part of Mr. Tillett at the last election?—Yes, I was.

42,481. Which was your ward?—The seventh.

42,482. What were your duties?—My duties were simply to call gentlemen together; to organise and canvass, and to receive their reports, and to send them up to the central committee room.

42,483. And on the polling day, I presume, to check the voters as the returns came in, and find out who had voted and who had not?—We had tickets that came from the different polling places, and they were marked off in a room adjoining the committee room.

42,484. On the polling day, what was your duty?—Simply to see that the return was correctly made to the central committee room.

42,485. That would be after these returns were checked they were brought to you?—They were checked in the adjoining room and brought back; the numbers would be cast to ascertain what the numbers were, and then the numbers would be sent up to the central committee room.

42,486. Were the returns of the canvass brought in to you from time to time before the polling day?—Yes, they were.

42,487. Having reference to the returns on the polling day, did anything arise to create a suspicion in your mind as to unfair practices?—It was bare suspicion. I had no actual knowledge, judging from the result of the canvass and my own personal observations, that there were persons who would give no decided promise or say what they would do; and on reference to an old poll book, I found that there were Conservatives on previous occasions who had voted Liberal, but I had no knowledge of corrupt practices beyond that.

42,488. Within your own knowledge is there anything which enables you now to form an opinion whether corrupt practices were resorted to at the last election?—Simply from what I have seen in the reports.

42,489. That is as to what took place before Mr. Baron Martin?—Yes.

42,490. Can you give us any information which will assist us at all in our inquiry?—No, I cannot. My duties were simply confined to the committee room, as I have said before, to organise and canvass, and to make returns to the central committee room.

HORACE BLYTH sworn and examined.

H. Blyth.

42,491. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

42,492. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

42,493. What is your duty at the railway?—To see after cattle.

42,494. I do not suppose there was a great deal to do on the Tuesday?—No, our busiest time is the latter part of the week, Fridays and Saturdays.

42,495. The election day was neither of those; how was it you came to vote so late?—I did not know that it made any difference what time I voted. I thought I could vote at what time I liked.

42,496. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

42,497. Or the promise of anything?—No.

42,498. Did anybody give you any beer, or anything of that kind?—No.

42,499. Did anybody offer you any beer?—No.

EDWARD WILDE sworn and examined.

E. Wilde.

42,500. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by occupation?—A garret master in the shoemaking way.

42,501. Do you employ any men?—Not at the present time; it is rather a slack time for my business.

42,502. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

42,503. Did you promise your vote?—No.

42,504. Were you never asked for it?—No.

42,505. Did no one come to your place with a card?—No.

42,506. Did you ever vote before?—No.

42,507. Did you ever tell anybody how you were going to vote?—No.

42,508. When did you make up your mind to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—I was cutting out some work and went and voted for Sir Henry Stracey, and came back again to my work, and worked till 11 o'clock at night.

42,509. You never said anything to anybody about it?—No.

42,510. You have never mentioned it either before or after?—No.

42,511. Your story is wholly untrue.—I have told you the truth.

42,512. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did your wife get anything?—No.

42,513. (Mr. Mansfield.) Have you had anything since?—No.

THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

W. Webster.

14 Oct. 1869.

WILLIAM WEBSTER sworn and examined.

42,514. (Mr. Biron.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

42,515. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

42,516. At what time in the day?—Between 3 and 4; I cannot say to a few minutes.

42,517. Did you get anything for it?—No.

42,518. Why did you not vote before then?—I was at work.

42,519. What are you?—I work at a coachmaker's shop.

42,520. Could you not have got away for 5 minutes to vote?—I daresay I could, if I thought proper.

42,521. Why did you not think it proper to go up before 3?—I worked up as late as I could, because I wanted to earn as much as I could.

42,522. You are paid by time?—Yes.

42,523. Did you get anything for voting?—No, nothing.

42,524. Or the promise of anything?—No, not anything at all.

J. Middleton, jun.

JOHN MIDDLETON, junior, sworn and examined.

42,525. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What is your business?—A publican.

42,526. I suppose there was no voter in your house the day of the election?—I was not in my house on the day of the election.

42,527. Where were you?—I was in Botolph Street, Magdalen Street.

42,528. What were you doing?—At my own trade, silk weaving; working at my own employment. I am a silk weaver by trade.

42,529. Why did you go up to poll so late in the day?—On account of being at the magistrates' hall, after my transfer. I did not leave there till 20 minutes past 3 in the afternoon.

42,530. There was plenty of time to go and vote in the morning?—Yes, that is true, but I had to go and see my friends to get a character to obtain this house.

42,531. Did anybody ask you to go up at last?—No, no one.

42,532. You had been canvassed?—Yes.

42,533. By whom had you been canvassed?—By one of the young Mr. Straceys, and by the minister of the parish of St. Saviour's.

42,534. When you were asked, what did you say?—I told them I should not promise.

42,535. Why did you say that?—Because my mind was not clearly made up who I should support upon the occasion.

42,536. It seems an extraordinary thing in Norwich that a man cannot make up his mind which way to vote.—My mind was pretty well made up.

42,537. Have you got any mind at all to make up?—Very little, I do not trouble at all about politics.

42,538. Was your mind to get anything that might turn up?—No, that was not my mind; I never had anything in my life, and I have been a voter in this city 20 years.

42,539. Did you get anything at the last election?—No, not a penny, and was not offered anything.

42,540. Nobody in Norwich seems to be able to make up his mind.—I should have voted in the early part of the day if my business had not called me away. I could not leave the magistrates' hall till the business was concluded.

42,541. Did you get the promise of anything?—No, nobody offered me anything.

42,542. I suppose if anybody had offered you anything you would have taken it?—No one offered me anything.

J. Deane.

JAMES DEANE sworn and examined.

42,543. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by occupation?—I am a shoe manufacturer by occupation. I live upon my property.

42,544. You were manager of the sixth ward?—Yes, on behalf of Mr. Tillett I was.

42,545. Did you receive any remuneration for your services in that capacity?—No, I was a volunteer.

42,546. You received nothing afterwards?—No.

42,547. You voted, I presume, for Mr. Tillett and Sir William Russell?—Yes.

42,548. During the time you were manager in that ward did you take any part in canvassing?—I canvassed two only in the ward; it was my business as manager rather to receive the returns from those who were canvassers.

42,549. From those reports that came before you did you learn that there were persons hanging about for bribes?—There were some few reports of that kind, but not many.

42,550. When you heard of such cases, did you give any instructions to keep them for your side?—No.

42,551. Did you sanction any expenditure of money in order to retain those votes?—No.

42,552. Are you cognisant of any money having been spent by your side for the purpose of corrupt practices?—No.

42,553. Are you aware of any claims being afterwards sent in for any services rendered of that kind?—None whatever.

42,554. Where were you during the day of the poll?—At the committee room of the "Greyhound."

42,555. Exclusively?—Yes.

42,556. You did not go out at all?—Except when I went out to poll. I beg your pardon, I went once to one of the polling places; there was some little complaint about not having a sufficient quantity of check cards; a man went to take two or three bundles in a hurry, and I went to correct the matter and bring some back again.

42,557. Did you go to any public-houses to look up voters?—No.

42,558. Upon no account?—No.

42,559. During the day, did you receive any reports to the effect that the other side were bribing voters?—In the after part of the day there were some reports of that kind.

42,560. Did you receive no specific information, either of persons or places?—Of persons the information was rather more specific, but nothing sufficiently direct to enable one to say that such and such a one was bought, and such and such a one was the purchaser.

42,561. Was any name mentioned to you of a person or persons engaged in bribing voters on the other side?—As being suspected, there was.

42,562. Who were they?—Mr. George Gowing was mentioned as one.

42,563. The farmer?—Yes; he was named to me as being round one of the polling places in particular in the latter part of the day, entering into conversation with different individuals, and after a short conversation he would put his hand in a sort of dealing style, as though the bargain was struck, and at once lead them away to the polling place.

42,564. Did you hear the names of anyone else?—Mr. Henry Morgan was mentioned in one case only, and that was the evidence given by a female, Miss Murrell, who stated that she saw Mr. Henry Morgan talking with a voter, and after a little conversation he put his hand in his pocket and took it out again, and touched the voter's hand, and led him to the poll.

42,565. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) That was a matter that was investigated before Mr. Baron Martin?—I do not remember that it came before Baron Martin.

42,566. Were those all the names mentioned to you?

—Yes, those were all the names of those mentioned to me who were supposed to have been engaged in the act of bribery. The name of Mr. John Youngman was mentioned as being active in making a noise at one of the polling places, near the Church; he was seemingly there for the purpose of prompting the drunken voters, lest they should forget for whom they were to record their votes; he would keep shouting "Plump for Stracey. Now my lads, plump for Stracey."

42,567. When you were at the poll, did you see much drunkenness?—I was not at the poll more than three minutes, that was at the third ward, because I voted as a freeholder.

42,568. I suppose that was a tolerably quiet ward?—One would suppose there would be as many corrupt voters there as anywhere else. I drove down quickly there and back again. So far as I could see from the window the parties being driven to and fro in Ber Street I came to the conclusion that the great bulk of them were drunk. I cannot tell that of course, but there was a rollicking and spreeishness about them which indicated they were rather drunken than sober.

42,569. You think there was more beer drunk than usual?—Yes, certainly.

42,570. Do you know of any money having been spent on either side at this election for corrupt practices?—No, I know nothing positive beyond what I have read in the evidence.

42,571. Neither money, promises, nor favour went through you for the purpose of securing votes?—Most decidedly not. I would like to explain that matter of Mr. Youngman. Youngman gave evidence on Monday to the effect of my having promised valuable consideration to obtain the vote of one John Fulcher, and that was I believe five pigs, as I read it in the paper.

42,572. (Mr. Biron.) We treated it as rubbish.—I rather gathered that. The explanation is, so far as my name is concerned, that it is an unmitigated falsehood; but when I went to him to canvass him for his vote I was overseer of the parish and collector of rates, and I had had great difficulty in getting the rates from him. I pleaded with him on behalf of Mr. Tillett, as being the working man's champion, who was pledged to get the rates reduced; and my friend Mr. Restieaux said, "Ah, my boy, make up your mind "to vote for Tillett and get your rates reduced; here "is lots of fodder, and you will soon have some pigs, "and you will go on swimmingly." I checked him, and said, "Mr. Restieaux, we are not here to talk about pigs, but to talk about votes," and I left the man.

William Hague sworn and examined. W. Hague.

42,573. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—An iron and brass moulder.

42,574. Where do you work?—At Barnard and Bishop's.

42,575. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

42,576. For whom?—I voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

42,577. At what time in the day?—About half-past 11 or a quarter to 12.

42,578. Did you get anything for it?—No.

42,579. Or the promise of anything?—No, nor yet did I get anything; not a farthing.

42,580. Was not anything said to you about getting a day's work, or having your day's work paid for?—No; the shop was closed, so none of us could earn anything.

42,581. Did none of you get paid, although the shop was closed?—I am not aware of anyone getting paid; I did not.

42,582. Did you hear of anybody else getting paid for their day's work?—No.

42,583. Did you get any beer?—No, only what I bought.

42,584. No beer and no money?—No.

42,585. Nothing of any kind or sort either directly or indirectly?—No, not any.

Thomas Russen sworn and examined. T. Russen.

42,586. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) In whose employment are you?—Messrs. Barnard and Bishop's.

42,587. Were you in the employment of Messrs. Barnard and Bishop at the time of the election?—Yes.

42,588. All of your men voted for Stracey, did you not?—I had no vote at all.

42,589. All the men that had votes voted for Stracey, did they not?—For what I know.

42,590. You heard it talked about?—It was said that they voted for Mr. Stracey.

42,591. Were you one of the men that went up to the nomination?—Yes.

42,592. Who was your captain?—Well, I do not know.

42,593. Was it some one you did not know?—I cannot say now, I can assure you.

42,594. Did you go up in a body?—Yes, we all went together.

42,595. How many of you?—I cannot say how many of us there were went away.

42,596. How many men are there in the entire works?—I do not know.

42,597. A hundred?—I do not know how many there are.

42,598. How many men had Barnard and Bishop in their workshops last November?—I should say there were more than 100 in all their shops.

42,599. How many of you went up to the nomination?—I cannot say how many there was.

42,600. Were there so many that you cannot tell me?—I cannot tell you how many there was.

42,601. There was a good number, I suppose?—Yes, a goodish many.

42,602. Eighty or 90?—I cannot say how many there was.

42,603. You can tell me about. I am told there are 1,000 men in Barnard and Bishop's employment?—I cannot say how many.

42,604. Were there 300 or 400?—No.

42,605. 200 or 300?—No.

42,606. One hundred?—No.

42,607. Eighty?—No.

42,608. Sixty?—There might be 60.

42,609. Who headed them?—I cannot say who did head them.

42,610. Do you know a man of the name of Frank Amiss?—Yes.

42,611. Was he there?—Yes.

42,612. Did he not go at the head of you?—I cannot say that Mr. Amiss was at the head of us.

42,613. You can tell us?—No, I cannot.

42,614. Did he tell you where to go to?—I heard it from the other men.

42,615. I shall be obliged to refresh your memory in a very unpleasant way if you do not mind. I am determined to get the truth. You need not be afraid of Messrs. Barnard and Bishop; they cannot put you in gaol, and we can.—I do not think anything about that.

42,616. Who told you where to go?—The men told me where to go to.

42,617. You say you all went up in a body?—Some of us did; we did not all go in a body.

42,618. Where did you meet?—In the market.

42,619. At the "Eagle" tavern?—No, in the market.

42,620. Did you go to the "Eagle" tavern before you went to the hall?—No.

42,621. Did you go afterwards?—No.

42,622. Did some of the men go to the "Eagle"?—I cannot say. After I came out of the market I came straight away, and did not go into a public-house at all.

THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

T. Russen.

42,623. What did you get for going up ?—2*s.* 3*d.*

42,624. 2*s.* and some beer or 2*s.* 6*d.* ?—2*s.* 3*d.* is all I got.

42,625. You got your money for your beer separate from the 2*s.*?—I got 2*s.* 3*d.*, and that included the whole of it.

42,626. Did you not get 2*s.* 6*d.* ?—No, 2*s.* 3*d.*

42,627. Some of the men only got 2*s.*, did they not ?—No ; I cannot say that.

42,628. Did not some of the men have beer, and did not those men that had beer only get 2*s.* ?—I believe that is right.

42,629. Who was it paid you the 2*s.* 3*d.* ?—Mr. Amiss.

42,630. What position does he occupy in your master's employment ?—Smith.

42,631. Is he the head smith ?—I cannot say.

42,632. Does he superintend the men, or does he work like the other men ?—He does not superintend any men to the best of my knowledge.

42,633. You did not vote ?—I had not a vote.

42,634. Have you not heard that the men who had votes were paid something on the election day ?—No.

42,635. Have you not heard that ?—No.

42,636. Do you know that they had some beer ?—No.

42,637. Not on the election day ?—No.

42,638. Were Barnard and Bishop's works open on the election day ?—Yes.

42,639. Were you at work all the election day ?—No, I was not.

42,640. How long did you work upon the election day ?—I do not think we went to work at all.

42,641. You got your 2*s.* 3*d.* ?—Not upon the election day.

42,642. Were there any men at work on the election day ?—I do not think the men were at work on the election day to the best of my knowledge.

F. Amiss.

FRANK AMISS sworn and examined.

42,643. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade ?—A whitesmith.

42,644. In whose employment ? — Barnard and Bishop's.

42,645. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes.

42,646. For whom ?—Sir Henry Stracey.

42,647. What did you get for it ?—Nothing at all.

42,648. Were you engaged to retain the services of the workmen for the nomination day ?—No ; I never was engaged in my life.

42,649. What did you do at the election ?—I asked some of the men whether they would go up that day.

42,650. What did you offer them ?—I did not offer them anything at the time.

42,651. What did you give them afterwards ?—I reluctantly gave them, I think, 3*s.*, or something like that.

42,652. To how many of them did you give 3*s.* ?—I suppose about 20.

42,653. Were there any more you gave money to ?—No.

42,654. What did you pay them that for ?—I had no intention of giving them anything, but they worried me pretty well to death afterwards, and I was obliged to give it to them.

42,655. What did you give them that money for ?—It was, of course, for the nomination. I asked them to go, and they said other parties were paying ; that Mr. Colman's men were paid, and they demanded something off of me, and I refused to give it, but they worried me so about it that I felt bound to give it.

42,656. Did they go to the nomination ?—I do not know. I did not go myself.

42,657. Who were they ?—I cannot remember the names.

42,658. They were all in the same works ?—Yes.

42,659. Could you make out a list of them ?—Many of them have left the works, but I could tell you many of them.

42,660. You must tell us all of them.—I cannot remember.

42,661. You sent in a bill to someone else ?—No.

42,662. Did you send in no charge ?—No.

42,663. Did you never apply for payment of that ?—No.

42,664. You know you are telling a great falsehood.

42,665. (Mr. Biron.) How much are your weekly earnings ?

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) You will compel me to send you to gaol till Saturday morning if you do not tell the truth. We shall have Messrs. Barnard and Bishop on their oaths. It is far better for you to tell the simple truth, otherwise you will be indicted for perjury. If they come up and prove to the contrary, you will be sent off immediately to gaol.—My standing wages are 22*s.*, but I sometimes earn 30*s.*

42,666. Do you mean to tell me you paid 3*l.* in money to these men ? Now where did you get it from ?—I had it in my own money, but I got paid back again.

42,667. Who paid it back to you ?—I applied to Messrs. Barnard and Bishop for it.

42,668. And they paid you ?—Yes.

42,669. Now then, go into the dock, and sit there while we send for Messrs. Barnard and Bishop, your employers.

42,670. (Mr. Biron.) Was it more than 3*l.* ?—I do not know what the sum was. I never kept any account.

J. Gibbons.

JOHN GIBBONS sworn and examined.

42,671. (Mr. Biron.) What are you ? — An engineer.

42,672. For whom do you work ?—Messrs. Barnard and Bishop.

42,673. Were you working there at the time of this last election ?—Yes.

42,674. For whom did you vote ? — Sir Henry Stracey.

42,675. Did you get anything for it ?—No.

42,676. Or the promise of anything ?—No.

42,677. Did you come up on the nomination day to the hall ?—No, certainly not.

42,678. Were you asked to go to the hall on the nomination day ?—No.

42,679. Were you at work on the nomination day ?—Yes.

42,680. On the day of the poll were you at work ?—No.

42,681. The place was shut up was it not ?—Yes.

42,682. Did you draw your salary or wages on the day of the poll ?—No, certainly not.

42,683. Was anybody paid ?—I was not paid.

42,684. Was any beer allowed ?—I never see any, not a drop.

42,685. Not on the nomination day ?—No, if there was any allowed I was not there, so I never see it.

42,686. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You know your employers are coming here directly, and they will be on their oaths ?—That does not make any difference to me.

42,687. (Mr. Biron.) After the election was there any supper, or any entertainment given to the men ?—Yes.

42,688. When was that ?—On the Saturday night ; I could not tell you the date exactly.

42,689. The invitations had gone out before the election ?—No, I never knew anything about it till five or six weeks after the election. I believe it was quite five or six weeks afterwards.

42,690. Had Barnard and Bishop, or either of them canvassed the men in their employ ?—No.

42,691. Did they speak to you about voting?—Never in my life.

42,692. Did Sir Henry Stracey come down to the works?—Yes.

42,693. Was he introduced by the proprietors?—I do not know who he was introduced by, he came down and spoke to us, and addressed us as a lot of working men.

42,694. Messrs. Barnard and Bishop were there, were they not?—I do not think Mr. Barnard was there.

42,695. Mr. Bishop was?—Yes, I think he was, but I could not swear to it.

42,696. Did not the men at your works pretty nearly all vote for Stracey?—No, I know a good many where I am at work voted the other way. I know several of them who voted the other way, and not for Stracey.

42,697. A good many more voted for Stracey than against him?—Yes, I believe there were more voted for Stracey than there were voted the other way.

42,698. Did those who voted the other way go to the supper?—I could not say.

42,699. It was a Tory supper to celebrate the return of Stracey?—I believe it was a sort of Tory supper.

William Webb sworn and examined.

W. Webb.

42,700. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You were very active in canvassing, were you not, at the last election?—I did on the Thursday night canvass. Two or three gentlemen called on me, and I went round with them some part of the parish.

42,701. Did you only canvass on Thursday night?—Yes, that is all.

42,702. Did you not canvass on any other day?—No.

42,703. Where did you canvass?—I canvassed St. Paul's, Magdalen Street. I took a list round.

42,704. Do you know the Cubitts?—Yes, I know the two Cubitts, the brewers.

42,705. Were they with you?—No.

42,706. Neither of them?—No, neither.

42,707. Not at any time when you were canvassing?—No.

42,708. Did you go round with young Mr. Stracey at all?—No, he was to have come on Thursday afternoon, but he was otherwise engaged and could not come, and one or two gentlemen called upon me and I went with them.

42,709. Who were those gentlemen?—Mr. Breese of Messrs. Morgan the brewers was one, and Mr. Andrews the whitesmith was another.

42,710. On the election day did you go to the voters to get them up?—Those that promised me on the Thursday went and voted.

42,711. You went to those that promised you on the Thursday?—A few.

42,712 Did you find on the Thursday night that there were some people who would not promise?—There is always that.

42,713. Did you go to them as well?—I merely picked out those that I knew were Conservatives. I did not go to some of the others. I passed their doors, and they were angry because I passed them.

42,714. Did you go to those that would not promise?—Yes, a few of them, because I did not know the new electors. I did not know how they were going to vote.

42,715. Did you find that they still hung fire?—Some of them said they did not know which way they were going to vote.

42,716. They said they should not lose their day's pay?—I never heard one of them say a word about a day's pay.

42,717. Did they refer to money?—No, they never asked for a farthing, all they said was that they had not made up their minds.

42,718. You understood what they meant by that?—There is a lot of that always. We laugh that off.

42,719. You understood it?—Yes, one would understand it.

42,720. Understanding it, when you got a man of that kind you knew how to treat him?—I left him.

42,721. Did you offer or give him anything?—No, I left him.

42,722. Did you not give any man anything to vote?—No, not a farthing.

42,723. Any beer?—No, nor yet any beer.

42,724. Are you sure of that?—Yes, I am positive. I am on my oath.

42,725. Was Cubitt with you when you were getting them up?—No, neither of them.

42,726. Did you go with them on the election day?—I saw them in the forenoon.

42,727. Did you go with them for the purpose of getting up voters?—No, I did not.

42,728. They were active in your part?—Yes, I went down to the committee after I had got up my friends and took out several of the names from the register of people that had removed, and sent a conveyance after them.

42,729. Are you sure you did not tell anybody that if they voted for Stracey it should be all right?—No, I did not; I dare not do it.

42,730. You are a pretty staunch man?—I like my party. I did what I could for Sir Henry Stracey.

42,731. I suppose a few shillings does not stand in your way?—I never had any, and never asked for any.

42,732. But you have it of your own?—I have nothing to spare for electioneering matters.

42,733. Did you not spend a few shillings of your own?—I think I spent about 1*s.* that day. I never used but only one public-house in the day.

42,733*a*. Are you sure you did not spend more?—Yes, I am sure.

William Gaze sworn and examined.

W. Gaze.

42,734. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by occupation?—A tailor.

42,735. Do you work on your own account?—Yes.

42,736. Did you promise your vote to anyone at the last election?—No.

42,737. Were you not solicited?—No.

42,738. By no one?—No.

42,739. Have you ever voted before?—No.

42,740. For whom did you vote this time?—Sir Henry Stracey.

42,741. At what hour in the day?—Two o'clock.

42,742. Did you get anything for it?—No.

42,743. Were you promised anything?—No.

42,744. Has anything been paid you since?—No.

42,745. Did you get up any people to vote?—No.

42,746. Did you take no part at all in the election beyond voting yourself?—No, not the least.

42,747. Did not your political friends treat you to some beer on the day of the poll?—No.

42,748. You had no chance of that?—I did not wish it. I did not see any. Whether there was any chance or no I did not require it.

42,749. You knew there was a good deal about?—No.

42,750. How soon did you hear of it afterwards?—I think it was the next day; I do not think I heard anything that day.

42,751. Did you go back to your work after voting?—No, I went to a friend's, where I frequently go, and did not know no more than I did before I came out.

42,752. It was only afterwards you learned what a chance there had been for entertainment?—That is all.

42,753. Are you a Tory by opinion?—Yes.

42,754. Have you always been?—Well, in my heart certainly.

THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

14 Oct. 1869.

R. Nichols.

RICHARD NICHOLS sworn and examined.

42,755. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A shopkeeper.

42,756. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

42,757. What shop do you keep?—A pork shop, and I sell vegetables and the like.

42,758. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

42,759. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

42,760. At what time in the day?—I believe it was between 11 and 12.

42,761. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

42,762. Or the promise of anything?—No.

42,763. Did you take any part in getting up voters afterwards?—No.

R. Spark.

ROBERT SPARK sworn and examined.

42,764. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What is your business?—A master lastmaker.

42,765. Where is your workshop?—In the "Cat and Fiddle" yard.

42,766. How many men have you in your employment?—I have only one hand now.

42,767. When had you none?—It is a long time since I had none.

42,768. Is he a grown up hand?—No, he is quite a young hand.

42,769. Very young, is he not?—Yes, he is young.

42,770. What happens to be his name?—His name is Rose.

42,771. For whom do you work?—I work for all manner of ones.

42,772. Do you not work for any particular firm?—Yes, I work for a good many firms in the city, two or three firms.

42,773. You voted at the last election?—Yes.

42,774. Very late, did you not?—About 3 o'clock.

42,775. I call that very late. Why did you not vote before 3 in the day?—I do not know that I had any particular reason, but I did not vote before 3. I was very unwell at the time.

42,776. Did you think you ought to be paid for your day's work?—No, I never thought any such thing.

42,777. Where were you all the morning?—I was out in the morning; I never went out till 9 in the morning.

42,778. Where did you go then?—I went to my mother-in-law's.

42,779. Did your mother-in-law persuade you to vote?—No.

42,780. Had you been asked for your vote before?—No, only by them that canvassed round.

42,781. What answer did you give to them that came round?—I never promised at all.

42,782. Why did you not?—I had no reason. I did not promise.

42,783. Why?—I do not know that I had any reason at all why I did not promise.

42,784. Have you any political principles at all?—Conservative principles.

42,785. If you are a Conservative, why did you not promise your vote?—I do not know. I did not promise anyone, and never do.

42,786. You would not promise in order that you might see what you could get?—No, I never sought no such a thing as that.

42,787. Did you not look out for what you could get?—No, I never looked out for anything.

42,788. Did anyone come and offer you anything?—No.

42,789. Did your wife get anything?—Not that I am aware.

42,790. She told you to go and vote for Stracey, did she not?—No; I think I went up of my own accord.

42,791. Perhaps you did not ask your wife whether she got anything?—No, I never asked such a thing as that.

42,792. Did she happen to tell you that she did?—No.

42,793. Did anybody give you anything?—No.

42,794. Did anybody promise you anything?—No, not a single farthing.

42,795. We have not had what public-houses you went to?—I went to no public at all.

42,796. None at all that day?—I only went in to Mr. Spink's for a three-halfpenny glass of gin just before dinner.

42,797. Did anybody offer you a glass of gin afterwards?—No, nobody; that is all I had all day.

42,798. Did you get anything promised you in the shape of drink?—No, not anything at all.

A. McFarling.

ARTHUR MCFARLING sworn and examined.

42,799. (Mr. Mansfield.) What is your occupation?—A publican.

42,800. In what part of the city?—Stamp Cross, Magdalen Street.

42,801. Did you take any busy part in the last election?—No.

42,802. Did you canvass at all?—No.

42,803. Were there voters in your house?—Yes, there were voters in my house.

42,804. They were drinking there the greater part of the day?—There were different ones in and out the whole day.

42,805. Who was treating them?—Two gentlemen came in, one by the name of Lemon, and one by the name of Herring.

42,806. What did they order?—One or two, or it might be three glasses of ale, and a small glass of rum.

42,807. Do you know where those gentlemen live?—I have since heard that one lives in St. Magdalen Street, and the other in St. James'.

42,808. Did they give you any directions further than ordering the beer?—No; they paid for what they ordered.

42,809. Did they run up any score?—No.

42,810. Did anyone on that day?—No.

42,811. Had you anything whatever to do with getting up voters on that day?—No.

42,812. Did you receive anything yourself?—No.

42,813. Have you received anything since?—No.

42,814. Has any money been paid to you since?—No.

42,815. Had you anything to do with hiring people for parading the streets before or at the time of the election?—No.

42,816. Do you know anything about it?—No.

42,817. Did you not know that people were hired for that purpose?—I heard it, but I had nothing whatever to do with it.

42,818. Who is your brewer?—Messrs. Seaman and Grimmer.

42,819. Did they canvass you?—No.

42,820. Did anybody canvass you?—Yes.

42,821. Who?—One of the young Mr. Straceys came to my house, and several more gentlemen.

42,822. Did you promise to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

42,823. And you kept your promise?—Yes.

J. Mackley.

JACOB MACKLEY sworn and examined.

42,824. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a carpenter.

42,825. Are you the son of the landlord of the "Woolpack"?—Yes.

42,826. Were you at the "Woolpack" on the day of the election?—Yes, some part of the day.

42,827. Did you see Hardiment there?—Yes.

42,828. Did you see him pay any men there?—Yes, two or three.

42,829. Can you give me the names of those who you saw him pay?—Yes, I think I can; one's name is Hudson, and another's name is Goodman.

42,830. What Hudson was it?—He lives in St. Miles' and keeps a public-house I think.

42,831. Very well; who else?—I cannot say; there is two I know. I can recollect two, Hudson and Goodman, and I think, Mr. Gazely. I think I saw him take a pound off Mr. Hardiment; that is all that I can recollect.

42,832. That was all you saw?—Yes, that is all I saw.

42,833. There were a good many men at the "Woolpack," were there not?—Some part of the day there was.

42,834. And a good many there while Hardiment was there?—Yes, there were several upstairs then.

42,835. Where were you when you saw these men that you have mentioned get the money?—I was upon the stairs just when he was paying them three, and I came downstairs again; but there was others in the club-room at the same time, but I never saw them.

42,836. Do you know where Hardiment got the money?—No, that I do not.

42,837. Did you hear him say anything about paying the men?—No.

42,838. You merely saw him doing it?—Yes.

42,839. Did you tell anybody after the election day that you had seen this?—No, and never was asked any question not until now.

42,840. You went away at time of the petition?—Yes.

42,841. How was that?—Why they sent me away, or else I should not have went.

42,842. Who sent you away?—Mr. Dawson.

42,843. Had you said anything to anybody about what you knew?—No.

42,844. How long did Hardiment stay that day?—That I cannot say, for there was a side door where he went in and out. I was chiefly downstairs in the bar waiting on the customers the chief of the day.

42,845. You told me there were men there on the landing while he was paying?—Yes, there were three when I went up.

42,846. Can you give me the names of any of those men?—Yes, those three that I have told you.

42,847. Nobody else?—No, that is all I saw.

42,848. Did you see Bradbury there?—No, not upstairs; I saw him downstairs.

42,849. Is there a door at the bottom of the stairs that leads up?—Yes.

42,850. Was he there at that time?—No, I saw him in the bar, sitting there, when Mr. Harper came in.

42,851. Was he present when you saw these men paid?—Who is that?

42,852. Bradbury?—I cannot say whether he was downstairs at the time; there was only the three I have mentioned up with Mr. Hardiment.

42,853. You are not a voter?—No.

42,854. You are not of age yet, are you?—No.

42,855. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Bradbury is a pretty frequent customer at your father's, is he not?—Yes, generally he comes into ours.

42,856. I suppose he is not above taking 7*s.* 6*d.* or a sovereign, is he?—No, I do not think he is above that if anybody will give it to him.

42,857. You and I quite agree about that; you have only got to give him the chance?—That is all.

42,858. (Mr. Mansfield.) He was there on the day of the election, was he not?—Oh yes, he was there.

42,859. Always outside the door, was he not?—No, I saw him in the bar once or twice.

42,860. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you recollect, after Hardiment had gone, whether your father gave some money to any men?—No, I never heard him say anything about it.

42,861. There were some men came in after Hardiment had gone, were there not?—No, I do not recollect anyone coming in. I was busy downstairs the chief of the time; there were several in and out all day, and I was very busy; of course I was doing all I could for my father's benefit.

42,862. Of course you were; but don't you recollect whether your father paid any men?—No, I have never heard him say so. I have heard him say he never spent a halfpenny all day for bribing.

42,863. Pretty well everybody there knew what was going on upstairs?—That I don't know; there were several downstairs and several upstairs.

42,864. But the men went up and down again?—Yes, they went up and down; they went through the other door, they did not come through the bar, all of them, some of them might.

42,865. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you see Vines there?—Yes.

42,866. What did he get?—That I do not know. I did not see him go upstairs at all. I saw him against the bar when Mr. Harper came. Mr. Harper is of the opposite party.

42,867. You would have been very much surprised, would you not, if Vines had not got something?—That I don't know, I am sure.

42,868. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) If he could get it?—If he could get it I daresay he would take it, the same as the rest of them.

JAMES THOMPSON sworn and examined.

J. Thompson.

42,869. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What are you?—A weaver.

42,870. You voted for Stracey at the last election?—Yes.

42,872. What were you doing at home?—At work.

42,873. Have you got a hand mill, or what?—A hand mill.

42,874. What time did you dine?—Between 1 and 2.

42,875. Then where did you go to after dinner?—I went for a little walk.

42,876. To see what would turn up?—I went for a little walk and fell in a house for a glass of ale.

42,877. Did nobody give you a glass of ale?—No, I paid for it out of my own pocket.

42,878. Did you not get any beer given you?—No.

42,879. Where did you get your glass?—At Mr. Mackley's house.

42,880. The "Woolpack"?—The "Woolpack;" in St. Mary's.

42,881. What did Hardiment give you?—He gave me a pound.

JAMES MATTHIAS WOOD sworn and examined.

J. M. Wood.

42,882. (Mr. Mansfield.) What is your occupation?—A boot cutter.

42,883. Do you work for yourself?—No.

42,884. Do you employ other men?—No.

42,885. You are a journeyman?—Yes.

42,886. For whom did you vote?—Stracey and Russell.

42,887. How came it that you divided your vote?—I don't know, sir, it was my opinion, that is all.

42,888. Then you were of both opinions?—Just so.

42,889. You are both a Conservative and a Liberal, are you?—Well, that is how I thought proper to vote, to the best of my judgment.

42,890. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

J. M. Wood.

14 Oct. 1869.

42,891. Had you been asked for your vote?—Yes.

42,892. By which side?—By Mr. Tillett's side, I believe.

42,893. Were you asked by anyone else?—No.

42,923. In your dinner hour?—Yes.

42,924. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—There was two gentlemen came to my house, and I was not at home, so I never see anyone myself; they spoke to my wife and asked her if she knew what I thought about voting, and she said she did not know, and I never saw anyone myself.

42,925. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

42,926. Or the promise of anything?—No, not anything.

42,927. Did you work that day until your dinner?—Yes.

42,928. What did you do after you had voted?—Went to work again.

J. Winter.

JAMES WINTER sworn and examined.

42,929. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A weaver.

42,930. For whom did you vote this time?—Stracey.

42,931. Were you solicited for your vote?—No.

42,932. Had you ever voted before?—No.

42,933. What were you doing all the day of the election?—Walking about.

42,934. About the market?—Yes, and different places.

42,935. I suppose you were looking out for what you could get?—Yes, that I was.

42,936. Did you not hear of anything going?—No.

42,937. Did you not stroll down towards the "Woolpack"?—No, I did not.

42,938. You might have heard of it there?—That I did not.

42,939. I suppose you wanted to get 10*s.* for your vote?—I would have taken 1*l.*, if they had offered it to me.

42,940. You had no opportunity?—No.

42,941. You would have taken it from either side?—Yes. I did not care which side it was.

42,942. (Mr. Biron.) You are quite sure you did not get it?—Yes, that I am.

J. Laws.

JOHN LAWS sworn and examined.

42,943. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I keep a public-house.

42,944. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

42,945. For whom?—Stracey.

42,946. What time in the day?—About half-past 10 in the morning, or it might not be so late as that, I do not know to half an hour.

42,947. Did you get anything for it?—No.

42,948. Or the promise of anything?—No.

42,949. What did you do afterwards?—Went home to my business.

42,950. Were there men in your house who had not voted?—I am sure I do not know; I did not interfere about who had voted and who had not.

42,951. There were a lot of men there, I suppose?—Men were out and in during the day.

42,952. Drinking?—Sometimes.

42,953. Did anybody pay for drink for them there?—Not that I know of, I never saw anything.

42,954. Did anyone come in to get them up to the poll?—No; I do not recollect seeing any of them.

42,955. Do you know a man of the name of Tuck?—Yes.

42,956. Did he come to your house that day?—No.

42,957. Are you sure?—Well, if he did, he might, but I did not see him.

J. Lawrence.

JAMES LAWRENCE sworn and examined.

42,958. (Mr. Mansfield.) What is your occupation?—I am a musician.

42,959. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Stracey.

42,960. Were you solicited for your vote—Yes.

42,961. By whom?—Young Mr. Stracey and Mr. Fletcher and Mr. Balls; there were three.

42,963. Was any money offered to you?—No.

42,964. Has any been given you since?—No.

42,965. Were you treated on the day of the election with beer, or anything?—No.

JAMES MURRELL sworn and examined.

THIRTY-FIRST DA

J. Murrell.

14 Oct. 186

42,966. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A glass and china merchant.

42,967. Do you keep a shop of your own?—Yes.

42,968. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

42,969. For whom?—Stracey.

42,970. What time in the day?—I think it was something about dinner time.

42,971. Did you get anything for it?—No.

42,972. Or the promise of anything?—No, I never was asked for my vote, not by any soul breathing.

42,973. I believe the municipal elections are more in your way?—I don't know for that.

42,974. Did you not get something there?—No.

42,975. Oh, come, you got something there, you know?—Well, I have got this to say, that I never got 1*s.* in my life.

42,976. Well, I am very glad to hear it. You did not give anybody else anything, I suppose?—Well, I never gave any money away, and I never got any.

THOMAS CROPLEY sworn and examined.

T. Cropley.

42,977. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What are you?—A shoemaker.

42,978. Where were you on the election day?—At home the chief of the day.

42,979. Up to what time?—Until I went and voted, between 3 and 4.

42,980. Who came to get you up to vote?—I went myself and voted.

42,981. Although you went yourself, who came to fetch you?—Nobody fetched me; I went myself.

42,982. Did anybody come to you and ask you to go?—No.

42,983. Did no one come and speak to you about voting?—No, there was not anyone spoke to me until I got against the polling place.

42,984. Who was it came to you at the polling place?—A man by the name of Robert Fryer.

42,985. What did he give you?—5s.

42,986. Where does he live?—He lives in St. George's, as far as I know.

42,987. Did you go up with any other man?—No.

42,988. You went up by yourself?—Yes.

42,989. Did you see him give anything to anybody else?—No.

42,990. Did your father get it too?—No, he was not able to go and vote.

42,991. Do you know anybody else who got it?—No.

JAMES CLETHEROE sworn and examined.

J. Cletheroe.

42,292. (Mr. Mansfield.) Are you a foreman in the works of Barnard and Bishop?—I am.

42,993. Did you take any part in the last election?—Not any.

42,994. Were you aware of the men of your establishment receiving money to go and parade the streets, and go to the nomination?—No.

42,995. You know nothing about that?—Nothing at all.

42,996. Have you heard nothing of it since?—No.

42,997. Was that man in the dock (pointing to Frank Amiss) in the service of your employers?—Yes.

42,998. Do you know of any part that he took in these matters?—No.

42,999. You never heard of that?—No.

43,000. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Have you got your pay-sheets here.—No.

43,001. You were summoned to produce your pay-sheets.—I am only foreman of the works, not pay clerk.

43,002. Who will produce the pay-sheets and those documents?—Mr. W. B. Hastings is the pay clerk.

43,003. You knew what we wanted; why did you not go and ask for them?—It is not my business to interfere with the books at all; my business is to conduct the works.

43,004. You were summoned to produce them, and not being able to produce them, why did you not go to the clerk who could?—I have nothing to do with the books whatever.

43,005. Who is the man who has charge of the books?—Mr. Hastings.

43,006. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you know anything of the men in your employment being canvassed with regard to this election?—No.

43,007. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote?—No.

43,008. Had you a vote?—Yes, and have had for years, though I never use it.

43,009. Were you at the works when Sir Henry Stracey was there?—I saw him come into the works.

43,010. (Mr. Mansfield.) What day was that?—I cannot tell you.

43,011. One or two days before the election?—Three or four days, I think, but I am not certain.

43,012. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Where does Mr. Barnard live?—At Bracon Ash.

43,013. Where is that?—About seven miles from Norwich.

43,014. Where does Mr. Bishop live?—Mr. Bishop lives just past Foundry Bridge, close by Thorpe station.

(Mr. Dowdeswell, addressing Amiss.) You may go now, but attend here to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Adjourned to to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

THIRTY-SECOND DAY.

Friday, 15th October 1869.

THIRTY-SECOND DAY.

WILLIAM HAYLETT sworn and examined.

W. Haylett.

15 Oct. 1869.

43,015. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What time did you vote?—A quarter before 4.

43,016. Did you get something for your day's pay?—I had not a chance to get anything.

43,017. Did you not know where to go for it?—There was no one never offered me anything.

43,018. Where were you all the morning?—In Ber Street.

43,019. Were you in any public-house?—No.

43,020. Did you not see anybody who had got money to give away?—No.

43,021, What induced you to vote?—Because I did vote about a quarter to 4.

43,022. Were you one of the men who went down to the "Trumpet"?—I never went that way at all. I never went out of Ber Street.

THIRTY-SECOND DAY.

W. Haylett.

15 Oct. 1869.

43,023. Did not you find anybody who would give you something for your day's pay?—I never went out of Ber Street at all.

43,024. Did not somebody come to your house for you?—They come to me when they brought me a Tory letter.

43,025. When did they bring you that?—Two or three days before the election; so they did the Blue letter.

43,026. Did you not promise to vote?—No; it's no use telling a story.

43,027. Could you not find anywhere where you could get a day's pay on the election day?—I never got a shilling.

43,028. Did you not get any beer?—Not a glass of beer.

43,029. You are sure of that?—I am quite sure of that; not for my vote.

43,030. Neither money or beer, or the promise of either?—What beer I had I paid for.

43,031. Did you get the promise of anything?—No. I would not take a farthing from anybody. If you offered me 50*l.* I would not take it.

43,032. You would not take 50*l.*?—No, I would not take no money.

43,033. Why did you not vote before a quarter to 4?—Business took up all my time. I was earning money somewhere else.

43,034. I can scarcely believe that. It is possible that you may not have found out where the money was to be had.—I was killing fowls all day. That is my trade.

43,035. You had not promised your vote?—No.

43,036. Then I don't think you would have refused 50*l.*—I would not take 50*l.*

43,037. I suppose it is all right that you did not get anything. It is very fortunate for you that nothing was offered you, and therefore that you were not corrupted.—I was not.

H. Smith.

HENRY SMITH recalled and further examined.

43,038. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A bricklayer.

43,039. For whom do you work?—Mr. Garson, shoe manufacturer now.

43,040. Did anybody ask you to vote?—I have only come because my name is wrong in the paper. Instead of George Smith you have put "Henry Smith," painter. Instead of that it is "George Smith," painter.

43,041. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) We have nothing to do with the newspaper?—I have got a copy of my freedom, to show that my name is Henry,

43,042. We have nothing to do with that; complain to the newspaper and get it put right. Are you the man who was at the "Trumpet"?—I was at the "Trumpet."

43,043. Young Smith offered you something?—I never saw the man in the house that day.

43,044. (Mr. Mansfield.) How long were you at the "Trumpet"?—I went a little before 12, and then went home to dinner.

43,045. There were two Smiths?—That was my brother. I merely came up to say my name was not right in the paper; it should be George Smith.

43,046. Your name is Henry?—Henry Smith.

43,047. What is the name of the other man?—George Smith.

43,048. George Smith is the painter, Henry Smith the bricklayer?—Yes,

43,049. I will take very great care that Henry Smith the bricklayer is not reported as a person who was bribed; that, I suppose, is what you wish?—Yes, I do. I come here to clear up. Henry Smith is the bricklayer, and George Smith is the painter.

43,050. George Smith the painter is the man that had the money offered to him?—Yes.

43,051. Where does your brother live?—In Coburg Street.

43,052. (Mr. Biron.) You were right enough to come here; but upon the official notes it is all right. We have got that George Smith the painter is the man that had the money. You mean that George Smith is the man who was bribed at the "Trumpet"?—Yes.

43,053. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You were at the "Trumpet;" you refused to take the money, and George Smith afterwards came, and the money was offered by young Smith, to him up in the room?—Yes; I don't know nothing about it.

43,054. You had left the "Trumpet" before that?—Yes.

43,055. (Mr. Biron.) George Smith lives in St. Peter's, Mancroft?—My name is Henry.

43,056. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) George Smith swore that he lived in St. Peter's, Mancroft?—So he do. He live in Coburg Street, that is Saint Peter's, Mancroft.

43,057. This is what is in the notes: "What are "you by business"? "A plumber." "Are you a "freeman"? "Yes." "How long have you been a "freeman"? "Thirty years." Were you examined on the same day as your brother?—No, the following day.

43,058. This is the examination of Henry Smith: "What are you"? "A bricklayer; I took my freedom up as a bricklayer."—I thought it right to come here to explain.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) It is all right in the notes.

C. Howes.

CHARLES HOWES sworn and examined.

43,059. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A cabinet-maker.

43,060. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

43,061. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

43,062. What time in the day?—Five minutes past 8.

43,063–4. Had you been canvassed for your vote?—No, I was not canvassed at all; I always had voted for the Conservatives; they have no occasion to canvass me.

43,365. You have voted on that side before?—Yes, I have always voted Conservative.

43,366. Did you get anything for your vote?—Not a penny.

43,367. Or the promise of anything?—Not a penny.

43,368–9. Did you give anybody anything for voting that day?—Not a penny.

F. Amiss.

FRANK AMISS recalled and further examined.

43,370. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You stated yesterday there were some men at Barnard and Bishop's who attended the nomination, and that you paid them?—Yes. I wish to make a statement of all I know about it. I must apologise to the Court for the manner in which I gave my evidence yesterday. I gave it with the foolish impression that I might screen the firm from it, or not get the firm into it; but of course I find I must tell the truth. I understood that there was a lot of Mr. Colman's men going up, and I thought if I could get a lot of our men to go up we could counteract along with them; so I asked Mr. Bishop whether any of them might go. Mr. Bishop was very reluctant to let them go. I told him it would not take long.

43,071. Which Mr. Bishop was that?—Mr. John Bishop.

43,072. Is there more than one Mr. Bishop?—Not in the firm.

43,073. In the works?—Yes.

43,074. Is Mr. Bishop here?—Yes.

(Mr. Dowdeswell to Mr. Bishop.) I must request that you leave the court at the present moment. We shall call you directly.

(The witness.) I simply asked the men to go, and a great many volunteers went. I had no intention of paying them. After they went they came to me about paying them. Of course I had no authority to do anything of the kind. They worried me and threatened to annihilate me almost if I did not pay them. I went and told Mr. Bishop what a dilemma I had got into. I told him that the men were paid on the other side. "Well, then," he said, "if the men were paid on the "other side we will pay them." I got up the numbers as near as I could that went. There was over 100 that went altogether. My impression was that I paid them 3*s.* each; but I find it is not. It is 2*s.* 3*d.* and a pint of beer I think it was.

43,075. Were they paid at the "Eagle" tavern?—I remember that they were collected at the "Eagle" tavern. I paid them 2*s.* 3*d.* and a pint of beer. That was the whole total sum. I told Mr. Bishop it was. I could not have given you an accurate account yesterday. I thank you for letting me stop till to-day. I find the total sum is 14*l.* 10*s.* that I had of Mr. Bishop. You will allow me to state one thing that I forgot. I want to exonerate Mr. Hastings. There was no transaction through him. It was entirely through me and Mr. Bishop.

43,076. It was kept entirely distinct from the ordinary account?—Yes, I thought I would make that statement to save time.

43,077. You are quite right. Did you see Mr. Bishop last night?—Yes; and he reprimanded me for not speaking the truth.

43,078. The Mr. Bishop who is here now?—Yes; and he severely reprimanded me for not stating what I am stating now.

43,079. You talked this matter over?—Yes.

43,080. (Mr. Mansfield.) What day were they paid?—On the Saturday after the election, about four days after the election.

43,081. What was said about payment when you engaged them to go?—I did not engage them at any amount at all. I had no impression then of paying them.

43,082. You did not expect them to go without?—I might say, "I have got no money, but if there is anything to be got you shall have it." I believe I said something of that sort.

43,083. You knew, and they knew, that about 2*s.* 6*d.* a day was the price for these services?—They knew it.

43,084. You knew it also?—I did not quite know. They told me afterwards when they came back that that was the price.

43,085. (Mr. Biron.) You had heard that men were being paid on the other side. That was your reason?—No. I heard they were going, and afterwards I heard that they were paid. That is what made me pay them.

43,086. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You knew that the nomination had always been a packed thing?—There were always a great many people I know.

43,087. Therefore if you arranged with men it is quite evident what they thought—that it was intended that they should be paid. That was their impression it is quite clear.—There is no doubt they had that impression on their mind.

43,088. And if it was a customary thing that had been done before, the people would expect to be paid, and of course you would take them on the usual terms unless you excepted that particularly, and said, "You shall not be paid." Unless you said something of that sort you would hire them just as if you went into the street and hired a man.—Well, that is how it was done.

43,089. (Mr. Mansfield.) They had the impression that they would be paid, and you took no steps to remove that impression?—No; I might have said that if there was anything to be had they should have it.

43,090. Therefore they acted under that impression?—There is not the slightest doubt about it.

43,091. Which of course you encouraged?—Just so.

43,092. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) I have no doubt you thought it would be allowed. It had always been allowed and you thought it would be allowed again. Can you supply the names?—I might think of a few of them. The names of the men that went to the nomination do you mean?

43,093. Yes.—I might.

43,094. (Mr. Mansfield.) You must have ticked them off on some list?—No, I have no list. I had a list but I did not keep it.

43,095. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Looking at the pay sheets you could find them out. You were supplied with the pay sheets?—No.

43,096. If you had the pay sheets in your hand you could tell in a moment who those men were?—No, I could not bring them all to remembrance.

43,097. You could tell some of them?—Some of them.

43,098. Well we must look at the pay sheets. They will be here I suppose?—Very well.

JOHN BISHOP sworn and examined. J. Bishop.

43,099. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You are a member of the firm of Barnard and Bishop?—I am.

43,100. They are large ironfounders in this city?—Yes.

43,101. How many men do you employ?—The number varies from 350 to 500, according to the trade. Our trade depends a good deal upon the season.

43,102. Last November, how many men had you in your employment?—I don't know; I should think about 400; I should fancy so, but our clerk can tell you better than I can.

43,103. I am only asking you generally?—Just so.

43,104. You were an active supporter of Sir Henry Stracey?—No.

43,105. You were a supporter of Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes. I never moved in any election in my life.

43,106. Sir Henry Stracey came to your works?—Yes; he asked leave to do so, and we gave him leave to do so.

43,107. He addressed your men?—Yes; I introduced him to the men myself. My senior partner, Mr. Barnard, was ill, or else he would have introduced him. It was after the dinner hour, just after the men had returned from their dinner. I introduced him to the men, and before Sir Henry Stracey spoke I told the men that the firm wished them to vote whichever way they pleased; that the firm did not wish to bias them in any way whatever.

43,108. We all know that the way the master votes will necessarily influence the men, do what he will?—Yes, exactly.

43,109. There is no question about that.—No, but I never asked a man for his vote in my life.

43,110. I want to call your attention to another matter. Do you recollect the nomination?—Yes.

43,111. In what capacity in your workshop was that man (pointing to Amiss) engaged?—He is a forging smith. He is our oldest servant.

43,112. The head of the forging smiths?—No. He works by himself, therefore he is not the head of the forging smiths. He is our oldest servant.

43,113. I suppose he has a prominent position in your works?—Well, perhaps he has; he is our most valuable servant. We respect him the most, I daresay, of anybody there.

43,114. We have heard that in this city it has always been usual to secure the show of hands; at least each party attempts it.—Yes, I have heard so.

THIRTY-SECOND DAY.

J. Bishop.

15 Oct. 1869.

I take very little interest myself. If you wish me to tell you about this affair I will do so.

43,115. I want to know if you are cognisant at all of your men going up to the show of hands?—Yes. The evening before the nomination Amiss came to me and asked me if some of the men might go. I objected, because we were very busy, but, however, as it was to serve the cause I let them go, and they went.

43,116. How many men went, do you know?—No, I know nothing about any of them. I have understood that there were about 110. I daresay Mr. Hastings can tell better than I can, but really I do not know that he would know. I think it was about 110, or thereabouts.

43,117. Further than that, did you take any part in arranging that they should go up to the nomination?—None whatever. If I might have consulted my own wishes they should not have gone.

43,118. Did you suggest to them that they should go up, or did you take any part in employing them to go up?—No; none whatever.

43,119. Do you say that it was the suggestion of Amiss?—Yes.

43,120. Entirely?—Yes; and I daresay he has told you, that on the Saturday after he came and said the Radicals had been paid; and our men wanted to be paid, but I was not going to pay him. I said I was not going to pay him, and should not. Then he said he dare not go home unless I gave him the money; and at last I was obliged to give it him.

43,121. Then you paid it?—Yes; it was done on the other side; the lawyer did it, and I suppose they knew the law better than I did, so I paid Amiss to prevent him being ill used. I could not get out of it.

43,122. You allowed the payment in order to prevent Amiss getting himself into a hobble?—Exactly so. As far as concerned the men, if I had been consulted they should not have had a penny.

43,123. You heard that there was a payment on the other side?—Yes. He had heard so, and he said he knew it for a fact. I could not get out of it. It was to get Amiss out of a hobble, or else, I assure you, I had nothing to do with it at all.

43,124. Did you in any way attempt to influence the men in your employment?—Not in any way whatever; I never spoke to the men except on the day that Sir Henry Stracey was there, and then I told them to vote whichever way they pleased.

43,125. You intimated that to the men?—I told them so distinctly. I took the opportunity of doing so before Sir Henry Stracey. Sir Henry Stracey was present; and before introducing him I said to the men, "I wish you particularly to understand that the firm wishes you to vote whichever way you please." I think those were my words.

43,126. After the election was there a supper?—Yes.

43,127. Who gave the supper?—We did; the firm gave it.

43,128. To whom was it given?—It was given to a lot of workmen, principally Conservatives. It was two or three months after the election.

43,129. Was that given to any workmen who had voted the other way?—I don't know that it was. I do not think the men would have liked it if it had been.

43,130. Did it include workmen who had not voted at all?—There were some men there who had not voted at all.

43,131. Did the invitation include all who had voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—I daresay it did. I did not issue the invitations.

43,132. Have you any doubt that it did, so far as you know?—It was intended principally for the voters. It was two or three months after the election, therefore it could not have much to do with party feeling. If we had felt inclined to have had more the room would not have held them, or else we should have had more men.

43,133. In fact it was a Conservative gathering?—Well, you may call it so; I think it was.

43,134. I suppose both the members of your firm voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes, we all voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

43,135. Was there any promise whatever made before, or any suggestion or hint thrown out that there would be any such thing given after the election?—I gave no such promise, and Mr. Barnard, my senior partner, says he never gave such a promise.

43,136. As far as you know was there any suggestion of that kind made before or during the election?—Not that I know of. I should say, decidedly not. We were very careful indeed. I never expected to pay a penny myself, but I was let into this hobble with Amiss.

43,137. I am speaking now about the supper?—No; there was no promise whatever.

43,138. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you know at whose suggestion Amiss undertook the business of getting the men up?—I do not know. He has always been the active man in Conservative matters. Oh, getting the men up?

43,139. Yes.—I do not know about that.

43,140. Of course it is a thing he would not venture to do on his own responsibility; he must have been advised by some one before he came to you.—He might be. I have not asked him, and I know nothing about it.

43,141. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) I suppose your clerk or other persons can tell us who were the men that went up to the nomination?—No; he has no list of them.

43,142. He and Amiss together can tell us I should think?—I don't know; he knows nothing about it. Until Mr. Hastings was called here to-day I do not think he knew anything about it.

43,143. I suppose it would be very easy to ascertain it; there are the pay sheets of that week in your possession I should think?—Yes, Mr. Hastings has them.

43,144. Amiss can tell from these pay sheets who were at the nomination?—He may do, I don't know, I am sure.

43,145. I should think he would be able to tick them off in a moment?—He may be, I know nothing about it.

43,146. I suppose your men are not men that change much. You have got a pretty good supply of regular hands?—Well, pretty well. I daresay we discharged 50 or 60 the last month or two.

43,147. That may be; no doubt there are persons casually in your employment, but there are others who are permanently in your employment, and who undergo no change, but I daresay remain in your service for years?—Yes, Amiss has been with us 36 years.

43,148. I should have thought from your knowledge of Amis and the way in which these things have been conducted that you would have known more of it?—I do not know. I never interfered with him, or with the men, and three-fourths of them I should not know if I met them in the street.

43,149. You would not know them personally, very likely, but you might know men who are allowed to go away on any particular day, such as this?—I do not know that I should. I was not at the works until after the nomination was over, and to all appearances all the men were at work.

43,150. Did anybody else besides Sir Henry Stracey canvass at your works?—Mr. Tillett came down one evening, I understand, but I was not there, and no one of the principals was in the works, so he was not admitted. He brought a lot of people with him that they did not seem to like the looks of, or something of that sort.

43,151–61. We continually hear that it is the wish of employers that men should be perfectly free in all their actions, and not be under any sort of influence.—I wish that Amiss had spoken the truth yesterday. I expected to have to come to-day and explain this. If he had come to me yesterday I should have told him to speak the truth.

43,162. It is our duty to get out everything.—Of course it is.

43,163. And it is far better for the city.—Of course.

43,164. (Mr. Biron.) I think it is only right to say that, so far as you are concerned, it was after a conversation with you that the man Amiss told us the truth.—I am obliged to you; he got me into the mess, and he did this to preserve me. There is no disguising it. I had to do it, and I should have to do it again under the same circumstances.

43,165. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) We saw yesterday that the man was in a state of very great embarrassment.—I am very sorry for it; he is our best servant.

43,166. He was not giving us evidence upon which we could depend; and we were therefore obliged to put a restraint upon him which it is very painful for us to put upon any person; but we must extract the truth some way or other. There are powers vested in us for that purpose which we must exercise if men will not tell us the truth.—Of course.

43,167. And we should be betraying them if we did not exercise them to the best of our ability?—Of course you would.

FRANK AMISS recalled and further examined.

F. Amiss.

43,168. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Who suggested to you the taking of the men up to the nomination?—I think it was one of the young Barnards that suggested it first of all to me.

43,169. He suggested, it did he?—Yes.

43,170. (Mr. Mansfield.) Anyone else besides him?—No.

43,171. What did he say when he made that suggestion?—Well, he said he thought, perhaps, some of the men might go up to the nomination if I would take them up. That is all.

43,172. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) He is not a member of the firm, is he?—No.

43,173. He is engaged in the works, but not a member of the firm?—That's it.

43,174. (Mr. Mansfield.) Have you ever been engaged in such transactions before at other elections?—No; never in my life.

43,175. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did your men ever go up before to any nomination?—No; I never had anything to do with elections before in my life.

43,176. (Mr. Mansfield.) What is the christian name of this Mr. Barnard?—I think it is Mr. Hilling Barnard.

WALTER HASTINGS sworn and examined.

W. Hastings.

43,177. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Have you the pay sheets of November last, the week commencing Monday the 16th?—Yes.

43,178. Will you turn to them?—Yes (producing them.)

43,179. Can you tell me how many men were in your employment that week?—I should think near 400 men and lads.

43,180. Now then, take it that 14*l.* 10*s.* was paid at 2*s.* 3*d.* a head it would make about 114 men; so that 114 or 116 men out of 400 attended the nomination?—It might be so. I don't know.

43,181. Can you go over that list and point out the men who attended?—It will take a long time.

43,182. Never mind that. Perhaps you will afford us that assistance by going over the list with Amiss?—It will take a long time.

43,183. I am quite aware of that, but we must ascertain it and the best way is to do it at once. If you will go down and render Amiss any assistance you can, we shall be obliged to you. Do you know anything of any arrangement by which these men were employed?—Not at all. I was not consulted.

43,184. You were in no way consulted about the matter?—Not in any way, nor had anything to do with it.

43,185. You are wholly unacquainted with any arrangement even with regard to the payment?—Quite so.

43,186. The payment was kept wholly distinct from the ordinary payments of the firm?—Yes.

43,187. They did not enter the books of the firm?—Not a farthing of it in my book.

43,188. Had you heard anything before the day of the nomination of the men going up to the nomination?—I do not recollect it.

43,189. Or of any anticipated holiday which the men were to have for attending the nomination? Were the works closed on the day of the nomination?—No; they were on the election day.

43,190. I think, if you will allow me to say so, it is an unfortunate thing at an election that the works should be closed upon the election day. I am quite aware there is some difficulty with regard to the men, but you can appreciate the fact that it leads to a great deal of drunkenness and disorder, and also a great many irregularities, such as occurred at the last election.—Many of the men would not have earned their wages if they had been on the place. That is an important consideration.

43,191. If some are absent they may throw others out of work; I quite understand that.—It was not to the interest of the firm to have a number of men talking together in clubs.

43,192. If I had seen Mr. Bishop I should have made that suggestion.—It would have been a serious thing to have paid wages that were not earned, and to have had the works open and so little done.

43,193. I am quite aware that on a day of license, some men being absent throw others out of work to a considerable extent and retard the progress of the works. In fact, unless you get your whole staff to work you may work at very considerable expense.—That would be the case.

43,194. It is nevertheless a great pity that the works should not be conducted so as to let the men go out at the right time. It would save a great deal of drunkenness and disorder, and would save a vast amount of malpractices. It is the idle people who have done all this mischief.—Yes.

WALTER BENJAMIN HOWES recalled and further examined.

W. B. Howes.

43,195. (Mr. Biron.) I asked you whether you gave anything to anybody else to vote?—No, I did not.

43,196. Did you spend any money that day?—Not a farthing in the shape of bribery or anything of the sort. I merely asked myself to drink.

43,197. Have you said that you spent 3*l.* in getting up voters?—Never.

43,198. Did you spend 3*l.*?—Never; certainly not.

43,199. Did you go about that day trying to get up voters?—Yes.

43,200. With whom?—Mr. Hibbett, Mr. Webb, and two or three others that were canvassers.

43,201. What parts of the city did you go to?—Different parts of the city.

43,202. To public-houses?—Sometimes I went to the houses.

43,203. And sometimes to the public-houses?—No, I never went to public-houses.

43,204. Did you not get them up?—I got some up.

43,205. Did you not give anything to anybody?—No.

43,206. Any beer?—There were two friends, one of them lived in the street I did; I treated them to a glass of beer after the election.

43,207. That is really all you did?—That is all I did.

THIRTY-SECOND DAY.

H. S. Patteson.

15 Oct. 1869.

HENRY STANIFORTH PATTESON sworn and examined.

43,208. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) I believe you have been resident in this city for many years?—Yes, a great many years; all my lifetime.

43,209. And you have been engaged in business as a brewer in this city also for a number of years?—Yes.

43,210. You have taken an active part, I suppose, in its politics?—Yes, at times.

43,211. On the Conservative side?—On the Conservative side.

43,212. I will first ask you—because from what we have heard I do not think it will be our duty to go further back than that—do you know of any impure practice or impure acts (you know the sense in which I use the word "impure") which were committed by either party at the election of 1860, which was Lewis and Forlonge's election?—I was not aware of any on that side at that election.

43,213. Did you notice anything irregular committed on the other side?—I have heard reports that money was being used on the other side, but I do not know of anything positively; but on the Conservative side it was quite pure. I know that Mr. Lewis was very particular that nothing should be spent illegally.

43,214. The precautions taken in consequence of the arrangements with the candidate secured the seat from anything like an irregular practice?—Yes, I believe Mr. Lewis was very particular indeed to prevent any corrupt practice taking place.

43,215. So far as you know those precautions were successful?—As far as I know it was thoroughly carried out.

43,216. As to the other side, you say you heard some rumours. Beyond mere rumours was there any foundation for supposing that corrupt practices were going on?—No; I know nothing at all of what took place.

43,217. You canvassed the city pretty well for that election, did you not?—Yes, I canvassed some parts. I almost forget now, but I believe I did canvass.

43,218. You knew the results of the canvass?—I forget all about it; but I don't think the canvass was carried out regularly.

43,219. Is Mr. Lewis right in what he stated, that the result of the poll corresponded with the result of the canvass?—I really cannot answer that question, for I do not know enough of the particulars to say whether it was so or not.

43,220. Your attention was not sufficiently directed to it, perhaps, to give an answer to that question?—No, it was not.

43,221. You recollect the next election, which was Waters' election?—Yes.

43,222. You originally were a supporter both of Goldsmid and Waters?—Yes, in the first instance when Mr. Waters came down.

43,223. Who brought Mr. Waters down?—I don't know who brought him down; I always heard that Mr. Kitton and Mr. Arthur Bignold brought him down.

43,224. Before the day of the election, if I understand, you and a number of the leading Conservatives seceded from Mr. Waters?—Yes, on the Monday evening.

43,225. Did you continue your support to Mr. Goldsmid?—I continued to support Mr. Goldsmid, of course,

43,226. He was the other Conservative candidate?—He was the other Conservative candidate.

43,227. Now as far as Mr. Goldsmid is concerned, are you aware of any irregular acts upon his side?—None whatever. I believe all his actions, and all the actions of those who acted for him, were entirely pure.

43,228. Have you ever heard of any money being improperly spent on his behalf by volunteers or anybody else?—Not a sixpence. I never heard that there was anything spent on his behalf.

43,229. With regard to Mr. Waters, had you any personal knowledge of anything?—No, not any.

43,230. You ceased to be in his confidence?—Entirely. When we found out that he came under false colours and proved thoroughly false in every way, we could not give him any support whatever.

43,231. Then you took no further interest in him, and you knew nothing?—Rather the contrary; when I canvassed I asked people not to vote for him, but to vote for Goldsmid alone.

43,232. You took no part, I suppose, in anyway in his proceedings on the day of the election?—Not the least after the Monday evening.

43,233. I suppose you have heard rumours of irregularities committed on his behalf?—I have heard since, and of things which have come out during this Commission, and so on.

43,234. Had not you heard anything of the kind before?—I had heard reports that money had been spent on his behalf, but I do not know of anything personally.

43,235. In fact, looking at the state of the poll, and knowing as you do, the constituency, had you not formed some conclusion upon that point?—Well, not as regards the state of the poll. I thought that Mr. Waters was a very popular man, and if he had been straight and true he would have had a very good chance of being returned.

43,236. The poll did not awaken any suspicion in your mind?—No, not at all during the time.

43,237. Did the election go on till 4 o'clock, or was the poll stopped before that?—I think it went on till the end. It did not close till 4 o'clock.

43,238. Are you aware of any impropriety committed by the other side at that election?—Not personally. I did not hear of anything. I do not know of anything of my own knowledge at all.

43,239. We will now come to the last election. You were one of those who became instrumental in inducing Sir Henry Stracey to become a candidate?—I was not one of those who in the first instance waited upon him as a deputation, but when he came forward I, of course, gave him every support I could.

43,240. I thought Sir Henry Stracey said that you waited upon him?—Sir Henry was first of all waited upon by a deputation, of which I was not a member, and he said that before he started he must have the support of other gentlemen; that the whole should support him; and then we met together and agreed to support him all we could.

43,241. His candidature, then, was first suggested by the Eldon Club?—So I have seen mentioned here. I heard they went there, but I did not know that they were the first.

43,242. Then you united and gave your joint support to Sir Henry Stracey?—All united, and gave our warm support to Sir Henry Stracey.

43,243. You were active, I suppose, in his support during the whole of this election?—Yes, I did all I could for him. I did everything I could to secure his election.

43,244. With regard to your own conduct, I will ask you, and do not suppose that in asking you the question I am suggesting anything whatever; did you do any act in the shape of giving or promising money, or treating anybody, on the day of the election or before?—Not one farthing in any way. I neither treated, nor gave, nor promised anything, nor did anything of the kind.

43,245. Since the election have you given anything or paid anything of the kind?—Nothing whatever.

43,246. You were a member of Sir Henry Stracey's committee?—There was no regular committee, but I was one of his great supporters.

43,247. Has any claim been made upon you, or any request been made to you, for the payment of any sum?—No, I have not had a single application for anything.

43,248. Are you personally aware of anything of that kind having been done by any other person?—No, only as I have heard since; only what has come out.

43,249. We hear that persons were employed on the part of Sir Henry Stracey to look after the expenditure. You were not one of those?—I was not one of those; I had nothing to do with the money matters at all.

43,250. Do you know of any fund or subscription, or anything of the kind, which has been made or provided for the payment of any expenses whatever at that election other than the expenses paid by Sir Henry Stracey?—No, I am not aware of any fund whatever, except the guarantee list afterwards, in case Sir Henry Stracey's son came forward.

43,251. I am not speaking about the guarantee afterwards given. That was entirely a separate thing.—Entirely a separate thing altogether. It had nothing to do with the election.

43,252. I am speaking now of the time of or before the election. Was there any subscription or guarantee given with regard to the payment of money which might be expended by anybody?—No, I never heard of any, nor have I been applied to for any.

43,253. Are you a member of any of the clubs?—I am a member of the Conservative Club.

43,254. In your ward has there been any sort of subscription for the payment of any sums of money expended during the election day?—No, I never heard of anything of the kind.

43,255. Do you pretty often attend the meetings of your ward?—Once a year. I generally go to the annual meeting. That is all; not to any of the monthly meetings.

43,256. No suggestion has been made to you of anything of the kind being provided at your club?—Not anything whatever; nothing of the kind.

43,257. Have you heard of anything being done at any other club?—No, I never heard of anything.

43,258. Have you heard of any money being sent down from town for the purposes of the election?—No, not even the hint of such a thing.

43,259. You were with Sir Henry Stracey upon the day of the election?—Yes, nearly all the day, after about 12 o'clock or half-past 12.

43,260. You recollect, do you not, going with him to the "Trumpet"?—Oh, yes, quite well.

43,261. Do you recollect what time of the day it was when you first saw him on the election day?—I cannot say positively. It was somewhere between 12 and 1 o'clock.

43,262. What time did you go to the "Trumpet"?—Somewhere about 2 o'clock, or a little after 2.

43,263. What caused you to go there?—We had been going round with Sir Henry to the different ward committees. We had been round once, and were going round the second time, and coming out of the committee room of the fourth ward there was a great crowd and a great deal of hurraying, and somebody of the crowd came up and said, "Oh, Mr. Patteson, "there are several voters at the "Trumpet" who will "vote for Sir Henry if he will only ask them to go," and knowing there were a great many that had not voted, and feeling sure that there was no money being given away, I thought it would be advisable that he should go, so I asked him. "Do you mind, Sir Henry," I said, "going in and asking them? They say they "will vote if you will ask them." "No," he said, "I don't mind," and he went in. It was just done on the spur of the moment.

43,264. How far was that from the committee room?—Just about the length of this court; in the same street, just at the end of the street.

43,265. Had you heard anybody in the committee room say that there were men there who wanted a day's pay?—No, I never heard that mentioned; in fact, we were not in the committee room hardly two minutes. We only just went in, asked how things were going on, and came out directly.

43,266. I will call your attention particularly to this, because a person has stated upon his oath here that in your presence he stated that there were a number of men in the "Trumpet" who wanted a day's pay.—I have seen that in reading the evidence, but I have no recollection of his saying anything about a day's pay, or even alluding to it. If I had I should not, of course, have gone in, or asked Sir Henry to go in.

43,267. You went with Sir Henry?—I went with Sir Henry.

43,268. You found a number of men in what they call the market room?—We went in, and a great crowd went in with us, and I said to the landlord, or landlady, or whoever was in charge, "I understand "there are several voters here who have not yet "voted. Is that the case?" He said, "Yes." Then I went in. There were some 12 or 13 sitting round the room. I merely asked them, "Have you voted?" They said, "No." I said, "Why not?" and they answered, "There is plenty of time yet"; to which I said, "No, there is not plenty of time; do you wish Mr. Tillett returned or Sir Henry Stracey?" They answered, "Certainly not Tillett." I said, "He will "be if you don't go and vote for Sir Henry, and here "is Sir Henry come to ask you to vote." They said they had not made up their minds. Sir Henry asked them if it was anything connected with the rating question that he could satisfy them about. "No," they said, "Cannot you give us some beer?" Then Sir Henry Stracey said, "I am ashamed of you "asking such a question; I would not give you half "a pint of beer." Then we went out, and we were not in altogether three minutes.

43,269. Was there anything said either by yourself or Sir Henry which could induce anybody to pay those men any money?—Not a single word passed Sir Henry's lips or my own that would give the slightest impression of the kind.

43,270. Did you see either Hunt or Smith make payments to those men?—No; I did not even know Hunt or Smith till he came before Baron Martin, and then I heard who it was.

43,271. Did you go to any other public-houses in the same way?—I think there was one other that we called at, but there were no voters at all. After we had been in the Ber Street ward, we crossed over Foundry Bridge, and they said there were some voters at the "Coach and Horses" in the Foundry Bridge Road. We called there, and there were no voters, so we passed on.

43,272. Was that everything that occurred?—That is everything that occurred. Our object in going from one committee room to another was to see what was going on, and hear the reports.

43,273. To stimulate them as far as you could?—Entirely; in fact, I believe it was through me that Sir Henry Stracey went round. We simply drove round to the committee rooms to hear how things were going on, and urge them to do everything. We saw how very strong the feeling was in favour of Sir Henry Stracey, and adverse to Mr. Tillett, and of course we did all we could to stimulate the good cause, as we should call it.

43,274. I have asked you with respect to the Conservatives whether you knew of anything that was irregular. Did you know of Hardiment's proceedings?—Not the least. I did not even know anything about it till it came out in the evidence before Baron Martin; at that time I did not even know him by name.

43,275. There were one or two other men who were extremely active, Benfather, and a few more?—I don't know Mr. Benfather; I may know him by sight, but I should not know him if he was in the room.

43,276. Do you know any one of those persons who have been proved before us to have operated upon the voters in a small way?—No, I don't know them at all. I did not know they were going to commit such acts, and had never heard of it.

43,277. You in no way encouraged them?—Not the least; in fact, I was quite surprised when it came out that there had been that money expended. Sir Henry was particularly careful to instil into all of us not to sanction anything of the kind.

THIRTY-SECOND DAY.

H. S. Patteson.

15 Oct. 1869.

43,278. Are you aware at all of the matter of the 400 half-sovereigns?—Not at all till it came out before Baron Martin. It took me quite by surprise when I heard it.

43,279. Then as far as you were aware, on the day of the election all was fair and right?—All was fair and right as far as I know.

43,280. With regard to the other side, are you aware of any bribery, treating, or corrupt practices?—No, not at all.

43,281. No malpractice of any sort or kind?—I did not hear of any, and did not know of any.

43,282. You recollect, do you not, the election of 1859, which formed the subject of the investigation of a committee, when Lord Bury was unseated?—Yes; I was sheriff at that time.

43,283. Since that time have there been efforts made by the better part of Norwich to prevent these practices on both sides?—I think there has been a strong feeling to try to prevent it, and not encouraging anything of the kind.

43,284. On the part of the better classes?—Yes, quite so, I think, on both sides.

43,285. A little of the old leaven seems to remain?—Yes.

43,286. I do not know that we need detain you any longer. It is clear when we come to examine this that there were a sufficient number of persons operated upon who, when struck off the list, would have completely vitiated Sir Henry Stracey's return.—Yes; that we might expect.

W. Hastings.

WALTER HASTINGS recalled and further examined.

43,287. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Can you now give me their names?—We have got 44, but some of them are very doubtful. The time is so long ago that Amiss cannot be positive about them all. He is not sure about some, not knowing all the men personally.

43,288. Are those men who are still in the employment of the firm?—Oh, dear no; many of them have been paid off since then.

43,289. Surely there were a considerable number of men who are in your employment now who attended on that occasion. In fact, the great probability is that the greater portion of those who were what I may term your permanent servants were present at that nomination; I have no doubt at all about it. I want to avoid the necessity of sending to your works, and summoning every man you have got there, which will be a very great inconvenience to your works.—Very many of them were very young men, not old men.

43,290. Do you know who were at the "supper"?—We could tell you a great many of them; I cannot recollect to be positive about all.

43,291. Tickets were given for the supper?—No, I think not; I don't recollect it.

43,292. You may depend upon it that those who were present at the supper were also at the nomination.—Some might be.

43,293. I should say the whole, unless some men had been discharged in the interval.—Oh, a vast many.

43,294. If you know who were at the supper, I think we should find that they were men who had attended the nomination.—We may be able to ascertain, but I really could not tell it here; it is very long since. I was present, but I do not remember.

43,295. Cannot you tell me, looking at that list? You can tick off the men who are now in your employment, and were at that time?—Yes, the chief of them; many of them.

43,296. I want to get at those men merely who were at the nomination, and I am quite content if you check that by the persons who were at the supper.—That could not be done here.

43,297. How many men were at the supper?—I don't know; perhaps 100, or from 100 to 150. I cannot be sure.

43,298. You may depend upon it that the greater portion of those who were at the supper are the men who were at the nomination. I am quite content to take it so. If you can tell me the names of the men who were at the supper who are in your employment now, I should be content.—I could mention some, but I could not swear to half a dozen. I could not be positive to half a dozen.

43,299. To the best of your information. I do not want you to swear to them positively.—It might be done, but not here.

43,300. Could you do it by 2 o'clock?—I will endeavour to do so.

43,301. If you would I should be obliged to you. It may save great inconvenience.—I shall have to return to the works to do it; I could not do it here.

43,302. (To Amiss.) What proportion of the men who were at the nomination are in the employment of the firm now; a third, or one half?—The greater proportion of them are still at work there.

43,303. I thought so.—A few of them have left.

43,304. It would be the more permanent ones who would be sure to go; there is no doubt at all in the world.—Mr. Hastings made that remark because some few have left. Some of those I remember were there, and I put them down because I could remember their names.

43,305. It is your permanent staff, you may depend upon it, who attended the nomination. I have no doubt in the world about it, and everyone who attended the supper was at the nomination.—Not everyone. I was not at the nomination; I attended the supper.

43,306–7. I am not speaking about that. There were some who did not, because those who did not vote were invited.—There might be many at the supper who attended the nomination, but I think not all.

43,308. All who were at the nomination were Conservatives, and would be present at the supper. If you can afford us that information it will save a great deal of trouble to yourselves as well as to others.—I will endeavour to do it, but I must leave here and go to the works to do it.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do so, if you please.

J. B. Pitt.

JOHN BULLARD PITT sworn and examined.

43,309. (Mr. Mansfield.) You are a medical man, practising in this city?—Yes.

43,310. You live in St. Stephen's?—In St. Stephen's Street.

43,311. At the last election you were rather an active member of the Conservative party?—Not a very active one.

43,312. You canvassed for Sir Henry Stracey?—I canvassed a short time.

43,313. When did you begin canvassing?—I think between 12 and 2 was the time that I went about.

43,314. Had you not canvassed previous to the day of the poll?—Yes, I had.

43,315. In what part of the city?—That was in the sixth ward, a different ward to that in which I resided. I am one of the town council, and I was told in the sixth ward that it was my duty to devote a little time to canvassing, and I did it on that ground, and that only, as a part of my duty. I did it, not because I had any wish to join in the canvass or in the election, Idid nothing more than what I considered to be my duty.

43,316. Did you make a house-to-house canvass in that part of the city?—Yes, I did.

43,317. Among the persons that you canvassed did you find that great numbers of the voters refused to give a distinct answer as to their intentions?—There were a great number who did not positively promise, but I merely went as one of the party. I did not take the book, and therefore I could not give an accurate description of the canvass. I merely went with the gentlemen who took the book.

43,318. I suppose that some of those persons you canvassed intimated that they could not make up their mind without some consideration—money, or otherwise?—I did not hear that; they would not promise; that was the principal thing.

43,319. I suppose you were led to believe that on the part of the voters?—I did not know what their motives might be; they sometimes have, I dare say, but they did not say it to us.

43,320. Was this the first time you had been engaged in elections in Norwich?—I am an old inhabitant of Norwich.

43,321. You know, do you not, that a great many men wanted a day's work?—I did not promise any of them a day's work.

43,322. Did you lead any of them to believe that they would get money if there was any going?—No, I always set my face against that.

43,323. Were you in any committee rooms on the day of the election?—About perhaps half-past 11 I went into the fifth ward committee room, which was very near my house. I voted early, before breakfast. After breakfast I saw some of my patients. About 11 o'clock or half-past 11 I felt a little free, and able to go and aid the cause of the election, which I did from that time till about two o'clock.

43,324. What part did you take in that committee room?—I merely went in and out to satisfy myself how the election was going on.

43,325. Did you observe in the early part of the day that your party was much behind?—I saw a statement to that effect, which I never believed.

43,326. In consequence of that statement being known in the committee room, did you and others exert yourselves, and use greater activity than you had done previously?—I was asked myself to go with another gentleman or two to make a canvass about noontide, that being the time when the working men would be at home from their employment.

43,327. Did you do so?—I did.

43,328. Who were the gentlemen you went with?—I think the name of one gentleman was Parker.

43,329. A grocer?—Yes, Parker, a grocer.

43,330. Anybody else?—I think not, not that I am aware of.

43,331. What part of the city did you go to in company with Mr. Parker?—In the neighbourhood of Scoles Green.

43,332. To what houses did you go?—There is a new part called Paradise Place; we principally went there.

43,333. Did you succeed in that locality in getting up men to vote for Sir Henry?—We merely called and saw some of the men; and the answer which we got on several occasions was, "When we have had "our dinner we will go and vote for Sir Henry "Stracey."

43,334. In any of those houses which you entered in company with Mr. Parker the grocer, was any offer of money made to any person?—I am not aware of anything of the sort.

43,335. Are you aware of Mr. Parker having paid anything?—No, I do not believe he did.

43,336. Did you make any promise to any voter that he should receive money for voting?—Certainly not.

43,337. Did you give anything, however small, out of your own pocket?—No, not a farthing. I never thought about it.

43,338. Did you part with any money for the purpose of treating any of these voters?—Not a single penny.

43,339. You did not spend a single shilling yourself in connexion with this election?—Not a sixpence; not anything.

43,340. Has any money passed through your hands for the purpose of this election?—No, none whatever.

43,341. Your operations were simply confined, as I understand you, to personal canvassing, and you neither made nor offered any promise or favour to a single voter in this city?—Certainly not.

43,342. Do you know of any money having been given, or any such promise having been made by anybody else?—I am not aware of anything of the sort.

43,343. Did you know on the day of the election of any improper practices being resorted to by your side?—I am not aware of anything whatever. I never heard of anything of the kind on the day, and I am not personally aware of anything of the kind.

43,344. How soon did you become aware that any such practices had been resorted to?—Only when I heard of it at the inquiry before Baron Martin.

43,345. But during the day of the poll did you hear of any such thing being done on your side?—No.

43,346. You did not hear it either in the committee rooms or in the town?—No, I did not go out of my own ward on that day. I did not go to the part of the city where the practices to which you refer were supposed to be in operation.

43,347. You heard nothing of Hardiment that day?—No.

43,348. Or of what was going on at the "Trumpet"?—No, I did not go to the "Trumpet."

43,349. You might not have gone there, but still you might have heard what was going on there?—No, I did not; I merely heard that there were a certain number of people at the "Trumpet," but I never went near the "Trumpet."

43,350. Had you at any previous elections taken an active part in canvassing?—I took a similar part to that which I now have described.

43,351. Have you on any occasion given money or treated voters, in order to secure their votes?—No, never.

SIR ROBERT JOHN HARVEY HARVEY, Bart., sworn and examined.

Sir R. J. H. Harvey, Bart.

(The witness.) If you will allow me before I give my evidence, I think it is desirable that I should say and call upon you, if you please, to correct a statement that was made by the Attorney General, because I am quite sure that in the course of the investigation which you have made, you must have found that the half sovereigns which the Attorney General said were ready counted on the counter at the Conservative bank, were not so, and therefore I must call upon you to correct that, because when a member of the government states a thing like that, of course it has its effect, and you, I am quite sure, in the course of your investigation must have come to the conclusion that that could not be.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) I think it is more by way of inference than anything else that that could have been said at all, and I do not know that it is a matter to be contradicted distinctly, or that it is material one way or the other.

(The witness.) But you may make a report, probably.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) It was, as you considered, an imputation upon you that you had been in some way in complicity, having got the half sovereigns ready on your counter.

(The witness.) The statement of the Attorney General was this, that "On the counter of the Con- "servative bank were the half sovereigns counted out "ready." That is a statement which you must have in your investigation found to be perfectly incorrect.

43,352. (Mr. Biron.) We can receive from you with the greatest pleasure a statement that you knew nothing of it. You are, I believe, a banker?—I am.

43,353. Carrying on business in this city?—Yes.

43,354. I believe that you are a Conservative in politics?—Yes, moderate.

43,355. At all events, you were in the city taking the part of the Conservatives, more or less, at different elections?—I have never voted on any occasion, considering the influence that a banker has indirectly, I consider that he should not take part in elections, and, therefore, I have studiously avoided it.

43,356. Do I understand that you have taken no part yourself?—I have never voted for years.

43,357. Or used your influence in any way?—Not at all.

43,358. Have you abstained from canvassing?—Yes, entirely.

43,359. And you have taken no part in any of the city elections?—No, none.

43,360. Do you remember the election of 1860?—Yes.

43,361. When Lewis and Forlonge were the candidates?—Yes; I stood for Thetford myself at that time, and, therefore, I was very little here; but I can answer any questions that you may think fit to put to me.

43,362. Were you in any way consulted, or had you anything to do with the management of that election?—Nothing whatever.

43,363. Had you anything to do with finding any funds for the purposes of that election?—Indirectly. I believe that this is what took place: Mr. Allen called at the bank two days before the election on the 11th.

43,364. That would be at a subsequent election in 1865; we will first take the election of 1860, if you please.—I forget who were the candidates at that time.

43,365. Lewis, and Forlonge, and Russell, and Warner?—No, I had nothing to do with that.

43,366. Neither directly nor indirectly?—No.

43,367. In the 1865 election, when Waters and Goldsmid stood on the Conservative side against Sir William Russell and Mr. Warner, had you anything to do with finding funds for the purposes of the election?—Mr. Allen called at the bank, and asked our bank to advance a sum of money upon some South Wales bonds. It was evident that they belonged to Mr. Waters, because Mr. Waters' name was at the back of them. This was two days before the election, and as a matter of business we said, "Yes, we will advance you some money upon these bonds." I did not know the value of the bonds at the moment, and, therefore, we consented at first to advance 500*l.* on two 500*l.* bonds. Mr. Allen asked us at the same time to sell those bonds immediately, and they were ordered to be sold by that post. The proceeds of the bonds amounted to 900*l.*, and on the 14th, I believe the day after the election, the other 400*l.* was put also to Mr. Allen's credit, for both sums were put to his account, both the 500*l.* and the 400*l.*

43,368. Had you personally any communication with Mr. Waters with reference to that transaction?—None whatever.

43,369. The money went into Mr. Allen's account, and I presume was drawn out by him by cheques?—Yes. I do not know how it was drawn out. He had a running account at the bank.

43,370. Then I understand your statement to be the same as his, that, although in fact there was technically a loan in the first instance, practically the bonds were sold through you, and the proceeds were put to Mr. Allen's account?—That is just it; it was a matter of business. We should have done the same thing for anybody else.

43,371. It was entirely a matter of business and had no reference to election purposes?—No, none whatever.

43,372. Beyond that, was no money got through you or your firm for the purposes of that election, so far as you know?—Not that I know of.

43,373. You have told me that you yourself were contesting a borough, and I presume you knew personally nothing of what went on here?—Merely that I had a daily report of what went on, and I saw this transaction mentioned among others.

43,374. I am speaking now of the general conduct of the election?—No, I knew nothing of it; I was too much engaged about my own election.

43,375. Coming to the present election, I believe there was a strong pressure put upon you to stand?—There was.

43,376. And you, for reasons which we can understand, and which you have given here to-day, thought it better not to come forward as a candidate?—Yes, I had letters from all parties.

43,377. We can quite understand that there was very strong pressure put upon you to induce you to come forward. After Sir Henry Stracey had started on the Conservative interest did you take any active part in promoting his return?—Perhaps I had better say at first that Sir Henry Stracey called upon me and said, "I have had numerous deputations asking me to "stand for Norwich. I am not a very willing candi-"date. I do not wish to stand in your way at all; "but if you do not mean to stand I have made up my "mind to stand." Sir Henry Stracey told me (and this I am sure you must tell is confirmed by all you have heard) that it was not his intention to spend a single shilling beyond what was necessary for perfectly legal expenses; that is all that transpired. He subsequently called and told me that he was really a candidate; and that is all I know upon that point.

43,378. You yourself did not personally interfere in this last election more than you had done heretofore?—No, I did not.

43,379. And I presume you know nothing of any corrupt practices at all that took place at that election?—No. My men at Crown Point, I may tell you, asked me for a holiday on the day. I happened to have 40 or 50 workmen there at the moment. I said to them at the time, "I am not going to be so silly as to give "you a whole day's holiday to record your votes, a "thing which can be done in two minutes." But it at last ended in their having a half holiday, which was deducted from their week's wages. I may say that they did not leave my place till 1 o'clock. They told me that they wanted to have dinner, then to dress in their Sunday best, then to have a little drink, and then to go and vote; and therefore I consider that to look on all voters voting after 2 o'clock or half-past 2 as bribed, or as having been brought up by illegal process, is not quite a correct way of looking at it, because that class of very poor people, that is the way in which they do a thing that is unusual.

But we have it in evidence, and there is no doubt about the fact, that money was not afloat at all events until 12 or 1 o'clock that day.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) Nobody has assumed that everybody was bribed who voted after 2 o'clock, but we have found that the best test we could apply, and that it would save the city considerable expense.

43,380. (Mr. Biron.) I need not ask you whether you in any way attempted to influence those men who were in your employ?—No, not in any way, not in the least; they told me that Stracey was the cry.

43,381. I will now come to the half-sovereigns; did you directly or indirectly give any directions that 200*l.* should be put up in half-sovereigns ready for any purpose?—Most decidedly not; in the first place I may say that I was not here on the day of the election, and therefore I could not do it, and in the next place our cashier had to go to the inner safe to get the money in that particular form.

43,382. To put the question still more broadly, I will ask this; are you aware of anybody else in the employment of your firm who gave any orders that that money should be provided in that form?—Certainly not.

43,383. I put these questions to you in order to give you an opportunity of answering in the negative.—I am much obliged to you for doing so. Perhaps having been myself a member of the House, and knowing it to be the great desire of all public men to do away with bribery, I may be permitted to point out that the real nursery of bribery is the municipal elections.

43,384. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You are aware that means are now being taken to put an end to that, and I hope that effectual measures will be adopted for the purpose.—Having been in the House of Commons I know the great desire is to arrive at some solution of the difficulty that will positively do away with bribery. I think that there ought to be no nominations. I consider that public-houses should not be allowed to be open during an election at all. No doubt the publicans would do a roaring trade afterwards, which would more than make up to them anything they might lose; and I should also consider that the state of the poll should not be declared until after an election was over.

43,385. Our duty is not to inquire into those matters, but merely to report as to what practices prevailed here. We may have our own individual opinions upon these matters, but they are not matters which fall within our province.—Quite so.

JOHN CARSAY CHITTOCK recalled and further examined.

J. C. Chittock.

43,386. (Mr Dowdeswell.) Since you were examined we have had Mr. Dawson before us, and he has presented us with accounts paid by him for the employment of a large number of men on days prior to the election, varying from the 4th of November up to the 16th of November, the day of the nomination, and some of them were paid on the 19th of November. He has produced an account rendered by him to you of that expenditure amounting, in the whole, to 114*l.* 7*s.*, including 24*l.* 9*s.* 6*d.* for sundries, and a sum also for messengers; but the amount paid to them was 81*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.*—Yes.

43,387. Will you point out to me in the account which you rendered to the election officer, where that item of 81*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.* is included?—It is included in this way. I cannot shew it to you in separate items, but you will find a sum charged to each ward for messengers, and those receipts were divided among the different wards wherever the meetings happened to be, and the charge for messengers is included in the total charge to the ward.

43,388. Do you mean to say that these men, who were "roughs" employed for the purpose of what you call keeping the peace, but who were employed indirectly for purposes of bribery, were put down by you in the return to the election officer under the head of "messengers"?—Yes.

43,389. You mean to say that?—They certainly are.

43,390. Did you ever inform Sir Henry Stracey that you were including a sum 81*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.* expended for such a purpose as that?—I merely sent him the total accounts. I did not inform him what the particular items were for.

43,391. Had you any authority from Sir Henry Stracey to employ men in that way?—I had no specific instructions.

43,392. Had you not, on the contrary, instructions to do nothing whatever that was illegal or improper?—Certainly I had.

43,393. Do you not know, or are you a person so ignorant as not to see that that is one of the modes of corruption which is deprecated as the very worst?—No, because I gave particular instructions that no voters should be employed.

43,394. Were not a number of the persons who were employed as captains themselves voters upon the register?—I did not employ the captains you are aware. Mr. Dawson did that.

43,395. But he was your clerk; and these receipts were presented to you, and you paid them?—Those were presented to me after the election.

43,396. But you were actually at that time arranging these things, and you knew that they were being carried out by Dawson. Do you say that you do not consider yourself responsible for the act of Dawson?—Certainly I do.

43,397. Why then did you not take proper precautions to ascertain that even the captains were not persons who were voters?—I will say simply this, that if a man is employed who is a voter, he is not able to vote, that is all. I do not know that there is anything illegal in employing a voter if he does not vote. My reason for giving instructions not to employ persons who were voters was, that if we did we should decrease the number of persons who would be able to vote for us.

43,398. Do you not know that that is one mode of corruption which is universally deprecated?—If voters were employed as under the previous law, I have no doubt that that would be so; but as the law now stands, I know that if a voter is employed he cannot vote. I therefore did not employ those men as a means of corruption at all.

43,399. Are you really so ignorant of anything like the ordinary influences, as to suppose that a payment of 10*s.* to a captain of a band, would not influence his vote on the day of the election?—I did not intend to employ as captain a man who was a voter, and you will find that there are not more than four or five of them after all.

43,400. And if a captain was a voter, do you think you had any security that the men who were employed under him were not voters also?—I can only say that I gave directions that voters should not be employed.

43,401. You may have given directions. It is very easy to give directions, and at the same time to be so thoroughly negligent, that the negligence amounts to an encouragement to violate the law.—My directions were that voters should not be employed.

43,402. I should like to see in the return to the sheriff where this 81*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.* is included?—I will endeavour to point it out to you.

43,403. Were they messengers?—They would be included as messengers.

43,404. But were they messengers?—Certainly. I do not know what other description I could have given of them.

43,405. Do you mean on your oath to say that the number of men referred to here could be called messengers?—I will tell you, if you will allow me, how they were employed, and then you will be able to judge whether they are properly described as messengers or not.

43,406. I, knowing how they were employed, and you also knowing it, do you mean to say on your oath that you did not do that for the purpose of misleading persons, and of not truly stating for what they were employed?—Not for the purpose of misleading, certainly, but whether I correctly described them or not is a matter of opinion.

43,407. Did you do that for the purpose of disguising the matter?—Certainly not; it was well known to everybody that these men were employed.

43,408. And paid by you?—And paid by me; it could not be otherwise. I simply employed those men because I considered they were necessary.

43,409. Do you mean to say that those men were employed in the different wards?—At the different meetings.

43,410. Just show me how they were put down for the different wards, and how the different meetings corresponded to the wards?—I will endeavour to do that.

43,411. These (referring to some vouchers) were not charged to the wards?—They are charged to me, undoubtedly.

43,412. They are charged to the central committee.—They are charged so because the order for them was given from the central rooms.

THIRTY-SECOND DAY.

J. C. Chittock.

15 Oct. 1869.

43,413. Then it was not a ward matter?—Yes; perhaps there were two meetings in a ward in the course of the evening, and those men were sent not to attend the meetings, but to keep order outside.

43,414. I was quite sure, when I examined you before, that there was a great deal reserved and kept back by you, and I am now convinced that the impression I then had was correct.—Any questions you asked me I answered. I was not invited to make any statement; those very papers I brought with me on that occasion.

43,415. But you did not show me those papers.—I handed in everything you asked me for.

43,416. How could I know of the employment of these men on days antecedent to the nomination. If you had been candid, and inclined to tell the truth, you would have explained this transaction in full, and you would have told me that the item put down for messengers included a payment which was not for messengers at all. If you suggest to me that you believed these were really messengers, I tell you that you are paltering with your oath, and that you are a disgrace to the profession to which you belong.—If I had been invited to make any statement I should have been glad to make it. I brought these papers here on that occasion. I also brought Mr. Dawson's accounts here, and every paper you could by possibility require.

43,417. I hope that Sir Henry Stracey will bring an action against you to recover this money. He indignantly repudiated the idea of doing anything of this sort, and then the very day afterwards this turns up. When we asked him whether such a thing as this had occurred, he told us upon his oath, "No, I never should have sanctioned such a thing;" and the very next day, when we came to examine Mr. Dawson, this was exhibited to us.

43,418. (Mr. Biron.) I do not think that the question was actually put to you. It was put as nearly as possible. You were asked a question which elicited from you this answer. "I am not aware that Mr. "Stanley took any part in the election beyond being "in the committee room. I do not know that he "had anything to do with the people out of doors. "Very likely he would go out during the day. I "never heard of his getting a mob together at the "election, or at any other time." You certainly answered most skilfully "by the card." Though your attention was called to the matter, you never suggested that other people had done it.—I had no idea of concealing it.

43,419. We can judge of what you would and what you would not conceal.

43,420. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) I am really quite ashamed of the profession to which I belong that you should be a member of it.—The only answer I can make is that as a proof of my intention to give you what information I could, I brought those very receipts here, and also Mr. Dawson's accounts.

43,421. You were asked before Mr. Baron Martin this question: "Are you aware of one sixpence having "been spent in the election but in a legal and proper "manner?" and you answered, "I do not know so "much as a penny;" and then you go on, in order to cover that statement, "I have delivered my accounts "to the sheriff, and will swear that those accounts "include every penny that I have spent." You knew as well as possible at that moment that you were covering your oath with that. This was as much a false statement about "messengers" as if you had told a positive falsehood in the most direct terms. No man in his senses in your profession could suppose that that was a legal and proper expenditure. In your own clerk's account the items are for messengers, and then there is, "Paid men, as per account" (not "messengers"), 81*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.*" The item for messengers is improperly described, as you know very well. The statement you made was a false statement, made deliberately for the purpose of deceit.

43,422. (Mr. Biron.) You actually knew it. They are in your own books properly described.—You will find a sum charged to the central committee room; for instance there were men who went to St. Andrew's Hall; the charge for that is not carried to the ward, but to the central committee rooms. And the meeting at the Corn Hall, I imagine, was not carried to the ward, but to the central account.

43,423. Why did you not put them down in the way your clerk had put them down. When you were asked for the receipts of the messengers you produced these receipts which we have got, which are the receipts of men who actually did act as messengers; why did you not also produce those receipts which have been produced by Mr. Dawson?—I will explain it to you. There were eight bundles of receipts, as sent in from the different wards; they were all tied up in one bundle; and I think you will remember that you asked me for the account of the third ward. I was about to take the third ward account out of the bundle, and you said "Hand the whole of the bundle over here;" and I did hand over the whole to you; they were monies which had been paid in the ward, and not paid by me at all; it was at your request I handed in a particular bundle which you asked for.

43,424. When you were speaking upon the subject of messengers, why did you not produce those other receipts, some of which related to that very ward?—I do not think we were upon the subject of messengers at all. You asked me for the ward manager's account, and you asked me to hand in that bundle, and I did so. I remember the circumstance quite well.

43,425. It seems to have made an impression on you because you were trying to conceal the matter from us?—No; I remember the way in which the bundle was handed in. I should like to go through the account, and then no doubt I could show you exactly where the different sums for messengers were put in the account; because I am now speaking of a matter which took place at some distant time.

43,426. Here are messengers for the central committee room, 153*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*; messengers for first ward, 12*l.* 16*s.* 6*d.*; and messengers again, 10*l.* 15*s.*—You will see, if you will have the goodness to refer.

43,427. I have no doubt that your statement is perfectly correct; that under the head of "messengers" you included those persons who were no more messengers than they were any other officers which you might describe by any other name.—I put them under the lowest office I could; I could not call them clerks; I might have said men.

43,428. You know as well as possible, as a lawyer, that nothing could be more objectionable than the employment of those men; common sense would dictate it to any man, and your knowledge of the law certainly must have dictated it to you, that they were not "messengers" in any sense whatever, and that no auditor would ever pass them as such; yet you deliberately, for the purpose of misleading the persons who had to audit these accounts, put them down as "messengers;" and so they were passed; you must have known, as a lawyer, that the employment of those men was perfectly improper, and yet, when you came before Mr. Baron Martin, you gave that answer before him, and you tell us in the same way, that you were not aware of anything improper, or that there had been, during the election, any illegal expense.—I may be wrong in my opinion, but at the same time I am not aware now of any law to prohibit the employment of persons for any of the purposes of the election; the only thing is, that they must not vote after they have been so employed.

43,429. There is no doubt whatever that these persons were employed for the deliberate purpose, and that Mr. Baron Martin would have had to inquire into the question whether they were not employed for the deliberate purpose of influencing the election. I have no doubt that their employment had a very considerable influence upon the election, and that they were deliberately employed by you exactly in the same manner as the "roughs" were employed by Inspector Clarke for the purpose of influencing this election; and that both you and Inspector Clarke did it for that very purpose. I can conceive no legitimate purpose for which they could have been employed; and under those circumstances it was your duty to have given us the fullest information on your oath, which would have enabled us to have come to a right conclusion.—I do not know whether you have ever been properly informed as to the reason these men were employed.

43,430. We understand very well indeed why they were employed, and we understand the operation of their employment. If the captains who were employed were voters, beyond all question those who were employed under them, three parts of them, would be voters. Even if that were not so, they were persons connected with voters; and you, as a man of common sense, must know that that has been a mode of influencing elections for years and years, and that it has also formed the subject of the very highest condemnation.—You see, the employment of those men extended over a considerable number of days; I think about 10 days. There were generally two meetings in the evening, and if you were to reckon the number of persons necessary to keep the doors and prevent the people from rushing in, I do not think you would find that an excessive number was employed.

43,431. You say you required them to attend meetings. The payments are made upon the 1st, 4th, 10th, and 11th of November, the 9th of November, then the 11th of November again; another item upon the 10th of November, then again the 11th, 12th, and 13th of November, the 14th of November again, and the 16th of November; and another item on the 16th, the election being on the 17th; and then, on the 19th, here is actually a payment for men in respect of services immediately before the election, the payment being made afterwards; how can you say that those payments were not made with a view to influence the election?—Where you find two or three receipts or more for one day, you will find they relate or refer to the meeting at St. Andrew's Hall and the meeting at the Corn Hall.

43,432. You had in one place, on the 11th of November, 125 men in one item; and on the same day 25 more men; that is, 150 in all.—We had a large number at the Corn Hall.

43,433. Here are 22 men and two captains more on the same day.—I could tell you how those men were distributed. In the first place, it was necessary for us to have in St. Andrew's Hall, for instance, a double row of men, entirely across the hall, to prevent the people getting on the platform, and even with that we had not sufficient, for the reporters, I remember, were knocked over by the crush. Then, again, the door was kept in the same way; and it was in that way the men were employed.

43,434. You know as well as possible it is quite clear that those items would not have been allowed by the election auditor if they had been properly described. You therefore deliberately describe them as messengers, a term which you know was not in the slightest degree applicable to them, it was done for the purpose of imposing upon the election auditor, and you come before us with that consciousness in your mind. You are examined before Mr. Baron Martin, and then before us; and you tell Mr. Baron Martin and also us that there was no improper item whatever mixed up in these accounts, and it is only when we get your clerk Dawson into the box that we get at these facts; it is only then that the thing which has very greatly influenced this election is brought to our notice, our attention having been in the first instance directed to it by the proceedings of Inspector Clarke. There has been a system from the very beginning of this election, from the 4th of November, as it appears here in the vouchers, down to the day of the election on your part, with intermediate proceedings on the part of Inspector Clarke to keep a large number of people in play and pay so as seriously to interfere with this election beyond all question, and you as a man of common sense must have known that that was not only its effect, but you also well knew that that was its object?—Only one person can tell what was passing in my mind on the subject, and I can only say that that was not my object.

(Mr. Biron.) You should have set the accounts under their proper heads.

43,435. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) If you had been ingenuous and candid as you ought to have been in your accounts, and before us, you would never have been in the position in which you now stand.—I think it is a great pity I was not asked that particular question, I do not say why I was not asked, I think it is a great pity I was not asked whether there was any further information I could give. I had brought all those papers here.

43,436. And kept them back.—I brought them into this box.

43,437. Your object in bringing them was if by any possibility you would be asked to produce them you might do so, but your intention was if possible to escape producing them.—I think it is a great pity I was not asked whether I could not give any further information.

(Mr. Biron.) We did not know you quite so well then as we do now. If we had to examine you any further to-day no doubt we should put that question to you. We were not quite so well acquainted with you then as we are now.

EDWARD WARNER sworn and examined.

E. Warner.

43,438. (Mr. Mansfield.) I believe you served in two parliaments as one of the members of this city?—In three.

43,439. On the last occasion you did not become a candidate?—Just so.

43,440. Can you tell us what were the circumstances under which that determination was arrived at by yourself?—Do you wish me to give you the whole history? To give it shortly, it was in consequence of a split in the Liberal party.

43,441. As we have already understood from the evidence a conversation took place between you and Mr. Tillett with regard to your retirement?—Not exactly. In February 1868 Mr. Tillett called upon me in London by appointment, and told me that the advanced Liberal party were determined in future to have a candidate of their own, that they would not have Russell and Warner again, but they were quite content to have either of them, for himself he said he could take no part, he was acting with them and he had no choice between the two candidates, and was ready to accept either, but he certainly led me to believe that he considered me the more popular of the two, he recommended me to increase my subscription to the registration in consequence of the large increase in the constituency. Mr. Tillett was not a candidate at that time, and it was afterwards he came forward.

43,441*a*. I understand it was finally left to the gentlemen who are called the leaders of the party to decide between you and Sir William Russell, as to which of the two should become the candidate in 1868?—After that Sir William Foster invited us both to come down to a meeting of the leaders, and before we came down we agreed between ourselves that we would not both stand, that is to say, we would not interfere with what was called the Liberal organisation; we drew up a paper to that effect and gave it to Sir William Foster; after some delay and after they had held various meetings they chose Sir William Russell as their candidate.

THIRTY-SECOND DAY.

E. Warner.

15 Oct. 1869.

43,442. You and Sir William Russell having agreed to leave it entirely to the party?—Yes, quite so.

43,443. And there having been no bargain between you upon any terms that you were to withdraw?—No.

43,444. Nothing was said about any outstanding claims being then paid?—No, there was no allusion to it.

43,445. It was simply left to the party as to whom they would select to represent the city?—Yes.

43,446. The first time you became a candidate was in the year 1860?—No, 1852.

43,447. We need not go so far back as that; did you go to the poll in 1852?—Yes, I was elected in 1852 and sat for the whole of that Parliament.

43,448. Then you became a candidate in 1860?—Yes, that was on a vacancy.

43,449. At that time you and Sir William Russell were candidates for the same interest; there was a complete coalition between you, with an understanding that all expenses were to be shared?—Yes, exactly.

43,450. Every charge of every sort was divided between you?—Yes, exactly.

43,451. Do you recollect upon that occasion whether you knew of any money being improperly expended?—No, certainly not. I believed it was a pure election, and I believe so still.

43,452. Was that one of the elections in which there were any subsequent accounts sent in to you of any outstanding claims?—There was a claim for 200*l.* or 300*l.*, I do not remember the amount particularly sent in afterwards which we neither of us paid for some time; we objected to do so, but ultimately my half was paid, and Sir William Russell's half was paid. I think he told you so in his evidence yesterday.

43,453. It appears from his evidence that both of you thought they were expenses that ought not to have been incurred?—I do not think that was quite my view. I think our objection was rather this that the finance committee objected to pass them; I do not think we objected on principle to the accounts, it was a question with reference to watchers. There was a petition against the return as to which the watchers were made a strong point, and that petition was withdrawn without any action on our part.

43,454. Do you recollect upon that occasion whether anything had been said at preliminary meetings about watchers, or anything of that sort, to secure the nomination?—I do not know whether it was understood that the nomination was to be secured or not, but I know that it was not thought illegal at that time. I do not remember anything being said about it.

43,455. Or about watchers?—Watchers, I think, we all approved of, but the Finance Committee perhaps did not; it was proposed by some of the leading men; it was not our own idea.

43,456. It having been for some time the custom in the city to incur those expenses?—I am not sure of that. I rather thought it was a new invention upon the occasion. I do not remember people being employed under the name of watchers before.

43,457. Was it brought to your notice at the time, that it was a matter the legality of which was disputable?—Only upon the petition.

43,458. Not before?—No, certainly not.

43,459. So far as you recollect you had assented to the employment of watchers?—Yes.

43,460. Do you call to mind any conversation that took place about it?—No; I think it was the subject of very general conversation.

43,461. I mean about the arrangements that were made?—Yes, the most strict resolutions were come to that nothing was to be paid except through the finance committee.

43,462. Do you know anything about the employment of watchers?—I always expected the finance committee would have passed the item.

43,463. You had consented to the employment of watchers antecedently to the election?—I do not think I knew anything about it until they were actually employed.

43,464. You simply took it as a matter of course?—I left it in other people's hands.

43,465. Beyond that, were you in 1860 aware of any money having been expended on your side which could be said to have been employed for illegal practices?—No.

43,466. You were not a party to anything of the sort?—No, certainly not.

43,467. Not in the way of making any promises of any sort or kind, to induce the men to vote?—No, I never made a promise to a voter in my life.

43,468. With the exception of that subsequent payment which was shared between you and Sir William Russell, there was nothing paid beyond the original lump sum shortly after the election?—That is so.

43,469. Was no other claim presented to you?—No other claim was presented; and my impression is, that the lump sum was not so large as Sir William Russell stated in his evidence, but possibly he knows better than I do. I do not think it exceeded 1,050*l.*, including the watchers; but I am only speaking from memory.

43,470. No other sum was presented to you?—No.

43,471. In the year 1865 you were again a candidate in conjunction with Sir William Russell?—Yes.

43,472. What kind of an election was that on your side? Was it an expensive one?—It was a much more expensive one than the previous election, but I believe there was nothing corrupt in it. We were put in considerable difficulty by the withdrawal of the finance committee upon which we counted, but they declined to act again, and I do not wonder at it, because it is a most ungracious office. We were obliged to shift for ourselves more than we had done in the former election.

43,473. Are you aware of any money having been spent on your side to secure votes upon that occasion?—No, nothing to secure votes, but I think there was something spent upon the return.

43,474. Was that again for these sort of payments, watchers, bands, and so on?—Yes, it was for that sort of thing, though I do not suppose it was for watchers, but for bands, and expenses of that kind. I am not very clear in my recollection of it, but I feel confident Mr. Coaks brought me an account sometime after the election of 200*l.* or 300*l.* I think he showed me the items of the account, if not, at all events he satisfied me they were not corrupt. He wanted me to pay the whole of it, and said that Sir William had paid it. I was rather put out at this, and positively refused to pay anything more than half. I thought with regard to anything that was legal I would pay half, but beyond that I will not go. Afterwards Mr. Tillett wrote to me and asked me to pay my half, and I paid it through him to Mr. Coaks. Mr. Tillett was acting partly as my agent at that time.

43,475. You only paid your half?—Yes, I only paid my half.

43,476. And that as far as you know was for expenses of the kind you have mentioned?—I think I saw the items, and they were all correct expenses, there was nothing corrupt in them.

43,477. Did you in the year 1865 spend any money in hiring public-houses for the purpose of treating voters?—No, certainly not.

43,478. Were you aware of any volunteers amongst your supporters doing things of that kind?—No, nothing of that sort.

43,479. Did you become aware of any volunteers going about in a small way getting up individual voters for 2*s.* 6*d.* or 5*s.*?—I never heard of anything of the kind. I do not know that I was in the way of hearing of it, but certainly such an instance was never brought to my notice in any way. I do not suppose it was ever done.

43,480. At that election we know a great deal of money was spent by the agents of Mr. Waters, and I presume by his partisans, do you think anything of the same kind may have been done by your more active and zealous partisans?—I should think our partisans were more actively engaged in putting down Mr. Waters. I am told that the printing bill upon that occasion was unusually large, some hundreds of pounds more than usual.

43,481. On your side?—Yes.

43,482. That being for placards and warnings to people not to break the law?—Yes, and that sort of thing.

43,483. You are not aware of any expenditure for corrupt practices at that election?—No.

43,484. You are only cognisant of that sum that was paid to Mr. Coaks?—Yes, exactly.

43,485. I suppose you are not in a position to give us any information of what was going on on the other side, except by mere report?—Only by report. After the break among the Conservatives we considered the election safe.

43,486. When you first came here, were you ever asked to pay any outstanding claims of the party?—I think I was once asked, and refused. I never heard anything more about it, but it was a very small sum; it was, I think, in 1860, and it was a sum of, I think, 10*l.*, or something of that sort; but I refused to have anything to do with it at once. I do not think the leaders of the party approved of it.

43,487. There never was any proposal made to you that a payment of that kind would be a necessary condition to your becoming a candidate?—No.

WILLIAM GUY sworn and examined.

W. Guy.

43,488. (Mr. Biron.) Are you in practice as a medical man in this city?—I am.

43,489. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

43,490. For whom?—For Stracey.

43,491. At what time in the day?—About 9 o'clock in the morning, or a little after.

43,492. Did you take any active part during the day?—I did.

43,493. In getting up voters, or were you busy at the committee rooms?—No, I was not busy at the committee rooms. I took up two or three voters only.

43,494. Were they men you had canvassed?—Yes.

43,495. Had they promised you to vote for your candidate?—Yes, they had.

43,496. And during the day did you learn that they had not yet come up to poll, and was that your reason for going after them, or how was it?—No, they had not decided.

43,497. You thought you had better go after them, and see whether they had polled or not?—Yes.

43,498. Is that what led you to go to them?—Yes.

43,499. Did you see them?—Yes.

43,500. Did you get them to poll?—Yes.

43,501. How many?—I only took up three.

43,502. Only three during the whole of the day?—Yes, during the whole of the day.

43,503. Did you give anything to any of these men?—Yes.

43,504. To them all?—There were more than that at the place where I got these men.

43,505. Where was it you went to for them?—The "Derby Arms."

43,506. In what ward is that?—Heigham.

43,507. North Heigham?—I do not know whether it is North or South Heigham.

43,508. Do you know the name of the landlord?—Chaplin.

43,509. Did you get the whole of the three men from there?—Yes.

43,510. What did you give them to get them up?—They had some beer—that was merely given to them casually—they asked for some beer, and I gave it to them.

43,511. You ordered ten shillings' worth of beer?—No, I did not order any amount of beer.

43,512. What did you say about the beer?—They asked for the beer, and I said they might have some, and they had some; that was after they had promised to vote.

43,513. Did you give any order about the supply of the beer?—No, no further than that I said, "Let them have it."

43,514. Did you pay for it?—Yes.

43,515. How much?—I think it was 3*s.* 8*d.*, if I remember rightly; it was not more than that.

43,516. How many men were there?—I should think there were 10 or 12 men there.

43,517. Were there any others besides the three who promised you who were voters?—Yes, several more.

43,518. Can you give me the names of the three who had promised you?—No, I cannot remember any of them.

43,519. Where had they made the promise?—At the "Derby Arms."

43,520. When did you canvass them?—I canvassed them in the morning.

43,521. You went to the "Derby Arms" in the morning?—Yes; the reason I was at the "Derby Arms" was, that I was with a patient who lived within a few doors of the "Derby Arms," and I casually heard that there were some men there who were voters, and that is the reason I went in.

43,522. Men not very ready to vote, I presume?—They were not.

43,523. You went in to the "Derby Arms" to try if you could get them?—Yes.

43,524. And spent this money?—Yes, I did.

43,525. Out of the lot did you only get up three?—They all promised to vote.

43,526. How many did vote, do you think?—I do not know. I did not see the others go up.

43,527. You know three did?—Yes.

43,528. And the others promised to go?—Yes.

43,529. And as far as you know they went and voted?—Yes, I suppose so.

43,530. What time in the day was this?—Between 12 and 1 I think; I am not certain as to the time.

43,531. A little later, was it not?—I do not think it was much later than that.

43,532. Did you not give any money or beer anywhere else during the day?—No, no money nor beer.

43,533. Do not understand me as pressing you unduly. I put the question to you to bring it to your mind if anything of the sort did occur?—No, it did not; if it had I would have told you directly.

43,534. After this, did you go home or go about your business?—I went to some of the committee rooms by myself.

43,535. Did you see any money given there?—No, not any.

43,536. Or any beer?—No, not any.

43,537. Did any corrupt practice of any sort come within your own knowledge, or before your own eyes, that day?—No, not any.

43,538. Nothing but this matter of the "Derby Arms," that you have told me of?—Nothing else, I assure you.

43,539. Did you canvass at all before the day?—No.

43,540–1. I understand you heard of these men being there and were determined to secure them if you could?—Yes, I heard of it by accident. I was at a labour close by that morning.

43,542. That brought you on the spot, and you heard that the voters were there and you were tempted?—Yes, I was tempted; that was it.

43,543. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

43,544. Or the promise of anything?—No.

43,545. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you find any voters who were inclined to vote for a very small consideration?—No.

43,546–7. Your attention was not attracted beyond these men that you found at the "Derby Arms"?—No.

THIRTY-SECOND DAY.

S. Grint.

15 Oct. 1869.

SAMUEL GRINT sworn and examined.

43,548. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

43,549. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

43,550. At what time?—Between 3 and 4.

43,551. Were you at any public-house before you went to vote?—Not one; not the whole day. I never went into a public-house at all.

43,552. What is your employment?—A master shoemaker and shoe manufacturer.

43,553. Why did you not vote earlier?—That was left to my own option. I knew the poll was open from 8 to 4, and I did not think that there was any particular time to vote so exact.

43,554. Did you receive anything for your vote?—Not a farthing.

43,555. Or the promise of anything?—Not a farthing from anybody.

43,556. Did you pay or give anybody any money to vote?—Not a farthing; not for voting, certainly not.

43,557. Not to vote at all?—No, not to vote at all.

43,558. You gave a sum of 4*s.* to a man, did you not?—No, not a farthing.

43,559. Did you not give 4*s.* to a man of the name of George Brown?—No, certainly not.

43,560. John Brown?—No, certainly not for voting.

43,561. Did you not upon that day or some other day give 4*s.* to Brown?—Not for voting.

43,562. What did you give it for?—I bought some leather of him.

43,563. When was it you paid him?—About two or three days after when I bought this leather.

43,564. Did you give it to George or John Brown?—I think it must be George, but I would not say.

43,565. Did you not give it to George for John?—Certainly not. I paid the man himself. I bought the things of him.

43,566. You gave it to George?—Yes, I am pretty well sure his name is George. I might say I am certain his name is George.

43,567. Did you not give it to George that he might go and vote in the name of John?—No, it had nothing whatever to do with voting. I bought some leather two or three days after the election.

43,568. You paid him 4*s.*?—Yes, for the things I bought of him.

43,569. Did you ever get any bill for it?—No, not for that sum of money. I did not ask for anything of the kind.

43,570. You know John Brown, do you not?—No, I cannot say I do.

43,571. You know John Brown had a vote?—I cannot say I know John Brown.

43,572. You know George Brown's brother-in-law?—That I cannot say.

43,573. You heard that George Brown's brother-in-law had a vote?—No, I do not know of any of George's brothers.

43,574. You have heard of John Brown?—No, I do not know him.

43,575. You may not know him, but you knew John Brown had a vote?—I do not know anything about that. I bought the leather of George Brown.

43,576. Have you not said that you paid George Brown 4*s.* to put in the name of his brother-in-law, John?—No.

43,577. Do you mean to say it is untrue that you paid George Brown any money to vote in the name of John?—I never paid any man any money to vote for anyone, neither for myself nor yet for anybody else.

43,578. Where does George Brown live?—I think he used to live in Rose Yard.

43,579. Does he live there now?—No, I think not.

43,580. Where does he live now?—They told me some time back that he had gone away.

43,581. Do you not know where he is?—No, I cannotsay where he is now; they tell me he has left Norwich.

43,582. Do you mean to say you do not know where George Brown, the man who sold you the leather, is now?—No, certainly not.

43,583. When did you see him last?—It is several months ago, now; three or four, or four or five months.

43,584. Where did you see him?—I saw him in my own house last time.

43,585. He came and called upon you?—Yes, sometimes I buy a little job lot of him.

43,586. Have you not seen him since?—No.

43,587. Did you pay anybody else any money?—No, not a farthing to anybody; not for anything of that kind.

43,588. You say you bought some leather of him?—Yes, a little job lot.

43,589. He has got no shop?—No.

43,590. How came you to be buying leather of a man who has no shop?—I do not know.

43,591. Had you ever done it before?—Yes.

43,592. Have you ever bought leather of George Brown before?—Yes, a few little pieces.

43,593. How comes he to have leather for sale?—What they have overplus in the works, the same as they have at my own.

43,594. He is employed in a factory, is he?—No, he works at home, I believe.

43,595. It looks to me as if he got his overplus from somewhere, and you were the receiver.

(Mr. Biron.) That certainly seems to be your own opinion.

43,596. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) He is a workman in other people's employ, and he has got an overplus, which is nothing more or less than something which belongs to his master, which he appropriates to himself. It certainly looks very like it, but I hope it is not so. However, we have not got anything to do with that. Are you sure you did not give him the 4*s.* to vote?—No, certainly not.

43,597. Are you sure you gave nobody else any money?—Not a farthing.

43,598. Did anybody give you any money to go and spend among voters?—No, not a farthing.

43,599. Did you take any voters up?—No, not one.

43,600. Did you induce any persons to go up to the poll?—No, not one.

W. W. Kett.

WILLIAM WOODHOUSE KETT sworn and examined.

43,601. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A calico merchant or draper.

43,602. Did you take a busy part at the last election?—Yes, very active.

43,603. You were manager for Mr. Tillett?—I did what I conceived every thorough Englishman ought to do, that is to try and defeat those people who are trying to pull down Church and Queen. But another object I had in view was this; there is a compromise in this city, and my determination is to oppose all compromise men.

43,604. Were you a paid manager?—No.

43,605. Did you afterwards receive any acknowledgment or payment?—No. I can say what a candid gentleman in the Whig interest would not like to say, that I never paid anything or received anything; and further than that, I never subscribed anything to debase my fellow-citizens.

43,606. You are not one shilling out of pocket by the last election?—Not a farthing. I do not think I spent one farthing upon the day.

43,607. Did any money go through your hands for the purpose of influencing the election?—Not a fraction, nor yet at any other election.

43,608. You were a manager simply from zeal for your party?—Yes. On the day before the election I went into the seventh ward, and said, "Is there anything I can do?" and they said, "Oh, oh; Hulme has got the second ward, go and help him." I said, "I am off," and went down to the second ward. I met with several voters, who said, "If I do not get what I am in the habit of getting I will vote for Stracey;" and I heard another account, that Mr. Colman was to slip a sovereign into a teapot for some woman.

43,609. Do you know that he did it?—No, it was only talk.

(Mr. Biron.) And very idle talk.

43,610. (Mr. Mansfield.) Can you say anything about the election?—Nothing beyond what I have done; nothing in the shape of bribery or treating, or anything of the kind. I was working in the second ward, and I should have said that Mr. Hulme never had a shilling—I mean the gentleman who has committed himself so strangely.

43,611. You did not suspect he had been at work?—No. I should like to make a little comment upon the evidence of the other gentlemen who have been before you.

(Mr. Biron.) We do not want your comments.

43,612. (Mr. Mansfield.) Is it anything reflecting upon you?—No, not anything reflecting upon me; simply upon my ward.

43,613. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) I am afraid we cannot protect your ward against slander.—Some gentlemen say that some wards vote straight, when I know the contrary.

(Mr. Biron.) You had better go and tell it in the ward.

JAMES TUCK sworn and examined. J. Tuck.

43,614. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A master shoe manufacturer.

43,615. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

43,616. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

43,617. At what time in the day?—About a quarter past 3.

43,618. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

43,619. Or the promise of anything?—No, nothing.

43,620. Had you promised to vote for him?—Yes.

43,621. To whom did you give your promise?—To one of the young Straceys.

43,622. Did he come to you before the election?—Yes, two or three days before the election.

ROBERT FULLER recalled and further examined. R. Fuller.

43,623. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you know where the money came from that went down to the "Trumpet"?—No, I do not.

43,624. Do you know anything about any money being sent down, or given to your brother at the "Trumpet"?—I know nothing about it, only what I told you. I received 7*s.* 6*d.*, but whether it was Mr. Hunt's money or anybody else's I cannot say. I did not see any brought.

43,625. Do you not know anything about a sum of money which was taken down to the "Trumpet"?—I do not know anything about it, not one word; but if you think I do I am able to take any punishment you may think proper to inflict upon me. I do not know anything of it.

43,626–7. Have you not said you knew something about it?—I never said a word of the kind. I did not say so because I did not know it.

43,628. Have you ever heard from your brother that there was any money sent down?—No. I am not often in Norwich, sometimes I am away two or three months.

43,629. Have you heard from your brother's wife that there was any money sent down?—No, not one farthing.

43,630. Have you ever had any conversation with her about it?—No.

43,631. Have you ever had any conversation with a person in the employment of Messrs. Green and Bennett?—My son-in-law that is.

43,632. Have you had any conversation with him about it?—No, none at all, and if he has committed himself he must suffer for it.

43,633. Have you never said anything to him about money?—No, not one farthing.

43,634. Is it wholly untrue?—It is actually the truth, and if I knew anything I would tell you.

43,635. I mean the statement that you said anything about it is wholly untrue?—Yes, it is an untruth, and I am willing to suffer for anything anybody may bring against me; if I had known it I would have told you. I have told you the truth now as I did before.

JOSHUA CADYWOLD sworn and examined. J. Cadywold.

43,636. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—A warehouseman and wine cellarman.

43,637. Are you in the employment of Mr. Lacey?—No.

43,638. In whose employment are you?—Bosworth and Baxter of Magdalen Street.

43,639. For whom did you vote?—Sir Henry Stracey.

43,640. Did you get anything for it?—No.

43,641. Did you try?—I should like to have had it but I could not get it.

43,642. Did anyone offer it to you?—No.

43,643. Did you have any beer?—Yes, I had some beer.

43,644. Who paid for it?—My master.

43,645. Was that for voting?—No.

43,646. What was it for?—We are allowed so much beer a day.

43,647. That is in your trade. You were not paid or promised anything for voting?—No, not a fraction.

43,648. You would have been glad to have got anything if you could?—Yes, I should.

43,649. From either side?—Yes, either side. I would have taken it both sides.

FREDERICK PEARMAN sworn and examined. F. Pearman.

43,650. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—A hay trusser.

43,651. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

43,652. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

43,653. At what time in the day?—About 3 o'clock.

43,654. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

43,655. Or the promise of anything?—No, nor yet the promise of anything. I never see nothing.

THIRTY-SECOND DAY.

F. Pearman.

15 Oct. 1869.

43,656. No money ?—No.

43,657. No beer ?—No, except what I paid for myself.

43,658. Why did you not vote earlier ?—Because I was out. My work lay in the country.

43,659. Had you promised to vote ?—No.

43,660. Did you ever vote Tory before ?—No.

43,661. This was your first vote ?—Yes, my first vote.

43,662. And you gave it without any undue influence being put upon you ?—Yes.

H. Lacey.

HORACE LACEY sworn and examined.

43,663. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Are you a builder ?—Yes.

43,664. Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey ?—No.

43,665. For whom did you vote ?—For Russell.

43,666. On the day of the election had you some men at work at Crown point ?—Yes.

43,667. Were Charles Cousins and George Willimot in your employment there ?—Yes.

43,668. And was John Nicholls also there ?—John Nicholls was there.

43,669. Was he at work at Crown point on the day of the election ?—I think not, our books will show that, but he was in our employment.

43,670. How many men had you at work at Crown Point ?—I cannot tell you, the pay sheets will show you. I have my books (the books and pay sheets are handed up to the Commissioners).

43,671. Would it not appear in the books ?—No.

43,672. Were all these men that appear on these two pay sheets in your employment at that time ?—Yes, on the job.

43,673. At Crown point ?—Yes.

43,674. Is this the week ending November the 19th —Yes, we end our weeks on Thursday.

43,675. From Thursday to Thursday ?—From Friday morning to Thursday.

43,676. In what capacity was Nicholls in your employment ?—A carpenter.

43,677. And Willimot was another carpenter ?—Yes.

43,678. And Cousins was also a carpenter ?—Yes.

43,679. Did you offer anything to the men on the day of the election ?—No, I did not.

43,680. Can you tell me where Charles Cousins and George Willmot are ?—No, I am not aware where they live at all. We have so many in our employment that I do not know where they all live of course. I have not the slightest knowledge of where they live.

43,681. Did you not promise the men a day's pay ?—No, certainly not, they asked for it, but I never promised. They never had it that I know of.

43,682. They did not work that day ?—I believe some of them worked part of the day.

43,683. They did not work nearly a full day ?—No.

43,684. They did not work a full day, but they were allowed a full day ?—They were only allowed what they worked.

43,685. Nicholls made eight hours, Cousins and Willimot did not make a day ?—No, you will see several of them lost time. You will see if you look at our book that some of the foremen lost time.

43,686. I see Elliott was in your employment then; can you tell me where that man lived ?—I do not know all of them ; I know several of their names, but I do not know half our men to see to.

43,687. I only want to know whether you know where they live ?—No, I do not know where they live at all ; it is a thing we never inquire into.

43,688. Had you a man of the name of Norton then in your employment. I do not see him down in the list of carpenters ?—No, sir, Norton is there; you will find him lower down in the list of carpenters, on the second sheet, I think.

43,689. He made his 10 hours that day ?—He is the timekeeper ; he would not leave under any circumstances.

43,690. There was a man of the name of Robert Chesman ?—Robert Chesney, I think you will find it is ; he is the foreman on the job.

43,691. Where would his name appear in the list ?—It would not appear in that list at all ; he was not paid by time.

43,692. It would appear in your general book, would it not ?—No, not in that account ; we keep a book purposely for him ; he is always on the job, and we pay him so much a month.

43,693. And it would not appear in this book ?—No.

43,694. Only on this pay sheet ?—No, not on that pay sheet.

43,695. Did you make that suggestion to any other man in your employment ?—No ; I am quite sure no man was coerced in any way in our firm ; there was as many, I believe, voted one way as another. I think, if you look through the yard men, you will find they voted generally as they liked on either side.

43,696. They might have voted just as they liked, and yet you might have said that you would give particular men a day's pay ?—No, I never used any interference of any kind I am sure, neither before nor after.

43,697. You yourself did not vote for Stracey ?—No, I did not.

43,698. And you did not split your vote ?—No, I did not split my vote either. Of course they all asked for a day's pay.

43,699. You say they did ask you for a day's pay ?—Oh, yes, that is the usual thing with all men of that class to do, but I did not do it. If you look through all my home sheets, you will find all the men's time kept exactly as they made it during that day and every other day, just the same as you did on the other sheet.

43,700. Did you hold out any promise or inducement to the men to vote ?—No, I have not ; I did not.

43,701. Did you give them anything ?—I have given them nothing.

43,702. Nor promise anything ? — Nor promise anything ; neither have they had anything whatever at my hands, whatever they may say.

43,703. What are these sheets here ? Do they show what was paid ?—You said in your summons that I was to bring the November month, but I left that week open for you that you might not have any trouble to find it.

43,704. I only wanted to know whether the other sheets would show what was actually paid ?—Yes, that month will show what all the men had, just as this one does, if you like to look at it. I left that week open so that you might not have the trouble to undo it.

43,705. Does this show the actual payments for that week ?—Yes, on that particular job.

43,706. This represents the cash at 3*l.* 3*s.*, and that would carry out that work according to the number of days done ?—Yes ; if you add it up you will find it is right.

43,707. I see, for instance, Elliott only got 7*s.* 6¼*d.*, and others got 10*s.* 4½*d.*—It is according to the time ; you will see the prices, some of them are 2¼*d.*

43,708. Was nothing paid for besides that, which is down on this sheet ?—That is all.

43,709. You can swear that ?—Yes, I can.

43,710. I suppose that would be verified to a considerable extent by the cash in your books?—The cash is always sent up according to the amount of the sheets. The sheet comes home, and our clerk carries it out according to the prices here, 4¼*d.*, 5¼*d.*, and so on.

43,711. Does your cash book correspond with this 43*l.* ?—I have no doubt I could find a cheque for that amount, because I always got a separate cheque.

43,712. Would it appear in any way in this (pointing to a book) ?—No; this is what I call the home wages book.

43,713. The men in the yard ?—The men in the yard and in the city; we keep a separate sheet for each job, and any out job has a separate sheet.

43,714. I must ask you to leave this till to-morrow morning.—I shall want the book to-night, if you please, because this is our pay night.

43,715. Yes, you may have that book; but the man Cousins has positively sworn that you offered to him and to some other men in the yard a day's pay on the election day ?—He did not say that I gave it to him, I suppose ?

43,716. He said that you promised it him ?—Well, I did not; neither did I give it to him, I am sure.

43,717. (Mr. Biron.) They did ask you for it ?—Oh, yes.

43,718. Did you say you could not give them anything of the sort, or simply hold your tongue ?—I merely said, "Go and vote, and leave the rest;" I did not hold out to them any expectation that I should pay them.

43,719. They said, "Give us a day's pay if we vote," and you said, "Go and vote ?"—Yes, that is about the substance of it, as near as possible. I never promised them anything or gave them anything.

43,720. I can very well understand that you might not have thought it a promise, but the men to whom you said it might ?—Yes, they might infer what they liked; but I did not carry it out.

43,721. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You never allowed it ?—I never allowed it that I know of; I never heard of it since, at any rate; they have never mentioned it to me since, either.

43,722. (Mr. Mansfield.) You never intended to offer them any inducement whatever ?—No, I should not like to trust to them.

43,723. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) All that you said when they asked for it was "Go and vote?"—Yes.

43,724. Had you any inducement whatever to tell them to vote for Stracey ?—No, not any.

43,725. You did not yourself vote for Stracey ?—I did not myself vote for Stracey, either.

43,726. (Mr. Mansfield.) You did not coalesce with Mr. Tillett, and you did not coalesce with Stracey ?—No, certainly not.

43,727. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Very likely they may have misunderstood what you said.—The general understanding with them is to get money; that is all I have ever found with them.

43,728. What time in the day was it that that conversation took place ?—Not on the day of the election at all, I am sure, because I was not there on that day; this must have been a day or two before, or something like that, because I was not at Crown Point at all on that day.

William Bailey sworn and examined.

W. Bailey.

43,729. (Mr. Mansfield.) Have you to-day seen Robert Wiseman ?—Yes, I have.

43,730. Can you say from your professional experience that it would be dangerous to his health to come and give evidence in this court ?—I am sure it would.

43,731. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Would it endanger his life ?—Yes, I believe it would.

43,732. What is the matter with him ?—He is suffering from heart disease.

43,733. Have you been attending him ?—No.

43,734. Who has been attending him ?—Mr. Firth.

43,735. What is the nature of his disease ?—He is suffering from valvular disease of the heart; Mr. Firth has been attending him for a very long while, and I believe he gave a certificate to that effect. Mr. Firth is away from town and I have been to see him this morning.

43,736. (Mr. Mansfield.) In what state was he when you saw him just now ?—Well, I tell you he is suffering from heart disease, and he is not certainly in a fit state to come here. He says he is perfectly willing if you will send anyone down to examine him, and any evidence he can give he shall be only too glad to do it.

43,737. (Mr. Biron.) Do you think it would endanger his life to examine him here; is that your opinion as a professional man ?—I do think so; if you were to see him you would then judge for yourself.

43,738. I would rather take your opinion than my own ?—He is thoroughly ill; there is no mistake about it; I have been about an hour ago to see him.

43,739. We are very anxious indeed that Mr. Wiseman should be examined publicly in open court if he could, but if you tell us that there would be any risk of his life of course we should be doing a wrongful act in calling him here ?—I think it would endanger his life in the state in which he is at the present time.

43,740. There is no danger in examining him privately ?—Not at all; he says he is perfectly willing, if you do not mind examining him at his own house.

43,741. Would it not be safe for him to drive down to our lodgings ?—Anywhere, not in public.

43,742. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) I suppose he can go about his ordinary business ?—Yes, without any excitement he can.

43,743. But you are afraid of the excitement of an examination in open court ?—I think the excitement in an open court would be detrimental to his health.

43,744–5. That unusual state of exertion of the heart might bring on death ?—I have not the least doubt about it.

Abel Tillett sworn and examined.

A. Tillett.

43,746. (Mr. Biron.) Were you manager of one of the wards at the last election ?—I was the manager of the eighth ward.

43,747. For whom ?—For my uncle Mr. Tillett.

43,748. For Sir William Russell and Mr. Tillett ?—For Mr. Tillett.

43,749. Did you keep to the committee room, or did you go about canvassing in the ward ?—I did not canvass, and I kept in the committee room.

43,750. Checking the returns that were brought to you by the canvassers ?—Yes.

43,751. And on the polling-day, I suppose, watching the returns of the poll, comparing the returns with the canvass-books, and sending about to get up voters ?—Yes.

43,752. You yourself stayed at the committee room, giving directions ?—Yes.

43,753. In the course of the day did anything occur

THIRTY-SECOND DAY.

A. Tillett.

15 Oct. 1869.

to arouse your suspicions as to what was being done by the other side?—I was told about 12 o'clock that a meeting was about being held by the Conservatives, and that in about three quarters of an hour I should know whether it was decided that money was to be spent, or not.

43,754. When the three quarters of an hour had elapsed, was anything said to you about money being on the point of being spent?—From the doubtful voters polling I believed that money was being spent.

43,755. How did you get at your notion of the doubtful voters; were they men that had been returned to you as doubtful?—Yes.

43,756. Not men whom you knew of your own knowledge to be doubtful?—No, certainly not.

43,757. Were they men who had promised you who were voting on the other side?—I canvassed no one.

43,758. Or who were returned to you as having promised?—They were returned as doubtful.

43,759. And you observed that a great number of those men turned up voting for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

43,760. And did that go on, more or less, until the end of the polling?—It went on more and more until about half-past 3, and they polled then very quickly indeed.

43,761. Can you tell me who the people were that gave you this information in the committee room?—I believe that Mr. Smith Gilbert was the principal one.

43,762. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Could he give us any more information than you can give us?—I do not think he can.

43,763. (Mr. Biron.) Can you give us any information which will enable us to get at those men who were doubtful, and who voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—You will find them on my brief, I believe.

43,764. Can you give us no information beyond what we have already had in the brief which was delivered by you at the time of the petition?—Not much, I think, there is only one circumstance that is not mentioned in the brief.

43,765. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Was this a person who voted for Stracey after 2 o'clock?—Smith Gilbert was one of the committee in the eighth ward.

43,766. I am speaking of this person whom you thought you could name; was he a person that voted for Stracey after 2 o'clock?—I beg your pardon.

43,767. (Mr. Biron.) Will you just tell us what it was you were going to say?—In the course of the afternoon some one saw me, I cannot remember the person, and named to me that thirty or forty persons were in Clarke's beerhouse in Jenkin's Lane, and that if I would only give them a pot of beer each, they would vote for Russell and Tillett; if not, they would vote for Stracey, and I said, "Not sixpence."

43,768. Did you take no action upon that?—None at all.

43,769. Did you send anybody to prevent the other side getting at them?—I did.

43,770. You know we have gone into Clarke's beerhouse most fully?—I believe you have.

43,771. I mean to say, can you give me any names with regard to it?—No, I cannot; I cannot remember it.

43,772. We have gone into Clarke's beerhouse in every way we could; we have called everybody we could find out as being there, and everybody who knows anything about it; but beyond Clarke's beerhouse can you tell me anything?—Nothing but what was on the brief.

Then I think we need not trouble you any further; we have thoroughly investigated everything there was in the brief.

Adjourned to to-morrow at 10.30.

THIRTY-THIRD DAY.

At the Commissioners' Lodgings, Queen Street, Saturday, 16th October 1869.

ROBERT PURLAND WISEMAN recalled and further examined.

43,774. (Mr. Biron.) Since we last saw you we have called a number of witnesses before us, and some of them I regret to say tell us matters that do not at all agree with the information you gave us here, and we are anxious before we leave the city to give you one more opportunity of setting anything right.—Any question you put to me, and I can answer it, I will do so.

43,775. I will call your attention in order of time to the name of one man, Lake. If you remember you told us that you gave Lake 3*l.* 10*s.* ?—No, I beg your pardon. I told you I could not swear to him, but I thought I gave him from 2*l.* to 3*l.* 10*s.*

43,776. Your answer was, "I believe it was 3*l.* or 3*l.* 10*s.*" ?—Yes, but I said I could not swear as to him.

43,777. We have had him before us, and he says you only gave him two half sovereigns.—I would not even swear to that; but you have had others before you who have told you that they received 5*l.* when I gave them 3*l.* 10*s.*; in every instance, according to the evidence as I have read it, it has exceeded what I told you.

43,778. That is not so, unfortunately. With reference to Lake, do you accept his version as the true one, or do you wish to put a contradiction to it upon the record?—The first statement was that I could not swear to anything as to Lake, but I believed in my mind that I gave him something, and I thought it might be from 2*l.* to 3*l.* 10*s.* He told all his best friends that he did not receive a farthing up to the time you compelled him to tell the truth; that I think is some proof that he does not always stick to the truth.

43,779. It is perfectly true you said you did not remember clearly what you gave Lake, but you put it at 3*l.* or 3*l.* 10*s.*, and he puts it at 1*l.*—I said that I gave him something, and if he says that I gave him 1*l.* I think it is more likely I gave him 2*l.*, but I would rather not be upon my oath as to the matter.

43,780. You will not take upon yourself to contradict his statement?—No; he has acknowledged now to having received beyond what he told his neighbours. He told them he did not receive a farthing from me. I would tell you in a moment if I could recollect it.

43,781. Here is another more serious matter, with regard to Green, the plasterer. If you remember you told us that you gave Green, the plasterer, 20*l.* 10*s.*?—Yes, I swore to 20*l.*

43,782. 20*l.* 10*s.*?—Let it be so. It would be so; first 8*l.* 10*s.*, then 7*l.* and 5*l.* I repeat the same, and wish to contradict him, if you please.

43,783. You still adhere to the statement that you gave him 20*l.* 10*s.*?—Yes, decidedly.

43,784. Have you seen Green's evidence that he gave before us? After his statement to us that he did not get it, did you try all you could to bring your mind back to the matter so far as you could?—Yes, and I say my original statement was correct.

43,785. You wish to adhere to the original statement?—Yes, and I lent him 5*l.* beside that.

43,786. This is a matter which deeply concerns you. Can you give us any clue?—I gave him 8*l.* 10*s.* to start with.

43,787. Can you give us any clue by which we can ascertain the truth between you and him? Do you know of any person to whom he made statements?—Only as I read it in the papers, and those persons I do not know from Adam. I have been looking through a new directory and cannot find the name of Hughes, although he has stated to you that he has been in a gentleman's employ for 20 years.

43,788. You cannot help us to form a comparison between your evidence and Green's?—No.

43,789. You cannot tell us anybody to whom Green has made any statement with reference to the matter?—No, I do not know the parties, but he took a handful of money out and showed it to someone, and said, "This is what I have got out of the election."

43,790. You cannot give us any names?—No. I have not seen him since. He was to have called upon me two or three mornings afterwards and make arrangements, and tell me how he spent it, and to whom he gave it.

43,791. There is another matter which is not quite satisfactory. You told us you gave your son 25*l.*, have you no notion of what your son did with that money?—Only as he told me when he came home, and as I have read the evidence.

43,792. What did he tell you when he came home?—He told me that he gave Mr. White 5*l.* I said, "What did you do with the rest?" and he says, "I "had no time. No one was standing about that I "could trust to."

43,793. Did he give you back the 20*l.*?—Yes.

43,794. You did not tell us that before, nor did your son tell it to us in his examination.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) No, he did not say he gave it back. On the contrary, he said he spent a part of it.

43,795. (Mr. Biron.) He gave it back to you?—Yes.

43,796. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Have you got that money still in your possession?—Yes, and I can give you a cheque for it if you like.

43,797. You know well enough to whom it belongs. We can give no direction upon it.—It is in my possession now.

43,798. You know to whom it belongs, and to whom it ought to be paid, and if you have a particle of honesty about you, you will take very good care that it is returned.—I mean to do so, certainly.

43,799. We have no control over it.—I mean to do so if possible.

43,800. (Mr. Mansfield.) Have you any further statement to make with respect to your practices at the last election or the election before?—I had very little to do with this, and you know all about the other.

43,801. Have you nothing to add to your evidence?—No.

43,802. (Mr. Biron.) You told us what you got into your hands on the last occasion?—Yes, and you did not ask Lake anything about that.

43,803. Did you give Tom Worledge anything, or either of the Worledges?—Not a farthing.

43,804. Do you know where he got it?—No. He came to me and said, "We shall lose the election;" and I said, "Not a farthing,"

43,805. Was that before you had got the money?—Yes, exactly. I said, "Not half a pint of beer, not a farthing."

43,806. Do you know anything of the way in which Hardiment got his money?—No, not at all. I would tell you in a moment, but I have no more idea than this chair.

43,807. You are an old hand here. Surely you do not believe Mr. Hardiment spent it out of his own pocket?—No, but I do not know where he got it.

THIRTY-THIRD DAY.

R. P. Wiseman.

16 Oct. 1869.

43,808. Do you not know where he got credit from?—I would tell you in a moment if I did.

43,809. Do you know that Hardiment gave Worledge money?—I do not know. I did not see him afterwards.

43,810. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Have you any idea where the man at the "Trumpet" got the money from?—No, I never ascertained how one farthing of it was arrived at.

43,811. You do not suppose it was their own money?—Was there any at all supplied?

43,812. There is no doubt about that?—I wish you would find it out. I would tell you if I knew anything about it, but I know nothing further than what I have told you about Mr. Joseph Allen.

43,813. (Mr. Mansfield.) There is nothing that you wish to clear up about this transaction?—I do not know of anything. There is not anything that I have not told you that I know of.

43,814. (Mr. Biron.) This contradiction between yourself an Green is most unfortunate?—That is most audacious, and I should be most happy to face him and you. I only wish I was well. I had eleven hours of palpitation of the heart yesterday. I told you that Green had that money of me, but he stated in his evidence that it was at a quarter to 4, but he had the first at a quarter-past 3.

43,815. You never got it till after 3?—I got it at about two minutes past 3. I heard that clock strike. I could not be many minutes after it; at all events it would not be more than a quarter past 3. I was only just going to get it—a stone's throw. I had nothing else whatever to do with it in any shape.

43,816. This is what you said about it: "Richard "Green lived in St. Paul's. I sent for him three or "four times to come and speak to me. He is now a "plasterer at the new bank at Bristol." Where did you get the statement that he was a plasterer at the new bank at Bristol?—That is the message I received when I sent to him. I sent to him once to come and speak to me, and tell me the particulars of how he spent the money, because he has not told you in his evidence that he gave Sexton 10*s*.

43,817. Yes, I think he told us that. We need not detain you longer, but I would impress upon you the very great importance, for your own sake, of clearing up this matter about Green, the plasterer. Although perhaps you yourself are not capable of taking any great physical exertion, you have a son who is young and active, and who ought to be very keen about your honour as well as his own?—I am very glad to see that it is cleared up by people who are utter strangers to me. I think I can rest upon those remarks very satisfactorily. I should like you to come to an acquaintance with those three people, but I think Mr. Green must have gone and told these people who volunteered their evidence.

43,818. You will bear that last remark of mine in mind?—Yes, I am correct. I will not turn from what I have said under any consideration.

Adjourned to the court.

J. B. Morgan.

JOHN BRANDRAM MORGAN sworn and examined.

43,819. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You were an active supporter of Sir Henry Stracey at the last election, were you not?—Yes.

43,820. Your name has been mentioned several times during the course of the present inquiry, and you having been an active supporter, I want to ask you, are you aware during the course of your progress in the assistance given by you to Sir Henry Stracey, or otherwise, of any sum of money or anything having been given to any man to induce him to vote?—No.

43,821. Were you active upon the day of the election?—I was at Yarmouth in the morning stopping there with my family, I came up by the first train, reaching Norwich I think about a quarter to 11, and left just after the election was over.

43,822. During the day were you traversing the city for the purpose of getting up voters?—Yes. I confined myself principally to my own neighbourhood.

43,823. Did you find that there were a considerable number of men who were hanging back?—Certainly hanging back.

43,824. Did they make any suggestion to you that they required payment?—No, no suggestion of the sort.

43,825. Was anything said about a day's pay, or anything of that kind?—Certainly not by any means generally. It might have been so in one or two, or three cases, but I so thoroughly turned a deaf ear to anything of the sort, saying that nothing whatever would be given.

43,826. Did you receive injunctions both to refrain yourself and see that others refrained from any illegal practices?—Yes; I should perhaps say that I was one of those that are sometimes called "heads of the party." I do not know for what reason, but we are so called. I was at the original meeting at which Sir Henry Stracey came into the room and acknowledged himself as our candidate. Sir Samuel Bignold, Mr. Patteson, Mr. Watson, Mr. Tuck, and myself were there, and others; in fact there were about eight or 10 of us, and Sir Henry Stracey distinctly said that if the election was not carried on upon strictly legal principles he would not stand.

43,827. Did you tacitly pledge yourself to Sir Henry Stracey that that should be the case?—Yes, I did so; it so thoroughly accorded with my own feelings and principles.

43,828. Not only tacitly but expressly?—Yes.

43,829. Did you do everything in your power to see that that pledge was carried out?—Yes, everything; and in fact my belief was that nothing was given, that was my belief till after the election was over, and in fact for some little time afterwards I believed it was a pure election. I stated in public more than once that I thought it was the purest election that had ever taken place in Norwich.

43,830. I need hardly ask you whether you yourself gave or offered any money whatever to any person upon the day of the election?—No, nor gave any promise.

43,831. Were you privy to it, either directly or indirectly?—No.

43,832. Do you know of any treating having been resorted to during the election?—No, certainly not.

43,833. Did you authorise any?—No, I authorised none. I knew it would be illegal, and I was perfectly satisfied that Sir Henry Stracey would disapprove of it most entirely. He expressed himself so to myself privately as well as at the public meeting to which I have referred. It so agreed with my own feelings that I would not sanction it.

43,834. You would know from your connexion with the city, I think most probably, whether there was any fund, subscription, or guarantee of any sort or kind for the purpose of supplying money for any purpose connected with the election other than that which we heard of afterwards?—No, there was none; there was no fund of the sort, because I think I should have heard of it had there been any such a thing, in the position I was; that is to say, if it were known by others in my position I should have known of it.

43,835. I may take it almost that you and Mr. Patteson were the two most active men in the city in support of Sir Henry Stracey?—I confined myself almost entirely to the neighbourhood around my own brewery, and as far as the station. I canvassed the station, and in fact I was rather active in the canvass for three or four days, or perhaps a week, before the election.

43,836. As far as activity in the support of Sir Henry Stracey is to be regarded, you and Mr. Patteson seem almost to have been two of the most active men of the party in the city on his behalf?—Yes, I should think so, I took a great interest in it.

43,837. I only said that with a view to ascertain whether we had got those persons who are most likely to know anything?—Yes, I should say so. I do not know anybody that was more active than myself.

43,838. Have you any reason to suppose that any means were provided for the repayment of the money to Hardiment, or the repayment of any monies to those other persons whose names have transpired as persons having given bribes during the last election?—I do not know of any such fund at all.

43,839. Can you suggest to me any person who could have held out any inducement to them with regard to repayment?—No.

43,840. Can you suggest anybody?—You see, of course, one is a little influenced by having constantly read the evidence given here. I should not have suspected it before having read the evidence, and for this reason, that I believed the election was thoroughly pure.

43,841. Carrying your knowledge back, now has anything transpired which would enable you to give us any idea as to whether there was any person who could have guaranteed those persons their expenditure?—No, not the least. I never was so taken by surprise as when I read what had transpired.

43,842. We find there were a number of little bribers as well as those two persons who were more prominent in it; you are aware of nothing that will throw any light upon the matter?—No, I have not the slightest idea.

43,843. Have you an idea that that was not done independently on their own account?—I do not know Hardiment; in fact I do not know that I knew there was such a person till after the inquiry took place.

43,844. Is it your impression, may I ask you, from what you know of the city, and what you know of the circumstances connected with the last elections, that that was done of their own sheer impulse?—I think very likely, but I do not know what his position is, I mean his financial position.

43,845. He had the means of doing it beyond all question; we have ascertained that he had the means of credit?—Then I should think he is just the sort of man to do it, from a sort of bravado.

43,846. I am speaking with reference to what has transpired since, and what you know of the city, and would ask you whether you would come to the conclusion that there was anybody behind, or whether they were in fact doing it as their own independent speculation, not only those men but the other persons?—I should say so; it is just possible, although it is merely a suggestion of mine, that they might have trusted to chance to be repaid, but I cannot say even so much as that; it is merely my suggestion.

43,847. They might have done it with a speculation of repayment?—Yes, with a chance of being repaid or not.

43,848. And they may have looked for some remuneration for it besides?—Yes, exactly, it is possible.

43,849. Can you give us any other information which is material to the present inquiry?—No.

43,850. We have called everybody before us upon whom suspicion could attach. We have not called you before us because suspicion attached to you, but we have called you simply in order to ascertain whether you could give us any further information to assist us in carrying on the inquiry.—Had I any further information to give I should be most ready and willing to furnish it.

HENRY READ sworn and examined.

H. Read.

43,851. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you?—A harness maker.

43,852. You are not a voter for the city?—No.

43,853. Did you at the time of the election receive some money for the purpose of paying voters?—Yes.

43,854. From whom did you receive that money?—Robert Bunn.

43,855. How much was that in amount?—2*l.* I received it in four half sovereigns.

43,856. What did you do with that money?—I gave 10*s.* to Brock, and 5*s.* I also gave to Brock to give to another man of the name of Chenery; 7*s.* 6*d.* I gave to Lincoln, and the rest I spent about myself.

43,857. Is that all the money you received?—Yes, that is all I had.

43,858. Have you received any money since?—No.

43,859. Were you instrumental in treating voters?—No, not to half a pint of beer.

43,860. Is that the whole amount of your work during the election?—Yes.

43,861. Did you take up any voters?—No, not one.

43,862. What hour of the day was it that Bunn gave you the money?—It was some time after 3, but I do not know exactly, between 3 and 4.

43,863. Where was it that he gave it to you?—At the corner of Ber Street.

43,864. Was anyone present?—No, no one, only him and me.

43,865. Are you aware of Bunn giving money to anyone else?—No, only as I have read it in the paper.

43,866. Were you about the whole day?—Yes.

43,867. Did you see Durrant during the election?—I saw him in the afternoon.

43,868. Getting voters?—No.

43,869. What did you see him about?—I saw him standing by his own shop door at the time I received the 2*l.*; it was very near there that I received it.

43,870. Did you see him taking any part in the election?—No, not any.

43,871. Did you see him receive any money?—No.

43,872. Is that all you can tell us about this last election?—That is all I know. I know nothing more.

43,873. Have you ever been engaged at other elections here?—I was here at Waters' election.

43,874. Did you get anything then?—Yes, a little, but very little, 2*l.* or 3*l.*

43,875. To put about in the same way?—No, I kept that myself.

43,876. Were you a voter then?—Yes.

43,877. Do you recollect who paid you the money?—Yes.

43,878. Who was it?—Bunn.

43,879. That is the reason he came to you this time?—Yes, very likely.

43,880. Upon any other occasion have you been concerned in any elections?—No, not in any other.

43,881. Have you received nothing since?—No, nothing.

THOMAS CUBITT sworn and examined.

T. Cubitt.

43,882. (Mr. Biron.) What are you?—I am a publican.

43,883. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

43,884. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

43,885. At what time in the day?—I think I was the third in the booth at which I voted in the morning.

43,886. You were pretty active that day on the part of Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes, I did what I could for him, and persuaded all I could to vote for him.

THIRTY-THIRD DAY.

T. Cubitt.

16 Oct. 1869.

43,887. Were there men at your house that day?—Yes, a great many backwards and forwards.

43,888. And there were a good many, I suppose, reluctant to vote?—There was a great many hanging back.

43,889. Did you treat any of them?—Not to vote; not till after the election.

43,890. Did you say, "Go and vote"?—No, I gave no inducement whatever. A lot said they would not go without they were treated, but I dare not do it. I thought the law was very stringent, and I was very particular about it.

43,891. What did you say?—I persuaded them to go and vote for Sir Henry Stracey.

43,892. Did you stand any beer at all that day?—I did not give anyone a pint or half a pint on my oath, not till after the election was over.

43,893. Were there any men that came into your house to treat the voters?—I daresay folks came in for a pot or two of beer. I believe Mr. Maris came in and stood a pot.

43,894. How much did he stand?—I do not think it was above a pot.

43,895. Did anybody else stand anything, that you remember?—No, I do not remember; there was no treating during the day, not that I can remember.

43,896. Were there no orders for large quantities of beer to be taken in in gallons at a time?—No, no one gave orders for anything.

43,897. Did anyone come to your place with money to bribe voters?—No, I do not think there was any money in the seventh ward. I never see any, and never heard of any. I was surprised when I heard there was any at the other places. I never see any.

43,898. Did you get anything for your vote?—No, nor I never did, not at any election.

43,899. Nor the promise of anything?—No.

F. Amiss.

FRANK AMISS recalled and further examined.

43,900. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Have you got a list of those persons who went to the hall on the nomination day?—I have that list that I made out yesterday, and I have made out a list, as you requested, of those that were at the supper. I wish to make one remark, that I hope the Commissioners will not draw the inference that all the men at the supper were at the nomination; there might be a few of them, but not the greater portion of them.

43,901. The greater portion of those that were at the nomination were at the supper, were they not?—No, I think not, the greater proportion of them.

43,902. Cannot you give us the names of those who were at the nomination simply?—I got the list of them that I could remember out yesterday.

43,903. I should not draw the conclusion necessarily that all who were at the supper were at the nomination, but, unless we had some further information, the presumption would be almost that that would be the case. If you have the two lists that will save us great trouble?—That (handing a paper) is what I can remember of those that were at the nomination, and this (handing another paper) is the list of them that I can remember that were at the supper. Any information that I can give you of them that were at the supper I will give you. You will find the residence is given as near as we can give it. Mr. Hastings was under the impression that we kept a book giving the residences of the men, but we do not.

43,904. The greater portion of these men that were at the nomination were also at the supper?—No, those on the list for the nomination were none of them at the supper, but a few of those who were at the supper were at the nomination.

43,905. Do you mean that none of those that were at the nomination were at the supper?—I have drawn out a lot of men who were not at the supper, and some of those no doubt were at the nomination, a small proportion of them.

43,906. This is not an entire list of the men who were at the nomination?—Yes, as far as I can remember that is the one.

43,907. (Mr. Biron.) You have not been able to remember all the names?—No; unfortunately I did not keep the list, and I am sorry to think I did not, because it would have saved a lot of trouble. Those are the names of them that I can remember were there.

43,908. There are only 46 in this list?—That is all I can remember, but there were a great many more there. Probably there may have been a few of those in the other list who were there. I will not say they were not.

43,909. I do not find that any of the men who were at the nomination were at the supper?—No, you will not find them; those are the men that I could remember were at the nomination, and you asked for a list of those that were at the supper, and we have got that out.

43,910. Do you mean to say you do not recollect any of the men who were at the nomination being at the supper?—Yes; I daresay there might be a few of them.

43,911. Have you compared this at all with the list of those that were at the supper?—No, I have not looked at it, to the best of my knowledge.

43,912. It may be that a good number of these men are included in the supper list. Looking at this list can you tell me whether any of them were at the supper?—No. They were at the supper that are on that list. Any information that I can give I shall be happy to furnish.

43,913. Have you looked over the list of those who were at the supper to see whether some of them were not at the nomination?—I had better go over it to see whether any of those men were there. There might be a small proportion of them, but not the general body of them were not there.

43,914. Could you mark upon the list of those who were at the supper those persons who you recollect were at the nomination?—I will endeavour to do so.

43,915. I suppose they would be pretty nearly all householders?—I cannot say. I think a great many of them would not be householders, not the young lads.

43,916. You have been many years in the service of Messrs. Barnard and Bishop; have they generally had a supper after an election?—Yes, they generally have had. It has been the custom.

43,917. After an election?—Yes.

43,918. And I suppose it has been a supper conducted in the same way as the last?—Yes, generally.

43,919. For Conservative workmen?—Yes.

W. Turner.

WILLIAM TURNER sworn and examined.

43,920. (Mr. Mansfield.) What do you do for a living?—I hawk potatoes about.

43,921. Who did you vote for at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

43,922. What did you get for it?—Nothing.

43,923. At what time did you vote?—It was half-past 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

43,924. Were you not promised anything for voting?—No, nothing.

43,925. Did your wife get anything?—No, nothing at all.

43,926. Was nothing left for you at your house?—No, nothing.

43,927. Have you had anything since?—No.

43,928. Did you get treated that day?—No, not half a glass of beer from anybody.

43,929. I suppose you were looking about for what you could get?—No, I was not at home that day not till 3 o'clock, I was out in the country after my business.

43,930. Had you promised your vote to anyone?—No, I went and voted on my own account for Sir Henry Stracey.

JAMES WILLIAM GENT recalled and further examined.

43,931. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you? — A plumber.

43,932. What were you doing during the day of the election?—Nothing particular, I was about and about. I do not know that I stopped anywhere half an hour in particular.

43,933. Who were you about with?—Sometimes one person and sometimes another. I think the chief of my time was with a Mr. Abel, in St. Martin's.

43,934. The horse dealer?—No, he lives in Chapel Fields; this is another man.

43,935. Were you about with Hardiment that day?—No.

43,936. Do you know Hardiment?—I know him very well.

43,937. How much money did you get from him that day?—Not a farthing.

43,938. Did you not get a farthing from anybody?—No.

43,939. Not to give to any other man?—No.

43,940. Did you not take up anybody?—No.

43,941. Have you got nothing since;—No.

43,942. Were you promised anything?—No; the case you are aware of was with Notley and me, and that was the only thing I had to do with in the shape of money, that was the 5*s.* that you know of.

43,943. Who gave you the 5*s.*?—Nobody; there was no money given.

43,944. (Mr. Biron.) You promised 5*s.*?—I said if he would go there would be 5*s.* for him, but I had no reason to promise it; it would have been out of my own pocket if I had given it.

43,945. Was that the only promise you gave?—Yes; the chief man I was with was Mr. William Abel, at St. Martin's-at-Oak.

43,946. Is that the only man you got to vote by promising 5*s.*?—That is the only man; the man did not vote.

43,947. Did you not try to make other people vote?—No.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) This court will now stand adjourned, with the sanction of the Secretary of State for the Home Department, to London for the present. But before quitting the city we think it right to express to the corporation, and to those who have superintended our arrangements, and especially to the police who have been in attendance here, our very thankful acknowledgments for the efficient assistance they have rendered to us, both in the preservation of order and in arranging the attendance of the witnesses The manner in which those duties have been performed we are satisfied has saved the city a very large sum of money, which would have been expended in the protraction of the proceedings if that order and strict regularity which they have ensured had not been secured through their attendance. We cannot leave the city without expressing also to the guardians of the poor and the officers employed by them our sense of the very great service they have rendered to us in reducing the number of persons whom we should otherwise have felt it to be our duty to call before us, in order to elicit the facts which we had to inquire into. It has not only saved the city a very large amount of expense, but it has also saved a very considerable portion of its inhabitants the inconvenience of attending here, and the sort of unpleasant reflection which it might have exposed them to of their being summoned and mixed up with a class of persons whose conduct has been of the most equivocal character. We feel that both those bodies have rendered us the most efficient and valuable assistance. I only wish that other inhabitants had also afforded us that assistance, and that we had not experienced obstacles on their part. We also fear that the encouragement which has been given by them to persons to withhold information has led to many of those spectacles which have been to us a source of signal pain and annoyance in the course of our inquiries.

Adjourned.

THIRTY-FOURTH DAY.

House of Commons, Saturday, 20th November 1869.

ARTHUR HUNT sworn and examined.

43,948. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You reside in Norwich?—Yes.

43,949. And you are a dealer in fowls and pigs?—Yes.

43,950. Were you a voter at the last election?—Yes.

43,951. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

43,952. At what time in the day?—I do not know exactly what time I voted, but it was some time in the afternoon, about 3 o'clock.

43,953. Did you take any part in the election before the day?—No, not at all.

43,954. Did you not canvass any voters?—No.

43,955. Did you not ask any persons to vote?—No.

43,956. Not before the day of the election?—No.

43,957. At the time of the election were you living or was the place of your abode the "Trumpet" public-house?—I have a stable there; that is close to my home.

43,958. On the day of the election were you at the "Trumpet"?—Yes.

43,959. At what time did you go there?—About 8 o'clock; between 8 and 9 in the morning; I cannot exactly say the time, but it was early in the morning.

43,960. Did you remain there till the time when you went to vote?—Yes. I do not believe that I scarcely left the door. I do not believe that I went two yards from the door of the house.

43,961. Were there a number of persons there during the day who were voters?—There were a good many, I believe.

43,962. Do you recollect Sir Henry Stracey coming there in the course of the day?—I just remember it.

43,963. Did he come into the room called the market room?—Yes.

43,964. And you were there at that time?—Yes.

43,965. Were there at that time a number of voters in the room?—The room was full; how many there were there I cannot say.

43,966. I believe that he addressed the voters?—He said something to them; I do not know what it was.

THIRTY-FOURTH DAY.

A. Hunt.

20 Nov. 1869.

43,967. Do you recollect anything being said to him as to what they wanted?—No.

43,968. Before that time had there been any conversation about what the men who were staying in the public-house wanted?—I never heard it.

43,969. Do you not recollect anything being said to Sir Henry Stracey by the men who were there about rates, or anything of that sort?—No; I do not know what he did say.

43,970. Do you recollect what they said to him?—No.

43,971. Mr. Patteson, I believe, was with them?—They said it was Mr. Patteson. I did not know him till a day or two afterwards. I believe he was there; they told me that afterwards.

43,972. How long did Sir Henry Stracey stay there?—Two or three minutes, I should think.

43,973. Did you go out with Sir Henry Stracey?—I do not remember speaking to him at all.

43,974. Do you not recollect going to the door with him?—No, I do not.

43,975. Do you recollect speaking to him outside?—No, I do not.

43,976. When he was getting into his carriage?—No.

43,977. What time in the day was it, do you recollect?—I cannot say; about the middle part of the day, I believe. I do not know the time.

43,978. After he had gone do you recollect being in the market room?—Well, I go all over the house; I did go back into the market room, I believe.

43,979. Was there then a talk between the people who were there as to what they wanted?—I did not hear it.

43,980. You recollect talking to them about 5*s.*, do you not?—No, I do not.

43,981. Pray be careful.—I do not.

43,982. Do you mean to say that you do not recollect talking to any men about money at all?—No, I do not.

43,983. You know Smith who is a fowl dealer?—Yes.

43,984. He was there in the room, was he not?—Yes, he was there.

43,985. Do you recollect offering the men a crown and their objecting to it, and his saying that he would give a sovereign and make it up 7*s.* 6*d.*?—No.

43,986. Do you recollect giving the men money?—No. I recollect it being said that I gave money. I was tipsy, I am aware.

43,987. This was the middle of the day; how was it that you came to be so drunk?—I never gave any money away at the time I was sober. I am quite sure of that.

43,988. But do you not recollect giving it away when you were drunk?—I can recollect giving something away to some men.

43,989. And did you not give it to them to vote?—I do not know; I was drunk.

43,990. Did you not give them money to vote?—No; I did not know whether they voted or not.

43,991. But was there not a talk about their voting?—No.

43,992. Pray be careful.—I do not remember it.

43,993. Surely you must recollect parting with money and giving it for some purpose?—I remember giving somebody money, I have a slight recollection of that; but what it was for, or who it was given to, I do not know.

43,994. Were you not all talking about the election?—In the course of the forenoon we were talking about it perhaps.

43,995. You were a strong supporter of Sir Henry Stracey's, were you not?—I do not know for that; I never spoke to him in my life; I might mention it; very likely I did.

43,996. But you were that way inclined?—Yes.

43,997. You voted for him?—Yes.

43,998. You were sober enough to go up and vote for him?—I do not remember at what time I did vote.

43,999. But you recollect voting for him?—I am blowed if I do; I did not know where I went to until I was told.

44,000. Were you in the habit of getting drunk?—No.

44,001. How came you to be so drunk this morning that you do not know what you were about?—I am not drunk now.

44,002. I mean that morning?—I was over excited.

44,003. Were you not excited about the election?—My inclination was that way; I wished to see Sir Henry Stracey returned.

44,004. Having that feeling, did you not talk to the men who were there, and who had votes, about voting for him?—No; I do not remember such a thing.

44,005. Do you recollect who were the men who were in the room?—I remember four or five of them, I think.

44,006. Just give me their names. I mean the men who were drinking there that morning?—I do not know all of them; I can tell you the names of some; there was Barnes, he was one, and Fuller.

44,007. Is that Fuller the brother of the landlord?—Yes, and Cracknell, and Wright, and Ward, and Mr. Smith was there.

44,008. Was that Smith, the painter?—No, the fowl dealer.

44,009. Do you know Smith, the painter?—Yes, I do.

44,010. Was he there?—I think he was there in the forenoon, or some part of the time.

44,011. Do you know Bygrave?—I know him by sight; I never spoke to him in my life.

44,012. Was he there?—I do not remember seeing him.

44,013. Who else was there?—I do not know who else was there; there were lots of people coming backwards and forwards; I did not know who they were.

44,014. How many were there in the room?—There might be 15 or 16 of them.

44,015. Was young Smith there, the son?—I do not remember seeing him there.

44,016. Do you not recollect Smith speaking to the men about a sovereign?—I do not.

44,017. What money had you in your pocket that morning?—About 10*l.*, I think; I cannot say to a shilling or two.

44,018. Where did you get that money from?—It was my own; I earned it.

44,019. Had anybody given you any money?—Not a farthing.

44,020. Did nobody give you any money on the day of the election?—Not a farthing.

44,021. Did anybody promise you any money?—No.

44,022. What made you get so drunk on this day?—I was there all day.

44,023. How much money had you in your pocket at the end of the day?—I missed 2*s.* or 3*s.* of 6*l.*

44,024. Did you count your money at night?—Not till the next day.

44,025. How much money had you in your pocket on the morning of the election?—I had about 10*l.*

44,026. And you say that the next morning you only had within 2*s.* or 3*s.* of 6*l.*?—Yes.

44,027. Had you not parted with more?—No.

44,028. Do you recollect going upstairs?—I remember going up in the forenoon two or three different times.

44,029. Do you recollect going up with a lot of men who went up with you to the bagatelle room?—I do not know; they said I did, and I cannot contradict them.

44,030. Do you recollect a number of men going up into the bagatelle room with you and talking to you there?—No, I do not.

44,031. Before you went up into that room, do you not recollect that the men were talking about the election?—It was mentioned, I believe.

44,032. Was it not said that they wanted some money?—I never heard it.

44,033. Did you not ask them to go and vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—I might mention that; I am not certain that I did not.

44,034. Did you not mention it?—I do not remember saying so.

44,035. Do you mean to say that you did not say, "Well, you go and vote for Stracey"?—I might say so. I do not say that I did not, but I do not remember saying so.

44,036–7. I caution you, and tell you that I have got your evidence before me. Did you not say, "Well, you go and vote for Stracey"?—I do not remember saying so, but I do not know that I did not.

44,038. Did you not say, "Go on, and I will give you so and so; I will give you 7*s.* 6*d.* apiece"?—I do not remember saying any such thing.

44,039. You have been examined before?—Yes.

44,040. If you then said that, is it false?—I do not remember saying any such thing.

44,041. Do you mean to say that that is false?—I would not say; I was tipsy.

44,042. You were not tipsy when you were examined before?—No.

44,043. Did you not say when you were sworn before that you said, "Well, you go and vote for Stracey;" and "Go on, and I will give you so and so; I will give you 7*s.* 6*d.* apiece"?—No, I do not remember it.

44,044. Will you swear that you did not say that when you were examined before?—I do not think I did.

44,045. Will you undertake to swear that you did not?—I do not think I did; I do not remember it.

44,046. Did not the judge ask you this: "You "said, 'If you will go and vote for Stracey I will "give you money,'" is that correct? and did you not say "Yes"?—I do not remember it.

44,047. Will you undertake to swear that you did not say that before the judge?—No, I will not.

44,048. You recollect seeing Mr. Edward Stracey there, do you not?—The young gentleman?

44,049. Yes.—I saw him outside the door.

44,050. Was anybody with him?—No.

44,051. He was alone?—Yes.

44,052. Was it after his father had been there that you saw him?—No, it was in the morning time about 10 o'clock when young Mr. Stracey was there.

44,053. That was before you got drunk?—Yes.

44,054. What did Mr. Stracey come there for?—I cannot say.

44,055. What did he say to you?—I spoke to him first.

44,056. What did you say to him?—I said, "I think there are some voters here for you, sir."

44,057. And what did he say to that?—He said, "Bring them up, my man, as quick as possible."

44,058. (Mr. Mansfield.) That was at 10 o'clock?—Yes.

44,059. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Did you tell him that they wanted some money?—No.

44,060. They did want money, did they not?—I do not know.

44,061. (Mr. Mansfield.) What were the names of the men who were there then?—I have told you, Wright, Ward, and others.

44,062. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) They were men who would not vote without money, were they not?—I do not know.

44,063. They were there at 10 o'clock in the morning, and were talking about the election?—I do not remember what they said.

44,064. But you knew they were voters for Stracey?—No, I did not.

44,065. Then how came you to say to Mr. Edward Stracey, "Here are some voters for you"?—I said, "Here are some voters;" and he said, "Bring them up as quick as possible."

44,066. How came you to say that unless you had been talking to them about the election?—It might have been mentioned; I do not know.

44,067. Was it not mentioned?—I do not remember about its being mentioned at all.

44,068. He told you to tell them to go up as quick as possible. Did you upon that go and talk to the men to induce them to go up?—No.

44,069. Do you mean to say that you did not talk to the men about going up?—No.

44,070. How came you not to do it?—I do not know, I am sure; it was no interest to me.

44,071. But you had been talking to Mr. Edward Stracey about it, and you say that you took an interest in Sir Henry Stracey's election?—I have no recollection of having said anything of the sort.

44,072. How came you, having had that conversation with Mr. Edward Stracey, not to go to the voters and try to get them to go up and vote?—I do not know.

44,073. You saw Mr. Edward Stracey there, and you had that conversation with him. Did Mr. Stracey come into the house?—I did not see him.

44,074. Did you not expect some money?—No.

44,075. Was nothing said about money?—No.

44,076. How came you to part with 4*l.*?—I was drunk and over excited.

44,077. When a man is drunk that will not make him part with 4*l.* without some reason for it?—I should not have done it if I had not been drunk.

44,078. But how came you to part with 4*l.* You did not do it because you were drunk?—I was drunk. I did not know what I was doing, or else I should not have done it.

44,079. You do not part with 4*l.* every time you get drunk, do you?—I do not often get drunk. I had not need.

44,080. But when you do, do you part with 4*l.* without anybody promising to repay you?—I never had no promise at all.

44,081. Was any money given to you?—No.

44,082. Unless something was said to you about it how came you to part with 4*l.*; people do not pick up sums of 4*l.* in the street every day?—No. I wish I could.

44,083. Why did you part with this 4*l.*?—Because I was foolish.

44,084. How foolish?—I did not know what I was doing.

44,085. You know Smith the fowl dealer well?—Yes; he is my landlord.

44,086. He was the landlord also of several of the other men who were in the "Trumpet" at this time, was he not?—I think two or three of them are his tenants; Ward is his tenant, and Wright is his tenant. I do not know anyone else.

44,087. Who were his tenants among those who were there?—Ward and Wright, I do not know any more.

44,088. Was Smith a tenant of his?—I do not think he is. I do not know.

44,089. Who were the other men who were tenants?—I do not know; he owns all that place about there, but I do not know who are his tenants.

44,090. (Mr. Mansfield.) Were all these men drunk?—I do not know.

44,091. Was Smith drunk?—I believe he was tipsy.

44,092. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Old Smith?—The fowl dealer.

44,093. (Mr. Mansfield.) Was he drunk all day?—I do not know about all day.

44,094. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Smith is called a gentleman; do you mean to say that he was drunk in a public-house all day?—He very often gets drunk.

44,095. But he was not so drunk as you were; you were so drunk as not to know what you were doing, and you have forgotten every single thing that you did. Have you talked this matter over with Smith since?—No.

THIRTY-FOURTH DAY.

A. Hunt.

20 Nov. 1869.

44,096. Have you never talked to him about it?—We were talking about it coming here in the train.

44,097. Did you talk to him about it before you were examined before the judge?—No; I will not say but what it has been mentioned.

44,098. You have talked about it, and he has told you that you gave 7*s.* 6*d.* to the men?—I have been told so.

44,099. He told you so, did he not?—No; he did not tell me that at all.

44,100. Have you talked to young Smith about it?—No.

44,101. Have you never had any conversation with young Smith about it?—No.

44,102. (Mr. Mansfield.) Who asked you for your vote at this election?—Not anyone.

44,103. Did you promise your vote?—No.

44,104. Had you no communication with any person upon the subject of your vote before the day of the election?—No.

44,105. Did you not talk to anyone about your vote before that day?—No.

44,106. Did you ever take any part in an election at Norwich before?—I never had a vote before.

44,107. Do you mean to say that on this occasion, when you had a vote for the first time, you never spoke a word about the election, or about the candidates, to anyone before the day of the polling?—I did not.

44,108. Had you never told anybody that you meant to support Sir Henry Stracey?—No.

44,109. Had you known young Mr. Stracey by sight before?—I had seen him before, but I had never spoken to him in my life.

44,110. When he came to the "Trumpet" did he speak to you first, or did you speak to him?—I spoke to him first.

44,111. And he was the first person to whom you spoke about the election?—Yes.

44,112. You taking a great interest in the success of Sir Henry Stracey?—I never took any interest in it.

44,113. You said at the beginning of your examination that you had determined to support him, and that he was your man?—I was that way inclined. I wished to give him my vote, that was all I wished to do.

44,114. You never mentioned the subject to anyone?—No.

44,115. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you recollect Mr. Edward Stracey coming there after his father left?—No.

44,116. (Mr. Biron.) Why did you not vote earlier in the day?—I do not know. I never gave it a thought. I did not know that it was of any consequence when I voted.

44,117. (Mr. Mansfield.) You said that young Mr. Stracey asked you to go and get those men to go and vote early?—I told Mr. Stracey that there were some voters there.

44,118. (Mr. Biron.) And he said, "Then go and get them up at once"?—Yes.

44,119. You knew it was important that they should go and vote at once?—I do not understand electioneering.

44,120. But you were told by Mr. Edward Stracey to get them to go up at once?—Yes, but I did not follow his example.

44,121. When you said, "Here are some voters," Mr. Edward Stracey said, "Then go and get them up at once"?—Yes, he said so.

44,122. You knew, then, that he thought it important to get the voters to go up at once?—I should have done so if I had any interest in it, but I had not.

44,123. You had interest enough in it to tell him that there were voters there. He said, "Then go and get them to go up at once;" why did not you yourself go up at once?—I did not know that it was of any consequence when I voted.

44,124. He told you to go and get them to go up at once?—That had nothing to do with me.

44,125. You told him that there were voters there, and he said, "Get them to go up at once." When he said that, did you not know that it was important that they should go up at once?—No, I did not.

44,126. You remember the judge coming down, I suppose?—Yes.

44,127. Did any gentleman come to you to ask what evidence you could give?—No.

44,128. Did not Dawson come to you?—No.

44,129. You know Mr. Skipper's office?—Yes.

44,130. Were you taken there?—No, I was told to go by some person.

44,131. And did you go there?—Yes.

44,132. Did you then say what it was that you knew about the doings at the "Trumpet"?—Only what I have now said, that I was drunk and foolish, and did not know what I did. I told him what people told me I did, that I fooled away money and gave money, but what for I did not know.

44,133. Do you mean to say that is what you told him?—I did.

44,134. We can learn from whoever took your story down there what you did say. You were examined soon afterwards, you know?—I am telling you the truth.

44,135. Do you mean to say that you told him you recollected nothing about it?—I do.

44,136. Your landlord, Mr. Smith, is pretty well off, is he not?—Yes.

44,137. Did he not tell you that he would give you back any money you spent that day?—No, he did not.

44,138. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Has he given it you back?—No.

44,139. Or allowed it to you in rent?—No.

44,140. (Mr. Biron.) Did you never talk this matter over with Smith until you were coming up in the train this morning?—No. I might have said that if I had been sober I should not have got into this muddle.

44,141. You and Smith came to offer yourselves for examination at Norwich.—I was subpœnaed.

44,142. But you asked to be examined?—By whom?

44,143. By us down at Norwich?—I do not remember that.

44,144. You came into court one morning and asked to be examined. Do you mean to say that when you were waiting there you did not talk the matter over with Smith?—No.

44,145. What time on the election day was it when you lost your recollection?—I was drinking all the day, and I did not know what I was doing after dinner time.

44,146. When was that?—One o'clock, we will say.

44,147. You recollect nothing that happened after 1 o'clock; is that your story?—No, I do not.

44,148. How did you know that these men were voters for Sir Henry Stracey?—I did not know that they would vote for him more than for anyone else, only I heard them say they had a vote.

44,149. Did you hear them say who they would vote for?—No.

44,150. What did they say about voting?—Only that they had a vote, that is all they told me; in fact I was aware that they had votes, because they all lived close by me.

44,151. Had you heard them talking about the way they were going to vote?—No.

44,152. Had you heard them say that they would not vote without money?—No; I never heard of such a thing as that.

44,153. Without money or a day's pay?—I never heard that mentioned.

44,154. (Mr. Mansfield.) After young Mr. Stracey came to the "Trumpet," did anyone else come there that you spoke to?—I do not recollect it.

44,155. Did you see Mr. Gowing there?—I did not see him.

44,156. Did you see no one?—People came in and took a glass of ale; people came in and out.

44,157. When you went to Mr. Skipper's office, were you not asked who you had received money from?—No.

44,158. Are you quite certain of that?—Yes.

44,159. Was nothing said about it?—I told him how I had committed myself; that was all I said about it.

44,160. Did you tell that to Mr. Skipper?—No. I do not know who it was I said it to.

44,161. Had you any conversation with Dawson before the trial of the petition?—No. I never spoke to him to the best of my recollection.

44,162. Who was it that you spoke to at Mr. Skipper's office?—I do not know; there were two gentlemen.

44,163. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Do you not recollect seeing somebody on the part of Mr. Tillett, who afterwards required your attendance as a witness; they came and asked you what you could say, did they not?—No.

44,164. They never came and asked you what you could say?—No.

44,165. Can you tell me when it was that you saw Dawson?—At the election time?

44,166. Yes.—I do not remember seeing him then.

44,167. You saw him after the election I suppose?—Yes.

44,168. When did you see him?—I spoke to him yesterday.

44,169. What did you say?—I told Mr. Dawson that I had received a subpœna to London.

44,170. And what did he say?—He said, "Then you must go," and I said, "Yes."

44,171. Why did you tell Dawson that you had received a subpœna?—I do not know. I told two or three people of it.

44,172. But why did you tell it to Dawson?—We used to have a glass together.

44,173. When had you your last glass with Dawson?—Yesterday.

44,174. When had you your last glass before that?—I do not remember.

44,175. How many months ago?—I cannot say.

44,176. Yesterday after you had got your summons how came it that you happened to see Dawson and have a glass with him?—I met him in St. Stephen's.

44,177. (Mr. Biron.) By appointment?—No.

44,178. (Mr. Mansfield.) You were looking for him, I suppose?—No, I was not.

44,179. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) You stopped him?—Yes. I said, "Mr. Dawson, I have got a subpœna for London."

44,180. Where did you go to?—I had to go to Mr. Abel's.

44,181. What about?—I had told him about a cock that there was to sell, and he had told me to go and try and buy it, and he would give me a sovereign, and I told him afterwards that I could not go as I had to go to London.

44,182. Why did you talk to Dawson about it?—I do not know. I told lots of people that I had to go to London.

44,183. How came he to tell you that you must go?—I showed him the paper.

44,184. Had you any doubt about coming?—No.

44,185. Why did you ask him about it?—I do not know. I did not ask him. I showed him the paper and told him that I had to come.

44,186. Why did you show him the paper?—I do not know. I showed it to lots of people.

44,187. Did you show it to them to ask their advice as to coming?—No, not for advice at all.

44,188–9. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you know Mr. Fisher?—The grocer? Yes, I slightly know him.

44,190. When did you see him last?—I saw him one day last week.

44,191. What passed between you then?—Not anything; he is a man that does not talk much to me. I do not know that I ever spoke to him ten words in my life.

44,192. Did you see him during the election?—No.

44,193. Had you no communication with him at all then?—No.

44,194. Did you know Mr. Parker, the grocer?—Yes.

44,195. Did you have any communication with him during the election?—I never spoke to him in my life.

44,196. Do you know Mr. Stockings, the chemist?—Yes.

44,197. Did you ever speak to him about the election?—No.

SAMUEL SMITH sworn and examined.

S. Smith.

44,198. (Mr. Mansfield.) What are you by trade?—I am out of business now, and have been for two years and a half.

44,199. You have retired on considerable means, and are the owner of house property?—I have house property. I have a list of my tenants here (producing a paper and handing it to the Commissioners). I had it in my pocket at Norwich, though I was not called on, and there is not a soul among them who will say that I ever asked them to vote in any shape or form whatever.

44,200. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Is this which you have produced a list of the persons who were your tenants at the time of the last election?—Yes.

44,201. (Mr. Mansfield.) You took an active part in the last election?—I never did take an active part in any election. I never was a party man in my life.

44,202. Was your vote canvassed at the last election?—No, not for Norwich.

44,203. Did you promise anyone to vote?—No, I did not. I never was asked.

44,204. Did you canvass other people to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—I never on any occasion canvassed any man. I never was a party man in my life, and I should not have been in that house only a man named Cooper asked me to go into the "Trumpet." I never was in that house before in my life. After I had voted I was going up to see how Cooper was getting on with some painting he was doing to some houses, and as I passed the "Trumpet" he called me in.

44,205. What time in the day was it when you were called into the "Trumpet"?—About 10.

44,206. After you had voted?—Yes, and I went in and we had glass after glass and I got tipsy.

44,207. How long did you remain at the "Trumpet"?—I do not recollect coming home at all. I do not know when I did come away.

44,208. Do you recollect seeing Sir Henry Stracey at the "Trumpet"?—I recollect his coming there, and they hurrah'd when he came in. I was in the bar room.

44,209. Did you speak to him?—I never spoke to the man in my life.

44,210. Did you see Mr. Edward Stracey that day?—I do not know him.

44,211. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Was there a younger gentleman who was there about 10 o'clock?—No.

44,212. Who afterwards came with Mr. John Bignold; do you recollect his coming?—No.

44,213. (Mr. Mansfield.) Do you recollect any person coming to the "Trumpet" and speaking to you about the progress of the election?—No, I do not.

44,214. In which room were you at the "Trumpet"?—I cannot tell.

'Y-
THIRTY-H
FOURTH.
DAY.
h.
S. Smith.
9.
20 Nov. 1869.

44,215. When you went into the "Trumpet" in the morning how much money had you in your pocket?—As nigh as I can tell four or five shillings.

44,216. Did you get some more money in the course of the day?—No, certainly not.

44,217. Had you no money left when you went home?—At my house do you mean?

44,218. Yes.—No.

44,219. Or in your pocket?—No.

44,220. Do you mean to say that during the polling day you only had four or five shillings about you?—That is all, and when I got up the next morning I think I had about threepence halfpenny.

44,221. Did you receive any money in the course of the day from anyone?—Certainly not.

44,222. Did you give any money away?—I had none to give away.

44,223. Did you see any money given away in that house?—No.

44,224. Were you present when a bargain was made between certain voters and Hunt?—Not that I know of. If I did I know nothing about it.

44,225. Do you mean to say that you did not promise any money to anyone that day?—Certainly not, why should I? I would not give 5*s.* for Sir Henry Stracey, why should I? There are the names of all my tenants there (referring to the paper handed in), and I defy any of them to say that I ever forced his vote in any shape or way.

44,226. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) But there were other people besides your tenants who were at the "Trumpet" that day?—Very likely. If I had been a man for bribing, I should have worked among my tenants that I am with every Monday, and not a soul can say that I named voting to him in any shape or form. I never was an electioneering man in my life. I never took any part in it; I never took delight in it; I am as apt to vote Liberal as Tory; I vote for the man and not for the colour. I voted for Peto and Warner.

44,227. But at the last election you voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—I did.

44,228. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you not offer any men 2*s.* 6*d.* apiece for voting?—Not to the best of my knowledge. I had no money.

44,229. But you might have borrowed it, you know, or obtained it in some way?—No, I did not.

44,230. What time in the day was it that you became so drunk that you ceased to recollect anything?—I got in about 10 o'clock, and Cooper and I sat, and it was drink, drink, drink. I got home about half-past 3 or a quarter to 4, but I know nothing about going home. I do not recollect leaving the house at all. I never was in that house before in my life.

44,231. Your property is in that neighbourhood, is it not?—Yes; that was what brought me there.

44,232. And you knew all the people living about there, and many of them were your own tenants?—I should think that within five minutes' walk there are 100 tenants of mine; here are the names of them, and not one of them can tell you that I ever asked him for a vote in any shape or form.

44,233. Did you not give a promise to any of them in order to induce them to vote?—No. I never named a vote; not one of my tenants can say that I ever named a vote in any shape or form whatsoever.

44,234. Do you recollect seeing Hunt at the "Trumpet" that day?—I saw him there several times before I lost myself.

44,235. You talked with him about the election, I suppose?—No, not anything of the sort. I and Mr. Cooper sat there drinking all day.

44,236. Which Mr. Cooper is that?—He is a plumber, glazier, and painter.

44,237. Did you see Mr. George Gowing there that day?—I think I saw him come in that day, I am not certain.

44,238. He was getting up voters, was he not?—I do not know. I was not anywise interested, nor did I take any part towards voters or anybody else.

44,239. Are you quite sure that when you were so drunk as you describe yourself to have been, you did not make promises to anyone of money to vote?—Why should I?

44,240. Are you sure that you did not?—I am certain I did not.

44,241. You can recollect that?—I am certain I did not; why should I? I am not so liberal as that.

44,242. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Will you swear that you did not?—I will.

44,243. (Mr. Mansfield.) You were sober enough to enable you to recollect that?—I will swear that I would not give a penny piece to any man to vote.

44,244. And you did not promise anything?—No.

44,245. As your memory is so good on that point, perhaps you can remember whether you did not hear people asked at the "Trumpet" for their votes?—No. I would not have anything to do with it for anybody's sake.

44,246. Did you not hear other people talk about what money was to be had for voting?—Well, I was in the bar.

44,247. Did you not know that the two Fullers were about there?—I did not; I heard they were, but what they did I cannot say.

44,248. Do you not know that there was money going at the "Trumpet"?—I have heard so since.

44,249. Did you not know it on that day?—No.

44,250. How soon did you know it?—I heard it the next day. I heard Hunt say that he had fooled away 5*l.* or 6*l.*

44,251. Did you hear of any other money being got rid of?—No.

44,252. Did you not hear of 7*s.* 6*d.* a vote being paid?—No.

44,253. (Mr. Biron.) Did Hunt ask you for the pound you had promised to stand?—Never in my life; if he had he would not have got it.

44,254. Did he not ask you for it the very next day?—Never.

44,255. Did he say how he had fooled away his money?—He said that he had fooled away his money, and that he would not get it any more, and I said I I supposed not.

44,256. Did he tell you how he had fooled his money away?—He said he had given it to people to vote.

44,257. Where was he when he said that?—I met him in the market.

44,258. Was anybody else present at the time?—No.

44,259. Did he tell you how many he had got for it?—No, he did not.

44,260. Did he say what he gave them each?—No; he said that he had fooled away 5*l.* or 6*l.* I said, "More fool you. I would not fool away 5*l.* or 6*l.* myself." No more I would for no man.

44,261. What did he say?—He said that he would not have done it if he had not been drunk.

44,262. Did he tell you who he meant to apply to for the money?—No; he never named it to me.

44,263. He only told you that he had fooled it away, and that he gave it to men to vote?—Yes.

44,264. Did you see him on the polling day?—I saw him two or three times about the house.

44,265. How was he?—According to my recollection, when I knew what people did do, he was drinking very hard.

44,266. But he knew what he was about?—This was about 12 o'clock.

44,267. Do you mean to say that you lost your recollection at 12 o'clock?—Yes, I am not a man to drink; the principal place I go to is the Temperance coffee house. I never was in that house (the "Trumpet") in my life before, and I should not have gone in then only Mr. Cooper called me in to have a glass; he was painting 47 houses for me at that time.

44,268. Did he stand the drink?—No, I spent my money as well as he.

44,269. And then you went on and got drunk?—Yes.

44,270. You say you do not often do that?—No, I never touched a drop for over 14 years.

44,271. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) What time in the morning did you go into the house?—About 10 o'clock.

44,272. Do you recollect Sir Henry Stracey coming there?—I recollect some little about it. I recollect his coming in.

44,273. Do you not recollect Hunt saying that he would stand 5*s.* apiece to the men, and the men saying that that was too little?—No.

44,274. Will you swear that that did not take place in your presence?—I will swear positively that I do not know a word about it.

44,275. Will you swear that it did not take place in your presence?—If I had lost myself I could not say, but to the best of my knowledge such a thing never took place in my presence.

44,276. Did you go upstairs into the bagatelle room?—Not that I know of; if I did it was unknown to me.

44,277. When Hunt saw you the next day and said he had spent this money, did he not say that you had promised the men half-a-crown apiece?—He never named it to me.

44,278. You saw your own tenants there, did you not?—Yes, I knew who were there, because they were up before Baron Martin.

44,279. Smith the painter was there, was he not?—He is not a tenant of mine.

44,280. Do you recollect his being there?—I saw him there in the morning when I first went in.

44,281. Your son was there?—My son came after me to fetch me home.

44,282. You were upstairs with them in the afternoon, were you not?—I do not know; if I was it was unknown to me.

44,283. William Blanchflower, he was there, was he not?—I never saw him.

44,284. Browes was there, was he not?—I never saw him.

44,285. Do you not recollect Browes being there?—No, I never saw him.

44,286. Ward was there?—I saw him there when I first went into the house.

44,287. Was Henry Walker there?—I do not know.

44,288. He is one of your own tenants, you know?—I might know him if I saw him.

44,289. James Clark, was he there?—No, not to the best of my knowledge.

44,290. Was William Leggett there?—No, not that I know of.

44,291. Daniel Greengrass was there, was he not?—No, I did not see him; if he was there he came in after I was tipsy.

44,292. William Hall, was he there?—I do not know him.

44,293. One of your own tenants.—I do not know him.

44,294. Was William Baker there?—No.

44,295. Was neither Greengrass there to your recollection; there were two of them, you know Daniel and John?—No.

44,296. What did you drink?—We were drinking best ale.

44,297. Did you run up a score?—No.

44,298. Did you pay for it as you had it?—I paid for it as I had it. I had 4*s.* or 5*s.* in my pocket, and when I got up the next morning I think I had 3½*d.*

44,299. You knew Mr. Edward Stracey, did you not?—No. I never saw the man in my life.

44,300. Had you not been at Sir Henry Stracey's committee room?—Not that I know of; if I went there I went when I was drunk. I know nothing about that.

44,301. You were not drunk at 10 o'clock in the morning?—No.

44,302. Had you not been in the committee room that morning?—No, I was not; that I am positive of. I can swear that on my solemn oath.

44,303. Did you not see Mr. Edward Stracey that morning?—I do not know him.

44,304. (Mr. Mansfield.) Did you see Mr. John Bignold that morning?—The humpy one?

44,305. The lame one?—I never saw him.

44,306. Did you see Mr. Arthur Bignold?—I do not know him.

44,307. (Mr. Dowdeswell.) Which Mr. Bignold did you see that morning?—I think I saw the humpy one come in about dinner time.

44,308. What did he say?—He never said anything to me.

44,309. But he spoke to somebody else, did he not?—I do not know.

44,310. Where did he go?—I was in the bar when he came in and he went through.

44,311. You were in the market room, were you not?—When I was sober so that I knew what I was up to I was in the bar, and to the best of my knowledge if I went out of the bar it is more than I know of.

44,312. Then you do not recollect being upstairs with your son?—No; if I was upstairs it is more than I know of.

44,313. Do you undertake to say that you do not recollect being in the bagatelle room, or in the passage outside the bagatelle room?—I am here speaking on my solemn oath, and I say to the best of my belief that I was not either in the passage or in the bagatelle room.

44,314. Do you recollect Smith, the painter, coming there with your son?—No; I know I saw him in the morning come round through the bar and into a room there.

44,315. Do you not recollect his coming back in the afternoon, and being there with your son?—No; I was too forward then.

44,316. How came you to get forward on this day?—Well, I do not know; it is not often that I do. I will tell you the reason that brought me in; it was Mr. Cooper, the plumber and glazier; we got in and there we sat.

44,317. When a man asks you to go into a public-house and have a glass, you do not usually get beastly drunk, do you?—I did then.

44,318. How often had you done it before?—I do not suppose that I do such a thing once in five years.

44,319. It is very odd that you should have been beastly drunk on this particular day.—The fact is that I cannot stand drink, and very little drink knocks me right over altogether.

44,320. It is a very odd thing that both you and Hunt should be there together, and that you should both get beastly drunk?—I never was in that house before that day, that I can solemnly swear on my oath, and I should not have been in there at all if Cooper, the plumber, who was painting 47 houses for me, had not called me in.

44,321. Did not your tenants tell you that you had promised them half-a-crown apiece?—Never one applied to me for it.

44,322. They may not have applied to you for it, but did they not ask you to allow it to them out of their rent?—No, that I solemnly swear.

44,323. Have none of them made that application to you?—No, not one.

44,324. Have you allowed them nothing against their rent?—Not a penny.

44,325. (Mr. Mansfield.) Has anybody told you that you promised money that day?—No, no one.

44,326. Did not every one of your tenants that voted vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—I do not know.

44,327. You never inquired?—I never inquired.

44,328. You never tried to ascertain?—Never in my life, whether there was one, two, or 10, or 40, voted for Sir Henry Stracey. I cannot tell for I never asked the question, never in my life; it is no business of mine.

44,329. Had you ever taken an active part in an election before?—Never in my life. I defy any party in Norwich to say that they ever saw me take any part in an election in my life. I never did.

44,330. Have you ever had anything given to you for voting?—Never in my life. I never was bribed in my life, and I have voted both ways too. I voted for Mr. Peto and Mr. Warner; and if Mr. Peto had come forward 40 times I should have voted for him.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) We have nothing more to ask you.

(The witness.) Will you give me a certificate?

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) Certainly we shall not give a certificate to a person who we think has not told us the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

(The witness.) I would not have come here and told you a falsehood, nor would I to any other gentlemen.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) We should have had great pleasure in giving you a certificate if we believed that you had told the truth.

(The witness.) On my solemn oath I have told you the truth.

(Mr. Dowdeswell.) I believe your son told us the truth.

(The witness.) And so have I.

Adjourned.
